Another descendant of royalty is Rita LaRoy, who plays an important role in the dramatic photoplay. She is a direct descendant of Mary, Queen of Scots, and daughter of a member of the Royal Family of England.

POST OFFICE CLOSED THANKSGIVING DAY

According to Postmistress Fannie Mae Black, the Perryton post office will be closed all day Thanksgiving. There will be no window service and no city delivery. Mrs. Black states, the same being true of Christmas Day.

SHOP NOW AND MAIL IT EARLY

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT IS ASKING PATRONS TO HELP HANDLE CHRISTMAS CONGESTION

Post offices will make every effort to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can be done only with the cooperation of the public, according to Postmistress Fannie Mae Black. Compliance with the following suggestion will greatly aid the post office and insure the prompt handling of mail, Mrs. Black advises.

During the holiday time the volume of the mail increases approximately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days. Therefore to assure delivery of their Christmas presents, cards, and letters by Christmas Day the public should shop and mail early. Do your Christmas shopping so that you can mail your gifts, greetings, and letters to relatives, friends, and loved ones at least a week or 10 days before Christmas, according to the distance. This will not only make it certain that they are received on or before Christmas Day, but will be a great aid to your postal service and to postal employees and enable them to spend Christmas Day with their families.

All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed. Use strong paper and heavy twine. Umbrellas, canes, golf sticks, should be reinforced their full length by strong strips of wood tightly wrapped and tied or otherwise sufficiently wrapped to withstand transportation.

Hats: Pack in strong corrugated or fiberboard boxes. Ordinary pasteboard hatboxes must be crated. Ladies hats and all stiff hats easily damaged should be marked "fragile".

Shoes: Pack in strong boxes, preferably corrugated cardboard. Wrap with strong paper securely tied with heavy twine. Cut flowers: Place in strong suitable boxes of wood, tin, or heavy corrugated cardboard. Wrap with tissue to retain moisture.

Candies: Inclose in strong outside boxes or containers. Drawings, paintings, unmounted maps, etc.: Pack or wrap in strong material to avoid damage. When not flat, roll around a wooden core and then wrap and tie carefully or place in strong pasteboard tube.

Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks in handling or damage to other mail. Crate suitably or thoroughly wrap so that they can not cut through the wrapping.

Articles easily broken or crushed must be securely wrapped and crated and boxed. Use liberal quantities of excelsior, or like material, in, around, and between the articles and the outside container.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The subject of the lesson-sermon was "Soul and Body" in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 22.
Psalms 104:1 furnished the golden text. "Bless the Lord, O my soul, O Lord God, thou art very great; thou art clothed with honor and majesty."
This passage from the Bible (II Corinthians 5:1) was included in the services: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."
We also the following citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:
"Because Soul is immortal, it does not exist in mortality. Soul must be incorporeal to be Spirit, for Spirit is not finite. Only by losing the false sense of Soul can we gain the eternal unfolding of Life as immortality brought to light" (p. 335). "Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in Soul, in matter instead of in Spirit" (p. 223).
Mrs. T. G. Pate and daughter, Miss Lois, returned to their home at Liberal, Kans., Friday after a few days visit in the home of their daughter and sister, Mrs. R. C. Harlow.

WAKA P.-T. A. MEETING

Our Parent-Teacher Association celebrated American Education week last Friday night, November 20, by having a very interesting educational program led by Mrs. John Williams. She gave the definition of education as "An impact upon the young individual; education is not an end but rather a means to an end."
In F. C. Ashley's talk on "The School of Yesterday" he mentioned the disadvantages of the schools of yesterday with those of today. The schools then had from seventy-five to eighty in one room.
In contrast Mrs. F. C. Ashley gave a talk on "The School of Today" saying that "Children today can easily concentrate on their lessons without being annoyed by another child as they were when six and eight sat on one log. Our teachers are pals to the children. Let us teach the children to love their teachers for love covers a multitude of sin."
"The School of Tomorrow and the Future of America" was interestingly discussed by H. F. Collins. He said, "The schools of tomorrow and the future of America will be still better. The goal of the school of tomorrow will be to develop the child's natural ability. It will have six years of high school instead of four. No one will be dropped in the school of tomorrow. It will be made to fit the child instead of the child fitting the school. The future of America depends on the future generation. No nation can succeed unless the present generation goes forward."

BOYD, OKLA. ITEMS

Last week we received wonderful rains Thursday and Friday but this week it is quite a little more disagreeable as everything is covered with a coat of ice and sleet.

Jewell Roberts of Liberal is visiting his uncle, H. W. Gates.
There was an interesting number of children attending the health clinic at the home of Mrs. Charlotte Upham on Thursday.
There is sadness in the Gates family over the death of "Smarty", the faithful driving horse of Grandma Gates. Had "Smarty" lived until spring he would have numbered his years thirty, which is quite a number more than is allowed the average horse to live.
Donald George and Wayne Peters spent the week-end with hunting folks and enjoyed the duck hunting.

PARENT-TEACHER

The Perryton Parent-Teacher organization met Monday, November 23, at 7:30 o'clock high school auditorium. The program was given by Mrs. Sebastian. A message from state and national presidents brought by Mrs. Dee Caldwell, president. Two delightful numbers were given by Vance Apple with Mrs. C. Neufeld playing the accompaniment.
"The Value of Spiritual Training in the Life of the Child" was interestingly discussed by Rev. Hartenberger. He said he had the term Christian training of spiritual as the chief value in character training. No part of the world has the power that spiritual training has. Give the possible foundation for usefulness.
The 11th membership given by the Perryton association to Mrs. J. M. Bull was presented by Mrs. Dee Caldwell. The next meeting will be December 14 and this is "Penny night." W. B. LaMaster has been appointed chairman. The program and the cats will be furnished by the men. This night is an outstanding event in our section. Make your plans to attend.

You needn't tell me
— I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!

FRESHNESS

— that's the thing!

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

HAVE you noticed the new trend in cigarettes? — freshness is the popular thing.

That's because a fresh cigarette, as demonstrated by Camels, is something smokers have discovered as better than anything they ever tried before.

Camels are fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack because they're made fresh to start with — blended of choice, delicately mild, sun-ripened tobaccos in which the natural moisture and fragrant flavors are vigilantly safeguarded.

The tobaccos in Camels are never parched or toasted — the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say with so much assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh — not parched or toasted — and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

Try Camels' freshness for a change. Switch over for just one day, then change back — if you can.

CHAPTER LXIV

Paris to the conference of allied commanders-in-chief, October 25, 1918, I reported the proceedings of the conference, including my proposals, in detail as enumerated in the previous chapter.

Poch did not definitely state his views at the conference, but he recalled, but the following day he submitted his report to the Minister Clemenceau. Marshal Poch's recommendations embraced the main points proposed by the commander-in-chief, and were accepted by the supreme war council with practically no change. Wilson's comments on the report of October 25 were received on the twenty-ninth, as follows:

1,134,000—an advantage in favor of the allies of 37 per cent.

"In guns: Allies, 22,413; Germany, 16,495—an advantage of 35 per cent in favor of the allies.

"If Italy's forces should be added to the western front we should have a still greater advantage.

"5. Germany's morale is undoubtedly low, her allies have deserted her one by one, and she can no longer hope to win. Therefore we should take full advantage of the situation and continue the offensive until we compel her unconditional surrender.

"6. An armistice would revive the low spirits of the German army and enable it to reorganize and resist later on, and would deprive the allies of the full measure of victory by failing to press their present advantage to its complete military end.

"7. As the apparent humility of German leaders in talking of peace may be feigned, the allies should distrust their sincerity and their motives. The appeal for an armistice is undoubtedly to enable the withdrawal from a critical situation to one more advantageous.

"8. On the other hand the internal political conditions of Germany, if correctly reported, are such that she is practically forced to ask for an armistice to save the overthrow of her present government, a consummation which should be sought by the allies as precedent to permanent peace.

Sought German Capitulation.

"9. A cessation of hostilities short of capitulation postpones if it does not render impossible the imposition of satisfactory peace terms, because it would allow Germany to withdraw her army with its present strength, ready to resume hostilities if terms were not satisfactory to her.

"10. An armistice would lead the allied armies to believe this the end of fighting, and it would be difficult if not impossible to resume hostilities with our present advantage in morale in the event of failure to secure a peace conference what we have fought for.

"11. By agreeing to an armistice under the present favorable military situation of the allies and accepting the principles of a negotiated peace rather than a dictated peace, the allies would jeopardize the moral position they now hold and possibly lose the chance actually to secure world peace on terms that would insure its permanence.

"12. It is the experience of history that victorious armies are prone to overestimate the enemy's strength and too eagerly seek an opportunity for peace. This mistake is likely to be made now on account of the reputation Germany has gained through her victories of the last four years.

The following day a message came to me at Souilly from Colonel Mott saying that the Marshal was much pleased, as he held similar views.

The correspondence which led up to the armistice began, as we have seen, as far back as October 5, by the application of the German government to President Wilson for an armistice on the basis of the Fourteen Points set forth in his speech to congress January 8, 1918. German compliance with the President's demands, following an exchange of notes that continued through the month, was expressed in a note October 27, and November 5 the Germans were advised to apply to Marshal Poch for terms of an armistice.

In the light of later events we know Germany was more nearly beaten than the allied leaders realized at that time, and was, in fact, in no position to resume the fighting even had her government remained intact. Her last division was in line, her supply system was demoralized, and the congestion behind her lines made it practically impossible for her to move her armies in the face of the aggressive allies.

Instead of requiring the German forces to retire at once, leaving material, arms and equipment behind, the armistice terms permitted them to march back to their homeland with colors flying and bands playing, posing as the victims of political conditions.

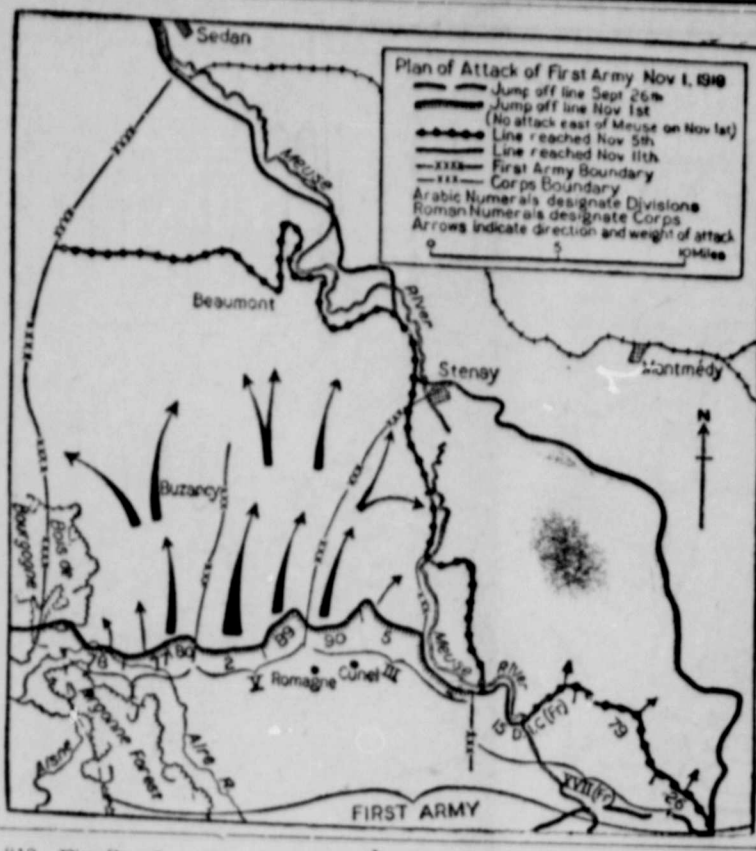

If unconditional surrender had been demanded, the Germans would, prisoners of war taken shroud without doubt, have been compelled to yield, and their troops would have returned to Germany without arms, virtually as paroled prisoners of war. The surrender of the German armies would have been an advantage to the allies in the discussion of peace terms and would have greatly facilitated their execution.

In conversation with M. Poincare some time after the war, he told me that, as president of the republic, he was in favor of demanding the surrender of the German armies, but that M. Clemenceau, his prime minister, insisted upon granting them an armistice.

CHAPTER LXV

The last phase of the Meuse-Argonne operations was to begin November 1. The American army was now able for the first time to prepare for an offensive with some deliberation, under reasonably normal conditions and more nearly on an equal footing with the other armies.

Our staff and troops had become veterans. French special units of artillery, pioneers, engineers, rail and service troops had been largely replaced by Americans. The army was operating in a sector which had been under its control for a month and more. Hitherto, as on September 12 and 26, we had held the front but a brief period instead of being several months on the ground, as was usually the case

"13. Finally, I believe the complete victory can only be obtained by continuing the war until we force unconditional surrender from Germany, but if the allied governments decide to grant an armistice, the terms should be so rigid that under no circumstances could Germany again take up arms.

"JOHN J. PERSHING, Commander-in-Chief, A. E. F."

That evening I received a note from Mr. House asking me about the views of the other commanders-in-chief. In conversation with my aide, Colonel Boyd, Mr. House said the question whether an armistice should be granted was purely political and that all the prime ministers were in favor of it. He had shown my letter, he said, to Clemenceau and to Lloyd George.

I then wrote Mr. House a note to the effect that my opinion was based upon military considerations, I also advised Marshal Poch, through Colonel Mott, that I thought we should demand unconditional surrender.

The following day a message came to me at Souilly from Colonel Mott saying that the Marshal was much pleased, as he held similar views.

with the allies.

Preparatory to the general attack the front line had now been reorganized, inefficient commanders had been replaced by active, energetic men, and large quantities of ammunition, supplies and equipment had been brought up. Our line occupied favorable positions from which to start this offensive. From east of Landres-et-St. Georges to the Meuse we were beyond the Hindenburg line defenses, and at the Cote de Chatillon we flanked the enemy's positions in and near Landres-et-St. Georges. Having gained the northern edge of the Bois de Bantheville we were within striking distance of the heights of Barriecourt.

We had learned from reports and from photographs taken by our aviators that the enemy had greatly strengthened the most prominent points back of his lines, while captured documents indicated his intention of organizing a position along the west slopes of the Barriecourt ridge. The eastern spur of this ridge commanded all the crossings of the Meuse and formed a connecting link with high ground east of the river about Cote Saint-German.

The infantry advanced to the assault at 5:30 the morning of November 1, following an accurate barrage of artillery and machine-gun fire, which beat down German resistance over a zone of 1,200 yards in depth. Squadrons of swift-flying combat planes drove the enemy planes from the air and fired on the hostile infantry, while the bombing squadrons harassed important points behind the enemy's lines. The attack went forward with precision, gaining momentum with every mile.

In the next installment General Pershing describes the resumed offensive in the Argonne.

German man power is constantly increasing in strength and morale, and should be able to play an increasingly important part in the allied offensive. Its growth in personnel and material, with reserves as the allies may further mounting the Italian army, will be more than equal to the losses of the allied armies.

The estimated strength of the German army in the western front, not including Italy, and of Germany, in the hands of the Allies, 1,567,000.

Sunday, November 22, was an off day in all of our churches. The cold weather made the fire so inviting that many remained at home. Our church is seeking to offer the best possible in the teaching, training and worship services. The church is offering these services for you and it is your fault if you do not come and enjoy them.

Former Pastor

Rev. E. G. Pennington, a former pastor of this church, will preach at the evening service, November 29, as the pastor will be in a revival at Booker. It is hoped that his many friends of our church and others will hear him at this time.

Santa Claus Has Changed His Address!

Of course we all know that Santa Claus lives at the North Pole. But guess what he's just done. He sent us word to have all the little boys and girls in Perryton and surrounding territory to write him in care of the Ochiltree County Herald.

And that's just what one little fellow has done this week, who evidently believes in getting his order in early to avoid the rush. This is what he has to say:

DEAR SANTA CLAUSE:

I want a tool set with a saw, a marble and jacks and a top.

from Glenn Roper.

So come on boys and girls, write old Santa for the things you want. We'll print your letters in the Herald and then send your orders on to old Santa at the North Pole.

WHEAT KITCHEN

per bushel and with a protein content of 12.10 per cent. Recleaned and smut free grain was used to eliminate as much dirt and trash as possible before the preparations for cooking were begun.

Preparation of Whole Wheat Grain

Wheat containing no other impurities besides dust and chaff may be satisfactorily cleaned by washing through several pans of cold water stirring thoroughly to bring all floating material to the surface where it can be poured off.

Whole wheat was prepared for use in the following recipes by boiling in an open boiler one quart of wheat grain with one level teaspoonful of salt until tender. Sufficient water was added from time to time to keep the grain covered. The water was thoroughly drained off and the cooked wheat ground fine in a food chopper. Drainage is important. If too wet when ground the texture will not be uniform. The finest burr was found most satisfactory. In this condition the cooked wheat is referred to below as "prepared whole wheat."

Recipes Using Prepared Whole Wheat—Breakfast Cereal (Dry)

Take prepared whole wheat fresh from the food chopper, spreading in a layer about one inch deep in a flat pan taking care to preserve the fluffy condition and dry in a slow moderate oven until crisp, or air dry and then crisp in oven. Serve with cream and sugar or in any way that dry commercial breakfast cereals are used.

If a toasted flavor is preferred the heating in oven may be carried further to suit the taste.

Cereal prepared in this way can be stored and kept indefinitely under the same condition that the commercial product is kept.

Whole Wheat and Cheese
2 cups prepared whole wheat
1 cup coarsely chopped cheese
Salt

Barely cover the prepared whole wheat with water in a stew pan, salt to taste and heat until it begins to thicken. Stir in cheese until melted and serve hot.

Whole Wheat and Vegetables
2 cups prepared whole wheat
1 cup chopped fresh or canned vegetables
Salt

The most common selection of vegetables for this dish consists of about a fourth of a cup of chopped onions and three-fourths cup of tomatoes. The onions are added after the other ingredients have been cooked as in the above recipe until thickening. This is a good dish for utilization of small amounts of almost any left over vegetable.

Whole Wheat Patties
3 cups prepared whole wheat
2 eggs
1 onion

Beat the eggs slightly. Mix with prepared whole wheat. Add one onion coarsely chopped. Pepper and salt to taste and fry brown in hot greased skillet as patties dropped from spoon. Chopped celery may be used instead of onions or included with them.

Whole Wheat Custard Pudding
4 eggs
Two-thirds cup sugar
2 cups milk
One-half cup raisins
2 cups prepared whole wheat

Beat the eggs in a baking dish or deep pan, add the sugar and milk and salt to taste. Small seedless raisins may be used whole but seeded raisins should be coarsely chopped before mixing. When sugar has dissolved add raisins and the prepared whole wheat. Mix with light stirring and bake until custard sets which is usually about 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

Whole Wheat Macaroons
2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
One-half tsp. vanilla
1 cup shredded coconut
2 cups whole wheat breakfast cereal (dry)

One-half cup chopped nuts. Feating the egg whites until stiff add the sugar gradually then the vanilla, coconut, dry whole wheat cereal and chopped nuts. Drop by spoonfuls on a buttered pan and bake in a moderate oven until the macaroons are a delicate brown.

Preparation of Coarsely Ground Wheat

Clean, sound, disease free wheat may be easily prepared for the following recipes by most kinds of ordinary feed mills used on the farm. A screen of the proper mesh to admit ordinary meal may be necessary in some cases to obtain an even texture product. Coarsely ground wheat used in the following recipes should resemble corn meal in fineness, however, it is not necessary to sieve out the flourlike portion.

Recipes Using Coarsely Ground Wheat—Breakfast Cereal (Cooked)

Bring water, salted at the rate of one teaspoonful per quart, to a full rolling boil. While boiling pour coarsely ground wheat in a thin stream, stirring into the water until the consistency of mush has been obtained. Serve hot with cream and sugar, with butter, or with butter and sugar.

Fried Wheat Mash
Cereal prepared as above may be sliced when cold and fried. Serve with butter and syrup.

Coarse Wheat Bread
2 cups coarsely ground wheat
One-half cup white flour
One-half cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups milk
1 level tsp. baking powder dissolved in sweet milk
2 tbsp. melted shortening

Sift flour, salt and ground whole wheat together. Add milk, sugar and well beaten eggs. Add shortening and baking powder dissolved in milk. Bake in greased pans in oven from 30 to 40 minutes.

Preparation of Finely Ground Wheat

The same care in selection of grain and recleaning should be observed as before mentioned. If ground on sharp burrs a fair grade of whole wheat flour may sometimes be approximated. If the burrs are dull, however, perhaps the best plan is to use a screen which will separate some of the coarser bran portion rather than attempt to re-grind which is likely to result in an uneven quality of product.

Meats and Gravies

In the frying of cuts of beef, pork, fish and poultry finely ground wheat may be used in any way that flour is ordinarily used. The substitution of finely ground wheat in the place of white flour improves the flavor of cream gravy.

Discussion

About 20 recipes were tested altogether but only those are given above which were considered particularly successful. The use of finely ground wheat in the making of bread, muffins, etc., was omitted because it is generally well known. These will serve to demonstrate the wide variety of tasty dishes which it is possible to make from home prepared wheat grain. The uses outlined here will suggest to the clever housewife many others which are both appetizing and wholesome.

It is not intended to suggest that a family could live satisfactorily on a diet of whole wheat but it is undoubtedly possible for home prepared whole wheat in some form to enter into each meal of the day without risking monotony if the dishes are judiciously selected.

As long as wheat remains near 25 cents per bushel, farm price, there are few economies that can be as effective as using it in the farm kitchen.

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

City of Detroit purchases 137 new Ford Hundreds now in use prove low cost of ownership

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time.

21 radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 78,434 miles to 143,723 miles with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2,284 cents a mile - less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile.

Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive proof of Ford economy.

In the paragraphs above, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford branches of Detroit police cost 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four these Ford cars are in operation branches of transportation of grueling service. The record low fuel and oil consumption of the Ford's many economic materials, simplicity of design in manufacturing provide economy, stamina and freedom from repairs.

The individual car buyer purchasing department of a business cannot afford to ignore economy of the Ford car.

WHAT HELPS HAIR and HURTS MOTOR OIL?

The answer is petroleum jelly! This thick, jelly-like substance gives motor oil, when cold, a deceptive body which turns water-thin the moment your engine heats up. Don't be fooled—ask the nearest Sinclair dealer for the oil with the genuine full body—Sinclair Opaline. Petroleum jelly is removed from Opaline at as low as 60° F. below zero—a much lower temperature than is required for just removing wax. Ask the Sinclair dealer.

WHAT 50 YEARS HAVE DONE TO US

Perryton business men have been chucking over a circular sent out as a wisecrack trade appeal by an eastern house. The chuckle provoking circular runs like this:

1881—Fifty years ago women wore hoopskirts, bustles, petticoats, corsets, cotton stockings, high buttoned shoes, ruffled cotton drawers, flannel nightgowns, puffs in their hair—did their own cooking, baking, big families—went to church hard cleaning, washing, ironing—raised day—were too busy to be sick.

Men wore whiskers, square hats, Ascot ties, red flannel underwear, big watches and chains—chopped wood for stoves—bathed once a week—drank 10-cent whiskey and five-cent beer—rode bicycles, buggies or sleighs—went in for politics, worked 12 hours a day—and lived to a ripe old age.

Stores burned coal-oil lamps—carried everything from a needle to a plow—trusted everybody—never took an inventory—placed orders for goods a year in advance—always made money.

1931—Today women wear silk stockings, short skirts, low shoes, no corsets, an ounce of underwear—have bobbed hair, smoke, paint and powder, drink cocktails, play bridge, drive cars, have pet dogs and go in for politics.

Men have high blood pressure, wear no hats, and some no hair, shave their whiskers, shoot golf, bathe twice a day, drink poison, play the stock market, ride in airplanes—never go to bed the same day they get up, are misunderstood at home—work five hours a day, play 10—die young.

Stores have electric lights, cash registers, elevators, never have what the customer wants—trust nobody—take inventory daily—never buy in advance—have overhead, mark up, mark down, quota, budget, advertising, stock control, annual and semi-annual, end-of-month, dollar day, rummage—economy day sales—and never make any money.

PLANTING TIME IS HERE

Now is the time to plant your shade trees. Chinese elm is the kind to plant. I am offering them for sale at depression prices, with a large stock of more than 20,000 to select from. These trees are still in the nursery row at Range, Okla. You may come to the nursery and make your own selection if you wish and be assured that you get trees fully matured. See me at the nursery next week. North Plains Nursery, V. L. Nichols, owner, Perryton, Texas. 44-4t-c.

spring they cannot always make deliveries at the time most suited to you. Avoid this inconvenience by planting in fall.

With everything to gain by planting now, with such promise of a greater garden year next season by so doing, surely it is worth while to take the expert's advice and do your planting this fall.

Announcements were received this week from Mr. and Mrs. Grant Westbrook of the arrival of an eleven pound daughter on Saturday, November 21. The name, Zella Jean, has been chosen for the little Miss. Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook have a wheat farm south of town but are spending the winter at Kerens, Texas.

FAITH AND COURAGE

I note a sharp contrast these days between the mental attitudes, the "morale," of business men and of farmers.

The merchant, lawyer, dentist, barber and peanut vendor is in a blue funk. He exudes gloom from every pore. He has slumped, almost given up, and seems to be waiting for something to happen.

The farmer is doing a lot of kicking—with good reason—but in comparison to his city cousin is in a happy frame of mind.

The reason is the farmer is at work, and the city man isn't.

In times like these a job of work that keeps a man hustling is about the greatest blessing that can be conferred on him. With crops to harvest, stock to feed and chores to do the farmer finds himself occupied mentally and physically. He may not feel happy over the economic prospect, but his condition is a happy one compared to the man who doesn't have job, or the man with a business waiting for the sheriff to close it out.

If he can find nothing to be thankful for, the farmer should be thankful for a job that furnishes him directly something to eat. The question of a profit, for the present at least, is hardly the most important thing. No one is making a profit these days. The man still in business with a fair prospect that he can stay in business is really in the preferred class.

And I don't mean to say I find any disposition for farm folk to quit on the job. The contrary is true. With an admirable spirit most men and women on the farm are carrying on. As the farmer has proved himself to be the backbone of the nation in other times, he is proving so right now.

Many a business man and professional man ought to go into the country and refresh himself with some of the courage, faith and determination that animate farm folk of the southwest at this time.—Clarence Roberts in the Oklahoma Farmer—Stockman.

KEEPING UP WITH WEST TEXAS

FALL IS IDEAL TIME TO PLANT SAYS EXPERT

Why put off until spring that which can be done so much better in fall? Experts agree that fall is the ideal time to move most trees and shrubs. There are good reasons for this, as every gardener knows, but if you are in doubt, look over these advantages which the fall planting season offers:

1. Conditions are most always right, and the soil is warm and workable—a combination from which you may often wait a long time in spring.
2. Fall rains help the plant become adjusted to its new home, settling the earth about its roots. Often times actual root growth takes place before the ground freezes. Thus the plants start growing in the spring long before conditions are favorable for spring planting. The resultant extra growth the first season is practically a year's gain.
3. Fall planting can be done any day when the soil is right and temperature above freezing. There are many such days as fall lingers into winter, thus providing ample time for moving and setting of plants—quite in contrast to the spring rush.
4. Stocks are fresh-dug from the nursery and full of vitality. Winter stored plants for spring planting are apt to be slightly dried out, which delays their starting when planted in spring.
5. Your favorite varieties may be sold out if you wait until spring. In fall there is usually a more complete selection.
6. Nurseries are so rushed in
