Hitler's Warning Scorned By British

Many Teachers In State Colleges Said To Be Communists

Evidence Given In Dies Hearing At Beaumont

Meeting Of Red Leaders In North Texas Is Bared

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
Associated Press Staff Writer

BEAUMONT, July 19. — The startling disclosure that the Communist party membership in Texas includes many teachers and student leaders in state-supported institutions was made today to the Dies committee.

It was learned the committee had obtained possession of an account of a secret meeting of the state party's high functionaries held just outside a large North Texas city, in which plans for 1940 were formulated.

In the program was outlined the Communists' proposed operations in politics, with what was described as "particular emphasis" on the gubernatorial race.

Professors Included

Names of professors and students, including virtually the entire membership of the basketball and football teams of one state school, punctuated the report.

The information was furnished the committee by Sheriff Chris P. Fox of El Paso, who was aided by a lawyer of that city, William H. Fryer.

It was understood Fox obtained the news from a person present at the meeting, and that the account was remarkably detailed, reading like minutes of the gathering's activities that day.

Names of negro Communist leaders working among negro farmers also were given the committee, it was learned.

Other Evidence Heard

Chairman Martin Dies of the committee investigating un-American activities also heard testimony from two other witnesses, former Communist party leaders, who asserted absolute social equality of negroes and white persons was a party aim.

The men were John L. Leech of Portland, Ore., making his third appearance before the group here, and 20-year-old George Berthoion of Los Angeles.

Marriage with white persons, enfranchisement, and government of areas in which their population constituted the majority was planned for negroes, Leech said.

Mingling Recommended

The witness, who left for home tonight, said that in Los Angeles members of the two races mingled at Communists dances, picnics and other social affairs as well as at meetings.

He testified the party was pursuing the peaceful method of educa-

Spur Again Cops Meet

(Special To The Avalanche)

PLAINVIEW, July 19 — Spur's troop 35 won its third consecutive title in the annual South Plains Boy Scout council swimming meet here tonight.

The troop, sponsored by Spur American Legion post, amassed 71 points in repeating its victories of 1938 and 1939. Second place was won by troop 49, Brownfield Rotary club with 38 points.

Lubbock troop 4, First Presbyterian church, won third with 25 points and Lamesa American Legion troop 22 was fourth with 23.

Chief judge for the contest was J. Ed Braselton, with Fred Hall, Bill Dysert, Clovis Clough and Roy Snyder as judges.

Cliff Crowell was timer, J. Pat Horton, scorekeeper, Bud Sherley, starter, J. Ed Waller, finish recorder, and John E. Hinds, runner.

Other point-winners were:

Plainview troop 52, Methodist church, 20; Lamesa troop 23, Lions club, 18; Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce troop, 8; Lubbock troop 8, American Legion, 6; Lockney troop 59, 5; Plainview troop 50, Seth Ward school, 2, and Littlefield, troop 26, 1.

Youth Crashes In Plane To Lose Life

WOODVILLE, July 19 (AP)—John Earl Gardner, jr., 19, of Woodville, who had been flying planes for five years crashed in his father's private airplane at Colmesneil, nine miles north of here, shortly after noon today and died enroute to a hospital.

Witnesses said the youth was flying low and hit a high line.

Hecklers Are Answered By Thompson, Sadler; Hines And Ferguson Are Busy

(By The Associated Press)

ERNEST O. THOMPSON traded hot words with hecklers on a sun-scorched street corner in Terrell Friday, while at Wharton Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel predicted "we'll get 70 or 75 per cent of the votes" in the first primary.

O'Daniel supporters howled "Hurrah for Leo" as Jerry Sadler campaigned at Plainview and Harry Hines carried his appeal for votes to West Texas at Abilene and Buffalo Gap. James E. Ferguson and Mrs. Ferguson went to Houston for a night rally.

Thompson shouted retorts at a bearded heckler who interrupted his downtown speech at Terrell several times, urging him to study O'Daniel's record which he said demonstrated "doodlebug" efforts in behalf of pensioners.

Vies With Heckler

"Oh, no he didn't," the heckler cried when Thompson said O'Daniel vetoed funds to take the insane out of the jails, and funds to extradite Texas criminals who escaped to other states.

"Oh, yes he did," Thompson mocked. "All you and all the other misinformed folks of Texas need to do is look at his record. He has given the old folks music instead of money. It's a new idea here in Texas, for people to be wanting to tax themselves. If you want that, vote for O'Daniel and scratch my name."

O'Daniel told the Wharton crowd —many of whom were waiting on the street for his appearance two hours before arrival of his entourage—that his victory in the first primary would be a "terrific sock on the jaw" for the professional politicians. He renewed his attack on the public safety department and said the state's affairs were "in a terrible mess" because the professionals had taken them out of the hands of the people. He said these groups had started wooing him soon after he was inaugurated, but that he had no intention of going over "to the side of that corrupt bunch."

Issue To People

Sadler stepped up the volume of his amplifier at Plainview as shouts from the crowd grew while he was citing O'Daniel's record as governor.

Sadler told his audience he did not "get mad" at O'Daniel when O'Daniel endorsed his opponent in the race for the railroad commission, and added he is not mad at him now. Having tried to get the governor to submit a natural resources tax to the Legislature, and failed, Sadler said "I'm taking the issue to the people."

Ferguson Raps Governor

At Houston former Governor James E. Ferguson speaking in behalf of his wife's candidacy for a third term, described Governor O'Daniel as "a wandering minstrel with no higher ambition than to be able to strum a guitar to the tune of 'Arkansas Traveler' or 'Sugar in the Gourd.'"

"He is just a misplaced musician who crooned his way into the governor's office and he has been giving the people of Texas a song and dance ever since," he said.

Game Chairman Answers Charge Of Governor

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 19—Speaking as an individual, A. E. Wood of Austin, state game commission chairman, tonight struck back at criticism of the commission by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel and accused the governor of thwarting wildlife conservation efforts.

Wood, in a radio address, asserted O'Daniel crippled the game warden force by veto of appropriations, ignored appeals for aid to save fish in Laguna Madre, had attempted to abolish the commission, tried to block federal wildlife conservation funds for Texas and was a "past master of vagueness."

No Pay Received

The chairman declared the six-man commission served without pay and that it deserved commendation for working in the interests of sportsmen in saving game and fish and for inauguration of a game restoration program imitated by states throughout the nation.

In election campaign addresses, O'Daniel termed the commission a "millionaire sportsmen's club," claimed it had a "horde" of game wardens, charged that it permitted his sons, Pat and Mike, to use patrol boats in attempts to curry his favor and contended the state agency would be "cleaned up" when he (O'Daniel) obtained a majority of his own appointees on it.

Has Used Cars

Wood asserted the governor often had used state police patrol cars to escort his family on trips to various cities and that the state-owned University of Texas, at O'Daniel's request, had made phonograph records of the governor's programs for broadcasts from a Mexico station.

The chairman, a former state senator, said O'Daniel's veto had cut 30 wardens off the roster, leaving 80 or approximately one for three counties.

"I called upon the governor last August to assist the department when stagnant waters caused heavy

Company Will Not Press 1-Cent Claim

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP) — A penny was all that was left today of an income tax controversy between the treasury and Lessing J. Rosenwald, Philadelphia millionaire.

The treasury thought that Rosenwald, head of Sears Roebuck & company, hadn't paid enough income tax for 1937. Rosenwald thought he paid too much.

After a few years of arguing, the treasury said Rosenwald was almost right. He was awarded $28,173.29 in refunds, and $4,694.69 in credits against subsequent taxes.

This left the treasury still claiming one cent, but it won't be pressed

General Motors To File Briefs Monday

AUSTIN, July 19 (AP)—After hearing an hour's argument on legal questions, District Judge J. D. Moore today asked attorneys in the state's ouster suit against the General Motors Sales corporation to submit briefs on the questions Monday.

The state had filed quo warranto proceedings against the corporation after officers of the company in Michigan allegedly refused to permit an attorney general's department representative to investigate company books.

The suit is regarded as a test case of the power of Texas officials to examine the records of a corporation for tax purposes.

After 4 Weeks, Farley To Quit Chairmanship

President Plans 'Portico Campaign' For Re-Election

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 19.—James A. Farley, who managed President Roosevelt's 1932 and 1936 campaigns, today arranged to leave national politics behind and turn over to another the direction of Mr. Roosevelt's third effort to win the presidency.

Meanwhile it became clear that the president would conduct a "portico campaign." There are two of them at the White House, instead of the usual porch. Pressing foreign and domestic problems, it was said, would keep him in Washington and prohibit any extensive campaigning.

The question whether Secretary Henry A. Wallace, Mr. Roosevelt's running mate, would undertake a vigorous schedule of traveling and speaking in the president's stead, was left to a conference between the two nominees next Thursday in Washington.

With Farley presiding, the Democratic national committee met and conducted the convention's last piece of business. It reluctantly accepted Farley's decision to continue as its chairman for only a month longer.

The genial New Yorker was an opponent of the third term—although he is now supporting the ticket—and is leaving, he said, to accept an attractive offer in private business. While he would not confirm it, this was generally assumed to be presidency of the New York Yankees.

"Who's going to win in November?" a reporter asked him afterward.

Has No Comment

"I think I should leave comment on that point to my successor," he said.

"Will the Yankees win the pennant?" another inquired.

"I'll leave that to a conference of sporting writers," Farley said, grinning.

The question of Farley's successor

Aged Veteran Dies At Home In Slaton

SLATON, July 19. (Special) — Funeral services for John E. Burns, 83, of Slaton, a Spanish-American war veteran who died late Thursday night at his home here, will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in First Baptist church. Burial will be in Slaton cemetery.

Long time resident of Slaton, he only recently returned from California where a daughter and three sons reside. His widow and four other sons also survive and all of them were at his bedside when death came.

Survivors are, Mrs. Ida Belle Pottinger and Charles, Ed and Arthur Burns of Los Angeles; Albert of Borger, Matthew and James of Clovis, N. M., and William of Slaton, with whom he made his home. Twenty-five grand children and 13 great-grand children also survive.

Crude Price Cut Was To Meet Competition

AUSTIN, July 19 (AP)—H. E. Sinclair of the Sinclair-Prairie Oil and Refining company, which has posted a price cut for North and Central Texas crude said today the action was taken to meet competition.

In a communication to D. H. Bolin of Wichita Falls, president of the North Texas Oil and Gas association, Sinclair contended there was not sufficient spread between the price of crude and finished products. The communication was made public here.

Asserting he was read to join in any serious measures to remedy a situation such as caused his purchasing company to cut prices, Sinclair expressed the opinion the fundamental causes were "beyond any power of correcting" that could be locally applied.

"Shutdowns of production are not the remedy," he said. "Retaliatory and illegal reduction of allowabies in isolated cases can have no beneficial effects on our problems."

ACTRESS' FATHER DIES

SANTA MONICA, Calif., July 19. (AP)—Jesus Leonard Asunsolo, 67, father of Dolores Del Rio, Mexican film actress, died of a heart ailment today at the home of his daughter, where he had resided the last two years.

Famous Woodcarver Dies At Austin Home

AUSTIN, July 19 (AP)—Peter Mansbendel, 56-year-old widely-known Austin woodcarver, died at his home today after a long illness.

A native of Switzerland, Mansbendel, whose craftsmanship adorns public buildings and private homes over the state and nation, came here from New York where he had headed the woodcarving department of a period furniture specialty organization.

His work included re-creation of the governor's palace doors in San Antonio and wood portraits of presidents of the University of Texas.

Funeral services will be conducted here tomorrow.

SADLER VISITS LUBBOCK—Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler, candidate for governor of Texas, visited Lubbock Friday morning and spoke from his sound truck at City hall park, following a short musical program by his cowboy band. Above, Sadler is shown center just as he started his speech, with Harley Sadler, West Texas showman and Sadler's cousin, who introduced him, right; and Leon Huff, the much-publicized hillbilly singer and musician, who quit Gov. War Explosives Are Ordered

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Anticipating construction of a $25,000,000 smokeless powder plant intended to triple United States production, the war department today placed an order for $20,000,000 worth of the explosive, ten months in advance of the plant's opening.

It also signed its first contract for bi-motored training planes—an undisclosed number of AT-8 planes with two wip-horsepower engines each. The contract went to the Cessna Aircraft company of Wichita, Kans., for $900,378, with the delivery date not disclosed.

By Advanced Students

The planes will be used by advanced students in transition from light ships to twin-engine service airplanes. They will go into service at the specialized school to be opened about March 15 at Ellington field, Tex.

The contract for smokeless powder went to E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company of Wilmington, Del., which contracted with the war department only this week to build and operate a plant at Charlestown, Ind., near Louisville, Ky., on a fixed fee basis. The plant will employ 5,000 men and have a daily production of 200,000 pounds.

Construction of other powder plants is expected. The army's ultimate objective is believed to be a production of $1,000,000,000 pounds a year, sufficient for a war effort, as compared with 25,000,000 pounds at present.

Mexican Posts Bond On Assault Charge

Reyes Bustillos, 20, a Mexican charged in county court with aggravated assault on his wife and who admitted to authorities "I whip her little bit, not much—she make lots of noise" was released on $250 bond Friday.

A 17-year-old Mexican girl was arrested with Bustillos but was released upon posting by her father of an appearance bond.

Four juvenile boys were arrested and ordered to report to Judge E. L. Pitts in juvenile division of 99th district court at 10 o'clock this morning to answer charges of stealing 51 sacks from Economy mills. The boys, 12 to 15 years old, were placed in county jail and two at night had been released to their parents.

Italian Ship Sunk; 250 Feared Lost

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 19.—The Italian light cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni, one of the fastest warships, was sunk with the probable loss of 250 men in the Mediterranean off Greece during a fierce naval and air action today with the Australian cruiser Sydney supported by a small destroyer force, the British admiralty announced.

One British destroyer rescued 250 men from the Italian vessel. It was presumed another 250 Italian seamen lost their lives since the ship's normal complement was 500. It was Italy's first cruiser loss.

Second Cruiser Fleet

The British units fell on the Bartolomeo Colleoni and another cruiser 30 miles off the island of Crete. The second cruiser fled, Capt. J. A. Collins of the Sydney reported.

Eyewitness reports of the battle came from Piraeus, Greece, where passengers aboard the Greek steamer Frinton landed.

"Italian bombers roared by us in waves to attack the six British ships," the passengers said. "We could make out four big and two small British ships.

Great Gun Flashes

"There were great gun flashes and thunderous explosions, but we were too far away to see what happened to either the British or Italian ships."

The Australian Sydney, 6 800 tons, is the namesake of the ship which finally caught the famous German commerce raider, Emden, and sank her off the Cocos islands, in the Indian ocean, in the World war.

Japs Assault Times Writer

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, July 20, (Saturday) —Hallet Abend, correspondent for the New York Times, was assaulted in his apartment last night by two Japanese who seized several pieces of manuscript after demanding "all his anti-Japanese writings."

U. S. Acting Consul-General Richard P. Butrick protested today to Japanese Consul General Yoshiaki Miura, demanding an apology, compensation and assurance against repetition of the incident.

Abend said that two Japanese, armed with pistols and with their hats pulled low over their eyes, invaded his apartment in Japanese-occupied Hongkew, beat him on the head, twisted his elbow, and forced him to his knees.

He said that in demanding his "anti-Japanese writings," they asked especially for "insulting telegrams" about Major General Saburo Miura, commander of Japanese gendarmes in Shanghai.

LONDON, July 19 (AP)—The British government, banning strikes and lockouts effective July 25, today set up a national arbitration tribunal for settlement of trade disputes.

Reply Will Be In Language Of Bullets, Bombs

German Air Force Launches One Of Heaviest Raids

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 19.—Britain scorned Adolf Hitler's peace offer tonight as unworthy of reply except in the easily understood language of bomb blast and gunfire.

The German dictator gave point to his threats of total destruction by launching one of the widest and heaviest air raids Britain ever has experienced.

But the royal air force ranged far over Germany and German-subjugated lands to bomb factories and military storage places, including the Krupp plant at Essen, and the royal navy sent to the bottom of the Mediterranean the Italian cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni, a 40-knot warship rated as one of the world's fastest.

Raiders Are Downed

The British defense forces shot down at least 11 of the German aerial raiders—four bombers and seven fighters, at a cost of five British fighter planes.

More than 150 German and British planes participated in two big battles off the southeast coast this afternoon. Nearly 70 Nazi bombers and fighters were engaged in the first, and more than 50 in the second.

Britons, both of high and low degree, took the attitude that Hitler's latest peace overture had been answered in advance five days ago by Prime Minister Winston Churchill's declaration:

"Be the ordeal sharp or long, or both, we shall seek no terms; we shall tolerate no parley."

Though Hitler is well aware of this consistent Churchill stand, and doubtless knew in advance what sort of reception his peace scheme would get, the British had been expecting him to make just such a gesture ever since the fall of France and the determined British actions which kept him from laying hands on the French fleet.

Nothing Concrete

The general opinion was that the only surprising thing about it was the lack of anything concrete or even novel.

Of Hitler's threat to destroy the British empire, the ordinary Britain scoffed: "Let him try it."

There were many to recall that this is the 352nd anniversary of the Spanish Armada's arrival off Britain, and that the only Spaniards to land then were prisoners of the British navy.

Tired of speculating on when the German attack will come, the British did not even try to guess whether the Hitler speech presaged an immediate attempt at invasion.

Hitler Makes 'Last Offer'

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, July 19.—Adolf Hitler, the conqueror of France and the controller of a continent, tonight offered Great Britain a last chance to withdraw from the conflict or see destruction of her world empire and terror for millions.

He spoke for an hour and thirty-five minutes before the Reichstag to offer "still another appeal—this time the last—to reason."

Conditions Not Outlined

He did not outline the conditions for a peace that will end a conflict which, he said, it is senseless to prolong. But he made it perfectly clear that any peace must be on the terms of Germany.

He set no time limit for Britain's answer to this "last" appeal, and gave no clue to the conditions under which he might be disposed to open peace talks.

In this respect his "peace appeal" was simply an appeal to the British to come to their senses and sue for

President Of Latvia Ousted

(By The Associated Press)

RIGA, Latvia, July 20, (Saturday) —President Karl Ulmanis of Latvia was removed from office early today, effective tomorrow, and an assembly of the country's new parliament was ordered. Premier Kirchenstein will take over the functions of Ulmans' office.

Special delegations were reported yesterday en route to Moscow, presumably to request absorption of this Baltic state into the Soviet union.

Demonstrations Held

(The Moscow radio reported tonight that workers and soldiers throughout Latvia and her Baltic neighbors, Lithuania and Estonia, were holding demonstrations demanding incorporation of all three countries into Russia.)

Parliaments of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, all elected this week by the unopposed "peoples' party" bloc, may proclaim union with Russia when they assemble this weekend, it was said.

Thus the Baltic "triplets" appeared to be in the last formal stages of the independence which they declared at the time of the Russian revolution in 1917.

Lived In Texas

It apparently was the end of a long and powerful career for the big, energetic Nebraska-educated Latvian chieftain, Ulmanis.

He was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1909, worked for a year at a Lincoln dairy, then left for Texas and dropped from sight.

About the time of Latvian independence, he repaid American friends the money they lent him to go into the cheese-making business in Texas, and in 1918 he bceame Latvia's first premier.

In 1934, by a coup d-etat, Ulmanis made himself virtual dictator of the country, and on the death of the president in 1936, he assumed that office also.

Irvin S. Cobb Will Support GOP Choice

DENVER, July 19. (AP)—Word that Irvin S. Cobb, the writer, has pledged his support as "a life long Democrat" to Wendell Willkie, was received today by the Republican presidential nominee.

Don R. Burton, a friend of Willkie in Bohemian Grove, Calif., telegraphed the nominee that Cobb had sent the following message to Senator Edward R. Burke (D-Neb) who recently announced he was for Willkie:

"As a life-long Democrat, I regret that we have to wait from 1896 to 1940 for a presidential nominee who was named neither by party bosses nor party patronage. As a life-long Democrat, I rejoice that a real fellow Democrat has been so nominated, even though it took a Republican convention to nominate him."

RADIO BURNS

ALMENA, Wis., July 19. (AP) — Henry Thorbeck turned on his radio last night to listen to the Democratic national convention. After a few remarks of a rousing address the radio sputtered a few times and burst into flames.

Wendell Willkie Has Some Ideas Of His Own He Wants To Put Into Practical Use If He Is Named President

(By The Associated Press)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 19.—Wendell L. Willkie flew back to his resort hotel here late today after telling a group of stockmen at Denver that he was running for president "because I have some deep-seated convictions I want to present to the American people."

In his talk at the Denver stockyards, Willkie stood on a truck piled at the edges with bales of hay.

"I shall make no pretense of noble motives," the nominee asserted. "I am not going to tell you of my unselfish sacrifices in seeking to be president of the United States.

"I frankly sought the opportunity to run for president on the Republican ticket because I have some deep-seated convictions I want to present to the American people and which, if I am elected, I want to carry into execution."

Willkie added:

"I know something about the democratic way of life, not from books or theorists, but from experience. I know the democratic way of life as an experience.

"I have worked on the ranges and the farms. I learned about civil liberties, not in textbooks, but in a hard struggle for survival.

"I know your aspirations and your hopes.

"I know your resolve that this great democracy shall be preserved at all hazards. If you elect me president you will have some one who understands the everyday problems of everyday people. I have lived them and glory in it. My route was the hard route, not the soft one."

The Republican nominee paused for a moment at the stockyards to glance at a herd of sheep. Turning to reporters, some of whom had traveled with President Roosevelt, Willkie said with a laugh:

"You fellows don't know anything about sheep—you have been following a fellow who races boats and does things like that."

July Is The Time To Make Appetizing Jams, Jellies And Preserves

The Woman's Angle
by Margaret Turner

ARE you tied to the kitchen these pleasant summer week-ends, when your husband makes for the golf course and the youngsters dash off to Mackenzie park or Buffalo Lakes? You needn't be. It's picnic time, so just pack up your dinner and take it with you to the back yard or some other outdoor place.

You can have an impromptu picnic of sandwiches, fruit and something to drink prepared from supplies on hand in pantry and refrigerator.

One hot dish is recommended for any picnic; it might be baked beans, a luscious stew or spaghetti. Carry your cooker (hot food and all) in a cardboard carton, well packed with newspapers to retain the heat.

For a delicious and unusual sandwich filling grind together 1 pound of American cheese and 1-4 pound dried beef. Moisten with 1 cup condensed tomato soup.

PLEASE BE CAREFUL!

COMMON courtesy should be exercised when one is picnicking. A good American habit is guarding campfires until the last ashes are buried. Before you go home, take a last look around. Let the whole family help pick up scattered papers, tin cans, bottles and left-over food.

All the refuse you can't burn on the spot will be taken home to your garbage can. Then your favorite picnic ground will be ready to give other people a good time.

Try Peaches, Plums Or Blackberries

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Service Writer

J stands for July, juicy fruits, jelly and jam-making.

From market and home garden come an abundance of luscious berries and fruits to test the mettle of the preserve-maker — and to give her a glow of triumph when her product turns out just right.

No household larder really is complete without its shelves of appetite-tempting spreads. They give plain foods a certain dash and they bring out the flavor of others.

Peach Spread

Peach conserve lenox is a spread of many uses. It goes deliciously with hot breads, makes a grand pudding topper and is a fine accompaniment for roast beef, lamb or chicken, however they're cooked. Slice 3 oranges and 1 lemon very thin. (Use an extra sharp knife.) Discard the seeds. Mix orange and lemon slices with 6 pounds of peeled peaches, add 10 cups granulated sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Let stand 10 minutes to draw out the juice. Mix in 1½ cups chopped seeded raisins and ¼ teaspoon salt. Simmer until the conserve thickens —about an hour over low heat. Stir frequently with a long-handled spoon. Stir in 1 cup English walnuts, pecans or shredded almonds. Cook 5 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars and seal at once.

For Breads

Now for blackberry jam. It was a must in grandmother's day—for filling rolls, pies, tarts, cookies and jam cake as well as for a spread on bread, biscuits and pancakes. It still is one of the most popular of preserves. In addition, it's easy to make and the berries usually are inexpensive. Select berries that are firm, ripe and of even size—never use soft, moldy ones. Wash and measure the berries and measure an equal amount of granulated sugar. Place the berries in a pan—an enamel one is best—crush well and slowly bring to the boiling point. Add the sugar and boil quickly until the jam thickens. Stir frequently. Pour into jars and seal as usual. If you prefer the jam to have the seeds removed, strain the heated berries through a sieve and then add the sugar. Loganberries, black or red raspberries can be used for this jam. A little lemon juice improves the flavor—2 tablespoons of juice to each 3 cups of berries, cooked right in the berry-sugar mixture.

Never cook more than 6 to 8 cups of prepared fruit or juice at a time in one pan. More than that is likely to produce a strong-flavored inferior product. Clear jelly comes from clear juice, so never squeeze your jelly bag. Let it drip perfectly dry. If the juice is a little cloudy, strain it again or use it up in some jam or butter mixtures.

Ripe Plum Relish

Three and one-half cups prepared fruit, 6½ cups sugar, ½ cup vinegar, ½ bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit, pit (do not peel) about 2 pounds fully ripe plums. Grind or chop fine; add ¼ to 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and all-spice, or other desired spices. Measure sugar, prepared fruit, and vinegar into large kettle. Mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hot-test fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottle fruit pectin. Skim; pour quickly. Paraffin hot relish at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each.)

Russia Warned By Fascists

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press War Expert

Count Ciano's arrival in Berlin today for renewal of secret conferences with Hitler coincides with Italian newspaper warnings to Stalin that if the Kremlin accepts British offers of conciliation and cooperation, Russia's state will be the same as Poland's. Hitherto, Italian and German journalistic comment on Russia's war-time forwardness has been worded cautiously. The open suspicion of Russian treachery now voiced in the Fascist-controlled press implies a Slav situation may be developing which Mussolini considers dangerous.

Only a sudden matter of serious importance would seem to justify this second visit of the Italian foreign minister to Berlin so soon after his earlier conference this month with Hitler. Italy's suspicions of Russia are more sensitive than Germany's because of Mussolini's claim to paramount interests in the Balkans and the Mediterranean.

Nazis Are Concerned

At the same time there can be no doubt Germany must be much concerned by this week's overwhelmingly pro-Soviet plebiscites in Latvia, Estonia, and Luthuania, which in effect give Stalin complete control over the armies of the three Baltic countries. Germany has broken the French encirclement of the Reich, but a new Slav encirclement is now being strengthened.

At the same time, Russia not only is pressing Turkey for joint control over the Dardanelles but is also trying to stimulate a new wave of Communism in the eastern Balkans from the vantage ground of Bessarabia. Coupled with these developments so adverse to Italian and German interests, the Italian press now reveals fears that Russia is moving toward some form of rapprochment with Great Britain.

Cooperation Possible

The British government has associated its closing of the Burma road with suggestions for peace between China and Japan. Here is a possible opportunity for Great Britain and Russia to work together in the Orient out of which might come a mutual pact of coordination in Europe. Such is the way the intricacies of European diplomacy operate beneath the surface.

Certainly, Russia has now become the war's enigma for Germany and Italy. No dictator can trust any other indefinitely. It is difficult enough for two dictators to cooperate for long. When there are three, mutual faith becomes impossible. Each must judge the others by his own standards of conduct. So, Hitler and Mussolini are right in looking askance at Stalin, uneasily trying to calculate the direction of his next ambitious move.

Uncertainties Plentiful

Especially must Germany and Italy keep close observation on Russia at the present time when the two belligerents are considering how to deliver what they hope will be a crushing blow against Great Britain. Reports are circulating in Europe that the German high command lacks unanimity concerning the outcome of an invasion of the British Isles and Hitler is said to have been advised by some of his leading generals that failure must be anticipated.

If that were to happen and if at the same time Russia were to seek further territorial expansion, the whole complexion of the war might go into reverse, almost overnight. Count Ciano and Hitler will have problems such as these to discuss this weekend in Berlin. The uncertainties of warfare were never more apparent than they are today in Europe.

Eighteen Candidates For One Seat On Railroad Commission Plan Addresses

Votes Sought By Aspirants

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 19—Pitched to new intensity, the campaigns of 18 candidates for one seat on the state railroad commission flared throughout the state today.

With only a week left before the Democratic primary July 27, some of the hopefuls were claiming enough support to land them in a runoff election.

Others in the second breaking field withheld predictions but expressed renewed confidence as speaking tours and handshaking forways covered more and more ground.

Claims He's Dark Horse

Claiming he was the real dark horse, Walter B. Hood of Austin took his campaign to Sulphur Springs, Winnsboro, Quitman and Mineola. Concluding a tour of Dallas county communities, Hood asserted he was assured of enough support to lead the field.

Joining his stumping forces which include his son, Walton, jr., was Alvin "Hunky" Boggs, Trinity university athletic coach.

The waning campaign hours found 29-year-old Ross Hardin of Prairie Hill scouring the Rio Grande valley with appearances at Falfurrias and McAllen. He listed Weslaco, Harlingen, San Benito and Brownsville dates Saturday. To cover more ground, Hardin split his forces, dispatching brother Jerry and other speakers to additional towns.

Confers With Leaders

Finishing a South and East Texas trip, Clyde E. Smith of Woodville conferred with campaign leaders in Dallas and Fort Worth prior to Saturday speeches in Farmersville, Greenville, Sulphur Springs and Center. Smith, a former district attorney, asserts members of the rail commission should have the judicial temperament and law enforcement experience which only his background provides.

Olan R. Van Zandt of Tioga was already mapping plans for the runoff campaign in which he announced Gene Autry, the yodeling film cowboy would aid him. Autry is a close friend of Van Zandt, a member of the state senate.

Van Zandt who has made 21 appearances since Monday listed Elkhart, Rusk and Jacksonville dates with speeches at eight communities tomorrow including Kaufman, Ennis, Corsicana, Hillsboro and Cleveland and winding up at Waxahachie at night.

Has Same Title

A second claimant to the dark horse title, Bailey Sheppard of Longview, was set for a rally at Groesbeck, home of his parents. He was due at Waco tomorrow. Sheppard fanned through East Texas earlier this week.

A reunion at Valley Mills was the objective of Pierce Brooks of Dallas. Tomorrow he heads for Mount Pleasant, Center, Sulphur Springs, Mount Vernon, Pittsburg and Gilmer. Yesterday Brooks munched watermelons and talked politics at a Buddalo carnival.

The Rio Grande valley was the hunting ground for John Pundt of Dallas, who announced speeches at Brownsville, Harlingen, Edinburg, Mission, McAllen, Rio Grande City and Laredo. He swung into the south after talks at Greenville, Granbury, Stephenville, Cisco and Eastland.

Olin Culberson's itinerary took on the appearance of a time table. Clarksville, Mount Pleasant, Omaha, New Boston and Texarkana were listed for speeches with Atlanta, Jefferson, Marshall and Palestine marked for Saturday. Culberson, former chief of the commission's gas utilities division, made 13 appearances from Monday to Thursday.

John D. Copeland, jr., of Austin completed a tour of East, North and West Central Texas and headed for a blanket trip in South Texas counties. Copeland, a National Guard major, advocated efficient conservation of natural resources as a defense measure.

Piney Woods Scoured

Convinced that his East Texas support was good, Eugene T. Smith of Austin wound up a tour of the piney woods sector and bee-lined for Corpus Christi. He will forage Saturday in San Antonio, his former home.

Scouring West Texas, William H. McDonald of Austin spoke at Midland yesterday and headed for Odessa, Monahans, Pecos, Van Horn and El Paso.

Tearing around the stump circuit or quietly shaking hands and conversing with prospective voters as befits their particular techniques were Bryan Patterson of Alice, Eriot Holt of Dallas, Charlie Langford, jr., of League City, John Paul Jones of New London, Baker Saulsbury of Amarillo, Larry Mills of Dallas and O. T. Terrell of Brazoria.

OLD SHIRT BOOSTER

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Tom Baylor, assistant zoo keeper at Hermann Park, has an old shirt to thank for his life. A cow buffalo, believing he intended to harm her new-born calf, charged Baylor as he entered her pen. Her horn caught in his old shirt, but Baylor broke away and got behind a tree. Hed he been wearing a strong new shirt, Baylor thinks the incident might have ended differently.

HAP HOPPER, Washington Correspondent — He's in the Race — Edited by Drew Pearson and Bob Allen

Sadler Speaks Here Friday

Jerry Sadler came to town Friday—along with Jarrin' Jawn Kimbrough, the all-America fullback, the publicized Leon Huff and a large sound truck.

In City Hall park he asked that he be made the next governor of Texas. He is at present a member of the railroad commission.

Keeping up an almost continual refrain of "I'm keeping strictly within the record" and hammering home his advocacy of a "tax on the mouths of oil, gas and sulphur wells and not on the mouths of the public," Sadler vigorously hit at Governor O'Daniel's sales tax leanings, against which he held up for public inspection the Sadler promises of "a fair and just tax on oil, gas and sulphur."

Claims Gains

He claimed that "the forces that have been trying to fasten a super-sales tax on your bread and clothing are in headlong retreat." He said they would tax the "cackle of a hen, the holes in doughnuts, the shroud of a corpse, the Ten Commandments in the Bible and grandma's 'specs'."

Openly offering to finance social security, to adjust the "inequalities in the franchise tax so we can match the teacher retirement fund" and increase the present load limit of trucks, Sadler put the issue squarely to the crowd estimated at 500 persons, including those sitting in cars.

"If you don't think my plan for government is suitable; if you don't think it is feasible, then don't vote for me."

Indicts O'Daniel Administration

He did not bring into his address the withering sarcasm of some other gubernatorial candidates, simply bearing out the description of Harley Sadler, his widely-known cousin who introduced him as "a candidate who won't straddle the fence." He contented himself with reading indictment of the O'Daniel administration "from the records" and rapping the governor's failure to pass social security legislation when "if it is true, as he claims, he has the largest working majority of the House and Senate of any other governor."

Sadler, hitting at franchise tax inequalities, said:

"Did you know that Texas charges its citizens almost as much for the right to vote as it does the corporations for the right to do business in this state?" he asked. "According to the state comptroller's report, Texas gets $1,206,000 for poll taxes while it gets only $1,637,000 from the corporations for the privilege of doing business. Cigarette smokers pay $6,890,000 into the treasury which is four times as much money as the corporations."

Pointing out that the constitutional amendment providing for teachers' retirement was voted by the people, Sadler added, "The state has never put up a single dime to match the money which the school teache have already put into the fund. The teachers have paid in more than $6,000,000 out of their salaries.

Points To Source

"I am the only candidate in this race to point out some specific source for this money. It must come from one place and it must go only to the teacher retirement fund."

After asserting that the rate now collected is only half as much on capitalization of over a million dollars as it is on a capitalization under that figure, Sadler said, "the bigger they are, the less tax they pay. But that's not all—pipelines and railroads pay only one-fifth—according to the law—of the amount paid by ordinary corporations. And the utility companies, to all intents and purposes, pay a higher rate than other corporations, but in reality their tax is considerably lower because the base is reduced by the elimination of a large part of the capital. This complicated joker makes them pay much less than anybody else."

Claims Corporation Opposition

Because Sadler favors a specific program of increasing the taxes on oil, gas and sulphur with which to finance social security and is bitterly opposed to a sales tax, "The big oil, gas and sulphur companies are out to stop me," Sadler asserted. "Don't you know that if I were out on the highways and byways advocating a sales tax on every item of food and clothing that you buy, I could have the support of this same crowd that is now doing its utmost to chop me down? Common sense will tell you that they don't want to pay their share of the bill and they are not going to do it unless you and I make them do it."

Holding up a nickel box of snuff, Sadler exclaimed, "When I bought this, I paid more money into the old age pension fund than all the oil companies in this state have ever paid. I paid more money into the old age pension fund than all the gas companies or the sulphur companies have ever paid."

He closed with the declaration, "The issue is the same as they were the day this campaign began—it is O'Daniel and a sales tax or Jerry Sadler and a fair and just tax on oil, gas and sulphur."

Twenty Years After Mother Is Charged In Slaying, Son Is Held In Girl's Death

GROTON, Conn., July 19. (U.P.) — Almost 20 years to the day after his mother was charged with the slaying of a Pawcatuck physician, Hugh Barry Kenyon, 20, occupied a cell at county jail today as the accused slayer of his attractive sweetheart, Rita Wheaton, 18, Westlery, R. I.

"I may get the chair—so what?" he said when a special session of town court ordered him held without bond on a charge of murder.

All early remorse for his alleged crime had vanished. He appeared belligerent and testy, and rushed cameramen with a chair as they attempted to photograph him in the crowded state police barracks where the court session was held last night.

Without a show of emotion he repeated how he bludgeoned Miss Wheaton to death with a blackjack and rocks after she had refused to marry him because her family needed her support. She was one of nine children of a former WPA worker.

Mother Is Stunned

The girl's mother was stunned by the crime.

"I just can't believe Hugh would do such a terrible thing," she said. "He was so quiet and gentlemanly. There never was a nicer boy to come to our house and he never took Rita out without obtaining my permission. Naturally, I should trust him. And now he has done this awful thing to that sweet child."

Her father, who sat in the courtroom as the brief hearing was conducted, said:

"I just can't take it in."

Young Kenyon, employed as an apprentice at a printing machinery manufacturing company at Pawcatuck, was regarded as a "model boy" in the town.

Was Well-Liked

He worked steadily, was well liked and never was in trouble. He lived with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Kenyon, and was their only child.

After her release from state's prison in 1927, after serving seven years for the killing of Dr. Herbert Tetlow, a Pawcatuck physician, Mrs. Kenyon was a devoted mother and confidant to her son.

The slaying for which she was sent to prison occurred in 1920 and the state charged it resulted from a dispute over the physician's attentions. Mrs. Kenyon testified she pleaded with the doctor to end their relationship and when he refused, she went to his home with a gun to "end it all." She was convicted of manslaughter.

Timmons Explains His Bad Campaign

CHICAGO, July 19. (U.P.)—Bascom N. Timmons, "the pee-pul's choice," didn't get the vice-presidential nomination because his managers made the mistake of getting pledges from alternates instead of delegates, the disappointed candidate discovered today.

"Tim," Washington newspaper man, got only one vote. It came from Wisconsin.

"They put a unit rule on the Virgin islands," he complained. "And that's what beat me. But I take my defeat gracefully and will support the ticket."

The Timmons candidacy had been launched as a journalist joke at a press conference of National Chairman James A. Farley, but with the help of a parade of friends in a 1906 Oldsmobile had an estimated delegate strength at one point of 2 13-27ths votes.

Sentences Of Four Louisianans Stayed

NEW ORLEANS, July 19. (U.P.) — Judge Rufus E. Foster of the fifth U. S. circuit court of appeals today stayed the sentences of four men, the first federal convictions of the Louisiana scandals.

The 30-day stay was granted for the defendants to apply to the United States supreme court for writs of certiorari.

The defendants are Seymour Weiss, former treasurer of the Huey Long machine; Monte Hart, New Orleans contractor; J. Emory Adams, nephew of former Louisiana State University President James Monroe Smith, and Louis C. Lesage, former contact man for Standard Oil of Louisiana.

They were convicted last September on mail fraud charges in connection with the double sale of Bienville hotel furnishings here to L. S. U. Dr. Smith abandoned his appeal and is now serving time in the state penitentiary on another charge growing out of the scandals.

Texan Rests After Demo Convention

CHICAGO, July 19. (AP)—The close of the Democratic national convention gave Colonel Paul Wakefield of Austin, secretary of the Texas delegation and official badge and ticket dispenser, the first real rest he had had in many weeks.

For more than a month before the convention opened, he was besieged by persons from all over Texas writing for proper credentials to admit them into Chicago stadium for the sessions. Some applicants were entitled to badges and tickets; others simply wanted to be spectators.

There was no letup when he got to Chicago a few days before the convention opened. In fact, it was worse if anything. In addition to hundreds of Texans and their families who came to the Windy City—many of them with no admission tickets of any kind—there were droves of "foreign staters" who hoped to crash the gate with the Texans.

Most exasperating of all, he said, were persons with a Bronx accent or a distinct Yankee twang who came in and tried to claim they had lived all their lives in "Houseton"—as they would pronounce Houston, or in some other part of the Lone Star state.

Notwithstanding the demand, Wakefield said, he was able to gain admission in the galleries for all bonafide Texans who came to the state's headquarters for assistance.

U. S. Protests Oil Agreement

MEXICO CITY, July 19. (AP) — Mexico was reported today to have virtually completed negotiations for construction of an oil pipeline to facilitate sale of petroleum to Japan, but the deal was said to be bogging on the objection of the United States state department to participation of a New York construction firm.

The pipeline would run across the isthmus of Tehantepec from Puerto Mexico on the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific port of Salinas Cruz. It would carry 40,000 barrels of oil daily from the Gulf fields, for sale principally to Japan but also for a Mexican drive to open up markets on South America's west coast.

This would put Mexico in direct competition with California oil wells.

Washington's attitude appeared to present a definite hitch in the plan. The state department is said to frown on participation of the American company because of the present unstable character of Japanese-American relations.

For this reason, informed quarters are uncertain whether the contract eventually will be signed.

Missing Abilene Man Sought In Lubbock

R. E. Summers of Abilene, is wanted to get in touch with a brother, E. C. Summers of 159 1-2 Chestnut street, Abilene, the latter said here Friday night. The matter is important.

The missing man is believed to be in or near Lubbock, said the brother. He left there some time ago to visit relatives and did not state where they lived.

Some months ago the missing man invented a time bomb. Recently he was sent a substantial offer by a well known group, of a substantial amount for the patent. But the inventor had disappeared and no trace was found.

E. C. in Lubbock Friday night, said it was important for the missing man to contact the Abilene man. "I have been searching for him for some time and very much want to get in touch with him," said the brother.

Another Breaks From Ranks Of Democrats

LYNCHBURG, S. C., July 19. (U.P.) —Sen. Ellison D. Smith, D., S. C., said today that he would not support President Roosevelt for re-election.

"On the other hand I will not vote the Republican ticket," he said.

"I think that Roosevelt's nomination is an end of democracy as we have known it," Smith, an opponent of much o. the New Deal, commented on the president's nomination for a third term.

Smith left the 1936 Democratic convention in a huff when a negro minister was scheduled to open a session with prayer. Two years ago Smith was renominated despite a New Deal attempt at a "purge."

GIRL IS KILLED

BORGER, July 19. (U.P.)—A nine-year-old girl, Louis Tompkins, of More, Tex., was killed yesterday when she lost control a stripped-down ancient model car she was driving and suffered a broken neck when it overturned.

Northern All-Stars Are Favored In Annual 'Dream' Game In Amarillo Tonight

Southern Team Includes Five Lubbock Men

(Special To The Avalanche)

AMARILLO, July 19. — Baseball's Civil War—West Texas-New Mexico league style—breaks forth here Saturday night with the stars falling on Malin Field for the second edition of the circuit's annual "dream" classic.

Seeking revenge for the 10 to 9 defeat plastered on them by the Rebels in a thrill-saturated eleven-inning battle at Parris Field in Lubbock last summer, the Northern nine will be slight favorites to even the count.

KFYO TO BROADCAST

Fans of this area who do not journey to Amarillo today for the second annual All-Star classic between fan-picked Southern and Northern nines will have the opportunity of getting every pitch, hit and run just as each is made. KFYO will broadcast the game directly from Malin Field with local sports announcers on the spot for the play-by-play description.

Game time is 8:45 o'clock.

Superior pitching and more potent power at the plate are two factors which can not be denied the Yankees. Otherwise, meaning afield and in the desire to win, there's little to choose between the two foes.

Sell-Out Is Seen

A sell-out throng of some 5,000 or more is expected to jam the Gold Sox' home field for the event, representing every team in the circuit, all of which placed at least two men on the All-Star squads selected after lukewarm ballotting over the league. For the upstarts from the Southern end of the circuit—members representing Lubbock's defending championship Hubbers, Lamesa's Loboes, Odessa's Oilers and Midland's Cowboys—the hope is in a group of mainstays who are apt to explode at any minute, who are just as apt to crumble with the same notice.

The Northern machine—made up of players from Amarillo's Gold Sox, Pampa's league leading Oilers, Borger's Gassers and Clovis' Pioneers—boasts a lineup of veterans who possibly have been just a little more consistent throughout the season but are vulnerable nevertheless.

Tate Vs. Jonnard

Adding color to an already gala affair, the selection of the two managers alone merits a huge attendance, Manager Jodie Tate of Lamesa having one of the largest followings in the league, Major Domo Bubba Jonnard of Amarillo being an equal favorite throughout the circuit.

Taking the mound for the South to open the contest will be Lloyd "Pat" Patterson, Lamesa's most popular mound ace. He will face one of the league's most sensational hurlers—young Russell "Kid" Crider, Amarillo star. Patterson has registered 12 victories as against five losses this season, Crider going him one better with 13 wins, five losses.

Mound Staffs Strong

It is not known how long each will remain in the game, possibly not more than three frames if everything goes well, thus giving the three other hurlers chosen for each team a chance to get into the fray.

Standing ready to relieve Patterson should the occasion arise will be Lubbock's strike-out king, Gene Stack, whose 13 triumphs against seven losses stamp him as one of the circuit's most consistent. Behind the Hubber ace will be Midland's Rankin Johnson and Odessa's "iron man" Williard Ramsdell to whom hurling once every third day is not so unusual.

Pampa, Lubbock Top Field

On the other side of the hill supporting young Crider will be Pampa's Rex Dilbeck, Borger's Clem Hausman and another Oiler, Gus Hallbourg, all seasoned veterans.

The Lubbocks and Pampas will have the largest representation in the game, five Hubbers having been named for Southern selects, the Oilers garnering a like number for the Northern nine.

Manager Tate announced tonight that all players would get into the game, the following to be the starting batting order: Steve Niedziela, Lubbock, second base; Ben Drake, Lubbock, first base; Bill Garbe, Odessa, center field; Joe Beeler, Lamesa, third; Red Hood, Lamesa, left field; Don Wolin, Odessa, shortstop; Timer Pride, Lamesa, catcher; Lloyd Patterson, Lamesa, pitcher.

To Use All Of Them

Also saying that he planned to "use all of them," Maager Jonnard released the following as his starting batting order: Bobby Decker, Borger, second base; Dick Adkins, Clovis, shortstop; Grover Seitz, Pampa, center field; Dutch Prather, Pampa, first base; Gorden Nell, Borger, left field; Bill Altenburg, Amarillo, third base; Johnny Stone, Clovis, right field; Ernie Potocar, Borger, catcher; Russell Crider, Amarillo, pitcher.

In reserve for the Tate's Southern All-Stars will be Gene Stack, Rankin Johnson and Williard Ramsdell, all pitchers; Vince Castino, Lubbock, catcher; Sammy Hale, Midland, utility.

For the Northern boys, the following will be ready to go when called: Dilbeck, Christie and Hallbourg, all pitchers; Dick Ratliff, Amarillo, catcher; Sam Malvica, Pampa, utility.

It's All A Big Mystery To Uncle Oz—

Oscar Vitt Is Tossing Fits Since Indians Started Biting Dust Instead Of His Neck

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 19. — Oscar Vitt, looking fat and sassy despite the fact his Indians have been rapping him instead of the ball, shook a grey, puzzled head and opined hopefully that "things are bound to change."

His Indians had just backed into first place in the American league by losing their fourth straight game. All they seemed to need to take a commanding lead was a good rainy spell. There's nothing like sitting in a hotel lobby and watching your lead grow.

Hitting Is Terrible

"I can't understand it," Uncle Oz said. "Here we play 25 straight games and don't have more than five runs scored against us in any game. Then all of a sudden we drop three straight to Washington by scores of 6-5, 8-6 and 11-8.

"Our defense seems to have just fallen apart. It has been great pitching and fielding that's kept us up there all season. Our hitting has been terrible—Keltner at 220, Heath at .237, Chapman at .270, Trosky 40 points below where he ought to be.

Pitching Blows Up

"If we had been hitting as we should we'd be so far in front they couldn't see us.

"I can't understand, though, why our defense suddenly collapsed. Here's an example. At Washington I send in Pitcher Joe Dobson to relieve Eisenstat. Dobson is going great, allowing no hits or runs.

"Then suddenly he starts throwing balls. Fifteen out of the next 16 pitches were balls. I went out to talk with him and he asked me what was the matter. I said: 'that's what I'm trying to find out.' I had to put in Johnny Allen.

"Then take the case of Keltner. He hadn't been hitting, but he'd been fielding well. At Washington he began to have trouble with his fielding."

Uncle Oz paused for wind. It was hot, and he looked like a firecracker ready to explode. Voluntarily he shifted to the internal troubles of his team. A group of his players had demanded his dismissal, charging his jitterbug tactics gave them the jitters.

"Everything is going fine now," he said, "and I think everything will be all right.

"I've been in this business 32 years now, and it's pretty late for me to change my habits. Maybe," he said thoughtfully, "I've not been quite so loud lately. But gosh, if I'm loud and on edge it's just because I want to win so bad. You can't blame me for that, can you?"

No, you can't blame Uncle Oz for that. And you can't blame him when the pitchers start throwing balls and balls start throwing the fielders and the fielders start throwing their bats and Uncle Oz starts throwing fits. After all, he's only the manager, and can't get out and play for his men.

Tribe Loses Third Straight To Yanks

NOT HURT SERIOUSLY — NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—Dr. R. E. Walsh, New York Yankees team physician, said tonight X-ray of Lefty Gomez' pitching hand showed no broken bones and he expected the hurler to be back in action "in a week or 10 days." Gomez was struck by a ball batted by Roy Weatherly in the fourth inning of today's game with Cleveland and had to be removed from the game.

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Buddy Rosar hit a homer, triple, double and single, Babe Dahlgren cracked out two homers and Joe Gordon one to lead the Yankees to a 15 to 6 victory for their third straight over the Cleveland Indians today.

Australia's Ferrier Paces Field In Big Chicago Open Meet

By EARL HILLIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, July 19.—A husky star from "down under"—big Jim Ferrier of Australia—threw the heaviest punch today as a surprisingly strong amateur contingent gave the professionals a rousing battle in the opening round of the $5,000 Chicago Open golf championship.

Ferrier, who writes for a Sydney newspaper, went around Tam O'Shanter's tree-lined layout in 66 strokes, six under par—a brilliant performance in a day which saw eight amateurs fight their way into the par or under bracket as numerous professionals slipped over regulation figures.

Others Near Top

Holder of the Australian Open and amateur titles Ferrier turned in nines of 34-32. With a putter red-hot, the Australian clipped regulation figures by dropping putts of from 10 to 45 feet.

A stroke off the pace was Johnny Revolta, veteran professional from Evanston, Ill., who went out in 32 and came home in 35 for a five under par 67. Willie Turnesa, former National amateur champion from Elmsford, N. Y., had identical nines of 34 for a 68 which tied the effort of Dick Metz, Chicago professional, while three other pros tied at 69—Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., and Ralph Guldahl and Johnny Bulla of Chicago.

Lawson Little, the National Open champion, had a 73, as did Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, two of the brightest stars of the game's professional camp. Gene Sarazen, who tied Little for the Open crown at Cleveland and then lost in a playoff, came in with a 74, as did such veteran performers as Horton Smith and Harry Cooper.

Semi-Pros Get Ready

Amarillo Will Enter Squad

Amarillo's entry in the promising Lubbock Invitation Semi-Pro tournament, which gets underway at Fox Park at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, was received last night.

In a "telephone entry," Manager Smoky Harris told sponsors of the event here that he and his players had decided to seek a share of the $85 in cash awards and individual prizes which will be presented.

Deadline for entries is noon today. Teams desiring to enter should contact Clarence Fox either at phone No. 9629 or 4019-J.

Ten or 12 teams are assured for the fast week-long event.

Englemen Batter Midland, 23-0 In Final Tilt

It was a good game for those fans who like to see the home nine stomp the living daylights out of the opposition. That was what the Hubbers did last night to Midland in closing out their home stay of eight games with a 23 to 0 victory over the Cowboys.

Long Pat Ralsh pitched a skillful six-hitter while his mates couldn't make a mistake afield or at bat. The Hubbers had only four men stranded on the bases. In fashioning the victory the home nine slapped out three home runs, three triples and four doubles. It was the seventh victory out of eight games in the current stand.

Lucas Puts Out Fire

Skipper Sammy Hale of the cowboys simply did not have any pitchers. Outside of the glaring mound weakness the Midland nine stacks up well with any in the league.

Last night, Hale started Lefty Kanagy who got one out in the first inning while allowing three runs on one hit, three walks and a wild pitch. Janowski, a tall right hander, had little better luck if any in allowing nine runs on five hits in two and one-third frames. Then came Patrick, another right hander, who allowed nine runs on ten hits in two and a third innings. Finally, Lefty Ray Lucas, who pitched Wednesday night, came in and put out the Hubber fire after the fifth. He blanked the home nine with one blow in three innings.

Everybody Hits

There were no hitting heroes for the home nine last night. Watkins iced the game in the first with a single which found the bases loaded. Then he made it sure with a home run over the scoreboard in the second with two on. Castino and Schlereth also had homers. Hajduk.

Loboes Annex 6 To 5 Tenth Inning Finale From Odessa Squad

(Special To The Avalanche)

ODESSA, July 19—Lamesa's revived Loboes, back in the running after a temporary lapse that dropped them from the first division chase, tonight took another thrill-soaked game from Odessa, shoving in the winning tally in the tenth frame to take the series finale, 6 to 5.

In contrast to Thursday's close contest, tonight's session was one of constant hitting, Lamesa jumping three Oiler moundsmen for 12 bingles while Odessa collected one more off two winning pitchers.

Marshall Brown, Red Hood, each with two hits and Pitcher John Tysko with three for four led the plate parade.

Broadview Golfers To Play Lamesa Sunday

A "call to arms" has been issued by Sled Allen, manager of Broadview golf course.

All Broadview golfers are urged to contact Allen today and make arrangements for participation in Sunday's inter-city contests with a Lamesa delegation which has accepted an invitation to invade the city for a test with the best the course has to offer in the way of links competition.

Approximately 20 Dawson county linksmen will be on hand tomorrow, Allen said, and suitable opponents are needed. The matches will get under way at 2 o'clock and any Broadview golfer is eligible to participate.

The Lubbock group has fared quite well thus far in inter-city competition dividing a series with Tahoka.

Fight Scrap Cleared Up---Rematch Is Arranged And Mead Suspended

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 19. — The state athletic commission cleared the way today for Henry Armstrong and Lew Jenkins to get paid for their fight Wednesday night and Promoter Mike Jacobs immediately announced plans for a return match between the two in Madison Square Garden Sept. 27.

The commission, which had held up the fighters' purses without giving any reason yesterday, cleared up the "mystery," and then soothed its ruffled dignity by pinning a 60-day suspension on Eddie Mead, Armstrong's manager, for an unimportant row over hand bandages a few minutes before Wednesday's bout started.

The commissioners explained that they held the purses only because they wanted Welterweight Boss Armstrong and Lightweight Champion Jenkins to post forfeits of $2,000 and $1,500 respectively to make the next defenses of their titles in this state. Promoter Jacobs immediately returned to his office and mailed the forfeit money to the fistic fathers. The commissioners after weighty thought, decided Armstrong must fight for his 147-pound crown "on or about" October 26 and Jenkins must put his lightweight title up around November 11.

Both fighters agreed to a re-play of Wednesday's fight in which Armstrong stopped the Texas thin man in a six-round thriller. Conditions would be the same—12 rounds, non-title, with both coming in under 140 pounds. Before the return, however, each probably will have one or more tune-ups. Jenkins may meet Bob Montgomery, highly touted negro youngster, in Philadelphia within 30 days, and Armstrong may take on Mike Kaplin in Boston or Fritzie Zivic, the Pittsburgher. Another suggested opponent for Jenkins was Dave Castilloux, the Canadian champion, and Mead said he might put Armstrong in against Red Cochrane in Newark.

The commission also got itself straightened out on Jenkins' managerial situation by issuing a manager's license to Fred Browning of Dallas, thereby making him responsible for all contractural obligations for the lightweight ruler. Up to now, there has been no "manager of record" for Jenkins listed with the commission, although Hymie Caplin has been handling him here. Browning explained that Chaplin is still the co-manager.

Gassers Take Finale From Oilers, 10-5

BORGER, July 19. (Special) — Borger's Gassers took the "sugar" game of the series here tonight, drubbing the loop leading Oilers in the windup, 10 to 5, in the second successive hitting marathon.

Jerry Soule and Ben Franklin went over the route for the winners, allowing 10 safeties that didn't do a lot of damage, while the Gassers were jumping McPartland for 14 base blows, scoring seven times in the initial two stanzas.

Stephens Red Sox Top Softball Card; Three Games On Tonight

Stephen's Red Sox stole the show at Fox Park last night. They swamped Levine's Bluebonnets 19-3 in a five inning exhibition. Citizen's won the only league game played from Home Lumber 15-12. Neither Robinson's Grocery nor Dalby could put ten men on the field for the finale.

Paducah was scheduled to send a girl's all-star ten to compete with the undefeated Sox but cancelled the game late Friday afternoon.

Pitching, Fielding Tops

The week's softball schedule will be wound up tonight with another triple header scheduled. Two top notch Class A games one Class B tilt are on the card.

In the curtain raiser at 7 o'clock, Corcorran's and Home Lumber will meet. The middle tussle sends the strong Central Labor crew against Lubbock Poultry and Egg, the night cap featuring the Good Eats and Southwest Products.

Highlights of the all girls contest reeled off as the eight o'clock feature were the pitching of May and fielding of T. Woodson.

Wild In Third

May struck out eight batters in the allotted five frames. She also hit for the circuit in the big third inning with two aboard. Stephen's scored fourteen times in the third as twenty batters went to the plate.

This girl Woodson fields and throws like some of the better softballers among the city leaguers. She clouted a homer and two singles in five times at bat.

New Foreign Policy, Expected To Please Axis Powers, Formed By Japanese

Long Parley Is Held By Heads

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, July 19. — A new and sharper Japanese foreign policy, one expected to lead to closer association with the Rome-Berlin Axis, was formulated today by the inner government of the new totalitarian-type regime of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye.

Prince Konoye declined details of a long conference of cabinet leaders but those closely watching the effects of Europe's war in the Far East held it certain that Japan, before taking any expansionist action, first would seek an understanding with Germany.

This was held to be particularly true of French Indo-China and the Netherlands East Indies.

U. S. Is Distant

(In German-occupied Amsterdam, a German spokesman declared that mistreatment of Germans in Dutch East and West Indies "obliged" Germany, with "regret" to act in reprisal.)

Konoye said today's conference touched on relations with the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia and that "complete agreement was reached."

This statement followed the assertion of Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, that Japan wanted more friendly relations with the United States but would not be diplomatically humble to get them.

tion and persuasion at present, but planned to use force if necessary, when the party obtained more power, to insure these privileges for negroes.

Enfranchisement would be sought through abolition of the poll tax, passage of necessary legislation, and repeal of all Jim Crow laws, he said.

Communists In Control

Bertholon, a former student at Los Angeles junior college, declared students with Communistic leanings had won control of the student government and that some professors had cooperated with the Young Communist league.

He charged league officers condoned and encouraged loose morals.

Sheriff Fox the "Bald Eagle of the Border," testified concerning Communist activity along the border brush country.

He said El Paso was designated the liaison point between Communists in Mexico and the United States. Down the length of the Rio Grande, he said, persons of Mexican extraction were recruited into membership, on the promise of equality with Americans and that land taken by the United States from Mexico, such as Texas and New Mexico, would be returned to them.

He described a former Mexican consul at El Paso as the "ringleader."

Three party organizers in the border city held similar positions in the Congress of Industrial Organization, Fox said.

At the conclusion of his testimony, it was learned additional witnesses from El Paso would be heard.

is to be taken up with President Roosevelt on Aug. 1 by a committee under the leadership of Ed Flynn, Democratic leader of the Bronx, N. Y. It was understood, meanwhile, that Mr. Roosevelt desired Frank Walker, former Democratic party treasurer, to take the party chairmanship, but his acceptance was uncertain.

He Pledges Support

Pledging his support to the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket, Farley issued a formal statement expressing appreciation for "happy associations" with Democrats all over the country.

"I have remained in public life at great financial sacrifice because I love politics," he said. "I have had an opportunity now to accept an attractive offer in business and in justice to my family, because of my financial situation, I am going to accept.

"Before leaving, I shall cooperate to the fullest extent with my successor as national chairman in setting up the machinery for the coming campaign. I have said repeatedly that the American people want the Democratic party to remain in power. My opinion has not changed, and again I pledge my full support to the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket."

fish mortality in the upper Laguna Madre," Wood said. "My appeal was accompanied by photographs. He never replied to that communication and yet this week's issue of the O'Daniel News prints a picture of last summer's fish loss in the Laguna and berates the commission for negligence. He is trying to conceal his own neglect by casting blame on a department that has done its duty more conscientiously than has the governor."

Questions Are Fired

The governor had recommended, Wood asserted, "that those who hunt in more than one county should be required to pay a $10 annual hunting license fee" and he "even attempted to veto the provisions for this department's expenditure of cooperating federal funds."

Regarding a merit system for hiring state workers, Wood asked: "Does the governor know that the commission does not interfere with the selection of the department's employes; that these men were being selected through examination on the basis of their qualification long before he was governor of Texas? The majority of men employed during the last few years have been college graduates, educated at their own expense, for careers in the field of wildlife management."

U. S. PARACHUTISTS TO TRAIN LIKE THIS—This "parachute tower" at Hightstown, N. J., is to be used soon to train an experimental U. S. Army unit from Fort Dix as parachutists, the War department has announced. The troops are to be trained in a manner similar to that of the Russian and German parachute troops, it was indicated.

Brief Bits Of Local News

Vaughn Junior quartet of Lubbock will appear Sunday afternoon at a monthly sing-song in the Abernathy Baptist church. Mrs. J. Brad Seale is chairman of the meeting, which starts at 2:15 o'clock in the afternoon.

O. W. Richardson of Lubbock, division of agriculture graduate at Texas Technological college, has been elected vocational agriculture teacher at Patton Springs. He has moved there with his wife and is in charge. Richardson succeeds Manuel Ayer, also a Tech graduate, who moved to Hale Center.

C. C. Jobson, county Farm agent, will attend a meeting in Hale Center Aug. 8 to discuss wheat improvement work. Members of the land use planning committee are to attend.

Fourteen-year-old Lottie Margaret Atkinson, who was injured in an automobile accident June 10, has not regained consciousness since the accident, friends said here Friday. The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Atkinson of 2201 Fourteenth street, is in Baylor county hospital in Seymour. Doctors do not regard her condition as critical, friends said.

Candidates will speak beginning at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Idalou, announced W. A. Fincher, candidates' secretary.

A revival being conducted by the Church of Christ at Eighth street and Avenue T is being continued, and large crowds are attending. Services at night are in the open beside the church. Evangelist Roy E. Cogdill of Dallas will speak tonight on "The Illegalities in the Trial of Christ." There will be no morning service today.

Edgar G. Lewis, lay leader, will be in charge of the Sunday morning service at 11 o'clock at St. Paul's Episcopal church, 2407 Sixteenth street, it was announced Friday. Rev. John A. Winslow is pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Stephenson of 1513-B Avenue K, are the parents of a daughter born at 3:20 o'clock Friday morning. She has been named Brenda Jane. The father is an accountant.

William C. Alder, senior state highway patrol officer in the Lubbock district, was acting captain Friday during the absence of Capt. W. W. Legge and Sgt. C. E. Tabor.

Lubbock county Republicans will select their delegates to the county convention the first Saturday in August at precinct elections next Saturday, Mrs. Wright Kerr, county chairman, announced. Precinct leaders will announce their place of meetings.

Wheat harvest is over in Crosby county except for a few isolated fields of late wheat and out of Crosbyton more will be shipped than had been expected, said O. B. Hefner, with the Crosby County Grain & Elevator Co., who was in Lubbock from Crosbyton Friday. He predicted approximately 160 cars of wheat would be shipped from Crosbyton, more than 110 having already been sent out. The government loan will get 95 per cent of the wheat, estimated. Dry land wheat has averaged 12 to 14 bushels per acre, with one yield of 35 bushels reported by Percy Lamar.

By early August postoffice authorities in Washington are expected by Postmaster Amos Howard to act on an application to extend city mail delivery to 30 blocks more in Lubbock.

H. R. Wren of near Lubbock was given treatment Friday in West Texas hospital for injuries to the middle finger of his left hand, caught in a fan. He received a compound fracture.

Forty absentee ballots for the July 27 Democratic primary, sent persons now away from Lubbock, had been returned to Ed. D. Allen, county clerk, Friday. An additional 188 persons had voted in the office and 181 other ballots had been placed in the mail. Wednesday is final day for absentee voting.

Rev. W. E. Peterson went to Seminole Friday to begin a 10-day revival service in the Methodist church, of which Rev. Aubrey Ashley is pastor. Meeting closes July 28. Mr. Peterson is pastor of Asbury Methodist church.

Roy Wingate, Brownfield contractor, has been awarded the contract to build a filling station there, on a lot owned by Dr. M. E. Jacobson. Cost was estimated at $4,850 by Haynes and Strange, architects.

Marion D. Johnson was sentenced to five days in jail Friday after he pleaded guilty to liquor law violation, in county court. He will pay court costs of $20.75.

It "warmed up" to 102 degrees Friday afternoon, according to records of the main line station of West Texas Gas company. The mercury had receded only to 95 degrees at 7 o'clock. Showers were forecast for some parts of the South Plains today and Sunday.

A charter was granted Friday at Austin to Independent Cleaners, Inc., of Lubbock, the Associated Press reported. Katie Scarbrough, Rufus Scarbrough and R. Irvin Scarbrough were incorporators for the company, which listed $10,000 capital stock.

Schlereth and Schweda had triples. Doubles were registered by Drake, Nedziela and Watkins. Only Elvin Mahan, shortstop, who has recently fallen into a batting slump similar to his early season doldrums, failed to get a hit.

Return July 29

Tonight in Amarillo five of the Hubbers will be on the side of the Southern nine in the annual all-star game. Ed Schweda, Steve Niedziela, Ben Drake, Vince Castino and Gene Stack are the local representatives on dream team. Following that contest, the Engle nine will open a stand at Clovis with a double-header Sunday. They will return home July 29 for a two-game series with Odessa, now without the colorful leadership of Tony Rego.

Bimelech Bids Today For 3-Year-Old Title

CHICAGO, July 19. (AP)—Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, winner of the Preakness and Belmont Stakes, will bid for the three-year-old championship in the $50,000 Arlington Classic tomorrow when he makes his debut before Chicago turf fans.

Bimelech, also first in four of six starts this season, is the probable favorite at even money in the field of six choice three-year-olds.

Hitler Makes "Last Offer"

peace before it is too late.

Confidence Indicated

Hitler's every word, every gesture suggested the supremest confidence as he warned Prime Minister Churchill that if he insists on a fight to the finish "I prophesy destruction of a great empire, an empire it was never my intention to destroy or even harm."

With a stab of his hand Hitler swept back the lock of hair which regularly falls over his forehead, and continued:

"Possibly Mr. Churchill will again brush aside this statement of mine by saying it is merely born of fear and doubt in our final victory.

"In that case I shall have relieved my conscience in regard to things to come. . . ."

Hitler warned the people of Great Britain that their leaders "probably have no real conception of what it will mean, once the German offensive begins in earnest against the British Isles."

Conscientious Appeal

However, Hitler said his conscience made him appeal once more for common sense.

Referring to Britain's air war against German munitions centers and other strategic points, Hitler said:

"A short time ago Churchill began to bomb the civilian population in Germany.

"I have thus far hardly answered this bombardment. But when my answer comes it will be terrible for millions of people.

"Churchill should for once believe me; a great world empire then will be destroyed. And this war will not be ended before one of the two combatants is down and out. Churchill may think it will be we who will be down and out.

Prophecy Is Made

"But I will make a prophecy, just by way of exception: I know that destruction of England will be the end of further struggle . . . my conscience compels me to appeal once more to England's common-sense. I am not doing that as a defeated man but as a victor."

Briefly touching on Russo-German relations, Hitler declared these had been "fixed once and for all by a clear delimitation of spheres of interests," and that British efforts to lure Moscow into an anti-German front were not only futile but foolish.

Victory in this war, Hitler also asserted, will be a victory for both Italy and Germany, and "the wrongs of both will be righted."

Italy, the Fuehrer said, had entered the war entirely of her own accord without any pressure from Germany.

Hopelessness Realized

This action, however, had helped to make the French realize more speedily the hopelessness of further resistance. And, once Italy was in the war, Italo-German military and political cooperation was complete, "and the end of it all will be a joint victory."

Arriving today from Rome, Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister and son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, occupied a place of honor in the front row of the diplomatic corps box.

Ciano will discuss Axis problems with German officials tomorrow.

All the bloodshed of the past 10 months could have been avoided, Hitler said, for it was not Germany who wanted war. The Great aim of the Nazi movement, he explained, was simply to "strike off the shackles of Versailles," and it would have been possible to achieve this aim peacefully.

Sign Of Weakness?

His pre-war policy in pursuit of this aim, he said, was two-fold: "real friendship with Italy and a similar relationship with England."

At Munich, in September 1938, it even seemed as though this peaceful revision actually would be realized, he told his uniformed audience.

It was a time when, "thanks to growing common sense, it appeared as though international cooperation might lead to peaceful solution of the remaining problems. But the agreement to this end, signed in Munich on Sept. 29, 1938, by the four leading interested states, was not only not welcomed in London and Paris but was actually condemned as a sign of abominable weakness."

Charley Grimm Offers Services To Chicubs

CHICAGO, July 19. (AP)—Charley Grimm, former first baseman and manager of the Chicago Cubs, offered to come to the aid of the club today.

Grimm's offer to play (he said he was serious) came when the Cubs found themselves without a first baseman. An examination of Phil Cavarretta's injured right foot revealed he had suffered a fracture and will be out of the lineup indefinitely. Glen Russell is recovering from a recent appendectomy. Hank Lieber, an outfielder, took over the position.

TENDERS RESIGNATION

BEAUMONT, July 19. (AP)—Barney Clark, youthful golf professional at Beaumont Country club for the past three years, today tendered his resignation effective August 1.

Clark, host professional to the recent Texas PGA tournament, came to Beaumont in 1938 after serving as assistant to Jimmy Demaret at Brae Burn, Houston.

TENNIS STAR DIVORCED

RENO, Nev., July 19. (AP)—Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fayban, prominent tennis star, and socially prominent Marshal Fayban, jr., of Boston and Manchester, Mass., were divorced in district court here today by Judge William McKnight.

Boy Thinks Rescuer Must Be God; He Is Saved From Fall

PATERSON, N. J., July 19. (UP)—The first words of Emil Degyn, 13, when he felt powerful arms encircle his waist and save him from certain death, were: "You must be God."

The boy slipped off the edge of Garrett mountain yesterday and slid down the side of a 300-foot drop. His fingertips grasped a ledge 150 feet from the bottom.

He dug in his toes and hung on until his fingertips bled. Radio Patrolman William Ludwig, who was lowered from the top of the plateau by two other policemen, snatched the boy from his perch.

Pup, 7 Weeks Old, Breaks All Precedent

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 19. (AP)—A tiny, seven weeks old bulldog fell to a bridge roadway today from a moving automobile, dropped 80 feet into the middle of the Ohio river, paddled weakly as the current carried it a thousand feet and lived—to break a precedent.

United States Coast Guardsman Harry Lafever said that in the experience of the guard station here the dog, Trixie, was "the only living thing that ever fell or jumped off the Municipal bridge and lived."

Carpenter Given Job Of Recruiting Labor

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—The task of directing activities of the employment service in recruiting labor for the national defense program was given today to Martin F. Carpenter, former director of the Indiana state employment service.

Carpenter's appointment as chief of the social security board's employment service division was announced by Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator.

He succeeds Byron Mitchell, who has been on leave from his position as director of the Texas Employment service.

Slaughtering Hogs Will Show Decline

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—The agriculture department today estimated the supply of hogs for slaughter in the 1940-41 marketing season would be about 10 per cent smaller than the 48,000,000 head slaughtered this year.

It said also that slaughter supplies of cattle probably would be smaller than the current year, but that the supply of sheep and lambs would be slightly larger.

Delegates Awaiting Hull's Secret Plans

HAVANA, July 19. (AP)—Delegates to the Pan-American defense consultations opening Sunday divided their attention between reports of United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull's "secret" conference plans and Argentina's apparent coldness toward any commitments which might affect her European relations.

Washington reports indicated Hull already had formulated attitudes on such problems as the status of American colonies of invaded European nations, fifth column activity, and broad questions of economic and political security.

Hull is due to arrive tomorrow morning.

Seven Killed In Collision

SAN FERNANDO, Calif., July 19. (AP)—A father and six of his seven children were killed today, police reported, in a headon collision between two trucks.

The crash occurred shortly after Clarence Yount, 29, and his family had left Los Angeles on a fishing trip.

Dead with him were Betty Yount, 12, Jacqueline, 10, Robert, 8, Donald, 7, Marie, 6, and Shirley May, 5.

Still More Appeasement

IT WOULD seem that all intelligent people would be convinced by now of the utter futility of attempting to appease totalitarian powers. They should know from sad experience that the dictatorship which gains a point today will remain "appeased" only until it wants something more.

Therefore, it is difficult to understand what Great Britain may hope to gain from closing the Burma Road into China, as demanded by Japan.

The Burma road is one which drifts southward from the deep interior of China. By American standards it is about the sorriest kind of a road that can be imagined. But it has been the only route over which the Chinese armies have received the materials with which to continue fighting the Japanese. With the closing of the Burma route, the isolation of the Chinese forces becomes complete.

Japan obviously has wanted the road closed. Quite obviously, the British have agreed to close it in attempted momentary appeasement of the Japanese. Perhaps the Japs may become "appeased" for awhile. But the price may prove a terrific one for the British to pay.

At the outset, they have incurred the bitter resentment of the Chinese government. That might not amount to much if the Japs should succeed in a complete and permanent conquest of China. But suppose the Chinese eventually win? Suppose China then experiences an awakening such as that which began in Japan less than a century ago? In such case, Britain's position in the Far East may become an unhappy one, indeed.

Also at the outset, Great Britain has succeeded once more in rubbing Uncle Sam the wrong way. Sympathies of the people of this nation are with the Chinese, and the contention of our government is that it has the right of continued trade with China. Our protest of the closing of the Burma Road already is a matter of emphatic record.

Furthermore, Britain has gained precious little from Japan. Britain still controls immensely rich possessions and concessions in the Far East which the Japs want. They wanted them before the Burma Road was closed. They want them now. They will keep on wanting them until they get them, or until their ambitions have been crushed by a greater force than their own. Japan doubtless would have seized them already if it were not for fear of Uncle Sam, because the United States is the only nation on earth now in position to stop her.

Best evidence is that Britain may have made a tremendous sacrifice of the kind of things that endure for a temporary transient gain. The possibility is that in closing the road to Burma, Great Britain may have opened another highway on which the empire may be traveling toward disintegration.

Back To Grasses Again

THE entire nation has a vital interest in the success of efforts discussed at the recent Western Grassland conference in Salt Lake City, Utah, to restore native grasses to many millions of acres which once were the "range country" of the United States.

There was a time when that country supported millions of head of buffalo. The most immense cattle industry the world has seen followed them. The larger portion of it still is good land, used for agricultural or ranching purposes. But, as every person familiar with the West knows, millions of acres of land on which buffalo, cattle and sheep thrived no longer will support a grasshopper.

The only vegetation which ever has thrived enduringly on those lands has been the native grasses. Without the grasses they became a desert which still is spreading at an alarming rate.

With the grasses, the acres were a source of tremendous wealth. Without them, they are worthless. The answer to that problem is obvious. Put the grasses back. The task will be arduous and the expense great, but the job is well worthwhile.

YESTERDAY: The conductor and the policeman believe Rhoda and Carole when they explain why Denny is taking Peace west. Mrs. King interrupts her kidnaper hunt to become interested in Mr. Ogden, a Texas oil man. When the train reaches Kansas City, Peace has disappeared again.

CHAPTER VIII

Denny hurried through the fast-filling aisles of the three cars between his reservations and the observation car. The train had stopped and people were making for the exits, eager for the few minutes' breather. Peace should have found her postcard and be coming back, but she wasn't.

"Seen the youngster?" he asked Carole, who was on her way out.

She shook her head. "Seems to me she skipped through a minute ago. Maybe she's in the ladies' room. I'll get the stewardess."

Denny sent a porter to search up ahead, and meanwhile he questioned everybody he met. Caleb Ogden was with Mrs. King, he knew, on the rear platform, unless they had got off. Anyway, Peace wasn't with them. She would have been obliged to pass him.

"She's not in there," Carole finally told him, escaping a voluable stewardess, who agreed to join the search. "More than likely she is off the train. After all, she can't be far."

"Oh, can't she!" Denny said grimly. "And all the little girls will be wearing—what did she have on today?"

"Blue," Carole said, as they got off. "She's no doubt asking for ant eggs at the soda fountain." They hurried upstairs to the station. "She's not in sight here."

"You go right and I'll go left." Denny took it for granted she would help him. Just then they both spied Rhoda near the bookshop, and called to her.

"She isn't in the waiting room," Rhoda said. "That child can be the biggest nuisance. Denny, why did you let her out of your sight? Now if she's lost, we are in for—"

He waited to hear no more, but tore off to the street door nearest him. A vast relief flooded him that she hadn't had time to get very far. Peace had utterly vanished. Nothing chicory blue was in sight, in any direction. He had no wish to repeat his Boston error, and was thankful he had asked about Peace's dress. He ran back into the station, hurried through crowds to the train gate.

A porter came panting up. "Lord, suh, that chile ain' nowhere. Ah done search the whole train, baggage cyar an' all."

Denny bumped into Mrs. King, who'd heard the news and was doing her bit with Carole. "He's disposed of her! I was right, I tell you!" he heard her hiss. "Wait till I tell Mr. Ogden!"

Helter-skelter, flying around in circles. Some passengers were already going back to the train. Denny raced down to the platform. He'd do what he should have done in the first place—find the conductor and put it up to him to hold the train. But first he'd take another look. There was just a chance she'd fallen asleep in one of the seats and been overlooked.

He was passing by the compartments when he heard a shrill childish laugh. "Peace!!! Honey, where are you?" He pounded on the nearest closed door, stuck his head in the open ones. "Peace!" He tried the door of a drawing room. Locked! He shook it and pounded again. "Peace!"

"—I am, Uncle Denny!" The door was unlocked, and Denny thought he'd never seen a guiltier looking pair. He snatched the child, feeling his temper rise.

"Gosh, I didn't know that door was locked," Ogden said. "She must have turned the key. Come," he gestured toward the wash bowl, "see our turtle pond. The baby and I were just giving Darby and Joany a bath."

"Mr. Hogden's gonna buy me a goldfish to teach my turtles how to swim better." Peace beamed.

Denny didn't know whether to knock the man down or believe it. He seemed so inoffensive and apologetic about the whole thing—well, Peace wouldn't get away again.

"Gosh, I'm awful sorry about this—you must have been anxious. I meant to get off at Kansas City myself, but when I came back to my stateroom and found the kid, well, I got fascinated with the turtle's aquarium, I guess. Suppose there's time to mail some letters before the train—?"

"All abo-o-o-o-oard!"

Denny heard the conductor's cry. Heavens, Rhoda and Carole would be frantic! He yanked Peace down the steps and waved to Carole, stiff on the platform. "Okay! Here she is. Where's Rhoda?"

Rhoda was in her seat, quietly weeping, when they bustled up. "I can't stand much more of this. If you don't spank her, I will."

Denny explained how she'd just been playing with her turtles. "She minded me and didn't get off the train." Later he whispered to Peace to ask if she really locked the door.

"What door?" the child wanted to know, and Denny boiled. He noticed the turtles had been transferred to a small box, punctured with air holes and tied with a string. "Doesn't hurt their toes," Peace explained. "I like Mr. Hogden. He's gonna buy me a goldfish and a big glass bowl, when we get to Lost Angeles." She must never, never go into that drawing room again, unless he or Aunt Rhoda or Carole went too, he told her.

"The trip's only two-thirds over and I'm a nervous wreck," Rhoda said. "Why, I didn't even see the peace monument Bertrand told me to look at."

"Was it named after me?" Peace asked. Their laughter broke the tension.

Caleb Ogden approached their seat. "Join Mrs. King and me in bridge? We can have a nice quiet game in my compartment, and you can keep an eye on this young lady while she gives Darb and Joany another swim."

Denny hoped Rhoda would refuse, but she jumped at it. "A bit of sunshine on a dull day. Come on, Denny." To play cards with a man whom he'd like to throttle (but maybe he was wrong) and a woman who'd insulted him all the way from Boston, wasn't his idea of bliss. But if Rhoda would get over her gloom it would be worth it. Perhaps he'd get a line on Ogden.

Mrs. King apparently did—hook, line, and sinker. She devoured Caleb's pep talk about his rich oil wells, and broke up the game to look at his pictures. Oh, well, this was her funeral. Denny was thankful to escape.

Sixteen hours of comparative peace, through beautiful country, and the train sped on to Albuquerque. Ogden and Mrs. King had been constantly in each other's company. Carole Love had kept to herself. Denny scarcely had a word with her, none alone.

He kept trying not to think of the odd mishap which had made him propose to Rhoda. On the way home from the Currys party last winter, his car had broken down in a snowstorm. Never would he forget Aunt Tilly's resentment when he and Rhoda finally reached her house at 4 in the morning. "My aunt is old-fashioned about such things." Rhoda had said. The engagement followed, and now, having met a girl like Carole, Denny closed his mind to wondering.

The picturesque station came into view. Gaily blanketed Indians were waiting to show their pottery and baskets.

"This time, I'll hang on to her." Rhoda announced, squeezing Peace's hand. "No more scenes. You'll do as I say, Peace Warren."

But as the train stopped, a messenger paged Miss Rhoda Lowell, handing her a telegram.

"Bad news?" Denny asked remembering Aunt Tilly's weak heart.

"From Bertrand," Rhoda smiled, and stuck it into her purse without another word.

Quicksilver Found By Odessa Sheriff

ODESSA, July 19. (AP)—Sheriff Reeder Webb said today he had recovered five thermos jugs containing quicksilver valued at $1,700 and believed to have been stolen from meters of various West Texas oil wells.

Jeff Lee of Monahans, charged with theft of quicksilver from oil well meters, was free today on $1,000 bond waived examining trial.

Attorney J. T. Kelly said that W. B. Dunham of Monohans and Erwin Box of Odessa, charged with theft of quicksilver, also will waive examining trials.

To encourage modern agricultural methods, Bolivia held a farm equipment exposition in La Paz this year, and a large part of the exhibits comprised equipment which had been purchased in the United States by the Government for resale to farmers.

The News Behind The News

BY RAY TUCKER

THE Democratic delegates to the Chicago convention wanted Franklin D. Roosevelt to run again for the simple reason that they think he can carry their local and state tickets to victory—a purely selfish motive—but they pledge their heart's blood to "Big Jim" Farley.

Mr. Farley, although disgraced and discredited by the conventon maneuverings of Harry Hopkins, the President's 1940 generalissimo, managed to preserve his good temper. His press conferences, at which he has been asked the most embarrassing questions, have been operatic.

In sheer skill they match the press performances of the President in the early days of the New Deal and of Republican Nominee Willkie since the finger of fate pointed at him.

Jim, luckily, wants nothing from the Democratic party. If any debt exists, it is in his favor. He has, out of his love and admiration for the President, helped to elect him twice with unprecedented popular and electoral majorities. But in the last four years he has been cast aside by the President for his janizaries—the Hopkins', the Ickes', the Cohens and the Coreorans. Jim took this side-tracking with a smile. He figured that FDR would eventually recover his political sense.

TOPS: In an exclusive interview with this writer, Jim said: "Listen, Ray. I will quit as national chairman for several reasons. But the main reason will be that I told the newspaper crowd at Washington three months ago that my name would go before the convention, and stay there until the finish.

"The newspapermen have never let me down in my political career of 20 years, and I don't intend to let them down now. In letting my name go and stay before the convention, I wasn't fighting the President. I was keeping faith with my friends inside and outside the press and political gallery."

Nobody except Jim commands the love and respect of the run-of-mine, professional Democrats. The President has their admiration, yes, but his appeal to their affections does not begin to equal Mr. Farley's. In the matter—or contest—of humanities "Big Jim" is tops even over the President—or any other Democrat.

THERE were enough delegations supposed to be solid for Roosevelt which had in them thinkers of quite other ideas to make anything possible. The first on the list was Alabama, and Arkansas was not even faintly secretive as to how their people felt. Virginia seemed ready to shoot the works in any good rebel cause.

Talk of the war was scarce enough to seem almost a conspiracy. Digging under, the answer seemed to be that most delegates are bored and scared with, and at, the topic. They can't see what we'd be fighting for, and they think that, like the smallpox, the European quarrels had best be kept away from.

One of the speakers boasted of the "more than 70 nations which have contributed to building the metropolis that is Chicago". A quick poll of newsmen who stem from other than Anglo-Saxon stock showed sharply that this nation, in their opinions, is headed for a nasty internal mess if we give the administration its head in "fighting British battles". Never has it been clearer than these men seemed to make it that this is not an Anglo-Saxon nation—except in speech. That was a curious undertone to find in a convention supposed to forward the plans of the hottest anglo-phile who has ever sat in the White House.

A William Jennings Bryan could make an anti-militarist speech that would bring his nomination with the crash of plots and strategems. With the uprising might come a purging of the international war group that would be savage beyond any present belief. Perhaps their necks are out pretty far—as the conservatives among them have long maintained.

MENACE: Revolt simmered beneath the surface of the Chicago gathering. Far-sighted policies such as those which the Urban League of New York has developed might curb symptoms to the vanishing point.

As a heritage of the War between the States, there is no color line at conventions, where the pursuit of votes subordinates the pursuit of happiness. Tables of delegates, of European and African stocks, are no novelty. But there is a psychological stiffness on both sides—a self-conscious friendliness that rarely fades except with the aid of alcohol. So artificial a bonhomie carries with it the seeds of trouble.

Deep within the nation Fascism is an endured monster in the thinking of countless people—notably among those of our Navy and Army services. To pity and, presently, to embrace, is within the span of logical events. With some 13 million Americans of equatorial-tinted skins demanding—and increasingly accorded—full recognition in our Democracy, the issue of bloc power booms as a potential menace. Its threatening head is well above the surface in this convention gathering.

DEMOCRACY: Transportation to and from the hall left something to be desired—especially the latter. Delegates and newsmen think they must have taxis. It's a free-for-all as to who gets the few in sight. So the plain citizens, with never a thumb pointed at them, pick up the cut-o'-lucks and drop them wherever they want to go—with as democratic a spirit as that of Jim Farley himself.

The national defense budget can hardly be referred to as radio numbers because it isn't likely the announcer would have that much time to decipher them.

As if war didn't hold enough terror, it is now reported that women engaged in war work for the English government are taking on weight.

Biggest complaint fifth columnists have against America is that Uncle Sam just won't listen to treason.

Now we have venetian blinds introduced in automobiles to prevent glare through the rear windshield. Lace curtains and a picket fence around the running board can be expected momentarily.

One can marvel at the traffic control effected by the Nazis to keep their mechanized columns rolling so fast, especially after a Sunday afternoon on a U. S. highway.

Here And There In Texas

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
Associated Press Staff Writer

TRAVELERS turning off the road to enter Ottine, a 12-family community near Gonzales, are likely to pause and visit Berthold Zedler, a 75-year old rugged individualist.

For if they've stopped a moment on their journeys through that sector, they probably have heard of him. Zedler's enterprises take in just about everything in the tiny town except the general store and cold drink places.

Through power generated by the San Marcos river, Zedler operates a cotton gin, sawmill, grist mill, water plant, light plant, sorghum and peanut threasher, and concrete mixer.

He lives on what the townfolk call "Zedler Avenue, the widest main street in Texas." The 190-foot wide street runs to Zedler's mill, turns for a block and then becomes a country road.

The Zedler mill hangs on a bluff 80 feet above the river. Thirty years ago Zedler looked off that bluff and decided he could dam the water for power.

Business Picked Up

A dam of sorts already was there, but Zedler ripped it out and flung a 12-foot dam of concrete across the swift stream. Then he rigged up his water wheel at the edge.

He strung a belt-like steel cable from this to another wheel installed at the bluff's top, which whirled at top speed.

At that time — 1910 — the area around Ottine was heavily wooded and lumber was a thriving industry.

Walnut timber was shipped out in carlots and there were oak, elm, cottonwood and sycamore trees.

Zedler put in a sawmill and soon was doing a thriving business.

Farmers in the neighborhood had corn to grind into meal and Zedler added a grist mill.

"I JUST kept on adding things as the need for them came along," Zedler said. "Folks around here got tired of lamps and lanterns. I figured that river had power to spare and rigged up the light plant."

His customers pay a flat $1.75 a month, no matter how much current they use.

"What difference does it make?" asks Zedler. "River keeps on turning. There's power to burn."

His is philosophical about his power company's future.

"I serve everybody in town—all 12 families. My customers are solid."

Modern Kids Dodge Work

Over the bin in his grist mill is a large board that resembles a checkerboard.

It has numbered blue and red squares.

Next to the red figure of 100 is a black figure of 75. That means the customer gets back 75 pounds of meal for his 100 pounds of corn. The difference is Zedler's profit.

And so on to smaller amounts.

He has a little wood-working shop, too, about which he laughs.

"Put that up thinking my grand children might be coaxed to do a little work. But kids these days just want to jump into an automobile and go some place."

ZEDLER likes to remember Ottine as it was when he went there in 1895. The town was thriving. It had three stores, a drug store, two doctors, a lumber yard and three saloons.

"But automobiles ruined this country," he said. "When anybody wants anything, they jump into their cars and hike off to town for it.

"I can remember when carloads of groceries used to be shipped in over there where the railroad used to be."

Novel Name Worked Out

Ottine was first named Otto, after J. A. Otto, its founder. Then it was discovered there was another town by the same name. Freight and mail got mixed up.

So Otto took the first three letters of his wife Christine and combined them into Ottine.

Zedler was 30 years old when he went to Ottine with his wife, two children and $2,000 in cash.

He paid Otto $2,000 for the bluff site and gave him a note for $6,000 more.

The little dam and cable drive power plant paid out the note and built the added industries.

ZEDLER'S dander gets up, in a good-natured way, when he thinks of restrictions on crops, and plowing them under.

"Some fellows came out here from Gonzales a few years ago," he said. "They told everybody to plant peanuts—said there was lots of money in it.

"I put in a peanut thresher. Never has paid for itself.

"Same way about this gin. I have ginned 3,500 bales a season. Now I get only about 300."

ABC Plans For Ladies' Night

Plans for a ladies night program soon at which a technicolor film of an air trip around South America will be shown, were discussed by the American Business club at a luncheon Friday noon in Hilton hotel. The club voted to dispense with the regular luncheon that week.

Date will be announced later, said Harold Humphries, who is chairman of the committee in charge. It will be early in August.

J. A. Fortenberry reported a further delay in completing arrangements for installation of a clock on the club's score board at Texas Technological college football field.

Harvey Is Speaker

J. E. Maisen and Hugh Anderson were program chairmen. Emmett Galloway, juvenile counsellor of the city, had his Dogie club quartet to present three negro spirituals and to give a tap dance. J. S. Pitman played for the dance and also played a piano number.

Dr. Marshall Harvey, president of the Boys Club, Inc., spoke at the invitation of President Bob Gee. He invited the club to participate in a ground breaking ceremony Monday for the new club building.

Littlefield To Be Host To Legionnaires

Littlefield this afternoon and tonight will conduct a semi-annual district convention of the American Legion and 300 chickens will be barbecued.

That information was received by Chas. Whitacre, district commander, from Otto Jones, Littlefield post commander.

Whitacre announced also that definite assurance has been received that Lou Roberts of Borger, district commander, will attend. Business sessions will be held in the afternoon and night, a program will follow the supper barbecue, and a dance will be the concluding event of the day, Whitacre said.

Members of the Littlefield barbecue committee are Warren Rutledge, Grady Simpson and Happy Miller. On the dance committee are Van Clark and Bill Elliott.

Important business to be transacted, the district commander said, will be the selection of a delegate and alternate to the national convention in Boston in September and the naming of district representatives on various state committees at the convention which opens in Laredo Aug. 18.

Boy Is Learning How To Use Both Lungs

NEW YORK, July 19. (U.P.) — Jacques Chapelard, a thin little boy whose name will go down in medical history, lay propped up in a bed at Sydenham hospital today learning how to breathe with both lungs.

He was operated upon two weeks ago for misplaced intestines, a phenomenon so rare only 17 cases ever have been reported, and of these only eight have survived operations.

Jacques' intestines were where his right lung should have been. The lung was there too but in a collapsed state. Five ribs had to be divided in a two-hour operation so that the intestines could be put in the right place.

Doctors failed to diagnose Jacques' case until he was placed before a gluroscope screen and given white barium to drink.

The fluroscope traced the path of the barium but instead of going into the abdominal cavity the opaque fluid went into the chest.

Jacques, who is six years old, is expected to make a "99 per cent recovery."

Uniform Highway Markers Sought

AUSTIN, July 19. (AP) — Southwest traffic engineers today turned their attention to a uniform nationwide system of highway signs and markers.

Speaking before 200 highway department and municipal engineers and officials, Harry Neal, Ohio state highway department traffic engineer outlined a "nearly complete" program by the American association of state highway officials to install throughout the nation a standardized system of roadside instruction for drivers.

SHERIFF'S SALE
The State of Texas, County of Lubbock.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the Honorable 99th District Court of Lubbock county, on the 28th day of June, 1940, by Rova Ferguson, Clerk of said 99th District Court for the sum of One Hundred Ninety-Seven and 60/100 ($197.60) Dollars and costs of suit under a judgment in favor of O. Harper, plaintiff, in a certain cause in said Court, No. 8344 and styled O. Harper vs. Bernard Faulkner, placed in my hands for service, I, Tom Abel as Sheriff of Lubbock county, Texas, did, on the 5th day of July, 1940, levy on certain Real Estate, situated in Lubbock county, Texas, described as follows, to-wit:

Lots Nos. 1 and 2, block No. 18 of the Original Town of Lubbock, Texas, and levied upon as the property of Bernard Faulkner and that on the first Tuesday in August, 1940, the same being the 6th day of said month, at the Court House door of Lubbock county, in the city of Lubbock, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said order of sale I will sell said above described Real Estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said Bernard Faulkner.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Avalanche-Journal, a newspaper published in Lubbock county.

Witness my hand, this 5th day of July, 1940.

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—An irregularly lower stock market today followed a new Hitler threat of an imminent blast at England.

The list slipped fractionally in either direction most of the day and indefinite trends continued until just before the close when declines running to a point or so appeared for scattered issues.

Trading virtually came to a full stop during the Fuehrer's lengthy address to the Reichstag in which he warned England a world empire would be destroyed unless the British listen to "reason" and made peace.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 41.4. A month ago the composite stood at 41.1. Transfers totalled 255,520 shares compared with yesterday's 22-year low volume of 221,640.

On the offside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Kennecott, Westinghouse, du Pont, Loft, Standard Oil of N. J. and Great Northern.

Holding modest advances were Montgomery Ward, Willys Overland common and preferred, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Eastman Kodak and J. C. Penney.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, July 19 —The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton at ten southern spot markets today was unchanged at 10.31 cents a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 19 —The cotton futures market held steady up to the last minutes of trade today, when a flurry of hedging sales depressed prices. The final range was unchanged to 4 points lower.

An old-fashioned hot July day seemed to take the starch out of traders and even the Hitler peace-or-annihilation offer and the weather news in the South failed to stir up interest.

Disappointing action of foreign markets and the bullish cast of crop reports kept demand below the simmering point.

Reports from the South indicated mill buying or spot cotton continued light because of failure of expected cloth takings to materialize.

Worth street reported quiet textile trade at steady prices.

Exports Thursday 17,718 bales; season so far 6,386,603. Port receipts 6,918. Port stocks 2,477,044.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 19 (AP) — Cotton futures declined here today under long liquidation and easiness in securities. Closing prices were steady, 2 to 4 points net lower.

ROTC Cadets Are Released From Camp

The 32 Texas Technological college R O T C cadets who have spent six weeks in Camp Bullis near San Antonio and in maneuvers in New Mexico were dismissed from camp Monday and many have returned to their homes.

Ordinarily cadets who have completed three of their four years R O T C training spend the entire six weeks period in camp. This year however, they spent a third of the time in maneuvers.

Students living in Lubbock in the group included Berry D. Brazile, Wayne Rash, John R. Brooks, Ralph F. Lee, Theron R. Lehr, James W. McIlwain, Marcus O. Owens.

Former Official To Be Sentenced Today

DALLAS, July 19 (U.P.) — B. H. Schaffer, former federal narcotics agent convicted in Fort Worth of conspiracy in the "Green Dragon" narcotics case, will be sentenced by Federal Judge T. W. Davidson here tomorrow.

At his request Schaffer's sentencing was deferred because of the absence of his attorney, who was attending the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 19 —Led by the 1940 corn future delivery which advanced more than two cents a bushel, grain prices today rose sharply just before Hitler launched his "peacebid" but then reacted fractionally from the day's best levels.

Pit brokers were not certain how if any of the bullish movement of values could be attributed to trade interpretation of the first section of the Hitler speech but most observers believed hot weather over the corn and wheat belts and purchasing of previous short sellers were the principal factors. The upturn got underway before Hitler began speaking and the market closed before he finished.

Wheat showed net gains of as much as 1½ cents at one time but closed ⅛ to 1 cent higher than yesterday, July 74¼@74⅛, Sept. 74⅝@74⅞. Corn was up as much as 1½ to 2⅝ but closed ⅛ to 2½ net higher, July 63, Sept. 60⅝@60½, Dec. 56⅝@56½. Oats gained ⅛ to ½, rye 1⅛ to 1⅝ and lard 2 to 5 cents.

Munitions Plant Is Sought By Hughes

HOUSTON, July 19. (U.P.)—Hughes Tool company, owned by Howard Hughes, negotiated today for purchase of the plant and grounds of the Southern Manufacturing association and to re-open the unit as a war munitions factory.

The property, located three miles east of Houston on the Beaumont highway, was reported to have a sale price of $100,000. It consists of 71 acres with five buildings and its own water system and railroad facilities.

Noah Dietrich, personal representative of the noted aviation enthusiast, said that no contracts had been discussed but that "we are acting in line with the general request of President Roosevelt for facilities to handle war materials."

"When we are called on to supply national defense supplies, we can concentrate their production in this new plant, leaving the Hughes Tool company free to continue its present normal operations," Dietrich said.

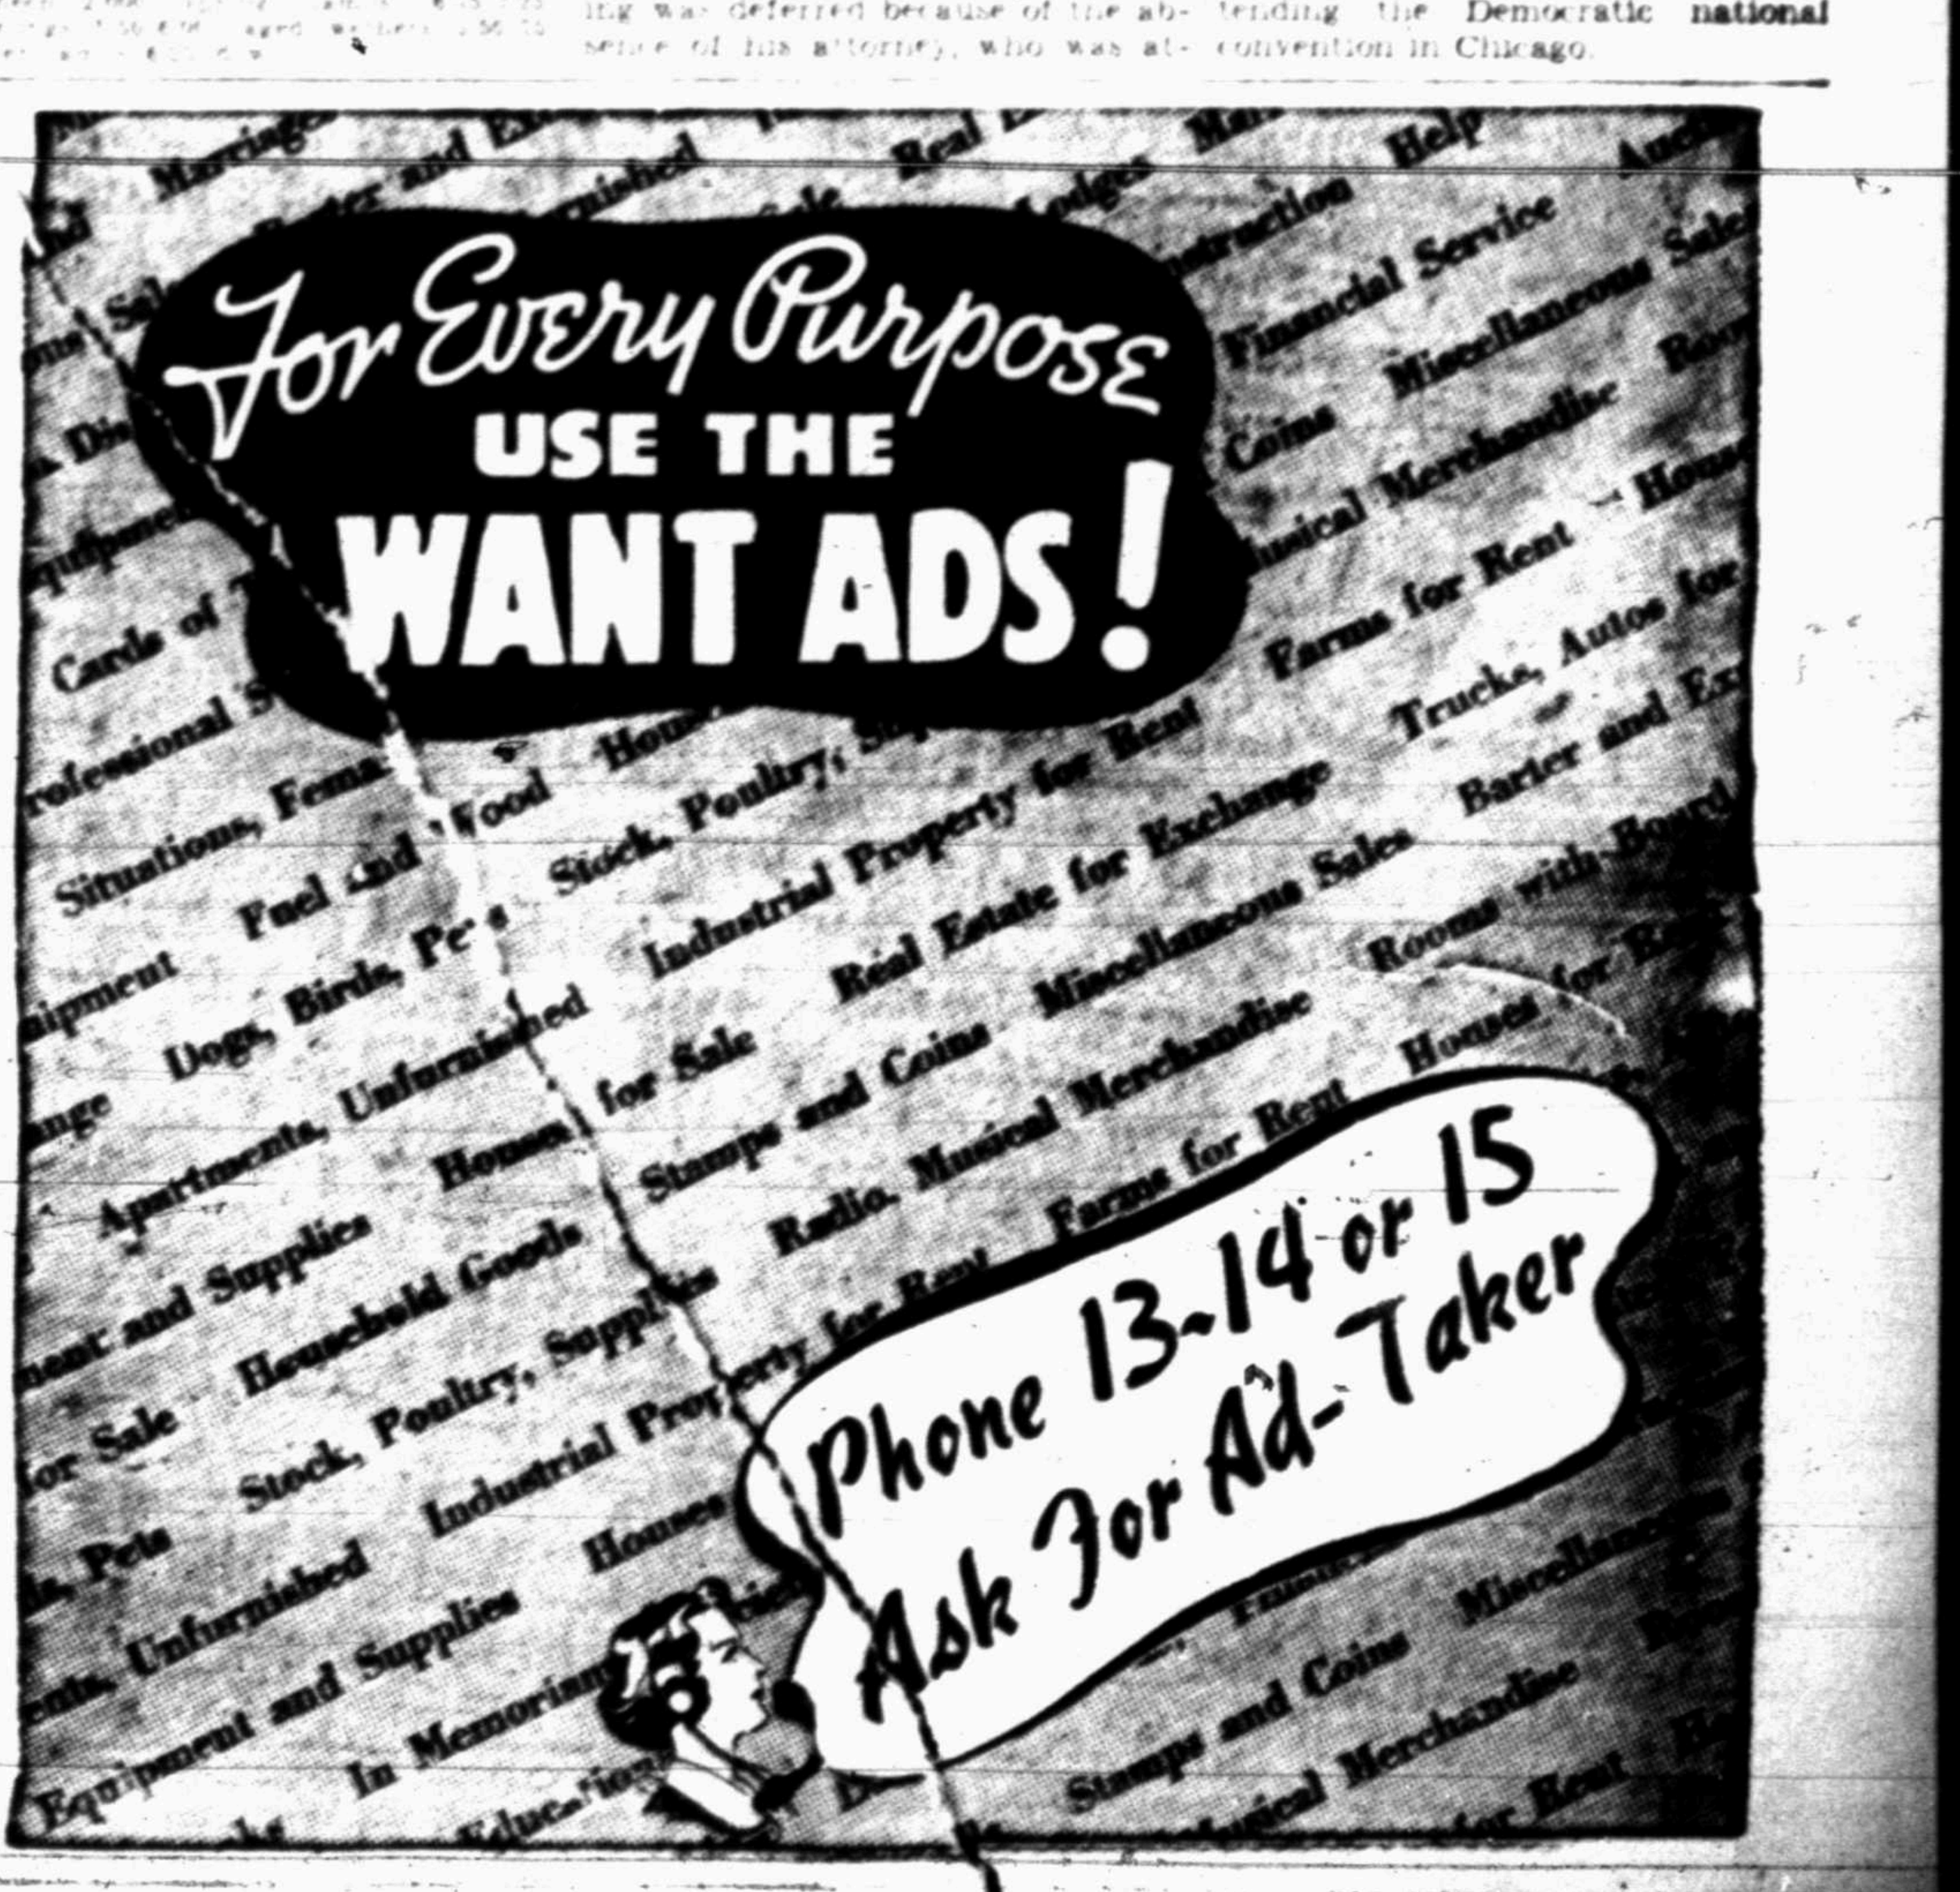

Acquisition of the properties depended, however, upon outcome of a foreclosure suit against the southern motors firm which more than a decade ago manufactured the Ranger automobile.

Hitler's Speech Is Cut Off Stations

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19 (U.P.)—Adolf Hitler's speech was cut off the air on 32 West Coast stations of the Don Lee broadcasting system today to prevent his "attempted justification of the crimes he has committed," Lewis Allen Weiss, general manager of the broadcasting system, announced.

"The management did not feel it was in the public interest to continue the broadcast of Hitler's speech," Weiss said.

Associated Press Staff Writer

It isn't by mere coincidence that Spain raises a cry for the return of Gibraltar at a moment when the fate of Europe paces the shore of the English channel, awaiting the zero hour for the Nazi blitkrieg against Britain.

Spanish Generalissimo Franco's declaration that he expects to get this famous rock—"key to the Mediterranean"—isn't just another side-effort to extract gains from the Hitlerian blow at the English. It represents in fact a vital part of the battle for Britain.

Battle In Two Phases

That battle isn't as simple as its name might indicate. It takes in a lot more territory than this pin-head island. Actually the conflict is divided into two interlocking phases—the direct German assault on England, and the battle of the Mediterranean, which is Mussolini's pigeon.

General Franco naturally wants to regain this world's most noted fortress which his country lost to the British in 1704. But the inspiration to go after it springs from the Berlin-Rome axis. He is speaking one word for himself, and two for Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini.

From the axis standpoint it is imperative either that Hitler make a short job of crushing England by bombing and invasion, or that Britain's hold on the Mediterranean be broken.

Strangulation Of Italy

Continued British domination of this sea spells probable strangulation of Italy through blockade. It also means that Mussolini can't raech the open Atlantic through the long and narrow straits of Gibraltar to help his ally in the attack on England.

The rock could be besieged and captured only with the aid of Spain—if at all.

It is true that if Hitler can make a quick conquest of England—smash that country utterly with bombing and invasion—the battle of the Mediterranean probably will be automatically resolved without further argument.

But if the fuehrer fails in this lightning victory—then he not only will want the help of his ally to pursue the attack but, what is more to the point, Italy likely will be in grave danger of defeat.

Therefore, the logical axis strategy would seem to be to try to crack Britain's grip on the Mediterranean either before or simultaneously with the attempted invasion of Britain.

Far From Strange

Thus it is far from strange that Franco should choose this crucial moment to start proclaiming his determination to regain the much publicized rock and that 200,000 workers should parade Madrid shouting, "Gibraltar! Spanish!"

Actually the Spanish chieftain is in no position to carry out an attack against Gibraltar on his own. His country is still suffering too greatly from the shock of the civil war to engage in another conflict on a big scale.

So if an attempt is made to shatter the padlock of the straits it undoubtedly will be largely an Italo-German affair staged under the auspices and hospitality of friend Franco. It has been reported that German troops already are in Spain, ready for eventualities. This hadn't been confirmed, but the report isn't surprising.

A siege of Gibraltar presumably would be an affair of considerable duration. It would be engineered largely through artillery bombardment from Spanish territory, and heavy bombing by planes using Spanish bases. This would be calculated to render it impossible for the British to maintain the fine, deep harbor as a naval base.

The promontory on which the natural fortress stands is connected with the Spanish mainland by an isthmus which is neutral territory. This isthmus lies so low that the huge, grey marble rock looks like an island as it towers 1439 feet above the surface of the water. It is 2 3-4 miles long and 3-4 of a mile wide.

Gibraltar is, of course, heavily fortified and its interior is like that of a man o'war. It will take a lot of hammering to crack it. The Spaniards besieged it from 1779 to 1783 and finally had to quit. That's a long time ago, though, and modern machinery of war is much more powerful.

Transfer Of War Refugees To Lubbock Meets Delays

Getting the three children of a man by the same name as his own out of Edinburgh, Scotland, into America and to Lubbock, is not just as easy as one would imagine, as Jim Evens of 613 Sixteenth street began to find out Friday. He may, and he may not, be able to care for the children of the Scotch Jim Evans.

Friday morning he received a cable from Scotland asking about "necessary documents" to be forwarded there. The cable said Mrs. Evans is to accompany them.

Through Consular Service

Evans contacted Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy U. S. court clerk, to find out the nearest immigration officer as the cable suggested.

Through the Avalanche-Journal publications, a Dallas immigration officer was contacted and he said all such matters were handled by the British consular service. Persons who agree to take care of a British child for the duration of the war, must satisfy the British government as to their financial ability. A statement must be made by a banker, the person's employer, an auditor and others in a position to know, to show the ability of the applicant. These statements should be certified.

Evans said he would contact the nearest British consular agent, Harold Ernest Slaymaker, at Galveston, to ascertain what requirements were.

Have Corresponded

The two men have never met but became acquainted through mutual avocations, both being physical culturists. They have corresponded for more than four years and the wives of the two men, and their children have interchanged letters.

Recently the Briton asked that the American take care of his three children for the duration of the war. He is a physical instructor with the Royal Air force. Friday's cable was the second received by the Lubbock man.

Uppers And Lowers To Be Received For Road Right-Of-Way

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., July 19. (AP)—A swap that will go down in county history as one of the strangest on record, "a brand new set of "uppers" and "lowers" for a county road right of way was engineered here by Boyd county judge, Dr. George G. Bell, a dentist by profession.

In order to build a bridge over Little Ellington branch of Big Sandy creek, the county needed additional right of way through the property owned by Mrs. Margaret Ellis. Judge Bell went out to look over the situation and being observant, noted Mrs. Ellis' need for dental work. His offer of a "complete set of false teeth by Thanksgiving" in return for the right of way was accepted.

The judge said he would not bill the county for his services.

Migues Hanged In Louisiana

NEW IBERIA, La., July 19. (U.P.)—Honore Migues, 32-year-old former employe of the state highway department, went to the gallows today protesting his innocence in the murder, three years ago, of Mrs. Evlyn Crawford.

He was the first white man hanged in Iberia parish.

Migues remonstrated with the hangmann as he placed the black hood over his head.

"You can't hang me now," he said. "You promised you wouldn't hang me."

The state supreme court blocked his last chance of escape outside of executive clemency by Gov. Sam H. Jones when it upheld the district court in refusing a sanity hearing.

Mrs. Crawford, wife of an Asheville, N. C., construction man, was shot in a New Iberia cafe while at a table with her husband.

Lubbock Dairies Are Holding Standard

G. G. Hunter, city dairy sanitarian, said Lubbock dairies are keeping the standard of approximately 95 per cent of compliance with milk purity standards of health.

His inspections' report for the month of June, he disclosed, shows 94 per cent compliance with raw milk standards and 95 per cent with those for pasteurized. He added that 53 dairies now are serving Lubbock.

The excellence of sanitary conditions of the dairies, Hunter said, virtually insures that Lubbock will continue on the "honor roll" of cities to which it was elevated by the federal and state departments for the first time last winter. An average of 90 per cent is required for such rating, he explained.

Fifty-Five CCC Camps Operate

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—Fifty-five CCC camps including a new private forest camp at Alto and a reestablished national forest camp at Center will be in operation in Texas during the current three months period which began July 1.

James J. McEntee, CCC director, announced the program provides for employment of 16,000 Texas youths and 1,550 war veterans. Of the total 11,000 will work in the state and 6,550 will be in camps in other sates.

Enrollment Offered

Of the 11,000 men employed in Texas, 5,400 will work on erosion control projects, 2,000 on forest improvement, development and recreation, 2,000 in state parks, 600 in metropolitan areas, 400 in county parks, 200 in national parks, 200 on reclamation projects and 200 on wild life projects.

McEntee said that during this month an opportunity would be given 4,187 Texans to enroll in camps to replace workers who have taken other employment or completed terms of service.

Texas camps operating during this period included:

Soil conservation camps at Temple, Corsicana, Waco, Pflugerville, Bartlett, Wolfe City, Bogata, Kenedy, Perryton, Memphis, Littlefield, Lamesa, Denton, Jacksonville, Pleasant, Brownwood, Winnsboro, Marshall, Nacogdoches, Gatesville, Madisonville, Sherman, Kaufman, Mesquite, Waxahachie, Yoakum and Seguin; private forest camps at Woodville, Humble, Newton and Alto.

Other Camps Listed

Other camps included:

Davy Crockett national forest, Ratcliff; Sabine national forest, Center; Davy Crockett national forest, Apple Springs; Sabine national forest, Milam; Sam Houston, national forest, New Waverly; Angelina national forest, Zavalla; Arkansas migratory waterfowl refuge, Austwell; forest reclamation project, Ysleta; Ascarare county park, El Paso; Eagle Mountain lake county park, Azle; Tyrrell Metropolitan park, Beaumont;

Bachman-Whiterock lake metropolitan park, Dallas; Lake Austin Metropolitan park, Austin; Big Bend national park project, Marathon; Longhorn Cavern state park, Burnett; Brownwood state park, Brownwood; Garner State park, Uvalde; Goliad State park, Goliad; Fort Parker state park, Mexia; Mackenzie state park, Lubbock; Cleburne state park, Cleburne; Tyler state park, Tyler; Huntsville state park, Huntsville and Fort Griffin state park, Fort Griffin.

Marshall Formby To Make Talks Today

Marshall Formby, Dickens county judge, will campaign for state senator in four speeches today: at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Meadow, 3 o'clock in Brownfield, 4:15 o'clock at Seagraves and 5:30 o'clock at Seminole.

The Dickens judge will be using his own loud speaking system and will be accompanied to the several towns Saturday by a number of Dickens, Crosby, Lubbock and Hockley county boosters.
