County Wheat Crop Over With 69 Cars Delivered

Approximately 117,000 bushels or 69 cars of wheat have been produced in Collingsworth County this year from some 20,000 acres of wheat that survived the drought and other blights that infested the crop this year. The county planted some 31,500 acres last fall and harvested about 63 per cent of the total that was planted.

In a Wellington Leader tabulation on Tuesday, the Wellington elevators and the Dodson elevator had processed some 69 carloads of wheat and this was 100 per cent of the harvest out.

Silas Henry, local M-K-T agent, reported that Wellington had shipped 13 cars, while the Dodson yard had prepared some 11 cars for shipment.

For the most part, the county yield ran from 4 to 5 bushels per acre, but in some county sections the amounts varied with the rainfall and the soil conditions.

Millard Brown, head of the local Agricultural Stabilization Conservation, said that the county acreage for the 1955 season was cut to 13 per cent lower than the 1954 allotment, which was 31,500 acres. The 1955 program calls for 17,437 acres.

"In a letter dated July 1, the U. S. D. A. revised the support price from the June price of $2.21 per bushel to $2.25, which is a 4 cent hike in pay for the nation's wheat farmers," Mr. Brown declared.

This will amount to a sizable sum for the farmers that have their wheat in the loan, he concluded.

Rapid Progress On Dodson Roads

Progress on the new Dodson F-M roads—338 and 1642—is moving along rapidly. Dirt is being moved in and culverts along the route are being constructed. Clyde Drake, resident engineer for the Texas Highway Department, said.

The construction company began work on the 7 and one-fourth miles of new county F-M road on June 21 and the proposed date of completion has been set tentatively for October 1, Mr. Drake declared.

The F-M 338 road is an extension of the Rolla to Dodson road on east for a one mile length and the F-M road 1642 will travel 6 miles south, the engineer revealed.

Singing School to Begin Monday

A three-weeks singing school will begin on Monday evening, July 12, at 8:00 p. m. in the local Church of Christ, according to Minister G. B. Stanley, who will be in charge of the song-fest.

The school of instruction is for those who are interested in the fundamentals of music and singing, the minister declared. The school, held nightly, will cover a period of 15 nights and it will take about one hour of your time each session, Stanley said.

The school is open to all that are interested in music, Minister Stanley declared.

Guard Unit Gets Commendation From 36th Division Commander

Wellington's Medical Company of the 142nd Infantry, Texas National Guard, received a commendation from the commanding general of the 36th Division, Major General Carl L. Phinney, for its outstanding work at the recent two-weeks camp at North Fort Hood.

This is the first commendation the Wellington company has received from this level, and to it was added the commendation of the regimental commander, Col. Everett S. Simpson of Amarillo, Major D. V. Watkins, unit commanding officer said.

The commendation from Major General Phinney reads:

"It is my desire to officially commend you for outstanding performance of duty during the Field Training period of 1954. In spite of being handicapped by a lack of assigned Medical Officers, you have attained an excellent rating for your unit and have been personally cited by Inspection Officers.

"Above report indicates a high degree of leadership, skill and ability which reflects creditably upon you, your unit and this Division."

Major Watkins explained that the reference to the unit's being handicapped by lack of assigned medical officers was the fact that this unit takes care of the medical treatment and welfare of the entire 1600 man regiment. Major Watkins is the only medical doctor serving in the unit.

The Wellington commanding officer described this year's camp as probably the best since World War II. Training was intensive. More time was spent in the field and the men did more road marching. He predicted that future National Guard Camps would be patterned along the line of this one.

The Medical Unit has an enrollment of six officers and 37 men, and of the number, 5 officers and 36 men attended camp.

Increased enrollment is believed due when the proposed National Guard Armory is built, and the Medical company can be enlarged to as many as eight officers and 91 men.

Action Put Off

Phone Company Makes Compromise Rate Offer

A compromise offer on proposed telephone rate increases for Wellington was made by the General Telephone Company to the City Council in a meeting Tuesday night, July 6. Gene Craig, district manager, Memphis, and formerly with the office here, represented the company and presented the offer.

The rates proposed Tuesday night were identical to those worked out between the telephone company and the City of Clarendon recently. The council after discussing on the offer, put off action until the next regular meeting July 19, in order to study and discuss the matter.

The compromise rates offered by Mr. Craig for the company are: Business, One Party $9.50; Business, Two Party 8.00; Business, Extension 1.50; Residence, One Party 5.50; Residence, Two Party 4.50; Residence, Four Party 3.50; Residence, Extension .75.

Mr. Craig, during the discussion with the Council, pointed out increases in expenditures of the local office since the last rate raise was granted in 1951. Paul Spillman, city attorney, asked for explanations on certain operating expenses Mayor Lester Hunter stressed that whereas the Telephone company is guaranteed a certain per cent of profit on their investment, as provided in the law regulating public utilities, Wellington business men have no guarantee of profit of any kind on their investments, and they make a profit only by getting out and getting business.

Bank Assets Still Above 5, Three-Quarter Million

Early summer rains bolstered financial hope, but the solid financial accomplishment of the county is reflected in the more than five and a quarter million dollars on deposit, a figure near the top in bank history for the mid-year. The condition of the county's four banks was revealed in the bank call made by the Federal Reserve Bank, the Banking Commissioner and the Comptroller of Currency for the close of business June 30.

Deposits total $5,279,624.94. This figure is only about a hundred thousand dollars under the deposits of a year ago, when deposits were $5,375,934.37, and the effects of the county's four-year drought have run 12 months longer.

Combined assets remain close to six million, now being $5,853,440.37, about a hundred thousand dollars under the 1953 figure of $5,971,288.48.

As a comparative figure on these two items, deposits at mid-year, 1952 were $6,004,543.02; in 1951, they were $5,779,504; and in 1950 they stood at the all time high for the season of $6,594,614.

Combined assets in 1952 were $6,605,756; in 1951 they were $6,374,538; and in 1950 they were $6,979,513.

Of this year's deposit figure, $4,701,253.61 is in demand deposits.

Loans and discounts are up around a million dollars over last year, standing now at $2,297,743.17. This is the highest loan figure since 1950.

Undivided profits account for $110,053.91. Only about twenty thousand dollars under that figure one year ago.

By way of comparison of the money that Collingsworth counties had on deposit, on June 30 from 1949 back through 1939, sixteen years ago, are given:

After treatment here, he was taken to a specialist in Amarillo, and the parents told other members of the family by phone Monday night that the doctor believed James Lowell had a 50-50 chance of having some sight in the eye, Rita Ann King, his sister, said.

County Gets $849,384.01 For Roads In Five Years

AUSTIN, TEXAS, July 6. — During the last five years, 47,101 miles of roads have been built in Collingsworth county. It was Texas' greatest period of road construction history, Highway Department files show.

The breakdown by counties as well as state totals prepared by the department showed that $849,384.01 was spent in the county for maintenance of present roads and for the gigantic construction program.

Meanwhile in Austin Governor Shivers cited the impressive figures "as evidence that the state's construction program is giving Texas motorists the best roads that engineering can provide."

The report showed that 14,926-10 miles of roads added to the state highway system over the period covered cost $575,158,577.32, more money spent for construction than in any other comparable period.

Figures also showed that Farm-to-Market roads came in for a lion's share of the total. The roads were named a priority because they give farmers needed routes to markets and access to towns surrounding rural areas, a highway official said.

Shivers, who said he was very proud of the excellent way Texas roads have improved in the last half-decade, listed dollars and time saved as two prime benefits to Texas motorists.

"State drivers have been able to save countless hours and money through good roads that provide the ultimate in safety and design," he remarked.

He also pledged that he "would do everything in my power" to continue the present rapid pace of road-building and maintenance.

"A road system worthy of its name must provide its motorists with swift, safe routes," he said.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Killingsworth Friday for lunch were Mr. Killingsworth, niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brewer, Gale, Beverly and Teressa of Santa Anna, Calif. Mrs. Sallie Killingsworth and Callie and Miss Mona Jean Tarter. You can bet your bottom dollar on it.

Come next year, or the year after that, you'll be seeing on other cars some of the styling features you see in Buick today.

We expect it. It has happened before. And there is good reason for it — popular appeal.

Take, for example, the car model shown here.

We call it a Riviera. Most people call it a "hardtop."

When Buick introduced this body type in 1949, it was a completely new thing. And it was an instant hit.

Today, Buick "hardtops" outsell all other models in the line. It's the styling America has taken to its heart.

So today you find that every major car maker has his own version of this Buick original. (And we can't blame them a bit. They know a good thing when they see it.)

Maybe you've noticed other such borrowings from Buick.

reflected in the styling of other cars — or will be soon.

For you can be sure that the great panoramic windshield first shown by Buick this year will be copied. It's too good to pass up.

And you can be sure that the full rear-wheel cutout now on every 1954 Buick Riviera and Convertible will show up elsewhere in the future. It's a sports-car touch that hits a really popular note.

We're sure of such things.

We're sure because the tomorrow-styled Buick of today seems to be just what people want. Because Buick sales are soaring. Because Buick now outsells every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three."

So to you we say—why wait another day to see and drive a new Buick? It's the beauty of the year. It's the buy of the times. And it's a wonderful way to head up the parade.

Drop in this week for a demonstration, won't you?

Mystery Farm No. 37

Life-Long County Residents Farm 720 Acres; Cattle & Wheat Help

Last week's mystery farm was located in the middle of the county. It was the Jack Lowry farm, which is situated about one-quarter of a mile south of Lutie on highway 83.

"The land was first settled and broken out by a Mr. Jenkins, Mrs.

Lowry said. "My father, the late J. H. Young bought the place about 45 years ago and built a half dug-out until some years later. He then built a four-room house, she declared.

The present owners were raised in the community. Jack Lowry, the youngest of seven boys, grew up near his present farm, while his wife lived in her younger days on the farm.

"The first Lutie school was on a corner of the place and the land was given by Mrs. Lowry's father. The school also housed the church and the meetings were held in the same building for many years. Mrs. Lowry related.

"During this time, my mother's brother, Uncle Jim Young, no relation to her father, had a general store and every day he would go from the house to his store by himself though he was blind, she reminisced. "As the children grew older, the farm became a social gathering place for them and now our family reunion is held there in September of each year, and most of the relatives venture there for the annual home-coming, even her mother, Mrs. J. H. Young of Arlington, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowry were married in 1929 and for a few years they did not stay on their present farm; however, they moved back about 15 years ago.

They have three children ranging in ages from a 14 year old daughter to a nine year old son. Harriett Maria, 14, will be a freshman in the Norwood school this year. Joel 11, is in the sixth grade while Neal, 9 will be in the fourth. The family has worked hard

"We are looking forward to soul-lifting, and soul-winning days with boys, girls, youth, and adults coming down the aisles with but one thought in mind and that is accepting Christ, the pastor declared.

"Please remember this revival in your prayers, as it could set Wellington on fire in the days ahead," Rev. Michael concluded.

EDITORIAL COMMENT — THE WELLINGTON LEADER

Japan Is Key To Defense Against Communism In The Pacific

Many Americans now believe that our strongest bulwarks against the expanding Imperialism of Russia and the ever increasing slavery of Communism lies in two of our immediate past enemies — Germany and Japan.

This thought was presented by President Eisenhower in a speech before The National Editorial Association although his remarks dealt with Japan alone. He told the grass roots editors from some forty states of the nation that a non-Communist Japan was the keystone of United States Security in that area. He said: "If Japan should fall to Communist domination, the Pacific would become a 'Communist Lake' and the U. S. would be in direct danger from the Far East."

Here are some direct quotes from his informal speech:

Over in the Western Pacific, the key to its defense is Japan. Japan comprises 85 million people—industrious, hard-working, inventive. Actually, the power that they developed against us in World War II was such as to be frightening when we saw what they could do alone. Consequently, it becomes absolutely mandatory to us, and to our safety, that the Japanese nation do not fall under the domination of the Iron Curtain countries, or specifically the Kremlin. If the Kremlin controls them, all of that great war-making capacity would be turned against the free world. All of the soldiers, all of the armies, all of the air force they could use. Japan would be given the task of producing all the great navies that they need. And the Pacific would become a Communist lake.

Now, my friends, what is Japan? Eighty-five million people living on an area no larger than California. Now we, of course, admit that California is a very wonderful and prosperous place, but as yet there are no 85 million people there. And, even if they were, they would have access to all the markets of the United States on a free basis.

Japan cannot live, and Japan cannot remain in the free world unless something is done to allow her to make a living.

Now, if we will not give her any money, if we will not trade with her, if we will not allow her to trade with the Reds, if we will not try to defend in any way the Southeast Asian area where she has a partial trade opportunity, what is to happen to Japan? It is going to the Communists.

Now no one of these programs, pursued alone, could possibly help Japan, and any one of them, pursued to an extreme, would ruin us.

What we must do, what the statesman must do—what the Congressman must do, is find the answer to this: How do we put all four of these tough problems—these rough facts—together, and get the truth.

We learn, then, that freedom, and the defense of freedom, is a collective job. I took only one example to show you how these conflicting facts—and they are facts—come together. And now wisdom and understanding is demanded, in order that we may get a solution that will serve the United States.

Some weeks ago, I made a vow before a press conference—by the way, I think my dedication to a free press is possibly proven every Wednesday morning—I made a statement at one of these press conferences that hereafter I would never allow myself to appear in public, or in private, and in speaking or a public question, omit or ignore the opportunity to talk about the programs of legislation before our Congress today.

Now, I am not going to take this program this evening and outline it again in the pattern of a state of the union speech to the Congress—not at all. I do want to point out that the job of keeping our freedoms, including our free press, means an America that is free—if not of anxiety, certainly free of hysterical fear from any threat abroad—which has at home a group of dedicated people, alert to dangers from within as well as from without, determined to do everything possible to see that as we advance through the social developments of our time, people are served by their country in such a way as to preserve always the essentials of the individual freedoms guaranteed by our Constitution, and especially its first 10 amendments.

The entire program that has been laid before the Congress has, in some form or another, these purposes in view.

Government, in the attempt to serve all the people, is apt to grow sprawling. As a matter of fact, Mr. Keller (Ralph W. Keller, manager of the Minnesota Editorial Association, who spoke earlier in the program), in certain instances, expressed very emphatically, and rather, let us say, sarcastically at times, some examples of how Government is getting into places where it has no business to be—and I agree with him.

Moreover, I think I can say this: Where Government must take over the job of regulating or interfering, or being part of our daily lives, we should so far as possible make that governmental function a local one—at city or township or country and State level, and keep it out of Washington.

One thing that always strikes me is this: Washington can print money to pay for its mistakes, and other governments can't.

So we don't want to blot out efficiency. We want to keep the Government out of too much of our affairs. But, on the other hand, we cannot have a Government serving 160 million people in this modern, complex, difficult time in which we live, if we just revert to, in the words of the old economic textbook—"laissez faire," just let things slide. That can't be done. We can keep Government close to people and try to steer that line that does not ignore the rights of people to good health, to education—everything else.

Remember, I am not saying that the Federal Government does this itself. But we cannot ignore it. On the other hand, let us not tell every farmer what he may raise, and indeed let us not try to tell each newspaper what it may print.

And so before the Congress we place agricultural bills designed to protect all farmers against disasters that they could not have foreseen, and against which they could not protect themselves, designed to help move food into consumption instead of into storage bins, into surpluses.

We have devised tax programs to distribute the load equitably, and leave to each person as much money as we possibly can so that he may spend it for himself, rather than depend on the wisdom of some bureaucrat in Washington. We devise every kind of program affecting health, insurance plans, old-age protection, unemployment protection. We prefer that people may do these things for themselves, knowing that a great Government is back of them to protect them only and especially when misfortune, which they could not avoid, overtakes them.

So we steer a line between this laissez-faire which would just let these people look out for themselves, all of them, when they are in our economy incapable often of doing so, and on the rigid control that is a form of statism.

Now, in very simple words, ladies and gentlemen, that is the program that is before Congress. It runs into many forms. It provides additional laws, for example, by which we may honestly and with absolute respect for every American tenet of law, protect ourselves against any Communist infiltration or subversion.

It does not violate the rights of any person. But it does make certain that we have the weapons to combat those who would destroy us. This is the kind of thing of which we are talking.

Pain in the Neck

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note: The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek has another idea he won't get anywhere with, but he never stops trying.

Dear editor:

I don't know much about politics or politicians either, and my forecast on how any election is gonna come out is about as dependable as a Russian promissory note. Also, I have never understood why people run for office when there's anything else to do, although there must be some good reasons as nearly every office that's available, there's always somebody willing to run for it.

And also, the reasons candidates give why they ought to be elected have always appealed to me, I sort of keep a mental scrapbook of them, and the other day I was pleased to add a new one.

This candidate, according to a statement I read in a newspaper which drifted in here on a dry wind, said he ought to be elected because, as he phrased it, "you haven't heard too much about me."

According to him, not having heard mention, in these days of in- about a man's a strong recommendation, and he may have a point, as I'll admit the less you know about some candidates the more you might be in favor of em.

But what I'd like to see is this system applied to other endeavors, not just limited to politics. For example, if banks would make loans on the same basis, all a man would have to do to swing one would be to find a bank that never heard of him, and with the number of banks there are in this county, I figure I could operate for years without ever once being turned down.

This idea of investigating a man thoroughly before extending him credit is what keeps more money from circulating, is what keeps merchandise sittin on store shelves instead of windin up in homes where it was intended.

What this country needs is to get away from this eternal suspiciousness, back to where a man's word, if it ain't as good as his bond, is at least good for a television set on credit.

I doubt if this candidate I mentioned is gonna win, don't see how he can if nobody ever heard of him, but he has hit on an idea which certainly would help some people if it was applied universally by banks and stores. It would help me if it was applied just in a ten-mile radius for oneweeek.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Crossroads Report

Dear Mr. Ike:

There is a mighty lot of information to be had from books these days if you happen not to have anything else to do but read them. Busy as you are, though, you may have missed the one I have been reading, which a man by the name of Lewis wrote up after he discovered that the Bible gives some very racy details about the private lives of certain of its more prominent characters.

As an old Bible reader, I had noticed a kind of leaning toward frankness in some Scriptural biographies, but didn't think much about it because I just figured a Book like the Bible needed to mention sin once in a while. It took a brain like Mr. Lewis to see that reading about the less restrained moments of Biblical heroes is corrupting our morals, or at least that a man might could find some suckers to buy a book which said so, and which gave more details on the juicier items.

There is no telling how ignorant us common citizens would be if we didn't have brilliant writers like Mr. Lewis to point out to us that George Washington could, too, tell a lie. And that King Solomon didn't keep a thousand wives just because he had a lots of dishes to wash.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

RULES FOR JUROR CONDUCT EXPLAINED

Thousands of Texans are called each year as prospective jurors in our many state and federal courts. When chosen to serve, very few of these violate their oath with intentional misconduct. But honest mistakes have all too frequently brought the sincerity and ethics of an individual juror into question. Usually such errors arise from his misunderstanding of his function as a juror—for the jury is judge of the facts in the case before it.

Like Caesar's wife, the juror must not only avoid wrong, but must also avoid any appearance of wrong. Otherwise, his integrity and honor may be brought into question by actions which are actually innocent but appear censurable to those who view them. By observing the following simple suggestions, the juror may be sure he is maintaining the highest of ethics, in which no possible fault may be found by others:

Hold yourself aloof from all persons (except other jurors) in any way connected with the trial of the case. That means that you should not mingle with nor talk to the lawyers, witnesses, parties, nor the judge, even though the discussion is wholly unrelated to the trial.

Do not discuss the case nor permit others to mention it to you or in your presence during the trial. If anyone insists upon talking about the case after you have explained to him that you are a juror and must not listen, report the matter to the judge immediately.

Do not commence your deliberations until you have heard all the evidence from both sides, the argument of the lawyers, and the court's charge. You should not mention the case except in the jury room when all other jurors are present.

Do not become a private investigator. All property admissible will be brought before you. Do not try to search out additional facts you believe to have been omitted. Do not even guess or speculate about facts not in evidence.

Be attentive to the evidence as it is presented. If you are to properly aid the other jurors in settling the fact questions, it will be necessary to listen carefully to all evidence presented.

Do not guess at the judge's opinion of the facts. You are the judge of the facts. He is not allowed and will not try to invade your province. His rulings on admissibility of evidence reflect no ideas or opinions on any fact question.

You should not mention or discuss your own personal experiences, or any knowledge that you may have of similar transactions. If you should disclose such information to others serving on a jury, the court would have to grant a new trial.

Accept no favors from and bestow no favors upon any person interested in the trial. However innocent the conduct may be, it will raise doubts in otherwise undoubting minds, and may even be subject to more serious insinuations and charges.

When in doubt ask the judge. If you are in doubt about your rights or duties as a juror, you should not ask anyone but the judge for information.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Bible Comment For July 11

Society Needs a True Moral Sense

We often read today of widely publicized divorces and extra marital relationships in supposedly high levels of society.

Surely there ought to be a sort of "noblesse oblige" on the part of the well-placed privileged which would help establish and maintain sound moral and social standards in marital relationships as in all other relationships.

This is not suggested in any Pharisaic or censorious spirit. Those whose marital lives have been happy and well adjusted might well thank God with compassion upon fortunate, the victims and error.

What is significant andcern is the great lack of today in human relationships lack of consideration for and the lack of common sense and the weakness of will where and social issues are concerned.

When a large portion of the population has no religious affiliation or professed faith, the Commandments and the law of God, as they are accepted by sincere Jews and Christians, can have no essential sanction.

But the Commandments and the law of God are not arbitrary decrees. Their sanction is in their inherent right and wisdom, and the evidence of the rightness in human experience.

True morality comes down very much to a matter of decency and straightness. The essence of immorality is dishonesty and crookedness. The good man is the upright man—and "man" in this sense means woman also.

Married men are considered to be the best listeners. It's probably another case of practice makes perfect.

Even if the dollar is worth only fifty cents, its value will never be as low as some people will stoop to get it.

A man may fall several times in the battle of life but can't be considered a failure until he starts saying somebody pushed him.

A diplomat is no different than any other person except that he has more time to make up his mind to do the wrong thing.

The dollar being worth so little these days it's a wonder the counterfeiters don't strike for a higher priced dollar.

It seems futile to preach highway safety, but we often wonder what the slaughter would be if there were no preaching at all.

Statistics show that a girl need neither be pretty nor rich to be popular—it's no handicap, though, to be pretty rich.

Almost everyone has heard of "witch's" but few people know that malewitches are known as "sorcerers."

Looking Ahead With George S. Benson

THREE GREAT CANNOTS

What our children of today are taught will determine the way of life this nation will have in the years ahead. Nothing, therefore, could be more important to the future welfare of the people of America than the substance of the education that will be given to the 35,000,000 youngsters who will enroll in our schools next September.

A sound observation regarding one phase of this education has been made by Mark C. Schinnerer, superintendent of the Cleveland (Ohio) schools.

John W. Studebaker, Chairman of the Scholastic Magazines' editorial board and former U. S. Commissioner of Education, comments Dr. Schinnerer's statement, and I hope it will be read by all parents and teachers, by everybody. "This is about the teaching of economic," Dr. Schinnerer wrote. "It is not directed just to teachers of economics, but to all teachers. It is directed to all teachers because the job that need to be done cannot be done by just the teachers of economics."

"WE HAVE FAILED"

"There is a colossal oversupply of people in my country who either never discovered some of the basic principles of economics or think that the economic laws have been repealed. We hear much wailing that the schools have failed in this regard and the cry is for required courses in economics. We have failed—in school and out—but the answer is not in required courses.

"The answer, in my opinion, lies in a continuous effort to inculcate in children, from the kindergarten through high school, some basic and very simple facts. There are three things which almost anyone can be brought to understand and if these three are ingrained, we can leave the more complicated principles to the experts."

NOTHING FOR NOTHING

"No. 1: You can't get something for nothing. Too many think they can. That is the basis of gambling and most speculation. Giving a higher mark in school than is earned is proving that the students can get something for nothing. That is bad business. When parents urge no homework, they somehow expect something for nothing. One gets out of school work about what he puts into it. Only parasites get something for nothing."

No. 2. You can't spend more than you have and remain solvent. The longer such a system is followed, the more impossible it becomes to keep afloat. Know anyone who trades in a mortgaged car on a new one and has both a newer car and a bigger mortgage? The woods are full of such people. It is mad economics. It's somewhat like drug addiction. This applies equally to a person, a business, or a government.

CAN'T EQUALIZE ABILITY

No. 3. You cannot equalize ability by a handicap system. It is wrong to expect as much from a youngster with a low I. Q. as is expected from a youngster with a high I. Q. It is also wrong to set up handicaps so that they come out even. Leave that for the exclusive use of the racing stewards. Competition still has a place in America, thank goodness, and I don't want it any other way.

"In every school day, there are numerous incidents in each student's school experience when three fundamentals are present. Just repeatedly bringing them to the pupil's consciousness will work wonders. If all our people accepted these three economic axioms and lived by them, we would live in an economic paradise."

As I have written them down here, it seems to me that Dr. Schinnerer's three fundamentals are lessons on which we all need to be refreshed—especially in a world in which glittering promises of something for nothing are being made by the Socialists and Communists and their dupes. It is good to see these fundamentals propounded by one of America's top public school educators.

From Congressman WALTER ROGERS

GAGGED AGAIN

The Social Security Bill that recently passed the House of Representatives was passed under the "gag" rule. This was the second time this session that major legislation originating in the Ways and Means Committee was forced through the House of Representatives while Members stood handcuffed and gagged. The other time was when the columnous tax revision bill was shoved through. One of the members of the ways and Means Committee, appearing on television just before the tax bill came to Congress, stated that the bill was being written by the Ways and Means Committee and that the House of Representatives would not be allowed to dot an i or cross a t. That is exactly what happened. The bill was printed on March 9, contained over 800 pages (small print) and was voted on on March 18. This procedure simply means that sixteen members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives can dominate and control 435 duly elected Members of Congress, insofar as legislation before that particular committee is concerned. The Social Security Bill wasn't even printed when the House began considering the rule to debate the bill. An attempt was made to open the bill for certain types of amendments, but this was soundly defeated by a vote of 270 to 76. The great majority of the 76 were Southern Democrats. Men who have always believed in the real democratic processes, and who realize that the "gag" rule practice is nothing less than steam roller politics, and that a slightly expanded use of this practice could do tremendous damage to the legislative processes so necessary in a democratic form of government. We sincerely hope that the Senate (where the "gag" rule does not apply) will remove some of the iniquities of the bill.

PUERTO RICANS GO ON TRIAL

The Puerto Ricans, three men and a woman, are now on trial in Washington for the March 1 shooting in the House of Representatives. The woman undertook to make a speech when the case was called for trial, but was quickly hushed by officers of the court. It would be a good guess that she was going to make a speech on freedom for Puerto Rico. The poor gal doesn't seem to understand that the place to get water is at the well. Puerto Rico can have its independence if Puerto Rico wants it. The place to determine this is in Puerto Rico, not in the United States, either in the Congress or before a district court. If justice prevails, I would venture that it will be several years before this woman or her thick-headed pals have an opportunity to visit Puerto Rico or any place else. One of the witnesses who appeared in the beginning of the trial was my good friend, Congressman Ken Roberts, from Alabama. He was shot in the leg and has had a pretty tough time of it. In fact, he was the last one out of the hospital. He is still on crutches and has a specially designed chair in which he sits. The chair is fixed so that it affords a special support for his left leg.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S SPEECH AT PASADENA

I did not like the statement of the Attorney General to the effect that the recent segregation decision of the Supreme Court was a complete answer to Communist propaganda criticizing racial segregation in this country. The Communist propaganda agents could very easily say that such a statement was an admission on the part of the Attorney General that the United States of America had been guilty of something before the Supreme Court made this segregation ruling. We should spend our time telling the world about the shortcomings and viciousness of Communism, rather than trying to answer some false criticism thought up by some expert Communist propaganda spreader. We are all going to some morning and find out that Communist criticism and condemnation can not be satisfied by sacrificing our basic rights that distinguish Americanism from Communism. If propaganda is the weapon that is going to be used, it is time that we got on the offensive with it, rather than being on the defensive.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

What this country needs to promote clear and calm thinking among our chosen leaders is four capital cities. Beautiful and historic Washington is ideal for Spring and that is all. For the summer the capital should be in some cool retreat in the Rocky Mountains. The winter capital should be in South Texas somewhere in the vicinity of sunny San Antonio. And of course the fall capital should be in our own Panhandle of Texas where people from all parts of the nation mix and mingle in the most perfect fall climate in the United States.

I would have suggested Carlsbad Cavern as a fifth alternate; but it is pretty close to Los Alamos. And the Russians seem to have had plenty of information on that for some years.

The reason for these remarks is that Louise and I have just completed one of the hottest and most humid trips to Wash., Maryland and Virginia that we ever took in our lives. It was 96 and 100 degrees in Washington during the two days we were there. The readings were taken out at the magnificent National Airport which is surrounded by trees and water. There is no way of knowing what it was on the dry streets in the midst of the big buildings. Even though they work in air conditioned buildings, legislators can not be expected to pass the most sensible laws nor administrators be expected to write the wisest of directives if they have to go to and from work in such intolerable weather. For safety and sanity, we need four capitals in the United States.

Seriously, Louise and I had a most delightful visit in Washington with Sen. Lyndon Johnson and his wife and Sen. Price Daniel and Congressman Walter Rogers, both of whose wives are named Jean. They are three of the most charming and gracious women you can imagine. Louise is of the opinion that they are most important factors in the success of their husbands. I concur in her opinion. The ladies are diplomats and their husbands are just politicians—hard working and patriotic of course; but they just don't seem to have the charm of their wives.

Walter Rogers and I had a discussion that showed some difference of opinion. I would like to see the flexible price supports given a try, as recommended by the National Farm Bureau. In my opinion it would tend to reduce the surpluses of the six major commodities and perhaps return some of them to where they would draw over 90 per cent on the open market. It is a cinch that we can't keep on piling up huge surpluses without some very bad effects on the long range farm program. On the other hand Walter thinks that we should stick to the rigid 90 per cent price support. That is what he told the farmers when he was running for office and that is the way he is voting when he can do so without getting involved in some complex amendment to an original bill.

Of course, I am not going to fuss with the hard-working Walter Rogers over our difference in views about the long range farm program. As a matter of fact he is probably voting the sentiments of the majority of the farmers of Collingsworth County, and I am opposing the majority in my editorial views. But I just don't see rigid price supports as a long range farm program. And since the very existence of this newspaper depends on Agriculture just as does the future revenue from the two farms I own, I think I am just as sincere in expressing my views as Walter Rogers is in his voting.

He is voting exactly like he promised the farmers he would do in his last campaign talks. But I think that a true representative of the people ought to keep himself in a position to change his vote in the face of new facts and new circumstances. Be that as it may, I came away from Washington with a deep admiration for Walter Rogers devotion to duty. We see eye to eye on some of the foreign policies and problems, and history may record that it was on these that the United States either survived or fell.

Personally I can't see why we don't quit talking about the evils of Communism and start talking about the very real evil of Imperialistic Russia that uses an insidious club called Communism to bludgeon free nations into slavery.

Louise and I attended the historic 75th (Diamond Jubilee) convention of The Texas Press Association in Fort Worth. There we met and mingled with the editors and publishers of the weeklies and small town dailies from all parts of the state. (The few big metropolitan dailies have an association all their own.)

The main topic among the weekly editors was the Governors race. They are of the opinion that it is going to be one of the hottest races that has been held in Texas in the past fifteen years. Most of them are going to support Allan Shivers. I was curious and I asked why. The answers were clear and definite. Allan Shivers has done things for the good of the state for years. His main opponent is making promises. But the thing that was burning the small town editors up was the source of Ralph Yarbrough's campaign expenditures. Almost to a man they thought that it was pouring in from CIO channels from other states not to mention some other organizations whose strength lies far beyond the boundaries of Texas.

Your Children's Feet Demand Best of Care

BY EDNA MILES

MOST children are born with perfect feet. But about 50 per cent of all 10-year-old children suffer from foot trouble. The reason for this is, of course, improper foot care.

This means many things. It means that young, growing feet are not properly refitted every two or three months. It means that shoes are passed along in a family from one child to another, for economy's sake.

And since foot shapes and stance differ greatly even in the same family, what's a good fit for one child may do real harm to another.

Many parents look for sturdy leather in children's shoes. Actually, leather should be soft and flexible, not just tough and long-wearing. Thick, heavy, inflexible leather can cause blisters that open the way to foot troubles.

Shoe linings, too, are important. Children's shoes without lining are false economy. A lining is necessary to absorb and evaporate perspiration.

One new "wonder lining" is now available in many children's shoes. It's a smooth, long-wearing cotton that's been chemically treated, its makers claim, to resist bacteria and the weakening effects of perspiration.

All good cowboys care for their feet, and this buckaroo wears boots with kind-on-the-feet cotton lining.

Kitchen, Linen Shower Honors Popular Summer Bride Elect

"Three Coins in the Fountain" was the theme of the occasion when Miss Barbara Graves, bride-elect of Wilbur Tillman of Vinson, Oklahoma, was complimented with a kitchen and linen shower on the afternoon of June 29, in the home of Miss Betty Karnes.

Hostesses were Miss Genevieve Bartlett, Sue Crawford, Beatrice Hutchins, Leatrice West, and Betty Karnes. A silver and crystal water fountain was the main attraction, with guests wishing and tossing coins into the center for the purpose of beginning the honoree's silver fund. The song, "Three Coins in the Fountain" was played softly in the background during the afternoon.

The guests were registered by Miss Leatrice West, and received a gold paper coin, upon which they each wrote a wish for the couple's happiness and threw their coins into a crystal vase beside the fountain. Miss Sue Crawford introduced the groom's mother, Mrs. Bill Tillman, and sister, Miss Marjorie Tillman, to the guests.

The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth with a blue linen, carrying out the bride's chosen colors of blue and white. Gold and yellow flowers composed the centerpiece, with three blue streamers extending from the center with three large gold coins attached to the ends which represented the three wishes for health, wealth, and happiness. Refreshments were blue punch, white cake with blue icing, and coin-shaped pastel mints. Miss Genevieve Bartlett presided at the punch-bowl, and the cake was served by Miss Karnes.

The many lovely gifts were received and displayed by Miss Beatrice Hutchins. Approximately thirty guests called during the afternoon.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN—Texas is moving to clean up its insurance "mess."

A study of reform proposals has been scheduled by the Texas Legislative Council with a special committee of legislators in charge of the project. Other state agencies will participate.

A. W. Worthy, executive director of the council, said that Lieutenant Governor Ben Ramsey has written to all insurance companies operating in Texas, asking for their cooperation in the study.

Sixty insurance companies have failed in Texas since 1939, Worthy said. The Council will look at the records of these companies to see why they went bankrupt.

Another aspect of the council's work will be to examine Texas' insurance laws and recommend changes "to assure a sound and stable insurance industry."

Yarbrough's Charges

Ralph W. Yarbrough, candidate for governor, charged that there had been "influence peddling" in connection with the insurance situation. Yarbrough recommended:

"A complete investigation looking into retainers, bank accounts, expense accounts, income tax returns, and excessive personal expenditures of state government officials connected with insurance law administration in Texas."

Insurance News

Nearly everybody got into the insurance show. These included:

Attorney General John Ben Shepperd, who recommended 29 changes in the state insurance laws, including state control over insurance company stock sales.

Chairman Garland A. Smith of the insurance commission, who denounced "blatant untruths and half-truths" in a Time Magazine article. Smith said the magazine was "joining with jealous big Eastern insurance companies in trying to smear the Texas insurance industry."

Good Business

Dr. John R. Stockton of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research says that a trade decline is over and recovery has started.

Business activity rose two per cent from March to April in Texas, Dr. Stockton found, representing "a recovery of approximately half of the decline from January 1953, and January, 1954."

This finding indicates, Dr. Stockton said, "that the decline in business, which has been under way since the spring of 1953, is approaching an end."

Lots of Roads

A construction program for 1955-1956, costing about $211 million, was announced by the state highway commission.

It was the largest program ever approved in Texas.

Involved is the construction of 2,663 miles of roads, but, said Commission chairman, E. H. Thornton Jr., "it can only eliminate a minor per cent of the critical deficiencies of the (highway) system."

About $43 million of the money will go for highways within cities. Thirty of the worst bridges will be repaired or replaced.

Political Scene

State political campaigns opened up, with principal interest in the governor's race.

There, the contenders are incumbent Allan Shivers; Ralph Yarbrough, Austin attorney; and J. J. Holmes, Austin contractor.

Yarbrough opened up with a speech in which he talked about "the need for integrity in state government and a sound program for the advancement of Texas."

Meanwhile, Austin political observers heard reports from the Rio Grande Valley that national CIO leaders are going all-out in an attempt to defeat Shivers. These reports said that the CIO has put up $250,000 to finance Yarbrough and already has 300 paid workers in the field campaigning against Shivers.

Holmes, who is beginning to step up his pace in the race, says "I'm not mad at anybody. I want to be the Governor of Texas."

Shivers' Race

Shivers, returning from Korea, said that the thing for Texans to do is to keep our government at home, and not turn it over to outsiders.

At a press conference, the governor he said expected some opposition from Democrats who supported Adlia Etevenson last time. Shivers pointed out that he led the fight for Eisenhower because the Republican nominee saw eye-to-eye with him on the tidelands issue, whereas Stevenson thought tidelands ought to belong to the federal government.

Since the return of the tidelands to Texas a year ago, Shivers said, this state has collected from them about $32 million in mineral rights, and this money goes to the state school fund.

Lieutenant Governor

Oposing Ben Ramsey for lieutenant governor were State Representative George T. Henson of Mineola and C. T. Johnson, Austin business man.

Hinson announced in favor of legislation which would require lobbyist to register with the state and force lawmakers to file a list of all sources and the amount of their income.

Johnson plugged what he termed the need for "new men" to strengthen insurance laws for the protection of policyholders. Said Johnson: "It's interesting to see those who have been in a position for years and years to clean up the insurance mess suddenly get stirred up about it."

Brewster Starts

Campaigning for the re-election of Few Brewster, associate justice of the Texas Supreme Court, began with the appointment of Franklin Spear of San Antonio as campaign manager.

William B. Carsow, Austin lawyer, heads up a statewide campaign committee. Brewster is opposed by Robert B. Keenan of Gladewater and Alfred M. Scott of Austin.

Civil Appeals

I. N. Williams retired as associate justice of the Texarkana Court of Civil Appeals, and his place is being sought by Otto H. Atchley and Matt Davis.

Fourteen other judges on Texas civil appeals courts, up for re-election, are unopposed.

Executive Sessions

State executive committees of both the Democratic and Republican parties will meet here June 14 to prepare the July 24 first primary ballot and select sites for the September state conventions.

Republicans will choose a state chairman to succeed Alvin Lane, who resigned. George Sandlin of Austin has been chosen Democratic chairman, replacing Wallace Savage, who resigned to run for Congress.

Park Visitors

Four million people will visit Texas' parks this summer, says Gordon K. Shearer, executive director of the state park board.

The number will be a record, biggest year heretofore having been 1952, when park visitors numbered 3,803,147. Various improvements have added to the attractiveness of the parks, Shearer said.

More Milk

Texas big dairy industry opened up a 30-day campaign, whooping it up about how much dairy products mean to the state's people.

Included in the program were guided tours through model dairy farms, speeches, menus on the newspaper food pages, exhibits and advertising.

Formula for Grads

Note to June graduates: Do you want to succeed? If so, you must love to work.

So says L. L. (Tex) Colbert, president of Chrysler Corporation, who addressed 1,300 in graduation exercises at the University of Texas.

Himself a Texas graduate—in 1925—Colbert said, "I believe that for most Americans there is a deep moral satisfaction in turning out a good job."

Awriter says that if women ever do get equal rights it will be quite a comedown for some of them.

Mrs. G. C. Wright and the Bill Cliftons spent the weekend in Big Spring, with the Bob J. Spears family.

Visitors in the R. H. Isbell home Sunday were Miss Viola Isbell, Mr. and Mrs. Don Isbell and Baby, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Isbell and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Needham and baby.

Saturday night supper guests in the G. C. Isbell home were Miss Viola Isbell, Mrs. Maxwell and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Isbell.

C. A. Wright and Edna Ellen visited Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Messer, Edith and Ann while Wednesday night.

We are glad to report Ellen Messer is able to be at home again. Ellen was in the hospital with pneumonia for several days. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Simmons of near Clarendon visited her Friday.

Mrs. Messer of Hedley, sister-in-law of C. D. Messer, was seriously injured one day last week when a tractor ran over her. She was rushed to the hospital.

Farmers surely are busy killing weeds. Tractors are humming on sides. Lots of hoeing going on.

This is a good time to kill weeds and there's plenty of them. A good rain sure would be a help.

Make a Fiesta of Your Next Informal Luncheon

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

FOR your next informal luncheon party, try these individual cheese casseroles. Served with sliced cold meats, a green salad and crusty rolls or French bread, they will delight your friends.

Mexican Cheese Casserole

(Yield: 4 servings)

One teaspoon salt, 2 cups boiling water, ¾ cup corn meal, 1 cup cold water, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 3-ounce can sliced, broiled mushrooms; ¼ teaspoon kitchen bouquet, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon powdered oregano, 4 ounces American cheese, cubed; ½ cup finely diced green pepper, paprika.

Add salt to boiling water in top of double boiler. Combine corn meal and cold water. Add moistened corn meal to boiling salted water, stirring constantly. Cook over moderate heat until mixture becomes thick.

Place over boiling water and cook, covered, for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, melt butter in small saucepan over moderate heat. Stir in flour. Add milk and broth from can of mushrooms. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens.

Add kitchen bouquet and seasonings. Add cheese, stirring constantly until it is nearly melted. Add drained mushrooms and green pepper. Pour cooked corn meal into 4 greased, individual 8-ounce casseroles, or shallow 8-inch baking dish.

Top with cheese and mushroom mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 15 minutes, or until thoroughly heated. Serve immediately with crisp green salad. (The Tomato Rarebit recipe below is good any time, and children love it.)

Tomato Rarebit

(Yield: 4 servings)

One can condensed tomato soup, ¼ cup milk, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ½ pound processed, aged American cheese; 6 slices toast, or hamburger buns split and toasted.

Combine tomato soup, milk and seasonings in top of double boiler. Heat over hot water. Add cheese, cut in small cubes.

Individual Mexican Cheese Casseroles make a delicious main dish for an informal luncheon. They'll bring you many compliments.

Stir constantly until cheese is nearly melted. Beat with rotary beater until creamy smooth.

Cut toast in halves diagonally; arrange 3 pieces on each of 4 luncheon plates. Cover with the rarebit. If buns are used, arrange three halves on each plate and cover with rarebit.

Garnish with broiled bacon, if desired.

NOTE: To dress up this recipe for company, add a 3-ounce can of sliced, broiled mushrooms—using the mushroom broth in place of milk.

The Canada's At Quail Find Wheat And Black-Eyed Peas Mix For Dollars

"The big ones always get away!" That is the way J. W. Canada explains some of his bad fishing luck. Canada along with his wife, Mrs. Esther Canada, whom he married in 1922, are the owners of the Leader mystery farm no. 37. The Canada's are comparatively newcomers to the county. They arrived on the farm that was in the paper in 1946 and he bought it from Ira Self, who had purchased it from Squire Atkinson.

The farm is located 3/4 of a mile west of the Quail school building and it is well improved. The house is made of a rugged grade of lumber and as one local businessman stated, "I have never seen as much lumber in one house in my life." That is the consensus of most people when they examine it.

The soil is of a sandy mixture and it is good for cotton, row crop and peas. Mr. Canada prides himself in his pea crop. He said that one year he grew 50,000 pounds. He sold peas, gave away peas, fed hogs that he bought in Arkansas peas. Now for most farmers one crop a year off the land would seem a plenty. However, for the Canada's it takes two complete, money-making crops to justify the effort. He plants wheat in the fall and then in the summer he comes along with his pea crop, which he considers his best working effort.

Mr. Canada is an inter-state land owner, owning land in Texas (Quail) and near Van Buren, Arkansas. The Collingsworth County farm has about 420 acres of land of which he makes every inch pay off.

When the question of livestock was mentioned, Canada chuckled that all that he had was one cat and one dog and no milch cows.

Canada has as his pastime, hunting and he can be classified as a Nimrod in that field. One year he and a friend went to the deer-country of Texas and bagged their limit in one day, which is a fete for the seasoned deer-hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. Canada travel quite a bit and he is glad to relate to his listeners about his wife's exploits in Yellowstone National Park with the "tame" bears, and her ability as a photographer in capturing these large animals on film.

They have two children, a boy and a girl, Roy Canada and Mrs. Imogene Matthews, who has two boys.

Canada is a member of the Farm Bureau and she is a member of the Baptist Church.

PARTNERS—The pilot of an F-86 Sabrejet at Selfridge Field, near Detroit, Mich., gazes thoughtfully at his partner in the job of defending America's cities from air attack. The newcomer on the defense scene is the guided missile, "Nike," which, in case of attack, would be used to intercept enemy aircraft at high speed.

Extra Care Needed Now by Poultry, Stock

College Station—Warm Weather, moisture and heavily grazed pastures are ideal for the development of stomach worms in cattle.

If left untreated, much of the food taken in by infested animals will be diverted from beef building into worm building, says Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian.

In parasitized cattle, mature female worms produce large numbers of eggs which are spread about the pasture in the manure. Larvae hatch, are picked up by grazing cattle and are swallowed with the grass.

Severe infestation is recognized by scouring, anemia, rough haircoat and little or no gain in weight. Greatest losses are hidden, Patterson explains, since they appear as poor growth and poor feed efficiency.

Veterinarians usually can diagnose parasitism by identifying the kinds and numbers of worm eggs in the manure.

Young animals are more susceptible to the effects of stomach worms than older animals. Also, cattle in poor condition are affected more than healthy ones. However, adds the veterinarian, any animal fails to do its best when harboring the parasites.

Good sanitation and feeding methods will help in parasite control. If the herd becomes infested, it is necessary to identify the bug before treatment can be recommended.

In addition to his pastoral duties, he wrote the weekly Wellman news for five surrounding newspapers, drove a school bus and taught high school English for a time.

"The Quail Baptist Church is looking forward to great things and each member has pledged their co-operative support to our pastor and will do everything in their power to help him build the church," Jimmie Pegram, of the pulpit committee, said. This committee was composed of Mr. Pegram, Ray Brown and Johnnie Parker.

anniversary during the coming year, and a special observance will be held in the Wellington Club. Dr. E. W. Jones is chairman of the golden anniversary committee, while the other members are Mr. Parsons, Mr. Squires, Dr. E. K. Jones and Mr. Raburn.

Mr. Henderson heads the club finance committee with Mr. Winters and Mr. Denley as members.

Boy Scout Troop 32 has been a project of the club since its organization, with Mr. Parsons as scoutmaster. He will again serve as scoutmaster. He will again serve Rotary as its Boy Scout chairman.

this distinction during the week.

A team composed of Neal White and Roy Gene Pate won first in the canoe race, and a team composed of Travis McGuire, Marion Tidwell and Billy Moseley won first in the row boating. Troop No. 73 was the only Troop to win two first places during this week of Camp Ki-Wah.

The program during week consisted of Swimming, Rifle practice, canoeing, Boating, Archery, Wildlife study, nature study and scout instructions on good camping.

The Quail Troop was the first Scouts to complete their part of the Totem pole that was erected near the headquarters of the Camp area.

"Much of the success of the Quail Troop was due to the efficient work of Assistant Scout Master Johnny Parker," Moseley said. Some of the Quail Scouts plan to enter the 185 mile bicycle trip that will be held during the month of August.

Cattle Parasites Cut Profits

College Station—Poultry and livestock needs extra care during the summer months, warns Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian.

Farm animals lose body moisture more rapidly at this time of year and such losses hit the producer as a loss of weight, drop in milk production or drop in egg production.

Water, and lots of it, can help prevent these unprofitable summertime conditions. A cool, continuous water supply for all animals is especially pertinent now, Dr. Patterson says.

Adequate, ventilated shade takes a high priority. Air must circulate freely through the shaded areas to carry away body heat and moisture.

Supply feed according to need. Breeding, dairy and work animals should remain in a thrifty, but not fat, condition.

Salt is essential in the regulation of body heat and should be available at all times, the veterinarian adds. Animals should not be driven or over-exercised during mid-day.

Also specially significant is the control of flies, ticks, screw-worms, wool maggots and other injurious and annoying insects.

Domesticated animals must depend upon man for much of its care. Accordingly, Patterson says, proper summer care is a key link in any profitable year-round livestock operation.

Mrs. L. A. Moore and Mrs. Benny Moore spent a few days in Big Springs last week.
