NIXON SHOULD WITHDRAW ALL TROOPS UNLESS DRUG TRAFFIC HALTED?

Many Americans In Viet Being Hooked On Heroin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new congressional report says so many American soldiers in Vietnam are being hooked on heroin that President Nixon should withdraw all U.S. troops unless the drug traffic is halted.

The report, prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee, says many high-ranking Laotian, Thai and Vietnamese officials have a major hand in illegal drug sales to GIs. In some cases, it says, U.S. planes and diplomatic pouches are used to ferry opium and heroin into Saigon.

The report recommends the President "take personal command of the struggle to eliminate the illegal international traffic in narcotics, particularly heroin, and commit the full resources of the country to that battle."

If these efforts fail, the study said, "The only solution is to withdraw American servicemen from Southeast Asia."

Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn., is principal author of the report compiled after he and Rep. Morgan F. Murphy, D-Ill., toured Southeast Asia earlier this year.

An earlier report from the House Armed Services Committee also described corruption in the drug trade among South Vietnamese officials, but stopped short of indicating how heroin gets into Vietnam.

"In Laos, government armed forces are major wholesalers of opium and heroin and have been directly involved in large-scale smuggling activity," the new study says. "Reliable sources report that at least two high-ranking Laotian officials, military and governmental, including the chief of the Laotian general staff, are deeply involved in smuggling activity."

Most of the opium from which heroin is produced is grown in Burma and processed to Laos or Thailand.

"In Thailand," the report said, "a former diplomat and member of one of the most respected Thai families is reputed to be one of the key figures in the opium, morphine base, and heroin operations in that country and throughout Southeast Asia."

To get the drugs into Vietnam, Steele's report said, South Vietnamese and Laotian Air Force planes are frequently used.

A lesser amount is smuggled in on Air America, a Central Intelligence Agency-financed airline in Southeast Asia, the report said, adding there is evidence some diplomatic pouches carried from embassy to embassy also have been used for smuggling.

Some Thai soldiers carry heroin into Saigon without fear of being caught, according to the study.

Steele has estimated between 15 and 20 per cent of Americans in Vietnam have used heroin.

Midland Republican Threatens Remap Suit

AUSTIN (AP)— Speaker Gus Mutscher's House redistricting plan that clobbers many of his sternest critics drew a threat of a lawsuit today.

Rep. Tom Craddick, a Midland Republican, said he would sue if the plan that finally passes splits Midland County — as Mutscher's bill proposes.

The speaker said the measure would come up for floor debate Friday and told reporters "sure," when asked if it had enough votes to pass.

FILED IN 1963

State Republican party headquarters said it had filed a motion in a 1963 redistricting suit still pending in a Houston federal court, realigning the state GOP chairman, Dr. George Willeford, as a plaintiff.

The suit, which originally named Willeford's predecessor, Peter O'Donnell Jr., as a defendant, challenges the constitutionality of multi-member districts.

The plan proposed by the House Redistricting Committee throws a dozen of the self-named "dirty 30" into situations where they would have to oppose incumbent representatives if they seek re-election.

Craddick usually votes with the "dirty 30."

"We have the papers all drawn up. All we have to do is fill in the date," Craddick said.

Midland County was split to give conservative Democrat Rep. Grant Jones of Abilene enough people to conform his district to the one-man one-vote rule. Craddick would probably be at a disadvantage in a race with Jones in the proposed district.

'DIRTY 30' VIEWS

"The reason they gutted us was to get rid of a Republican. I voted the way I thought was right, not the way I was told," Craddick said.

Other members of the "dirty 30" were just as outspoken in criticizing the plan.

"It reeks of pettiness," said Rep. Tom Moore of Waco, who found himself lumped into a district with another member of the faction, Rep. Lane Denton of Waco.

"I just hate small-bore, juvenile, petty politics," Moore said.

Rep. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty, who is not one of the outcasts but who has worked quietly toward a possible race against Mutscher for speaker, found himself paired with Rep. John Hannah of Lufkin.

The other leading contender for speaker, Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine, also found himself in a district with a fellow incumbent, Rep. Jack Hawkins of Groesbeck.

Taft Favorite Son Candidate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., announced today he would be a favorite son candidate for president obligated to President Nixon in Ohio's 1972 presidential election.

Taft, at a news conference, said he took the action in an effort to keep outside influences from attempting to embarrass Nixon in the 1972 elections.

"I invite all Ohio Republican leaders to join with me to make sure that the delegation sent to the 1972 convention will be as one, solidly pledged to support the renomination and re-election of President Richard M. Nixon," Taft said.

Taft said there were signs that forces from outside Ohio were plotting to embarrass the President in Republican primaries throughout the country.

"I do not feel the activities of these groups will be helpful to the cause of peace or the future of our nation or the Republican party," Taft said.

He said Nixon should not be burdened with such political fights while preoccupied with winding down the Vietnam War and building up the economy.

"By announcing now as a favorite son candidate in Ohio, I hope to provide a focal point around which Republicans and independents can rally in expressing support for the President in the May, 1972, primary election," Taft said.

BSHS Seniors Graduate Today

Approximately 380 cap-and-gown-clad seniors will receive diplomas at 7:30 p.m. today in graduation exercises in Memorial Stadium.

Smith, principal, and introduced by Harold D. Bentley, assistant principal. School board members Delnor Poss and Ralph McLaughlin will present diplomas.

John M. Talmadge, assistant principal, will be in charge of the awards portion of the program.

Mary Dirks and Kent Fish are graduation speakers. Randall Womack, senior class president, will give the traditional class president's address.

The Meistersingers, led by Kenny Sheppard, will sing the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and Nancy Bortner will play the processional. Michael Pope will bring the invocation, and Louis Dunnam will word the benediction.

LAST DAY OF SCHOOL TODAY

Report cards in the elementary schools will be distributed today. High school students will receive report cards in the mail. Teachers will work Friday for grade reporting purposes.

Police Topic Of Closed City Session

City commissioners and the city manager met in closed session with members and representatives of the Big Spring Police Department Wednesday afternoon in city hall.

The meeting was held to discuss matters of personnel policy concerning the police department, according to Larry Crow, city manager.

"We have discussed personnel problems relating to the police department. We now have a better understanding regarding chain of command, and I feel we have reached an accord," said Larry Crow, city manager.

Those attending the meeting were Arnold Marshall, mayor; Wade Choate, mayor pro tem; Jack Watkins, commissioner, Frog Koger, commissioner; Eddie Acri, commissioner; Larry Crow, city manager; Guilford Jones, counsel for the police association; Larry Lee, police association president; and Jay Banks, police chief.

Fourth Suspect Back In Texas

Tommy Tisdale, fourth suspect arrested in connection with the murder of Steve Currie, 71, is in custody in Bexar County Jail, San Antonio, according to 118th District Attorney Wayne Burns.

"I hope to have Tisdale back here by the first part of June," said Burns. Tisdale was transferred from Phoenix, Ariz., to Texas the first part of this week.

Floyd Palmer, fifth suspect in the case, is currently being sought in connection with the shotgun slaying of the Glasscock County rancher. Palmer was indicted for murder with malice April 29. Burns said that he has received no definite word on Palmer's location.

The first trial in connection with the Dec. 2 murder is slated for June 21 in Glasscock County. Whitmer Jean Ballard, 45, first suspect indicted in connection with the murder, will be tried at that time. Ballard is in custody in Howard County Jail.

Orville Davis, 51, reposes in Martin County Jail while awaiting word on his trial date. Davis was arrested Jan. 3 and indicted Jan. 18 for murder with malice.

Judy Dunham, 20, and Tisdale were indicted for murder with malice April 29. Miss Dunham is currently free on $25,000 bond.

Machete Murders Mystery Mounts

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — A farm labor contractor is charged formally in a mass murder case that has yielded the hacked bodies of 12 men found buried in Northern California peach orchards.

A search continued today for more possible victims of the assailant who hacked each of the 12 in the back of the head with a machete or a large, heavy knife.

Juan V. Corona, 37, a migrant labor recruiter for 15 years in Yuba City's peach and prune growing region, was held in isolation in the three-cell women's section of the small Sutter County jail.

NO MOTIVE

Corona was taken before Justice Court Judge J. J. Hankins Wednesday for a brief, closed hearing on 10 counts of murder filed by Dist. Atty. G. Dave Teja. Two bodies were found after those papers were drawn.

Roy J. Van den Heuvel, Sutter County public defender named as Corona's counsel, asked that newsmen and photographers be barred from the hearing.

Before the hearing, Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker declared: "We're certain he committed the murders."

But he said he knew of no motive—"none at all, none that we can discover."

"All of the murder victims have the same type of wounds in the back of the head," the sheriff said. "I would rule out an axe as the murder weapon.

"It could have been either a machete or a heavy knife."

STABBED IN CHEST

Most of the victims also have been stabbed in the chest and some were cut on the face, he said.

Corona was arrested shortly after 4 a.m. Wednesday at his three-year-old, $22,000 home in the new Richland Road subdivision in Yuba City after officers had dug nine victims from sandy orchard graves three to five feet deep.

The sheriff and his deputies refused to say what evidence pointed to the husky 5-foot-11 Mexican-American known to his Anglo neighbors as a very quiet man with little command of English.

The first grave was discovered last Thursday in the orchard of Goro Kagehiro five miles north of Yuba City, a fruit growing center 135 miles northeast of San Francisco on the Feather River.

Kagehiro called sheriff's officers after noting that a hole two feet deep and six feet long he observed in the morning had been filled by afternoon.

The body of Kenneth Edward Whitacre, 40, of Alameda, Calif., was dug up there.

BATTLE OF THE SEXES — A New York City policeman pins female demonstrator against hood of car as she grabs him by the throat in melee outside Bachelors II restaurant in New York Wednesday night. ## General Accepts Acreage, Honorary City Mayoralty

Lt. Gen. George B. Simler came to town Wednesday to receive a hefty parcel of land for the Air Force, and ended up receiving for himself a western hat and the designation of honorary mayor of Big Spring for the day.

The amenities took place at a luncheon at the Webb AFB Officers Club, where the wing commander, Col. A. W. Atkinson was host to some 35 public officials, Base-Community Council leaders and military officers.

At the affair, Mayor Arnold Marshall presented to the Air Force the deed to some 1,200 acres of land which the city had voted to transfer.

General Simler is commander of the Air Training Command, in which Webb is one of 10 undergraduate pilot training bases.

Since Webb came into being in October, 1951, it has operated with a "split-ownership" problem. About half the base was under lease from the city, and the remainder, through the years, was acquired in fee by the government. Many of the major Webb installations have been constructed on the leased land.

The dual ownership created many operational and planning problems and Webb, and after a study of the situation, the City Commission some months ago voted to transfer its acreage to the Air Force.

Said Marshall in presenting the deed: "We hope this serves to solidify our relationship, which has been so fine through the years."

Said Gen. Simler in accepting: "This is an unusual event for me, and it is a great thing you people have done for the Air Force and the Air Training Command. We appreciate so much the support of the people here and the city. The cooperation here has been outstanding, and we are most pleased with our operation here. Webb is one of our most productive bases."

Then came the personal touch when Marshall announced the "mayor for a day" honor and presented the hat from the citizens of the city.

COWBOY GENERAL? — Lt. Gen. George B. Simler, commanding general of the Air Training Command, was a visitor at Webb AFB Wednesday, and at a luncheon of local dignitaries and military leaders, was presented with a western hat, courtesy of Big Spring citizens. He donned the five-gallon model with a smile. Gen. Simler was here to accept for the Air Force title to the acreage in Webb AFB which had been leased from the city.

Redistricting Affects Area

A drastic change in the legislative district now served by Dee Jon Davis of Big Spring is proposed in a redistricting bill sent to the House in Austin Wednesday by a special committee.

Under this proposal, which is subject to action by the full legislature, Davis would be placed in an area served by Rep. Renal Rosson of Snyder. The district is outlined to include Howard, Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell and King counties.

Davis currently serves Howard, Mitchell and Nolan. Mitchell and Nolan would be moved into a district which includes portions of Taylor and Midland counties, along with Glasscock and Sterling.

The district served by Rosson now includes Borden, Crosby, Fisher, Garza, Haskell, Kent, King, Scurry and Stonewall counties.

Soviet Sailor Sentenced

MOSCOW (AP) — Simas Kudirka, the Soviet sailor who was refused asylum by the U.S. Coast Guard last November, has been sentenced to 10 years in a prison camp, a court official in Soviet Luthuania said today.

The Lithuanian Supreme Court convicted Kudirka of treason last week, the court spokesman said in a telephone conversation from Vilnus, the Lithuanian capital.

He refused to give any details of the trial. But a 10-year sentence for treason is comparatively light.

There is no appeal from a supreme court sentence less than death and therefore no further legal action in the case was expected.

Kudirka tried to defect to the United States last Nov. 23 when his ship, the Sovetskaya Litva, tied up to the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Vigilant for an officers' conference on fishing rights.

While the two ships were linked, Kudirka jumped onto the Vigilant and asked for asylum. The Soviet ship captain asked for his return and 10 hours later, on orders from Coast Guard headquarters in Boston, the Vigilant handed him back.

The Coast Guard's decision was widely criticized, and two officers, Rear Adm. William B. Ellis and Capt. Fletcher W. Brown Jr., were given their choice of retirement or a court-martial for their part in the decision. They retired.

Four Skyjack Romanian Plane, Land In Vienna

VIENNA (AP) — Four men hijacked a Romanian plane carrying 15 passengers and a crew of four today and forced it to fly to Vienna, where it landed safely, the Austrian news agency APA reported.

It was not immediately known where the plane, belonging to Romania's Tarom airline, was when the men commandeered it.

The nationality of the hijackers was not known, but the APA report said they were believed to be Romanians.

It was the fourth forced landing of an East European plane in Austria.

Last August a father and his two sons forced a Czechslovak airliner to land here. Three months earlier a Czechoslovak clerk wounded the pilot of a two-engined company-owned plane with a pocket knife to enforce landing at Linz. In November, 1969, two Poles hijacked a Polish Lot airplane to Vienna by telling the pilot they had explosives hidden in a bag.

Vote Rights Law Violated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The acting chief of the Justice Department's civil rights division says some Mississippi counties are violating the Voting Rights Act but most are expecting to comply soon.

Asst. Atty. Gen. David L. Norman's optimism was not shared Wednesday by members of a House judiciary subcommittee critical of the department's performance in Mississippi.

"This kind of nonenforcement is not what Congress had in mind when it passed the Voting Rights Act," said Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the panel.

Edwards said Jones County, Miss., has restored the names of less than half the 34,000 voters stricken from the rolls since March 1.

The subcommittee, which is looking into the Justice Department's enforcement of the act, was also unhappy that Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell turned down its invitation to testify.

"The question of eliminating racism in American politics is of high enough moment that we should hear from Atty. Gen. Mitchell, not a representative of his," Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., said.

Conyers said the subcommittee should consider meeting with Mitchell in his Justice Department office if he is unable to come to the Capitol.

The subcommittee is investigating enforcement of a Voting Rights Act provision requiring seven Southern States to get prior approval from the attorney general before changing their voting laws or procedures.

Rampaging Winds Claw Northeastern Oklahoma

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A savage, farflung storm system clawed northeastern Oklahoma Wednesday night with pounding hail, driving rain and 80-mile-an-hour wids. Damage was so extensive that an accurate estimate may not be possible for days.

Almost unbelievably, no serious injuries were reported — only cuts from flying broken glass. Hospitals reported treating 43 persons.

The rampaging winds overturned dozens of mobile homes in and around Tulsa, and knocked out electrical service in Tulsa, Broken Arrow, Jenks, Cushing and Pawee.

The storms were spawned along a 125-mile line from Tulsa to central Oklahoma. Police in Oklahoma City said five funnels were confirmed in the skies over eastern Oklahoma County.

Telephone service to numerous small communities in northeastern Oklahoma was disrupted for hours, producing an ominous silence until emergency radio and power systems were pressed into service.

Three mobile homes were overturned in Stillwater. Heavy hail reported caused extensive damage to wheat around Waynoka and Carmen.

Tornado funnels aloft were unofficially reported in and around Tulsa and at Sand Springs, Broken Arrow, Cushing, Pawnee and Perkins. Law enforcement officials could confirm none of the twisters.

Broken Arrow was completely blacked out for a time, as was nearby Jenks. Public Service Co. officials said about 40 primary feeder lines were out at one time, plunging about 40,000 persons into darkness.

Service crews worked throughout the night repairing fallen lines, although one official admitted it would be "some time today" before full power is restored to the area.

Tulsa and Broken Arrow appeared the hardest hit.

Senate-House Conferees Swap Millions Of $ $ $ $ $

AUSTIN (AP) — Wedged around a polished oval table, 10 senators and representatives "traded" millions of dollars in state money Wednesday night to work out a compromise on financing state government.

The weary staff of the Legislative Budget Board tried to figure out today how much the lawmakers want to spend over the next two years.

SNAPS LOGJAM

A late decision by the five Senate members of the appropriations conference committee to yield to House demands for less money for Texas colleges apparently broke a logjam.

It wiped out $45 million which Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and his conferees had insisted must go in the bill.

Barnes finally said they had decided not to force a special legislative session over the issue adding, "We had no alternative."

House negotiators had held out for a tuition increase for Texans attending state-financed colleges and Rep. W. S. Heatly of Paducah, head of the House conferees, also wanted a $5 million veterinary school at Texas Tech.

"I can't believe you're trading higher education for one little vet school," said Barnes.

They compromised over Heatly's insistent proposal for $6 million for a neuropsychiatric institute at Dallas—allocating $1.6 million which would enable the school to pick up $2 million in federal funds.

TECH MED FUNDS

The negotiators also agreed on a $17:5 million appropriation for the Tech medical school but rejected supplying another $17.5 million if Tech cannot get federal matching funds.

"I ain't for having nay (money) in the bill until they produce a teaching hospital," said Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells.

The negotiating session resembled a sophisticated showdown between gunslingers, with Barnes shedding his coat to take a place cross the table from Heatly.

Puffing a long thin cigar, Barnes urged the negotiators, "Let' move on, let's move on . . . and put this bill to bed tonight."

Some of the tough decisions were passed over, but in most cases they decided whether to accept the Senate or House version on spending for a school, agency or project.

A $1 million proposal to build a Spindletop museum for Lamar University at Beaumont was kept alive by Barnes although four senators said they flatly opposed the project, which would house oil and gas archives.

"I'm committed," Barnes said, and the negotiators let it drop without another word of protest.

Barnes also mentioned a totally new figure of $120,000 a year for graduate programs at Angelo State University, saying he and Speaker Gus Mutscher had agreed on it.

"How long do you have to sit on this committee before you get used to this?" asked Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso.

'YOU DON'T'

"You don't," chorused two others.

Cut out of Angelo's appropriation, however, was $100,000 for research on the eradication of mesquite trees.

"Mesquite!" exclaimed several conferees.

The proposal died swiftly.

A $20,000 appropriation for Sul Ross to set up a research center at Boquillas in the Big Bend also was removed after the only defender of the proposal, Rep. Dick Slack of Pecos, said, "I'm for it—but I can't explain what it is."

Senators suggested he do his homework next time.

Once when Creighton proposed settling the stalemate over the Tech vet school by polling the conferees, Heatly snapped back, "We'll start voting on the social workers at Arlington."

The reference was to an extra $400,000 Heatly had agreed to for the school of social work at the college in Creighton's district.

The Senate committee agreed to a House proposal to spend $250,000 at the environmental science park at Bastrop, near Austin, after a House member said it was connected with M.D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute at Houston.

"If that's the case, let 'em have whatever they want," said Sen. A.M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, who always supports Anderson's requests.

It was also decided to make anyone on state business fly tourist class—to save money — rather than first class, unless they wanted to pay the difference.

The negotiators rubbed out a proposal to pay 10 cents a mile travel expense for state employes on state business if they drive an American car and 7 cents if they drive a foreign-made auto.

And on it went.

Local Man Appeals Decision

Theo Kimble has appealed to the Texas Education Agency the decision by the Big Spring school board to uphold the administrative decision that Kimble's son Conell had not been mistreated at school.

The board upheld the administration in its May 10 meeting. Kimble had alleged that his son, in the sixth grade at Park Hill, had been kicked by a teacher.

'Decade Of Service' Event Booked Tonight For Tower

DALLAS (AP)—A "decade of service" appreciation dinner will be held tonight for Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., on the 10th anniversary of his victory in a 1961 runoff for the Senate seat vacated by Lyndon Johnson.

The $150-a-plate dinner at the Fairmont Hotel in Dallas is sponsored by "Friends of John Tower," a statewide bipartisan organization.

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, eight U.S. senators and two congressmen are due to attend and participate in the program.

Bud Wilkinson, special consultant to President Nixon and former national champion football coach at Oklahoma, will be the master of ceremonies.

When first elected at age 35, Tower was the Senate's youngest member. He is now 50th in seniority, but only 17 senators are younger than he.

History's Marks On City Recalled In Celebration

By JULIE FLINT
Associated Press Writer

YORK, England (AP) — Emperors, conquerors, brigands and bombs all have left their mark on the ancient cathedral city of York.

But the quaint, cobbled city, which combines the best of the past and the present, has withstood centuries of plunder and power-games and this year celebrates the 1900th anniversary of its foundation in 71 A.D. by the Roman governor of Britain, Quintus Petillius Cerealis.

Thousands of visitors already are flocking to the city, sandwiched between the industrial Midlands and busy Tyneside, for the most lavish celebrations ever staged within its 14th century walls.

The festivities, which will be in full swing from May to October, remind both the casual visitor and the careless local that York is, and always has been, a pretty explosive place.

It was here that Guy Fawkes was born in 1570, 35 years before he set his sights on blowing up parliament and wound up with his head on the block.

And it was here that in 1739 the notorious highwayman and horse-thief Dick Turpin took his last bold step — up the gallows.

Ever since its foundation, York has suffered at the rapacious hands of greedy warlords and power-loving politicians.

The military capital of Roman Britain and a key point on the route to the North, its early history was scarred by bloody clashes between the occupying forces and oppressed northerners.

Peace was not restored with the expulsion of that first invader: the city was still to feel the wrath of William the Conqueror, Oliver Cromwell and, ultimately, the German bomb.

Another highlight is the recreation of the funeral of Roman emperor Lucius Septimius Severus, who ended his despotic rule in York in 211 A.D.

ADVICE THOUSANDS OF AMERICAN AREN'T ABOUT TO TAKE

Nothing Under The Sun Will Prevent Sunburn Except Shade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Americans are on the verge of a love affair in which they're certain to get burned.

They don't have to get burned by the object of their affection, the sun. But arrayed against their hopes of making it through the summer without pain are sun tan preparations which offer no protection; sunburn remedies whose curative powers are disputed; drugs, soaps and cosmetics which can make sun bathers super-sensitive, and their own ignorance.

Americans spend more than $50 million a year looking for the right suntan preparation, although an official of the Food and Drug Administration says, "There's nothing that will prevent a sunburn except staying out of the sun."

The American Medical Association won't go that far. It cautions moderation in exposure to the sun and says, "Properly applied suntan lotion can be helpful in preventing a burn and promoting a tan if you use one suited to your needs."

That's the problem.

"The selection of one brand of suntan preparation over another is virtually a hit-and-miss procedure," said the AMA's Committee on Cosmetics.

The odds favor missing. An AMA survey of 10 stores turned up 56 different creams, lotions and oils, of which 32 listed no sunscreening agent to protect against sunburn.

Claims made in the label on a suntan preparation are a buyer's most important clue in lotion hunting.

Under federal law, if the label says a product prevents sunburn, the product is considered a drug. The label must list its active ingredients, which must include the chemicals called sunscreens. If a product's label says only that it promotes tanning, it is classified a cosmetic and is not required to list ingredient or protect against the sun.

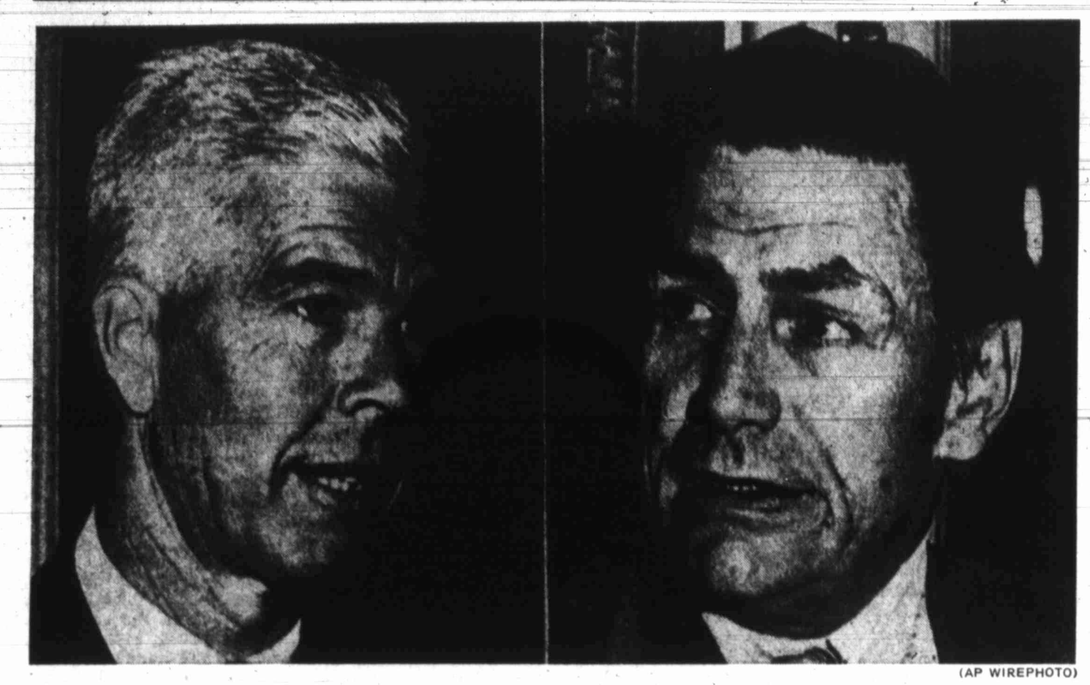

How widely the effectiveness of products that claim to prevent sunburn can vary was indicated by a study in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The study showed that three experimental formulas, which have since been marketed, filtered out as much as 80 per cent of the sun's burning rays. The more popular products in the same line provided about 10 per cent protection, with several others offering even less.

The study, done on human volunteers, said none of the 24 popular brands tested offered adequate protection for more than an hour, and 20 products afforded almost no protection for even 30 minutes when the subjects were sweating heavily.

The makers of tanning butters, mineral oils and baby oils promise help toward a deep, dark tan. But the AMA warns against overconfidence in products without sunscreens and notes that baby and mineral oils in particular "will not promote tanning or prevent burning."

DRAFT MEASURES FAIL — Sens. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., left, and Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, meet newsmen at the Capitol where their proposals on the military draft were voted down, giving the Nixon administration a victory in its fight for a two-year draft extension. Dominick's bid for an 18-month extension lost, 67-8. Hughes' move to sharply increase proposed military pay raises toward an all-volunteer Army was rejected, 42-31.

Progress Today May Decide Need For Special Session

AUSTIN (AP) — Today may decide if the 62nd Texas Legislature must have a special session to finish up its present work load.

Senators and House members watched tensely an uneasy armistice between their negotiators over a $7 billion spending bill to pay for state government operations the next two years.

And both houses faced long calendars of so-called "must" bills that must be passed by at least one chamber before Friday or face almost certain defeat.

MONEY PROBLEMS

Monday midnight is the mandatory end to the 140-day regular session with the final hours restricted to compromise agreements.

Both houses expected Saturday sessions and possibly a highly unusual Sunday meeting.

After several hours of intense negotiating Wednesday night with Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes nose-to-nose against Rep. Bill Heatly, Paducah, House appropriations chairman, the two-year spending bill was sent to the printers still $45 million shy of the senators' demands.

Barnes said he would work with speaker Gus Mutscher today in an effort to find money to finance the additional $45 million the Senate wants for collective services and organized research.

However, Barnes said the Senate would not bring on a special session just to get the additional $45 million spending for higher education.

Meanwhile, both the House and Senate faced a number of final votes on several issues already given tentative approval.

Traffic Control Under Study

Eight items listed on the agenda are scheduled for discussion in the Big Spring Traffic Commission regular meeting Friday at 10 a.m. in city hall.

Heading the agenda will be a discussion of traffic control on state highways within the city limits with Joe Smoot, resident engineer.

The commission also will discuss in the meeting the possibility of a "right turn on red after stop" sign on the south service road of FM 700 and Goliad. This recommendation has been up for discussion in past traffic commission meetings several times and as of yet has not been resolved.

The commission also will consider and hear six other discussions and recommendations about traffic control, the addition of caution lights and traffic signs at various intersections and the reduction of speed limits on certain roads in the city.

Coahoma 4-H Club Meets

Patricia Fryar and Debbie Wall presented their method demonstration "Gladiolas for Flower and Beauty" which they will present in competition at the 4-H Round-Up Wednesday and Thursday.

The county-wide 4-H Club picnic Friday was discussed and all members were urged to attend. Plans for the Junior Rodeo and election of the County 4-H Club Queen will be discussed and money for the state candy sale will be collected.

The next meeting will be a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Fryar June 21. The club queen representative will be chosen and new officers will be installed.

Burnett will take over his duties in Gainesville June 22.

Recreation Program Sign-Up Is Doing Well

Good response to the sign-up for the learn-to-swim class, the first event of the Citywide Summer Recreation program, was reported today by Eddie Trice, supervisor.

So far 66 youngsters have been registered for the week-long instruction at Comanche Park swimming pool, starting at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Parents may enroll their children at the Central YMCA. A pool fee of $1 is requested, but no child will be denied full participation because of lack of ability to pay the pool fee.

Similarly, Trice urged parents to sign up for their children in the summer recreation program which will commence at 9 a.m. June 7 and continue daily, Monday through Friday through July. So far, 37 youngsters have been signed, and many times that number can be accommodated.

Any child 6 years of age or over is eligible to take part. The only fee connected with this is a suggested $1 payment for arts and crafts supplies, but again no one is denied the program because of ability to pay the fee.

Sign-up for this must be by parents and is at the YMCA, administrative agency for the program which is made possible through the support of the City of Big Spring, the United Fund, the Big Spring Independent School District, and the Y.

CHEMICAL PLANT FIRE — Flames shoot skyward from three separate fires at the Oxirane Chemical Co. Wednesday night and early today after an explosion hit the plant.

Explosion Rocks Chemical Plant

HOUSTON (AP) — An explosion rocked the Oxirane Chemical Co. plant on the Houston ship channel late Wednesday night, and it took firemen five hours to quench the flames set off by the blast.

A company spokesman reported one employe, Jake Parris, suffered a broken ankle. He was taken to a Baytown hospital.

Four other men were treated for minor injuries and dismissed. They are Oxirane workers George Maurles, Philip Wells and Ray Bearden, and fireman John North.

Firefighters of the Humble Oil & Refining Co. teamed with firemen from La Porte and Pasadena in battling the furious blaze.

Officials said the cause of the explosion, felt at distances of several miles, had not been determined.

'I Am Here To Stay,' Bishop Tells Crowd At Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)— Bishop John J. Fitzpatrick, who told an enthusiastic crowd "I am here to stay," was to be installed today as third bishop of the Brownsville Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church.

The bishop-designate was given a warm reception by an estimated 1,000 persons Wednesday on his arrival from Miami, Fla., where he has been auxiliary bishop.

Bishop Fitzpatrick, a native of Canada, was chosen by Pope Paul VI to replace Bishop Humberto S. Medeiros, who was elevated last year to archbishop of Boston.

TWO CEREMONIES

Two installation ceremonies were planned, starting at 5 p.m. The first ceremony was private for priests of the diocese at Immaculate Conception Cathedral. The second was for the public in Jacob Brown Auditorium at the civic center, with about 3,000 persons from the predominantly Mexican - American diocese in the Lower Rio Grande Valley due to attend.

Archbishop Medeiros was to take part in the ceremony with Archbishop Francis Furey of San Antonio and Archbishop Cole Carroll of Miami.

Arriving almost two hours late on a Braniff International flight which was delayed at Houston with brake trouble, the bishop was first greeted by the Rev. E. A. Ballard, chancellor of the diocese.

The bishop-designate then was taken to a platform where numerous dignitaries extended a welcome.

While waiting for noise from the plane to stop, Bishop Fitzpatrick walked into the crowd, greeting priests and then the general public.

WAITED UNDER SUN

Many in the crowd had waited almost five hours under a hot sun.

The bishop was engulfed in a sea of smiling faces and outstretched hands as women and young girls kissed him on the cheek. He signed dozens of autographs and posed with a group of small children as their mother took pictures.

He shook every hand and greeted each person with a warm smile, occasionally winking and smiling at those who could not reach him.

"I came to Brownsville not to stay a few years, but to stay until I die," he said.

"I will do the best I can. I am an ordinary human being, but I can love you."

Closing his brief talk, the bishop asked those present to pray for him. "I need your prayers. Let us all pray for each other," he said.

The bishop was greeted by U.S. Rep. Eligio de la Garza of Mission, U.S. Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza, Brownsville Mayor Earle Griffey, Cameron County Judge Ray Ramon, Hidalgo County Judge Ed Gomez and Willacy County Judge Bill Rapp.

He was then taken to the chancery office in downtown Brownsville. Although the motorcade was more than two hours late by then, several hundred persons in small groups waved at the bishop.

VERY WELCOME

"I feel very warm, very much welcome and very much at home," he said.

A group of Mexican-American priests called PADRES had voiced strong criticism when it was announced that the bishop-designate of Brownsville was not a Mexican-American.

Speaking of the protest, the bishop said, "The protest was not against me, but against the decision. I hope they'll keep on saying what they feel."

One of the most outspoken critics of the appointment, Bishop Patrick Flores of San Antonio, the only Mexican-American bishop in the United States, said he would attend the ceremony.

Saying he felt "no displeasure that this particular man has been appointed," Bishop Flores said, "I feel that the people in the church responsible did the best they could in the given case and the given circumstance."

Nixon Tries To Dodge Judicial Nod Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with threats of a bitter opposition, President Nixon has decided not to nominate former Rep. Albert W. Watson of South Carolina to the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, administration sources say.

But these sources say Watson, who has built a reputation as a staunch opponent of racial integration, will get some administration job not requiring Senate confirmation.

Senate opposition to the 48-year-old Columbia attorney who served eight years in the House convinced the President naming him would result in a battle reminiscent of last year's Supreme Court battles, the sources say.

In those Senate brawls, Nixon nominees Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and G. Harrold Carswell were rejected for the high court.

And, according to sources in Congress and close to the White House, the predicted fight over a Watson nomination would have ended the same way: defeat for a Southerner and embarrassment for the President.

First public word that Watson was in line for the vacancy on the three-judge panel, the nation's highest military court, came last Thursday from Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

Thurmond issued a two-page statement announcing Watson "has been given tentative approval by President Nixon for appointment to the U.S. Military Court of Appeals, subject only to necessary clearance procedures."

CRYSTAL CLEAR

The statement said Thurmond was "confident those procedures can be successfully concluded in the next few weeks."

Republican and Democratic senators followed the Thurmond statement by starting a quiet effort to headoff any nomination for Watson.

One congressional source said Republican Senate leaders Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Robert P. Griffin of Michigan made it clear to the White House they could not support Watson's nomination.

Big Spring Citizens Reflect On Childhood Career Dreams

By LINDA CROSS

"Rich man, poor man . . . doctor, lawyer, Indian chief" are the words to a child's game of what-will-I-be-when-I-grow-up. Often, even those that are in the professions that many children dream of getting into wanted to be something else as a child. This is what some Big Springers had to say about their childhood dreams.

Mayor Arnold Marshall — "When I was a boy, it was the days of Tom Mix, and I wanted to be the greatest bronc-riding cowboy and ride a big, white horse."

118th District Judge Ralph W. Caton — "I had illusions of going into the diplomatic service or the foreign service as it's now called. I majored in government in college and progressed into law."

Judge Caton added that it took him a little over seven years to get his law degree, and that it now takes seven-to seven-and-a-half years to complete requirements for a bachelor's of arts degree and the law degree. Some colleges, such as Texas Tech, he said, are trying to reduce the years of required study to six.

Dr. Clyde Thomas Jr. — "I had intended to be a lawyer. My father was a lawyer. When I was a senior in high school, I became an office boy for Drs. Hall and Bennett. After 10 months with them, I decided what I really wanted to be was a doctor. You can see that it's a satisfying career. You never see a doctor who retires — he keeps working whether he needs the money or not."

He added that when he began his medical studies, a total of six years was required plus internship. Currently, four years of pre-medical school, four years of medical school and one to five years of post-graduate training including internship, residency and specialization are required. Dr. Thomas said that some medical schools are trying to get back to the old requirement of six years of study.

Bill McIlvain, foreman of the H. H. Wilkerson Ranch — "I always have been in ranching. I was raised on a ranch, and I'm doing what I always wanted to do. I tried railroading and farming for a while, but I always went back to ranching."

"It was a good way of life when I started about 60, or maybe not quite that many, years ago. Nowadays, everything is done in a pickup. The horses like to ride in trailers more than the men like to ride in pickups. You haul 'em four miles to ride them one, and then they're ready to get back in the trailer," said McIlvain.

Melvin Darratt, warrant officer, Big Spring police department — "I always dreamed of being a highway patrolman and riding a motorcycle. You couldn't get me on one now. Once you've gotten into police work, you don't want out. The pay gets better as the years go on, and at least, it's a career with a future."

Mrs. Mary A. Rush, Cedar Crest Elementary school teacher — "I always did want to be a teacher. At first, I wanted to be a high school teacher. After I did my practice teaching, I decided to teach the smaller children. I grew up in a teaching family. My parents weren't teachers but my aunts and cousins were. Two of my children have gone into teaching, and it's the best career in the world for a working mother. You're home when the children are, and you have the same holidays."

Mrs. Helen Green, secretary, Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. — "I finished high school in Dallas, and I wanted to be a radio accompianist. I had always enjoyed being a piano accompianist. I didn't like solos. I had been offered a scholarship at a conservatory. Someone told me you needed shorthand and typing to get a job on radio. About the time I learned the shorthand and typing, we moved to Big Spring. When we got here, there were no radio stations, and there were no jobs. It was during the Depression. I brushed up on typing and shorthand at the high school and got a job with Cosden."

"The first thing I did was to make my daughters learn shorthand and typing. They can always earn their living. Everyone, boy or girl, should learn it. It helps with studies in high school and college," added Mrs. Green.

Memorial Day Rites Monday

A solemn, simple service Monday at 10 a.m. will mark the observance of Memorial Day in Big Spring.

American Legion Post 355 will sponsor the prescribed ritual paying respect to fallen comrades of all the wars of the nation. All other veterans organizations and other interested citizens have been invited to join in this brief salute to the men who gave their all for their country.

The rites will be said at the Veterans Monument at the east side of the Howard County courthouse and will consist of an invocation, presentation of the colors by the Webb AFB color guard, the formal remarks of the commander, and laying of a wreath at the foot of the memorial marker.

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces today reported killing 82 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in four clashes in the northern quarter of South Vietnam.

Some Americans were wounded in a mortar attack on their night camp 11 miles southeast of the demilitarized zone, but the U.S. Command would not disclose how many for security reasons.

Field reports said five South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 33 were wounded in the fighting in the northern sector Wednesday.

The biggest battle occurred in mountainous jungle on the eastern edge of the A Shau valley, 375 miles north of Saigon, a key transshipment point for North Vietnamese supplies moving through Laos into northern South Vietnam.

Troops of the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division operating six miles east of A Luoi battled a North Vietnamese force and called in artillery and U.S. bombers for support.

"Forty-seven enemy were killed in the engagement," said a communique from Saigon headquarters. The government forces also captured two heavy weapons, three rifles, 25 claymore mines, 50 grenades and 15 rockets. Field reports said three government soldiers were killed and 30 were wounded.

Another 35 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were reported killed by South Vietnamese infantrymen from the 2nd Division and U.S. helicopter gunships in three engagements in Quang Ngai province about 75 miles south of Da Nang. Field reports said two South Vietnamese troops were killed and three were wounded.

Saigon headquarters said Viet Cong terrorists set off an explosive charge in a market place near the provincial capital of Tuy Hoa, 240 miles northeast of Saigon, killing three persons and wounding 43 others.

Operation Breakthrough?

HUD Secretary George Romney has put a lot of energy and national resources into his department's "Operation Breakthrough." Last week, Secretary Romney made an expansive speech, laden with adjectives of great expectation.

A new factory, built in a former corn field near Battle Creek, Mich., produced an assembly-line house that Romney said would bring as much progress to the housing industry in the next 10 years "as we have seen in the past 10 centuries."

In the next decade, he said, 75 per cent of the nation's new housing will be assembly-line produced. This sounds a bit strong, but then cost factors could easily make him a prophet.

Most houses built and sold today — for under $15,000 — are assembly-line produced, but they're mobile homes. There are still tough restrictions against prefabricated houses. Some states have laws against their use. Many cities zone against them. But changes lie ahead. Mobile homes are mobile only in the sense that wheels are available from factory to site. After that, they usually abandon their wheels.

Assembly-line modular-constructed houses will be different. Parts are prefabricated and moved to building sites for final assembly into a variety of shapes and sizes. Basic units are 15 by 60 feet. Hope is that mass production methods will hold costs to within reach of Americans who need the houses. This may run into resistance of local codes and crafts, but again the cost factor may be the most compelling of all.

Two Losses

By coincidence, The Herald had announcements of two resignations in Monday's issue. Paul Gross is leaving to become the county agent at Lubbock, and Dr. Byron Orand is to become pastor of the historic First Baptist Church at Huntsville.

These are the kind of people you dislike losing, for both have made outstanding contributions to the community's progress and quality of living during their years here. The changes represent substantial career promotions, and we can rejoice in that. It is a sort of sweet pain to have the type of people others also want.

A Good Deed

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The little old lady was standing at the street corner nervously waiting to cross when the boy scout came up to her.

"Can I help you across the street, ma'am?" the boys scout said.

"Why, that's very kind of you," the little old lady said, extending her arm.

The boy scout took it, and the two started across the street. Then the little old lady whispered out of the side of her mouth, "I'm Harrigan, FBI. Anything to report?"

THE BOY scout looked surprised. "I beg your pardon, ma'am?"

The little old lady flashed a card in her pocketbook. "I'm Harrigan, FBI, in charge of the boy scout detail. You seen anything suspicious in the neighborhood?"

"I don't understand," the boy scout said. "Aren't you a little old lady?"

"No, dammit," Harrigan said. "If I were a little old lady, I'd be able to cross the street myself. Now tell me everything you know before someone gets suspicious."

"I CAN make some very interesting knots, sir. And I believe I have my signal flags down pretty good."

"I'm not interested in that. What's going on in the neighborhood? Have you heard of any priests or nuns conspiring to kidnap Henry Kissinger?"

"I don't know, sir. I'm with the Methodist troop."

"Never mind, and watch where you're going or we're going to get run over by a car.

"I NEED information. Anyone planning to blow up the underground heating system in the city?" Harrigan asked.

"Not that I know of. My brother said he was going to blow up his school."

"Very good," Harrigan said, taking a pad and pencil out of his pocketbook. "What's his name?"

"Gerard," the boy scout said. "But Mom said not to pay any attention to him. He's 7 years old."

HARRIGAN WAS getting exasperated. Several automobiles were honking their horns, and they hadn't reached halfway across the street.

"For a boy scout, you don't seem to know much about what is going on in the neighborhood," he said.

"I've been playing a lot of Little League baseball, and I have homework to do, and I have to do my good turn each day, so I haven't had too much time to look around," the boy scout said apologetically.

HARRIGAN SAID, "I imagine your scoutmaster told you what we are looking for: draft dodgers, bombers, public enemies and the people who stole our files in Media, Pennsylvania."

"Yes, sir. He gave us full instructions. If I see anybody like that, I'm to blow my whistle."

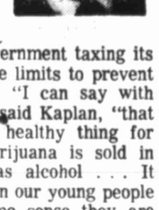

"Good. And remember, if you catch anybody, you get an FBI merit badge and a personally inscribed photo from J. Edgar Hoover."

SOMETHING NEW IN THEIR LAPS

Keep 'Em Happy?

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — In pondering testimony by one Dr. Donald B. Louria before the National Commission on Marijuana, I keep asking myself: If we got Louria, can legalized rape be far behind?

Louria, chairman of the Department of Public Health at the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, wants the National Institute of Mental Health to spend five million smackers to develop a drug that will give our hopheads pleasure without the harmful effects of marijuana.

ONE THING about Louria, his approach is simple. "If people have to have their drugs, isn't it our public health obligation to get them the drug that has the least potential for damage?" he asks. In other words, since some people apparently can't get along without a periodic fix, give it to them. It's a free country, isn't it? We want to make people happy, don't we?

WELL DANDY, Doc. I am with you 110 per cent in being against the government pushing people around. And once Louria's proposal is enacted, perhaps we should take a sympathetic look at other members of our society who have pressing, compulsive needs. There are adult males, for example, who get their kicks out of sexually assaulting little boys. It hardly seems fair to discriminate against those characters. There are folks who like to kill other folks. Why not establish a pool of the ailing aged and the mentally ill and let the killers get their kicks, too?

CURIOUSLY, Louria does not favor legalization of marijuana because he says there is a 20 per cent risk that marijuana users will go on to other, more harmful drugs. But the commission did hear from John Kaplan, a Stanford University Law professor, who claimed the laws against grass don't work and said they should be abolished.

Kaplan favored legalization of marijuana, with the government taxing its sale and setting age limits to prevent its use by minors. "I can say with some confidence," said Kaplan, "that it will be a very healthy thing for America when marijuana is sold in the same stores as alcohol . . . It will be healthy when our young people realize that in some sense they are no better than alcohol drinkers."

THE PROFESSOR seems to be saying that two wrongs add up to a right — although I do not buy the proposition that the average drinking man is as much of a menace to society as the junkie. At any rate, Kaplan manages to ignore studies by numerous experts which show that regular use of marijuana turns previously normal adolescents into psychotics, suffering serious psychological and neurological damage.

I TRUST we will have a little more discussion of the dope problem before President Nixon or Congress does anything rash about filling the "need" of the American people for a nice "safe" fix.

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be much more glass in automobile tires in coming years, says Alan R. Kerivan, an official whose firm produces fiberglass.

Has Business Changed?

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — In the yellowed notes on annual meetings of a decade ago there may be read the story of business in transition. From whence it came is clear, but where it goes is not.

There was little question in the minds of corporate officers and directors about how they were to conduct their annual meetings in 1960: Quietly, legally, quickly, confining remarks to the one main concern, which was profits.

There were notable exceptions to the style. Some even chose a campus setting, with the folding chairs set beneath the elms or under billowing tents.

At such affairs the company's products might be on exhibit, including a new one that would keep stockholders inspired with thoughts of future profits. A box lunch might be served. The officers extolled profits. Then some questions.

There were at the time only 12 million or 13 million shareholders in the United States, although that figure had grown rapidly from less than 6 million in the early '50s. But shareholders were still a class, privileged by wealth.

The scene changed by the year as more and more Americans built up savings. "People's Capitalism" was being sold like patent medicine. "Own a share of American industry." It was the route to vigorous financial health.

The oldtimers were quite willing to see the new capitalists attracted to their way of life because it meant higher prices for their shares. Everyone should be a shareholder, they said magnanimously.

Business boomed, and so did stocks. And many Americans did indeed make it to a new platform of living standards, not by using the old, tested route up the ladder, but by vaulting there on glamour stocks that quadrupled.

By the middle of the decade the number of shareholders was up to 20 million and headed to 30 million before the 60s were over. The activities of business became exposed to an informed public, and they didn't always look nice.

Brokers manipulated. Utilities polluted. International firms sold to countries which were hardly inspired by democratic values. Domestic companies discriminated in hiring. Munitions firms killed. Technology trampled human values.

Many annual meetings became chaotic affairs, picketed by youth, turned from their original purposes by demonstrators. Small shareholders seized the floor and demanded reforms. Officers were insulted, and older shareholders were horrified by the indignities.

The immediate reaction of officers and directors was to use their strength. Microphones were turned off while irate shareholders badgered management. Evictions were common. Guards patrolled the premises.

There was little question that management still could have its way. Small shareholders were many, but they were weakened by their numbers. Their divided strength was no match for concentrated wealth.

But People's Capitalism was also a part of the larger forces that were changing American life. Pressures were growing on all institutions, including government. And some of these provided the medium for challenging business. Churches, mutual funds and pension funds were shareowners. Government was a regulator.

What's New Alfie?

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a bartender gets tired of hearing:

"What do you have to do to get a drink on the house here—get a ladder and climb up on the roof?"

"You know those 10 different drinks the ladies at the back table ordered, Alfie? Well, hold 'em. They've all changed their minds again."

"When I feel I've had enough to drink, you won't have to tell me. I'll tell you."

"Did you know the Pilgrim fathers landed where they did because the Mayflower had run out of beer? If they had had a few more kegs aboard, they might have come ashore on Miami Beach and all died rich."

"I'm not asking you to load my drink, Alfie, but don't you think you ought to pour at least enough to cover the bottom of the glass?"

"I can whip anybody at the bar half my size—or even smaller."

"I know you've heard all my old troubles Alfie, but how would you like to be the first to listen to a couple of my new ones?"

"Put this one on the cuff, too, Alfie, and when my ship comes in the first tab I'll pay is yours."

"The last three rounds were for the road. What'll we make this one for?"

"If you had to get arthritis, Alfie, why did you have to get it in your pouring arm?"

"Don't let them needle you, Alfie, old boy. You're getting better. That last drink you managed to spill more in the glass than you did on the bar."

"I'm not worrying about when we get the troops out of Vietnam. I'm just worried about whether I can get myself out of here in time to catch the last train home."

"Who's that axe-faced dame sitting alone at the front of the bar, Alfie? Oh, excuse me. I didn't even know you were married."

"There's a fly in my drink, Alfie. Wouldn't it be cheaper in the long run to swat them rather than try to drown them in this stuff?"

"Put some milk in it for my ulcer and some bourbon in it for me."

"Ring up my wife, Alfie, and tell her to get the kids off the street—Daddy's driving home."

"I think it's a funny story. Maybe you missed the point, Alfie. Pour me another Martini and I'll tell it to you again—this time slowly and with gestures."

Around The Rim

Jean Fannin

If there's anything that will put friends to sleep faster than boring them with vacation pictures, I don't know what it is.

BUT THAT is one thing my friends don't have to worry about.

"Want to see my vacation picture?" I ask. They look at it, are properly awed and that's that.

That's right: picture, singular.

Actually, I took two pictures on my vacation last year. But one is of my roommate, with her head neatly lopped off by the top of the picture, standing in front of the motel where we spent the night en route to Denver. I don't really consider it much of a vacation picture.

THE OTHER photo is of two friends of ours standing in front of their apartment house. It's a very nice seven-story building, and I got all seven stories in the picture. My friends are those two little dots in front of the building.

I really don't know why I never get around to taking pictures while I'm on a trip.

BUT I ALWAYS take my camera, plenty of film, and lots of flashbulbs. But somehow, no matter what I see, I never think of taking a picture until we're back in the car and about 50 miles down the road.

Of course, I shouldn't worry about not taking pictures. Because it takes me so long to get them developed that a lot of times I'm not even sure who that woman with the two kids is, who that dog belongs to, or where I was when I took that picture of a telephone pole — and why I took that picture of a telephone pole.

IF MY descendants ever try to piece together the story of my life by using photographs I took, they're going to have a problem.

The thing that brought up the entire subject of vacation picture(s) is that it is almost time to decide where to go on my vacation.

I'VE GOT plenty of film and lots of flash bulbs, and I can hardly wait to see what I'm not going to take a picture of this year.

Campaign Funds

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Heavy contributions of money from the ranks of labor to help elect senators — certain Republicans and certain Democrats in the 1970 contests — now have been revealed. The amounts are astronishingly large, and candidates of both parties were recipients.

The corrupt practices act forbids labor unions as well as corporations from making any contributions to political campaigns for federal offices. But independent committees are formed which solicit funds from invidual members of labor unions. These raise big amounts which are used for the campaigns of candidates for the Senate and the House.

SOME STARTLING figures have just been published by an organization called "Americans for Constitutional Action," which compiled its information from returns filed under federal law with the clerk of the House and the secretary of the Senate, and under other laws with city and county offices. The ACA report states that $1,767,044 were contributed by labor through its political affiliates in 1970 to 41 Senate candidates, 17 of whom lost.

According to the breakdown, the largest sum of labor money went to a loser. Howard Metzenhaum, Democratic candidate for the Senate in Ohio, was given $172,092, but lost to Robert Taft Jr.

SENATOR Harrison A. Williams, Jr., Democrat of New Jersey, who is chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, received the biggest amount provided to a winner — $105,966.

Other winners in the Senate race who got substantial contributions from labor were: John V. Tunney, Democrat of California, $104,410; Stuart Symington, Democrat of Missouri, $103,060; Vance Hartke, Democrat of Indiana, $93,531; Philip Hart, Democrat of Michigan, $81,521; Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democrat of Illinois, $70,844; Frank Moss, Democrat of Utah, $70,421; and Hubert H. Humphrey, Democrat of Minnesota, $58,200.

SOME OF the labor contributions went to Republican candidates, ranging from $1,300 for Senator Winston L. Prouty of Vermont to $21,150 for Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

A limit of $5,000 has been placed by Congress on the amount that can be contributed by one person to the candidate himself. But when committees are formed, funds have been collected for the nominee through various groups and are rarely subjected to restraint by law.

WHEN LABOR Union leaders are challenged on the subject of Labor's financial contributions to political campaigns, they usually answer with the statement that corporations have individuals who contribute out of their own funds to the campaigns of candidates for Congress. There is no doubt about the right of any citizen to contribute money to a candidate's campaign for election. Certainly there are large amounts spent in presidential and congressional elections, and good deal of money is furnished by businessmen.

THE SENATE Rules Committee is currently considering legislation which would require persons whose aggregate contributions to political campaigns exceed $1,000, or some other set figure, be required to report their contributions publicly. Senator Ernest Hollings, Democrat of South Carolina, who is chairman of the committee, favors full disclosure. He says: "The voter can look at the candidates' source of contributions and make his own judgments."

Yippie Leader Vows To Appear

NEW YORK (AP) — Yippie leader Abbie Hoffman has promised to appear June 2 in federal court in Washington, D.C., to answer charges of interstate travel to incite a riot during the Mayday demonstrations in the nation's capital.

Hoffman made the promise in an appearance before U.S. Magistrate Harold J. Raby and was allowed to remain free on $20,000 bail.

Hoffman also is free on bond pending the outcome of his appeal of his conviction for crossing state lines to incite riots at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Since my husband died I've lost all interest in life. How can I overcome this? J.H.

The loss of a loved one is always hard to bear, but it comes to all of us sooner or later. It is useless, though, to say this lessens your grief, or that someone else is left in a plight worse than yours. It is equally futile to try to heal your wound by a busy round of meaningless activity. New scenes and new interests may help some, but they can never provide a cure for your loneliness and despair.

Instead, find a Christian friend and share your sorrow with her. Or talk to your minister. Do not try to bury your grief deep in your heart. Shakespeare was right when he said, "A sorrow shared is a sorrow halved." Never forget that Jesus is your best and most understanding friend. He knows what sorrow is. Share yours with Him.

Then find someone who is in need, and try to bring a ray of sunshine into that life. God has so made us that when we bring joy to another some of it is reflected in our own souls.

You must accept your loss, and ask God to help you bear it. The Bible says; "Thou therefore endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ." (II Timothy 2:3) Ask God how you can use this difficult hour to witness for Him.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ forgave you. (Ephesians 4:32, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Father, may we always be ready to listen to others in their need. May we never miss the opportunity to point some troubled person to Thee—our Redeemer, Our Savior. Amen.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I am an antique hound.

I'm one of those people who spend hours rummaging in antique shops wherever I happen to be.

Recently, I found a heavy iron shoe form that the shoemakers used for a last. And, it had a hole in the middle of it. I made a delightful candle-holder from it.

I painted it, glued felt on the botton to protect my furniture and a candle fitted perfectly in the middle.

A perfect way to preserve a relic of the past. . . . Debbie

* * *

Dear Heloise:

We came up with this idea for seat covers for our brand new red car.

We purchased fluffy bathroom rugs, just the right size and color for our car. We found red rugs, but you could use a contrasting color if you wished.

I sewed elastic on the corners to hold them fast. Everyone thought it was a nifty idea and I just thought I would pass the hint along. . . . Mrs. Clifford Zeisler

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

I belong to a minority group . . . I'm a man who reads Heloise.

Out of appreciation, here's a tip for your readers who have dogs.

Every time you come home from walking your dog, as you open the door say, "Go home!" Then wherever your dog is when you say "go home" he'll know what you mean . . . S.C.

Dear Heloise:

We were having trouble keeping our little girl's hands warm when she was in a one-piece sleeper.

I made a pair of gloves from an old stretched pair of bootees. He little fingers filled the toe of the bootee and the ankle tie fitted around her wrist.

Her hands stay warm as toast now, and we have found she cannot scratch her face when she is wearing her "gloves." . . . Vicki Fisher

Dear Heloise:

Quite by accident I discovered something good.

One night while trying to make cinnamon toast, the cinnamon was missing, so I tried using pumpkin pie spice instead.

My family loves it. They like this combination much better than cinnamon. Hope you'll try it and like it as we do . . . Mrs. William Lloyd

A LOVELIER YOU

Would-Be Beauties Need Vitamin C Daily

By MARY SUE MILLER

Purely from the feminine point of view, vitamin C is paramount among beauty-makers. It helps keep your body graceful and your flesh taut, because it "nourishes" your muscles. Surely no would-be Lovely can do without her daily ration.

But studies show that, among a large percentage of our population, there is a vitamin C deficiency. Particularly among teens and reducers! That this should be true is not easy to fathom. Teen health programs stress a high intake, as do all approved reducing regimens.

How much vitamin C do you actually require? Medically speaking, it is counted in milligrams. For a Lovely's purposes, it is more readily computed in food units. Have a piece of citrus fruit, a leafy vegetable and a tomato every single day . . . and you've got your share.

Unlike many nutrients, vitamin C is not stored up in the body. Therefore, it must be replaced on a daily basis. Foods containing the vitamin are neither expensive nor exotic. And they are low-low calorie. For instance, green peppers, berries, grapefruit and spinach.

If you are so full-blown beautiful that you are not interested in your muscle tone, why then should you fuss about vitamin C? Well, it acts as a shield against colds. Oh, you say, you don't need one in summer. Ever hear of a summer cold? Ugh! Then there's the little matter of prevention of spider veins and infirm gums. Come on, eat up.

CALORIE COUNTER

Do you really know the calorie counts of the foods you eat? Our leaflet, "Pocket Calorie Counter," tells the score at a glance. It also gives a diet plan — a way to eat and slim. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller, care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Federal Fund Programs Explained By Director

Keith Swim, special program director for the Big Spring Independent School District, explained federally funded education programs to the Spring City Chapter, American Business Women's Association, at a dinner Tuesday evening at Holiday Inn.

"Headstart, a program designed to aid pre-schoolers, eventually led to training for school aged children who have trouble with particular subjects such as language," said Swim. "The program is designed for children from low income families that can't otherwise afford special education."

About 400 Big Spring adults are now taking advantage of opportunities to obtain high school diplomas, according to Swim. Several of them are patients at Big Spring State Hospital. Some of the personnel hired to train people are sent to Howard County Junior College to advance their own education at the same time.

Mrs. R. L. McDonald, president, presided, and gave the vocational talk on her work as a teacher at St. Mary's Episcopal School. Mrs. Robert E. Daniel became a member of the chapter.

Guests included Swim and Miss Lynda Davis, the club's scholarship recipient. She is a social science major at HCJC. The invocation was by Mrs. Ray Marquez, and Mrs. William Howe gave the benediction.

Twins' Dutch Treat Paralyzes Brewers

By The Associated Press

Wilbur Wood is off relief and Bert Blyleven is back on strike.

The two pitchers are throwing a lot of American League hitters out of work.

Wood, a former reliever, delivered again in his new starting role as the Chicago White Sox clouted the Kansas City Royals 7-2 Wednesday night. Blyleven, Minnesota's Dutch treat from Zeist, Holland, paralyzed Milwaukee with a 12-strikeout performance in a 4-1 Twins' success. It was Wood's third victory as a starter and second straight route-going job in a career of 375 appearances, none of which had been complete games until the last two.

Wood got a starting assignment when Joe Horlen was hurt on the last day of spring training.

MORE IMPRESSIVE

Blyleven, a 20-year-old strong arm who won 10 games in his rookie season last year, has been even more impressive this season. Among his six victories have been three shutouts and two one-run games, including Wednesday's eight-hitter.

The California Angels beat the Oakland A's 7-5 in 12 innings; the New York Yankees trimmed the Detroit Tigers 2-1; the Baltimore Orioles clipped the Cleveland Indians 3-2 and the Boston Red Sox turned back the Washington Senators by a similar 3-2 score.

Wood surrendered only six hits, including Dennis Paepke's two-run homer in the Kansas City seventh. But by that time, it was too late for the Royals. The White Sox had broken up a scoreless duel between Wood and Kansas City's Mike Hedlund with a six-run sixth, their biggest inning of the season. Mike Andrews' two-run single keyed the rally.

Blyleven encountered little trouble, giving up one fourth-inning run as Minnesota capitalized on Milwaukee mistakes. A Brewers' error helped the Twins break a 1-1 tie in the fifth and another miscue helped them score two more times in the sixth.

Bill Menefee, the Baylor University basketball foreman, thought he had Wilson Barrow locked in but the Cisco College ace defected to the University of Kansas.

Barrow will be remembered here as an "off-again, on-again, Finnegan" type of player. He performed in the Region V tournament last March but didn't always show the desired hustle in getting down court to set up.

Barrow may help Kansas but someone will have to keep the fires stoked. He doesn't inspire easily.

Chippers Win, Mize On Beam

Morton's Chippers mauled Intech, 12-0, and Goodyear flattened the Merchants, 16-2, in City Softball League game in Comanche Trail Park Monday night.

Cotton Mize on the mound for the Chippers limited the Intech team to four hits.

Oakey Hagood, Bernard McMahan, Jimmy Roger, Jerold Cox and Jim Barber each collected two safeties for the winners.

Goodyear had a big first inning, scoring five runs, and coasted in against the Merchants.

Gary Akins, Francis Johns, Danny Clendenin, Jackie Wolf and Randy Smith each had two hits for Goodyear in that one.

Charles Burdette of the Merchants also banged out two safeties.

Ruby Is Sentimental Choice In Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It will be Bobby Unser, Denis Hulme and Lloyd Ruby against the field in Saturday's 55th running of the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

That's the word from Peter DePaolo, for 51 years a courtside observer at the Speedway and winner of the 13th edition of the race in 1925.

"Unser is a tiger," DePaolo said Wednesday as drivers in the 33-car starting field ran through carburetion tests—their last chance to run the 2.5-mile speedway until the 11 a.m. start Saturday. "He's cool and he's smart."

"Hulme is the long distance boy, a cold-hard professional and he probably knows the car he'll drive better than any driver in the field.

"Ruby is my sentimental favorite," the 72-year-old DePaolo continued. "This is his 12th start at the Speedway and for that reason, alone, I'd like to see him win. But Ruby also is a whale of a driver and he has a top-notch car. I think he can do it."

Bobby Unser backed up DePaolo's selection by lapping the track at 172.084 miles per hour Wednesday while carrying a full load of fuel. The speed was only about three miles per hour slower than his four lap qualifying speed of 175.816 m.p.h. Unser, the 1968 winner, will start outside on the front row.

Hulme, the fourth best qualifier at 174.910 m.p.h., is driving one of the new winged McLarens built in England. A former world driving champion and two-time winner of the Can-Am road racing series, Hulme has been a part of the McLaren organization for several years and actually had a part in designing the car he'll drive Saturday.

As for Unser, DePaolo not only counts on the ability of the older of the two Albuquerque, N.M., driving brothers, but he says "here again, the car will count. Bobby's car is a Dan Gurney Eagle, and you have to go along with the obvious fact that Gurney is one of the best race car builders in the world."

DePaolo rode "shotgun" with his uncle Ralph DePalma in two Indy 500s before making the first of his eight starts as a driver in 1922. He was the first to break the 100 m.p.h. barrier at the speedway and his 101.13 m.p.h. average for the 1925 race stood for seven years.

Ron Broadrick In Nationals

Ronnie Broadrick of Big Spring will compete in the NAIA National Golf tournament June 8-11 in Rockford, Ill.

Ronnie is now attending Angelo State University, which recently won the Lone Star Conference championship and finished as the District 4 runnerup at Belton.

The Rams were second alternates to the national meet and received an invitation after one of the NAIA districts failed to certify an entry.

Angelo State has only one senior on its team. Broadrick is a sophomore.

Broadrick was at the top of his game in the Lone Star and District 4 tournaments. He tied for first in district play with a 36-hole score of 143 and finished second in conference competition with a 212.

Over the year, Ronnie had an average score of 73.96 in 25 competitive rounds.

Ronnie is the son of Dr. and Mrs. B. Broadrick of 1510 Dayton.

Fight Details Will Be Revealed By Ali

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Part of Muhammad Ali's little secret is out—he will fight Jimmy Ellis in seven weeks.

Ali stormed into Minnesota Wednesday for a speaking engagement and, with an air of mystery, said he would announce tonight the full details for his first bout since losing a 15-round decision to heavyweight champion Joe Frazier March 8.

"I can't say who, where or when," Ali first said at a news conference. "You'll know all by Thursday night."

The Associated Press learned that Ali would meet Ellis, Ali's former sparring partner when he rose to the heavyweight title under the name of Cassius Clay.

Ali then confirmed Ellis really was his next opponent, and said he would leave today by car for Chicago with a friend to make formal announcement by tonight of where and when the fight will be held.

He would not elaborate on further details or say if he would make the announcement in Chicago.

Frazier knocked out Ellis in February, 1970, for the World Boxing Association championship after the WBA stripped Ali of his title for his conviction of refusing induction into the Army in 1967.

The U.S. Supreme Court is reviewing Ali's appeal that he should be classified as a conscientious objector because of his Black Muslim religion, and he expects a decision within two months.

Ali said he would be ready to meet Frazier again "anytime after Jan. 1."

"Before I meet Frazier again I'd like to have two more matches," Ali said, adding he would like to take on pro basketball star Wilt Chamberlain if the right contract could be arranged.

"There's not too many people left for me to fight," said Ali, then jokingly: "I have to fight basketball and football players."

Ali said he will begin training in about a week for the Ellis fight, noting he always goes into a training program of about six weeks.

The March 8 fight with Frazier, the richest in boxing and perhaps sports history, still has not changed Ali's mind that he is the best boxer ever.

San Diego Wheels Turn But Astros Win Pair

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Padres were so anxious to avoid pitching Dave Roberts against Larry Dierker Wednesday night that they had Roberts warm up in the Chargers' football clubhouse at San Diego Stadium.

Houston was fooled by the ruse but it backfired on the home team. The Astros beat Roberts, 2-1, after he entered the first game with one out and none on in the first inning. Then Dierker, 8-1, spun a one-hit, 8-0 masterpiece to give Houston a sweep of a doubleheader that was interlaced with some weird happenings.

The plot began to develop Tuesday night when Padre Manager Preston Gomez learned that his opposite, Houston's Harry Walker, was intent on having Dierker face Roberts, 3-5 the Padres' most effective starter.

Gomez wanted Roberts to work in whichever game Houston employed Wade Blasingame on two theories — that the Padres usually hit well against left-handers and that the odds of beating Dierker were slim considering he had beaten San Diego six times in a row.

So Padre right-hander Al Santorini became something of a sacrifical lamb. He warmed up on the field to pitch the first game. Meanwhile, Walker selected Blasingame as his pitcher and made out a lineup card that included six left-hand hitters.

ONE-DAY PARTNERSHIP IS SLATED AT COUNTRY CLUB

A one-day partnership golf tournament will be staged at the Big Spring Country Club Monday, pro C. G. Griffin announced this morning.

Players with handicaps of ten and under must team with those using handicaps of 11 strokes and over.

Entries can arrange their own starting times and can start playing any time after 9 a.m.

Entry fee is $5 per player. Merchandise awards go to the winning tandems.

Anyone is eligible to take part.

The event serves as a warmup for the big Amateur Parnership, which is scheduled June 12-13 at the Country Club. In that meet, over $1,500 in prizes will be awarded, with competition scheduled in two flights.

Saints Say Manning Seeking Far Too Much

NEW YORK (AP) — The New England Patriots are having no trouble in contract negotiations with Jim Plunkett. But the New Orleans Saints are at a complete stand-still in talks with Archie Manning because his agent is "asking a figure the greatest quarterbacks never got."

The difference in negotiations involving the two clubs and the first two quarterbacks selected in the pro draft are astonishing—Upton Bell, the Patriots' general manager smiling over proceedings with Plunkett's agent and Vic Schwenk, the Saints' geenral manager, grimacing over proceedings with Manning's representative.

"We are not even close together and I do not feel they are being reasonable," Schwenk explained during a break at the National Football League owners' meeting here. "We're not in any way trying to be stingy. Our offer is more than legitimate."

What Manning is asking is anyone's guess. But it is known that Joe Namath signed a $427,000 contract when he was a rookie and quarterbacks such as Johnny Unitas, John Brodie and Fran Tarkenton are in the $100,000-a-year category.

The problems with Manning, according to Schwenk, stem from 'two factors—Manning's agent, Frank Grosthwait, is a rookie negotiator handling his first contract and the pro basketball war that has spawned million-dollar contracts for untested rookies.

While Schwenk mulls the situation over, Bell can't help but be pleased with the Plunkett negotiations being conducted through his agent, Wayne Hooper.

"He's been in 15 to 20 negotiations before," said Bell, "and negotiations have been very pleasant, although no final agreement has been reached. He's given me some figures and I've given him some figures.

"As far as anyone being adamant on either side, there's been no such problem. We've had no problems. But one thing you have to consider is Plunkett himself. He's one of the nicest kids I ever met. The whole tone of my relationship with him has been real fair.

All-Star Game To Prove Little, Says Players

HOUSTON (AP) — Three American Basketball Association players feel the Friday night Astrodome contest between the ABA All-Stars and the National Basketball Association All-Stars won't prove which league is stronger.

Larry Brown of Denver, the ABA all-star coach, Larry Jones of the Miami Floridians and Charlie Scott, who plays for Virginia, discussed the game at a news conference Wednesday.

"If we win," Scott said, "it won't mean our league is an inferior one, either."

The three players also made it clear they were not taking part in the game in defiance of league owners or ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph.

"I think our position has been misinterpreted," Jones said. "At the moment, there is no firm ABA Players Association position.

"When Oscar Robertson announced the game in behalf of the NBA Players Association," Jones said, "he indicated that they were playing in defiance of league owners. People concluded that we were doing the same. That's not true."

"We're playing this game because it benefits a worthy cause (the Whitney Young Foundation), gives the ABA its greatest exposure and gives us the opportunity to prove there are quality basketball players in our league. And it will also help the ABA Players Association pension fund."

Jack O'Connell, executive vice president of the Astrodomain Corp., said the game will have the widest television coverage in the history of basketball with more than 200 stations carrying it. The Houston area will be blacked out.

Signed By Henson

BROWNWOOD — Howard Payne College basketball coach Ken Henson has made a big addition to his team — 6-8 Charles Spaulding, Jr., a Sweetwater High School prospect who average 17.2 points a game this season.

Nixon Exuberant Man These Days

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is an exuberant man these days, hopeful the tide of world events is running in his favor after what some observers labeled "the winter of his discontent."

One result of his good mood is that Nixon already is trying to put together a winning 1972 campaign strategy based mainly on foreign policy issues.

HIT THE ROAD

Another result, particularly after warm receptions Tuesday in Mobile and Birmingham, Ala., with blacks and whites evidencing roughly equal pleasure at seeing a President in the flesh, could get more road trips for the chief executive.

Nixon, of course, knows that potential 1972 Democratic rivals are criss-crossing the country with all the energy of men on the outside hoping that barely 17 months hence they will win the insiders position he now holds.

The President also is mindful that his would-be opponents are making news locally, and sometimes nationally, wherever they travel. The news they generate seldom is sweet music to administration ears.

After making few appearances outside Washington since the 1970 off-year campaign, Nixon is believed to be planning a speech in the Northeast by the end of the week. And next week, it is thought, he will be traveling to the Southwest.

History may record that Nixon's 1972 campaign began Tuesday in Alabama—the home country of Gov. George C. Wallace, a third party presidential candidate in 1968 believed likely to make a similar effort next year.

NOT NAKED, ALONE

Nixon did not go into Alabama naked and alone. His appearances followed international developments that lie near the heart of the President's hopes that global happenings will aid his cause next year.

As he told publishers, editors and broadcasters from the 12 states of the old Confederacy in Birmingham:

"I think the most significant changes in American foreign policy and the most significant changes in the relations between major nations in the world are taking place now than at any period since World War II."

In fact, Nixon's hopefulness—indeed, his exuberance—reflect several advances already in foreign affairs:

A "highest levels" American-Soviet commitment to get arms control talks off dead center, moves toward finding an accommodation with China, efforts to solve persistent Middle East problems and Nixon's confident belief that "the war in Vietnam will be ended" in a way giving the Saigon government a chance to survive.

Storms Booming Across Most Of North Texas

By The Associated Press

Fierce thunderstorms boomed across most of North Texas during the night and this morning, loosing briefly torrential rains and making slumber anything but restful for thousands.

Winds topping 40 miles per hour drove squall lines through areas around Mineral Wells, Fort Worth and Dallas and on toward the east and south, but there were no early reports of serious damage.

Brilliant electrical displays accompanied the gusty turbulence.

Most of the rough weather was in a sector placed under a severe thunderstorm watch which lasted until 6 a.m. in parts of Northeast Texas. The alerted area lay 70 miles each side of a line from northwest of Mineral Wells to northeast of Paris. It covered 29 counties in Texas and 17 in Oklahoma.

There also were showers in the Texas Panhandle and a few places near the Mexican border.

Early morning fog hung low along the coast, reaching as far inland as Houston and Victoria and at such widely separated spots as Lufkin and Dalhart.

Clouds covered most of the northern third of the state, and it was at least partly cloudy in other sections except for a few spots in far West Texas and a place or two in East Texas.

Prior to the night's turbulence, widely scattered showers fell in the upper Texas Panhandle, elsewhere in West Texas and near the coast.

As the rainfall moved in, Amarillo residents saw the temperature plunge from 84 to 67 degrees. Top marks elsewhere reached as high as 94 degrees at El Paso and 98 at Wichita Falls.

By early morning the readings ranged from 54 at Dalhart and 58 at Amarillo in the Panhandle up to 76 at Corpus Christi and Palacios, and 77 at Brownsville in the extreme south.

Forecasts held out prospects for a few thundershowers in the Panhandle and Southwest Texas, and a slight chance for others near the coast. It was expected to stay partly cloudy in most other areas and warm throughout the state.

Actor Target Of Peels, Jeers

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Actor Donald O'Connor was the target of orange peels and jeering remarks from students who staggered in front of cameras as he strolled over the campus of Trinity College during filming for a television show.

The students complained that the program was portraying Ireland as a land of leprechauns and other little people.

The crew had made 20 attempts Wednesday to shoot the same scene for "Donald's Dublin" before campus officials were able to pull the students away.

Johnson Visits El Paso Friend, Gains Material

EL PASO (AP) — Former President Lyndon Johnson flew into El Paso Wednesday for a pre-birthday visit with U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason and his wife.

Thomason, a former El Paso legislator, mayor and congressman, will be 92 Sunday.

Johnson left with several packets containing materials given him by Thomason for the LBJ Library in Austin, which was dedicated last Saturday.

"I have been wanting to visit my very good friend for some time," Johnson said. "I decided to make the trip as soon as the library dedication was out of the way."

Thomason recalled that he had known Johnson since the former president was 12. He gave credit to Johnson's father for Thomason having been named speaker of the Texas House during his days in the legislature.

College President In Class For 'Black Studies' Program

By MARY V. GORDON
Associated Press Writer

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — The president of St. Peter's College is taking his school's course in black studies. And one of the nation's leading defense lawyers is teaching it.

The Rev. Victor R. Yanitelli was quite pleased when he recruited Ray Brown to teach the weekly course entitled "Urban Black Culture."

And now, midway through the semester, the priest's enthusiasm has only increased.

"The class is illuminating," he said. "You can't get involved without coming away with a few new insights. Did you know that our own U.S. Constitution says a black is three-fifths a man? That's our Constitution, not Black Panther literature."

BLACKS TODAY

The law is only one field Brown alludes to, though perhaps favors, as he explores with 18 students on Saturday mornings what's happening to the black man in America today.

At a recent session he threw out a flurry of questions and comments on black power; the U.S. Army; Malcolm X University in Greensboro, N.C.; the bestseller "Soledad Brother, The Prison Letters of George Jackson," and the 1970 census figures.

For Father Yanitelli, the class is a chance to learn more about the urban life he is already involved in. He is chairman of the Governor's Advisory Council on Project Upward Bound and a member of the National Advisory Council on Economic Opportunity, by appointment of President Nixon.

"I'm searching," he says. "Is it possible to be middle class and still do something for the community?" Jersey City, with a population of 250,000 and once a stronghold of white ethnic groups, is today about 40 per cent black.

TALKING CHANCE

For Ray Brown, a black resident of Jersey City, a former president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and a onetime member of former Gov. Richard J. Hughes' Commission on Civil Disorders, the class is a chance to discuss the black man's fight for rights in the United States.

In casual sweater and slacks at a recent Saturday session, Brown spoke of what he said was "the key expression in the U.S. Constitution for every black man in the United States today" — Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3.

"Representatives and direct Taxes . . . shall be determined by adding the whole Number of free Persons . . . and three-fifths of all other Persons," he quoted from the Constitution.

The three-fifths phrase did not specifically mention blacks, but its meaning was universally understood. The phrase was replaced by the Fourteenth Amendment guaranteeing equal protection under the law.

LANDMARK CASE

Brown asserted that the U.S. Supreme Court's landmark ruling in the case of Reynolds versus Sims in 1964 gave new meaning to the words "representatives" and "taxes."

Essentially, the case held that one man's vote carried as much weight as another's and that legislative boundaries must be as equal in population as possible.

"Reynolds versus Sims will have far more meaning in the long run than all the demagoguery you hear," Brown insisted.

The 18 students in Room 301 McDermott Hall are six blacks and 12 whites. Among them are the Rev. Edward J. Cavey, a Ph.D. candidate in mathematics and the only other faculty member in the class; Roger "Bud" McMillan, affectionately dubbed the "resident conservative," and Brown's daughter Debby, a senior at Douglass College home for the weekend.

'MIDDLE CLASS'

A discussion turned to how increasingly "middle-class" blacks are becoming. Malcolm X University, a free school in Greensboro, N.C., has had trouble collecting funds from blacks who think it's too radical, said Debby.

About 10 Douglass classmates have transferred there, she said, and others plan to take courses there after graduation.

News that Brown would teach at St. Peter's brought one negative response from the community — a letter to Father Yanitelli quoting Brown as saying "violence will come" and asking, "How can you have someone like that teaching at St. Peter's?"

Brown had made the comment, Yanitelli recalled, in the context of noting that among today's young blacks integration is no longer being discussed. They're not saying "give us our rights," thinking that will solve inequality. They see that it hasn't. Now they're demanding their rights. Either they get them, Brown said, or they'll explode. Violence will come.

Of Brown, Yanitelli said, "I have so much admiration for him. When he defended black poet LeRoi Jones, he insisted that Jones be tried as a citizen and not in a political trial — so the man's worth as a citizen could be felt.

State Justice Delayed Despite 29 New Courts

AUSTIN (AP) — Despite the creation of 29 new district courts by the 1969 legislature, the backlog of pending cases continues to increase, says the Texas Civil Judicial Council.

There were 259,847 cases pending in Texas' 209 district courts at the end of 1970, up 6.2 per cent over the number pending at the end of 1969, its annual report stated.

The courts disposed of 249,829 cases last year. New cases filed in 1970 totaled 260,171.

In criminal cases, of the 28,701 defendants who pleaded or were found guilty in 1970, 14,400 were granted probation.

Probations revoked last year: 2,156.

District courts appointed 16,253 lawyers for indigent persons in 1970.

The average district judge disposed of 1,184 cases.

Of the 6,318 juries sworn, 226 deadlocked and failed to reach verdicts.

The Texas Supreme Court received 830 new cases last year, compared to 722 in 1969, but these included 226 writs of mandamus in criminal cases, a category not handled by the court in 1969.

In the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, 1,057 cases were filed last year, compared with 893 in 1969.

That court disposed of 995 cases in 1970. It is required to write an opinion in every case and produces the highest number of written opinions of any court in the nation, according to presiding Judge John F. Onion Jr.

Deadline Set For Acid Test

HOUSTON (AP)—French Ltd., which operates a pit for liquid industrial wastes, agreed to a July 31 deadline for neutralizing the acid in the pond.

The agreement came just before an injunction hearing against French on complaints by county and state water pollution agencies.

After the acid is neutralized, Asst. County Atty. Charles Wilson said, bacteria can be introduced into the pond to eat the pollutants.

Civilization Is Matter Of Life Or Death To Isles Of Aran

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer

INISHMORE, Aran Islands, Ireland, (AP) — Civilization is catching up with the Aran Islands — population 1,700 persons, 30 cars, some cattle and a former movie star.

Electric lights are on the way. There is talk of a big fish processing plant plus handicraft industries to cash in on the tourists. You can see a miniskirt or two in the village lanes, and a half dozen cottages boast television sets.

But the islanders still speak Gaelic among themselves, although they use English to strangers, and cherish a life style that hasn't changed much since the Middle Ages.

Inishmore, Inishman and Inisheer — the islands of Aran — are strung across the mouth of Galway Bay like flat rock chips flung from a giant hand. Miles of waist-high stone walls subdivide sheep pastures and vegetable farms. The natives solemnly say it was easier to build the walls than to throw all that stone into the sea.

About 25,000 tourists a year visit the islands, most on twice-a-week boats from Galway, 30 miles away. But stormy weather can interrupt the sea service for weeks at a time; so a light plane has started flying daily to a grass strip on Inishmore. The pilot sometimes has to chase the donkeys away before he takes off again.

The tourists buy Aran sweaters — hand knit to individual patterns, so the story goes, to help women identify the bodies of fishermen washed up on shore.

The visitors climb prehistoric stone ports, try on pampooties, the local rawhide shoes, and marvel at currachs, seagoing canvas dinghies so sensitive that "you've got to keep your tongue straight in your mouth to balance them."

The Rev. Timothy Moran is chairman of a cooperative being set up to modernize the islands. The first project is an electricity system, still being set up, to replace bottled-gas lights, oil lamps and a handful of private windmill generators.

"After 20 years of pressing, the islanders have got the government to spend $192,000 to put generating stations on the islands," Father Moran said. "We'll take care of the day-to-day operations ourselves."

"Sure, this is going to change the peaceful life on the islands," said Coley Hernon, 48, white-haired lifeboat coxswain and secretary of the cooperative. "But we're between the devil and the deep blue sea. Either we get industry or we face complete depopulation."

The population is steady now but the Arans have lost two-thirds of their people over the past 100 years — largely to Irish communities in America. Until industry arrives in a big way, Moran said, Aran men will go on "doing a little bit of an awful lot for a living." There are 60 fishermen, one doctor and three policemen.

The policemen spend more time taking the census and investigating insurance claims than fighting crime. The occasional Saturday night disturbance is cleared up before a magistrate who visits from time to time.

Some 200 children attend three primary schools and a vocational school. Teenagers who want an academic education live in Galway and come home for vacations.

The islands have no hippies, no women's lib movement and — inhabitants say — no Protestants since the Irish threw out their British rulers 50 years ago. The two Aran priests are Roman Catholic.

A bank branch opens one day a week in Kilronan, an Inishmore village that also has a public library. You can buy groceries there but you go to Limerick or Galway for clothes, or else make them yourself.

When the cold mist swirls in off the Atlantic, you get warm over a pint of stout in O'Brien's bar, one of five Inishmore pubs. A photograph of the late President John F. Kennedy over the fireplace surveys the brown benches and tables.

The local movie star is Maggie Dirrane, a fisherman's widow about 70 and a celebrity on Inishmore nearly 40 years after she was the leading lady in Robert Flaherty's classic movie "Man of Aran."

Court Lets Little Ol' Woman Work Long Days

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—A federal court injunction issued in Sherman Tuesday sets aside a state law prohibiting a woman from working more than nine hours a day and 54 hours a week.

The ruling was based on an opinion that the state law violates women's civil rights.

It was the first such ruling in Texas, said the attorney for the plaintiff.

It was made by U.S. Dist. Judge Wayne Justice in a case filed by Mary L. Carr, an employe of the Pillsbury Co. in Denison.

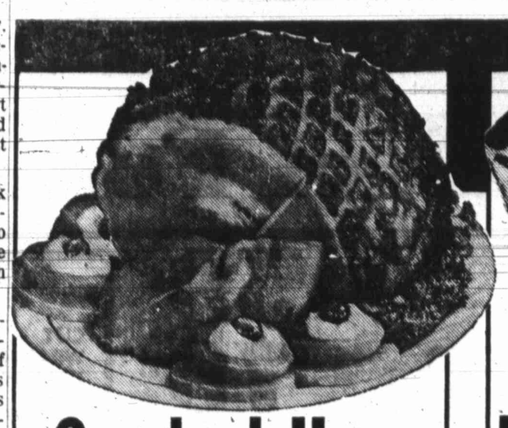

She claimed she was prevented from being promoted to a better job because of the state law.

The defendant is now seeking in negotiations with Pillsbury to be reimbursed for what she claims was a pay gap due to losing the promotion in May, 1967.

Her lawyer, R. C. Slagle III of Sherman, said the injunction was only the fourth such case in the nation arising from the equal employment opportunity provisions of the U.S. Civil Rights Act of 1964. That act prohibits discrimination in employment due to sex.

The so-called women's protection law has been long on the books.

A new piece of legislation permitting a woman to work longer than nine hours a day and more than 54 hours a week if she wishes has passed the Texas House and Senate and is awaiting the governor's signature.

Killer Whale Lies Secluded On Washington Mountain

By RICK KELLOGG
Vancouver, Columbia, Writer
Written for The Associated Press

WASHOUGAL, Wash. (AP) — In a corroding metal box on the slopes of a mountain north of Washougal lies the body of a 15-foot killer whale.

He has been there for more than 30 years. Once pickled in gallons of fuming formaldehyde, it is in firm and relatively unspoiled condition.

First returned to public attention in news reports two years ago, the whale has been the subject of local rumors and unbelieved stories since.

But he does exist.

The whale first was found in 1931, thrashing about in the Columbia River Slough near Vancouver, 15 miles west of here.

People thougt he was a sea serpent, then discovered he was a whale.

He became a celebrity. People flocked to the banks of the slough daily for a sight of the playful 15-footer.

Then, after about two weeks, Ed Lessard, an ex-whaler from this area, harpooned him. Lessard had a metal tank custom-built for the whale, doused him in formaldehyde, and started a traveling show.

According to people who still remember seeing it, for a few cents you could get a look at the whale, an octopus, and some other deep sea attractions.

Lessard apparently carted the whale around for six or seven years before disbanding the show. Then he took the whale, metal box and all, and retired him to the Livingston Mountain property he owned near here.

The whale has lain there since, losing his formaldehyde smell to the elements but resisting decomposition or erosion.

A Lot Goes On In School, But Students Aren't Taught

ROME (AP) — It's a funny thing about Italian schools: very often no teaching goes on in them.

Sometimes the schools are "occupied" by demonstrating students. Sometimes there are strikes — by students and quite often by teachers. Classes sometimes are empty for days.

Italian primary and secondary education, which absorbs 9.5 million young people and 20 per cent of the state budget, apparently is in trouble.

In Rome, 90 per cent of the schools are forced to have two classes in the same room each day — one in the morning and one in the afternoon. In many cases there are three shifts — the third in the evening.

"My 11-year-old daughter goes to school one day at 8 a.m., another day at noon, another day at 2 p.m.," complains one Rome mother. "Her sleeping and eating habits are a mess."

In many schools the duration of a single class has been trimmed to 50 or 45 minutes from the original 60.

Classes are overcrowded, with over 30 pupils instead of a maximum of 25 set by the law.

Legislation on schools has been sketchy. A reform of junior high schools, making school mandatory to the age of 14, and voted into law in 1966, already is considered antiquated.

Reform legislation has been lagging in Parliament for nearly two years with no indication when the bills might come up for debate.

Projects to reform grade schools and high schools are put into effect piecemeal. One result is that the country lacks adequately prepared technical graduates. Because of equal chaos in universities, there is a crowd of unemployed liberal arts graduates.

In Rome last autumn, 12,000 candidates turned up for an examination for 554 jobs as grade school teachers. Students demand changes of programs according to reform projects not yet approved. Some teachers back the students, who often are urged on by political parties or workers in demonstrations.

Hundreds of principals and high school teachers have gone into early retirement in the past two years. Those left behind have their hands full.

Students have brought in political agitators to occupy classes with them. Principals in dozens of schools have called in police to clear the buildings. Statistics showed some 500 secondary schools were closed or occupied by students halfway through the 1970-1971 school year.

Besides antiquated programs, the lack of space and bans on assemblies in the schools, the students have been protesting what they say is inadequate heating, poor hygiene and the lack of gymnasiums.

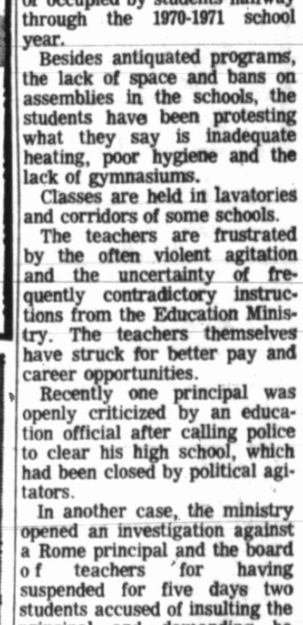

Classes are held in lavatories and corridors of some schools.

The teachers are frustrated by the often violent agitation and the uncertainty of frequently contradictory instructions from the Education Ministry. The teachers themselves have struck for better pay and career opportunities.

Recently one principal was openly criticized by an education official after calling police to clear his high school, which had been closed by political agitators.

In another case, the ministry opened an investigation against a Rome principal and the board of teachers for having suspended for five days two students accused of insulting the principal and demanding he give them all passing marks. The ministry termed the punishment too lenient.

Teachers have said they were sometimes forced to promote students at the end of the year to avoid controversy.

BARNES SAYS HE'S WORTH $83,100

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes says he is worth $83,100.

A financial statement filed with the secretary of state by Bernes shows assets of $267,000 with liabilities of $184,000.

Barnes had announced last January that he would file the voluntary public disclosure statement.

Robert Spellings, Barnes' executive assistant, said the liabilities included loans from several banks, real estate mortgages and personal debts.

Bartenders May Get 'Rich' Quick

DALLAS (AP) — With liquor-by-the-drink now a legal reality in certain areas of Texas—mainly the big population centers—those who presumably know of what they speak say the real action won't be on this side of the bar but on the other.

"I can't think of anybody who's going to be in a better position to bargain in the next few months than a bartender," said one Dallas restauranteur. "There are going to be a couple of thousand jobs open and anyone with any experience at all is going to name his own price."

Because of liquor laws which prevailed in Texas from 1919 until last week, Texas has been content with anyone behind the bar who could pop the cap on a beer bottle. The private clubs across the state where real bartenders are needed are a small percentage of the over-all number of watering holes in Texas.

But as thirsty Texans begin bellying up to the bar with requests for Zombies, Singapore Slings, Manhattans, Caladonia Belt Bombs and others liqueurs, there's going to be a real need for someone behind the bar who can read these messages properly.

One Dallas bartender, Charles Johnson, says he has already received offers from Houston and Brownsville.

One of several bartending schools which have sprung up in Dallas says it has been receiving requests for information at the rate of 50 to 60 calls a day.

"The restaurants and tavern owners are calling us, too," said Bill Davis, manager of one school. "One restaurant sent over enough ladies for us to open up a special class just for them. We get as many calls from women as we do men."

"I don't think any bartender is going to have to worry about going home with less take-home pay than $200 a week," commented bartender Erik Swenson, imported from New York by one Dallas restaurant chain. "But a really good bartender can do much, much, much better."

"It's something you have to do by being around long enough to pick up enough knowledge about all the crazy kinds of drinks people are going to ask for, and that's not the kind of thing you can learn in six or eight weeks," he said.

Johnson said that aside from learning the rudiments of mixing liquor potions, a bartender has to be something of a psychiatrist - diplomat - cop - cop - almanac-closed mouth.

"I mean there is a certain code of ethics bartenders have to observe. Often people come into a bar with problems they want to talk about. That's fine as long as you don't pass the information along to the next customer. You've got to know how to keep your mouth closed as well as how to keep a bottle opened."

Abilene Pilot Lands Bit Short Of Destination

HOUSTON (AP) — A light plane en route here from Del Rio landed just short of its destination in a muddy field Tuesday night.

The four-place Moody aircraft, piloted by Rayford Barham, 26, of Abilene, was forced down near the Collier Airport in North Houston.

Barham said his engine started cutting out and he lowered the wheels to try for a landing in a street, but traffic was too heavy. So he retracted the wheels and landed in the field.

The pilot and twin brother, Grayford Barham of Houston, escaped injury.

The same plane was the object of a search Monday night and early Tuesday, the Civil Air Patrol said, after it took off at Victoria on a flight to Houston. This search was called off, the CAP spokesman said, after it was learned the craft was safe in Del Rio.

Baptists Delay Sale Of Dorm In Brownwood

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Baptist Executive Board has rescinded a March decision to wait until October to approve the selling of a men's dormitory in Brownwood by Howard Payne College.

Board members already had approved the action but had wanted to clear the decision at the October annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. They decided, however, that there was no conflict.

The sale of the dormitory will be for $1 million to the Brownwood Higher Education Authority, which will lease it back to the college for 20 years.

Howard Payne officials said the transaction, which would allow them to repurchase the dormitory for $1 after the lease is over, would result in low interest rates, debt consolidation and long-term repayment of the purchase price.

Board members authorized Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene to borrow $800,000 for use in its current expansion program.

The executive board urged the Texas Senate to adopt a House-passed bill that would make 10 per cent the legal alcohol content for determining intoxication.

Opening lead: Three of ♡

Today's hand produced a substantial swing in a recent team-of-four contest when the defense took a different course at each table.

The final contract was three no trump and West opened fire with the three of hearts, the suit in which his partner had overcalled. East played the ace and returned the seven. South falsecarded by winning the trick with the king, thereby leaving location of the queen open to question.

Declarer proceeded to establish the clubs even tho he had no sure entry to his hand inasmuch as he could never hope to take nine tricks without bringing in his long suit. The king of clubs was led and ducked and declarer continued with the queen.

At this point, the line of play varied at each table. The first West — being out of clubs — was obliged to make a discard and he chose to part with the seven of diamonds. East won the trick with the ace, and since the best hope for his side appeared to be the heart suit, he returned the five in the expectation of cashing out. When South turned up with the queen of hearts, the latter ran for cover with 10 tricks —five clubs, one diamond, two hearts and two spades.

At the other table, when the queen of clubs was led, West paused to reflect before making his discard. It appeared from the course of play that South was trying to dislodge the ace of clubs and that East intended holding off with that card until the dummy was out of clubs. West's diamond and spade holdings made it obvious that declarer had no possible reentry to his hand in either of those suits. In fact, the only way he could ever obtain access to his good clubs was by way of the queen of hearts. If East held that card, then it didn't matter because he would be in position to cash out. If South held that card, however, then it was essential to alert East to that fact.

So reasoning, West discarded the jack of hearts on the queen of clubs. East played the ace and promptly shifted to the jack of spades. He realized that a heart return would put South in and the latter would be in position to score 10 tricks. The only hope was to lock declarer up in the dummy.

The spade shift proved to be a lethal thrust. South was locked out of his hand and he would up winning only seven tricks on the deal. The total swing was 830 points—630 at one table for making four no no trump and 200 at the other table for defeating the contract by two tricks.

Perfect Dinner Debut For New In-Laws

If a bride's nervous before her wedding, wait 'til she cooks her first dinner for her new in-laws. She'll need all the help she can get, especially an imaginative recipe idea, to ward off a case of the jitters and assure a successful debut dinner. California Curry is an especially suitable bill of fare — easy enough for the beginner, tempting and impressive to her company.

Looking as scrumptious as it tastes, California Curry's lightly curried sauce made with buttermilk is spooned over chunks of cooked chicken and succulent shrimps. On the side sits a mount of fluffy Condiment Rice dotted through-out with wrinkly cooked raisins and chopped green onions. Cooked vegetable go-alongs of plump fresh peas, tiny button mushrooms and sliced carrots complete the enticing array.

This first singlehanded effort of the young bride should run like clockwork, too, because the velvety smooth sauce is deceptively simple to put together. Onions soften in melted butter; crumbled chicken bouillon cubes give added flavor; a little flour thickens the sauce. Just the right touch of curry powder combines with buttermilk, and in a matter of minutes the mixture is thick and bubbly.

Another composure-saving grace of this entree is that all portions of the fancy fare can be ready to serve before the sauce is even started. Chicken and shrimp are cooked beforehand and served cold. Rice nowadays is a simple two-step operation — with raisins and onions added, the steps number four. And the sideline vegetables take only a few minutes worth of simmering.

California Curry lends itself perfectly to company dinners; and how pleased a young hostess will be when her new mother-in-law asks for the recipe!

CALIFORNIA CURRY

¼ cup butter
1 tsp. curry powder
1 medium-size onion, finely chopped
1-3 cup sifted flour
½ tsp. salt
2 cups buttermilk
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 tbsp. chopped parsley

Condiment Rice

1½ to 2 cups cooked chicken pieces
1½ to 2 cups cooked large shrimp
1½ to 2 cups cooked vegetables (such as peas, carrots, mushrooms)

Melt butter with curry powder. Add onion and cook slowly until softened. Stir in flour and salt and cook a minute. Add buttermilk and crumbled bouillion cubes. Cook and stir until sauce boils 1 minute and thickens. Turn hot curry sauce into serving container. Sprinkle with parsley. When ready to serve, spoon hot condiment rice onto place. Select chicken, shrimp or vegetable topping (or combination), then spoon on hot buttermilk curry sauce. Makes about 2½ cups sauce, enough for 4 to 5 servings.

Condiment Rice: Heat ½ cup raisins in 2 tablespoons butter a few minutes to glaze and puff. Add ¼ cup chopped green onion. Stir into 3 to 4 cups hot cooked rice.

Housewife, Clubwoman; Happiest When Busy

By BARBARA LORD

"It wasn't until I got married that I found out just how little I knew about cooking," said Mrs. Ben Faulkner. "My mother cooked so much, and it was so good, that I just let her do it all. I thought I had learned a lot by just watching, but it wasn't enough."

During her five years of marriage, Mrs. Faulkner has discovered the cooking secrets that please her family, and recipes she tries include almost every type of food. Her husband and two sons, Terry, 3, and Scott, 1½, seldom complain.

"Occasionally, they'll suggest I stick to meat and potatoes, but I guess I satisfy them most of the time," said Mrs. Faulkner.

Despite a busy schedule that includes memberships in several clubs, as well as working as secretary-bookkeeper for West Texas Roofing Co., Inc., which her husband owns, Mrs. Faulkner usually manages to feed the family a hearty meal in the evening. They enjoy foreign foods, and the American foods they eat are usually spicier than most recipes call for, but other than adding spices, Mrs. Faulkner said she follows recipes pretty closely.

Breakfast in the Faulkner home is usually forfeited in favor of another 10 minutes of sleep, and noon meals depend on the day's schedule. In the summertime outside barbecuing is a favorite, and winter sees many meals cooked over their fireplace.

"We don't eat many desserts," said Mrs. Faulkner. "Ocassionally, I'll make a pie just to let myself know I can still make a crust, but my family doesn't really care about desserts."

Mrs. Faulkner has a busy schedule, but when she is at home she can be found engrossed in any number of activities. She enjoys sewing, knitting, decoupaging, antiquing and making plans for the new home they are building in Silver Heels.

The Faulkners are both active in Jaycee projects and she just finished a term as vice president of the Texas Jaycee-Ettes; a job which took her more than 6,000 miles during the year. She is also local treasurer of the Woodmen of the World, and treasurer-elect of American Association of University Women. Both Faulkners teach Sunday school at First United Methodist Church.

The new home will be a Spanish-Mexican design which they developed from a basic floor plan.

"I'm planning to do the decorating myself," said Mrs. Faulkner, "but I may wish I had some professional help by the time it's over with."

Family activities are important to the Faulkners. They enjoy camping, water skiing and snow skiing. (They met each other on the slopes at Ruidoso, N.M., when Mrs. Faulkner accidentally tripped him.)

Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner both have their private pilot's license, and recently each flew a plane load of Jaycees and their wives to a national convention in St. Louis.

The Faulkners are graduates of Texas Tech University. She studied child development and psychology, and he majored in mathematics. She is orginally from Rochester, Tex., and he is from Big Spring, the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Faulkner, 1415 Wood.

Texas Woman Might Have $10,000 Recipe

Mrs. Chiles will prepare her winning recipe for Lively-Lime Chicken in competition with contestants from 49 other states and the District of Columbia for the top prize of $10,000. Her recipe was selected through a detailed judging procedure from over 15,000 entries. Winning recipes were kitchen tested for workability prior to notification of the contestants.

The contest is sponsored by Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. in conjunction with the National Broiler Council, the nationwide chicken industry organization, and Best Foods, a Division of CPC International.

Each state contestant will receive $100, a state winner's trophy, and an expense-paid trip to Ocean City for the cook-off during the Delmarva Chicken Festival. In addition to the top prize, other prizes are as follows: $5,000 second prize, $3,000 third prize, and $2,000 fourth prize, plus nine bonus prizes of $100 each.

Here's Mrs. Chiles' recipe which may win her $10,000!

LIVELY LIME CHICKEN BAKE

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
½ cup flour
2 tsps. chili powder
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. paprika
2 tbsps. brown sugar
3 tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese
3 tbsps. grated lime peel (from 2-3 medium size limes)
⅓ cup lime juice (from 2 to 3 medium size limes)
½ cup margarine
1 cup beer

Mix flour, chili powder, salt, paprika, brown sugar, 1 tbsp. Parmesan cheese and lime peel in a large bag. Shake chicken pieces in mixture until evenly coated. Melt margarine with lime juice in medium shallow baking pan about 13 x 9 x 2 inches. Turn chicken pieces in margarine mixture to coat while placing in single layer in pan. Pour beer over chicken. Bake in 350 degree (moderate) oven, uncovered, basting occasionally 1 hour or until tender. Sprinkle with remaining 2 tbsps. cheese. Garnish with lime slices and mint sprigs. Makes 4 servings.

Stuffed Fillet Is Gourmet Delight

Combine canned broken shrimp, rinsed and drained, with roasted diced almonds, diced tomato and green pepper, fresh dill and softened butter.

Bake, covered with foil, in hot oven 10 to 15 minutes or until fish flakes with fork.

TRADITIONAL PICNIC FOODS COMBINE
For added outdoor flavor

Memorial Day Picnic Can Be Fun Feast

Memorial Day is just around the corner and when the weatherman cooperates, the family usually thinks about a holiday picnic. It's a chance for the whole family to get together and enjoy the outdoors. And you, as a homemaker, will enjoy it more if you make it simple for yourself. Plan an easy-to-transport and easy-to-serve picnic. For the fun of it, have the members of your family create their own sandwich masterpieces. It takes the work out of serving.

Special sandwich ideas come quickly when you supply a wide variety of ingredients. Start out with thin sliced meats. There are many different varieties for the family to choose from and combine. Some people like hard salami, a smoked sausage mildly seasoned with garlic, and an all beef bologna with a distinctive smoky tang.

You'll also want to provide vegetables, cheeses and a variety of breads like hard rolls and small French breads. Spread the rolls with mustard or butter; layer with lettuce or cheese and the family's off to a great start to make-it-yourself sandwiches.

So it's fair game for the adventuresome sandwich-maker. The men in your family will show their sandwich-making skill as they decide which breads, cheeses and vegetables they want to combine with the different flavors of dry sausage. They can layer the thing-a-ma-bobs to their heart's content. So be sure to have plenty on hand.

Modern packaging makes carrying food easy, too. The sliced sausages come in handy 3-ounce vacuum sealed packages and need no further wrapping. Cherry tomatoes, green pepper rings, bibb lettuce, onion slices and cucumbers can be washed beforehand and placed in separate plastic bags. Buns and assorted cheeses like Swiss, American and semi-soft camembert come packaged. Even the paper napkins and plates are wrapped and clean on arrival at the picnic. All of the packages are disposable and so minimize cleanup.

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

By Ted Hatfield

HOW CAN YOU JUDGE FURNITURE VALUES?

Generally speaking, furniture is a "blind article." This means that it is really next to impossible for the average person to be able to judge actual quality of furniture just by looking at it.

So what is the best thing for Mr. and Mrs. Furniture Buyer to do? The only answer is to shop with a reliable merchant.

Years ago, automobile salesmen would tell their prospects all about the wheel base, gear ratio and other technical aspects of cars until they realized that the public goes by the established reputation of the manufacturer and the dealer. The same goes for television and radio sets. And the same thing is true in the furniture lines.

Your reputable furniture dealer or decorator will never handle inferior quality merchandise just in order to meet or beat competition. If you have confidence in your dealer you must also have confidence in the fact that he brings you the best values that are obtainable, and he does this for a very selfish reason: He wants to both sell and keep his customers. These customers keep him in business and he knows that if he fools them he is fooling himself.

You may be sure that the materials in our furniture, and the construction of the furniture — those "unseen" factors — are of high quality at our store.

See A Lawyer

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 34-year-old divorcee with four teen-aged boys to support. It's four years since I've been divorced, and my ex-husband owes me $6,000 in back support. Because of this, I am deeply in debt, could soon lose my home and have my wages garnished. If this keeps up I will be forced to file bankruptcy.

My "ex" has remarried and has a wife plus two children to support. He has no interest in our four children, and the only time he visits them is when one of the boys calls him and begs him to come.

The girls at work say I must still love him or I'd have put him in jail long ago. My family says I am crazy. What is your advice? PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: See a lawyer. And if you don't take his advice, see a doctor. (Psychiatrist type.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What is the proper thing to say to a guy in the following situation?

You are out on a date, and he is nice, but you wouldn't want to go out with him again. When you say good night, he asks you for next weekend. I'm afraid if I say I have other plans, he will ask me for the next free weekend.

I don't want to hurt his feelings, but I don't want to go out with him again because he likes me in a way that I don't like him.

Please tell me what to say, Abby. I am sure other girls have this problem. I hope it's something I can say easily because I have . . . NO GUTS

DEAR NO GUTS: All you need is gumption enough to say, "I am complimented that you want to take me out again, but please ask another girl — someone who could like you in more than a sisterly way. I think you're nice, but it's like a brother-sister deal. Okay?" (P.S. And if he says he doesn't mind having you for a "sister," tell him you don't want him for a "brother.")

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I can really sympathize with any woman who is married to a man who snores but insists he doesn't. (For some strange reason, snorers are usually married to non-snorers, and therefore don't realize how annoying it can be.)

My husband's snoring sounded like a chicken bone in a garbage disposal, and he swore he didn't make a sound. I rented a tape recorder and set it up under the bed while be was gone. That night when he really got turned up I held the microphone right under his nose and got about 10 beautiful minutes of snoring. Then I reversed the tape, turned up the volume and nearly blasted him out of bed. He took it good naturedly, but with a stubborn husband you can always threaten to give him a nightly concert until he agrees to do something like see a doctor.

By the way, this works beautifully with children who are whiners and fussers.

MINI-BANDIT FLEES ON BIKE

SAN ANTONIO, (AP) — And now comes the case of the bicycle bandit.

Police said a bandit rode up to a grocery store on a bicycle, tied a handkerchief over his face, walked in with a pistol, walked out with $131, and peddled away with the loot.

The store owner said the bandit flashed his gun and forced him and two customers to get behind the counter while the robber grabbed up the money.

He told police the culprit was "about 9 to 11 years old."

Too Many Pills!

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the last year or so, many of my friends and relatives have become ardent users of vitamin pills. Some take from 10 to 20 various pills a day.

As a woman of near 30, I am also concerned with preserving my youth and health. Would you discuss the amount of each vitamin an adult should receive, and whether more than that amount could be dangerous, and what foods are most abundant in these vitamins?—Mrs. A. C.

Ten to 20 vitamin pills a day is preposterous. It can, if continued, be harmful, depending on which vitamins are taken in overdose. But probably the worst consequence in most cases is the waste of money.

For the sake of several million family pocketbooks, I'd like to see an end to this type of pill-popping.

I am in thorough agreement with the benefits of a properly balanced diet, which includes foods that will provide the necessary vitamins — but also involves more than that.

Two or three servings of protein foods (lean meat, fish, eggs, cheese) a day; a couple of vegetables (one green); a salad; a yellow vegetable; a source of vitamin C (citrus fruit or juice, or tomato juice) once a day; a good supply of calcium, milk being a fine source whether whole milk or skim; one cereal products whether in the form of cereals for breakfast or grain made into bread — that just about covers it. You need some carbohydrate, of course, but people usually tend to get plenty of that anyway. You need a little fat, but nearly all of us get too much.

But with that general pattern, trying to get some fresh fruit or vegetable each day (salads can help take care of that!) you aren't going to run into vitamin deficiencies.

A balanced diet is not a rigid diet, it is a normal diet. There's all the room in the world for variety. If you happen to favor Italian cooking, or French or German or Chinese or some other type, you can still have a balanced diet.

Variety, in fact, is excellent insurance — you need traces of various minerals, but they occur in so many foods that your protein, vegetables, fruits, cereals, and milk will provide all you need or can use.

The maximum amount an adult should have? That's no way to go at it. Just be sure to get at least a minimum amount.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does a deviated septum cause post-nasal drip or simply aggravate it? —E.M.A.

It can do either — it can cause such drainage, or it can aggravate it if some other factor already is causing it.

* * *

What causes "balance" trouble? What can be done to correct or overcome it? Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy of the booklet write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Busch Gardens Amusement Center Opening In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — A $12 million amusements park patterned after Florida's biggest tourist attraction opens next Saturday in northeast Houston.

The 40-acre Busch Gardens primarily has an Asian theme except for an ice cave with a temperature controlled environment for several varieties of penguins, polar bears and sea lions.

Otherwise there are islands with monkeys, an elephant compound, deer parks, a Bengal tiger temple, a rhinoceros compound, a bear and cat cub arena, and an area where youngsters can pet lambs, goats and llamas.

Other animals include blackbuck and nilghia antelope, yaks, bactrian camels, and lesser pandas.

A large free-flight cage with walkways houses over 100 species of foreign birds, hidden wire mesh perches are wired to heat the feet of the birds electrically.

Benches used by the monkeys also have electrical heating systems.

The park is adjacent to the Houston plant of Anheuser-Busch Inc., which also operates the Tampa Gardens where an African wild animal belt can be viewed by monorail and train and the Los Angeles Gardens built around a bird theme.

Transportation in the Houston Gardens include a boat route that covers two-thirds of the grounds, including passages through the ice cave and free-flight bird cage. There also is a train modeled after the early English steam locomotive widely used in Asia during the 19th century.

A 950-seat ampitheater features the trademark of all the Busch Gardens, a bird show with trained macaws and cockatoos.

There is an admission charge of $2.25 for adults and $1.25 for children from 3 to 12 but there is free beer for adults.

The Gardens started out with no charge but the high cost of animals, birds and labor forced a policy change.

The Houston Gardens already have had a $30,000 casualty. One of the two early arriving rhinos became ill and died of what was determined to be acute indigestion.

Tampa's Gardens attract some 2½ million people a year. Houston expects 700,000 to 800,000. The first year with the annual average leveling off to about one million after three years.

With a permanent staff of from 75 to 80, the gardens will have some 300 employes in summer months.

The gardens are to open with operating hours of 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. but Busch spokesmen acknowledge late summer heat may force some adjustments for the protection of the animals.

Houston Mayor Pulls Walkout

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Louie Welch walked away from Tuesday's city council meeting after learning the councilmen were not going to vote for a 1971 city budget he had proposed.

Earlier this year Welch asked for a $1.60 tax rate based on 53 per cent valuation.

The council turned that down and Welch came back Tuesday with a rate of $1.54, also on 53 per cent valuation, which would raise city taxes 13 per cent.

Pesticides In Rice Seeds Kill Geese

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — A researcher says he now has documented proof of what biologists have claimed for years—geese along the Texas Coast are dying from eating rice seeds treated with pesticides.

In a preliminary report, Edward Flickinger of Victoria said it had been determined that dead or dying geese found in coastal rice fields were suffering from high concentrates of the pesticide dieldrin.

They ingested the pesticide by eating treated rice seeds, he said.

"We have now scientifically proved what biologists have known for more than 10 years, and reports will be sent to state agencies and the Environmental Protection Agency in Washington for action," he said.

Flickinger is a research biologist here for the Federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

He said it was hoped that state and federal agencies will eliminate or restrict the use of treated rice seeds.

Between March 23 and April 8, Flickinger said, state and federal agents collected 199 dead or dying geese in rice fields in Calhoun, Colorado, Wharton, Chambers and Jefferson counties—an area along Texas' upper coast stretching from the Port Lavaca area on the south to Port Arthur on the north.

He said farmers also reported 164 more dead or dying geese.

The report showed a post mortem examination uncovered levels of dieldrin in body tissue ranging from 5.2 parts per million to 21.6.

Studies had determined that geese die after ingesting between four and five parts per million of dieldrin, Flickinger said.
