Solidarity may make concessions

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Solidarity chairman Lech Walesa said Friday that concessions from the union and the government at next week's talks are vital to "the well being and interests of the whole Polish community."

The statement, issued after a stratgey meeting in Gdansk of the union's 11-member presidium, did not state what the concessions might be. It was interpreted as a Solidarity attempt to guarantee its sincerity in approaching the new round of talks aimed at solving Poland's economic crisis.

The independent union remained unable to get about 150,000 rank and file to return to their jobs and coal mines in southern Poland, and the Solidarity chapter in Sosnowiec upped its demands Friday, calling for the ouster of the provincial government. Local Communist groups renewed calls for crackdowns against "counter-revolutionaries" and new muscle for the government in dealing with the strikes, some going into their third week.

In another development, the Polish Supreme Court granted a prosecution request that it stay its order for the release of Leszek Moczulski and two other anti-Soviet dissidents. The three, members of KPN (or Confederation for Independent Poland) are charged with anti-state activity and were to be released pending resumption of their trial.

Walesa's statement did not indicate what he had to say to his "cabinet" about his two-hour meeting Wednesday with Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski and Archbishop Jozef Glemp, Poland's Roman Catholic primate.

THE UNION SAID THURSDAY that the government had indicated its willingness to make some concessions toward reaching a concensus on rebuilding the shattered economy, and the archbishop, now at Vatican City, said he was optimistic agreements could be reached.

The army newspaper Zolnierz Wolnosci, commenting Friday on the union-church-state summit, said it gave "a new wave of hope in a sea of doubts and disaffection." But it said Solidarity extremists could be expected to throw up hurdles toward getting the nation back to work.

Polish radio said Friday strike tensions were "rising" in the southwest province of Zielona Gora, where a strike by more than 150,000 workers was in its 15th day.

Coal miners in Sosnowiec were in the ninth day of their walkout over a chemical throwing incident. The Solidarity chapter there, which has already demanded it be granted a televised news conference to air grievances, called Friday for the resignation of the provincial governor and a government committee to investigate the chemical attack. Fifty people were reported hospitalized in the incident.

The Sosnowiec chapter of the Communist Party called a special meeting, according to the official news agency PAP, and declared: "The time has come for the Parliament to take a decision on granting extraordinary powers to the government."

Such calls are interpreted to mean severe curtailment or outright ban of the right to strike.

SOLIDARITY'S COUNTRY Commission, a 107-member leadership executive, passed a resolution Wednesday calling for the union to control employment and food distribution and threatening a nationwide general strike if some settlement wasn't reached by March.

Walesa played down the resolution, which was passed in his absence. His statement Friday, described by Solidarity as baked by the 11-member presidium, said strike threats are in violation of the spirit of the Gdansk accords which recognized the independent union and its right to strike.

In another development, PAP said 1,000 inmates at the Kaminsk prison for repeat offenders set fires and caused extensive damage in a riot that was put down with tear gas and water cannon. PAP said two inmates were reported killed by other inmates during the rampage, which ended early Friday.

President Ronald Reagan declares he is "not retreating one step" from his economic program. At a fund-raising dinner in New York Friday, Reagan promised he would keep asking Congress to cut spending rather than raise taxes.

Reagan says no to tax hike

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan promised the party faithful Friday night that he is "not retreating one inch" from his economic program and will keep asking Congress to cut spending rather than raise taxes.

In toughly worded remarks to a $1,000-a-person fund-raiser at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, Reagan suggested his critics may actually be "rooting for recession and misery on Main Street."

But he insisted he will stick with his program despite new figures that show he is losing ground in the battle to balance the budget by 1984.

Later in the evening, Reagan dined with Irish Americans and accepted their award, but avoided any statement suggesting he might be willing to play peacemaker in Northern Ireland.

At the dinner, Reagan's only reference to Northern Ireland came when he told the audience of about 1,400 people, "today, there is tragedy again in the Emerald Isle. I think we all should pray that responsible leaders of both sides, the governments of the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland can bring peace to that beautiful island once again."

AT THE FUND-RAISER, Reagan said record high interest rates and an unexpectedly swift decline in inflation have cost the government revenues. But that won't "cause us to push the panic button."

"We're going to keep on asking the Congress for more spending cuts until we get government costs down to within government revenues. Maybe it'll take a little longer than we planned, but we're not retreating one inch."

Dismissing suggestions he would bow to congressional pressure and increase taxes instead of making further cuts in federal programs, Reagan said, "We made a commitment to the American people and we're going to keep it. Your tax reduction will not be rescinded; it will not be delayed; and it will not be reduced."

"We didn't select our program because it would be easy or quick or politically expedient ... we are here to lead the struggle to save our economy. This is our moment."

Reagan's unexpectedly strong rhetoric came on the heels of a day of meetings with Republican leaders from the House and Senate, many of whom urged him to call for tax increases in 1983 and 1984 to counteract declining revenues and the increased costs of the current recession.

But Reagan told the fund-raiser, "we came to Washington with a plan. The plan is on track even though the train is a little late leaving the station."

During the 45-minute flight from Washington aboard Air Force One, Reagan stood in the aisle most of the trip and talked to several New York congressmen who made the trip with him.

A spokesman said the president was telling them old football stories from the days when the play-by-play was transmitted to radio announcers by telegraph. Reagan's first job out of college was as a sports announcer for a Des Moines, Iowa, radio station.

When Air Force One landed in Newark, Republican gubernatorial candidate Thomas Kean went aboard to welcome Reagan, who had campaigned for Kean for last Tuesday's governor's race. Kean holds a slim lead, but a recount may be held.

After the fund-raiser, Reagan headed for the Seventh Regiment Armory on the Upper East Side of Manhattan to dine with the American Irish Historical Society and accept a medal. Reagan's ancestors were Irish.

Hussein seeks support for Saudi peace plan

By YARDENA ARAR
Associated Press Writer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan said Friday the Camp David peace accord between Israel and Egypt remains unacceptable and may have contributed to the "sadly tragic end" of slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

But in a speech before the Los Angeles World Affairs Council, the Jordanian monarch reaffirmed his commitment to friendship with the United States and said he hoped the U.S. would support principles of Saudi Arabia's controversial Mideast peace plan.

As Hussein and his American-born wife, Queen Noor, the former Lisa Halaby, received a standing ovation inside the Beverly Hilton, about 40 supporters of the Palestinian Liberation Organization demonstrated across the street from the hotel, chanting "Long live the PLO!"

IN A PREPARED speech outlining Jordan's view of the Middle East crisis, Hussein referred repeatedly to U.N. Security Council Resolution 242 of 1967. It called for Israeli withdrawal from territories it occupied during that year's six-day war, an end to hostilities and an acknowledgement by "every state in the area" to "live in peace within secure and recognized boundaries."

"The eight-point peace plan recently proposed by Saudi Arabia is entirely consistent with these principles," Hussein said, "and it is also close to what Jordan has been advocating for many years."

He said that when Resolution 242 — which he helped write — was passed, "it was understood that Israel would be required to withdraw from all occupied territory of the West Bank" with "minor reciprocal border rectifications."

Before Camp David, he said, Sadat had also seemed committed to requiring Israeli withdrawal from occupied land, "including Arab Jerusalem," and for Palestinian autonomy, "including their right to establish their own state."

"As is now well known, a very different kind of agreement emerged from the Camp David conference," Hussein said.

"How and why this came about I cannot of course explain, since I was not consulted," he said, "but I can categorically state that Israeli intransigence and arrogance, together with all the factors which caused the late President Sadat to deviate from his set course .... were a major factor contributing to his sadly tragic end."

HUSSEIN SAID THE Israelis want peace, "but they also want territory."

"It has also become apparent to us that Israel's favored solution for the Palestinian problem is to transfer the problem to Jordan," he said. "Just as the Palestinians were compelled against their will to compensate the Jewish people for the wrongs done by others, Jordan is now asked to compensate the Palestinians for the wrongs done by Israel."

Hussein's heavily guarded, 50-member entourage arrived Thursday for a four-day Southern California visit. A black limousine almost immediately whisked them from Los Angeles International Airport to the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, where the party occupied three of 13 floors.

The Jordanian party spent four days in Washington, D.C., where Hussein met President Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. The king was also expected to visit Fort Bliss, Texas, for test launchings of the improved Hawk missile.

While in Los Angeles, Hussein was scheduled for a taping of the public affairs show "Face the Nation."

He and Queen Noor are to be dinner guests of former President Gerald Ford and Betty Ford at the chic Beverly Hills restaurant Le Bistro on Saturday night.

Marine says he received threat from sergeant

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A recently discharged Marine told investigators Friday that a sergeant threatened that "somebody is going to get you" if he told how a Texan died in swimming tests at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

Testifying at a hearing into the Aug. 27 drowning of Pvt. Randall Christian of Dallas, William Donaldson identified the sergeant who made the threat only as Ochoa.

At the request of a Texas congressman, the hearing was ordered by the commandant of the Marine Corps.

A military police guard accompanied Donaldson to the hearing after the 18-year-old from Baldwin Park, Calif., expressed fear for his safety.

Donaldson said "Ochoa" warned him after they saw the drowning: "You don't know what happened. If you say anything about that, you will be in big trouble. Somebody is going to get you."

Donaldson was given a general discharge last month after signing a statement in which he now claims he lied — at the request of a Marine investigating officer — and said the death appeared to have been accidental, Rep. Jim Mattox told reporters.

In excerpts from a statement given later to Mattox, the Democratic congressman quoted Donaldson as saying "I lied on the statement so that they'd let me out of the Marines. I knew I wouldn't get out unless I lied."

Earlier this week, three other Marine recruits who participated in the same swimming tests as Christian testified that instructors laughed his struggles and pushed him back when he tried to reach the side of the pool.

Donaldson testified that a captain told him what to say in the official statement. He quoted the officer as having told him: "I want you to tell me how Sgt. (Rudy) Rodriguez just accidentally neglected the boy nd that it wasn't his fault."

NEA head attacks critics

By MACK SISK
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — New Right critics are raising the specter of secular humanism and atheism in the classroom in an effort to replace public education with private schools, says the president of the nation's largest teacher organization.

Williard McGuire, president of the 1.8 million member National Education Association, said New Right allegations "that the schools are run by secular humanists, that the young people are exposed to atheistic philosophy" have been proven wrong by a Southern Baptist Convention study.

A Southern Baptist review of textbooks and methodology "concluded that (secular humanism) did not exist in the materials which they reviewed," said McGuire, a math and Spanish teacher from St. Paul, Minn.

"Certainly the teachers of America are the fabric of which America is made, a group of high-moraled, religious persons," said McGuire.

"IN FACT, IT HAS often been said if the public school teachers of America did not show up on Sunday to teach Sunday school ... there wouldn't be Sunday school.

"I think that's quite a far step from secular humanism and an atheistic society. We reject it and know it's being promulgated by those who believe there should not be public schools.

"It's a step to undermine faith in the public schools and move to a private school system — a have and have-not system," said McGuire.

McGuire spoke to reporters prior to his speech at a meeting of the Alamo District of the Texas State Teachers Association. That meeting was called to counter attacks on public education and the teaching profession.

TSTA President Dora Scott of Houston said low salaries, lack of teacher input in the decision-making process and disciplinary problems have enrollment to drop by 40 percent in Texas college and university education programs.

TSTA PRESIDENT-ELECT Barbara O'Neal of Waco said teacher shortages — particularly in South Texas — have forced some Texas school districts this fall to hire substitute teachers with no requirements beyond being 18 years old.

McGuire said "frustration" best described the feeling among teachers who have seen education reduced to a lower priority over the last two decades in federal, state and local budgets.

Congress enacted the school lunch program after World War II because of a concern over the physical condition and nutrition of young men entering military service, and to use agricultural surpluses, said McGuire.

After the Russians launched Sputnik in 1957, Congress passed the National Defense Education Act to to improve instruction in the schools, preparation of teachers and availability of educational materials.

Republicans challenge redistricting plan

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Eight Republicans filed a federal lawsuit Friday challenging the constitutionality of a redistricting plan for the Texas House of Representatives that plaintiffs contend is gerrymandered against Hispanics, blacks and Republicans.

The plaintiffs — including two Mexican-Americans, a black and two Republican legislators — asked a three-judge special panel to ban elections under the plan they argue violates the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment and the Civil Rights Act.

The suit also asks that the court declare unconstitutional the plan adopted Oct. 28 by the Legislative Redistricting Board because it "impermissibly divides communities and units of interest," and that it order another "suitable plan" be adopted.

The plaintiffs said the plan divided Baytown in to three districts for the first time and made "similar illegal divisions" in Bexar, Dallas and other counties.

"MANY OF THE districts in the plan are not compact and contiguous and there is no rational basis for the deviations and splitting of community interest," the plaintiffs said.

The plaintiffs are Louis Terrazas of San Antonio, former co-chairman of the Reagan-Bush campaign in Bexar County; W.E. Tucker, identified as a black Travis County resident; Linda Allison Frederick of Dallas County; D.J. Phlips of a Travis County; State Rep. Ed Emett, R-Harris County; State Rep. Bob Davis, R-Dallas County; and Isaac Olivares, a Hidalgo County resident.

Terrazas said all the plaintiffs are Republicans.

Gov. Bill Clements, Secretary of State David Dean, Attorney General Mark White, State Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle and State Republican Chairman Chester R. Upham were named as defendants in the suit.

"THE PLAN HAS unconstitutionally diluted the votes of minority voters in this state," the plaintiffs said.

They contend in the suit that the plan gerrymandered districts in Bexar County to dilute Mexican-American voting strength. Plaintiffs argued the population of Bexar County could elect five Mexican American Representatives, but was apportioned to "include only four 'safe' Mexican-American districts.

The plaintiffs maintained similar gerrymandering diluted black and Hispanic votes in Dallas and Harris counties.

The plan also "seeks to reduce the voting power of Republicans by drawing districts to reduce their representation in the House of Representatives," the plaintiffs charged.

They cited Bexar County where they argued redistricting will provide only three Republican representatives in a metropolitan area with "sufficient number of Republicans to elect at lest four Republican representatives."

THE SUIT ALSO alleged the plan failed to consider growth patterns and "packed" certain areas with hither than optimum district populations.

Plaintiffs charged District 44 is 4.99 percent larger than the ideal district and that District 116 is 4.65 percent smaler.

They argued there is "no justification for so great a variance," and that the average deviation in the plan "unnecessarily and illegally deprives much of Texas' population of fair and equal representation."

The plaintiff said Harris County has sufficient population for 25 districts, but would get 26 under the plan. Dallas, they argued, would get 17 districts although it should have only 16.

Grain elevator explosion critically burns five

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — An explosion at a grain elevator critically burned five people Friday, authorities said.

The blast at the facility owned by Del-Mar Industries Inc. was reported shortly after 3:30 p.m., fire department dispatcher Lynn Joyner said.

The cause of the blast was not immediately known, but officials said one of the men may have been welding a grain bin just before the explosion.

"We don't know exactly what the bins contained," said Lee Fort, Longview's assistant fire chief. "Apparently there were grains of various nature."

A Del-Mar spokeswoman who declined to identify herself said the company would have no comment.

Four of the five men were taken by helicopter to the burn center at Dallas' Parkland Hospital, said Mary Corley, a nursing supervisor at Good Shepherd Hospital.

She identified the four as Gerald David Stone, 29, and Juan Garcia, 23, of Longview and Mark Shirley, 25, and Bryan Luckett, 18, of Commerce.

The fifth man, Robert Hernandez, 17, of Longview, was taken to Dallas by ambulance, she said. "He was moved that way because he's in stabler condition than the rest," Ms. Corley said. "They all have burns all over their bodies."

Odessa man dies in two-car accident

ODESSA — A 75-year-old Odessa man was killed in a two-vehicle accident at 3:50 p.m. Friday on FM 1936 near its intersection with Mockingbird.

George Andrew was the driver of a car traveling south in the bar-ditch of 1936 and attempting to enter the roadway when it was in collision with a pickup truck operated by Douglas Clifton Riggs of Odessa. The Riggs vehicle also was southbound.

Andrew was pronounced dead at the scene by Peace Justice Jimmy Harris of Odessa. His body was taken to Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home.

Riggs was not injured, according to the Department of Public Safety.

Thunderstorms may be on the way

The National Weather Service has issued a 20 percent chance of rain for today, as partly cloudy conditions may spawn thunderstorms.

No precipitation has been recorded thus far in November, and the 1981 total remains at 17.55 inches.

The high today and Sunday should reach the mid-70s and the low tonight in the upper 40s, according to the NWS.

Friday's temperature extremes of 70 and 51 were mild in comparison with the all-time record extremes for the date of 84 in 1977 and 22 in 1938.

Winds of 10-15 mph should dissipate considerable early morning cloudiness today.

Top editors resign at Daily Texan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Three top editors of the Daily Texan have resigned following staff charges that they had manipulated the news and destroyed the credibility of the University of Texas student newspaper.

Editor Don Puffer, Assistant Editor Jeff Smejkal, and Managing Editor Paula Angerstein submitted letters of resignation Thursday to the executive committee of the board of Texas Student Publications, which publishes the Texan.

The UT News and Information Service said Puffer was a graduate of Dickinson High School. Smejkal had listed Green Bay, Wis., as his home address, and Ms. Angerstein was from Meyersville, Texas.

The resignations came the day after Puffer and Angerstein were reprimanded by the committee for violating the student publications handbook concerning Texan operations. The committee did not specify what TSP policies had been violated.

However, about 20 staff members resigned Wednesday in protest of the editors' actions.

Jenny Abdo, Texan news editor and spokeswoman for the staff members who sought Puffer's resignation, said on several occasions this semester Puffer changed copy "to improve his political standing."

Ten Houston policemen suspended for hotel incident

HOUSTON (AP) — Ten police officers were suspended with pay Friday pending an investigation of allegations they terrorized black residents of a hotel, throwing one man down a staircase and putting a cocked pistol against a woman's head.

Tenants of the Delta Apartment Hotel in Houston's chiefly black Fifth Ward said a group of white men in T-shirts and blue jeans began kicking in doors and beating people for no apparent reason about 3 a.m. Wednesday.

"It took me back to the slave days," said Adell Criswell, 49.

"I thought they was the Ku Klux Klan," another resident said.

Criswell, a painter, said the men beat up eight people. He said they gashed one man's head with a flashlight, knocked another man's teeth out and threw another man down a flight of stairs.

He said they also forced their way into a woman's room and held a cocked pistol against her head.

Witnesses said they recognized the men as patrol officers. They said the group drove up in a beige pickup truck about 3 a.m., brandishing a Confederate flag and a black flag bearing a skull and crossbones.

TENANTS SAID THE men had driven by about two hours earlier yelling racial epithets.

Police Chief B.K. Johnson relieved the following officers of duty:

S.A. Bremer, 27; T.E. Branch, 25; M.L. Buttitta, 23; W.R. Cumbess, 23; S.L. Franklin, 36; N.R. Giles, 23; R.H. McKenzie, 29; J.C. Passmore, 26; J.A. Harris, 25; and W.F. Louvin, 22. None of the officers could be reached for comment.

All of the suspended officers are assigned to the department's northeast patrol detail.

"There have been no formal complaints received by Internal Affairs about any specific officer in connection with this incident," said Larry Troutt, public information officer for the police department. "Internal Affairs Division is investigating reports of misconduct on the part of off-duty officers."

A police detective who preferred to remain anonymous said the officers had been drinking, and went to the hotel to beat up some "dope fiends."

"I was asleep when they kicked open my door," said Jewel Conley, 31, a housewife who was spending the night with a girlfriend. "One of them had cowboy boots and tried to kick me, but missed when I moved and stuck a pistol in my face."

Tenants said no arrests were made and that the men left in their truck, saying they would be back.

Princess Diana creating great expectations

LONDON (AP) — Princess Diana will want her maternity wardrobe to include the same "romantic, pretty clothes" that have charmed admirers since she entered the royal limelight a year ago, one of her designers said Friday.

But so far, she is not believed to have selected any maternity fashions — with the baby not due until next June.

A Buckingham Palace press officer, asked details on the royal wardrobe in the coming months, said:

"We never give out this sort of information, particularly this early. It is entirely a private affair. The princess will most likely not choose just one designer but several."

Likely candidates include David and Elizabeth Emanuel, the young couple who designed the glittering silk taffeta and old lace dress Diana wore at her July 29 wedding to Prince Charles — heir to the British throne — in St. Paul's Cathedral, the palace said.

Betty Brittain, agent for the Emanuels, said no instructions had been received so far.

"They have not yet been approached but naturally they would be delighted if they were asked to create a new wardrobe," she said.

Also expecting a summons from the princess is London couturier David Sassoon, whose creations Diana wore for three public appearances this week — including a dazzling, white satin, V-neck gown at the state opening of Parliament.

Sassoon, co-owner of Bellville Sassoon, told The Associated Press that the 20-year-old princess will want the same "romantic, pretty clothes" she normally favors, "but in the idiom of a maternity outfit. In other words, less fitted."

"It is very difficult to speculate," he added. "She is lucky to be able to wear all kinds of colors and materials."

The London Daily Express forecast that Diana will seek to "hide her bulge under pretty, pintucked voile smocks worn over elastic-waisted skirts."

Prison site to be considered

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Board of Corrections, which has run into local opposition after previous secret searches for prison land, will consider buying a 5,000-acre site Monday.

Board member Harry Whittington of Austin confirmed the proposed purchase Friday but refused to identify the site. He said the site selection committee, on which he serves, has been quietly looking for land for three months.

Whittington does not expect residents near the tract to oppose the purchase.

"They do not know we're getting ready to buy this property," he said. However, he expects a favorable reaction because, "It might be in an area of an existing prison."

The Texas Department of Corrections, based in Huntsville, has prisons in several East Texas counties.

Labor is theater group's forte

By TANYA GROSS
The Oregonian

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A new theater group in Portland performs for longshoremen, textile workers and other union members, and although the group is just putting together its second show, unions are already booking performances.

The response has been "positive and gratifying," according to Marita Keys, one of the performers. "We've established a relationship with the unions because of our last show," she said.

The Portland Labor Players II was formed last year "to renew the tradition of theater and working people's history," Ms. Keys said. "Basically, we're reflecting and telling the story of working people's lives."

The original Portland Labor Players began in the '20s or '30s when plays focused more on working people, Ms. Keys said. The idea for the new group came from a humanities director at Pacific Northwest Labor College who was inspired by the first organization and wanted to use drama to again emphasize working people and their problems, she said.

A large part of the group's support comes from labor unions, Ms. Keys said. The grant from the Oregon Committee for the Humanities was made to develop and perform an original oral history for working people. The grant requires a certain number of performances be for union audiences.

"We're trying to tell the story of working people and a lot of working people are in unions," but the players see the grant's requirement in a more general way, too, and perform at universities and public parks, she said.

The group's first performance was in the summer of 1980. An original production by a local playwright, "1934: Blood and Roses," dealt with the struggles of longshoremen during the Depression and was seen by Portland's longshoremen's union, among other groups.

The organization uses regional labor history to highlight struggles of the working class, Ms. Keys said. This year the performers have been using old newspaper accounts of an Oregon City woolen mill, reading books about the Industrial Revolution and interviewing people who remember what it was like to work at the turn of the century, in order to gain information for their new play.

"Season of Silence or Jacob's College" is set in the early 1900s, when a rapidly industrializing United States was forcing people to make major changes in their way of life, Ms. Keys said.

The historical account takes place at the Oregon City Manufacturing Co., a prosperous woolen mill that did everything from cleaning to weaving the wool and had outlets in San Francisco and New York, she said.

"This story is a microcosm of what was going on in the United States or any industrializing country at that time."

In 1902, the Oregon City mill management wanted to increase the weavers' workload and lower their wages. Fourteen weavers, all women, walked out in protest, Ms. Keys said. By the next day, 200 workers had left, causing a mill shutdown, she said.

"At the end of the strike, the workers got 65 to 70 percent of what they wanted." The strike lasted a month and during that time the employees formed a local branch of a national textile workers' union.

The mill suffered another strike in 1905 but that lasted a week and only 53 weavers walked out, without support from other employees, Ms. Keys said.

"We want to find out what happened so that in 1905 the workers didn't have the same solidarity as in 1902."

The performers also want to examine what changes the Industrial Revolution made in the way workers thought of themselves. "People used to work in their homes and they thought of their work as a beautiful craft," she said.

With new technology and changes in production, workers had to move from their homes to factories and usually worked on only one part of the whole product, she said.

Buffalo skyscraper gets new lease on life

By JOHN C. GIVEN
Associated Press Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — After years of deterioration, a major fire, financial losses and threats of demolition, help is on the way for one of the nation's first skyscrapers and architectural treasures: Louis Sullivan's Prudential Building.

"We are now putting out packages for bidding," said Bill Scott, project architect for Cannon Design Inc., which is engineering the $9.6 million restoration project.

Completed in 1896, the 13-story structure was designed mainly by Sullivan in what was to be the last collaboration with fellow Chicago architect Dankmar Adler.

The building was commissioned by entrepreneur Hascal L. Taylor, who wanted "the largest and best office building in the city" to be named after him.

But Taylor died as plans were completed in 1894, and the Guaranty Construction Co. of Chicago took it over. What was for a time the Guaranty Building became the Prudential Building in 1898 as a condition of refinancing.

Like the 10-story Wainwright Building in St. Louis, built five years earlier, the Prudential Building came close to falling victim to the wrecker's ball before dedicated preservationists came to the rescue. Both are on the National Register of Historic Places.

While the former was incorporated into a Missouri state office complex, the Buffalo building "will be brought up to Class A office space," Scott said.

Money for the project reportedly includes a $2.4 million federal Urban Development Action grant, a $6 million loan from the Bank of New York and $1.3 million by developers Arthur D. Emil, a New York City attorney, and Cleveland real estate developer John J. Ferchill.

Part will cover purchase of the building from three other developers, who bought it from the United Founders Life Insurance Co. of Oklahoma City in 1979.

In 1974, a fire did $300,000 in damage to the four top floors. Tenant occupancy fell below 30 percent by April 1977, when the company sought a demolition permit. Later it agreed to absorb the losses until preservation-minded developers were found.

After the three who took over failed to find financing, they agreed to sell to Ferchill and Emil.

Among those taking an interest in the building in its darkest hours was Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., who promised to work for federal aid after a 1977 visit.

"I would rather see Mount Vernon torn down, or the White House," he said at the time. "They are nice buildings, but they are copies, copies of European buildings, which themselves were copies of Greek and Roman buildings."

Like his former chief draftsman, world-famous architect Frank Lloyd Wright — who also did several buildings here — Sullivan was intent on creating a truly American style.

He rejected the popular taste for imitation that became a national passion, following the neo-classic pillars and pediments of the "great white city" of Chicago's 1893 World Columbian Exposition.

The skyscrapers, which followed the first use of steel-beam construction in the 1880s, manifest his dictum that "form follows function."

"It must be tall," he wrote. "It must be every inch a proud and soaring thing; rising from bottom to top, it is a unit without a single dissenting line."

While the Prudential Building's outside vertical lines are not a one-on-one reflection of its interior steel supports, the idea is still there: that this is a product of the best engineering of the age, one that gives a sense of height without a weighty feeling of rockpile bulk.

Another significant aspect is a characteristic Sullivan innovation: the dark terra cotta exterior.

The geometric and floral patterns, credited to his associate George Elmslie, give a tactile vibrancy to the outside while serving two other purposes as well.

Judge says New Jersey may count paper ballots

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) — A retired state judge said today that "emergency" paper ballots cast in New Jersey's most populous county may be included in the count for the state's photo-finish gubernatorial election.

The paper ballots were used in Essex County after voting machines broke down Tuesday. County officials said the number of votes involved was not known, although the state attorney general's office had estimated about 50 such ballots were cast.

As of late Thursday, Republican Thomas Kean carried an unofficial lead of 1,726 votes over Democrat James Florio for the state's top office. Kean had 1,143,171 votes to Florio's 1,141,445.

Retired State Supreme Court Justice Mark Sullivan today lifted his impoundment of all gubernatorial ballots, and said he would allow Essex County officials to begin counting the "emergency ballots."

"These ballots do represent the exercise of the right of franchise by citizens who are in no way at fault," Sullivan said.

DAVID Ben-Asher, Essex County Counsel, said county officials needed the "emergency ballots" to certify the county's total. He said the clerk "had no way of knowing how many emergency ballots were given to voters when the machines broke down."

Irwin Kimmelman, Kean's attorney, said the emergency ballots were subject to "an irregularity," because they were not delivered to the county board of elections until late Wednesday.

Kimmelman said Kean did not want the ballots counted and certified as legitimate because they could tilt the election to Florio and make Kean responsible for a recount.

Sullivan said he would order the tallies counted later in the day, after a receiving a formal complaint from Essex County officials.

THE NEWS Election Service, which tallies ballots for news outlets, said Thursday that only Essex County is expected to report outstanding votes after today.

"Undoubtedly, a recount will be requested in some degree," Florio said Thursday.

Kean, 46, a millionaire businessman, remained in seclusion at his Livingston home, which is being guarded by state police on orders of outgoing Democratic Gov. Brendan Byrne.

Police protection has also been ordered for Florio, 44, a four-term congressman from Camden County. Florio said at a news conference he was upset over reports that Republican campaign workers kept urban voters from polling places by "what appears to be a conscious effort to intimidate people."

The Democrat referred to GOP workers who were told by a state judge on Election Day to remove warning signs and take off armbands during voter checks at several urban polls.

THE SIGNS claimed the workers were a "ballot security" team, policing polling places to guard against election law violations.

And Republican Party State Chairman Philip Kaltenbacher warned Secretary of State Donald Lan, who also served as Florio's deputy campaign manager, to stay away from any formal vote counts.

Kaltenbacher said he was not accusing Lan of any wrongdoing, but only concerned about "the integrity of the free electoral process."

Lan, the state's chief election officer, refused, claiming he had no intention of dropping his "constitutional responsibilities."

"We're all partisans," Lan said. "I would take exception to somebody who would suggest that you can't discharge your constitutional function if you are partisan."

Byrne said Thursday night that Lan has "only ministerial duties involved in receiving the certified returns," but added he would welcome Kaltenbacher to turn his request into a court challenge "to assure the greatest public confidence in the electoral process."

Kean spokesman Carl Golden said a telegram to Lan urging him to step aside was made with the approval of the GOP candidate, and added that "despite a plurality that is fluctuating wildly, we have no plans at this time to seek a recount."

Brady to make first official White House visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidental press secretary James S. Brady will return to the White House on Monday for his first official appearance since he was shot in the brain March 30 in the assassination attempt upon President Reagan.

Brady's top deputy, Larry Speakes, told reporters Friday that the press secretary will help Reagan cut the ribbon to formally reopen the press room in the West Wing of the White House.

Brady, who suffered extensive brain damage when a single bullet pierced his skull in the same burst of fire that wounded the president, has remained hospitalized except for a few daytime trips home or to visit friends. He made a brief private visit to the White House for Fourth of July ceremonies last summer.

Doctors at George Washington University Hospital say the 41-year-old press aide has made a remarkable recovery from the verge of death but remains partially paralyzed on his left side and continues to undergo intensive physical and occupational therapy. Brady carries his left arm in a sling and walks only with assistance.

Physicians at the hospital and the Brady family hope he will be released in time for Thanksgiving, but no date has been set. Even after his release, he will continue to have daily therapy at the hospital for about four hours a day.

The White House press area was closed in August for a $166,000 refurbishing which included structural reinforcement of the roof that government engineers said was in danger of collapse.

REAGAN HAD been expected to be on hand to welcome the White House press corps back to its quarters after a three-month stint in temporary facilities at the Executive Office Building across the street. But Brady's return was a surprise.

At an informal session in Brady's office, which Speakes has been using in recent weeks, the deputy press secretary was reviewing Reagan's schedule for next week with a small group of reporters. Discussing the press office ceremony, he said, "The president of the United States will be the featured speaker, but also present will be Jim Brady. We called yesterday and said, 'Would you like to do it? (He said) 'Yes, absolutely.'"

Brady's therapy includes relearning the daily living skills most adults take for granted, such as dressing himself and walking.

The neurosurgeon credited with saving his life, Dr. Arthur Kobrine, said Brady's use of his left leg remains impaired, but he is able to walk with the use of a cane and a person steadying him. His walking is continuing to improve, and he is expected to be able to get around by himself before long.

KOBRINE TOLD the Washington Post last month that Brady's "intelligence, judgment, insight, wit and sense of humor all seem normal," although he tends to forget recent events sometimes and "kind of gets choked up emotionally."

Dr. Dennis O'Leary, the teaching hospital's clinical dean, told The Associated Press recently that Brady is having to relearn the emotional restraints that develop over many years from infancy to adulthood.

Infants, he explained, express themselves by crying or not crying, and as they grow up they learn the vast number of expressions between those two extremes, from quiet frustration to unabashed laughing.

Brooke Shields testifies in attempt to block nude photos

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooke Shields, suing to block a photographer from selling nude photographs taken when she was 10, said Friday her mother thought posing for the pictures was "all right."

But the 16-year-old actress-model testified in Manhattan Supreme Court that she did not think her mother tried to create a "sex symbol" career image for her.

Wearing a blue high-necked, ruffled blouse, brown wool slacks and a thin blue hair ribbon, Miss Shields testified that she thought young people looked up to her.

Her mother, Teri Shields, also was a witness in the second day of trial before Justice Edward J. Greenfield. Her father, Frank Shields, was in the courtroom; the parents are divorced.

MISS SHIELDS posed in two bathtubs for the two photographs in 1975 when she was 10 years old. She has maintained that use of the photos would cause irreparable damage to her professional image and career.

Photographer Garry Gross claimed the right to any further commercial use of the photos. Miss Shields and her mother said releases signed by the mother limited use of the bathtub shots to a Playboy Press book, "Sugar and Spice."

Miss Shields and her lawyer have described her image as a wholesome one that sets an example for teen-age fans. Gross' lawyer, A. Richard Golub, has pointed to an erotic thread running through her career.

Under cross-examination by Golub, Miss Shields said Friday she believed "a majority" of teen-agers look up to her and are able to distinguish between her true self and the characters she portrays.

"I try to make a distinction between me and my roles, and my fan mail shows it," said Miss Shields, whose movies include "Pretty Baby," "Blue Lagoon" and "Endless Love."

GOLUB QUESTIONED Miss Shields about a magazine article saying that her mother thought it "swell" that her daughter posed in the nude. The actress said her mother "never said was all right."

Referring to that and other articles about Miss Shields, Golub said that in almost all "there is the mention of sex."

He asked Miss Shields if her mother had ever expressed an intention to "construct a concerted campaign to create in you for the world the next major international sex symbol."

"No, she did not," the actress said.

Cynthia Boston raises her arms in victory as she spoke at a news conference at the State Office Building in New York. Miss Boston was freed Thursday of conspiracy charges from the Brink's robbery.

Cynthia Boston freed

NEW YORK (AP) — A black separatist freed of charges in the $1.6 million Brink's robbery said Friday she was called to appear before a federal grand jury probing the Oct. 20 holdup and shootout.

Lawyers for Fulani Sunni-Ali — who was arrested under the name Cynthia Boston but uses her Muslim name — told a Harlem news conference she will resist the subpoena, which summoned her to appear before the panel Nov. 16.

The grand jury is probing a possible racketeering conspiracy by radical groups connected to the Brink's job.

One of her lawyers, Chokwe Lumumba, said legal action against the government was being considered on behalf of Mrs. Sunni-Ali and the Republic of New Afrika. Mrs. Sunni-Ali and Lumumba both are officials of the black separatist RNA.

Mrs. Sunni-Ali was released Thursday from the Metropolitan Correctional Facility in Manhattan where she was held in $250,000 bail. She was freed after a complaint alleging conspiracy to commit bank robbery was dismissed at the request of U.S. Attorney John S. Martin Jr.

The 33-year-old mother of five was arrested Oct. 27 at a farmhouse in Gallman, Miss., by a team of 200 federal and local law officers. A witness had identified her from a photo as one of five people who helped empty a suspected "terrorist safe house" on Oct. 21.

The complaint was dismissed after a New Orleans Chervolet mechanic swore that Mrs. Sunni-Ali had brought in her van for repairs on Oct. 21 and checked it out on two days later.

Mrs. Sunni-Ali's husband, Willliam Johnson — known as Bilal Sunni-Ali — also was named in the complaint. The FBI has said that a latent fingerprint of Sunni-Ali was found in the "safe house" apartment.

Couple convicted in parents slaying

NEW CITY, N.Y. (AP) — A Rockland County jury convicted Sheryl Sohn and Belton Brims Friday of drowning Miss Sohn's mother and beating her father to death to steal family heirlooms and jewelry.

Miss Sohn, 23, showed no emotion when the verdict was read. She was acquitted of two counts of intentional murder but convicted on two counts of felony murder and eight counts of robbery, burglary and grand larceny. Brims, 26, was convicted on all 12 counts.

Arnold Sohn and his wife, Elaine, were killed Dec. 28 after they returned home from a neighbor's birthday party. Mrs. Sohn, 47, was drowned in a bathtub and Sohn, 51, a furniture salesman, was beaten to death in the bedroom. Both were found stripped of jewelry.

District Attorney Kenneth Gribetz charged that Miss Sohn hated her parents and masterminded the murders and the theft of her mother's $10,000 diamond ring and an additional $20,000 in jewelry.

Miss Sohn admitted to police after her arrest that she arranged for the robbery but never intended for her parents to die, according to a confession entered into evidence at the trial.

Milk trial jury adjourns without reaching verdict

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Jurors deliberated four hours Friday and then went home for the weekend without reaching a verdict in the case of four Mission School workers accused of bilking the school lunch program.

The jury, which began deliberations shortly after 10 a.m., sent four questions to U.S. District Judge James DeAnda, including one about the date on which school officials were said to have first learned of the phony milk delivery invoice scheme.

The jurors is scheduled to return at 9:30 a.m. Monday to resume deliberations in the three-week-long trial.

The four people on trial are Assistant Superintendent Robert Wicks; Michael Jon McCarthy, food services director; Gerardo Cortez, head cooks supervisor; and Jane Alice Cook, former school secretary.

Wicks is charged with knowing about a scheme to defraud the federal school lunch program of $486,000 over a five-year period and failing to report it to the proper federal authorities. The other defendants are accused of conspiring to carry out a false reimbursement claims scheme and mail fraud.

The government contends that workers at the Mission Consolidated Independent School District would call a dairy at nearby Edinburg and request fake milk invoices to make it appear the district had purchased enough half-pints of milk to qualify all of its meals for federal reimbursement.

School officials have said any problems with the school lunch program arose because of a waste problem and vague federal guidelines on whether milk could be re-served.

A dairy official who has pleaded guilty in the case testified that he met with Wicks in March or April 1980 and at that time told him the district was not getting half pints of milk but instead was getting ice cream.

It was that meeting which jurors questioned DeAnda about in a written note. The jury sent three other notes which were taken up privately by the judge in his chambers with lawyers in the case.

The maximum penalty for conspiracy in 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The maximum penalty for fraud by filing false reimbursement claims is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Mail fraud is punishable by up to five years and a $1,000 fine. Misprision, the charge against Wicks, is punishable by up to three years and a $500 fine.

Korchnoi takes second win

MERANO, Italy (AP) — Soviet exile Viktor Korchnoi, showing what experts called an aggressive new style, won his second victory Friday in his bid to wrest the world chess title from Anatoly Karpov.

"Korchnoi's style was better. He's recovering, while Karpov played worse," Lev Alburt, one of America's highest-rated grandmasters, said.

The victory narrowed Karpov's lead to 4-2 in the match in this resort in Italy's Dolomite Mountains near the Austrian border. The title goes to the first player to reach six victories. Draws don't count.

Korchnoi, 50, captured Karpov's queen, the strongest piece on the board, while yielding a rook.

Karpov submitted a letter of resignation to chief arbiter Paul Klein of Ecuador an hour before the adjourned game was scheduled to resume Friday.

Steve Morse trial re-scheduled

The murder trial of Steve Morse, who is charged in the bludgeoning death of 17-year-old Karen Wynell Rickey last Feb. 17, has been re-scheduled for Nov. 30 in Big Spring.

Morse, 19, is accused of striking Miss Rickey with a stone and then running over her body with her car on the night of Feb. 17 about 10 miles southeast of Midland.

The case had been docketed for trial in Midland's 142nd State District Court in mid-August but was transferred to Big Spring after Presiding Judge Pat Baskin granted a change of venue requested by defense attorneys David Lashford and Al Schorre. The defendant's counsel contended that adverse newspaper publicity would prohibited Morse's getting a fair trial in Midland. District Attorney Vern Martin did not gainsay the defense's contention.

Pre-trial publicity in The Reporter-Telegram had mentioned Morse's history of abuse of drugs, including alcohol, marijuana, amphetamines and angel dust; had related his beer-drinking and pot-smoking binge on the day of the offense;, and had recapped a psychiatric report which indicated Morse suffered amnesia to suppress his recall of Miss Rickey's death.

Morse moved to Midland from California earlier in the year and apparently had developed a friendship with Miss Rickey, a high school student here. He had gained work on a Midland geophysical company's seismographic crew.

The trial was shifted to Big Spring's 118th State District Court in mid-October but was postponed on an evidentiary motion by the defense.

Prosecuting the case will be Martin and his assistant, David Joers.

Art recreating 'Kush:Lost Kingdom of the Nile' is exhibited at Brockton Museum

By JOHN J. MULLINS
Associated Press Writer

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — Long lumped in with Egyptian art, 150 artifacts unearthed by archeologists from Boston 60 years ago are making their debut as what they really are — Sudanese works of art — at the Brockton Art Museum.

The artifacts, including jewelry, statuettes and part of a wall, date from 1000 B.C. to A.D. 300, and, except for a few from temples, were found in tombs in the Sudan by Egyptologists Dow Dunham and George Reisner.

They are owned and have been restored by the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. When they are returned there after two years at Brockton, they will be housed in a special Sudan gallery.

Only about a dozen of the items have been exhibited previously. They are being shown in Brockton as part of an ongoing collaborative arrangement between the two museums.

"They have so many wonderful things in the basement," Marilyn Hoffman, director of the Brockton museum, said of the Museum of Fine Arts. "We have no ancient art."

The Brockton museum's permanent collection is basically 19th- and 20th-century American art.

The Sudanese exhibit is entitled "Kush: Lost Kingdom of The Nile." Ms. Hoffman and Timothy Kendall, assistant curator of the Egyptian Department at Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, said the artifacts were from the Kingdom of Kush in what is now the Sudan, south of Egypt.

The black Kushites invaded and conquered Egypt in the 8th century B.C. as "defenders of the faith" of the god Amun. Enlightened people, they were interested in Egyptian culture and religion and revived rituals and renovated temples.

"They sort of sparked the last cultural renaissance in Egypt," Kendall said. And, when they were driven out by the Assyrians about 60 years later, "they took Egyptian culture back to Kush with them."

The Egyptian influence continued, but "they didn't have enough artisans to go around, so the art became kind of unrefined," Kendall said.

"This show is of great interest to blacks," Ms. Hoffman said, because the artifacts came from an early and "very advanced civilization."

The exhibit includes gold and silver jewelry, a fragile silver-gilt mummy mask, bronze quiver with poisoned arrows, imported Roman bronze lamps, a sandstone shrine, an ivory lion that was a player's piece for a board game — perhaps the Monopoly of the time.

There are also several shawabtis, hand carved of faience, a clay-like substance, and buried in royal tombs.

"They are believed to be alter egos of the dead person," Kendall said. "In the afterlife, the god might call on them (the dead kings) to do work. So when the god called for a work detail, all those little figures by magic would rise up and say, 'I'll do the work.'"

It's vital to preserve Indian language, customs for children

By ANNEHOLLIDAY-ABBOTT
For AP Newsfeatures

CASA BLANCA, Ariz. (AP) — At 91, Harvier Adams gives school-class talks to Pima Indian children about "the importance of preserving the Pima language and customs."

"The children are now more curious and want to hang on to their heritage," he says.

An accomplished storyteller, he relates legends that were passed on to him from his forebears.

His gnarled hands are evidence of a lifetime of hard work, but he still fits into his World War I Army uniform.

One of his proudest accomplishments was helping to form in 1913 — with five now-dead friends — the first all-Indian infantry company of the Arizona National Guard.

"I had been working on a chicken farm in Phoenix and was awfully tired of that, so the opportunity looked good to me," he said.

When World War I was declared, the unit was discharged because at that time Indians were not subject to the draft. Adams volunteered for the Army and served overseas as a sergeant.

He re-enlisted after the war, returning to Arizona after his tour of duty. He has lived since 1935 in the same small home near Casa Blanca, on the Gila River Indian Reservation.

'So what' it's for men only

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — So what?

On the second Thursday night of each month, some 50 Nashville men gather in a motel meeting room for a consortium of camaraderie.

They are not Rotarians or Kiwanis or Lions club members. Nothing as fancy as that.

It's the So-What Club, a free-wheeling, bawdy-joke-telling, beer-drinking, back-slapping, men-only social group.

The Rotary Club it's not.

There are no work projects and no charities to support. You just pay your $35 dues every six months, show up for meetings and that's it. Eventually you'll get elected president or vice president, but it's more title than work.

There's no initiation rite and no formal requirements for membership. The So-What Club, as unpretentious as the name suggests, will take just about anybody.

The president runs the meetings ("meetings" is used loosely) and is forever exhorting the rowdy bunch to keep the noise down. The vice president runs the meetings and is forever exhorting the rowdy bunch to keep the noise down when the president is absent.

"It's good fellowship," says Jimmy Elkins, a member of the club for 25 years. "We do nothing."

Members range from their mid-20s to their 70s. They are insurance agents, plumbers, lawyers, accountants, computer specialists, concrete contractors, retirees, architects, printers, stockbrokers, optometrists and men in assorted other occupations.

There's usually a guest speaker, a brave soul who would dare stand before such a clamorous collection and who is best advised not to talk for more than 30 minutes. And no boring slide presentation, please.

Guest speakers get no honorarium — just a free meal and some occasional feisty feedback.

Members' wives and girlfriends are invited to one meeting a year. If nothing else, the language at this meeting is polished.

The club was started in 1943 by a dozen businessmen who had just completed the Dale Carnegie personal improvement course. The club took its name from the often-heard phrase uttered when someone drifted from the topic at hand.

Skydiver Tom Rose is in deep trouble as his foot becomes entangled in the chute of another diver at Sky Dive East, Pittstown, N.J., last September. The second chute became airborne after being cut away by a diver on the ground. Instructor Harry Willis raced to Rose's aid and reached him in time to break his fall and save his life.

He's not crazy — just generous

GREENWOOD, Del. (AP) — Motorists zipping past Gerald Pearson's home usually do a double take when they see the "free food" signs on the television tray that serves as his produce stand.

And many people who want to take advantage of the offer won't believe the fresh fruits and vegetables are free until they hear it from Pearson himself.

"They'll see the sign but they don't believe it, so they come up to the house and ask if it's really free," Pearson said.

It really is free and has been for the past two years.

Now in its third year, Pearson's produce stand, marked by a big, blue umbrella when food is available, is in the ideal location. The stand is just east of U.S. Route 13 on U.S. Route 16 — a main thoroughfare for Baltimore and Washington residents heading for the Eastern Shore beach resorts.

"People don't seem to be hogs on this stuff," Pearson said. "I feel if they stop here and pick something up, they're gonna use it."

Delawareans don't usually stop because "they have their own" fresh fruits and vegetables, Pearson said, explaining that most of the takers are city folk with auto tags from New York, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Washington.

"It's just surplus I have," Pearson said of his free food, "We've got enough here."

Pearson and his wife, Florence, have 50 acres of land surrounding their home, with soybean crops lining the driveway, all the way up to their front yard.

Their modest-looking home, complete with greenhouse and underground two-car parking garage, was designed and built by the couple in 1938.

At the rear of the home is the garden that produces food for the couple and the produce stand.

The couple keeps their almonds because Mrs. Pearson uses them in her cooking.

But once they've stocked up enough of the other delectables such as rhubarb, grapes, peanuts, lettuce, carrots, zucchini, pumpkins, tomatoes, cucumbers, beets, lima beans and anything else that happens to be in season — the food is available for the public.

"I don't like to have people come up and take things themselves because they tear things up so bad," he said.

Pearson, a 72-year-old who retired from the Du Pont Co.'s nylon plant in Seaford in 1955, does not, however, spend all of his time with his garden.

In fact, his main hobby is growing orchids and he could be considered an expert on the tropical flowers.

Curator familiar with presidential museums

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — How do you get a job as curator of one of the presidential museums that honor past chief executives of the United States?

Why, you talk to the former president himself! That's the way the executive director and curator of the new Gerald R. Ford Presidential Museum in Grand Rapids got his job, he says.

William K. Jones was serving as a liaison with the National Archives and the Gerald R. Ford Commemorative Committee when he went to Rancho Mirage in California to meet with Ford in February 1980 to discuss the museum project.

In the course of their talk, Ford asked Jones to take over the post of executive director.

"It was just that simple," says Jones, whose background as an anthropologist and historian equipped him for his new role as the presidential museum's director.

But, in addition, he brings to the new museum that was officially dedicated in September similar experience as curator of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Presidential Library in Abilene, Kan. And it was while Jones, a tall man in his early 40s, was involved with the Everett McKinley Dirkson Center for Congressional Research at Pekin, Ill., that he first came to Ford's attention.

"Of the presidential museums, this has the largest exhibit space of any of them," he says, pointing out what makes the Ford Museum different from others. "The others also serve as libraries. This museum is also the first one to be built in the downtown area and that is really great. We expect greater utilization of the facility than if it were located in the country."

Having served as a curator of a presidential facility, he has had an opportunity to study some of the thousands of visitors attracted to such museums.

"There is still a fascination with the presidency in this country," says Jones. "We appear to want to know all there is to know about the man and the decisions he has to make. Even though the country is ruled by the three branches of government. the president is still the single most important individual in the system."

Jones is especially proud of two exhibits in the new museum — President Nixon's letter of resignation to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and President Ford's document pardoning Nixon.

"These have become significant in the course of the nation's history and very well should be here," he adds.

One area of the museum that is expected to fascinate visitors is the replica of the Oval Office in the White House that will reflect the Gerald Ford era.

"Every president leaves his mark on the Oval Office," explains Jones. "It is felt that the office often reflects the man. If you were to look at the Harry Truman office, you would notice that it was devoid of much decoration compared with many other presidents. The Nixon office was very regal in appearance with the presidential seal centered on a royal blue rug and a set of flags behind the desk.

"When Ford came into the office, he changed that and made the office more comfortable and straightforward. The decor reflected his many years in Congress.

Stowaway dog royally treated

NEW YORK (AP) — After being fed roast beef and attended by two kennel-maids during a free trip to the Bahamas and back on the Queen Elizabeth 2, a stowaway mongrel named Piccolo has returned to Manhattan.

"Piccolo's the only celebrity in the family," said Ruth Kowalczyk, the owner of the 9-pound mutt, after he returned Thursday. She said she had never been on a trip like the one Piccolo took.

Mrs. Kowalczyk, a widow, said a friend took Piccolo for a walk last Saturday and, in the words of Cunard Line spokeswoman Alice Marshall, "came back with the leash but not the dog."

The frisky waterfront denizen somehow stowed away on the ship, the only Cunard liner with kennels. He was the only dog aboard the cruise.

Soviet sub escorted from Swedish waters

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Angry Swedes and Danes scoffed at the Kremlin's "peace policy" in the Nordic area Friday after a Soviet submarine believed armed with nuclear-tipped torpedos was escorted from this neutral nation's territorial waters.

A U.S. official accused the Soviet Union of using the sub for "hostile espionage." And leading Scandinavian officials and newspapers said the Kremlin had damaged the Soviet Union's credibility with its neighbors by introducing nuclear weapons to the Baltic.

At a protest rally of 4,000 people in downtown Stockholm, Socialist opposition leader Olof Palme said, "It is inconceivable why Soviet military authorities would jeopardize friendly neighboring relations by an action which was sure to outrage the entire Swedish people."

HE SAID THE sub's grounding Oct. 27 in a restricted zone near a major Swedish naval base was "a frightening reminder how close we are to the precipice, how great the risk is for a nuclear war."

The sub was refloated Monday, and on Thursday Swedish authorities said Uranium-238 had been detected, indicating the ship carried nuclear arms. Sweden lodged a strong protest and the ship was escorted Friday to a waiting Soviet flotilla just outside Sweden's territorial waters in the Baltic.

Palme demanded that the Soviet Union withdraw all its nuclear-armed warships from the Baltic. "If the Soviet Union wants to strengthen its credibility there is hardly any other way," Palme declared.

Hundreds of demonstrators converged on the Soviet Embassy in Stockholm, and hundreds more, carrying banners reading, "No To Nuclear Weapons," gathered outside the Soviet Embassy in Copenhagen, Denmark.

DANISH PRIME Minister Anker Joergensen said in a written statement that if the sub in fact was cruising the Baltic with atomic torpedos, "It weakens the Soviet Union's credibility in the European debate on the limiting of nuclear arms.

"It also questions all that (Soviet) talk about the Baltic as the 'Sea of Peace,'" he said. The Kremlin has been pushing a plan to have the Nordic area declared a nuclear-free zone, and Denmark and the other Nordic countries pledged to explore the possibilities during the summer.

Danish Foreign Minister Kjeld Olesen said, "It will take some time before our confidence (in the Soviet Union) can be restored."

The leader of Denmark's opposition Liberal Party, Henning Christophersen, said Moscow's intrusion "says so much about the Soviet Union's attitude about the Nordic countries that the so-called peace movement's campaign against NATO has suffered a sudden death."

IN MADRID, Max Kampelman, the chief U.S. delegate to the European security conference, said, "the (Soviets') most recent blatant disregard for the territorial integrity of a friendly neighboring territory was by a dangerous, probably nuclear-armed submarine, engaged in hostile espionage.

"This was a reminder that the Soviet navy is a global one, far larger than one simply devoted to defense," he told the 35-nation conference, now in its 13th month.

The head of the Dutch delegation in Madrid, Franz van Dongen, termed the submarine incident a blow to proposals for the conference to agree on "confidence-building measures" that could lead to a European conference on military security.

Swedish editorial writers without exception attacked the Soviet violation.

"The sub incident is far more serious than any of us had imagined. The violation appears incredibly rude," said the liberal Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter.

"The Soviet Union has lost every bit of credibility overnight," said the conservative Stockholm paper Svenska Dagbladet.

SCANDINAVIA'S largest newspaper, Stockholm's liberal Expressen, devoted 20 pages to the Soviet sub incident, while its socialist counterpart, Aftonbladet, told the Soviets in Russian: "Out."

The reaction of ordinary Swedes was equally angry.

United Way attacked as a monopolistic OPEC

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Way was attacked Friday as a monopolistic "charity OPEC" which denies minority-run, public interest and advocacy non-profit organizations a fair share of the $1 billion American workers contribute through payroll deductions.

"The idea that one organization should be able to decide which charities are worthy of our support is contrary to much of what this country stands for," Robert Bothwell told a conference for leaders of 150 charities, most of which are excluded from United Way campaigns.

Bothwell is executive director of the National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy, a coalition of 125 charities, chiefly minority-run, and feminist, social action or public interest groups.

But Rosendo Gutierrez, a civil engineer from Phoenix, Ariz. and a member of the board of governors of United Ways of America, said the decision on which charities to include is made democratically, at the local level, by community representatives.

GUTIERREZ acknowledged that many corporations are reluctant to permit solicitations on behalf of "controversial" groups.

If women's rights, minority rights and advocacy organizations seek the right to solicit through payroll deductions, "we in United Way are not trying to stop it," he said. "We are not mounting any campaign to keep anyone from approaching any corporation."

Payroll deduction is what the fight is mostly about because the average gift made that way is three times larger than a cash gift made at the workplace, Bothwell said.

Members of Bothwell's committee include the Gray Panthers, Puerto Rican Legal and Educational Defense Fund, Sierra Club, American Frieds Service Committee, Native American Rights Fund, Legal Defense and Education Fund of the National Organization for Women and Zero Population Growth.

The comparison between United Way and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries was made by Jerry Wurf, president of the million-member American Federation of State; County and Municipal Employees. Wurf was ill but his speech was delivered by Rob McGarrah, assistant general counsel of the union.

WURF SAID at the United Way was originated to prevent charities from competing with one another. "In effect," he said, "they created a charity OPEC, one that we now call the United Way of America," he said.

"I'd like to see the United Way re-examine the standards it uses that exclude worthy and deserving organizations," he said.

"I favor breaking the United Way's monopoloy on payroll contributions," he said. "I favor letting AFSCME's own members decide whom they want to give to. I want AFSCME to have real freedom of choice."

Wurf criticized the United Way for resisting the unionization of its paid staff workers, for failing to attack President Reagan's budget cuts affecting the poor and for keeping control in the hands of the business leaders.

"The people really calling the shots are the local business establishment — the president of this, the board chairman of that," Wurf said.

Bothwell told reporters the conference would explore the creation of a competing federation which would conduct a single fund drive on behalf of organizations kept out of United Way drives.

"WE BELIEVE United Way's virtual monopoly of workplace, payroll deduction fund raising is bad for the vast majority of charities that aren't part of the United Way," he said.

"Its bad for employees who don't get a choice of charities to support and it's bad for the non-profit sector as a whole because it depresses the total amount of money that could be raised from employees."

He said only 37,000 of the nation's 300,000 non-profit charities get funds from United Way, which sends more than half of what it raises to 11 big groups like the Salvation Army, Red Cross and the Boy and Girl Scouts.

Charles Fulwood, director of the Black United Fund in Atlanta, accused the United Way there of paternalism. He said 6 percent of the money United Way raises goes to black groups in a predominantly black community.

Amarillo police say nun rape, slaying case bogged down

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — The investigation into the rape and strangulation of a Catholic nun has bogged down and it may be the first of the year before there are any breaks in the case, Amarillo police said.

Capt. Jimmy Davis said tests comparing fibers found on Sister Tadea Benz's gown and sheets with those taken from a Cuban refugee were negative. But he said other fiber tests are continuing.

The 76-year-old nun's body was found in her convent room on Nov. 1. She had been beaten, strangled and raped.

A CUBAN refugee being held in the attempted rape of a 21-year-old woman on Halloween is still being questioned, Davis said.

Meanwhile, Amarillo police chief Jerry Neal said Catholic Family Services, a private relief organization, had refused to provide investigators with records of other Cuban refugees. Neal said the records may be protected by a federal privacy law.

"We'll just try another route," said Neal, who has said that 24 of 47 Cubans brought to Amarillo by the Catholic Family Services have been arrested for various crimes since their arrival.

Investigators said they also drew a blank when they questioned under hypnosis a 77-year-old woman thought to have been the victim of a beating and rape.

Davis said the woman had not been raped and doctors now think she may have been injured in a fall.

"The hypnosis didn't tell us much, and we now think it's because she had nothing to tell," Davis said. "We still are not assuming anything one way or another."

AMARILLO police recently acquired a revolutionary laser fingerprint device which can detect fingerprints on materials normal procedures cannot.

"There's no quick or easy solution," Davis said.

Yes, that Coke machine said 'thank you'

ATLANTA (AP) — Don't be surprised to hear a polite "thank you" the next time you buy a Coke from one of those bright-red vending machines.

No, the Coca-Cola Co. isn't hiring people to greet users of their drink dispensers. But it's doing the next best thing: providing machines that do their own talking.

It's all part of an attempt by the Atlanta-based company to maintain its leadership in the highly competitive soft-drink industry.

The first 100 models of the Talking Vendor, developed in conjunction with Sanyo Manufacturing Corp. of Japan, already are on their way to bottlers in Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Tennessee, Michigan and Texas.

"Hi. I'm the Talking Vendor machine from Coca-Cola," the machine declares through a small speaker above the selector panel as the unwary customer plops in change.

Raintree serves as hiring hall

By HARI S. MANIAM

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A 60-foot raintree, with shady branches spreading out more than 100 feet in diameter, overlooks today, as it has for decades, one of Kuala Lumpur's busiest labor markets.

Every morning hundreds of men in search of work in construction, housing demolition, road-building, mining, or other manual jobs mill around the tree. Contractors come in pickup trucks and after some hard bargaining over a "cuppa coffee" at small stalls under the tree, drive them off to construction and other work sites.

G. Muthiah, 45, balding and wizened by his long years of manual labor, said, "Workers seeking jobs have waited at this spot for years — since the time this tree was this small," indicating his own height.

He said he had first come here about 10 years ago, and by then the tree was already big.

The workers gather at the tree about 7 a.m. and in 30 minutes most have made contact for their day's employment.

Muthiah is a mining worker and gets about 25 ringgits ($10.72) a day. He works 20 to 25 days a month. Some others working at construction sites and other jobs get only about 15 ringgits ($6.14) a day.

Muthiah is married with four children and lives in a squatter house near the tree.

Most of the workers under the tree are Indians whose fathers came before World War II from Madras state and never bothered to become citizens until it was too late.

Since labor laws say only citizens can be hired for permanent jobs.

The secret's out: now you can build a bomb

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now you can build your own hydrogen bomb, if you can get the ingredients. It's all explained in a new book published Thursday by the Fusion Energy Foundation.

Appearing with little fanfare, "The Physical Principles of Thermonuclear Explosive Devices," contains detailed explanation of the science behind the H-bomb. It follows unsuccessful efforts by the government to block a similar magazine article last year.

The paperback book, published by a private foundation that promotes the use of nuclear energy, sells for $9.95. Parts and supplies are extra and cannot be found in any store.

Freidwardt Winterberg, the author and a research professor at the University of Nevada, said his book tells what is common knowledge among scientists, but includes many facts still considered security secrets by the government.

"The physical principles for the explosive release of thermonuclear energy are known to at least five countries: the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China," Winterberg says.

"In spite of this aparently widespread knowledge, the physical principles by which these devices operate have been guarded by each of these countries as one of their greatest secrets."

"This secrecy has no parellel in the entire history of military science," Winterberg says, "and there is no rationale for this state of affairs."

Winterberg acknowledges that the H-bomb is an awesome weapon, but he says that's no reason for routine information, including reports on ongoing research, to be suppressed when it would be useful in classrooms and among the scientific community.

Consumers need caution in mail order shopping

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

From the simple to the splendid, Christmas catalogs are beginning to arrive in homes across America, but consumers who do their shopping by mail need to exercise caution to avoid disappointment.

Several thousand companies send out millions of catalogs during the holiday season. Annual catalog sales total over $40 billion, according to industry estimates.

Despite the popularity of shopping by mail, there are problems. A study by the General Accounting Office late last year found that consumers send more than 100,000 complaints about the mail-order business to the Federal Trade Commission, the Better Business Bureau and the Direct Mail-Marketing Association every year.

In the 1979 fiscal year alone, the GAO said, statistics from the Postal Service showed a 17 percent increase in complaints.

THE FEDERAL TRADE Commission issued a regulation in 1976 to protect mail-order buyers, but the GAO report said some postal officials believe "there is substantial non-compliance with the rule." It also said that the Postal Service and the FTC should work more closely to try to improve the situation.

In a recent move, the FTC joined forces with the industry in a campaign to education the public. The agency and the Direct Mail-Marketing Association are distributing a new pamphlet, "Make Knowledge Your Partner in Mail Order Shopping," which lists rules consumers should follow. The pamphlet is available, at no charge, from the industry group at 6 E. 43rd St., New York, N.Y., 10017, or from the FTC's Public Reference Branch, DCE, Room 130, 6th St. and Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C., 20580.

The biggest headache for mail-order buyers is late delivery; the FTC said almost one-third of the complaints it got between March and May this year were about merchandise that didn't arrive on time.

FTC regulations set specific standards for delivery and give consumers the right to a refund if the standards are not met.

IF AN ADVERTISEMENT for a product says the merchandise will be shipped or delivered within a certain time period, the mail-order company must live up to its promise. If, for example, the ad promises, "Delivery by Christmas," you are entitled to receive the goods by Dec. 25. If your order doesn't arrive on schedule, you can cancel it and get a full refund.

If no time period is mentioned, the goods must be shipped within 30 days of the date the order is received. If the company fails to meet the deadline, it must notify you of the delay.

Waiting to hear

Life without a mailbox would be lonely indeed. Everybody wants to hear from someone.

Why is communication so essential to man's well-being? Because we feel that life is incomplete without the fulfillment that comes to us from other lives.

And yet a wide circle of friends can also leave gaps in our lives. And so we pray. For we require divine guidance as often as we need human support. Just as we need to renew the ties of family and friends, so always we need to be in touch with the God who is Father of us all.

Would you like to hear from God? Before you even realized it — God was waiting to hear from you! Prayer is that simple ... that universal.

Reverand: Blacks not equal in Christianity

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP — Sam Hoard says he has always had one major fault — a stubborn streak that has never allowed him to accept the notion that because he's black, he should settle for less.

That trait caused him a lot of grief as he grew up in the 1940s in St. Louis and later as he struggled against his own church to serve God.

The Rev. Samuel Hoard, 54, is now a Lutheran pastor in Orlando. His church is located near Disney World in central Florida, and he says he often gets calls from vacationers asking the time of Sunday services.

But on Sundays, the cars carrying the visitors can be seen slowly cruising by his church and then driving away as the its occupants see black congregation members streaming in, he says.

Revival scheduled

The Church of God of Prophecy, 5301 Thomason Drive, will hold a revival beginning Sunday through Nov. 14.

The evangelist will be Calvin Blanscet of Vernon. Blanscet is the state evangelist for The Church of God of Prophecy in West Texas.

Services will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Nov. 14.

The public is invited to attend. Those who need a ride may call 697-5512.

Film will be shown

The second film from "The Genesis Project" will be shown at St. Paul United Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Drive, at 7:45 p.m. Sunday.

The public is invited to view this segment, titled "Adam and Eve." A nursery will be provided.

Learn to cope with grief

The Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois Ave., is sponsoring a series of programs, including six films and six lectures, designed to help contemporary Americans cope with personal loss, separation, grief and new beginnings.

The series is called "Begin with Goodbye." It is based on the theory that the 20th century U.S. society has discarded some rituals which once helped people deal with change and grief. The result is that often the inevitable "stages of grief" experienced by people are suppressed or denied.

The programs will be presented Sunday, Nov. 15, 22 and 29, Dec. 13 and 27, Jan. 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31 and Feb. 7 and 14 in the church's parish hall from 10 to 10:50 a.m.

The public is invited to attend. There is no charge.

Jim Newton will sing

Singer Jim Newton will perform at the second Saturday Night's Alive, a nondenominational get-together for singles Nov. 14 in the fellowship hall at First Baptist Church, 2104 W. Louisiana Ave.

The mixer will begin at 7 p.m. with a dinner catered by Jumburrito.

Newton will perform from 8 to 10 p.m. He also will perform during the 8:30 a.m. Sunday worship at First Baptist and will conduct the singles Sunday School class there.

Tickets, priced at $3, for Saturday's affair are available at First Baptist Church in Midland, First United Methodist Church in Midland and Odessa, Sonshine Corner in Midland, Bible and Book House in Midland and Rudd Christian Bookstore in Odessa.

The Mercy River Boys will perform during the 4th annual gospel singing concert, a children's benefit sponsored by the Midland Southside Lions Club Nov. 21 at Chaparral Center. The concert, which begins at 8 p.m., also features performances by the Klaudt Indian Family and The Royalheirs.

Life's better with sobriety

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The singing cotton farmer had a message of serenity and praise to impart.

But first, he pitched a dollar in the pot before he got into his ministry of song.

"I just put in a dollar, but He is worth a lot more than that," said Jim F., who bills himself an an "ambassador for the Lord Jesus Christ."

The dollar was a self-imposed fine for promoting a business or other enterprise in the Wednesday noon meeting of the Midland Downtown Lions Club in Midland Center. The buck went into the Tail Twister's coffer.

Jim, who describes himself as a "delivered alcoholic" in Alcoholics Anonymous, availed himself to praise God and Christ in song.

He opened up his singing ministry with " 'I'm on My Way to Heaven' (while) just passing though Midland.

"You can pat your feet. It'll be all right," he assured the Lions.

They didn't pat, but they clapped.

Jim testified that his life gets better day by day and "the journey gets sweeter every day" since he put booze aside and asked God to take over his life.

"I'm a delivered alcoholic," the singing farmer from a community in the Lubbock-Plainview area said. "I lived a wild-and-woolly life" before he stopped carousing, dried out, sobered up, found sobriety 'and got serenity.

"Now, I'm learning to live just a day at a time," he said. "Yesterday's gone, and I don't worry about tomorrow."

Jim lit into a serenity song, based on a tune by Bob Wills of Western swing fame:

I lived a life of make-believe;
I couldn't face reality.
With his willingness and the help of his Higher Power, he overcame his daily burdens and found serenity.
Yesterday's gone;
I don't worry about tomorrow.

When not singing, Jim offered comments on serenity though his Higher Power and Christianity. His back-up music was pre-recorded.

"We all can look like something we're not," he offered and said he put aside pretense and now is serenely facing reality.

The farmer sung his rendition of the Dallas Holm number "Feed My Sheep."

Words come so easily,
But they're so hard to keep.
If you really love me,
Well, just feed my sheep.

His "truckin' song" went something like this:

I want to walk in the light;
I want to do what is right.
Mmmm...Praise the Lord.

Another:

One day at a time,
Sweet Jesus.

Jim's finale was the old standard, "Amazing Grace."

I once was lost but now am found.

"That's a good old song," he said. "I want to sing that right into Glory."

Ultralight pilot and instructor Doug Barth cruises at 45 m.p.h. over Athol, Mas. in a 190-pound ultralight plane which he teaches adventurous types to fly. Barth says the safety record of the craft beats driving a car.

It's almost like a bird

ORANGE, Mass. (AP) — Doug Barth says he's "scared to death to drive a car," but he happily flies a few thousand feet above the ground in 190 pounds of aluminum and polyester fiber.

Barth, a 25-year-old English major at Amherst College, manages the Northeast Ultralight Flight School, which he says is one of the few places in the country that teaches people to fly ultralight aircraft.

The aircraft has been on the market about three years in its present form. Selling price is $4,000.

The vehicles don't require registration or a pilot's license, but ultralight plane pilots must follow national air space system operating rules, such as weather and altitude requirements.

And the Federal Aviation Administration has proposed new rules that would limit ultralights and hang gliders to daylight operations and keep them away from congested airspace.

However, the FAA still would not require the pilot or aircraft to be certified if the craft weighs less than 155 pounds, is single place and carries no more than 2½ gallons of fuel.

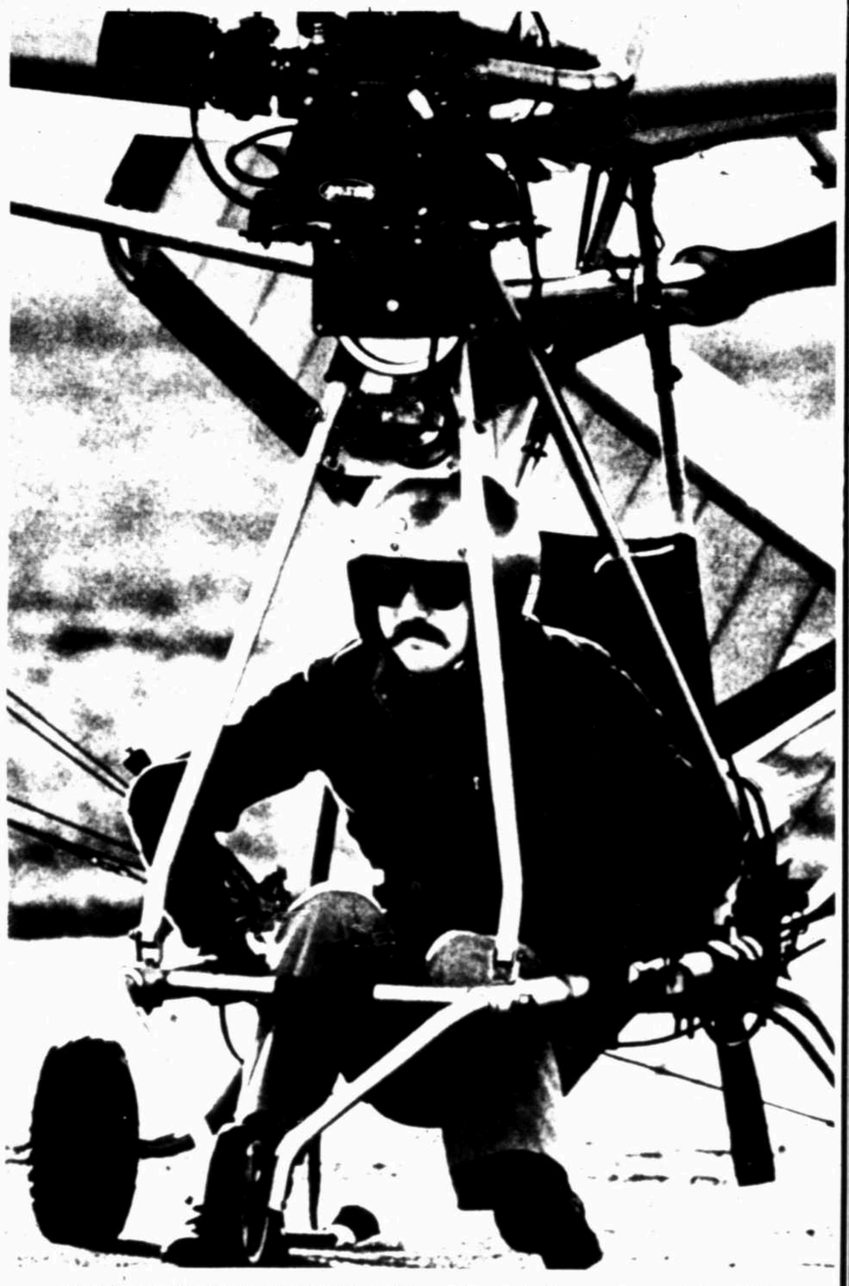
THERE IS ROOM for just one person on the craft, which is made of aircraft-grade aluminum tubing with Dacron wing and tail. A pilot shouldn't weigh much over 250 pounds, Barth said.

The craft are designed to cruise at 35 to 50 mph. Most pilots fly about 1,000 feet up. The world record is 21,000 feet, said Barth, who has gone up to nearly 10,000 feet. Parachutes are not worn.

The 22 horsepower, 250 cubic centimeter engine powers a pusher propeller mounted behind the pilot. The engine uses standard gasoline and gets 20 to 30 miles per gallon. Enough fuel can be carried for a flight of about two hours — 80 to 200 miles.

Pilots use a single stick to steer ultralights, Barth said, while a hang glider pilot shifts his weight to change direction.

"As far as getting hurt is concerned, they have approximately the same safety record as small airplanes, which is much safer than driving your car," Barth said.



Barth uses his feet to bring his light craft to a halt on a grass strip at the Orange Airport in Orange, Mass. Barth can take off in 50 to 100 feet and land in 200 feet.

U.S. group aids Northern Ireland

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) — Billy Bannon, Jim McGetrick and seven others bowed their heads in unison in the drafty back room of the Blarney Stone tavern. Their thoughts were on the 10 men who starved themselves to death in a Northern Ireland prison.

Then McGetrick, a 34-year-old school teacher, called to order the subcommittee meeting of the Rhode Island Irish Northern Aid Committee.

The gathering, whose members included a firefighter, a health care consultant and a boiler-tender, had one piece of business this night: How to keep people away from a Dec. 6 concert in Providence by the Royal Scots Dragoon Guards and the Coldstream Guards.

Band members are British soldiers, most of whom saw duty in Northern Ireland, and are therefore "enemies of the Irish people," contended Peter Harris, 41, president of the Rhode Island Noraid chapter.

The subcommittee decided Noraid members would picket the concert and "pass the word around" that anyone crossing the line would be ostracized.

The local chapter, founded in January, is one of 90 across the country, all controlled by Noraid headquarters in upper Manhattan.

Irish culture remains strong in Rhode Island, where Irish immigrants began arriving in the 1820s, explained Matthew Smith, speaker of the state House of Representatives and archivist at Providence College.

Smith, whose parents emigrated from Ireland, said he applauded when the General Assembly and Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy agreed to fly the Statehouse flag at half-staff May 6, the day after Bobby Sands became the first Irish hunger striker to die.

"I supported it. I hope the British Army gets out of Northern Ireland and people start getting their civil rights," Smith said.

LIKE OTHERS, the local chapter's main stated aim is to raise money for the families of Irish Catholic men and women jailed by the British in Northern Ireland.

That activity has recently drawn renewed fire from the British government, which says Noraid donations are used to buy arms for the Irish Republican Army in its sectarian strife with the British in Northern Ireland.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher — after visiting victims of an IRA nail bomb thrown at a bus of

Jim McGetrick

Irish Guardsmen in London on Oct. 10, killing two passers-by and injuring 38 — was heard to tell two Americans she encountered: "Go back to the United States and tell people there never to send money to Noraid. Now you know what it is used for."

The U.S. Justice Department is suing the New York headquarters to force it to register as an agent for the IRA, accusing Noraid of being a "collection agent" and "propagandist" for the guerrilla force.

Mike Flannery, the 79-year-old head of Noraid, denies the charges. "I am no foreign agent," he said in a telephone interview from New York, insisting that donations, which he estimated at $200,000 a year, are sent to families of Irish prisoners.

"I know for a fact where that money goes," Harris said, sipping a beer at the bar before the meeting. "It goes for the dependents of Irish prisoners. Statements like Thatcher's are British propaganda."

The local chapter has 120 dues-paying members and a mailing list of 700. The average age is about 42. The oldest member is 84 and the youngest 16.

Members have collected almost $11,000 since the chapter held its first fund-raiser March 14, said Jim Fallon, the treasurer.

Reagan endorses Voting Rights extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Friday endorsed a 10-year extension of the Voting Rights Act, but said he wants several changes in key provisions of the strong House-passed version of the landmark civil rights law.

In his first official statement on the law, Reagan said he would support either a direct extension of the current law or a modified version of the bill passed by the House last month, a bill he had earlier called "pretty extreme."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a leading supporter of extension, praised Reagan for not endorsing "the extreme right wing opposition" to the law. But Kennedy said he was disappointed Reagan didn't support a tougher bill.

"We need more than a passive president on this fundamental issue," said Kennedy. "The extension of the act could be in danger because the administration refuses to fight for it."

The Senate has not yet acted on the extension.

THE VOTING RIGHTS Act is intended to prevent states with a past history of discrimination at the polls from continuing that discrimination or from diluting minority voting strength through redistricting or other maneuvers. First passed in 1965, it affects nine states, most of them in the South, and and parts of 13 others.

Reagan didn't spell out all of his problems with the House bill, but did say he believes the law should require minority groups to prove discrimination was intentional when they challenge election laws. The House bill would require only a showing that discrimination resulted, not that it was intentional.

As a result of a Supreme Court decision April 22, 1980, in a case involving Mobile, Ala., lawyers now interpret section 2 of the law, under which suits can be filed to challenge electoral procedures, to require a showing of intent. The House version is designed to make clear that only the effect of discrimination is necessary before filing suit.

ON THE SAME day, the Supreme Court upheld section 5 of the law in a different case. The section says certain states must clear all edectoral changes in advance with the Justice Department or the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, which can block the changes if they have the effect of discriminating.

Earlier Friday, congressional sources reported Reagan would support whatever bill the House and Senate could agree on, but his statement differed from that position.

A knowledgeable administration source said White House officials had indeed told Congress that Reagan would back any bill. But the source, who asked not to be identified, said Attorney General William French Smith, upon learning of the decision in late morning, went to the White House for a one-on-one meeting with Reagan in the Oval Office.

"THE ATTORNEY general got the decision turned around," the source said. "The original call was almost as if some of the White House staff forgot there was an election last fall."

Reagan, questioned as he was leaving for New York, said, "I came down in favor of a present prudent piece of legislation that has been successful over the years."

Asked why conservatives would not be angry at him for endorsing provisions they oppose, he replied, "Why? We've had the Voting Rights for quite some time. I think it's worked and resolved many of the problems that bothered us."

Reagan also called for a 10-year extension. The House bill would extend the key enforcement sections permanently.

In the Senate, the Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., plans hearings in January.

Thurmond opposes extension unless it applies to all 50 states. Reagan once supported Thurmond but since has reversed his stance.

"To protect all our citizens, I believe the Voting Rights Act should and must be extended," Reagan said in a prepared statement. "Every American must know he or she can count on an equal chance and an equal vote. The right to vote is the crown jewel of American liberties and we will not see its luster diminished."

LIKE THE HOUSE version, the current law requires the affected states and areas to submit any proposed voting law changes to the Justice Department for approval before implementation. It also requires bilingual ballots for areas with large minority populations.

Both provisions will expire next August unless extended. Reagan said he supports extension of both provisions.

The act has been criticized by conservatives who say it discriminates against southern states for past actions and who say it infringes of the rights of states to set their own election laws. But liberals and civil rights groups say it is the most successful piece of civil rights legislation ever and that it has greatly enhanced the rights of blacks and Hispanic citizens in the south and southwest to vote.

Reagan said he supports a "reasonable" mechanism to allow the states and areas covered by the law to remove themselves from federal supervision. But he implied the so-called "bail-out provisions" in the House bill were too strong, saying he would support "amendments which incorporate reasonable bail-out provisions for states and other political subdivisions."

"Every American must know he or she can count on an equal chance and an equal vote. The right to vote is the crown jewel of American liberties and we will not see its luster diminished."

*The first year's payment and buyer qualification will be calculated equivalent to a rate of 12.5% for 90% loan-to-value. Interest will be charged at the most recent six-month Treasury Bill rate plus 3.5% rounded to the highest 1/8 of 1%, but not to exceed the maximum rate allowed by law. Payments on GPAM mortgages are graduated so as to increase 7.50% each year for the remaining four years. At the end of the first five year period, the graduation in payments will cease. A new payment schedule will be computed using a variable rate mortgage to amortize the remaining balance over the remaining 25 years of the mortgage based upon the then current Treasury Bill rate plus 3.5. The 7½% maximum increase can be more if the original loan principal exceeds 125%. At each 5 year anniversary date, the payment may be adjusted to allow the remaining payments to fully amortize the loan.
ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE APPROXIMATELY 13.25% ON 90% LOANS

*Variable Rate Mortage Interest rates may increase or decrease. Payments may change in 5 years

Wesley Williams (22), who was the leading rusher in 5-5A heading into Friday's game with Abilene Cooper, is brought down from behind by Cooper's Arnold Blankenship (26). Williams was held to 23 yards rushing and lost his league leadership to Cooper's Alan Gunter, who had 128 yards rushing.

Stubborn Dogs fall, 9-0

Late 2nd period flurry wins it for Cooper

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

Midland High's much maligned and injury riddled defensive unit rose to the occasion against powerhouse Abilene Cooper at Memorial Stadium Friday night, but a misfired quick kick and a punchless Bulldog offense handed the Cougars a 9-0 District 5-5A verdict.

It was probably the best defensive effort of the year by the Bulldogs, who had been giving up points on a pretty regular basis, but Cooper took advantage of a quick kick by Midland High on third down in the shawdow of its own goal late in the second period and before the damage could be surveyed, the Cougars had nine points in lights.

And as the Bulldogs rose time and again to stop Cougar advances in real Junkyard style, the offense could generate little in the way of an attack against an equally stout Cougar defensive unit.

IN FACT, Cooper's defense was so dominant that I-Back Wesley Williams, who went into the game needing only 96 yards to break the 1,000 yard barrier this year, was held to a mere 23 yards on 16 carries.

The performance by Williams also cost him the 5-5A rushing leadership to Cooper's Alan Gunter, the sophomore fullback who rushed for 128 yards on 25 carries. Gunter now has 951 yards this year while Williams has 927.

Cooper kept its slim 5-5A hopes alive by moving its record to 5-2-1 for the year and 4-1-1 in district action. Of course, Odessa Permian can wrap up the title today if they beat San Angelo. MHS fell to 3-6 for the season and 2-4 in district play. The loss insured the Bulldogs of a losing season this year.

But the Pack defense played on even terms in this one as Lonnie Truelove, James Day, Bobby Hillin, Chuck Dickenson, Tommy Davis and Scott Louderback all pulled out big plays and safety Brandt Moffatt made Cooper receivers pay heavy prices for every reception.

But it still came down to the second quarter letdown by the Dogs that turned the tide to Cooper. On a third down and seven situation at their own 13, the Bulldogs elected to pull off a quick kick. Cooper's Rodney Jones broke through the Bulldog line and blocked Bobby Gotovac's effort into the endzone. However, Gotovac had enough presence to shove the ball out of the endzone to keep Cooper from recovering for a touchdown. That left the Dogs down by a 2-0 score with 4:04 left before the half.

MIDLAND THEN had to kickoff to Cooper following the safety and the Cougars marched 54 yards in five plays to up the margin to 9-0. Junior wingback Michael T. Royals got 15 yards on the drive despite fumbling a pitchout which bounced back into his hands, and quarterback Brad Morrison, who had been turned in the wrong direction all night with negative yards by the swarming Pack, busted a 20-yard touchdown run on a keeper. Dan Worsham's PAT was the night's final point.

The Bulldogs, who produced only a net 21 yards rushing and 90 passing, dominated the first quarter as Cooper had to punt the first two times it had the ball. MHS did get to the Cooper 29 in the first period when Allen Chick hit on three passes and Cooper was charged with a roughing the kicker penalty to perserve the drive. But Midland could not score and that was the only major threat posted by the Bulldogs.

Chick did hit Gotovac with a 46-yard bomb with five seconds left to move Midland to the Cougar 16, but the issue was settled by then anyway.

Sophomore Gunter, who is making a big splash in 5-5A play, made some tough yards, but his running was not the real factor. The Bulldogs stalled Cooper just before the half at the 29 and Gunter was stopped twice for no gain at the 10 in the third quarter when Cooper could have put things out of reach. Cooper, behind Gunter, also got to the MHS 28 and 36 in the fourth quarter, but the Pack would not break defensively.

COOPER, HOWEVER, was up to the task on defense as linebacker Mike Stills, maybe the best around, and linebacker Scott Reedy virtually stymied the Bulldog rushing game. Williams' longest gain of the night was seven yards.

So Williams enters the last game of the season against Midland Lee next week still needing 73 yards for his 1,000 yard ring.

Rockets lose

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Phil Ford sank three free throws in the final 32 seconds Friday night to preserve a 90-86 National Basketball Association victory for the Kansas City Kings over the Houston Rockets.

The Rockets outscored Kansas City, 13-0, in a five-minute stretch of the fourth quarter, rallying from a 87-73 deficit.

Robert Reid's bucket with :44 left trimmed Kansas City's lead to one point, 87-86. Reid, trying to tie up Ford and force a jump ball, was called for a foul at :32 and Ford sank one of the two free throws.

Kansas City's Reggie King emerged from a tangle of players seconds later with the ball, and Mike Dunleavy fouled Ford, who hit two free throws with 13 seconds left for what turned out to be the final score.

Rebs survive disaster

Williams 80-KO return keys Lee win

By BOB BRUNDAGE
R-T Sports Writer.

ABILENE—The Abilene High Eagles got a break early in Friday's game at P.E. Shotwell Stadium against the Midland Lee Rebels and took advantage of it only to see it disappear 14 seconds later.

On the first play from scrimmage after the kickoff, Rebel fullback Calvin Riggs took a handoff and charged up the middle only to be met by an Abilene defender at the line of scrimmage. The jarring shot that Riggs took caused him to cough up the football and the Eagles recovered at the Lee 31.

ELEVEN plays later Abilene tailback Darrell Denman punched the ball across from one yard out and Ken Hall kicked the extra point for a 7-0 Abilene lead with 6:40 left in the first period.

On the ensuing kickoff, Lee pulled one of its trick return plays out of a hat and came up with an 80-yard touchdown run by Darrin Williams. The play started when the receiver turned away from the onrushing Abilene defense, blocking their view of the ball, and then handed it off to Williams, who won a foot race down the right sideline for the score.

Van Gravitt came in to boot the extra point and the game was tied, 7-7, with 6:26 left on the clock.

"We've run that play quite a bit this year," said Lee head coach Spike Dykes about his kick return. "We've run it three or four times and it has helped us a lot."

After Lee's touchdown, the Rebels came on the field and played inspired defense, allowing Abilene only one first down and then forced a fourth and 16 punting situation. On the kick, Lee took the ball at the 30 and drove 70 yards for the third score of the game.

Riggs made up for his first quarter fumble with a six-yard run on the 13th play to score with 10:41 in the half. Gravitt again converted to make it 14-7.

In the first half it was a defensive struggle for both teams most of the way. Abilene rushed for only 49 yards on 22 carries and threw for 20 more on two completions. The Rebels weren't much better, gaining 48 yards on the ground and picking up another 68 via the arm of quarterback Bart Ryan. Kenneth Brown was the primary receiver with four of his five catches for 51 yards.

"KENNETH played a good game tonight and he's developed into a good reciever this season," said Dykes. "I thought Bart threw the ball well also."

The offense opened up a bit more in the second half, but Abilene never seemed able to keep things going. Riggs came to life with 64 of his game high 84 yards and led the way for the Rebels' third score.

Late in the third quarter, Lee took over on a punt at its 22 and marched 78 yards in 12 plays to score. Riggs broke runs of 22 and 13 yards to spark the drive and Ryan completed a pass to Brown to put Lee deep in Abilene territory. Riggs finally scored on a one yard run with seven seconds left in the third period. Gravitt converted.

On the Eagles final possession, they pulled within eight points when quarterbac Karl Kearney hit tight end Austin England on a 13-yard TD pass, capping a 46-yard drive in 10 plays. Kearney then tried to pass for two points, but it was incomplete.

THERE was still time for AHS to mount another drive and it was no surprise to anyone, least of all Rebel Chris Parker, when the Eagles tried an onside kick. Parker came down with it and Lee ran the final four minutes off the clock for the win.

"We had an onside return team in with all the backs and receivers," Dykes said, "I thought Chris Parker did a good job covering the ball."

The SWC race is so tight...

By TED BATTLES
R-T Sports Editor

The Southwest Conference race tight? Texas is in second place, a half step behind SMU, so the Longhorns are headed for the Cotton Bowl, since the Mustangs have been decreed status non gratis by the NCAA, provided they don't lose another game.

That sounds simple enough, but those steeped in SWC folklore know better.

The race is so close that the difference between second and seventh place in the current standings for Texas is a two-point 9-7 win over SMU.

The SWC race is so close that seven teams still have a shot at the Jan. 1 host post in the Dallas saucer.

Whether law-and-Texas or pillaging-and-plundering prevail pretty much depends on what happens tonight at the Astrodome where Texas and Houston come to grips in a 7:30 p.m. showdown. But then, don't bet the rent money that the game will decide anything.

Two years ago when the same combatants squared off on the Astrodome rug, Texas won over the Cougars 21-13, but Houston wound up in the Cotton Bowl against Nebraska. Of course, Texas A&M threw a 13-7 monkey-wrench in the Horns' holiday plans that year and there's always the possibility it could happen again.

IN OTHER SWC action, Texas Tech, suffering through a 1-7 season, closes out its home season against 2-5-1 Texas Christian University at 2 p.m. in Jones Stadium; Baylor, finally showing signs of life, plays Arkansas at Little Rock where the Bears are a meek 1-7; and SMU plays Rice in Texas Stadium. Texas is favored by three, SMU by 24, Arkansas by eight and Tech by one.

Houston is 5-3 for the season and 3-2 in SWC, which ties the Cougars with Arkansas, Baylor, and Texas A&M for third place and even Rice, 2-3, mathematically, has a chance at the Cotton Bowl berth.

(SWC Thumbnails 6D)

COACH BILL Yeoman's Cougars have compiled a winning record despite a distracting tendency to bungle at inopportune times, a penchant, which, incidentally, cost them last year's 15-13 game at Austin against the Steers. Twelve Texas points resulted from UH turnovers.

Things were so bad that when John Goodson missed a game-winning field goal, Houston was obligingly offside, so Goodson got another chance.

Texas leads the series, 4-2-1, but Houston is 14-4 against SWC foes in the Astrodome and never loses more than a game a year to a SWC rival under the roof and they've already lost to SMU at the dome this year.

INJURY RIDDLED Texas Tech, going with some of its freshman phenoms, faces a TCU team that suffered a [illegible]-scale-wrecking blow last week when quarterback Steve Stamp was lost for the season [illegible] in a 20-16 loss to Houston.

The teams tied 3-3 in Lubbock two years ago and last year TCU scored all of its points in the final the final 16 minutes for a 24-17 win.

Quarterback Ron Reeves, sacked 13 times last week in a 26-9 loss to Texas, survived to play today, but the Red Raiders will be minus running back Anthony Hutchison, out with a pulled hamstring. Also out will be cornerback Greg Iseral and defensive end David Smith. Through eight games, Tech has started 43 different players.

Stamp, who finishes his college career with 12 TCU passing records, will be replaced by Eddie Clark, a 6-4 200 pound junior who has completed 7 of 16 passes for 80 yards as Stamp's back up.
red.

PROBATION-blemished SMU cracked The Associated Press Top Ten again this week and the poll and the SWC is all the Mustangs have to play for.

"We keep talking about winning those Southwest Conference championship rings," said defensive tackle Harvey Armstrong. "That would really make my senior year. We wanted to go 11-0 and win the national championship. We still have a chance to finish high."

Arkansas, winner over Texas and loser to Houston, plays Baylor, coming off a week of rest and Coach Lou Holtz is concerned.

"Baylor is playing well...they've really put it together," said Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz. "Their defense has always given us problems."

Renaldo Snipes dumps Heavyweight Larry Holmes in seventh round of title bout at Pittsburgh as history almost repeated itself.

Holmes stops Snipes in 11th

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Renaldo Snipes said his fight against Larry Holmes would be history repeating itself, then the challenger almost made it happen Friday night.

Thirty years ago in Pittsburgh, Jersey Joe Walcott, a 6-1 underdog, won the heavyweight title with a one-punch knockout of Ezzard Charles in the seventh round.

Friday night at the Civic Arena, Snipes caught Holmes flush on the jaw with an overhand right in the seventh round. As the crowd of 14,103 roared, Holmes crashed to the canvas on his side.

Holmes got up quickly, then wobbled back to a neutral corner. But the World Boxing Council champion kept his poise, got through the round and then stopped Snipes with a barrage of right hands in the 11th round, causing referee Rudy Ortega to jump in and halt the fight at 1:05 of the round.

THE END of the fight was the beginning of a series of wild and wooly happenings, including a scuffle in which Snipes was accidentally stabbed in his left arm by a pair of scissors, which required his going to a hospital.

Later, a hospital spokesman said Snipes was in satisfactory condition but it was not known how long he would be hospitalized.

When Ortega stopped the fight, many in the crowd booed and Snipes took a few steps after the referee saying, "No, no, no."

"It's a championshop fight, isn't it," complained the Rev. Jimmy Williams, Snipes' trainer and father figure. "I told him (Ortega) he had no business stopping the fight that early."

HOLMES SAID he agreed with Oretga's action, but "this is the first time I didn't want the referee to stop the fight, because I wanted to put him down for the count. But he could have been hurt."

As the two fighters left the ring to be interviewed on national television, Snipes' manager, Nick Rettenni, got into an argument with Holmes' brother, Jake. A scuffle ensued and the two fighters were involved. It was then that Snipes got cut by the scissors.

"He got cut by accident by a pair of sciessors," said Rettenni. "Somebody bumped into somebody behind him. The person behind him was one of his handlers holding the scissors."

HOLMES' victory kept alive a $10 million payday with top-ranked Gerry Cooney in March. For a moment in the seventh round, it looked like those millions were going up in smoke.

"I think promoter (Don King) wet his pants. Not only Don King — I think Cooney wet his pants," said Holmes of the reaction to the shocking knockdown. "And I think Ceasar's Palace wet their pants, too."

Cezsar's Palace in Las Vegas is the site of the Holmes-Cooney fight.

"He didn't surprise me because I worked very hard for the fight, but Snipes surprised a lot of other people," said Holmes. "In fact, he shocked them."

"I always had a lot of respect for Renaldo Snipes, or I wouldn't have fought him" Holmes said of the challenger, who was a prohibitive underdog.

If Holmes didn't have respect for Snipes, he got it quickly in the seventh round.

"I wasn't hurt," said the champion. "I was aware all the time."

But he appeared hurt.

"I'm one bad dude," said Holmes. "Any time you can get up from an overhand right and get hit a couple of more times, and continue to win the fight, you're a hell of a guy."

Holmes, who was 32 years old last Tuesday, was in complete control of the fight in the first six rounds, employing his poise. The champion found Snipes an easy target, especially in the fifth round.

In that round, Holmes came out dancing and jabbing. Snipes suddenly caught Holmes with a right to the jaw that brought a smile to Snipes' face.

Renner opens 4-stroke edge

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Jack Renner, chipping in on the 18th hole for his eighth birdie of the day, fired a 7-under-par 65 Friday to take a 4-stroke lead at the midway point of the $215,000 Southern California Open golf tournament.

Renner, 25, the leading TPA player in the event with $193,292 in earnings this year, which ranked 11th overall, birdied six of the nine holes on the back side to take his commanding lead.

Renner, of Palm Springs, Calif., stands at 132, 12 under par, over the 6,906-yard, par-72 Los Coyotes Country Club course.

TED BATTLES

BATTLE SCENE

Careers hang on a few points

SWC offers many possibilities

The final month of the Southwest Conference season offers so many possibilities, our computer crashed when we presented it with the task of ennumerating them.

It's the kind of year in which a very little alteration of scores can make a big difference. If SMU had reversed that two-point loss to Texas, the Mustangs would be two games in front with only three to play.

Or...if Houston had beaten Texas A&M instead of losing 7-6, the Cougars would be tied for first instead of being in a four-way tie for third.

Or...if A&M had reversed a two-point loss to Baylor, the Aggies would be tied for first instead of being snagged in that four-way tie for third. But the Aggies really can't complain, if they had lost those one-point wins over Texas Tech and Houston, they'd be tied for eighth.

If Texas had lost to SMU, 7-9 instead of winning 9-7, the Horns would be seventh instead of second. And if Arkansas had reversed two losses by a total of eight points, the Razorbacks would be undefeated for the season.

What's really scary about it all, however, is that the careers of coaches turn on such fraiilities.

In the SWC....

Texas minus 3 over Houston—Cougars make too many mistakes to stay with Horns.

Texas Tech minus one over TCU—Frogs without Steve Stamp.

Baylor plus 8 against Arkansas—Bears are just liable to pull an upset.

Rice plus 25 against SMU—Mustangs win, the question is how big.

Elsewhere...

Clemson minus one over North Carolina—Tigers rolling. Tar Heels have been struggling in recent weeks and may be without quarterback Rod Elkins as well as Kelvin Bryant.

Cal plus 18 over USC—Trojans should beat the spread, but on a hunch...

North Carolina State plus 14 against Penn State—Wolfpack has been playing tough, but without success.

Oklahoma State plus 12 1/2 against Nebraska—Who knows what Cowboys will do?

Illinois 14 1/2 against Michigan—Illini has been playing pretty good ball of late...ask Iowa.

Florida State minus 3 against Miami—Hurricane still playing Penn State.

Washington plus 7 against UCLA—Huskies are 7-1 and they're getting points?...

Ohio State minus 8 against Minnesota—Gophers couldn't hold Michigan and won't be able to stop the Buckeyes.

The pros...

Dallas minus 3 1/2 over Buffalo—The Cowboys are over their slump.

Oakland plus 2 1/2 over Houston—That means if Raider defense can hold Oilers scoreless, Oakland zilch offense can still win.

Tampa Bay plus 4 against Minnesota—Vikings played Monday night.

Pittsburgh minus 4 1/2 against Seattle—How come only 4 1/2 points?

San Francisco plus 2 over Atlanta—Got to take 49ers and points.

Cincinnati plus 4 against San Diego—If everything they say about Bengals and Ken Anderson are true...

Jets minus 3 1/2 against Baltimore—Are Colts still in NFL?

Cleveland plus 4 1/2 against Denver—Denver played Monday night.

Kansas City minus 7 1/2 against Chicago—Chiefs win going away, doesn't everybody against the Bears?

Aging Frazier counts on punch

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — He may have lost some of his speed and stamina, and the road back may be rocky, but Joe Frazier thinks he can still hit hard enough to handle himself in the ring.

"Because there are things I see in the ring that I don't like and I can bring back some excitement," former world heavyweight champion said Thursday in announcing why is "un-retiring" for a Dec. 3, 10-round bout in Chicago against Jumbo Cummings.

Frazier, 37, hung up his gloves after he was knocked out a second time by George Foreman in five rounds on June 15, 1976. He had first yielded his heavyweight title to Foreman in 1973.

But memories of Frazier still focus on his three tremendous bouts with Muhammad Ali. They came in 1971 when Frazier retained his title with a 15-round decision; in 1974 when Ali decisioned Frazier in 12 rounds in New York; and the "Thrilla In Manila" when Ali knocked out Frazier in Round 11.

Frazier said his comeback attempt is not designed to set up a return bout against Ali, who also is trying to recapture old glory with a scheduled fight Dec. 11 against Trevor Berbick in the Bahamas.

"I don't want to look past Jumbo," said Frazier, whose record was 32-4 with 27 knockouts when he retired. "I saw Ali fight Larry Holmes and was not happy. Ali should have been in better shape.

"A comeback is no problem," said Frazier, who runs a gym in Philadelphia. "I consider myself young, with young ideas and I do young things. I don't understand how people think 37 is old."

Frazier said his daily routine includes running four miles every morning and then going to the gym and working 12 or 13 rounds.

Asked if the fans would take the fight seriously, Frazier replied, "Why not? The fans know my background, which is fair and square. I didn't want to leave the ring but I did it for the love of my family.

"My girls didn't understand the bumps and bruises," said Frazier, "but now that they've grown up, they understand."

He said he had been thinking about a comeback for about a year, but other heavyweights weren't interested. "They didn't want to beat up the old man. But I'll tell you something, I wouldn't want to get hit by my right or my left. A fighter never loses his punch, just his stamina, and I don't see where I've lost it. I've still got what it takes. I know the ropes and how to deal with the ring."

Frazier brought results of complete hospital tests taken in Philadelphia, which were turned over to Dr. Jorge Tovar of the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

Tovar said the results would be studied and, if approved, Frazier, who would get $85,000, would have to take another complete physical examination.

Hobbs runs streak to eight

HOBBS (AP) — The Hobbs' Eagles continued their 8-game winning streak Friday night as they demolished El Paso Cathedral 51-20 in a non-district high school prep football game.

Quarterback Manny Marquez fired a 92-yard pass early in the first quarter to Ruben Berry who lateraled to Derrill Pruitt for a TD.

The No. 1 ranked Eagles, who stand at 9-1 overall and 3-0 in district play, also scored on a 25-yard fumble return by Hector Lopez and a safety when El Paso snapped the ball out of the end zone.

Marquez also passed for 49 yards to hit Eddie Soloman.

Randy Poucket scored two TDs for the Eagles and ran for a total of 163 yards on 12 carries.

El Paso scored on a 57-yard pass from quarterback Mike Whittler to Nick Chavez and on an 8-yard pass from Whittler to Mark Moulton. Whittler passed for the team's other touchdown in the fourth. He hit Chris Perea with a 27-yard pass.

The Eagles will end their season next week when they play the Clovis Wildcats in Hobbs.

Rebels win

Lee finished with 154 rushing and 90 passing for a 244 total while Abilene gained 107 on the ground and 46 passing for 153 yards.

With the victory, Lee is 7-2 overall and 4-2 in 5-5A play while Abilene fell to 4-5 and 3-3 against league opponents.

Next week each school will be home against crosstown rivals Midland and Abilene Cooper, respectively.

Grady defeats Midland Christian

GRADY—Lynn Key scored three touchdowns to lead the Grady Wildcats to a 45-10 six-man football victory over the Midland Christian Mustangs here as the Mustangs closed out their first season ever with a respectable 5-4 record. Grady is 4-5.

Key ran 66 yards for the first score and Alan Wagner punched in from the two to give Grady a 14-0 lead after a period. Key registered from the two and then Midland Christian's Robert Madrid returned the kickoff 55 yards for the Mustangs' lone score. Joe Gould kicked the point.

A safety left MC behind 30-8 at half as Lino Cantu took a 45-yard pass from Jackie Vining. After a scoreless third period, Joe Rodriquez scored from the 17 and Key from the three while the Mustangs were being awarded a safety on a penalty to close out the scoring.

'Fix case'

By BETSY KENEDY

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal agent said under cross-examination Friday there was corroboration for only one of many telephone calls made in an alleged conspiracy to manipulate the scores of six Boston College basketball games during the 1978-79 season.

The eight-page list of calls was compiled from New York and Pennsylvania telephone company records and the records of hotels in Boston, suburban New York City and Las Vegas, Nev., where the defendants were registered at various times that season.

The list was entered into evidence Thursday at the Brooklyn federal court trial of Rick Kuhn, a reserve forward on the team that season, and four others accused in the alleged scheme to allow bettors, who knew about the manipulation, to beat the bookmakers' point-spread on the games.

On trial before U.S. District Judge Henry Bramwell along with Kuhn, of Swissvale, Pa., are brothers Anthony and Rocco Perla of Braddock Hills, Pa.; Paul Mazzei of Pittsburgh, and James Burke of New York.

FBI agent Edmundo Guevara said there was "no documentary proof, no evidence," that the defendants had participated in the calls. In addition, he said he had no way of knowing the purpose of the conversations.

Michael Coiro, Burke's attorney, elicited from Guevara the fact that the only thing tying his client to the alleged scheme was testimony that Burke placed a Nov. 17, 1978, call from his home to a hotel near Boston's Logan Airport.

Henry Hill, the government's key witness, had said he and some of the defendants met at that hotel Nov. 16, 1978, to firm up the alleged scheme. He testified that Burke called him the next day to verify the plot was in place.

CRANE—Seminole took over sole possession of first place in District 6-3A by defeating the Crane Golden Cranes, 30-7, here Friday night while Denver City downed Coahoma, 10-0.

Seminole, now 4-5 for the season, struck with 9:21 left in the first period on a three-yard run by Gilbert Rodriguez and then added a three-yard Pete Aguilar TD for a 13-0 lead.

Crane, 0-8, threatened to make a game of it when Jeff Pinkston passed 40 yards to Randy Hicks and Tommy Bishop converted, but David Hill's two-yard run and a ssafety gave the Indians a 23-7 halftime lead.

This isn't basketball

So what are ACC grid teams doing here?

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The Atlantic Coast Conference has had many confrontations between powerhouses in basketball, but never has an ACC football game been anticipated nationally as much as Saturday's matchup between second-ranked Clemson and No.8 North Carolina.

The game will be televised to 60 percent of the nation, and an overflow crowd of 52,000 is expected in Chapel Hill, N.C. Clemson is 8-0 and ranked highest in its history, while the Tar Heels are 7-1.

The ACC has never had a football game pairing teams ranked so high. In 1978, Maryland was 11th and Clemson 12th when the Tigers won and went on to beat Ohio State in the Gator Bowl.

IN OTHER games involving ranked teams Saturday, No.1 Pittsburgh travels to East Rutherford, N.J., to meet Rutgers, No.3 Southern California is at California, No.4 Georgia meets Florida in a national television game at Jacksonville, No.5 Texas is at Houston, No.6 Penn State at North Carolina State, No.9 Arizona State plays host to San Jose State, Rice is at 10th-ranked Southern Methodist, No.11 Nebraska is at Oklahoma State, Illinois is at No.12 Michigan, No.13 Miami, Fla., is at No.14 Florida State, No.15 Mississippi State is at No.20 Southern Mississippi, No.16 Washington is at UCLA, No.17 Oklahoma is at Kansas State, 18th-ranked Ohio State is at Minnesota and Baylor is at No.19 Arkansas.

Another closely watched game will be Michigan State at Northwestern, which will establish a major-college record for consecutive losses with 29 if it falls to the Spartans.

Seventh-ranked Alabama is idle.

THE CLEMSON-North Carolina contest has some aspects worthy of a Hollywood script, including a brother vs. brother act and an injured star trying to come back.

Kelvin Bryant, who scored 15 touchdowns in the first three games of the year and was more than halfway to the national collegiate TD record for a full season, suffered an injured knee Oct.3 against Georgia Tech and underwent surgery.

He worked out this week for the first time since the injury, and Sports Information Director Rick Brewer said doctors were pleased with Bryant's performance, although he experienced some swelling. He was to be examined again today and a decision on the Tarboro, N.C., native's status was to be made then.

"Kelvin certainly wants to play. He wanted to play the week after he was injured, but of course he knew that was impossible," said Brewer. "I think Kelvin set a goal. He wanted to come back last week, but he just wasn't ready. Now there's a chance that he might be ready this week."

The leading receiver for North Carolina is senior John Richardson, who has 20 reveptions this year. Sophomore Mark Richardson doesn't start on defense, but he has played in every game for Clemson and should see action across the line from his brother.

In addition, their father, former Baltimore Colts receiver Jerry Richardson, will be in the crowd, rooting for a tie.

IF BRYANT does play, or even if he doesn't, the Tar Heels are facing the ACC's second-best rushing defense and best overall defense. In addition, Clemson quarterback Homer Jordan is second in total offense and third in passing.

Besides Bryant, North Carolina has several other question marks because of injuries. Quarterback Rod Elkins is still nursing a twisted ankle and, for the second week in a row, Scott Stankavage will start.

"Any good football team has to have a good defense and Clemson does," said North Carolina Coach Dick Crum. "And their offense complements that defense.

"Looking at all the quarterbacks we've played to date, he is the most well-rounded," Crum said of Jordan. "He runs well, he throws well and and runs the offense well."

Perry Tuttle is from Winston-Salem, N.C., but he is Clemson's leading receiver.

"Watching the film, they have a good team that is very quick," Tuttle said of the Tar Heels. "They are comparable to Georgia. Once thing Carolina does is get around the ball with all 11 defenders."

North Carolina beat Clemson 24-19 last year, but Tuttle, who has caught 31 passes this year for an 18.5 average and 5 touchdowns, said 1981 will be different.

"I expect the game to be close like last year, but with a different result," he said.

Coach draws suspension

ATLANTA (AP)—Morris Brown football Coach Lambert Reed has been suspended after allegedly hittiing cornerback Ben Scott with an ax handle, officials said today.

Offensive coordinator Greg Thompson has been named interim coach of the Wolverines, 4-4, who travel to Albany State College, 0-7, Saturday.

"I have been suspended until a thorough investigation is completed," Reed said. "Under the circumstances, our athletic director (Ernest Ross) felt he had to take a stand one way or another."

Reed said his suspension would last at least until the end of the season, but that he will remain on salary.

Mike Spinks an animal, animal that purrs

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Nowadays it seems all the big-time fighters get a big gold belt, big money, a big head and freeloaders hanging on all the way from the ring out to the parking lot.

Not Michael Spinks. Inside the ring, Spinks is a vicious fighting machine. Outside, he can be a pussycat.

"Some guys need the entourages. I don't," Spinks says. "I like being a loner. I don't need a lot of guys walking around calling me, 'Champ! Champ! Champ!' After awhile, you might believe that is your name. I like being called Michael, or Mike."

On Saturday, Spinks makes his first defense of his World Boxing Association light heavyweight title since he defeated Eddie Mustafa Muhammad in Las Vegas on July 18th.

Spinks, undefeated in 17 professional outings, goes against Vonzell Johnson this time.

Johnson, 29, of Columbus, Ohio, 22-2 as a pro, is a tough stand-up slugger who made a respectable showing against World Boxing Council champ Matthew Saad Muhammad before he was stopped in the 11th round on Feb. 28.

Although Spinks must be favored to win their scheduled 15-rounder, he refuses to take Johnson lightly. For Spinks, keeping the championship is everything.

"I've got to hold onto this thing and I'm almost willing to die for it," Spinks says. "The title is money, that's just what it is. Just take a man lightly and see what happens. No matter who they may be me against, I'm only flesh and blood. That's why I've got to train seriously."

But training seriously is hard work.

"You've got to use every muscle in your body," Spinks says. "At times, I don't feel like fighting, or you wake up at six in the morning and somebody is telling you it's time to run and you're feeling, 'Awwwwww.'"

Spinks, 25, of St. Louis, will take home $300,000 from Saturday's fight, the most since he turned professional following his 1976 Olympic gold medal.

Ex-champion Cuevas begins ring comeback

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former World Boxing Association welterweight champion Pipino Cuevas meets Roger Stafford Saturday night in a fight Cuevas really isn't all that enthused about but cannot afford to lose.

Cuevas, who lost his crown when Thomas Hearns knocked him out in the second round of their August 1980 fight, now is the No. 1 contender for the welterweight title and believes he should be treated as such.

What that means, of course, is that the hard-hitting Mexican fighter wants another title shot, this time against Sugar Ray Leonard, who took the undisputed world welterweight championship from Hearns with a 14th-round knockout in September.

"This will be my last fight before I meet Sugar Ray Leonard," said Cuevas. "I am the No. 1-ranked contender so I don't have to fight anyone next but Leonard."

Cuevas may be waiting a while before he gets his shot against Leonard, who already has signed for a fight against North American Boxing Federation champion Bruce Finch in February, but he contends there is little chance Stafford will put an end to his comeback plans.

"He (Stafford) is a good fighter, but I was champion of the world for three years," said Cuevas. "I will knock him out like I knock out everyone."

Cuevas hasn't exactly knocked all his opponents out in compiling a 35-6 record with 26 knockouts, but he did stop 10 of 11 opponents in title defenses before Hearns decked him in Detroit to take away his crown.

Cleveland slugger Joe Charboneau, rookie of the year in 1980, had the kind of sophomore year that put him in the minor leagues.

Charboneau recuperates from 1981 nightmare

CLEVELAND (AP) — From the therapy room of Lutheran Medical Center, Cleveland Indians slugger Joe Charboneau looks back at his dismal 1981 baseball season and speculates about what went wrong.

"Now will they believe I was playing in pain all season?" he asked.

During an interview with The Cleveland Plain Dealer, the 1980 American League rookie of the year said back problems hindered him from spring training, and when he complained about it to other players and team officials, he was rebuffed, so he tried without success to play in pain.

The 26-year-old slugger recently had surgery to remove a ruptured disc from his back. The operation, performed 10 days after the baseball season ended, was termed a success, according to Dr. Earl Brightman, the Indians' orthopedic specialist.

Charboneau will attempt to regain the flexibility in his back that is so essential to his powerful swing.

In 1980, Charboneau hit .289 with 23 homers and 87 runs batted in. Last season, he slipped to .210 with four homers and 18 RBI.

He spent most of August playing for the Charleston Charlies in the Class AAA International League.

Recalling the season and his back pain, Charboneau said, "I did mention it everyday at first. I think they just got mad at hearing it everyday. There were times when some of my teammates told me they were sick of hearing about it. That's when I figured it's better to just shut up about it.

"It should have been taken care of in spring training."

The result was Charboneau spent the season confused. He couldn't do what he once did. In some circles, he was accused of contriving his problems on the field in his head.

"I was hurt, but I really thought I could still have a good year," he said. "I was figuring, 'I can't believe I'm doing this bad.' I didn't know how much my back had to do with it. I tried to change my stance.

"But the pain kept coming. I was taking muscle relaxers. My prescription was for three or four a day. I'd get up in the morning and need three to begin with. It got to the point where I was taking 12 a day.

"They'd make me drowsy during the games. I'd have to go lie down during a game. Sometimes I'd doze off.

"Then that head problem stuff started and they sent me down to Charleston. I wanted to get away from it all. I was relaxed down there. It just seemed there were people who cared about me."

With his injured back repaired, Charboneau said he's hoping to return to form in 1982.

"I want to play everyday for the Indians," he said. "I know it's going to be hard to make this team next year. There's a chance I'll play in Triple A next year.

"I think this will make me a better player. I really believe I'll be back. If my back is like this next year, I'll give it one more year and then retire. I'd rather retire than hit .230."

Stricken Buff returns to campus

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Derek Singleton, the University of Colorado running back who spent 12 days in an Iowa hospital recovering from meningitis, has returned to the Colorado campus.

Singleton, a sophomore, was in good spirits but very weak when he was greeted by his teammates at Thursday's practice session, said Coach Chuck Fairbanks. It is unlikely he will be able to play for the Buffs again this year, but he is expected to recover completely and return for the 1982 season.

Singleton, who played at close to 200 pounds this year, weighed 172 Thursday morning when he checked out of Mary Greeley Hospital in Ames, Iowa. He was stricken Oct. 24, shortly before the Buffs were to play Iowa State.

"He looks thin," said Fairbanks. "It looks like he's lost some weight. But, other than that, he looks good. He's bright-eyed and smiling, but he tires easily. I'm sure glad to have him back."

While the Buffs got Singleton back, there was a possibility they might lose quarterback Randy Essington after this season.

Essington said Thursday he is "not happy" and is considering transferring elsewhere when the season is over.

"I'm just not happy here," the sophomore said. "I'll just have to wait and see what I do. I'm totally upset with the relationship I have with all of the coaches. There isn't any player-coach relationship

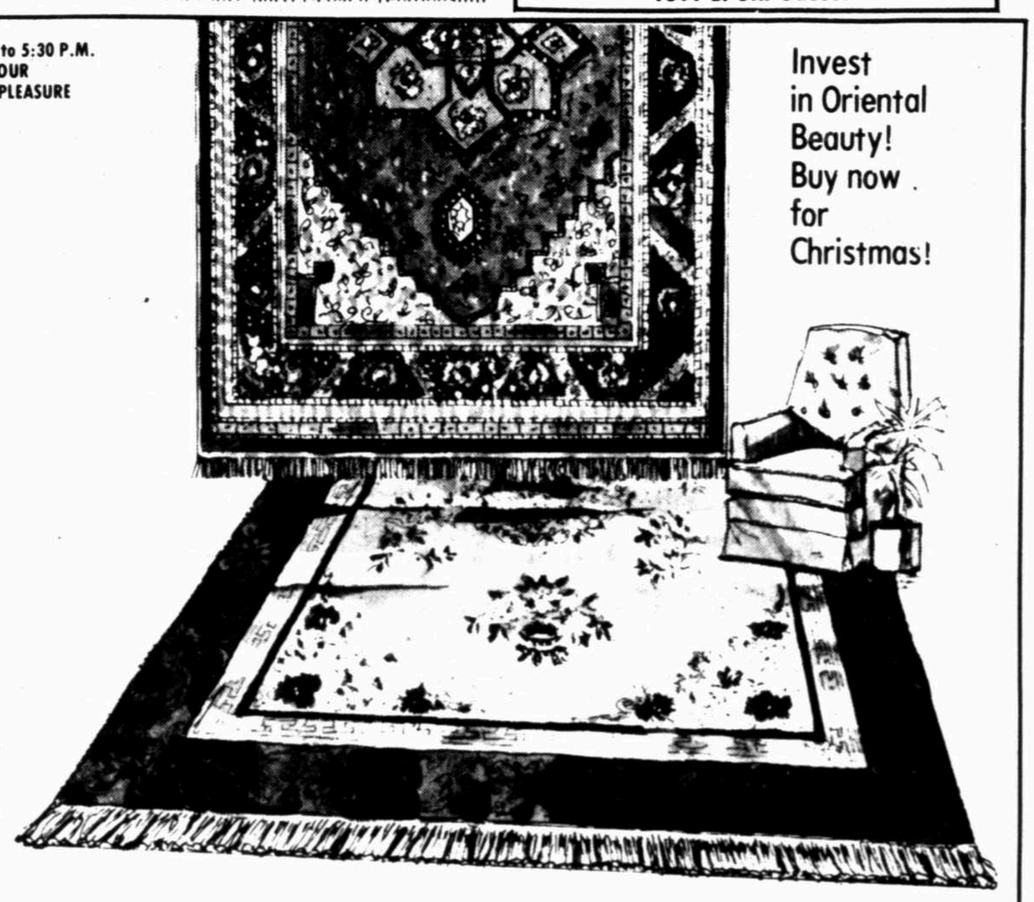
ORIENTAL RUG SHOW & SALE

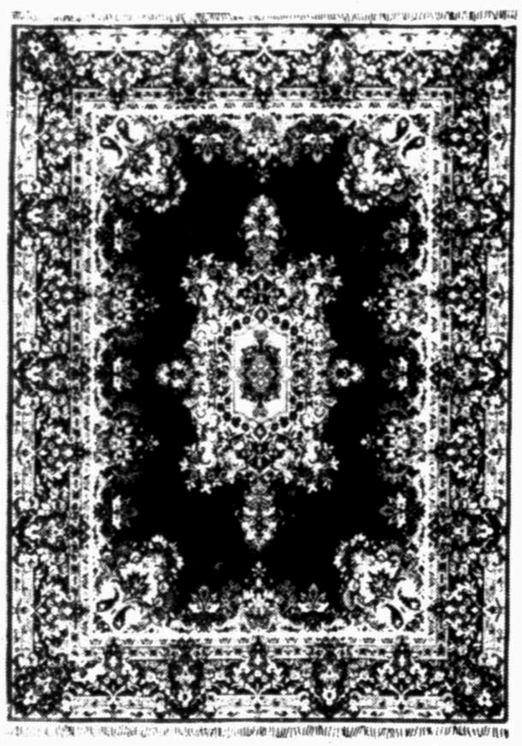
NOVEMBER 6,7, and 8



Invest in Oriental Beauty! Buy now for Christmas!

A large selection of handmade Oriental and Persian Rugs (new and old). Kerman-Kashan-Tabriz-Ardebil-Suk-Saruk.

Good handmade Persian Rugs are recognized as one of the finest investments on today's market. You will appreciate these values! Aladdin House is proud to present this fabulous showing and sale just in time for the holidays!



Oriental rugs and carpets have been produced for centuries and the rugs and carpets produced today are the same in almost every respect as those produced 500 years ago. The best known and most beautiful rugs come from Persia but there are also excellent pieces that come from China, Afghanistan, Turkey, Pakistan, India and Romania. There are other countries in Asia and Africa who produce hand made rugs, but we do not have enough space here to enumerate all of them. All these rugs are made of wool. There are exceptions such as some of the Persian Qum that are made of pure silk.

One may ask why is a hand made oriental rug or carpet the most prized and sought after of all floor coverings? The main reasons are:

1) An oriental rug, being entirely hand made, has a guaranteed durability. Even accidental damage can be repaired without decreasing the rug's value. This cannot be said of a machine made rug which, once damaged, loses its value.

2) The decorative value of an oriental rug is undeniable. It greatly enhances a room and creates an immediate impression of friendly warmth on entering it.

3) Provided it is used with care, the value of an oriental rug increases year by year. It is a safe investment and can be turned into ready cash at any time.

It is sometimes believed that oriental rugs and carpets are very expensive items. This is not so. We have many fine pieces that sell at under $500.00.

A brief summary of our rugs and carpets, and their characteristics, is as follows:

Persian: The finest pieces come from the towns such as Istahan, Qum, Kashan, Tabriz and Kerman. In addition there are the nomadic rugs of coarser weave such as Hamadan, Shiraz, Abadeh, Afshar and Belouch. We also have Kelims which have no pile, which come in colorful, geometric designs.

Chinese: The thickest pile of all carpets and rugs. They are very luxurious and come in embossed Aubusson, Floral and Peking designs.

Pakistan: Specialises in Bokhara and Afghan designs and in excellent copies of Persian design, considerably less expensive than Persian rugs.

Afghan: In well known elephant foot designs in red and gold. Useful for offices and hallways. Other designs are also produced.

India: Mainly heavy pile. Produced with beautiful pastel backgrounds in Floral, Aubusson or Chinese Peking designs.

Turkish: Made of wool, silk and artificial silk. Some rugs rival those of Persia in quality and design. Reasonably priced.

Romanian: Mainly copies of Persian designs, but we also have large carpets with the Aubusson design made in wool supplied from England. Extremely good value at very low prices.
