MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

Eliasville is on the map and Eliasville Weekly Journal is doing its best to push the town along. Raymond Leslie is its publisher and this is his viewpoint: "Just what is the physiology of the oil market? Why did oil suddenly drop from $3.50 to $1.00 per barrel? Then why did it rise from $1.00 to $1.25? Compared to July, the country produced just about as much oil in August. But in August, the exports decreased 4,500,000, so government reports tell us, while the home consumption increased but 1,250,000 barrels. It looks like that would mean another cut in crude, normally. But as a matter of fact $1.00 did not represent the market price of oil. All the time it was the figure that Standard paid for it. Nor was there any reason why the price should be slashed from $3.50 to $1.00. The production did not jump 250 per cent, nor did the demand slump 250 per cent. The law of supply and demand did not rule. There was some cause for the trick nevertheless, but whatever it was the rise last week is evidence that the situation has cleared up and the market will again be placed on a steady footing. As Harry Sinclair, the biggest of the independents said: "It looks like the oil industry has turned the corner." Raymond Leslie is reminded that during the summer months there were fleets of tankers tied to the docks in the ports of America. There was no foreign demand for petroleum products. Editor Leslie hasn't much time for the newspapers that fill their columns with scandals and overlook the big items. A case in point: The bigger the news item the less important it is. The story of the creation was told in a half a dozen or so words. The Arbuckle case has filled more space in the newspapers than did the battle of the Meuse-Argonne. A Fort Worth morning paper the other day carried three columns of Arbuckle, while a half dozen lines, buried inconspicuously on the market page, gave the first tidings from Pittsburgh about the advance of crude oil. It required a detective to find it. The Arbuckle case doesn't mean a thing to this section of the country—or any other section for that matter. But the little news item about Pennsylvania crude was the biggest piece of information the country west of Fort Worth has had in several months. With another advance or so in crude oil, we small citizens in this neck of the woods expect to have something else to do besides allowing ourselves to get shocked every few days by the news of scandalous going-ons which the big town papers gather from the four corners of the globe. These arns from San Francisco and New York make good light summer fiction, but they are no good for a busy town in the fall." Isn't it true that both saints and sinners dearly love to read countless pages of the scandalous doings of their spectacular brothers and sisters.

"Cotton is pouring into this city from all quarters" writes G. L. Inglish, editor of the Stamford Leader. "Our gins are running all the time and they are turning out a good staple. Stamford welcomes all the cotton to this town that may come. Her merchants are of the firs class; they invite everybody in this trade territory to come and price their goods. You will get large stocks to select from, while there is no such thing as profiteering." Editor Inglish has Ku Klux leanings. This is his viewpoint: "Judge Silas Hare, of Sherman, has denounced the Ku Klux Klan. That settles it. The Ku Klux Klan will now go to the grave and take off its togs and take to the woods. The real meat in some of this denouncing is found to be that some of the judges think the K. K. K. is usurping some of their powers—take the law in their hands and make criminals quit. Some of the courts are so lax, so the K. K. K. says, that some thing has to be done. It's a merry fight. Turn on the light."

Editor O. C. Harrison is the publisher of the Baylor County Banner and the Banner is a very interesting weekly newspaper. This editorial paragraph is taken from the current number: "Senator Chas. A. Culberson has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election. This is just as well, and Charlie could have done that a lot sooner and not have offended a lot of Texas folks. He says he is not in sympathy with prohibition, woman suffrage or the primary system, and he thinks he may be out of line with the views of many Texas voters. Wisest of men make mistakes at times. Senator Culberson has not taken himself out of the race; he has not made the announcement that he will retire at the close of his term; he is not declared against equal suffrage; he has not declared against prohibition; he has not declared against the direct primary system. Senator Culberson accepted prohibition long ago; Senator Culberson voted for the submission of the nineteenth amendment to the legislatures of forty-eight states; Senator Culberson is the foster father

RAIN POSTPONES SERIES; "EDGE" IS WITH YANKEES

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Saturday's world series ball game was rolled up in a wet blanket at the Polo grounds and put permanently to sleep early this afternoon. The fourth game of the series between the Yankees and Giants, officially and accurately announced as postponed on account of rain, will be played Sunday, atmospheric condition permitting. Tonight the rain had ceased falling and it looked as if Sunday might be clear, but probably cold.

The postponement was voted a sorry trick of the weather by the more than 20,000 eager fans who had reached the grounds before the rain began to fall at 1 o'clock and the many other thousands who about-faced on their journey to the ball park during the downpour in the hour before game-time. It was decidedly unwelcome, also, to the business managers of the series because of the necessity of honoring rain checks and other complications in the way of admission ticket arrangements which the disruption of the original schedule brought about.

In the Yankee managerial camp, however, there was no noticeable mourning over the break in the daily procession of contests. For the forenoon had brought the sad news that the team's most potent aggressive factor, Babe Ruth, would not be able to take part in the day's game because of an infected arm. The infection caused by the Babe's persistency in sliding to bases on top or a sore near the elbow, the heritage of a scrape of the flesh sustained in a slide to second late in the American League

NO REASON FOR TROUBLE WITH JAPAN--WOOD

"Loose and Foolish Talk" Deprecated by New Governor General of Philippines in Tokio Talk.

By Associated Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 8.—Talk of trouble between the United States and Japan was depreciated by Leonard Wood, governor-general of the Philippine Islands, in an address before the American-Japan Society here Thursday night. He insisted there was no reason why Japan and America should be unable to arrive at an understanding on all points.

"There has been a great deal of loose and foolish talk about trouble between America and Japan," said the governor-general, "but all this is nonsense. I think I know the American people well, and I am certain that on their part is no desire and no intention to dwell in any but the friendliest relations with their neighbors of Japan. The flags of Japan and the United States stood side by side in the great war in the battle for fair dealing between nations and respect for the rights of smaller peoples. They are going to stand together always on the side of right.

"Loose and idle reports by irresponsible persons have been largely responsible for this talk of strained relations, but our relations are not strained, and are going always to be good."

"Americans want to build up trade and commerce, but welcome open and fair competition. Americans are sure the Japanese ask only the same. There is room enough for all in honorable competition.

"We cannot hide the fact, of course that great issues may arise that will challenge all our will and diplomacy to reach a resolution, but there seems to be nothing in the present situation between Japan and America justifying even a suspicion of such an issue."

W. Cameron Forbes, former governor general of the Philippines, who came to Japan several days ago with Mr. Wood, said in a short address that he found among the Filipinos a natural desire for independence or rather desire that they be allowed to run their own government in their own way.

By instructions from the emperor, Viscount Kaneko decorated Mr. Wood and Mr. Forbes with the Order of the Rising Sun, first class. Other members of their party were given decorations of a lower order.

LOWER FREIGHT RATES EXPECTED IN NEAR FUTURE

Expects Railroads to Demand Lower Wages as the Only Means to Meet Reduction in Freight Rates.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Developments which were declared to presage early reduction in railroad freight rates and a clearing of the railroad situation generally, came here today from several quarters.

A group of prominent railroad executives conferred today with President Harding and Senator Cummins, republican, Iowa, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, and discussed steps toward freight rate reductions preliminary to the executives meeting at Chicago October 14.

Rate reduction also was the principal topic on the program at a meeting tonight of democratic and republican senators comprising the unofficial agricultural "bloc" senators attending the meeting said there was a wide and vigorous demand for rate cuts, as imperative to the agricultural interests.

Senator Cummins, after his conference with the railway executives, said he believed they would adopt at their Chicago meeting his suggestion for an immediate reduction of freight rates. No definite or formal assurances to this effect were given him at today's conference, he explained, but he expressed the opinion that the reductions would be made by the carriers voluntarily.

The carriers then, Senator Cummins said, probably would ask the railroad labor board to reduce wages or appeal to congress for legislation to meet the situation caused by the voluntary rate reductions.

SONS OF VETS TO ATTEND REUNION AT CHATTANOOGA

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—Announcement was made today by Lon A. Smith, state commander of Sons of Confederate Veterans, of his official staff to attend the annual reunion of the organization to be held at Chattanooga, Tenn., October 24-27.

Following is the personnel of the staff:

BUSINESS MEN DISPLAY SPIRIT OF OPTOMISM

Express Feeling That Swing Has Started in Other Direction and Expansion is Possible.

Radiating a feeling of optimism such as has hardly been approached here since the day of the Burk-Wagginer boom, and evidencing a feeling that the period of readjustment had been ended, and the time had come when with a prospect of success outside could be approached with a view to investment here and throwing their lot in with the people of Wichita Falls, over 100 of the leading business and leaders in the Chamber of Commerce—directors, members of the council or workers in the ranks of the organization met Saturday noon to initiate a resumption of the work of the organization toward the building and expansion of Wichita Falls.

The meeting was characterized by the analysis of business condition by a number of those present, with special emphasis placed on the favorable developments of the past few weeks, which were instanced as unmistakable evidence that the flow of the business tide had swung in the opposite direction than from the past few months.

New Financial Institution.

Probably the high light of the meeting came with the talk of Frank Kell, who, after recounting the advantages accruing to Wichita Falls business from the rise in price of oil, cotton and the good wheat crop of the past season, three of the principal products of the section; through the completion of the Wichita Falls and Southern into a new territory; through the almost assured building of another northern outlet through construction between Byers and Waurika; and the prospect of Wichita Falls being in the near future an important point on a trunk line railroad leading from northern market centers directly into Mexico, refered to in a recent speech at Breckenridge told of the prospects for a new and im-

SYNOD TAKES OVER REYNOLD ORPHAN HOME

Saturday Session Selects Sherman as Next Meeting Place and Transfers Albany Orphanage.

Saturday afternoon's session of the annual meeting of the Synod of Texas of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A. meeting in the First Presbyterian church was featured by the formal taking over by the Synod of the Reynold Orphans' Home at Albany. This orphans' home had been under the care of the Abilene Presbytery since its foundation some time ago and had received support from many of the Presbyterian churches in the state. However formal synodical possession was not taken until this time. The Reynolds Orphanage has been one of the chief interests of the local church, in its donations to state work, and to numerous other churches as well, and this action is one of the most interesting items that has come up during this meeting.

Sherman was selected as the meeting place of the Synod in 1922, during a few minutes given to business matters.

The hearing of routine reports from the many departments of the Synod made up the program for the day, outside the two matters of interest to the general public.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the delegates and visitors were taken for an automobile ride over the city, and to nearby points of interest.

Saturday night's program was of exceptional interest, being a demonstration by stereoptican slides, of every branch of work that the Synod of Texas is engaged in, both in home and foreign fields. This meeting, like the other night meetings, which have been made especially interesting to the public, was very well attended.

Tonight's program promises also to be of unusual interest, including addresses by Dr. James E. Clarke of Nashville, and Dr. J. H. Burma, president of Trinity University.

ADMITS BUYING WHIP TO LASH OTHER WOMAN

By Associated Press.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 8.—Mrs. George Thomas, charged with assult as a result of a whipping alleged to have been inflicted on Mrs. Billey Dailey by her and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Orville Thomas, today admitted at her preliminary hearing that she had participated in the whipping and had bought a whip for the purpose.

Mrs. Thomas testified that the reason for the whipping was a report of improper conduct between her husband and Mrs. Dailey.

DEMOCRATIC COUNCIL TO MEET SOON

Question of Next Party Candidate Not Expected to Come Before Meeting; First Call Since Election.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A call is to be issued by Chairman George White tomorrow for a meeting of a democratic national committee to be held within the next two or three weeks, probably at Chicago. Democratic leaders with whom Mr. White conferred at the capitol today said it would bring together prominent men and women party spokesmen from all sections on the country.

Chairman White is expected to make a detailed report on the recent presidential campaign and resolutions probably will be adopted in support of the conference on limitation of armaments.

Women to Attend.

"The meeting is to be called," Mr. White said tonight, "for general discussion of party welfare. It will bring together for the first time any democratic national committee women who have never attended a committee meeting."

The meeting will be the first held since the close of the national presidential campaign last November. Several months ago friends of William G. McAdoo urged a meeting but a call was refused by Chairman White.

The question of Mr. White's resignation was widely discussed at that time. That Mr. White would continue as chairman, for the present at least, was declared by party leaders here tonight.

Mr. White himself was non-committal except to declare he did not expect any developments at the meeting affecting his personal status. His friends in Ohio have been urging him to become a candidate for governor for the next election and some here declared that this development is probable. Among business affairs of the party to be discussed at the meeting is the deficit, which Mr. White said, has been reduced since November, but still remains a matter for settlement.

Governor Cox, it was said, is not expected to attend the meeting and the question of future candidates, leaders said, would not be raised, formally, at least.

HOLD WIDOW FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

By Associated Press.

CARLINVILLE, Ill., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Louis Klum, widow of a patent medicine vendor, whose bullet riddled body was found on the Chicago & Alton railroad tracks near Green Ridge yesterday, baffled Macoupin county authorities today, they said, in their efforts to obtain from her information which would throw some light on the circumstances surrounding Klum's death.

Mrs. Klum was in a cell near one occupied by Mrs. Kate Harmon, held for the murder of her step-son, Tom Harmon, several months ago. The Klums and Harmons were friends and neighbors at Green Ridge.

AGED TAX OFFICIAL OF TEXAS DEAD

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—W. R. Davis, 78 years old, the first tax commissioner of Texas, secretary of state during Governor Campbell's administration and a former member of the South Carolina legislature, died at his home here late today. The body was shipped to Mexia tonight for burial tomorrow.

EXPECT BOOST FOR PRODUCTS OF REFINERIES

Gas May go to 22 Cents as Result of Crude Advances, Oil Men Here Are Predicting.

Prices on refined products, which since the first advance in the posted price of crude, have been varying, keeping the buyers uncertain, and the market consequently very slow and unsatisfactory to the refiner, will be stabilized some time next week, with the result that buying will again be resumed, in the belief of local refiners, who see in the meeting of the Independent Oil Men's Association in Chicago, October 11 to 14, the solution of the problem.

Local refineries will be represented at the meeting, which will have present refiners, jobbers, brokers and retailers from every part of the United States. V. E. Jackson, of the Texhoma, W. E. Campbell and J. A. Germany of the Panhandle, and R. H. Brown of the Victor Refining Company, will attend from this city, according to plans Saturday. Mr. Jackson and possibly others will go to Kansas City today to be joined by other refinery representatives for a preliminary meeting of Texas Refiners on Monday, before going to the Chicago convention on Tuesday. At this time the problems peculiar to the refiners of this state will be taken up, it is stated.

Since the first raise of 25 cents in the price of oil, and through the subsequent raises, which brings the posted price to $1.75 tank car quotations on new navy gasoline has only increased 3 cents, ending this week at 14 cents, compared with 11 cents ten days ago. Kerosene is 5 cents asked, with little sold, and fuel oil is quoted at $1.25 a barrel, with some few sales reported a trifle under this figure. In none of these products has there been any demand this past week.

Buyers are showing a marked timidity in entering the market, it is stated, uncertain as to the prices, and preferring to wait until the market shows some stability in price.

This same condition obtains throughout the United States, according to advices from dealers at other points, and indications point to some stabilization movement to take place at the convention. To make conditions in the refined market correspond to those before the first raise in crude, gasoline should be selling at 17 cents, tank wagon, and 22 cents retail. This takes into consideration the latest two bit raise of crude, which of course has not yet affected the refined product.

TAKE STEPS TO GUARD AGAINST COAL SHORTAGE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The government intervened today to prevent any possible stoppage of coal production next March when the bituminous miners wage scale agreement expires, but its efforts after a four hour conference at the White House between President Harding, Secretaries Hoover and Davis and union officials were said to have been without immediate avail.

The conference was held when the central committee of the United Mine Workers of America, headed by John L. Lewis, president of the organization, came here at the request of President Harding to discuss with the administration the possibility of an undertaking arbitrate any ultimate differences with the operators prior to the expiration of the national agreements in March.

The committee was received at the White House at noon, being the guests of the president at luncheon and continuing the discussions until late in the day.

CHARGE 45 YEARS OLD MAN WITH ASSAULT

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—J. W. Calhoun, 45 years old, formerly of Austin but more recently of Houston, was arrested late today and formally charged with attempted criminal assault upon a thirteen year old Austin girl alleged to have been committed shortly before his arrest. The case will be turned over to the grand jury for investigation.

DECLARE LEADERS NOT INSANE; SEE CONDITIONS BAD

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 8.—Prediction that there will be no general strike on the part of the railroad transportation brotherhoods was made today by W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Lee based his prediction on his belief that "the average labor leader is not insane to the extent of not recognizing conditions as they now exist."

Asked whether he admitted the possibility of a strike on any one railroad, he replied that it was possible but he did not admit its probability.

Mr. Lee returned yesterday from Chicago, having supervised the canvas of the strike vote of more than 150,000 members of his organization taken in protest against the 12 per cent wage reduction ordered by the United States railroad labor board effective July 1.

Mr. Lee declined to be a party to the joint strike ballot of the other brotherhoods early in September, claiming nothing could legally be included in such a ballot according to the Esch-Cummings law except the wage reduction of last July since the labor board had not made a decision on other subjects mentioned in the joint ballot. Lee prepared and submitted a separate ballot for the train and yardmen. The vote returned, he said, was in excess of 88 per cent in favor of a strike, with the following provision:

"We further request that our membership on this road be authorized to withdraw from service on the same day and hour that the membership of either the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors or Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen of this road is authorized to stop work as a result of the vote taken by such organizations in connection with the wage reduction of July 1."

"The next move is up to the other organizations," Lee declared.

He made public in part a letter of October 3, addressed to Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the engineers; President W. S. Carter of the firemen, and President L. E. Sheppard of the conductors, follow:

"This communication is to notify you officially of the action of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in regard to the vote submitted to them relative to a reduction of pay.

"The vote of our membership on all roads affected by such reduction and reports filed with me show in excess of 88 per cent of the entire membership on all roads voting in favor of withdrawing from the service of their employer rather than continuing longer under the reduced rates of pay established by decision number 147 and addenda thereto of the United States labor board.

"I am pledged to grant the authority so requested and permit our membership to leave the service on any and all the roads requested to do so whenever I am officially advised by either of you that an authorized stoppage of work of membership of your organization has been authorized on any one or more of the roads in question.

"The brotherhood's chairmen have returned home and await further advice, which of course, I shall give them upon receipt of the action taken by your organizations. Such chairmen will not be reconvened unless there is occasion for doing so and I am, therefore, ready to cooperate with one or all of you to the fullest extent when called upon officially by you to act."

Mr. Lee said he will return to Chicago Tuesday next in order to be present when the ballots of the other organizations have all been counted and to be on hand for any action taken by them.

BIG PROPERTY OWNERS COME TO CITY'S RESCUE

Pay Nearly $50,000 in Advance in Course of Effort to Avert City Borrowing.

Almost certain assurance that the city will be able to go through the fall without extended borrowing, causing an increased expense of interest to be borne by the city, was given Saturday when in connection with the campaign to collect $100,000 worth of city taxes, City Tax Collector H. J. Anderson announced that some of the banks, corporations and wealthy property owners had come to his assistance with payments which jumped the totals from $6112.71 to a total of $54,864.69.

The total amounts paid to the city treasurer since the last report, according to Mr. Anderson's report amounted to $48,751.69, an amount only slightly below half of the total amount wanted by October 15 and all collected within twenty-four hours.

Complimenting the spirit of Wichita Falls, Mr. Anderson said that in every case but one, the citizens when approached in search of early collections had expressed a desire to aid the city and in many cases are making sacrifices in order to help the city, which has in so many ways helped them.

"And with this kind of co-operation we are certain to have the quota collected before closing time next Saturday evening," Mr. Anderson added.

Wichitans who made their payments in the last quota are announced as follows:

C. C. Willard.
R. H. Peterson.
L. I. Lucy.
Mrs. C. A. Thornsbury.
J. M. Cloud.
Mrs. Emmeline McIntosh.

SPECIALIST HOPES TO RESTORE SIGHT OF SENATOR GORE

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 8.—Hope of restoration of the eyesight of former Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, who has been blind for forty years, was expressed today by Dr. Samuel J. Harris of this city, an eye specialist, who has been treating Mr. Gore. Dr. Harris gave the first treatment at Washington a few weeks ago and he said gave Mr. Gore a perception light.

A telegram from the senator's secretary informed the physician that Mr. Gore's eyes were becoming very sensitive to sunlight. Dr. Harris will go to Washington tonight to see his patient.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 8.—Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of A. and M. College, left today for Washington where he will confer with federal department officials on matters pertaining to the college.

BI-PARTISAN SUPPORT ON TAX SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A movement looking to bi-partisan support for the amendments to the tax revision bill agreed upon by republican leaders was put underway today in the senate. Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, a leader among the senators from western states who insisted on the committee program, held several conferences with Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the democratic leader in the tax fight, but apparently a plan discussed was that of having the revised amendments reported out by unanimous vote of the senate finance committee, republicans and democrats, and supported on the floor by leaders on both sides.

The democrats are represented as looking with favor on most of the amendments, but they are not satisfied with regard to the proposed taxes on corporations, insisting that a revenue in excess of that proposed be obtained from that source.

RAIN POSTPONES SERIES; "EDGE" IS WITH YANKEES

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Saturday's world series ball game was rolled up in a wet blanket at the Polo grounds and put permanently to sleep early this afternoon. The fourth game of the series between the Yankees and Giants, officially and accurately announced as postponed on account of rain, will be played Sunday, atmospheric condition permitting. Tonight the rain had ceased falling and it looked as if Sunday might be clear, but probably cold.

The postponement was voted a sorry trick of the weather by the more than 20,000 eager fans who had reached the grounds before the rain began to fall at 1 o'clock and the many other thousands who about-faced on their journey to the ball park during the downpour in the hour before game-time. In the Yankee managerial camp, however, there was no noticeable mourning over the break in the daily procession of contests. For the forenoon had brought the sad news that the team's most potent aggressive factor, Babe Ruth, would not be able to take part in the day's game because of an infected arm. The infection caused by the Babe's persistency in sliding to bases on top or a sore near the elbow, the heritage of a scrape of the flesh sustained in a slide to second late in the American League

By Associated Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 8.—Talk of trouble between the United States and Japan was depreciated by Leonard Wood, governor-general of the Philippine Islands, in an address before the American-Japan Society here Thursday night. He insisted there was no reason why Japan and America should be unable to arrive at an understanding on all points.

"There has been a great deal of loose and foolish talk about trouble between America and Japan," said the governor-general, "but all this is nonsense. I think I know the American people well, and I am certain that on their part is no desire and no intention to dwell in any but the friendliest relations with their neighbors of Japan. The flags of Japan and the United States stood side by side in the great war in the battle for fair dealing between nations and respect for the rights of smaller peoples. They are going to stand together always on the side of right.

"Loose and idle reports by irresponsible persons have been largely responsible for this talk of strained relations, but our relations are not strained, and are going always to be good."

"Americans want to build up trade and commerce, but welcome open and fair competition. Americans are sure the Japanese ask only the same. There is room enough for all in honorable competition.

"We cannot hide the fact, of course that great issues may arise that will challenge all our will and diplomacy to reach a resolution, but there seems to be nothing in the present situation between Japan and America justifying even a suspicion of such an issue."

W. Cameron Forbes, former governor general of the Philippines, who came to Japan several days ago with Mr. Wood, said in a short address that he found among the Filipinos a natural desire for independence or rather desire that they be allowed to run their own government in their own way.

By instructions from the emperor, Viscount Kaneko decorated Mr. Wood and Mr. Forbes with the Order of the Rising Sun, first class. Other members of their party were given decorations of a lower order.

Expects Railroads to Demand Lower Wages as the Only Means to Meet Reduction in Freight Rates.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Developments which were declared to presage early reduction in railroad freight rates and a clearing of the railroad situation generally, came here today from several quarters.

A group of prominent railroad executives conferred today with President Harding and Senator Cummins, republican, Iowa, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, and discussed steps toward freight rate reductions preliminary to the executives meeting at Chicago October 14.

Rate reduction also was the principal topic on the program at a meeting tonight of democratic and republican senators comprising the unofficial agricultural "bloc" senators attending the meeting said there was a wide and vigorous demand for rate cuts, as imperative to the agricultural interests.

Senator Cummins, after his conference with the railway executives, said he believed they would adopt at their Chicago meeting his suggestion for an immediate reduction of freight rates. No definite or formal assurances to this effect were given him at today's conference, he explained, but he expressed the opinion that the reductions would be made by the carriers voluntarily.

The carriers then, Senator Cummins said, probably would ask the railroad labor board to reduce wages or appeal to congress for legislation to meet the situation caused by the voluntary rate reductions.

SONS OF VETS TO ATTEND REUNION AT CHATTANOOGA

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—Announcement was made today by Lon A. Smith, state commander of Sons of Confederate Veterans, of his official staff to attend the annual reunion of the organization to be held at Chattanooga, Tenn., October 24-27.

Following is the personnel of the staff:

BUSINESS MEN DISPLAY SPIRIT OF OPTOMISM

Express Feeling That Swing Has Started in Other Direction and Expansion is Possible.

Radiating a feeling of optimism such as has hardly been approached here since the day of the Burk-Wagginer boom, and evidencing a feeling that the period of readjustment had been ended, and the time had come when with a prospect of success outside could be approached with a view to investment here and throwing their lot in with the people of Wichita Falls, over 100 of the leading business and leaders in the Chamber of Commerce—directors, members of the council or workers in the ranks of the organization met Saturday noon to initiate a resumption of the work of the organization toward the building and expansion of Wichita Falls.

The meeting was characterized by the analysis of business condition by a number of those present, with special emphasis placed on the favorable developments of the past few weeks, which were instanced as unmistakable evidence that the flow of the business tide had swung in the opposite direction than from the past few months.

New Financial Institution.

Probably the high light of the meeting came with the talk of Frank Kell, who, after recounting the advantages accruing to Wichita Falls business from the rise in price of oil, cotton and the good wheat crop of the past season, three of the principal products of the section; through the completion of the Wichita Falls and Southern into a new territory; through the almost assured building of another northern outlet through construction between Byers and Waurika; and the prospect of Wichita Falls being in the near future an important point on a trunk line railroad leading from northern market centers directly into Mexico, refered to in a recent speech at Breckenridge told of the prospects for a new and im-

SYNOD TAKES OVER REYNOLD ORPHAN HOME

Saturday Session Selects Sherman as Next Meeting Place and Transfers Albany Orphanage.

Saturday afternoon's session of the annual meeting of the Synod of Texas of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A. meeting in the First Presbyterian church was featured by the formal taking over by the Synod of the Reynold Orphans' Home at Albany. This orphans' home had been under the care of the Abilene Presbytery since its foundation some time ago and had received support from many of the Presbyterian churches in the state. However formal synodical possession was not taken until this time. The Reynolds Orphanage has been one of the chief interests of the local church, in its donations to state work, and to numerous other churches as well, and this action is one of the most interesting items that has come up during this meeting.

Sherman was selected as the meeting place of the Synod in 1922, during a few minutes given to business matters.

The hearing of routine reports from the many departments of the Synod made up the program for the day, outside the two matters of interest to the general public.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the delegates and visitors were taken for an automobile ride over the city, and to nearby points of interest.

Saturday night's program was of exceptional interest, being a demonstration by stereoptican slides, of every branch of work that the Synod of Texas is engaged in, both in home and foreign fields. This meeting, like the other night meetings, which have been made especially interesting to the public, was very well attended.

Tonight's program promises also to be of unusual interest, including addresses by Dr. James E. Clarke of Nashville, and Dr. J. H. Burma, president of Trinity University.

ADMITS BUYING WHIP TO LASH OTHER WOMAN

By Associated Press.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 8.—Mrs. George Thomas, charged with assult as a result of a whipping alleged to have been inflicted on Mrs. Billey Dailey by her and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Orville Thomas, today admitted at her preliminary hearing that she had participated in the whipping and had bought a whip for the purpose.

Mrs. Thomas testified that the reason for the whipping was a report of improper conduct between her husband and Mrs. Dailey.

DEMOCRATIC COUNCIL TO MEET SOON

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A call is to be issued by Chairman George White tomorrow for a meeting of a democratic national committee to be held within the next two or three weeks, probably at Chicago. Democratic leaders with whom Mr. White conferred at the capitol today said it would bring together prominent men and women party spokesmen from all sections on the country.

Chairman White is expected to make a detailed report on the recent presidential campaign and resolutions probably will be adopted in support of the conference on limitation of armaments.

Women to Attend.

"The meeting is to be called," Mr. White said tonight, "for general discussion of party welfare. It will bring together for the first time any democratic national committee women who have never attended a committee meeting."

The meeting will be the first held since the close of the national presidential campaign last November. Several months ago friends of William G. McAdoo urged a meeting but a call was refused by Chairman White.

The question of Mr. White's resignation was widely discussed at that time. That Mr. White would continue as chairman, for the present at least, was declared by party leaders here tonight.

Mr. White himself was non-committal except to declare he did not expect any developments at the meeting affecting his personal status. His friends in Ohio have been urging him to become a candidate for governor for the next election and some here declared that this development is probable. Among business affairs of the party to be discussed at the meeting is the deficit, which Mr. White said, has been reduced since November, but still remains a matter for settlement.

Governor Cox, it was said, is not expected to attend the meeting and the question of future candidates, leaders said, would not be raised, formally, at least.

HOLD WIDOW FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

By Associated Press.

CARLINVILLE, Ill., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Louis Klum, widow of a patent medicine vendor, whose bullet riddled body was found on the Chicago & Alton railroad tracks near Green Ridge yesterday, baffled Macoupin county authorities today, they said, in their efforts to obtain from her information which would throw some light on the circumstances surrounding Klum's death.

Mrs. Klum was in a cell near one occupied by Mrs. Kate Harmon, held for the murder of her step-son, Tom Harmon, several months ago. The Klums and Harmons were friends and neighbors at Green Ridge.

AGED TAX OFFICIAL OF TEXAS DEAD

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—W. R. Davis, 78 years old, the first tax commissioner of Texas, secretary of state during Governor Campbell's administration and a former member of the South Carolina legislature, died at his home here late today. The body was shipped to Mexia tonight for burial tomorrow.

EXPECT BOOST FOR PRODUCTS OF REFINERIES

Gas May go to 22 Cents as Result of Crude Advances, Oil Men Here Are Predicting.

Prices on refined products, which since the first advance in the posted price of crude, have been varying, keeping the buyers uncertain, and the market consequently very slow and unsatisfactory to the refiner, will be stabilized some time next week, with the result that buying will again be resumed, in the belief of local refiners, who see in the meeting of the Independent Oil Men's Association in Chicago, October 11 to 14, the solution of the problem.

Local refineries will be represented at the meeting, which will have present refiners, jobbers, brokers and retailers from every part of the United States. V. E. Jackson, of the Texhoma, W. E. Campbell and J. A. Germany of the Panhandle, and R. H. Brown of the Victor Refining Company, will attend from this city, according to plans Saturday. Mr. Jackson and possibly others will go to Kansas City today to be joined by other refinery representatives for a preliminary meeting of Texas Refiners on Monday, before going to the Chicago convention on Tuesday. At this time the problems peculiar to the refiners of this state will be taken up, it is stated.

Since the first raise of 25 cents in the price of oil, and through the subsequent raises, which brings the posted price to $1.75 tank car quotations on new navy gasoline has only increased 3 cents, ending this week at 14 cents, compared with 11 cents ten days ago. Kerosene is 5 cents asked, with little sold, and fuel oil is quoted at $1.25 a barrel, with some few sales reported a trifle under this figure. In none of these products has there been any demand this past week.

Buyers are showing a marked timidity in entering the market, it is stated, uncertain as to the prices, and preferring to wait until the market shows some stability in price.

This same condition obtains throughout the United States, according to advices from dealers at other points, and indications point to some stabilization movement to take place at the convention. To make conditions in the refined market correspond to those before the first raise in crude, gasoline should be selling at 17 cents, tank wagon, and 22 cents retail. This takes into consideration the latest two bit raise of crude, which of course has not yet affected the refined product.

TAKE STEPS TO GUARD AGAINST COAL SHORTAGE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The government intervened today to prevent any possible stoppage of coal production next March when the bituminous miners wage scale agreement expires, but its efforts after a four hour conference at the White House between President Harding, Secretaries Hoover and Davis and union officials were said to have been without immediate avail.

The conference was held when the central committee of the United Mine Workers of America, headed by John L. Lewis, president of the organization, came here at the request of President Harding to discuss with the administration the possibility of an undertaking arbitrate any ultimate differences with the operators prior to the expiration of the national agreements in March.

The committee was received at the White House at noon, being the guests of the president at luncheon and continuing the discussions until late in the day.

CHARGE 45 YEARS OLD MAN WITH ASSAULT

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—J. W. Calhoun, 45 years old, formerly of Austin but more recently of Houston, was arrested late today and formally charged with attempted criminal assault upon a thirteen year old Austin girl alleged to have been committed shortly before his arrest. The case will be turned over to the grand jury for investigation.

DECLARE LEADERS NOT INSANE; SEE CONDITIONS BAD

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 8.—Prediction that there will be no general strike on the part of the railroad transportation brotherhoods was made today by W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Lee based his prediction on his belief that "the average labor leader is not insane to the extent of not recognizing conditions as they now exist."

Asked whether he admitted the possibility of a strike on any one railroad, he replied that it was possible but he did not admit its probability.

Mr. Lee returned yesterday from Chicago, having supervised the canvas of the strike vote of more than 150,000 members of his organization taken in protest against the 12 per cent wage reduction ordered by the United States railroad labor board effective July 1.

Mr. Lee declined to be a party to the joint strike ballot of the other brotherhoods early in September, claiming nothing could legally be included in such a ballot according to the Esch-Cummings law except the wage reduction of last July since the labor board had not made a decision on other subjects mentioned in the joint ballot. Lee prepared and submitted a separate ballot for the train and yardmen. The vote returned, he said, was in excess of 88 per cent in favor of a strike, with the following provision:

"We further request that our membership on this road be authorized to withdraw from service on the same day and hour that the membership of either the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors or Brotherehood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen of this road is authorized to stop work as a result of the vote taken by such organizations in connection with the wage reduction of July 1."

"The next move is up to the other organizations," Lee declared.

He made public in part a letter of October 3, addressed to Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the engineers; President W. S. Carter of the firemen, and President L. E. Sheppard of the conductors, follow:

"This communication is to notify you officially of the action of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in regard to the vote submitted to them relative to a reduction of pay.

"The vote of our membership on all roads affected by such reduction and reports filed with me show in excess of 88 per cent of the entire membership on all roads voting in favor of withdrawing from the service of their employer rather than continuing longer under the reduced rates of pay established by decision number 147 and addenda thereto of the United States labor board.

"I am pledged to grant the authority so requested and permit our membership to leave the service on any and all the roads requested to do so whenever I am officially advised by either of you that an authorized stoppage of work of membership of your organization has been authorized on any one or more of the roads in question.

"The brotherhood's chairmen have returned home and await further advice, which of course, I shall give them upon receipt of the action taken by your organizations. Such chairmen will not be reconvened unless there is occasion for doing so and I am, therefore, ready to cooperate with one or all of you to the fullest extent when called upon officially by you to act."

Mr. Lee said he will return to Chicago Tuesday next in order to be present when the ballots of the other organizations have all been counted and to be on hand for any action taken by them.

BIG PROPERTY OWNERS COME TO CITY'S RESCUE

Pay Nearly $50,000 in Advance in Course of Effort to Avert City Borrowing.

Almost certain assurance that the city will be able to go through the fall without extended borrowing, causing an increased expense of interest to be borne by the city, was given Saturday when in connection with the campaign to collect $100,000 worth of city taxes, City Tax Collector H. J. Anderson announced that some of the banks, corporations and wealthy property owners had come to his assistance with payments which jumped the totals from $6112.71 to a total of $54,864.60.

The total amounts paid to the city treasurer since the last report, according to Mr. Anderson's report amounted to $48,751.69, an amount only slightly below half of the total amount wanted by October 15 and all collected within twenty-four hours.

Complimenting the spirit of Wichita Falls, Mr. Anderson said that in every case but one, the citizens when approached in search of early collections had expressed a desire to aid the city and in many cases are making sacrifices in order to help the city, which has in so many ways helped them.

"And with this kind of co-operation we are certain to have the quota collected before closing time next Saturday evening," Mr. Anderson added.

C. C. Willard.
R. H. Peterson.
L. L. Lucy.
Mrs. C. A. Thornsbury.
J. M. Cloud.
Mrs. Emmeline McIntosh.

SPECIALIST HOPES TO RESTORE SIGHT OF SENATOR GORE

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 8.—Hope of restoration of the eyesight of former Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, who has been blind for forty years, was expressed today by Dr. Samuel J. Harris of this city, an eye special ist, who has been treating Mr. Gore. Dr. Harris gave the first treatment at Washington a few weeks ago and he said gave Mr. Gore a perception light.

A telegram from the senator's secretary informed the physician that Mr. Gore's eyes were becoming very sensitive to sunlight. Dr. Harris will go to Washington tonight to see his patient.

GOES TO WASHINGTON IN INTEREST A. AND M.

By Associated Press.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 8.—Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of A. and M. College, left today for Washington where he will confer with federal department officials on matters pertaining to the college.

BI-PARTISAN SUPPORT ON TAX SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A movement looking to bi-partisan support for the amendments to the tax revision bill agreed upon by republican leaders was put underway today in the senate. Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, a leader among the senators from western states who insisted on the committee program, held several conferences with Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the democratic leader in the tax fight, but apparently a plan discussed was that of having the revised amendments reported out by unanimous vote of the senate finance committee, republicans and democrats, and supported on the floor by leaders on both sides.

The democrats are represented as looking with favor on most of the amendments, but they are not satisfied with regard to the proposed taxes on corporations, insisting that a revenue in excess of that proposed be obtained from that source.

SPRING WHEAT AND CORN CROPS GO OFF DURING SEPTEMBER

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Spring wheat production showed a reduction of almost 13,200,000 bushels and corn a reduction of 22,800,000 bushels compared with a month ago, the department of agriculture's October crop report today indicated. White potato prospects, however, showed an increase of 22,800,000 bushels, and tobacco an increase of 43,200,000 bushels.

The loss to the corn crop during September from storms and insects, the department announced in a statement, was greater than the benefits from generally ample moisture and lack of frosts. Much corn was thrown down by the early September storms through the central states and is suffering serious damage from mould and rot. There was loss of 17,000,000 bushels each in Illinois and Missouri and 5,000,000 bushels in Iowa. The net loss for September of 22,800,000 bushels in the prospective crop is, however, less than 1 per cent and the crop promises to be among the best ever grown considering quality and quantity, the department announced.

While the corn crop is only 60,000,000 bushels, or 2 per cent, less than last year, oats is shorter by 448,000,000 bushels, or 30 per cent, less than a year ago. The condition of oats is the lowest on record, the crop being extremely light. The increased potato prospects are due to ample moisture and absence of frosts during September.

This year's crop production as forecast by the department of agriculture today in its monthly report, basing the estimates on conditions prevailing October 1, follows:

All wheat, 740,655,000 bushels.
Corn 3,363,063,000 bushels.
Oats 1,078,519,000 bushels.
Barley 165,390,000 bushels.
Buckwheat 14,263,000.
White potatoes 345,844,000.
Sweet potatoes 100,569,000.
Flax 8,878,000.
Rice 33,020,000.
Tobacco 901,564,000 pounds.
Peaches 33,195,000 bushels.
Apples 109,710,000 bushels.
Sugar beets 7,916,000 tons.
Kafirs 127,930,000 bushels.
Peanuts 31,898,000 bushels.
Pecans 9,732,000 bushels.

The condition of the crops on October 1, or at time of harvest, was announced as follows:

Corn 84.8 per cent of a normal.
White potatoes 66.5.
Flax seed 66.8
Rice 84.6.
Tobacco 75.6.
Sugar beets 89.3.

Ohio, condition 88; production 150,-093,000; Indiana, 80; and 169,771,-000; Illinois, 81 and 360,058,000; Minnesota, 95 and 120,724,000; Iowa 91 and 419,423,000; Missouri, 82 and 189,205,000; South Dakota, 89 and 111,336,000; Nebraska, 83 and 217,-910,000; Kansas, 74 and 124,39,000; Kentucky, 80 and 89,325,000; Texas, 72 and 75,308,000; Oklahoma 85 and 86,790,000.

The preliminary estimate of spring wheat production by states was announced as follows: Minnesota, 21,-586,000 bushels; North Dakota, 65,-308,000; South Dakota, 23,436,000; Montana, 17,342,000; Washington, 18,690,000.

The preliminary estimate of oats production by important producing states was announced as: Illinois, 114,082,000 bushels; Wisconsin, 63,-860,000; Minnesota, 82,560,000; Iowa 157,846,000.

er of the direct primary system in Texas. Regardless of all this there are Democrats who have fought the political battles of the veteran for years and years who are hoping that he will see his way clear to retire to private life at the close of his present term. He made Texas a magnificent attorney general; he made Texas one of her greatest governors; he made Texas a great senator but his health is broken and if the democrats ever needed aggressive and able men in the upper hall of congress they need them today."

Editor Sam M. Braswell of the Clarendon News, has a viewpoint. It concerns the State Fair of Texas and the Donley exhibit. Read his editorial: "Over and in spite of fearful odds the Donley County exhibit at the State Fair at Dallas is in place today where thousands may gain first-hand knowledge of the wonderful productivity of our great county. There have been those who seemed to wish that our exhibit would not be sent to Dallas; there have been those who seemingly cared not a whit whether it went or not; there have been those who claimed to care a great deal, but who did not contribute a penny to the contingent expense. But, praise be, there is in Donley County a faithful and fearless few, whose dauntless determination and liberal generosity made the exhibit possible and to them we owe its presence in the agricultural exhibit building at Dallas today. These men are the Columbuses of the age, who dream of greater worlds and newer worlds and who dare to 'sail on' across uncharted seas while their conservative fellows prefer to sit idly by. Oh, well, the exhibit is in Dallas today, just the same, and those who did nothing will benefit by the prestige of Donley County, just as the scoffers have always benefitted by the grit and determination of exploring conquerors."

"Thanks the Record News for its write-ups on the Call Field test well," remarked Cyrus Edwards to H. N. Y. "We have secured over half the amount needed. Some of the Refinery panhandle men have joined us. We have the cooperation of the Sun Company. We would like to get Messrs. Kemp, Kell and Parnell in behind the enterprise, because they have land across the road from the location. A reliable gentleman has recently informed me that some years ago the United States geological survey made a very favorable report on the Call Field district. Now is the time to learn whether or not there is paying oil or gas near this city at the lowest possible expense."

GREATEST FAIR IN HISTORY OF THE STATE

Opening Day of the Thirty-Fifth Annual Event of the Dallas Fair Largely Attended.

"Something to do and Something to See all the Time" Is the Pledge of the Officials.

Special to the Record News.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 8.—With exhibits more extensive and more numerous than ever before and with an unusual offering of entertainment features the thirty-fifth annual event of the State Fair of Texas opened at 9 o'clock this morning.

Agricultural exhibits are more numerous than ever before and west Texas has splendid exhibits; livestock displays are larger and include fifteen per cent made exhibitors than at any previous fair; the amusement features are more costly and more complete and all in all is the greatest fair and exposition ever offered in the history of this association founded in 1885.

There is the greatest automobile show ever got together in the South and the Mexican National Exhibit sent here by President Obregon is very large and thoroughly representative of the Aztecs Republic and its people.

President E. J. Kiest and Secretary William H. Stratton unite in saying that something to do and something to see all the time has been the goal of the Fair management for 1921. Following is the complete and revised list of special days:

GRISWOLD BUYS MYRTLE LEASE ON ZINK FARM

Purchase of the Myrtle Oil company property on the Zink farm, just south of town of Iowa Park, was completed on Saturday by the Griswold Oil company, the property being purchased from Duncan and White and J. F. Boyd.

The Myrtle lease, on which the discovery well of this shallow pool was drilled about three years ago, is just across the road from the original Griswold Oil company lease, and joins the Brown lease, which the Griswold company recently bought from the Como Oil company. The three tracts comprise 220 acres, with about 100 barrels daily production, all from the 700 foot sand.

The new purchase consists 80 acres with five pumpers, having a total production of 25 barrels. The purchase price was around $25,000, according to the purchasing company.

Contract has been let for four new wells to be drilled within the next thirty days on the new purchase, it is announced. These wells will be drilled to the 700 foot sand.

Swabbing a few times during the day, and flowing in the intervals between the swabbing, the Bridwell-Heydrick No. 3 Waggoner is now producing better than 150 barrels a day from the 1810-foot sand, according to latest reports from the well. Tubing is being run to pump.

Drilling is to start immediately on a well on this lease now producing in the 1450-foot sand, this well to drill for the 1650-foot sand, which the No. 3 missed, the result being the discovery of the deeper sand. The No. 3 also dry in the 1450-foot sand.

Latest reports from the Delaney Brothers deep test on the Waggoner indicate a 75 or 100 barrel well, from the present sand depth. It is understood that the well is now being completed.

In the Archer county, new Texhoma pool, the Harper and Jones No. 2 Taylor, was reported Saturday as bailing and showing up for a good producer. The Kentucky Oil Company's No. 1 Taylor, offsetting the new Harper and Jones well on the east, is reported standardizing to complete. This well got the oil sand several days ago, and has been making oil, according to the reports, but is just now being standardized.

The Texhoma Oil & Refining Company has two new wells drilling, the No. 9 Gose drilling around 1,100 feet, and the No. 10 drilling around 1,400 feet.

The Florida Tennessee Oil Company will be ready to test the 1,820 foot sand drilled in its wildcat east of the old Panther pool, and a few miles east of the new Texhoma pool, in about ten days. The casing was set and cemented on Friday and Saturday.

Syria offers vast agricultural opportunities. The old primitive methods are still employed there. The country's imports are now four times its exports.

At the battle of Agincourt in 1415 the English bowmen stopped the French cavalry with sharp-pointed sticks driven in the ground.

IRRIGATION RESERVOIR WILL BE LAKE 30 TIMES AS BIG AS LAKE WICHITA; DEEP ENOUGH FOR LINER

Some idea of the immensity of the Big Wichita irrigation project is indicated in figures reduced by R. A. Thompson, chief engineer for the project, from the technical expressions of excavations in cubic yards to figures which mean something to the ordinary layman—chief among the figures being the statement that the big storage reservoir to be erected in Baylor county will have 30 times the capacity of Lake Wichita, making it the greatest lake, artificial or otherwise, in Texas. This enormous reservoir, the figures show, will cover an area of 17,835 acres, and will hold 444,168 acre feet of water—2½ acre feet being about equal to a million gallons.

This immense amount of water will be impounded by an enormous dam approximately a mile and a third in length, with the spillway, and 100 feet high in the highest place—as high as the ordinary eight story building.

Over a million and a half ordinary wagon loads of materials, chiefly earth, will be required for it's construction—a cubic yard being taken as a load for the average wagon formally used for hauling rock and dirt.

The diversion dam, located several miles below the main reservoir, and designed for the purpose of turning the water released for irrigation into the irrigating channels and into the city water system via Lake Wichita, will itself impound a body of water three times the size of Lake Wichita, including it's spillway, it will be approximately four-fifths of a mile in length, and will be nearly as high as a four-story building at its highest point. This body of water will cover an area of 3,032 acres and will impound 45,000-acre feet of water.

The average depth of the water in the main reservoir will be 25 feet sufficient to float a good sized ocean going vessel, and the maximum depth will be 58 feet, enough water for any liner afloat.

The average depth of the water in the reservoir impounded by the diversion dam will be 15 feet, and the greatest depth 36 feet, the latter more than is necessary for a great many modern dreadnaughts.

The northside canal, 45 miles in length, will irrigate 40,000 acres at first, and the southside canal, 38 miles in length, will irrigate 60,000, making a total of 100,000 acres irrigated at first. The total are subject to irrigation is 500,000, additional acreage being taken in as experience dictates is advisable.

The water necessary to fill the great reservoir will be drained off a watershed of 1,342,400 acres from which a run-off of four inches would be sufficient to fill the reservoir. The minimum and maximum annual rainfall over this section is 16 to 42 inches, respectively. A four per cent run-off at the minimum rate of rainfall, a "dry" year would produce 80,-000-acre feet. It would take several of them to fill it. At no water would be drawn off. The run off from a year when the rainfall is 20 inches—a year below normal, would more than half fill the reservoir. A thirty-inch rainfall and the consequent runoff, would fill it twice over, while the run-off from the maximum rainfall would fill it three times over.

Bids for the construction of this enormous work, which will require a couple of years, will be opened on November 15, it was decided by the irrigation board Saturday, who ordered advertisements to that effect placed in a number of trade journals.

This is considered an additional omen of belief on their part that the beginning of construction is no far away.

Fred Emert, partner in Kaufman, Smith, Emert Co., St. Louis investment bankers who, with the W. R. Compton Co., are interested in the sale of the bonds, was present at the meeting, but said that as he had no later developments to disclose in that connections. It is felt, however, that action in this direction will be secured in the near future.

BUSINESS MEN DISPLAY SPIRIT OF OPTIMISM

portant financial institution for the city and its territory as a prospect for the next few weeks.

The new institution would be in the nature of a trust company organized for the extension of credits to cattle men and farmers under the provisions of the Kellogg bill, the company to make the loans, and in turn borrow from the government corporation under terms set out in the bill.

In telling of the bill Mr. Kell recounted the efforts of a group of Texas business men, including himself, to secure proper government machinery for the relief of the cattle business, of their trip to Washington, and of their success in having certain of their proposals written into the Kellogg bill—the result being the formation of these trust companies.

Conference This Week

At a conference to be held in Fort Worth within the next few weeks, Mr. Kell said, the question of organizing one big central trust company, or of organizing several companies situated in principal cities of the state, including Wichita Falls, will be decided. Mr. Kell's remarks indicated that he favored the latter plan, and had expectations that it would be adopted.

"Through organization of a trust company of $200,000 capital here, he said a total of some $4,000,000 could be borrowed, which would cost the trust company 6 per cent, and which was to be loaned at 8 per cent.

"Through this means," he said, "we can do a service to the cattle raisers and farmers of this section, as well as the business men and banks through allowing liquidation of loans which banks are now carrying for the industry, and on top of that will have a profitable business institution here which with the ending of the present situation, and the liquidation of these loans, will remain in business to finance other enterprises in this city and section in the future."

Another feature came in the discussion of the relation of the unemployment situation to the city government, touched on by Mayor Cline in the course of a brief talk.

Ahead On This

In discussing the recommendation that the situation be met by construction of public works, the mayor declared that the local government was "a year or so ahead of them—that's what we have been doing all these past many long months.

"We have mortgaged the future of the city to do it," he said. "We are now about banded up to our legal limit—but we have kept things going, we feel, and are satisfied with the results now that better times are in sight." The mayor declared that he took full responsibility for the program on himself, in case anyone might think the policy wrong.

"I am the responsible one, and am fully prepared to take any blame—the members of the council simply backed me up," he declared.

He indicated that he felt that a great deal more harm and loss could have been brought about by letting things go, than will ever be taken through taxes to meet the program. In the meantime, he said, the city has gained a lot of public works which were absolutely necessary not only to continued growth of the city, but necessary for it to hold what it had gained.

Included in this is paving work and the expansion of the sanitary sewer system from one inadequate for 18,-000 people to one which will be sufficient for the city for years to come life indicated, however, that the city would do everything possible in the future in this direction. Plans in this direction, he said, were waiting on definite information from local labor organizations as to the unemployment situation, particularly with reference to skilled workmen, which he had requested.

Oil and Irrigation

Other features to the meeting were given in talks by C. W. Reid, and R. A. Thompson, the latter new chief engineer for the irrigation district. Mr. Reid discussed the benefit to business through the increase in the price of crude oil, which will permit the liquidation of a great many loans which have been carried for a long time, and will release money to be used in the expansion of business.

Mr. Thompson spoke of agricultural and industrial asset which will be afforded by the irrigation project, through agricultural development, and the provision of a great volume of water for industrial purposes.

ARREST OF ONE FOLLOWS MAIL WAGON HOLDUP

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—One man had been arrested tonight in connection with the holdup of a Canadian mail wagon from which four bandits last night took 26 pouches, two of which contained registered packages.

The man arrested was Carl Greece, 34 years old, held on a technical charge of violating the United States code. Police declare Greece, a railroad employe, was indirectly connected with the Toledo postoffice robbery several months ago and stated they believe he might know something of last night's robbery here.

Today's investigation, the authorities announced, had brought no clue to the identity of the robbers or to their whereabout. No trace of the mail pouches had been found tonight.

TESTIMONY OF METCALFE IS DAY'S FEATURE

County Surveyors Testimony Considered Most Important to be Introduced by Private Owners.

Tells of Survey of Big Bend Arena Made Based on Marks of Surveys Made Before Civil War.

The direct and cross examination of R. D. Metcalfe, county surveyor, who was testifying as a witness for private interveners featured the day hearing Saturday being conducted at the courthouse in connection with the settlement of the disputed boundary line of Texas and Oklahoma.

Mr. Metcalfe, who first took the stand at the Friday night session, was cross examined for several hours Saturday morning and early afternoon by attorneys representing the United States and Oklahoma.

Although no definite announcement was made confidence was expressed Saturday by several officials that the hearing would be completed here either Monday night or early Tuesday. There has been a noticeable speeding up in the examination of witnesses during the last two days and it was also stated Saturday that not all the witnesses summoned will be examined.

Based on Old Survey

In direct examination as a witness for private interveners claiming under the Stanley, Powell, Rivers and Hussman surveys, Mr. Metcalfe explained in detail the surveys that he recently made of the Big Bend area of the Red river district. He said that the surveys that he had made were based on field notes from Texas patented land surveys made in 1857 and 1861.

He testified that according to these field notes the surveys made at that time covered the entire Big Bend area approximately as it is now known. He said that the surveys extended down to the cut bank of the river. In this connection he told of finding several of the marks made on natural objects in the Big Bend area by the early surveyors. He gave several incidents showing that the recent surveys he had made checked with those made 60 years ago.

He was cross examined several hours in connection with his statements and maps made by attorneys representing the United States and Oklahoma.

It is one of the claims of the latter interests that the early Texas surveys extended only to the south bluff the Red river, the bluff at that time being considered the river bank. The cross examination did not succeed in breaking down any of the essential features of the witness's statements in direct examination.

Entirely Technical

The examination was entirely on technical matters and considerable time was taken in the examination of maps that have been offered as exhibits by the different interest concerned.

It is conceded that the testimony of Metcalfe was probably the most important that has been presented by the private interveners as represented by property owners in the surveys mentioned.

Following the witness C. Babb, brother of Dot Babb, who testified Friday night, took the stand. His testimony was similar to that of other old settlers of that section. Testifying of the Big Bend area and the river as far back as 1870 the witness identified various natural features of the district concerned and which are to have important bearing in the expert testimony to be presented later at Austin.

T. P. Roberts, who owns property in the disputed area and lived there for a number of years, was the last witness during the day.

ALLEN AND FOSTER ON STAND SATURDAY

Their testimony covering thirty miles of the Red river front both below and above the Big Bend area, Reese Allen and Ed Foster large land owners in this section and owners of extensive oil holdings were the only witnesses at the night session of the boundary dispute hearing at the courthouse Saturday night.

The two witnesses who have been partners in part of their land and oil holdings substantiated each other in their testimony to a large extent and were probably the two strongest witnesses that have testified either for the private interveners or the state of Texas in the present hearing.

Their testimony showed an intimate and accurate knowledge of practically all the principal surveys that have been made in this immediate section of the state. That testimony was important as in all cases they said the Texas surveys extended down to the cut bank of the Red river as the north boundary.

They testified not only as to the surveys in connection with the Big Bend Valley but surveys covering valleys along the Red river boundary to the east and west of the valley in which is the center of contention at the present time because of its oil properties.

In all cases their testimony was to the effect that surveys and natural characteristics indicated that the Red river bed was today substantially the same as it was 50 to 100 years ago so far as the valleys either on the Texas or Oklahoma side were concerned.

They said that they had never heard either Oklahoma or the United States claim any of the land in the Texas valleys or contend that the south bank of the river was along the Texas bluff until the discovery of oil in the Big Bend area three years ago.

CITY WILL BE CLOSED MONDAY FOR FUNERAL

The entire city will be closed Monday afternoon out of respect for the memory of "Pat" Carrigan, whose funeral will be held at that time under the auspices of the Pat Carrigan Post, American Legion, and out of respect for all the other Wichita Falls service men who died during the war period.

This seemed unanimously determined Saturday. It was unanimously endorsed at the meeting of the 100 business men present at the Chamber of Commerce business council Saturday, on motion with Mr. Kell that the mayor's proclamation of a closing from 3 to 6 in the afternoon be complied with. This was acceded to by the Retail Merchants association.

The district and county courts will be closed all day Monday, and there will be no hearing in the Red River boundary case, by instruction of Special Commissioner Tyler.

The body of Pat Carrigan, accompanied by his father and mother, Judge and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, will arrive Sunday at 11:30. Members of the local post, American Legion, will meet the body at the train. Funeral services will be held at 4:00 Monday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church, and burial will be in the Carrigan mausoleum at Riverside.

TEST GRAVEL NEAR SEYMOUR FOR BIG DAM

SEYMOUR, Texas, Oct. 8.—Vice-President T. B. Noble and Engineers Thompson and Allison of the Wichita County Irrigation district in company with Engineers Heyser and Davis of the Callahan Construction company, were in Seymour Friday looking into the quality and output of gravel which may be obtained from the Seymour pits for the big dam to be constructed across the big Wichita river fourteen miles north of Seymour. Despite the predictions of those who thought this project an idle dream too big for realization, plans are rapidly maturing for actual construction.

The dam, Mr. Noble says, is to be constructed at a cost of $3,500,000, and the lake will cover an area of 18,000 acres, being the largest artificial body of water in Texas. A year or two will be taken for its completion and the large construction camps necessary in its building, with possibly all the sand and gravel used being mined and hauled from the Seymour pits, will be of great benefit to this town from a business standpoint. While in the city, Mr. Noble talked with quite a number of citizens and found all interested, some enthusiastic, with very little opposition reported in the county to the location of the proposed lake and damsite.

RECALL OF FORT WORTH MAYOR ASKED

FORT WORTH, Oct. 8.—Petitions asking for a recall election on Mayor E. H. Cockrell and John Alderman, police and fire commissioner, were filed today with C. S. Snow, city secretary, by John Baskin, former county attorney and five others. Pre-election promises were among the allegations in the Cockrell petition.

BARTON TO ATTEND UNKNOWN SOLDIERS BURIAL SERVICE

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—The appointment of Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton to represent the Texas department, American Legion at the ceremonies incidental to the burial of an unidentified American soldier at Arlington cemetery, Washington, was announced today by Wayne Davis of Goliad, state commander of the American Legion. The ceremonies will take place on Armistice day.

HABERDASHER SELLS STORE TO LOCAL MEN

The business of Richardson, the haberdasher, on Eighth street, was purchased Saturday by George Herron and R. J. Martin. The store will be known hereafter as "The Haberdasher."

George Herron was formerly with the Kahn Co., P. B. M. Co., and Baum & Gardner, and is known as an expert furnishing goods man. D. J. Martin has also had extensive experience in his line, having been in the employ of Kahn & Co. and later with Baum & Gardner.

The new firm will make additions to the stock. They claim that their new store will be made a model haberdashery. They will open their doors to the public Monday morning.

NEGRO STRIKES WHITE WITH GARDEN HOE

By Associated Press.

WACO, Texas, Oct. 8.—A negro residing on the Webster place at Coit, five miles north of Kosse, knocked L. W. Webster and his wife in the head with a hoe this morning and then barricading himself in a house, narrowly escaped death when seventy-five men surrounded it and shot into it. The negro lay on the floor and was not hit. The Websters were not badly hurt. Sheriff W. S. Loper of Groesbeck reached the scene about noon and the negro surrendered and was taken to jail.

BILL WOULD PERMIT PRESIDENT TO ISSUE FUEL IN EMERGENCY

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—The president would be authorized to take over and operate coal properties in a national fuel emergency under a bill introduced today by Senator Kenyon, republican, Iowa, chairman of the senate labor committee.

A companion bill introduced today by Senator Kenyon, who has charge of the investigation of disorders in the West Virginia coal region, would penalize profiteering in coal and fix a graded scale of operators' and distributors' profits wtih maximums of 50 cents a ton and 40 cents, respectively.

TEXAS BUSINESS AND COMMERCE ON UPGRADE

Special to the Record News.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 8.—"Texas business and commerce is again on the upgrade toward prosperity and this state will be one of the first of the union to reach normal times again," says J. S. Cullinan of Houston, president of the Texas Chamber of Commerce. "Yet, while we are witnessing a return to normalcy from day to day," continued Mr. Cullinan, "we should not overlook the necessity of squarely facing reconstruction problems before us. Though we are returning to what may be termed 'normal times' for the lack of a better designation, yet the new normalcy will rest upon a very basis from that of pre-war days."

Texas business men should get together for a general exchange of ideas and renewal of confidences, says Mr. Cullinan, in calling attention to the Texas Commercial Conference, the third annual convention of the Texas Chamber of Commerce, which will be held in Dallas, October 14-15; "all business men of the state are invited to attend this gathering and join in the discussions of the problems which are facing Texas today."

Besides discussions of problems of vital interest to the state, the program will be featured by addresses by a number of prominent men, including Herbert Quick, well known writer and economist; John A. Mc gineer of America; A. S. Stinnett, Panhandle ranchman and business man; Rollen J. Windrow, state highway engineer; Aaron Sapiro, cotton marketing expert; Waverly Briggs, well known Texas banker, and others.

DAIRYMAN IS LASHED BY MASKED MEN

By Associated Press.

BEGGS, Okla., Oct. 8.—Frank Goozby, a dairyman, was taken from his home here last night by twenty masked men, bound to a telephone pole and lashed across his bare back with a whip, according to reports upon which the authorities are today basing an investigation. A newspaperman who was taken with the party, was said to have told the police the abductors informed him the whipping was administered because Goozby had been seen to whip his wife and children.

The men were said to have been masked but without regalia.

SOVIET BANK TO CONTROL RUSS LOANS

By Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Oct. 7.—The Russian soviet council of commissars, of which Premier Lenine is president, has decided to create a state bank which will be authorized to make loans, to afford credit facilities to develop industries, agriculture and trade, and also to control circulation and exchange.

The bank will be capitalized at three trillion rubles.

RIGA, Oct. 8.—The actual capital of the new Russian soviet state bank amounts to 7,000,000 gold rubles, according to a dispatch of the Rosta official soviet agency from Moscow today.

BELL COUNTY MAN KILLED IN AUTOWRECK

TEMPLE, Texas, Oct. 8.—W. C. Cotham, 33, prominent farmer of Prairie Dell, Bell county, was killed in an automobile accident last night on the Belton-Salado pike. His lifeless body was found under an overturned automobile near the Tampas river bridge by a mail carrier. The coroner rendered a verdict of death by accident.

HOLD BANKER AT ALAMO CITY FOR ROBBERY

By Associated Press.

SPARTA, Ga., Oct. 8.—John D. Walker, former Georgia banker and prominent in church circles, jointly indicted with Robert Holmes for the disappearance from the vault of the First National Bank of Sparta, of the city's sinking fund of $20,000 in government and municipal bonds, has been arrested in San Antonio, Texas, according to Judge James B. Park of the Ocmulgee circuit court.

The information, Judge Park said, announced Walker would resist extradition. A hearing has been set before the governor of Texas next Monday. Walker was for several years the president of a chain of banks in Central and middle Georgia, a member of the Georgia legislature and leading church man of the state.

Nearly three years ago Walker disappeared and nothing was known of his whereabouts until recently when it was reported that he was at San Antonio. After his disappearance several of the banks of which he was president closed their doors. During his absence he is reported to have gone abroad.

FORD SPARK TESTER

Here is a home-made instrument designed to test the spark given off by all four ignition cables of the Ford at once. Five nails are driven through a square board, four at the corners and one in the middle. The corner nails are then bent so that their ends come within an eighth of an inch of the center nail. Slip the ends of the four ignition cables over the four corner nails, turn over the engine and the sparks will show at the center nail if everything is all right.

SOLDERING SWAB

An interesting suggestion for use in connection with soldering iron or steel is to make a swab from flexible electric light cord, which is used in swabbing on to the work a solution made by dissolving a bit of zinc in muriatic acid and then diluting with a little water. The acid solution dissolves a little of the copper wire and deposits a film of it on the work, causing the solder to stick firmly.

BODY SQUAKS

Ordinary cotton braid, such as every woman's sewing kit contains, makes an admirable silencer wherever sheet metal comes in contact with sheet metal. Heavy cotton tape is better where there is heavy wear, as, for instance, under the hood. In the case of squeaking fenders, a length of cotton braid bunched under the fastening nuts, which are then drawn up tight on lock nuts, will be found useful in silencing noise.

season, may keep him out of the remainder of the series. But tomorrow will be another day and Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees had apparently not lost hope tonight that the big fellow, with a day's complete rest, would be able to get 'in there" Sunday with at least a good share of his accustomed aggressiveness.

Mays Gets a Rest.

From the Yankee viewpoint, also, the postponement was welcome as giving Carl Mays an additional day for recuperation after his high class performance in the opening game on Wednesday when he blanked the Giants and started his club off on the two to one advantage in the series which it now holds. Harry Harper, the speedy but somewhat erratic southpaw, was looked upon as Manager Huggins' likely selection for the pitching assignment if today's game had been played, but it appeared certain that with Mays given his three days rest, he would be sent in again against the Nationals tomorrow.

The Giants, who with dander up and bristling with the confidence their volcanic outburst of hitting in Friday's victorious fit had given them, strained at the leash, and bemoaned the adverse weather. "Shuffling" Phil Douglas was on the carda to twirl for them today. The postponement it was understood, would make no difference in Manager McGraw's selection of a boxman for Sunday and Douglas, benefitted like Mays by an additional rest period, will without much doubt be in against Mays tomorrow.

Ruth was out to the ball park today but had his bad arm in a sling. He still favors also his strained leg which has been giving him trouble for some weeks and sorrowfully said he might not be able to play any more in the series. Should he drop out, Huggins intends to play "Chick" Fewster, the peppery Baltimorean, in Ruth's accustomed place in left field, putting Fewster in the lead-off position in the batting order, dropping Elmer Miller down to eighth place, and moving Schang up to Ruth's place as third man on the list.

Both Clubs Confident.

As for the ultimate results of the series, there was no apparent lack of confidence in either camp. The edge in games is still with the American leaguers with Mays their star, ready to work again and Hoyt on deck for a try to repeat his winning performance of Thursday. "We will win, with or without Ruth," was the sentiment of the Yankees, although they did not attempt to minimize the loss they would suffer, should the Bambino prove not able to get back into the game. They have been out-slugged by the Giants so far, but their followers point to the records as showing that the celebrated Yankee attack never remains long in check and is liable to break out in force any time. As for their fielding, it has been one hundred per cent in all three games.

The Giants quarters, too, oozed with confidence, McGraw's men regarding themselves as sure to capture the series, now that they have found their batting eyes and proved their ability to slam American League pitchers to all corners of the lot. Supporters of the Giants point out, also, in backing up this contention, that their favorites have been shown three twirlers of world series calibre —Douglas, Nehf and Barnes—whereas the Yankees have been able to produce but Mays and Hoyt as fit contenders. "Bob" Shawkey having proved a disappointment and Harper not having been tried, even as a relief man.

BABE RUTH SETS THREE NEW RECORDS IN 1921 SEASON: DOPESTERS DISAGREE ON WHO LEADS AT BAT IN AMERICAN

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The baseball season just closed was productive of a number of new records, according to the unofficial averages which are released today and which include the games of Oct. 2. "Babe" Ruth was responsible for at least three new records.

The home run slugger of the pennant winning Yankees broke his own record for circuit drives made in a single season, by pulling up with 59 four-ply blows. In crashing out this string of home runs Ruth shattered the mark of Gavy Cravath for total circuit drives during his major league career. Ruth since coming into the major leagues has slammed out 162 circuit drives. The former mark held by Cravath was 117.

Ruth also boosted the American League record as a run getter by registering 178 times, which exceeds his former mark of a year ago by twenty runs.

The total base record of the American league established by George Sisler, of St. Louis, last season also was exceeded by the heavy hitting Yankee star, who in making 204 hits rolled up a total of 455 bases. The former league record was 399.

Who Leads American?

There is much doubt as to who was the best hitter in the American League. Some statisticians in their official figures have given the honor to Harry Heilmann, the hard hitting Detroit outfielder, while others, among them the statistician of the American League, says that Heilmann's boss, Ty Cobb, is the champion. According to the unofficial averages compiled here by the league statistician, the Detroit pilot finished three points in front of his outfielder. The figures available here show Cobb finished with an average of .390, while Heilmann's mark is .387. According to these records Cobb played in 128 games, was at bat 505 times and cracked out 197 hits. Heilmann's record shows that he played in 149 games, and made 223 hits in 502 times at bat. Other statisticians have figured that the Detroit sluggers were practically tied at the wire with .390, but when carried to four figures, Heilmann was given the edge by a margin of .0003. Cobb's mark in this case was .3901 while that of Heilmann was .3904. According to these figures, Heilmann is credited with 235 hits while the figures which give the Georgia Peach the honors, credit Heilmann with only 233 hits.

Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Nationals, put up a merry race to enter the select "400" hitters who attained fame in the National League, but missed the coveted goal by one point. Hornsby's final average was .399.

Jay Kirke, the first baseman of the Louisville American Association, established a new world's mark for hits in one season, by breaking the record made by L. A. Miller of Oakland last season. Kirke made his 282nd hit as the curtain was rung down and beat the mark of the Pacific coast slugger by two hits. Kirke's record, however, was made in fewer games than that set up by the Oakland star, who made his mark in 199 games. Kirke played in 168 games.

The base stealing honors in the American league were captured by George Sisler of St. Louis who swiped 32 bases, while Frank Frisch of the Giants, with 47 thefts, carried off the prize in the National league. In the American Association Baird of Indianapolis had a run away race for the honors, finishing far in front with 72 thefts.

George Kelly of the Giants carried off the home run honors of the senior major league with 23 circuit drives under his belt, while Bunny Brief of Kansas City was easily the best home run hitter in the American Association, with 42 four ply blows.

Leading batters of the National league who have played in 95 or more games: Hornsby, St. Louis, .399; Roush Cincinnati, .353; McHenry, St. Louis, .350; Cruise, Boston, .349; F. Mensel, New York, .343; Fournier, St. Louis, .343; Frisch, New York, .340; Cutshaw, Pittsburgh, .340; J. Smith, St. Louis, .332; Groh, Cincinnati, .330.

American League: Cobb, Detroit, .387; Ruth, New York, .377; Sisler, St. Louis, .371; Speaker, Cleveland, .359; Jacobson, St. Louis, .354; Tobin, St. Louis, .351; Williams, St. Louis, .345; E. Collins, Chicago, .337; Veach, Detroit, .335.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

Rain yesterday put a different aspect on the world series outcome, and I believe, added to the Yankees' advantage. Had the two clubs gone into action yesterday, I was figuring the Giants to repeat against Harper—now it begins to look as though Carl Mays would be on the hill today for the Yanks, and I think that submarine artist is too good for the Giants. Also the delay has given time for Babe Ruth to recover from the abscess which threatened to keep him out of the game several days—and the Yankee attack is benefited that much more.

A disastrous decision by Referee Conley (and "disastrous" is merely my polite way of saying that the Quanah man pulled a bone) defeated Wichita High's eleven yesterday. In the third quarter Wichita Falls, after being held for downs in their own territory, punted to midfield. Stearns, the Electra fullback, got under the whirling pigskin and signalled clearly for a fair catch. After he had caught the ball, he was tackled by a Wichita Falls player. Referee Conley penalized the local eleven 25 yards giving the ball to Electra on Wichita Falls' fifteen-yard line—and the Electra boys carried it over for the only touchdown of the game soon after.

BUT—here is where Referee Conley pulled his bone; one that was observed by a number of old football men in the stands. Although Stearns signaled for a fair catch, and caught the ball without moving in his tracks—that is, without taking more than the permitted two steps—he started forward again as he Wichita Falls tacklers moved in on him. He had thrown his body forward, had tucked the football under him and had started to advance with the ball: in fact, had taken at least four fast forward strides when a Wichita tackler stopped him. Under such circumstances, I do not believe that 25-yard penalty was just.

But my wife says I'm a heck of a football authority: "What did you ever do?" she inquires, sarcastically. "Quarterback on a high school eleven and a scrub halfback in college, who was always being kicked around by the 'varsity big boys!" Praps she's right, at that!

Speed, speed and MORE SPEED—that's what the local high school backfield has got to develop. The delays after signals were given yesterday were ghastly. Time and again the entire Electra line straightened up, looked the Wichita Falls offensive formation over and then set itself to smear the play. Snap those signals out, snap into position, snap the ball and snap into action—it's the only way; yes, and I might add it's the Electra way, unkind as that criticism may seem.

The material is in the squad. The fault is in the lack of coaching. Now, I do not mean that as a criticism of Coach Harbaugh, not by a darn sight; I mean merely that Harbaugh cannot handle that b... squad alone; that he should have help; that while he is strengthening and building up the defensive ability of that wonderful high school line, other football coaches should be training the backfield. There are a number of high class football "sharks" in Wichita Falls. I might mention, as illustration, Harry Viner, of the William-Mary hotel. Viner's brilliant work a few years ago at Missouri University made him the unanimous choice as All-Missouri Valley conference fullback. Why not coax Harry Viner and a few men like him to put in a few hours now and then whipping that Wichita High backfield into a powerful, speedy attacking unit?

Harbaugh is a good coach. He has accomplished a great deal, and he will continue to accomplish more. But, handicapped by time and the lack of help, he must necessarily drag his pupils along slowly—and RIGHT NOW is the time the boys need that extra coaching.

LADY LUCK SMILES ON MAROONS AND LICKS PURDUE 9-0

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Goddess of fortune beamed on Stagg field today giving the Maroons a 9-0 victory over Purdue. The blocked kicks turned a stubbornly fought battle into a Maroon victory, although both sides battled evenly most of the way.

Chicago used the forward pass effectively several times, but was unable to push the ball across.

PRINCETON TIGERS WRECK HOPES OF COLGATE

By Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 8.—Princeton humbled Colgate's football eleven 19 to 0 today in a contest that was harder fought than the score would indicate. Playing on a rain-soaked gridiron, the visitors forced the Tigers to battle for every inch they gained. In the first period the best Princeton could score was a safety, but the Tigers added seventeen points to their score in the second period by mingling irresistible line plunges with effective forward passes.

MISS HOLLINS WINS GOLFING CROWN OF U. S.

DEAL, N. J., Oct. 8.—A new champion woman golfer of the United States was crowned on the fourteenth green of the Hollywood Golf club today, Miss Marion Hollins, a member of the Westbrook Golf club, of Great River, N. Y.; succeeding Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, Ga., who had held the title since 1916.

In the final round of the annual tournament Miss Hollins defeated Miss Stirling by five and four in a 36-hole match. Miss Stirling was never in the lead and was four down after the morning play of 18 holes. Miss Hollins consistently outdrove her much younger opponent but they fared about alike in approaching and putting.

In being dethroned from the place she had occupied as queen of American golfers since she was 18 years old, Miss Stirling suffered her first defeat in a championship tournament from an American since she won the title. It was also the worst defeat of her career. This is the second title she has lost this summer, Miss Cecil Leitch having taken the Canadian championship from her.

CALIFORNIA TO HAVE ANOTHER 'WONDER TEAM'

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 8.—Another football "wonder team" is being whipped into form at the University of California, according to Andy Smith, former University of Pennsylvania player and now head coach at the local institution.

Smith expects the 1921 California varsity to be even better than the 1920 team, which piled up big scores on nearly every western eleven it met, won the Pacific Coast Conference championship without being pressed and defeated Ohio State University's team, Big Ten champion, at Pasadena New Year's Day.

"Prospects are so good I'm scared," Smith said recently. "I've started seasons like this before, only to have everything go wrong as the seasons continued. We were lucky in the matter of injuries last year and cannot hope to be so fortunate again."

Of the first twenty California men who won their block letters for football last year, sixteen are on this year's squad. Of the four missing, three, "Cort" Majors, 1920 captain; Karl Deeds, half, and "Pesky" Sprott, half, were on the regular team which played in all games last year.

"Brick" Muller, who gained fame when he threw a 50-yard forward pass in the Ohio State game, will be back at end this year, as will "Brodie" Stephens, who caught the pass and who was a substitute end last year. Bob Berkey, regular end of a year ago, is again in uniform. For the balance of the line, the following veterans are reported: Guards, Lee Crammer and "Fat" Clark; tackles, Charles Toney, Dan McMillan, "Stoop" Barnes and Charles Dean; centers: George Latham. In the backfield the following veterans are back: Charles Erb, quarter; "Dutch" Eells, "Chip" Toomey; A. Van Sant, half backs, and J. B. Morrison and Archie Nisbet, fullbacks.

WHITE SOX MAKE IT THREE STRAIGHT OVER BUSTED CUBS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The Chicago Americans made it three straight over the Nationals in the city series by winning today's game, 4 to 3, in ten innings after the Cubs apparently had clinched the game in regulation time. Percy Jones, a recruit, blanked the White Sox for eight innings and was given a three-run lead over Dick Kerr but the Sox scored three in the ninth and one in the tenth for victory.

BAYLOR BEARS BEAT RICE OWLS 17-14 IN STUBBORN GAME

WACO, Texas, Oct. 8.—Baylor University defeated Rice Institute in a hard-fought game here today by the score of 17 to 14. Touchdowns by Bradshaw and Williamson and a place kick from the 35 yard line by Bradshaw accounted for Baylor's scores. Kennedy made both touchdowns for Rice.

YALE'S AIR ATTACK TOO MUCH FOR CAROLINA

By Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8.—Yale defeated the University of North Carolina in the Yale bowl this afternoon, 34 to 0. The first three periods were playing in a heavy downpour of rain, but about six thousand spectators braved pneumonia and chills to watch the blue eleven swamp the warriors from Chapel Hill.

The visitors failed to make a first down against Yale. Yale showed a surprising aerial attack.

CITY CHAMPIONSHIP TODAY BETWEEN UNIVERSITY CLUB TEAM AND THE ALL-STARS

The deciding game of the local "junior world series" is expected to attract hundreds of Wichita Falls fans to Spudder Park this afternoon, when the University club and All-Stars nines of the Twilight League meet in the battle that will determine the city amateur and semi-pro baseball championship. Each team has won one game in the three-game series, and the highest honors in local baseball will go to the winners of today's tussle.

The game is scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock, thereby giving all the baseball "nuts" ample opportunity to attend the world series play-by-play at the Palace theater and the Airdome and then hike to the park, and see the local pill tossers in action.

WORLD SERIES ODDS AND ENDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Emil "Irish" Meusel of the Giants today is confident he will keep ahead of his brother, Bob, of the Yankees in hitting during the world's series. He enters the game tomorrow with a batting average of .300, just 27 points ahead of Bob.

Although the club houses of the two teams are only a few feet apart back of centerfield bleachers, the rival players have nothing in common. They keep to themselves, going and coming through separate park entrances. A high board fence separates the two club houses.

George Burns, Giant center fielder, is coming into his own. Always a dependable outfielder and timely hitter, he brought up his batting average from .000 to .308 in yesterday's game.

Wonder what the umpires talk about when they're not umpiring, one fan near the press box asked. Here's the answer to one of them. Quigley was discussing the technical points of football a few minutes before the game started. If he wasn't umpiring in a world's series, Quigley today would be officiating at the Harvard-Indiana game at Cambridge, Mass.

Waite Hoyt, Yankee pitching star of the second game, came right back in uniform yesterday. He didn't take much part in practice, but he watched the game closely from the bench, studying the Giant batters carefully.

Mike McNally, the home base stealer, confined his efforts to breaking a bat. It cracked wide open when he hit the ball in the second inning.

During the process of changing pitchers from Toney to Barnes, the three Giant outfielders, Meusel, Burns and young, held a private consultation in centerfield. Asked what they talked about, they said they all agreed that they could hit the ball before the game was over. They did.

"Here comes the whole Giant team," yelled a Yankee partisan as Frisch went to bat in the first inning. The experts declare the third sacker is the star of the series, offensively and defensively. His hitting average is .700.

Babe Ruth didn't forget his manners when he left the game in the eighth. He tipped his cap, high, wide and handsome as the Giant followers booed him and the Yankee supporters cheered him.

Honolulu has enacted an ordinance prohibiting tatooing.

Each team will put its full strength in the field, with the University club playing the same line-up that decisively defeated the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus nine last Sunday. The pitching selection have not been announced, but it is expected that Homer ("Sandy") Sanderford, the former Baylor University twirler, who held the circus aggregation to six hits and fanned 12, will start for the University club. "Snipe" Conley, the club's speed ball kid, will also be ready to work.

The All-Stars are keeping under cover, but it is generally believed they will work either Beesley, who beat the University Club team in the opening game, or will send "Big" Anderson to the hill. Anderson recently beat the Devol, Okla., club in a sensational 12-inning battle, and is reported to be in great shape. A few changes in the All-Stars' line-up also may be made. Cushman, hard-hitting right fielder, has left the city, but the All-Stars' management have several fine second string outfielders, any one of whom can hold down right field creditably. Fowler, one of the best third sackers in the city, whose absence from the second game weakened the All-Stars quite a little, will be back with the team. He is a fast fielder, a good base runner and a dangerous man with the stick.

Bitter Fight Promised

The game this afternoon should be hard-fought through every inning. Both teams are in good shape, and each will make a bitter fight to win the city championship. This is the first year in Wichita Falls' baseball history that a post-season series of this kind has been staged, and local fans are taking a keen interest in the work of the semi-pro talent developed here. While a number of the older players are former college and professional stars, there are also a number of youngsters on the two teams whose playing has earned the spotlight this year and who may enter the game professionally later. Two young players already have been offered positions in the Texas-Oklahoma league next season, and two others, it is understood, have been invited to try out with the Spudders in the spring.

Ty Catron, president of the City League, of Dallas, has asked for a two-game series between the winners of today's battle, and the city champions of Dallas, one game to be played in Wichita Falls, the other in Dallas. While nothing definite has been decided, owing to the lateness of the season, it is possible such a series may be arranged, with the Dallas game to be played at the state fair grounds. In any event, the prospect of getting a crack at the Dallas city champs is an added incentive to the local semi-pros to put up a stiff baseball argument this afternoon at Spudder Park.

WICHITA HIGH ELEVEN GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT BEFORE POWERFUL ELECTRA ATTACK

By HAROLD B. WHITE

Wichita Falls high school gridiron aspirants went down to defeat before the terrific onslaught of the Electra high school eleven at Athletic park Saturday afternoon by the score of 7 to 0. The locals showed great ability on the defense against a team with a wicked offense, but their offense was not equal to the task necessary for a victory.

Captain Leo Haney, Wichita Falls center, was the outstanding star of the game. He made several brilliant tackles, intercepted a brace of forward passes, and generally injected pep into the team. Hearshal Johnson, Electra quarter, and E. Stearns, halfback, stood out brilliantly on offense and defense.

The result of the game was plainly a case of superior backfield and playing. The Electra eleven worked like a well oiled machine, Johnson generalled his team like a veteran, and his kicking was good for high school football. Walker's punts were fair but lacked precision. Wichita Falls seemed to have a shade the better on the kicking game.

Electra's touchdown came in the third quarter on a fifteen-yard run around left end after Wichita Falls had been penalized twenty-five yards for tackling a man who had signalled a fair catch. The decision on the catch was close but the referee pulled a boner. The man signalled the catch but was not tackled until after he had advanced more than two steps.

Lack of a co-ordinate attack on the part of the local backfield hampered the team throughout the game. The boys just couldn't get together on their plays. Poor interference cost the locals many gains. Stearns, Electra's halfback, broke through the intereference time and again to tackle the man with the ball for a loss.

Loss of this game practically eliminates the local high school from a chance at the sectional championship of North Texas.

First Quarter

Wichita won the toss and elected to receive. Walker received the ball on the twenty-yard line, but fell and failed to return it. Wichita tried a pass over center but failed. Stringer went two yards thru the line. Walker punted to the fifty yard line. No return. Stearns through line for five yards. Johnson circled the wings for eight more, and first down. Dickey fumbled the ball and a Wichita Falls man fell on it.

Stringer made three yards through center. Chewning plunged through tackle for first down. Wichita completed a pass for fifteen yards. Electra held and Walker punted to Johnson who returned the ball twenty yards. Wichita tightened up and Johnson punted to Wichita's forty-yard line. No return. Walker tried a pass but failed. Chewning reeled off two yards around right and Electra held the locals and the ball went over. Stearns made five around left wing, and Johnson plunged through the line for another yard. Electra completed their first pass, Johnson to Stearns for fifteen yards. Johnson lost two yards. Johnson passed to Awtrey for eight yards, and Stearns failed to gain through tackle. End of quarter.

Second Quarter

Electra substituted Raus for Dickey at left half. Wichita held and the ball went over on their thirty-yard line. Chewning plunged five yards through tackle and Brashear made six more and first down through center. Electra forced a kick. Walker punted twenty yards. Dickey tore through the Wichita line for fifteen yards. Johnson passed to Stearns for fifteen more. Johnson made six yards around left end. Awtray made four more for first down. Electra tried a pass but failed. Stearns failed to gain through center, and Johnson tried a place kick from the thirty-five yard line. The ball went wide on the goal.

Wichita Falls put the ball in play on the twenty-yard line. Chewning squirmed through center for four yards. Wichita tried a pass but failed, and Walker punted. Electra failed to gain. Awtrey fumbled but recovered for a first down. A running pass, Johnson to Stearns to Johnson netted five yards. Electra punted. Keevil tore off four yards through tackle. Walker tried a pass but failed at the end of the second quarter.

Third Quarter

Wichita kicked off the ball rolling across the goal line for a touchback. Electra put the ball in play on the twenty-yard line. On a free fumble Electra recovered for a first down. An incompleted pass forced Johnson to punt. Walker received but failed to return the ball. Electra held for down but he dropped the ball and field. Johnson tried a long pass to Stearns who muffed the ball, incomplete. Electra punted to Chewning who fumbled the ball on the five-yard line. Electra recovered but failed to gain. Stearns tore through the Wichita line on fourth down for what would have been a touchdown but he dropped the gall and Wichita recovered. Walker punted to the thirty-yard line and Stearns returned the ball ten yards. Electra fumbler and Wichita Falls recovered the ball. Walker tore off a yard through tackle, and then punted to the thirty-yard line. Wichita Falls was penalized twenty-five yards for tackling after a fair catch. Awnrey then circled the left wing for fifteen yards and a touchdown. Johnson kicked goal. Electra kicked off, Stringer returned the kick thirty yards. Wichita failed to complete a short pass. Stringer made six yards around left end, Cauble failed to gain and Walker punted. Wichita Falls recovered the ball on the fifty-yard line. Johnson intercepted a pass just as the third quarter was up.

Fourth Quarter

Electra punted and Walker returned the punt ten yards. Walker punted to Electra's ten-yard line. Stearns returned the punt thirty yards. Electra failed to gain and Johnson punted out of bounds on Wichita's thirty-yard line. Walker passed the ball to Brashear who ran twenty yards before stopped. Electra held and Walker punted to the fifty-yard line. Johnson gained twenty-five yards by running with ball while carrying it out from the side line. Haney intercepted a pass and ran thirty yards before stopped. The game ended with the ball in Wichita Falls possession on the forty-yard line.

VARSITY CLUB MEMBERS WILL HEAR CURETON

With Attorney General C. M. Cureton of Texas and T. W. Gregory, former United States attorney general as guests of honor the University Club luncheon for next Tuesday noon at the Kemp Hotel promises to furnish features to be remembered, according to the announcement Saturday of the committee on programs.

Several musical numbers will be included in the program of the day among which will be a solo by Miss Martha Roper of the Junior High school faculty. Miss Roper will be accompanied by Frank F. Loew, who will also render several piano numbers.

In addition to Messrs. Cureton and Gregory the program committee members announce that other men close to the pulse of national affairs and problems are expected to attend the luncheon.

ORIOLES TAKE ANOTHER DIP IN MISERY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 8.—While the Giants and Yankees were idle in New York today, Louisville and Baltimore battled to nine frigid innings in the third game of the junior world's series, Louisville winning 14 to 8. The victory gave Louisville a 2 to 1 lead in the series. The fourth and final game to be played in Louisville is scheduled for tomorrow.

The day was more suitable for football and the attendance was the smallest of the series, only 2,957 fans having the courage to face the cold winds that swept the field. The chilly weather had its effect on the pitchers, as they were unable to control the ball. Twenty-three bases on balls were issued by the seven pitchers. Baltimore used four in an effort to bag a victory, while Manager Joe McCarthy of the Colonels used three pitchers.

Ernie Koob, a former major league star, started for Louisville, but gave way to a pinch hitter in the fourth inning. Thomas, who started for Baltimore, lasted three and two-thirds innings and was relieved by Frank after he walked two men, filling the bases. In the eighth the Colonels lambasted Clarke for seven hits, driving in six runs.

Jack Bentley, the "Babe Ruth" of the International League, gave the fans a thrill in the 4th inning when he knocked the ball over the right field fence for a home run.

Due to the small crowds that have attended the games here, Manager Dunn of the Baltimore club, urged the local management to transfer the remaining games to Baltimore, where he guaranteed an attendance of 50,000 for the series.

OUTWEIGHED, TROOP SIX HOLDS IOWA PARK TO 6-0 SCORE

Outweighed but not outplayed, Troop 6 of the local Boy Scouts met their first defeat of the season when they played the Iowa Park High School at the Junior high school grounds Saturday morning. The score was 6 to 0.

The Park eleven outweighed the scouts fifteen pounds to the man. It was a case of weight overcoming speed and team work. The scouts were handicapped by the loss of Fullback Clande Harris and Halfback Raymond Smith. Dudley Skeen, substitute, at full, played an excellent game. Machecknev at quarter generalled his team well, and is to be complimented upon holding the score so low.

In the second half the scouts held the Park eleven for downs on the five yard line. The scouts held the opposition for downs on the ten yard line in the fourth quarter. Marconi Hobbs playing left tackle for the scouts recovered a fumble by the Iowa Park team on the thirty-yard line in the fourth quarter, but with only four minutes to play the scouts failed to score. The game ended with the ball in the scouts' possession on their forty-yard line.

HARVARD SMASHES VISITING HOOSIERS IN DRIVING RAIN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 8.—Harvard defeated Indiana today 19 to 0. An eastern eleven in the making met a western conference team almost intact from last year and stopped it without great effort. The Hoosiers appeared at a loss to get started, lacking the strategy to get under wa and when Harvard fumbles gave them the ball, they did not seem to hav the strength to follow up the advantage for a score.

Rain came down in sheets during the last half of the contest and to this Coach Jumbo Stiehm of the Hoosiers attributed his team's defeat.

By C. F. C.

This afternoon at Spudder park, Wichita Falls will stage its own little world series championship, when the University Club and the All-Stars meet in the deciding game for the city semi-pro baseball title. These two teams have played wonderful ball throughout the season, beginning early last April. They have played every team in the Twilight League, many teams in the old City League, a number of local independent clubs and also several out-of-town games with strong semi-pro teams of this section—with the result that the University club nine and the All Stars found themselves deadlocked in a tie, in the won and lost column, at the close of the season.

A three-game series was arranged to settle the city championship. The All-Stars took the opener at Athletic park three weeks ago, 5 to 3 in a fast game. The University club came back strong in the second, winning 16 to 4 in a slugfest—and this afternoon the deciding game will be played. Interest is strong locally in the two teams, as indicated by the big attendance of earlier games, and it is expected a record crowd will be out this afternoon.

The 1921 world series has dissipated one ancient myth—namely that it is necessary to stand in line all night in order to get a seat to the BIG FRACAS. While that was true more or less regarding the opening battle, the following games exploded the fiction. New Yorkers found they could even eat their lunches, and still get to the Polo Grounds in time to get seats in the unreserved stands.

Despite the fact they are naturally proud of having won the National league bunting, many of the New York Giants cannot help but feel sorry for George Gibson, pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates, whom they like and admire tremendously. "Gibbie" served two years with the Giants as McGraw's first lieutenant, and when he left to manage the Toronto club the best wishes of all the New Yorkers went with him. When he was appointed skipper of the Pirates they rejoiced with him—and had it not been possible for the Giants to have won the league pennant, they would have been wholeheartedly with Gibson in his fight.

Sailor Friedman, of Chicago, who is planning to battle Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler, has just discovered that he is an intimate personal friend of Johnny Buff, flyweight and bantamweight champion.

Buff and Friedman were in the navy together during the war. Buff held a fleet championship, and Friedman was his trainer and handler—but Johnny Buff was fighting then under his own name of Leskey; and Friedman knew his champ as "Spike" Leskey and nothing else. Now, according to eastern dope, Friedman has just discovered that Johnny Buff and his old navy bunkie are one and the same.

Here's a tragedy in Fistiana—the break between little Joe Lynch, bantam, and big Eddie Meade, his manager. Yoked together, these two made fortunes, Lynch cleaning up $150,000 in six years under Meade's management. Now something has arisen of which the public is ignorant, and the little boxer and the big manager have parted.

Meade picked up Joe Lynch on the west side of New York when Joe was a property boy at the Hippodrome. He taught the youngster everything he knew about the boxing game, brought him along right and made him a winner. Three years were rather lean, and Joe's first real purse was $750 he received three years ago when he whipped Kid Williams. Then golden rainstorms. His two fights with Jack Sharkey netted him $10,000 each; he got $7,500 for relieving Pete Herman of his title; $10,000 for stopping Young Sandow in twenty-six rounds, and $37,500 for letting the crown slip back again to Herman. Something happened after that bout that brought on a coolness between the two pals—and Eddie Meade and Joe Lynch have broken a six years' friendship.

It wasn't so very long ago that impatient Giant fans were jeering "Irish" Meusel, and advising him in clarion tones to go back to Philadelphia. But "Irish," whose batting average in the world series is now an even .300, has learned that the difference between a baseball boob and a baseball hero is merely the difference between a batting slump and a batting spree—also he has discovered that he who laughs last is entitled to a few extra snickers. For the real start of the Giants drive down the stretch dates to the day when Meusel found himself, and began to hit the ball in his accustomed style. Time and again he drove in runs left on the bases by Young and Kelly—and as the Giants steadily forged to the front the jeers daily became cheers, and "Irish" Meusel established himself with the Giant partisans as a reg'lar feller. Today he is one of the most popular men on the club, and the fans are solidly for him. Such is baseball fame.

POND LAUNDRY GREW FROM SMALL START

A business built upon a sound basis and managed by ambitious men who know their business, will succeed in good times and in bad times. A shining example of this is the Pond laundry, launched a number of years ago in a very modest way, with small capital but with a generous amount of ambition and hustle in the make-up of its owners, with plenty of handicaps and many obstacles, but with a record of success from the very beginning.

The Pond laundry is owned by J. W. Pond and his three sons, Gerald, Ralph and Paul. The younger members of the firm were put to work in the laundry as soon as they were old enough to be of service. They mastered the practical part of the business and then each, in his turn, was sent to a technical school to specialize in some branch of the business. In consequence the laundry is in the hands of experts, and the equipment, selected and installed by them, is surpassed by that of no laundry in the big cities of the South.

Gerald Pond studied electrical engineering and the selection of the modern machinery and its installation was chiefly his work. Ralph Pond is a graduate in business management and the office management and accounting are in his charge. Bud Pond is now completing a course in electrical and chemical engineering at the University of Texas. J. W. Pond exercises a general supervision over the business and is amply qualified to handle satisfactorily any problem which may arise in this big business.

The Pond laundry represents an investment of more than $175,000 and ranks high among the laundries of the country in efficiency and business methods. The Pond Laundry Company is incorporated with the following officers: J. W. Pond, president; Gerald Pond, vice president; Ralph Pond, secretary and treasurer.

CIRCLEVILLE, KAS., IS SOME GOSH-DURN TOWN, SAY WE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—If the rest of the country comes to the aid of the Giants as well as has Circleville, Jackson county, Kansas, the National leaguers today are firmly convinced they will be the baseball champions of the universe for 1921.

Circleville not only furnished a winning world's series pitcher for Manager McGraw's team in Jess Barnes, but sent two others of its scant 200 odd population, Mrs. Jess Barnes and the pitcher's father, Luthern Barnes, for moral support.

Father and wife arrived yesterday, just in time to see Jess take up the pitching burden and hold the Yankees to four scattered hits in the remainder of the contest, while his teammates came from behind.

NOTHING DRAGS IN PRODUCTION OF SHRINE PLAY

Although the "Oh Joy Musical Revue," which Maskat Temple band and patrol will present soon at the Wichita Theatre, is classed as a musical show, the first scene in "The Band and Patrol Club" is novel, in that it lets the audience "in" to the fact that there is a considerable plot to follow, and in conversation between Dick Morrison, Ned Fleming and Bob Wainright, who are respectively represented by none others than Bob Nolan, Horace Robbins and Dr. J. H. Fletcher, the plot develops speedily. The audience is given to understand that there will be a reason for everything that follows, the "reason" being Miss Ruth Nolan as "Simplicity," the charming little lady who lived years ago, and has suddenly returned with a very strong desire to see everything.

From this point throughout eleven beautifully staged scenes, simplicity accompanied by the audience, proceeds to see everything. And as has been stated, although there are eleven scenes, which run without an intermission, the entire performance only occupies two hours.

"This is quite out of keeping with the popular idea of an amateur show," says Lewis Lacey, who is directing the production, "and this is one of the biggest surprises that we can promise the audience: the fact that we can start on time and finish on time."

Members of the cast, who are rehearsing nightly in the ballroom of the Kemp, are enthusiastic in their praise of the piece, and are unanimous in declaring it the cleverest thing ever attempted by local people. The cast is selected from Wichita's most accomplished talent, both as to singers and those of dramatic ability, of some seventy-five in number. The advance sale of tickets is already being looked forward to by numbers of people who desire to come early and assure themselves of a desirable seat.

To offset the increased value of silver coins in circulation, Great Britain has added alloy to recent issues from the mint.

JUDGE FREES "LESSER" FRY BOOTLEGGER

By Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 8.—Asserting that it would be unjust to punish a lesser offender against the bootleg laws, while wealthy social leaders of Capitol Hill are allowed to have their wine cellars without fear of molestation, Judge Ben B. Lindsay of the juvenile court today freed Chester Lasater and Clete Hinton, accused of giving young girls liquor to drink.

In a statement read in open court, Judge Lindsay charged that "conspiracy exists among the rich to have the laws enforced only against the poor."

THIRD MAN IS CONVICTED OF BEVIL MURDER

By Associated Press.

M'KINNEY, Texas, Oct. 8.—A jury brought in a verdict of guilty in the L. F. Bevil case here this morning and assessed punishment at 20 years in the penitentiary.

Bevil was charged with the murder of James Wiley Stockwell, 18, in McKinney on June 11, 1920. Bevil is the last of a trio of brothers-in-law to be convicted for the crime.

J. C. Martin was given 20 years in the penitentiary and Fred Ritter ten years at former trials.

REPORTS LOSING $3,000 TO BOLD AUTO BANDIT

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8.—Arthur Row, a contractor, reported to the police today that he had been robbed of $3000 by a bandit who entered his motor car while he was at a downtown corner. According to Row's story, the bandit showed him a revolver and compelled him to drive several miles from the business center. The man then robbed him and escaped, Row said.

The city of Pittsburg, it is said, stands on ground once given in exchange for a violin.

SUGAR MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Raw sugar was quiet today and Porto Ricos were unchanged at 4.13 for centrifugal. The committee is still offering at 2.5-8c for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 4.23 for centrifugal.

Trading in raw sugar futures was light and closing prices were unchanged to one point net higher.

December closed at 2.36; March 2.29; May 2.35 and July 2.47.

Refined was steady and unchanged at 5.50 for fine granulated. Refined futures were dull and without transactions. Closing prices were unchanged to five points net higher, with December 5.40; March 5.35, and May 5.40.

COFFEE

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Coffee futures were very quiet this morning and correspondingly sensitive to small orders either way. After opening at a decline of 2 to 6 points under scattered liquidation, prices steadied up a point or two on covering, but the market otherwise was featureless with March ranging between 7.92 and 7.94. The close was 1 to 4 points net lower. Sales were estimated at about 4,000 bags. October 7.75; December 7.89; January 7.91; March 7.94; May 8.00; July 8.05; September 8.03. Spot coffee quiet; Rio 7s 8 1-4 to 8 3-4c; Santos 4s 11 1-2 to 12 1-2c.

DRY GOODS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Cotton goods were quieter today with prices firm in gray goods. Closing prices were made on many lines branded domestics. Yarns were firm, combed yarns being especially strong. Knit goods in fair demand. Linens active and firmer. Burlaps quiet. New lines of men's clothing for spring will be shown and priced by leading manufacturers next week, while price changes will not be important, much better values will be shown in the garments because of the higher quality cloths used.

Statistics of school children in the United States show those of the Anglo-Saxon race are taller and weigh more.

The Louisiana Historical Society has a complete record of the French administration of the state.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Trading in stocks during today's abbreviated session was monopolized by oils and tobaccos, a majority of the issues showing substantial gain at the firm to strong close.

Houston led oil shares at a net gain of 3 1-2 points, but foreign issues also strengthened after early hesitation, Mexican petroleum and general asphalt finishing at advances of 1 5-8 and 1 1-2 points respectively.

Leaders of the industrial and railway groups moved within narrow limits, but the popular steels, equipments and motors scored moderate gains. Sales amounted to 285,000 shares.

There was no let-up to the demand for liberty bonds, dealings again centering around the 3 1-2s and 4 1-4s but the greatest gain was made by the first 4 1-4s, these advancing 200 points to a new high for the year. The second 4s and all the 4 1-4s also made new maximums for that period at extreme gains of 25 to 90 points. Total bond sales (par value) $7,775,000.

Sterling or British bills dominated in foreign exchmange, the demand remittance rising to $3.80 5-8, a gain of eight cents in the pound from the week's low quotation. All principal continential exchanges were better, but the German and central European lost ground.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—A late rally relieved an otherwise depressing short session of the board of trade today, the change coming after wheat, corn and oats had all recorded new lows for the season. The close was unchanged to 1-2c lower for wheat, 1-8 to 1c lower for corn and 1-4c lower for oats. Lard finished unchanged to 7 1-2c higher, and ribs 2 1-2c lower to 5c higher.

Wheat started weak and made its low mark early. Early rally caused by anticipation of the government report was short lived and the market sagged steadily until December touched $1.07 3-4 and May $1.12 1-2. Sentiment was mixed and the news generally bullish, export demand being reported slow and Canadian northwestern offerings liberal with big receipts in prospect at Winnipeg next week.

The turn came unexpectedly and shorts who sold freely on the way down were driven to cover. To the usual week-end evening up sales were added reports that India—ordinarily and exporting country—had bought two cargoes of Pacific northwest wheat with further trade in sight.

Corn and oats moved in parallel lines under stoploss selling. Evening up transactions helped a recovery from the inside figures.

Provisions were dull. Lard firmed up on the strength of the hog market and ribs were a bit lower.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Probably the greater part of the fairly active business reported in the cotton market here today represented the evening up of speculative accounts over the week-end. Trade interests were buyers on an opening decline but the market met hedge selling on the rally from 19.57 to 19.94 for December, while orders otherwise seemed to be pretty well divided. December closed at 19.70 compared with 19.83 at the close of the previous day, with the general market irregular, net 25 points lower to 4 points higher. There was no business in October but the nomal quotations for that month showing the maximum loss for the day.

The market opened easy at a decline of 17 to 44 points under scattering liquidation and some southern hedge selling, while there was also considerable selling of December and January by brokers wtih Japanese connections. Reports of low temperatures in central and western belt sections with frost at Abilene, Texas, Memphis and Fort Smith, appeared to attract very little attention, but there was a good deal of covering at the early decline, and trade buying was accompanied by reports that domestic spinners had been good buyers of spot in the south late yesterday.

There was also bullish comment on the increased amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance which was supposed to foreshadow larger exports to Great Britain and the market showed considerable firmness during the morning with January selling up to 19.62, while March advanced from 18.92 to 19.42, or 11 to 20 points net higher. There was more realizing at these figures while hedge selling increased in the last half hour, and the close was about 20 to 24 points off from the best.

COTTON OIL.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Cotton seed oil was weak under pressure from refiners and liquidation by disheartened longs, induced by dull trade conditions and fear of cheaper hogs. Closing bids were 1 to 15 points net lower. Sales 17,600 barrels.

Prime crude 7.25 bid; prime summer yellow spot 8.75; December 8.82; March 9.03; May 9.14; all bid.

TWYMAN MADE SCHOOL BETTER OFFICERS SAY

By Associated Press.

GATESVILLE, Texas, Oct. 8.—The state board of control, inquiring into affairs at the state juvenile training school here, adjourned its sessions early today until next Tuesday and board members departed for Austin. No witnesses were examined today.

Announcement was made that when the investigation is resumed next week, every effort will be made to place responsibility for cruelty and brutality alleged to have been inflicted upon boy inmates of the school.

Three state probation officers at a session of the hearing last night said general conditions at the school had improved after H. C. Twyman, until recently military director, instituted military discipline. Twyman is under charges of murder in connection with the death of Dell Thames, a Beaumont boy. The lad died following punishment for alleged failure to drill.

The probation officers, F. A. Craven of McLennan county, L. J. Bailey of Austin and B. A. McLaughlin of Port Arthur, praised the school and its work and cited specific instances wherein "bad boys" had "made good" after leaving the institution.

GATESVILLE, Texas, Oct. 8.—H. G. Twyman, 26, held here on a murder charge in connection with the death of Dell Thames, aged 14 years, at the state juvenile training school, September 25, made his first public statement today, declaring "this is the first time I have ever been charged with any kind of trouble." The statement sketches Twyman's career from the time of his birth a Petroleum, W. Va., and says "I am thankful for the words and deeds of kindness coming to me from those who have known me since I have been in this) Coryell (county."

KANSAS BOARD OF INDUSTRY AGAIN UPHELD

By Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 8.—Constitutionality of the Kansas court of industrial relations was again upheld by the state supreme court in a decision handded down today on the questions of law involving the Wolff Packing company case, one of the first important cases testing the industrial court act appealed by employers. The opinion was in accordance with a memorandum issued by the supreme court before the summer recess.

GIRL REMAINS IN JAIL DURING CLOSE OF TRIAL

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8.—Marian McArdle, charged with the first degree murder of her stepfather, Daniel Kaber, two years ago, remained in county jail today resting after the first week of her trial. Court adjourned yesterday until Monday when the defense expects to rest its case.

Anna Baehr, a school girl chum of the 20-year-old defendant, the state's last witness, said she passed the night of the murder in the Kaber home with Marian at the latter's request and noticed nothing unusual about Miss McArdle's actions. Later she was recalled by the defense as a character witness.

CORPUS BANS PARADES OF MASKED MEN

By Associated Press.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Oct. 8.—Sheriff Frank Robinson and Chief of Police D. S. Wright announced today that no Ku Klux Klan parade or any other parade of masked men can be held within Nueces county to their knowledge. An ordinance recently was passed in Aransas Pass that no parade could be held on the public streets there without first obtaining permission from the mayor.

Miss Dorothy Martin, of Edwardsville, Ill., is a member of the National Jewelers' Association and the only woman belonging to that organization who is a practical watchmaker.

Dated Aug. 30th, 1921

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
The State of Texas

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon P. W. Harris and W. B. Dennis by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 30th District Court of Wichita County, to be holden at the Court House thereof in Wichita Falls on the third Monday in December, A. D. 1921, the same being the 19th day of December, A. D. 1921, then and there to answer first amended petition filed in said Court on the 28th day of Sept., A. D. 1921, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 8383-A, wherein R. E. Huff and W. M. McGregor are Plaintiffs and B. C. Gaither, Alma Gaither, P. W. Harris, W. R. Grice and W. B. Dennis are Defendants, and said petition alleging that on June 22nd, 1915, defendants B. C. Gaither and Alma Gaither, made, executed and delivered to J. D. Summers their negotiable promissory notes, payable one note for $180.00 payable June 22nd, 1916, five notes for $300.00 each, payable on the 22nd day of the years 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921, respectively, each and all of said notes bearing interest from date until paid at the rate of 8 per cent per annum payable annually as it accrues and providing for 10 per cent interest per annum after maturity and for 10 per cent attorney fees if collected by attorney etc. That by assignment plaintiffs are the owners and holders of said notes, that all of said notes are due and unpaid to plaintiff's damage $3000.00. That said notes were given as a part payment of 103 3-10 acres of land out of Block 8, J. A. Scott's Section 12, Wichita County, Texas, fully described in deed records Book 22, page 115, described by field notes, to which reference is here made for full description and that the Vendor's Lien was retained on said land to secure the payment of said notes, and that in addition the said B. C. Gaither and Alma Gaither executed a Deed of Trust to T. A. Huff, Trustee for said property, with the usual terms, etc. That defendants, P. W. Harris, W. R. Grice and W. B. Dennis are and each of them have assumed the payment of said notes and are setting up some claim of right on title to said land. Plaintiff prays that defendant W. B. Dennis be cited in Bexar County, Texas and that P. W. Harris and W. B. Dennis be also cited by publication to appear at the next term of this court for judgment against the said Alma M. Gaither, said notes having been given by her against her own separate estate, and also against B. C. Gaither for said $180.00 principal and interest from and after June 22nd 1915 at 8 per cent per annum compounded semi-annually; also against W. R. Grice, P. W. Harris and W. B. Dennis as purchasers and claimants of said land and assumers of said notes, with interest compounded semi-annually as above stated at 8 per cent until maturity and 10 per cent after maturity, and all accrued interest and attorney's fees, etc., with foreclosure of his Vendor's Lien and Deed of Trust on the above described real estate and for costs of suit, etc.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas this the 7th day of October, A. D., 1921.

A. F. KEBR
Clerk, District Court, Wichita Co., Texas.
(Seal.)

The origin of playing cards is one of the things enshrouded in mystery. There is a pack in the British museum know nto be more than 1,000 years old, and there were Japanese and Chinese playing cards in the twelfth century.

Graves of many American soldiers who died in German prisons were unmarked.

Wanted To Buy

A six, seven or eight-room furnished house, must be on the pavement, in good neighborhood, and worth the money.

TEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY A USED CAR NOW

1.—Automobile dealers have reduced prices to PRESENT used car values—making loss impossible from any conditions affecting new car prices.

2.—Larger selection of used cars now than next spring.

3.—No further reductions in new car prices possible for many months—while INCRESAES ARE not improbable.

4.—A shortage of cars is sure to follow the curtail production of new automobiles.

5.—Next spring the demand will exceed the supply — making closer markets, stronger competition in buying, and tending to higher prices.

6.—The industry has overcome the curtailed financial support—another element that tends to higher prices.

7.—An increase in new car sales involving "trades" has resulted in large stocks of used cars with insufficient winter storage space and large investments in used cars, dealers prefer to sell now at greatly reduced prices.

9.—The same high grade service of a new car is obtainable in a used car at a greatly reduced price.

10.—Buying a used car now, based on today's valuations, from a reputable dealer, is absolute protection against loss from any conditions that may affect the new car industry or market.

ANNUAL MEET AND BANQUET OF OIL MEN

Dallas Will Be the Place and October 14 Will Be the Date of Gathering of Operators.

Special to the Record News.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 8.—It is announced that the annual meeting and banquet of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association will be held in Dallas on October 14.

Advices have been received from the Kansas-Oklahoma division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association at Tulsa that they are going to postpone their regular meeting in order that their members may attend the meeting in Dallas of the Texas-Louisiana on the 14th.

The meeting itself will be in the nature of a general better-get-acquainted affair. Officials of the association are expecting a large attendance and a very interesting program has been prepared.

The executive committee of the Texas-Louisiana division is as follows: J. D. Collett, H. J. Morlang, Walter B. Pyron, T. B. Hoffer, W. M. Harrison, Roy B. Jones, W. H. Frances, J. Edgar Pew, Frank M. Smith, G. Clint Wood, C. H. Clark, Fred M. Lege, Jr., J. A. Kemp, J. L. McMahon, C. M. Caldwell, A. C. Fuqua, William B. Sutton, S. M. Parish, W. K. Gordon, M. A. Hagaman, E. S. Graham, C. D. Keen, C. K. Clark, E. R. Ratcliff, Louis J. Wortham, and B. C. Richardson.

Just now the petroleum industry has had a comeback and there are many who predict the price of crude will advance from $1.75 to $2 before the passing of the month of October. This promises to be a very enthusiastic meeting of oil and gas men and the banquet will be a notable function.

Upset Stomach, Gas, Indigestion

"Pape's Diapepsin" gives Relief in Five Minutes

Stomach acidity causes indigestion! Food souring, gas, distress! Wonder what upset your stomach? Well, don't bother! The moment you eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin all the lumps of indigestion pain, the sourness, heart-burn and belching of gasses, due to acidity, vanish—truly wonderful! Millions of people know that it is needless to be bothered with indigestion, dyspepsia or a disordered stomach. A few tablets of Pape's Diapepsin neturalize acidity and give relief at once—no waiting! Buy a sixty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now! Don't stay miserable. Regulate your stomach so you can eat favorite foods without causing regret. (Adv.)

MOTHER! YOUR CHILD'S BOWELS NEED "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and give you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

STUDENTS WILL HONOR MEMORY NATION'S DEAD

Fire prevention day will be observed Monday in all schools and class rooms of the city with fitting addresses and studies, according to plans of Superintendent Lee Clark announced Saturday afternoon. The obtaining of speakers to address the students in the different buildings will be under the direction of Fire Chief McClure, who it is expected will visit several of the schools and confer with various teachers concerning important phases of fire prevention that should be taught to the young mind.

Mr. Clark also announced that as a mark of respect to the soldiers who have given their lives for their country, all flags will be placed at half mast, students from the Junior and Senior high schools and from the Austin school will be formed in lines Monday afternoon on either side of the street leading from the church when funeral services are held for Lieutenant Alfred H. Carrigan, Jr., the first home-born and reared boy to meet death on the battle fields of France.

All students who can and will form in lines from other ward schools of the city will be marched to the place, according to Mr. Clark and it is expected that at least 2,000 local students will be in the lines.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT NEXT DOSE MAY SALIVATE

It Is Mercury, Quicksilver, Shocks Liver and Attacks Your Bones.

Calomel salivation is horrible. It swells the tongue, loosens the teeth and starts rheumatism. There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel. It is a pleasant vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Calomel is a dangerous drug, besides it may make you feel weak sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone act better than treacherous calomel your money is waiting for you.—Adv.

SOCIETY

ORCHESTRA TO PRESENT WELL BALANCED PROGRAM

A happy medium has been struck by the talented group of orchestral artists composing the Biltmore Society orchestra in the program which will be presented here at the First Methodist Church, South, under the auspices of the Epworth League, Thursday evening.

The two common criticisms of orchestral work that the orchestra plays either a too classical program or the program is altogether too light and "jazzy" has been overcome by the Biltmore orchestra and those who attend the recital Wednesday evening will be treated to a happy medium in the type of program offered, according to advance press reports.

A long tour during the past summer on one of the largest Chautauqua circuits of the country has won such fire commendation for the Biltmore orchestra that the Dixie management unhesitatingly commends the program to all classes of music lovers.

Primarily, the Biltmore orchestra consists of a group of fine orchestral artists headed by Eugene Schweizer, noted young leader of rare talents and considerable experience, consequently the Biltmores play the standard symphony numbers with as much ease as they play the more popular orchestrations of the current season.

They offer a program which has a strong appeal by reason of this fact, including strong vocal combinations and instrumental numbers of all varieties.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL'S CLUB GIVE PROGRAM

Members of the Girl's club of the high school enjoyed an interesting program Friday afternoon in which Miss Georgia Michaelson gave a reading, Miss Johnnie Calvert a talk on "Girls" and Miss Annabel Couper gave a review on her experiences in Scotland this summer.

The program was concluded with piano numbers rendered by Misses Lucile Benson, Georgia B. Leath and Joe Betsy Miller.

A business session followed in which the president, Miss Joe Betsy Miller, appointed committees for the ensuing year. Miss Louise Scott was appointed chairman of the program committee with Miss Genevieve Goff, faculty advisor; Miss Anna Keevil chairman of the service committee, with Miss Jenny Lillian Spawn advisor; Jannie McCallister, chairman of the membership committee with Miss Hilda Mathews, advisor; Miss Cecil McCurdy, chairman of the social committee with Miss Juanita Kensey, adviso..

The next meeting will be in charge of the social committee.

MRS. YOUNG HOSTESS TO UNITY CLUB.

Meeting with Mrs. H. C. Young on Broad street, the Unitey club opened the year's activities Friday afternoon with a lesson on "The Instructive Qualities of the Modern Drama," with Mrs. G. D. Anderson leader for the afternoon.

Mrs. Anderson gave a paper on "Dramas for Amusements"; Miss P. P. Langford discussed "Dramas for Artistic Satisfaction" and Mrs. O. E. Maer discussed "Dramas for Instruction."

During the business session, Mrs. J. T. Montgomery and her mother, Mrs. M. M. B. Durnell, charter members of the club who have recently returned to the city after a residence of several years in Austin, were re-elected to membership and Mrs. W. M. Priddy the newly elected president, gave an interesting talk.

The meeting was opened by the retiring president, Mrs. B. B. Gorseline who afterwards turned it over to Mrs. Priddy.

After the study program, a social hour was enjoyed in which an ice course was served to Mesdames G. D. Anderson, W. J. Daugherty, E. B. Gorseline, J. C. Hunt, J. A. Kemp, P. P. Langford, O. E. ALAMO MOTHERS TO ERECT FOUNTAIN

Plans for a fountain to be erected at the Alamo school at a cost of $1000 were discussed at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers council held Friday afternoon. The fountain to Miss Kate Haynes by the men, women and children of the city who have been instructed by Miss Haines who has been faithful teacher in the city schools for the past 30 years. The fountain according to the plans discussed, will have a base of granite on which will be the brown figure of a child holding a book, this figure to be surrounded by four other fountains. Contributions may be sent to J. E. Parks, principle of the school, by those who wish to donate for this cause.

Other business discussed at the meeting was the purchase of a set of the Books of Knowledge for the school library, the suggestion being made by Mrs. J. W. Culbertson who donated $25 towards the purchase price.

Mesdames L. R. Buchanan, W. B. Chauncey, Bernard Martin and S. M. Black announced that they would serve the teachers of the Alamo with luncheon at the noon hour at the school Wednesday, and expressed hope that other members of the Mother's club would follow the suggestion and that luncheon would be served the teachers once a week.

Following the business meeting a short program was rendered which was very much enjoyed and a social half hour in which punch was served to 84 members.

RECIPES

APPLE JELLY RECIPES

Plain Apple Jelly—When the fruit has been cooked until soft, drain in a jelly bag without pressure and cook the juice thus obtained for twenty minutes. Add heated sugar in the proportion of three quarters of a cupful to each cup of apple juice and let boil from four to six minutes. Skim well before and after the sugar is added.

Variations of Apple Jelly—Just before turning into glasses add a few drops of vanilla extract or a little sweet almond extract.

Cook a few sprigs of bruised fresh mint with the apple juice before adding the sugar and tint a delicate green with a few drops of green coloring matter.

Or cook with the boiling juice a thinly sliced orange or lemon, removing the citrous fruit before adding the sugar.

Old fashioned housekeepers flavored their apple jelly by hoiding in it for a few minutes either lemon, verbena or rose geranium leaves just before pouring into the jelly glasses.

With the Women of Today

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont

With the passage of the suffrage amendment and the transformation of the woman's suffrage party into the national woman's party it seemed as though the organization of the feminine voting contingent of the country was stabilized. Now comes Mrs. Belmont, long a leader in the woman's field, with the announcement that in order that the women may obtain more effective results with their votes she is going to organize a new woman's party which will not be content with selecting the most suitable candidates put forward by the male voters and aiding in the election of these men, but which will select its own candidates—women in all possible cases—and direct their campaigns.

"The full power of the woman's votes will not be felt until they do this," says Mrs. Belmont.

TESTED RECIPES

Corn Omelet—One pint grated corn, one-half cup cream or evaporated milk, five eggs, one teaspoon pepper.

Remove the husks and silk from the corn and cook from five to eight minutes, or, use corn that has been left from a previous meal.

While hot, score the corn down the center of each row of grains, then with the back of the knife press out the pulp, leaving the hull on the cob. Do not grate the corn as in that way you get the hull as well.

Separate the eggs, beat the yolks until light, add to them the cream, the corn gradually, mixing carefully. Add salt and pepper. Beat the whites very stiff and fold carefully into the corn mixture.

Melt a tablespoon of button in a frying pan, and when very hot, turn in onehalf the mixture. Cook quickly, watching carefully until the omelet is set. Cook the remaining half the same way, and serve on a hot platter with a garnish of parsley.

Fried Eggplant—Pare the egg-plant and cut in thin slices. Sprinkle each slice with salt and pepper, pile them evenly, put a plate over them and a weight upon the plate; let stand an hour. This presses out the strong juice.

Beat an egg slightly, add a tablespoon of water. Dip each slice of eggplant first into the egg and then into bread crumbs. Put three tablespoons of lard or drippings into a pan; when hot, saute the slices, a few at a time, until a golden brown on both sides.

Add more fat if needed, waiting for it to heat each time before putting in the eggplant. Drain on absorbent paper, serve very hot with tomato catsup or tomato sauce.

Delectable Salad—Cut one medium sized Bermuda onion in thin, even slices and drop into ice water. When ready to serve drain, separate into rings and pile lightly on lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with celery, salt and garnish with a bit of pimento or green pepper. Serve with vinegar, olive oil or with French dressing if oil is desired. This salad has a delicious nutty flavor.

DISCOVERIES

Pear Honey—Few housekeepers know that the most delicious pear honey can be made the same as honey in taste and texture. Use hard rock pears, pare and grate down to the core. The proportion is: to three large or four medium sized pears use one pint of cold water and two pounds of granulated sugar. Boil all together for about one and one-fourth hours or until it will drop from the spoon like honey. Skim occasionally while boiling. It is delicious on hot cakes.

To Prevent Cakes or cookies from sticking to the pan, place the pan on top of a hot stove for a few minutes after removing it from the oven.

You May Conserve Fuel as well as time by filling your oven when you have to use it to roast or bake a dish. Have an entire, baked or escalloped meal with a pudding or a custard or cake for the day ahead.

Oatmeal or Other Cereal that stands always has a tough crust on top that is sheer waste. If a little hot water is poured over it, there will be no crust. This will be useful in a large family or boarding house, where some members come down late to breakfast.

REAL CAMPAICN METHODS

Some of The Record News Contestants Have Managers

LOOK OVER AND ANALYZE FIELD FOR MORE VOTE GETTING POSSIBILITIES.

FIRED with the ambition of winning one of the five automobiles or other prizes that are daily coming closer, candidates in the Record News Prize Campaign are beginning to install real campaign methods in their vote getting. October 15th, looms up as the all important date on the contest horizon for the reason that it is the close of the next extra vote offer, which gives 50,000 extra votes with each and every club of $30.00 worth of subscriptions turned in up to and including that date, the vital period of the remainder of the campaign. This leaves only two short weeks until the close of the contest.

The gathering of votes and subscriptions are being placed on a business basis. And the various methods of these young women indicate a business sagacity which would do credit to men of the commercial world.

The favorite method is to appoint a campaign manager, with some one to make a careful analysis of all the territory to be covered, and to decide upon the most effective way to make that territory produce the most results, nearly all chances of overlooking a source of votes eliminated.

Presidential candidates have their campaign managers. Why not also the Record News candidates? It will prove the same efficient results, as is being demonstrated every day.

CHANCES HAS NO PART.

After all, chances play little or no part in this campaign. Obviously candidates are not misled in the belief that they will get something for nothing. It isn't being done these days. BUT, candidates can get something—in the shape of a magnificent automobile, in exchange for sufficient effort and industry.

Thoroughness and industry, then, are the two paramount qualities that one may expect to win with. To work industriously in the race, never hesitating a moment until a prize is won, is the slogan the candidates have adopted.

The deep interest in the campaign and the great number of people in Texas who are watching the progress of the women from day to day foretells of a finish which will live in the memory of those participating for some years to come.

Too much is at stake to lag now. In almost any district a few subscriptions would make great changes. No one has as yet attained a lead which can not be over come or passed, and this point is being realized by other candidates with such forcefulness that radical changes are occuring daily. Almost continuously the names and positions are changing.

Naturally, in a race of this kind, jealousies will arise which will cause rumors to become circulated. The sole purpose of such rumors is to have a discouraging effect upon other contestants who are doing well and perhaps standing in the way of someone who also wishes to win. These rumors deserve no consideration. To harken to them is to forego your own chances of winning an automobile and allowing your competitors to get the prizes for which you have been striving.

Tea Gowns That Express Personality

A WOMAN is most truly herself when, within the four walls of her boudoir, she dons her negligee. This is indeed a relief, for it is only then that she may withdraw from the gaze of the chance passerby. In public, to offset criticism, the utmost attention must be given her wardrobe in order that her evening gown shall conform to the latest dictates of fashion, and that her walking suit adheres to the conventional trend. But with tea gowns it is a different matter—for in them she can best express her individuality.

Several designs made to inspire the home dressmaker are suggested here by Gloria Swanson, star in Paramount pictures. For morning, an entrancing lace breakfast coat, as illustrated in the upper sketch, is available. This is slipped over a clinging silken slip of the palest lavender and is trimmed with a narrow strip of fur, belted in by a girdle of deep lavender satin.

For evening, after a tiring day at the studio, a restful shade of dull yellow silk is selected, as shown in the lower sketch. This differs greatly from the other, in that the bodice is fashioned of a contrasting shade of pale blue figured material. Over this is donned a jacket of the same material as the skirt, with trimming of banded fur.

Perhaps more than any other star of the screen, Miss Swanson is best endowed with those qualifications which go into the making of an intense individualist. This is typified by the tea gown shown here, which she wore in the Paramount picture, "The Great Moment," written for her by Elinor Glyn.

This above all exemplifies her exotic beauty. It is made from a dull gold Arabian robe, figured with dull greens and blues and is banded with Kolinsky. In her hair she has characteristically set two very old Chinese combs which aid materially in giving the effect of Oriental splendor.

For those desiring to avoid the arrangement of the early coiffeur, Miss Swanson suggests the two boudoir caps illustrated. The one in the upper sketch is patterned of china silk drawn tightly about the head and is trimmed with a very wide band of handmade lace designed in Quaker style. The lower sketch is more conventional. It is made of sheer lace, with the ends permitted to swath the neck and shoulders. This is trimmed with a band of six silken roses and is completed with a bit of velvet ribbon.

DIVORCE SUIT RESULTS IN MANN CHARGE

Richard Trible arrested Saturday at the courthouse after he had testified as a defendant in marriage annulment and injunction proceedings that had been brought against him in the 78th District court was released on $500 bond for his appearance Tuesday afternoon for a preliminary hearing on charge of having violated the Mann White Slave Act.

According to federal officers Trible, who was a former service car driver in this city, was arrested in part on the testimony presented in the district court. He is alleged to have transported a woman from Wichita Falls to Oklahoma for immoral purposes.

SET NEW PAVING RECORD

A new record was set during the last week in the amount of concrete paving completed in the county for a six day period. According to information Saturday from the office of Potts & Prentice, contractors, a total of 8,600 feet of 18 foot pavement was completed during the week.

Of the total 6,000 feet was completed by Potts & Prentice with their two mixers between Iowa Park and Electra. The McCollum Construction company completed 1,900 feet on their sub-contract east of Electra and the Zimmerman Construction company completed 700 feet on their sub-contract at Iowa Park.

According to County Engineer Isbell it is probable that the pavement from Iowa Park to the Wilbarger county line will be completed by November 15 with the exception of part of the Zimmerman contract. It is expected that the east mixer on the Potts and Prentice contract will complete to the central mixing plant by November 1.

HALL COUNTY FARM VALUES MAKE RECORD

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 8.—Hall county farm values moved from 6,766,547 in 1910 to 14,304,263 in 1920, a gain of 111.4 per cent. This county takes the banner place in the Panhandle for cotton, according to census statistics just received. The county moved from 8,283 bales in 1910 to 36,773 in 1920.

The crop this year while considerably reduced in acreage is perhaps the best in the state in yield per acre, 5,500 bales having been ginned to date in the county and the crop is probably one-fourth out. The staple is extra good and the turn out is above the average. If open weather continues the crop will be gathered earlier than ever before in its history.

Clyde Milam aroused by a prowler last night shot at him. He shot too high and the bullet entered the window of the Deberry residence in the same block and grazed the skull of Martha Deberry, a little girl standing in the room. If she had been two inches taller the bullet would have gone center through the skull. The officers failed to find the prowler after the incident.

ALLEGED OWNER GIANT STILL IS ALLOWED BOND

A. M. Buchanan arrested Friday night by Ranger McCormick and Sheriff McDonald of Archer county in connection with the capture of one of the largest stills ever confiscated in the county was bound over on $1,000 bond Saturday by Justice of the Peace Gwinn to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of manufacturing liquor. Buchanan waived a preliminary hearing.

The accused man was arrested in connection with the discovery of a complete still equipment in a frame building covered with straw on a farm four miles north of this city.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

LOVERS ONCE MORE.

Mrs. Randall drew in her breath quickly at Ned's words about his new home of the future. Then turning her tear-filled eyes on Ned she asked him tremendously if there was anything she had ever done to cause him to wish to leave her house and start one of his own?

"Of course not, mother. You have been wonderful to Cherry and me. Our wanting to build our own nest has nothing whatsoever to do with your treatment of us, dear. Don't be such a sensitive, little mother," this tenderly, as he saw her distress and the quivering of her lips.

"I wish I were dead, son, that's all. I was so happy at the thought of you and Cherry being with me for the rest of my days and I won't have so many more, I feel sure. Now you are going to leave me, alone. It is cruel of you, Ned, after the way I have kept the home going for you. What would your father say if he could know?"

"Why, mother, this is more than strange of you. What did you and father do when you were married? Did you stay behind as your parents asked you to do? No, indeed. You migrated. Became pioneers, and started out for yourselves, even as Cherry and I want to, and must do. This is the salvation of every young couple, standing out in life together Besides we are not going to leave Wellsburg. You will see us every day, so there is no need to feel lonely at all. It's high time, though, that my Cherry was mistress of her own home. It is every women's privilege, as you know, mother," her son reminded her firmly.

"Very well, I have nothing further to say or suggest," answered Mrs. Randall, settling back further in her seat.

Arrived at the house, Cherry led her husband up to their room, and here they had their real reunion. Never had she felt so great a love for Ned as she did when he took her in his arms hungrily and kissed her till she begged for mercy. Never had Cherry realized just how much her very own man loved her.

They sat like two happy children, gazing into each other's eyes and smiling. Time was forgotten. Lip to lip, heart to heart, they clung feeling the perfect bliss and security that is derived from such a meeting, and long afterwards, lying in Ned's arms, Cherry told of her plans for their future happiness, of how bitterly she had reproached herself for their useless misunderstandings and wrangles after he had left. She assured him of her supreme trust in him and his love then of all the things that her heart had held for him against the day of his return.

He in turn told of his own heart aches while away, of his former foolish doubts, his jealousy about Arthur, which he now laughed at, and of what they would do once they were in their new home together.

Even the luncheon bell held no terrors for either of the lovers now. Ned sent down word to his mother that he wished to rest rather than come to the table just then, and ordered Phoebe to bring up a dainty trayful of food for Cherry and himself.

At his new independence Cherry almost wept for gladness. This was indeed a new Ned, or rather a Ned like unto the one she had loved and married.

THE DREAM HOUSE PLANNED

Mrs. Randall's attitude also underwent a change, after her son's return. She went about the house with a set look in her eyes and no smile upon her lips. This fact, plus the absence of Jane, lent an air of gloom to the place. Even Jack seemed affected by the atmosphere and spent as much of his time away as was decently possible.

As for Cherry, in her new-found happiness, she seemed like some eternal spirit of joy. Her songs echoed through the old house morning, noon and night. No amount of gloom could dispel her buoyancy. As she explained to Ned, "It has come to stay."

Once more, as of yore, Ned called for his wife at noon, and together they walked home, had their luncheon, then went back to their respective duties.

They seemed to have taken a new lease on life. Ned was devotion itself, and Cherry all tenderness towards her husband.

They called on their particular friends in Wellsburg, and went to as many dances as their hearts desired. Even her beloved Miss Laura was for the time deserted.

"Bless your heart, I understand, dear girl," that good friend assured her with a laugh, the second time that Cherry called up to break an engagement. "You just go along and have the best time ever with that handsome husband of yours. There is no one happier than Miss Laura to see you in love all over again. And don't ever dare to let anything come between you, Cherry," were her last words.

The days flew by, and each one brought its joys to the husband and wife. There were endless things to do, and to buy, for the new house, which Ned was already busy designing with a young architect in town. Never had Cherry's needle been so nimble as when she fell to on the curtains that were to make that little home a flowery paradise.

The happiest day of all was when Ned at last brought home the plans to show to his family.

The bungalow was perfect in every detail. Just the sort that Cherry would have picked out had it been left entirely to her judgment. It was not to be so very big, but cosy and adorable in every respect.

Five large, airy rooms, a splendid up-to-the-minute kitchen, a sun porch, outside kitchen and a pergola in the quaintly laid out garden. What more could the heart of woman desire? The happy girl was speechless with delight as she took in every nook and cranny of her future home. Ned had forgotten nothing. He was a veritable miracle man. What greater gift could he give her than this?

Even Mrs. Randall was enthusiastic when she saw the plans in spite of her resentment. "A heap more sensible sort of a house than this great big barracks your father insisted on," she told Ned.

"Why, mother, I thought you had practically designed this house," answered Ned in amused astonishment.

"Nothing of the kind. I only reminded him that I needed lots of space to move around in and your father gave it to me."

MORE PLANS FOR THE NEW HOME

"Tell me, little gypsy,
What the future holds for me?
Kindly gaze into my hand
And see what you can see."

Sang Cherry in a sweet soprano one afternoon a few days after Ned's return as she sat hemming some new linen sheets.

"That I will, sweetheart mine," answered her husband, coming up to where she was and grasping her right hand tightly in his own strong ones. "And I see so much happiness in that little palm of yours that it would take at least an afternoon to tell you all about what the future holds for you, too!"

With a laugh Cherry drew his head down to her lips and rewarded him with many kisses. Then she held up the new sheets, proudly, for his inspection.

"Most beautiful in the world," he assured her as he gravely examined them. Then laughingly wetted his thumb and forefinger, as he had so often seen his mother do when testing linen.

"Silly Billy. Every bit purest linen. And we have enough for two dozen of 'em, at least. So never say that your wife doesn't attend to household goods perfectly, when I get through sewing them."

"Never will criticize the most adorable wife in the world, anyhow, even if we never had a sheet for our beds, so there, Mrs. Randall," laughted Ned as he stood watching her fingers fly.

"Been over looking over our lot, dear," he went on, "and it's sure going to be the ideal location of Wellsburg. I can almost smell that old-fashioned garden you have planned every time I go out to have a look. It will be the pride of the town wait and see, lady-bird."

"Let's put in all sorts of reforms, too, while we're about it, Neddy boy. I remember when we used to have to wash the household linen years ago before we got to earning salaries at home. I used to tell mother that when I got a house of my very own I'd not have table cloths every day. Not span, shiny linen ones, anyhow. And do you know that many of the girls who got married before I did took my advice and bought pretty colored oilcloths for their tables? There's the loveliest sort of old-blue that looks perfectly stunning on a black table, specially with Chinese blue dishes to match. Of course we'll have a stack of white table cloths, too, but it will simplify housekeeping if we use the oilcloth when we are alone, dear. No work about them, just a wiping off after the dinner is over till the next time."

"A great idea, Cherry. I'm all for every labor-saving device that my little wife cares to think up. It will mean that you have more time to devote to any hobby of yours, dear," answered Ned cheerily.

"There spoke the man of my heart," said Cherry, catching his coat sleeve in her hands and stroking it lovingly. "I just know that I never will feel like so many tired housewives do at the end of a day, because I have such a thoughful husband."

THE WHEAT OUTLOOK THE WORLD OVER.

There is no danger of a world shortage of wheat during the coming year, and there is at present no indication of an undue surplus, according to the October issue of Commerce Monthly, published by the National Bank of Commerce in New York. World wheat production and requirements are approximately in balance. Estimated 1921 production of wheat in twenty countries which before the war produced 68 per cent of the known wheat crop of the world, aggregates 2,490,609,000 bushels as compared with 2,384,148,000 bushels produced last year, Commerce Monthly says.

The 1921 crop of the United States is estimated at 754,000,000 bushels and of Canada at 294,388,000 bushels. Allowing 600,000,000 bushels in the United States and 90,000,000 bushels in Canada for consumption and seeding requirements, and assuming a normal carry over at the beginning and end of the wheat year, there would be available for export from the two countries before July 1, 1922 a little over 350,000,000 bushels.

All hope of surplus wheat supplies from Russia has been abandoned and famine relief in that country may make an appreciable drain on international supplies. Crops in northern Africa are fairly good, following a very poor harvest last year, but a normal exportable surplus is not expected. Exports from India are reported to have been prohibited entirely, because of the poor crop and high prices, and no improvement can be expected before the 1922 harvest. Argentina and Australia still have a fairly large share of their last crops. The amount available for export from Argentina on July 1 is estimated at over 40,000,000 bushels and from Australia at about $50,000,000 bushels, allowing for a normal carryover in each country.

Current stocks in Europe are not large but are distinctly better than last year and are sufficient to meet requirements until the new harvest is available. Normally western Europe imports an average of 400,000,000 bushels of wheat annually. Of this amount Russia formerly supplied 150,000,000 bushels. In the last crop year, ending July 1, 1921, Canada and the United States together furnished net exports of about 475,000,000 bushels, of which the greater part was sent to Europe.

The estimated exportable surplus of 350,000,000 bushels from the United States and Canada, together with the 90,000,000 bushel carryover in Argentina and Australia, therefore, make a total of 440,000,000 bushels available to meet the international demand. This apparently balances the probable European requirements of approximately $400,000,000 bushels, with a reasonable allowance for Russian requirements.

Ellis county long staple cotton is going at 26 1-2 cents a pound and according to correspondents there will be much more of the long staple variety planted in Ellis, heretofore the banner cotton county, next year. There is ever a demand for long staple. Why should the farmers continue to plant "short" staple?

Our civiliation has progressed so far that mothers no longer examine a child's head when it comes home from public school.

EMPLOYMENT FOR THE IDLE.

President Harding called a national conference on unemployment. This conference appointed a committee on municipal organization on unemployment and another committee on unemployment agencies. Colonel Arthur Woods of New York is chairman of the organization of Municipal Organization for Unemployment. The committee adopted an unanimous report. This is the declaration:

Cities and towns must be relied upon for immediate attack upon the emergency created by unemploymtnt. Whatever is done must take place in local communities and the citizens of such communities are the ones responsible and capable of seeing that the necessary measures are carried out. This but repeats the first principle of American public life, relince upon local initiative and obligation.

Th mayors of cities are the natural and authorized leaders and directors of their communities for all emergencies affecting the public welfare. In the present crisis the mayor should head the effort of each locality and organize the most influential and representative citizens and agencies to handle the local situation.

In the interest of speed, order and effectiveness the chief official of each community should immediately marshal all its resources. The mayor and his organization should furnish such leadership as will enlist the support and utilize the services of all.

The governor of each state as the superior officer of all local officials is urged to call emphatically to the attention of communities and mayors their peculiar responsibility and fitness for handling this unemployment situation.

The methods of accomplishing results must vary with each locality and no methods capable of universal adoption can with safety be recommended. Therefore, specific recommendations to communities are confined to the very urgent one that following the leadership of their mayors with united local committees they accept this primary obligation to the full.

However, the following suggestions or general principles based on past experience are respectfully offered to such communities:

1. The Mayor's Committee should try to harmonize the operations of all the different agencies which are trying to relieve the situation, so as to avoid clashing and wasted effort.

2. The facts of the extent and distribution of unemployment should be in the possession of the Committee and should be made available to the public.

3. Each locality should have a public employment bureau.

4. The Mayor's Committee should try to get the whole community behind the effort to speed up the construction of public improvements. In a period like this there should be the greatest activity in putting up new schools and other needed public buildings, and if necessary repairs and improvements in streets, bridges, sewerage, public utilities, parks, and other municipal works.

5. Every effort should be made to provide real work by stimulating industry. Meanwhile, each industry should be urged as far as possible to keep together its own force by giving at least part time employment.

6. In some cities "Spruce-Up" campaigns have proved good. In these every one is urged to do at once whatever is needed in the line of sprucing up his property. This applies both to public and private owners of property, to small householders and flat renters as well as to large companies, hotels, theaters, etc. It should be made clear to all that money spent in this way, stimulating the regular activities of industry, will help to reduce unemployment far more than any other aid.

7. It is important to strengthen and increase the resources of the local family welfare agencies which are best prepared for effective service, and to give them vigorous support in order that they may deal promptly and adequately with the needs of families and individuals. The burden of meeting these needs should be borne not by a selected few but by many. Provision should be made for maintaining the usual facilities for the homeless, and for the relief of poverty arising from sickness, from widow-hood, frim mental or physical handicaps, in order that these may not be a complicating factor in the problems of unemployment. Cities that have municipal lodging houses or other adequate provision for the homeless man find that this makes possible differentiating the two problems of the resident and floating unemployed, and enforcing regulations against vagrancy and begging.

8. Consideration should be given to the practicability of keeping children in school as long as possible in order that they may not compete for the insufficient number of jobs and also that they may profit by additional schooling and the postponement of the beginning of wage earning. It may be found desirable to give scholarships to minors beyond the compulsory school age, and the publis schools have provided special vocational training for them so that the period of unemployment may be used to equip them for better positions.

9. It must always be remembered that an unemployed persons needs work, first and last, and that the community should relax no effort to find work for him, regarding other aid only as a temporary measure to be superseded at the earliest possible moment by work. The community should be able to handle the situation in such a way as to make bread lines unnecessary. Each community should remember that hunger and want must be relieved, and it should always be prepared to take whatever measures may be needed to prevent human suffering.

10. We suggest that each city avail itself of the experience of others. The methods of Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, Milwaukee and New York have been brought to the attention of the Conference, and we are certain that the mayors of these and other cities will be glad to answer inquiries.

Julius H. Barnes of New York is chairman of the committee on Unemployment gency. His committee made an unanimous report. Its full text is herewith given:

1. However grave the crisis of unemployment, a well organized community can develop untouched opportunities for employment.

2. In this crisis of unemployment, the responsibility in each community for leadership should be directly assumed by the Mayor. However, where an effective agency in a community is now successfuly functioning, the Mayor should support its work.

3. The need for emergency measures having been ascertained, the cooperation of all elements in the community should be enlisted through the formation of an "EMERGENCY COMMITTEE."

4. This "EMERGENCY COMMITTEE" should provide a centralized registration of the unemployed, and, by co-operation with, and not displacement of, proper and established agencies, facilities the placement of the unemployed.

5. This registration for employment should be wholly separate from any registration for relief of distress.

6. Competent and impartial executive direction and staff personnel is essential, in order that applicants may be properly selected on the basis of fitness for specific work, and thus the confidence of employers and workers be secured.

7. In selecting personel for the serious business of this emergency work, no consideration should be allowed other than fitness for its performance.

8. Energy and skill in management of the service will certainly facilitate the connection of men with work, and will more directly locate and develop opportunities for employment, otherwise not ascertained.

9. For quick and efficient service, local community effort is the most effective, but the local agency should co-operate with state and federal employment organizations and obtain all possible aid from these sources.

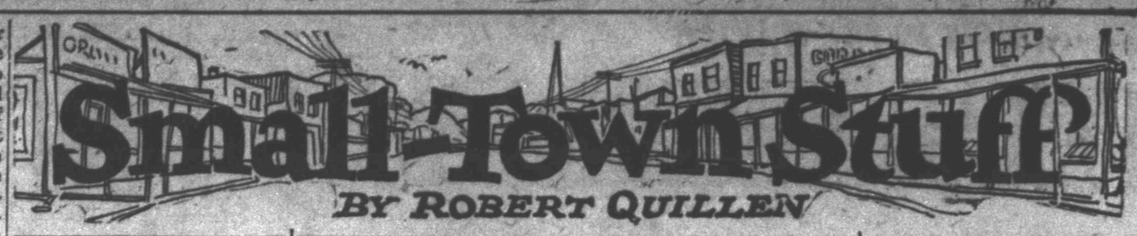

10. Emergency employment service should be stimulated by some method of report of progress and accomplishment, by which its value can be measured.

11. The experience of communities already operating will be helpful to all, and this committee is therefore preparing a pamphlet of suggested practical steps for general guidance. The main reliance, however, must be in the resourcefulness ond self-reliance of the people of each community, familar with its own local conditions.

Federal Enforcement officials are on the trail of Fatty Arbuckle. These officials were profoundly shocked when they read in the newspapers that Fatty served whiskey to his guests. If there is a hotel in California, a hotel in a leading city where the bell boy will not serve a guest, then the wine producing state has been shamefully defamed.

Paul M. Warburg of New York says the credit stringency is over and a new era of unrivalled prosperity is coming with the return of normalcy. Paul M. Warburg of New York is rated at $25,000,000, hence he is qualified to speak as to the passing of the "credit stringency."

FLATTERY

When I was a small boy, the lower grades of the public school I attended were dismissed at 11 o'clock in the morning, while the higher grades were kept in school until 12 o'clock. One morning as I loitered about the school yard waiting for my older brother to be released, I was approached by an ill-kempt youth who did not attend school. He told me with a fine air of comradeship and secret understanding that a boy of about my own age, who even then stood trembling on the opposite side of the school building was sorely in need of a licking and that I was the very lad to administer it. I felt no urge to do battle but permitted myself to be persuaded and followed at the heels of the promoter as he sought the victim.

The other small boy proved to be almost a head taller than myself and at sight of him my enthusiasm for the fray ebbed rapidly; but my champion assured me that I had the look and build of a fighter and he would be willing to bet money on me. He even expressed smypathy for the other boy, who was about to be rent asunder.

The little common sense I possessed urged me to be prudent, but the large boy's flattery was sweet to my ears, and after an interval I approached the other small boy and, with little skill and less enthusiasm, thrust my fist against his midriff.

I have no clear recollection of what followed. I only remember that a force against which I was helpless swept me off my feet; that a great weight settled astride my stomach; and that flying fists beat a lustry tattoo upon my nose.

I went home squalling, making futile effort to stop the terrifying flow of blood from my nose, and explained that a great rough boy had jumped on me. Mother believed me, as mothers will, and sympathized as mothers will and said that something should be done about these great rough-necks who maltreat innocent little boys.

The other boy was victor in the fray; but I did not come off empty-handed, for I had learned something concerning the value of flattery.

I know now that the smooth-tongued stranger who brags on me has designs on my pocketboo or wishes to use me for some purpose of his own, and I let him know that he is about as welcome in my vicinity as a case of smallpox.

Since the beginning of recorded history, flattery has been the orthodox bait for use in the catching of suckers; and yet today a new crop of suckers holds eager mouths agape, and the supply of flattery never equals the demand.

UNCLE GUS

A low-hung car of brilliant yellow turned the corner at the post office on two wheels, righted itself miraculously, and came to a stop in front of the drug store with a shriek of complaining tires. Its very lines were a violation of all speed regulations, and the sallow youth who sat on the middle of his back beneath the steering wheel had the general air of one who gives little heed to regulations of any kind.

"If I was that youngster's pa," said he, "him an' me would mix. He ain't got a lick o' sense, and he don't know how to do nothin' except spend money. If regular men was wo'th fo'ty dollars a head, you could buy them kind at two bits a bunch.

"It ain't his fault, though, I reckon. A boy ain't liable to amount to much if his pa ain't got no sense. Boys is a right smart o' trouble if their folks is well-to-do.

"If a man that's got a boy is all wropped up in makin' money, so's he ain't got no time to fool with the chap, the boy ain't got much show. I've watched 'em close, an' the mo' I study 'em the mo' I feel sorry for 'em even while I'm despisin' em.

"You take a boy what has too much money to spend, an like as not he gits to hell-raisin' mo' or less, and gits to thinkin' money ain't got no value to speak of, and then when the ol' man dies an' leaves him a big pile o' money he flings it away an' never amounts to nothin'. An' then lots o' times when the boy's pa is rich an' stingy an' don't give him no spendin' money scarcely, the boy gits resentful an' runs with low company, an' then, when the ol' man dies and he gits his hands on the money, he starts in to spend it to make up for lost time.

"If I was that boy's pa, I'd git him off in a room to hisself an' I'd say: 'Son, the big jobs always goes to the men what can handle 'em. They ain't no way for the private soldier to git the general's job exceptin' to learn to handle it. You can give a shote a fiddle, but that won't make him no musician. I'm couptin' on dyin' one of these here days and leavin' a bunch o' money, but I ain't a-goin' to leave it to nobody that ain't got sense enough to handle it. They ain't no way to learn money sense exceptin' to sweat fo' a dollar. I want you to learn how hard dollars is to make an' learn to spend 'em careful. You done got a book education, but you ain't got no hard sense. Hard sense is got from hard knocks, an' them's what you are goin 'to git.'

"Then I'd take him by the scruff o' the neck an' lead him to the front do', and I'd lick him plumb into the middle o' next week. I sho would. And while he was dustin' off his pants, I'd say to him: 'Goo' bye, son,' I'd say, 'an' God bless you. If you've got guts enough to make your own way, you kin count on gittin' my pile when I shuffle off; an' if you ain't, why you might as well go to thunder now as later,' I'd say. I believe in a father lovin' his boy, but it's a po' kind o' love that let's a boy loaf an' have his own way.'

AN HONEST MAN

There once lived in the world an honest man. He paid his debts and refrained from stealing, as do other decent men; but he was honest in other particulars also.

When he sat among men who discussed automobiles and heard their heated declarations that this or that car is the best on earth for the money and listened to each individual's boast concerning the hill-climbing ability and the little gasoline consumption of his own car, he held his peace and said no word at all until called upon for his opinion, and then he said: "I am not competent to discuss cars with you. It is clear that you gentlemen are thoroughly familiar with the mechanism and performance of all cars, while my experience is limited to one. I find many hills on which I must change gears, and I get something less than fourteen miles to the gallon of gas."

So when urged to express an opinion concerning tariff legislation or international affairs, he said: "I know only what I have read in the headlines. I have not studied the subject, and my opinion is therefore worthless."

He did not fill his shelves with unread books, and when he read a book that seemed worthless he said as much though all the world applauded the work. He had a few pictures on his walls, but the bought them because he liked them, and not because the high priests of culture told him the pictures were good.

He did not pretend to understand a menu printed in French; he did not pretend to enjoy grand opera more than musical comey; he did not deny being superstitious; he did not pretend to know the proper use for the various pieces of cutlery placed beside his plate at a banquet; even among very clever people he made no effort to conceal his religious beliefs; he mentioned the mortgage on his house as casually as he mention the paint on his car; he admitted that none of his people had ever amounted to much; he did not use large words, and looked frankly puzzled when the other men used them; he admitted that his wife bossed him; confessed that his daughter's singing gave him a pain, and told the truth when filling out his income tax blank.

He was an honest man, but his neighbors called him a darned crank, and he was very unpopular.

Breakfast Stories

"All right, my boy, I'll give you a raise. But don't say afterwards that I did you no favor."

Mother had promised little Clara a doll, and Clara was allowed to accompany her to purchase one. They entered the store where a large assortment awaited them.

"This doll," said the saleswoman, "can say 'mamma' and 'papa,' this one here can shut its eyes, and this one can say 'Oh!' when you put a new dresson it."

"Have you one that cries when you don't put a dress on it?" asked little Clara.

Two farmers met after church as usual, and had this conversation:

"Yes."

"What'd ye get."

"Thirteen dollars."

"What'd it cost ye to raise it?"

"Paid $3 for the shoat, $5 for the lumber in the pen and house, and $3 more for the feed."

"Didn't make much, did ye?"

"No, but I had the use of the pig all summer."

The feminist orator was wound up as she addressed the gathering of mere men.

"Women," she shouted, "have in all times and in all countries been the mainspring of national existence. Who was the world's greatest hero? Helen of Troy! Who was the world's greatest ruler? Queen Victoria! Who was the world's greatest martyr? Gentlemen, who, I say was the world's greatest martyr?"

VETERAN TELEGRAPHER DIES
By Associated Press.
SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Oct. 8.—William H. (Bill) Staley, veteran telegrapher, died early today after a long illness. He had worked the Associated Press wire in Sioux City Journal office for 26 years. He came to Sioux City from Lincoln, Neb. He was known from coast to coast among telegraphers. A widow and five children survive.

TIMELY VIEWS NOT IN THE NEWS

"OBREGON THE MAN TO GIVE MEXICO PEACE."—GERARD.

In General Obregon, Mexico has a president well qualified for many reasons to succeed in restoring tranquility and prosperity in the country. That is the opinion expressed by James W. Gerard, American ambassador to Germany during the first three years of the World war.

Gerard has just returned from a visit to Mexico City, where he went with Mrs. Gerard and Mr. and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary to attend the centennial celebration of the attainment of independence by Mexico.

"Obregon," Gerard said on his return, "is an exceedingly interesting personage. He is self-made. As he himself puts it, he earned his bread in the sweat of his brow during all the earlier years of his life, and the experience has undoubtedly given him a thorough understanding of and sympathy with the needs and aspirations of workingmen. Furthermore, he combines the proven abilities of both a statesman and a fighter, and any one who knows Mexico knows that only a man of that type can hope to control the situation."

Gerard stated it as his belief that education more than anything else would solve the problems of Mexico, where at present only 6 per cent of the population is literate, and said the Obregon administration was doing a great deal to establish free schools. All mining companses, for instance, are now compelled by law to maintain such schools for the children of their employes.

"It is a pity," he declared, "that American philanthropists, who have cheerfully given vast sums for education in numerous other countries, have never done anything to help the country in which we have the greatest natural interest and which is our nearest neighbor. The only school maintained in Mexico City at present by American funds is one Presbyterian institution, with twenty-two pupils."

Bolshevism—which he defined as a kind of "super-socialism"—seemed to Gerard a greater danger to the political stability of Mexico than was the remote possibility of any further revolutions. It had taken strong hold in certain sections, he said, particularizing Yucatan and Vera Cruz, in which latter state the legislature recently passed the so-called "law of hunger," requiring employers to divide their profits on a fifty-fifty basis, and making this requirement retroactive back to 1916. He hardly thought it likely, he intimated, that the retroactive section would ever be enforced.

FLORAL HEIGHTS METHODISTS IN SPECIAL MEETS

Rev. W. L. Tittle, pastor of Floral Heights Methodist church, announces two big special days. Next Sunday the Sunday school will observe "Mobilization Day." Every member of both church and Sunday school are expected to be present. This is a preparatory service for the big Rally Day which will be the following Sunday.

At the preaching services the pastor is happy over having in his pulpit two of the strongest Presbyterian preachers in the state. They ar: Rev. L. B. Grafton, pastor of First Church Austin, Texas, and Rev. Asher H. Brand, pastor of Madison Square church, San Antonio, Texas.

The former is a brother of Dr. N. F. Grafton of this city and is a strong and effective speaker. The latter is designated as one of the livest "live-wires" to be found any where.

With a fine array of special music in the way of anthems, pipe organ numbers and a violin solo, and with "Mobilization Day" in the Sunday school and surprise service at the league all of the services are expected to be largely attended.

She was one of the pioneers of Seymour and the family have lived here for the past thirty years. She is survived by four sons, County Judge Nat G., George, Charles H. and Nick P., all of Seymour, and one daughter, Mrs. L. W. Dalton of Plainview. Funeral services will be conducted at the family residence Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

GOETHALS RETURNS FROM MEXICO CITY

By Associated Press.
LAREDO, Texas, Oct. 8.—General George W. Goethals and George Wickersham, former United States attorney general, passed through here today en route home from a visit to Mexico City. They said their trip to Mexico was devoid of political significance. General Goethals said he discussed a number of contemplated engineering schemes with President Obregon and added that he would probably return to Mexico later.

General Goethals is scheduled to arrive in Dallas tomorrow where he will give his opinion as the practicability of a large lake project.

A LITTLE SLICE O' LIFE

A very strange thing
Happened in the car yesterday.
A woman got in the car
And a man who had a seat
Did not wait for her
To glare at him.
He didn't give her a chance,
But sprang up immediately
And gave her his seat.
That was strange enough,
But a stranger thing happened.
The lady smiled and thanked him.
"Oh, you are perfectly welcome,"
He replied, lifting his hat.
And then she did glare.

We note that the hundred-million-dollar Marshall Fields of Chicago are going to move to New York and build a magnificent hundred-room house on the north shore of Long Island. We trust the estimate provides for mosquito screens.

It has recently been revealed that Prince Rudolph, one-time heir to the Austrian throne was killed by being hit over the head with a beer bottle while walking with a baroness, but inasmuch as this happened in 1880, we dont' see why Europe should get all smoked up over it, unless somebody is looking for an excuse to start the next war.

CONFESSIONS OF AN AMATEUR CYNIC

I believe that a trace of goodness can be found even in a cannibal if he should be compared to a modern profiteer.

I am far from being a pessimist, in fact it's the other way around, but nevertheless, when I hear a woman talking styles I can't help thinking of a talking machine.

The law is a queer business. They swear a man to tell the truth and when he tries to do it somebody objects.

A rich woman announced she is going to start a school of psychology in Chicago, and it must be admitted Chicago needs a little of that stuff.

Of all the ills besetting us
The worst one is, alack,
So many borrow money and
Forget to pay it back.

A friend of ours says: "Never in my life was I so tempted to use a little refined but forceful profanity as yesterday, when a gentleman in a frock coat arrived at my office with a $127 set of books that I ordered away back before prohibition took hold and had forgotten all about. It was a set of books that I cared nothing in the least for, but he showed me a contract which was apparently good and I had to take the books and pay for them out of my rent money." All of which reminded us of the old song.

Oh, the things they bought in the olden days
That have gone beyond recall;
The rare old, fair old, golden days
That were not like these at all;
When every man was a millionaire
And scattered wide his gold
And the lowliest tank thought he owned a bank,
In the days of old.

TEXAS EDITORS WILL HOLD THEIR ANNUAL RALLY AT THE STATE FAIR ON PRESS DAY

H. N. F. Is Going to Dallas to Interview the Moulders of Public Thought as to Political Conditions and Political Favorites Thus Far Developed in the Senatorial Campaign

By H. N. F.

All the candidates for senatorial honors in Texas appear to have gone into the storm cellars.

Lucian W. Parrish returned to Washington and answered roll call as a member of congress.

Senator Morris Shepherd has had a second birth and is positive that the only salvation for mankind for the United States to become a member of the League of Nations.

Senator Charles A. Culberson appears to be in his shell most of the time. He has nothing to say for publication, and when he has, Secretary Journay slips it to the public for the Senior Senator.

Col. John Henry Kirby is busy with his oil interests, his lumber interests, his newspaper interests, his philanthropic endeavors, his Southern Tariff Association, his work as a delegate to President Harding's conference to settle the problem for the unemployed and his minor interests which are as numerous as they are varied.

Texas is a live stock state—a wonderful producer of cattle and sheep and goats. Early in November the Senate Finance committee will resume its hearings on the tariff bill. Chief Attorney Dayton Moses and Chief Secretary E. Berkley Spillers of the Texas Cattle Raisers Association will go to Washington as the representatives of the Live Stock Industry of the Southwest. These gentlemen will demand tariffs on hides, and meats. They are guarding the interests of the cattlemen.

Judge George Thurmond of Del Rio will represent the sheep raisers and the goat raisers. He will demand tariffs on wool and mohair and the judge doesn't care if they are placed as high as the sky.

Col. Kirby and his Southern Tariff Association representatives no doubt will demand tariffs on egg importations and protection for the roosters and the chickens of Texas.

China is a large importer of eggs and they do say that millions of dozens of Chinese eggs come to the southwest and play havoc with the prices of the native product.

Types of Democrats.

Senators Shepherd and Culberson are democrats. Of course there are many brands or types of democrats. Senator Shepherd voted for the emergency tariff bill but he is opposed to protection as the Penrose and Fordneyites frame their tariff bills.

Senator Culberson is for a tariff for revenue only. Of course he knows what the words mean. A tariff for revenue only would afford incidental protection to the staples of the south and the west and the bulk of the raw materials of America are produced in the south and the west.

There isn't much life in the democratic party in Texas, on the surface at least. Democrats are not going wild over men or issues thus far uppermost in the campaign.

They are paying taxes and cursing the government. A year ago the republicans were cursing the government and paying taxes.

Of course after the holidays or even after the republicans have enacted a tax bill and a tariff bill the Donkey will come out of his trance. He is a docile beast and there are times when he has an enormous load to carry. Democrats lost the senatorial contest in New Mexico to the Republicans by 7,000 majority and only 50 per cent of the voters displayed sufficient interest to go to the polls on election day. They lost a Massachusetts congressional election by 15,000 majority and their candidate to fill a vacancy put up a very plucky fight.

In Other Days.

Of course before the coming of Woodrow Wilson, New Mexico was rock rooted in its republicans. Four-fifths of its voters are of Spanish or Mexican origin and they never did have any use for the democratic party until they were told that Woodrow Wilson would lead them to the promise land. They deserted last year but not in great numbers and they may return to the democratic fold in the Congressional election next year.

In recent years Massachusetts drifted toward the democratic camp. long came President Woodrow Wilson with his League of Nations and the voters of Massachusetts rose in their might and buried the standard bearers of democracy. There are 150,000 voters of Celtic origin in Massachusetts. They were democrats almost to a man. The League of Nations drove this army into the republican camp and Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, lead the bolting procession.

Now all the blocs of foreign born voters in Massachusetts are up in the air, so to speak. These blocs were arrayed against Cox and Roosevelt. A year has caused many changes. Since the republican party came into power their wages have been reduced, their hours of labor have been increased and a million or more wage earners in New England have been idle since last fall. They may be sore on the republicans but this does not carry with it the conviction that they are ready to return to the democratic camp.

W. J. B. As a Prophet.

William Jennings Bryan predicts that the democrats will make substantial gains in the congressional elections next year and that they may be able to capture a few senatorships. But as a political prophet W. J. B. never made any money for the betting talent. He predicted himself into the White House on three separate occasions and then went down in defeat "though not in dishonor."

Republicans control all branches of the Government. They have or shortly will have all the fat offices. They won the offices and they are entitled to them. The tail should go with the hide. Wilson's army of office holders were a handicap to the democrats of 1920. They did not contribute to the campaign fund nor did they appear on the firing line. As snug as bugs in rugs they hid in their offices and raked in their pay checks at the end of every month.

Official patronage does not help the candidates of a party in campaign years. Office holders get in behind what the politicians call the snivel service law and a blacksmith could not pry one of them loose with a crowbar.

Monday will be Press Day at the State Fair of Texas. Every year hundreds of Texas newspaper men assemble at Dallas on Press Day. They exchange notes, they discuss candidates and issues and the boys from the smaller towns tell what they are saying at the political forks of the creek.

H. N. F. is going down to Dallas on Monday, October 10 and run about a bit with the sons of the Fourth Estate. They are wise as hawks when it comes to politics and they know "the lay of the land." They can tell you whether Pat Neff or Alvin M. Owsley will make first landing in the July primary of next year.

They can tell you the popular candidates for senatorial honors. They can tell you what the people think of Culberson and the men who are ambitious to snitch from Charles his long time job. They can tell you just what the Ku Klux Klan is doing in their respective neighborhood and if the Klan will cut a wide or a narrow swath in the politics of the state next year. There are seven or eight hundred of these guileless sons of the Fourth Estate under Texas skies. They are not all Colonels or Majors, but they know the game and many of them know how to play it.

Business Is Business.

Just now the voters are thinking more of business than they are of politics. They know that a short cotton crop placed more money in the pockets of southern growers than a bumper cotton crop would have placed there.

They know in the oil fields of Texas that foreign demand will send the prices kiting and make prosperous all concerned. They know when the fleet of tankers of the big oil companies are carrying refined products to foreign lands instead of being tied up at docks in America, that production will increase and wild catting will be conducted on a greater scale than ever before. They know that when normalcy does return the demand for petroleum will almost stagger the imagination of man.

They know politicians of all parties are cowardly and that is just what is the matter with the cingressional politicians or leaders of the republican party.

They know that the excess profits tax should have been repealed two years ago. They know that there is something wrong with the railroad situation and that the war tax on travel has played the devil with many of the great industries as well as thousands of wholesale establishments and the manufacturing and mercantile world.

They know European nations owe this government eleven billions of dollars and that Secretary Mellon says this gigantic debt must be funded as there is no possibility of early payment.

They know also that Great Britain and France are maintaining costly armies and building additions to mighty navies at the very time when their representative say they are unable to pay the interest on eleven billion dollars borrowed from the United States government.

They know that the republican congress has been in the saddle, so to speak, two years and a republican president has been in office since the fourth of last March.

They know that the republican party pledged the people to bring the boys home from Germany.

They know that president Harding had expressed a willingness for the return of the soldiers from the banks of the Rhine.

They know that the National Chamber of Commerce has entered an emphatic protest against the recall of American troops from Germany for the reason that if French troops replace American soldiers in Germany, another world war might be the result.

They know that the business trend is upward, that 20-cent cotton saved the south from disaster; that dollar ten wheat saved the west from disaster, that a dollar and seventy-five cent oil has lifted the suspense in the fields of the Mid-Continent and that the people must work out their own salvation and do the best they can regardless of political parties or political leaders.

Our senatorial candidates away down here in Texas are asleep at the switch. Why not a slogan, "We saved 'em; now make 'em pay." This would be popular. There would be a million talking points for the author of the slogan and he could sell it to thousands of his admiring fellow citizens.

Secretary Mellon is a very wise man. He is said to be as hard as flint, has no use for politics or politicians and is sincere when he says that the principal can not be collected for years to come and he is abit shaky about interest payments for some time to come.

Secretary Mellon has made millions of his own; he represents hundreds of millions and he is credited with being the most astute financier in or about the city of Washington.

Germany must worry along without a navy or army and in the long run it will be the best thing that has ever happened to the Germans.

In a future German wealth maker will face his task without a soldier on his right shoulder, a sailor on his left shoulder and an aviator on the nape of his neck.

This will help him some in digging out of the earth coin necessary to pay the allied governments thirty-three billion dollars fort he military crimes of the Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs.

TEXAS BANKERS AND DECREASED COTTON ACREAGE

"Should Maintain an Independent Living at Home," Is the Advice Given.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 5.—Nathan Adams, chairman of the campaign committee and vice president of the American Exchange National Bank of Dallas states: "It is time for the business interests of Texas, in cooperation with the farmers of Texas, to get a fair return for the products of this country, and it can only be done through the active cooperation of both. Farmers should not be tempted by the present prices of cotton to increase the acreage. Diversified and intensified farming means more prosperous communities; therefore the sensible thing for farmers to do is to diversify their crops to the extent that they can feed themselves and livestock from their own farms, making cotton a surplus crop.

Warren P. Andrews of Fort Worth, president of the Texas Bankers' Association, states that every good banker of the South who passed through the ordeals of 192 in the huge carryover of cotton and in the general shortage of food and feed stuffs, could not fail to accept his responsibility with the farmers of this country. "It would be wrong at this time not to come forth and make permanent the progress and prosperity in diversified farming that has been gained this year. We should not consider along the price of cotton, but should maintain an independent living at home, in so far as soil and climate will permit."

"From these statements it is evident that not only the farmers are interested in the general prosperity of agriculture and better farming conditions," stated E. F. Shropshire, secretary of the campaign.

Dangers of Increased Acreage

These gentlemen frankly state that they are not farmers, but are much interested in farming condition and know that the farmers' prosperity is the prosperity of all business. As bankers they know finance and financial conditions as few farmers know them. With this broad knowledge of economic conditions they see the danger of increased cotton acreage for 1922, at the expense of food and feed crops.

SOVIETS WANT WORKERS

RIGA, Oct. 8.—The Russian soviet commiscariat of labor has sent agents abroad to recruit foreign workmen for Russia, according to a radio message from Moscow today. The agents are going principally to America, the message said.

CONVICT LABOR CONDEMNED BY TEXAS C. OF C.

DALLAS, Oct. 8.—The executive committee of the Texas Chamber of Commerce today went on record as opposing the plan by which the state will permit the use of convict labor in connection with the products of private manufacturing concerns.

Copies of the resolution were mailed to Governor Neff, and members of the prison board, and it was announced that the subject would be brought up for thorough discussion at the Texas Commercial Conference in this city, October 13-15.

WEEKS WON'T PERMIT ARMY PLANES TO COMPETE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Secretary Weeks has reaffirmed his decision not to permit army airplanes to participate in exhibition competitions, basing his objections on lack of personnel, material and general uselessness from military standpoint of testing the speed of aircrafts by racing. The decision is accepted as the final word on the question of whether army planes should enter the Pulitzer races at Omaha, Neb., late this month.

Amazingly Exquisite Interior and Exterior Sets Enhance Fairbanks' Latest Picture.

Those who view Douglas Fairbanks' latest United Artists Production, "The Three Musketeers," will be given a film tour of Paris as it was in the early Seventeenth Century; of the palace of King Louis XIII; of Buckingham Palace and several ancient and picturesque continental towns.

To meet the requirements of this story, three acres of exterior sets and one acre of interiors were built, all duplicated from ancient engravings of historical buildings of that time.

"All told," ald Robert Fairbanks, production manager and brother of the famous Doug, "we built 37 interiors and 40 exteriors, every one of them costing at least three times as much as any other set ever constructed on the Fairbanks' lot." It is believed by the management of the Palace theater, where this stupendous film spectacle will be shown for one week, starting October 17 that "The Three Musketeers" will not only represent an overwhelming photographic drama, but that it will also afford a golden opportunity to review the early history of France. No more vivid impression could possibly be given of the gates of Paris, or of the quaint streets and picturesque buildings of the city than that conveyed in the scenes wherein D'Artagnan an dthe three musketeers give battle in slashing duels to the Cardinal's Guards.

The Louvre, with its vaulted ceilings and impressive arches was reproduced in a set nearly two hundred feet long, and the scene depicting the court ball with ladies of rank and men of nobility is said to be one of the most colorful and magnificent ever assembled. With the king and queen looking on from the throne, two hundred gorgeously costumed couples occupy the floor.

VIVIAN MARTIN AT THE GEM STARRING IN "THE THIRD KISS"

VIVIAN MARTIN is the star in a new Paramount-Artcraft picture, "The Third Kiss," which comes to the Gem theater next Monday. In this production she plays the role of a girl of slums, who is in reality an heiress but who, to atone for a wrong done by her deceased uncle, lives among the working folk and aids in their relief, keeping her identity a secret from them and also from her coworkers.

She makes a great sacrifice when she marries a man she does not love to shield a young married man who has been devoting his life to settlement work, but who has fallen madly in love with his beautiful and innocent little helper. How this sacrifice proves, in the end, a blessing when she finds that she really loves the man she has married is delightfully shown.

A splendid cast was selected to play the various supporting roles. Harrison Ford, Robert Ellis, Kathleen Kirkham, Thomas D. Persse, Edna Mae Cooper, Jane Keckley and other well-known players are among Miss Martin's co-workers.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN" TEEMING WITH HUMAN PASSION AMID GRANDEUR OF WAR COMES TO STRAND FOR WEEK

"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" opens Monday at the Strand theatre for a six day program. This is the Rex Ingram production that cost Metro $1,000,000 to make and that New Yorkers paid $10 a seat to see when it opened its record-breaking run in the metropolis. The artistic results are priceless. Indications of the screen's power have been given in memorable productions of other years, but not until "The Four Horsemen" has there been a photodrama that has completely filled the promise of epical achievement.

It is in this sense of recording mighty events that the screen's superiority over the stage was recognized by critics after the first showing of "The Four Horsemen." Some of them harked back to the days of Shakespeare and the Elizabethan revival for a parallel in the theatre to the Rex Ingram production. They recognized the grandeur of the Great War had here been visualized as a lasting memorial.

But "The Four Horsemen" is not a war play, except as the war serves as a background for a story teeming with dramatic passion. Readers of the novel by the sensational Spaniard, Vicente Blasco Ibanes, from which the photodrama was adapted, have reported surprised delight at the fidelity with which the scenarioist, June Mathis, has followed the story, a story that has been more widely read throughout the world than any other of modern times. Its effect is heightened in the picture, a supreme expression of the cinematographic art.

The artist to whom most credit has been awarded for this achievement is the director, Rex Ingram. Himself a sculptor before he entered the motion picture field, he has brought to the screen a sense of composition and form that is infallible in getting the right result down to the smallest detail. And then there are the big settings—the broad sweep of the Argentine plains with their enormous herds of cattle, the Buenos Ayres dance hall with its swirl of smoke and glamorous vice, the whirling gaiety of the Parisian tango palace, the fevered rush of the mobilization scenes at the outbreak of the war, the cluttered masses of German troops pouring toward Paris, the bombardment and destruction of a village and a chateau on the Marne, the terrific horror and fascination of an infantry attack from the trenches into No Man's Land. And through it all is the uncanny vision of St. John, picturing the Four Horsemen—Conquest, War, Famine and Death—a vision that Mr. Ingram has portrayed in an atmosphere of unearthly imagination.

The actors—and there are fifty principals and 2,500 extras engaged in the production—have been selected with an astonishing intuition for the ideal types. The highest honors are carried off by Rudolph Valentino, a young Italian who won fame as an exhibition dancer before starting his screen career. He appears as Julio Desnoyers, the spoiled grandson of old Madaringa, the fabulously wealthy Argentine ranch owner. Valentino seems to have been born for the role. He's a perfect embodiment of the handsome, graceful, pleasure-loving Latin type, an alluring figure made for romantic love, and, when necessity forces, for relentless fighting.

Around Julio, the main thread of the story is woven, the story of a boy brought up in a life of princely dissipation in the Argentine, reigning as a tango king in Paris until he centers all of his hot affection upon the beautiful young wife of a distinguished engineer, left on the outside of things as a neutral in the war, deserted by his sweetheart when she hears the call of duty and joins the French nursing forces, enlisting in the infantry and finally giving up his life in the shell-swept fields of Northern France.

Alice Terry, one of the most delicately beautiful women on the screen, is seen as Marguerite, the love-sick wife. Although only a few years out of high school, she plays with a mature deftness—an exquisite visualization of a chic Parisienne. She makes you feel the awakening of a soul in the dainty butterfly, who sacrifices herself to care for her husband blinded in battle.

When the old Shah of Persia visited England in 1873, some 8,000 begging letters were posted to him during his sojourn. He was much pleased with them and felt highly honored to receive so many letters, each of which he treated as a compliment. He had all of them securely packed into a trunk and dispatched to Persia, where they were deposited in his museum!

Ancient history shows much in support of the contention that John is an unfortunate name for a ruler, for there is a long list of monarchs bearing that name who had much trouble while on the throne and many of them lost their lives.

HE SMOKES AND DRINKS AND HE IS 93

Concerning John R. Voorhis of New York and Some of His Very Remarkable Activities.

Declares Greed of Wealth Is Responsible for Many Present-Day Conditions and Short Comings.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—He is in his ninety-third year; has lived ninety-two years in New York City; is titular head of a world known political organization; does a full day's work six days out of seven; walks to and from his office, a distance of three miles, almost every day in the year, and doesn't wear glasses. He smokes and drinks and has but one rule for living long—obey the Ten Commandments.

This nonegenarian is John R. Voorhis, who as president of the board of elections of New York City has active charge of the machinery by means of which the people express their choice for all candidates for office, state and local.

He appears to be but little more than 60 years old, and his alertness of mind is a constant wonder to the active members of Tammany Hall, over whose meetings he presides when it meets as the Society of Tammany, of which he is grand sachem and by virtue of this office the nominal head of Tammany, whose real leader, Charles F. Murphy, modestly keeps in the background.

Naturally, his talk was largely political, when interviewed and he expressed the opinion that the politics of two generations ago was cleaner and better than the politics of today. And the same he held was true of social conditions.

Urges Compulsory Vote.

"The cause of our deplorable conditions in public and private life," said Commissioner Voorhis, "is greed of wealth. It has affected people in all walks of life, and our politics and our social life will grow worse, instead of better, unless we revert to the simple life of our earlier days and honor men and women not for their wealth or position but for their manner of living. A crook today, financial, moral or political, whether man or woman is welcomed into most of our best homes if driven there in a limousine. When I was a lad these types would be outcasts, and properly so.

"The greatest privilege a citizen of a free country can exercise is the ballot. Elections, both in the general election and on primary day, frequently go by default through the failure of men and women who have the time and the health to go to the polls. They should be made to vote. They should be penalized, and heavily at that, if they do not vote, if their health permits. This would require, of course, legislative action. We should have it. The use of persuasion has failed. This is because the privilege of suffrage is not prized as it should be, and for the additional reason that the non-voter is lacking in patriotism of the most practical and needed sort. If everyone entitled to vote went to the ballot boxes there would be less of a hue and cry against corruption in politics than there is."

There are politicians of an older school who affect the long hair of their early days. Not so Commissioner Voorhis. His hair is cut after the manner of a college youth, parted on the side, and his mustache is a compromise between the close-cropped affair of today and the graceful droop of ten years ago; and his mode of dress is right up to the minute.

"Yes," he replied to a question, "I have lived since I came to New York, a babe in arms—in fact, I was not quite 1 year old when I left my birthplace in Pompton Plains—in one neighborhood, old Greenwich Village, which of late has been invaded by a horde of cheap, commercializing men and women—mostly foreigners—who open up dirty, filthy restaurants, charge extortionate prices, and call it Bohemian. They are not hoodwinking those of us who have lived there all our lives, but the ribbon counter clerks from uptown who want to see life, as they call it, go down there and spend half a week's salary in one night on poor food and poorer drinks.

Lived Near Aaron Burr

"As a boy I lived in King street, a stone's throw from where Aaron Burr lived, and I went to school at the age of 6 years to a place managed by Mme. Hewlett, in a basement in Spring street. Later I went to school under a master named David Stevens, and once he caned me with a hickory stick which he cut from a lot on the Astor farm, at Tenth avenue and Fifteenth street. And for a year I cherished the thought of trouncing him when I grew bigger. But at the end of the year—I was then 13—he made me his assistant, or monitor, and then I began to understand that school boys—you must remember I was now an assistant school master—should pay attention to their masters."

Then he told of a stroll down Broadway one wintry day. Broadway ended at Fourteenth street then, for all north of this most downtown of cross thoroughfares was, in the early '40s, farm land, under cultivation, save here and there where some lover of country life had set up a summer home.

"I was about 12 years old at the time," he went on. "I saw some clerks drop their bolts of calico and rush to the street. One of them cried:

"'There goes John Jacob Astor!'

"It was the founder of the Astor millions himself. He was driving a sleigh. My, how the bell jingled! He lived on Broadway near Prince street and had an office around the corner from his home. That was my first sight of John Jacob Astor. I recall that as he went by a man on the street said to another:

"'Astor is worth more than $100,000.'

"In those days $100,000 was an almost unheard of fortune in this country. Even many years later, when a man had saved out of his business $20,000 to $30,000 he was considered exceptionally rich, and he could retire if he wished to and live for the rest of his days like a prince."

At 14 young Voorhis got his first job, clerk in a law office at 4 New street, a building long since torn down, and the ground on which it stood is now part of the site of the present Stock Exchange. Later he became a stair builder. It was not until 1865, in his thirty-sixth year, that Voorhis entered politics actively. That year he was elected leader of the democrats of the old ninth ward, as Greenwich Village is still known to politicians, despite the various numerals it has since borne because of the changes decreed by the legislature.

Holland is resuming its pre-war importance as a coffee market. At the end of last June 32,000 bags were on the way there from Java and 206,000 from Brazil.

SENATOR GORE CONDEMNS THE WALSH PLAN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—Defeat of the Walsh amendment to the revenue bill, taxing gasoline was urged by former Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma, in a statement issued today.

"The amendment offered by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, to impose an excise tax on one cent a gallon on gasoline at the refineries ought to be defeated," former Senator Gore said.

"It is in line with similar attempts to tax gasoline, made in 1913 and 1918. I assisted in defeating the gasoline taxes when then proposed on the ground that such a tax was a tax on the source of industrial power. It is, of course, subject now to the same objection as a matter of principle and policy as at that time, with the added objection that industry is less able to sustain such a burden during the present depression.

"Senator Walsh states that the tax is part of a general plan to reduce the normal tax on small incomes, but this does not justify such a tax on a single industry. I hope it will be defeated."

CISCO MAN GOES FORD ONE BETTER

ELIASVILLE, Texas, Oct. 8.—Raymond Lesley is the publisher of the Journal of this city. He prints the following interesting story in the current number of his newspaper:

Henry Ford took over a short line railroad and made it pay from the start, but Texas has a citizen who built a railroad and made it pay from the start. He is R. Q. Lee, president of the Cisco & Northeastern Railroad, twenty-eight miles long extending from Cisco to Breckenridge.

Never Asked Bonus

It has never asked a bonus from any town into which it has built and it has never staked off and sold a single townsite. It has never gone around an existing town in order to make profit by a split of proceeds on town lots somewhere else.

Lee was formerly a country merchant at Caddo, in the days before the oil boom. His business acumen made him successful and a few years ago when he moved to Cisco he was the owner in fee simple of the present Hart oil field.

Now there are two producing wells on Lee's property and others drilling. In addition to his oil, land and railroad interests he is president of the largest bank in Cisco and rated one of the wealthiest men in West Texas.

Personal Supervision

Personal supervision of details are believed to be the secret of Lee's success in the railroad world. Shippers are unanimous in the verdict that his line gives the best service—and with it courtesy—they have ever received from a short line. The result is that with three competitors, Lee's road in August handled more freight out of Breckenridge than all of them combined and railway passenger tickets exceeded those of the other three roads.

Recently a survey was made for an extension of the Cisco & Northeastern from Parks, just south of Breckenridge, into the Hart field. Several routes were under consideration. The president of the line did not sit in a swivel chair and await the report of his engineers—he went out with them and for days tramped the hills and valleys, and when the line was run he knew as much about it as any member of the engineering crew.

Able to Get Funds

This road has never met with failure when its president has gone to the financial centers to sell bonds for extensions and equipments. His quiet manner, and his willingness to listen instead of talk, has always brought home money.

The line is operated without a contract with the powerful railroad brotherhoods, although practically all of the employes are union men, and the same rate of pay obtains as on the Texas & Pacific Railroad.

When Eastland County's road bond issue became muddled, and brains and judgment were needed to bring order out of chaos, Cisco was called upon to elect three men to represent her in a countywide organization.

"GIRL FROM GOD'S COUNTRY" OPENS AT OLYMPIC FOR THREE DAYS

Nell Shipman in "The Girl From God's Country"

Plumb full of thrilling moments and tense situations, to say nothing of beautiful snow scenes and animal studies, is Nell Shipman's latest and greatest outdoor production, "The Girl From God's Country," playing at the Olympic Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Miss Shipman is star, author and director of the new picture and her combined efforts reveal the high-class screen attraction of the fall.

Miss Shipman enacts a thrilling battle 6,000 feet in the mid-air, depicting a scene where Neeka encounters Otto Kraus, who has tricked her into treason and has secured a formula he used in the trans-Pacific flight by Byrned in the trans-Pacific flight by Carslake, Neeka's real father.

Carslake has practically stolen this formula from a crazed inventor who lives in solitude in a lonely hut in the sand dunes, and he (Carslake) has taken all credit and financial rewards for the successful formula. The inventor, realizing that Carslake has been tricking him for many years, makes a desperate effort to have credit extended him for the formula.

In the battle in mid-air, Neeka's plane is broken and the king crippled. It looks like sure death for the half-breed girl, but she makes a sensational parachute leap into the ocean and is saved by another plane with the aid of a rope ladder.

Many other thrilling adventures are depicted by Neeka. Her escape from a burning airplane hangar offers tense melodrama. "The Girl From God's Country," is released by J. B. Warren Corporation.

No. 50806—"Look for the Silver Lining"

On Reverse Side

"Moonlight"

By RAY PERKINS, Piano

Piano re-creations of popular compositions havve been demanded of us from all sides, and we have hastened to meet the wishes of our clintele.

"Look for the Silver Lining," medley, is a transcription from the musical comedy "Sally" which has had such a recordd breaking run on Broadway, and in it is introduced "Humming" the popular selection writ on by Kern-Breau.

These two re-creations are by Ray Perkins, a new artist in the Edison fold. He studied under Rafael Josfety and his piaano arrangement in these two numbers shows remarkable skill and grace.

In each of the advertisements appearing on this page will be found words containing an extra letter or extra letters. These letters when assembled will spell the names of two of the firms advertising hereon. The Record News has placed a check for $2.50 with each of these firms. The first person who finds the extra letters, writes out plainly the names of the firms and presents the correct solution to each of the advertisers whose names are spelled with the extra letters, will be given the prize check. Solutions must be presented between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. on Monday. This page will appear for four successive Sundays. Each Monday two checks for $2.50 each, or five dollars in all will be given away by the Record News through these various advertisers. When you have determined the names of the two firms present your solution to one of them. If the check has already been claimed—try the other.

Work out the solution now—write the names of the firms plainly and be on hand at eight o'clock tomorrow to claim your prize.

TIRE OUTPUT STANDING UP

Smaller Companies Report Increasing Activities During Dull Season; Look Forward to Better Times.

AKRON, O., Oct. 9.—A survey of the smaller rubber companies during the week developed the surprising fact that all are expecting to operate on their present production schedule during the next two months and some may even increase their output.

The American Tire and Rubber company, for instance, is working the curing pits three shifts a day, while the remainder of the factory is working full tilt on one shift a day. The Marathon Tire and Rubber Company has placed a second shift into the factory and is now making the largest number of tires made since the depression. The output of the Marathon is given as 275 a day.

The Kelly-Springfield Company, under the leadership of A. B. Jones, president, a former vice-president of the Goodrich company, is working the Akron plant at 100 per cent capacity and believes that there will be little difficulty in keeping the factory on this basis for at least three months longer, which will mean that it will carry them well along towards spring.

The Star Rubber Company reports that sales have constantly increased and that this month's sales will run 25 per cent higher than the previous month, which will probably add part of a night shift to the working forces.

The production output of the larger companies is somewhat in doubt at the present time, in the absence of any reports from the factories with the exception of Firestone. Harvey Firestone, president, stated during the week that his ticket still calls for 25,000 tires in a day and that the coming month's ticket will call for the same number, unless some very unexpected developments take place.

The matter of price cuts was brought closer when the Oldfield Tire Company during the week announced that a new Ford tire is being placed upon the market at $8.99 for the front wheel and $9.99 for the rear wheel.

MARMON CAR MINIATURE IN DEMAND

Although the famous Marmon miniatures first made their appearance nearly a year ago at the New York automobile show, they are as much a novelty and an attraction as ever. The remarkable manner in which the workmanship has perfected these one-fourth size reproductions of the standard models never fails to win the admiration of those who see them.

Distributors and dealers in every locality are as insistent as at the beginning that they be furnished with a miniature for their show or fair or parade or what-not. A Marmon display without one of these miniatures is not complete.

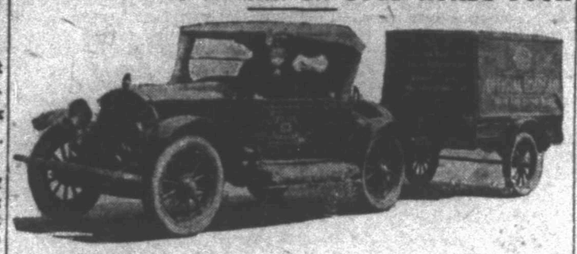

Even in South America the reputation of these little cars was so widespread that it became necessary to satisfy the demand there by sending them one of the miniature Town Cars. This made its first appearance at the great National Exposition of Peru.

There are sixteen of these cars, two each of the eight models of the Marmon line. The ninth car of the Marmon line, the Suburban, presented to the public for the first time last month, has not yet been reproduced. A special force is kept constantly at work keeping these cars fresh and in repair in order that, even after a year's shipping about the country, they may be as attractive in appearance as last January. A hundred cities in the United States and Canada have had these cars to date, and the list is growing rapidly.

CONNECTING ROD REPAIR

In cases of emergency a connecting rod bearing that has burned out may be patched up by removing the connecting rod cap, cutting a piece of sole leather to the proper size and then clamping the connecting rod cap to the connecting rod itself.

CLEVELAND HAS BEEN CHOSEN FOR NATIONAL ROAD CAR; PLAN SENDING A. A. A. MAN ON GOOD ROADS TOUR

Here's a little surprise for you. The Cleveland has just been chosen official road car by the American Automobile Association. A movement is under way to send this Cleveland Roadster with an A. A. A. representative to call on all the American automobile association clubs, non-affiliated automobile clubs, all the larger chambers of commerce, good roads associations and similar allied clubs and associations in the interests of good roads, their construction, maintenance and to further strengthen the big, broad national work of the A. A. A.

This tour will also promote the early adoption of the Townsend Bill, No. 1072 by congress, which provides that the United States shall aid the different states of the union in the construction of rural post roads and appropriate Seventy-five Million for this purpose.

Those responsible for the expedition fully realized the need for a dependable car, so they carefully checked specifications of a number of motor cars in the Cleveland price class and then concluded that this Light Six was the best adapted to meet their requirements. They wrote to the factory explaining the details of the proposed tour and suggested that it contribute a car for the trip, but it finally refused. They then decided that the only way to obtain a Cleveland was to buy one, which they did—hence the Cleveland fills the important role of official A. A. A. road car.

HOW CARBON IS FORMED IN THE AUTOMOBILE ENGINE

By ALBERT N. ATKINSON.

The sources of carbon are only two, the lubricating oil and the gasoline, but the reasons for its forming in the cylinder head the many. When caused by the lubricating oil it may be due to the oil being in excess or to defects in the cylinder wall which allow the oil to get above the tops of the pistons. When due to the gasoline the trouble is usually in the carbureter, which delivers too rich a mixture, but it may be caused be the incoming air not being sufficiently heated.

Both gasoline and lubricating oil are derived from crude petroleum and therefore are hydrocarbons; that is, they consist of hydrogen and carbon combined in various proportions. When a proper explosive mixture is admitted to the cylinder and ignited it burns up clean, without residue. But if the mixture contains too much gasoline for the amount of air present the effect is the same as when an oil lamp is turned too high—it smokes. The air gives up what oxygen it contains but there is not enough for both the hydrogen and carbon. The hydrogen gas, which burns more freely, grabs all the oxygen and the carbon passes off as soot.

We call this soot when it is made by a lamp, but the name is not aristocratic enough for an automobile. For that reason we call it carbon, although it is the same substance. But under whatever name we choose it is just as troublesome.

If we get too rich a mixture from the carbureter there will be more gasoline present than oxygen to unite with it. This may be due to the spray nozzle feeding too much gasoline or the auxiliary air valve too little air. Details differ with different designs of carbureters, but the principle is the same—either it is feeding too much gasoline or too little air—and the remedy is to correct the mixture by whatever means is provided by the manufacturer.

But if the incoming air is not properly warmed the gasoline will not be completely evaporated. Some of it will burn up and the rest will be only charred, leaving a deposit of carbon. Look to the hot air stove and connections to see if they leak cold air; also the water connections to the carbureter or inlet manifold. If they are clogged the heat will not be delivered to the mixture.

But the trouble may be due to the oil. This is to be suspected if bluish white smoke is seen issuing from the muffler. A poor grade of oil, too thin oil, or too much in the oil base will cause trouble. If the cylinder walls and rings are badly worn or scored the oil will work up. This also gives rise to another trouble, for the unburned gasoline works down in the oil, thinning it, and making it that much easier to suck up into the cylinder head. As the engine chokes up with carbon the piston rings become stuck in their grooves, adding rapidly to the carbon deposit and losing power as well.

Another cause of carbon that is not usually suspected is running the engine while the car is standing still or coasting down hill. This sucks oil up on the intake stroke, but the power stroke is so short that the oil is not pushed down as fast as the piston. This oil pumping becomes worse as the parts wear, and so the engine should never be run idle if it has this tendency.

From the above it will be seen that carbon can be prevented to some extent by attention to the oil, but that the tendency to carbonize increase with the age of the engine.

SHOWINGS OF CADILLAC BRING HIGH PRAISE

The first showings of the new type 61 Cadillac throughout the country two weeks ago has been marked by enthusiastic buying interest.

Appreciation of the Cadillac mechanicism and dependability is as pronounced as ever. The striking lines, fine finish and generally rich appearance also have attracted great attention.

This undoubtedly does add in a striking way to the appearance of the car. But it does far more than this. It assures greater roadability and still greater comfort in riding, particularly at the higher speeds.

Among the details which are commented on particularly, is the steering wheel, which is made entirely of walnut. A better grip is assured by ingenious corrugations on the wheel. Simplified levers, most conveniently placed, and other refinements, serve to make superbly easy driving qualities.

An oval jet gold mounted Cadillac monogram is mounted in the center and below are the switch lock and levers. There are dials on either side which balance perfectly, the ammeter, air pressure gauge and oil gauge being grouped in one and the speedometer and clock in the other. There is also an electric cigar lighter.

WILLS FACTORY IS HITTING FAST PACE

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—Practically all production departments of C. S. Wills & Co., Marysville, makers of the Wills Sainte Claire car, are now working overtime, according to a factory statement issued Thursday. There are now approximately 1000 men employed in the factory and at least two-thirds of this number are working until 7 and 9 o'clock every night in the week, including Sundays in order to turn out the cars for which dealers have orders.

MOTOR LICENSES SHOW BIG GAIN

ALBANY, Oct. 8.—New York state has 721,488 automobiles, or one to every fourteen of its residents, according to an announcement by Secretary of State John J. Lyons, covering the registration for the first half of this year. That New York State residents have been buying cars this year exceeds all of last year by approximately 39,000 cars. One-third of all the cars in the State are owned and operated in New York City.

Motorcycles are showing a decrease in practically every county in the State. The greatest increase is shown in passenger cars, the total being approximately 556,000, or 31,000 more than there were registered during all of 1920. Commercial cars have increased about 6000 thus far this year overa all of last year. It is iexpected that the State will have about 750,000 cars by the end of the year.

WASHING AID

A mighty useful device for the man who washes his own car may be made by sawing a keg or barrel in half and clamping to the edge an ordinary clothes wringer. The half barrel is filled with water and the chamois cloths used for cleaning the car are soaked therein and afterward passed through the wringer, so that a dry surface may be assured in the final operations of cleaning the body.

MUST GIVE EVERY CARE TO BATTERY

"Your lights are burning, Mister—Yes, I know it," is an inscription which will be seen on more than one automobile in the coming year. At least, until the remainder of the motoring public come to realise that a car with burning headlights is not the result of an all night joy ride or accidental turning of the light switch. One driver threatened to use such a sign when told by a battery service man that long day-time trips and high charging rate of his generator under such conditions meant certain disaster for the storage battery on his car unless he burned the lights.

In that respect at least, the European name "Accumulator" by which storage batteries are known over there is more literally correct. An automobile battery merely accumulates the surplus electricity developed by the generator and when that current becomes excessive, the work done in the battery (and it is just as much work for a battery to take a charge as it is to give it off) becomes a burden to it and overheating results.

Most car owners know by this time that overheating means buckled plates, destruction of certain kinds of insulation materials commonly used and short circuits. Escape from this danger may be had by burning the headlights while on long day trips, particularly when a recent test has shown the battery to be fully charged.

The Willard Storage Battery Company strikes a timely note of warning in their latest booklet, entitled, "Willard Service; For Your Battery's Benefit—and Yours." They say never allow your battery to become overheated in service; keep all cells filled with distilled water; keep your battery fully charged in winter to prevent freezing; the battery will then take care of itself.

MOTOR LORRY ANNOUNCED

DETROIT, Oct. 8—The Universal Motor Lorry Corporation has been organized here. Walter O. Briggs, John H. French and Walter F. Taut are the incorporators. A model of this car has been on the streets this week. It hmas a single deck inclosed car body seating approximately thirty passengers. It is mounted on a Ford truck chassis wtih an extra wide frame. Entrance is at the front and seats are arranged as in a street car.

DROP BOOSTS SALES

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—"There has been a pronounced stimulation in sales following the company's reduction of $200 on open models and $300 on closed models," said W. J. Drumpelman, assistant to General Manager C. A. Pfeiffer of the Saxon Motor Car Corporation.

Enclosed Type Motor Vehicle Is in Demand

With the approach of fall, attention of the automobile buyer is centered on the enclosed type of vehicle. Dealers generally throughout the country anticipate an increasing demand for the sedan and coupe this season. They point out that the closed car has been growing in favor each year with the buying activity heaviest in the cooler months.

"A few years ago the closed car was looked upon as a luxury to be indulged in only by those who could afford two cars—one for winter and one for summer," said Charles B. Voorhis, vice-president and general salesmanager of The Nash Motors Company. "At that time production of enclosed vehicles was limited and the cost of manufacture was relatively higher.

"Since then the enclosed type of motor vehicle has become more widely accepted by the automobile owner as a car well fitted for requirements of all seasons. This has been done, in a large measure I believe, to the development of the art of coach-building. Refinements have been made from year to year in the outward appearance of the closed car and in the matter of comfort.

"In winter months and in stormy weather the sedan of today offers comfort almost comparable to that of the modern living room; in mild warm weather there is freedom from dust and protection from rain.

"That perhaps is why we see today on the main streets of a small town in Kansas, or Ohio, or Oregon as many enclosed cars in proportion to population as there are on Michigan boulevard or Fifth avenue.

"Nash dealers regardless of their location or the size of their community tell us that the demand for sedans and coupes is increasing far beyond a point deemed possible only a few years ago. In the early fall season the buying, of course, is heaviest."

BATTERY FILLER

Many car owners have suffered the annoyance of trying to pour distilled water into their storage batteries and having much of it slop over. Here is a little device that makes this operation accurate and easy. Drill a hole in the cork that fits an appropriately sized bottle. Into this hole thrust a quill or glass tube. Next drill a small hole in the neck of the bottle, just about where it swells out into the body. The flow of water can be regulated by covering and uncovering this hole, which admits air to the bottle.

HOW—
"We Have Made Wichita Falls a Studebaker Town"

By having the best value to be found in an automobile; the strongest, most efficient and most far-sighted manufacturing organization in the entire automobile industry, and a selling and service organization at 605 Scott Avenue manned and equipped to serve every purchaser who recognizes the quality and acknowledges the superiority of Studebaker cars.

The marvelous success and popularity of Studebaker, not only in Texas, but throughout the United States is like a romance and indeed would read like a fairy tale were it not for the fact that back of every statement are the cold facts and figures which have heralded Studebaker as the outstanding figure in mortordom during the past year or more.

In the State of California, where they have an open season the year 'round, there were 25 per cent more new Studebakers registered the first six months of this year than any other car except Ford—and Californians are careful and discriminating buyers.

In the entire automobile industry during the first six months of 1921 Studebaker was the only manufacturer (except one, whose production was only a fraction of Studebaker's) who actually built and sold more cars than they did during the same period of 1920. Not only that, but the total figures for the first six months show that Studebaker built and sold more cars than any other company except Ford—further more, Studebaker built and sold during the same period 15 per cent of all the cars sold in the United States, (except Ford cars.)

The people of the United States are motor-wise, and these statements show that they must recognize Studebaker Quality and acknowledge Studebaker Superiority.

LOOKS FOR HEAVY MOTOR TRADE ALL OVER EUROPE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Better times than the world has ever known will come from the disarmament conference, in the opinion of Peter Streenstrup, member of the Foreign Trade Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and vice-president of the General Motors Corporation, who has just returned from Europe.

"The bargaining tariff feature of the Fordney bill and longer banking credits based on careful information are immediate needs for improving conditions in the foreign markets.

"It will be some months, Mr. Streenstrup reports, before any marked increases may be noted in the sales of American cars abroad, due to conditions which can be remedied only by the general rehabilitation of the entire economic fabric.

"The release of the burden of taxes for battleships and other war materials will mean billions of dollars available for the purchase of raw materials and transport, which the world and particularly Europe needs badly at the present time," according to this foreign trade authority. "Relief of the war burden will pour into civil life a new stimulant, bringing into being a new world condition better than we have realized before.

"Europe is realizing the economic advantages of motor transportation and when the burden of war taxes is lifted, she will be able to develop in this direction. In Germany for instance, one sees practically no automobiles today. There are not even enough taxis at the railroad stations. In a three-hour ride in a certain German city having 75,000 people, I did not see a single automobile.

"Lack of parking facilities in the cities is also an obstacle. The horsepower tax in England, which is 1 pound per horsepower, is another hindrance. Nevertheless the advantage of American cars will be come increasingly apparent and the need for such taxes will pass away if the economic strain of war costs is relieved."

Martin L. Pulcher, vice-president and general manager of the Federal Motor Truck Company, who is back at his desk in Detroit after a trip of several weeks to the Pacific Coast, says the centers of population out there are rapidly regaining trade activity. Spokane, with splendid wheat and fruit crops, is starting back strong. Seattles ship-building has had a bump from which it is recovering. Portland, Mr. Pulcher found to be quieter than the other points, but the prospects are fair.

The population of Los Angeles is increasing steadily and there are as many automobiles on its streets as there are in Detroit. Numerous manufacturing companies from the East are locating plants there, because Los Angeles has been unusually free of strikes and labor troubles, the Detroit manufacturer said.

Answers to Queries

To the Automobile Editor:

(1) For cleaning carbon out of cylinders, after putting two tablespoonfuls of kerosene in each cylinder to stand overnight in each cylinder to put water in the carburetor after starting?

(2) Is it true that camphor balls, say four to a gallon of gas, put in the gasoline tank and left to dissolve will prevent the formation and accumulation of carbon in the cylinders, and at the same time give more power?

(3) What is meant by back-firing, and what is the cause? E. W. S.

Answer.—(1) Use half a teacupful of kerosene in each cylinder while hot, let stand overnight. Start engine in the morning and run as usual. I will do no harm to run a few cupfuls of water through the air valve of the carburetor afterward (not before). The kerosene loosens the carbon, which helps in burning it away the next morning. After running ten minutes or so the water treatment will help in washing away any softened carbon which remains. Neither treatment will clean a cylinder thoroughly, but they help to keep the accumulation down. (2) Camphor balls and flake naphthalein may add very slightly to the power of the explosion but they also add to the carbon deposit; so leave them alone. (3) Correctly used, the words "back firing" mean an explosion in the carburetor, which is due to a lean mixture short-circuit, etc. Incorrectly used, they mean a muffler explosion (because it is heard at the back of the car) which is due to one or more cylinders missing explosions. The unburned gas passes into the muffler and is exploded by the next cylinder which fires.

To the Automobile Editor:

What is meant by a stone bruise in a tire? N. M. V.

Answer.—This occurs when the car is driven at high speed with the tire a bit soft. The wheel strikes a sharp edge of some kind and the tread is bent back and is forced against the rim. This pinches the shoe between the obstacle and the rim. The rubber stretches but does not break because it is so elastic. The fabric stretches at the same time and tears a hole as it is not elastic. This leaves one or more weak spots in the tread and sooner or later the tube blows through.

OHIO IS STAGING STRONG COMEBACK

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 8.—The Reo Motor Car Company has announced a driveway of forty-three passenger cars and trucks to eleven cities in Ohio, indicating a sign of returning favorable conditions. Business is reported on the upgrade in Ohio, especially in the urban and rural districts. The Olds Motor Works of Lansing also reports an increase of business from the farming districts in Ohio, especially for Olds Itrucks.

Chase the Canary Birds Out of Your Car; It's Easy If You Know Where to Look

One of the greatest enemies of the modern motor car is vibration. The effect to vibration is to loosen the various parts of the mechanism and the immediate effect of this is felt by the ear of the driver, who realizes that his car is beginning to be the seat of numberless noises, which are far from pleasant accompaniment to a drive. But the noises are only the beginning because the looseness that causes the noise will result in breakage at no distant date, if it is permitted to continue. The car owner, therefore, should take engine and chasis noises not as mere passing annoyances bu tas symptoms of something far more serious and should earnestly hunt them down, just as soon as they make their presence known. We shall try to indicate what these commoner noises and tell how, they may be detected and eradicated.

Start With Engine.

We shall begin with the engine because this is the seat of the greater part of the unnecessary noises that seem inevitable in the operation of the car. The commonest engine noises are valve clicks and slaps, both of which may be detected by the rythmatical regularity of their occurrence.

The reason for noisy gear operation is too great clearance between the valve and its seat. In the case of overhead valves too great a clearance between lifter and push rod will cause the trouble. The remedy is obviously the reduction of the clearance to the correct distance and this work should be done while the engine is heated, because of the expansion of metal when heated, in which concition the valves necessarily run.

Occasianally noise in the gear system is caused by the lifter being loose in its guide. To locate this trouble the entire lifter assembly will have to be removed. A worn lifter will have to be replaced though in certain designs the guides may be sprung slightly so that they will grip the lifter more tightly and this remedies the trouble.

Another Location

Another possible location of noisy operation is at the cam, between which and the follower there may be too much clearance. Fitting new followers usually takes care of trouble. Removal of the springs will enable the operator to locate trouble at this point. There should be no side play of the stem in its guide and if this condition is found to exist, bushings should be fitted in the guide, or else a new valve with an oversize stem should be installed.

When the valve system is of the overhead type it is natural to look for more noise than in the conventional type. Adequate lubrication will do much to remedy this trouble with the overhead system. Occasionally side play develops in the rocker arms with a slap as a result. A worn arm bearing also will make trouble, and the cure in this case is to fit an oversize bushing in the rocker arm.

Value System

While the valve system is the commonest seat of noise troubles in the engine it is not the sole location where this trouble may be looked for. The bearings in most engines are of soft metal, which must be kept copiously lubricated or it will burn and flatten out with a knock as the result. The ordinary remedy for this is to take up the bearing by removing the shim between the two halves, or else to trim the metal on the movable part. Care must be used in performing this operation to see that the bearing touches the shaft all around without being too tight.

In fitting bearings the utmost care must be exercised to see that the shaft is not thrown out of alignment, and this condition is particularly likely to result where one bearing is taken up without reference to the others. In unit power plant designs, when the shaft is thrown out of alignment, one of the shafts in the transmission is sure to bind and noisy operation is inevitable.

Another source of bearing knocks is found in the flanges of the crankshaft bearings which are flattened by crankshaft thrust. In this case it does not pay to try and fix the old bearing flanges; it is better simply to get a new bearing.

In Rod Bearings

Play often develops in the upper rod bearing and often enough the car owner blames the lower rod or crankshaft bearing. On many of the cheaper cars there is no bearing at the top of the rod, while in cerain others a branze bushing is instilled to take up the wear. When there is no bushing a new piston pin will have to be lifted, or if the piston bosses are worn eccentric it may mean a new piston or the installation of a bushing.

When the piston or cylinders are worn the result is a knock that sounds much like the one that comes from preignition. If this trouble is not in an advanced stage it may be cured by fitting new rings. On the other hand a severe case may require the installation of a complete new set of pistons. When the cylinders have worn slightly oval the remedy is to rebore them in a large size, fitting new pistons. This gives practically a new cylinder block.

Timing gear noises are fairly common, in which class must be included chain noises. Some silent chains have adjustments for taking up slack, due to wear, while others must be shortened by taking out a link. In the case of chronic chain noise, the owner will do well to consult a service station.

One of the commonest knocks of all is that due to preignition. This may be caused by carbon deposits in the engine or by too great an advance of the spark. Poor timing will also cause the trouble, while overheating, overloading the engine and incorrect mixture are alternate causes. The result is always the same. The fuel charge explodes too soon, not giving the piston time to reach top dead center and the result is a thrust against the side of the cylinder wall. In curing preignition knocks one has to proceed by process of elimination, beginning with carbon, which is the commonest cause.

Not Uncommon

Transmission noises are not at all uncommon and generally result from one of the shafts being out of line by reason of a worn bearing or a binding gear. Sometimes the entire transmission is out of line, so that both shafts are out of true. Very often a gear may be broken because the shaft has been out of line. The car owner has a new one installed, but this does not help for long, because the entire unit is out of alignment.

Propeller shaft and universal joints are not usually troublesome through noisy operation, but the rear axle frequently is. When the driving pinion and differential master gear are not running true, there will be a loud hum, with an accent or stress once in a revolution. Most units have some means of adjusting to take up wear in this location, the adjustment consisting of moving the entire differential unit, which is a job for expert hands.

This finishes the major noises, but there are several minor ones to look out for. Minor squeaks and rattles from springs and body come in this class. The springs and shackles if kept properly lubricated will not become noisy. Body noises may be avoided by keeping nuts and bolts tightly drawn up. Felt inserts will stop door squeaks. Strips of rubber wedged under the supports will cure fender rattles.

FEW CHANGES NOTED IN MOTOR INDUSTRY

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—Little or no change was noted in the automotive industry situation the past week. Most of the standard makers continue at a fair pace, tempered by caution. Henry Ford's action in providing against unemployment later on by limiting the working week to five days is likely to be emulated by other manufacturers, it is hinted. Besides this curtailment, every Ford worker must take a week off. This phalanxing system is placed into effect with the hope that it will insure work enough to go around throughout the winter.

HINTS FOR MOTORISTS

A defective spark plug may test all right in the open air but cause the cylinder to miss in use. A good test is to exchange plugs with a live cylinder. If the trouble follows the plug, it must be cleaned or discarded. If the trouble does not follow the plug, it is in the cylinder and may be due to weak compression, leaky inlet manifold, etc.

One of the many reasons why an old engine loses power is because the timing gears are badly worn. This throws the valves several degrees out of time, preventing the proper inlet and outlet of the gases. In extreme cases the timing may have to be set forward one tooth, but the best remedy is a new set of gears.

Go over the bolts on your detachable rims occasionally to set them up a little more. They stretch in use and may come loose of themselves as the rim settles more firmly into place. A little precaution here may avoid a serious accident later on.

Equip your four wheels with oversize tires as soon as you can afford it. The increase in cost is slight compared to the greater mileage and security they offer. It stands to reason that the same weight applied to a great quantity of rubber will not cause so much wear.

Go over your tire repair outfit right now and check up on missing articles. Now is the time to replace them before they are needed; Patches, cement, portable vulcanizer and supplies, matches, chalk, sand paper, valves insides and caps, valve repair tool, blowout patch tire sleeve and extra tubes; when you need these you need them badly.

Go over the spokes of your wheels occasionally to see if they are coming loose. If they are you should discuss the matter immediately with the nearest wheelwright. You are risking your life every time you use a wheel with loose spokes, as they do not then support one another, and so are readily broken. And remember that such breaks usually occur at high speed—the most dangerous time to have them.

Make sure the rear number plate is visible at all times. Sometimes a strap from the tire bracket hangs down and partly obscures it. As this is against the requirements in all states that have automobile laws, it may get you into trouble, especially if you run across one of those village constables who "need the money" and don't care how they get it.

Many motorists are content to use a light on the rear license plate that can only be called a light by courtesy. The law says that this plate should be legible at fifty feet. It will be well to pace off that distance and see if your light complies with the law. It may mean a saving in money for you in the end.

Be particularly careful when oiling the chassis not to neglect the spring shackles. If these go very long without lubricant they rust and seize. When an extra heavy bounce comes they break and let the car down on the axle. A little care here will save a great deal of trouble later.

How long is it since you have cleaned the strainers in your gasoline line? There is one at the top of the vacuum tank, one in the carbureter, and sometimes another on the gasoline line. Sediment also accumulates on the bottom of the vacuum tank. If these are not cleaned out from time to time trouble will soon be stalking your way.

Keep This Page for Future Reference. Even Though You May Not Contemplate the Purchase of a Car at This Time. The Price Comparisons Are Most Interesting.

Here's the Present Price of all Models of Your Favorite Automobile, for Present Use or for Future Reference.

The recent reductions and re-reductions in Automobile Prices have so confused the public mind that not one seems to know just "what's what" when going into the motor market to buy.

To clear up this situation and enable prospective purchasers of automobiles to have a ready-reference index of automobile prices. The Record News has arranged with the respective Wichita Falls Automobile Dealers' to reproduce on this page a list of the leading makes of motor cars, sold in Wichita Falls, giving the price of each model, f. o. b. factory, together with the name of the dealer. It is suggested that this page be clipped out and kept, as the prices quoted probably represent the stabilized prices at which motor cars will sell for the remainder of the 1921-22 season, and that these prices approximate the permanent price levels to be maintained for the future.

SOUTH STEPHENS CONTRIBUTES BIG COMPLETIONS FOR WEEK; ACTIVITY IN SOUTH ELECTRA HOLDS INTEREST

South Stephens county contributed the big wells of the week for the North and Central Texas district, though all of the pools together showed comparatively few completions. The Landreth Oil Company's No. 1 Baker, in the 3200 foot lime is reported an 800 barrel producer and the Texas Comany's No. 6 Black is reported a 400 barrel well, 3130 feet, after a shot.

The Prairie Oil and Gas Company's No. 3-C Veale is reported flowing at the rate of 125 barrels, and drilling in the lime around 3215 feet. Top of the lime is reported around 3180 feet.

In North Stephens the Prairie Oil and Gas Company's No. 1-B Corbett is reported making around 125 barrels, after shooting and cleaning out, depth below 3,400 feet.

Wichita Falls District.

In the Wichita Falls district the largest new producers are reported from the Red river pool, the receivership being reported to have completed two wells, averaging around 225 barrels each.

A new producer in the 1500-foot sand, West K. M. A. field, is reported for C. W. Wallace et al its No. 2 making around 60 barrels.

Two new deep wells made the South Electra field exceedingly interesting this past week, but neither have been completed, the South Electra new production being limited to a new well in the 500-foot sand, Parker Brothers No. 8 Cunningham estate, making 30 barrels.

In North Electra the Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 20 Brown and Cross is reported a 50 barrel well, in the 1900-foot sand. The Haile Oil Company's No. 9 Fee, 800 foot sand, is reported a 20-barrel producer.

South Electra First.

The most interesting point in the county at present is the South Electra pool, known as the shallow pool heretofore, but this title will have to be abandoned, according to present indications. The Bridwell and Heydrick No. 3 Burnett, in the west side of the shallow field, has been flowing for several days from a sand entered at 1810 feet, though the hole has not been cleaned out since the sand was drilled. Preparations are being made to complete immediately. The well was flowing at the rate of 150 barrels the latter part of the week, through more than a thousand feet of mud and water.

The second test of interest is the Delaney Brothers No. 1 Burnett, three quarters of a mile to the east of the Bridwell-Heydrick well. This test got the sand at 1780 feet and when bailing and cleaning out was started, oil stood up 1,000 feet in the hole. No estimate can be placed on the production until the hole is cleaned out, but the showing is regarded as very favorable.

This deep sand is the eighth sand to be established as productive in the South Electra field. Other sands in which there is production are 300, 500, 670, 900, 1,020, 1,450 and 1,600 feet.

The fourth test in the pool to get the 1600-foot sand, the Gladiolus No. 28 Burnett, is reported setting casing and preparing to complete, drilling the sand on Thursday.

On the lease offsetting the Gladiolus to the east of the Griswold Oil Company has started drilling on No. 14 and 15 Burnett. No. 14 is to be drilled to the 1600-foot sand, and the second will be completed in the first good paying sand encountered, it is stated.

Still another, and deeper sand has been established to the north and the south of this famous shallow pool, the Gulf having producers in the 1900-foot sand in both directions. Offsetting the deep well on the Cellett the Gulf is now drilling a second deep test, operations starting here last week.

Archer County.

Archer county has a new wild-cat that is being closely watched at the present time, the Florida Tennessee Oil Company's No. 1 L. F. Wilson, to the east of the old Panther pool, which got an oil sand around 1600 feet. Testing of this sand is now under way. This test is of particular interest since it lies in the only untested section outside the Panther pool. To the northwest and south previous tests have served to condemn the outlying territory. The Panther pool is something over four miles east of the new Texhoma pool.

In this latter pool the Harpe and Jones No. 2 Taylor, is completing in the 1600-foot sand, and the No. 9 and No. 10 Gose of the Texhoma are reported nearing completion.

AUTO NOTES

C. C. Hanch, vice president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce will shortly become executive vice president of the United States Automotive Corporation, with headquarters at Connersville, Ind., according to an announcement made yesterday.

In his new connection, Mr. Hanch will have active charge of the operating policies of the company he has joined, which has as subsidiaries the Lexington Motor Company, the Auxted Engineering Company, the Connersville Foundry Corporation, the Fayette Painting and Trimming Company, and the Teeto-Hartley Motor Corporation. Frank B. Ansted is president of the organization, which has grown rapidly in recent years.

In addition to a cut of $100 in the price of all Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" models, Chevrolet model "T" one-ton worm drive truck, and Model "O" three-quarter ton truck prices have been changed, the Chevrolet Motor company announces.

The one-ton truck has been reduced $100 and the new prices apply to chassis with open express body and chassis with open body and top.

Model "O" chassis has been reduced $75, and the same reduction is made in the price of chassis with cab, chassis with open express body, and chassis with open body and top, complete.

Model "G" light truck is a new commercial model recently brought out by Chevrolet. It is designed to handle loads of three-quarters of a ton. Model "T" truck is well known as the largest Chevrolet commercial model.

"In only a few months time Durant Motors have transformed the Long Island City plant from a formerly idle building to a busy spot, where beginning this week, fifty cars a day will be turned out," says Wm. C. Poertner of the Poertner Motor Car Company, Inc., local distributors of the Durant car. "Equipment has been installed in record fashion, an entire conveyor system to assemble cars having been set up in weeks only. The enamelling department is well under way. The body department is working at a splendid rate, turning out exceptionally finished bodies.

"We are positively assured that the Long Island City plant will make no less than 4,000 complete cars by Jan. 1.

"I have been told that production at the Lansing plant will begin by November 1; that Muncie is ready to go the moment the six-cylinder Durant plans get the final O. K.; that work is proceeding to equip the Toronto plant and that operations at Oakland, Cal., point to a spring output of cars on the Coast."

Automobile dealers and the industry in general will be interested in a tabulated report which is being issued this week by Secretary of State John J. Lyons. The report gives the motor vehicle registration in New York state by counties for the first half of this year. It is one of the most complete reports of its kind ever issued and aside from giving the registration of the various types by counties, there is also shown the number of dealers, operators, chauffeurs and motorcycles in each county, the revenue accruing to the county and the state from each source, together with other useful information to those in the automobile business. The report is available upon request.

DEVELOPMENTS IN OLDER POOL IN YOUNG CO. OVERSHADOWS BUNGER OPERATIONS DURING PAST WEEK

With the water shortage still hampering operations in the newly opened Bunger district, the South Bend country found it's most interesting oil developments for the week in the old pool along the Clear Fork, where there were several nice completions.

The east side of the pool, where the 2100 foot sand has been furnishing nice completions, there are three new wells reported. The North American-Roxana No. 11 Ford is reported making 300 barrels, while it's western offset, the Eureka Production company's No. 3 McCluskey, is also making 300 barrels from the same sand.

A short distance to the south and slightly west from these producers the North American No. 10 Burgess is reported making 200 barrels in the 1900 foot sand. This well was given a 30 quart shot, and is reported flowing.

The W. E. Conner et al No. 4 McCluskey is reported as drilled into the gas sand, with oil showing at 2040 feet, and drilling on for the 2100 foot sand. This gas sand above the oil sand is according to the log of all these east side 2100 foot wells. The No. 6 on this lease is reported drilling around 1150 feet.

The No. 4 Keller of H. D. Hemphill is reported still a rig.

One on West Side.

On the west side of the river one new well is reported, the Seaboard Oil and Gas Company's No. 6 Graham, making 100 barrels from the 2546 foot sand.

After months of fishing and other trouble the Young County Oil and Gas test on the Graham, is reported preparing to shoot.

This test, the far west test of the pool, has been plugged back from below 2500 feet, to the 1900 foot sand, where an oil showing was picked up, and will shoot this with 30 quarts and after cleaning out will give it another shot, according to present plans.

Bunger District.

Although the Stephens County Water Company got its line to this new pool completed the first of the week, there have been delays encountered in some of the outside tests in getting connected up, according to reports, consequently there are still a number of shut down in tests already started.

Two new locations are reported inside the probable production area, as outlined by the three producers. Leslie Spoonts et al No. 1 Askew is about half way between the discovery well and the Union Oil Company's No. 1 Askew. About a half mile due south of the discovery well Mann et al are preparing to drill their No. 1 Owens.

The purchase of a 30-acre tract by the New Domain Oil Company from C. W. DeForest, for the sum of $10,000 was reported this week end, and it is understood that this company is to start drilling here immediately. This tract is almost in line with the Ross and Tyrell No. 1 and the Askew well.

Good progress is reported from the wells that were able to secure water for drilling.

The Roswell Petroleum Company (Ross and Tyrell) No. 1 B. Owens, is reported drilling around 1700 feet. The same company's No. 1 Grimsaw is reported drilling around 1250 feet. The No. 1 Askew is reported down 875 feet.

No 2 Driver of Hedrick and Spoonts is reported spudding in, and the No. 3 as drilling around 625 feet.

The Sims Oil Company's No. 1 Owens is reported drilling around 220 feet, and the No. 2 is still a location.

The Paragon Oil Company's No. 1 Vick, to the northwest of the 1900 foot producers, is reported still swedging pipe around 2,200 feet, preparing to drill for the 2,500 foot sand.

The Jackson and Cathcart No. 1 Lisle, about four miles east of the new shallower producers, is drilling below 3,000 feet, after failing to get production from shooting the lime around 2980 feet.

Eliasville Test.

The North Eliasville test of the New Domain Oil Company on the Addie Graham, is reported preparing to set five-inch casing around 3,500 feet. An exceptionally good showing of oil, with some gas was reported from a lime around 3,480 feet, but a test was impossible because of water trouble. It is understood that another attempt is being made to test this showing.

BLOW-OUTS FROM AUTO ROW

BY COLD PATCH.

Dealers who were absent from the meeting Friday night missed a good dinner and a mighty good meeting. Let some of the "too busy" boys turn over a new leaf and be on hand at the next meeting. If you don't attend, you are the loser. They are surely worth the time and effort they require.

Commissioner Fitts thinks a lot of the Dealers' Association. He was loud in their praise at the meeting last Friday, where he made the chief address of the evening.

J. M. McFall wants to know why Dan Rubsam has to hurry home from the dealer's meeting so soon. Up to a little time ago Dan would stay right through without a murmur. But it's different now.

Frank Queisser is getting out a credit report for members of the Dealers' Association. This is a splendid thing for Frank to do and he deserves the loyal support of all in this effort to help the industry as a whole.

Al Booth was back in the chair on Friday night. Looking a little worn out after that long vacation, but we feel sure he will be himself again before long.

"Pop" Randle would have made a good soldier. Judging from his 100 per cent record for attendance at the Dealers' meetings he would never missed a single formation. "Pop" should be a good target for some of these boys who are" just too busy" to shoot at.

J. M. McFall came through with a fine suggestion. He wants the members of the Dealers' organization to undertake an educational campaign in the interest of public safety. "Mc" suggests that various members of the association speak to the children in the various schools of the city, impressing on them the necessity of looking first to the left and then to the right before crossing a street. Much good can be accomplished by impressing this on the minds of children. This work will be undertaken by the association.

"Les" Stringer and Charlie Nolen have gone into the "show business." They are on the committee for the Shrine show, and are now engaged in the particular business of "picking 'em." Now if the selection was to be made entirely from the feminine, they would be assured of success. Practice makes perfect, you know.

L. L. Dixon reports a very satisfactory movement of Buicks. Sales have been made the past week both in the city and the territory surrounding Wichita Falls. Several carloads of new cars have been unloaded recently and everything is set for the big increase which the rise in the price of cotton and oil is sure to create.

F. D. Keim says the dove season is about over. Will this is usual, F. D. laid aside his small bird gun and went after big game the past week. As a result he sold two Special Six Studebaker and a Big Six in addition to three used jobs.

The echoes of the splendid entertainment the Automotive Dealers gave the Colorado to Gulf Highway party, were heard in Fort Worth last Sunday by Cold Patch. The visitors told both newspapers there that they had certainly been treated royally in Wichita Falls. This sort of advertising does not do our city any harm. Here's hoping that they sing the glad tidings all long the line.

D. L. Fritz reports the sale of a four-passenger, four-door Morman to Dr. L. F. Stripling, of this city. Its a beautiful job and will attract much attention.

Dr. Lane of this city became the proud owner of a Willy-Knight coupe this week. Now that Al Booth is back to help Walter Dougherty locate that doctor that helped him so much on a recent trip into the territory, sales will be a frequent thing at the Overland Motors Co.

Hugh Weaver doesn't wait on Fortune to come and batter down his door. Hugh goes after them. As a result of a trip to Vernon, King and Weaver had the pleasure of delivering a five-passenger Nash to Mr. Lastwyler of that city this week.

A two-ton Nash truck equipped with a 630 gasoline tank was sold by King and Weaver to Shan Thornton of this city. The owner reports supreme satisfaction with his new vehicle.

"Dan" Rubsam is particularly pleased with the way the new Oakland Sport Model is taking hold in this territory. Dan has covered much territory of late and has established a good many good agencies.

Clarence Dodge, of McFall Brothers is confined to the house after an operation on his tonsils. J. M. McFall says this is the first time that his wife has had an equal chance with him. Now she can catch up with her talking, as poor Clarence is unable to talk.

Paige-Wichita Co. report the sale of a Paige roadster to W. B. Craig. Mr. Craig took his new car to Mexia, where he will use it in his work.

Victory Motor Co. enjoyed a very good week. The first week of the combined effects of the new members of the firm netted the sale of a Packard touring car, an Olds four roadster and a twin-four Olds touring car. It looks as if the combination is going to make good in a hurry.

MAXWELL GIVES ECONOMY RUN

One report covered a tour in Pennsylvania and New York states while the other was a performance in California.

In the first, Mr. Otis Dockstader, an architect in Elmira, N. Y., started on August 2 for a trip of several weeks duration.

He kept careful records up to August 29 and found that he had used 40 gallons of gasoline for a mileage of 1,065 or 26.4 miles per gallon.

Slightly more than 300 miles were covered, much of it over rough, hilly country, and the car, which was a touring car taken from stock, showed an average of 27 miles to the gallon.

On this same trip, Mr. Jackson negotiated two hills around Modesto which have given motorists trouble for years.

CHEVROLET DEALER MOVES TO 808 LAMAR

The Cochran Motor Co. moved this week from their old quarters to the building formerly occupied by the Texas Mechanical Association at 808 Lamar street. Mr. Cochran expressed himself as being much pleased with his new location for it gives him room to spread out more than he could in his old location.

In addition to the sales and service of the Chevrolet automobile storage, greasing, washing and general repairing will be done in addition to the sale of gasoline and oils. With these new features the firm will be able to do a much greater business than they have ever undertaken before.

SEPTEMBER SETS A NEW HIGH RECORD

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—"September has been the biggest month in the history of the company," said R. C. Getsonger, sales manager of the Lincoln Motor Company. "We are entering October with more orders on our books than ever before."

Two more bodies have been added to the Lincoln line, making eleven in all. One is the Judkins body, heretofore a custom-made sedan job, and the other is a permanent top job.

Two Women's Hate May Fan To Flame Again Fiery Souls Of West Virginia's Hillfolk

NEW YORK, October 8.—"One thing that may upset the temporary quiet here is a woman's revenge," telegraphs Mildred Morris, the intrepid correspondent, who, after harrowing experiences on the Logan battlefront, is now reporting the second "Trigger Trial" in the Mingo County courthouse at Williamson, West Virginia.

Two women of Mingo brood revenge. One is Mrs. Sid Hatfield, twice made a widow by gun play. The other is Mrs. Ed Chambers, widow of the youngest of the fifteen men who, with Sid Hatfield, were acquitted last March after an eight weeks' trial of the charge of having murdered Detective Albert Felt. Both were present when, early last month, C. E. Lively, the "crack" sleuth of the Baldwin-Felts Detective Agency shot and killed Hatfield and Chambers on the steps of the court house at Welch, W. Va. Lively had been a state witness against the defendants in the first "trigger trial."

From the moment that the shrewd-eyed, aquiline-nosed self-confessed union spy had revealed on the witness stand the remarkable dual life he had led for nine years—as a detective for the coal operators and a member in good standing of the United Mine Workers of America—it was to those who know the Mingo temper, merely a question of who would beat the other to the draw—Lively or Hatfield. Lively or Chambers, Lively or any of the other indicted miners, once they met again.

Hatred and Love Primeval.

Hand in hand with hatred in that passion wrought country goes love. And the mountaineers' love is as deep as their hatred. Utterly unaffected almost primitive in its manifestations, it is the proud, hell-defying, world-contemptuous sort of love that stops at nothing, that knows neither limit nor law nor logic.

Those hill-folk are, for the most part, direct descendants of pioneers that crossed the mountains with their pack-horses and dogs and rifles a hundred and fifty years ago and settled in the Virginia wilds. They are essentially children of nature. Civilization, with its arts and graces and shamefaced restraint, has made little headway among these people. Their emotions are as primitive as their manners. They are a different breed from any people on the face of the globe. And through the make-up of almost all of them runs that strange thread of quality that makes them smile with murder in their hearts and grunt and glare when they are happy.

The loyalty and affection between friends and the passionate ardor between lovers were peculiarly apparent during the trial at Williamson, which, by the way, was in point of number of defendants, unique in American court annals. Never before had twenty-three men been arraigned simultaneously upon a murder charge before the same bar of justice. Wives and sweethearts clung tenderly to the arms of their men in prisoners' row. Women were also plentiful among the spectators. Jeers hisses, handclaps, shouts of approval punctuated all hearings. The whole trial was surcharged with emotionalism.

Credit for averting it unquestionably belongs to Tom Felts, head of the Baldwin-Felts Detective Agency. Not until after the hearing was over did it become generally known that practically everyone of the twenty-three accused were sitting on the accusers benches, armed to the teeth. All had one gun, most of them had two. How many "gats" were bulging in hind pockets among the men in the audiences cannot be estimated, but it is safe to say there were several dozen. In the back room were a half-dozen regular soldiers belonging to Colonel Herman [illegible] detachment, then stationed in Williamson, but later withdrawn; each was armed with an automatic. One tiny movement by someone might have led to the "shooting up" of the court room.

Massacre Averted.

Someone did make such a movement, and it was none other than Sid Hatfield, the young Chief of Police of Matewan, now dead, Tom Felts was striding down the aisle past the benches on which sat the twenty-three miners from Matewan whose prosecution he was financing—the men charged with the murder of his two brothers. Sid Hatfield was sitting at the outer edge of the first row. Waves of hot hatred seemed to sizzle back and forth between these two arch foes. As Felts came nearer, Hatfield, a slight sneer on his face, suddenly made a jerky movement to his "gat" pocket and ostentatiously switched the position of one of his weapons.

Felts later told the writer that it was the tensest moment of his life.

"If I have ever felt the temptation to shoot, it was then," he said. "Moreover, by the oldest law in the world—the law of self-defense, the law and the drop—I had a perfect right to kill Hatfield right then and there in that courtroom. And there followed a minute when one more move, ever so slight, on Hatfield's part, would have sent him where his brothers are."

Felts promptly told the State's attorneys what had happened. Captain S. B. Avis, his chief counsel, told Judge Robert D. Bailey, sitting in the case, who then gave the "disarmament order" which resulted in every man and woman thereafter being "frisked" for weapons before entering the courtroom.

The killing of young Chambers by Lively brings to mind the picture of his beautiful young wife, who always sat beside him during the trial, her large, lustrous dark eyes fastened intently upon the witness, the interrogating lawyer, or the Judge.

Vituperation and Blows.

It was she who nearly caused wholesale bloodshed one afternoon, when, at the end of the hearing, as the crowd filed out of the courthouse she attacked Isaac Brewer, ex-defendant, who had turned state's witness. Sending her fist to the paw of the lanky six-footer, famous as one of Manhattan's most dreaded two-gun men, she cried:

"You are a dirty dog. You are trying to get my husband and my little brother hanged."

Only the timely interference by State troopers prevented a mob scene and massacre. Now her husband is dead, shot by another State's star witness, Lively.

All this is an inherent part of the emotional setting in which the recent "March to Mingo" was staged, resulting in bloody fighting and the eventual interference of government troops.

But what was this "March to Mingo?" Was it, as has been hinted, an organized attempt by five or six thousand union miners to force their way through Logan county, the "open shop" coal field whose economic importance has been described in previous articles, and "break down" the virtual state of martial law existing in Mingo?

All the facts brought out thus far tell a different tale. It has been shown that the United Mine Workers' officials were and are against such a move and that two of the union's most influential officials, Keeney and Mooney, brought all their influence and persuasion to bear to stop the "march." Also, events have shown the utter futility of an attempt—organized or unorganized—to force unionism upon the Logan fields.

What seems infinitely more probable is that the concentration of union miners arose from the gathering of individual groups and that it gradually gained strength and impetus from subsequent inflammatory words and actions.

The bitterest blood had been erected by the killing of Hatfield and Chambers by a Felts detective in a non-union and Baldwin-Felts stronghold.

Emotion Breeds an Army.

"Cold-blooded murder!" was the cry raised by the United Mine Workers of America. The union saw to it that every member learned the details of the shooting. It charged that Hatfield, who, rightly or wrongly, had been lifted to a position of heroic leadership among the union men, had been "framed" and "trapped" and "put out of the way" in time to deprive the second "trigger trial" of this publicly picturesque figure.

As word of all this slowly spread over the mountainsides there developed one of those strange phenomenal whose genesis can be traced back to the thoughts, emotions and actions of individuals—thousands of them, independent of each other and living in widely-separated regions—and whose culminating manifestation is the powerful, united, concentric action of a great mass of men.

Individuals met other individuals and found they were headed the same way? "Ah'm goin' down to the Mingo Co'thouse. Ah reckon thar'll be a right smart lively time down there!"

Thus groups were formed, and groups met other groups. Presently they grew into a swarm, into an army, for that they are armed—always, and heavily—is an old story by now.

Meanwhile the more radical union organizers, quick to seize the advantage of this migration and this concentric trend of emotion, no doubt made all possible capital out of it. Word was spread that the defendants in the second Matewan Gun-Battle trial at Williamson would be "railroaded" to the penitentiary or the gallows. Emphasis was laid upon the fact that for the first time men from Mingo were to be tried by a jury drawn from an outside county, that no jury can be found in Mingo to convict these men" had been an open secret for months. Through the efforts of one of the Felts lawyers, ex-Judge Joseph Sanders, a member of the West Virginia legislature, an old statute had been revived, making possible the drawing of a "strangers' jury."

Meanwhile, as the number of "marching" miners grew, the coal operators and their legion of supporters in Logan, backed up by the well-equipped State Constabulary and Don Chafin's private army, prepared to meet the threatened "invasion." What at first probably was the remotest thing from the minds of the "marchers" soon became a definite purpose. There was a clash, then another, then "battle formation" and presently actual battles followed.

And that is part of the story of the "March to Mingo" and of the mining war.

Whose "gat" will write the beginning of the next chapter, and what will be the "finis" of it all?

ATTORNEY MIXED SERVICE AND LOVE, PAULINE FREDERICK SAYS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—That the telegrams, letters and conversations did not hold strictly to business matters, but sometimes bubbled over with endearing terms and sentences is the assertion made by Pauline Frederick, noted movie and stage star, in answering the suit filed by Attorney George Edwin Joseph of New York. He has sued the star for $36,000 he alleges is due him for legal service while handling broken contract litigation for her. She also asserts that he later included in an itemized bill the price of some of the love telegrams he sent.

"Pauline, thou loved and lovely queen of all the land of might have been, thy gracious, radiant smile illumines every weary mile," read one of the telegrams, she says it was sent to her from Winslow, Arizona.

Joseph does not deny sending the telegrams. "They are not a part of the pleadings in the suit and are not contained in Miss Frederick's answer," he replied to questions concerning the love notes.

The Balmy Bahamas

THE WATER FRONT OF NASSAU

BEACH SCENE

FREDERICK STREET, NASSAU

VIEW FROM THE BAHAMIAN CLUB

BY HENRY WOOD-BRUCE

NASSAU enjoys the distinction of belonging to the group of islands where, it is now conceded, Columbus made his first landing in the Western World. To be exact, it was Watling's Island appearing upon the horizon that elicited the cry of "Land Ahead."

Of the Bahama group, Nassau among the many islands, has enjoyed the greatest development, and the short overnight trip from Miami is most amply repaid by a most radical change from the characteristic features of the average Southern winter resort. It is essentially distinctive.

The Bahama archipelago contains twenty-nine sizable islands, and nearly three thousand ridges, keys and rocks, and in area is as large as the British Isles. It is evidently the semi-submerged land bridge that formerly extended from Florida to Cuba and South America. The topography is remarkable and affords ample evidence that these islands stood at least three hundred feet higher than their present level.

The so-called "Blue Holes" in the surrounding sea, so-called from their color in sharp contrast to the nile green of the larger area are caused by caverns averaging three hundred feet in depth and were undoubtedly formed by Nature, somewhat in the manner of caves, when the present floor of the sea was well above high water mark.

Variety Of Natives

There is a marked difference in character of the natives of the different islands. Spanish Wells is supposed to have been settled by pirates, and there is still a large percentage of the descendants of Spanish in that community. Other settlements are almost entirely of negro population, while in still others the percentage is very small, while in and around Nassau the types encountered are distinctive, of the English colonial. "Conk" is the term applied to the fisherman class of native, and the "Creoles" are the native born children of foreign parents.

There are one hundred and seventy different species of fish, some most gorgeously colored, and nearly fifty different species of birds, while among reptiles a most remarkable snake is encountered—being totally blind.

The Flora of the island is, in sections, most gorgeous, the justly famous Bougainvillea perhaps being the most conspicuous, and a curious vegetable called the "Jumby Bean," which when eaten by mules or horses causes the hair of the mane and tail to fall out, giving the animals a most comical mangey and moth eaten appearance. Voo-Doo-ism, and "Obi-ism" still exist on some of the outer islands, and it is not uncommon to see hanging from the boughs of various fruit trees, fantastically draped bottles, stick and stones, as charms to frighten away evil spirits and thieves.

Original Inhabitants

At the time of the landing of Columbus the islands were inhabited by a tribe of Indians known as the "Lucayans," who were later enticed away by Spaniards in later expeditions, and pressed into slavery in the mines of Hispanola and elsewhere. No progeny of this tribe is now known to exist.

The islands passed through many vicissitudes, first under the control of Spaniards, then the sea roving English, and from time to time, controlled completely by pirates. In 1775 Commodore Hopkins, of the American Navy, captured Nassau, but upon the separation of the Thirteen Colonies, all Tories loyal to the Crown were induced to emigrate from the United States and since that period the Colony has remained British, with the exception of two years from 1781 when the Spaniards again wrested the territory from the English, but by the treaty of 1782 the colony was returned to the British.

Since the abolition of slavery cotton raising has practically ceased and for awhile the raising of pineapples gave employment to many of the natives, but the export duty upon this product rendered it unprofitable, and later the raising of citrus fruits was taken up, but only for the local markets, as the competition of the Florida product proved to be too great a handicap.

Sponge Important Industry

The cultivation of Sisal hemp gave employment to many, and the collecting of salt from Turks Islands, but the most important industry of the islands at present is sponge gathering. The method of collecting this commodity is most interesting. A sponge schooner cruises over the shallow banks where the sponges grow and sends out its small boats with a man and boy in each. The man lies in the bow of the boat with a "Water glass" in one hand and a long sponge hook in the other.

The boy stands in the stern to scull and guide the boat. As soon as a sponge of the proper size and quality is discovered on the bottom, the fisherman drops his hook, and by a skillful movement of the wrist and arm detaches the sponge and lands it in the boat.

They are then strewn along the shore and exposed to the bleaching process of the sun's rays where all organisms are destroyed by the actinism of sunlight. The process of salt gathering is simplicity itself: Large reservoirs are constructed in the lowlands, and canals dug connecting them with the ocean outside. Sea water is then admitted until the reservoirs are flooded when the gates are closed and the imprisoned sea water allowed to evaporate. The salt is then raked into heaps and allowed to bleach in the sun. It is estimated that a hundred acre salt pond yields a million and a half bushels of salt annually.

Until the advent of prohibition in the United States the revenue of the Bahamas was never sufficient for the calls upon it, but since that time a veritable boom has been experienced, and obligations are promptly met, with a handsome surplus.

Liquor Trade

The "Rum Runners" do a thriving trade, employing many original and picturesque schemes to get the "Hootch" through the three mile limit to the nearby famous Florida resorts, where there is a steady market at fancy prices.

While in and about Nassau the educational advantages are favorable—all children between six and thirteen being compelled to attend school—the conditions in the "Out-Islands" is capable of much improvement. The isolated position of this area renders this difficult, but a Booker Washington could work wonders in this field for the improvement of the very large colored population. Judged by American standards the natives of this group of islands would not be considered prosperous, but they are contented, and very few cases of extreme poverty are encountered. Their wants are simple and mostly supplied by Nature. Fish and fruit are to be had in ample quantities and while the soil is not uniformally good, enough vegetables and fruits may be raised for local needs.

Nassau A Beautiful Town

The beauty of Nassau, the capital of the Bahamas, as revealed by approach from the water is most impressive. The ocean of deep sapphire suddenly changes to a lagoon of emerald green, fringed by shores of snow white coral sand. Beyond, the white limestone houses of the town, intermingling with the groves of graceful palms, and half concealed by gorgeous Poincanas, rise on a gentle slope against a sky of purest blue. Rambles through the clean quaint town, with its curious little shops, picturesque homes, and pretty gardens are replete with interest, and the variety of fruit trees—paw-paw, datura, palm, oleander, bougainvilla and poinciana, and multi-colored flowers, most alluring. The roads of New Providence—the island upon which Nassau is located—are excellent, being constructed from the native coral rock, and are as smooth as asphalt, but unaffected by heat or moisture, and afford ample means for riding, driving motoring and bicycling. In the "Sea Gardens" five miles away, one may see in the depths of the crystalline waters the most gorgeously colored fish dart in and out amongst the various colored coral heads and waving plumes of gorgonias, like butterflies in a garden of brilliant flowers. From the picturesque forts and Government House above the city a glorious view of the surrounding country is afforded.

The Whipping Post is still in vogue as a punishment for certain offenses, and a postal regulation peculiar to the Bahamas provides that the rate upon souvenir post cards depends upon the number of words contained in the message.

AMONG THE MOVIE STARS

FINITA DE SORIA

CLAIRE ANDERSON AND NILES WELCH IN "WHO AM I"

BEBE DANIELS IN "THE MARCH HARE"

"Moral Fibre" — "Who Am I" — Bebe Daniels In Lively Play — "Big Game" — "Pilgrims of the Night" — A Spanish Star — The Youngest Veteran.

IN "Moral Fibre," Corinne Griffith, returns to the days of her young girlhood. She plays through the early period of the story, a kiddie of twelve years old. It was not very difficult as Miss Griffith left the short skirt and curly hair age only a short while back. As the story progresses, Miss Griffith as the heroine, grows up and her admirers have an opportunity of seeing a relay of gorgeous dresses designed by Lucille. The dramatic qualities of the star are also given a great deal of play in this strong production of a story that has as a motive, sisterly love and an absorbing theme of revenge.

"The March Hare"

Lisbeth Ann Palmer is the only daughter of a harassed Los Angeles millionaire, and to obtain a respite from the excessive stimulation of Lisbeth Ann's society, he sends her off, with a spinsterish cousin for chaperone, to visit his sister-in-law in New York.

The girl telegraphs ahead to her aunt that she will stop over for a week in Chicago, then changes her mind and arrives in New York according to her original schedule, but without further informing her aunt of her whereabouts. She persuades her chaperone to dine at a restaurant before communicating with her aunt, and while there she makes a wager that she can live for a week on seventy-five cents, the chaperone meanwhile to "sit tight" at the Plaza and wait results.

The various escapades of the girl after she assumes the disguise of a poor flower-girl make a comedy full of original twists and much wholesome fun. Indeed, Miss Daniels has never been given a more amusing role in a livelier play.

"Who Am I"

Ruth Burns, a beautiful girl who has spent her entire life at boarding and finishing schools, and who has never known her parents. Upon attaining her majority she is informed by Jimmy Weaver, who had known her father, that she is heiress to a gambling establishment. Ruth, who has become attracted to Jimmy, visits the place, where John Collins, the manager, informs Ruth that her father owed him large sums of money. She agrees to pay him in full, and, not knowing of any other way, decides to carry on her father's precarious business.

Under the guidance of Jimmy she soon becomes a master-hand at the games of chance. An incident occurs, however, that makes Ruth decide to leave the sordid business. She makes a final plunge and stakes herself against her debts with John Collins—and loses. Just as Collins attempts to seize Ruth, something happens which changes the entire aspect of the situation and shows the way out for Ruth. Just what occurs and the way it is shown makes "Who Am I?" a photoplay of more than usual dramatic power.

"Big Game"

Left alone in a forest cabin with two men, Eleanor Winthrop (May Allison), found herself confronted by the alternative of being the property of one or the other of them—one who was her lawful husband and the other who was an abysmal brute. Thus, she finally saw her husband swept aside by the superior strength of the brute and herself. She saw in the French-Canadian trapper the ideal male—the conquering male. And his force and magnetism caused her to regard her husband as a weakling. She was on the verge of eloping to Quebec with the trapper when her husband found his courage. What did he do? Did he play the game or did he succumb?

"Pilgrims Of The Night"

"Pilgrims of the Night," concerns a group of crooks who have for their leader an exceptionally clever thief known as "The Black Fox." The latter presides over a fashionable gambling palace which is raided by the police when they learn that in the possession of the crooks is a huge sum of money stolen from the French subtreasury.

The "Black Fox" is captured but others escape. The loot isn't recovered until an amateur detective traces down the escaped criminals—one of whom is a hunch-back. The latter has taken the chief's daughter with him in order to execute vengeance upon a titled Englishman. The latter is the real father of the girl and eventually they are reunited. The picture flashes considerable action and a wealth of suspense. "Pilgrims of the Night" was adapted from "Passersby," a mystery story by E. Phillips Oppenheim.

From Sunny Spain

Finita de Soria, who hails from Sunny Spain, and who will be remembered by movie fans for her excellent portrayals in such pictures as "The Strength of the Weak" and "Thrown to the Lions," is negotiating for the motion picture rights to "Spanish Love," the Avery Hopwood-Mary Roberts Rinehart stage play that has for the past year held the boards in New York. Miss de Soria is well known on the speaking stage, where she appeared as a singer and dancer in such productions as "Gypsy Love" and "Flo Flo."

James W. Morrison

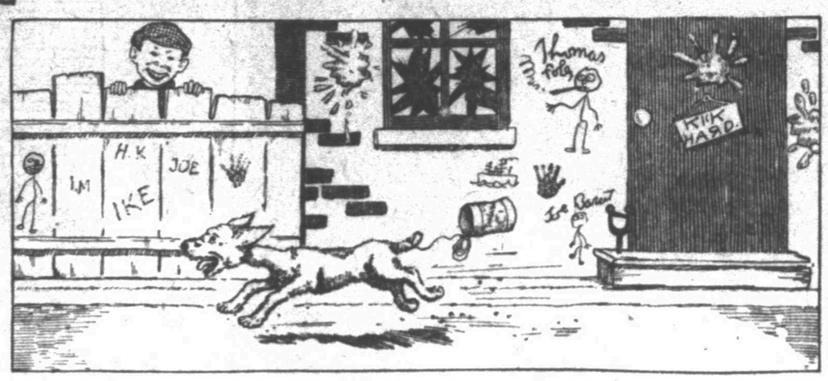

James Woods Morrison can rightly claim that he is the youngest veteran of motion pictures. Jimmy, though still in his twenties, has been appearing before the motion picture camera since the first days of the silent drama—the days when the screen showed very little drama, and the crude projection machines belied the term "silent." And now after all these years, Jimmy is still going strong; he is undoubtedly one of the screen's most popular young leading men, and, in point of service, he is by far the oldest. Morrison's next picture, "A Daughter of Brahma," will be seen shortly.

The Town Without One Bad Boy

"Mutt" Murphy and "Smoke" Lincoln, Once the Leaders of Rival Gangs and Now Threatening to Chastise Any of Their Reformed Gangsters Who Dare to Be Bad Again.

"Peace, Perfect Peace," Is Now the Favorite Hymn of This Much Surprised Indiana Community, Where Every Youngster Has Decided to Be Very, Very Good.

EVERYBODY who saw Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid" will remember the dream scenes in which the town toughs, the big fat policeman, and even the homeless mongrel cur sprouted wings and looked perfectly angelic.

Something like that is taking place in real life today in the town of Greencastle, Ind. It can be stated on the authority of the chief of police and every mother in Greencastle that there isn't one bad boy from end to end of town.

Until very recently Greencastle had the average number of mischievous youngsters who tied tin cans to dogs' tails, smashed windows, tormented cats, rang doorbells surreptitiously, shot craps behind fences, and played pranks on their long-suffering elder sisters. But not now. All that is changed. And here is how it happened:

Fred M. Walker arrived in town one day to take charge of athletics at Depauw University. Up to that time Greencastle was the typical college town. Under the leadership of "Mutt" Murphy and "Smoke" George Washington Lincoln, the boys from 5 to 14 had caught the spirit of student high jinks and had even improved on the college interpretation of what constitutes fun. Sermons thundered from the pulpit and parental lectures availed nothing. The case seemed hopeless. Then Mr. Walker arrived and turned the town all upside down—or rather rightside up.

Walker's job was assumed to be only that of sportive tutor for the students at college. But Walker went beyond his designated role and tried an experiment with the youngsters of the town that has gladdened the heart of every mother, puffed the chest of every father—and made the town of Greencastle prouder of its boys than any community in America.

Walker's Splendid Idea

Walker, who first gained fame as a gridiron star at the University of Chicago, later added to his collection of laurel as a big league pitcher. Then, deserting the diamond, he tutored the unbeaten Williams College eleven of a few seasons ago, directed basket ball activities at Dartmouth, and then, until he was secured by Depauw, served as assistant to Alonzo A. Stagg, boss of athletics at the University of Chicago.

Walker arrived in Greencastle last June, just when the torrid spell had started. There is no river, no lake—no bathing resort in or around the town. The town sweltered. Walker had a thought—and carried it to George L. Grose, the college president.

Walker gathered a group of the kids ranging in age from 5 to 14 around him and told them he would permit them free use of the swimming pool all through the summer if they'd sign a little pledge. Their eyes brightened when he mentioned "free swim"—they narrowed a bit when he mentioned pledge. He sensed that those kids were skeptical about the pledge thing. So he said to them:

"I'll go home now, draw up the pledge and you fellows meet me here about 3 o'clock this afternoon. We'll read it over then and if you're willing to sign it, we'll form the Boosters' Club right on the spot."

He went home and drafted the following pledge:

"In appreciation of the privilege of using the Depauw gymnasium and swimming pool, I hereby pledge myself to refrain from:

1—Smoking cigarettes or using tobacco in any form.
2—Swearing or using indecent language.
3—Using ungentlemanly language.

"And I further pledge myself:

1—To be courteous and polite at all times.
2—To be a Booster.
4—To do everything within my power to keep the campus, gym and the town of Greencastle in a more orderly condition.
5—To always follow whatever directions may be given me by the coach or his assistants while using the gymnasium and pool."

That afternoon, almost as seriously as he would have discussed things with college boys, he went over every detail of that pledge with the youngsters, assembled under one of the trees on the university campus. And they understood.

"Mutt" Becomes a Member

Then and there the Boosters' Club was formed, with about a dozen members. In three days it had grown to 40. In less than two weeks, it was 115. And, included in its membership, was every sort of boy that a city produces.

Boys came from every part of the town to join the club; boys of all shapes, all sizes, all ages up to 14, all colors, all creeds and all social strata. All were welcomed into the club which demands:

"Sign the pledge—and keep the rules."

After a while came "Mutt" Murphy, most misunderstood boy in Greencastle: a youngster of unusual brightness, a born leader—but one who someway directed his energies toward mischief—and always was in trouble; a boy who observed no rules and no regulations other than those which were self-made; a high-strung kid who, when harnessed by conventions, promptly jumped the traces—and became the town sorrow.

Cap in hand, feet shifting a little uneasily, and hands fidgeting, the strapping young Irishman stood on Walker's bungalow porch—and said:

"Would you let a boy like—like me—into that club, Mr. Walker?"

"Sure, 'Mutt'—mighty glad to have you in it," answered Walker. "I need a boy just like you in that club. I'll want you to keep your eye on the younger boys and see that they live up to the rules. You'll do that for me, won't you, 'Mutt'?"

"Yes, sir—yes, sir, I'll do that. I'll do everything the rules say and nobody's gonna bust them and get away with it."

In that hour "Mutt" Murphy, the "bad boy," passed along forever; in that hour was born "Mutt" Murphy, a youngster whose conduct ever has been a model; who uses his power of born leadership only to lead his mates on to acts of chivalry, acts of kindness and acts of unselfishness. An hour later, "Smoke" George Washington Lincoln, Darktown's terror, also had his character dry-cleaned. He promised to help "Mutt" keep the others on the mark.

One morning soon after the little club came into being, the news came that an assistant university coach had been hired. A cottage, long unoccupied, was rented for his use. The yard was overgrown with weeds; cluttered with debris. The porches were leaf and dust strewn.

That afternoon Walker, strolling to the college, passed the cottage—and was bewildered by what he saw. The yard, porch and walks were alive with boys—boys of the Boosters' Club—each working like a beaver.

"What's this all about?" Walker asked.

"Oh," answered "Mutt" Murphy, a bit sheepishly, "we thought the assistant coach would like a nice, clean place. So we are getting it all fixed up for him."

When the assistant coach arrived, his yard was like that pictured as part of "Spotless Town."

A few days afterward, Walker stood on the edge of the campus, looking down rather sadly. Lawnmowers had failed to remove some tiny, unsightly weeds which dotted the entire campus. One of the little boosters came along.

Walker told him.

After lunch, Walker on the way to the gym, saw 115 boys on their hands and knees, weeding the huge campus. The little chap who had talked to Walker earlier had passed along the news to his fellows—and every last one of the club agreed to pass up the pool that afternoon to help beautify the campus.

Afterward, Walker gathered the kids around him and said:

"That's the spirit, boys. It was wonderful. And I'm going to show you how I feel about it. I've talked things over with Dr. Grose and he is going to set aside a special section in the stands for you boys, this fall—and you'll be permitted to see every one of our football games free."

The town of Greencastle looked at the Walker experiment first with a bit of skepticism, then unrest, then astonishment—and now with pride such as, it is declared, no other city in America has in its boys.

For a transformation has come. No woman, no elderly man ever attempts to cross a city street without one of the youngsters bobbing up and offering help with the chivalry of Sir Walter Raleigh. No longer do pet animals, panic stricken, race the streets with tin cans tied to their tails. No piece of rubbish shows on the streets of Greencastle without one of the kids showing up a minute later to grab it and take it away to some rubbish receptacle. And every last boy in the town is doing errands for his mother, doing little kindnesses for his fellows, because the pledge has put him on his honor and Walker has convinced them that a boy false to his promise is a boy unworthy.

Some weeks after the club was formed, the mother of one of its members went to Walker, and said:

"I don't know what's come over Eddie, lately. He simply will not leave the house. He always seemed so eager to play with the boys, but now he won't associate with them, even though there is always a crowd of them outside waiting for him."

Walker had an idea what was wrong—but he didn't communicate it with the boy's mother. All he said was:

"What's this all about?" he inquired.

There was a moment of hesitation—then came the answer:

"Eddie busted one of the rules and we fellows are a committee and have been waiting outside his house for nearly a week now so we can punish him for doing it."

"Suppose you fellows trot along home now—and let me attend to Eddie," said he. "I agree with you that any boy that breaks the rules must be punished, but I'll take care of that."

Walker heard Eddie's side of the case and the boy honestly admitted his guilt. Walker suspended him from all club privileges for two weeks. Since reinstatement, there's been no boy in Greencastle who hews more rigidly to the line than this same youngster.

Crawfordville, Indiana, a bitter athletic rival, sent a ball team for battle in Greencastle. Walker, who was slated to pitch for the town team, made it a condition that every one of his youngsters was to see the game free.

Some way, somehow, "Mutt" Murphy heard that the bally-hoo process was a great thing to draw crowds to ball games. He knew that the bigger the crowd, the more profit for the players.

At 1:30 that afternoon, strange sounds broke the Greencastle welkin. There was a din, a rattle and a clatter unlike any ever exuded within a limited area. The whole town rushed to see the parade of the Boosters' Club.

They came down the middle of the street, single file, double file, triple file, 115 strong; some wearing nobby clothes and patent leather shoes; some with bare feet, ragged knickerbockers, caps or broken straw hats. On they came—sons of Greencastle aristocracy prancing buoyantly alongside a little negro; boys from the homes of the wealthy, boys from the poorest districts of the town—each and every one a member of the Boosters' Club.

In carrying along the experiment, Walker has known the splendid aid of Dr. Grose and of Guernsey Van Riper, one of the greatest football stars the Middle West ever knew, who now is chairman of the Depauw Athletic Council.

"I've never forgotten that I was once a boy!"

The steamer Phoenix recently sailed for Petrograd from Hamburg with one of the first loads of food to be distributed in the famine area of destitute Russia by the American relief committee. Flour, lard substitute, dried vegetables and other foodstuffs made up the load. Hundreds of tons of food are now on their way to the famine district.

IT'S MODERN VS. THE PRIMITIVE IN MOROCCO INSURRECTION

The conflict now waging between the Spanish government forces and the Moor insurgents in Morocco is a battle between the old primitive ideas of warfare and the new warfare which grew out of the world war. The Moroccans carry on their attack deployed among the rocks and trees in the mountainous country. With high-powered rifles, seized from government stores, they carry on a wicked attack. The Spanish forces are using airplanes, bombs and modern artillery to quell the insurrection.
