Rhodesian leaders face each other in London talks

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington formally opened Zimbabwe Rhodesia peace talks today, insisting the warring parties reach agreement on a new constitution before deciding who will control the nation's army.

The talks opened on schedule despite last-minute objections by one faction of the guerrillas to being seated opposite the war-torn country's first black prime minister, Abel Muzorewa, and leaders from the previous white minority government.

After the talks began behind closed doors at Lancaster House, a Foreign Office spokesman said the opposing delegates sat down as Britain arranged — facing each other.

"The constitution is the fundamental problem to which we must address ourselves," Carrington told the two sides, whose main preoccupation is who will control the national security forces after an internationally acceptable agreement.

Carrington said progress toward agreement on political issues would mean "progress toward removing the causes of the war."

Just before the talks began, guerrilla chief Robert Mugabe urged Britain to set up a transition administration in Zimbabwe Rhodesia giving a "predominant" role to the guerrillas, but including Britain and representatives of Muzorewa's black-dominated administration.

The Mozambique-based Mugabe, and the the Zambia-based forces of his co-leader, Joshua Nkomo, have been fighting seven years for control of the south African nation.

Mugabe told a BBC interviewer the communist-armed guerrilla forces should form the "core" of the new army. But unlike many of his top aides and Nkomo himself who often demand the total dismantling of the country's white-led army and air force, Mugabe said: "We do agree to include desirable elements from the other side."

He would not elaborate. The current Rhodesian regular army is 80 percent black and regarded as one of the most efficient in Africa.

On the transfer of political power, Mugabe said: "We would like to see a transition arrangement which involves the British, ourselves and representatives of the other side, with the Patriotic Front constituting a predominant element of that mixed administration."

Mugabe described Muzorewa, whom he regards simply as a black front with power retained by whites, as on the "verge of defeat."

Some conference sources said Muzorewa would walk out if the guerrilla leaders pursued their military demands.

Editorial comment in the British papers was somber. The pro-Conservative Daily Telegraph said "the omens and the precedents are discouraging." The pro-Labor Daily Mirror said the conference's chances of succeeding are slight. The independent Financial Times said there were "few grounds for optimism."

Supporting Muzorewa was the leader of the 230,000 Rhodesian whites, former Prime Minister Ian Smith, who declared Rhodesia independent in 1965 to block imposition of a constitution promising eventual transfer of power to the 7 million blacks.

Smith on his arrival Sunday was cheered by white airport workers and a dozen ex-Rhodesians, but about 100 others chanted "murderer" to greet him. He told reporters he thought the conference had a good chance of success.

One of the chief tasks of the conference, if it gets that far, will be to reduce the special rights for the whites which Smith got. Muzorewa and other moderate black leaders to include in the constitution they drew up early this year. These include 28 percent of the seats in Parliament although they constitute less than 3 percent of the population, a veto over constitutional changes for the next five or 10 years, and control of the civil service, army, police and judiciary for five or 10 years.

The British also want new elections in which all factions participate. Mugabe and Nkomo boycotted the elections in April that resulted in the first black legislative majority and the Muzorewa government.

Brown campaigns amid Kennedy speculation

By ANDREW SCHNEIDER

DOVER, N.H. (AP) — It has been months since Sen. Edward Kennedy visited this state where presidential crusades are started, but he might as well have been here as California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. set out on the campaign trail.

Brown's much-publicized assault Sunday on New Hampshire came amid renewed speculation that Kennedy would enter the 1980 White House marathon. Even the president's mother joined the speculators.

Brown shared a platform at two stops with Lillian Carter, who said she could not believe Kennedy would run against her son, Jimmy. However, she added: "It looks like he is."

"If he does run, I do wish him all the luck in the world," she said, "and if he runs I hope to goodness nothing happens to him."

Mrs. Carter's remark was greeted by silence and a few catcalls. Two of Kennedy's brothers were assassinated — President John F. Kennedy in 1963, and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968 as he sought the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I was stunned. I couldn't believe it," said Romeo Dorval, state Democratic Party chairman. "Whether it was a slip of the tongue or not, it shouldn't be said."

Chris Brown, deputy national manager for the Carter campaign, later described the 81-year-old Mrs. Carter's remark as "an honest expression of concern."

Speedier talks with Israel needed

Strauss says it's time to 'step up tempo'

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — U.S. Mideast negotiator Robert Strauss and Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil agreed today there should be a speed up in negotiations with Israel on Palestinian autonomy.

"This is a time for stepping up the tempo, of more action around that (negotiating) table," said Strauss, President Carter's special envoy, after meeting with Khalil.

Both men sought to dispel recent news reports in Israel that President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin decided at their Haifa summit last week to slacken the pace of the talks, aimed at providing some level of autonomy for the Arabs living on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

"It is not true that there was an agreement to slow down," Khalil told reporters. "That is not the goal. On the contrary, Mr. Strauss is here to speed up the negotiations."

After meeting with Sadat for 90 minutes on Sunday, Strauss said he was "absolutely confident" the negotiations and the rest of the peace process will "conclude successfully."

It was the American's third trip to Cairo since President Carter tapped him to mediate the peace drive last spring, and he said none of his previous trips had been as "constructive... informative... positive or as encouraging."

Obviously buoyed by Sadat's report on his meeting with Begin, Strauss said the two leaders appeared to have made "considerable progress" and were developing a "good chemistry."

Sadat said his reception last week in Haifa had been so enthusiastic that "I was telling Bob (Strauss) I could not distinguish who is an Arab and who is a Jew."

"To a fellow like me, a good personal relationship is the most important thing," said Strauss, known for his folksy approach to diplomacy. "It creates the kind of climate I think is best for a settlement."

Strauss, who goes next to Israel, noted that the two nations are on a "long and tedious road" with many problems still ahead. But he said he was "absolutely confident that the peace process would conclude successfully."

En route to Cairo, Strauss told reporters he wants to map out "what we realistically can hope to accomplish by the end of the year" in the thorny Israeli-Egyptian talks on Palestinian autonomy.

A U.S. official traveling with Strauss suggested that the talks would take a new turn in the next month and focus on "decision making."

Until now, Israel and Egypt have concentrated on marginal issues, such as agendas, while skirting the basic questions, including the scope of home-rule planned for the Palestinians living on the occupied West Bank and in Gaza, and the future status of Jerusalem.

While Strauss extolled the peace process, its foes in the Arab world marked a partial victory against it at the non-aligned movement's summit meeting in Havana.

The summit ended Sunday after approving a resolution "energetically condemning" the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty and the U.S.-sponsored Camp David agreement that made it possible.

Arab hard-liners had demanded Egypt also be drummed out of the non-aligned movement but the numerically-superior African contingent argued that a member nation should not be suspended for waging peace. Instead the conference in effect put Egypt on probation, naming a commission to review the matter and decide whether the Sadat government should be suspended.

Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat told ABC-TV interviewer Barbara Walters he was "very satisfied" with the outcome.

Egyptian Vice President Hosny Mubarak and Israeli Defense Chief Ezer Weizman were due in today, Mubarak with a note from Sadat to Carter, presumably about his meeting with Begin, and Weizman to discuss Israel's arms needs.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan went to Bonn Sunday for a three-day visit aimed at countering what Israel sees as a pro-Arab shift in West German policy. Israel's fears were fueled a week ago when a aide to West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher met a representative of the PLO while Genscher was touring Syria, Lebanon, Jordan and Egypt. German government sources have denied any policy tilt.

Woman, 73, found dead in southeast Midland home

A 73-year-old Midland woman was found dead inside her home Sunday morning, possibly the victim of a burglary attempt, police said today.

Ardeshia Wortham, 303 S. Calhoun St., was found lying on her back in the living room of her southeast Midland home about 9:55 a.m. Sunday by police, officials said.

She had been beaten about the head with an unknown instrument, according to officials.

Police said Mrs. Wortham's son apparently became concerned when she did come to the door or answer his phone calls.

While inspecting his mother's home, the son found the doors locked and a side window broken out and decided to call the police, officials said.

The house had been ransacked, police said, making it difficult to determine whether a struggle had taken place.

Only blood in the house was a small amount where Mrs. Wortham was found, according to police.

Mrs. Wortham last was seen by a neighbor who had observed the elderly woman in her front yard about 3 p.m. Friday, police were told.

Mrs. Wortham had been dead about two days, according to an autopsy performed late Sunday, officials said.

Police today said they are considering burglary as a possible motive in connection with the elderly Midlander's death.

'You couldn't ask for a better neighbor,' woman's friend says

By BILL MODISSETT
Staff Writer

Ardeshia Wortham won't be taking evening strolls through her Southeast Midland neighborhood anymore.

She liked to take walks in the evenings, to chat with neighbors and to look at flowers, her neighbors recalled today.

She was a woman who didn't have any enemies, at least none known to her neighbors.

But Mrs. Wortham was found Sunday morning in her home at 303 S. Calhoun St. She apparently was the victim of a burglary attempt Friday night or Saturday morning.

Mrs. Wortham's former home is small and unpretentious. It sits in a neighborhood dotted with vacant lots, but the street in front is paved.

Mrs. Wortham's neighbors today described her as a warm, friendly woman.

She lived in one of Midland's poorer neighborhoods, but her home was well cared for, the lawn crisply manicured in contrast to the tall weeds of the nearby vacant lots.

She was a church-goer who dressed appropriately for services each Sunday morning. A church member would stop by to give her a ride to church. She walked practically everywhere else she went.

Mrs. Wortham had told her neighbors an elderly person needs the exercise of walking.

"She was a nice little lady and she didn't bother anybody," noted Gertrude Carter, 69, one of Mrs. Wortham's closest neighbors.

"You couldn't ask for a better neighbor than that to save your soul," she added.

"She walked all the time, all the time," remarked Necie Lewis, 80, another neighbor.

"Don't seem like she was the kind of person to have enemies."

Mrs. Lewis may have been the last person to see Mrs. Wortham alive. Friday evening, she saw Mrs. Wortham out for a stroll in the alley behind her own home.

"But that's the last time I saw her. It was Friday evening," she said. "Saturday all day I didn't see her."

According to Mrs. Carter, a man mowed Mrs. Wortham's lawn Friday evening. Then she stood out in her front yard and paid the man.

Mrs. Wortham had told Mrs. Carter she liked to keep her yard in good condition.

While neither of the neighbors interviewed today heard anything on the night Mrs. Wortham apparently was killed, Mrs. Carter said residents of that neighborhood have been threatened by way of telephone calls.

She added she has received the threats herself.

Mrs. Carter indicated the caller or callers threatened to break into homes and kill the occupants.

The Midland woman said the callers have been "picking" on her since her husband died two years ago.

Asked if Mrs. Wortham's death seems to have frightened residents of the neighborhood, Mrs. Carter said, "It sure has."

The Danish debt

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH
HEARST JR.

COPENHAGEN

— If, hopefully, you read my report in Sunday's Midland Reporter-Telegram, you know what we found out about Finland on the first stage of our literally flying visit to Scandinavia.

Our next stop was this most attractive little capital of Denmark.

With its palaces, old red brick buildings, canals and fascinating Tivoli gardens, it has an old-world charm and character uniquely its own. Unlike Hamlet, the Danes appear neither brooding nor somber. Called by English novelist Evelyn Waugh the "most exhilarating people in Europe," they have managed with hard work and concern for the common man to make their tiny country one of the most high standard of living societies in Europe.

HEARST

They have given up some of the material freedoms we cherish, such as the opportunity to make a fortune and leave it to your children. It can be done, but the opportunity is very limited because of high taxation and the difficulty of saving money.

A good deal of what people earn is spent on satisfying the palate. Life expectancy in Denmark is threatened by overeating. The consumption of calories per head is exceeded only in the Irish Republic, New Zealand and Poland. Having eaten some of the best food in Copenhagen we've ever eaten, I can understand why the Danes are gourmets.

Denmark, of course, has the cradle-to-the-grave social welfare system, like most of the Scandinavian nations. It is supported by one of the highest tax rates in the world, and these high taxes are causing some of the young people to leave the country. A young

Prosecutor pleased with testimony of McCrory

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Prosecutor Jack Strickland says he is pleased with the way his star witness has held up so far under intense cross-examination by flamboyant defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes.

David McCrory opens his eighth day on the stand today in the seventh week of the murder-for-hire trial of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis. The 41-year-old karate buff is the state's key witness in the case against the industrialist. McCrory claims Davis ordered him to hire the murder of District Judge Joe Eidsen, the jurist presiding over Davis' divorce trial.

"I think David is certainly more relaxed on the stand," said prosecutor Jack Strickland. "David's recollection of those events is much, much clearer."

Odessa police searching for two robbers

ODESSA — Odessa police early today still were searching for two pistol-wielding robbers who took an undetermined amount of cash from two Odessa businesses Sunday in apparently unrelated incidents.

At 2:20 p.m. Sunday, a man described as being 25 to 30 years of age walked into the Pizza Inn restaurant on East Eighth Street in Odessa and robbed the establishment, according to reports.

A police official said the man, who brandished a small caliber weapon, took an undetermined amount of money and fled on foot.

At 11:15 p.m. Sunday, a man wearing a stocking mask robbed the Eagle Car Wash of an undetermined amount of money, according to the police spokesman.

The robber, believed to be 22 or 23 years of age, walked up to the cashier's booth, held a pistol on the cashier and took some money, the official said.

That man also fled on foot, police said.

McCrory also testified in the state's first attempt to convict Davis on the charges, but his statements did not hold up under Haynes' lengthy and detailed cross-examination. A mistrial was declared when jurors deadlocked 8-4 for conviction.

McCrory himself labels his Houston testimony "a fiasco."

"Thankfully, this is a different ball game than in Houston," he said.

"He was scared as hell, even in Houston," Strickland said, adding that McCrory is more "poised" now.

But there are times when McCrory and Haynes lock horns, displaying their mutual dislike in open court.

"It's distressing to me when he's doing that because he's playing Haynes' game," Strickland said. "In Haynes' game, a large part of Haynes' role is that of a provocateur ... that of a bully. To make a witness blurt out things that are wrong or prejudicial."

Haynes successfully has baited McCrory several times, but Strickland concedes jurors might respond to the exchanges by thinking McCrory just won't be bullied.

"As long as a pattern is not established. Jurors don't expect to see witnesses and lawyers playing games."

While Haynes continues to pick apart McCrory's story, the witness grudgingly admits he has great respect, if not affection, for the attorney.

Man stabbed after argument

An argument in an east side Midland bar Friday night apparently resulted in the stabbing of one man, police said.

Clarence Robinson, 23, 503 1/2 Indiana Ave., was listed in satisfactory condition in Midland Memorial Hospital today.

Robinson was stabbed several times in the chest about 8 p.m. Friday at the Texas Street Bar, 805 E. Texas St., according to officials.

A 20-year-old man arrested Friday at the nightclub remained in City Jail early today, police said.

Miss America to tell world about God

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — As the new Miss America, Cheryl Prewitt says she won't use her crown to proselytize, but will take advantage of every opportunity to tell people about her Christian faith.

"I won't use the Miss America title for anything except to represent America," the 22-year-old Mississippi State University graduate said at a news conference Sunday. "But America would be hard to represent without mentioning God. This is a God country."

The Ackerman, Miss., gospel music composer and singer defeated 49 other contestants Saturday to become Miss America 1980, a title that guarantees her a $20,000 scholarship and more than $50,000 in personal appearance bookings during her reign.

A born-again Christian, Miss Prewitt used her unshakable charm to fend off questions from reporters skeptical about the two "miracles" in her life.

When she was 11, her left leg was crushed in an automobile accident. Doctors told her she would never walk again. "I prayed and the doctors prayed," said the 5-foot-7-inch brunette. "I knew God had other plans for me than to spend the rest of my life in a wheelchair."

When she was 17, her physicians told her she would never be able to have children because her left leg was two inches shorter than the right and caused too much pressure on her back.

On Oct. 21, 1974, Miss Prewitt attended a Jackson, Miss., revival meeting, where in front of about 300 other believers, she prayed for her leg to grow.

"I was sitting there very calmly. We prayed and we asked," she said. "I sat and watched my leg grow out instantaneously two inches."

The 35-23-36 pianist and singer, who supports the Equal Rights Amendment, said she was coached on how to curb her Southern accent for the pageant.

Editor's Report

engineer, who drives a taxi at night, told us he was leaving soon for Portland, Maine, and intends to become an American citizen.

Although Denmark is a flourishing industrial nation as well as the dairy heart of Europe, its economy does not generate enough revenue to pay for the welfare system and the economic development of the country. The latter is financed to a great extent by foreign loans.

We learned at the American Embassy that Denmark's foreign indebtedness now totals $6.5 billion, with annual interest payments running at $1,250,000,000. In other words, Denmark cannot really afford its welfare system.

Because it spends as much on social welfare, the socialized Danish government contributes less than any other European ally to NATO. Although all the NATO allies are committed to increase defense spending by three percent annually, Denmark's increase is around one percent.

Prime Minister Anker Jorgensen assured us Denmark intends to increase its defense spending, but he could not say by how much.

The truth of the matter is that Danes don't think there is any danger Russia will attack western Europe in the foreseeable future and therefore they are reluctant to spend money on armaments. That's the kind of thinking that could tempt the Soviets to attack or blackmail little countries like Denmark into submission.

Like most of the other European allies, the Danes have relied on the threat of massive American nuclear retaliation to deter Russia from attacking western Europe. Henry Kissinger, speaking in Brussels recently, warned the Europeans that if they do not make a greater effort to defend themselves, an American president might not risk the nuclear destruction of the United States to save them.

Prime Minister Jorgensen, in an interview with Joe Kingsbury Smith, our national editor, and me, said he realized there must be "some strengthening" of NATO defenses, at least to improve the western bargaining position in negotiations with the Soviet Bloc for a mutual reduction of forces in central Europe.

He added that he did not believe Kissinger's warning, which he described as "fair," would lessen European public confidence in the credibility of America's commitment to help defend the European allies.

The 57-year-old social democratic leader is a quite remarkable person. Son of a truck driver, he was a young shipyard and warehouse worker before becoming involved in the trade union movement. While president of the warehouse workers union, he spent three months at Harvard in 1939 studying economics and labor problems.

Rather stocky, of medium height, with a black moustache and goatee beard, he gives the impression of being a capable, pragmatic leader of the working class.

The Danes believe the Soviets already have the capability to win a war against the West in Europe, but they doubt the Kremlin would risk the danger of American nuclear retaliation. The prime minister said the Soviet leaders are "very nervous" about America's new relationship with China. He thinks Moscow fears this if Russia became involved in a conflict with China, the NATO forces might try to liberate eastern Europe.

One of the top Danish foreign ministry officials told us the Soviets were "enormously" upset by Vice President Mondale's recent statement in Peking that the United States would consider any foreign threat to China as contrary to American interests. He said that if America play the China card too strongly, it might tempt the Soviets to resort to a pre-emptive strike against the Chinese nuclear sites to knock them out before China becomes a full-fledged nuclear power.

In talks with other government officials and Danish editors and publishers, we asked whether Denmark would support extension of the NATO security zone to the Indian Ocean to protect the oil route to western Europe, which depends on Middle East oil for most of its needs. The answer was an emphatic no. The Danes, like most of the other European allies, think protection of the Persian Gulf oil supplies is America's responsibility.

Their attitude is like Popeye's Wimpy, whose famous remark was, "Let's you and him fight."

Detroit teachers boycott classes

By The Associated Press

Detroit teachers began manning picket lines outside the city's 300 schools early today, affecting some 213,000 students, as strikes continued to disrupt classes for almost 900,000 students in 14 states.

"It appears we are being successful in shutting down the schools," said Tom Cook, vice-president of the Detroit Federation of Teachers.

The 12,000 Detroit teachers struck after they rejected a three-year contract offer by the Detroit school board last week.

More than 40,000 teachers were off the job across the country today.

Detroit schools opened today, but officials were expected to decide later whether to close, according to a spokesman for the school district.

But tentative settlements of 10 other Michigan teachers' strikes over the weekend could leave at about

Panel to recommend discipline for Talmadge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The six members of the Senate Ethics Committee are seeking a way to unanimously recommend disciplinary measures against Sen. Herman E. Talmadge to the full Senate.

At a closed meeting this afternoon, its first session in a month, the committee was expected to end the financial misconduct case against Talmadge by sending a suggested penalty for the Georgia Democrat to the Senate floor.

In other congressional developments this week:

—A House-Senate conference committee was continuing attempts today to reach agreement on a compromise standby gasoline rationing plan.

Meeting for the first time Friday, the conferees made a few minor compromises but were still at odds over a House-passed amendment that would prevent the president from implementing the plan unless fuel supplies dropped at least 20 percent. The Senate favors allowing the plan's use if supplies fall 10 percent.

—The Senate Intelligence Committee opens hearings on whether there was a failure by U.S. intelligence to detect the presence of Russian troops in Cuba for several years. Similarly, the Senate Armed Services Committee has summoned Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and CIA Director Stansfield Turner to testify on the national security implications of the troops' discovery.

Woman found dead at home

An autopsy has been ordered in connection with the Sunday night death of a 23-year-old woman, police said.

Sandra K. Moore was found dead at her home when police arrived at the 1612 E. Maple Ave. residence.

Mrs. Moore had gone to her room to take a nap Sunday afternoon, police were told.

She was found dead a short time later, police indicated.

No evidence of foul play was found, police said today.

In Lorain, Ohio, officials threatened to replace 726 strikers with substitutes, but a representative of the teachers' union said members would not show up for the start of classes for 14,000 pupils.

In the Jefferson Parish district outside New Orleans, bus drivers voted to strike over the right to bargain collectively. More than 400 of the 466 drivers have honored picket lines thrown up by some 2,000 teachers on Aug. 24.

Strikes continued in several Chicago suburbs and in Springfield, Ill., where 900 teachers were off the job. Some 2,300 teachers were out in 12 small Pennsylvania districts.

At least four of the six members are known to be willing to vote for a censure recommendation. But sources say Stevenson wants to take a unanimous recommendation to the Senate floor. As a result, some other suggested description of disapproval is being sought.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said Stevenson is worried that Talmadge's allies might be able to weaken the case against the senator if they can cite dissenting votes within the committee against a proposed penalty.

During three months of investigative hearings, the committee aired charges that the 65-year-old Talmadge converted campaign contributions to his personal use and knew or should have known that Senate expense funds were being claimed for expenditures which were never made.

Sources said various phrasing for the recommendation is being considered.

Warm days, cool nights in forecast

Fall may be trying to push its way in through the door as early morning temperatures of recent are getting slightly cooler than they were a month ago.

Overnight low today was 62 degrees. And the same is in the forecast for Tuesday, according to the weatherman.

Summer, though, is holding steady during the day as the mercury continues to shoot into the low 90s.

High Sunday was 91 degrees and a similar temperature is expected for Tuesday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Record high for a Sept. 9 is 98 degrees set in 1977, while the record overnight low for a Sept. 10 is 51 degrees in 1935.

Sunny days and fair nights are in the forecast through Tuesday, the weatherman said.

No precipitation fell over the weekend, leaving the month's total at .01 inch and the year's total at 12.21 inches.

Area towns reported clear skies and cooler temperatures early today.

Moscow 'oasis' said drying up

By NIKKI FINKE

MOSCOW (AP) — An American oasis in Moscow is drying up. The oasis is Spaso House, the U.S. ambassador's czarist mansion residence in sleepy Spasokovskaya Square which since 1933 has served as a lively center of entertainment and culture for the U.S. and foreign community living here. But lately, residents are complaining that Spaso House is getting stuffy. Recent years have seen more formal receptions hosted there and less fun functions that gave House No. 10 its reputation as the swiftest place around town. It was in the Spaso House ballroom that: — Three trained seals went berserk at the 1934 Christmas Eve party; — A "schoolroom for war games" was organized by the Allies during the World War II years; — A Moscow ballerina threatened to strip to her tutu in the 1960s if she were not allowed another sip of champagne.

Part of the change of style, sources say, has been Spaso House's present occupant, retiring U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon.

While his predecessors used the informal atmosphere of Spaso House to mix with Moscow's leading art, dance and music figures, Toon has kept such contacts to a minimum, sources say.

Even the number of movie nights, dances and parties open to the American community as a whole have decreased since Toon presented his credentials here in 1976, comparisons show.

Now that Toon is retiring and former IBM chairman Thomas J. Watson Jr. has been nominated to take over, Spaso House could live up again if the new ambassador is so inclined.

Rented to the Americans on a long-term lease, Spaso House was built in 1914 by a wealthy Moscow merchant and manufacturer who poured rubles into the mansion's 82-foot-long main hall and opulent chandelier. The ballroom was added in the 1930s.

When U.S.-Soviet diplomatic relations were established in 1933, U.S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt chose Spaso House as his official residence. At the time, it was being used for official entertainment by the Central Executive Committee of the Soviet government, and as a residence for top officials.

Writing home in 1943, Kathleen Harriman, daughter of U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, said Spaso House had a certain "shabby elegance" and could do with a new coat of paint.

"We live in a sort of slum area of cobbled streets about five minutes by car from Red Square. Our garden consists of some leafless shrubs and a couple of dead trees," said Kathleen's letter reprinted in Harriman's memoirs, "Special Envoy."

"The house gets entered unpretentiously at the side into the vestibule, Monstrosity No. 1. This has great marble columns and it's generally so dark you can't even decide whether a Russian, a Chinese or a Finn let you in."

The side entrance is still there, and a U.S. Marine sits watch. Outside is a tall iron fence and uniformed Soviet police who stand guard and help direct traffic when parties are held.

The interior has not changed much since Spaso House underwent a major refurbishing and remodeling under U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler in the mid-1960s.

Naturally, it takes considerable money to run the residence. In fiscal year 1978, the operating budget was $68,910, used to pay staff salaries, food costs, uniforms and miscellaneous items like kitchen supplies, caviar and candles.

Each U.S. ambassador contributes 5-percent of his annual salary to the art museum

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — It was a different kind of trip to the art museum. The visitors reached up and touched some 15 sculpted pieces, mostly those in the museum's Oriental, Roman and Egyptian galleries.

The visitors were 12 blind Rhode Islanders who toured the Rhode Island School of Design Art Museum recently in the second program of its kind to be sponsored by the American Red Cross.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Choose Right Finesse

By Alfred Sheinwold

If every player who chose the wrong finesse wore a crown we'd all be kings (or queens).

South won the first trick with dummy's six of spades and cashed the ace of diamonds to discard the queen of clubs. When the heart finesse lost, South had to lose two hearts.

South should discard a heart on the ace of diamonds and should continue with the queen of diamonds. When East plays low, South discards a second heart.

SETS UP HEART

West returns a diamond, and South discards a third heart. South takes the ace of hearts, leads a trump to the nine and ruffs a heart with a high trump.

When both opponents follow suit, South leads a trump to the ten, ruffs another heart high and returns to dummy with the jack of trumps to discard the queen of clubs on the last heart.

If the hearts break badly South must rely on the club finesse. The actual declarer threw away the only finesse he might ever need.

Japs step up defense

After decades of a near-total reliance on the United States to guarantee its security, Japan is embarking on a modest program to strengthen its own self-defense forces. The need for such an effort is abundantly clear and Japan's willingness to bear a greater share of its defense burden ought to be welcome news in Washington.

Over the last ten years, the United States has reduced its military presence in Asia and the Western Pacific by 70 percent. In the same time span, the Soviet Union has increased its armed forces in that part of the world by about the same percentage. While much of the Soviet buildup in Asia is obviously aimed at China, the larger numbers of air and naval units based at Vladivostok and on the Kamchatka Peninsula threaten sea lanes vital to Japan.

The Soviets' submarine force in the Far East, for example, has grown six-fold since 1970. The 125 Soviet submarines now on station in Asian waters include 50 nuclear-powered vessels. Considering Japan's utter dependence on food imported from the United States and tanker-borne petroleum from the Middle East, the Soviet Union's growing strength along the rim of the Western Pacific is cause for genuine concern.

Some military experts in both Japan and the United States even question whether effective control of the Sea of Japan has not already passed to the Soviet Union.

The Japanese, like their counterparts in Western Europe, must also reckon with the chilling reality of the United States relative decline in strategic nuclear strength. A white paper issued last year by Japan's defense ministry concluded that the United States had lost the unquestioned nuclear superiority it once held over the Soviet Union. And, like the Western Europeans, the Japanese are thus increasingly nervous about their own security, all the more so in light of the Soviet Union's marked superiority in conventional military strength.

Finally, recent events in Asia have done little to bolster Japanese confidence in American resolve. A recent public opinion poll conducted by one of Japan's largest newspapers found that 56 percent of those questioned doubted that the United States would meet its treaty obligation to defend Japan against aggression. Although Japanese officials favored the re-establishment of diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking, the Carter administration's unilateral abrogation of the mutual security treaty with Taiwan created understandable apprehension in Japan.

President Carter's cancellation in July of the phased withdrawal of American ground forces from South Korea no doubt eased some of Japan's immediate security concerns. But it cannot have obviated uncertainty over the United States' long-range commitment to remain a power in the Western Pacific.

Certainly Japan can afford to spend more for its own defense. Current military spending totals less than 1 percent of its $982.4 billion annual gross national product — the smallest relative defense effort of any major industrial nation. By comparison, the United States spends 5.6 percent of its GNP on defense and Soviet military spending, while a closely held secret, is believed to account for 15 percent or more of that country's GNP.

In part, Japan's patently inadequate defense budget reflects a constitutional, political and psychological commitment to pacifism that grew out of defeat in World War II. But, as the Japanese now realize, the world has changed dramatically in the years since 1945. The time has come for a vulnerable and militarily feeble Japan to build defenses more appropriate to the world's second-ranking economic power.

ROBERT K. COOPER

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Morale at the Federal Maritime Commission is at rock-bottom low two years after Jimmy Carter appointed Richard J. Daschbach as chairman.

Naming Daschbach chairman seemed like a good idea at the time for a new president with no clout on Capitol Hill. Daschbach was the former staff counsel of the Senate Merchant Marine and Tourism Subcommittee, and a protégé of Sen. Russell Long, D-La., one of the most powerful men in Congress.

But doubts about the gangly, 42-year-old redhead began bubbling up soon after he took over in August 1977. At first his colleagues thought he was just a bit eccentric. He would astonish commission officials by flying a balsa wood model airplane or whacking a paddle ball during business meetings. On occasion, shipping executives would show up for appointments and be greeted by their top government regulator sporting a railroad engineer's hat.

Such small-boy antics were unsettling enough. What really disturbed commission officials and industry representatives was Daschbach's apparent intention to make the maritime commission his own personal plaything. Though by law the chairman is supposed to be only first among equals on the five-member commission, numerous agency officials say Daschbach pursues his own plans and policies with little regard for his fellow commissioners, top staff officials or regulations.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Maritime chief inspiring a mutiny?

They say he insists on supervising the smallest housekeeping details personally, like parking assignments and the library's cancellation of a magazine subscription. One commission source complained that Daschbach "personalizes everything," and interprets any opposition as a sign of disloyalty.

"He sees the other commissioners as an interference to what he wants to do," a high-level agency official told our associate Peter Grant. Policy decisions require the involvement of the other four commissioners, but Daschbach has used the chairman's authority over hiring and firing, travel and other administrative matters, to ramrod his policies through the commission, sources say.

His exercise of staffing power is arbitrary and vindictive, sources told us. He reportedly has told subordinates, in apparent jest, that "you might not be here next year." According to internal memos, he has criticized staff members behind their backs, only to deny the remarks when confronted by the aggrieved parties. Top officials told us they fear that their telephones are tapped and their desks are rifled.

Their fears are not groundless. Daschbach's close personal adviser, Margaret Pepe, was caught red-handed going through one desk. She was observed by an official who described the incident in an internal memorandum.

Pepe's strange career at the commission has been the source of much bad feeling among agency staffers. She and Daschbach first met a year

CHARLEY REESE

Leaders needed who will tell truth to Third World

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — I read a plea by a liberal theologian recently who wants Christians to quit wasting their time on charity and change "the system" which causes poverty in the undeveloped world.

He never specified what system he wanted to install. He did say that capitalism, communism and socialism were no good. He is so distraught by human misery that it seems to me his good intentions exceed his reasoning power.

No doubt about it, there is a lot of human misery in the world. There are a lot of poor people in the world. There are a lot of hungry people in the world. But he is dead wrong in trying to pin the blame on the industrialized nations as most of the tinpot dictators in the undeveloped world try to do.

For one thing, it's rather foolish to talk about the leftover ills of colonialism in the Western Hemisphere when the people you are talking about are themselves the descendants of the colonialists.

It may be bad for a small Central American country to have a one-crop economy, but a one-crop economy is better than a no-crop economy. It is ignorant to think that every little geographic entity which calls itself a nation can have a broad, diversified economy. A great many of them simply lack the land area and resources to survive in any other fashion. In short, they may have a one-crop economy because experience has shown that is the best use of their limited land area.

The notion frequently peddled that the industrial nations exploit the undeveloped nations by extracting their natural resources is a bucket of hogwash.

Let's take Saudi Arabia, for example. Saudi Arabia didn't exist until the British bribed some tribesmen to revolt against the Turks and then defeated the Ottoman Empire. So, first of all, Saudi Arabia owes its very existence to imperialism.

The Saudis were poor as church mice. Underneath their bare feet lay one of the world's largest reservoirs of oil, but the Saudi Arabians didn't know it was there and couldn't have got it out of the ground if they had known it.

The industrialized nations discovered their oil, developed it, and bought it. Far from being exploited, the Saudis were the ungrateful recipient of a magnificent gift from industrialized Europe.

The same is true in Africa and South America. It was the imperialists who explored the jungles, built the railroads, found the natural resources, and provided a market for them. Without the imperialists, the undeveloped world would not be poor, it would still be in the stone age.

It would be a good exercise in reality recognition for the conference of so-called unaligned nations meeting in Havana to write down all of their contributions to mankind in science, health, and industry. All they would need would be a half of sheet of paper from a very small memo pad.

I get sick of hearing these yahoos beat their gums about imperialism and exploitation when in fact the industrialized nations created most of them and provided them with an infinitely higher standard of living than they had before they were "exploited."

If you want to know the truth, the people of the Third World are exploited all right: by themselves. It's the Mexican government, not the U.S., which dumps on the Mexican people. It's the Indian government which is responsible for Indian starvation. We send them wheat and they either resell it to Vietnam or let the rats eat it because they are too incompetent or uncaring to store and distribute it to their own people.

We very badly need to elect some new American leaders who have the courage to tell the truth to the Third World, which is that it needs us far more than we need it. They know it, in fact but they figure if we're dumb enough to fall for their line of baloney and pay them, then they'll take it.

As for the poor theologian, I'm afraid he'll die as frustrated as he has lived. There's no system which will eliminate all human misery. He can either stick with charity or he can try revolution, but either way he'll only be pouring a glass of water on a forest fire.

Mark Russell says

Now that school has started, good luck to all those teachers who must explain to their students the reason for gas shortages and busing at the same time.

Experts will tell you that the two issues are unrelated — probably because they believe that school buses run on jellybeans.

Students are wiser today — only because it takes them so long to travel to school on a bus. Therefore they are much older when they get there.

People's enthusiasm for busing is in direct proportion to the number of children they have at home over 22 years of age.

In the city of Cleveland, the people can be inspired to cheerfully accept busing only if the mayor sets an example — by moving his office to Detroit.

Busing has a better chance in Cleveland if the mayor sets an even better example and rides the bus himself — with the other kids.

INSIDE REPORT:

No evidence of CIA complicity in 'disinformation' campaign

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — With the return of Congress, the beleaguered Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) is under pressure to admit or disprove a charge of conducting a "disinformation" campaign against a persistent critic of U.S. foreign policy.

The dispute concerns a Dec. 8, 1977, story in the New York Times containing derogatory — and erroneous — charges against Greek expatriate Elias Demetrapoulos, an old critic of the CIA. The CIA, including director Stansfield Turner, has denied statements by the Times reporter that the agency was the source of the smears.

This boils down to who is telling the truth: Adm. Turner or the reporter? The bad news for the admiral is that Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Intelligence Oversight Subcommittee, has not accepted Turner's word as final. He was not satisfied with Turner's confidential reply to a letter asking about the Demetrapoulos affair, and is drafting another request for information.

In short, Turner is ensnared in a new — not an inherited — credibility problem. That the CIA, so often the scapegoat of White House sins and so desperately in need of rehabilitation, has managed to get in trouble on a tangential question is disheartening to those convinced that a strong intelligence effort is vital to this nation.

Official U.S. government hostility to Demetrapoulos, a prominent Greek journalist in the 1930s and 1960s, began in 1952. It was intensified when he left Greece after the 1967 military coup to lobby against the junta from Washington (where he still lives). But the CIA was trying to nail Demetrapoulos four years before the Junta took power.

On Nov. 13, 1963, this internal CIA message concerning Demetrapoulos was dispatched by then-CIA Director John McCone: "State (Department) pressing for any substantive derogatory data which can be utilized to deny subject (Demetrapoulos) subsequent entry to U.S. ... such state action might balloon into cause celebre but have promised State we doing all possible to research factual (sic) info. Pls cable any info... which could be passed to State."

The agency tried, but failed. Internal CIA documents prove that the agency has yet to find anything against Demetrapoulos other than his being an "annoyance" (apparently for his skillful political battle against dictatorship in his homeland). Accordingly, the Dec. 6, 1977, story about him by respected New York Times reporter David Binder came as a surprise.

Binder cited "CIA records" to support charges that, "In the 1950s, he was associated with both the Yugoslav and Israeli intelligence services." Binder also quoted a "CIA official" as saying Greek intelligence "found no evidence of underground resistance activities" by Demetrapoulos in World War II. But all this is unequivocally refuted by internal CIA documents that flatly state he never worked for a foreign power and contain a record of his World War II anti-Nazi heroism.

Binder made clear who gave him this material in a letter to the Washington Post of Dec. 31, 1977, responding to our column about his CIA sources. "I told him (Novak) that I had talked to State Department and Central Intelligence officials, among others," Binder wrote.

Since then, Demetrapoulos has sought through his lawyer, William Dobrovir, CIA remedial action against this "disinformation" campaign. On Jan. 6, 1978, CIA information coordinator Gene Wilson wrote Dobrovir that, "We can find no record of any document or information ever having been provided to Mr. Binder, either in writing or telephonically, pertaining to Mr. Demetrapoulos."

That is believed to be essentially the response received by Rep. Aspin from Adm. Turner in classified correspondence — the correspondence that has not satisfied Aspin. On Aug. 15, CIA information coordinator George W. Owens informed Dobrovir that his request for the Aspin-Turner correspondence — pending for two weeks short of a full year — had been denied. Unmistakably, the stall was on.

Since other journalists (including us) have been given erroneous derogatory information about Demetrapoulos over the years, there is every reason to believe that Binder is telling the exact truth and none at all that he is not.

More people are using serve-yourself gas pumps these days, and many cars are not getting the attention they need. West Texas' dusty conditions and extremes of temperature necessitate oil and filter changes more often than many manuals recommend. As the family auto represents to the average family an investment second only to the home, it makes good financial sense to protect that investment with care which will ensure the best possible return in useful service and highest possible resale value. Some know how to take care of their own cars and enjoy doing so,

Memorex plans to build complex near Dallas

PLANO, Texas. (AP) — Memorex Corp. has announced plans to construct a large manufacturing complex on a 42-acre site in this community north of Dallas. The California-based corporation, one of the nation's largest data-processing equipment manufacturers, has leased a building near the site of the plant, on Dallas North Parkway, just east of North Central Expressway. A company spokesman said the firm has not completed all planning for the Plano facility and has not decided how many persons will be employed at the plant. Memorex has a sales and service office and a major distribution and refurbishing plant at Las Colinas in nearby Irving.

Homebuilders will 'weather' storm of high interest rates

By GLENN RITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing industry worries are mounting in the face of ever-increasing interest rates, but homebuilders will weather the tight-money climate, say many economists.

Builders will have to "play it a little more cautiously, but they won't fall off the edge," says Kenneth J. Kerin, economist for the National Association of Realtors.

That view was echoed repeatedly, in telephone interviews last week, by economists representing private forecasting firms, thrift institutions and real estate agents.

Homebuilders frequently face interest rates 3 percentage points above the current 12 1/4 percent prime rate. Many economists are saying the prime rate may reach 12 1/2 percent as early as this week, and "probably will go to 12 3/4 percent before long. The prime is the rate commercial banks lend to their best customers."

Disagreeing with many of his professional colleagues, Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders, says a 12 1/2 percent prime rate would present a "very dangerous" situation for builders.

As a backdrop to his pessimism, Sumichrast points to the housing industry's current condition. Housing starts this year are expected to decline 20 percent from 1978. The industry faces the loss of 480,000 jobs and $7.5 billion in wages. Bankruptcies among homebuilders during the first six months of 1979 are 33 percent higher than in the same period last year.

Sumichrast believes housing starts next year could plummet to 1.5 million units compared with slightly over 2 million last year.

That prediction is strongly rebutted by Jack Carlson, executive vice president of the National Association of Realtors, who sees housing starts rebounding next year to 1.9 million units.

"True, the prospects of homebuilders are not happy, but they're not nearly as bad as the last time around," says Kerin. The "last time around" was the 1973-75 recession when housing starts fell more than 50 percent from their peak.

During the last recession, credit and mortgages were very difficult to obtain. "That's not happening today," says Michael Evans of Evans Economics, a private forecasting firm in Washington.

"A 12 1/2 percent prime rate is not that high when the inflation rate is above 13 percent," says Evans.

Some builders will find it difficult to obtain the money needed to construct new homes, Evans acknowledges. But he adds: "Home prices are increasing phenomenally. Builders can't be hurting that much."

The average price of a single-family home increased from $62,500 in 1978 to $72,200 in 1979's second quarter.

Adds Kenneth Thygeson, chief economist of the U.S. League of Savings Associations: "People worried that the housing market would fall when we reached a 10 percent prime, then an 11 percent prime. There is no threshold. It's a figment of the imagination."

Economists in general do believe that homebuilders won't be able to speculate as much as in the past when they built many homes before their sale. Instead, many builders will have to present presale contracts before banks grant construction loans.

But such a development still would be a far cry from the extreme credit crunch that disrupted the industry during the last recession.

A primary reason for this relative availability of credit is the advent of money market certificates, which pay savers high enough interest to encourage them to keep their money in thrift institutions, the primary source of homebuilder loans and homebuyer mortgages.

"Moreover, non-traditional sources of mortgage money are more available from corporations to insurance companies, says Thygeson.

Despite skyrocketing housing costs and interest rates, overall demand for new homes remains relatively high.

Carlson attributes this to three causes: real estate remains a durable hedge against inflation; the prime homebuying sector, aged 25-34, continues to grow; and women's earning power has increased dramatically.

While muted optimism prevails, there are some danger signals. The higher incidence of builder bankruptcies is one, although most of the failures involved small contractors.

More distressing is a report from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board that net new savings at savings and loan associations "showed less than seasonal strength" in July.

Cuba summit ends with unity display

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The 6th non-aligned summit meeting has ended with displays of unity along with apprehension among some of what Fidel Castro will do during his next three years as official spokesman for the Third World. The most vivid symbol of non-aligned unity came shortly after the Cuban president brought down the gavel on what was perhaps the most raucous summit in the movement's history. Castro, leader of the leftist forces within the 95-nation movement, offered a warm embrace to Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, the last surviving founder of the movement and the principal advocate of neutrality between the United States and the Soviet Union. Both could claim victory as the conference came to an end at 9:35 a.m. Sunday after 13 hours of all-night wrangling in the new Palace of Congresses on the outskirts of Havana. Castro got the conference to condemn U.S. policies in the Middle East, Latin America and Southern Africa.

Alitalia purchases 747s

ROME (AP) — Alitalia, the Italian state airline, announced today it has signed a contract to buy nine Boeing 747 aircraft in place of the six McDonnell Douglas DC-10s for which it canceled its options last month. The airline said it will pay "more than $580 million" for the planes and spare engines bought from Boeing. Alitalia's cancellation of the DC-10 options was the first move by an airline to reverse a decision to buy the McDonnell Douglas jets, which were grounded and then allowed to return to service after a crash in Chicago in May.

Panel probes dangers of tranquilizers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A physician who was addicted to a mild tranquilizer told the Senate health subcommittee today that he suffered withdrawal pangs similar to "somebody forcing kerosene under my skin and then somebody setting fire to it." Dr. William Thomas of the Long Beach (Calif.) General Hospital described his personal fight against the prescription drug Valium as the panel held a one-day hearing on the dangers of the relaxant medications. The subcommittee's chairman, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said "the tranquilizing of America has become very big business."

Kennedy said that for many Americans, Valium, Librium and other tranquilizers have brought needed relief and assisted in prompt recovery. "For others, these drugs have produced a nightmare of dependence and addiction, both very difficult to treat and to recover from," he said. Thomas, who said he started using Valium in 1964 for anxiety, said he became paranoid and depressed over the years as he increased the dosage. He said he went "cold turkey" off Valium and has not consumed any pills since April 1974. As part of a national effort to help Americans of all ages get in shape and stay in shape, the Central YMCA is offering a course in Beginning Fitness for Adults, Pat Owens, physical education director of the Y, said today.

Several sessions are available, beginning this week, including a morning class for women only, a noon class for men only, and an afternoon class for both men and women.

The course is designed as a four-week introduction to fitness concepts and techniques. Qualified instructors will work closely with participants in not only showing the "how" to exercise, but also in explaining the "why" certain techniques are effective in helping individuals reach their fitness goals.

"While most Midlanders recognize the benefits of a regular exercise program too often people lack the necessary knowledge or motivation to make it an important part of their lifestyle," Owens said. "This course is aimed toward getting people started and keeping them going."

At the end of the introductory course, participants will be promoted to ongoing advanced classes at the Y or they can receive counseling and assistance in choosing among the many recreational fitness programs that the Y offers.

Persons wishing more information on the Central YMCA's Beginning Fitness Course can telephone 682-2551.

Commission investigates ad claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission is looking into advertising claims for some contraceptives that allegedly overstate their effectiveness and can lead to unwanted pregnancies.

The FTC disclosed it is conducting a "nonpublic investigation" of advertising for non-prescription vaginal contraceptives.

The commission had been asked by a group of law students to regulate the ads. In denying the students' petition, the commission said it already had an investigation under way. The investigation could lead to FTC action against some firms, although the commission revealed no details of the probe.

The commission added, "The problems which the petition discusses are grave ones and the consequences of contraceptive failure are serious for both the individual and society."

This answer did not satisfy the Students for the Examination of Contraceptive Effectiveness or three members of Congress. Calling for additional information on the "non-public investigation" were Reps. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y.; Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Calif.; and Barbara A. Mikulski, D-Md.

DEAR ABBY

Playing straight with gay spouses

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Your advice to DESPERATE WIFE, who came home early and found her husband in bed with his best friend (another male), was not very well thought out. You said, "Bisexuality is a fact of life that can occur in any family. Give him up gracefully, he has already consciously or unconsciously made a choice."

Abby if he has been a wonderful husband for 18 years, and a great father, as she stated, she should have been encouraged to try to save her marriage rather than demolish it.

Granted she is in shock, and granted there has been deception on his part, but she isn't the only woman in the world who's married to a gay man. If she lives in a big city, there is a mental health clinic and a gay community service agency which can put her and her husband in touch with a support group for gay married men and their wives. Counselors will help them deal with the realities of their marriage and show them how to build a new relationship based on honest and open communication. Or they may conclude that it's best to separate.

rate. But at least they should consider the alternatives instead of scrapping the marriage.

I am sorry that you viewed the situation as hopeless. It isn't. GAILY MARRIED IN S.F.

DEAR GAILY MARRIED: Although my answer was (I thought) very well thought out, a surprising number of readers wrote to say that they are happily married to bisexual mates, and my advice was way out in left field. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I'm sorry DESPERATE WIFE didn't ask ME for advice instead of you. I have been happily married to a bisexual man for 33 years and have no regrets. We raised four wonderful children who knew nothing of their father's proclivity until they were grown and able to understand it.

None of them love him any less for it, and all are heterosexual, I might add.

I knew my husband was gay when I married him, but I never felt threatened by it. He was 38 and I was 34. We were both in the theater. I could bet my life that he has never had an affair since our marriage.

If I had caught my husband in the arms of another man at any point in our marriage I would no more have considered divorcing him than I could had I caught him with a woman. He's a fine, beautiful man who by nature is able to relate sexually to both sexes, which is not rare as most people think. — NAMELESS, PLEASE, IN N.Y.C.

Lecture slated

Dora Watkins of Hobbs, N.M., who is currently on a lecture tour of Texas and New Mexico, sponsored by the Inner Peace Movement, will present a lecture on "Keys for Unlocking Your Fears" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Permian Basin Graduate Center, 221 N. Main St.

The lecture is open to all interested persons. There will be a $1.50 fee.

Ms. Watkins believes that life is simple and that everyone can learn to tap the wisdom and creativity within to build a more successful and peaceful life for himself.

She has a background in public relations, newspaper and radio, executive secretary, teacher, sales and social work. She has a degree in journalism from The University of Texas-Austin, is married, the mother of four children. She has been a leader with the Inner Peace Movement several years and is a member of the International Board of Directors. She is regional director for Texas and New Mexico and has toured extensively in the region.

The purpose of the Inner Peace Movement is to show persons in a community that when they are relaxed, their psychic sensitivities are more apparent and they are able to communicate and see things more clearly through these sensitivities. Also to show them how to harness these sensitivities and use them in a practical way.

Ms. Watkins said in a brief interview in Midland, "The biggest energy crisis in America today is that individuals are not using their own energy. Persons should start relaxing and using what they really have, using their potential."

Carroll O'Connor takes fourth Emmy in Sunday awards show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carroll O'Connor won a fourth Emmy for his portrayal of cantankerous Archie Bunker on "All in the Family," while guest stars from "Taxi" and "The Incredible Hulk" claimed other top acting honors in the Television Academy's annual awards.

President Carter, in a live broadcast from the White House Sunday night, paid tribute to three slain TV newsmen during the show that lasted slightly more than 2½ hours, the shortest in years.

The audience at the Pasadena Center reserved its biggest ovation for CBS newsmen Walter Cronkite who received the Academy's Governor's award. Cronkite gently reminded them that TV entertainment, like news, had "done a pretty fair job, not good enough, but pretty fair."

Another favorite was 71-year-old Milton Berle, who was honored for his longtime contribution to television. In his acceptance speech Berle claimed he had only a single one-liner:

"I can't tell you what this means to me."

"Taxi," in its first year on ABC, was named the outstanding comedy series. "Lou Grant" was named best drama series.

O'Connor's award was for best actor in a comedy series. Ruth Gordon won as best actress in a comedy series for a guest role on "Taxi."

Ron Leibman, whose show "Kaz" was canceled by CBS, was named best lead actor in a drama series. "This is very surprising," Leibman quipped. "Here it is Sunday night, and 'Kaz' is not pre-empted."

Mariette Hartley won as best actress in a drama series for a guest appearance as the ill-fated bride of Bill Bixby on CBS's "The Incredible Hulk."

ABC's "Friendly Fire" was named the best drama special, but stars, Carol Burnett and Ned Beatty, lost the acting honors for the category to Bette Davis for CBS's "Strangers: The Story of a Mother and Daughter."

and Peter Strauss for "The Jericho Mile." "Friendly Fire" told the story of a Midwest farm family's anguish over the death of their son by American fire in Vietnam. In accepting his Emmy, executive producer Martin Starger dedicated the award "to the memory of Michael Mullin and his family of LaPorte, Iowa."

ABC's "Roots II" was selected as best limited series, but only Marlon Brando won in the acting category for best supporting player. Brando, who had refused an Oscar for his role in "The Godfather" in 1973, was not present.

"I'm sure if Mr. Brando were here he'd thank the Academy. Perhaps not," deadpanned actor John Ritter, who presented the award.

CBS's "Lou Grant," which led the nominations with 14, picked up only one additional Emmy — for writing.

The NBC miniseries "Backstairs at the White House," with 11 nominations, won a single craft award.

ABC received 20 awards in all categories, including the craft awards presented Saturday night. NBC received 15, and CBS 13. Five Emmys went to PBS and three went to syndicated shows.

The committee of school teachers and administrators may choose as many as five books per course. Final adoptions will be made Nov. 10 by the elected State Board of Education.

Texas Electric TIPS help keep home electric bills down.

Saving energy — and energy dollars — in your home can be as simple as using energy wisely.

For example, make sure filters are kept clean in your furnace, air conditioner and clothes dryer. This ensures units are operating efficiently. And using less energy.

For additional savings on heating and cooling, keep drapes closed for extra insulation on overcast winter days and hot summer days. But on sunny winter days, open them to let the warm sunshine in.

And, turn off ALL appliances when you're not using them. When you stop and think of the many ways you use electricity, you'll see what an energy saver this can be!

For more information — and a lot more tips — get the TIPS booklet from Texas Electric. Just call Texas Electric or ask for the booklet on the comments section of your next electric bill.

At Texas Electric, we're trying to help you keep your electric bill down.

Blind man choosing 'perfect' home for cataract-stricken guide dog

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Keith Roark will never see Mike and Denise Pirtle's home. But the blind man will instinctively know if it's right and that will end his devoted nationwide journey to find the perfect home for Lottie, his cataract-stricken guide dog.

Roark of Decatur, Ga., who has been forced to give up his companion of eight years because of her own failing eyesight, arrived here Sunday night and turned Lottie over to the young San Antonio couple until Wednesday.

Either the Pirtles or a Tucson, Ariz., couple will get Lottie by the end of the week, Roark said. His strict requirements have eliminated the rest of the 800 families.

"It was heartbreaking," said Mrs. Pirtle, 27, who read about Lottie in a San Antonio newspaper and wrote to Roark. "I couldn't see anybody putting a dog to sleep because she is going blind. I grew up with German shepherds. I love them. I want to spoil Lottie. She'll be treated like a member of the family."

who read of Roark's plight and offered to adopt the friendly, tan-and-black German shepherd.

"Lottie is part of me and part of me is going to be gone. She is not a dog; she is my eyes," the 47-year-old Roark said Sunday night as he arrived, hugging Mrs. Pirtle at the gate. Lottie shook hands with the Pirtles and nestled beside Mrs. Pirtle as Roark talked to reporters.

Lottie, who is 10, can no longer serve as a guide dog, but is still suitable as a house pet. Roark said it's impossible for him to keep Lottie while trying to grow accustomed to the new dog he'll receive Oct. 1.

Roark said he wanted to find Lottie the perfect home or he would have been forced to have Lottie destroyed. His plight received nationwide publicity.

"It was heartbreaking," said Mrs. Pirtle, 27, who read about Lottie in a San Antonio newspaper and wrote to Roark. "I couldn't see anybody putting a dog to sleep because she is going blind. I grew up with German shepherds. I love them. I want to spoil Lottie. She'll be treated like a member of the family."

Mrs. Pirtle's 13-year-old German shepherd, Sarge, had to be destroyed three years ago. "Reading the story about Lottie brought back so many memories," she said.

Mrs. Pirtle is a supermarket employee and sophomore at San Antonio College, while her husband, also 27, works for the state highway department.

Lottie will remain alone with the Pirtles, but they must call Roark with progress reports each hour they are awake. Roark will remain in his downtown hotel to give Lottie a chance to decide if she likes it there.

Roark will then visit in the Pirtles' home and take Lottie back to the hotel Wednesday to make his decision.

Roark, who lost his sight 10 years ago while serving with the Air Force in Vietnam, said he has been to 10 cities in his quest for Lottie's retirement home. He and Lottie visited last week in Tucson with the Richard Johnson family, the other finalist.

Roark, who was a basic trainee in San Antonio, came here from Las Vegas, where another prospective family was eliminated because they lived in a condominium without a large enough yard for the dog.

Roark's decision, he said, also will be based on whether he encounters any discrimination against his seeing-eye dog in the cities where the families live. Roark said he has encountered such discrimination in many cities.

The Pirtles have signed a notarized agreement in which they promise to adhere to an incredibly strict set of requirements.

Lottie must be groomed twice per day, walked at least a mile and a half each day and taken to the veterinarian every 90 days. She is to be fed a certain type of dogfood and vitamins and cannot be left alone for more than an hour.

And when she dies, Lottie must be returned to Georgia for burial in a cemetery plot Roark has already selected.

"I already love that dog," Mrs. Pirtle said as she waited for Roark's flight to arrive. "I've already gone through a lot to get her."

MC sets fourth year of program

For the fourth year, Midland College is offering free Adult Basic Education classes to persons 16 years of age or older who have not completed their high school education.

Instruction resumes Monday at Midland College Adult Basic Education Center and the week of Sept. 17 at Guadalupe Education Center, Pease Elementary School, the MH-MR Center and Casa de Amigos.

Classes are designed to assist those unable to read, write or speak English and to help prepare students to pass the General Educational Development test.

Wanda Phillips, director of the Midland College ABE program, pointed out there are a surprising number of adults in Midland who have no command of the English language.

"In addition to the language barrier, the Bureau of Census report shows that 15,000 to 20,000 Midland residents are school dropouts who have not completed the 12th grade," Mrs. Phillips noted. "Of this number, 3,500 have less than a fifth grade education. It must be terribly frustrating not to be able to read well enough to interpret help wanted ads when one needs a job."

The adult general education classes range from level one instruction, which teaches adults to read and write, to preparation for the GED test, equivalent of a high school diploma.

Instruction also provides studies in math, English, social studies, natural sciences and literature.

Last year, nearly 900 adults in Midland attended ABE classes sponsored by the college. While many of these students needed help in specific academic areas, 110 adults received general instruction which enabled them to pass the GED test and receive certificates.

"We also provide assistance for high school graduates who have a deficiency in any of the basic courses such as reading or math," Mrs. Phillips said. "Standardized tests are given to high school graduates who may be admitted if they have skills at less than the 12th grade level and need remedial work."

The MC Adult Learning Center, directed by Jean Schwisow, is open six hours a day from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Students receive individualized attention and have access to audiovisual equipment. The programs are designed to help students advance rapidly and achieve any level they set for themselves.

"Our goal is to locate and assist those who want an education," Mrs. Phillips stated. "We hope to make them more self-reliant and productive."

Adult Basic Education classes held off campus meet from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at Guadalupe Education Center, 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays and Tuesdays at Pease Elementary School, 1 to 3 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays at MH-MR Center and 10 a.m. to noon Tuesdays and Thursdays at Casa de Amigos.

More information may be obtained by calling Midland College at 684-7851, extension 159 or 157.

Khmeini rival reported dead

By The Associated Press

Ayatollah Mahmoud Taleghani, a former rival of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and one of the liberal leaders of the Iranian revolution, was reported to have died early today.

The Japanese news agency Kyodo reported the death of Tehran's 69-year-old religious leader in the Iranian capital. The cause of death was not reported, but the ayatollah never fully recovered from torture inflicted on him.

School busing under way peacefully in Cleveland

CLEVELAND — School buses began rolling without incident today in troubled Cleveland, taking the first step in a court-ordered effort to end a history of segregated education in Ohio's largest public school system.

Some 3,500 students expected were to ride 123 buses to class today, some spending an hour traveling each way from one end of the city of 600,000 to the other.

By Thursday, when all the system's estimated 88,000 students — two-thirds of them non-white — are scheduled to be in school, 9,500 students will be bused daily. A federal judge's desegregation timetable calls for systemwide integration by September 1980, with as many as 52,000 pupils being bused.

Citizens Opposed to Rearranging Kids, one of three anti-busing groups urging parents to keep their children out of Cleveland schools, planned an all-day picnic today.

The school system hired a 200-member security force to ride each school bus and keep in radio contact with a command post. Vacations and compensatory time off were canceled for the 1,800-member Cleveland Police Department, which established 23 response teams of eight officers each.

Pokes unimpressive

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are unbeaten, perhaps untested and definitely frustrated heading into the third week of the National Football League season.

"We're 2-0 but we've been playing like we're 0-2. The real test will come when we play a contender," said defensive end Harvey Martin, whose endzone tackle of San Francisco quarterback Steve Deberg gave the Cowboys two late insurance points in Sunday's 21-13 victory over the 49ers.

The National Football Conference champions, who slipped past the St. Louis Cardinals in their season opener, trailed the 49ers 10-6 late in the third period. San Francisco's O.J. Simpson returned to action with a promising performance that included a go-ahead, one-yard touchdown run just before halftime.

"I felt pretty good. In fact, I wish we had run the ball more," said Simpson, held out of the early exhibition games because of a sore knee. His rushed debut, delayed until Sunday because of the death of a daughter in late August.

"He will have a good season," predicted 49ers Coach Bill Walsh. "We didn't have enough running offense for him, for this game. I'm not giving away any secrets when I say that you can expect us to have a lot more for him next week."

Roger Staubach's first two 1979 touchdown passes, 22 yards to Drew Pearson in the third period and 13 yards to Billy Joe DuPree in the final quarter, sent the 49ers to their second straight defeat.

"We're doing some good things but not doing them consistently," said Staubach, who had hoped the Dallas offense would have a lot more success running, especially since Tony Dorsett was back in the lineup.

"The combination of their defense and the penalties really hurt. We'd make a big play and it would be called back. We had a lot of first-and-20s," added the quarterback who completed 20 passes for 259 yards.

The penalties against the Cowboys kept piling up until they totaled 125 yards.

"I'll be seeing yellow flags in my sleep," said Coach Tom Landry. "If we didn't have those penalties, it wouldn't have been a game. It would have been a rout."

Dorsett, recovered from a broken toe, carried the ball 19 times for 54 yards but said, "I told myself before the game I would be all right. But I was rusty. In the second half, I began to feel more comfortable."

Two big defensive plays, an interception by linebacker D.D. Lewis that set up Staubach's second touchdown pass and the tackle by Martin for the safety, were necessary to make the Cowboys feel comfortable late in the going against the 49ers.

Aging vet Alou puts Astros back in NL lead

By FRANK BROWN

AP Sports Writer

As the sun set over National League West, the Houston Astros were back on top — thanks to a 36-year-old, part-time player in the twilight of his career.

Jesus Alou has spent this season as a coach-pinchhitter for the Astros. He has batted only 37 times, with nine hits — the latest a two-run double in the four-run eighth inning that carried Houston to a 4-1 triumph over the San Francisco Giants Sunday.

The Astros trailed 1-0 and had managed only four hits through seven innings. Then in the eighth, pinch-hitter Dave Bergman and Cesar Cedeño singled off San Francisco reliever Greg Minton.

Shortstop Craig Reynolds was the next scheduled batter, but when Giants Manager Dave Bristol brought in left-hander Gary Lavelle, Astros Manager Bill Virdon went looking for a little more right-handed power than Reynolds usually displays.

"I just tried to pick somebody to hit the ball hard and get something started," said Virdon, whose glance at the reserves on the Houston bench came to an end when he spotted Alou.

The veteran was ready. "You have to think about the base runners and situations in the game and still try to prepare yourself to pinch hit if you are called," said Alou, who answered the call with the double that produced the winning runs, then departed for pinch-runner Julio Gonzalez.

Denny Walling's single plated Gonzalez and Enos Cabell's double scored Walling to cap the explosion that sent the Astros past the Giants and back into the West Division lead.

The Cincinnati Reds, who had taken a one-half game lead Saturday, lost it when Steve Garvey's seventh-inning homer snapped a tie and gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 3-1 triumph.

Dodgers 3, Reds 1—Garvey's seventh-inning homer snapped a 1-1 tie and helped Los Angeles defeat Cincinnati to leave the Reds a half-game out entering a two-game series with Houston. Dodgers right-hander Rick Sutcliffe hurled five innings in pain after being struck on the pitching arm by a line drive off the bat of Johnny Bench. Sutcliffe told Manager Tom Lasorda he felt well enough to continue after the mishap, "but if I'd have been smart, I probably would have come out of the game. I figured I had nothing to gain and everything to lose by coming out."

As it turned out, it was the Reds who were the losers.

Pirates 6, Mets 5—Willie Stargell doubled home Dave Parker with one out in the ninth inning, snapping a tie and carrying Pittsburgh past New York. Manager Joe Torre, whose Mets wasted a 4-1 lead, said the Pirates were his choice to win the East race "because of their experience. I picked them in the spring and I'm not going to change now. The Expos have a ton of talent, but I've still got to give this club (Pittsburgh) the nod."

Expos 4, Cardinals 1—Gary Carter and Ellis Valentine had three hits apiece, pacing Montreal's eight-hit attack and boosting the Expos to their victory over St. Louis. Carter hit his 21st homer of the year, singled and doubled while Valentine had a double and two singles.

Manager Ken Boyer, whose Cardinals are third in the East — eight games back — had his own observations on the race. Speaking of Pittsburgh and Montreal, he said: "They've both got a lot of depth in their pitching staffs. Pittsburgh maybe has the edge in power." Then he spoke of his team's chances: "The body's still alive, so we're not going to bury it."

Cubs 15, Phillies 2—Barry Foote had four hits, including a grand-slam homer in Chicago's five-run fourth, and Larry Bittner also had four hits as the Cubs amassed a season-high 22 hits in their rout of Philadelphia.

Padres 4, Braves 1—Gene Tenace hit his 17th homer of the season to help Randy Jones and San Diego beat Atlanta and Phil Niekro, 17-19.

Midland, Lee Booster clubs meet Tuesday

Coaches will also give scouting reports of this week's opponents.

Cards lose all-pro tackle Dan Dierdorf

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals All-Pro offensive tackle Dan Dierdorf will be lost to the National Football League team for the season after suffering torn knee ligaments in the Cardinals' game against the New York Giants, a Cardinals spokesman says.

Austin, McEnroe triumph

NEW YORK (AP) — She's 16, quiet, reserved, steady rather than flashy, a sprightly suburban schoolgirl with pigtails and pink dresses.

He's 20, brash, brazen, a shoot-from-the-hip street kid in sneakers with the talent to back up his words.

Tracy Austin and John McEnroe. They are tennis' younger generation, and Sunday they showed a sellout crowd at the U.S. Open and a national television audience that the future is now.

Austin, playing her patient baseline game to perfection and capitalizing on her opponent's uncommonly frequent errors, dethroned four-time defending titlist Chris Evert Lloyd 6-4, 6-3 to become the youngest champion in U.S. tennis championship history.

Then it was McEnroe's turn, and the outcome was never in doubt. In the first all-New York final in U.S. Open history, McEnroe's strong serve and volley game proved far too effective for Vitas Gerulaitis. McEnroe won 7-5, 6-3, 6-3, to become the youngest winner of the men's singles title since Pancho Gonzalez, who was 19 when he won in 1948.

Both singles winners earned $39,000 from the total prize money of $563,600.

When it was all over, McEnroe heaved his racket 25 feet into the air, his ruddy face contorted in ecstasy. He had proven himself a champion before an ornery hometown crowd that earlier in the two-week event had cheered his every fault.

"This is by far the biggest win I've ever had, especially because this tournament is practically in my backyard," said McEnroe, who lives with his family in Douglaston, some 10 minutes from the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadow.

"I didn't think I got nervous at matches, but these last two have really been something. I was so nervous it was a joke."

McEnroe, the No. 3 seed, had a tumultuous road to the finals. Two of his opponents defaulted. His second-round match against Ilie Nastase was a circus, an unruly crowd holding up play for 15 minutes and forcing the removal of umpire Frank Hammond.

Saturday he faced Jimmy Connors, the defending champion who had beaten McEnroe in straight sets in the same circumstances a year ago.

"Last year I went in with a negative attitude — I knew Jimmy was going to beat me," said McEnroe. "This year it was different. This was the first time I came into the tournament confident I could win."

McENROE knocked off Connors 6-3, 6-3, 7-5 and rode that high into the final against Gerulaitis. "I'm sorry I had to beat Vitas, because he's a friend of mine," said McEnroe. "But I'm glad he went out there and played lousy."

Actually, Gerulaitis — the No. 4 seed who grew up in Brooklyn and Howard Beach and now resides in nearby Kings Point — didn't play that badly; McEnroe

Trojans happy to escape Texas alive

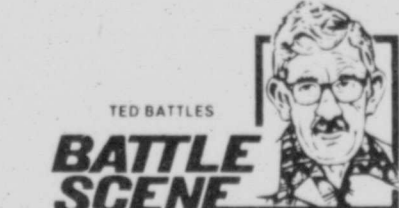

Johnny Robinson... "Oh, my God"

From the cardinal and gold garb you couldn't be sure whether they had really come all the way from California or were just some Austin College fans who made the wrong turn on the way to the game. Then, they passed the new Letterman's Lounge and saw the name of the stadium and you knew.

One of the visitors said, "Clifford and Audrey Jones Stadium... they just have to be related to Howard Jones."

Howard, of course, was the football coach who brought the University of Southern California into national prominence back in the 1920, a prominence they still enjoy, virtually uninterrupted, more than half a century later.

In spoiling the upset hopes of Texas Tech 21-7 Saturday night, the Trojans didn't do much to tarnish that image, although any other team that lost two All-Americans to injury, they know not for how long, might have considered the victory a disaster as far as their No. 1 aspirations are concerned. However, at USC there's always a Ricky Bell to make 'em forget Anthony Davis.

ONE OF the losses was Heisman Trophy candidate Charles White, who in pregame warmups looked more like an old-fashioned scabbard, until it was realized his smallness was an optical illusion.

Back in the SWC days of Louie Kelcher, when SMU lined up in a goal line stand, when Louie stood up he blotted out the entire offense. When the USC offensive line stands up, they blot out all of West Texas and any view one might have of the Rockies.

It's little wonder USC so consistently turns out All-America tailbacks. Nowhere, pro or college, does an offensive line so physically outman its opposition year after year. It's little wonder that when a Davis, Bell or Simpson goes to the pros, he feels demoted.

White, who suffered a bruised shoulder.

"I thought we had a chance to win it right down to the last," said Rex Dockery, who was SWC Coach of the Year in 1978 in his rookie year at Texas Tech. "I think we are a lot better football team than we were last year at this time."

Dockery added, "We are much better defensively than I had hoped."

Then he smiled: "I think maybe Senor Sack has something to do with that."

Dockery was referring to 300-pound Gabriel Rivera, a massive freshman from San Antonio who runs an incredible 4.9 in the 40. The young noseguard made five unassisted tackles against the Trojans, including one where he chased down Southern Cal quarterback Paul McDonald on a sideline to sideline run.

"We're still not going to start him until he gets into shape but ain't he something?" said Dockery. "I told you he would be a player. I don't know if I want him to lose weight now or not."

Southern Methodist unwrapped two heralded freshmen running backs, Eric Dickerson and Craig James, in a 35-17 SWC victory over Rice and the crowd of 60,217 in Texas Stadium wasn't disappointed.

Dickerson scored three touchdowns and James scored one.

SMU Coach Ron Meyer called it just an average night for Dickerson. "We were very, very ragged. Eric can play better than that. I consider this just an average Eric Dickerson game," Meyer said.

"I think I can play with this league," Dickerson said.

And James commented: "I wasn't as nervous as I thought I would be. But you could tell it was my first college game. Seeing that big crowd really lit my eyes up."

In other games, Houston hosts Florida, Colorado State is at Arkansas, Rice entertains Tulane and Texas Tech hosts New Mexico.

Who else after losing an All-America guard like 6-7, 280 pound Anthony Munoz could replace him with a freshman who has yet to attend his first class at USC like Don Mosebar, a growing 6-7, 265, who last year played at Visalia, where his backs averaged more than eight yards a carry running over his tackle position.

Incidentally, Michael Hayes, the replacement for White, is a senior recruited for baseball and never had carried a down for the Trojans before.

COACH Johnny Robinson was relieved to escape Lubbock with a victory, pointing out, "We lost four players and it took a lot of poise to survive. Just as I was starting to say 'Oh, my God,' our team just kept playing. We never really let them get in control of it."

But Robinson said he never expected it to be easy. "Rex Dockery didn't think we were going to win big and I didn't think we were going to win big."

The USC coach was particularly impressed with Tech's sophomore punter, Maury Buford, who averaged 49 points on seven punts. "He looked like Ray Guy." Of course, his own punter, David Pryor, didn't do a bad job either, twice pinning Tech inside its five with an exhibition of old-fashioned coffin-corner marksman-ship.

When a California writer suggested the Trojans weren't impressive winning and took too long to solve the Tech defense, Robinson was quick to set the scribe straight on both counts.

"Against a good team, it often takes three quarters to figure out a defense. And don't kid yourself, this wasn't two different classes of football teams. Tech is one of the better teams in the country."

When someone praised the quickness of USC's defense, Robinson agreed, but apologized for its lack of size. "When they were in there, James Hadnot (Tech tailback) was the biggest player on the field."

PAUL McDONALD, who may become USC's first All-America quarterback, a trivia note that is almost impossible to believe, was equally impressed by Tech's defense. "They played an eight-man front a lot and we had to check off on weakside running plays frequently. And on passing plays, we had to try to take advantage of their man-to-man coverage by the cornerbacks."

"They had an excellent game plan. They took away our 28 outside pitch and our out pass patterns and it took us a half to adjust."

McDonald confirmed that his 19-yard touchdown pass to Dan Garcia, the score that gave USC 14-0 leverage in the third quarter, was an audible. "We had a 30-counter called when I saw the defense and switched to a pass to try to take advantage of their man-to-man defense. The corner was playing inside out on our split receiver. We had worked on it all week and I just floated it for him."

As the Trojans took their leave of West Texas, a hearty, "Y'all come back, now, ya hear...but not too soon."

Red Raiders again team to watch

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

AP Sports Writer

Texas Tech was the surprise team in the Southwest Conference last fall and dressing room testimony Saturday night indicated the Red Raiders may be the team to watch again this year.

The Red Raiders fell 21-7 to top-ranked Southern California but not until some severe bruises were inflicted on the Trojans in a game much closer than the score indicated.

"We had to play hard to beat one of the best teams in the country," said Southern Cal Coach John Robinson. "Watch out for Texas Tech. They are a good football team."

Southern Cal had four limpoffs including All-America tailback Charles

White, who suffered a bruised shoulder.

"I thought we had a chance to win it right down to the last," said Rex Dockery, who was SWC Coach of the Year in 1978 in his rookie year at Texas Tech. "I think we are a lot better football team than we were last year at this time."

Oilers, Steelers flop in heraded rematch

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It was touted as a rematch. It wound up looking more like a replay.

Eight months ago the Pittsburgh Steelers ignored — or took advantage of — freezing rain and beat the visiting Houston Oilers 34-5 to take that big step that got them into the Super Bowl.

Sunday's regular-season game was being hailed as a rematch of that American Conference title showdown. This time the weather in Pittsburgh was exactly the opposite — warm, sunny, clear — but the result was virtually the same. This time the Steelers mauled the Oilers 38-7.

"I said last January that the weather didn't beat us — Pittsburgh did — and they won the ballgame today in ideal weather conditions for both teams," Houston Coach Phillips admitted.

Tonight it's Atlanta at Philadelphia. "They did everything that got them to the Super Bowl," Phillips said of the Steelers.

In fact, it was frightening what the Steelers did. On offense, Terry Bradshaw passed for two touchdowns. One of them went to Sidney Thornton, who also ran for a TD.

But it was the Steel Curtain defense that really shone. The Oilers managed a scant 124 yards — total yards — against Joe Greene, Jack Lambert and friends.

Patriots 56, Jets 3—A defense isn't the only thing that can take the life out of a defense. A more potent offense can, too — like New England's, for instance. A week ago, it looked weak against the Steelers. Steve Grogan's passing game was clearly off. But against the Jets he was magnificent, completing five touchdowns covering 49, 44 and 28 yards to Harold Jackson and 37 and 20 yards to Stanley Morgan.

"So much was said and written I had to laugh at it," Grogan said of his mediocre showing against Pittsburgh last Monday night. "I said to myself, 'What am I worried about?' The coaches have faith in me, and the players have faith in me, and that's all I have to worry about. It relaxed me."

Bills 51, Bengals 24—Buffalo, which displayed its defensive prowess in a narrow 9-7 loss to Miami last Sunday, showed what it is capable of doing with the ball. More specifically, Roland Hooks showed what he can do with the ball. The one-time reserve running back behind O.J. Simpson, now residing in Terry Miller's shadow, touched it seven times. Four times he scored on runs of 2, 32, 4 and 28 yards and on the other three he caught passes for 60 yards.

Chargers 30, Raiders—San Diego waited a full year to get even for what has become known as the "immature deception." Ken Stabler's intentional fumble that was kicked and dribbled into the end zone by Pete Banaszak and Dave Casper for a last-second winning touchdown.

The Chargers got what they wanted — even! Dan Fouts passed for three touchdowns. And just for good measure, linebacker Woodrow Lowe ran a Stabler interception 32 yards for another TD.

"We remembered what they did last year, coming back like they did," Lowe said of the Chargers' game-length intensity. "We knew we couldn't slack up. They stole it from us last year, we hadn't forgotten that."

Bucs 29, Colts 26—Greg Landry of Baltimore was cooking his arm to throw on the third play of overtime when Randy Crowder of Tampa Bay got to him. The resulting fumble was recovered by the Bucs' Bill Kollar — and Neil O'Donoghue immediately kicked a 31-yard field goal that beat the Colts.

Toni Linhart of Baltimore sent the game into overtime with a 38-yard field goal less than 1½ minutes from the end of regulation play.

Dolphins 19, Seahawks 10—Miami's Bob Griese threw two touchdown passes — 7 yards to Norm Bulaich and 3 yards to Nat Moore — and rookie Uwe von Schamann kicked field goals of 36 and 31 yards to beat the Seahawks. The Dolphins intercepted three passes by Jim Zorn and each one led to a score, including the two field goals by von Schamann, who replaced Garo Yepremian on the Miami roster.

Bears 26, Vikings 7—Walter Payton amassed 182 yards — 141 of them in the second period — in Chicago's trouncing of the Vikings. Payton scored touchdowns of 43 and 26 yards and reserve quarterback Vince Evans combined with James Scott on a 56-yard scoring pass play. Tommy Kramer, who threw for four TDs last week for Minnesota, ran 2 yards for the Vikings' lone score this week.

Packers 28, Saints 19—Steve Atkins ran 3 yards for Green Bay's winning TD, then sprinted 60 yards to set up a 3-yard scoring run by Eric Torkelson that locked up the Packers' victory over New Orleans.

Cardinals 27, Giants 14—Otis Anderson of the Cardinals became only the fourth rookie in NFL history to rush for 100 yards in his first two games, tacking 111 onto his 193 of a week ago as St. Louis rallied from a 14-0 deficit to beat the Giants.

Redskins 27, Lions 24—Washington's Mark Moseley, given a second chance by the Lions, beat them with a 41-yard field goal eight seconds from the final gun. He's missed from 46 yards out, but Detroit was penalized 5 yards for having too many men on the field. Joe Theismann threw two TD passes for the Redskins.

Browns 27, Chiefs 24—Brian Sipe threw three TD passes, the final one a 21-yarder to Reggie Rucker with 52 seconds left, to vault Cleveland past the Chiefs.

Can Trojans still win war?

By Associated Press

Southern California's top-ranked Trojans won the first battle. Now it remains to be seen if they can go on and win the war.

Pyrrhus doesn't play for these men of Troy and it was not immediately known how many injured warriors will be hale and hearty for next week's Oregon State game or whether Saturday night's 21-7 season-opening triumph over Texas Tech was a pyrrhic victory.

The Trojans lost All-America tailback Charles White (shoulder injury), mammoth tackle Anthony Munoz (knee), center Chris Foote (leg) and rover Ronnie Lott (shoulder).

Second-ranked Alabama, college football's defending national champion, got rolling after a sluggish start and whipped Georgia Tech 30-6. E.J. Junior returned an interception 59 yards for the first score while Major Ogilvie and Steadman Shealy produced touchdowns runs and the defense had a shutout until only 12 seconds remained.

Was Bear Bryant disappointed? "Yes, we didn't score every time we got the ball and we didn't stop them every time they got it."

Oklahoma, Texas and Penn State, the 3-4-5 teams in The Associated Press ratings, were idle, but sixth-ranked Purdue smashed Wisconsin 41-20 as Mark Herrmann completed 20 of 26 passes for 291 yards and four touchdowns, two each to Raymond Smith and Dave Young.

Seventh-ranked Michigan breezed past Northwestern 49-7 as quarterback B.J. Dickey, tailback Butch Woolfolk and wide receiver Anthony Carter each scored twice. Eighth-ranked Nebraska and No. 9 Notre Dame didn't play but No. 10 Michigan State trounced Illinois 33-16 as Bert Vaughn threw for two touchdowns and Morten Andersen booted four field goals.

Georgia, the No. 11 team, was off while No. 12 Missouri rallied from a 13-0 halftime deficit — the Tigers managed only one first down in the first 30 minutes, and that on a penalty — and swamped San Diego State 45-15. Phil Bradley

Sally Little nips Judy Rankin by 2

DENVER (AP) — As she tucked a $15,000 first-place check in her purse, Sally Little was asked if she felt she was approaching the status of superstar on the women's golf tour.

"I feel I'm gaining," she answered. "You have Nancy Lopez, and you have your established world players like Kathy Whitworth and Jane Blalock. I'm just starting to reach that level. I still have to prove myself."

Little's victory in a $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament here Sunday was her third of the season and boosted her into fourth place on the year's money-earnings list with $115,442. Little had won only two tournaments in her previous eight years on the tour.

"This victory tells me I can win," said the slender, blue-eyed blonde from South Africa who now lives in Dallas.

Sally Little

her nervousness. "That birdie on No. 2 was very important for me, it really calmed me down," she said of her 5-foot putt. "With Judy that close, I was very nervous starting out. She's such a pressure player."

She birdied again at No. 5, sinking a 20-foot putt, and after that her lead was never less than two shots. "I was surprised that nobody made a real run at me today," said the 27-year-old Little. "I thought it would take a 69 to win. But this is a difficult course. If you miss the green, it's hard to make par."

Rankin closed with a 73 Sunday, while Daniel fired a 2-under 70 despite a disastrous double bogey on the par-3 11th hole.

Austin, McEnroe win

played that well. Of 15 service games, McEnroe was broken only once. The rest of the time he dominated play with his brilliant net game. Gerulaitis, whose strength is his speed and agility, was simply no match for McEnroe's power.

The match was a calm one, with few disputed calls by either player. The record crowd of 18,288 — boosting the tournament total to a record 305,311 — cheered for Gerulaitis until the end, but McEnroe said he didn't mind. At least they didn't boo him.

"I think they were pretty fair," he said. "They clapped when we both hit good shots. Obviously they wanted for Vitas because they wanted to see a longer match."

It was not to be. McEnroe did not let up until his first major title was won and the championship trophy was in his hands. But despite the victory, he still does not consider himself the best player in tennis.

"On a given day I'm the best, but for the year I think Bjorn is best," he said, referring to Bjorn Borg, the four-time Wimbledon champion and No. 1 seed who was upset by Roscoe Tanner in the quarterfinals.

Prof. Gunther Hundl of The University of Texas School of Law, discusses the possibilities of suing Mexico or the Mexican oil monopoly PEMEX for damages to the Gulf Coast of the U.S. at a meeting of the House Subcommittee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries and the House Subcommittee on Water Resources. Texans hit by Mexican crude spill can expect little immediate help

By SUSAN STOLER

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Texans suffering financial losses from a Mexican oil spill can expect little immediate monetary help from Washington, despite two days of congressional hearings on the catastrophe.

"The idea that the federal government is just going to open the Treasury to guarantee a profit to anyone is not going to happen, I hope," Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Texas, said after hearing pleas for help from coastal residents and businesses.

"The only place we get money is from your pocket," he told one witness Sunday.

Tourism has dropped an average of 50 percent since raw crude oil from a blown-out Mexican well began threatening Texas beaches. By mid-August, heavy deposits of thick brown muck soiled hundreds of miles of shoreline.

The cleanup has cost $85,000 daily. It is being paid by federal funds.

However, private business and individual losses are not covered by any federal grant program.

An oil spill relief fund of $200 million has been approved by the U.S. House several times, but has stalled repeatedly in the Senate.

"I feel the oil spill liability fund is clearly aimed at exactly the type situation we have in Texas," said Rep. John Breaux, D-La., chairman of the House Water Resources Subcommittee, which held joint hearings with the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Even if the "superfund" bill passes this year, Breaux said he did not know if it could be made retroactive to cover losses from the world's largest oil spill.

Many coastal businessmen are dissatisfied with the Small Business Administration program that has made maximum $100,000 loans available for relief from oil-spill related losses.

That program appears the only assistance available in the near future, several congressmen said.

Breaux cautioned against being overly optimistic about suing Mexico or PEMEX, the Mexican national oil company that owns the runaway oil.

Texas Attorney General Mark White says a suit against Mexico remains a "last resort" for recovering losses of cleaning up the spill. Both White and legal scholars told the committees individual American citizens could sue either the Mexican government or PEMEX.

But Breaux said, "I just can't see they (individuals) could have hopes to recover any damages within their lifetime."

During the two-day hearing, the committees heard from state and federal officials, environmental groups, coastal residents and representatives of SEDCO, the Dallas-based company that leased PEMEX an offshore rig used at the runaway well.

After the June 3 blowout, SEDCO sank the heavily damaged rig in deep water.

Oilmen predict $4 jump in domestic oil by 1985

By ROBERT H. REID

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Two U.S. oil men said today the price of crude oil from American wells could jump nearly $4 a barrel by 1985 if the oil companies are forced to comply with environmental protection laws that could cost them up to $23 billion.

L.W. Russum, of the American Oil

ENERGY OIL & GAS

Co., and J.A. Leask, of Tenneco, said in a paper presented at the 10th World Petroleum Conference here that the costs of air and water pollution control systems could have a severe impact on U.S. industry.

Russum and Leask said that the Balance being restored

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A new study of the world oil market says that balance between supply and demand is being restored, and the eased situation for consumers may continue through 1980.

The report by John Lichtblau, executive director of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation Inc., says that world oil production continues to hold at record levels. Production by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) has climbed steadily since January, despite the loss of all or part of strife-torn Iran's crude oil.

"Restoration of a balance between global supply and demand, ending the trauma of physical constraints on consumption, is now under way," Lichtblau's report said. He added that if OPEC does not cut back on production, and if there are no severe political disturbances, next year could be free of shortages.

But in the following year, Lichtblau warned, "the market outlook becomes potentially more troublesome."

The "emerging new balance appears precarious and could be unsettled by visibly unstable political forces in the Middle East on the supply side, and unpredictable consumer reaction on the demand side," he said.

If OPEC maintains its second-quarter output of about 31.2 million barrels a day through the rest of this year, Lichtblau said, supplies in the non-communist world "will be slightly higher than at the end of 1978."

Lichtblau's guardedly optimistic reading of world oil markets for the next year and a half is shared by many in the industry.

At Standard Oil Co. of California Tom Burns says, "Our view is the combination of economic slowdown — which lowers oil demand — coupled with current levels of production will leave the world in supply-demand balance over the next six months."

The focus over the next year centers on Saudi Arabia, Iran and the actions of the consuming nations.

The CIA in a recent unclassified report noted that 60 percent of the world's oil reserves are controlled by countries that have imposed arbitrary production ceilings.

Lichtblau's study, entitled "World Oil Perspective, 1979 to 1981," likewise focuses on production ceilings as the major factor in whether the world will move toward a marginal oil shortage or a glut.

Under optimum conditions, Lichtblau says OPEC would produce about 32 million barrels of oil a day. Under restrictions — with Saudi Arabia cutting back oil output 1 million barrels a day, Iran rein in production 700,000 barrels and others also cutting back — Lichtblau says OPEC output could be down to 28.3 million barrels a day, a loss of 3.7 million barrels.

Lichtblau says, "If none of this volume (3.7 million barrels a day) is available in 1980, world supplies will not be adequate... If all the volume is available, a modest surplus will exist throughout the year."

Saudi Arabia, the world's leading oil exporter twice this year has agreed to raise production above its self-imposed 8.5 million-barrel-a-day ceiling. In January the kingdom announced it would produce up to 9.5 million barrels a day to make up for lost Iranian exports.

As Iran restored exports in the spring, the Saudis again lowered production to below 9 million barrels.

Then, after a series of contradictory statements Saudi Arabia again raised production to its current 9.5 million barrels a day.

total bill for federal, state and local pollution controls could range between $14 billion and $23 billion, depending on how restrictive the laws are. In today's dollars, they said, the controls could tack on between $2.18 and $3.71 to the cost of a barrel of U.S. oil.

Members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries now charge price ranging from $18 to $23.50 per barrel.

At the opening of the 70-nation conference here Sunday, a British oil man accused the United States of oil glutty and claimed it was depriving its allies of their due.

"Other papers given to delegates in advance of their presentation offered gloomy projections of economic decline in the industrialized world because of the energy shortage and expressed doubts that the Western countries could trim their oil consumption to the 4½ percent growth target they set for themselves through the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development."

Robert Belgrave, a senior economist for British Petroleum, said in his paper if the United States does not reduce its "profligate" waste of energy, it will "make beggars" of its best friends.

Another paper, by a vice president of the American Shell Oil Co., predicted that neither solar nor nuclear power can replace petroleum as the world's chief source of energy in this century.

More than 3,500 delegates are meeting here all week to discuss the energy crisis.

Romania, although one of Europe's few oil producers, fills part of its needs with imports from OPEC. To pay OPEC's new higher prices, it is trying to cut consumption by doubling gasoline prices and reducing home heating levels.

Romania, the maverick of the Soviet Bloc, doesn't want to have to turn to the Soviet Union for oil because this would give the Russians a lever to force them to accept Moscow's orders on economic and foreign policy.

In New York, two new studies of petroleum supplies painted a gloomy picture of the availability of oil beyond 1981 but predicted there will be no immediate repeat of this year's world oil squeeze.

"Barring unforeseen negative developments, a continued improvement in the near-term world oil supply-demand balance can be anticipated," said the study by the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, which is partially financed by the oil companies.

It predicted the balance would become "potentially more troublesome" to maintain by 1981 as demand for oil outpaces the growth in supplies.

A recently released CIA report said: "Although the current oil shortages may disappear when economic activity slows, they are likely to recur during the upswing of the next business cycle."
