Blockade End On May 12 Is West Victory

Diplomatic Fight For Germany Will Be Held In Paris

(By The Associated Press)

In an atmosphere of armed truce, the East and West girded today for the next round of the cold war—after the blockade at Berlin is lifted next Thursday.

The west considered it had won a victory by bringing the Russians to agreement. But Russian-controlled organs were putting the best front they could on the developments.

Part Of Broad Picture

And a cold wind still was blowing off Russia, toward the foreign ministers council which will meet in Paris May 23 to consider the German question as a whole.

Under the Big Four agreement made public today, the Russians will lift the total blockade which shut off western Berlin, except by air, for more than 10 months. The Western Allies will end the counter-blockade which severely pinched the economy of the eastern zone of divided Germany from July 26, 1948, on.

The United States will keep its airlift machine ready until they are sure Russia has no plans to set up another roadblock.

Spirit Of Harmony

A burst of harmony brought about the truce after two months of negotiations in United Nations headquarters and in New York.

Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the U. N., said the agreement "opens the way to new efforts for a settlement of the German problem, one of the main causes of the great power differences which have so far hampered the work of the United Nations."

Today Moscow's press and radio told its people of the agreement without editorial comment. But the Russian views were reflected in their press elsewhere. In Germany, for instance, the Soviet-licensed press said the Allies had "backed down" in agreeing to the four-power talks.

In London, the Communist Daily Worker called the agreement "a retreat for the United States."

Face Major Battle

The West now comes to a major battle of the cold war—the diplomatic fight for Germany. Many western observers believe a

Judge's Order Halts Toll Line

A temporary order restraining the Southwestern Associated Telephone company from extending its toll lines in the area adjacent to the Lubbock Air Force base was granted this morning by Judge G. V. Pardue in 99th District court.

The order was granted on petition of seven property owners on whole land the telephone equipment would have been placed. The petition was signed by S. H. Bradford J. R. Crisp, A. F. Williamson, H. A. Williamson, Jim Cates, G. W. Bartlett and C. A. Andrews. All reside near the Hurlwood community.

At the time the restraining order was granted Judge Pardue also set Friday, May 13 as the date for hearing cause why the order should not be extended or become permanent. He set $500 as plaintiffs' bond.

In their petition the plaintiffs said none of them granted permission to the telephone company to proceed with construction of new lines.

Only One Telephone

They also stated that the company threatened to go ahead and erect poles and lines without the permission from the property owners.

The plaintiffs further charged that no telephone company had ever provided adequate communication for the Hurlwood community. They stated that a single old-

Wallace Offers 6-Point Plan For U. S.-Red Peace Program

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 5—Henry A. Wallace said today that a Russian offer on March 21 to lift the Berlin blockade was deliberately withheld from the public because the State department feared it might block the North Atlantic pact.

He said the State department held up news of the Russian "concession" for over a month "because it explodes the myth on which the North Atlantic pact is based and destroys the basis on which it is being sold to the American people."

Opponents Are Heard

Wallace, former vice president and now head of the Progressive party, was one of seven witnesses scheduled to testify before the Senate foreign relations committee today to argue against the 12-nation defense alliance.

The committee is laying the groundwork for a vote on the treaty which is not binding on the United States until ratified by the Senate. For six days it has heard those in favor of the program. Now those against it have their turn.

Wallace, in a prepared statement, urged the committee to withhold action on the treaty until after a foreign ministers conference is held on the German situation in New York.

Our Great Opportunity

"This is our great—it may be our last—opportunity to arrive at a peaceful settlement of our differences" with Russia, he said.

He said the administration estimate of the cost of the North Atlantic military pact is "a plain fraud on the American taxpayer." He predicted the eventual cost will be as high as $30,000,000,000 instead of the slightly over one billion dollar figure some have set.

He charged the defense pact was "aggressive to Russia" and asked:

"Suppose the Soviet union entered into an alliance with Mexico, Canada and Cuba, built airstrips on their soil, established a joint chiefs of staff in Havana, and supplied its Allies with billions in arms? Could we be convinced that the treaty which surrounded us with this military might was a pact of peace?"

Six-Point Program

He suggested that the United States and Russia sit down together and settle their differences. He offered a six-point basis for discussion which included:

1. A treaty to form a unified and demoeratic Germany, stripped

All Four Born In Only Five Minutes

Mother, Expecting Triplets, Gives Birth To Quadruplets

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 5.—The new members of the Collins family—all four of them—were doing nicely today.

That was the report from Lebanon hospital, where Mrs. Ethel Collins, 27, Wednesday gave birth to two boys and two girls.

The quadruplets weighed a total of 17 pounds and 14 ounces at birth.

Mrs. Collins had been expecting triplets. When she learned there were four instead of three babies, she murmured:

"My, how wonderful."

The father, Charles Collins, 29, a brokerage office clerk, got the news by telephone. His comment: A long whistle.

Quadruplets occur about once in every 676,000 births. An average of three sets a year are born alive in the United States.

The babies, placed in an incubator, were put on a diet of sugar and water, with feedings every three hours.

Late today, they'll begin getting a bulk food formula of evaporated milk, water and carbohydrates.

The hospital said all four

IRON BARS OF JAIL ARE FILED

Lamesa Prisoners Back After Break

(Special To The Journal)

LAMESA, May 5—Freedom was short lived for two prisoners who escaped from the Dawson county jail about 12 o'clock last night. One gave himself up less than two hours after his escape and the other was captured three hours later.

The escapees were Jimmy Quinn, 17, Lamesa, and J. B. Gibson, 35, Odessa. The escape was accomplished by filing through the iron bars of the main door on the third floor, according to Sheriff Roy King. After getting into the corridor the two men made ropes from blankets, climbed through a window and lowered themselves to the ground. Six other prisoners in the jail at the time made no attempt to gain their freedom. At the time of the escape no officers were on duty in the jail.

In Jail Three Weeks

Quinn had been in the jail for three weeks charged with burglary. Gibson was serving time for swindling with worthless checks. Quinn had previously been an inmate of the Texas Reform School.

Quinn told Sheriff King that he and Gibson had planned the escape some time ago. Gibson was to have obtained an automobile and then meet Quinn at a designated spot. Quinn said he waited for the older man and when Gibson did not appear he went to the home of his parents. The parents urged the boy to give himself up to Deputy Sheriff John Mowell.

Gibson was picked up about 4 a. m. on the Seminole Road eleven miles east of Lamesa by Sheriff King, Deputies Sam Floyd and Mowell and State Ranger J. L. Rogers. At the time of his capture Gibson was trying to catch a ride.

Final Hope Of Agreement In Dispute Fades

Complete Tieup Of Ford's Industrial Empire Is Slated

DETROIT, May 5.—A strike of 65,000 workers hit Ford Motor Co. at noon (EST) today and negotiations broke up a last minute conference in which they had hoped to reach a settlement.

Peace talks were called off at 12:20 p. m. They had been extended after the deadline in a last desperate hope that agreement could be reached.

The walkout took place simultaneously on two fronts. Some 62,000 workers streamed out of the big Rouge plant, control point of the Ford empire. Another 3,000 walked out of the Lincoln-Mercury plant.

If the strike lasts, Ford's worldwide industrial empire soon will be tied up.

Picket Lines Established

Picket lines were established immediately. There was no disorder.

At issue was the union's charge that Ford had speeded up production at the two plants beyond a rate compatible with workers' health. Ford denied this.

The union's speed-up charge alleged that the company was not maintaining assembly lines at the correct ratio between speed and manpower. In other words, the union believed too much work was being required of too few men.

Ford said the lines were going at the normal rate and demanded that the union submit the issue to arbitration. The company said the union's refusal to do this was a violation of the contract.

Ford Vice President John S. Bugas said just before the breakoff of negotiations that there was "no hope of settlement."

Reuther Enters Talks

Entering the talks for the first time at 10 a. m. today, UAW President Walter Reuther said the strike could be settled by a written agreement.

And so Ford was hit by the first major walkout since the bloody 10-day battle in 1941 when the UAW-CIO first gained recognition.

Within nine days, the company said, the strike would tie up most of the worldwide industrial empire and hit 106,000 production workers.

Sound trucks appeared at the main gates, blaring, "we're willing to stay out until Christmas if necessary."

The walkout was orderly. There was none of the grim bitterness of the violent 1941 strike in which dozens of workers were injured.

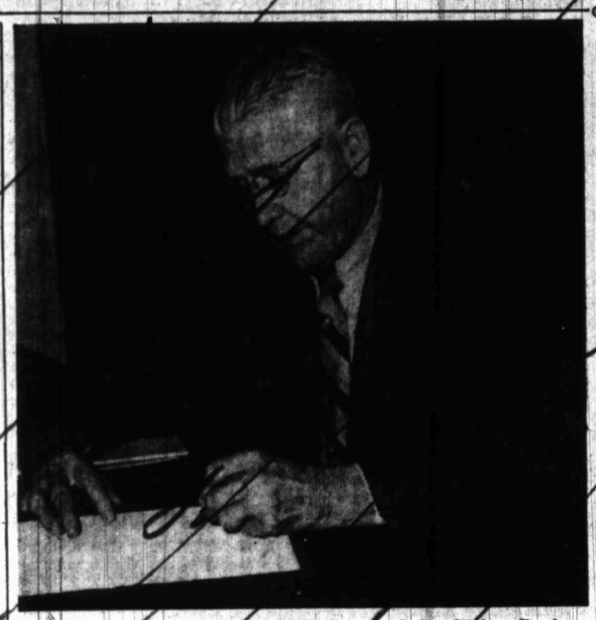

Man's Life Saved By His Bald Head

AVONDALE, Ariz., May 5. (U.P.)—Frank P. Attaway's bald head saved his life.

Attaway, 62, Phoenix blacksmith, fell from a train night before last on which he was taking some race horses to Portland, Ore.

Ann Hannah spotted his unconscious figure across the tracks when his bald head reflected the headlights of her car.

She summoned Police Chief Lee Shepard and Patrolman Harry Rex who dragged him out of the way just as another train bore down on him.

JUDGE DAVIES RULES "CONTEMPT"

Lubbock Attorneys Sentenced To Jail

BURTON S. BURKS

BY R. C. HANKINS
Journal Staff Writer

Burton S. Burks and Buck McNeil, comprising the law firm of Burks and McNeil, were committed to county jail early this afternoon after County Judge Walter Davies had adjudged them in contempt of his court.

McNEIL

Burks, defense attorney who spent approximately 17 continuous years in the county court-house, several terms as district attorney, thus found himself where he had sent hundreds of defendants when he was on the "other side of the counsel table."

Quick Counter-Action

The judgment of the court brought quick counter-action from E. A. Blair, Lubbock attorney who presented to Judge G. V. Pardue of the 99th district court a petition for a writ of habeas corpus directed to Sheriff Grady Harrist. Judge Pardue ordered Royal Furgeson, district clerk, to issue the writ commanding Harrist to produce Burks and McNeil before him at 4 p. m. and show cause why he was restraining the attorneys of their liberty.

The contempt judgment resulted from a flareup of counsel just before noon in the trial of Sidney Hall, a negro on a charge of liquor law violation.

Reason Is Explained

The commitment drawn by County Attorney Waggoner Carr and signed by Judge Davies recited that Burks and McNeil "refused to announce ready for trial and presented no written motion for continuance."

Both sides proceeded to question the jury panel. Carr requested of the court that it be ascertained whether the defendant, Sidney Hall, was present in the courtroom. The court acquiesced "and ordered the defendant's co-counsel Burks to advise the court whether . . . Hall was present . . . Burks refused to obey the order of the court and refused to advise the court whether the defendant was present."

The commitment order went on to relate that:

"The court then ordered the bai-

Cost Of Living Dip Predicted

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—President Truman's top economic adviser forecast today "a further easing" of the cost of living.

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the council of economic advisors, said "we are still in a period of healthy disinflation."

The written report to the President was not made public, but Nourse told reporters some of the main points in it. He said:

"I expect some further easing in the cost of living."

Slight Upturn In April

Nourse said the cost of living in March was 3.2 per cent under the peak of August, 1948, but that there was a slight although not important upturn in April.

He said production is down from the December peak, that unemployment is down to a 3,000,000 level from a top unemployment of 3,221,000 in February.

"Prices continued downward, but not on a demoralized basis," Nourse went on. He said that the public could expect declines in pork prices, although beef prices likely will go up.

First Business Census In Lubbock Since 1939 Starts Friday; Cooperation Of People Urged

Work on Lubbock's first official census of business since 1939 will begin Friday.

L. D. Whiteley, Lubbock district supervisor of the census, announced today that four enumerators will tackle the king-size task of canvassing all local business establishments to obtain information required in the census.

Whiteley, who last week returned from a four-week training course at Houston and Fort Worth, said that because of unavoidable delay, the project here is starting six weeks late.

The district supervisor asked full cooperation of local businessmen in the taking of the census. Because of the inexperience of some enumerators, he said he anticipated possible slight delays in interviews during the early stages of the census here. But as enumerators gain experience, he said, the process should speed up.

Whiteley said he wished to emphasize again that the census is designed to benefit all business concerned. Statistics compiled in the census are widely used to obtain reliable information on a comprehensive scale about the distribution of goods and services in all parts of the country. He pointed out that the census has the support of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the American Retail federation, and other leading merchants' organizations.

Information supplied to census officials is held in strict secrecy, Whiteley said. All census employes are required to take a special oath of secrecy, and are subject to criminal action of they dis-

Cool Front On Way; Rainfall For City .75

More Rain, Winds Are Forecast For Section Tonight

By OPAL DIXON
Journal Staff Writer

Following turbulent weather in the Panhandle and South Plains Wednesday night, showers and local thundershowers were forecast again for this afternoon and tonight.

A cool front is expected to move into Northwest Texas late today and proceed slowly southeastward across the state, according to weather bureau forecasts. Although not bringing extreme drop in temperature, it was expected by forecasters to bring a continuation of Wednesday's thunderstorm activity in scattered areas.

More Rough Weather

Collision of the cooler air with the warm, moist air now covering most of Texas would make an "ideal situation for some more pretty rought weather." The Associated Press quoted Dallas forecasters as saying.

The United Press reported the U. S. weather bureau at Dallas said a continuation of Wednesday's thunderstorm activity, which brought rain, some hail and blowing dust, was likely. Most of the state was cloudy this morning, only the southwestern region from the Big Bend country toward El Paso enjoying clear skies.

.75 Reported Here

Lubbock received .75 inch precipitation between 11:15 o'clock Wednesday night and 4:55 o'clock this morning, according to measurement at the weather station and other points on the South Plains received precipitation in varying amounts. The measurement at the experiment station was .53 inch Wednesday night.

Light hail accompanied the rain that fell during a thunderstorm in Amarillo area Wednesday night. The storm was blamed for a series of accidents, one of which involved an Air Force B-26 bomber.

The bomber, en route from March field, Calif., to Chanute field in Illinois, tried an emergency landing at Amarillo's air terminal. It overshot a 3,000 foot runway, crashed through border fences and across U. S. highway 66, coming to rest in an adjacent pasture.

The pilot, Capt. W. A. Wagoner of Milwaukee, Wisc., was under treatment in an Amarillo hospital for head lacerations and leg

Midwest Hit By Hot Wave

(By The United Press)

More warm and humid weather was forecast today in the spring heat wave which has gripped the Midwest.

The warm weather spread eastward yesterday and broke records in the Midwest for the second day in a row.

U. S. forecasters said it might begin to get cooler in some portions of the Midwest today. But the forecast for Illinois and Indiana was for continued warm and humid weather, with occasional thundershowers.

All-Time High Broken

The mercury soared to 91.2 degrees in Chicago yesterday, breaking the all-time high for May 4. The previous day was Chicago's hottest May 3 on record.

Indianapolis, too, topped the record for the second day in a row with 90 degrees yesterday. The old record was 88 set in 1895.

Columbus, O., recorded 90 in mid-afternoon yesterday to top an 1895 record for May 4.

Other high temperatures yesterday were 91 at Louisville, Ky., 90 at St. Louis, 92 at Huntington, W. Va., 88 at Milwaukee and Cleveland.

Bankers Robbed Of $25,000 By Gunmen

CLEVELAND, May 5. (AP)—Four masked gunmen held up two bank officials shortly before noon today and escaped with approximately $25,000 in cash.

Victims of the holdup were Anton Bizza, 62, a teller, and George Ziemba, 72, vice-president of the Lincoln Heights Savings and Loan Co.

The robbers used two automobiles for the stickup, but abandoned one of the cars at the scene.

The bank officials told police their car was rammed into a curb by the bandits' two cars.

Big Fire Destroys Houston Warehouse

HOUSTON, May 5 (AP)—A quick, smoky fire at the Houston warehouse of the Humble Oil and Refining company, completely destroyed the $100,000 warehouse Wednesday afternoon, and did further damage to $500,000 worth of casing, valves and fittings.

J. N. Smith, chief clerk at the warehouse, said the fire started shortly after 2 p. m. from a cause not yet determined.

Two Bandits Sought After Gun Battle

DALLAS, May 5 (AP) — Police continued an all-out search here today for two bandits believed to be responsible for a series of liquor store robberies and the attempting shooting of a Dallas motorcycle policeman.

One of the gunmen shot Policeman W. H. Primm's motorcycle out from under him in a running gunfight in West Dallas last night. Primm was not seriously injured. Two bullets struck the lights of the motorcycle. Primm fired at the gunman's speeding car.

Detectives said they were sure the car's occupants were bandits who staged three liquor store robberies here during the last week.

Huge Airlift Machine To Be Kept In Standby Condition

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The airlift machine—its planes, men and directors—probably will be kept in standby condition in Europe until it is reasonably certain Russia has no plans to set up another sudden roadblock to Berlin.

This was indicated today by Air officials who were still awaiting details on the general four-power agreement reached yesterday.

There was no immediate disposition to tear it down in any sudden and possibly premature move.

By continuing to exist for a time, it could serve as an inspiration for the Russians to live up to the agreement.

Analysis Is Planned

With "Operation Vittles" apparently drawing toward a close, the Air Force prepared to start an exhaustive analysis of the strategic lessons learned in the greatest air supply operation of history.

The experience value already had been emphasized by various Air Force officials. Assistant Secretary of Air Eugene M. Zukert said of the airlift:

"We have gotten something that a military force rarely receives in peacetime—an opportunity to accomplish a task when the chips are down."

He noted that "we have learned a lot—for example, about maintenance, supply lines and bad weather flight control," and have received "an intense, practical test of our trained manpower and our staying power."

Cost Has Been Heavy

American planes in the airlift have flown more than 55,000,000 miles—which means that the planes and their crews were in the air, under some of the worst weather and air traffic conditions the world affords, for 375,000 hours. They had carried 1,159,948 tons of cargo into Berlin from June 26, 1948, until the close of business at midnight Tuesday. The cost, in dollars, was $173,496,600; in men 27; in planes wrecked, 28.

Studying all the technical details behind these overall costs and accomplishments, the Air Force now will set up an operational plan any big-scale airlift needed in a future war. Its biggest previous yardstick came out of World War II—the cargo-carrying job over the Himalaya "hump" from southeast Asia into China. In the last six months of the "hump" operation, the planes made an average of 12,250 trips a month, carrying a total of 51,000 tons per month. Operation Vittles has averaged 17,000 trips a month (with bigger planes), carrying 134,000 tons a month.

Today, the United States has about 320 four-engined aircraft on the Berlin air lift, toting cargo.

Could Move Troops

If these planes were used to carry troops, they could move 15,000 men in a single mass flight.

However, the lesson learned in Operation Vittles is one of supply, not troop transport. And, fortunately, the experience has not included operation of a large-scale airlift against enemy aviation and anti-aircraft.

But the Berlin lift has provided the Air Force with a laboratory to determine just how many planes, how much concerted effort of all the military forces, would be required to supply a large forward position cut off from normal sea or land supply lines.

The Air Force has learned, among other things, precisely how many tanker ships and freighters are needed to feed fuel and food to a big airlift operating from bases 3,000 miles distant from the homeland. It found that while some of the simpler maintenance work—the 50 and 200-hour checks of planes and engines—could be done by Air Force personnel at a base in Burtonwood, England, the more extensive, 1,000-hour overhauls required that the planes be flown back to the United States.

Train Bandits Get 20 Years

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 5 (AP)—The two young wild west bandits from Ohio who boldly held up a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train two months ago have been sentenced to 20 years in jail.

Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins Wednesday handed down the identical maximum sentences to Luman Ramsdell, 23, and George L. Ashton, 20. Both are from Youngstown, O.

Theye were charge with and admitted halting the B. & O. "Ambassador" near Martinsburg, W. Va., the night of March 9 and robbing some 100 fellow passengers of about $1,000. They were captured the next day in Washington, D. C.

They were also sentenced to 10 years each on two counts of armed robbery of a passenger, but Judge Watkins ruled that the two sentences will be served concurrently.

Ramsdell's wife and Ashton's mother were in the court room, but neither had anything to say.

Ashton's mother has brought suit against the railroad, charging that her son, as a minor, was illegally sold intoxicating drinks aboard the train.

Pair Of Queens Beat Tradition In Baylor May Day Ceremonies

WACO, May 5 (AP)—A pair of queens beat tradition on Baylor's play day.

Mrs. A. J. Mehaffey, 40, law student and mother of two children, was crowned queen of the May" and so was a 19-year-old brownhaired, hazel-eyed beauty from San Antonio, Hester Curl.

The twin coronations climaxed some dizzy doings at venerable Baylor university. Yesterday, for the first time in the 104-year-old history of the Baptist college, two queens reigned on play day.

Two Coronations Held

Mrs. Mehaffey was crowned by law students who insisted their write-in candidate won the annual contest sponsored by the Alpha Omega sorority.

Miss Curl was crowned the official queen a couple of hours later.

Both queens had whopping coronations.

School officials said Mrs. Mehaffey's votes didn't count, that her candidacy was 48 hours late and wasn't accompanied by a filing fee.

The law students contended write-in candidates didn't need a filing fee.

Mrs. Mehaffey was a little upset when she found her supporters wanted a separate coronation. She didn't want the feelings of the younger students hurt. She said she felt like their mother.

There were indications the 19 campus beauties nominated for the May queen honor didn't like being mothered.

Parade Is Staged

Supporters of Mrs. Mehaffey staged a downtown parade of 16 shining new convertibles filled with dignitaries and pretty girls. There was a national guard escort, and on top of one of the cars rode Mrs. Mehaffey and her two children, John 9, and Merlenna, 11.

A huge crowd of cheering students and townsfolk turned out for her coronation at Minglewood bowl.

Three planes soared overhead and dipped their wings in salute.

Boys and girls, I love you all," said Mrs. Mehaffey, who had been a reigning beauty at Baylor before—back in the twenties.

She is the wife of a Waco dealer in used cars and alligator steaks. He's got a law degree and that's why she's going to school now. To get one like it.

The official ceremony later didn't mention her. Students filled Waco hall to watch the parade of 19 young lovelies and visiting duchesses from other Southwest conference colleges. Everything went off according to custom.

A judge in Hull, England, who has granted 1,600 divorce decrees in the last two years, said he would be very happy if he had only contributed to just one happy marriage in that time.

Eight Bookies Are Reported To Have Gone Broke In Month

LOS ANGELES, May 5. (INS)—The Los Angeles Examiner said have gone "broke" paying off on tip horses at Golden Gate park in the last month.

A major Sunset Strip operator is said to have lost $150,000 and an associate $40,000 more.

The Examiner added that the heavy play started on April 5 and was mostly among the $100-to-$1,000 bettors. At first, the information was limited to 20 players and the tips were so good, that on one day they hit six out of eight winners.

Play Became Heavy

The play became so heavy, the Examiner story continued, that Los Angeles bookmakers began laying off their bets to other cities.

A week ago, gamblers in Las Vegas, Nev., Omaha, Chicago, and St. Paul refused all bets on horses at Golden Gate park.

Confirming the refusals to take bets was Moey Sedway, one of the owners of the Flamingo casino in Las Vegas.

"We had to turn down all layoffs on Golden Gate because we were getting killed," he said. "The bets would come in about five minutes before post time and we'd get stuck holding a couple of thousand dollars on the information horse and a couple of hundred dollars on the favorite."

Source Not Disclosed

"When the information horses kept winning, we refused to handle anymore layoffs," he concluded.

Source of the information was not disclosed, but the Examiner said it was centered in a Hollywood club where those "in the know" have made repeated killings.

Adding to the bookmakers discomfort were yesterday's results at Golden Gate. Vin Rose in the first paid $312.80, Ripple Over in the eighth returned $201.10 for $2.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR PASTOR

St. Louis Minister Continues Torrid Attack Against Vice

United Press Staff Writer
BY RAY WEBSTER, JR.

ST. LOUIS, May 5 — Startled bookies moved to the back rooms today as an anti-vice crusade by a Protestant minister gained momentum.

Gamblers, saloonkeepers and even a beauty shop operator cringed as the Rev. Holland B. London, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, prepared for a busy day.

He was to appear before a grand jury with a long list of law violations, such as horse playing and selling drinks to minors, which he said he had observed in police-escorted tours through the city.

Mass Meeting Scheduled

For tonight, Rev. London had scheduled a mass meeting and parade past the city hall with the assistance of several ministers from other faiths who had taken up the scent.

It all started three weeks ago when Rev. London attacked from his pulpit a judge's ruling in favor of a racing wire syndicate. It attracted pretty much attention and there has been no stopping the 38-year-old preacher since.

First official notice of the crusade came a week later when, after complaining of telephoned threats against him and his family, Rev. Holland preached with a police escort. He since has accompanied the cops on raids of taverns and such, where they have been accommodating and made a few arrests.

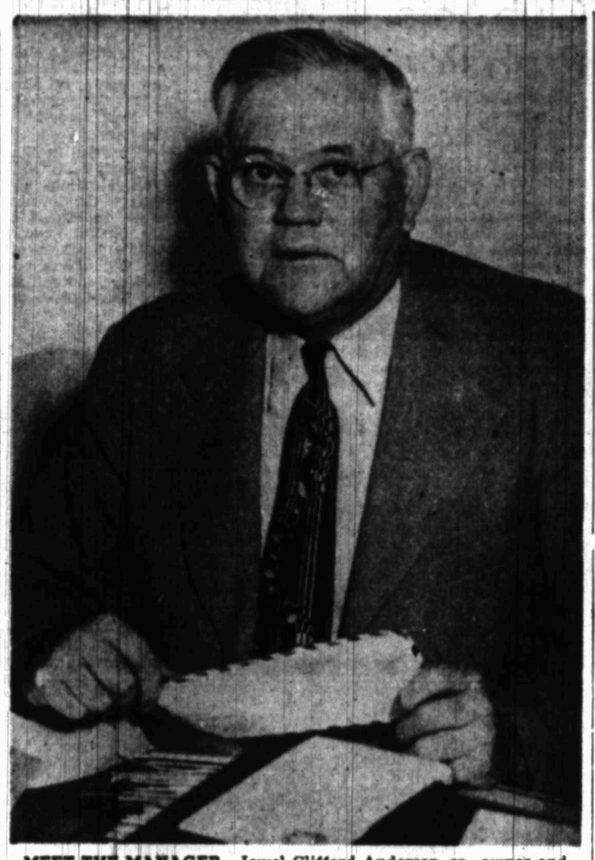

Gambling hadn't been wide open here to start with, but it was no major problem to wager a dollar or two on a horse. The minister said he had no trouble placing a bet himself in a downtown cigar store and he was ready to name other places—including the beauty shop, a book store and an exclusive men's club—where a bet would be handled.

Rev. London wired Gov. Forrest Smith at Jefferson City to tell him jubilantly of his own bet, even though the preacher forgot to note whether he won or lost. Gov. Smith, who appoints the St. Louis police board, wired back and reiterated his pre-election no-gambling pledges. The police board thanked" Rev. London for his interest in the matter, but hinted that it would have been better if he had first reported law violations to the police instead of the newspapers.

Forced To Move

Rev. London said he was forced to move from his home to a hotel last Friday when the number of anonymous threats became quite disturbing." The police were still at his side when he appeared for his sermon Sunday and an overflow crowd was turned away from his church, which has a seating capacity of 900.

I'll place the blame," Rev. London warned as he disclosed that a poll of his crusade's popularity showed 90 percent of those queried in favor of it.

MEET THE MANAGER—Jewel Clifford Anderson, sr., owner and manager of Anderson Bros. Jewelers, was born in Bell county Sept. 16, 1894. His father moved to Lamesa in 1906 and he was educated in Lamesa schools. He worked on a farm and ranch until he was 20, when he went to St. Louis, Mo., with a load of cattle. There he went to watchmaking school. Returning to Lamesa, he did watch repair work in a drug store, leaving in 1917 to work for Mitchell-Greer, then the largest jeweler in Fort Worth. In 1920 he moved to Electra to open a jewelry store and stayed there three years. One day he told his wife he wanted to move to Lubbock, and they drove to Lubbock in a model T Ford to look the town over. In 1923, having sold their stock at Electra, they moved to Lubbock and Mr. Anderson was roofing their new home in 2400-block Thirteenth when the fire siren announced that Texas Tech would be located at Lubbock. He established his business in September, 1923, in the Citizens National bank building. He moved across the street from the present location later and in January, 1930, established the store at the present location, 1012 Broadway. About a year ago Mr. Anderson bought the interest of his brother, Clay Anderson, who now lives on a ranch at Durango, Colo. Mr. Anderson is a member of Broadway Church of Christ and Kiwanis club. His hobbies include hunting, fishing and photography. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson live at 3710 Twenty-fourth. They have two sons, Carroll and Gordon, who work in the store, and three daughters, Mrs. Dorman Igo, who works in the store; Mrs. Ben Appleton, whose husband operates Appleton Jewelry store in Midland; and Lola Jewel Anderson, an honor student at Senior High school. Tech Students Will Vote On Amendment

Students at Texas Tech will vote May 12 on a constitutional amendment which calls for appointment rather than election of the editors of both the Toreador, student newspaper, and La Ventana, student year book.

Under the present setup the offices are filled each year in the popular election which also serve to name other student officers for the following school year.

The amendment would provide for the publications committee at the college to name a student to the position. Decision to present the amendment to the student body for a vote came in a recent student council meeting.

A provision to allow graduate students the privilege of voting in all elections will also be on the ballot.

Defense Secretary Commends American Fliers On Lift Job

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson today congratulated the men of the Berlin airlift for carrying out "one of the greatest transportation feats in the history of the world."

He sent his praise for the "unified effort of members of all the armed services all over the world, the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Marine corps" through the military governor, Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

"For more than ten months of grueling operations," Johnson wrote, "United States planes flew more than 50 million miles along the air corridors into Berlin to feed, clothe and sustain a city of more than 2,000,000 people.

One Of Country's Great Victories

"Undaunted by time and weather, working hour after hour, day and night, you have demonstrated to the world unified American national defense in action. Your achievement takes its place beside the great American victories of all time.

"America is proud of you—of every one of you.

"In congratulating our own men, we are not overlooking the contributions made toward the success of the Berlin airlift by other occupying powers. It was an excellent demonstration of international teamwork."

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. F. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but wasn't losing much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 200 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back. Adv

DON'T BLAME YOUR INSURANCE AGENT!

If you were one of those who sustained damage in the recent hailstorm, and had the $100 deductible clause on your policy–DON'T BLAME YOUR INSURANCE AGENT. You may be sure your Agent would not have attached this clause had it not been a mandatory ruling of the Board of Insurance Commissioners, who promulgate the rules and regulations which must be complied with by all local Agents and Companies doing business in Texas.

On September 1st 1946 the Board of Insurance Commissioners adopted the mandatory $100 deductible clause as, definitely, the lesser of two evils, the alternative being to double the cost of your Extended Coverage insurance.

We wish we didn't have the $100 deductable clause, but it is much to be preferred to an increase in rate. After all, it is much more important to be protected against a catastrophe-loss at the present low rate than against minor losses at a much higher rate. We have been fortunate in this area in that there have been no wide-spread, severe storms since the adoption of the $100 deductible clause, consequently the difference between the present .42 dwelling Extended Coverage rate and the alternate .84 rate has resulted in a tremendous saving to the insurance-buying public.

Bachelor Cold Shoulders Girl After She Accepts Gift With Too Much Enthusiasm

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a college graduate and have a very fine position. Eighteen months ago my boss returned from the Army and our friendship began immediately. John is 34.

We met in the mornings, had luncheon together, had evening dates, and Sundays I spent with him and his mother. This continued for over six months, until one night he gave me a piece of costume jewelry, inexpensive but very pretty. I was so pleased that I exclaimed, "You must love me."

The next morning I was surprised to find that his attitude was completely aloof. He avoided me all day, and seemed very embarrassed when we had occasion to speak. This continued until our firm had an anniversary party; there he became his old cordial self, and invited me out a few times thereafter.

HAS GIRL BEEN SOMEHOW WRONG?

BUT now again he has retreated into aloofness. I ignore all this and always speak to him. He is gentlemanly, will always assist me in my work, or speak for me and back me up in it; but still he makes sure that we are never alone. Although his manner has hurt me I do not intend to resign my job.

Today his mother telephoned and asked me to have dinner with her. She remarked that John has become very quiet and spends all his evenings at home reading. He is too young to become settled, surely; so what has happened? Have I been wrong somehow? And should I accept the dinner invitation? Please advise—Signed E. D.

SHE WANTS MATE; MAN WANTS MOM

DEAR E. D.: John is 34 and still living at home with his mother, which suggests that he is conditioned to bachelordom; that he is, in short, a perennial Mom's boy.

If such is the case, he probably would tend unconsciously to develop attachment to a substitute-Mom in his business life, too, if any prepossessing prospect seemed encouraging. And that's where you came in, I fancy; because I gather you are his secretary.

Years ago some writer — Faith Baldwin, I think — coined the term "office wife" to epitomize a man's devoted secretary. But of course if the boss is a bachelor and skittish of marrying, the ideal secretary for him is an "office Mom," — and I figure John unconsciously cast you in that role as friendship started.

HER EMOTIONAL GRAB DISCONCERTED BOSS

THUS we may surmise that you completely exploded his sense of ease when you cried coquettishly, "You must love me," as he treated you to a modest gift—an item equally suitable for his mother, perhaps. After that he was on the run, backing away from a trap that he hadn't sensed or foreseen before.

You made him sex-conscious, and such consciousness vaguely embarrasses and offends a Momtied bachelor, and causes him to stiffly sidestep the woman who tries to involve him in reciprocal awareness on that score.

Overtly he-man, inwardly childish, John just wanted a friendly woman companion, who had no intentions beyond the agreeably shared hour who spoke his language, echoed his views, looked at his problems through his eyes, etc., and generally eased his essential loneliness, without "getting close." And that, I venture, is the illusion you spoiled when you made an emotional grab at him.

If you find John's mother congenial, enjoy her home or like her cooking, I'd say accept the dinner invitation and never mind what John may think. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Lubbock Evening Journal.

On Jungfrau Tour Of Alps

Lakes Of Thun And Brienz Inspired Byron, Goethe

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Another article from Switzerland written by Margaret Turner, vacationing Woman's Editor of Lubbock Avalanche and Journal publications, is published today.)

INTERLAKEN—If you have done the Jungfrau tour, you know the best that the Alps can offer, we were told when we arrived at this little mountain resort town in Switzerland. Well, after having done the tour, we don't know whether it's the best the Alps have to offer, but certainly it is the highest.

We spent the most of the morning going through the mighty realm, looking out on the majestic grandeur of the Alps, combined with the gentler beauty of the farming country. The dairy herds are sleek, fat cows of a brown deeper than jerseys and not so dark as our white-faced cattle. After the guide had praised the herds and told of the great dairying business in Switzerland, Miss Ford (being from a cattle kingdom, herself) asked the name of the cows.

One could almost see the Swiss' mind at work as he turned to her with a thoughtful expression, frowned slightly and then answered brightly, "We call these here brown cows."

THE trip was made by fast electric cog train and we changed at two stations before getting on the Jungfrau railway that took us to 11,399 feet. The latter part of the journey was made through a tunnel over four miles long cut straight through the mountain. Since none of the three of us particularly enjoyed the long ride on the rails cut straight through the mountain, we were glad to have our attention turned to the other passengers, who included Swi skiers and mountain climbers, chatting excitedly away in French. The trip ended in disappointment for them, however, because the day was heavily overcast and they were unable to enjoy their mountain sports.

We ate lunch at Jungfraujoch hotel and stepped out on the balcony to gaze into extensive snow fields and to have flurries of snow blown in our faces by a brisk wind. If the day had been clear and, we had been inclined, we could have gone into the snow fields on sledges drawn by Eskimo dogs. We did descend 66 feet and explored the subterranean ice palace, carved from eternal ice. On the ceiling are painted the flags of the United States, Great Britain and France and that sight was the only warmth in the place, which was ten degrees below zero.

The return trip was as interesting as the way up. Thousands of crocus bloomed in the fields; the sun came through the heavy clouds at intervals and the brown cows winded down the paths, their heavy bells clanging in the clean air. Our return passengers included two young Australian pilots, based in Germany and on a holiday to the Alps and a couple from India, she in native dress, made of chiffon, topped by a polo hat, and her husband in an American business suit.

INTERLAKEN is between the lakes of Thun and Brienz and their beauty inspired such poets as Byron and Goethe to some of their best writing. It is thoroughly modern and most of its shops, stores and hotels were built with the tourist and his dollar in mind. Many of the larger hotels are closed at this time, being readied for the summer trade.

Our hotel, the Belvedere, was built two years ago and is a handsome structure, equipped with functional furniture, the first we have seen during our stay in Europe The employes speak French, in contrast to those at Lucerne and Zurich, who speak German Swiss.

WE arrived on Sunday and promptly at II o'clock presented ourselves at the door of an English church. However the service had been held earlier and we found the church empty. We then joined the Sunday strollers on the main street. Entire families were walking together; the girls wearing their hair in long braids tied with large ribbons, the young boys in short, straight trousers or knickerbockers. The women were cleanly but not stylishly dressed but all of them seemed very happy in the bright warmth of the early spring. Most of the people carried clumps of wild flowers.

Dozens of young people rushed down the streets on bicycles; some of the girls appearing quite graceful in black skirts and handsome blouses. We were told there are 4,000,000 residents in Switzerland and 2,000,000 bicycles. It's easy to believe that when you see cyclists in every direction.

The terrace at the Belvedere is a mass of blooming white and red tulips, bordered by clumps of forget-me-nots and geraniums. The Swiss flag, a white cross on a red field, floats on a high standard above the flowers and adding to the color are tables over which are placed striped umbrellas. It would be difficult to imagine a more colorful spot in the world.

Oil Taken By Well Burglars

Add unusual burglary entrances:

The sheriff's department was informed by R. E. Jones of Lubbock that the irrigation wellhouse of his farm was entered by intruders who inched their way in through wellpipe.

Taken from the place, he said, was 34 quarts of oil.

Burglary of servants quarters at the rear of 2703 Nineteenth, in which money and property amounting to $168 were taken, was under investigation of police.

Mrs. J. T. Krueger, who telephoned police, said the quarters was occupied by a negro woman, Lula Mae Gentry.

Entrance to the residence was through a bathroom window, investigators found, and missing were a woman's $90 wrist watch, a man's $75 wrist watch and $3 in cash. The man's wrist watch was later recovered, police rewas later recovered where it had been pawned, but no arrest had

Tools Are Missing

R. C. Howard of Idalou, who is employed here by an auto supply company, told police that a tool box containing mechanics tools valued at about $400 had been lost or stolen from the trunk of his car. He offered a reward for their safe return.

A bike was reported stolen from the 2822 East Ave. L residence of Rev. O. D. Hollums, the sheriff's department was informed.

A resident of 2400-block Seventh street found that policemen, like elephants, have long memories where they were personally involved in an altercation.

Patrolmen Ira Scott and J. D. Atchison, who answered a disturbance call Tuesday night at the Seventh street address, alleged on police reports that they were cursed by the man who stood within the safety of his own home.

The irate policemen returned to the man's house Wednesday night with a warrant charging abusive language. The defendant pleaded guilty to the charge and paid a $50 fine, corporation court records showed.

City and state police this morning continued looking for a Morton man who was reported missing somewhere between Morton and Rising Star in Eastland county.

Roy Hickman, 42—described as 5 feet 7 inches tall, 135 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes—left Morton Monday enroute to Rising Star. He was driving a light gray Pontiac coach, Texas license AL 7444, and was believed to have been carrying a large sum of money. Relatives, when it was found he had not reached his destination at the expected time, feared foul play and called authorities.

He had been expected to stop in Lubbock and seek passengers at a travel bureau for the remainder of the trip, officers were informed.

Better Watch Those Postholes; Y'Never Know What's Next

Police said nothing like this case probably has happened here — unless it was when some fellow several months ago dug up and got away with several hundred feet of gas and water lines, only to be caught later and required to replace the property.

A concrete driveway on a lot at the southeast corner of Ave. Q and Eighteenth street was reported last night to have been stolen.

F. E. Duncan, who gave his address as a local hotel, said that two 25-foot strips of concrete, each 18 inches wide, had been removed from the lot. The house, which once stood on the lot, had been moved away previously, police said they understood.

Police said they could only guess as to how or when the unwieldy and heavy pieces of concrete had been moved. But they intend to find out.

House Group Favors Canadian River Bill

WASHINGTON, May 5 (Special) The House public lands committee today reported favorably on a bill permitting a compact between Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma regarding division of Canadian River waters.

Introduced by Rep. Eugene Worley, of Shamrock, the bill is considered one of the preliminary steps in damming the Canadian to insure water for municipalities throughout the Panhandle, including Lubbock and Amarillo.

The proposal states the agreement must be entered into not later than June 30, 1953. It provides that one suitable person shall be named by the president from the Department of Interior as U. S. representative, who will report proceedings to Congress.

The compact shall not be binding unless ratified by the legislatures of the three states.

1911 Avalanche Is Found In Building

Workmen tearing brick and stone columns from the front of the First National bank building Wednesday came across a 1911 edition of the Lubbock Avalanche and the bank's president, Walter S. Posey was exhibiting it to old timers today.

The paper was deposited in one of the columns by W. M. Crawford, who owned a drug store next door to the bank at the time. Mr. Crawford recalled today having deposited the paper in the column when the bank building was under construction. The paper, in good condition, bore a pencilled signature of Mr. Crawford and the date, Sept. 27, 1911.

Tearing down of the columns is a portion of the remodeling job going on at the bank. A complete new exterior of tile is being put on the building. Interior remodeling is also being made.

Officers Can't Find Anyone Missing, Say 'Kidnaping' Mistake

Officers, dubious Wednesday, were convinced this morning that no one has been kidnaped here.

A farmer living south of Lubbock told police that a man carrying one or two moneybags had been forced into a black car Wednesday morning by two unidentified men who clapped their hands over his mouth and sped away. The report could have grown out of a "misconception," officials said.

The report further said license plates on the car were covered with brown paper.

The incident happened on Main, near the Santa Fe depot, officers were told.

Capt. Bob Crowder of the Texas Rangers headquarters here Wednesday night informed Col. Homer Garrison, head of the state highway patrol, that "if nothing turns up by morning we will probably write off the report as a hoax. If someone had been kidnaped we should have a report of his being missing by then."

Secretary Brannan Will Take Papier-Mache Donkey To HST

Weather, Food Big Problem As Democrats Speed Final Plans For Barbecue Saturday

When Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan returns to Washington after speaking at the Democratic $10-a-plate barbecue at Texas Tech Saturday night, he'll take along a papier-mache donkey to be presented to President Truman.

The donkey is being made by students of the commercial art department of Texas Tech and will be presented to Sec. Brannon by Jay Taylor, prominent Amarillo business man and political leader, at Saturday night's barbecue.

Presentation of the donkey, symbol of the Democratic party, will be one of the varied events enlivening the virtual three-ring political circus at the barbecue to be highlighted by Sec. Brannan's speech.

More Food Slated

Members of the local arrangements committee today were beginning to worry about a number of things.

First, they started wrinkling their brows over the weather and secondly if the weather is clear, they're worrying about whether or not they'll have enough food for the 1,500 or more persons which present indications point as attendance at the affair.

They're going to take care of food worries by instructing the Lubbock Lions club to prepare for at least 2,000 persons, so there'll be assurance of food for everybody.

As for the weather, that is the reason the affair was scheduled in the Tech gymnasium, so that if the weather turns bad, the barbecue can be served inside instead of outside.

Ticket Sales Brisk

In the meantime, ticket sales for the barbecue continued at a brisk pace, both in Lubbock and over West Texas. Reports continue to come in from county chairmen indicating attendance from a wide area of the state.

"It looks like there will be larger contributions and more people from Fort Worth than from Lubbock," Robert Howard, chairman of the local ticket sales committee, declared this morning. Howard said his teams had reported sale of less than 300 tickets for the barbecue.

Sec. Brannan and a party of Texas Congressmen and distinguished persons will arrive here at about noon Saturday after a stop Friday at Waco. Brannan is scheduled to address a farm meeting at McGregor Friday.

In the party, being arranged by Arch S. Underwood, Lubbock compress owner and political leader, will be: Rep. Geo. Mahon, who will introduce Sec. Brannan at the barbecue here; and Reps. W. R. Poage, Waco; Omar Burleson, Anson; Ed Gossett, Wichita Falls; Clark Fisher, San Angelo; Eugene Worley, Shamrock; and Antonio E. Fernandez, Santa Fe, N. M., and Ralph Triff, director of the Production and Marketing administration; William J. Neal, assistant chief of the Rural Electrification administration; Harrington Wimberly, vice chairman of the Federal Power administration; Chief Judge Marvin Jones of the U. S. bruises. His co-pilot, Lt. William Black of Stockton, Calif., was released after treatment for minor injuries. Six other Air Force men were aboard, but escaped injury, the United Press reported.

Also at Amarillo, an automobile went out of control during the storm and crashed into a group of six persons walking home from church. The occupants of the car —two men, abandoned the vehicle and police began a search. Two of the six persons injured, Angel Gonzales and Isabel Solis, were hospitalized.

Anxious For Sunshine

South Plains farmers were more anxious for sunshine than rain today, so they may complete preplanting work and may plant cotton.

The cotton planting time for the majority of farmers in the area is from May 10 to 20, said Don L. Jones, experiment station superintendent.

Jones said the outlook from the standpoint of soil moisture is "excellent for this time of year."

Other points on the South Plains shared in Wednesday night's precipitation. Ralls reported 1.05 rain was received. Wind was strong there most of the time. Rain apparently was general in that vicinity.

Reports From Lamesa

From Lamesa, information was received this morning that precipitation measurement was .09 inch and that heavier rain estimated at about one-half inch was received at Munger, 12 miles northwest of Lamesa. Moisture up to one inch was estimated in Hancock vicinity, eight miles northeast of Lamesa. Light showers were received in the east part of the county. Wind was high. No hail was received.

Reports had been received earlier of rainfall at Littlefield, Muleshoe, Denver City, Plainview, Levelland, Brownfield and other towns in the area.

The weather station north of Lubbock reported winds Wednesday reached 37 miles an hour sustained velocity, with occasional guests reaching 50 miles an hour.

Early Morning Reports

Early morning rain and thundershowers were reported in the area from Big Spring ot Midland and around Childress and Clarendon, farther north, the United Press reported.

Lightning at the peak of the Amarillo storm knocked out radio KFDA-FM's transmitter, and it was still off the air today.

Wheat Under Water

Near Friona, in Parmer county, 1,500 acres of wheat were inundated, and there was speculation that the damage would be heavy—from debris piled up in the fields if not from the water itself.

Texas' official rainfall totals for the 24 hour period ending this morning, as reported by the U. S. weather bureau at Dallas, included: Amarillo and Clarendon, .48 inch; Childress, .35, and Dalhart, .23.

Yesterday afternoon's temperatures ranged from 95 at Laredo and Presidio down to 73 at Lubbock. Overnight, the range was from 73 at Galveston to 55 at Amarillo.

Fresh to strong south winds, up to 25 miles per hour, played across the state this morning, and the weather bureau charts showed a low pressure system that had been stabilized over northern New Mexico, southern Colorado and central Nebraska moving, with a 'cold" front toward the Texas Panhandle at about 15 miles per hour.

It was this combination that pointed to stormy conditions in the western section during the afternoon and night. The low pressure area was expected to reach the Panhandle during the afternoon.

Lawyers Jailed

liff, Dep. Sheriff F. R. Land, to call the defendant's name and if the defendant was present to let it be known. When the bailiff called the name of the defendant, Burks simultaneously leaned over to a negro man seated by him (at the counsel table) and no one responded to the bailiff's call."

Carr and McNeil completed their examination of the jury panel, it was related. The jury was retired to the jury room. The court then ordered Burks again to advise the court whether the defendant was present, and Burks refused, it further was related in the commitment order. The court then asked McNeil the question, and McNeil also declined to advise the court, it was explained.

"Whereupon the court asked the negro seated at the counsel table with Burks and McNeil whether he was Sidney Hall, and immediately Burks whispered something to the said negro and made a movement with his hands; whereupon the said negro refused to answer the order of the court."

Again Refuse To Answer

Judge Davies, the order continued, tried once more, but both attorneys refused to answer the court's order.

It was then that the court ordered that Burks and McNeil were "each and severally" guilty of a contempt by "misbehavior in its presence and by a willful resistance in the presence of the court to a lawful order . . ."

The court ordered that each be confined in the county jail for one day as punishment, and ordered the clerk of the court to issue a writ commanding the sheriff to take the attorneys in custody and restrain them until the day was served, or until further order of the court.

"No Comment," Says Burks

"No comment," Burks said when newsmen visited him and McNeil as they ate their lunch with Sheriff Harrist in the jail kitchen.

Neither was under formal commitment at that time.

"Me too," McNeil said.

Both were laughing and attacking their food with evident enjoyment.

They had macaroni and cheese, coffee and milk, sliced bread, blackeyed peas and, for dessert, canned sliced peaches. Harrist had even thoughtfully provided a tablecloth for the men.

Both shook their heads when asked if they would pose for pictures.

"See My Lawyer"

"I'll talk with you off the record, of course," Burks said. "Long as you like, as usual. But there's a legal adage that goes something like, 'A lawyer who undertakes to represent himself represents a fool.' I'd prefer that you see my lawyer."

Who was his lawyer?

No comment except, "This food surely is good."

McNeil, looking like he'd had enough to eat, watched Burks lift a forkful then essayed another bite himself.

Blair, as counsel, was conferring at 2 p. m. with Clifford Brown, associate member of the firm of Burks and McNeil

Was In Courtroom

Blair said he was in the courtroom when the climactic action took place.

"It was about three minutes until noon," he said. "Mr. Burks, according to my conception of the facts in the case that was being tried before Judge Davies, was within his rights in efforts to represent his client's interests in not acceding to the court's order. Identity of the defendant has peculiar bearing in this case, since the state seeks to prove two final convictions in similar cases against a man named Sidney Hall. Mr. Burks was merely taking the position that there were other methods available to the state in proving identity."

Tech Official Is Luncheon Speaker

"There is too much evidence of spiritual shriveling-up in individual Americans," Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president of Texas Tech told the Kiwanis club at noon today.

"The average citizen today wants too much of the tangible and material comforts and is overlooking the importance of spiritual freedom," Dr. Jones added.

The speaker and his subject were brought before the club as part of a "Spiritual Aims" program sponsored by the Kiwanis.

Dr. Jones delved into the historical background of nations that grew to great power and then collapsed because they lost sight of the spirit and dignity of the individual and sought material power.

"Rome collapsed because of internal decay," Dr. Jones said. "That is the danger we have to recognize and prevent in our own country today. Democracy must return to its basic fundamental which was established by Christ, the dignity of individual man."

Bob Rose made a brief announcement in which he urged the Kiwanis club to get behind the efforts of "Clean-Up Week" so that Lubbock county continue to be called the "cleanest city."

Cold War

victory for the West in this fight would shatter the iron curtain, for eastern Europe traditionally leans heavily on Germany for supplies it cannot get from Russia.

This phase opens at Paris May 23. Some American officials in Germany expect the Russians then will shift from a policy of obstruction to one of foxy cooperation designed to give them the strongest voice possible in a central government of a unified Germany.

The Russians already have indicated what they want in Germany: unification of the country with heavy representative for the Communists, modification of Allied control of the Ruhr, an early end to military occupation.

End Of Blockade Blues

For Berlin, the agreement means the end of the blockade blues. The population has struggled for almost a year with little heat, insufficent food, darkened streets and darkened homes.

Meanwhile, the planners of the west German republic are going ahead with the final drafting of a constitution. The West has given no indication of willingness to abandon that idea. It will be on the agenda of the Big Four at Paris.

The restrictions in Berlin began in March, 1948, when the Russians placed hampering regulations on rail traffic. On June 24, the blockade became complete, and soon thereafter the western counter-blockade was in effect. The Russians blamed western currency actions; the West replied that the real purpose was to squeeze the U. S., France and Britain out of Berlin.

Bawling Bossy Is A Pain To Owner

COLUMBUS, O., May 5 (AP) Dairy husbandry men of Ohio state university and the Ohio agricultural experiment station had a problem today.

An Ohio farm wife posed the problem in a letter to-wit:

"Dear sirs:

"Please wirte and tell me what you can do with a damn cow that has all the grass she can eat, all the water she wants to drink, and is bred, that just stands and bawls and bawls until she just about drives you nuts.

"She doesn't have a thing to bawl about that I can see."

Gravely Ill Girl Gets Watermelons

SWEETWATER May 5 (AP) — The watermelon 15-year-old Wanda Jean Fields has been wanting "so bad I've been tasting it for two weeks" is at her house.

The school girl, gravely ill with cancer, received three watermelons last night. It was the result of a neighbor who heard of her wants.

Doctors say Wanda Jean hasn't long to live.

F. O. Gurley, the neighbor, asked airport manager Hubert Pollard for help in finding the watermelons. He, in turn, asked Pioneer Airlines office in Houston for aid.

Jack Kemp a Pioneer official, found the watermelons in a produce house.

The melons were rushed to Wanda Jean's house as soon as the plane arrived here.

Phils Down Cardinals, 7 To 5

Johnny Sain Hurls Braves To 4-3 Triumph Over Chicagoans

(By The Associated Press)

Phillies win five straight from Dodgers and Cardinals! That should rate a 2-gun salute and five-year contract for Manager Eddie Sawyer.

Hardly a man is still alive who remembers any such antics by the Phils. For years they were the doormats of the National league. Now, instead of the futile, they're the Fighting Phils.

When the Phils acquired Eddie Waitkus and Bill Nicholson last December, the word went around, "if they only had some pitching." Sawyer has uncovered a one-man staff in Ken Heintzelman.

Ever since he hit the majors at Pittsburgh in 1938, the slender lefty never has been over the .500 mark. Now he's 4-0 for the new season.

Trinkle Stops Rally

The 33-year-oldster from Missouri has "arrived" with two victories over Brooklyn one over Boston and a decision over the St. Louis Cards.

Ken needed help last night to get past St. Louis when two walks an error and a double by Marty Marion put him in a hole in the ninth. Ken Trinkle finally put out the uprising after three runs scored, leaving the Phils with a 7-5 edge.

As a result of the second straight decision over the Cards the Phils have moved from the cellar to a fourth-place tie, only two games off the pace. They're even talking pennant around Shibe park.

Sain Notches Win

Johnny Sain came through with another complete winning game to make the Boston Braves look more like the club that won the 1948 pennant.

Sain was superb until the seventh, when he lost control of his curve. Chicago scored two runs and another in the eighth, but the Braves' four-run first inning attack on Dutch Leonard stood up for a final 4-3 edge.

Leo Durocher returned from his five-day suspension by Commissioner A. B. Chandler and things got back to normal at the Polo grounds. Johnny Mize hit a home run. So did Sid Gordon and Bobby Thomson as the New York Giants walloped Pittsburgh, 11-4.

Brooklyn belted over its "cousins" from Cincinnati, 5-1, with Joe Hatten doing the honors. Catcher Roy Campnella, now leading the league with a .469 average chipped in with two hits. He has hit safely in the last 10 Dodger games.

Nats Hammer Chisox

American league hitters gave the fences another workout, smashing 13 homers in four games. Comiskey park again took the worst pasting.

The weak (?) Washington hitters hammered three homers to nip the Chicago White Sox, 8-7. But not until Floyd Baker the Sox third baseman, hit the first home run of his seven-year major league career.

It was 7-5 Chicago going to the ninth. Reliefer Ernie Groth fed a home run ball to Ed Stewart and it was 7-6. Eddie Robinson was hit by a pitched ball and then Mark Christman swatted his third homer in three games to give Walt Masterson his first '49 decision.

Joe Gordon hit two into the stands and Dale Mitchell and Mickey Vernon each banged one to account for all the runs of Cleveland's 4-3 nod over Philadelphia. Gene Bearden, with bullpen help from Al Benton, hung up his third straight win at the expense of Dick Fowler.

Vic Raschi and Virgil Trucks earned their fourth straight victories for New York and Detroit, respectively. Raschi breezed past St. Louis, 10-5, on a 15-hit Yankee attack led by Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman. Trucks turned back Boston with three hits as Detroit clubbed Mickey Harris for a 5-1 edge.

Lubbock Keglers In Top Tourney Spots

As a sidelight to the West Texas-New Mexico Bowling tournament the past two weeks, Plamor Lanes has been holding a ragtime doubles tournament for the keglers.

Total entries in the doubles play has reached 298, and the prize fund to date is at $596. An individual bowler may enter more than once, but he must have a different partner each time he enters. Ben Brown of Lubbock is in six places in the standings.

Out of town bowlers have not been very enthusiastic about the doubles play, and most of those entered are from Lubbock and Amarillo.

Following are the standings, and 10 places will be paid cash prizes.

The standings in the Ragtime Doubles include B. Brown-Daniels (Lubbock), 1,275; B. Brown-T. I. Brown (Lubbock), 1,255; Carter-Jenkins (Lubbock), 1,239; B. Brown - Buckola (Lubbock-Amarillo), 1,236; B. Brown - Buckner (Lubbock), 1,226; Christensen-Higgs (Lubbock-Amarillo), 1,223; B. Brown-Nelms (Lubbock), 1,220; Young - Langley (Lubbock-Amarillo), 1,218; B. Brown-Byors (Lubbock - Amarillo), 1,217; O'Keefe-Langley (Lubbock Amarillo), 1,202.

SAN ANTONIO EDGES TULSA

Dallas Eagles Top Exporters, 8 To 5

(By The United Press)

The time-honored phrase about "the fat growing fatter, and the lean leaner" fitted the Texas league to a T today as the top three clubs in the circuit thrived on new victories.

The sensational Dallas Eagles, losers of only three games in 21 starts, defeated fifth place Beaumont, 8 to 5, last night. But the victory wasn't as easy as the score indicates.

Dallas had to score four runs in the ninth and use three pitchers to whip the unexpectedly tough Exporters. The heavy-hitting Eagles garnered 13 base hits, but they weren't too timely until the final inning when Blas Monaco tripled to drive in three tallies.

Missions Nose Tulsa

San Antonio, meanwhile, nosed out Tulsa 2 to 0 in a pitchers duel to remain 3 (AP) games behind the Eagles.

The Missions pushed the big two runs across the plate in the third inning at the expense of Dave Jolly, who lost the nod although allowing only seven hits.

At Shreveport, the third-place Sports had a slightly easier time of it as they downed Fort Worth 6 to 3 and gave Fred Baczewski his third victory of the year against no losses.

The home run bat of Shreveport First Baseman Les Burge remained red hot as he powered out the only four-base blow of the night in the league.

Indians Drop Buffs

The Oklahoma City Indians, definitely on the war path after a miserable early season, dropped the Houston Buffs 2 to 0.

George Anderman was in fine fettle as he allowed Houston only five hits and pitched Oklahoma City to within slightly less than one game of the seventh-place Buffs.

Oklahoma City can pass Houston tonight by downing the Buffs once again in the Bayou city.

Dallas plans to start Rube Fisher (3-0) at Beaumont against Carl Ray (2-2).

Shreveport, again host to Fort Worth, has nominated Bob Hacker (1-9) to oppose Eddie Chandler, newly returned from Brooklyn.

Tulsa's Bud Byerly (1-3) is slated to be on the mound at San Antonio against Frank Biscan (2-1).

Ben Hogan's Golf Future Uncertain

DALLAS, May 5. (AP)—Ben Hogan, golf's little giant, said today there were three major obstacles in the way of his return to the game as a competitor.

They are: A fractured ankle, a cracked collar bone and a case of nerves. He isn't sure which is the biggest obstacle but said he was mighty hopeful he could lick all three.

The 1948 National Open and National PGA champion is attending his first golf meet since a bus-auto crash three months ago almost took his life. He is a spectator at the Texas PGA.

Scotch Foursome Is Scheduled Friday

A Scotch foursome will be a regular Friday feature at Lubbock County club beginning tomorrow for men and women golfers.

In this type match men and women are paired and compete against other teams. Pairings will be made every Friday before starting at approximately 4 p. m. and one-ball play will be held.

Following the rounds, the golfers will have supper at the club.

Heading the committee for the Scotch foursome is Mr. and Mrs. Chick Trout.

TCU BEATS SMU

FORT WORTH, May 5 (AP) — Netters from Texas Christian university defeated Southern Methodist university 6-0 here yesterday.

MEET SET TODAY

WACO, May 5 (AP)—A triangular track meet here today brings together athletes from Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Baylor.

Track Squad Leaves Today

A five-man track squad left Lubbock High school for Austin early this morning to compete in the state track meet at Memorial stadium on the campus of the University of Texas.

Sponsored by the University Texas Interscholastic League, the meet is in its thirty-ninth year. Track and field preliminaries begin Friday morning in all events except the mile run. Pole vault finals are scheduled for Class A schools Friday morning. Friday after noon finals include broad jump, Class B pole vault, and the discus throw.

More than 500 Texas schoolboys, the cream of the 1949 crop of tracksters, will vie for titles at the big show at Memorial stadium May 6-7. Five Westerners will be among those entered.

Donald Decker, Malcolm Young, Charlie Williams, Wayne Stroud, and Alfred Adair will make the trip. Cecill Caddell was scheduled to go, but he will stay in Lubbock with a sore arm. Coach Fred Brown and Manager Davis Hopper will accompany the boys.

Decker will enter the 100-yard dash, 200-yard low hurdles, and run the anchor leg of the 440-yard relay. Williams will compete in the century, 220-yard dash, broad jump, and on the relay team. Young will enter the 220 dash and run on the sprint relay team. Stroud will complete the relay quartet. Adair will compete in the pole vault and high jump.

It is doubtful that any first places will be won by the local trackmen, but several places could go to the small team entered in the state meet. Decker and Williams have run good times in the dashes, with Williams running the 220, and Decker has shown lots of promise in the low hurdles. If Adair is in form he could place easily in the pole vault. The chances in the 440-yard relay will depend on the handoffs.

Lamesa Shades Hubs

Loboes Notch 15-13 Victory

(By The Associated Press)

Abilene's Blue Sox racked up their fifth straight West Texas-New Mexico League victory Wednesday and moved into third place after climbing from the cellar in five days.

Previously, Abilene had lost five straight. It is now four and a half games behind the loop-leading Borger Gassers.

The Blue Sox victory last night came at the expense of the Pampa Oilers, 9 to 1.

Lamesa Edges Lubbock

In the only other game of the night, Lamesa broke a four-game losing streak with a 15 to 13 decision over Lubbock in a slugfest marked by an eighth inning scrap.

The Clovis-at-Borger game was called in the third because of rain and the Albuquerque-at-Amarillo tilt was called in the second for the same reason.

Borger remains in the top spot, a scant half game ahead of Albuquerque.

The Abilene Blue Sox jumped on Southpaw Roy Parker for all kinds of hits for their victory. Bobby Fernandez, Abilene leftfielder, led the attack with four consecutive singles.

Rain Saves Borger

Lamesa's win broke a four-game victory streak for Lubbock. Lubbock Manager Jackie Sullivan and Lamesa Pitcher Stan Grzywacz were ejected from the game in the eighth after a scuffle at second base involving most of the members of both teams.

Rain saved the Borger Gassers from possible loss at the hands of Clovis. Clovis had 10 runs off five hits in three full innings. Borger had three runs off five hits in 2 2/3 innings.

The Amarillo-Albuquerque tilt was tied up 3-3 when it was called.

SULLIVAN AND GRZYWACZ EJECTED AFTER ENCOUNTER

LAMESA, May 5. (Special)—If the grandstand isn't filled here tonight for the Lamesa-Lubbock game, it won't be the fault of Lubbock Manager Jackie Sullivan and Lamesa Pitcher Stan Grzywacz.

Both players were ejected from the game here last night by Umpire Charles A. Crain, after he and Umpire Henry A. Binz had broken up one of the few first-flight fights to occur in the West Texas-New Mexico League in a long time.

Happened In Eighth

It all happened in the eighth inning, when Lamesa had men on first and third. Hank Mellilo made a rolling slide into Sullivan, who dropped a double-play throw from Nelson Davis.

Sullivan and Mellilo began to scuffle and players from both teams rushed on the field. Before the players were separated, Sullivan gave Grzywacz, who had hit him with a pitched ball earlier in the game, a solid right to the head.

As a result, a capacity and overflow crowd is expected for tonight's final of the two-game series.

Rookie Charles Willis will do the starting chores for Lubbock, with Lefty Leon Hayes (2-0) pitching for Lamesa.

AGGIES WIN MEET

DENTON, May 5 (AP)—Texas A. and M. won a triangular track meet with East Texas State and North Texas State easily here yesterday. The Aggies scored 85 points to 59 for North Texas and 16 for East Texas.

Football's longest run was chalked up by Wyllys Terry of Yale in 1884—115 yards. The field at the time was 110 yards long.

Kasaboski, Fenton Take Mat Feature

Matches lived up to expectations of the fans at Sled Allen's wrestling arena last night, and Alex Kasaboski and Rod Fenton defeated George Dusette and George Curtis after three falls.

The first fall went to the winning team in 13 minutes when Kasaboski put a punishing arm lock and stomp on Curtis. But Dusette stopped the Russian in the second fall with a full Nelson in two minutes.

The third fall was a humdinger, and Kasaboski and Dusette put on a good show. Dusette lived up to his advance billing by breaking several holds that are usually match-winners. In breaking a full Nelson put on him by Kasaboski, Kasaboski was thrown clear across the ring. But Fenton won the match in 17 minutes with a full body press on Dusette to take the match.

In the first event Danno McDonald stopped Steve Nenoff after three falls in another top bout. McDonald was the younger of the two and won the match largely on his youth although Nenoff is still a very fast grappler.

The baldheaded Nenoff took the first fall with a whirling arm stretch in 14 minutes, but McDonald came back to take the next two falls and win the match.

By employing a crucifix backbreaker, McDonald won the second setto, and he used the same hold to take the last in seven minutes.

Golfers from Southern Conference schools will meet in the league tournament at Winston Salem, N. C., May 13 and 14.

Lobo Fielder Is Suspended

LAMESA, May 5. (Special) — A 10-day suspension for violation of training rules was slapped on Rightfielder Leo Rheingans of the Lamesa Loboes by Manager Jay Haney.

Rheingans sat out the final game of the two-game series against Abilene Tuesday night and was missing from the lineup again last night. Pitchers Lynn Selbo and Stan Grzywacz, who beat the Hubbers last night, probably will alternate in rightfield.

Drafted From Odessa

The suspended outfielder was drafted from Odessa of the Longhorn League during the winter. He has been playing regularly since the season started. His suspension is in line with Haney's announced intention of having a hustling ball club.

Haney also announced the release of one player and the option of two others as the Loboes got withing the league's 16-player limit.

Righthander Larry Williams and Catcher Bart Burleson both rookies, have been optioned for the season to Ballinger of the Longhorn loop. Tyler Pryor, rookie twirler, was released outright.

BOB GERMAN TO REPORT BACK TO GOLD SOX NINE

AMARILLO, May 5. (AP) — Bob German, lefthanded pitcher who was obtained from Little Rock of the Southern Association in a 1948 post-season deal but was drafted from the Gold Sox almost immediately thereafter, is expected to report back to Amarillo today.

German was tendered to the Sox by the Boston Braves organization, which selected him through its Pawtucket subsidiary in the Class B New England league. He has been with Jackson of the Southeastern league this spring.

A limited-service player, he was a 20-14 winner for El Dorado of the Class C Cotton States league in 1947, though his team finished with a percentage only of .469. At Little Rock last year, he was used in relief roles.

Two Southwest Loop Games Slated Today

(By The Associated Press)

Two Southwest conference baseball games are scheduled today and their important to two contestants—Texas and Texas A. & M.

The University of Texas Longhorns are host to Southern Methodist at Austin and Texas A. and M. invades Fort Worth to meet Texas Christian.

Texas and A. and M. are in the thick of the conference title chase. A loss today for either could mean a lot of lost hope.

Good Golf Swing Is Essential

By BEN HOGAN

CHAPTER XI

Now, It's Up To You

When Willie Turnesa won the 1947 British Amateur Championship any number of golfers expressed surprise that he could do so well in a major championship when he had had so little chance to play competitive golf during the four years he was in the Navy. The answer is, of course, that once you have a good golf swing you will always be able to play good golf, provided you get a chance to practice sufficiently before engaging in competition.

Willie was able to regain his form very quickly once he began practicing because he has always had one of the best swings in the amateur ranks. His success is additional proof that it is worthwhile for a golfer to forget about his scoring while he is learning to play the game and to concentrate on developing his swing.

Once you have developed a good golf swing and acquired the knowledge of how to make the most of it nobody can take it away from you. Eventually you will be able to score well enough to make all the trouble you had acquiring a good swing worthwhile.

Golfers have been known to score well without ever learning how to swing correctly. Sooner or later, however, their game catches up with them and they're not able to shoot those good rounds any more. For instance, I know of one former winner of championship events who now has trouble breaking eighty. His unorthodox swing has caught up with him and it is now too late for him to start learning the game over again with any idea of making the most of it in tournament competition.

Bobby Jones still has the same sweet swing which characterized his game when he was the boy wonder of golf. Of course, he isn't as keen competitively as he was when he was the King of the Links, but he can still cut loose occasionally with a sub-par round or two, no matter how hot the competition may be.

The time to learn to groove your swing and organize your game is when you are on the practice tee. That's the place to start setting up the rhythm of each shot so that when you are confronted with the need to execute a similar shot during the course of a round you will automatically adopt the correct routine and rhythm without having to think about each step.

In using the word rhythm here I am not speaking entirely of the swing. The rhythm I have reference to here could also be described as the order of procedure. Walter Hagen was probably the greatest exponent of the kind of rhythm I have in mind to ever play golf.

Hagen took his own time doing things, but not one ever accused him of taking too much time during a round of golf. Walter might be late getting to the tee, but once he teed off he never wasted his own time or anyone else's.

When you practice go out on the tee with a purpose in mind, not just for exercise. You'll get the exercise anyhow and with a definite purpose in mind you will be adopting habits of concentration which will pay off when you actually play a round.

For instance, before you start allot yourself a definite time for practice. Plan in advance the kind of shots you are going to practice and how much time you are going to devote to each and stick to your schedule. I am a great believer in practice, but I am no longer able to spend as much time on the practice tee as I did when I first started playing tournament golf.

Speaking of practice, let me emphasize here that the golfers most in need of practice probably do the least. I have in mind the weekend golfers who, although they don't play enough to keep their muscles limber, go right out and start playing without warming up on the practice tee. As a contrast I don't know of a tournament golfer who would think of teeing off without warming up first, even for a practice round.

That's why, in most cases, even those week-end golfers familiar with the course score better on the back nine than they do on the front nine. It isn't that the back nine is any easier, they're just playing better because they have had a chance to warm up.

Sam Byrd, who played golf with Babe Ruth quite frequently while both were members of the famous New York Yankees, told me about a habit formed in baseball which Ruth brought over into the game of golf and which I think might well be adapted profitably by those who don't warm up on the practice tee before going out to play a round. I refer to Babe's habit of swinging two golf clubs while waiting his turn on the tee, just as he used to swing a couple of bats while waiting his turn at the plate.

Muscular freedom is probably more important in golf than in any other sport, but very few players take the trouble to get loosened up. My practice routine seldom varies. I start with the short clubs, usually a nine iron, and hit the ball easily.

Next take your eight iron and repeat the process. After which go up through your seven, six and five irons, increasing the length of your swing as the number of your club decreases.

In practicing with the wood clubs start in by using a spoon. Give yourself a good lie. It won't do any harm in this sort of practice if you tee the ball up. Use the driver last and only after you are satisfied with the results you have been getting from the other clubs.

Don't hit the ball at random. I pick out a spot in relation to the caddy each time and try to hit each shot exactly where I want it to go. While making the shot I consider the wind and any other factors prevailing that day and try to control every shot as if I were actually playing it during a round of a tournament.

While I am practicing I am also trying to develop my powers of concentration. I never just walk up and hit the ball. I decide in advance how I want to hit it and where I want it to go.

Try to shut out everything around you. Develop your ability to think only of how and where you want to hit the shot you are playing. If something disturbs my concentration while I am lining up a shot I start all over again.

An ability to concentrate for long periods of time while exposed to all sorts of distractions is invaluable in golf. Adopt the habit of concentrating to the exclusion of everything else while you are on the practice tee and you will find that you are automatically following the same routine while playing a round in competition.

Naturally, on the practice tee you don't get the variety of golfing problems you get in competition and it is more difficult to keep interested. My solution is to play each shot, as I told you before, as though it were part of an actual round.

For instance, one way in which I keep up my interest while practicing is by using my caddy as a target. I hit to the left of him, to the right of him and then I try to hit beyond him, planning each shot and repeating the process with each club. If the wind is blowing I try to play the ball into it so as to take advantage of it while still meantaining complete control of the ball. Try this routine and you will be surprised at how quickly it will help improve the command you have to each club. It also provides a good background of experience to draw upon in actual play.

While playing an actual round I sharpen up my concentrative powers and stimulate my interest in each shot by sizing it up as I walk up to where my ball lies. Make a habit of doing this and you will increase your powers of concentration threefold while also speeding up your play.

If you can't afford regular instruction one of the best methods of learning what constitutes good golfing form is to observe good golfers in action. At first the individual mannerisms of the players will cause their swings to appear different, but the important essentials will be identical.

Naturally, you have to have some idea of what to look for in advance when you watch these good golfers play in order to recognize it in rapid motion. For instance, all good players start the backswing back in a broad sweep. At first the head of the club will travel close to the ground. There is no suggestion that it is being picked up or lifted. In slow motion the action would appear to originate in the center of the player's body, and, following the turn of his hips, the club will be pushed back by the left side.

When watching the star golfers in action locate yourself at least part of the time behind them where you can easily see that the path of the clubhead never travels from the outside in. Unless the player is playing an intentional slice he will never allow his club to move out so far that it must approach the ball from outside of the line. Watch closely to see how this is made possible by initiating the downswing by the unwinding of the hips.

Note that good players don't throw the clubhead with the hands from the top of the swing, that their wrists remain cocked at almost the full angle until their hands have moved down approximately to the level of their waists. At the same time you will observe that the right elbow returns to the side of the body, almost as soon as the downswing gets underway.

Check them and you will find that good players hold themselves up to the ball, that they never fall back on their right leg. As a result their clubs never come up abruptly after striking the ball. In every case the arc of the swing is flat near the bottom as the clubhead goes out toward the hole. If an iron is used the turf is taken from in front of the original location of the ball.

Rhythm being important to golf, note that all of the good players display a somewhat similar rhythm. They have a leisurely backswing, an unhurried start down and smooth acceleration of the clubhead speed right up to the moment of impact with the ball.

Naturally, the most efficient way to improve your golf game is to take instructions from a competent professional. If you can afford it by all means take them, but give him a chance.

By that I mean sign up for a series of lessons rather than an occasional period of instruction. That's the way to convince your pro that you are serious in your desire to improve your game and are not just experimenting.

Listen to what your instructor has to say with an open mind. Don't bother to outline for him all the theories about the game you have acquired. He is probably more familiar with them than you are because, after all, golf is his business. Give him a chance to tell you his own ideas of how your game can be improved.

Probably the best way to make him acquainted with your game at the outset is to play a round of golf with him. However, have it understood that the round is to be considered as part of your series of lessons because golf is a business with him and it isn't fair to expect him to play a round with you for nothing.

Whatever you do, don't take a third party along when you go for your lessons. Your instructor is entitled to your undivided attention without the presence of a kibitzer who would only disturb your concentration.

No matter what your age may have been when you started playing golf, and no matter how long you have been playing, don't let anything discourage you from trying to improve your game. Anybody can become a good player. All you have to do is to give some thought to it and practice the fundamentals.

Don't take the attitude, like so many I know, "Oh, I'm too old to do that." You're never too old in this game. That's the beauty of golf. If you have the keenness and determination there isn't anything you can't accomplish in this game.

Tomorrow: Match Play.

Byron Nelson Rated Texas PGA Favorite

DALLAS, May 5 (AP)—Byron Nelson was favored to retain his Texas PGA golf championship as the 72-hole annual event got underway today.

Nelson took part in pro-amateur best ball" competition yesterday, but failed to turn in his card. He had trouble with his irons and putting while playing the 18-hole route.

Iverson Martin, Graham Country club pro, and amateur Carl C. Vandervort of Fort Worth shot a 33-34—67 to outdistance the field of 150.

Their four-under-par round was two strokes better than that of Ben Banks of Dallas and amateur L. M. Crannel of North Texas State college.

The best-ball scores in mixed competition were 71's posted by Louise Suggs and her amateur partner, Lance Torance of Dallas, and Patty Berg and Reynolds Smith of Dallas.

Ben Hogan, pale from the effects of injuries he suffered in an auto wreck last February, witnessed part of the pro-am play from an automobile. He still appeared weak.

Between The Lines by Joe Kelly

Our zany West Texas-New Mexico League gets havoier each and every succeeding night. When the pitchers are throwing beautiful games (which rarely happens), that's news. When the batters are slamming balls all over the park (which usually happens) that's news. And when the ball players get to fighting on the playing field, that's news in any league.

• • •

Last night it was mainly a fight that attracted the most attention and it brought together Manager Jackie Sullivan of the Hubbers and a pair of Lamesa players, Stan Grzywacz and Hank Mellilo. When it was all over, Sullivan and Grzywacz were out of the game. the Loboes won and a well-filled house was almost assured for tonight. We haven't had a chance to talk with Jackie directly, but we understand that he attempted to avoid just what happened later.

• • •

As we got the story, Mellilo came into second in the first inning using a rolling slide. It's the type of slide that breaks legs. Sullivan warned him then, requesting him to slide. He said he didn't care if he came in spikes first, but he made his living playing ball and didn't want his legs broken. Later in the game, the same thing happened again. Sullivan told Manager Jay Haney that he wanted to win, but to help keep the game clean. Therefore, Haney should tell Mellilo to quit that kind of a slide.

• • •

It also happened that Grzywacz, who allegedly has hated Sullivan for a long time, was giving the Lubbock manager a pretty bitter riding from the bench. Early in the game he allegedly aimed a pitch at Jackie that hit him. So when the fracas started, Grzywacz made a bee-line for Sullivan. Possibly he thought the Hubber manager would be too busy with Mellilo to take him on also. That's where he made a mistake. Sullivan wasn't too busy. In fact, he let Grzywacz have such a solid blow to the ear that it brought blood and, even before the umpires canned Grzywacz and Sullivan, Haney told him that he was in no condition to pitch.

• • •

We understand that the umpires did an admirable job of getting the situation under control, for which due credit should be given. Both Binz and Crain plunged into the midst of the fighters and separated them. They also restored order without too much waste of time, a fact signified by the 2:43 game length. The naturally partisan crowd was up in arms and stormed toward the Hubber dugout after the game, but didn't start anything. The players picked up their individual bats, just in case, and carried them to the bus. Chris Haskins, former Lobo-Hubber and now with the State Highway Patrol, was there. He remained neutral, but stayed handy to break up any trouble, of which there was none.

• • •

The Kentucky Derby is approaching rapidly and apparently there is more than the usual interest in this year's race. We note that the first contingent of Texans arrived in Louisville, Ky., yesterday. They were riding a special train and you can bet that if there is one trainload from Texas, there'll be others. Racing isn't a big sport in this state, but it has its devotees. For that matter, you don't have to be a racing fan to thrill to the Kentucky Derby. It is one of America's biggest sporting events and annually attracts a jam-packed crowd. Olympia, which follows a long line of notable ancestors to the post, is an odd-on favorite to win, but the big test will follow at three other equally as big races.

• • •

At the Texas Relays in Austin this year, few records were broken. One of those few was broken by Darrow Hooper of Fort Worth, the great high school shot put artist. And Hooper did it not only on his first pitch, but under unusual conditions. The schoolboy star had performed in a meet in Fort Worth Friday. Relays officials offered to fly him to Austin. He said they'd better talk to his coach, his coach said they'd better talk to Hooper's parents and Hooper's parents couldn't be found. So Hooper drove almost all night, reaching Austin about 4:30 a. m.

• • •

He went to his hotel, grabbed a few minutes of sleep and then reported to the track about 8 a. m. When his turn came, he grasped the shot, took his position and proceeded to throw it farther than any other high school performer was able to toss it all day. Then he went back to his hotel and got some sleep! He returned in the afternoon, watched three of four competitors toss the shot and then broke the record. Just like that. Two throws, two marks.

Father Spends All His Time, Money In 'Hopeless' Search

Parents Refuse To Believe Son Died In War; Buddy Says He Saw Flier Alive In Hospital

BY ARTHUR EVERETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 5 — What would you do if you were Harry Lepselter?

Your only boy, Nathan, 21, went down with an American bomber in France in 1944. Officially, he has not been heard from since. By all the odds of war, he is dead.

But you can't picture the boy dead. You feel he is alive. You figure he has amnesia or was badly hurt. Maybe he can't find his way home to Brooklyn, where he was born.

So you decide to go to him.

Your friends try to be kind. But in their eyes they seem to be telling you:

"Harry, the war's over. Your boy is dead. It's too bad. But lots of other boys died, too, you know."

Many Others Died

Sure, you know lots of other boys died. But they weren't your boy. They weren't the kid you watched grow up to five feet, 10 inches of rugged manhood. The newspapers won't print the same story over and over again. They tell you they need "a new angle" to keep your story alive. But the only angle you know anything about is the sharp one inside you. It has been there ever since that falling bomber carried a piece of your heart down with it.

So you keep on looking. You go to France and talk to people there. Some of them think they saw your boy alive after his plane went down. But you can't be sure they aren't just telling you what you want to hear. They have no proof.

You write to Washington, letter after letter. But they have done everything they are supposed to do. And the War department reminds you again that it was a big war, lots of boys killed or missing.

Used All Money

You work a few days a week in a Broadway restaurant where you are a waiter. You lie awake nights at home in Brooklyn. You spend every cent you can get to keep the search going, mailing letters and your boy's picture here and abroad.

You neglect your health. Your hair grows whiter. Your bodys gets thinner and a little more bent. Your 55 years get heavier.

Your wife, Dora, shares your faith. You picket together during an Air Forces association convention in New York. It gets you publicity and pictures. Maybe it will get your story some place where it hasn't been before. Maybe Nathan will see it and remember. . . .

You know you should give up. But you can't. The years are running out on you.

Then this week, a solid, dark-haired lad of 25, H. H. Tucker of (2344 Pennsylvania) Charleston, W. Va., shows up. He says he knew Nathan overseas. He claims to have seen him alive in a Belgian hospital two months after his plane went down.

There, you say to yourself, I knew he was alive. I knew it. But that was more than four years ago.

Tucker says his story has led the War department to reopen its investigation into your boy's disappearance.

So you go back to your work in the Broadway restaurant. And back at night to your home in Brooklyn. And you keep on writing letters, asking questions, hoping. . . . hoping . . . hoping.

What else would you do, if you were Harry Lepselter?

Video Is Claimed Aid To Home Life

LOS ANGELES, May 5 (AP) —Television is about to strike a telling blow against divorce and in favor of the happy, charming and contented home, a Woodbury college survey indicates.

Hal Evry of the faculty sent his students on a door-to-door survey that embraced 2,000 television owners.

"The majority of these families," says Evry, "say television has affected their daily living habits. People are staying home more. This means a closer family relationship which should cut the divorce rate. Social gatherings and parties in the homes are increasing."

Trumanites Can Kill Bills In House, But Cannot Pass Them

BY WILLIAM F. ABBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 5—Leaders of three major political groups in the House were in general agreement today that the Truman administration has negative—but not positive—control of the House.

In short, they said privately, the administration can stop major legislation it doesn't want but can't have its own way on passing big domestic bills.

They pointed to three acted on this year by the House to back up their statements. These bills dealt with rent control, pensions for war veterans, and labor-management relations.

The latest test of control came Wednesday on the labor bill. By a three-vote margin the administration recommitted the Wood labor bill which it opposed. But it lacked the votes to put over its own labor bill as a replacement for the Taft-Hartley act.

Pension Bill Killed

More than a month ago the same thing happened. The administration shelved, by a one-vote margin, the Rankin veterans' pension bill. It did not try to pass a pension bill of its own.

(It probably could have, but President Truman held that this is not the time).

On rent control, the administration made many concessions before sending a bill to President Truman.

While leaders of administration Democrats, Southern Democrats and Republicans in the House declined to state their views publicly, they agreed that Hugh D. Scott, jr., chairman of the Republican national committee, summed up the situation fairly accurately when he said the administration can kill bills but can't pass them.

In a statement issued after the House labor bill action, Scott said the vote demonstrated that the Truman administration can kill off constructive legislation" but has complete inability to get things done."

Can't Pass Own Bills

A high Democratic House leader said:

We succeeded in stopping a labor bill we didn't want. But we still have not passed our own bill. It looks as though we will not be able to pass any of the big domestic bills without giving a lot of grounds. We are not going to have our way on housing, on social security, on civil rights, on minimum wages and on some other things."

A leader of the southern Democrats attributed defeat of the administration-opposed labor bill to the personal popularity of Sam Rayburn."

Rayburn, speaker of the House, openly fought the bill and his colleagues credit largely to him the fact that it was sent back to committee Wednesday after having been approved tentatively Tuesday.

Appeal Not Enough

This personal appeal won't be able to swing enough votes on other legislation, the southerner said. The men who switched just can't afford to risk political annihilation again as a matter of personal friendship for Sam Rayburn."

A Republican leader predicted flatly that President Truman won't get any of his domestic program through the House without major change.

"You can't call Wednesday's action a victory for the administration," he said. "After all, the administration labor bill was not passed and the Democratic campaign pledge to repeal the Taft-Hartley law was not redeemed. If you call ability to stop legislation control, then the administration is in control."

Hunt Tells About Lubbock Founding

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Excerpts from Clifford E. Hunt's "Historical Diary of Lubbock County" are presented today in the second of a series of three stories about Hunt and his early facts about Lubbock county. The final story of the series will be presented in Friday's Evening Journal.)

By OPAL DIXON
Journal Staff Writer

In 1890, the first building was moved to the present site of Lubbock and by the following spring a hotel, a livery stable, blacksmith shop, drug store, barber shop, real estate office, doctors and lawyers were serving residents of the small community in its new location.

Stores sometimes offered a variety of services. On Sept. 11, 1891, J. D. Caldwell advertised himself as a dealer in "groceries, hardware, cutlery, tinware, farming implements, machinery, windmills, etc."

Two prairie communities merged to form Lubbock on the site where it stands today.

Towns Come Together

One was called South Town or Monterey and was located approximately three miles northwest of the present site of Lubbock. The other was called North Town or Lubbock and was located approximately three miles northeast of Lubbock's present site.

In the fall of 1890, the first building was moved in from South Town to Lubbock's present site and was set down on what now is Main street and Ave. H intersection, Clifford E. Hunt's "Historical Diary of Lubbock County" points out. It was known as the G. W. Singer store. Singer was the first postmaster of Lubbock.

This was one of the many "firsts" given in the diary of Hunt. Among the "firsts" during 11 years after 1890 were:

The first restaurant in Lubbock, built in October or November, 1890, and was located on what is now Ave. G between 14th and 15th streets. It was owned and operated by George M. Hunt.

Postoffice Established

The first postoffice, located in the G. W. Singer store building.

The first lawyers: W. F. Hendrix and W. C. Henderson. These two lawyers were here at the time the county was organized.

The first doctors: Dr. J. S. Lenox and Dr. C. C. Austin. They came here about the time the county was organized.

The first doctor to practice medicine in Lubbock county was Dr. William Hunt. He lived at Estacado in Crosby county and looked after the sick people in Lubbock county several years before the county was organized.

The first hotel built in Lubbock county was a three-story frame building, built by F. E. Wheelock in North Town in the spring of 1890. It was completed in August, 1890.

This hotel was torn down later that autumn and rebuilt in Lubbock. It was located on the corner of Broadway and Ave. H and was known as the Nicolett hotel. It was operated by George M. Hunt and remained on this location 50 years.

Lee K. Auton opened the first drug store here in January or February, 1891. It was located on the corner of what is now Broadway and Ave. H, just across the street from the Nicolett hotel.

The first barber shop was opened here in the spring of 1891 by Ed T. Cox.

The first blacksmith shop was set up here in March, 1891, W. P. Phoenix was the first blacksmith in Lubbock county.

George C. Wolffarth and Van Sanders opened the first livery stable here in January or February, 1891, at what is now Ave. H and Tenth street.

J. B. Jones and George M. Hunt opened the first real estate office here in February, 1891. In addition to their real estate business they did abstract work and surveying.

Lubbock county was organized Tuesday, March 10, 1891. The first officers of the county were G. W. Shannon, judge; George C. Wolffarth, clerk; W. M. Lay, sheriff; U. G. Moore, treasurer; W. S. Clark, tax assessor; J. B. Jones, surveyor. W. F. Hendrix, county attorney. The first county commissioners were J. D. Caldwell, precinct No. 1; F. E. Wheelock, No. 2; L. D. Hunt, No. 3; Van Sanders, No. 4.

The following persons conducted the first election and organization of Lubbock county, March 10, 1891, which had been attached to Crosby county for judicial purposes: George M. Hunt, J. B. Mobley, W. F. Cobb and J. D. Caldwell, Precinct No. 1; R. C. Burns, Mat Burts, J. J. Reynolds, G. M. Boles and E. J. Pruitt, Precinct No 2; W. V. Marshburn, Mr. Malin, Ben Johnson, M. L. Hadley and T. R. Hunt, Precinct No. 3; G. W. Shannon and W. A. Carlisle, Precinct No. 4.

Robert L. Rogers was the editor of the first newspaper, the Lubbock Leader. Vol 1, No. 1 was dated July 31, 1891. The building in which the paper was published was located on Ave. G between Main and Broadway (about where 1107 Ave. G now is located).

Paper Changes Name

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sometime before 1896 the Lubbock Press-Leader became the Lubbock Press-Leader. Date of change or circumstances concerning it are indefinite.

The first bicycle was owned by F. E. Wheelock, bought in August, 1891. This was a news item appearing in the Lubbock Leader Sept. 11, 1891.

Miss Minnie Tubbs was the first school teacher in Lubbock county. She taught school in the jail building in the fall of 1891.

The first marriage license was

Lid Off On Texas Spending

Big Projects Are Favored

By O. B. LLOYD, JR.
United Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 5—The lid was off on spending in Texas today.

Senate finance committee members, meeting two and one-half hours late yesterday, approved expenditures that would put the state $54,000,000 in the red.

They did not heed a warning from Gov. Beauford Jester who earlier had complained that $50,000,000 would be written on the wrong side of the state's ledger if something were not done about spending.

Not Finally Passed

The $50,000,000 figure, announced by the state comptroller, was based on expenditures already proposed, but not finally passed, as balanced against anticipated income during the next two years.

At the end of the meeting, which had been called to slash two major appropriation bills, Sen. Keith Kelly of Fort Worth said:

"This is one meeting that I'm not proud of."

Approval was given to expenditures totaling $126,449,138.

Projects Are Listed

They included:

$51,549,138—Operation of state departments for the next two years.

$65,400,000 — Appropriation for higher educational institutions of the state for the next two years.

$4,954,000—Public junior college appropriation.

$2,000,000—Creation of a medical branch of the University of Texas at Dallas.

$1,000,000—Creation of a medical branch of the University of Texas at San Antonio.

$500,000—Creation of a medical branch of the University of Texas at Temple.

$5,000,000—Soil conservation.

$1,000,000—Creation of a Lamar Technological college at Beaumont.

$400,000—Deficiency appropriation for Texas state university for negroes at Houston.

The committee, headed by Sen. James E. Taylor of Kerens, tightened its purse strings on higher education and departmental bills, however.

Of the $6,353,000 lopped off, $2,300,000 was hacked from the departmental bill, while $4,053,000 was cut from the higher education bill.

The higher education bill came out of sub-committee with $8,300,000 shaved off, but committee members put back into the bill:

$2,397,000 for the University of Texas school of dentistry at Houston.

$1,350,000 for atomic radiation research at the M. D. Anderson cancer hospital at Houston.

$500,000 for expansion of the Post Makes Plans For Annual Rodeo; Booster Trips Slated

By C. W. RATLIFF
Journal Staff Writer

POST, May 5—Post is preparing for her annual Stampede and Rodeo, which means that practically everybody in this little oil and ranch town nestled under the Caprock, is getting rodeo fever again. The rodeo is set for May 18-21.

There are rodeos and rodeos, but when Post stages her rodeo, somehow there's a different atmosphere about preparations for the annual event. In the first place, it's practically an amateur show and nearly all of the performers are just plain everyday cowboys from the ranches of Garza, Dickens, Scurry and Borden counties.

Wear Western Clothes

And in the second place, the rodeo features a cutting horse contest for ranchers, one of the few staged at rodeos in West Texas. Cowboys and ranch owners from the various ranches vie each year for the top honor in the contest and youngsters in their teens start training horses for the event years before they compete.

Arranged as sort of window-dressing for the colorful four-day show, western regalia must be worn by the residents of Post and Garza county for the next three days and ill is the fortune of those caught without such attire.

Court Holds Sessions

"The Law West of Sand Creek" court has been set up on Post's main street and periodically, O. D. Cardwell, Post old-timer, presides as judge, fining those persons not dressed western the price of a season ticket to the rodeo.

Flags and bunting flutter from the awnings of Post's business section to give the town a holiday attire.

Two booster trips next Thursday and Friday, May 12 and 13, will publicize the rodeo over the South Plains. Two chartered TN M&O buses will carry 75 Post people on visits over the area. Clint Herring, Paul Jones and Ed Warren make up the booster trip committee.

To Visit Area Towns

Thursday's itinerary will include: Ralls, Crosbyton, Dickens, Spur, Jayton, Rotan, Roby, Snyder, Lamesa, O'Donnell and Tahoka. Friday the boosters will visit Brownfield, Sundown, Level-

THE QUESTION

What practice does the athlete follow which would be good for everyone to observe?

THE ANSWERS

ELBERT JOHNSON, College Inn, Texas Tech football end:

"A little exercise never hurt anyone. Neither did regular meals and regular sleep. You have to stay in training and be in shape to play any games at all and I guess that would apply in any field. It wouldn't hurt for anyone to set up a few 'training rules' for himself. You have to eat certain things and not smoke and not drink."

J. W. THOMPSON, College Inn, Texas Tech football fullback:

"Most athletes in the off season will take part in some sport, usually softball or tennis or handball. That'd be good for anybody. It just keeps them in a fair physical condition. It gives them a little sunshine and exercise."

MACK HARRIS, Wickett, senior student in high school, who played end on the Eastland regional football championship team last year:

"I imagine regular sleeping. During training season, we had to get 10 hours anyway. We had regular meals and they were more or less balanced. You have to have will power in order to follow the training rules."

BOBBY GARNER, College Inn, Texas Tech football guard:

"Just following a regular routine of eating and sleeping. If everybody took part in sports more, they'd appreciate the value more. If they took some kind of sports the year around, they wouldn't be overbalanced either in mental, moral or physical aspect."

WES YOUNGBLOOD, 2224-A Eighth, sports announcer, KFYO:

"Regular hours. Plenty of exercise. Make way for some relaxation. An athlete relaxes and lets his whole system rest — his mind and all his muscles. A boxer gets a good work-out, then a hot shower, then a cold shower, and then he can go to sleep on the rubdown table. In other words, proper exercise, followed by proper rest."

HERBY SIMMONS, College Inn, Texas Tech football tackle:

"You're not supposed to smoke or drink. People ought to get out once in a while to do something that would keep their mind in good shape and that they'd have fun doing. I think everyone could enjoy sports if they'd take part in them."

Tech's Annual Band School Set June 6

The sixteenth annual band school at Texas Tech will open June 6 according to Prof. D. O. Wiley, director of Tech's band.

Courses will be offered for college and pre-college students in the theory and practice of all instruments used by bands as well as classes in maneuvers and drum majoring.

The school will continue through July 16. Last year many high school band students from the surrounding area took advantage of the school. Prof Wiley indicated many of the students were expected again for this year's clinic.

Two Persons Killed In Utah Air Crash

OGDEN, Utah, May 5. (AP)—A twin-engined Air Force transport crashed and burned near here early today, killing at least two persons.

The plane was a C-47 from the 1730th air transport group at McLelland field, Sacramento, Calif. It was attempting a takeoff from the Hill Air Force base.

The two persons known to be aboard were killed, Captain Hubert L. Stewart, Hill field public relations officer said. He said he did not have their names.

Blockade Lift Means Soviets Lost Merely Battle, Not War

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 5—When you change your tactics, it doesn't mean you've changed your mind about what you want. Maybe you've just changed your way of trying to get it.

Just keep that in the top of your head in the months, and maybe years, ahead as new dealings begin between Russia on one side and this country and the other western democracies on the other.

With the lifting of the Berlin blockade, it's clear the Russians have lost a battle in the cold war—but not necessarily the war. The Berlin blockade was just part of a big engagement.

So hold your breath and your hats, keep your fingers crossed, don't build your hopes high, and wait and see what happens.

Still Want The World

The Communists made it plain long ago that their goal is to take over the world. Nothing has happened to indicate they've changed their mind. If they shift their tactics, it doesn't mean their goal has changed.

They've taken over eastern Europe and, remembering what their goal is, you don't have to be a mind reader to know they'd like to grab off all Germany and western Europe.

And the weaker all Germany and western Europe remain, the better Russia's chances. But two things happened:

1. The United States and its western allies, unable to agree with Russia on a single government for all Germany, decided to set up a separate one in their zones of Germany, leaving it to the Russians to do as they pleased about another German government in their zone.

2. This country started the Marshall plan to get western Europe back on its feet and thus keep it from becoming a pushover for Communism.

The Russians a year ago threw a blockade on Berlin. If that blockade had worked, the western powers would have been discredited among the German people. But—

1. This country and its allies began the airlift which astonished Europe and the Germans. It worked. It made the Russian blockade meaningless.

2. The Marshall plan began to work and western Europe grew stronger.

That was all bad medicine for the Russians. But to cap the climax this country and western Europe then agreed on the Atlantic pact, binding them all together with hoops of steel in the real sense. For the pact would mean an armed western Europe, facing Russia. That would be a real discouragement.

So now the secretaries of state of the U. S., Britain, France and Russia will start talking again about Berlin and Germany and other things.

Lift May Be May 12

The blockade probably will be lifted around May 12 and the talks begin around May 23.

If Russia can get the west to drop a separate government for Germany and drop the Atlantic pact, it will be a victory for Russia without doing anything more than talking.

This isn't likely to happen, since American diplomats talk of going ahead with their plans. What else could Russia want?

Who knows? But any advantage Russia can get out of its dealing with the west in the future will be 100 percent more than it was getting so long as the blockade lasted.

In addition, the Chinese Communists are taking over China. It's not certain they'll let Moscow lead them by the nose. And Russia may have its hands full in Asia for a while trying to get things straightened out there to its liking.

When you add it all up — remembering that communism's long-range goal about the world hasn't changed—you can say to yourself: "Maybe some good will come of these new talks but I'll wait and see."

City Waits To See What Will Happen

Germans, GI's Lose Blockade Blues, Want To Leave Berlin

BERLIN, May 5 (AP)—The blockade blues are on their way out of Berlin.

But it will take time, effort and patience to put this split city together again.

When east and west collided in Berlin, they hatched two of almost everything—currencies, city governments, banks and other agencies. There are even two fire departments, neither of which will help fight fires in the other's sector.

The occupying powers are like a magician who sawed a woman in half and now wonders if he can put her together again. Berlin is waiting to see.

More Fuel, Food

But the first reaction was concentrated on the more immediate desires of the average Berliner—ranging from more coal and calories to freedom to go on honeymoons.

A brawny German bricklayer grinned broadly as he summed up the general attitude:

"So the blockade will lift. Me, I will eat more. I will burn more coal. Best of all we can get out of this jail of a city now and then."

At least as jubilant was the reaction of the men who manned the airlift and kept western Berliners from either starving or falling to the Russians by default.

The American GI's at Tempelhof airfield buzzed excitedly about the prospect of leaves and furloughs.

However, Berlin's physical facilities may be patched up, political collaboration will be difficult.

Socialist Mayor Ernst Reuter of western Berlin said flatly he will not work with Friedrich Ebert's Russian sector government. He said he would demand citywide election and then "free" elections in the entire Soviet zone.

Ebert made no direct reply, but did say his Socialist Unity (Communist) party viewed the agreement to end the blockade as a credit to the Russians.

Should Help Economy

On the international level, there has been no effective four-power rule since the Russians walked out of the kommandatura last summer. The three western powers still meet and they have emphasized the door is open to the Russians if they want to come back.

The end of the blockade should help the city's economy. It will mean more raw materials for the factories and enough fuel to operate them.

That adds up to more jobs and bigger payrolls—and more money for the city's citizens.

Babich Bound Over For Trial In Death Of School Girl, 16

MILWAUKEE, May 5 (AP) — Poker-faced Milton Babich, 19, was bound over to municipal court on a charge of killing 16-year-old Patricia Birmingham.

District Judge Harvey L. Neelen terminated Wednesday's preliminary hearing swiftly at 4:30 p. m. and bound the former high school honor student over for trial.

Babich is charged with first degree murder in Patricia's death. The bullet-pierced body of the pretty, suburban West Allis High school girl was fished from the Milwaukee river March 20. That was just two days after Babich eloped to Michigan with the victim's sister, Kathleen.

In a statement released by Dist. Atty. William J. McCauley, Babich stated that Particial was killed by accident Feb. 10 in a struggle for a .22 calibre target revolver. He said he produced the gun to frighten Patricia so she wouldn't reveal that Kathleen was pregnant.

Bullets Caused Death

The youth sat between his attorneys, Arthur Richter and Edward T. Berkanovic, his face expressionless, throughout most of the hearing. But he stared at the floor as a pathologist testified about an autopsy performed on Patricia.

The pathologist, Dr. L. J. Van Hecke, said two bullets struck the girl.

One, he said, entered at the angle of the left jaw and passed all the way through her head, emerging at the right midline of her neck, slightly below the hairline.

The second, he said, entered behind her left ear, pierced the skull on the right side and came to rest just beneath the skin near the right temple.

He said death was due to a "bullet wound in the head," and that no other possible cause of death was found. He testified that the girl was a virgin.

The last witness to be heard was Detective Frank Zajdel, who testified that Detective Capt. Adolph Kraemer asked Babich at one session, "Milt, were you alone when you killed Patricia," and that Milton replied, "yes."

Richter announced that he wanted to question all other detectives who had any part in questioning the youth, to determine whether Babich's constitutional rights were respected.

But Judge Neelen explained that under Wisconsin law, the court may halt a preliminary hearing whenever it feels there is sufficient evidence to indicate a crime has been committed and that the defendant should be held for trial for the crime.

Group To Give Tech Seniors Tips About Applying For A Job

A program, "How To Apply For a Job," will be presented by the Lubbock Personnel association for the benefit of graduating seniors at Texas Tech at 7 o'clock tonight in the Engineering auditorium on the campus.

Mrs. Jean Jenkins, head of the Tech Placement service, said the program was designed to aid students when applying for a position after they graduate from college.

Discussions Planned

Several members of the association will discuss various phases of job application. The employers viewpoint of a job applicant will be discussed by B. Watkins, assistant manager of Dunlaps department store, and W. G. Hearne of the Independent Cold Storage company.

W. D. Rogers, jr., sales manager of the Coca Cola company, and B. T. O'Connell of the Texas Employment commission, will talk about applications in general.

Students who do not have a chance to apply in person but must write for a job will learn the proper way from a discussion by J. H. Botik, office manager of Purina Mills, and J. P. Watt, department manager of Lubbock Auto company.

Interview Follows

Following that discussion, the personal interview with a prospective employer will be reviewed by Miss Marion Simmons, personnel superintendent of Sears-Roebuck in Lubbock. Nat Kizer, Veteran's administration personnel officer will act as moderator for the discussions.

For the final event on the program Argo Peek, city personnel director, will conduct practice interviews with students. All persons who are interested in the program are invited to attend.

Soccer Team's Death In Crash Mourned Throughout All Italy

TURIN, Italy, May 5. (AP)—The death of Italy's championship soccer team in a plane crash here Wednesday was mourned throughout Italy today.

One crash wiped out the "Torino" team of this city—four times national champions and the bulwark of Italy's team in international competition.

The three-motor Italian plane plowed into Superga hill, scraped the cathedral which stands there and fell in flames in the cathedral courtyard. A heavy rain was falling. The team was en route home from a game in Lisbon, Portugal.

31 Known Dead

The job of extricating and identifying the dead continued through the night. The latest reports this morning numbered the victims at 31. They included 18 players, three sports writers, the coach, the managers of the team and the plane's crew.

News of the tragedy affected this soccer-loving country as the mass death of a world-series championship baseball team would hit the United States.

Debate stopped in parliament when it became known. Premier Alcide de Gasperi, in Sardinia on a speaking tour, was reported "deeply moved." An undersecretary in his office rushed to Turin for first-hand reports.

An emergency meeting of Italy's national soccer federation and the country's olympic organization was called here today to decide on future action.

There was talk of suspending national and international soccer competition, but this appears unlikely. A one-week halt as a token of mouring seems more probable.

Louisiana Planters Claimed Exploiting European Workers

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., May 5. (AP)—A Catholic priest has charged Louisiana sugar cane plantation owners with exploiting European refugees and working them under "a kind of serfdom."

The charge was made yesterday by the Rev. J. Stanly Ormsby of New York, a representative of the displaced persons commission and an official of the National Catholic welfare council. He made the charge while addressing the various agencies of the world relief services of the displaced services commission.

Threat Is Voiced

Father Ormsby threatened to remove Louisiana's 125 displaced persons to North Carolina whose DP's are "happy and progressing well."

He said a tour of Louisiana showed that plantation owners were keeping the DP's in substandard homes and paying them $2.80 and $2.90 a day for four full days of work a week. Many of them are deeply in debt to plantation commissaries in a "kind of serfdom," he charged.

In New Orleans, Father Ormsby's accusations were denied by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William J. Castel, director of the DP resettlement bureau there.

"I'm not aware of any instance of lack of food for a single family on any plantation where we send displaced persons," Monseignor Castel said. "I have found that planters as a whole have tried to improve housing . . ."

He added that wages for the DP's will be $4.50 a day during harvesting season. In addition, he continued, housing and garden plots are furnished all families without charge and they are encouraged to have chickens and livestock.

Lamesa Negro Dies In Auto Accident

LAMESA, May 5 (Special—W. G. Drones, Lamesa negro, about 25, was instantly killed Wednesday when the car he was driving overturned on alternate route 87 just south of city limits.

Two other occupants of the car were hospitalized but injuries were not serious, according to Dr. U. H. Zee. They are Jess Tyra, 42, white man, of 206 N. Katherine, the owner of the car, and J. C. Carrell, 19, negro, Lamesa resident.

Highway patrolmen J. C. Welch and Sheriff Roy King, who investigated, said the car overturned as it rounded the corner of the highway and Lynn street.

Drones, who worked at a filling station here, is survived by his wife and two children. Funeral arrangements are incomplete, Higginbotham Funeral home announced.

Voluntary Limits On Growth Of Great Corporations Asked

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May. 5—Senator Flanders (R-Vt) told businessmen today that "voluntary limits" should be imposed on the growth of great corporations.

In an address prepared for the final session of the United States Chamber of Commerce annual meeting, Flanders said that while the people are "well-armed" against monopolies, there are other dangers in the "unrestricted trend toward great economic empires."

He indicated a belief that major damage still is suffered by small business as a result of this trend.

Government Power Hit

The breaking up of Standard Oil co. holdings by the Supreme court years ago "apparently did no harm to the investors and no harm to the public as purchasers," he said.

"In fact, it may, I believe, be fairly argued that nothing but good results have followed from it."

Bigness in labor and bigness in government also came under fire in a three way forum, as the chamber's 37th annual meeting drew toward a close.

The attack on "government growth, government power, and the spending and taxing that go with it," was launched by Everett M. Dirksen, former Republican member of the House from Illinois, while former New Deal official Donald R. Richberg held that labor has demonstrated its "irresponsible ill-informed, incompetence to exercise the great powers that are inherent in its big organization."

To Hear Official

Dirksen urged that the Hoover commission plan for scaling down the government be enacted promptly into law, and added:

"We need a second commission to reexamine the whole field of federal power. It should determine the reasonable and proper jurisdiction of the federal government, examine the encroachments on state and local jurisdictions and recommend withdrawal from those functions that tend toward centralized control."

Richberg stated that, "in behalf of the freedom of labor, the freedom of business, and the freedom of the citizen, we should limit bigness in all three.

"We can only reduce the bigness of government by reducing the bigness of the persons who must be governed."

The chamber was to elect a new president today and close its four-day session at a banquet to be addressed by Secretary of Defense Johnson.

issued to Frank E. Wheelock and Sylva B. Hunt, Dec. 8, 1891.

The first death after the county was organized was that of Henry Jenkins, a cowboy, about 32, who died in the Nickolett hotel, March 10, 1892, and was the first person buried in Lubbock cemetery. Joseph R. Coleman was the second person buried in the Lubbock cemetery He died June 23, 1892.

Bank Opens In '99

The first bank was opened for business in the summer of 1899. It was a private bank owned by Light Knight and Henry Slayton, located on the corner of Texas Ave. and Main St. where the First National bank now sits.

The first church here was a Baptist church built in the spring of 1901. It was located on Ave. G and 13th St. The dedication was Sunday, June 2, 1901. From the time the county was organized up to that date, all denominations held services in the courthouse. Church announcements carried in the Press-Leader June 27, 1896, had listed the following churches.

Christian church: Services on Saturday night before the first Sunday in each month.

Friends church: Dr. William Hunt preaches the second Sunday of each month.

Baptist church: Rev. J. W. Winn preaches third Sunday each month.

Churches Meet

Methodist church: Rev. Adams preaches fourth Sunday each month.

Sunday school, every Sunday, 3 p. m.

Singing, every Sunday, 7:30 p. m.

Although not all pertaining to "firsts," items concerning 1891 happenings were copied from Sept. 11, 1891 Lubbock Leader, and included information that the newspaper was trying to get the people to build a school house; that M. A. Wood had gone to Colorado City for lumber for his new home; F. E. Wheelock was letting the boys amuse themselves by riding his new bicycle.

County officers listed in June 27, 1896, Press-Leader, were P. F. Brown, judge; George C. Wolffarth, county and district clerk; William Lay, sheriff and tax collector; G. M. Boles, tax assessor; J. B. Mobley, treasurer, and J. B. Jones, county surveyor. County commissioners were listed as J. C. Coleman, Precinct No. 1; R. C. Burns, Precinct No. 2; G. F. Stevenson, Precinct No. 3, and G. O. Groves, Precinct No. 4. District officers were listed as W. R. McGill, judge; L. S. Kinder, attorney, and George C. Wolffarth, clerk.

No Takers Found For Dollar Bill

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 5. (AP) — Diogenes, the crusty old Greek philosopher, searched all over the place for an honest man.

He should have gone to Rutgers university.

Yesterday a crisp dollar bill was pinned to a "lost and found" notice on a campus bulletin board. The notice read:

"Found in telephone booth. loser please take."

At last report, the dollar bill was still there.

Formal Opening Of Luggage Shop Set

When Meyer Harris has his official opening of The Luggage Shop at 1110 Ave. K from 5 until 9 p.m. today, he will be realizing the fulfillment of a 50-year ambition.

He has extended a cordial invitation to the public to attend the opening and see the $60,000 stock of top-quality luggage on display. Favors and souvenirs will be given to all visitors.

Mr. Harris for the past two years owned and managed the luggage department at the Hub Clothiers, but he has been a "luggage man" for 40 years—since 1909.

A Texan since 1903, he has lived in Houston and is widely acquainted throughout Texas.

The open-front store in the new Masonic building is 25 by 89 feet, with a balcony. It is completely air-conditioned and offers shoppers such conveniences as tables and chairs and smoke-stands to make luggage-shopping comfortable and enjoyable.

The whole store, brilliantly lighted, is like a show window when viewed from the street. On display are the leading brands of luggage which support Mr. Harris' contention that his is the finest luggage store in Texas.

He handles Oshkosh, Dresner, Skyway, Halliburton Aluminum, Shortt-o and Samsonite luggage in every material from canvas to genuine rawhide.

In addition, the store features a jewelry department with watch repair service and a high-quality line of men's sportswear.

"We can match any kind of luggage," Mr. Harris adds.

North, East Texas Cautious As Business Starts Upswing

DALLAS, May 5 (U.P.)—Business leaders in east and northeast Texas today were pursuing a general policy of "watchful waiting" as business trends in general continued on the upswing.

With department store sales increasing and general employment up 5 per cent from the boom periods of last year, leaders were wondering if the bubble was about to burst.

Hiring and buying were beginning to show definite conservative trends for the first time since the war. This revealed the current trend in business thinking far more than figures.

In Dallas there were 12,000 more persons employed than at the same time last year. This overshadowed some seasonal layoffs and cutbacks in manufacturing, and yet, local industries were hiring more than ever before. A total of 8,500 more persons are now working in the manufacturing field.

In the non-manufacturing field, some 4,500 persons more than in May of 1948 are now working.

M. R. Kelly, director of the Texas Employment commission, believed that the trend would stay "up" in employment for many months to come.

"The east Texas area, and Dallas, in particular, has not been hit by the 'down' trends that are affecting business in other parts of the country," Kelly said.

"This is because aircraft industries have saved us. If companies similar to Chance-Vought Aircraft were not in this area, we would be suffering a slight recession, but they have hired new staffs, replaced old ones, and have kept the business picture bright," he said.

Despite the general rise in employment with few cutbacks, production in some fields showed drops in the last six months, Ned Kerr, business representative of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, reported.

Chemicals Off

Clothing manufacturers showed a five per cent cutback during the month of April. Chemicals were off slightly, and metal products were showing a similar decline.

But the biggest drop was in construction. Despite an overall increase in commercial building, a decline in residential construction caused an employment drop of 3,000 persons. However, Kelly reported that this did not reveal the true condition in the building industry. He said about 1,000 more persons than ever before were now engaged in some phase of construction.

Few strikes, good weather and constant employment has drawn thousands of construction workers from other areas to Texas.

There was some indication that businesses were liquidating their inventories, but this has not been reflected in unemployment as yet. Rather, business heads were watching their inventories closely, never overstocking too far.

Hiring Policies Change

Hiring policies sharply reflected the present trend toward the conservative. Kelly said that business no longer hired "just any person" for a job as they did a year ago.

Rather, Kelly said, business has become more and more critical. Requirements have climbed until only qualified personnel are accepted. Training of persons on the job has declined almost to nothing.

Also, Kelly added, employers were taking a sharper look at their businesses before hiring replacements. They ask the question, "can we do without this man?" Kelly believed that this resulted in the combining of many jobs.

Most leaders agreed that as long as manufacturing employment and production remained on the increase the business bubble would not burst. They continued, however, to watch it closely.

It's smart and thrifty, too, to have spare electric light bulbs in the house... all the time.

Why not buy them in different sizes?... it's not always a 100, 60 or 25 watt bulb that finally burns out. Don't grope in the dark, keep a variety on hand.

Electric light bulbs cost so little and mean so much that every light fixture should have the correct wattage bulbs and spares should be available, all the time.

VACUUM CLEANER HOLDS HOUSE UP

Beams, Braces Are Just Air In New Wind Proof Building

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 5 (AP) — A vacuum cleaner holds up an amazing new balloon house made of only air, glass and rubber.

This house, disclosed today by the Air Force, is flexible but strong. It will stand up under winds of 140 miles an hour that would wreck a sturdy frame dwelling. Seventy-five-mile winds are a hurricane.

The house is half of a huge balloon 86 feet high and 53 feet in diameter, fastened to a concrete base. It's made of fibre glass and rubber, and is only as thick as a few pages of this newspaper.

Air Holds It Up

Air holds it up, acting as the timbers and beams. Once it's inflated, a vacuum cleaner pushing air in keeps it pumped up and ventilated. You enter and leave through an air lock.

The pressure inside is less than that inside a child's toy balloon. But a puncture wouldn't make this house explode. It would just collapse slowly. If hit by shellfire, there would be no wood or stones to fall on men or equipment.

The balloon house, called the Radome, was built to protect new radar eye equipment for the air force. It was made by the Cornell aeronautical laboratory here. But the idea could be modified for movable private homes or for buildings like an ice skating rink.

The Radome is designed to operate in any climate from 67 below zero up to 140 degrees. This one is colored black. But it can be given different colors for camouflage in regions from the arctic to jungles.

It has withstood wind gusts of 80 miles an hour, and is designed to take 140 without blowing over.

The Air Force permitted some details of the Radome to be disclosed today. But it did not make any announcement concerning the radar equipment now being built by the General Electric company.

The Radome will stand up under heavy snow of thick coatings of ice. A rope is moored to the top, and runs down to the ground. Men can walk around the dome, hauling the rope to cut off the snow, or whipping the rope to crack encrusted ice.

A man can stand atop the roof. His weight bulges in the roof only an inch or so.

The fabric of the balloon is fibre glass treated with a special snythetic rubber. It feels like rubbery canvas, and can be bent and crinkled like the cloth of a man's suit. It's made in long strips cemented together.

Easily Carried

Folded up, the bag is the size of two office desks and weighs 1,600 pounds. An airplane can carry it easily. Two blowers can pump it up in 20 minutes. Then the vacuum cleaner takes over.

Edward R. Dye, head of the development division at the Cornell laboratory, conceived the idea. Walter W. Bird, project engineer, led the work of making it practical.

A special erecting gear of collapsible ribs helps to put up and remove the balloon without touching any radar towers or equipment.

This air-supported Radome idea could be adapted to other shapes for private dwellings or buildings. Dr. Dye said. Cylinder shapes would be better for big buildings. A skating rink 100 yards wide and 200 yards long is not impossible, he said. A revolving door would be enough of an air lock.

Reports Are Given On VFW Convention

Reports from various committees for the arrangements of the annual Veteran of Foreign Wars district 7 convention to be held here May 21-22, were heard at a meeting in the VFW club house Tuesday night.

William E. Creel, commander of the Lubbock post, said reports were heard from the committees for registration, programs, publicity, food, entertainment and women's auxiliary. The auxiliary will hold its annual meeting during the convention.

District 7 includes seven counties surrounding Lubbock. Delegates from each post as well as other representatives will be on hand for the two-day meeting. H. B. (Virgil) Crawford, district commander from Brownfield, and Mrs. Christine Moore, district auxiliary president from Lubbock, will preside over the convention.

Highlighting the entertainment will be a dance on the night of May 21 in the local post's new club house at 34th street and Ave. N. Burl Hubbard's orchestra will play for the dance. All VFW members are invited to register and attend the convention.

Dog Lover Can't Bear To See Pets Destroyed After Death, Builds Cemetery Near Home

FREEPORT, Ill., May 5 (AP) — If the three dogs that tag after Roy Spitler aren't enough proof that he's a dog lover, there's always the little cemetery across the read from his place.

"It's "Pets' Heaven," a gentle uphill slope where Spitler chose to bury his own dog. Now the bodies of 15 other dogs rest there because he can't bear seeing a dog cremated or sent to a rendering works or laboratory.

"A dog is a dog to me and if they're a pal they should be taken care of after death and when they're alive," he says.

Spitler is custodian of the Grace Episcopal church. He and his wife operate tourist cabins and a truck garden outside Freeport along highway 20. Few tourists know of the cemetery because it is not visible from the highway.

Dog Reburied

When the couple lived in Freeport, their dog, Peg, died. Spitler buried it in the backyard. When they moved to the outskirts, he reburied the body at the rear of the tourist cabin site.

As years passed other dogs joined Peg. Some were his own, some were strays hit by cars and some were owned by friends. Soon Peg's resting place developed into a full-scale cemetery.

The burying-ground has lawn and garden one side and fields on the others. Oaks and maples shade it. Spitler plotted it neatly, with a permanent chart of the land and tombstones for all the dogs.

"I only commercialized once," he says. "Charged a lady a dollar to bury her dog."

"Dogs," he says, "are companions. My wife says they know more than we do. I'm inclined to agree."

Discovery In Andrews Seen

Possibilities of the discovery of another pay in the area two miles southeast of the Dollarhide field in Southwest Andrews County were shown on a drillstem test at Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 18-B Cowden, deep wildcat.

The examination was in an unidentified lime formation at 10,995-11,035 feet, with the tool open five hours, using a 2,250-foot water blanket.

Oil Is Recovered

In one hour and 35 minutes after the tool was open, gas reached the top and flowed at the rate of 9,000 cubic feet per day.

Recovery was 3,270 feet of free, 39.1 gravity oil, 450 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud, the water blanket cut with oil and gas.

Bottom hole pressure flowing varied from 1,175 pounds to 1,900 pounds. After 15 minutes shutin, pressure was 2,000 pounds.

Drilling was continuing under 11,074 feet. Another drillstem test is due shortly. The project has already shown for commercial production from higher formations.

The current horizon, although unidentified by the operator, is thought by some observers possibly to be Silurian.

Operations To Start

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 12, block A-55, psl survey.

Operations are starting immediately on a 6,000-foot, rotary tool wildcat in East-Central Hockley County, five miles west of the town of Smyer.

Designation will be E. Constantin, jr., et al, No. 1 J. H. Goodpasture, staked 440 feet from east and south lines of tract 2, section 4, Wm. Tubbs subdivision A of psl survey.

Extension Is Completed

An extension to the Seminole field of Central Gaines County has been completed at J. G. McMillian, et al, of Midland No. 1 S. R. Simpson, outpost to the pool, 330 feet from north and east lines of the lease in section 284, block G, WTRR survey.

Flowing six hours through a one-inch choke, the well was finished for a calculated 24-hour potential of 916 barrels of oil. Gravity was 34 degrees. Gas-oil ratio was 950-1. There was no water.

Production followed a 2,000-gallon acid treatment in the pay formation at 5,144-5,256 feet.

Estranged Widow, Alleged Illegitimate Son Of W. C. Fields, Meet At Will Trial

LOS ANGELES, May 5. (AP)—The long-estranged widow and the alleged illegitimate son of W. C. Fields met and shook hands after both made strong please for major portions of the late comedian's $771,429 estate.

The widow, Mrs. Harriet V. Fields, who seeks a half share of the fortune under California community property laws, instead of the $10,000 she received from the comedian's will, told the court yesterday:

"Mr. Fields never gave me a home."

She testified that she and Fields ceased to live as man and wife in 1907, shortly after the birth of their son, W. Claude Fields, jr. The latter also seeks more than the $10,000 left him.

Bag Is Identified

The cause of the rift, she said, was another woman.

But to her attorney's question, "did the marriage last until death?" Mrs. Fields replied: "Oh, yes."

She identified a small, tattered cloth bag as one in which she saved their money when Fields was a struggling young juggler. In fact, she estified, she had to borrow money to send Fields to California so he could land a $125 a week job. Then they were married, she said, in San Francisco in 1900.

The alleged son, William Rexford Fields Morris, 31, of Dallas, Tex., said he received only $250 from Fields while the comedian was alive. On a visit to California he got about $150 in 1936. When he was married in 1941, Morris said, Fields sent him $100.

Morris said he was "stunned" when he found out at the age of 17 that the man he knew as "Uncle Bill" was really his father and that "Aunt Bessie" (Follies girl Bessie Poole) was his mother.

Morris testified that after he learned Fields was his father he called him "W. C." instead of "Uncle Bill." At no time, said Morris, did Fields ever address him as "son."

Other litigants in the involved court battle are Carlotta Monti, Fields' former nurse; and Walter Fields and Mrs. Adel Smith, brother and sister of the comedian, who received $100,000 or better portions under the will.

Since the litigation began, Mrs. Fields and Morris have avoided each other. However, they shook hands outside the courtroom yesterday after Mrs. Fields let it be known she "wanted to meet Bill." They chatted several minutes. She left him with a "God bless you."

SPEAKING of newspapers reminds us that Lubbock will be host on Friday and Saturday of this week to the ladies and gentlemen of the South Plains press.

The South Plains Press association is holding its first annual meeting here and a fine, "family affair" is expected to result.

People in the newspaper business on the South Plains are sort of "betwixt and between" in the matter of territorial press associations. Most of us live too far North to have much in common with the West Texas Press association. Most of us live too far from the Panhandle to have much in common with the Panhandle Press association.

So we all decided we'd just have a little family group in our own territory, talk our own problems and enjoy each other's experiences and associations.

That ought to be good for everybody.

Principal speaker at the meeting here will be a man to whom the writer owes a debt which never can be paid.

He is Merle Woods, who owns the El Reno, Okla., American, with whom we worked—on two different occasions—as a kid.

Merle was pretty much of a kid himself in those days, topping our 20 years by no more than five.

He was a junior partner—a very junior partner, with his share of The American, to work out—and one Summer we roomed together, as well as worked together.

Merle was already steeped in many of the intricacies of the newspaper business, having cut his teeth on various weekly papers. The information and counsel he gave us—then a college student with only cub's experience on a big city paper—were invaluable.

Not only was Merle Woods a fine mentor. He was a tolerant and understanding friend.

MERLE'S two partners, both bachelors much older than he and now long dead, had "taken him to raise" in the newspaper business. They chose him because he was talented, hardworking and a young man of superior character.

He never let the older men down. The result: Today he is sole owner of the fine paper and its very good job printing business.

We often think of Merle Woods, who started on The American for $15 a week, when talking to some job-seeking kid just out of journalism.

We don't think Merle Woods would be where he is today—where he got by dint of stern application to the job—if he had gone to work on The American worrying first about whether he'd be on a 40-hour week; then what days would be "off," and how much overtime he might stack up.

The socio-political opium ladled out to our people during the past two decades discourages young people in all fields from wrestling plenty from nothing, as Merle Woods did.

"Live the more abundant life by loafing more and working less" is not the sort of advice which will help young men get ahead. Neither is the old line about the boss being a Simon Legree and therefore the enemy of the employe. Neither is the counsel that thrift is stupid and "the government ought to take care of you."

That sort of clap-trap, sad to say, attracts the support of the thoughtless. But it doesn't build a nation, nor does it build personal success for the youngster who follows it.

★ ★ ★

MR. WOODS has been invited to speak to the South Plains Press association because his outstanding success at El Reno has made him a national symbol of sound newspaper practice.

But Mr. Woods also stands as a symbol to thoughtful people in all fields of endeavor, because his

BY DREW PEARSON: TRUMAN PROGRAM IMPEDED BY SICKNESS OF SENATE CHIEFS

Lie Resents Norway's Surrender To Atlantic Pact

WASHINGTON — The Truman program continues to be slowed down in the Senate. This is partially because the President's key leaders have been torn apart by feuds or moved down by sickness and exhaustion.

PEARSON

Majority Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois has been in the hospital, worn out by the gruelling grind of trying to keep Democratic forces together. Before going to the hospital he had wrangled with Sen. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic national committee. McGrath, according to a complaint Senator Lucas made to the White House, was trying to steal the spotlight as Senate spokesman. And this in turn brought some sour private comments from McGrath about Lucas.

Meanwhile, two other Senate figures have been in the hospital—Senate Secretary Biffle and Majority Secretary "Skeeter" Johnson. The Democrats have leaned heavily upon Biffle to keep peace between the Senate and the White House, and Biffle's office has been a rendezvous where Democratic troubles were patched up over a glass of bourbon.

Before going to the hospital, Biffle himself clashed with the Senate's president pro tem, Senator McKellar of Tennessee.

On the more optimistic side, however, many Democratic committee chairmen have plugged ahead with legislation, and several key measures, such as federal-aid-to-education, are all set for debate.

Norway: "A British Dominion"?

British Foreign Minister Ernie Bevin is a lot more pleased than Trygve "Trigger" Lie over the inclusion of Norway in the Atlantic pact—and Lie told him so when Bevin was in this country for the pact signing.

Bevin was jubilant over what he called the "brave stand" taken by Norway in joining the pact despite the persistent neutrality of Sweden. Meeting Lie, who is now secretary general of the United Nations, Bevin said:

"By this act you have moved closer to us. We feel toward you as we would toward one of our own dominions."

To which Trygve Lie, with heavy sarcasm, replied, "thank yo..."

NOTE—Lie says privately he would not have come running to Washington, if he had been Norwegian foreign minister—as he was once. He would have waited for the possible common action of all three Scandinavian countries.

PRESIDENT Truman heard some straight-from-the-shoulder advice on the question of negro education the other day from a southern congressman who gets around in a wheelchair. The White House visitor was 38-year-old Congressman Charles Bennett of Florida.

Bennett served 58 months as an infantryman, won the coveted silver star for bravery, came out a captain, his legs crippled by polio contracted while fighting with Philippine guerrillas.

However, this doesn't interfere with Bennett's legislative interests, one of which is a burning zeal to improve educational opportunities for southern negroes.

"The federal government can't be proud of the way it has failed to deal with illiteracy among the negroes," the young Floridan told Truman. "What many people forget is that the government countenacted slavery before the Civil war. In fact, a lot of the slave trade was carried on by northerners.

"Then, when slavery was abolished by fire and sword—"

"You remind me of my mother," broke in the President, who comes from Confederate stock on his maternal side.

"Well, I don't mean to be waving the Confederate flag," explained Bennett, "but it's nonetheless a fact that the government left negro ex-slaves and their families to shift for themselves after the Civil war was over. The very least we can do now is to provide better and more schools to counteract the illiteracy that has resulted from that situation."

Truman promised to consider legislation Bennett has introduced to provide additional school facilities for negro students—if Congress doesn't meet the need in the federal-aid-to-education program.

Troops Out Of Germany?

One of the toughest problems Russia is likely to raise at the foreign ministers' conference is a proposal to withdraw all troops from Germany—both Russian and French-British-American. This would leave a German Communist army, trained by the Russians, in control of eastern Germany and it wouldn't take long for this army to take over western Germany.

Secretary of State Acheson has been doing some quiet conferring with the British as to how to meet this problem, and they have now decided that the Western Allies will counter Russia's proposal with one of their own. They will demand that eastern Germany be merged with the free western zones into a new German state.

The western zones, they believe, are now sufficiently strong to dominate eastern Germany, once the Red army evacuates. But in any case they believe their proposal would never be accepted by the Russians and hence the troops of neither side would be withdrawn.

ABOUT the first man Jess Larson met after he was appointed federal works administrator was Dave Vandivier, publisher of the Chickasha, Okla., Express. Meeting Larson by accident in the lobby of the Mayflower hotel, Vandivier said:

"One of the first projects we're going to put up to you is the new water works for your home town."

"I guess that's the water works I started when I was mayor," recalled new Federal Works Administrator Larson. He referred to the fact that he took his first plunge in public office as mayor of Chickasha, at that time the youngest mayor in the United States. The water works he provided for the city at that time has now been outmoded by the city's growth.

Larson promised his hometown publisher that he would look into the matter.

Starting with native brains, energy and ambition, Merle Woods has become not only a wealthy man, but also a leader in the religious and civic life of his city and state. He has become a valuable citizen in every respect, by his own labors; through acceptance of duty and of responsibility.

Those who sneer at success hard won are doing themselves no favor. To their neighbors and to their nation, they are performing a disservice.

This country has become the tower of strength it is not by those looking for an easy way to indolence, but by men like Merle Woods, in all fields, who are willing to sweat not only for themselves and their families, but also to make contribution to others.

W. B. KENNEMER, of Lubbock, who represents the A. O. Smith corporation in the Southwest district, came in the other day with a good idea to pass along.

Mr. Kennemer had been to a convention of gas men in Biloxi, Miss., and showed us the identification badge he wore at the convention. Right under his name was printed:

"Lubbock Texas, Hub of the Plains and Home of Texas Tech."

There were 1100 delegates at the convention, men from Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana and Mississippi, in addition to those from Texas. And it's our guess that Mr. Kennemer met a good many of them, because he's the kind of fellow who would.

Anyhow, he says his identification badge caused a lot of comment by those with whom he came into contact. He thinks other Lubbock people attending conventions can advertise our city, section and Tech to good advantage.

It's an idea that might well be tested.

I couldn't resist giving the radio a dirty look when the "Take a Number" quiz emcee pulled the stale one about the rabbit sitting in a Westinghouse refrigerator. "What are you doing here?" and it replies: "Just westing!" I keep forgetting there are always some people who haven't heard or read it . . . Things I never knew about some writers until the other day: That at the end of each day's work Hemingway counts up exactly how many words he wrote. He's one of the boys who scrivens in longhand! . . . And Merrill Moore, the Boston medico (who has contributed verses here), has written more sonnets than anyone in history. He thinks nothing of writing one while waiting for a traffic light to change . . . It must be wonderful to be a writer. I'm one of the dopes who has to stop after every syllable and stare at the walls and the ceiling until the ideas come. And even when they do I have to put in three dots to help me fill up space and get down to the bottom.

On And On, Ad Infinitum

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

A WOMAN who has been happily married for 12 years says she took one of those "Will Your Marriage Be Happy?" tests recently, just for the fun of it, only to discover that according to the answers she gave, she and her husband never should have married each other at all.

According to the outcome of the test, their marriage was a mighty poor risk.

MILLETT

Her husband is an only child, and worse yet, the child of divorced parents. When they married she was earning more than he was—for he was starting his career at the bottom. They are of different religious faiths. And to add the final handicap to the marriage, her mother lives with them during part of each year. According to most marriage experts, all these facts are serious drawbacks to a happy marriage.

This wife says she is glad she didn't see that test BEFORE she married her husband. It might have scared her.

But being ignorant of all the chances against their being happily married, this couple went ahead with complete faith that their marriage would be happy and last a lifetime.

"Here we had all those terrible problems and didn't realize how serious they were," the wife says with a chuckle. "So we just met our problems as they came along and they never seemed insurmountable."

• • •

Love Balance Poor Risk

I TELL you that story because in spite of all the experts' advice young men and women keep right on falling in love with an marrying what the experts would call "poor risks."

But if two persons are deeply in love, if they take it for granted that they'll stay married for life, if they meet their problems as they come along, they'll probably get along all right. They may not be ideally happy all the time. But then few people are — whether married to a good risk or a poor one.

Love is a more powerful force than the marriage experts usually admit. When marriage is based on real love, a couple can meet almost any kind of problem, overcome all sorts of handicaps, and end up by laughing at the experts.

That is, if the young couple go into marriage confidently, never having any doubt that the marriage will last.

"Try And Stop Me"

A CHRONIC prankster, freshly embarked on a career in pictures, blew in his first month's pay on a second hand motorcycle. He started the motor in front of his house and went inside to phone his best girl, who lived six or seven blocks away. It was his plan to say, "Hello, darling. Hold the wire a moment," and then dash over to her home on his cycle, walking in on her while she still waited on the telephone.

On the way to her house, however, he had a head-on collision with a truck and spent the next four weeks in the hospital. Another evening he stretched himself full length on Ben Hecht's private roadway hoping that Hecht would have the scare of a lifetime when his machine headlights picked out a prostrate body. Again fate stepped in. He fell sound asleep. Hecht put out his headlights when he entered the driveway, didn't see him at all, and drove smack over his outstretched hand. Attendants at the Cedars of Lebanon hospital wearily led him back to his old bed. One nurse suggested, "How about renting it by the year."

Tumult On Durocher-Boysen Encounter Draws Criticism

NEW YORK, May 5.—From all the view-halloo and waving of arms last week, I thought for a moment that a new war had begun, with alien atoms dumped onto New York City. Closer inspection showed this to be untrue.

RUARK

The tumult came, it appeared, from an incident in which Mr. Leo Durocher either did or did not shove a 22-year old unemployed Puerto Rican named Fred Boysen. The zoot-suited Mr. Boysen was unhurt. Mr. Durocher was immediately suspended from his position as cultural adviser to the New York Giants, Moscow and China skidded off the front pages, in order to allow space for full coverage of Mr. Durocher and Mr. Boysen.

A racial angle was injected, since Mr. Boysen is unblonde, and a mass boycott of the Giants mentioned. Durocher vs. Boysen appeared on the slate of the United Nations. Mr. Truman's civil rights came into play—in a democracy, is the right to boo a baseball team one of the four freedoms? Even the sanctity of matrimony and motherhood crept into the script.

• • •

Writer Is Baffled

This must demonstrate to the Martians and other interested spectators that when the last two men alive meet on a shattered, smoking globe, they will immediately start chucking a baseball at each other. Mr. Durocher achieved more prominence with one shove, which he did or did not commit, than if he had personally slain Stalin in Macy's window.

I am not even close to making a moral, here. I am just a little baffled about why Messrs. Durocher and Boysen rate all the attention. This is probably either Fascistic or Communistic talk, but I am still puzzled over the importance we place on some brasslung's penchant for bawling obscentities at ball players, under the delusion that it enhances the esthetics of the sport. If it happened in a theater the ushers would give you the heave in five seconds.

The legitimacy of an abused athletic's after-game retaliation toward a heckler is argued as a second Pearl Harbor, when it actually amounts to double-zero. Bloodier battles daily are fought on the hour in the lovenests of the rooms. I never saw a ballplayer who could punch his way out of a cone of cotton candy—or a windy razzberry artist whose carcass, confused or not, was worth worrying about.

• • •

BASEBALL has always made a big thing about the right of the cash customer to holler and cuss and hurl personal insult at unpires and players. At one time, during the last war, young warriors with stars in their eyes were actually proclaiming, through the medium of the huckster, that they were fighting the war for their right to boo the Dodgers. This seemed to be oversimplification of military aim.

I would not like to see ballplayers assaulting cash customers with bats as a steady practice, but if more ballplayers waited outside the gate for more screamers, baseball would be a pleasanter game to watch. The man who buys a punch in the mouth for overstressing the mouth's natural function is only purchasing poetic justice as a fair return on his investment.

• • •

ACTION IS DEFENDED

Mr. Durocher has always been known as a pretty competent mouthman, and hence should be less sensitive to abuse than some of the shyer practioners of his art. But in a democracy—now they've got me doing it—there must be some bylaw which says that informal combat between two blowhards is not only legal but salubrious.

I hope Mr. Durocher does not suffer from his latest "incident" but I hope even more heartily that it does not drag out into a congressional investigation. We have already devoted a great deal of attention to a shove, whether or not it occurred, and we must remember that Mr. Durocher, after all, did not take a machine gun and assassinate the President in the dark of the moon. All he did—or didn't do—was cuff a guy who undoubtedly had a clout coming.

Today's Thought

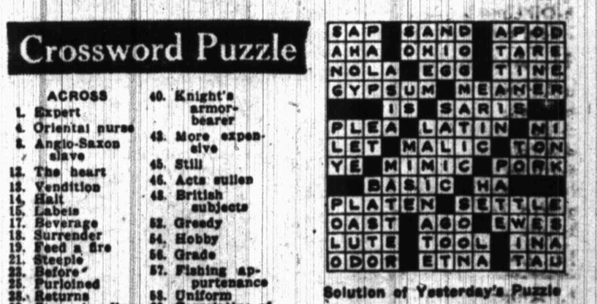

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.—Matthew 5:13.

Hold yourself responsible for a higher standard than anybody else expects of you. Never excuse yourself. Never pity yourself. Be a hard master to yourself—and be lenient to everybody else. —Beecher.

Today's Journal Editorial

MORE RECOGNITION FOR LUBBOCK

Lubbock has abundant reason for pride in its growing importance as an air transportation center. A few years ago, the city had no airline service. Lines now radiate in many directions. We are within 10 to 12 hours of New York City, within eight hours of the Pacific coast and with 60 hours of any major center on the globe.

But travel to distant points now requires plane changes. Service would be improved if some of this inconvenience could be eliminated. Prospects seem encouraging that present hearings before the Civil Aeronautics board may result in direct service between Lubbock and the West Coast. The fact that several lines are seeking permits to inaugurate such flights is persuasive of their conviction as to its need.

The CAB may, or may not, deem the time ripe to approve such service. But, regardless of that, it is significant that Lubbock, which was omitted from commercial aviation maps a few years ago, now occupies a spot of recognized importance. The probability is most encouraging that the city's importance in this respect will grow, with occasional disappointments along the line, if we are alert to opportunities.

Iron Lung Is Given To City

Mayor W. H. Rodgers, guest of honor Wednesday night at Beta Sigma Phi sorority Founder's Day dinner, accepted, in the name of the city and county of Lubbock, an iron lung presented by the sorority, and expressed deep gratitude of the people of this area for the gift.

The dinner, attended by 128 members and guests, marked the eighteenth anniversary of the sorority's founding, and honored the organization that has grown to include 3,000 chapters with over 70,000 members in the U.S. and many foreign countries.

During the war the national sorority engaged in extensive USO work and received a special citation for having sold $22,000,000 in War Bonds.

A recent project of the organization was the purchase of a complete TB mobile unit, which was presented to the State of Texas. Considerable cancer research also has been financed by the organization in keeping with its policy of service.

The Lubbock Beta Sigma Phi is divided into four chapters, Alpha Delta, Theta Chi, Zeta Chi, and Zeta Delta, for young women, and a junior chapter, Mu Phi Mu, for college students. Many of the young women are married, however it is the policy of the sorority to use given names in reporting activities of the organization.

Recognition of outstanding members was made at the banquet. Mary Evelyn Kelly, Bernice Bay, Mary Grace Parkinson, Peggy Woods, Melba Lacey and Burlene Mangum received awards.

Presentation of the iron lung was made by Berniece Hartzog, president of the sorority city council.

History Related

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, a guest at the dinner, said that the iron lung presented by the sorority is greatly improved over the original. It is portable, and, instead of encasing the entire body, fits only over the chest. There are six sizes included in the equipment so that any person may be fitted, Chief Twitty said.

The history of Beta Sigma Phi was related by Georgia Mae Galloway. Peggy Woods read a message from Walter W. Ross, founder.

Musical entertainment was by a local trio composed of Mary Grace Parkinson, Lorena Mayfield and Mildred Chauncey.

Initiation Held

The sorority Ritual of the Jewels, in which pledges are brought into the organization, followed the dinner. The following pledges received the rites: Alpha Delta pledges, Ernestine Carr, Nina Elgin, Evelyn Harbison, Shirley Freienmuth, Mary Graham, Mary Helen Millington, Roberta Spears, Shirley Schulz and Nelda Snow. Gladys Ruth Parnell is president of Alpha Delta.

Zeta Delta pledges, Mary Ruth Diltz, Joann Edwards, Betty Massey, Sue Onstead, Inez Ross, Helen Minchew, Dorris Lively, Patricia Marquis, Maxine Todd and Mae Dell Truell, received the rites from president Dorothy Van Pelt.

Theta Chi pledges Frances Boyd, Mae Carroll, Catherine Crum, Lorraine Graham, Lois Ruth Hawkins, Ruth Millsap, Ann Page, Thelma Shepherd Virginia Torrence and Jean Wood received the rites from president Elaine Lewis.
