U. S. Informed That Fighting at Shanghai Has Ceased

JAP TROOPS TO BE WITHDRAWN DEBUCHI SAYS

WASHINGTON, March 3. — The Japanese government through Ambassador Debuchi today informed Sec'y of State Stimson that fighting at Shanghai was ended and that Japanese troops would be withdrawn as soon as possible.

JAPANESE HOLDING CONTESTED TERRITORY

By HERBERT R. EKINS
U. P. Staff Correspondent

SHANGHAI, March 3. — Japanese military operations at Shanghai ended today with the Chinese driven 12 and one-half miles back from the city and Japanese holding all territory contested in bitter fighting here since January 28.

The Chinese forts at Woosung were occupied by the Japanese shortly before the operations were halted. A final two-hour shelling enabled the Japanese to take the fortifications.

"We have decided to order halting of our forces for the time being at points actually held and to stop fighting provided that the Chinese forces do not resort to further hostile actions," the Japanese military commanders said.

The Japanese were in complete control of Shanghai and announced no Chinese would be allowed in the area under any circumstances for the next three days. The native quarter was a scene of desolation and destruction.

The Chinese refused to accept the Japanese idea of a neutral zone around Shanghai, demanding immediate and complete withdrawal of the Japanese troops. The Chinese commander of the 19th army said that hostilities would cease tonight unless the Japanese renew their attacks.

ROTARY CLUB ENJOYS MUSIC AT LUNCHEON

A delightful program of music was presented at the Rotary club's noon luncheon today by Mrs. Lee Clark, Mrs. J. B. Denman and Joe Clark, Mrs. Clark's son. Mrs. Clark contributed two vocal solos, a piano number and played with her son in a piano duet. Mrs. Denman accompanied Mrs. Clark in her vocal numbers.

Dr. Lee Clark, president of Randolph, was the program chairman. He explained that he had arranged for the dean of Texas Technological college to appear but that he was informed at the last moment the visitor would be unable to be in Cisco. Mrs. Denman, Mrs. Clark and Joe had stepped into the breach, he said, expressing his thanks for their cooperation.

The club, with no disrespect to the scheduled speaker, found the substitution delightful, in spite of the fact, as Dr. Clark stated, the women had had no opportunity to rehearse their numbers.

Milk Fund.
Mrs. W. J. Leach, appearing before the club in behalf of the West Ward Parent-Teacher association, presented a plan by which the association hopes to continue successful financing of its program of providing free milk to undernourished children in the schools. Sufficient funds for the program, which has resulted in inestimable good to the students supplied, have not been obtained through the ordinary medium of collection. The club was told, and the association has found it necessary to make other plans. She urged that numbers of business men agree to provide milk for one child each which would cost about a dollar a month.

Those willing to do so were requested to notify Principal Howard Goss, Mrs. Charles Jones, Mrs. John Shertzer, herself or any teacher at the West Ward school.

The free milk has produced remarkable results in undernourished students at the school, she declared. One child showed a gain of five pounds a week, while the quality of work done by the student is much improved. All cases where milk is given free are carefully investigated, Mrs. Leach said.

STOLEN GOLD LURES HUNTER DEVOTES LIFE TO DIGGING

CALVIN DISNEY

HARROGATE, Tenn., March 3. —Life for Calvin Disney, 56-year-old Cumberland mountain man, is just a lot of dirty digs. He lives in a cave high in the hills near here, and for the past three years he has done nothing but pick and shovel work with an $85,000 hidden treasure as his goal.

Disney is devoting his life to a hunt for a payroll board which he says was stolen by a robber band during the Civil War. The robbers, he believes, took to the mountains and hid their gold in a cave because of the parlous times.

The war eliminated the robbers from enjoyment of the money and now Disney, who says he has a map which will lead him to the payroll, is busy exploring the cave.

He is confident that he ultimately will turn up the spot where the $85,000 in gold is cached, and when he does he plans to hang up his pick and shovel and spend the rest of his life in mountain ease.

STATE RALLY FOR MURRAY AT EASTLAND

A statewide rally of friends of the candidacy of Gov. Wm. H. Murray of Oklahoma, for the democratic presidential nomination, will be held at Eastland at 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, March 19. R. N. Grisham, Eastland attorney and boyhood friend of the governor said today.

Gov. Murray has been invited to address the rally and has responded that if at all possible he would do so. Mr. Grisham said. In the event the governor is unable to attend he will send a spokesman. It was announced. There will also be a number of prominent speakers from the Murray headquarters qualified to present the issues upon which the Oklahoma governor is seeking the nomination at the national convention in Chicago. Mr. Grisham said.

During the two weeks intervening between now and the date set for the rally a statewide publicity campaign will be conducted in an effort to summon Murray supporters from every corner of the state to the Eastland rally. It was announced. Details of the program have not been fully worked out but announcement of these was promised in due time.

"Since the people pay the bills produce the wealth, do the work and fight the battles, it is high time they were having something to say about who shall be president," declared Mr. Grisham.

"With centralization of wealth, we have capitalistic control by the same interests," Grisham said. "They nominate our presidents; they dominate the prices of our commodities; they mold the policies of the government."

"They gave to the major parties two candidates in the last campaign, neither of whom was the choice of the people. The issues were delusive. The major corporations of the world prevailed. Had the other candidate been elected, still the major corporations would have prevailed."

"We have been Hooverized in time of peace as well as in time of war, and while the president has not told us just what to eat, he has about fixed things where we are not to eat."

"Let the rank and file of Texas send a representative if possible from every community. Let the people say what the party stands for and select a standard bearer who in every public act and in every public utterance has stood by the common people."

Grisham, former district attorney of a tier of 15 counties of which Sweetwater was the center, attended the institute at Springtown in Farker county where Murray obtained much of his schooling.

COSTS HIGH.

RENO, Nev., March 3. — High school educational costs are worrying Nevada just now as the result of a survey made by the Nevada Taxpayers Association, which shows a range per high school student for 1931 from $112.93 to $738.88 per student.

TORNADO HITS SMALL TOWN; TEN INJURED

HOUSTON, March 3. — Ten persons were injured and several buildings blown down today by a small tornado that struck Deer Park, 15 miles south of here, on the Laporte road.

All of the injured were Mexican strawberry pickers. Ambulances brought the injured to hospitals here.

John Meyers, store keeper at Deer Park estimated the wind's velocity at 50 miles an hour.

Power lines of Radio Station KTRH and the Houston Lighting and Power company were blown down. The radio station went off the air.

ALLOCATION OF STATE AID IS ANNOUNCED

Allocation of state aid among applying rural schools of the county has been announced by County Supt. E. E. McGlamery. Inspection of the schools was made by J. C. Griffin of the state department of education who will recommend distribution of approximately $15,400 among the schools. This is $1,400 excess of the total granted the schools last year, Mr. McGlamery announced.

The following distribution will be recommended by the state board: Yellow Mound No. 1, $562.00; Flatwoods No. 3, $744.00; Kokomo No. 9, $99.00; Curtis No. 16, $201.00; Bluff Branch No. 19, $573.00; Bluff Branch No. 19, $416.00; Elm No. 25, $455.00; Grandview No. 27, $387.00; Okra No. 30, $466.00; New Hope No. 33, $433.00; Dothan No. 34, $284.00; Ramsey No. 42, $605.00; Pleasant Hill No. 43, $363.00; Cook No. 47, $374.00; Center Point No. 49, $370.00; Mangum No. 53, $57.00; Carbon Independent District, $1812.00; Scranton, $1608.00; Pioneer, $1648.00.

In addition to the above, Mr. McGlamery announced, special aid will be recommended for Gorman and Desdemona. Gorman to receive approximately $500 and Desdemona $850. Industrial work in the rural schools will bring an additional $150 to the county.

"It is not likely that the money will be available for about two months," said Mr. McGlamery. "Since the awards must first be approved by the state board of education. Supt. Marrs has announced that the awards will be paid in the order in which they are granted and that means that Eastland county will probably have to wait until earlier grants are paid."

"The dates for giving college entrance examinations for unaffiliated schools have been set for April 27, 28, 29 this year. Examinations will be held at Alameda school, Seaton school and at Warner Memorial university in Eastland. The opportunity to secure affiliated credits is offered to any high school student taking these examinations. Teachers should talk over the matter with their students and notify the county superintendent of the number desiring to take the examination."

"The spring meeting of the Oil Belt Education association, which met last year in Eastland, occurs this year at Sweetwater. The dates are Friday and Saturday, March 11-12. The Friday evening session will be held at Alameda school, Seaton school and at Warner Memorial university in Eastland. The opportunity to secure affiliated credits is offered to any high school student taking these examinations. Teachers should talk over the matter with their students and notify the county superintendent of the number desiring to take the examination."

County Expenditures for Month Ending February 15, 1932, Aggregate $17,303.76

Expenditures totalling $17,303.76 approved by the commissioners of Eastland county for the month ending February 15, 1932, are listed below as taken from the records of the court. These expenditures are itemized, but in some instances do not show for what purpose the funds were used.

By far the largest number of items represented expenditures on the county roads in order to keep them passable during the unusually rainy weather that has been experienced this winter.

It should be noted that almost half the total represents payment on warrants for machinery and interest which is in the nature of investment and cannot be properly charged against current expenses. Deduction of that item of $8,259 reduces the total expenditures represented to $9,044.76 for the month.

When the cost of maintaining the county roads is deducted the total is further materially reduced.

Among other items of interest are $1,146.85 advanced to George W. Bryant; $504.64 for collection of delinquent taxes to W. J. Herrington and George Brodgon; $312 to Virge Foster for waiting on courts and so forth.

The News publishes the list in the belief that it will be of interest to the tax payers who are entitled to know how the county money is spent.

The following are the items:

A. H. Johnson, postage stamps	10.00
Mrs. Cleo Young, transportation for indigent	13.25
M. E. Lawrence, representing lunatic	5.00
C. F. Sheppard, part of salary	5.00

13 WORDS TO GUARD HEXERS FROM ENEMIES

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third and final article on the mysterious Hexers of Pennsylvania.

By JAMES A. SULLIVAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 3. —Thirteen short words guard a person from harm at the hands of a "wicked or malicious enemy," according to the hexa buch of the Pennsylvania Germans.

"Dallix, ix ux" one is directed to repeat for this magic spell. "Yea, you can't come over Pontio; Pontio is above Pilato."

The recipe is taken from "The Long Lost Friend," Johann Homann's handbook of present-day hexerei or pow-wow practice. In turn Homann, a pow-wow doctor of the early 19th Century, is said to have obtained most of his prayers and recipes from a similar work on "secrets of white and black magic" by Albertus Magnus, a 13th Century monk.

Wide Circulation
Both books are in wide circulation today and contain many practical, many curious and a considerable number of incredible and highly superstitious "secrets" for guarding a man, his family, and his belongings, including his cattle, from illness, injury, supernatural visitations and the hex spell.

Homann's formula for spell binding includes recital of a ritual substituted for the words that follow: the invocation of the Holy Trinity; "whoever is now stronger than these three persons may come by day or night, to attack me."

A special prayer to be spoken "on a Thursday morning before sunrise and in the open air," is provided to spell-bind thieves. Enemies are made to stand still with another ritualistic recital.

Nine Different Forms
Nine different prayer forms and two magic signs are printed for keeping one from "being bewitched, cheated or harmed" and from being "hot, cut, or thrust." All involve considerable recital of Biblical text.

MOTHERS MAY BRING BABIES TO MEETING

Mothers who are unable to leave small children at home in order to attend the meeting of the West Ward Parent-Teacher association Friday evening at 7:30 may bring them to the building where a nursery and a competent nurse will be provided for their care, Mrs. Homer Slicker announced today.

The meeting will be known as "Fathers' Night" and attendance of all fathers of children in the school is urged. In the attendance contest which is conducted at each meeting, a picture being given the room with the most parents present, the attendance of each father on the meeting tomorrow evening will count 15 points and the attendance of each grandparent will count 25 points. Mothers will count one point each, as usual, it was announced. Judge Virgil T. Seaberry, of Eastland, will be the principal speaker. There will also be a program by the children. Refreshments will be served.

WIDOW WRITES BOOK.
MONROE, Mich., March 3. — Although 92 years old, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Custer, widow of General George Armstrong Custer, noted Indian fighter is writing a book on the Civil War, relatives here were notified. Mrs. Custer, who was born in Monroe, has resided in New York City since the death of her husband.

NULLIFIED VERDICT.
FREMONT, Neb., March 3. — Richmond Vincent won a $7,500 verdict in a damage suit following death of his wife in a car accident. District Judge Spear set aside the verdict on the grounds that the husband had no right to ask for damages when he was suing his wife for a divorce.

DADS ATTEND SCHOOL.
DETROIT, March 3. — As a part of Father and Son Week here, 3,000 fathers attended school classes with their sons at Robert Burns school. The fathers sat in the same desks with their sons and recited lessons in reading, English, spelling and arithmetic.

Laurels Planted on City Hall Grounds

Six cherry laurel shrubs are being planted on the east lawn of the city hall lot to add much to the attractiveness of the grounds. The shrubs which will grow to a height of six feet and more, will serve to balance the landscape effect with their thick foliage.

BRITISH AERIAL FORCE CAUSES NATION WORRY

LONDON, March 3. — British aeronautical authorities are much concerned over Great Britain's increasingly inferior position as an air power as revealed by armaments statistics which most of the nations have submitted to the League of Nations for consideration.

A study of these statistics shows that Great Britain is now fifth in numerical air strength and is rapidly being overhauled even by Yugoslavia.

It is believed, however, that Great Britain's numerical inferiority is considerably offset by the exceptionally high standard of her Air Force personnel and the superiority of her types of pursuit planes to those of the other nations.

Statistics submitted to the League by the various nations show their relative strength in first-line aircraft and their total strength with all reserves.

	First Line	Total
	With All	Aircraft Reserves
France	1,687	3,000
Great Britain	706	1,434
Italy	1,567	1,567
Poland	700	700
Czechoslovakia	546	687
Spain	462	649
Yugoslavia	627	924
Rumania	599	799
U. S. A.	1,752	2,351
Japan	1,384	1,939

BRITISH ORDER FAST AIRPLANES.
LONDON, March 3. — A mail airplane, to attain a top speed of 200 miles an hour, has been ordered by the British Air Ministry.

The specifications require that it shall be designed for a cruising speed of over 150 miles an hour, carrying two pilots, 1,000 pounds of mail and sufficient fuel for 1,000 miles non-stop. Provision must be made for elaborate navigational equipment suitable for night and day flying.

A big increase in the use of air mail services during 1931, indicating steady growth of public confidence in the airplane, it is believed, was the prime factor in the Air Ministry's decision to order the new high speed mail carrier.

During last year 117,376 pounds of letters were carried out of Britain by air mail, an increase of 29 per cent over the figure for 1930 and 74 per cent over that for 1929. The greater part of this rise is attributed to increased public use of the established services rather than to the opening of new air mail routes.

Of this vast mailbag the Indian line, which also serves Egypt, Iraq and Palestine, took 35,000 pounds, the European service 35,000 pounds and the Central African route 5,457 pounds. The Christmas mail to India alone totaled well over two tons, nearly one ton of which was dispatched in one day — the highest figure yet attained for a single flight from this country.

ANCIENT TESTAMENT
TWIN FALLS, Idaho, March 3. — A New Testament, printed in 1583 A. D., by "Christopher Barker, Printer to Queen Elizabeth's moste excellent majesty," is the property of Rev. Howard Renwick Cannon, here.

FLAGGED TRAIN
GURLEY, Neb., March 3. — Fred Crees, station agent, clad in his pajamas, flagged a train to a stop a few inches from a broken rail. The break was discovered a few minutes before the midnight train arrived. Crees did not have time to dress.

LAKE BIRD CENSUS
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 3. — School children have taken a census of birds in Grand Rapids. The census, completed after three years, reveals there are 35 species of nesting birds in the city. A total of 1,500 nesting records were required to complete the census.

EMPLOYEES OF LINDBERGH ARE QUERIED

BOSTON, Mass., March 3. —A description of a house where it was stated "the Lindbergh baby will be found" was contained in an airmail letter to Col. Lindbergh and posted by a woman here today police announced. "It looks like a very good clue to me," police Supt. Crowley said.

BATES RANEY
U. P. Staff Correspondent

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 3. — State police today sought to obtain from present or past employees of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh information that might help solve the mystery of the kidnapping of Lindbergh's son, Charles A. Jr.

Hope continued strong that the child, seized from its crib Tuesday night, would be returned for ransom safe and unharmed. But silence settled over the Sourland mountain estate and police cleared the vicinity as the Lindberghs kept private any information they may possess.

HEADQUARTERS.

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 3. —This little country town, center of world-wide interest in a hunt for kidnapers who stole the Lindbergh baby once was headquarters for General George Washington.

John Proby secretary to Gov. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, and spokesman for the Lindberghs, told the United Press today that Miss Beekle Goff, nursemaid in Lindbergh home, had been questioned yesterday and again today in the hope she could give some information leading to finding the kidnapers.

There was no indication she could amplify her original story that she found the baby's crib empty Tuesday night.

Familiar With Site
Mrs. Dwight Morrow, grandmother of the stolen baby, was among those who held the theory that the kidnapers were persons unusually familiar with the habits of the Lindbergh family, the location of the nursery and the fact that, contrary to custom, the Lindberghs extended their weekend stay in the country instead of stopping with Mrs. Morrow at Englewood.

This theory kept state troopers active. They had questioned all available persons who had had employment around their state but it was said this questioning had developed no real information and cast no suspicion.

Meantime mystery covered the Lindbergh family movements. The colonel and his young wife still bore up courageously under the strain of uncertainty and waiting. They were ready to pay the $50,000 ransom, and state police said Lindbergh had established a contact with the kidnapers.

Through the night came word it was only a matter of hours until Baby Lindbergh would be restored. Yet, midday turned and the day passed on with no positive evidence that this was to come true.

However, mysterious developments indicated that the dwellers on Sourland mountain still lived with hopes of early restoration of fair-haired, blue-eyed Charles, Jr. "Quiet birdmen," air comrades of the flying colonel, offered their services to aid a colleague in distress. They brought forth offers from many quarters to help in aviation searches.

Developments of consequence were scanty.

Gov. Moore visited the Lind-

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

MAGNIFY THE NAME:—O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together.—Psalm 34: 3.

THE LINDBERGH KIDNAPING.

The daring kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby from its nursery in the home of its parents Tuesday evening has stirred the nation hardly less than the sensational, history-making flight of his father across the Atlantic to Paris in 1927. That kidnapers should enter a prominent home with such insolent daring and snatch a child from the very arms of its parents is hardly conceivable in the public mind, which naturally thinks of its idols as isolated, well protected individuals to whom the common ills and cares of life, as well as its common dangers, are non-existent. But every mother can readily place herself in the mind of Mrs. Lindbergh and every father can easily appreciate the emotions that distressed the heroic Colonel as he spent haggard hours in a sleepless vigil with the police.

We poor folk do not know what we are missing. A kidnaper would perpetuate a huge joke upon himself if he sought to kidnap a child of this writer, for instance. His sufficient punishment would be the derision of the public, not to speak of his evident chagrin when he discovered his intended victim to be yet without entity in the census of population.

But the point in the observation is that the two-year-old child of the small business or professional man or his employee may be left safely alone in its crib at night without any fear of its abduction needing to agitate the parental mind. Such a child is just as precious to its parents and theoretically, at least, as much a national asset as the child of wealthy parents; and it fills the home with a glow of cherubic splendor that neither the ten millions of Col. Lindbergh nor the unnumbered physical assets of all the Rockefeller and Fords could measure or purchase.

No doubt Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh are resentful of the sordid blessing which so suddenly revealed its menace to the wealth they held most dear. The same is true in other cases where children of rich parents have been kidnaped. That is the emotion upon which the kidnaper depends. The business would quickly cease to be attractive if the kidnaper found himself a foster father with the blessings of the responsible individual. Imagine the consternation of the culprit if he should receive in response to his threatening demand a note congratulating him upon his altruism in making it possible for the parents to pursue their evening avocations without nursery responsibilities or the necessity of parading their ignorance of simple arithmetic problems before a persistent youngster. The kidnaping business would flourish only so long as it required the kidnaper to restore the liability to its proper sphere.

The Lindbergh kidnaping case is one of those things that cap the climax. It has revealed as startlingly as no other instance of such crimes has revealed the extent to which this menace against peaceful society has grown. One may expect to hear of some drastic legislative action to parallel and assist equally drastic police action in stamping out this dastardly crime. Public sentiment, aroused by this outrage against a national hero, will accept no excuse from law enforcement agencies nor tolerate quarter for the guilty parties. In that it will exemplify the best enforcement for any law.

The kidnapers of the Lindbergh child carried their daring a bit too far for the good of their own profession.

FARM LOAN FUNDS ARE PROMISED.

Congressman Marvin Jones of Texas, chairman of the agricultural committee of the house, has been notified that the reconstruction finance corporation has $25,000,000 available for loans to farmers in addition to the $50,000,000 previously allocated from the reconstruction finance corporations for that purpose.

Lest we forget, O. W. Sherrill of Georgetown, a prominent banker, is in charge of the Southwestern agency with headquarters in the city of Dallas. Sherrill has an assistant, Dr. O. B. Martin who is the extension chief of the A. & M. college. Each county will have a loan committee to make recommendations on local applications which will be forwarded to the Dallas office. Spring is here. Planting season is coming. Business is business, action is action, and the demand is action on the part of those who are handling the loans.

Political Passing Show Interesting

as Candidates Jockey for Positions

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Very interesting to a close observer is the milling along of the political passing show. Newton D. Baker is in New York. He is closemouthed as a clam at high tide. His friends have advised him that silence is golden and a wise line of procedure would be to wait for a deadlocking at Chicago. His latest is an economic boycott of Japan. Wise old John Bull refused to join the boycott, for the reason that Mr. Bull has boycott trouble in India.

Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma is wearing out shoe leather pushing along the cause and the program of the second Andrew Jackson in Indiana.

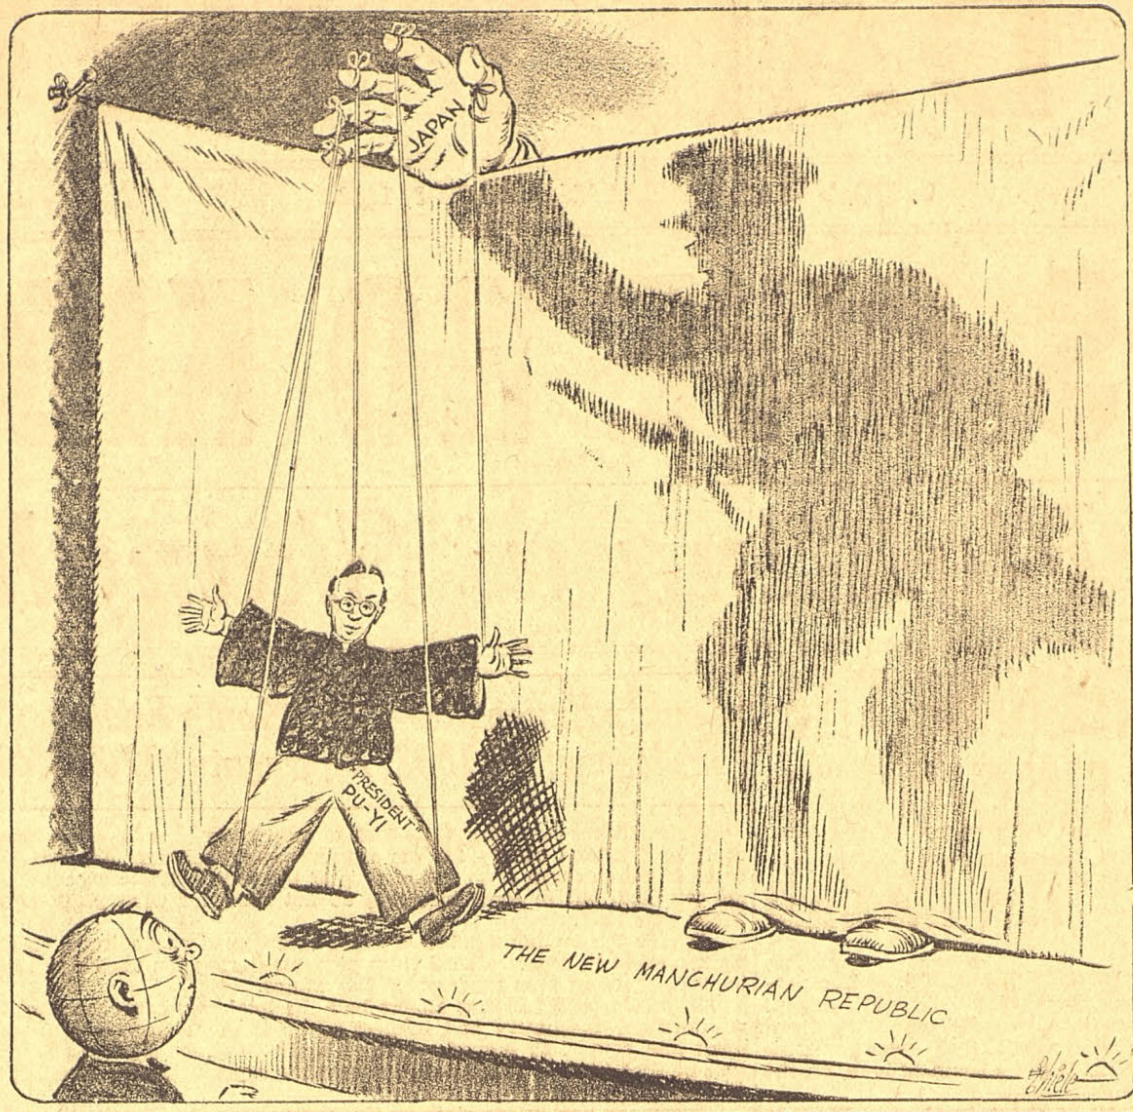

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt has just dismissed from high office Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, one of the big pillars of Tammany Hall. Farley refused to tell an investigation committee "where he got it," speaking of a huge bank roll, and now he is on the outside looking in. It appears that sheriffs away down here in Texas are not the only sheriffs who are accused of grabbing fat fees and other emoluments which are not looked upon as pickings for office holders.

Alfred E. Smith remains the man of mystery with the propagandists of the republican party of the East manufacturing publicity poison for the donkey and its trainers.

Three of four New England states will elect delegates in the month of March and South Dakota will make a choice which will have a great deal of bearings on the issues up-coming in the closing days of the month of February.

William Randolph Hearst's high-powered publicity army, probably the greatest organization of its kind in the world, is directed by master minds and the volume of publicity is growing greater and greater as time rolls on. Now the Alamo convention named Rep. Sam T. Rayburn as the head of the national Garner-for-President movement. Sam is something of a politician himself. He declared against the invasion of Georgia by Garner adherents for the purpose of larding delegates to the Chicago convention. Indeed, he let it be known that Speaker Garner was not planning an invasion of any of the American states. That his name will be preserved to the Chicago convention but that he is not muddying the waters or pushing along any stoppage movement for the very excellent reason that he has other fish to fry until the relief legislation and the 'big tax bill have been put over by the house of representatives.

John N. Garner speaks for himself. He sent his message to the president of the W. C. T. U. of Texas, and it appears to have covered all the ground. It should be kept before the American people. They are interested. This is what he said: "I have no intention of making a declaration with respect to any question with which congress does not have an immediate concern. The congress has many problems of tremendous import to the present and future of our country. Solution of these problems depends to a great degree upon harmony within the ranks of the democratic members. Thus far we have been successful in preserving harmony and I have no intention of making any declaration or otherwise doing anything that will disrupt this condition and thereby create a hazard to legislation vital to economic rehabilitation. I am not particularly interested as to how my determination in this respect will affect my political future. I am confronted with a difficult task, a task involving greater responsibilities than have fallen to the lot of the speaker since the World War. And my sole ambition is to discharge my duties in such a manner that I may be helpful to the American people in relieving the distressing conditions they are experiencing."

Leaders of the national Anti-Saloon League branded all the presidential possibilities on the democratic side named to date as wet. They declared undying opposition to all "democratic possibilities" and promised to use their money and influence to defeat the nominee of the Chicago convention if one of those listed at present should be named as the standard bearer of the democratic party. Indeed, a delegate from Northern state a life long prohibitionist, who questioned the undying fealty of Herbert Hoover to the prohibition cause was almost mobbed by his fellow delegates and very harshly as well as very aggressively commanded "to go away back and sit down." He saw the point, very meekly obeyed the command of his fellow crusaders and then, like a sorefooted soldier, he made his exit and all was peace and harmony and good will.

Speaking of politics, real and sham politics, recalls a slang saying of bygone days, "They are all doing it now."

"Portraits That Please"

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

That motor car traffic keeps growing.

It keeps crowding so in cities that there seems to be no end.

It gets so heavy that new rules for parking, even plans for widening certain streets are made, and when that is done the traffic proceeds to grow still heavier.

The great trouble is that when cities were first built motor cars were undreamed of, and little attention was paid to building streets and roads for the future.

Cities must plan now for the present and for the future.

Some way must be worked out to handle present conditions.

Needs for the future must be provided for by careful planning. Now is the time to plan. Every new road, new street, and any kind of highway must be built so it will be able to take care of the ever increasing traffic.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—The hungry unemployed, although this fact may not date them, should at least realize that they occasioned the most brilliant tempest of oratory heard here in many years and split both parties in the Senate as bitterly and clearly as any issue we have had.

Agitation for federal unemployment relief continues in Congress because of a strengthened belief in the need. But the two-week fight for the $750,000,000 LaFollette-Costigan bill, although unsuccessful, already stands as the most effective solid-front attack the minority Progressive group has yet made in Congress.

It was spectacular in the extreme. But it was also important because it drew more sharply than ever the line of cleavage between Conservatives and Progressives which becomes increasingly more strongly marked than the artificial division between the Republicans and Democrats.

Big Guns Thunder

THE individual performances of Borah, LaFollette, Costigan, Johnson and Norris—Progressive leaders in that fight—could best be compared with the thundering of big guns which tore great holes in impregnable ramparts.

For once, those orators were commonly fired with grim, bitter determination in a struggle against human suffering. They gave it everything they had. They attained their respective peaks.

Fess of Ohio and Reed of Pennsylvania, upholding the administration's opposition to the bill, were also impassioned, able and sincere in their own flashes of oratory. They personified the cause of Conservatism.

Unfortunately or not, however, you can usually move more people while promoting the cause of hungry women and children than you can in expounding theories of government.

Jim Reed's Successor

COSTIGAN of Colorado, a new senator on the Democratic side, took his place as one of the ablest

Senate leaders almost immediately. Excessively courteous and always unperturbed, speaking usually in quiet, even tones, he was perhaps the deadliest of the Progressive lot as he lashed the leadership of his own party, harpooned those who rose to face him in debate as neatly as Jim Reed of Missouri ever did the job and wound up his initial speech with the embarrassing theme song: "Billions for big business, but no mercy for mankind."

LaFollette and Costigan, after a prodigious amount of labor in the form of hearings, conferences, investigations and surveys, had come to the floor with the assurance of 14 votes and a promise from Democratic Leader Joe Robinson that their bill would be buried as soon as they had spoken their pieces.

Keep Banging Away

ALMOST overnight they had destroyed the contention that there was no need for any form of federal relief. They kept the bill before the Senate and, day after day, brought others into their camp until at length 39 senators either voted for or were paired for the bill. That sort of thing almost never happens in Congress.

One day Borah of Idaho "got mad." When word goes about that Borah is "getting mad" nearly everyone on Capitol Hill comes running to hear that famous voice hurled forth in wrath. No one else commands equal attention or gets so many people excited.

This time he was "mad" about the hungry unemployed and the pedantic Mr. Fess, who had been implying that Borah wasn't intelligent enough to understand why federal relief was more degrading than state relief. Poor Fess took a terrible licking, but it was his own fault.

Then it only required a characteristic polemic from Johnson of California, second only to Borah as an orator and fighting mad at the attitude of an administration he hates, to complete a presentation of Progressive principle which will long be remembered and is likely to reverberate through the political campaigns of 1932.

50,000 BABY TROUT
WINNEMUCCA, Nev., March 3.—Fishing will be better than ever in the streams of Humboldt county next summer as 50,000 baby trout were received from the State Fish and Game commission for planting. A shipment of federal fish is expected also.

COAT STOLEN

MALDEN, Mass., March 3.—A coat belonging to Police Commissioner Artemus B. Swezey was stolen from a closet in the First Baptist church while he was outside, helping a fellow parishioner push a stalled automobile.

TOLL ESTIMATED

CHICAGO, March 3.—Heart disease will kill 220 out of every 100,000 people in Chicago during 1932, it was estimated by the Chicago Heart association who have organized a drive against the disease.

93 HAS OPERATION

SPOKANE, Wash., March 3.—

Mrs. Mary Wood, 93 underwent a major operation.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION NEWS

From the Office of the County Agent and The Home Demonstration Agent.

How Can We Be Sure of Our Living On a Farm?

First—Grow a garden. A good garden will furnish most of our food all summer and about half of our food all winter. If we don't grow a real garden we will do without a lot of the best tasting, most healthful food anybody ever ate. You never see a farmer who has a good garden and orchard in the soup line.

Second—Raise some poultry. Who should eat more fresh eggs and fried chicken than our farm families? Where will we get them if we don't raise them? And what can we buy that will take the place of them? It is quite true that poultry products sell very low now but, 8 cent eggs are just as good to eat as those that sell for 40 cents per dozen.

Third—Have some pigs. Folks who are doing hard work need good meat to eat. How are we going to have fresh pork, cured pork, canned pork, ham or sausage when we want it and ought to have it, if we don't raise pigs?

Fourth—Keep some cows. No woman can cook meals without milk and butter. No farmer will ever buy all the milk and butter his family should have. The way to have milk and butter is to have cows of our own to supply us the year around.

Nine times out of ten, the farmer who doesn't raise these things hasn't the money to buy them and wouldn't buy them if he had the money. The farmer who raises these things will usually have money to buy anything else he needs. One of the best insurance policies any farmer can have is the garden, the cow the sow and the chickens.

There is something sadly wrong with the kind of farming that doesn't provide garden, chickens, pigs, cows and fruit to feed the family and furnish something to sell. Our successful farmers—the ones who stay in business—are the ones who first look after the home-grown food supply.

Let's make a factory of our farm, running the year around, turning out something to sell every week. This means making our farming a good business investment.

Wheeler to Terrace Farm.

O. P. Wheeler of Cook community had the county agent out Monday to assist in running terrace lines on the west forty. Where peanuts have been planted on this farm they were strip-rowed with grain sorghums to prevent the sand from blowing. The old log cabin which Mr. Wheeler built when he first came to this country and in which he raised his family still stands on the farm at the back of a home which he later built. Mrs. Wheeler is a good cook and the things we had for dinner were raised on the farm.

While in Cook community I stopped by and helped Wilburn Curtis run another terrace line, so that his entire farm would be protected by terraces. Cotton planted on his terraces last year made him half a bale per acre. A small orchard has a terrace run through it on the level with a dam at both ends to hold the water in. Fruit trees made a fine vigorous growth last year showing the advantage of the extra water thus provided. Mrs. Curtis had been making cheese, with the help of some of the neighbors. The young son belongs to the Cook 4-H club and is planning a club demonstration of maize grown on sub-soiled land.

Noticed lots of small grain grown on peanut land in that section of the county. These people are determined to stop the sand from blowing and build it up again to where it will produce profitable crops.

Federal Crop Production Loan.
A county committee and local committees to handle applications for government loans for crop production have been selected and are ready to function, just as soon as blanks and final instructions are received from the Dallas loan office. There is a loan committee in each town so that farmer borrowers may make their applications at their customary trading point.

Col. Wellman Patron Saint Of Pipe Users

THROUGH the years pipe smoking has been successively a rite, a crime, a fad and finally, an almost universal pastime. Although smoking started in America among the aborigines, modern Americans really re-imported the custom from Europe. Originating with the Mayans and Aztecs, who smoked pipes during tribal ceremonies, the custom spread to the West Indies where Columbus' sailors learned about it. One of them, Rodrigo de Jerez, after returning to his home town in Spain, became the first recorded European smoker. Citizens resented the matter to the Inquisition and Jerez landed in jail where he stayed for years. After being released he found other Spaniards had taken to the practice, thereby proving that pipe smoking is another good old Spanish custom.

The English, by making pipes fashionable under Elizabeth and James I, did more to spread smoking than any other nation. They acquired the practice mainly from the West Indies and Continental Europe. The Old World pipe smoking impetus spread among the American colonists after Raleigh started smoking in London.

Pipe smoking in this country gained rapidly after the Civil War. Returning soldiers, who had learned to appreciate the smoke of tobacco in field and camp, were largely responsible, just as those who fought in the World War gave cigarette smoking its greatest impetus two generations later.

Manufacturing processes also improved greatly after the Civil War. The Wellman method, discovered by a tobacco man in Quincy, Illinois, during the 1870's, was by far the most important of these. Wellman found how to treat tobacco so that it burned slowly and completely, producing a cooler smoke and a dryer pipe. If the pipe smokers of America were to choose a patron saint, Col. Wellman probably would be elected by an overwhelming vote.

The W. M. S. of the First Baptist church met Monday afternoon at 2:30 and rendered an excellent missionary program. The subject of the program was "God's Financial Plans for Men and Missions." The program was opened with the song "Jesus Paid It All", after which the leader, Mrs. Roy Rushing, gave a few of the current events of our work. Mrs. A. L. Greenhaw read a few scriptures setting forth the idea "Lest We Forget God's Blessings." Mrs. Rushing led the devotional reading II Cor. 8:7,9,12, her subject being the "Grace of Liberality." Prayer was led by Rev. Z. C. Chambliss. "The Three R's of Tithing" was discussed by Mrs. Chambliss. The hymn, "When Baptists All Learn how to Tithes" was sung with spirit and feeling. The playlet, "How Seven Tithers Learned How to Tithes" was rendered by Mmes. C. R. Henslee, Willis Mathis, P. N. Watts, W. B. Hilliard, C. E. Jones, Joe Gibson and Z. C. Chambliss. Mrs. E. J. Morrow gave a reading, "Tithing or Driving a Car." Rev. Chambliss spoke briefly on the subject "And Offerings." Closing hymn was "I Gave My Life for Thee." The dismissal prayer was led by Mrs. Greenhaw. Those present were Rev. and Mrs. Z. C. Chambliss and Mmes. W. G. Tate, Howard Williams, Willis Mathis, A. L. Greenhaw, R. N. Watts, C. E. Jones, Roy Rushing, W. B. Hilliard, O. R. Henslee, Joe Gibson and E. J. Morrow. Next week being "The Week of Prayer" for Home Missions we are especially asking every woman in the church to be present. (W. M. S. Reporter).

Mrs. Roy Ashburn and Mrs. I. N. Williams were shopping at Ranger Saturday.

Ed Parks and family and A. B. Henslee and family drove down to Cow Creek cemetery near Dublin.

He could not support them on the yearly stipend of $750. He determined to seek a better paying position. One of the DuPont kings of powder and finance, an industrial captain of worldwide fame, gave him a position with a salary attached of $1000 a year. DuPont made a discovery that the stenographer had the proper mettle and if given a chance would win his own place in the sun.

Now he had never been a street car conductor. He had never fielded any other position than that of stenographer until he entered the service of the House of DuPont. DuPont became more than his employer, he became his friend and benefactor and the stenographer of 35 years ago in time became the head of General Motors and a multi-millionaire.

Alfred E. Smith over his protest asked Raskob to accept the chairmanship of the national committee. He did so and he placed the democratic party on the map. Curse him or praise him, hate him or admire him, he made the national organization a going institution and his victories in 1920 and 1921 are largely due to the wonderful organization which has been built in less than four years. In his story he tells the sacrifices that a rich man must make who invades the realm of politics, the falsehoods which he must endure, and the slanders which are scattered broadcast in his path as well as in the trail that he has blazed. He tells it in his story which he never said "prohibition was inflicted upon the American people." This was a war cry of the ultra-pros four years ago.

He emphatically denied the allegation, but no correction has ever been made. Moreover, he says he is not in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment. He is in favor of the return of police power to the state in order that each state may handle the liquor question as a majority of the voters may see fit.

In other words he contends that states rights should be returned to the people and then that the ballot should be the thing at the polls of a commonwealth. He most aggressively declared that he was a democrat long before the nomination of Alfred E. Smith for the presidency and yet he has had more lives and greater circulation than even the charge that he said in 1928 that "prohibition had been inflicted upon the American people." Why not give the devil his dues? Why not read Raskob as Raskob portrays himself, the main points in his career, his travel upward from $750 a year as a stenographer caring for a widowed mother and half-orphaned brothers and sisters and the high point which came to him as an executive of the DuPont, a daring financier, a plunge into national politics, the financing of the democratic party to make it a going and aggressive concern every day in the year, whose proud boast is that he is not an office seeker and would not accept an office from president or governor and that he is willing to retire and become a rank and file after the Chicago convention has named a standard bearer and placed before the American voter a platform of principles and policies. In other words, "why not give the devil his dues?"

BRUSHING UP SPORTS By Laufer.

THEY ALL LAUGHED WHEN TIM HURST terminated a long-winded game and caught the 5:17 train from Philadelphia to New York. St. Louis was playing the Athletics and Hurst, when umpiring in Philly, always managed to get back to his home in New York after the games. Jack Powell was pitching for St. Louis and what the Athletics didn't do to his pitching isn't worth mentioning. As the Athletics were piling up runs, train time drew nearer. Tim looked at his watch from time to time and Powell, noticing this, stalled the more. Finally in the ninth, Powell deliberately walked the first three men. Hurst burned up and called out the next three men on successive strikes though every ball came close to being a wild pitch. Tim just had time to catch the train.

plans for a zone meeting to be held here March 11. Mrs. Turner displayed four penants to be awarded in a contest on memberships pledged, most subscriptions to the "Missionary Voice", and attendance records. A year book committee composed of Mrs. George Winston, Mrs. Wm. Reagan, and Mrs. W. G. Powell was appointed.

The meeting closed with the "Blessing Song." There were about twenty-five members present.

Miss Frances Coldwell was leader of the program which opened with a song. The devotional was given by Miss Mattie Lea McIntosh, and Miss Mary Beth Langston led in prayer. Talks on W. Y. A. work were given by Miss Blanch Mathews and Mrs. E. S. James, and Miss Fern Warren gave a reading. "Pals" were revealed, and gifts distributed. A surprise fruit and candy shower was given for Mrs. E. S. James. The hostess served delicious home-made candies throughout the evening.

Those present were Misses Mattie Lea McIntosh, Laura Jo Asbury, Blanch Mathews, Louise Karkalis, Jennie Lee Mathews, Fern Warren, Irish Renfro, DeAlva Graves, Yonnie Ray, Mattie Lea Kunkel, Lois Richardson, Lucille Bitch, Lucille Hicks, Mary Beth Langston, Marie Kennedy, Della Surles, Lillian Coldwell, Lillian Jobe, Mrs. E. S. James, and the hostess. There were six new members present at this meeting.

W. R. WINSTON SEEKS POST OF CITY COMM'R

W. R. (Bob) Winston today announced his candidacy for commissioner of the city of Cisco subject to the action of the voters at the municipal polls April 5.

Mr. Winston needs little introduction to the people of Cisco for, as he states "All the old timers know me. There are many new timers here that I do not know personally. I should be glad for you to investigate my character and ability."

He is making his first announcement for a political office in asking this election, he said.

In the following statement he set forth the principles upon which he asks the support of the voters:

"To the Voters of Cisco:

"I take this method of asking the people of Cisco to consider me as a candidate for city commissioner. I have lived in Cisco for twenty-six years. I have been in business here most of that time, and I am a property tax payer here. I have never run for a public office before.

I am in favor of reducing the city expenses as much as possible. I wish to cut the overhead expenses as much as possible, but at the same time to maintain an efficient administration.

"I would like to see the people of Cisco get as much water as possible for their money. I would like for the people to know how much water they get for their money. The water meters should be read just as the gas and electric meters are read.

"All the old timers know me. There are many new people here that I do not know personally. I should be glad for you to investigate my character and my ability."

"Respectfully submitted

"W. R. (Bob) WINSTON."

Pleasant Hill

Honor Students

Names of students of the primary room of the Pleasant Hill school who made the honor roll for the month of February were announced this week by Mrs. Vergie Hale, teacher.

The honor students were: First grade — Billie Gene Ramsey; Second grade — Elaine Altom, and Third grade — Louise Clark and Laverne Reich.

In announcing the names of the honor students, Mrs. Hale said, "I am very sorry so many students failed to make the honor roll in the month of February. Several failed to make it on account of sickness. Next time I hope to see each pupil's name on the list."

EXPRESSION OF THANKS AND APPRECIATION

We desire to express our sincere appreciation to all who so kindly aided us in connection with the funeral of our brother, John J. Clark, and to those who helped us in our bereavement by kind words of sympathy, beautiful floral offerings, and Christian acts of assistance.
