

COME TO THE PARTY!

The Rockport Pilot is having an election party Tuesday night, November 4, after the polls close. We'll be keeping up with the election returns precinct by precinct in Aransas County...as well as with area and state election returns. We'll be opening at 7 p.m., as soon as the polls close, and we'll stay open until the last ballot is counted. Besides our red, white and blue cake, we'll have other "goodies" to eat and coffee or punch to drink. So after you cast your ballot in the general elections, come by the Pilot office Tuesday night to find out how "your" candidate fared...or just to enjoy the party...

Voters In For Busy Day At Poll

By Pat Blair
Aransas County voters could set a record Tuesday, November 4, as they flock to the polls to put their marks on crowded ballots.

In addition to some 37 candidates vying for 25 local, state and federal offices — including the Presidency — voters are also confronted by nine proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution this year.

A sample ballot showing all the races and all nine proposed Constitutional amendments is on page 10 of today's Pilot Weekender.

And if the absentee ballots are any clue, a record number of voters may be confronted. Absentee voting ended Friday, October 31, with a record-setting 300-plus ballots cast in person and another 200-plus ballots in the mail.

Although Friday was the deadline for the county clerk's office to mail out ballots, they can be received by return mail up to 7 p.m. Tuesday when the polls close.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. on Election Day, at six stations in the county.

Election officials emphasize that there are no restrictions on how a person casts his or her ballot in the general election. No matter which primary the individual voted in — Democrat, Republican or neither — he or she may vote for any candidate in any party Tuesday.

Officials also point out that the voter can mark his or her ballot in either of two ways — either for the party or for the individual candidate. If the voter chooses to vote for the individual, he may cross party lines in marking his ballot.

Depending on where in the county they live, voters on election day will go to one of the following polling stations: Pct. 1, VFW Hall in Rockport; Pct. 1-A, Voting

To Allow Fences In Front Yards

Hearing Set On Admendment To Requirements For Fences

By Pat Blair
Fences — and whether they should be put up in front yards — will be the topic of a meeting called by Rockport's planning and zoning commission at 7 p.m. Monday, November 3, at City Hall.

The meeting was called during a joint hearing of the P&Z board and Rockport's city council at 7:15 p.m. Monday, October 27, at City Hall.

The matter was brought up as the result of a request by James H. Newberry Jr. for an amendment to Rockport's zoning ordinance to allow fences in front yards. In other action during this past Monday's joint hearing, the planning and zoning commission recommended approval of a request by Bruce McMahan (McMahan Inc.) and Richard Griffith (S&R Electric) for a special use permit to allow a 100 foot communications tower at 501 East Market.

The request was to allow erection of a taller tower than the one presently at that site (corner of Market and Mathis) to improve telemetry.

Also recommended for approval was a request by Harry B. Shedden for rezoning of 10 lots in the Manning Subdivision from R-5 residential to B-1 business. The lots were given B-1 business zoning in January, 1979, but the zoning map adopted in October, 1979, shows R-5 zoning for the lots.

On the basis that the change on the zoning map was an error, the zoning commission recommended B-1 zoning for the lots which are located between

Young and Bronte and 3rd and 4th streets.

The city council agreed with the zoning board on both requests and gave

Station

To Close Early

Because of the time change and darkness coming earlier than during the summer months, the compactor station will close at 5:30 instead of 6 p.m. beginning Monday, November 3.

Persons who work will still have a half-hour before closing time in which to haul garbage to the station.

Congratulations to these Rockport-Fulton Junior High Choir members who won a chance to be in the All-Region choir tryouts: TRACY MILLS, TAMMY WENDLAND, YVETTE MUNOZ, KELLY FOITEK, PATRICIA HUNTER, JOHNNIE JORDAN, ANDRA LUIGI, CHAYE HESSER, ROSALINDA ZAMUDIO, JEANNIE LOPEZ, LETICIA TREVINO, GLENDA RINCHE, KATHLEEN CARTER, ALEX KNOX, HOOT BAEZ, MANUEL RODRIGUEZ, FRANK SIFUENTES, JIM LEE, RONNIE SIFUENTES, NORMAN VON HEUVEL, JOE VALDEZ, LEE LYTLE, EDWARD SIMMONS, RUDY SOLIS and PAUL TORRES.

RFHS Choir To Perform In Concert Tuesday

"I have some really fine voices this year," is the way Director Martha Luigi describes this year's Rockport-Fulton High School Choir.

Area residents will have the chance to hear for themselves how good those voices are when the choir performs in concert Tuesday night, November 4, beginning at 8 p.m. at Rockport's First Presbyterian Church.

The 56-member choir will be appearing with 20 members of the Corpus Christi Symphony and guest soprano soloist Laura Mann

Dexter. The program is Joseph Haydn's Mass in D Minor (the Lord Nelson Mass) and admission is free to the public.

Four RFNS students will be featured in solo during the concert. Sheryl Simmons and Vicki Maddox are the alto soloists, Albert Valdez is tenor and Chris Iles bass soloist.

Miss Simmons is a junior and Miss Maddox a senior at RFHS. Valdez and Iles are both sophomores this year.

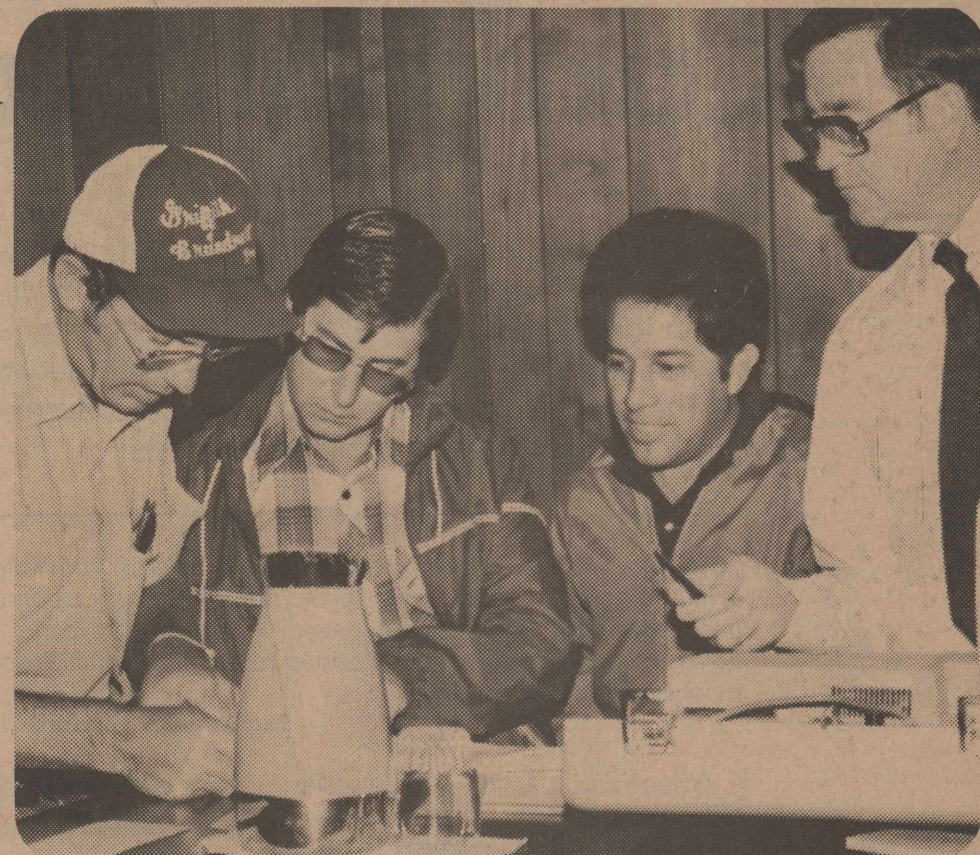

Mrs. Luigi pointed out that Haydn's Mass in D

Minor is the mass that will be performed early next year by the All-State Choir at the Texas Music Educators Association Convention in San Antonio.

Tryouts for the All-State choir will be later this year. However, both the high school and the junior high choirs have been selected to perform a concert at the Convention, a very high honor, Mrs. Luigi added.

Speaking of Tuesday night's program, Mrs. Luigi said, "I feel the choir has progressed to the point where they are ready to do

TESTING EQUIPMENT

The Republican's Precinct Ballot Counter was tested in the district courtroom at the courthouse last week in preparation for the November 4 election. Voters use cards which are fed into the PBC for tabulation. Before each election the machine must be tested for accuracy. It is fed correct, and incorrect, ballots in order to cover any possible deficiency in performance. If someone should try to double vote, the machine kicks it out and no vote is recorded. The Counter must be working accurately because once a ballot is entered, it cannot be taken out without a court order. [By the way, this one checked out okay.] Testing was done by, from left, Jerry Brundrett, presiding judge of the central counting station; Peter Lazidis and Joe Garcia, poll observers; and Bill Walston, Counting Station manager.

Commission Agenda Light

By Johnnie Littleton
The Commissioners' Court met the County Compactor Station half-way Wednesday when they approved a 5:30 p.m. closing of the Station after they had requested approval to close at 6 p.m.

The court decided the early closing, asked for due to the change from Daylight Savings Time, would leave time for working people to deliver garbage to the Station before dark.

Present at the meeting were Raymond Owens, who is acting as Judge Pro Tem in the absence of Judge John Wendell, Ray Longino, Dr. James Sprigell and Erie Eller, County Attorney Jim Anderson and County Clerk Mrs. Ruby Hart.

Bill Walston, attorney-at-law, appeared before the court on behalf of Coastal Telecommunications Inc. requesting to lease a site at the Aransas County Airport. The site is to be used for construction of a terminal area and hangers, in connection with service, storage and maintenance of aircraft by a fixed base operator.

The court gave tentative approval until they can study a detailed lease to be drawn to specifications.

Sheriff Bob Hewes had requested a new wrecker policy for the county, which the commissioners had been studying, but the matter was tabled until the sheriff returns from vacation.

Chief Deputy Carson Wooddell appeared before the court with specifications for the purchase of four new automobiles for the sheriff's department.

The ad as it appeared in the Pilot failed to note that Valenzuela paid for it. The Pilot apologizes for this oversight.

Paula McLain Honored With Shower

Miss Paula McLain, bride-elect of Robert William Huff Jr., was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower on Saturday, October 18, at the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

The bride's colors of apricot and brown tones were carried out in the party decorations, with the serving table laid in apricot, and an overskirt of white sheer.

An arrangement of apricot gladioli, rust and gold mums, German statice, and brown Eucalyptus leaves centered the table, flanked by apricot candles in silver holders.

The cake carried out the color scheme, with apricot roses for decoration. The coffee and register tables were covered with apricot cloths, with a basket arrangement of German statice, apricot silk flowers and brown fern.

Flowers for the bride-elect and her mother were of rust and gold mums and German statice.

Cake, coffee and punch were served to many friends during the afternoon. Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames C.E. McElveen, M.D. McNorton, Norman McLead, Gary D. Smith, Eugene N.

Adams, Wesley Morgan, R.W. Landrum, Tom Goodin, Jerre Ledbetter, Jack Washburn and Eugene Horton.

Miss McLain is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Del P. McLain of Rockport, and Huff is the son of Major and Mrs. Robert William Huff USAF Ret., of Austin. The couple plan to be married November 22 at the First Baptist Church of Rockport.

Lamar VFD Sets Market Days

Market Days, sponsored by the Lamar Volunteer Fire Department, will be held Friday and Saturday, November 7 and 8 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the Lamar Fire House.

Jewel Greeson, chairman of the bake sale, said "the good cooks of the Lamar area have again provided my committee with a generous assortment of delicious pies, cakes and cookies for the Fourth Annual Market Days."

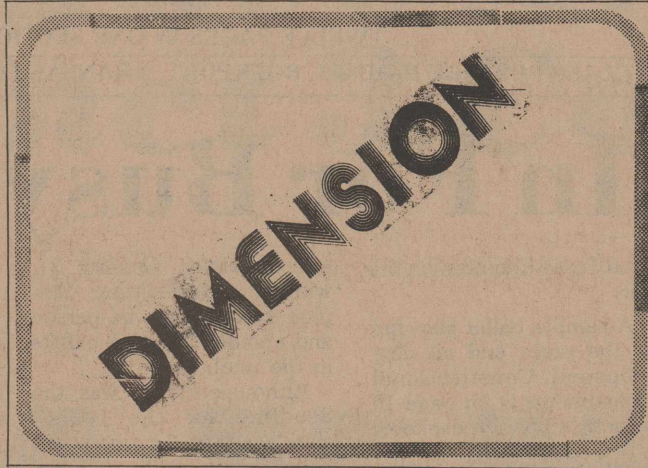

There will be plenty of hot coffee to go with the baked goods and a wide variety of talent will be displayed in the large collection of handmade art and craft items.

Margaret House, known as the "plant lady" has been working all year to ready her green thumb for all the plant lovers.

Market Days chairman Jan McGlasson said there will also be a large collection of new and used merchandise on sale.

To get there, turn on Park Road 13 at the Sea Gun Resort and follow the Market Days signs.

Weight Watchers Menu

As strangers in a new land, the Pilgrims who gathered for the first Thanksgiving more than 300 years ago were more concerned with a sufficiency of food to get them through the winter than anything else.

In fact, such was their joy at harvesting so bountiful a crop, that their celebration lasted through three days of feasting.

Today, with one day as the legal holiday, Americans give thanks that they no longer have to be concerned with a sufficiency of food.

"There seems to be a great irony," says Milford Routman, Area Director for Weight Watchers in Oklahoma, "in the fact that for many, a major worry of this holiday is an overabundance of food."

"That we should have to worry with our weight during the course of a single meal, when the Pilgrims had little concern over the course of three days of feasting, must say something for changes in lifestyle and perhaps our sedentary habits," he said.

With the number of overweight Americans a growing figure, and the facts bearing out that overweight has implications in life-threatening health problems like diabetes and heart disease, Weight Watchers has annually come up with a menu that keeps us on our guard, and helps us over the holidays with no feeling of deprivation or guilt.

"There is no reason for anyone to give up the pleasures of the table," says Routman.

"A sensible meal takes no more time to prepare than a poor one, and can be just as good. Since behavior modification techniques taught in the Weight Watchers classroom don't advocate being overlong in the kitchen or giving too much importance to food, the meal we offer doesn't require fancy cooking techniques or abnormally long hours of preparation and cooking."

In fact, the only special thing about this meal is the way it looks and tastes. Now, as in the 1600s, the turkey is the heart of the meal, golden brown and ripe for the addition of savory mushroom gravy.

It's embellished by two unusual side dishes: potato pumpkin puffs, and asparagus pimiento.

Crab meat is the offered appetizer and the fruit "pie" brings the meal to a delicious conclusion.

After a meal like this one, what more could anyone want?

CRAB MEAT APPETIZER
To make this recipe easier on the budget, tuna may be substituted. This will still be a delicious appetizer.

(Makes 4 servings. Supplement as required.)

8 ounces cooked crab meat

1/4 cup diced celery

1/4 cup diced radishes

2 teaspoons chopped fresh parsley

3 Tablespoons lemon juice

2 teaspoons vegetable oil

Dash each salt and pepper

4 Boston lettuce leaves

In bowl combine crab meat with celery, radishes and parsley. In a small bowl beat lemon juice with vegetable oil, salt and pepper; pour over crab meat mixture and toss well. Divide crab meat mixture into 4 equal portions and serve each portion on a lettuce leaf.

Each serving is equivalent to:

2 ounces Fish

1/2 serving Vegetables

1/2 serving Fat

ROAST TURKEY

Serve with Mushroom Gravy (see recipe).

8-pound turkey

2 teaspoons salt

1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves

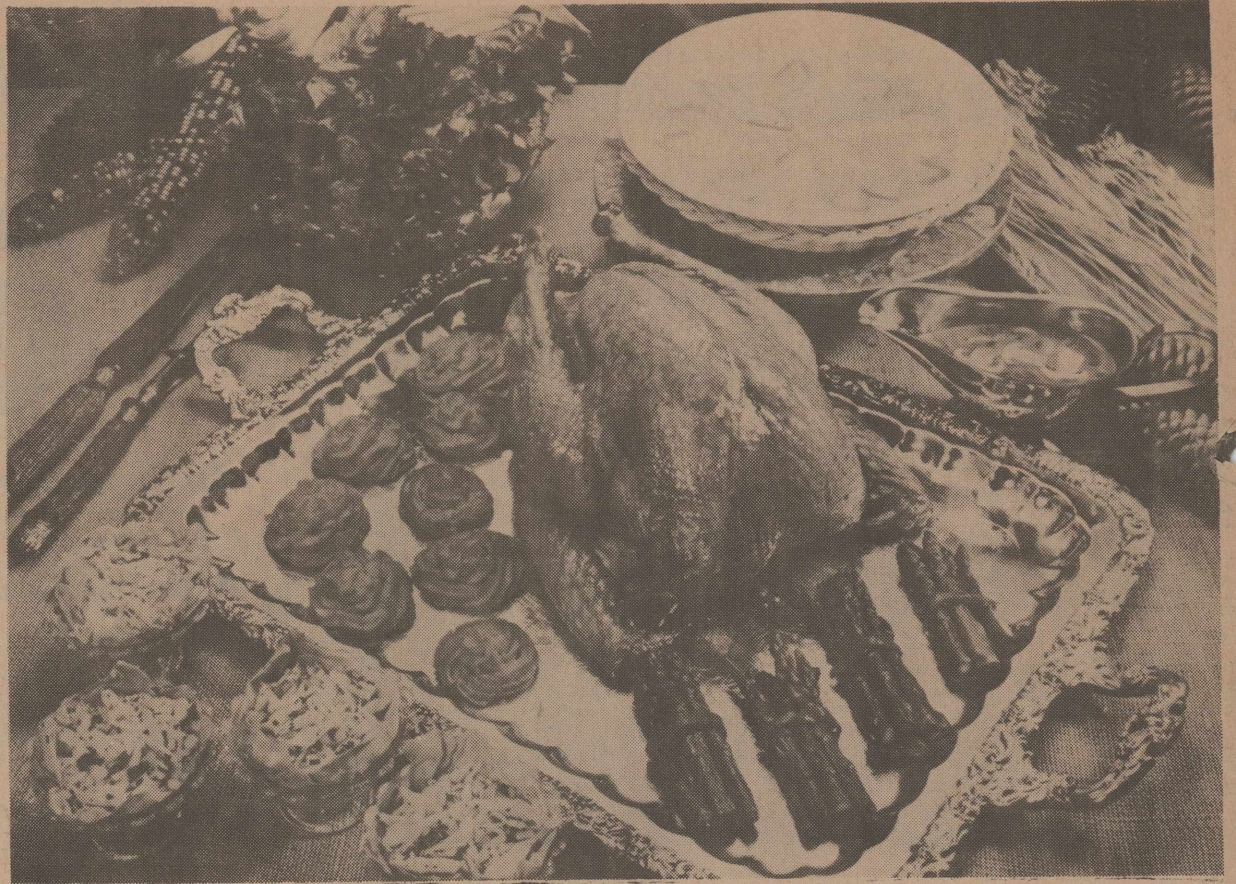

1 cup celery tops with leaves

6 parsley sprigs

4-ounce onion

1 cup Turkey Stock (see recipe)

Remove any loose fat from inside cavity. Dry turkey inside and out with paper towels. Sprinkle salt in cavity and all over skin of turkey. Sprinkle cavity with thyme leaves. Put 1/2 cup celery tops, 3 parsley sprigs and the whole onion into large cavity; put remaining parsley sprigs and celery tops into neck cavity. Close neck cavity with skewer and truss turkey. Set turkey on its side, on rack which has been sprayed with nonstick cooking spray, in shallow roasting pan. Roast for 30 minutes at 350 degrees F.; turn on other side and roast for 30 minutes more.

Turkey Delight

Turkey, the traditional "star" of Thanksgiving dinner, gets the Weight Watchers treatment in this special batch of recipes from an organization whose purpose is to promote weight loss through low calorie food that still has "taste appeal." There's plenty of taste and eye appeal in this Weight Watchers holiday menu that features, in addition to the turkey, an unusual complement of potato-pumpkin puffs and asparagus pimiento. The meal starts with red leaf salad and ends with a delicious — but still easy-on-the-calories — fruit "pie."

Feast Without Fat Is Possible

Reduce heat to 325 degrees F. Stand turkey breast side up. If meat thermometer is used, insert at this point. If turkey is browning too fast, cover loosely with piece of foil. Continue roasting, basting occasionally with stock, 1 1/2 hours more or until meat thermometer registers 180 degrees F. Remove vegetables from cavities and discard. Let turkey stand for 15 minutes before carving. Remove skin and weigh portions. Serve 4 ounces sliced turkey per portion. Each serving is equivalent to:

4 ounces Poultry

1/6 serving Something Extra

(2 Tablespoons stock)

MUSHROOM GRAVY

(Makes 4 servings)

2 cups sliced mushrooms

2 Tablespoons flour

2 cups Turkey Stock (see recipe)

1 Tablespoon minced fresh parsley

Cook mushrooms in small, nonstick saucepan, stirring occasionally with a wooden spoon, until tender. Set aside. Brown flour in small nonstick saucepan, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Using wire whisk, slowly stir in Turkey Stock; add parsley. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add cooked mushrooms; heat. Serve with Roast Turkey.

Each serving is equivalent to:

4 ounces Poultry

2-1/6 servings Something Extra

(1 1/2 teaspoons flour, 1/2 cup stock)

TURKEY STOCK

Yields about 3 cups stock.

Turkey neck, heart and gizzard, trimmed of all fat

1 1/2 quarts water

1 teaspoon salt

1 celery rib, cut in half

3 parsley sprigs

1 small bay leaf

1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves

3 peppercorns

1 carrot, scraped and cut into pieces

Cut turkey neck into 3 pieces and place in saucepan with heart and gizzard. Add water and salt. Make a bouquet garni by tying celery, parsley, bay leaf, thyme and peppercorns in a piece of cheesecloth. Add bouquet garni and carrot to pot. Bring to a boil and skim scum from surface. Reduce heat and simmer partially covered for 2 hours. Strain stock, discarding solids. Refrigerate until fat congeals on surface; remove and discard fat. 3/4 cup stock is equivalent to:

1 serving Something Extra

POTATO-PUMPKIN PUFFS

(Makes 4 servings)

12 ounces pared potatoes, cut into pieces

8 ounces canned pumpkin

1 Tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon margarine

1/4 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice

1/8 teaspoon salt

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In saucepan cook potatoes in boiling salted water to cover, until soft. Drain well and transfer to a bowl. Mash potatoes until smooth. Add pumpkin, margarine, pumpkin pie spice and salt; beat to combine. Fill a pastry bag, fitted with a pastry tube, with potato-pumpkin mixture. Make 8 puffs, each about 2 inches wide, on a baking sheet that has been sprayed with nonstick cooking spray; bake puffs 15 minutes.

Each serving is equivalent to:

1 serving Choice Group

2 ounces Limited Vegetable

RED LEAF SALAD

(Makes 4 servings)

4 cups red leaf lettuce

3 Tablespoons lemon juice

1 Tablespoon vegetable oil

2 teaspoons minced fresh parsley

2 teaspoons chopped capers

1/8 teaspoon powdered mustard

Dash artificial sweetener

Place lettuce in salad bowl. In a small bowl mix lemon juice with vegetable oil, parsley, capers, mustard and sweetener. Pour dressing over lettuce leaves and toss to combine. Each serving is equivalent to:

2 servings Vegetables

3/4 serving Fat

FRUIT "PIE"

(Makes 4 servings)

1 canned peach half with 1 Tablespoon juice, no sugar added

1 canned pineapple slice with 1 Tablespoon juice, no sugar added

1/2 cup strawberries, cut into slices lengthwise

10 small grapes, halved

1 1/2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin

Artificial sweetener to equal 2 teaspoons sugar

3/4 cup boiling water

2 Tablespoons lemon juice

Combine peach and pineapple juices and add. Cut peach half into 6 wedges. Cut pineapple slice into 6 pieces. In the center of a 9-inch pie plate arrange 3 strawberry slices and 3 grape halves to form a flower. Alternate peach wedges and pineapple pieces to form a circle around the flower. Make an outer circle of remaining strawberry slices and grapes, alternating 2 strawberry slices with each grape half. In small bowl mix gelatin with sweetener. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Stir in lemon juice and reserved fruit juice. Chill mixture until it is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Carefully spoon about 1/3 of chilled gelatin mixture over fruit and chill, in refrigerator, until set. Gradually add remaining gelatin mixture and chill "pie" for 3 hours, or until set. Cut "pie" into 4 wedges. Each serving is equivalent to:

1/2 serving Fruit

1/4 serving Something Extra

(3/8 teaspoon gelatin)

Vote for Greater Banking Convenience

Passage of Proposition 1 on the November 4th ballot will open the door to even greater banking convenience. This simple change in the law will allow Texas banks to place unmanned teller machines at convenient locations for faster service, night or day. These teller machines are becoming a convenient option for handling routine banking business.

"Round-the-clock banking at unmanned tellers is convenient, safe and a positive step toward avoiding unnecessary credit card use. . . moreover, it is an energy saver — instead of traveling across town to a bank, an unmanned teller can be built in your neighborhood."

— San Angelo Standard-Times

Proposition 1 "will make life easier for bank customers. . . (it) will eliminate many, if not all, of the tortuous lines seen clogging drive-in bank lanes."

— Houston Chronicle

Proposition 1 "has gained widespread support as the amendment faces voters Nov. 4."

— Orange Leader

"Off-premises unmanned teller machines should be approved by Texas voters."

— San Antonio Light

People in forty other states already have this convenient banking choice. It's time Texans did, too.

Vote for Proposition 1 November 4th.

Rockport Rotarians Favor Reagan In Poll

Ronald Reagan overwhelmed President Carter, 41 to 3, in a presidential preference straw vote conducted during a Rotary Club luncheon meeting at the Sandollar Restaurant Wednesday, October 29.

John Anderson drew three votes and three votes were cast for "other." Ten of the Rotarians identified themselves as Democrats, 19 as Republicans and 12 as independents and six reported no party affiliation.

Forty-five club members reported they were registered and qualified to vote. Ages ranged from 20 to 80. Rotarian Pat Brown developed the straw vote plan and conducted the program. While results were being tabulated Brown read what he called a "Freedom Creed" developed by him and his wife, Johnette, using Robert S. Minor's book "Rebirth of a Nation" as source material.

The creed follows:
"Two hundred and four years ago something new and wonderful happened to the world. The United States of America was born.

"No country knows greater freedom than our country. Freedom to choose our life's work, to travel from state to state without border guards. The freedom to try and succeed; to try and fail and yet not be put in prison for failure.

"We enjoy the freedom to speak, write, praise, question or criticize anyone, no matter how high his station or rank, and not fear a knock on the door in the middle of the night. The freedom to start our own business and become a capitalist, building a fortune, creating dignified job opportunities and new products for the betterment of life.

"We enjoy the freedom to be proud, confident, and bold. We can do anything, climb any mountain and achieve any objective. Possibilities are unlimited!"

"The nature of freedom is that it is fragile. It must be protected, watched over, sometimes fought over.

"The nature of government is that it will grow and grow and grow. That is, it will, if it not restrained, watched over and its actions constantly reviewed and appraised.

"Those who turn to government to solve problems best left to individuals, families and communities are probably unaware that their actions combine with those of countless others to encourage government to do things the Founding Fathers never intended it to do. And, in striving to be all things to all people, government can acquire the means to suffocate freedom.

"Our nation has begun its third century. The United States of America — a noble experiment that has survived to be, in many respects, an example for others around the world to want to emulate.

"Nowhere have individual rights and freedoms been more highly prized than in these United States. But, the fundamental precept of the Founding Fathers of our Republic — that those who govern do so only with the consent of the governed — is becoming distorted.

"As the federal government has swollen to gargantuan size, it has bred a layer of permanent rule-makers — the bureaucrats — who, more than the Congress, affect our daily lives by imposing countless rules and regulations. The more government has preempted the income of the people, the larger it has grown and the more it has interfered in the private business and private affairs of the American people.

"A basic question facing us in this, our third century as a nation, is will we become a society ruled by elitists, or will we recapture the spirit of individual responsibility and initiative that brought us greatness and worldwide leadership?

"Some among us insist that our society can become nearly perfect if only they be given the necessary controls to make the rest of us do what is 'right.' They will do course define 'right' and 'wrong' for us. Such matters are not to be left to the individual, the family, school or church — the traditional builders of values. No, values are to be decided in Washington, D.C. by high-minded idealists who will set down the rules of behavior.

"That is not what the Founding Fathers intended. They sought to give to each person the opportunity to do the very best with whatever gifts God had endowed him — or her.

"A nation faces risks and dangers in its dealings with other nations, but we face a danger within our own society as well. That is, that government will become so swollen, so pervasive, so all-powerful that the very meaning of our Constitution and Bill of Rights will be twisted beyond recognition.

"Government itself can become the enemy within if it is allowed to have undue influence over our lives, threatening our basic freedom.

"We must arm ourselves with the best tools we can to check its spreading power. The Constitution and the Bill of Rights are strong, well-hewn for this purpose.

"The Fourth and Tenth Amendments of the Constitution, especially, are being cited more and more by earnest, patriotic Americans intent on preserving individual freedoms and restraining government.

"The Fourth Amendment says that the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated." These days it is being used constructively to check and turn back arbitrary demands of some government agencies on private citizens and businesses.

"The Tenth Amendment will come into play more and more in the coming years, I believe, as more and more Americans seek to resize for themselves and their communities that initiative that has been allowed to pass to Washington.

"The Tenth Amendment reaffirms the fact that we are a federation of sovereign states. It says, the power not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or the people."

"A rebirth of our nation will come when the people take back their country and see that it is run like they run their own lives — with prudence, integrity and doing without what they cannot pay for.

"So, what can voters do? "Write your Congressman and tell him what not to do for you, what not to give you. Tell him all you want is a solvent America which lives within its income, whatever that may be. Make sure he knows you mean it. And tell him there isn't much time left.

"The time is very short, and the choice is very clear. Either we preserve the vitality of this great free enterprise system — our way of life — or we face children some day when they will ask us where we were, and what we were doing, on the day that freedom was lost.

"Luxuries, power, indulgence had made the once tough Roman people soft. To stay popular, their emperors gave them more and more of the ease they craved — free bread, free circuses, easier living.

"So the Romans softened up themselves for the ambitious, hard working barbarians. And in 410 the greatest nation the world had even seen was invaded and destroyed.

"The greedy cry of 'something for nothing, the stupid whine of 'somebody else should sacrifice, not me' — could do exactly the same for this nation."

Gene Matthews Receives Reagan Endorsement

October 7, 1980

Mr. Gene Matthews
37 Nassau
Rockport, TX 78383

Dear Gene:

I wanted to take this opportunity to let you know how important your election to the Texas Legislature is, both to your state and your nation.

As Republicans, we hold a firm belief that America's best days lie ahead of us, not behind us. We also share an understanding that the state of the economy ranks as the single most important problem confronting our nation.

The problem of inflation, and its devastating side effects of unemployment and recession, can -- and must -- be solved. Both of us know that excessive government spending, waste and over-regulation can be cut at every level. By granting real tax relief to restore the incentive for Americans to save and invest, everyone will benefit from true economic progress.

I'm committed to working for these goals nationally and I know you will in Texas. Together we can strive for a great new beginning. Both our campaigns offer a strong message of hope, opportunity and freedom for all Americans. We must not leave a legacy of fractured dreams and broken promises for our children and grandchildren.

I know that it's been a long, tough campaign and that you will be redoubling your efforts in the short time remaining before the election. Nancy joins me in sending a special thanks for all you have done in our behalf and in wishing you every success on November 4th. We stand with you and support your campaign efforts enthusiastically.

Sincerely,

Ronald Reagan

Reagan, Brown and Matthews Are Better

Some changes need to be made in the overall attitude of elected officials serving the citizens of this county as well as this nation.

These words are much-used and somewhat hollow in meaning since almost every candidate running for public office against an incumbent has resorted to their use.

However, we believe that never before have changes in our elected officials been so necessary.

Each voter in Aransas County must celebrate on November 4, by the expression of your support for the direction this state and nation will take in the coming months.

President Jimmy Carter has had more than enough time and opportunity to demonstrate leadership in the control of this country's overspending, controlling the runaway inflation and ever expanding federal bureaucracy. He, of course, cannot change these without the help of Congress, but he has fallen short of providing the necessary decisive leadership in many of the important areas of government.

Gov. Reagan will provide a basic change in the overall attitude of the executive branch. We don't feel any changes could be expected by returning President Carter to the Oval Office.

Schwartz Loses To Supporters

Senator A.R. "Babe" Schwartz has been an effective and powerful force in the Texas Senate over the past twenty-odd years.

In recent months, however, the senator's attitude seems to have changed and his, several temper outbreaks directed toward the realtors, the commercial fishermen and various other powerful voting groups have led to some disenchantment by a large majority of his supporters.

His recent indictment by a Galveston grand jury for the Felonious Assault of a fellow lawyer in a district courtroom is the most recent example of how the pressures of his brand of politics has taken its toll.

Brown Understands Problems

Buster Brown has shown a willingness to visit our county and has demonstrated throughout the district his ability and understanding of Aransas County's problems and their solutions.

As of Thursday, October 30, the polls have given Brown a slight edge over Schwartz. Schwartz has helped this area of the coast, but we need a fresh and vibrant representative in the state capital — Buster Brown.

Send Rockport's Matthews To Austin

We have an excellent chance to send a local man, Gene Matthews, to represent this district to replace a longtime fixture in the state capital.

Leroy Wieting's record in the past years is not impressive. On two occasions he has been listed by Texas Monthly as one of the ten poorest lawmakers in the house. This, added to the extreme difficulty in getting Wieting to express a definite stand on any important issue has encouraged us to support a change in this local office. Wieting was also one of the "Killer Bees" who ran from their elected duties when the going got tough.

Matthews has several years of experience in local and state government and we feel will bring some freshness to a position too long left stagnant.

His ideas and platform are more in line with less government and tighter control of the existing state spending.

It's time we sent some new and vibrant people to these highly important government offices who will follow a course in the coming years to return the controls of our money and lives to the proper place...the hands of the people.

Choir Sings Haydn's Mass

Tuesday, November 4, is first of all the date for the general election. It also marks a very important date in the musical life of this community when one of the finest choral groups in the state performs Haydn's Mass in D Minor at a concert at Rockport's First Presbyterian Church.

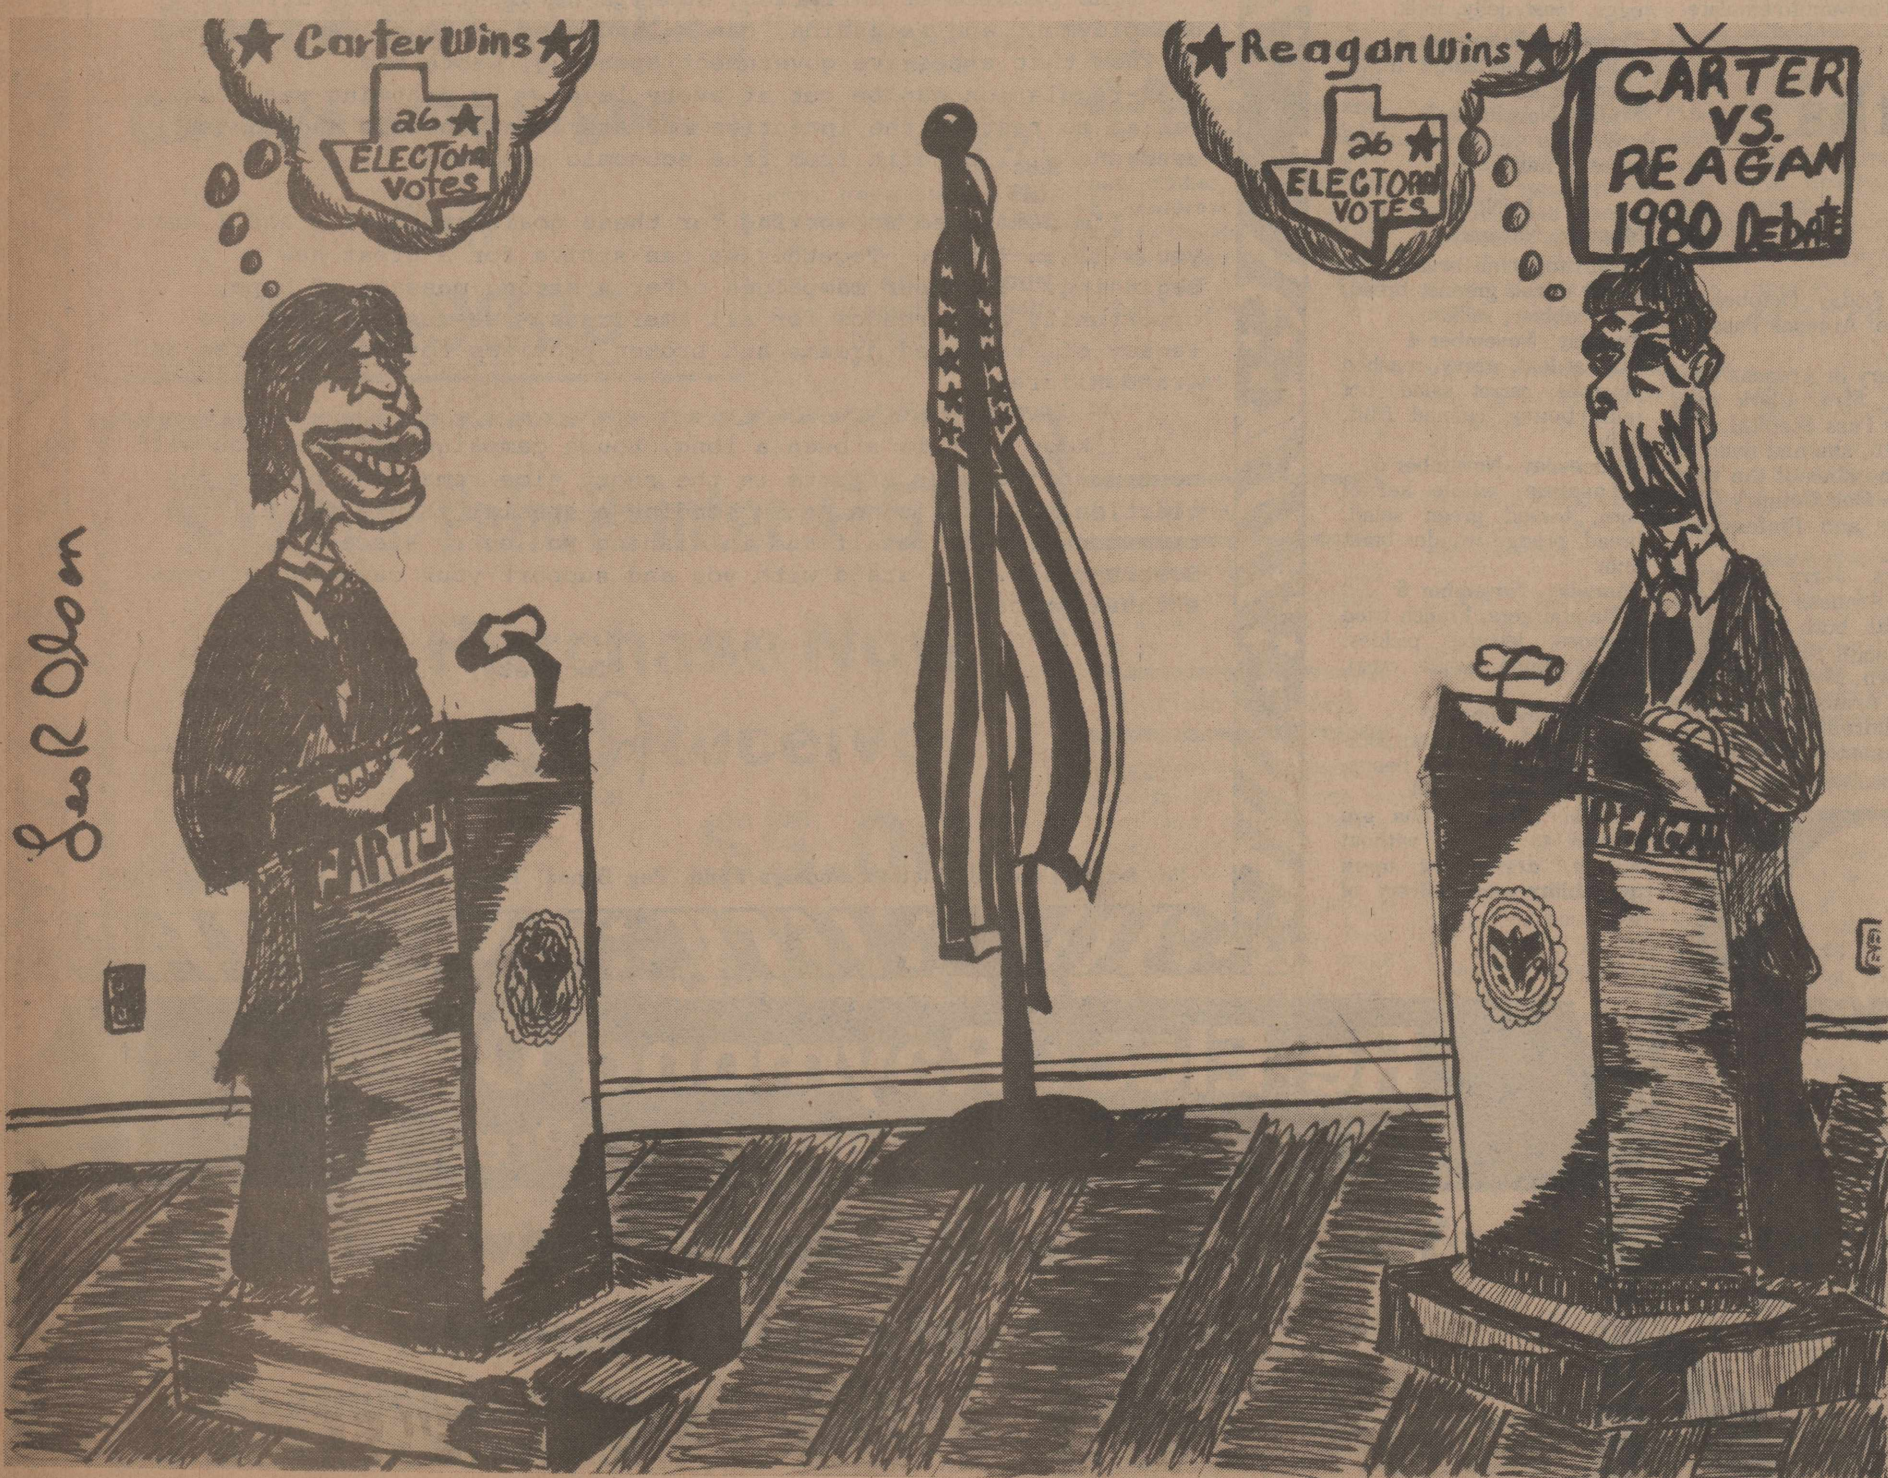

The group is our own Rockport-Fulton High School Choir, who were earlier this year chosen to sing for the Texas Music Educators Convention in San Antonio, an honor and tribute to the fine quality of music performed by the group.

One third of the members of this year's choir have already been chosen as all-district choir members earlier last month with a number of these students trying for places in the all-state choir.

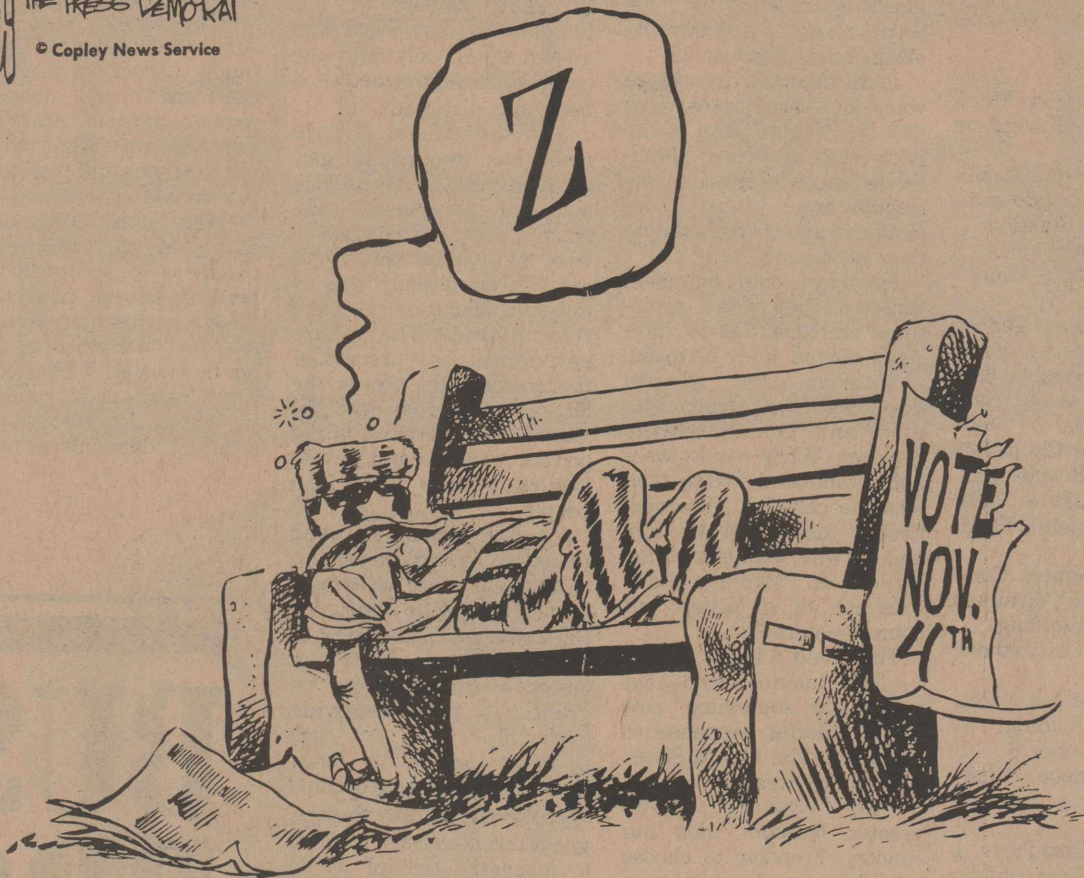

The choir's reputation for excellence is widely known. Add to this several members of the Corpus Christi Symphony and some excellent soloists and you have the makings for a most rewarding and enjoyable evening of entertainment perhaps never before equaled in Rockport.

The 8 p.m. concert under the direction of Mrs. Martha Luigi is free to the public. Experience the excitement of this memorable performance this talented Rockport group of musicians.

Jottings By Johnnie

By Johnnie Littleton

The Coastal Bend and more especially Rockport has received nationwide recognition because of the discovery of the Indian skeletons found on Grace Stanick's property on Highway 35 South.

I, for one, pass that spot each day going to and from work. After the discovery came to light and a week has passed, I find myself driving, wondering and looking at the region more carefully now. I'm not looking for skeletons — rather, I'm trying to see in my mind's eye, how beautiful this coastline must have been 8,000 years ago.

The sand, trees, water, animals, creeks and rivulets must make a feast for the eyes. Whether the Karankawa Indians were cannibals or not, whether they were fierce and mean or not, they knew a good thing when they saw it.

At our place, about 30 miles inland, we have found, over the years, some very interesting, beautiful arrowheads and some strange objects in the pastures behind the beside our home.

We live on Chiltipin Creek and there is much evidence that Indians of some culture lived along its banks.

It will prove exciting in the next few months to see what develops and what new discoveries are made on the property just outside Rockport.

You may have noticed that I skip around a bit in this bit of jottings. My mind, weak though it may be, sometimes outruns my fingers.

I was reading a front page story a Houston paper last week. Some man claims that in 20 years, we will see mass problems with food, energy, transportation, the birth rate and the economy in general. He was Mr. I.M. Pessimistic, although he went by another name. The gentleman was wanting us to wake up and get with it and get ready. How? Just someone please tell us how?

He was but one of the doomsday preachers I've read and listened to lately.

If you're really feeling down and there's nothing but bad news everywhere you turn — you tend to let it rub off on you. We don't see the war on TV with our evening meals any more as we did in the '70s, but, my gosh, just listen any evening.

Kinda makes you think it ain't worth going on.

That must have been the attitude of Time magazine a couple of times during the summer.

After one especially dreadful day of doom and gloom, I went to the post office and lo and behold, there was Darth Vader, bigger 'n Dallas, on the cover. I was so tickled I hid it from the kids until after supper. Then I read the cover story and went to bed feeling much better.

Empty? Void of meaning? Juvenile? Maybe so — but it sure did relax me. A few months — or weeks — later, the same magazine read our pulse again and put out an issue with a Cheshire-like J.R.

Ewing on the cover. Again, another evening of rest and relaxation in a never-never land.

Maybe the two stories weren't earth-shaking.

But our minds need the recreation.

Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grassy ranch reviews political TV commercials this week, in his own way.

Dear editor: There have been polls taken on nearly everything the pollsters can think of, including how many children wish they had different parents and how many parents wish they had different children.

But I've never seen a poll on what voters think of candidates' TV commercials.

During the recent campaign I watched those commercials. When a regular program stops five minutes early, you know a political ad is coming on. How many votes did they swing one way or another? Why didn't some polster get after this?

My guess is they didn't have much effect, due to the fact that grown-ups are, for the most part, as smart as kids who have found out breakfast cereal commercials are three-fourths hokum and the regular programs are not to be taken seriously. A kid knows that when the hero is shot the shells were blanks and he'll turn up alive and well on another program next week. Surely most grown-ups can catch on to when the candidates too are firing blanks.

For the most part, TV political ads remind me of the soap commercials where, six months after dozens of different women have appeared in the same ad, all surprised at what the soap can do, still another woman shows up surprised to beat the band that the detergent will get white things whiter and keep babies drier.

I'd like to see a post-election poll on how many voters were persuaded by TV political commercials, with allowances made for those who stepped into another room at the time.

Each Presidential candidate spent about 18 million dollars on TV ads. The soap companies paid for their ads, the taxpayers paid for the candidates' ads.

By the way, the poll on parents and children? It came out about even.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Little Bay, which receives urban runoff and treated wastewater from Rockport when the discharge flows through the drainage canal, is receiving continuing studies in an areawide waste treatment management project.

The continuation project addresses non-point sources of water quality impact in Aransas County and specifically, the project will study the effectiveness of a natural drainageway in removing pollutants from urban runoff following rainfall runoff.

Studies will show whether the discharge waters from Rockport flow through the drainage canal and improve in quality under various conditions as the flow moves toward Little Bay, the area of concern.

In July of 1980, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency notified the Coastal Bend Council of governments that a grant was approved for the work and the city has included in its recent budget sufficient local money to match the Environmental Protection Agency's grant.

Requests for proposals from consultants were solicited beginning last

July and public notice was made in the Corpus Christi newspapers and the Texas

Register that proposals would be accepted until August 29, 1980.

LP Enterprises of Corpus Christi was selected as the firm to conduct the study at a cost of $23,180.

Following a meeting on October 7, the committee

Consultant Selection determined that the locally-based firm had the necessary qualifications to accomplish work objectives.

LOOKING MERRIER ALL THE TIME

Frances Iles says she is "getting into the Christmas Spirit" as she shows a few of the toys she has already bought for this year's "Toys for Kids" effort. Sponsored by the Rockport Lions' Club, "Toys for Kids" raises money which is used to buy new toys which are then made available to families in Aransas County who otherwise would not be able to provide toys for their children. Frances made two trips to Corpus Christi this past weekend to get the toys. Part of them were purchased with 150 Texas Gold stamp books, and the rest were bought with the $200 the organization raised selling balloons at Seafair. Frances points out that this is "only a beginning" and the organization still needs donations of money and Texas Gold stamps to help make Christmas merry for all of Aransas County's youngsters.

Breakfast With George Bush

Editor's note: C.M. "Cap" Henkel, who writes the Austin at Wharf column for the Rockport Pilot, attended Thursday morning's breakfast with George Bush. The following is an account of his observations and feelings about the affair:

By C.M. "Cap" Henkel
I have just come from breakfast with George Bush — along with over 400 Reagan-Bush supporters, Republicans, Democrats, Independents.

The gathering was partisan, extremely so, enthusiastic and confident.

A Mariache band, whose leader a few minutes earlier had been doing an impromptu Mexican Hat Dance with a young lady from among the guests, led George and Barbara Bush to the speaker's stand. Wild, spontaneous applause.

Tony Thorne, standing next to me shouted, "You're looking at the next President after Reagan!" I offered no argument, grinned like a Cheshire Cat.

Bush, wearing a conservative Oxford gray suit and red and gray striped tie, showed none of the fatigue that he must feel after the strenuous weeks past.

In fact he looked no older than on a March afternoon when I first met him, a decade and a half ago, except for barely visible patches of gray at each temple.

Barbara, gentle, but always every inch the lady she is, wore a purple frock that blended beautifully with her snow-white hair.

The smiling candidate waved his supporters to their seats and there was a short introduction from Gov. Bill Clements. I like Bill Clements, his directness, but — along with other South Texans — wish he were sometimes not so quick with his gun — as when he ridiculed the importance of last year's oil spill in the Gulf of Campeche.

George Bush is a statesman above all else, a politician only under duress. No shouting, no wild flailing of the arms; flamboyant, never. His remarks to that early-morning crowd lasted for no more than five minutes, but he said more than many a politico can say in an hour.

"The economic misery index that Jimmy Carter has given to the country has most hurt those people who pulled the strait Democratic lever four years ago. Carter, before his election, made more than 600 promises to the people which are still unkept..."

And on Ronald Reagan, illustrating his depth of sincerity, "I have known him for almost 16 years, but never really well until recent months."

Bush described an afternoon, an informal session in the Reagan living room. "He'd just come from the Middle West where he'd been with unemployed workers: 'I'll never be able to relax until I see those people back at work again.' And finally: 'May the best man win and the other go back to Plains, Georgia.'"

Few people in the audience had yet seen the Thursday edition of the Corpus Christi Caller. Congressional candidate Lewie Concklin showed it to the crowd a few minutes before Bush arrived, an editorial endorsement of the Reagan-Bush ticket. A startled crowd went wild.

Less than half an hour earlier, standing in line, I'd observed to Tony that "Sure as shooting, the Caller will endorse Jimmy Carter on Sunday."

I read the endorsement only after I returned home. Most of all I was struck by a single sentence in the next to last paragraph in the editorial: "Ronald Reagan was not our favorite for the Republican nomination."

From my files I dug out a column by Caller publisher Ed harte written in October, 1979. Subject, the old and the new George Bush. "The new George's most impressive change is that he has become an accomplished public speaker. Not that he wasn't good before. Now he is more than good; he is excellent..." He spoke fast. The ideas flowed in logical sequence, delivered in energetic, elegant English. At the subliminal level he presented himself as a man of youthful vigor, disarming, charming, decent and balanced, all traits that the new George picked up from the old George.

The George Bush I have known since 1964.

A responsible newspaperman never fails to be represented at a political rally in his community, no matter the office sought, the party represented.

The 1960s and earlier might be fairly considered an exception to that rule, if the candidate were a Republican, especially in South Texas.

Almost, for that reason, I might never have met George Bush. Almost at the beginning of his campaign for the U.S. Senate against Ralph Yarborough in 1964 he visited Refugio County.

It was a Sunday afternoon in March, cold, dreary with a north wind that cut like a knife and the meeting was in the open. People did not concern themselves about Republicans in rural South Texas in those days. They were people who threw away their votes in the primaries.

An independent like myself was held in less regard. Serious Democrats held that absurd pledge on the top of the ballot, a pledge to support the nominees of the party, as almost sacred. An independent who made no bones about crossing party lines was a renegade, a man without honor.

Republicans brought only smiles, less than 30 of them in Refugio County — then.

Well, there was a chance to talk to George Bush on that March day. We huddled in the lee of the trunk of a big oak. I might dig into old files and tell you what he said. Otherwise, no. I faced a man who looked less than his 40-odd years.

Certainly I'd support him or anyone who opposed "Smilin' Raf," but the odds were totally against him. I remember better that he wore an old brown tweed jacket, gray flannel trousers and scuffed loafers that had probably never seen a bootblack's rag. And he convinced me that, well, he might just beat Yarborough.

He laughed and couldn't see why not. Why else should he be running? Well, he lost, but gave the ultra-liberal the scare of his life, scared him into calling Bush a "Yankee carpet-bagger." That helped him, perhaps, but the years marked the brink of changing times.

Bush sensed it, Yarborough was missing the boat. Texas was changing from a rural to an urban state and "new" Texans were arriving by the thousands and in short order they were becoming fathers and mother of natives.

It was one of those rare Republicans who persuaded me to meet Bush on that spring afternoon, the late Marvin "Hap" Null. "Nap" died a few years later in a tragic accident.

George was Ambassador to the United Nations at the time. I called him in New York. Country editors don't call ambassadors as casually as they do a next door neighbor.

A secretary answered the telephone. My self-introduction didn't mean much. Finally I said: "Listen, it's not important that I talk to the ambassador personally, if you will give him a message. A close friend has just died." There was a pause...then, "Would you hold just a moment. What was your name?"

George was on the phone: "My God, what's happened?" I told him. We talked a few minutes. Shortly afterwards he called "Nap's" wife. There is something about George Bush.

One meets him, is impressed with his personality, his intelligence, his sincerity, but there is something more. Often enough I have said that if it were possible for him to spend five minutes with every elector in the land he'd come close to winning a unanimous election for any office he sought.

Over the past 16 years I have been in the company of George Bush a dozen or more times. Few were occasions that one might refer to as personal encounters. Usually it was at rallies, a hamburger party at the King Ranch where I first met his wife, Barbara, once a barbecue in Beeville, a session following a visit to the Friday Morning Breakfast Club in Corpus Christi, a few dinners — the barbecue trail.

Yet he has made me feel like an old friend and I have immodestly been known to refer to him as my "personal friend."

Our oldest son called one day from the University of Texas. Could I arrange an interview for one of his classmates for a term paper? I hesitated. I knew that George was hard on the campaign trail, running for the Congress. I wrote a note and a few days later George called.

"Yes, he'd be delighted to meet the boys but his schedule was awfully tight. Would it be possible for

Proposition 1 On Election Ballot

Around-Clock Banking Amendment Gets Support

A constitutional amendment to provide Texans with around-the-clock basic banking services at convenient locations has gained the backing of a 1,500-member statewide organization.

Don Cavness, Austin businessman and coordinator of the public education campaign for Proposition 1 on the November 4 ballot, announced today that the citizens' group has been formed to assist the three statewide banking associations in support of the amendment.

Cavness said, "Proposition 1 has only one purpose, and that is to provide unmanned teller machines at locations more convenient to bank customers so they can withdraw or deposit money whenever they wish without going to their bank."

"It is the most important time-saving and energy-saving development in Texas banking in recent history," he added.

The Texas Bankers Association, Independent Bankers Association of Texas, and Texas Association of Bank Holding Companies — representing more than 1,400 banks — have united in support of Proposition 1 by forming the Convenience Banking Committee.

"While there is no organized opposition to Proposition 1," Cavness said, "we want to be certain that Texans realize that the amendment will benefit them directly by offering a convenient banking choice for those who wish to use unmanned tellers away from their banks."

He pointed out that bank customers will have full control of their own accounts and strong consumer protections under federal law if they use the unmanned tellers.

Proposition 1 also provides that off-premises unmanned tellers must be shared by banks within a county on a non-discriminatory basis. The tellers may also be shared with credit unions and savings and loans.

"The Constitution at present does not permit banks to install unmanned tellers except at banking locations," Cavness explained.

"Credit unions and savings and loans institutions do have this privilege, and Proposition 1 merely extends the same opportunity to state and national banks in Texas for competitive equity in providing customers with another convenient choice."

A state law has already passed, subject to approval of the constitutional amendment, which limits unmanned tellers to five functions: cash withdrawal, deposits, loan payments by the customer to the bank, transfer between a customer's accounts within the same bank, and balance information for the customer.

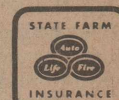

"The law makes certain that the customer will have complete control of his or her banking activities in using an unmanned teller," Cavness said.

"Funds could not be transferred from one person's account to another and there are strong consumer protections and security features built into the process," he said.

What stories could be told by the White House on Pennsylvania Avenue. It has seen men plucked from the ranks and lifted to the heights of power almost overnight; it has housed large and small families, fed them, entertained them, challenged them and watched them eventually depart to make way for newcomers.

Think of the secrets this House has heard — the hopes and plans for a nation's future. No doubt about it... the White House could fill many books with the stories it has witnessed.

Each president has been given a great privilege, as well as a grave responsibility. The opportunity to lead your nation as commander-in-chief is a rare one indeed.

There is another king who has led and inspired the lives of countless millions over the ages. He needs no White House. He is everywhere. His power is infinite, and His oval office is in the hearts of people everywhere. Let His love and guidance sustain you. Worship this week in the House of your choice.

Reagan Edges Carter In Aransas County Poll

Ronald Reagan had a slight lead over Jimmy Carter in an unofficial poll of 1,044 Aransas County residents conducted by seniors in the Rockport-Fulton High School government class.

In the poll, conducted from October 23 through 29, 396 persons — 38.4 percent of the total — expressed a preference for Reagan and 356 — 35.3 percent — favored Carter.

John Anderson received 29 votes, 28 were "cast" for "other" and 221 of those polled were undecided.

The students conducting the poll used the telephone, talked to people on the street or went door-to-door to find out who they were supporting in this year's presidential race.

Of those polled, 499 — 47.7 percent — were men and 545 — 52.2 percent — were women. Four-hundred and twenty-seven, or 40.9 percent, are blue-collar workers, another 427 hold white-collar jobs and 75 — one percent of the total — were students, retired or unemployed.

Party affiliations broke down to 469 Democrats, 270 Republicans and 275 as "other" or independent.

The following chart shows how the residents of Aransas County voted in the presidential preference poll:

Poll Results

Presidential Candidate	No. of Votes	Percent of Votes
Carter	356	35.3
Reagan	396	38.4
Anderson	29
Other	28	2.8
Undecided	221	21.4

HOW TO PHOTOGRAPH YOUR PET (LAST OF A FIVE-PART SERIES)
Lighting and Exposure

Exposure Tips

Lighting for outdoor shooting — The light on a cloudy-bright day, or open shade on a sunny day is usually best because of its uniformity and soft quality. The bright sun of midday does nothing for a picture except produce harsh shadows. However, the setting sun can produce some fascinating back lighting effects to halo your pet in sparkling brilliance.

If you use the backlighting of the sun, you must disbelieve the light-reading your meter gives you.

"Open up" your aperture setting two stops so that the shadows are in front, and your pet's picture will be clear and sharp.

Indoor pictures can be shot during daylight hours in a bright room, or near a window or open door. Just remember that if you are shooting into the light, you must "open up" one or two stops more than the meter indicates so that the foreground area will be exposed sufficiently in the finished picture. Today's film, both color and black and white, are fast enough to shoot indoors during the daytime with natural light.

TIPS ON EXPOSURE

Dark fur on an animal absorbs light to an amazing degree. You may have to open up a stop or two when shooting a dark-haired pet in order to bring out the texture of the fur. Normal exposure may picture your black pet as a flat silhouette. (On the other hand, a white animal may cause you to stop down.) A few test shots, recorded in your notebook, will help you.

Keep a Notebook

As you begin to shoot animal pictures, it is very helpful to keep a notebook with you to record aperture, shutter speed, and lens used. You will probably want to "bracket" some shots you aren't sure of — shoot at the speed you've chosen and aperture opening indicated on your meter, then shoot again with the aperture stopped down once, then opened up one stop. If you have jotted those facts down in sequence, you can compare your finished pictures with the record, and learn which combination works best.

To sum it all up, you need:

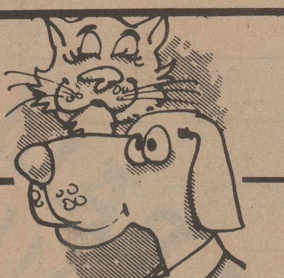

1. Patience, patience, patience.

2. A thorough knowledge of your pet's habits.

3. A discerning eye for a well-composed picture — developed by looking at pictures you like and really seeing what has made them good.

4. A fast trigger finger — to shoot and shoot and shoot a series of actions and reactions. Out of a roll of 20, one or two may be winners. If so, you're battling about the same as most professional animal photographers.

5. A complete understanding of your camera and the film you have in it. Read those instructions accompanying your camera and each package of film. Together they are your photographic bible.

6. An understanding of how to use your camera's controls to create the kind of picture you've composed in your mind's eye.

If you have all these, you won't really need luck to picture your pet.

From your pet's friend — the one with a warm heart for cold noses.

Stephen Austin Remembered

AUSTIN — Stephen F. Austin came to Texas in 1821 to take up his father's colonization contract. But Austin set in motion events that led to the creation not only of a colony, but also of a new and independent nation.

The "Father of Texas" will be honored Monday, November 3, at commemorative ceremonies in the state capital and at Austin's historic homestead, San Felipe, at Stephen F. Austin State Park near Sealy.

The "Father of Texas Day" program will begin at 9 a.m. at the State Cemetery in Austin. State officials, including Texas Secretary of State George Strake, will pay tribute to the first Secretary of State, Stephen F. Austin, during a wreath-laying ceremony at Austin's grave.

At 10 a.m. the group will travel by bus to San Felipe de Austin. The San Felipe ceremony, to begin at 1 p.m., will be hosted by the Stephen F. Austin Park Association. Students from all schools in Austin County will participate in the program. Guest speaker will be Austin artist Bruce Marshall who will discuss Texas art and its historical function.

When the Revolution came in 1836, Austin first led volunteer forces, then traveled to the United States as a representative of the Lone Star Republic. He later became Texas' first Secretary of State.

OPPONENT'S ADS DISHONEST:

Patman Against Busing Official Record Shows.

In a recent press conference, State Senator Bill Patman of Ganado produced official voting records to show that his opponent for Congress is using radio and TV ads falsifying Patman's positions on several controversial issues.

Patman is the Democratic nominee for Congress in the general election to be held on Tuesday, November 4.

One of the Republican's ads falsely implies that Patman supports forced busing of school children, when actually Patman has a consistent record of opposing forced busing throughout 19 years in the Texas Senate.

In his paid commercial, the Republican claims Patman voted against an anti-busing amendment in the Constitutional Convention of 1974. To the contrary, the records show that Patman voted for the strongest possible anti-busing amendment.

When that failed by one vote, he later joined two-thirds of the voting delegates to defeat a substitute proposal so poorly worded that it could have caused busing if it had passed.

The largest daily newspaper in the district, the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, has criticized the misleading ads saying they are "at worst, false, and, at best, disingenuous" (devious). And, in a separate news story, the Caller-Times cited a source close to defeated primary candidate Bob Barnes as saying the Barnes campaign rejected the idea of using the 1974 vote because "it would be an inaccurate portrayal" to picture it as pro-busing.

In addition to his vote against forced busing during the Constitutional Convention, Patman has cast at least two other record votes in the Senate for strong anti-busing proposals.

The Republican candidate's ads also include one on a balanced federal budget which similarly distorts Patman's true stance. (Patman strongly supports a balanced federal budget and has voted in the Senate to urge Congress to give us one.)

Ironically, some of Patman's most notable achievements have been in the area of blocking taxpayer ripoffs and cutting out government waste. He was recently given a perfect "100%" rating by Texas 13, a non-profit organization dedicated to lowering taxes and putting a brake on government spending.

Commenting on the distortions of his record by his opponent, Patman said, "It is a question of honesty in politics. You don't leave your character outside the door when you step into the political arena. If a man is dishonest in a campaign, can we really count on him to be honest in office?"

Patman said he would end his own campaign on a positive note, sticking to facts and comparing the candidates' real qualifications and record.

The cakes, chock full of fruit, are on sale right now says Sam, who's chairman of the cake sales. Anyone who wants to buy a cake can call Sam at 729-6355 — or can go by the Petite Chateau Beauty Shop, Beacon Beauty Shop or Beachcomber Beauty Shop or Roatan Pharmacy. The money is used to fund various Lions Club philanthropic projects, such as the Crippled Children's Camp in Kerrville, and, as Sam points out, "You can't buy the ingredients in one of these cakes to make your own for $5."

final approval. Newberry appeared before the joint session Monday night on the fence amendment request. Specifically, Newberry's request dealt with a portion of the ordinance that prohibits construction of a fence within 20 feet of an intersection.

Newberry observed that this is to prevent creation of a "blind corner" but added, "The way the ordinance now reads, a man can plant shrubs and hedges and create a blind corner."

He suggested that the ordinance be amended to allow construction of a fence up to four feet in height "with 50 percent visibility."

"I think fences are beautiful and make the house more attractive," Newberry said, adding that more and more people want to fence in their yards as a matter of privacy.

Dr. Spriegel said those concerned should telephone Congressman John Tower or Congressman Lloyd Bentsen to voice their objections, since it is too late for a letter to be effective.

Before you take Doan's Pills for muscular backache, remember this: MOMENTUM® Tablets are 50% stronger than Doan's. That means MOMENTUM gives you 50% more pain reliever per dose to relieve backache.

To reduce pain, soothe inflammation so muscles loosen—you can move more freely in minutes! There's no stronger backache medication you can buy without a prescription than MOMENTUM® Tablets. Take only as directed.

Blair's Corner

By Pat Blair

This is the story of the Year The Rockport City Council (the entire council) Resigned.

I happened 35 years ago - September, 1945. The mayor and three of the city aldermen resigned - the fifth council member had announced his resignation earlier.

That first council member to resign was Alderman Lt. Cmdr. Clyde Armstrong. He was already off the council when, on Friday, September 28, then-Mayor Jack Blackwell tendered his resignation to the council.

"It is too much to ask any businessman to give the time necessary to keep up with the city's (Rockport's) growing pains," Blackwell was quoted as saying that night. "With new building and development projects, it is now a full-time job to run this city."

According to the October 4 issued of the Pilot that recounted the proceedings, the remaining aldermen - Fred B. Hunt, Morgan C. Wheller and B.W. Hamblin - agreed with Blackwell.

Each of these men said that he, too, could not afford to take the time from his business that was needed to handle the city's affairs. And they tendered their resignations as well.

Ex-Mayor Blackwell, according to the Pilot's report, "stressed the point that there were no ill feelings" behind the across-the-board resignations.

council members were to become effective as of Monday, October 8. The mayor and aldermen called for a special election on Tuesday, October 9, to fill the five vacancies.

As of Thursday, October 4, no one had filed for any of the posts - a state of affairs that must have been causing a certain amount of concern, at least among city officials.

By election day, however, there were five candidates running unopposed for the five city offices.

A light voter turnout was reported as Albert Collier was elected mayor and Leonard LeBlanc, Arley Shivers, W.B. Allen and S.B. Daggett were elected aldermen.

Collier, as the new mayor, said the council would immediately adopt a "semi-manager" form of government and many of the routine duties would be delegated to the city secretary.

With its newly-elected council, Rockport returned to the more mundane matters of city business, including the hiring of a city attorney - a matter for another column, maybe, on some other day.

History and the Pilot's records being what they are, I'm not sure it 1945 was the first year the entire city council resigned...or even if it was the last.

But is certainly contributed to making '45 an interesting year in Aransas County...

FROM THE
Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

Senator Jim Sasser (Tenn.) ... "My colleagues will recall this hotline was established at my request and with strong support of the former ranking member of our Legislative Appropriations subcommittee, the distinguished Senator from Pennsylvania (Mr. Schweiker).

The hotline was installed at the General Accounting Office with the cooperation of Comptroller General Elmer Staats ... I ask unanimous consent that the fraud hotline number be printed in the Record. "The national toll free hotline is 800-424-5454. In Washington D.C., metropolitan area the number is 633-6987. ... Examples of allegations were ordered to be printed in the Record ... (We list a few):

"Allegations: The caller alleged misappropriation of CETA grant funds by a State Consortium. Approximately $600,000 was alleged to have been spent illegally without any approval by the prime sponsor.

"Allegation: A VA physician assigned to a VA medical center in Pennsylvania was operating an afternoon private practice when he should have been on duty at the center.

"Allegation: The caller alleged that a secretary in the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury was falsifying her time cards as to hours worked, sick leave and annual leave.

"Allegation: The caller alleged that a civilian foreman in the Maintenance Department at the Corps of Engineers installation was stealing supplies and equipment to operate a private business which he ran from his Government office.

"The hotline allows any concerned citizen with knowledge of fraud and abuse in any Federal program - to report that knowledge to a General Accounting Office Special Task Force for the Prevention of Fraud.

The anonymity of any caller will be respected; the name of the caller need not be given to the task force. In 67 percent of the cases, the caller has chosen to remain anonymous ...

"So far, 317 of the allegations have been substantiated. This has resulted in recoveries of approximately $9.4 million with several criminal prosecutions in progress ..."

CRUMP'S GRASS

ROOTS COMMENT

Although Congress is not in session, the Fraud hotline continues to be open. This hotline gives the ordinary citizen an opportunity to express his or her dissatisfaction with the misuse of the taxpayer's money. It appears that the hotline is being kept hot.

Why Make A Change?

We Have An Excellent
Precinct 3 Commissioner

RAYMOND OWENS

Go To The Polls
Tues. Nov. 4 And
RE-ELECT Him
For Your County
Commissioner.

Is The Man For Precinct 3.

When Commissioners' Court meets he is there to look out for the interest of Pct. 3 as well as all of Aransas County.

Raymond Owens strives to spend the Pct. 3 budget on a need priority basis and as conservatively as possible.

Fortunately he is 100% available to Pct. 3 and its duties. With the growth in our area, our budget and services we provide have increased. We need a man with experience to get the full value from every tax dollar. We cannot afford to have our County funds mismanaged.

Raymond Owens has served us well for the past 16 years. He is a man who makes his own decisions and is not controlled by any person or group and is dedicated to his duties and responsibilities. This is the kind of man we need in our County government.

Pct. 3 is a large area to serve. It takes in part of Rockport, part of Fulton, Key Allegro, Copano Ridge, Copano Cove, Copano Village and west Fulton outlots which extend to the Copano Causeway. Raymond Owens has served all of these areas as equally as possible.

Don't take a chance on an unknown factor.

We already know what Raymond Owens can do and will do as our County Commissioner.

Re-Elect Raymond Owens
