EXPOSITION AT TULSA WILL BE ENORMOUS ONE

TULSA, Okla., July 7.—Ten million-year old animals provide us with "grain" alcohol, an anaesthetic better than chloroform, dyes more gaudy and faster than the priceless stuffs brought to Solomon, and the means of spanning 300 miles of ocean in little more than a day's time.

So small that their fossil structure is followed by means of microscopes, these animals, harnessed by man can be made to drive gigantic diesel engines across the five oceans, millions of smaller motors on the highways, and thousands of ships, large and small, above the clouds.

What these animals were, what they have become, how they are discovered, how they are gathered by man, and how man brings them to his use, will be told at the Sixth International Petroleum Exposition to be held in Tulsa, October 5-12.

Drilling for oil, once a haphazard business, is now a science comparable in exactitude to that of converting the oil into gasoline, naphtha, kerosene, lubricating distillates, waxes and cylinder stocks. And these into the marvelous products of the organic chemistry laboratory.

At the exposition the electrical and percussion instruments which detect "favorable structures" under the ground; the standard, cable and rotary drilling units which seek oil 3,000 feet below the surface; the gas and air lift arrangements which, apparently leaping all laws of physics, bring the oil to the surface, will be seen in operation.

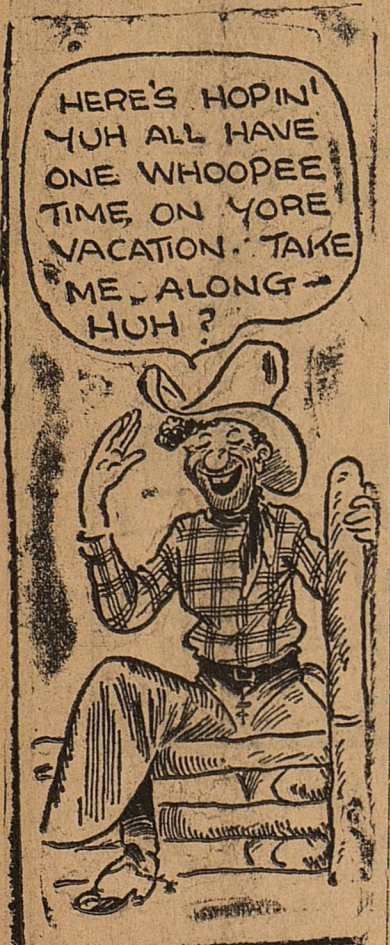

There will also be miniature refineries converting crude into the finished products, natural gasoline plants producing "casinhead," natural gas pumping stations, and exposition of the steps from the refinery to the consumer.

The exposition this year will be larger and more interesting than last year's $10,000,000 oil show.

McLean of Llano questioned witnesses today as the grand jury resumed investigation of the mysterious death of the youth on May 21. The judge said he was determined to clear up the manner by which his son met death.

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 8.—(AP)—Confidence rode with the single motored biplane Angeleno today as Pilots Mendel and Reinhart watched the hours come and go which are bringing them nearer and nearer the coveted sustained flight record goal.

The biplane had been in the air 145 hours today. They need only to keep the plane in the air until 2:30 tomorrow afternoon in order to break the record of 174 hours and 59 seconds held by the intrepid airmen of the City of Cleveland.

District Judge Charles L. Klapproth and Court Reporter L. P. Boone are in Coleman today for a two-week session of district court. court. Efforts to get to the "bottom" of the story eluded him through the persistence of denial among officials that anything remotely connected with a story had happened. Watson confided in his managing editor that a story was being willfully withheld from the press. A call to the mayor resulted in that official calling the chief of police and other peace officers together. Definite instructions were given to the law enforcement officers that they were to show men from the Avalanche everything recorded on the criminal and police dockets. Watson has flown with Lubbock aviators and ridden with the police squad to big raids. His accounts of these are colorful and are being widely read.

REVIVAL DEMO PRINCIPLES IS UNDER FOOT

DALLAS, Texas, July 8.—(UP)—A revival of the principles of the Democratic party in Texas is the avowed purpose of the movement on foot here for the organization of the young Democrats of Texas. The movement is being sponsored by Jack Keller, representative in the state legislature from Dallas.

All Democrats of the younger generation who are interested in the welfare of the "real" Democratic party in Texas, Keller says, should join the organization.

It is understood that the Young Democrats are to take an active part in the gubernatorial race in 1930 as well as other political campaigns of next summer and fall. One of the principal purposes of the new organization is to prevent the Republicans from again carrying the state and to keep the regular Democratic party in power, it was said.

"The gross injustices of the Republican party and its allies in the recent election that resulted in Texas going into the Republican column must be combatted by a strong, undivided and militant Democratic party," Keller said.

"It will be the object of the Young Democrats of Texas to support in the 1930 Democratic primaries, men who are real Democrats, and not persons who desert the party in time of great need. The Young Democrats in 1930 will fight candidates who sympathize and approve of the principles of De Priest, the Chicago negro congressman, as tolerated by the present Republican state boss-dominated political machine and aided and abetted by a faction of men and women who call themselves Democrats. It is the belief of the men behind the new organization that Democracy and white supremacy go hand in hand," said Keller.

TEXAS MAN LAYS CLAIM TO RECORD FLIGHT SUNDAY

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 8.—A new world's non-stop distance record for light airplanes is claimed today by D. S. Zimmerly who completed a non-stop flight of approximately 1500 miles here from Brownsville, Texas, in exactly 16 hours.

The trip was 750 miles longer than the best previous mark. The plane took the air at 2:45 Sunday morning at Brownsville and landed here at 6:45 in the afternoon.

OLD SETTLERS TO MEET AGAIN AT SLATON REUNION

SLATON, Texas, July 7.—Plans are practically complete for holding the three days' Old Settlers' Reunion, July 18, 19 and 20, at the old Ig Ranch, five miles north of Slaton, in the Yellowhouse Canyon. This is announced by H. L. (Bud) Johnston, former Lubbock County sheriff, one of the ranch owners.

The 3-day program of entertainment will include swimming, fishing, boating, rodeo performances, many kinds of sports, buffalo riding, pony racing, chariot racing, a terrapin derby, band concerts, public speaking and other forms of diversion.

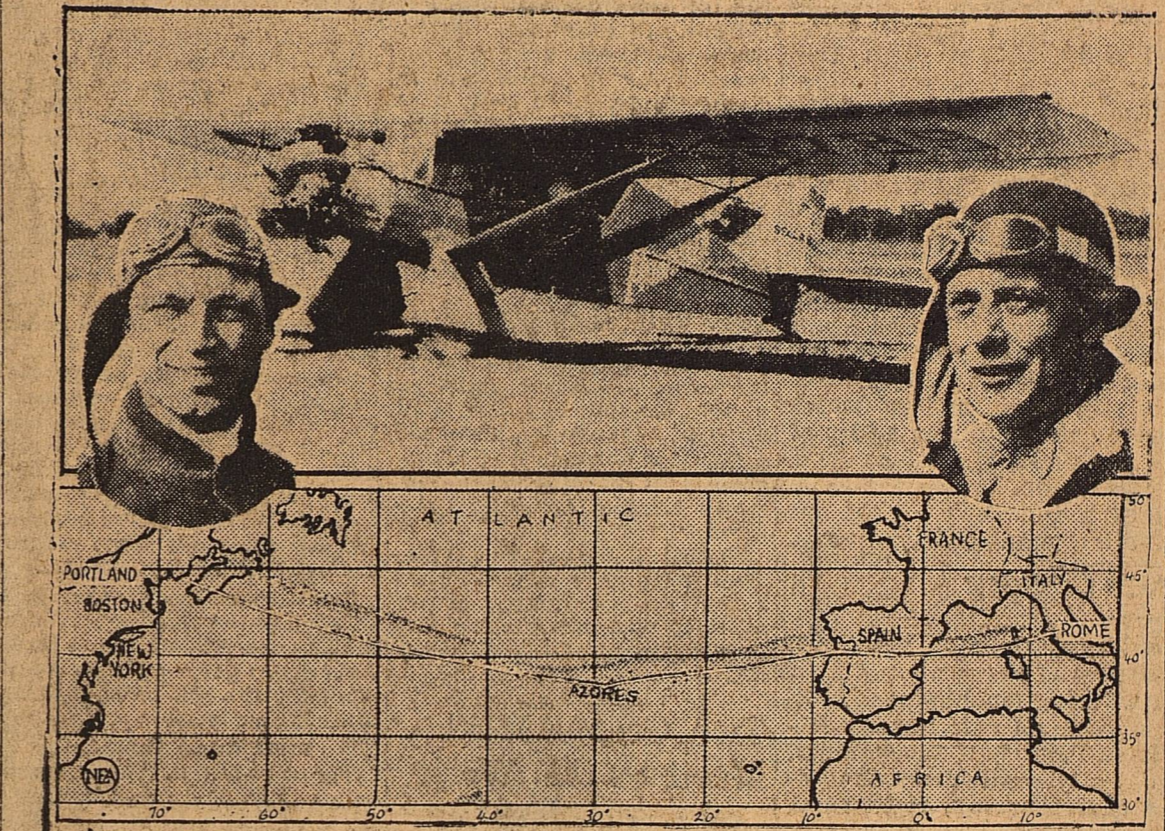

Extensive improvements on the 5,300-acre ranch, which is a natural playground, furnish excellent facilities for entertaining the several thousands of West Texans who are expected to attend, Johnston said. Included among the visitors will be hundreds of old-timers, he has announced after receiving scores of letters from all parts of West Texas.

STRIKE RELIEF SCENE

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—(AP)—Peace reigned temporarily at least here today in the street car strike which during the past few days assumed imminent proportions, as union leaders and public service officials turned to separate branches of federal authority to aid them.

Union heads pinned their hopes for a satisfactory settlement on the action of two department of labor conciliators enroute from Washington. The public service company hinged its fight on an application for a federal injunction to prevent riotous acts against attempts to operate with non-union labor.

"Pathfinder" Now on 4,800-Mile Hop

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, July 8.—(UP)—Bound for Rome, 4800 miles away, the sturdy silver monoplane Pathfinder, soared from here at 8:48 today in a spectacular attempt to better the distance record for heavier-than-air craft.

Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancy, navigator, expect to reach Rome at 9 o'clock in the morning of Wednesday.

It has been reported that the plane was seen 75 miles off Portland lights.

For the state as a whole, business during May held a relatively high level. While several small sub-average spots appear on the map, these recessions, it is stated, are compensated by the extension of the above average area in the Lower Rio Grande Valley to include Laredo territory. In addition to this above average portion, West Texas and the Panhandle, Central Texas and South east Texas are shown in the same classification. The balance of the state, except the four small sub-average areas, is classified as normal.

TEXAS HAS MORE COTTON THAN ON DATE LAST YEAR

To Play Golf on Mile-High Course, And Explore Caves Below Surface of Ground

The privilege of visiting a mile high fort, playing golf on a course nine thousand feet high, and exploring caves nine hundred feet below the surface of the earth will be granted to the 60 or more persons who will make the Fourth annual motorcade sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, starting July 10, disbanding July 20.

The story of Fort Davis, saved from destruction at one time by the love of an Indian girl for one of its officers will be recalled, as will the battle with the Indians who swarmed out of the natural passade of rock like ants, bent on destroying the pale faces with their primitive weapons of warfare. The rare atmosphere of Cloudcroft, the city above the clouds, 9000 feet altitude, will be enjoyed and the highest golf course in the world will be open to the motored cars. And then, as a climax the most recently opened compartments of the unequalled wonder of the Carlsbad Caverns.

The renowned White Sands, in reality a stretch of pure gypsum 25 miles wide and from 50 to 75 miles long and from 5 to 25 feet deep, 14 miles west of Alamogordo will be one of the interesting points of the trip, and the town of Fort Stockton, built on an underground river from which flows millions of gallons of pure water every hour will be a drawing card.

Representatives from Fort Worth, Abilene, Dallas, Midland, Vernon, Breckenridge, Quanah, Haskell, Stamford, and Ballinger have signed up with B. M. Whiteaker who is in charge to make the trip. Texas Tech will send a representative and several state newspapers will do likewise. Representatives from Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine, and West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon complete the more than thirty persons who have already asked to be listed as going on the trip.

The party will leave Ballinger on the morning of the 10th and disband in Vernon on the 20th visiting San Angelo, Fort Stockton, Alpine, Fort Davis, Marfa, Van Horn, the Caverns, Cloudcroft, Roswell, Clovis, Amarillo and intermediate points on the itinerary.

Whiteaker expects a last minute rush in the few remaining days open for making reservations, but will be able to take care of 60, or twice as many as have already signed, he says.

Chamber Gets An Illustrated Yarn In Oil Magazine

The Midland chamber of commerce will have an illustrated story in the official magazine of the Continental Oil company within a few days. This shows cuts of the Petroleum building and the Scharbauer hotel.

Circulation of the magazine includes fourteen states, and the publicity will be enormous, chamber officials say.

Fruit Going To Waste in County

People were surprised to see where fruit was so plentiful in Midland country that much had gone to waste, and even doubted the authenticity of statements about the abundance of fruit. A check-up with names available on request shows two ranches where fruit has already gone to waste, a farm orchardist now seeking a market, a third ranch which supplied four other ranch families with fruit, and a fourth place likely to have an excess of fruit. There are perhaps others not reported.

QUORUM NOT POSSIBLE THERE

Appropriations Work Delayed Through Non-Arrival

AUSTIN, July 8.—(AP)—Drastic action to force absent members of the legislature to return so that house may complete organization and begin considering appropriation bills was in prospect today as the lower branch marked time without a quorum. Representative Snelgrove said he would ask that warrants be issued tomorrow for absentees if a working membership failed to develop.

Twenty members short of a quorum, the house today for the fifth consecutive time is unable to complete its organization for transaction of business during the third special session.

WHY FLYING IS SAFER

The following paragraph, lifted from the story of a reporter who recently traveled from Los Angeles to New York by the air-rail hookup of Transcontinental Air Transport, tells as well as anything can the way in which airways are being made safe for passengers.

"Weather reports," writes the reporter, "told us there were storms between Winslow, Ariz., and Albuquerque. We took off anyway, but our two pilots talked with ground stations ahead and behind us by radio and knew just where all the storms were. So we simply flew around them. . . . The Albuquerque weather report told of three storms converging to the eastward, so we had to detour again, but we sped around them quickly in the midst of lightning and rain and reached Clovis, N. M., before dark, which the pilot had not expected to do."

In a few words, that paragraph tells how flying has passed the hit-or-miss stage and has made safety certain.

THE DEMOCRACY OF GOLF

Golf, which used to be considered the rich man's recreation, is a pretty democratic sort of game after all.

L. B. Maytag, wealthy Iowa washing machine manufacturer, has spent thousands of dollars on golf lessons. Recently he entered the trans-Mississippi golf tournament, his heart set on winning first place. Like all energetic golfers, he doubtless wanted that championship, right then, as badly as he wanted anything on earth.

But he failed to get it. He was beaten in the finals by a youngster who used to be a caddy, and who never was able to spend a dollar on lessons in his life. The democracy of the game tossed victory to the poor boy instead of the rich man.

There are, as the copybooks used to say, some things that money can't buy. Golf victories is one of them.

PROPER COLOR BLEND IS SECRET OF MAKEUP

By MABEL DUKE For NEA Service

Give a woman a box of makeup and she is like a child with a toy. "It's fun to stand before a mirror and experiment with rouge and powder galore, applying first one shade and then another," says Billie Dove. "But judging from the faces of most women, little is gained from the experimenting."

"Successful make-up is subtle, and must never be obvious. The first requisite is the correct material. Each woman should carefully select the shade of powder, rouge and lipstick most suited to her coloring, regardless of what the current fashions in make-up may be."

Sun-Tan Pad Abused For instance, the suntan pad has been terribly abused. Some brunets look lovely in yellow powder, no rouge and vivid lipstick, but the style is not well suited to blondes. All the same, we see many blondes made up in that manner.

To apply make-up, cleanse the face well and apply an astringent. Powder the face slightly, then apply the rouge. Dry rouge is the easiest to apply but does not last long. Cream or liquid rouge remains for hours but care must be taken in applying, being sure not to use too much and to smooth it carefully.

Then powder the face thoroughly. Slap, no not rub, the puff over the face and neck for two or three minutes, then remove the excess powder with a soft brush, such as a baby's hair brush.

Blend Colors Carefully The eyes are next. Rub the eyelid with a touch of eye shadow, blending it carefully into the skin. Blue shadow may be used for blue eyes and brown or black for eyes of those colors. If one prefers it, vaseline rubbed over the lid will give depth to the eye. Use mascara skillfully, if at all, applying it to the lashes and brushing off the surplus when dry. Blondes should not darken the lower lashes. Brush the eyebrows into shape with an eyebrow brush. A touch of vaseline on the brush will give them a lovely gloss. "The final touch is the lip rouge. Smooth it with the finger, powder over the mouth, then wet the lips to remove the powder."

Here's Use for Sour Cream

By SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

During the "dog days" many housekeepers have the experience of waking up on a particularly hot morning to find the cream sour for the breakfast coffee.

In and of itself this is at best inopportune and at worst a tragedy, but after the immediate need for sour cream is taken care of this sour cream will make some sort of a special delicacy.

Very little other shortening is usually required in cakes made with sour cream. The texture of Johnny Cake One cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup white flour, 1-2 cup cornmeal.

Beat egg well. Add salt, sugar and flour and mix until perfectly smooth. Add cream and cornmeal. Dissolve soda in a little boiling water and stir into the batter the last thing before baking. Pour into an oiled and floured dripping pan and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

The cake is fine, the crumb is moist and stays so while the taste is delicious. Soda is used as with sour milk.

Sour cream salad dressing has a taste all its own and is particularly good with fruit salads.

Sour cream frosting is one of the most satisfactory. It never gets dry and sugary and has a delightful and intriguing taste. Solid cream without a trace of milk must be used for the frosting.

Johnny cake is most acceptable with a cold luncheon of salad and cold meat, the Johnny cake being the only hot dish. Less cornmeal is used in "summer" Johnny cake than in the winter variety, for cornmeal is a heat producer and not generally used during hot weather.

BEAUMONT, Tex., July 8.—(AP)—It was worth $6.00 to a Beaumont negro to be "beat up" by installment collectors.

The negro caused arrest of the two men on the charge of assault. A jury in corporation court found them guilty and fined them $20 and costs each. After hearing the negro's story the jurors donated their fees and took up a collection among themselves to make up the total of $6.00 to pay the debt.

JULY GOOD FOR SHEEP RANCHERS OF THE SECTION

SAN ANGELO, Tex., July 8.—(AP)—July finds sheepmen of the southwest buying bucks for the incoming season, fighting work cases, accepting low prices for wool and good prices for lambs. Rains at the end of June improved the range situation and ended a feeling of suspense that creeps over the ranch industry when the skies are blue too long.

Lambs, the greater number of which are contracted, are doing well, and some of the lambs dropped in February are weighing now 60 to 65 pounds. It was the greatest spring the sheep country ever witnessed and the lamb crops are the best in 35 years. There was little demand at the first of the month but it will take what is left of the uncontracted lambs to care for contracts.

There has been a good deal of sore mouth but the dry weather helped that situation. Big head, too, has been bothersome. The worms have been very bad and ranches all over the southwest have been trapping for flies to reduce the losses.

Shearing is over and the shearers have gone to New Mexico where there are half as many sheep as in this state.

Leases for sheep lands are high, commanding up to $1 an acre and these prices obtain not only in the old sheep country but farther east in the new territory devoted to them. Sheepmen have marched clear up to the banks of the Rio Grande turned around and started back. Counties that fifty years ago had plenty of sheep only to go out of the business in the Cleveland administration are again boasting of 150,000 head of sheep and miles of wolf proof fencing.

Prices of sheep have dropped with the price of wool and that has helped some to get into the game. Cattle, on the other hand, are as high as they were last year.

The wool ware houses are being planned in several parts of the state. Up in the Panhandle they are buying lambs to feed on the maize crop and many think the Panhandle of Texas alone will feed 50,000 lambs this fall if not more.

REPRESENTATIVES RESIGN

AUSTIN, July 8.—(AP)—Representatives Woodall, Marshall, Shipman and Hamilton resigned today, effective immediately. Woodall, mentioned as a possible candidate for speaker of the house, resigned to become district attorney of Harrison county. Shipman left for Dallas where he will practice law.

COLEMAN RALLY BEATS COLTS; TEAM GOES TO ABILENE TODAY

MIDLAND MEN ARE BEATEN IN THE 7TH INNING

Coleman got the long end of a 16-14 decision from the Midland Colts in Sunday's affair, beating the Equines by a seventh inning rally.

Big Ed Kallina went out of the game in the second inning when he sprained his ankle. Lefty Moore replaced and had a big day, with a home run, a double and a single, besides taking a hitch at relieving Eagan in the box after the winning run had been scored for Coleman, and playing right field for a time.

Stone and Cheeves each hit two home runs, with Holloway and J. Moore getting one each.

FORD CONTRACT LEAVES SOVIET IN UNCERTAINTY

By EUGENE LYONS
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW, July 8.—(UP)—The recent $30,000,000 contract with the Ford organization is a medal which the Soviet Union has hung proudly on its chest—but with only its good ace showing to the public.

The reverse side of the medal, however, is being viewed closely by political and economic circles here and it is hardly calculated to stimulate pride.

In the negotiations which have dragged for several years between the Soviet government and the American automobile interests, Ford seems to have come out on top. Not only on top of General Motors, his chief competitor, but on top of the Soviet officials.

What Moscow wanted and asked for insistently—is that Ford—or General Motors—come in and build a huge automotive plant not only with American ingenuity but with American dollars. Under the contract recently signed in Dearborn, Michigan, Moscow got the technical aid all right, but it certainly did not get the American dollars.

Analyses of Contract
At bottom the contract amounts to a simple sale of Ford goods to the Soviet Union. The formal announcements have said nothing of the terms of credit and it may be assumed that Moscow has not obtained anything brilliant in that direction. In consideration of the size of the purchase—$30,000,000 during four years—the Ford company has agreed to throw its services in building a factory which will enable Russia eventually to build its own automobiles.

In other words, instead of drawing in American dollars during a period when every dollar counts for Soviet economy, the Soviet Union has obligated itself to pay out a large sum. The details of the negotiations have not been disclosed, but it is clear enough that Moscow has made the best of a bad situation. Having failed to induce Americans to build a factory, it has arranged to do the job itself.

The good face of the medal is, of course, not to be sniffed at. The fact remains that if the contract is carried through—and there is no reason for doubting that it will be—Russia will have an automobile plant second only to Ford's own plant in Europe. It will have all the patents and trade methods of the Ford company.

Ford Means America
The public expressions of satisfaction by the press and officials are therefore not entirely hypocritical. The contract is at least a half-victory. And in relation to a doubting capitalist world, half-victories are better than none, think the Bolsheviks.

As far as the masses are concerned, the news has made a profound and favorable impression. The name of Ford is one to conjure with in the Soviet Union. It is indeed, almost synonymous with America.

Radio Used To Scare Birds Out Of Cherry Trees

Scaring birds out of cherry trees with radio is the arrangement of R. W. Scroggin, a farmer residing near Millington, Ill., according to a recent letter to WLS, the Prairie Farmer station, Chicago. Scroggin runs an extension cord from his radio in the house to a loud-speaker placed in a tree of ripening fruit in the orchard, and uses the all-day broadcasts to frighten the birds away. His letter requested WLS to stage a special "scare-crow" period using loud cries and warnings to increase the effectiveness of his scheme.

El Paso Cafe Scene Of Slap Stick Stuff

EL PASO, July 8.—(UP)—Many a slap-stick comedy star would have turned green with envy had he seen the skill with which Luis Pascias hurred a plate of food across in the face of a waitress in a Bohemian cafe here after he had decided that the meal did not agree with him. He was fined $10.

Juarez Policeman 85 But Alive For All His Years

EL PASO, Texas, July 8.—(UP)—Persons who cross the international bridge here into Juarez are frequently amazed at the dexterity of a member of the Juarez police force, who, despite his 85 years, 50 of which have been spent on his present job, still has strength and mental alertness fully equal to that of many a young man.

"Don Febronio", as he is known to his colleagues, recently demonstrated that he is not yet ready for a pension when he forcibly subdued a recalcitrant prisoner. Riding is his favorite exercise and greatest pleasure. But he would rather break a bronc or ride a wildcat than attempt to ride a motorcycle, he says.

During the revolutionary outbreaks, which are not uncommon to "Don Febronio", the aged policeman always remains on the side of the government, as he did during the late Escobar revolution. On several occasions he has had to come here for protection.

Think "Lindy" Flies Ship To Oklahoma City

The "Chinese Lindbergh" Major T. L. Huang, flew into Oklahoma City Friday morning and out again the same afternoon bringing with preliminary details of his inspection trip of the United States in behalf of the Chinese government.

Major Huang who is not only an expert flier but a well known writer and orator and a graduate of both Syracuse and Columbia Universities plans to return to China by a trans-Pacific flight in a plane now being built for him in New York, his destination on the present trip. His inspection tour is specially concerned with aviation training schools, according to the major. The Nationalist government has instructed him to arrange for advanced flight instruction for Chinese military pilots who will take preliminary instruction in China, and who will then be sent to the United States to be distributed in equal numbers among the properly accredited schools in this country. He spent the day with Paul Braniff, executive vice-president of the Braniff Airlines who gave him a close-up of airline operations, and left for the east on the Braniff "Sky-Diner" at five o'clock.

COAST TO COAST WITH U. S. SHIPS IS GREAT THRILL

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second story written by Smallsread, special writer of the Columbus Dispatch, for The Reporter-Telegram. Smallsread was here with the government fleet of this great bombing planes and fast pursuits. He will do other stories for this daily, each to run in succession.)

Encounter Thunderstorm
One hour out of Dayton and for the first time I looked down upon the wheels of a street car. It loomed up dead ahead and I began to wonder if Captain Black was going to dive headlong into this treacherous looking sky evil.

Presently I noticed the ground was dropping farther away and that the storm was veering off to our left. Black decided to go around and somewhat above it.

That squall was a caution to behold—fascinating. Huge billows of charged vapor billowed and milled and eddied in a fantastic caterwaul. Oddly, though, we didn't feel much of the wind, because the slight change in course brought it into our tail. We saw no lightning. Over us the sun beamed brightly. The storm threw a heavy blanket shadow over the earth. In three minutes it was almost out of sight.

We flew under the clouds again and got into the first rain of the trip. It was just a smattering, but like facing machine gun bullets. One particularly large drop stung my nose and I wheeled my back to the wind and rubbed the sore spot. Black and Kennedy were laughing. Then I decided to sit down.

Over the Wabash
There are three rivers on this journey anybody slightly acquainted with geography and physiography will recognize instantly from the air. The first on the tour is the Wabash. It's a streak of mud soup and winds its way lazily and glutinously between Illinois and Indiana.

Heavy rains had sent the river out of its banks a few days previously and the valley, what there was of it, looked like a mud flat. To make sure it was the Wabash I turned and framed the name with my lips. Black recognized it instantly and nodded and pointed below. He was navigating by means of a strip map.

The flight across lower Illinois was uneventful, the skies clearing and the ceiling lifting to a fine altitude. I was absorbed by watching things on the ground through the window under the aluminum grating in the floor.

Columbus folks can appreciate what noise six bombers make while flying over. The effect it had on cattle and poultry, peacefully grazing and feeding in the fields, was comical. It seems when planes get at a certain point overhead the proplellers send out a deafening crack. In other words, the sound waves make a "direct hit."

Cattle Terrified
At this instant cattle and horses would bolt wildly in all directions, in some instances, clearing fences. With sheep it was different. A flock scattered loosely all over a pasture would suddenly run together into a bunch as if attracted by some powerful magnet. Once in a compact flock, they would stampeede blindly ahead, trying in vain to escape the terrifying noise.

Down in Texas I saw a team of

CAROL TRIES TO COME BACK HURLED TO DEATH

EARTHQUAKE IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—(UP)—An earthquake fairly heavy shook the downtown section of Los Angeles at 8:45 this morning and lasted for several seconds.

Whittier reported the first damage when a window of a bank broke and plaster was shaken from the walls. A seismological instrument at Pasadena will not record the shocks for several hours, but the tremors were felt there.

Stupendous "Noah's Ark"—Talking Film

"Noah's Ark," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone production, heralded as being the "made to top any picture ever made," comes to the Ritz Theatre Thursday next for a run of 3 days. The stupendous production includes more than ten thousand characters. Sets covering more than a square mile were used in the making—a period of three years.

Darryl Francis Zanuck wrote the story and Michael Curtiz, internationally famed as the producer of spectacles of vast proportions, directed. Dolores Costello is starred with George O'Brien. Other prominent members of the cast are Noah Beery, Louise Fazenda, Guinn Williams, Paul McAllister, Nigel de Bruiler, Anders Randolf, Armand Kaliz, Myrna Loy, William V. Mong, Malcolm Waite, Noble Johnson, Otto Hoffman and Joe Bonomo.

"Noah's Ark," mighty in conception, portrays life at the ends of the rainbow-span of fifty centuries. The lovers, whose glamorous personalities survive the soul-stirring days of the World War, are transported back across the centuries, to the iniquitous days preceding the Flood.

Vitaphone is vindicated as never before by the magnificent sweep of the story—by the manifold sounds of tumult—war—slavery—flood—terror—mirth—and by the human voice, and never has quite so melodiously interpretative an accompaniment been provided as that which follows the ever-changing scenes of "Noah's Ark."

The choice of Dolores Costello and George O'Brien to play the parts of the lovers was in itself a stroke of genius. Paul McAllister is magnificent as the patriarch, Noah—and all the actors are perfectly cast.

The theme of the play is the changelessness of the heart of humanity—whether in the modern life that we know—or in the traditional past. Tremendous as is the idea of the play, the human story which runs through it is compelling, intimate and tender.

"Noah's Ark" stands alone among pictures. See and hear it at the Ritz Theatre Thursday next.

Home of Army Blimps

Col. John Peglow, for eight years commander of the post, extended to us the hospitality of the camp. We registered at the visiting officers' hotel and took our meals at the Officers' Club where we were received courteously and supplied with every need.

Scott field is a lighter-than-air ship training field, flyers being instructed in the construction and operation of blimps and balloons. Here until it was torn down, was the home of the RS-1, the largest dirigible airship next to the Los Angeles.

In the hangar are three baby blimps, the TC-52, TC-53, and TC-71. Each holds about 200,000 cubic feet of helium. The hangar is 810 feet long, its doors 175 feet high and these weigh 735 tons, being opened and closed by huge electric motors.

On Scott field is a mooring mast 175 feet high for airships, equipped with a beacon light and an elevator on the inside to carry passengers to the observation platform.

Capt. L. T. Miller, operations officer, conducted us on a tour of the post. His home is in Marietta, Ohio. The trip from Dayton to Scott field, 320 miles, was completed at 5:45 p.m., the elapsed time being about 3 hours and 35 minutes. Thirteen pursuit ships and four transports, under the command of Major it got. I was crouched low in my front cockpit to escape as much of the drenching as possible.

Looking out of the window below me, I noticed that we were turning to the left. Kenny was scanning his strap map closely.

After wallowing around in the storm for about 25 or 30 minutes I saw a light streak in the sky ahead and our planes were making for it. As if someone pushed a button and turned on the lights, we burst into the sunshine. To me it never was so welcome.

Forced Back
Once out of the storm, Black began to locate himself on the map while Kenny took the controls. This storm was funny. To the left the sky was clear. To the right and almost above it was black. We maneuvered for a bit and then set out along that black skyline, evidently for Springfield, Mo. Black had made up his mind to keep going.

About three minutes later I spotted one of the tri-motored Fokker transports to my left. Then I saw the 13 pursuit ships, all of which had left Scott field before we took off. They were circling us. Major Spatz in his white plane was in the lead.

Presently the two planes in Spatz' formation broke away, one heading for the transports and one toward us. It zoomed above, dove down in front of us, waggled its wings and then veered off sharply to the right and back.

Lost in a Storm
About 150 miles out of Scott field a solid cloud bank loomed up ahead. Rain began to fall and the outlook was dismal.

In a few minutes we were in the thick of an utter downpour. So low were the clouds that our ship almost seemed to scrape trees on hillsides.

I turned to see what reaction this weather had on my pilots. Black was piloting ever so cautiously and carefully meeting every blast of the cross wind perfectly. Kenny sat there with his arms folded, his face set calmly ahead into the beating rain. The further we went the worse

It was a sign to return to Scott field. I looked at Black and he was cussing a blue streak.

We later learned that the pursuers had been far ahead and encountered a second storm. They carry only a four-hour supply of gasoline, while our ships are good for more than six hours. We were almost half way to Muskogee, 380 miles from Scott field.

At noon we were back at our starting point, flying in the sunshine. A few minutes after getting out of the storm the wind had blown our soaked clothing dry.

The rest of the day was spent in resting up, because we were informed that on Tuesday we would attempt to make Midland, Texas, 830 miles away.
