Black Texan Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter formally announced today he's nominating Azie T. Morton, a black woman from Texas, to be treasurer of the United States.

Once an administrative assistant at Texas AFL-CIO headquarters in Austin, Ms. Morton, as she prefers to be known, currently is staff assistant to the House District Committee.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has said he plans to combine the treasurer's post with that of director of the Mint.

More Spending Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)-Businesses have increased their 1977 spending predictions on plants and equipment only slightly in the last three months, the Commerce Department reported today.

The quarterly report said businesses expect to spend $135.3 billion on capital spending for the year, an increase of six-tenths of a per cent over their estimates in March.

4 Drown, 9 Missing

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)-Despite warnings of a thunderstorm, a 42-foot charter fishing boat ventured out onto Chesapeake Bay and was dumped on its starboard side by a 10-to-13 foot wave, the Coast Guard said. At least four persons drowned and nine were missing.

The remaining 14 persons aboard the charter Dixie Lee II were rescued.

Carter Studying B1

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter, who has said the B1 bomber is wasteful and should not be funded, told its congressional supporters today he wants to learn all he can about the advanced bomber before deciding whether it should be built.

At a meeting in the White House Cabinet room this morning with Carter, six senators and six House members who support the bomber made another attempt to sway Carter from the opposition to the plane he stated during the presidential campaign.

THE QUEEN TODAY

Jubilant Britons Mark Silver Jubilee

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) -- Throngs of jubilant Britons marked the Silver Jubilee of Queen Elizabeth II's reign today with the greatest outpouring of patriotic fervor in a quarter century, and she in turn thanked her subjects for 25 years of "loyalty and friendship."

Halfway through the long-awaited day of pomp, ceremony, parades, trumpet fanfares, prayers and gun salutes, the queen addressed her subjects and the world at a jubilee luncheon in the historic Guildhall:

"At this moment of my Silver Jubilee I want to thank all those in Britain and the Commonwealth who through their loyalty and friendship have given me strength and encouragement during these last 25 years," she said.

Appearing relaxed and happy, the monarch recalled that in her "salad days" as a 21-year-old heir to the British throne she pledged her life to the service of the British people.

"I do not regret nor retract one word of it," she said.

Millions of Britons and foreign visitors, withstanding intermittent showers and many waiting since Monday night, lined the streets of London as the queen and her husband, Prince Philip, embarked on their day of joyous celebration.

Millions more participated in celebrations in every village and hamlet across England. Hundreds of millions around the world watched on television.

For the royal couple the festive day opened with a ride in the golden state coach from Buckingham Palace to a thanksgiving service in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Prince Charles, the popular heir to the throne, rode behind on horseback. A procession of open carriages followed, carrying the queen mother, the queen's children and her sister, Princess Margaret.

They were accompanied by more than 3,000 troops and 10 bands.

Rain alternated with bright sunshine during the morning, but the rain stopped before Princess Anne, the queen's daughter, and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, left the palace in the first open carriage.

The queen paused along the way at Temple Bar, gateway to the old City of London, the heart of the capital, to receive the Pearl Sword from the lord mayor of London, a ceremony of loyalty dating back six centuries.

A royal gun salute from the Tower of London and a fanfare of trumpets greeted the queen as she approached St. Paul's, the cathedral whose survival in the fire bombings of London made it a symbol of British resolve in World War II.

"O Lord and Heavenly Father, the exalter of the humble, the strength of thy chosen, bless, we beseech Thee, they servant Elizabeth, our anointed and consecrated queen," intoned the bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. Gerald Ellison, inside the 267-year-old, Christopher Wren-designed church.

The congregation of 2,000 included more than 35 leaders of former British colonies gathered for a Commonwealth meeting and an array of foreign guests, including President Carter's son Chip and his wife, Caron.

Young Includes Kennedy, Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) -- U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young said today his criticism of former Presidents Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon as "racists" also applied to Presidents John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson but were not intended as attacks on the individual character of the chief executives.

Testifying before the House International Affairs Committee, Young said the issue of racism was actually "in the context of why we might have neglected Africa" in the formulation of U.S. foreign policy.

CRMWD Greets Thirsty Season

The thirsty season for cities and industries served by the Colorado River Municipal Water District is underway.

Cities, which have had demands dulled earlier in the year by cold and damp weather, posted about a two per cent gain in May, while oil companies and industries were up 19 per cent in their demands. As a result of the May deliveries of 1,888,275,000 gallons, up 6.98 per cent over May 1976, the year's total stood at 7,545,872,000 gallons, a gain of 2.07 per cent. This was the first time this year that the total has exceeded that of the corresponding time last year.

During May, cities used 1,273,000,000 gallons, up 25 million gallons or 1.98 per cent. The oil companies and industries used 614,000,000 gallons, 98 million gallons or 19.05 per cent.

Deliveries to cities included these figures:

Odessa 511,756,000 gallons, up 1.96 per cent; Big Spring 266,976,000, up 4.28 per cent; Snyder 82,437,000 up 2.99 per cent; Midland 403,850,000, up 2.57 per cent; Stanton 9,482,000, down 9.80 per cent. Neither San Angelo nor Robert Lee required any water from the district in May.

Perhaps you noticed in the story last Sunday about the American Junior Rodeo Association's National Finals that they are not going to have a buffalo riding event this year.

Maybe there are not enough buffaloes available, and then perhaps there are not enough riders to enter. We had a tip several days earlier that one of the stars of last year's buffalo ride would not return to defend his "title."

"Mickey Nunley won't be riding a buffalo this year," was the emphatic word we got. It came from JoAnn Nunley, who said the Nunley family got enough buffalo riding at last year's AJRA event to last a lifetime.

Anyway, it was a good promotion event for last year's show, even if Nunley's arm paid a high price. The AJRA should be "sold" by now, however, even without a buffalo ride.

Someone put the pencil to those figures announced last week concerning the State Comptroller's payment to the county tax office for voter registrations. It was noted that the county receives 40 cents for each registration and Scurry County's total payment was $738.80. That would account for a total of some 1,847 voters, and surely Scurry County has more registered voters than that, our figure filbert said.

What the announcement failed to say was that the $738.80 only covered new registrations the past year. Several thousand Scurry Countians who had registered earlier are not included.

So, over 1,800 new voters in a year indicates that there are many new faces around town.

Industrial Board Given New Reports

Reports on business and industrial developments now underway were presented this morning at a meeting of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation.

Bill Henry brought the board up to date on an apartment complex planned for Southeast Snyder and said announcements of other housing developments are expected soon. Prospects are bright for additional multi-family units, as well as single-family dwellings, Henry said. He also reported that unofficial word had been received that additional firms had signed leases in the Varsity Square Shopping Center.

Negotiations are still underway with several industrial prospects, the board was told.

Leon Autry, vice president, presided over the session. Other board members attending included Paul Sizemore, Dr. Gene McClurg, Bill Gilliland, Roy McQueen, Bill Dryden and Tommy Davis.

SHS Class Of 1927 Has Reunion

Amid a chorus of "It's so good to see you again" and "Do you remember when...." the 1927 graduating class of Snyder High School held its 50th reunion the past weekend.

The class members assembled for a luncheon and an afternoon of reminiscing at The Shack.

Lunch was served following registration of the 17 members attending and the invocation was given by the Rev. Harvey Carroll, a member of the class.

Mrs. Guy Stoker presided and welcomed the group, and Mrs. Frances Stockton called the class roll. Mrs. M.W. Pilcher asked the group to observe a moment of silence in memory of nine deceased members of the class.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Stoker introduced Jack Gorman, assistant superintendent, personnel, of Snyder Public Schools. He gave the Class of '27 a report on Snyder Schools of the present day.

The afternoon was spent visiting with friends who came for the afternoon session, reading letters from teachers, friends and classmates who were unable to attend. Also, the class will, class history and class prophecy were read, and pictures of school days when the Class of '27 was enrolled were viewed.

bullet-biting time

Time is running out for adoption of comprehensive energy legislation at this session of Congress. Some progress has been made. Congressional committees are beginning to get hearings under way. Crystalization of opinion, however, is still lacking. But it's now fairly certain that some parts of the Administration program have little chance of adoption.

For obvious reasons the suggestion that motorists be taxed into compliance with conservation measures is dead. The idea of raising the gasoline tax to as much as 50 cents per gallon and use some of the money for kickbacks to the poor and users whose jobs require heavy travel would create a thousand headaches for administrators.

Agreement is general that adding $500 or $1,000 as a penalty to the cost of luxury cars won't do the job. People who can afford gas guzzlers at present prices won't balk at paying another grand for vehicles they feel their station in life demands.

If these assumptions are substantially accurate choice of ways to insure the kind of cut in gasoline consumption most observers agree is necessary comes down to some type of control. It could be a one-shot approach that prohibits sale of high fuel consumption cars. That is pretty drastic, but any other method of achieving the objective with a minimum of administrative detail later on will not be a simple operation.

We had in Austin a few days ago a pretty good idea of thinking on the subject. The Legislature passed a bill that went a long way toward neutralizing the 55-mile speed limit in Federal law. Our esteemed legislators aren't to be blamed for this rather foolish act. They are convinced the people of Texas want to return to high speed limits, notwithstanding proof that both lives and gasoline are saved when the 55-mile limit is observed.

What it all adds up to is that somebody will have to bite the bullet, whatever that is supposed to mean. Members of Congress are reluctant to order the steps necessary to achieve a substantial cut in gasoline consumption. They know constituents are hoping something will happen that will enable all of us to continue our care-free ways of getting places in the shortest possible time.

israel's state ills

It is still uncertain whether Menachem Begin, leader of the Likud party in Israel, will be able to take over as that country's new prime minister.

Begin suffered a heart attack and was hospitalized for three weeks in April in the midst of the election campaign, and immediately after his party's upset victory over the ruling Labor party, was hospitalized again for apparent exhaustion.

If the same thing had happened to a party standard-bearer in the United States, national politics would be in a state of turmoil, if not panic. Constitutional scholars would be furiously debating what would happen if the president-elect were unable to attend his own inauguration. Would the 25th amendment on presidential disability apply in such a situation? Would the vice president-elect succeed him?

Fortunately, Israel, which has enough other problems, does not face this one.

The reason, of course, is that like most other democracies, Israel operates under the parliamentary system. The electorate votes not for a party "ticket" but for individual candidates for parliament. The leader of the party winning a majority, either in absolute numbers of seats or by virtue of coalition with other parties (as will be the case with the Likud), becomes the prime minister. Thus if Begin is unable to serve, his party will merely choose someone else from among its members.

Volatile as conditions are in the Middle East, they would be even more volatile if they hinged on the state of one man's health.

"Does everyone from Georgia walk around like that?"

better way to age

There's just got to be a better way to grow old than the way Groucho is doing it.

That he was a much-in-demand entertainer for more than half a century doesn't matter any more.

That he is rich doesn't matter much.

No memory of being a star makes up for later disregard or keeps the end from being hard.

Groucho Marx, aged and ailing, can't even buy friends any more.

There was the woman companion who looked after him--Erin Fleming. But witnesses convinced a court that she was less than kind to him--scolding him, swearing at him, mistreating him.

Then the court appointed Nat Perrin to look after the old comic.

Nat Perrin used to write for the Groucho--"loved the man," he said.

Now Perrin wants out. He says looking after Groucho is interfering with his own life.

He says he is constantly on call; it's a continuous job.

He says, "I just don't want to devote my life to that."

Groucho has a son who visits sometimes--Arthur Marx.

It was he who most vociferously objected to the presence of Miss Fleming in the house.

Theirs appears to be mostly a squabble over who is going to get whatever is left of Groucho's money when he's gone.

There's got to be a better way to grow old than this.

There is--if you can manage it.

I'm researching for a book to be called "Happily Ever After."

Interviewing those couples which are living out their lives together, I am constantly seeking to learn their formula.

These are men and woman married to each other for 70, 80 years--one couple for 83 years.

For the most part even those who are now in nursing homes are more "tranquil" than those who are living out their years alone.

Of course, many of us will have no control over the timing of eventual separation.

But most of us do have some control which two-in-five couples are tending to abdicate through separation or divorce.

Billy Graham's counsel is sought by many whose marriages are falling apart.

If the wounds are reparable, Billy frequently recites the experience of his in-laws.

Dr. L. Nelson Bill (Ruth Graham's father) tended his ailing wife for the last decades of their lives together--not grudgingly, but triumphantly!

Dr. Bell would not consider "outside help" with chores. He considered those years of constant togetherness their happiest.

When a woman grows frightened of her mirror and a man begins to despise his own waning virility, there is an understandable temptation to jump the fence. But that impetuosity might be curbed in many if they would look down the road ahead and remember Groucho.

WASHINGTON - (NEA) – Journalism award banquets, like similar affairs in other professions, are typically suffused with a faint aura of smugness.

Unable to let the results of our daily labors speak for themselves, each year we in the news business bestow a variety of prizes upon one another to reaffirm our professional virture and value to society.

In honoring a select few for out-legging the rest of us, we all take pride in being part of the game. The rest of the world may view us with suspicion, but our little award ceremonies replenish our own faith in ourselves.

There is one journalism award that is different, however, that induces a sense of humility rather than hubris, an awareness of jobs unfinished rather than tasks completed.

It is our only major prize named after one not famed for the practice of journalism: The Robert F. Kennedy Journalism award, created in memory of a politician who grasped better than most of us both the promise and the failings of the press in America.

Born to wealth and power, Bobby Kennedy outgrew his early limitations of privilege to become a relentless and eloquent champion of the poor and the weak in our society.

In the final year of his life, as he crossed the country in pursuit of the 1968 presidental nomination, he awakened reporters traveling with him to the wrenching plight of the disadvantaged from the hollows of West Virginia to the steamy streets of Chicago.

Bobby Kennedy understood the power of the pen, and of the camera. He knew that decent people could not ignore the less fortunate in our midst if confronted with evidence of their suffering, that indifference could be sustained only through silence.

And his concern, so clearly genuine, so nakedly displayed at a hundred stops along the last campaign, rubbed off on those who chronicled his march.

Six months after his assassination, a group of the RFK campaign reporters set up a journalism awards program in his honor.

The program recognizes those reporters and news organizations who in their work illuminate the plight of the disadvantaged and help to stir the public conscience into corrective action.

It is not the kind of journalism which is glamorous or splashy. Rubbing elbows with presidents and congressmen is fun, gratifying to the ego. Plodding through the human warehouses that serve as public mental institutions is depressing.

But as family friend and historian Arthur Schlesinger said at last week's RFK Journalism Award ceremoney, Bobby Kennedy always knew the meaning of Emerson's warning:

"God offers to every mind its choice between truth and repose. Take which you please, you can never have both."

The award now given in his name honors journalists who share Bobby Kennedy's decision to sacrifice repose for the pursuit of truth.

Sometimes the winners are from big, influential publications like the recipients of this year's grand prize, Acel Moore and Wendell Rawls, who were cited for their exhaustive series in the Philadelphia Inquirer exposing unspeakable conditions at Pennsylvania's state mental institution, Farview State Hospital.

Sometimes those recognized are from tiny papers, like the Northern California Labor Pulse, whose entire staff - Paul and Mary Shinoff – were recognized for articles on the victims of asbestos poisoning.

What is special about these awards, and the ceremony at which they are distributed by Kennedy's widow Ethel in the presence of the remaining members of the clan, is the sense of inadequacy they inspire in those of us who ply the trade.

There is so much work left to be done, so many stories still to be told. The poor, it is said, will be always with us. But who shall see them if we do not do our job?

bill stabs industry

The federal government, it is often urged, should be nation's "employer of last resort"-charged with the responsibility of providing jobs and income for those Americans unable to find employment on their own. Much social legislation in recent years has been directed toward increasing that responsibility.

If anybody can be called the "employer of first resort," it has to be the foodservice (restaurant) industry, whose 550,000 independent operators employ more than 8 million people in full-time and part-time capacities, many of them younger or unskilled workers in entry-level positions-busboys, waitresses, etc.

For example, while teenagers make up only 10 per cent of the nation's workforce, they constitute a third of the foodservice workforce.

Unfortunately, a piece of legislation being considered by the employer of last resort could seriously and adversely affect the role of the employer of first resort. This is H.R. 3744, a three-pronged bill, each point of which, says the foodservice industry, stabs where it hurts.

First, the bill calls for an increase in the federal minimum wage from $2.30 to $2.85 an hour-a 24 per cent advance-within 30 days of enactment. This would peg the minimum wage at 55 per cent of the $5.15 average wage (including overtime) in manufacturing.

Second, beginning in January 1978 and each January after that, the minimum wage would be "indexed" to 60 per cent of the manufacturing wage average, meaning another increase of 16 to 19 per cent next January.

With the indexing provision, wages in the labor-intensive foodservice industry, with its low productivity per worker, would be permanently tied to wages in highly productive industries Foodservice operators complain that they would be forced to raise wages each year because of collective bargaining gains won by workers in more technological, automated industries, but with little hope of raising productivity.

Third, H.R. 3744 would eliminate the tip credit, which enables restaurant management to pay less than the minimum wage to employes who receive tips. Currently, if an employe earns tips equal to at least half the minimum wage, these tips are considered part of his or her income and the employer pays the remaining 50 per cent in actual wages.

This system ensures total income to every worker at least equal to the minimum wage. In practice, the 31 per cent of foodservice workers who are tipped earn about 61 per cent more than their nontipped coworkers.

If the tip credit is repealed, employers would immediately face more than a doubling in labor costs for tipped employes -that is, loss of the present $1.15 credit plus the 24 per cent increase over the current minimum wage.

What would happen? According to the National Restaurant Association, some 700,000 foodservice jobs would be lost if restaurant operators cut employment to keep their labor costs constant. It says the additional wages would cost the industry $3.9 billion, which could only be met by cutting personnel or raising menu prices, or both.

It cites the experience of California, which last year raised its minimum wages by 25 per cent and repealed a 25-cent tip credit. Two-thirds of the restaurants sampled in a study had reduced their staff requirements by an average of 50 hours per week, or the equivalent of 36,000 restaurant jobs.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce estimates that passage of H.R. 3744 would cause nationwide employment opportunities in all industries to be reduced by 2.7 million jobs.

At a time when the United States is combatting both high inflation and unemployment rates-the latter an unacceptable 19 per cent-for teen-agers overall and 37 per cent for minority youths-H.R. 3744, says its critics,would add to both.

With the arrival of summer, also comes the family reunions. Many of you are familiar with these and I doubt that they vary much with the different families. For those of you who don't know this is one day set aside for the annual meeting of one family and it usually includes several generations. Avon and I have just returned from the "Rushing" meeting.

Often times this is the only time you get to see many of the aunts, uncles and cousins, so therefore this event is marked by much hugging and kissing. Avon and I have long ago advanced past the "my how you've grown" stage. (They wouldn't dare to be so unkind!) We are now in the "you're looking good" stage.

The Rushing reunion is also noted for the good food. We are always miserable from trying to sample all the favorite family recipes and test the new ones.

There's always the family 'joker' pulling his annual capers. And taking pictures requires much time, since it is hard to get each family all together for the annual picture.

There are always some that are missing that death has claimed the previous year and others have to work or are unable to come for various reasons. But the day proceeds, regardless of who is there or who isn't there.

Each year there are always some new in-laws. You can spot them very easy. They kinda stand back not knowing quite what to do. It usually takes a year or two for them to feel like a part of the family. There are also the new babies to proudly show off. If the new babies can't attend, you can be sure that grandmother will have a purse full of pictures.

There are a lot of stories being told..some sad, some glad, some old ones repeated and some new ones.

This event may become a dying custom, though, because so many of the younger folks have drifted away from these meetings. A few of the older ones will continue it for a while, but the pack is growing softer or smarter. We now meet in an air conditioned building with complete kitchen and bathroom facilities. And if you have ever been to East Texas, you can understand that the building is not a luxury. It's a necessity with all that humidity.

modern economics bewilder

NEW YORK (AP) -- The proportion of new corporate directors having experience in education or economics more than doubled from 1975 to 1976, according to a respected annual survey of business boards.

Analyzing the results, the "why" of economics soon becomes clear: Despite all our knowledge, erratic modern economies are just as bewildering to businessmen today as were the simple economies of yesterday.

But why education? The answer lies in another phenomenon, the rise of women in the world of business. More women are being appointed to boards and, unlike men, their most common functional background is in education.

Heirdrick and Struggles Inc., an international management consulting firm, has been conducting its study of board composition for more than a decade, and each year the changes reflect the pressures on the business community.

In its most recent study, for example, to be released later this week, government experience is also shown to be on the rise among new directors, suggistive of the rather obvious pressures being directed from Washington.

But the most significant news in this year's report, based on a study of 1,189 new directors elected during 1976, concerns the women. Some of it the women will like; some they might cite as evidence of discrimination.

Of the 612 new directors who responded to the survey, 71 were women. While the total is small the percentage is up, to 6 from 5 in 1975, and seems destined to continue to rise.

But the women are different. They differ from their male peers in title, primary employment, functional experience, education, race - and age.

While 6 of 10 male directors are corporate officers of their own or another company, and usually chairman or president, women most frequently are college or university deans, professors or presidents.

Although 90 per cent of male directors are in business, 59 per cent of the women are in academe, have government experience, or hold positions in the not-for-profit sector.

As a result, "education" is named most often as the functional background of new women directors, while finance, marketing, engineering-research and the law lead for men.

Nearly one-third of the women hold doctoral degrees, but their training isn't in business. Fewer than one in 15 has a master's degree in business administration, although one of six men does.

Perhaps because of this, perhaps because they are seen as more suited to certain roles than to others, the women don't as often get assigned to key money committees, such as executive compensation, stock options or audit committees.

Instead, they are more often assigned to social responsibility and human resources committees.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The Lukacs-Rubens book is on play only. If it were on bidding, they would find some way to get North and South to seven clubs or seven spades. Seven clubs is the best contract. It makes unless spades break 5-0 or East holds all five clubs. However, this time you are South and you find yourself in six spades.

The ordinary declarer says something like, "We just missed the big boat," ruffs the heart lead, plays a spade to his ace and finds that a 4-1 break in trumps has caused the hand to collapse.

The careful declarer knows that, since he has missed the big boat, he wants to make sure that the little boat doesn't get away.

He ruffs the first heart, leads a spade and ducks!

This wastes a trick if spades break 3-3, but it is a trick that South can well afford to waste. He has bid six. He will make six by means of this play unless it turns out that East holds all five spades in which case there was no way to make the spade slam.

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader wants to know when a trick that has been taken and turned may be inspected.

The answer is that until a player or his partner has played to the next trick, he has the right to look at the last trick. If it is his trick he turns it up, if someone else's trick he asks that person to turn it up.

Inventory Home Canning Equipment

COLLEGE STATION— It's "inventory time" for proper home canning equipment--an absolute "must" for safe, high quality home-canned foods, Mrs. Sally Coble, foods and nutrition specialist, says.

Mrs. Coble is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She recommends the following guides for proper home canning equipment:

Lids- A two piece self-seal lid is the most commonly used and reliable lid. Other new lids are appearing on the market--so follow manufacturer's instructions to make sure lids seal properly and hold the seal during handling and storage.

Water bath canner- Use any large kettle with straight sides, a tight-fitting lid and a rack to keep jars off the bottom of the kettle. Kettles should be deep enough to hold jars upright and permit the water to boil gently one to two inches over the jar tops.

The boiling water bath is recommended for canning fruits, fruit juices, tomatoes, rhubarb, and pickled vegetables.

Pressure canners are necessary for processing all meats and non-acid vegetables in order to prevent spoilage due to botulin toxin.

Man Has Fill Of Electricity

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP) --Don't ask Dennis Orban about electricity. He's had his fill.

A reserve officer with the Arapahoe County sheriff's office, Orban's problems began when he was guarding a hospitalized suspect at Swedish Medical Center.

Orban, 23, was zapped with 220 volts when he flicked on the light in the hospital room's bathroom while pushing the metal handle on the toilet. The shock knocked him out of the room, across the hall and against a wall.

After being treated, Orban got into his car to go home, but found the battery had shorted out.

Deputies called to help had a little trouble getting him to tell them about his occupation.

He's an electrical engineer.

Proper Storage Of Salad Greens

NEW YORK (AP)-A paper towel can be the secret to keeping lettuce and other salad greens crisp and fresh longer in the refrigerator, advises Sphere magazine, which gives these instructions for proper storage of salad makings:

First, discard all discolored leaves. Then, wash remaining greens thoroughly in running water, drain well and blot dry with paper towels. Store in plastic bags in the refrigerator crisper drawer. As a final step, to discourage sogginess or rust formation include a sheet of paper toweling in each storage bag to absorb moisture.

Finley Wants To Even Odds; Offers Several Suggestions

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

CHICAGO (AP)- There are three things that Charles O. Finley particularly dislikes - white baseballs, baseball commissioners and red ink.

To his mind, they are all related, contributing to the demise of the great national pastime.

"What baseball needs is leadership," the maverick owner of the Oakland A's told 160 sports editors, taking another pot shot at Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"The stupidity of most of the club owners is unbelievable."

To illustrate his point, Charlie O. brought along three plastic baseballs of garrish orange and tossed them among the luncheon guests at The Associated Press Sports Editors convention. The balls were fielded nicely.

"See," he said, "if they had been white, you would have dropped all three."

The controversial Oakland boss then proceeded to present his own private prescription to rescue the game, to wit: 1, orange baseballs for better visibility; 2, a walk on three balls instead of four; 3, pinch hitters; 4, interleague play.

"In football, it's 11 men against 11," he said, "In basketball, five against five; in hockey six against six. In baseball, it's one against nine - one man out there with a bat.

"The catcher and pitcher go into cahoots on how to stop the batter. Then they send the signals out to the guys in the field. The trouble with baseball is it is out of balance. The offense ought to be balanced with the defense."

Finley insisted that baseball must break the strangle hold of tradition and "get a shot in the arm - it ought to be where the action is."

"We can't have a notary running baseball," he added, referring to Kuhn, a lawyer. "We've got to have someone who understands the game." He said he had a half dozen in mind but wouldn't name them.

Finley is a long time adversary of the baseball establishment, a paid-up tenant in the commissioner's dog house. He has just appealed a $3.5 million suit which went against Kuhn's voiding of a sale of three 1976 players. He says he is preparing another suit, but refuses to give details.

Finley acknowledged he made a mistake in moving his franchise to Oakland from Kansas City and was convinced that the Bay Area could not support the A's as well as the San Francisco Giants.

Oilers Bump Buffs, 12-8

Mike Roemisch and William Robinson teammed at the pitcher's mound to give up just four hits as the Oilers pumped the Buffs 12-8 in Teenage League play last night.

The Oilers took the lead early on, scoring four runs in the first inning and five in the second to build a quick 9-4 lead.

Keith Bryant evolved to be the Oiler's 'big stick' of the night. The third baseman slammed a triple, a double and a single, and walked twice. Dewayne Hicks, Robinson, Keith McClain, John Wilson and David Hill all got a single apiece for the Oilers. Mike Hicks got a pair.

For the Buffs, Gary Atwood snared a triple and John Davis grabbed a double, amounting to half of their team's hits. Hitting singles were Jay Cemley and Davis. Davis was the losing pitcher. He was replaced in the second inning by Devin Donaldson.

Texans Forming In Capitol City

AUSTIN , Tex. (AP)-Sixty-three football players-about two-thirds of them wide receivers-showed up for the first tryout for the new Austin Texans.

One of them is the fastest football player in the world. Not Johnny Jones of Texas. He's got three more years with the Longhorns.

The new fastest man in pads is Jim Hines, winner of the Olympic gold medal in the 100 meters in 1968 and a holder of the world record, an automatically timed 9.95.

It looked like a convention of tribal kings, with caps and shorts and jerseys of every color, many of the jerseys bearing numerals or school names: USC, Nebraska, Hawaii.

First, they gathered around Harry Lander of San Antonio, president of the American Football Association, which is getting teams started in Houston, San Antonio, Witchita Falls, Oklahoma City and possibly other cities.

"I know you love football, and some of you would play for nothing, but you'd like to get paid, too, if you could," Lander told them Saturday morning under a broiling sun in Austin's famed Zilker Park.

The new league is having trouble getting a stadium in Austin, Lander said, but he hopes to persuade the Austin Independent School District that the Austin Texans, playing a 12-game schedule of summer night games, would not compete with the local high schools.

He said those who make the 38-man traveling squad would be paid on a percentage basis. Forty-eight per cent of the gate would go to the coaches and players, he said. Figuring a crowd of 10,000 at $3 a head, and with each player getting, say, one per cent, that's $300 a game, he said.

Sox Axe A's, 23-9

Tim Key hurled for one inning and allowed three hits as the Farm League White Sox smashed the A's 23-9 last night. The Athletics, who went through five pitchers in the brief period, allowed only five hits, but walked 18.

Sox' players Jacob Rodriquez and Hamp Long each hit a double and a single. Donnie Cook accounted for a single.

Hits for the A's included two singles for Lee Banks, and a double for Willie Steel.

In earlier play, the Farm League Indians ripped the Cards 15-5 in three periods. Eddie Collins was the winning pitcher. Mike Nelson, replaced after one-third inning by Mike Head, took the loss.

The Indians managed a number of singles, including three from Jimmy Brooks, and two each from Darren Pace, Mark Camire and Alex Lopez. Harley Vineyard hit a double.

Mike Bowlin and Ricky Lawrence hit singles for the Cards. Mike Head accounted for a double.

A's Wash Sox, 10-6

The Cards slipped past the Indians, 13-12 Monday night, and the Athletics sliced the White Sox, 10-6 in Little League action.

David Guiterrez, winning pitcher, smashed a home run, a double and two singles for the Cardinals. The only other hits listed were two singles each by Jim Simmons and David Gee, and a double by Joe Yruegas.

Singles by the Indians included two each from Chad Peterson and losing pitcher Monti Gambol, and one each from Curtis Gafford, Tracy Neves, Casey Peterson and Tommy Hunter. Gafford and Casey Peterson each had a double also.

Richard Derrick pitched his team to a 10-6 win over the Sox. Derrick and teammates William Cotton and Stacy Forbes each got a double. Hitting singles for the A's were Tim Derryberry, John Murphy (two) and Larry Rodriquez (two.

The only hits listed for the White Sox were singles for Sterling Williams, Calvin Wimmer, Greg Horstman and Robert Tovar. Tovar also hit a double. He was the losing pitcher.

Chicago is 11,339 air miles from Rio de Janeiro.

Higher Meat Prices Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Agriculture Department says consumers will pay more for beef and pork this summer than they did a year ago and the price surge probably will continue moderately next fall.

Higher meat prices have been predicted for months by USDA and other livestock experts. However, they are not predicting that meat prices will skyrocket immediately or that they will soar to record levels.

Much will depend on the weather, and how farmers and ranchers adjust their inventories of cattle, hogs and poultry. As always, grain prices and the size of the harvests will be important factors.

But cattle producers, particularly, have trimmed herds sharply to offset financial losses, and this will mean less beef, the main item in the American meat diet.

Following stable prices in the first half of the year, consumers will face higher retail meat prices during the second half, the Department's Outlook and Situation Board said Monday.

"Smaller beef supplies, improved consumer demand, and higher marketing costs will more than offset continued large pork and broiler supplies," the report said.

The supermarket price of choice-grade beef from grain-fed cattle, which is used as a standard by USDA in comparing prices, is expected to average 3 to 4 per cent higher during the summer quarter than this spring, officials said.

"Hamburger prices could advance more than those for choice beef, if slaughter of cows and forage-fed steers and heifers declines this summer as expected," a report said. "Futher moderate retail price increases for choice beef and hamburger are expected this fall."

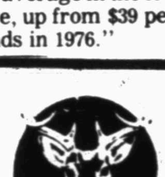

The main source of hamburger are cows and other cattle which are not "finished" for the slaughter-market in feedlots. If farmers and ranchers send fewer of those animals to market there will be less hamburger and prices will go up.

But producers have sharply boosted the supply of pork and broiler chickens the past year, meaning more competition for beef. Total meat output for 1977 is expected to be about the same as last year.

Also, 1977 beef output still will be relatively large in comparison with most previous years.

"With relatively large beef production and increased pork and broiler supplies, any price advance in the fed cattle market much above late May levels is unlikely," the report said.

"For 1977, the price of choice steers at Omaha may average in the low $40 range, up from $39 per 100 pounds in 1976."

Moms Sing the Mother's Day Blues

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR READERS: Immediately following Mother's Day, and for several weeks thereafter, I received numerous letters concerning that special day we set aside to "honor" Mother. Some excerpts:

"...As far as I'm concerned, Mother's Day is a crock of cranberries! All my kids are married and have their own lives, which is fine with me, but weeks can go by and none of them thinks to call me, but on Mother's Day they all fight over me."

CHICAGO MOM

"...I had only one child, and I regret to say that it was a boy. He is married now, so every holiday he spends with HER mother. Whoever said: 'A son is a son until he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all her life' sure said a mouthful."

MILWAUKEE MOM

"...My husband gave me a card for Mother's Day, and I told him I wasn't his mother, so we got into a fight over it. I happen to be six years older than him, but I am not old enough to be his mother. Was I wrong to get steamed?"

NOT HIS MOTHER

(I told her she was indeed wrong—that she was probably overly sensitive to the age difference, and that provoked her anger.)

"...When my only daughter sent me a check for $25 with a note telling me to buy myself something for Mother's Day, I felt so bad I cried all day. If she's too busy, or lazy, or lacking in imagination to pick out a present, I certainly don't need her charity."

HURT IN WALPOLE, N.H.

"...My son who lives in another city forgot me again on Mother's Day, but he called me the next day and fell all over himself apologizing. The damage had already been done, and my Mother's Day was ruined. This is the third year he's done that. Next year I'm taking my phone off the hook."

EVERETT, WASH.

"...What do you do with a mother who sends back the Mother's Day gifts her children give her? She says, 'I don't need anything and I don't want anything, so please take it back'!"

D. AND S.

"...I wish my children would get together and buy me ONE useful gift. Every Mother's Day I get nine gifts I have no use for."

CLEVELAND MOTHER

"...How many times should a mother have to tell her children she's allergic to flowers? For Mother's Day I got five bouquets again! I told the delivery man to leave them on the porch, then I gave them to my neighbors."

PHOENIX

"...For Mother's Day I always get a useless gift like a fancy nightgown I'll never wear, cologne I don't care for, or some little brooch or bracelet I'll never take out of the box. With prices so high these days, I wish they would give me the money instead."

PHILA. WIDOW

"...I am a retired school teacher who never married, but I've always loved children. The young boy who delivers my newspaper knows that, so on Mother's Day he left me a sack of jellybeans and a lovely Mother's Day card, on which he wrote, 'You would have made a wonderful mother.' Wasn't that dear?"

TOUCHED IN TULSA

"...So once a year my children buy me a corsage and take me out to a crowded, noisy restaurant. Big deal! Where are they when I need my lawn mowed, my leaves raked and my screens put up? Little favors during the year would mean so much to me."

ANONYMOUS MOTHER

"...Mother's Day is just another commercial gimmick. I dislike getting gifts and flowers on Mother's Day. It seems so forced to me. If my children would show a little appreciation at any other time—because they really wanted to—I would feel better about it."

WINCHESTER, VA.

"...The best present I received on Mother's Day cost only 13 cents. It was a letter from my son telling me how much I meant to him. The most expensive present bought in a store could not have matched the pleasure his letter gave me."

DORAVILLE, GA.

Mandatory Energy Plan Is Approved By Panel

WASHINGTON (AP)-An energy plan approved by a congressional panel would require homeowners to install insulation and meet federal guidelines for energy efficiency before they could sell their homes.

Despite Republican objections that the plan would constitute government intrusion on the privacy of homeowners, the House energy and power sub-committee gave its approval to the mandatory energy proposal Monday.

A spokesman for President Carter told the energy subcommittee the administration would not oppose such mandatory legislation.

Under the bill approved by the panel and sent to the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, a set of federal home heating and insulation standards would be drafted by 1980. The standards could be put into effect as early as 1982, but the government would have the discretion to delay making them mandatory as a condition of the sale of a home until 1985.

A key provision of the legislation says no home that fails to meet federal energy-saving standards could be sold if the sale involved loans or loan guarantees backed by the government or loans from any bank or savings and loan that receives federal financial assistance.

The provision would not apply to homes of people considered too poor to finance insulation, to homes to be sold for business purposes and homes that have little remaining useful value. Another standard would exclude houses where home insulation could not be justified economically.

It was estimated that as many as 10 million of some 74 million homes are sold each year.

As part of his energy proposal, President Carter asked for a voluntary approach to making American homes more energy efficient.

The President urged Congress to give homeowners incentive to voluntarily insulate their homes Carter wants legislation that would allow a homeowner to deduct part of the cost of such improvements from his taxes. That proposal is before the Ways and Means Committee.

Treasurer Owner Of $1.50 Suit

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) -- The man who looks after Iowa's $1.3 billion treasury is the owner of a $1.50 suit.

"It's Dacron -- it'll wear like iron," said state treasurer Maurice Baringer as he modeled the suit he bought last week at a garage sale. He also bought a pair of shoes for 20 cents.

"I wasn't particularly looking for anything," Baringer said. "My wife was a volunteer at the sale, and I was waiting for her to get through picking things up. She said, "Hey there's a good suit over there. See if it fits you."

Baringer said he likes "serviceable clothing that isn't too obviously out-of-style. As the No. 2 son in a family of three sons, I learned early about hand-me-downs."

Judge Requests Best 'Attire'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) -- Polk County District Court Judge Anthony Critelli says he and his fellow judges are tired of seeing bra-less females and "muscle-shirted" males in the jury box.

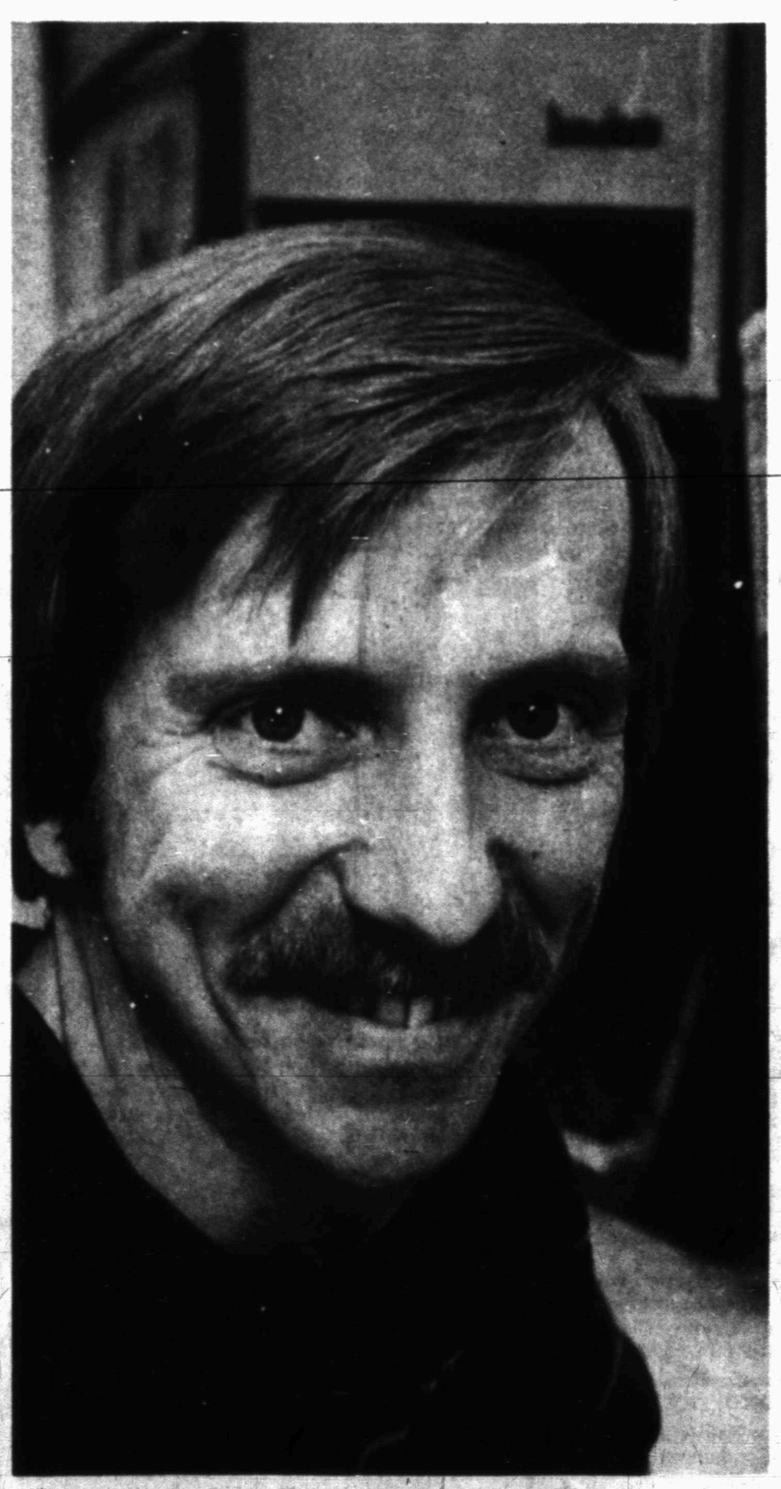

"You're not on the beach. You're not on vacation," Critelli told a jury panel of about 300 persons Monday.

"You are a court officer involved in a judicial proceeding."

Critelli said the situation, which arose last month with the arrival of warmer weather, had been discussed by the judges.

"We most certainly don't expect you to go out and purchase new clothing, or even to wear your finest," he said. "We merely request that you choose your daily attire with the thought in mind that you are an important part of the judicial proceedings."

"My electric bills are going up the same as yours. Here's one thing I'm doing about it."

"At Texas Electric, where I work, our job is to provide you with the electricity you need.

But higher construction and fuel costs are making it more expensive to do.

I can tell just by looking at my electric bill.

One thing I do at home is to keep a checklist right on my air-conditioning/heating unit. I have the months listed, and every time I clean the filter I check off that month—so I make sure I check it at least once a month. I couldn't remember it otherwise, and it's important.

A dirty filter limits the air flow through there—and that uses more electricity."

Coalition Attacks Forced Retirement

PITTSBURGH (AP)-A coalition of 10 million elderly Americans' adopting "Count Us In" as a slogan is launching an attack on mandatory retirement.

In a keynote address prepared for a combined conference of the nation's two largest groups of retired persons, forced retirement is called "wasteful, degrading, discriminatory, morally wrong and fundamentally un-American."

Harriet Miller, who serves as executive director for both American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association, said the groups' combined membership of 10 million would fight for "retirement policies flexible enough to permit people to use their abilities and experience so long as those qualities are present and the desire to work exists."

Her speech was prepared for the first day of working sessions at a three-day joint conference entitled "Count Us In," the third of six being held around the nation as part of a campaign to end age discrimination.

More than 2,000 delegates from the Northeast were expected to discuss topics such as crime prevention, Social Security, consumers' rights, respiratory disease and estate planning.

The two organizations are dedicated to helping older Americans find independence, dignity and purpose in retirement through publications and government lobbying.

Mrs. Miller has been active on a variety of federal commissions, including the 1963 White House Conferences on Education.

She was especially critical of the earnings ceiling of the Social Security System, which reduces benefits for any recipient who earns more than $3,000 a year.

Among other objectives cited by Mrs. Miller were:

-A national health insurance program.

-Housing policies which allow older people to remain in their own homes whenever possible.

-Cost-conscious government that recognizes inflation as "the greatest single menace to the security and happiness of the retired American."

-Property tax reform that "stops older people from being forced out of their homes by skyrocketing taxes."

-"And a more positive, realistic image of aging in society."

Rescuer Is Electrocuted

AUSTIN (AP) -- George Foster, a 25-year-old plumber, was electrocuted Sunday when he jumped into Lake Travis to save his dog.

Unknown to Foster, a live electrical wire dangled into the water from the houseboat he occupied, sheriff's deputies said.

Foster tossed a rubber ball into the lake for the dog to fetch, according to his companion, Donna Ray Patterson. When the dog sank, both dived in.

The woman later said she saw a white flash in her eyes as she went in head first. It knocked her unconscious momentarily, but she came to lying on the shallow bottom and pushed up to the surface, where she saw Foster floating face down. He had burns from his ankles to his knees, deputies said.

Bullock Certifies Funds

AUSTIN (AP)- Comptroller Bob Bullock announced Monday he has certified to Gov. Dolph Briscoe that there are sufficent funds available for the legislature's general appropriations bill and all other bills that make direct appropriations.

By law, the comptroller must make this certification before the governor may sign appropriations bills.

This year, there never was a question that the certification would be forth-coming because the legislature failed to pass a public school finance bill.

Briscoe has said he will call a special session to pass a school bill, for which an estimated $900,000 is available.

After Briscoe exercises his power of veto, if he chooses to use it on some of the appropriations measures, Bullock will make an estimate on money available for the special session.

3 Thefts, Burglary Reported

The reports of three thefts and a burglary of a coin-operated machine were investigated Monday by Snyder policemen.

A fondness for dogs may have prompted someone to take a three-foot tall wooden statue of a dog from the front porch of the 2712 46th St. home of Lorene Garrett. The canine statue is valued at approximately $240, Ms. Garrett told police. The theft is believed to have occurred during the weekend.

Officers also reported questioning a juvenile and recovering most of the money and candy taken in a burglary of a candy-dispensing machine at the Speed Queen Laundry. Opal Eades, owner of the laundry, told officers that $3 worth of candy and $1 in coins had been taken from the machine Sunday night.

Ollie Chapman reported a luggage rack had been taken from a stationwagon belonging to his son that was parked at 101 Hickory. The theft, Chapman told officers, occurred Sunday. Value of the luggage rack was set at $40.

Soledad Villa told police someone had taken about $40 from her 2013 College Ave. home. Ms. Villa told officers the money was taken from her billfold. She reported finding the billfold, without the money behind a mirror in her bedroom.

Consumer Agency Bill Is Headed For Defeat

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A bill that would establish a federal agency to look out for the rights of consumers is in trouble. One of its House sponsors says it would be defeated if voted on today.

When introduced early in the session, the bill appeared to be headed for easy passage, partly because it was being supported for the first time by the White House.

But heavy lobbying by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and other business organizations has swayed congressmen away from the consumer legislation, which would create a new agency that would represent the public in hearings before other federal agencies.

Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., a sponsor of the bill, said in an interview Monday: "As of this moment, we are probably 20 to 25 votes down in the House."

Rosenthal estimated that the opponents of the new consumer agency have spent around a half-million dollars in their lobbying campaign.

"I think we underestimated the power of the opposition. I must say that they have done a very good job," he said.

Rosenthal, chairman of a consumer subcommittee and a long-time supporter of the plan to create an agency dedicated to representing the public, said "I'm still optimistic. I think passage is likely, but it is not going to be easy. We have to do some missionary work in the House," he said.

Sponsors of the bill argue that consumers need to be represented before federal agencies and that business representatives dominate such proceedings with their lawyers and lobbyists. Consumer opinions do not get through to the agencies, sponsors say.

Opponents say the agency would only add another layer of bureaucracy that would increase the cost of doing business.

The House has passed bills three times to set up a consumer agency and the Senate has done so twice. But the bills never became law, primarily due to opposition from the administrations of Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford.

Other opponents of the bill include the National Association of Manufacturers, Grocery Manufacturers of America and the Business Roundtable.

Rural Home Burglarized

Deputy sheriffs this morning reported a house burglary at the rural home of James May.

Taken in the haul, May told deputies, were four rifles, one shotgun, a box containing foreign currency, and a mounted display set of longhorns. One of the guns taken, according to reports, was a World War I vintage rifle not in working order.

The burglary is believed to have occurred over the weekend. The incident was reported to the sheriff's office Monday.

May's home is about four miles northwest of Hermleigh.

Bilandic Favorite

CHICAGO (AP)- Acting Mayor Michael A. Bilandic, backed by the Democratic machine, was the overwhelming favorite over Republican Dennis Block as Chicago voters elected a successor to the late Richard J. Daley.

Political leaders forecast a record low turnout following a dull campaign pushed into the background in its final days by burning, looting and gunfire in the Puerto Rican community.

Two men were killed during the weekend violence in the Humboldt Park area. At least 133 persons, including 57 policemen, were hurt and 154 persons were arrested.

Bilandic, 54, a former alderman and Daley family friend, put up only a show of campaigning over the last few weeks. On Monday he met with Puerto Rican leaders to seek an end to tension in their neighborhood of Humboldt Park about three miles northwest of the Loop.

Block, 29, backed by Gov. James R. Thompson, said only a huge turnout would enable him to 'score the "upset of the century" and defeat the machine.

ASTRO-GRAPH
Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

June 8, 1977

A surprisingly large number of opportunities may fall into your lap this year. Be wise. Treat each as if it's the only one you have. To find out more of what lies ahead for you send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be apprehensive of any conclusions you reach today. Your logic and intuition are very fallible. Mistakes could be major ones.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In financial projections today, you are more hopeful than realistic. Additionally, you tend to be extravagant and wasteful of what you've accumulated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may bank too heavily on good friends and good fortune to get you over the tight spots today. Unfortunately, neither can be depended upon.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to kid yourself or others today. See things as they are, without embellishments, not as you'd like them to be.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your speculative urges could have you chasing rainbows today. Gambles or risky ventures will lead you only to a worthless pot of fool's gold.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be frank and honest in your dealings today. But also be doubly sure those you're negotiating with are equally sincere.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Big ideas and high-sounding phrases are yours in abundance today. However, you lack the follow-through to make them into reality.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your high-rolling tendencies will bring you very little for your money today. Above all, don't jeopardize resources you're managing for another.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Promises are not assets unless they're fulfilled. Your gullible nature today may erroneously lead you to think someone's word is like money in the bank.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't butter up someone with the notion that they'll do a favor for you. You'll be fooling only yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Trying to impress others by spending lavishly when you can't afford it is a no-no today. It's more important to be solvent than sorry.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's tough to get your goals in focus today. This is complicated by unreasonable concern for what others think is best for you.

FOX'S FORTUNES ROCKETING

"Star Wars" Breaks All Theater Records

By MIKE GOODKIND
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)- The good men wear white, the bad guys wear black and there's no sex, character development or social criticism. But "Star Wars" has managed to break theater records all over the country, and to send 20th Century Fox's fortunes rocketing.

By Monday, 12 days after its premiere, the George Lucan science fiction epic that took $9 million to make had grossed $5.2 million in 45 theaters.

The biggest moneymaking movie of all time was "Jaws," which took in $192 million. "Jaws" grossed $21 million in its first 10 days, but that was in 409 theaters.

The day before "Star Wars" opened, Fox stock was selling for $11.75 per share. When trading closed Monday, it was at $21.

"We can't see any other reason than 'Star Wars' for the way the stock has taken off," said Phillip Myers, Fox's director of corporate affairs.

The country apparently was ready for an escapist movie.

Among the good guys in the flick are two robots, See-Three-pio C3PO and Artoo-Detoo R2D2, and a hairy creature named Chewbecca, who co-pilots a space cruiser.

The human hero's name is Luke Skywalker. He's played by Mark Hamill. Skywalker finds that he stands between the villainous Galactic Empire and the destruction of freedom in the galaxy. With the help of a laser-like sword called a "light saber," he comes to the rescue.

The special effects for all this have won critical raves.

Theatergoers are "seeing something they can't possibly live as a normal human being," said Ashley Boone, marketing vice president for Fox, who is looking longingly to the end of the month when "Star Wars" goes into hundreds more theaters.

Albert Szabo, the 58-year-old manager of the Avco Cinema Center in Los Angeles, said, "I have never seen anything like this in 30 years in the business. They are filling the theater for every single performance. This isn't a snowball, it's an avalanche."

The reason, he said, is obvious.

"During the last number of years we have had a whole lot of message of some kind," he said. "The message pictures imply subtle re-education. But the public doesn't want to be re-educated. It wants sheer entertainment.

"People need heroes, he added. "They are tired of rooting for murderers and criminals."

Entertainer Begins Serving Prison Term

SAN ANTONIO (AP) -- Entertainer Chad Mitchell has begun serving a five-year prison sentence for possession of marijuana with intent to distribute it.

The creator of the Chad Mitchell Trio surrendered to federal marshals here Monday. He was placed in the Bexar County jail pending transfer to a federal prison.

He was arrested in 1973 when federal drug agents found 400 pounds of marijuana in his pickup truck parked at a San Antonio motel.

Mitchell, 38, was convicted by U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears after a non-jury trial.

He has been free since his conviction pending unsuccessful appeals of the verdict.

Mitchell's lawyers filed a motion Monday contending the sentence is illegal because Judge Spears considered marijuana a narcotic. Medical authorities no longer consider the weed a narcotic, the motion said.

Water Tower Eyed For Cafe

BAXTER SPRINGS, Kan.(AP)-This southeast Kansas community was faced with the possibility of having to tear down its 125-foot water tower because no one would take it, even as a gift.

But now architect Migdonio Seidler of Pittsburg and contractor Elmo Burrows of Baxter Springs have offered to buy it for $2,000, to turn it into a high-rise restaurant.

Patrons would ride an elevator to a glass-enclosed balcony built around the outside of the tank, providing seating for 200.

Start exercise by walking

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB -- I am 61 years old, 5 feet 3 and I weigh 170 pounds. I would so like to lose some weight, especially around my hips and stomach. I had a complete hysterectomy six weeks ago and I am afraid to do exercises. Could you help me on this problem?

I have become very depressed and discouraged. I have high blood pressure and my nerves are about gone.

DEAR READER -- It is wise not to do exercises that involve an area where surgery has been done until your doctor tells you it is O.K. for you. That means you will need to wait on doing sit ups and leg lifts. But if you feel fairly good you could start a walking program.

Start by walking 15 minutes a day and gradually increase it until you can walk an hour every day. If you have time you may be able to walk even more. The more you can build up your walking program and keep it up the easier it will be for you to lose weight.

There is no such thing as spot reducing, despite all the money that is spent on this. If you lose fat you lose it because you are using more calories than you are taking in. Just doing sit ups or leg lifts will not decrease your weight around your hips and stomach unless you are losing fat all over. Such exercises sometimes help tighten up sagging muscles but that is about all.

I am sending you my weight losing diet that you can follow in The Health Letter number 4-7. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. The diet is a balanced 1200 calorie program that works best with doing some regular exercise too.

DEAR DR. LAMB -- I am a man of 69 and have a problem. The ring of muscles around my anus pop out after relieving myself and stay out. In order to be comfortable I have to push them back in several times a day.

My doctor tells me those are tired muscles and recommends surgery. There are so many drugs and other things to cure many ailments I would think some doctor or drug manufacturer would have found a salve or ointment which would make these muscles go back to normal.

Please advise me if there is such a salve or ointment so I would not have to have surgery.

DEAR READER -- You are describing prolapse of the rectum. We all have layers of muscles attached to the large pelvic bones to hold in the abdominal contents. The pelvis is really like a basket with the upper part being the crest of the hip bones, and the bottom being the pubic arch in front and the bony structures you sit on. The bottom from the pubic arch to the areas you sit on are laced with muscles. These go around the rectum and genitalia and also support them.

These muscles are also connected to the muscles directly surrounding the rectum. When these muscles get weak a prolapse can occur.

There is no medicine for this as it is a mechanical problem. Your doctor is right, the only way the condition can be corrected is by surgery.

Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

HELPING A CLIENT – Vera Harless, right, secretary for Roy McCloskey, the local State Farm Insurance agent, is shown helping Doris Mahurin, a State Farm policy holder. The local office for State Farm Insurance is located at 3904 College Ave.

State Farm Agent Offers Some Reminders For Vacation Season

Roy J. McCloskey, local agent for State Farm Insurance Companies, would like to remind everyone that since it is vacation time and many people will be gone from their homes for a few days to a few weeks during the summer that there are a few essential things that should be considered before leaving.

First of all, any deliveries made to the home, such as milk, newspapers or mail should either be stopped or have special arrangements made. Then, it would be a good idea to have a nearby neighbor to check your home periodically. Vacationers should also inform the police department when they expect to leave and return.

Make arrangements to have the lawn mowed and the yard maintained so that the house does not give the appearance of being vacant.

Just prior to leaving, check the residence to see that no unnecessary appliances have been left on. Some people think it is also an excellent idea to disconnect all TV sets, radios, and electric clocks if they are going to be gone for more than a few days.

Another suggestion for those who might not have done it, is to prepare an inventory or listing of all the items in their home. This may serve several purposes. First of all, you may find that you may not have enough insurance coverage on personal belongings in the event of a total loss. Also, should you be unfortunate enough to sustain a total loss, your insurance carrier will need a listing of the items lost along with an approximate value. If you should suffer a total loss and not be adequately insured, this inventory will possibly assist you in claiming a tax credit with the Internal Revenue Service.

Along with the inventory, many people will take pictures of the various items in their homes. Those who have valuable antiques, paintings, fine arts and jewelry should consider listing them in their policy. To do so will cost a few dollars extra, but it will be well worth it if they should happen to have a loss on just a single item or so.

Although most people have good medical insurance and life insurance, those who desire it can purchase trip insurance for only a few dollars that will add thousands of dollars to their life insurance protection and hundreds of dollars to their medical benefits along with additional coverage for their luggage.

McCloskey advises that if you do not have an appropriate inventory form for your household goods to come by his office at 3904 College Ave. and he will provide these forms to anyone, free of charge. In addition to that, he will also provide you with a 1977 edition of the Rand McNally Road Atlas so that you can better plan your trip.
