Russia Enters Levant Tangle And Urges Speedy Settlement

Note Sent To Big 5 Group

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 1—Russia entered the Levantine controversy tonight with a statement that the Soviet government "considers that speedy measures to stop the military operations in Syria and Lebanon must be taken, and the conflict which has arisen must be settled in a peaceful manner."

The Moscow radio said a note was addressed to France, Great Britain, the United States and China outlining the Soviet views.

This development came as a "cease fire" order by the French commanders brought at least a temporary truce to troubled Syria. The United States has agreed to act as mediator in the dispute, which has already cost at least 400 lives in Damascus alone and has threatened to plunge the Arab world into revolt.

Peace Plans Cited

"Events in Syria and Lebanon do not correspond to the spirit of the decisions adopted at Dumbarton Oaks, or to the aims of the United Nations conference taking place in San Francisco, for the creation of an organization to insure peace and security," Moscow said.

The broadcast, as recorded by the Soviet monitor, asserted the Soviet government "has addressed this suggestion to the French provisional government, and has also addressed it to the governments of Great Britain, the United States of America and China, to whom belongs the initiative in the creation of a postwar organization for peace and international security."

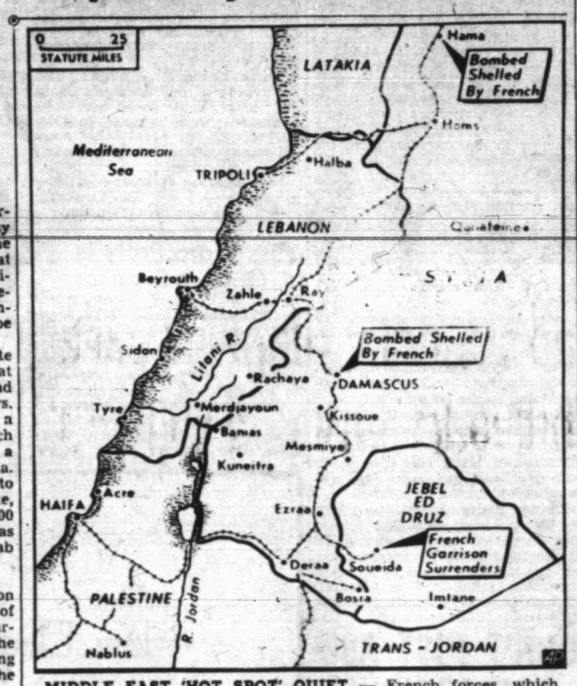

In referring to the nations to which it said belongs the initiative in creation of a postwar peace organization the Soviet note, as recorded in London, failed to mention Russia.

British Maintain Order

All was reported quiet in Syria after days of fighting. British forces formally assumed responsibility for the maintenance of order, and French commanders agreed to take orders from the British commander in the Middle East, Gen. Sir Bernard C. Paget.

A British foreign office spokesman emphasized that the original intervention of Britain and the United States in the dispute was aimed at protecting a vital Allied supply line for the war against Japan and in guaranteeing the in-

MIDDLE EAST 'HOT SPOT' QUIET — French forces, which for several days have shelled and bombed Damascus and Hama in Syria, ceased firing Friday under British and American pressure and the area was quiet at least temporarily. French troops, however, have been ordered by Gen. de Gaulle to hold their positions, not returning to barracks as the British ultimatum set out.

Argentina Reported Opening Heavy Freedom Suppression

By ROMAN JIMENEZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, June 1.—Argentina has reestablished press censorship, arrested numerous prominent citizens, closed several newspapers and detained or expelled several well known journalists.

A stream of expelled persons and political fugitives from the Argentine government is reaching this city. They are the source of much of this information.

Since Argentina declared war on Germany and Japan, scores of former political prisoners have taken refuge here after exercising their option to leave Argentina.

Spend Months In Jail

Among them are persons who spent months and even more than a year in jail or concentration camps.

Yesterday I met a Czechoslovak who had been released from Villa Devoto jail after more than a year's imprisonment. He said he had been arrested with many other Europeans and Argentines on the ground he was working for the United Nations.

Persons opposing the Argentine regime estimate Argentine jails still hold nearly 3,000 political prisoners, of whom, they say, only 10 per cent were Axis sympathizers.

The number of prisoners was swollen recently by a series of arrests resulting from an Argentine government announcement that a subversive terroristic plot had been uncovered.

Court Head Ousted

Exile sources here say that most of those charged with implication in the plot were found not guilty by a military court. They said this explained why the chairman of the court, Gen. Nicolas Accame was sent out of the country as ambassador to Brazil.

Informants here are skeptical regarding the announced willingness of Gen. Edelmiro Farrell's regime to hold a general Argentine election. They say that such elections, if ever held, would be carefully engineered.

Through its declaration of war, the Argentine government became armed with a set of decrees purportedly assuring secrecy of the national defense, but which in fact may be used to suppress any criticism.

Sources here told of the continuous arrests of newspapermen and of the violent methods employed by Argentine police in curbing pro-Allied demonstrations when Berlin fell and on V-E day.

Tono Salazar, the expelled Salvadorean cartoonist, said he was told that a free press existed in Argentina but was given a choice of leaving the country or ceasing to draw cartoons "unsympathetic" to the government.

Opposition circles both here and in Buenos Aires reportedly are satisfied that all this has been brought to the attention of the United States government.

OPA Orders New Meat Program

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP) — The OPA tonight announced a new program designed to spread the limited meat supply more evenly through the country.

Effective June 17, OPA requires all slaughterers to resume the same pattern of distribution they followed in the first three months of 1944.

This means that in cases where packers have diverted their supplies to some other area, they must revamp their distribution.

The plan takes into consideration that packers do not have as much meat to distribute now as they did early in 1944. It requires, however, that each area receive virtually the same proportionate share as before.

Mostly On County Basis

In most cases the area units will be set up on a county basis.

"The fair distribution plan," said Price Administrator Chester Bowles, "will in no way assure each city, town or county that it will be able to get as much meat as it got in 1944. The total supply available for both the armed forces and civilians just won't stretch that far.

"The re-adjustment of distribution should, however, take us a long way toward the goal of fair and even distribution of the supply that we do have."

Bowles said that much of the current faulty distribution of meat has come about "because slaught-

Anti-Red Activity In Berlin Hinted

LONDON, June 1. (AP)—Anti-Russian activity in the Berlin area was indicated tonight in a broadcast by the Berlin radio.

The Soviet-appointed lord mayor of Berlin, Arthur Werner, warned the population that 50 former members of the Nazi party would be shot in reprisal for every attempt against the life of a Red army soldier or Soviet official. The same penalty will be applied for every case of arson committed for political purposes.

Truman Sees No Delay In Big 3 Meet

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Truman said flatly today that neither the crisis in Syria and Lebanon nor possible delays at the San Francisco world organization conference would interfere with an early meeting of the Big Three.

He made it clear that Britain's virtual ultimatum to Gen. Charles de Gaulle and her move to halt French-Syrian clashes had his unqualified support.

The President said his meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin definitely will take place in the not far distant future but that a broadening of the conference to include China and France is not under discussion.

Meeting In U. S. Possible

He smilingly told his weekly news conference that a meeting in this country is a possibility although it is not very probable.

The development sparked a fast question-and-answer meeting with the press and radio in which he maintained his record as a source of "hot copy" by disclosing that:

1. He is backing Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to the fullest in efforts to ferret out "shocking" cases of tax evasion by directing the civil service to round up 1,000 new agents, preferably from among discharged veterans.

2. He has persuaded Judge Samuel Rosenman of New York to remain until after V-J day as his special counsel.

Release Of Prisoners

3. He is doing everything within his power to speed the release of American war prisoners of the Japanese and to expedite movement of relief supplies and mail to the men.

4. He is in favor of the principles of the Wagner-Dingell expanded social security bill and will confer with congressional leaders Monday on his own emergency proposal to use federal funds to raise unemployment compensation for displaced war workers to $25 weekly for men with dependents until a long range program can be perfected.

5. He has some definite ideas of his own on postwar universal military training which do not coincide fully with those of either the Army or the Navy or members of House and Senate Military committees. He prefers to withhold details until a definite policy can be worked out.

Gillette Resignation

The President verified Guy M. Gillette's announcement of his resignation as chairman of the Surplus Property board, asserting the former Iowa senator wants it effective not later than July 15.

He would be interested in a tripartite meeting to discuss the Syrian question but he hasn't been advised of any official plans for such a conference.

The French-Syrian dispute will not affect his meeting with De Gaulle, he said, but no definite date has been set for what he called De Gaulle's conference.

Despite some reports from San Francisco that the postwar security meeting may run on for some weeks the President said he is looking for it to end within ten days.

No, he hasn't received any personal reports from Harry Hopkins, his special emissary to Moscow, or from Joseph E. Davies who made a mission to London, but he expects them back within about ten days.

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—The War Production board today removed all limits on the importation of wool from India.

In the future, the agency said, all applications to import India wool will be given consideration. Previously, only carpet manufacturers and sales yarn spinners who used wool during 1941 were allowed to import the material from India.

Authorization of additional applications will enable shippers to use space that may become available from time to time, WPB said.

B-29s Add To Jap Wreckage

(By The Associated Press)

GUAM, Saturday, June 2.—Fire-raiding American Superfortresses, "melting the clouds in flames," brought their total area of destruction in Japan's great war centers to more than 86 square miles with Friday's daylight attack on Osaka.

The Osaka mission—the second mass fire raid against Nippon's second largest city in three months—followed similar heavy blows against Tokyo and Yokohama within a week.

More than 450 of the mighty B-29s from Marianas bases, shielded by 150 Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima, scattered some 3,200 tons of incendiary bombs on Osaka's congested industrial area.

Ten Bombers Missing

At Washington, headquarters of the 20th Air force said excellent results were reported by the crews participating in the Osaka raid. The attack was both visual and by instrument, a communique said.

Enemy fighter opposition was reported "unaggressive," but there was heavy antiaircraft fire. Ten of the American planes were said to be missing.

As the fires still burned, the 21st Bomber command announced here that 6.9 square miles of Yokohama were destroyed in Tuesday's daylight attack on that Tokyo bay port city.

This, with the ruins added to Tokyo's fire-blackened area by two pre-dawn raids last week, brought the B-29s score to 86 square miles of ruined city districts in Japan.

Osaka Not Included

The 21st Bomber command, in announcing the figure, made clear it did not include the area burned in the Osaka raid yesterday.

In describing the conflagration, 2nd Lt. E. H. Burton, jr., of Champaign, Ill., gave the vivid descriptive phase about the fires "melting" in the clouds. He told how the overcast dissolved into a light haze over Osaka as he made his target run.

Returning B-29 crews reported that Japanese interceptor planes, doubly cautious because of the American Mustangs, showed little willingness to close for battle. Anti-aircraft fire was reported fairly heavy.

A Japanese communique claimed 47 of the Superfortresses were destroyed. No American announcement of losses had been made.

The two-hour raid started at 8:35 a.m. yesterday (6:35 p.m. Thursday, U. S. central war time).

Japanese radio broadcasts admitted that huge fires burned throughout the northwest section of Osaka and in nearby Amagaseki but asserted that within a few hours they were "gradually being brought under control."

The target area was the congested industrial district south of the Shin Yodo river, which includes a big metal and aircraft propellor plant, a wide variety of factories, textile mills, power stations, railroad yards and harbor facilities.

In the first heavy fire raid on Osaka, March 14, 8.1 square miles of factories were wiped out.

More Nazi Killers Captured By British

WITH THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY, June 1. (AP)—Col. Gen. Kurt Daluege, SS police chief of Bohemia-Moravia who ordered the razing of Lidice, has been caught by the British.

Daluege was in the list of high ranking Nazis whose capture was disclosed tonight.

The others included SS Generals Hans Juttner, Heinrich Himmler's deputy chief of the home army; Lorenz, plenipotentiary for Nazi party foreign affairs; Von Herff, head of the Elite Guard's personnel department.

Also captured were Police Fuehrer von Woyrsch of Saxony; Health Leader Contini; Reichsminister Otto Meissner, one of Hitler's executive secretaries; Gauleiter Telschow of Hannover; Gestapo Chief Kiesell of Bremen; Gauleiter Hildebrandt of Mecklenburg; and Gauleiter Lohse of Schleswig Holstein.

CONQUEST OF OKINAWA NEAR—With capture of Shuri by U. S. 10th Army units, American forces were driving rapidly for a cleanup of Okinawa against diminishing Jap resistance on southern end of the island, and complete conquest of the strategic island appears near.

Yanks Report Rapid Strides

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Saturday, June 2 — Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr.'s 10th U. S. Army troops completed capture yesterday of the fortress city of Shuri, battered keystone of Nippon's smashed southern Okinawa defense line, and drove southward against diminishing resistance.

The central areas of the American lines, which had bulged badly northward as four divisions virtually encircled Shuri while the Japanese held tight in that citadel, were straightened and shortened by the day's gains, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported in today's communique.

Penetrations On Flanks

Strong elements on both flanks made new penetrations toward the south into enemy-held ground. Progress was so great that Nimitz reported "mopping up operations were in progress in newly captured areas behind the lines."

Several hours earlier, Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of the 24th Army corps, told Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopking that only weather now could stop the Yanks. He said that to all outward appearances, organized Japanese resistance on Okinawa was on the verge of collapse.

Detailing the ground action, which was supported strongly by Marine aircraft and heavy naval guns, Nimitz reported:

The 6th Marine division moved forward to occupy about 1,000 yards of the north bank of the Kokuba river. It met considerable resistance from Japanese in the vicinity of Kokuba village, but forward elements crossed the river and penetrated southward.

Hill Positions Captured

The First Marine division captured Shichina hill masses after an advance of about 2,000 yards, which gave them positions overlooking the Naha-Honabaru highway crossing the island from east to west.

In the central sectors, the 24th Army corps reorganized its infantry forces and mopped up remnants of the Shuri fortress garrison.

Launching a powerful attack on the east, the 7th Infantry division advanced 400 to 1,000 yards to capture positions in the southern Ozato Mura hills, meeting the most stubborn resistance of the day.

Vast Array Of Power Being Assembled For Jap Knockout

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 1.—America is forging in the Pacific right now an air-ground team even stronger than the one that ruined Germany, President Truman declared today.

He said it will wreck the Japanese military forces, it will destroy Japanese cities and there is only one escape—surrender.

This chill prospect was held out by the President in a special 8,000 world message to Congress.

The communication was in the nature of "where do we go from here" report.

It called for:

1—A powerful surge of war production to smash home the Pacific punch.

2—A public awareness of the ferocity of the Pacific war, now that Japan's home areas have been breached.

The President said that the U. S. alone, exclusive of Allied help, proposed to hurl against the Japanese more than the 3,500,000 air-ground men who crushed the wehrmacht, knocked the luftwaffe out of existence and laid Germany waste.

Others Stand Ready

That is only the force to be sent actually to the theater, with nearly an equal number backing it up at home and elsewhere.

He called the continued resistance of the Japanese a hopeless, fanatical venture. It is based, the President said, on the Japanese idea that perhaps the Americans will grow tired and want peace more than complete victory.

"They should know better," Mr. Truman declared succinctly.

"They should realize that this nation, now at the peak of its military strength, will not relax. . . . We have the men, the materiel, the skill, the leadership, the fortitude to achieve total victory."

Surrender Can Stop Ruin

Again the President said that "we have no desire to destroy or enslave the Japanese people."

"But only surrender can prevent the kind of ruin which they have seen come to Germany as a result of continued, useless resistance," he said.

The Japanese suicide attacks, however, are making themselves felt, the President acknowledged. Ship yards are badly in need of civilian laborers to repair the ship damages which are mounting.

"The fleet suffers daily damage," Mr. Truman said. "To tell the number would give information to the enemy but the number is substantial."

Air Forces Take Great Ship Toll

MANILA, Saturday, June 2. (AP)—Allied Air forces of the Southwest Pacific sank or severely damaged 2,117,482 tons of Japanese shipping Jan. 1 through May 31, in their south seas blockade of the enemy's communications.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the figure in today's communique.

The fliers, operating under Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the Far Eastern Air force, also destroyed 1,220 Japanese planes.

Ground Support

They dropped more than 70,000 tons of bombs in support of ground operations, primarily in the Philippines.

Aground, elements of the 37th Infantry division entered the head of the Cagayan valley on Luzon and advanced three miles north from Santa Fe against scattered opposition.

MacArthur said this push opened the Villa Verde trail, southwest approach to the valley, to traffic.

Bitter fighting, over a period of weeks, and "outstanding feats by our engineers" made possible capture of Santa Fe and opening of the Villa Verde trail to the valley, MacArthur said.

Supported by strafing and bombing, Yanks in central Luzon continued their reduction of hard-pressed enemy units in the hills.

On Mindanao, four infantry divisions, coordinating their attacks with dive bombing assaults, continued to compress Japanese troops into hills in the interior of Bukidnon province and into another pocket northwest of Davao city.

Reds Said Liquidating German 'Upper Crust'

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—A U. S. senator, back from Europe, asserted today reports are current that the Russians are "liquidating" the upper crust of Germany's professional life to communize the beaten nation.

Senator Brewster (R-Me), who toured Anglo-American occupied areas of Europe with the Mead committee, told a reporter he heard the story from "competent" authority in both London and Paris.

He said the authority was so high that he, personally, was not inclined to doubt it.

The story was, Brewster said, that the Soviet officials are "doing away" with German lawyers, business men and other "professionals" while "encouraging the proletariat."

He said they have not disturbed the doctors and dentists.

Liquidation Of Agencies Starts

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—Seventeen home front war agencies were started on the road to abolition today by the House Appropriations committee.

Sending to the floor a sharply-cut supply bill for the fiscal year starting July 1, the committee commented that the measure "marks the beginning of the end of these agencies." The report called for easing and removal of domestic controls as soon as possible.

Some Cuts Are Heavy

The committee made cuts averaging about 12 per cent and ranging up to 40 per cent, in budget estimates for the agencies. Their original budgets already had been trimmed just a month ago by direction of President Truman. The committee cuts were in addition to those which the President had recommended.

For the first time in several years, the committee refrained from singling out any of the agencies for sharp criticism, although it was mildly critical of some operations. The Office of War Information, generally a target for committee fire, escaped criticism although it took a $7,000,000 cut in the $42,000,000 budget estimate of the President.

A $325,000 fund for operation of state Marine schools was the only item in the whole bill that was not touched.

Three Not Involved

However, the committee withheld all funds for the Office of Price administration, the Foreign Economic administration and the Fair Employment Practices com-

Yanks Pay Touching Tribute To War Dead

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

MARGRATEN, Holland — Ten thousand American doughboys today were given the dignified farewell that didn't come — that never comes — with death in battle.

Kenneth Dixon

It was a short, sincere Memorial day tribute, a salute from 21 guns and from 16 generals.

Most of us who attended didn't want to come, partially because it meant a 400-mile trip back to the U. S. Ninth Army's main cemetery, but mostly because such ceremonies invariably present a false picture, no matter how sincere the intent behind them may be.

Forty acres of dead in neat individual graves. Row after row of clean, shining white crosses. Flowers brought by grateful, hard-working, volunteer Hollanders decorate every grave. Green sod and a hedge and thousands upon thousands of soldiers and civilians line the cemetery's edge.

And down at the end, gleaming in the intermittent sunlight, the American flag floats gently at halfmast.

And the clean white helmets of the Army bandsmen sparkle and the bugler stands erect, sharp sobbing notes of "taps" cut through the thick silence of thousands who stand rigidly, swallowing in spite of themselves.

All that you see on Memorial day. You think of it as representative of all those who died in battle—you associate its decency, its dignity, its clean, quick surge of patriotic fervor with all death in combat. And such ceremonies inevitably leave you with a false mental picture.

For death in combat has no dignity. It has no decency. It has no flag, no bugle, no surge of patriotism. It has no sureness of purpose, no concrete convictions, not even any cleanliness.

We knew how those men died. We saw some of them die, and mostly it was only a dull painful process of life departing a body that once was whole.

And then those broken bodies —once strong and alert assets toward eventual victory—lost even that value and became only useless liabilities.

Stacked like a cord row they sometimes were, because the living were still fighting and the dead would have to wait. Then finally they were trucked back from the battle line, back from the enemy land to be laid on friendly soil.

That's the way it was, and knowing that, few men wanted to come today. But they did anyway, and most of them were glad.

Because the ceremony was simple, honest and sincere. It was devoid of bunk, it had no fancy speeches. It was more a neighbor's goodbye and a thank you than a soldier's salute.

"In happier days they were our

DEAR:

In the first major changes among administrative deanships since Texas Technological college opened its doors in 1925, retirement of three deans, all members of the original faculty, and their appointment as deans emeritus was announced Monday following a meeting of the college board of directors.

The deans are: Dr. James M. Gordon, retiring as dean of the division of arts and sciences, to be succeeded by Dr. R. C. Goodwin; Mrs. Mary W. Doak, retiring as dean of women, to be succeeded by Mrs. George Langford; and A. H. Leidigh, retiring as dean of the division of agriculture, to be succeeded by W. L. Stangel.

The retiring deans will remain on the faculty as professors; Dr. Gordon teaching philosophy and education; Mrs. Doak, English and Mr. Leidigh, agronomy.

In addition to the major changes, appointment of Dr. W. C. Holden as dean of the graduate division was announced.

One other major item, the matter of proposed new buildings was discussed at length with the college architect, Wyatt C. Hedrick of Fort Worth. He presented tentative drawings and plans for two new buildings, a home economics building and combination gymnasium-auditorium. Request for the buildings will more than likely be submitted in the next biennial budget of the college, it was said.

At a meeting of the Lubbock Independent school district Board of Trustees Tuesday night, the "green light" was given a projected building program estimated to total $1,250,000. The program calls for two ward school buildings, remodeling of the north wing of Junior High school, erection of two Junior High schools and arrangements for cafeterias in Senior High school and all ward schools in the system.

R. W. Matthews in giving a statistical report for the school year, said the enrollment last year was 8,802, which set an all-time high.

A touching tribute was paid to Dean Gordon Wednesday noon by the Lubbock Rotary club, an organization in which he has been active for more than two decades.

An Army veteran, discharged on the point system, W. B. Griffin, is to be assistant Lubbock county agent, effective today. He will succeed Manuel Ayers, who is being transferred to Tahoka as agent of Lynn county.

A. J. Hartson of Odessa is to succeed C. D. McClain as supervisor of the Lubbock district of the Texas Liquor Control board. McClain will assume Hartson's old post as supervisor of the Odessa district.

1st Lt. Joe Bob Foster has wired his mother, Mrs. Bonnie Norwood, that he is in France at present and expects to be home before long. He had been a prisoner at Stalag Luft I, Barth, Germany since Aug. 29, 1944.

Lt. Lloyd G. Crabtree, husband of the former Margaret Cooper, has been liberated from Stalag Luft I, German prisoner of war camp.

Pfc. Travis Canon, 21-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Canon, is here on sick leave. He received an eye injury in the early fighting on Iwo Jima. He will report to the National Navy hospital at Bethesda, Md., after about a month here.

Pete W. Cawthon, former Tech football coach, has been named on the staff of coaches who will work in the sports program planned by the War department for men overseas. Cawthon is coach of the Detroit Lions.

1st Lt. Joseph E. Trojan cabled his wife, the former Blandina Neathery that he was "okeh and in France. More wires on way. Sit tight." He was released from Stalag Luft 3, Moosburg, Germany, May 29, which was to a day two years from the time he became a prisoner of war.

Braniff airline has asked approval of the Civil Aeronautics administration, the Civil Aeronautics board and the Army to inaugurate service to Lubbock July 1. The new route would make Lubbock a stop on Braniff's schedule between Denver and Texas points.

Lubbock Veterans Civic Service committee, a group with the stated purpose of serving as a coordinating agency for all community agencies in administering aid and advice to returning war veterans, will be headed by George S. Berry, Lubbock attorney and American Legionnaire. Robert B. Glass is vice chairman and M. D. Fanning, secretary.

The program of work will include educating the people of the community to a realization of their personal interest in the rehabilitation of the veteran.

That's all this week.

Court Approves Dalby Proposal

Reorganization of Dalby Motor Freight Lines, Inc., and continuation under order of the court of the present management was authorized Friday by Judge T. Whitfield Davidson in U. S. district court.

Sales of certificates for various lines and properties owned by the company were ordered by the court to satisfy creditors under the reorganization plan, submitted under the bankruptcy act.

To Pay Full Amounts

The order was entered after the court had been shown under the reorganization plan that the corporation will pay in cash to all claimants, where the claim has been processed and the liability and the amount determined, the full amount on all such claims.

The debtor proposed out of monies received to retain the sum of $10,000 in cash to be used as operating account. The balance on hand, after payment of claims and the deduction of the $10,000 operating capital will be placed in a separate fund and ear-marked for the payment of all claims as they are processed and the liability thereon determined.

The organization plan was submitted with agreement of creditors and there was no protest to the plan presented to the court.

Chas. C. Crenshaw of the law firm of Crenshaw and Dupree, presented the petition in behalf of the corporation and outlined the plan before Judge Davidson.

It was revealed that the firm owes a total of $244,080.93 which includes $18,428.77 owed to governmental agencies on account of income taxes, withholding taxes and other classes of taxes; $58,000 to the Lubbock National bank on a secured claim; $8,000 to the J. D. Hufstedler Truck company on a secured claim; C. O. D. monies collected $36,929.71 for a total of $121,358.48 in secured claims. Accounts total $19,367.07 and claims account of lost, damaged or destroyed freight totals $103,355.38 to make a total of $122,722.45 unsecured claims.

To Handle Claims Separately

A claim of Dalby Transfer & Storage company for lease on terminals totaling $266,000 is to be dealt with separately under the reorganization plan.

The reorganization plan provides for the sale of the corporation's certificates for the Lubbock to Amarillo lines for $25,000 to Miller and Miller Motor Freight lines; the Plainview and Lubbock to Crosbyton and Roaring Springs lines for $8,000; the Amarillo to Littlefield line for $5,000; the Odessa to El Paso line for $18,000 to Olney Ritter company; the Plainview to Dimmitt line for $500 and the Lubbock to Ft. Sumner, N. M. line for $1,200. This would provide a total of $57,300.

In addition Miller and Miller will be sold $23,397.71 in equipment and the company would dispose of additional equipment estimated at $54,300.

$190,000 Balance

Accounts now due and collectible in cash totaling $43,529.87 and cash in the bank of $12,161.02 would give the balance sheet recapitulation of approximately $190,000, the court was told.

Property to be retained by the company and certificates on the Lubbock to Odessa; Lubbock to Hobbs; Lubbock to El Paso; Lubbock to Hobbs via Tatum and Lovington; Clovis to Monahans; and Odessa to Hobbs lines would make the company's total value of property remaining after all proposed sales of $176,239.45.

Of the $103,355.38 in claims on lost, damaged and destroyed freight, it was estimated in the reorganization plan that $15,000 was due on claims by connecting lines; $25,000 represented merchandise on hand and not yet delivered; $3,355.38 delivered merchandise on which a claim has not yet been withdrawn and $20,000 for merchandise in the hands of connecting motor freight lines for a total of $63,355.38. This would leave only approximately $40,000 in claims to be settled.

Stockholders Listed

It was revealed by Crenshaw that stockholders of the company are: W. D. Benson, jr., president, who testified during the morning session; Victor H. Lindsey, both of Lubbock and O. R. Smith of Fort Worth. Each holds one-third of the stock.

Crenshaw asked the court that time for filing of claims be extended to July 1 and revealed that Lindsey would handle all claims and try to work out their settlement under the reorganization plan. The court will appoint a special master on contested claims.

Crenshaw declared he believed the reorganization plan was fair and equitable "because it promises payment in full and asks no one to take a discount."

The excessive burden of freight on the lines and the manpower shortage was said responsible for the large number of claims; the same situation is said to be facing both motor and rail carriers throughout the Southwest.

Crenshaw traced the history of the corporation and how, after Arno Dalby, its organizer and president, had been called into the Army that its present difficulties began to accumulate due to the heavy war shipments. He told of Dalby's sale of the lines to Frank Griggs, described as a man "wholly inexperienced in the trucking business" and how the firm had lost heavily in the three or four months under his direction.

Benson, Lindsey and Smith gained control of the lines on Dec. 26, 1944 and after two or three months decided to attempt reorganization under the plan presented to the court.

Benson, company head, testified on the stand Friday morning that he believed "with the reduction of miles of lines, operation costs and overhead, the company will be able to earn a profit."

Luther Miller of Miller and Miller Motor Lines; Arno Dalby, former owner of the corporation; R. W. Lee and Gene Whitehead were additional witnesses who testified regarding values of certificates, aquipment and properties of the company.

District Court To Recess Here Today

Weatherford due to violation of maximum price regulations in his business, Goldie's Radio shop; Chester Bowles, OPA, awarded $668 from Leonard C. E. Hindman to recover $3,800 from the Associated Indemnity Corp., Carl Jesse Williams, cross-plaintiff, awarded $2,900 from Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corp., Limited, cross-defendent; S. E. Heavens Open Up As Couple Learn Of Soldier's Safety

NEW ORLEANS, June 1. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Lankston, sr., of New Orleans, were standing in union station here last night when "the heavens opened up."

The couple was awaiting a train for Corpus Christi, Tex., when the loud speaker blared Mrs. Lankston's name and asked that she take a telephone message.

It was the War department with news that their soldier son, Sgt. Edwin P. Lankston, previously reported killed in action, had been found in a German prison camp and liberated a week ago.

Mrs. Lankston was unable to speak for several minutes, and then cried to her husband across the depot: "My God, the heavens have opened up for me—Edwin is alive."

Only yesterday morning, the Lankstons had received the Purple Heart and official citation along with the death certificate from the Army.

Their daughter had been ill and the report of her brother's death had been kept from her. The Lankstons were enroute to Corpus Christi to break the news personally when the War department's call came.

"My mission of sorrow is now a mission of joy," Mrs. Lankston said as she boarded the train.

Yankees Pound Indians For Victory In Opener, 9 To 2

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—The New York Yankees combined a home run by Nick Etten, a triple, four doubles and eight singles today to pound out a 9 to 2 verdict over Cleveland in the opening game to their series.

Floyd Bevens struck out eight Indians in coasting to his fourth decision on a 14-blow Yanks attack against starter Al Smith and Hale Kleine. The win stretched the Yankee lead to two games.

After each club scored once in the first, the New Yorkers broke out with four in the fourth, one of them on Nick Etten's fourth homer of the year.

Mike Garback singled following Ed Wheeler's boot of Tucker Stainback's roller. Bevens was hit by a piched ball, George Stirnweiss singled home two runs and Frank Crossetti bounced a ground rules double into the left field stands to score Bevens.

Mickey Rocco accounted for Cleveland's other tally with a long homer to the river fight seats in the fifth.

'Chuting American Is Beaten To Death

AHRWEILER, Germany, June 1. (AP)—A German wheat farmer testified today that he saw two of his countrymen beat an American flier to death last Aug. 15 after he parachuted from a flaming bomber near Trier.

Three Germans are on trial for their lives before an American military commission in the first trial of German civilians for a war crime in the Reich.

The witness testified that he saw about 20 persons gathered around the flier during the beating. By order of local police, he later stripped the body, wrapped it in straw and buried it in an unmarked grave, he said. The body has been exhumed, but so far efforts at identification have failed.

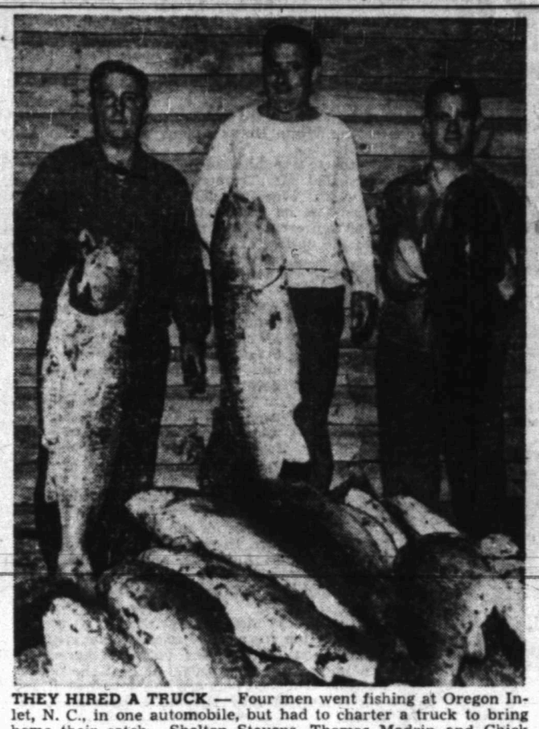

A military commission of eight U. S. 15th Army officers is hearing the trial. The prosecutor or "trial judge advocate" is Maj. Theodore K. Irwin of Dallas, who is assisted by Capt. Wilton J. Mehl of Fort Worth.

Red Grange Quits Post As Head Of New Pro Grid Loop

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP) — Red Grange, Illinois' immortal "Galloping Ghost" disclosed today he had resigned as president of the proposed U. S. Football League and declared postwar pro football would throw promoters for a financial loss.

The circuit was organized last fall with plans to enter teams in Akron, Baltimore, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, New York and Chicago with an eighth franchise undetermined. Whether Grange's action will leave the postwar field open to just the long-established National League and the embryonic All-American Conference was conjectural.

It was reported the U. S. League refunded franchise deposits, but some representatives indicated they have not thrown in the sponge.

Grange insisted he resigned because "the office requires a big promotional job and my insurance business prevents me from giving it the necessary time."

He added, however, that "I would not advise anybody to start in pro football now. Players are holding out for between $400 and $600 a game when they used to get $150.

Without referring to rival leagues, Grange asserted that promoters will need to attract "a helluva lot of people just to break even."

Grange said he had received no salary as president, declaring he didn't take the job "to make a lot of money."

Laundrymen Defeat Jaycees In Thriller

Blue Bonnet Laundry boosted its season's record to seven wins in eight starts Friday afternoon by nosing out a 7 to 5 victory over the Junior Chamber of Commerce club.

The Laundrymen scored most of their runs in the fourth and seventh innings with three run sprees in each frame.

The Jaycees took an early lead, and held it until the fourth. The two teams went into the seventh inning tied up, but the Laundrymen pushed over three runs to ice away the game. Sams homered for the Jaycees in his half of the seventh with none on.

The Laundrymen will play Edwards Grocery Tuesday afternoon at the Twenty-Third and Avenue W diamond.

DIZZY TO UMPIRE

NEW ORLEANS, June 1. (AP)—Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, one of baseball's most colorful figures, will umpire the opening game of the 18th annual American Legion city series here Sunday.

Qualifying Started For Presidents Cup

Today and Sunday are the last chances for Lubbock Country club golfers to qualify for the Presidents Cup tournament, which started qualifying rounds Wednesday.

The 64 low qualifiers will move into match play next week, with the finals scheduled for June 24, it was announced by Chick Trout, tournament chairman.

A number of golfers have already turned in scorecards, but the turnout is expected to become much heavier today and tomorrow.

The golfers handicaps have been revised and brought up to date, Trout also announced, and will be ready for the pairings Sunday night.

EDWARDS TEN WINS

Edwards Grocery softball ten outslugged the O. K. Garage softballers Friday afternoon to win a wild scoring 20 to 11 ball game.

We Have Been "Elected"

The Jap War Seems To Be Ours

DECISION to send millions of men into the war against Japan is an acknowledgement by the high command that the job of winning the Pacific conflict is largely up to the United States. Prime Minister Churchill had repeatedly declared England will be in at the finish, but the British Labor party, which will seek to gain control of the government at the approaching election, is cool to the War in the Pacific, apparently because Stalin is not in it. Canada, which should be as greatly interested in removing Japan as a world menace as is the United States, is only passively interested in the conflict. There seems to be a growing disposition in Canada to regard the end of the war in Europe as having terminated her obligation to fight.

As a matter of fact, England has a greater interest in the defeat of Japan than has the United States. Her prewar holdings in the Pacific were tremendous. Whether England will honor Churchill's pledges to assume a major share of the fighting without delay, or whether there will be a waiting period until after the election remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, the U.S.A., which has a habit of finishing the wars it is drawn into, is carrying the ball in the Pacific—will carry it until the goal line is crossed, even though that means the loss of good American lives and good American blood every day.

But if we have to win the Jap war practically alone, let's make a mental note not to forget it in the years following victory.

A Headache In The Offing

VALUE of America's surplus war goods may total more than $25,000,000,000. This will be a weight hanging over manufacturers and dealers in converting to civilian production. It is also a source of worry to workers in industries producing the items which the armed forces have in abundant supply.

Textiles, clothing and shoes not needed by the Army and Navy when the last shot is fired, it is estimated, may exceed $4,000,000,000. If these are distributed among civilians in America, factories will employ fewer persons. If surplus stores of goods abroad are distributed to the natives, exports to these countries will be affected.

The truth is, the business men of the nation have known all along that surplus materials, carried over from war into peace, would be a terrific economic headache. The way things look now, such goods probably will compose the biggest postwar economic headache we'll have, aside from that having to do with efforts to keep peacetime employment within shouting distance of wartime employment.

Our Program In Germany

THE American program for administration of affairs in U. S.-occupied Germany is probably subject to later amendment, but the broad outline is reported to have been determined upon as follows:

Heavy industries—synthetic rubber, chemicals, aircraft and machine tools—will be outlawed, with German industry in the region permitted to make consumer goods. Complete control will be exercised over the area's exports and imports. Reparations will extract all income above a minimum to sustain the citizens. Existing school textbooks will be destroyed and new ones prepared.

Any increase in German production as a result of technological efficiency, or bumper crop weather, will not benefit the German standard of living, as surpluses will be drawn off. There is no intention to take reparations swiftly, but only as surpluses become available above the minimum needs of the people of the region.

Broadly, the program appears to be intelligent. If it doesn't work out as planned on paper, it can always be revamped—and should be.

The main point is, in-so-far as the U. S. can make it, the Allied occupation of Germany should be thorough, workable and, of course, predicated upon the idea that the Germans may never again be given opportunity to steer the world into another sea of blood.

Given lots of time to muddle in, our British cousins usually eventually stumble upon the truth. A British medical journal has just announced that there is no known cure for the common cold.

The One Minute Sermon

Fear and dread shall fall upon them; by the greatness of thine arm they shall be as still as a stone; till thy people pass over O Lord, till the people pass over, which thou hast purchased.

Thou shalt bring them in, and plant them in the mountain of thine inheritance, in the place, O Lord, which thy hands have established.

The Lord shall reign forever and ever.

For the horse of Pharaoh went in with his chariots and with his horsemen into the sea, and the Lord brought again the waters of the sea upon them; but the children of Israel went on dry land in the midst of the sea.—Exodus 15:16-19.

INQUISITION

Back at The Wagon Wheel I flirted with the idea of sitting up for Mr. Hudson. But somehow I had a feeling that this wouldn't be necessary. So I went to bed.

The next morning I was up early. I dressed and went immediately to the desk to ask if Mr. Hudson had come in. The clerk looked at me oddly.

"Mr. Hudson?" he asked reaching for the 'phone.

"Mr. Street, please," he told the operator.

"Not Mr. Street—Mr. Hudson," I said.

"Mr. Street is the manager," the clerk explained frigidly. Then into the 'phone:

"Mr. Street, Mr. Trent is asking for Mr. Hudson."

The desk clerk was still eyeing me warily when he hung up.

"Mr. Street wishes you to step into his office, Mr. Trent."

So with the little ditty about the spider and the fly running through my brain, I stepped into the manager's office and the moment I did I knew we had reached another milestone. There sat Inspector Marks. That crooked little smile sat on his lips, but somehow it looked slightly forced.

"Well, Inspector," I said, "aren't you a little off your beat?"

"A little." He nodded. "Sit down, Mr. Trent."

The manager was looking worried and nervous.

"You asked for Mr. Hudson" went on Marks.

I nodded.

"Why?" asked the inspector.

"He didn't come in last night. I was worried about him," I said.

"He planned to stay here at The Wagon Wheel?"

"Yes."

"Do you know why?"

"We were closing the house at Sandy Point. We intended to return to Boston this morning."

"Why not last night?"

"It didn't seem wise."

In the silence that followed, Marks pinned that remark to a board and dissected it. With an acid smile he resumed:

"What was the reason for this little junket down here?"

"It was a party," I said and I couldn't keep a twinge of irony out of my voice.

"Who was at this—party?"

"I think that before answering any more questions I'm entitled to a question of my own. Why the inquisition?"

Marks studied me. Street, the manager, sensing that he was superfluous, departed.

"The usual reason," Marks said. "The thump of another body, Mr. Trent.

"Anyone I know?" I asked weakly.

Marks nodded. "Phineas Hudson," he said.

I sa down. The clock on the wall clicked. Two little doors flew open; a synthetic-looking cuckoo sailed out, cuckooed eight times, and slid back behind the doors again. Marks paid no attention to the clock. With the single-mindedness of a snake, he fixed his eyes upon my face.

"Who were the guests at this party?"

"There were seven of us; besides Mr. Hudson and his daughter, Charley Strand, Eric Woolf, myself, and Bruce Temple and his daughter Brenda."

"Eric Woolf." The inspector speared the name. "Where is he now?"

"I don't know. He left yesterday after lunch."

"What time was it when you left The Ledges to come to Minot?"

"About six I should say. We had dinner at The Cock and Kettle, went to the movies; then, while Mr. Hudson returned to The Ledges for our luggage, we went to The Wagon Wheel to get rooms for the night. While we were waiting for Mr. Hudson to return, the fire alarm sounded. From the glow in the sky we suspected it might be The Ledges, drove over, looked for Mr. Hudson, then came back here again."

"Did you return to Sandy Point?"

"No"

"Why not?"

"Look," I said. "I'm trying to be cooperative, but you will have to use your imagination a little."

"I'm a detective, not a writer of mystery stories," answered Marks. "Mr. Trent, I have been in touch with Cass Hapes."

"Oh," I said.

"Exactly."

"Do you think I killed Mr. Hudson?" I asked, looking Marks in the eye and daring him to meet my stare. But Marks wasn't looking at me.

"What I think is unimportant."

"How was he killed?"

"With a bullet." Marks sat up. "Would you care to see?"

"Not especially," I said, "but I'll look."

We went out through the lobby, and I saw the top of the Hudson's station wagon parked under the porte cochere. I looked inside and turned green. Evidently Phineas Hudson had just been getting out of the car, when the murderer had stuck the gun in his face and let him have it. Half-turned to get out of the car, he looked curiously pathetic. I turned away and Marks said:

"Not a very pretty sight."

"Marks," I said, "do you think I could do a thing like that?"

He lifted one eyelid at me.

"If you're going to stay in this game, you'll have to learn."

We went back into Street's office. Marks faced me across the manager's desk.

"Son, I think it's about time you talked, because either you've killed a man and the state will kill you, or somebody is going to kill you first and save the state the trouble."

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

YOU probably read the story that 2,500 persons are accredited to the San Francisco conference, while only about 200 of them actually represent newspapers, press associations and radio stations.

While the 200 real ones are busy working, the other 2,300 crowd in to meetings, luncheons, press conferences and banquets and make general nuisances of themselves.

BRANDEIS

I was going to write something about not being able to understand why so many people consider it something so wonderful to be a member of the press, and then I thought of my own early years as a newspaper reporter.

I'll never forget my first press badge. It was in Oakland, California, and it was a shiny, gold-plated thing issued by the police department.

At first I wore it pinned to my vest, half of it showing conspicuously to the world that I was a newspaperman.

Later on it went farther back and finally it disappeared entirely.

In those early days, we newspaper fellows always used to be broke two days after pay day. It was the custom to go to Max, the pawnbroker, who would lend us 75 cents on our press badge and our fountain pen, and we would redeem both articles for a dollar next pay day.

At first I wouldn't think of parting with my dear press badge, no matter how broke I was. But later on I joined the rest of the gang, and pretty nearly every Thursday I'd be a regular visitor to Max's pawn shop.

I tried to hock my fountain pen alone one time. Max wouldn't take it. "Why?" I asked him.

"Because they might not come back for the fountain pen," he said, "and I don't want to be loaded up with a lot of fountain pens. But no real newspaperman would go without his press badge any longer than he has to."

* * *

ONE time, when I was covering the Oakland City Hall, the Mayor, who was always very nice to me, told me that if ever I wanted to quit my paper I should come to him and he'd give me a job.

A couple of weeks later I had a fight with my city editor and quit.

I went to the Mayor and asked him for that job he had promised me. He acted as if he had never seen me before.

I went back to my city editor and asked him whether my job was filled. If not I'd like to have it back.

"No, it isn't filled," he said. "I knew you'd be back. And I want you to remember that when people are nice to you it isn't because they like you so much but because you represent the press."

So, thinking back to my own early years I kind of sympathize with those 2,300 would-be newspaper people.

The other day Bugs Bear said to me:

"I think the newspaper business is the worst business in the world. But unless you show me a better one I'll stay in it."

Truman And Business

HST Extends The Olive Branch

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT Truman has made several moves since he entered the White House to reassure American businessmen that he holds no lingering, New Deal grudges against them and that, on the contrary, he wants their confidence and cooperation. But these occupants of prewar Presidential doghouses are inclined to keep their fingers crossed concerning White House tokens of friendship and good will.

A hitherto unpublicized incident, however, gives evidence that Mr. Truman is completely sincere. While he was Vice President, an old acquaintance suggested that he get together at a luncheon with about 50 representatives of the gilt-edge corporations of the nation, explain his philosophy to them and find out what was ruffling their feathers.

TUCKER

"You don't know Big Business, Harry," said this trusted adviser, "and it's leaders don't know you. Wouldn't it be a good thing for you to have a private confab with them, and have both sides let down their hair?

President Roosevelt is going to need their help in the postwar era, and maybe you can pave the way for a new understanding between the administration and these 'members of well-stocked clubs.'"

Vice President Truman liked the idea. His friend set April 25 as the date for a luncheon at which the arrangements for the affair were to have been concluded. Mr. Roosevelt gave his approval. But FDR died on April 12, and the man from Missouri was sworn in as Chief Executive that same evening. Naturally, the get-together had to be called off.

But the new President's eagerness to sit around a table with the historic enemies of the vanished New Deal, and to talk over points of agreement or differences with them, suggests that the friendly, wartime armistice between the government and private enterprise may become a permanent relationship.

STALIN: The dispatching of Joe Davies to London and Harry Hopkins to Moscow represents a determined effort by President Truman to repair the damage which FDR's personal and secretive conduct of foreign affairs inadvertently caused. Only direct action such as the Chief Executive has taken can save the San Francisco attempt to establish a permanent world peace setup.

There has been no fundamental change in Washington's foreign policy since Mr. Roosevelt's death. But Stalin apparently thinks that Mr. Truman is less friendly to the Soviet's aspirations than was his predecessor.

The Russian dictator, who had become extremely fond of Mr. Roosevelt and mistrustful of Prime Minister Churchill at the Yalta conference, seems to believe that Mr. Truman has been taken into the British camp since Germany's defeat.

HST, for instance, has protested the Kremlin's Polish, Czechoslovakian and Balkan policies far more vigorously than Mr Roosevelt might have done. The late President and Stalin may have discussed and solved these questions to their own personal satisfaction in their private talks on the Crimean coast. But Mr. Truman either does not know of these possible pacts or does not want to know of them.

SUSPICIONS: In every complaint about Russia's post-Hitler actions the United States has been supported by London. Naturally, the always suspicious Reds think that the United States and England, now that Germany has been defeated, have ganged up against the Soviet.

Our insistence on seating the Argentines at San Francisco has inclined Stalin to think that Britain, the United States and the other Western Hemisphere republics aim to control any world peace organization. In short, Stalin thinks we have sold out to 10 Downing Street.

Harry Hopkins will tell Joe that "It just ain't so." Mr. Davies, author of "Mission to Moscow," an extremely pro-Russian book and movie, has begged Churchill to be a bit more flexible and tolerant in his attitude to future international relationships.

They impress on the two world statesmen that "Harry Truman is as fair and square a man as we ever had in the White House. You can put your cards on the table with him."

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THE outcome of the already bitter election campaign in Great Britain may affect our foreign and domestic policies far more than is generally realized.

Forecasters see a good chance of the Labor party winning more seats than will the Tories, chiefly because of home front gripes and the leftist swing evident among young voters everywhere.

Attlee, Bevin, Morrison and other opposition chiefs are clamoring for closer ties with the Soviet Union. Radical papers are anti-American, accusing us of being too capitalistic and of warming up to Argentina and other Fascist nations.

Should representatives of the working class control the next Parliament, they might be so absorbed in rebuilding the United Kingdom's wrecked homes and industries that they would be less concerned about the Japanese war than are the global-minded imperialists in the Churchill cabinet.

LEMAN

If Labor wins it will promote a managed economy, cartels, state aid to trade — measures which may knock galley west our plans to sell American goods abroad.

The extreme right will try to picture the Laborites as wild-eyed Reds in cahoots with the Communists. It should be remembered that the Trade Union movement, from which England's Labor party grew, offered its reforms long before Lenin and Stalin were even heard of.

One of the chief complaints against Attlee made by restless young left wingers is that his platform is the same old chestnut that it was in the days of Ramsay MacDonald and Philip Snowden. In essence it is Socialism. But Britons call it "gradualism"—a slow but steady approach to government ownership, one bite at a time.

The Laborites do not advocate immediate wholesale nationalization of industries. They would first apply this policy to coal, steel, gas, electricity and the main branches of inland transport and would make all other industries subject to controls in line with the requirements of full employment.

REGIMENTATION: Other Labor planks are: The Bank of England government-owned and all other banks compelled to conform to the Ministry's economic program. Special measures to control prices and to restrict monopolies. Extensive public works projects to provide jobs beyond the capacity of private companies.

To those who charge that the free workers of England will be regimented, campaign orators reply, "Who has the most freedom, the well-paid postman with a steady job or the miner employed by a private colliery who never knows how long he will be on a pay roll?"

There is a striking similarity between this overall program and that advocated by our New Dealers. It is paradoxical that no two statesmen were more united on foreign policy than Roosevelt and Churchill and yet they headed parties which have decidedly different viewpoints on domestic affairs.

All three fractions — Churchill's Conservatives, Attlee's Laborites and Sinclair's tiny remnant of Liberals — favor housing; they differ sharply on methods. In Britain 500,000 dwellings were destroyed by enemy action, especially by V-bombs, and 4,000,000 were damaged.

The present government calls for 750,000 new homes for blitz victims and 500,000 more in slum clearance projects. Three hundred thousand are to be built in the next two years as fast as workers and materials are made available. Both opposition groups protest that Churchill's ministers are muddling while families live in wet cellars and leaky shacks.

Unemployment Pay Boost Plan Sets Stage

Truman Faces First Big Contest

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—President Truman stepped into his first real conflict with Congress in the domestic field when he proposed more comprehensive benefits by the federal government for workers who become jobless by reconversion of war industry.

STOKES

This will test his mettle, for it involves fundamental issues. He is not moving into this contest blindly. He is familiar with the ground, for he was in the middle of the same fight last year as a member of the Senate. He was on the same side, although it turned out to be the losing side.

Back of this drive to raise unemployment compensation payments, in which labor already is active, is a situation that has not been given much publicity. WPB Chairman Julius Krug touched it briefly when he forecast an increase in unemployment with further cuts scheduled in munitions production.

Situation Shaping Up

Workers already are out of jobs to a degree that impresses labor leaders and public officials in such a war industry center, for example, as Detroit.

President Truman's consciousness of the problem was indicated in his request for immediate action without waiting for enactment of a long pending bill to expand the Social Security act.

The principal point of dispute in the suggested Truman program is his proposal for benefits for a maximum of 26 weeks in any year. It would provide at least $25 a week for a family with dependents.

THIS touches on two issues discussed when the Reconversion bill was before Congress last year.

In the first place, this would mean a federal system of unemployment benefits thus far resisted by Congress in favor of state systems. For only one state, Washington, has this proposed schedule of benefits. All others provide less. In most states, as the president pointed out, the maximum is $15 to $18, and the time such benefits can run is less than 26 weeks in most cases.

This throws Congress into the fight over "state rights" which was waged in Congress last year, as it was waged when the Social Security act was passed nearly 10 years ago. Congress decided at the outset to keep the unemployment benefit systems under the states, and thus far has maintained it.

In the second place, there is an issue, also debated last year, around the argument that federal unemployment benefits guaranteed for a long time would encourage idleness. This was advanced by Conservatives and minimized by New Dealers.

Covers Big Territory

It is interesting that some in Congress who are opposing increased benefits provided by the federal government are also those who have been trying to break down the price control system. This would lead to inflation and make the worker's dollar worth still less. Inflation certainly would make the meager benefits paid in some states most inadequate, and even the proposed federal benefits somewhat skimpy.

Mr. Truman, as a senator, supported the Murray-Kilgore bill which set up a federal system to provide benefits for the entire period of unemployment—up to a maximum of two years—with maximum benefits of $35 a week (later cut to 25) for unemployed persons with two or more dependents. It also provided for payment of transportation for those moving to new jobs.

This was defeated and the Senate passed instead the George bill which left the state system intact, with provision for loans to states to keep their unemployment compensation system solvent for two years after the end of hostilities. It also provided for benefits for employes of the federal government, for workers in government-owned shipyards, arsenals and munitions plants and for travel allowance up to $200.

THE last two provisions eventually were removed. President Roosevelt said the measure "does not adequately deal with the human side of reconversion," though he signed it, and even Senator George (D., Ga.), who is no radical, was surprised at the House's attitude.

President Truman has urged that federal workers be included, as specified in the George bill, and also that unemployment benefits be extended to include those not now included.

This fight will be watched with interest.

Summer Term Opens Today At Texas Tech

A total of 762 students Friday completed registration for the first six-weeks summer school term at Texas Tech, which begins at 8 a.m. today, according to W. P. Clement, registrar.

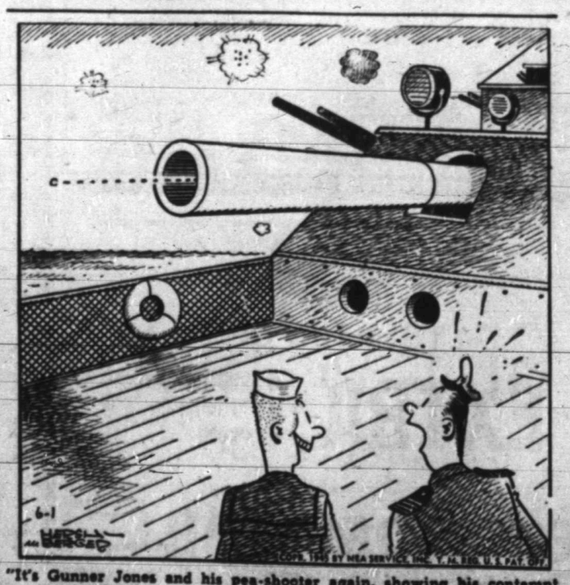

Registration will continue today. After Monday, a late fee will be charged and students will be required to carry a reduced scholastic load.

This total of 762 students compares favorably with registration figures of 822 for first day of enrollment during the 1944 summer school.

Clement said Friday's enrollment was predominately freshmen and many former students are expected to register Monday.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, just ask your neighbor or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

Wilson To Be City Attorney

The position of city attorney of Lubbock was filled today with the announcement that Vaughn Wilson, former Lubbock attorney and presently an examiner for the Railroad Commission of Texas, will succeed Durwood H. Bradley in that position.

Wilson was named to the full-time position in a meeting of the City commission Thursday afternoon but announcement was withheld until he had accepted the post today.

On Full-Time Basis

Wilson was employed on a full-time basis, the first time a full-time city attorney has been employed. Previously city attorneys have continued to conduct their private practice outside of the duties with the city.

Through the employment of a full-time attorney, the post of assistant city attorney, now held by Orville Smith, will of necessity have to be vacated, it was said. Smith's resignation, which is expected to be given the commission shortly, will be effective on July 1.

Former County Attorney

City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley, who has held the post approximately ten years, had repeatedly requested the commission to relieve him of his duties during the past several months, explaining that pressure of his private law business prevented him from giving enough time to city matters.

Wilson, the new city attorney, formerly served as county attorney of Lubbock county. He has been with the railroad commission approximately two years. He is married and has four children.

Salary of Wilson will be $4,680 a year, including the cost of living bonus paid city employes during the war-time emergency. He will office on the second floor of the City hall and a secretary will be employed to serve his office and that of the city engineer's department.

County Tire Quota Less Than Average

Passenger tire quota for the Lubbock district, Office of Price administration, has but a 60 per cent increase, compared to the nation-wide hike of 100 per cent, according to Walter P. Wilson, district OPA tire rationing officer.

Wilson warned motorists that according to this quota, set by the national office according to districts, an insufficient number of new tires will be available to offset tire failures during the hot weather that is due during the next few months.

He urged conservation of tires and more recapping to check tire failures. Local boards have been advised to screen applications carefully, Wilson said, and advised motorists to observe the 35-mile victory speed limit.

Quotas of small truck tires, large truck tires and small tractor tires will be almost the same for the month as they were for May, while the quota for large tractor tires is slightly less in the district.

Hundreds Visit Pool Opening Day

Hundreds of persons entered Municipal swimming pool in Mackenzie state park Friday, on opening day for the summer.

Final tabulations were expected to show total of approximately 625.

The figure was less than the number on the first day last year, and the decrease was attributed to high wind and cooler weather.

The pool will be open from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. Mondays through Saturdays and 1:30 to 9 p. m. on Sundays. Russell Wimberley and Curtis Barrett are managers and one is to be on duty at all times the pool will be open.

Mrs. Hubbert Leaves To Welcome Husband

Mrs. George O. Hubbert of 2521 Twentieth, Lubbock General hospital nurse, left Friday night for Philadelphia where she will be a guest of the city and the mayor, Bernard Samuel, in welcoming her husband, Capt. Hubbert, and other returned veterans of Europe. Mrs. Hubbert received an invitation from the mayor Friday morning.

The veterans will be welcomed by their wives and mothers at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel in Philadelphia.

The fact that her husband, who has been overseas the last two years with the 45th division of the Seventh Army, is to arrive so soon came as a surprise to Mrs. Hubbert. She received a letter Thursday from Capt. Hubbert which was written May 16 in which he said he was on the list to come home but had no idea when he would leave.

Joseph E. Trojan Is Liberated From Camp

After two years imprisonment in Stalag Luft 3 in Moosburg, Germany, 1st Lt. Joseph E. Trojan is now in France and expects to return to the United States soon, according to a cablegram he sent his wife, Mrs. Blandina N. Trojan of 2409 Thirteenth.

Lt. Trojan went down over St. Nazaire, France May of 1943 on his last mission. He was pilot of a B-17. He was graduated from Lubbock Army Air field in class 42-F and went overseas in October of 1942.

His wife and daughters, Linda and Mary Kathryn, are making their home at 2409 Thirteenth.

FAVORITES TURN UPWARD

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Renewed investment demand for rails and industrial specialties turned the tide in today's stock market, enabling favorites to start the new month with gains of one to a number of points at 8-year peaks.

Transfers totaled 1,430,000 shares compared with 1,210,000 on Thursday's relapse.

The post-war business outlook tended to revive textiles and carriers. Easing of the Syrian situation was optimistic.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .3 of a point at 66.4. The rail composite made a new top since 1937.

In the "new high" division were American Woolen preferred, up 8½; Commonwealth and Southern preferred, up 5¼, in reflection of the SEC approval of the company's recapitalization plan; Canadian Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, M-K-T preferred, American Woolen common, Wyandotte Worsted, Chicago and Eastern Illinois and Pacific Mills.

On the upside were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific and Engineers Public Service. Chrysler advanced ¼ and General Motors was down;. Losers included Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., American Can, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont and Allied Chemical.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Mill covering against textile orders and local buying rallied cotton futures in quiet trading today. Final prices were at or near the best for the day to show gains of 15 to 35 cents a bale. There was some early liquidation and hedging which temporarily depressed values as much as 15 cents a bale, partly influenced by renewed uncertainty over the fate of the purchase program due to expire June 30 unless extended.

Farmers continue to repossess a substantial amount of the staple from the loan, and sales to the government under the purchase program slackened according to the latest Commodity Credit corporation figures. Both developments reflected the recent rise in market prices to new seasonal high levels.

Legislature To Adjourn June 5

AUSTIN, June 1. (AP) — Final adjournment of the general session of the 49th legislature next Tuesday apparently will find two major recommendations of Gov. Coke R. Stevenson unfulfilled.

The legislature in its session which began Jan. 9 has snubbed legislative redistricting and judicial redistricting.

Whether the Governor will make new recommendations before the session dies was not known.

The lawmakers refused to redistrict the state's court setup but approved a bill raising the pay of all state judges $1,000 a year or more. Members are now concerned whether the Governor will veto the salary raise, an item in the biennial judiciary appropriation bill.

Ignored Since 1921

Redistricting of House and Senate for representation in the legislature has been ignored since 1921, despite a constitutional mandate requiring redistricting after publication of each federal census.

The governor asked redistricting of courts on grounds Texas has more district courts than it needs. He recommended legislative redistricting on grounds the present distribution of membership is unfair to most of the state.

Final adjournment of the session on Tuesday, the 148th day, became certain with unanimous Senate approval of a House concurrent resolution ending the session at noon, June 5.

Might Speed Process

Its adoption was calculated to expedite processing of legislation which has some chance of final passage within the time limitation.

The House adopted a conference committee report on a bill appropriating $2,000,000 in unused special fund balances for construction of two new state office buildings. The bill also authorizes purchase of the Tribune Tower in Austin, if terms are satisfactory. The report will reach the Senate tomorrow which ordered its first Saturday meeting of the general session.

House and Senate adoption of a conference committee report sent to the Governor a bill appropriating $55,000 to pay county and school district taxes on state-owned prison lands.

House Reduces Calendar

Before adjourning until Monday so that conference committees might work through the week end the House materially reduced its calendar.

Concurrence in Senate amendments sent to the Governor bills:

Doubling licenses and similar fees paid the state by barbers.

Granting 60 days for casting of absentee ballots by members of the armed forces stationed abroad.

Finally passed were Senate bills:

Regulating the transportation of butane gas and the manufacture and installation of butane gas equipment. Amendments send the bill back to the Senate.

Authorizing towns of not less than 740 nor more than 745 to operate motion picture theaters.

House Bills Passed

Passed to the Senate were House bills:

Regulating perpetual care cemeteries.

Making it unlawful for wrecking companies to remove a private automobile without consent of owner.

Raising the pay of district attorneys. The increase was from $4,000 to $5,000 a year for those in districts of two or more counties and from $5,000 to $6,000 for those in districts of more than 90,000 population, Bexar, Dallas, Tarrant and Harris counties excluded.

Granting an annual tax remission not exceeding $25,000 a year to the city and county of Dallas levee improvement district.

CONFERENCE HOLDS SILENCE ON REPORTS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1. (AP) American, Argentine and other United Nations delegations kept a tight official silence today on published reports that Argentina has heavily repressed freedom.

The story datelined Buenos Aires and published in the New York Times, brought a flood of discussion, nevertheless, at the San Francisco conference. Besides big play in the special conference edition of the Times, the dispatch was given prominence by San Francisco newspapers.

Indignation vied with dismay among members of the newly-admitted Argentine delegation. They had tried hard to instill an atmosphere of confidence in their government's good intentions and recognized that such reported events set them far back.

The caution with which other diplomats treated the subject stemmed in part from an apparent desire to stay clear of another country's domestic affairs.

Returned Vet Slain In Fuss With Blacks

FORT WORTH, June 1. (AP)—A wide search was on here today for a negro man and woman in connection with the slaying Thursday night of James White, 27, medically discharged overseas veteran, who was killed when he went to serve an eviction notice on the two negroes at a tenant house.

White, who suffered a leg wound in Italy and was partially crippled as a result, went to the tenant house as manager and agent for Mrs. J. E. James, apartment owner, and Mrs James went with him.

She said she had rented the tenant house to the negroes, but that they were to pay their rent in work which they later refused to do.

One bullet from a .22 caliber rifle pierced the right side of White's chest and he died two hours later in a hospital.

White came here in January from Monroe, La., where his father, J. M. White, resides.

President Angrily Assails Chiselers

WASHINGTON, June 1. (U.P.)—President Truman in an angry denunciation of black marketeers and tax chiselers declared today that "we are not fighting this war to make millionaires."

He threw his full support behind the campaign of Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., to strangle the black market and track down tax evaders.

Mr. Truman in a special statement said the American people know "the war is still far from being over."

"The one thing that might break down their will to keep on to complete victory," he said, "would be a feeling that a few were profiting from the sacrifices of the many.

"We must see that there is no justification for any such feeling, and that is just what we are going to do."

He added at his news conference that he thought it was a terrible crime for some people to hoard money and live off the black market when sons of their neighbors were dying to save the country.

Middle East Scrap

dependence of Syria and Lebanon.

While France, faced with a virtual ultimatum, consented to stop firing on the Syrians, General de Gaulle refused to go all the way in meeting Prime Minister Churchill's demand of yesterday that French troops be withdrawn to their barracks.

"French troops will remain in their positions," a communique issued by De Gaulle's government said flatly.

Said Ordered To Barracks

However, Associated Press correspondent Frank O'Brien reported from Damascus that an order from Beyrouth for the French troops to return to their barracks had been issued at 9:20 a. m., Damascus time, today and that the troops had moved into the main barracks of the town.

O'Brien said crowds cheered the British officials who entered the city with their troops. His dispatch told of no further disturbances.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, replying to a note from the United States, said in a letter to U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery at Paris that a solution to the Levantine problem could be found once order has been established.

The French government in a communique declared that France intended to create if possible "an atmosphere more favorable to talks with Britain and America," but there was no word from Gen. de Gaulle himself that he would agree to such talks.

He's In Bad Mood

Intimates of the French leader said he was in no mood at present to discuss the Levantine problem with other powers.

An official French source said De Gaulle had received "a friendly message" from President Truman and was preparing a reply.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden appeared optimistic as he reported to a cheering House of Commons on the French pledge not to oppose British efforts to keep order in the Middle East.

"We have confidence," he said, "that we can now rely on all concerned to cooperate in complete restoration of law and order, which is indeed an essential step to the solution of this complex problem."

U. S. Attitude Lauded

The United States' willingness to take part in talks with Britain and France—if such talks could be arranged—was greeted enthusiastically here as an immediate sign of Anglo-American cooperation in world affairs.

Battered Shuri Taken By Yanks

by Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First Marine division dominate open ground to the south. Their capture represented one of the day's most significant gains.

It was combat patrols of Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr.'s Sixth Marine division which crossed the Kokuba river and probed southward near nightfall. They were able to hold their positions south of the river through the night.

Weight Of Attack Shifts

To the southeast, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's 7th Infantry division shifted the weight of its main attack to the south and drove from 400 to 1,000 yards deeper into the Ozato Mura hills.

Previously, this division had diverted much of its strength toward a virtual closure of a large pincer south of Shuri with the Sixth Marine division.

Arnold's doughboys effected their shift in main attack points and made their advances against the strongest opposition the Japanese could muster anywhere on the southern front yesterday.

The apparent object of the Seventh division's southward driving spearhead was to cut off Chinen peninsula, which forms the southern arm of Nakagusuku harbor—Okinawa's major anchorage which formerly was used by the Japanese fleet.

Could Use Harbor

If the peninsula can be cut, Japanese on the peninsula could be overwhelmed and Nakasuguku harbor would become available for American ships.

General Hodges, veteran of Guadalcanal, Bougainville and the Philippines, expressed doubt that the Japanese, now crushed around Shuri town, could muster their depleted strength for any determined last ditch stand.

Mud appears to be the only thing holding up the end of the campaign, Hodge told Associated Press correspondent Al Dopking. Then the general noted that the sun had been shining for two days.

Reluctant To Prophesy

The Army corps commander said he was reluctant to forecast the date the fighting would end, but added there were officers in his command who were confident another 10 days would see the conclusion of the battle to finish the conquest of Okinawa, only 325 miles south of Japan.

Tokyo radio conceded that Japanese losses on the island were increasing, giving unwitting support to yesterday's American communique which said Nipponese casualties on Okinawa and nearby islands were estimated at 61,519 killed from April 1, date of the Yank invasion, through May 30.

Based on the American estimate of around 85,000 Japanese troops on Okinawa at the outset of the invasion, the toll of enemy dead alone would leave less than 25,000 defenders.

FEA's allotment was held up pending receipt of budget estimates for lend-lease operations. Legislation extending the price control act and OPA and making permanent the FEPC has not cleared Congress.

The $769,764,850 total in the bill was $111,812,650 below budget estimates and $209,348,880 under current year appropriations.

The War Shipping administration, which operates the nation's expanding merchant fleet, was allotted $437,325,000 of the total, even though it was cut $48,270,000 below estimates.

The Office of Scientific Research and Development was given $70,000,000, a reduction of $7,500,000.

News Briefs

A message from Pfc. William F. Harrelson, of Clyde, Tex., to his sister, Mrs. A. F. Jobe, of 2011 Twenty-sixth, was heard Friday morning by F. L. Jones, of Lubbock route 6, on a shortwave radio broadcast from Tokyo. Pvt. Harrelson, former Lubbock resident, said merely that he was "okay" and expressed hope that his relatives were well. He was captured at Corregidor.

A 1937 Chevrolet stolen Wednesday night at Floydada was recovered Friday at Tucumcari, N. M., local officers said.

Approximately 200 bales of alfalfa hay were destroyed by fire at Plains Feed mill Friday afternoon. Origin of the blaze was not known. At 3:35 o'clock, firemen made a run to 1949 Ave. G to put out blazing, "paper-type" plumbing pipe which had caught from a trash fire.

Mrs. D. A. Thompson, 24, of 2415-A Ninth, suffered minor head and arm injuries when the automobile which she was driving crashed into the side of a freight truck at 12:55 o'clock Friday afternoon at Fifteenth and Ave. S, according to police. The truck, driven by Thomas Garner, 18, of 1117 Sixteenth, was traveling south on Ave. S and the car was going west on Fifteenth. The car, which had to be removed from the scene by wrecker, belongs to Lela Pelfrey of the same address as Mrs. Thompson's.

New Meat Program

erers, for a variety of reasons, have changed their normal pattern of geographical distribution."

Choice Of Base Period

The first three months of 1944 were selected as the base period, Bowles explained, because that was "the most recent complete quarter in which there was a flush production of meat throughout all parts of the country and distribution most nearly approached that prevailing in normal times."

The new distribution plan will work like this:

During each accounting period, usually a month, any slaughterer must deliver to a county at least 80 per cent of the proportionate amount of the civilian meat supply he delivered there in each of the first three accounting periods of 1944.

To illustrate this, assume a packer's total supply of meat in January, 1944, was 1,000 pounds, and that he delivered it equally among four counties, or 250 pounds to each. If his total supply for a month is reduced now to 800 pounds, he would be required to send into each county at least 80 per cent of 200 pounds, or 160 pounds a month.

Over a three-month period, however, the amount shipped to each county must be 90 per cent of the proportionate share, giving each county an average of 180 pounds or more per month.

neighbors — our friends," Lt. Gen. William Simpson, the Ninth Army's commander, said slowly in a short tribute which he concluded simply with "Let us carry on. They would have it so."

Then he took a wreath and placed it on the grave of an unknown soldier. For a moment he stood at the grave's head, hesitant, then he straightened his tall, lanky frame and held a sharp salute for a long, silent second. Then, with his face drawn down in bitter grimness, he strode back to his place.

One by one other generals followed, each putting a wreath on the grave of some know a soldier of his individual outfit. Then taps broke the stillness and the bandsmen played the Star Spangled Banner as the flag slowly rose to the top of the pole.

Two Landing Vessels Are Lost At Okinawa

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—The Navy announced today the loss of a medium landing ship and a large support landing craft in the Okinawa area as the result of enemy action.

They were identified as the 700-ton LSM (R) 194 and the 227-ton LCS (L) (3) 15.

Casualties, including dead, injured and missing, on the LSM totaled 37 and on the LCS, 25. The normal complement of each vessel was about 60. The Navy said next of kin of all casualties had been notified.

The LSM was under command of Lt. Allan M. Hirshberg, McKeesport, Pa., and the LCS was commanded by Lt. Ned Harold Brower, Cincinnati.

The Navy reported no casualty status for the two skippers, who were therefore presumed safe.

Backbone Of Jap Resistance Broken

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—An official Navy spokesman said today he considered the backbone of Japan's defenses on Okinawa island broken.

At the same time, however, he predicted that the enemy would make another determined stand on the embattled island's southern tip before the Japanese bastion could be considered neutralized.

He declined to predict how long it would take to mop up all remnants of Japanese resistance on the island.

He told a news conference that since the beginning of the Okinawa campaign on April 1, the United States Navy had lost 22 ships in the Okinawa area in addition to two merchant ammunition ships. Official announcements have revealed more than 44 additional vessels damaged.

Two fleet air wings operating from land bases in the area, the naval spokesman said, during the month of May sank, probably sank or damaged 152 Japanese craft of all types. Sinkings included 50 freighters, oilers and escort vessels in addition to 16 small craft.

Ex-Sailor Arrested For Pistol Display

A 20-year-old man, who said he was discharged recently by the Navy, was arrested about 10:30 o'clock Friday night in 1100 block Main after he allegedly "flashed" a pistol several times in the Waffle shop, 1107 Ave. K, and vicinity.

Witnesses told police that he brandished the gun and told waitresses at the cafe that "you're working for me now." He was arrested by car patrolmen J. O. Tinsley and Clarence Newton.

Registered at a local hotel, the gun toter said he had lived in New York. An identification card showed a Seminole, Tex., address and his draft registration card revealed that he had registered in Houston. He had no classification card and efforts were to be made to check his draft status.
