WEST TEXAS SOLONS BACK PLAN TO TAKE OVER DALLAS SCHOOL

Texas Tech Medical Branch Proposed

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Feb. 2. —West Texas legislators sounded out North Texas lawmakers today on the proposition of setting up a state medical school in Dallas as a branch of Texas Tech.

Rep. Preston Smith of Lubbock said he was contacting other legislators with the idea that a medical school in Dallas would more adequately serve West Texas and the Panhandle.

Rep. Sam Hanna of Dallas said he was approached by five West Texas legislators. Hanna is co-author of a proposed House bill to appropriate $3,600,000 for the state to take over Southwestern Medical college in Dallas and operate it as a medical school. The school would be under the University of Texas.

"As far as I am personally concerned it would be all right with me to make it a branch of Texas Tech," Hanna said. "All I want to do is make the Dallas medical school the best one in the state."

Senator Fred Harris of Dallas, author of a similar bill now under consideration in the Senate, said the West Texas legislators had not approached him.

NO COMMENT ON PLAN

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Technological college, when contacted Wednesday night regarding the proposed medical branch for Texas Tech at Dallas said that he preferred not to make any comment regarding the plan at this time. No officials of the Tech board were available for comment on the suggested branch.

"However, there have been some West Texans who told me they would favor the medical school as a branch of Texas Tech if the Southwestern Medical college would agree to the same conditions in the present bill," Harris said.

Committee To Study Bill

Senator Pat Bullock of Colorado City said he had not been contacted on the West Texas proposal.

"If they get the medical school for Dallas it would suit me fine if it is a branch of Texas Tech," he said.

Hanna said that the West Texas delegation which visited him argued that the University of Texas already has one medical school, in Galveston.

"We are planning on a $10,000,000 city-county hospital and we have a group of civic-minded citizens to support a good medical school in Dallas," he said. "Dallas has much greater possibilities to offer a medical school than Galveston."

Hanna said his main interest at present is getting the proposed medical bill past the House Appropriations committee. Hanna is a member of the committee—"and there are five West Texans on that committee, too."

SOME ROADS ALMOST IMPASSABLE

Rain, Fog Blanket Plains, Wide Section Over State

INCLEMENT weather which has idled hundreds of construction and other outdoor workers over the South Plains, and in many instances has caused heavy demand on the services of relief organizations by needy families in Lubbock is not expected to end before this afternoon.

Drizzling rain and fog were forecast by the Weather station at Municipal airport to continue this morning, and possibly late into the afternoon.

While the drizzling rain yesterday amounted only to a trace so far as official measurement at the Weather station was concerned, melting ice and snow kept streets slushy and unpaved roads muddy and almost impassable.

Roads Almost Impassable

Temperatures were not expected to drop low enough today to cause any inconvenience from ice, the weatherman said. A low of 31 degrees was predicted for this morning, but the weatherman said the low reading probably would be of short duration. A high of 36 to 37 degrees this afternoon was predicted.

Although the light precipitation is likely to end this afternoon, the Weather station reported, mostly cloudy skies probably will continue throughout Friday. Readings of 30 to 40 degrees are predicted for tomorrow.

Thawing of frozen ground coupled with melting ice and snow had many rural roads and unpaved streets almost impassable last night. Demand for tire chains was reported heavy in Lubbock, and most auto accessory stores were sold out of chains.

Rain Falls Over State

Meanwhile, temperatures continued to moderate in Texas Wednesday after days of bitter weather and light rains fell in South Texas as well as West Texas, the Associated Press said.

Occasional rains were expected to continue last night in the south part of East Texas and over much of West Texas today.

Drizzling rain froze as it struck Wednesday night in the Childress and Clarendon areas of the Panhandle, the Associated Press said. However, no damage was reported. Other points reporting rain included Big Spring, Abilene, Plainview, San Angelo, Amarillo, Brownsville, Laredo and other valley points.

Over much of the state, including Lubbock and the South Plains Wednesday the groundhog—if he ventured in this area—failed to see his shadow and so according

Vote Delayed On Filibuster

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. (AP)—Southern senators opposed to outlawing the filibuster won a week's postponement on the issue in the Rules committee today.

But Senator Knowland (R-Calif) announced he will ask the Senate tomorrow for an immediate decision.

"I want the Senate to stand up and be counted on this question," he said.

A short time earlier, the Rules committee of which Knowland is a member, voted 7-5 to adjourn until Feb. 9 without acting on a filibuster-curbing rules change. Three members, Senators Gillette (D-Iowa), Hunt (D-Wyo) and Withers (D-Ky), said they hadn't made up their minds on the question and wanted more time to consider it.

Five Plans Studied

Chairman Hayden, (D-Ariz) and Senators Green (D-RI), Stennis (D-Miss) and Long (D-La) joined in voting for the postponement. Senators Myers (D-Pa), Lodge (R-Mass), Jenner (R-Ind), Ives (R-NY) and Knowland wanted an immediate vote.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) was absent. He left a proxy to vote for cutting off debate on any matter at any time by a two-thirds majority, but no instructions on how to be recorded on a motion to adjourn.

The postponement was a victory—probably a temporary one—for southerners who regard the proposed rules change as the opening move in a drive to enact President Truman's "civil rights" program.

Five anti-filibuster resolutions are before the committee. They would permit the Senate to cut off debate by a two-thirds, or even a majority, vote of the Senate on any question, including a motion to take up a bill. The present rule has been held to apply only when a bill is actually up for consideration and not to a motion to take it up.

Such a change, for practical purposes, would eliminate the filibuster. Filibustering is simply unlimited talk, usually by a minority, to delay Senate action.

CENTENARIAN DIES

BALLINGER, Feb. 2. (AP)—J. T. McElroy, retired farmer who celebrated his 100th birthday last fall, died here today. Born in Sabine county, Nov. 20, 1848, he had lived in Texas all his life and had lived in Ballinger since 1908. Survivors include two sons and four daughters.

Stalin Claims Health Blocks Trip To U. S.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager, INS
(Wor'd Copyright, 1949, By INS)

PARIS, Feb. 2 — Premier Stalin declared today he was willing to confer with President Truman in Russia, Poland, or Czechoslovakia, saying his own health prevented fulfillment of a long-standing "wish to visit Washington."

The Russian leader's statement was made in a telegram today to International News Service, the same news agency through which Stalin four days ago said he is willing to discuss a "pact of peace" with President Truman.

Doctors' Concern Told

Seven hours later, tonight, Stalin's expressed wish to meet the President in either Moscow, Leningrad, Kaliningrad, Odessa, or Yalta, or "at the President's discretion" in Poland or Czechoslovakia, was broadcast to the world by Moscow radio.

In his telegram, Stalin for the first time personally and publicly mentioned his doctors' concern for his health.

The telegram was addressed to the writer at International News Service headquarters in Paris, in answer to a second message to Stalin.

Copies Given to HST

This correspondent asked Stalin if he was prepared to go to Washington, where President Truman repeatedly has said he is willing to meet with the Russian leader at any time to discuss outstanding East-West differences.

Copies of Stalin's signed reply, rushed with high government priority from Moscow, were given to President Truman at the White House in Washington, and to the British and French cabinets.

(Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross reiterated that President Truman is willing to meet Premier Stalin in Washington to discuss a means of ending the "cold war." But Ross refused to comment on Stalin's latest statement to International News Service.

(Premier Henri Queuille of France termed the latest Stalin message "sensational information," but added: "Let the Soviets lift the blockade of Berlin if they wish to prove their peaceful intentions."

Soviets Praise Joe As 'Genius'

By NATALIA RENE
INS Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 — Russia told her people tonight that Premier Stalin has offered to meet President Truman in Russia, Poland, or Czechoslovakia, and the average Russian reacted enthusiastically.

(This dispatch was filed before it became known that the United States rejected the Stalin overtures.)

In a second message to Kingsbury Smith, European general manager of International News Service in Paris, the Russian leader thanked President Truman for his invitation to visit Washington but said his doctors advised him against extended journeys by sea or air.

Stalin Is Acclaimed

Instead Stalin said the Russian government would welcome a visit by the President to Moscow, Leningrad, Kaliningrad (former German East Prussian capital of Koenigsburg), Odessa or Yalta. He added that if the President wishes, alternative sites could be found in Poland or Czechoslovakia.

This correspondent heard expressions such as these among average Russians commenting on the Moscow radio broadcast:

"Our Stalin is like gold.

"Our Stalin is a genius—only he could answer both the first and second time so much to the point and with such dignity."

Wallace Is Quoted

The Moscow press was filled with columns of world reaction to Stalin's first message to Smith in which the Soviet leader expressed willingness to consider a declaration pledging the United States and Russia never to war against each other.

In the first message Stalin also gave Russia's views on simultaneous action with the big four to lift all transport restrictions in Berlin providing the Western Allies postponed creation of a western German state pending another conference on all German problems.

Pravda and Izvestia printed four columns of world reaction to this message to the West through International News Service. The comment included 62 lines quoting Henry Wallace who said "Stalin opened the door to peace and the entire world demanded that the door remain open."

The first Stalin message followed official charges that the suggested North Atlantic security pact was aimed against Russia. It also followed Russia's official request to Norway to clarify her stand on possible participation in such a pact.

Norway's answer to the Soviet note in which Norway said she is studying possible participation has not yet been published in the Soviet press. But there is no doubt that Russia's reaction will be unfavorable.

Acheson Says Door Open To Big Four Talks

By EARLE MARCKRES
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The United States today rejected Premier Stalin's unofficial bids for a "peace" conference with President Truman alone—but left the door open for an official Soviet move for Big Four talks on Berlin and other "cold war" issues.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson set forth an historic statement on American Foreign policy during his news conference at which the recent exchange of communications between Stalin and International News Service was fully discussed.

Must Invite Others

The statement hinged entirely on two Stalin messages to INS in which the Russian chief of state offered to meet President Truman in Russia, Poland or Czechoslovakia to discuss a possible "pact of peace."

Acheson rejected a two-way parley, stating that any discussion of the "cold war" issues would have to include Britain and France as equal partners with Russia and the United States.

In commenting on the Berlin crisis, which figured prominently in the Stalin correspondence with INS, Acheson said:

"The United States, together with the other powers occupying western Germany, would, of course, consider carefully any proposal to solve the Berlin problem consistent with their rights, their duties and their obligations as occupying powers." He added: "All the normal channels of communication are open."

Would Meet in Capital

The secretary underscored the official nature of his remarks by stating, "I may say that my views and not contrary to the President's." He continued:

"I would like to make it clear now that the United States would not discuss with any nation any matter of direct interest to other nations without the direct participation of those and other nations."

Acheson made it clear that Mr. Truman stands willing to meet Stalin in Washington only at the social level accorded visiting heads of state. He also made it clear that President Truman will not discuss international matters with Stalin

Ben Hogan Hurt In Auto Mishap

EL PASO, Feb. 2. (AP)—Ben Hogan, king of the golfers, suffered a fractured pelvis, broken collar bone, and possible fracture of a rib in an auto-bus collision today.

His injuries were enumerated in an official bulletin issued by physicians at 6:25 p. m. (MST) today. The physicians expressed confidence that Hogan would be able to play golf again, but would not venture a guess as to when.

The bulletin said Hogan was now out of shock and much improved. It listed his condition as "fair."

Protected Wife

They call Ben golf's little giant. His links magic brought him the National Open and National PGA titles last year.

The little guy's wife, Valerie, said his injuries might have been worse had he not thrown himself across her to protect her. This got him out of the way of their 1949 Cadillac's steering wheel, which was jammed back into the driver's seat.

Valerie suffered only minor injuries. She was at the hospital a while tonight, then left for the hotel where she plans to stay.

Hogan's attending physicians are D. L. Feener, David Eron, and Leopoldo Villareal.

Tech Backers Lose Latest Move On College Building Amendment

AUSTIN, Feb. 2. (AP)—The State Supreme court refused to reconsider an earlier ruling on the college building amendment today and in effect closed the case on the amendment's validity.

The court said it had no jurisdiction in the case.

A second motion for rehearing could be filed but these are rarely granted.

Both trial and appeals courts have rejected legal actions contending that the amendment is not valid.

State-owned colleges are now proceeding on the $75,000,000 building program authorized by the amendment.

1949 Crop Not To Count On Allotments

House Okays Cotton Acreage Quota Bill

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — The House passed today a bill providing that any future cotton acreage allotments shall be figured without taking into account this year's plantings.

Passage came on a voice vote in which no opposition was heard. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Prompt action on the measure had been urged by the Agriculture department so that farmers can make plans for their 1949 crop knowing that the acreage they plant will have no bearing on quotas they receive, if and when cotton production controls are reestablished.

Lifted during the war, restrictions on the size of the cotton crop are expected to be instated in 1950 because of steadily increasing supplies. Farmers themselves would be called upon late this year to determine if they want controls placed on next year's crop.

A House Agriculture subcommittee now is considering a long-range cotton program.

The bill passed by the House does not say what years shall be used as a base in determining acreage allotments. It does say that where a farmer had no land in cotton in either 1947 to 1948, he can use his 1942 acreage allotment as a base for future quotas.

The Agriculture department has recommended a four-year base period of 1945 to 1948, inclusive, with a small percentage of the national allotment set aside for new cotton farms.

Passage of the House bill was praised tonight by Reps. W. R. Poage, Waco, George Mahon, of Colorado City and Lubbock and

Police Impound Cars For Illegal Parking

Seven fight fans who attended the bouts last night at Tech gymnasium found that the evening cost them more than they had expected.

Police, who found that the street in front of the gym was blocked by parked cars, called wreckers and impounded the vehicles at police headquarters. Prior to impounding the cars, drivers were warned twice over the public address system in the gymnasium, police said.

Four of the drivers had shown up at headquarters before midnight, paid the $2.50 impounding fee and parking ticket and taken their respective cars home. A recent traffic ordinance gives police the power to impound cars when the car is parked so as to present a traffic hazard, as well as in a number of other specified instances.

Army Officials Deny Rumored Invasion Of U.S. Korean Zone

SEOUL, Feb. 3. (Thursday) (INS)—U. S. Army officials in Seoul today branded as "completely false" a published report of an "invasion" of South Korea by Soviet-trained Korean troops from the north.

The report (not carried by International News Service) said 1,000 north Koreans crossed the 38th parallel border into the American-occupied zone along a three-mile front.

Chinese Leader May Try New Peace Bid

NANKING, Feb. 2. (AP)—Acting President Li Tsung-Jen may dare all and fly to Red territory in a dramatic bid for peace, his friends said today.

The Communists have marked him as a "war criminal" but these sources say he is ready to take his chances if there seems no other way.

There is growing belief in Nanking, however, that Li at most will be able to speak for Nanking, Shanghai and Hankow.

(This is because most government officials, over whom Li has no control, have moved south to Canton. Canton is scheduled to become the new capital Saturday even though Li intends to stay in Nanking.

(In Canton, Gov. Hsueh Yueh of Kwangtung province announced Monday that regardless of what Li does, the four southern provinces of Kwangtung, Kwangsi, Hunan and Fukien will fight to the last.

(The broadcast, heard by the Associated Press at San Francisco, declared Chiang Kai-Shek and his lieutenants were preparing for "resistance to the bitter end." It boasted that "they will be utterly and thoroughly isolated" and "their reactionary policies" smashed.)

DUMAS MAN CHARGED

DUMAS, Feb. 2. (AP) — Olin Hardwick, 47. Dumas carpenter, was charged with murder with malice today in the death of John Wesley Crawford in Moore county jail here last weekend. Crawford's body was found Saturday morning. The inquest verdict read death of head injuries at the hands of person or persons unknown. Hardwick and two other prisoners were cellmates of Crawford Friday night.

Suspect Admits Texarkana Death

TEXARKANA, Feb. 2. (AP)—Police Chief Jack Runnels said tonight that Clarence J. Hankins has made a signed statement admitting he killed Bonnie Jean Shelton in a local hotel room here last night.

The nude and bloodstained body of the 24-year-old Texarkana woman was found in the hotel room this morning. Earlier tonight murder charges were filed against Hankins, 28, also of Texarkana.

Runnels said Hankins made the signed statement at New Boston jail, the county seat of Bowie county, Texas. The police chief said the Texarkana man apparently broke down after he was shown his bloody clothes—coat, trousers, shirt and sweater—taken from his home in Texarkana.

Stabbed With Knife

Hankins' signed statement said he stabbed the Shelton woman three or four times with a pocket knife and then strangled her. When the body was found a cloth had been knotted tightly about her neck, her throat had been cut and there were knife wounds on the body.

The Texarkana man said, in his statement, that he killed Mrs. Shelton because she double-crossed him—"she didn't do what I wanted her to. I wanted her to

Nebraska Plane Crash Kills Two Leading Snow Rescue Operation

ALLIANCE, Neb., Feb. 2. (INS)—Two men were killed near Alliance this afternoon when the light plane from which they were directing "operation snowbound" bulldozers struck a power line and crashed into the ranch home of Clarence Kilpatrick.

The men were identified as John Huff, Civilian Air patrol pilot, and William O'Brien, prominent Alliance real estate man. Both were killed instantly.

Army weasels and an ambulance were dispatched to the crash scene and returned the bodies to Alliance.

No one was injured at the Kilpatrick ranch although some damage was caused to the house.

One Injured In Three-Way Crash

Wet, slick highways and streets and a fine mist of rain which fell throughout most of Wednesday may have been responsible for a three-way collision about 7:15 p.m. on Idalou highway, about five miles from Lubbock.

The collision, involving a truck and two automobiles, sent one man to the hospital with serious but not critical injuries.

Emmitt Logan Sowder, 58, gin manager of Idalou route 1, who was driving a late model Plymouth which smashed into the rear of a heavy truck, was taken to West Texas hospital by Plains ambulance. An attending physician there said he suffered a fractured right ankle, two broken ribs, a laceration of the right wrist and multiple contusions.

Third Car In Wreck

The truck, driven by Henry Thompson, 51-year-old Dallas negro, was traveling at approximately 15 miles per hour, an investigating highway patrolman was told. The Plymouth struck the low steel bed of the truck, driving the motor of the smaller vehicle backward, fortunately on the side opposite the driver.

A few minutes after the collision, a 1948 Chevrolet coach driven by James B. Smith, 26, of Silverton, ran up on the wreck, sliding into the rear of the already damaged Plymouth while attempting to pass. All had been traveling toward Lubbock.

A butane truck narrowly missed the three scrambled vehicles a short time later, averting poss-

OPINION BOLSTERS NEW LABOR BILL

Clark Declares President Has Enough Power To Halt Strikes

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 — Attorney General Clark declared tonight that President Truman always will have access to the courts to protect the national welfare in major strikes.

Clark expressed his opinion in a written report on the administration's proposed new labor law which would repeal the Taft-Hartley act and knock out that statute's 80-day anti-strike injunction weapon.

The attorney general told the Senate Labor committee, sitting in night session to speed completion of a labor bill:

"It is my belief that access to its own courts is always available to the United States, in the absence of any specific statutory bar depriving the government of the right to seek the aid of the federal courts in such critical situations."

Senate Republicans had criticized the Democratic measure as lacking sufficient "teeth" to deal with John L. Lewis coal strikes and emergency disputes.

The proposed new law pro-

House Committee Studies All Forms Of Activity Against U. S.; Jap Spying On Navy Was Revealed

I AM NOT a professional apologist for the House Un-American Activities Committee.

As a member of its investigative staff for ten years I frequently spoke out against its intra-committee bickering, its chronic (as is true of all political groups) inability to keep secret matters secret, and the time it wastes in answering the rugged minority which keeps it under attack.

Those who wish the committee well, but at the same time wish that it could be more discreet in its public and private hearings, tend to compare its conduct with that of, say, an upper judicial court.

Politics Play Role

It is not a fair comparison. Members of Congress are not necessarily trained as impartial jurists. They operate their hearings under different rules. As elected representatives of their political parties they are subject to the exigencies of their calling. They must run for re-election, keep their names alive in their home-district newspapers, guard their sovereign rights and privileges. It was ever thus and ever will it be.

The chairman of our committee during the Alger Hiss investigation on one occasion asked the members to take an oath they they would not divulge what had taken place in a secret session. They all took the oath.

Within two hours the story was on the front pages of afternoon newspapers throughout the country.

I prepared the difficult Gerhart

'Axis Sally' Claims She Faced Death Threat From Nazi Official

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Mildred E. Gillars complained bitterly today about "the way they've treated me in this country" at her Axis Sally treason trial in Washington.

Her outburst came from the defense table as the government marshaled more witnesses to identify her as the "Sally" of the Nazi wartime radio.

Judge Edward M. Curran quickly silenced her by saying sternly: "Now just a minute." There was an uncomfortable silence, after which the testimony continued.

Two Vets On Stand

Two wounded veterans of the Normandy invasion — Grover Cleveland McKinney of Denver, Colo., and Harvey Crosthwaite of Hamilton, Ont. — testified Miss Gillars was the "Sally" who interviewed them in a Paris hospital in 1944.

They said she used their messages to the folks at home to butter up Nazi broadcasts including anti-Jewish and anti-Roosevelt comments. The Canadian conceded he was prejudiced against her.

Further drama was promised when the government agreed to hear testimony that the stage-struck Miss Gillars was threatened with death in Germany after falling into the Nazi propaganda net in New York.

The day's developments included:

George Heinrich Schnell, ex-Nazi actor who was to have testified that he appeared on the German radio with "Sally" in 1944, was excused when he said he was "not a Christian" and refused to swear by the Bible. He may be called back later.

2. The government agreed to bring from the British zone of Germany two witnesses — Emil Beckman and Franz Schafer — who Miss Gillars says will provide testimony that she was threatened with death.

3. Werner Plack, a former German foreign office official, testified that he accompanied Miss Gillars and Prof. Max Otto Koischwitz to the prisoner of war camp at Chartres, France, for the purpose of interviewing Allied prisoners.

Koischwitz, now dead, was the former Hunter college professor who the defense claims brought Miss Gillars under his "hypnotic" influence in New York. He later became a director of the German radio.

Plack said he set up the recording equipment with which the prisoners were interviewed, and that there was sometimes "quite a fight" among the captured men to be first to get word back home through such interviews.

Five of the ten overt acts of treason charged against the 48-year-old Miss Gillars involve interviews with Allied prisoners.

Miss Gillars' motion to bring Beckman as a witness says he will testify that Horst Cleinow, second in command of the German radio, told her "that if she did not obey him and obey others connected with the German government she would lose her life."

Farmer Loses Ground, But Stores Gain, Survey Shows

DALLAS, Feb. 2. (AP)—The farmer lost ground in the Southwest last year but department stores gained.

The Federal Reserve bank of Dallas, in a 1948 review yesterday, said farm prices fell below 1947 but department store sales increased greatly.

The report said:

1. Production of most crops was hurt by drought with largest declines for winter wheat, oats, peanuts and grapefruit. However, larger crops of cotton, corn, barley, grain sorghums, rice and peans were harvested. The total farm value of all crops was "appreciably below the 1947 records, though above all previous records."

2. Industrial employment and production edged upward gradually but steadily. Crude oil production exceeded by 10 per cent the previous record set in 1947. The value of construction contracts totaled 15 per cent more.

3. Department store sales were 9 per cent above 1947. Total sales surpassed the record dollar volume of 1947 by a greater margin than the previous year-to-year increase.

4. Loans by banks reflected the very high level of business activity, while demand and time deposits rose to new record totals. Total bank debits rose 20 per cent.

Aid Is Asked In Search For Body

RIO GRANDE CITY, Feb. 2. (AP)—J. Ernest Jones appealed today to Starr county Judge M. J. Rodriguez for help in recovering the body of Willard Hill, drowned in a lake near here yesterday.

Hill and G. W. Falls, both of Littlefield, were drowned in the Marte Gomez lake 18 miles southeast of Roma when their boat overturned. They were members of a fishing party from Lamb county.

Jones, Lamb county school superintendent, recovered Fall's body. He held onto a tree until he was rescued. A Mexican guide swam ashore with the help of an oil can.

Rodriguez contacted the State Welfare department field worker here, William S. Shaley, who said he had no equipment for grappling in the search for Hill's body.

Jones, accompanied by L. E. White, Littlefield, enlisted the aid of Mission fire chief Ray Landry. Landry promised to take a boat and grapplers to the lake Thursday if the water calms. The lake was too rough today and rain was falling.

White and J. R. Whatley of Lubbock were also in the fishing party but were not in the boat that overturned.

Jones said that he had the only preserver.

"We were fishing with our backs to the prow and a canvas over our heads," Jones said. "The first we knew that the boat was filling with water was when the guide yelled 'jump' and the boat went down immediately. I swam to a tree sticking up. When I looked around Falls had disappeared.

"I could see Hill just underwater. I swam and brought him to a tree. The guide grabbed oil cans and swam ashore. He got in touch with White and Whatley at the damsite and a boat came for me."

A Hammond Funeral home ambulance from Littlefield was expected to leave here tonight to return Falls' body to the Lamb county town for funeral services. If the return trip is completed before noon Thursday, rites are scheduled to be held at 3 p. m. at LFD Drive Church of Christ, Littlefield, with Harrel Collard, Minister, officiating. If the return trip is not completed until after the noon hour, rites probably will be held Friday, it was indicated here.

Minnesota Farmer Convicted Of Slavery

MANKATO, Minn., Feb. 2. (INS)—A wealthy farmer convicted in Minnesota's first slavery trial drew a sentence today of 3½ years in prison and a fine of $2,500.

The sentence was imposed on George Stark, 60, of Gibbon by Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye following the farmer's conviction by a jury of 11 men and one woman on a federal charge of peonage.

The jury returned the guilty verdict against Stark last night after deliberating a little more than 12 hours in Federal District court at Mankato.

Judge Lauds Verdict

Judge Nordbye lauded the verdict, saying Stark "was guilty beyond question" of keeping Francisco A. Rodriguez, 29-year-old American in bondage for more than seven years. The judge declared:

"It seems almost impossible that a thing like this could happen in a democracy."

Stark was given until Feb. 14 to straighten out his affairs before entering prison.

Rodriguez was liberated from Stark's farm last summer after he revealed his plight to an itinerant salesman who notified authorities.

Testimony in the two-week trial established that Rodriguez' bondage began seven and one-half years ago after he met Stark on a Winthrop, Minn., street and accepted a laborer's job on the farm.

Borden County Wildcat Makes Strike In Lower Permian Sand

A strike was made in a lower Permian sand of Northwest Borden county at H. L. Hunt No. 1-B Clayton & Johnson wildcat, 11 miles northwest of the town of Gail and 660 feet from west and north lines of the northeast quarter of section 22, block 31, T-6-N, TP survey.

The pay was encountered on a 30-minute drillstem test at 5,729-49 feet in a sand similar to the Sprayberry pay in Southeast Dawson county. In six minutes after the tool was open, gas reached the surface.

Recovery was 630 feet of mud cut oil and 270 feet of clean, high gravity, sweet oil.

Investigation Followed

Another investigation followed at 5,749-59 feet, with the tool open 95 minutes. The test showed gas in 48 minutes and recovered 810 feet of oil, mud and gas cut salt water plus 1,890 feet of salt water cut 20 to 30 per cent oil. Salt content of the water was 130,000 parts per million.

Operator says there is 19 feet of sand pay above the water which probably will make a small pumping discovery.

The venture was drilling ahead below 5,960 feet. It is to continue to around 8,000 feet to test into the Pennsylvanian formation which produces in the Vealmoor field to the south in Howard county.

Cabot Carbon company is to begin drilling by February 8 on a 5,200-foot wildcat in Northeast Gaines county, two and one-half miles southeast of the Adair field.

It is to be that company's No. 1 S. E. W. Bise, located 660 feet from north and east lines of section 2, block C-31, psl survey.

The projected depth is slated to allow an investigation into the San Andres formation of the lower Permian.

American Republics Corporation and Cities Service Oil company have made contributions toward the drilling of the prospector.

Wildcat Test Slated

A wildcat test into the Ellenburger of extreme South Lynn county is slated by Sinclair Prairie Oil company as its No. 1 George C. Lindley.

The drillsite will be 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 8, EL&RR survey. That puts it about one mile north of the town of O'Donnell.

The deep zone is expected to come in slightly above 9,000 feet. Drilling is to be with rotary tools.

The location is on a block comprising approximately 4,500 acres. The surrounding area has been examined thoroughly with seismology.

77,000 Gallons Of Gas Lost In Fort Worth Storage Tank Leak

FORT WORTH, Feb. 2. (U.P.)—A Texas Oil company official today estimated loss at $17,000 for some 77,000 gallons of gasoline that escaped from a storage tank at the North Sylvania terminal here.

Extreme cold weather Monday caused pipes to contract and break the flange connecting them to the two-million gallon tank, the official explained.

Fields paralleling a nearby county road were inundated with fuel, and plant guards and highway patrolmen stood watch over the area to prevent accidental ignition.

An estimated 30,000 gallons were caught in two stock tanks in the fields and may possibly be salvaged by pump crews, it was said.

DEAR DEER, YOU PLAY TOO ROUGH—In Long Beach, Calif., Ralph Condouris plays with his pet mule deer, Andy, for the last time. Condouris found the deer next to the body of its dead mother, and raised it from a fawn. Now, however, it plays too rough, so he gave it to the Griffith Park Zoo in Los Angeles. From now on Condouris will concentrate on his dog, King.

CASH HOARDS EMERGE

Rising costs have increased all bus fares throughout Paraguay.

Railway Wage Talks Bog Down

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. (INS) — Disputing railroads and 16 non-operating unions agreed today in an unprecedented action to seek recall of a Presidential fact-finding board to end stalemated wage-hour negotiations.

The development indicated union negotiators rejected the latest proposal of the railroads. Neither side would reveal the terms of the proposal, but said merely efforts had bogged down on a formula for ending the lengthy wage-hour dispute.

George R. Leighty, chairman of the union negotiating committee and president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, said efforts were being made to contact the Presidential board.

Action Unprecedented

Both Leighty and Daniel P. Loomis, chairman of the railroads' committee, said the step is "without precedent."

Negotiations have been underway since May, 1948, on the unions' demands for more pay and shorter hours for a million non-operating railroad employes.

Last Dec. 17, the fact-finding board recommended a seven-cent hourly wage increase retroactive to Oct. 1, 1948, and a 40-hour work week, effective Sept. 1, 1949.

The unions said the fact-finding commission's recommendations were a basis for further negotiations. They sought a larger wage boost and establishment of the shorter work week earlier than suggested by the Presidential panel.

The union members now work 48 hours a week.

Negotiations were resumed in Chicago Jan. 5.

New York Welcomes French 'Thanks' Ship

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP) — A flag-bedecked freighter, laden with a million thanks to America from the people of France, received a noisy welcome in New York harbor today.

The French line freighter Magellan carried a 49-car train, bulging with a priceless load of gifts for America. It symbolizes the gratitude of France for the $40,000,000 Friendship train of food and gifts sent there by citizens of the U. S. in 1947.

As the Magellan steamed up the harbor past another famous token of French friendship—the Statue of Liberty—police launches, fireboats and tugs provided an escort and saluted her with whistle blasts and jets of water arched high into the air.

Texas House To Require Full Identification Of Lobbyists

AUSTIN, Feb. 2 (AP) — The House Rules committee decided today that lobbyists and other witnesses before committees be required to fully identify themselves.

Speaker Durwood Manford told committee members that if they did not want him to strictly enforce the provision, they had better remove it from the House rules book.

Chicago Police Consider Switch To Modern Plastic 'Billy' Club

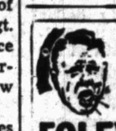

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. (INS) — Chicago police soon may discard their twelve-inch-long night sticks in favor of a more stream-lined club.

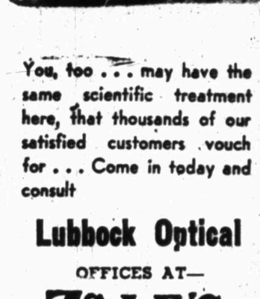

A delegation of policemen of the training division, led by Sgt. John Nelligan, visited Police Commissioner John C. Prendergast today to demonstrate the new "billy."

The weapon is only eight inches long and is made of plastic. It is tapered at the end and has grooves to fit the finger.

Sgt. Nelligan pointed out that its shorter length enables the wielder of the new billy to strike or jab at an opponent's chin or stomach.

Prendergast said he would consider its adoption later.

"TRAITOR WITHIN"

A FEW minutes in the presence of personable Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, hearing her discuss dangers of cancer and plans for an educational campaign set out by the Texas division of the American Cancer society, helps to dispel your fears regarding the dread disease. Early cancer is curable is her theme and she is appearing before school, civic and medical groups lecturing, showing films and trying to awaken her hearers to the reality of "Learn and Live."

Material regarding cancer is available to you for a meeting program, study group or for distribution to your members. Write to The Texas Division, American Cancer Society, 2307 Helena, Houston 6, for information.

• • •

THE American Cancer society is fortunate in having a handsome, intelligent woman such as Mrs. Perkins to explain the cancer program. A rapid fire talker, she can hold an audience of any age. She is thoroughly sold on her office as state commander and she sells her product, dissemination of cancer knowledge, right down the line.

We wish it had been possible for Mrs. Perkins to have shown her animated film, "The Traitor Within," before a high school assembly in Lubbock. It explains the danger signals and is an entertaining, as well as educational picture.

• • •

BY THE way, here are the seven commonest danger signals of cancer:

Any sore that does not heal.
A lump or thickening, in the breast or elsewhere.
Unusual bleeding or discharge.
Any change in a wart or mole.
Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
Persistent hoarseness or cough.
Any change in normal bowel habits.

NICE TRIBUTE

ANYTHING we might try to write about paying tribute while the object of your affections is still alive would seem stereotyped; but at the same time, when we read or write of such an incident, it is heart warming indeed.

We are thinking of the testimonial dinner given in Slaton recently for Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Ferguson. In addition to telling those good people how much they thought of them, the guests gave them a purse of over one thousand dollars, a trip to a health resort and a crystal vase of pink carnations.

One of our best friends often says, "Touch a man's heart and you touch his purse strings," and this was certainly true where the Fergusons are concerned.

Incidentally Slaton's loss in Rev. and Mrs. Ferguson will be Lubbock's gain, because they are making their home here. He served as pastor of Slaton First Baptist church for almost 14 years.

GARDEN DREAMING

THIS year the war pressure is off the gardner. But there are other impelling reasons for home grown things. The department of agriculture has just called 150 leaders to Washington to plan next season's national garden program.

Even without encouragement, however, the gardening instinct would flourish. So deeply ingrained in a large part of humankind is the love of puttering in the soil that it survives all manner of adversity.

Much of the bitterness of winter's longest spell can be dispelled by perusal of the seed catalogs.

A book review and tea honoring patronesses of the club will be held March 1 at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. O. L. Nislar with Mrs. William O. Linn and Mrs. James Postelwaite as co-hostesses. Dean James G. Allen will give the review.

Attending Tuesday's party were Mesdames Postelwaite, Ted Waldrip, Don Brooks, Earl Cowart, jr., A. R. Golding, jr., Marvin Berry, Linn, J. P. Watt, James Nislar, W. J. Mathis, Harry W. Blomshield, Bill Ed Watson, Louis Murfee, jr., and Miss Elizabeth McLarry.

Today's Town Talk

IN AN EFFORT to depict the social life of early South Plains settlers, Lubbock Pierian-Sorosis club is sponsoring an old-fashioned West Texas square dance tonight from 8 until 12 o'clock in the Playmor Skating rink on the Saton highway.

Proceeds of the benefit "ball" will be turned over to a department at Texas Technological college for establishing a scholarship fund. Tickets may be bought at the door for one dollar per person, including tax.

Lee Searsy and his Plains Riders will play, and expert, "old-at-the-game" callers will be directing the dancing. Old-fashioned couple dancing will be sponsored.

The sponsors are stressing that entire families may come and dance together, since both oldsters and youngsters who either like to watch or take part in square dancing are invited.

Although several costumed squares will be at the dance, costumes are not required.

Among the highlights of the evening will be exhibition dancing at intermission.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson, 1519 Broadway, were expected to return home last night from New Orleans, La., where they have been vacationing for the past ten days.

They had planned to remain there for the winter months, but it seems that the entire South is having a real "northern" season.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl England of Morton plan to be in Lubbock today, (weather permitting.)

He is editor of the Tribune in his hometown.

Celebrating a birthday today is Mrs. E. Richard Heineman of 2216 Fourteenth. She plans to spend a quiet day relaxing at home.

Billie Louise Wilson, daughter of Mrs. David Whitfield of Lubbock, received her Bachelor of Business Administration degree from Southern Methodist university on Monday.

Graduation exercises for the mid-winter class of more than 500 students were held in McFarlin Memorial auditorium on the university campus in Dallas. Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of SMU, delivered the commencement address.

Miss Wilson's major was in personnel administration, and before enrolling at SMU she attended North Texas State Teachers college in Denton.

Thirty modernized and authentic adaptions of Indian women's costumes from several southwestern tribes will be modeled by Tech coeds tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Annex G of the home economics building on the college campus.

Miss Mabel Morrow, director of Southern Plains Arts and Crafts center, Indian Field service, U. S. Department of the Interior will lecture on the costume display and its origin.

Models will be Mrs. Mary Terrel Ferguson and Misses Wilma Wheeler, Norma Jackson, Rosalyn Schreier, Jane Holden and Ruth Edgerton.

The lecture-style-show is being sponsored by the department of clothing and textiles of the Tech home economics division. Miss Mabel D. Erwin, head of the department and Mrs. W. C. Holden are in charge of arrangements, and Dr. Holden will introduce the speaker.

Lincoln Theme Used At Class Luncheon

Carrying out the Lincoln birthday motif, First Baptist Rebekah class and guests attended a luncheon Tuesday in the activities center. Group 4 served as hostess.

C. H. Hamilton Named Chairman Of Lubbock County Bond Sales

* * *

Charles H. (Brownie) Hamilton, Lubbock businessman, was appointed chairman of the Lubbock County Savings Bonds committee Wednesday. The apopintment was made by Nathan Adams of Dallas, chairman of the Treasury department's advisory committee for Texas.

Coincident with his appointment as county chairman, Hamilton announced that he had named Earl Kerr, manager of the Lubbock Community Chest, as his vice chairman. He will serve as Hamilton's chief executive and coordinator in the county-wide promotion of Savings Bonds sales.

Payroll Savings Emphasized

Hamilton said that he and his committee expected to give emphasis to the payroll savings plan, through which employes can invest in Savings Bonds by having partial payments deducted from their wages and salaries.

"Lubbock and Lubbock county have a high proportion of wage and salary earners," he said, "and we can protect and add to our business development by encouraging the people who live and work here to provide for their own personal, individual financial security. This they can do by investing in Savings Bonds and by wise management of their incomes. Their financial well-being is the economic strengtn of the community and region."

Bond Holdings Increase

Hamilton said that there are more Savings Bonds in the hands of the people today than ever before.

"The people of America now own 18 per cent more bonds than they did on V-J day in 1945," he said. "During 1948 Texans alone invested $196 million in these bonds."

Hamilton is a partner in the Hamilton Roofing Co. In becoming county Savings Bonds chairman, he joins a state-wide organization of volunteers who are contributing time and effort to publice service.

West Texas Nurses Alumnae association attended a social at 1911-B Twenty-second Tuesday night with Miss Adelia Anderson and Mrs. Grace Garrett, honorary members, as hostesses.

Miss Lena Williamson presided for a business meeting.

Refreshments were served to twenty.

Girls Clubs At Meetings

Three pledges were initiated into Las Vistas club Tuesday night at a formal dinner held in the Hilton Navajo room. They were Von Arnold, Yvonne Olds and Mary Beth Wells.

Miss Ann Owen, club president, gave the vows and during a candlelight ceremony the pledges were presented with the club flower, the rose, and lighted candles, which were symbolic of sisterhood. Oma Johnson gave a brief history of Las Vistas and the motto, color and symbol were explained by Lorena O'Neal.

At the close of the service, the group sang the club song, "Until Tomorrow," and benediction was asked by Miss Owen.

A business meeting followed.

Thirteen members were present.

Fourth Victim Of Butane Gas Explosion Dies At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Feb. 2. (U.P.)—Death early today claimed the fourth and last member of a Smithfield family, burned early Monday when fire followed a butane gas explosion and destroyed their farm home.

Mrs. Laura Hollingsworth, 25, died at 2:15 a. m. in a Fort Worth hospital.

Her husband, Edward G. Hollingsworth, 32, died yesterday, while their youngest child, Mary Ina Hollingsworth, 5, died Monday. The oldest child, Bobby Glenn Hollingsworth, 8, perished in the fire.

W. F. Fergusons Are Honored At Slaton Banquet

SLATON, Feb. 2. (Special) — Expressing their appreciation of Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Ferguson's "unselfish, worthy and untiring service to the First Baptist church for almost 14 years," friends presented the honored couple with a love gift of over one thousand dollars at a recent turkey banquet given at the Slaton club house.

The Fergusons also were invited to spend a week at a large hotel at a health resort and, when leaving the dinner, were presented with a large crystal bowl of pink carnations that had centered the table.

Move To Lubbock

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson have moved to Lubbock to make their home.

The table centerpiece was flank-bearing apple green candles and double holders with the tapers were set at intervals down the table.

Covers were laid for 100 guests, including a number of members from other Slaton churches.

Lewis, John and Bob Fondy gave instrumental numbers; Mrs. Clifford Young and Mrs. Joe Tate presented a skit and Nancy Teague sang, accompanied at the piano by Doris Phillips. Group singing concluded the program.

In accepting the gifts, the Fergusons expressed their affection for their generous friends.

Plan For Re-Apportionment Of New Mexico Legislature Tabled

SANTA FE, Feb. 2. (INS)—Re-apportionment of the New Mexico legislature, one of the major issues of this session, got a setback today.

A reapportionment proposal, for the Senate only, was tabled indefinitely 34-0 by the House. Passage had seemingly been assured since better than two-thirds majority of the legislative members had signed the measure as introducers.

Opponents maintained that the bill was "railroaded" since it was introduced only yesterday.

Rep. Virgil O. McCollum, Carlsbad, who led the fight for the proposal, called the present apportionment, which dates back to statehood, "ludricous and indefensible." After the defeat, he said, "I've just begun to fight."

In the Senate a two-cent raise in gasoline tax—also expected to be highly controversial — was introduced.

High School Students To Dramatize Dickens' 'Great Expectations' As Senior Class Play

"Great Expectations," by Charles Dickens and dramatized by Marian Johnson, has been selected as the Senior High school senior play to be presented March 10 and 11, it was announced Wednesday by D. M. Howell, director.

The production is acted out against the gloomy background of England in the hungry 1840's when class distinction was definite and parents beat their children for the smallest offenses. Prison reform had not been effected and a great deal of the story revolves around the British legal system which Dickens so disparaged. The story portrays great power, drama, and humor.

"The play covers about seven years and is a great opportunity for acting, although it will be difficult to produce," Howell said.

Pip Visits Grave

The play opens when Pip, Kenneth Garrett, visiting his parent's grave is throttled by a convict, played by Royce Brookmole, who forces Pip to bring him food from his home where he lives with Joe Gargery, Denton Lambert and John Mood, and his wife, Anita Pope.

The scene moves to the house of Miss Havisham, Mary Ruth Sims, where dust-sheets cover the furniture and the embittered woman waits, still in the bridal gown she wore when she was jilted years ago. She fancies it will cheer her to watch Pip "play" with her beautiful and haughty ward, Estella, played by Marci Rogers. There are times when Pip despairs of ever becoming a gentleman to win Estella when she mocks his poor clothes and manners; but Mr. Jaggers, Jimmy Richards and Charles Whitfield, arrives and pronounces Pip a man of "Great Expectations." Pip is to be raised as a gentleman and will inherit great wealth.

Scheme Falls Through

Six years later Estella, Anne Bentley, rejects Pip, W. J. Blake, and Miss Havisham tastes the bitter fruits of her training. Pip's benefactor is revealed and he struggles between shame and loyalty. Suddenly, Pip finds his life is no longer playful but dangerous.

Others in the cast are: Biddy, Etta Campbell; Camilla, Joan Bolinger; Clara, Nancy Davis; Herbert, as a boy, Davis Hooper, and as a man, Deany McGuire; Raymond, David Bullen; officer, Billy Freeman; Wopsle, Jack King; and Bentley Drummle, Frank Poynor.

Rehearsals for the play which started last week are held every afternoon at 2:40 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Exchange Club Hears Address By Minister

Because Communism is based on force, and not on the free will of the individual, it can never match Christianity as a philosophy of life, Rev. Hubert Bratcher, pastor of St. John's Methodist church, said in an address to members of the Exchange club Wednesday.

Speaking at the weekly club luncheon in Hotel Lubbock, Mr. Bratcher said that while both Communism and Christianity are "sharing" plans, Christianity is superior because of the fact that it is founded on the willingness of the individual.

Lists 'Ways of Life'

This observation was made during a talk in which he outlined the three basic "ways of life" observed in America. These, he said, are: "What's yours is mine;" "What's mine is mine;" and, lastly, "What's mine is yours if you need it." The last, he pointed out, is the true Christian philosophy.

Mr. Bratcher was introduced by Dr. David W. Haymes, program chairman.

Warlick Carr reported briefly on the current "March of Dimes" campaign, stating that it is still lagging well behind its goal of $12,000. The drive will continue until Saturday midnight, he said.

Charles Cathey presided at the luncheon, at which about 45 persons were present. Two guests, Dr. J. W. Kinard and Bobby Layne, were introduced.

Phoney Check Buys Car For Montana Pair's Honeymoon

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Feb. 2 (INS) — A state wide alarm went out in Montana today for a man who purchased a 1949 Packard car with a worthless check and eloped with a Great Falls woman.

Comparison of handwriting on two checks in the county attorney's office with records received today at the City-County Bureau of Criminal identification, proved conclusively that the man is Sherwood F. Strauser, 33, according to a handwriting expert.

Walker B. Carroll said records show that Strauser since 1930 has served time in the Wyoming State Industrial Institute at Worland, in the Wyoming State prison at Rawlins and the Montana State prison at Deer Lodge.

The alert went out for a man driving a 1949 brown Packard club sedan, and wearing a cowboy shirt, jeans and high boots. He and his bride, who was not identified, eloped Monday night.

TB Association Opens Offices At New Site

Lubbock County Tuberculosis association is open for service in its new location, 916 Ave. N, where a four-room building has been built for the organization through cooperation of numerous individuals and organizations.

Most of the labor and materials have been donated. Costs conected with the construction and furnishings were paid with funds contributed for the purpose.

The building contains a lobby, office for the executive secretary, office for the nurse and a workroom. The first clinic in the new structure will be conducted after a nurse begins duty to succeed Mrs. Roy Sanford, who resigned to take a position as school nurse.

Furnishings were moved to the new building Monday.

Announcement was made this morning that the total received as result of distribution of Christmas seals by the association has reached $10,340.

The fiscal year of the organization will end March 31 and funds received in the seals campaign conducted the last few months will be used in the year opening April 1.

AVERAGE MAN IS DESCRIBED

Columnist Finds He Is Object Of Numerous 'Perfect' Schemes

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—I wish my mail was a little more interesting, for your sake. For this is a piece written with those two mighty instruments of enduring literature, the scissors and paste-pot.

The mail has taken an unusual turn lately. I seem to have been proposed for membership and secretly adopted on a sucker list which has flooded my desk with a host of arresting matter.

"Fellow Audobon Fan," one begins. At least six a day now start, "Dear Friend," an immediate tip-off that whoever wrote it doesn't know me. In letters of the latter type, I find opportunities to get in on the ground floor of new oil fields, an abandoned Galena mine that might produce uranium, warnings to do something about the scourage of gingivitis, and an appeal for funds by a missionary named Rajanayagam who lives on Katugastota Road, Kandy, Ceylon.

Survey Is Made

A man in Hull, England, who likes baseball, wants baseball equipment included in Marshall Plan shipments.

As a man who has gone through two Fortunes (the November and December issues), I was flattered into red-faced confusion by one printed message aimed directly at me.

"We have just completed a statistical portrait of men like yourself," my anonymous biographers report. "They are, as we suspected, an interesting group of people," the message adds, softening me up for the Sunday punch to come.

"On the business side, for the most part, they include officers or department heads in good-sized companies. The young ones (under 30) make about $6,900 a year. In the forties, their income climbs to $19,000, and at his 50-60 peak a Fortune reader makes about $25,000.

(Ed Note: Hmmf. I know a Cosmopolitan reader in her early thirties who has an income of about $4,000,000 a year: Doris Duke.)

Owns His Home

"He owns his own home, valued at $25,900; carries $36,000 worth of life insurance; and owns securities amounting to $46,023. He attends 14.1 sports events a year (Ed. Note: The .1 must be a snide reference to rassling). He shoots a 98 on the golf course, pays $91 for a suit, and carries $76.60 in his pocket.

"He has strong feelings, too, about other business leaders and their companies — rates Henry Ford II and Bernard Baruch high, and holds most other business men in high regard."

This is the only letter I've received recently which demands a reply. What I want to know is where's my 19 grand for 1948; who copped my $25,900 home; what company's got my $36,000 worth of life insurance; what name are my securities in; where do they get that stuff that I'm a 98 shooter (I'm shooting down in the low 90's these days); how many pairs of pants should I demand with that $91 suit, and what bum rolled me for my $76.60 in loose change?

Three gentlemen in scattered jails would like me to whip their books into shape (one of them has finished nearly 14 pages of his autobiography.) Edda Mussolini Ciano asks the same, through a friend. A nice lady in San Antonio believes that with my help, which she sorely over-estimates, she can finish the book she has been writing about a neighbor.

Four young men, believing some recent twaddle to the effect that I labor a bit as a ghost, on the side, write that they would like to work for me in that capacity.

It would be interesting to hire one of them if I had the money, for he will then become a unique figure in the annals of writing. He would be a ghost's ghost, the shade of a shade, legendary leg-man. That would be carrying anonymity to an obscenely bloodless state.

Ah, here's a fresh batch of mail, composed of one letter. Open it carefully, it might be a check from a devoted fan. Hmmm . . . No check. Well, then, it might be a treasure salute for a magnificent recent column, or a printable blast. Hmm . . . "Dear Fellow Philatelist . . . "

Sorry.

HIS PRAYERS FOR OTHERS

WAUSAU, Wis. (U.P.)—Walter W. Hawkins, 75-year-old faith healer, admitted to postal authorities he didn't put much faith in his ability to cure when it came to treating himself. Arrested on a charge of using the mails to defraud, Hawkins said he went to a doctor when he got sick instead of using the prayers he applied to his clients.

STARVING SHEEP—Starving sheep huddled about the carcasses of other sheep dead of exposure and hunger as they were found near Ely, Nev., after snowplows and horses finally fought their way to the snowbound livestock. Bette Davis Accepts Plan To Star In New Movie, 'Beyond The Forest' For Warner

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2.—Bette Davis, who settled the questions of her matrimonial and her professional plans last week by saying she was continuing with both, conferred with Jack Warner today. Result: Bette agreed to star in "Beyond The Forest," Stewart Engstead's best seller, as her next picture under her new contract.

This highly censorable novel, which will be scrubbed clean by scenarist Lenore Coffee, is being prepared with Henry Blanke as the producer. This will be Blanke's fourteenth picture with Bette.

As you know, if you have read the book, it is dramatic—the sort of thing Miss Davis likes to do, and which won her two academy awards in the past. It starts in March.

Gets New Role

Weeks have gone by since I received an "inside tip" that June Allyson and Dick Powell were having trouble. I'm amused by June's crack that all the gossip has made Dick the most devoted beau. "He thinks I'm a fascinating woman," the "cute" Miss Allyson laughs.

Now MGM has a "cute" idea coming up to co-star Junie with Gene Kelly. It's "summer stock" and the title should give you an idea about the story. This is the musical for which MGM borrowed ace songwriter Mack Gordon from 20th. Mack will team with his old partner, Harry Warren, in whipping up a score of new tunes.

Ready For Good Spot

Paul Kelly is back following 68 weeks as the star of the play "Command Decision" in which he had a real success both on Broadway and on tour.

He and Mrs. Kelly hunted high and low for a place to rent, but couldn't find any. So, they bought a house near the Los Angeles country club.

Paul says after a brief rest he will be ready to take on his motion picture career. He has already two offers, but wants to get the right picture. Can you blame him?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Kathleen Winsor's new novel is said to be about her life with band leader Artie Shaw. Well she should have a few million words to say.

Florio and Mario, talented dancers of whom I wrote after I saw them at the Copacabana in New York, write me they expect a baby in August. That will keep them from coming to Hollywood this spring as they had planned.

Hedy Lamarr wouldn't say who she was with at the Cafe Jay. He was tall, blonde and handsome. But the man with her at Mocambo the following evening was handsome Charles Feldman.

Ethel Barrymore will celebrate fifty years in show business Friday. And, believe me, they are golden years, indeed.

'Unknown Child' In Labor Party Booklet Identified As Royalty

LONDON, Feb. 2. (U.P.) — The British Labor party was highly embarrassed today when the picture of an "unknown child" turned out to be the Duke of Kent at the age of eight months.

The photograph was published in a Labor party leaflet extolling the socialist government and asserting that British babies are healthier under socialist care.

Further distribution of 6,000 of the leaflets was suddenly cancelled when it was found that the illustration was a picture of the infant Duke of Kent taken nine years before the Labor government came to power in 1945.

The duke, now 13 years old, is a student at Eton. He is a nephew of King George VI.

Dallas Continues Fight To Block Funds For Fort Worth Airport

DALLAS, Feb. 2. (AP)—Dallas promises to "exhaust every legal remedy" in its fight to win a review of the Civil Aeronautics board grant of funds to Fort Worth for the Midway airport.

The city's stand was outlined yesterday by H. P. Kucera, city attorney. Earlier in the day the Fifth U. S. Circuit court of appeals at New Orleans turned down a petition by the city of Dallas asking for the rehearing.

The funds would be used to build a controversal airport about Midway between the two cities.

TO THE BITTER END

MILWAUKEE, (U.P.) — Mrs. Eleanora Trochsel sued her husband, Norman, for divorce but the judge ordered her to continue cooking his meals and washing his laundry until the decree is final.

Arnall May Get New UN Position

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 2. (U.P.)—Ellis Arnall, former governor of Georgia, and Milton Eisenhower, president of Kansas State college, are under consideration for the important United Nations post of plebiscite administrator for the disrupted princely state of Kashmir, informed sources revealed today.

It was understood that half a dozen other candidates from various countries have been suggested in preliminary canvassing, but their identity could not be learned.

UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie, who must make the final choice, is awaiting word from India and Pakistan on their preferences.

East-West Feud Factor

The plebiscite, the first in the UN's history, will determine whether predominantly - Moslem Kashmir eventually belongs to Hindu India or Moslem Pakistan.

It was generally felt that either Arnall or Eisenhower, brother of the general, would more than fill the bill. But it was possible that Lie would prefer to pick a man from a neutral country in order not to complicate the problem by dragging it into the range of East-West propaganda sallies.

Eisenhower, 49-year-old educator, is no novice in UN affairs, having succeeded poet Archibald MacLeish as American representative in the UN's educational, scientific and cultural organization, better known as UNESCO.

Arnall, 41, who built a nation-wide reputation as a hard-driving liberal during his term as Georgia governor, has never before held a UN post.

It was believed it would be some time before final choice of a Kashmir plebiscite administration will be made. India and Pakistan have held off showing their hands pending the arrival of the UN's five-nation Kashmir commission.

The immediate task facing the commission was implementation of the agreement calling for withdrawal of Pakistan forces and border tribes, and the subsequent partial withdrawal of Indian troops.

How soon the administrator can be named and the balloting carried out will depend largely on the speed with which the touchy troop - withdrawal arrangements can be dealt with.

DEER NOT HOMESICK

BAR HARBOR, Me. (U.P.)—Deer apparently are not interested in going back home. Acadia National Park naturalists have concluded. Deer trapped, tagged and liberated in fresh woods last winter did not return 30 miles to their original home in nearly a year's time.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas blocks up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 25c at any druestore. ADV.

Drugless Health!

NO MATTER how long you have been suffering from stomach, kidney and rheumatic distress, and what drugs you have tried before, you can, now, hope for relief if you take GEO-MINERAL. With your eyes SEE the results seven days after you start taking it.

DRUGGISTS, Chemists cannot make GEO-MINERAL. It comes from the earth—Nature's laboratory. Contains NO dope, NO alcohol, NO oil. ONLY Nature's minerals—the oldest, most reliable remedy for rheumatism, arthritis, kidney and stomach ailments.

Wonder Minerals

FOR THOUSANDS of years sufferers, on advice of doctors, go to mineral springs to get cure, or relief. The late President Roosevelt used to go to Warm Springs in Georgia. He was helped or would not have gone there regularly twice a year.

WE HAVE all heard of the miraculous springs of Lourdes, France, and famous Thronion in ancient Greece, where, according to legend Hercules, the god of eternal strength and youth, drank its waters and bathed to be forever young.

IF YOU ARE a sufferer, and can not go to the mineral springs, try GEO-MINERAL which contains a blend of the same minerals that can be found at the world's best springs. The minerals in it may work miracles.

Amazing Results

WATCH your elimination from your bowels two or three days after you start using GEO-MINERAL. The waste, black as coal, will break away and you will SEE it! Also examine your urine. You may see impurities—poisonous waste—coming out of your kidneys, and feel the relief. Be sure to watch for all this to realize the priceless value of GEO-MINERAL.

GEO-MINERAL is not a physic, and does not interfere with the foods in the intestines. It gets down to the root, cleaning and purifying, throwing away poisons — gas, toxins and bloating. Not like physics, oils and cathartics do, but in a Natural, harmless, safe way.

100% Guaranteed!

WE URGE you to try GEO-MINERAL. Go to your drug store NOW and get one bottle. Use it seven days. If you are not 100 per cent satisfied, we will refund your money in full.

TRY IT! It may be the remedy you NEED! . . . and making the best investment for your health. It may do wonders for you—make you feel, eat, sleep, work and enjoy life better.

Colon Illustrations

THE COLON is one of the most important organs of our body. The following illustrations show the colon in various forms, as one's condition in health may be. You may ask: How is my colon?

THE IDEAL COLON. A person in perfect health possesses a colon like this — firm and regular, with well functioning muscle.

CONSTIPATION is the cause of this atonic abnormal condition of this colon. IMPORTANT! Keep colon free from poisonous waste matter.

SPASTIC CONSTIPATION—Pinching down of the descending colon. This condition often caused by over use of harsh cathartics, physics.

Capacity Crowd Witnesses Six Golden Gloves Knockouts

Sixteen Championship Bouts Scheduled For Final Night

By JOE KELLY and EARL SCUDDAY
Avalanche Sports Writers

Slugging in the quarter and semi-finals of the regional Golden Gloves tournament in Tech gym last night became even more furious, with six knockouts and eight technical knockouts registered on a card that saw a capacity crowd entertained by 30 bouts.

Eleven of the sleeping punches occurred in the open division, with six of them being straight knockouts. Three TKOs were piled up in the novice division. It was good action all the way and the bouts pleased the crowd from start to finish.

Tonight the tournament goes into its final night, with eight championship bouts in the open division and eight in the novice. Open winners will form the Lubbock team that goes to Ft. Worth.

Although all the fights were good, ten of them stood out over the others. And of this number, four or five were sensational slugging matches.

The windup, open division featherweights Pat McCarty of Lubbock and Albert Pacheco of Roswell, N. M., halted the crowd's flow toward the exits. McCarty, in trouble in the first round and knocked down, dragged himself off the carpet. He carried the fight in the second round and almost won in the third, only to have Pacheco also rally for the victory.

The fight between Jimmy Martin and Dan Williams of Lubbock, light heavyweights in the open, also was a thriller, with Williams punching harder to win the decision. There were no knock-downs, but the boys were throwing until they got weak.

Bob Gollett of Olton and Monte Wallace of Crosbyton, fighting in the lightweight novice, staged a toe-to-toe scrap that had the crowd cheering. Both boys gave and gave, while absorbing everything.

Eddie Goetze, Lubbock, and Lyle Shelton, Brownfield, novice featherweights, also handed the crowd a good slugfest, with Goetze, winner of the first fight on the card, tiring to lose a close decision.

A brief resume of the other fights follows:

GOETZE VS. FOSTER

Eddie Goetze of Lubbock pounded out a clear decision over Wayne Foster of Plainview in the opening bout of the card, a novice featherweight battle. Goetze slammed Foster hard in the first round with a jarring left, then worked on Foster's head in a fast second round. Foster rallied in the third stanza, but couldn't overcome Goetze's lead.

WILLIAMS VS. REED

Glyn Williams of Sudan decisioned Jack Reed of Tahoka in another novice featherweight scrap. Both fighters slugged it out on nearly even terms in the first round, then Reed took the edge in hard punching in the second stanza. Williams pounded Reed hard in the final round and got the nod from the judges. The decision was unpopular with the crowd.

NICHOLS VS. MALOUF

Huck Nichols of Olton chalked up a relatively easy triumph over Leroy Malouf of Lubbock in a novice welterweight encounter. Nichols "windmilled" into a slight lead in the first round and had Malouf in trouble once, then landed a long left to Malouf's jaw in the second go.

BURKHART VS. WAY

Bill Burkhart of Tahoka decisioned James Way of Lubbock in a slow novice bantamweight bout. Burkhart had the best of the little action in the first round, then continued to pile up points during the next two stanzas.

GOLLETT VS. WALLACE

Bob Gollett of Olton took a close decision over Monte Wallace of Crosbyton in a crowd-pleasing novice lightweight clash. The action was very fast in the first round, with Gollett dropping Wallace for a count of eight as the bell sounded, then the two fighters staged a wild "rough house" brawl in the second stanza.

HALL VS. CANNON

Jimmy Hall of Lubbock chalked up the first technical knockout of the card over Alton Cannon of Olton in 0:58 of the third round of their novice middleweight battle. The fighters traded punches during the first two rounds, following a slow start, with Cannon taking the advantage in the long-range punching. Hall dropped Cannon with a hard right to the head in the third round, however, and the referee gave the Lubbock puncher a TKO triumph.

JONES VS. REECER

Donald Reecer of Plainview decisioned Jerry Jones of Sudan in a comical novice flyweight "chase." Reecer opened up with a couple of hard lefts in the first round, then Jones started a rapid retreat around the ring.

AUSTIN VS. RILEY

Bob Austin of Lubbock decisioned R. J. Riley of Brownfield in a well-fought novice lightweight bout. The first round was fairly slow, with Riley taking the edge in two sharp exchanges, but Austin gained the advantage in the second setto. Austin clinched the win with a hard left-right series in the final round.

MONTGOMERY VS. JONES

Ballard Montgomery of Sudan punched out a technical knockout in 0:56 of the first round of his novice welterweight scrap with Verdyl Jones of Sudan. Montgomery waded into Jones with a terrific barrage of lefts and rights at the opening bell, flooring Jones seconds later. The fight was stopped by the referee after Jones went down a second time.

HILL VS. BECK

Paul Hill of Tahoka decisioned Gene Beck of Lamesa in an interesting novice light-heavyweight setto. Hill gained a slight edge in a fast first round, then jarred Beck with a hard right in the second stanza. A left to the head sent Beck to the canvas in the third and clinched the win for Hill.

GOSS VS. SETTLES

Bobby Goss of Muleshoe was credited with an easy victory over Jim Settles of Plainview in a novice heavyweigh clash. Goss blasted Settles into the ropes in the first round, then held his lead through a slow second stanza. A sharp left and a hard right cross sent Settles to the canvas as the bell sounded in the third round.

MARTINEZ VS. MARTIN

Carlos Martinez, experienced Roswell, N. M., slugger, knocked out Jerry Martin of Lubbock in 1:58 of the second round of their open division flyweight bout. Both fighters were very cautious in the first round, but Martin went down briefly from a right hook. Martinez settled down to work in the second round and battered the Lubbock fighter with a fierce combination of lefts and rights to both the head and body. Martin was counted out.

McMILLAN VS. DAVIS

H. L. McMillan of Tahoka blasted out a technical knockout over Dalton Davis of Lubbock in 1:04 of the second round of their open division lightweight clash. McMillan was dropped in the first round but regained his feet in good condition. McMillan pounded Davis with lefts and rights to the head in the second round and the referee stopped the fight at 1:07.

SPARKS VS. HOSAPPLE

Veteran E. E. (Sparky) Sparks of Lubbock knocked out C. L. Hosapple of Plainview in a good open division featherweight encounter. Sparks went to work on Hosapple from the opening bell, and had the Plainview entry down in the first round. Sparks, boxing cleverly and displaying a powerful right, sent Hosapple to the canvas again in the second round with a right to the heart.

HALL VS. MARTIN

After a lively first round exchange, Hall came out swinging, rushed Martin across the ring and sent him sprawling with a flurry of blows to head and body. The TKO came at 0:37 of the second round.

UTLEY VS. SINCLAIR

The Lubbock fighter punched Sinclair repeatedly with a strong left, had him in trouble in every round and knocked him down once in the first, twice in the second and once in the third.

PRITCHARD vs. WHITE

The Roswell fighter didn't look as good as when he beat Ray Crenshaw, but it was close until he got a cut eye. He had Pritchard down in the first round and shot good lefts to the stomach. But a cut over his right eye ended the fight on a TKO at 1:53 of the second.

OLVERA vs. AGUILAR

This didn't go far. Olvera forced the action all the way, but Aguilar didn't seem in danger until he suddenly sank as though from a low blow. The blow wasn't seen and Olvera was given a TKO victory at 1:52 of the first round.

FERGUSON vs. HERNANDEZ

The Roswell, N. M., fighter perplexed Ferguson with a looping right that hurt when landed. He had Ferguson in trouble in the first when he knocked him down, and the KO came at 1:59 of the second from a flurry of lefts and rights while Ferguson was on the ropes. The Lubbock boy showed courage in his defeat.

BICKEL vs. PHELPS

Bickel didn't take any chances with Phelps' longer reach, rushing him from the opening bell and landing solid lefts and rights. The blows had Phelps bloody and groggy, finally keeling him over for a TKO at 1:25 of the first.

JOHNSON vs. BEEDY

Johnson carried the fight to Beedy and landed some good blows, but he made one mistake: he gave Beedy an opening and the Plainview boxer fired a right that was heard in the gallery. Johnson fell over the bottom rope, bounced his head a foot on the apron and was still out minutes later. The KO came at 0:47 of the first.

SKINNER vs. PIGG

Pigg never had a chance to get going against Skinner, who hit him solidly with both hands. He had Pigg bleeding from the nose in the first and the fight was stopped on a TKO at 0:46 in the second.

PEDEN vs. WOOD

Peden swarmed all over Wood, giving him the worst of solid lefts and good rights. The left did the most damage and Wood finally went down for a KO at 1:31 of the first.

SHELTON vs. GOETZE

The Lubbock boy tried hard and made a good fight of it, but Shelton was stronger. It was Goetze's second fight of the night and he wasn't up to it. The decision was close.

WILLIAMS vs. McCLURE

This was a good crowd fight, with both boys standing toe-to-toe to slug. McClure had the best of it and won the decision.

MARTIN vs. WILLIAMS

The Lubbock High school boy and the Tech athlete staged an aggressive battle, with Williams using a right uppercut that scored repeatedly. Both boys were rugged and took the punishment, giving the crowd a fine fight. It was Williams all the way.

NICHOLS vs. DuLANEY

Nichols started strong, weakened in the middle and finished strong to beat the Lubbock puncher. DuLaney never got started until too late and Nichols laced him with strong rights. DuLaney went down in the second, but came back to win the round.

WHITED vs. SAMS

The Plainview fighter showed class in beating Whited, getting good lefts and rights working and causing trouble in the first and second rounds. In the third round, Whited took some pounding, then suddenly turned and crawled out of the ring between the ropes. It was a TKO at 0:32 of the third.

McCARTY vs. PACHECO

The classy Roswell fighter had too much for the game McCarty, who thrilled the crowd with his comeback. McCarty took the second canto, but didn't have the staying power of Pacheco, who punched well with his left and hit hard with his right.

BILLIKENS SHOW HOW IT'S DONE—St. Louis university's ace center, Ed Macauley demonstrates his play making ability in this action shot. As two players harass him he passes off to free teammate (No. 77) who cuts under basket and scores. The defending team is Long Island University. Cage fans argue that Macauley has the edge, in ability, over Kentucky's Alex Groza.

Levelland Advances In Idalou Tourney

IDALOU, Feb. 2. (Special)—Levelland's Refiners drubbed Thomas Tinkers of Lubbock, 41 to 39, here tonight in an Idalou American Legion Independent basketball tournament game.

Pearcy led Levelland with 13 baskets. Weldon Minchew sparked the Tinkers, with 11 tallies.

In the second encounter, Primm Drug copped a 42 to 33 victory over Denver City's cagers. Ray Warden made 11 points for Primm. Epperson racked up 18 points for the losers.

Littrell Service of Lubbock gained an 89 to 70 victory over Plains Gas in a hard-fought third tussle. Johnso npaced Littrell, with 25 baskets. Johnson and Wynn each made 17 points for Plains Gas.

The tournament reaches the semi-final stage tomorrow night. Two games are carded, with Blue Flame of Idalou meeting Littrell and Primm Drug tangling with Levelland.

Western League Leaders Named

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. (INS)—The Western Conference individual basketball scoring race belonged to two radar-eyed Minnesota stars today, but the best per-game average still came from Dick Schnittker of Ohio State.

In the four league games he has played, Schnittker has accounted for 75 points, a per-game average of 18.8.

Meanwhile, Jim McIntyre and Whitey Skoog of Minnesota were running just a point apart at the head of the total-points list, McIntyre with 112 points in seven games and Skoog with 111.

The five leaders:

	G	FG	FT	Pts	Avg.
Jim McIntyre, Minnesota	7	43	26	112	16
Meyer Skoog, Minnesota	7	49	13	111	15.9
Howard Williams, Purdue	7	41	22	104	14.9
Bob Raidiger, Ohio S.	6	36	16	88	14.6
Dick Schnittker, Ohio S.	4	24	27	75	14.6

Chicago Cardinals Will Meet To Decide On New Head Coach

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. (INS)—The Chicago Cardinals of the National football league today called a news conference for 9:20 a. m. (CTS) tomorrow morning, presumably to announce the name of their new head coach.

The new appointee, thought by many to be Cardinal line coach Phil Handler, will succeed the recently-resigned Jimmy Conzelman.

Tech Loses Third Straight Game

Arizona Five Drubs Red Raiders, 49-25

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 2. (Special)—Arizona university's Wildcats chalked up their sixth straight Border conference cage triumph here tonight by drubbing Texas Tech's Red Raiders, 49-25. The win was also the thirty-third consecutive conference victory for the Wildcats on their home floor, as well as their forty-sixth straight cage win at home.

The Raiders, who lost their third loop tilt in as many nights, moved into the lead early in the game on a field goal by Center Don Grove, but the Wildcats jumped in front on the shooting of Center Junior Crum. The Tech cagers gained the lead four times in the first five minutes of the tussle, as both teams had trouble hitting the basket, but Arizona moved into a 26-12 margin at halftime.

Tech staged a brief rally in the opening minutes of the second half to cut the Wildcat edge to nine points, but then the Raiders collapsed completely and the Arizona quint coasted to the victory with most squadmen seeing action.

The Raiders were obviously far from their usual form and, in fact, made only six field goals during the entire game. The Tech quint was hampered late in the game by the absence of three regulars, who left the tilt by the five-foul route.

Crum copped individual scoring honors for the night with 11 points, while Bill Banks paced Tech with eight points.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

Lubbock and Texas Tech basketball fans will be glad to hear that Virgil Johnson, Westerner cage ace of the 1947-48 season, will enroll at Tech within a few days for the spring semester. Virgil was voted to the all-District 1-AA basketball team last season, and was one of the top schoolboy scorers in the state. He has been keeping in shape this winter by playing with an independent basketball team, as well as taking a brief vacation before starting the long college grind. We know Coach Polk Robison will be glad to have Virgil on his roster next year, since the tall cager has been rated as one of the top college prospects turned out in this area in recent years.

We're sure that some fans will be more than slightly surprised when they find out that the numbered reserve seat tickets for the Lubbock-Pampa cage tilt here Friday night, as well as the remainder of the games this season, will be sold for one dollar each—including tax. That price, to most of us, seems to be a little steep. But a quick survey of other 1-AA schools Wednesday afternoon showed that the new admission price is not out of line. Borger opened the season selling reserved seat ducats for $1.20, but recently cut the price to one dollar. Amarillo and Pampa, according to reports, have charged near the one dollar mark for their cage tilts this season.

Lubbock High officials believe the one dollar price tag is justified because of the good seats, the convenience to fans and the top quality of the games. The reserved seats numbered are the new permanent type seats on the south side of the gymnasium, and each seat is wider than the usual space allotted per person. Since the seats are numbered, fans can buy their ducats early and not have to rush to the gymnasium an hour before game time in order to get a good seat. Officials emphasize, however, that all the seats on the other three sides of the gymnasium are not numbered and will be sold as general admission seats for the regular price of 75 cents.

Although it's a long time until football season, we think Lubbock fans will be interested in the report that Pampa's Coach Tom Tipps will switch from the "T" formation to the single wing this fall. The Harvesters have used the "T" for several years, with good results, but Tipps reportedly does not have a top-flight T-formation quarterback prospect for next season. Amarillo is almost certain to use the "Michigan shift" again this fall and Plainview and Brownfield will probably stay with the "T". Lubbock's Westerners, as reported several days ago, may switch to the "T" this fall if Coach Pat Pattison decides it will be better suited to the material available.

Joe Noerfker Of Virginia Is Nation's Top Cage Scorer

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. (AP)—Joe Noertker of the University of Virginia found himself the leading individual scorer among the nation's major basketball teams today with an average of 22 points for 12 games, though he hadn't played for two weeks.

What happened was that Tony Lavelli, Yale's great marksman who led in the last previous tally by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, was limited to 16 points by Dartmouth in one game and dropped to second place with a 21.8 average in 16 contests.

All coaches guiding teams in the United States Hockey League once were connected with the American Hockey League.

Westerners Play Host To Pampa Friday Night

District 1-AA Basketball Crown Will Be At Stake Over Weekend

Basketball championship of District 1-AA for the 1949 season will be at stake this weekend when the top cage quints of the loop clash in a series of important encounters.

Outstanding game of the weekend slate will be unreeled here Friday night at the Chapman field gymnasium, where the league-leading Lubbock Westerners play host to Pampa's potent Harvesters. The Westerners are in the top position in the circuit standings on the basis of percentage, with five wins and a single defeat, but the Harvesters have also lost only one district setto while winning four games.

Pampa Among Best

The Harvesters are rated as one of the top schoolboy cage teams in the state, holding four tournament titles, with a record of 17 victories in 19 games this season. The Pampans lost their first game of the season to strong Stratford by one point, then won 16 games in a row. Last week the Harvesters were nosed out by the Golden Sandies at Amarillo by four points, but the Pampans started another win streak by downing Borger Tuesday night at Pampa.

In other Friday night games Amarillo's Sandies will invade Brownfield for a tilt with the Cubs, while Borger clashes with the Bulldogs at Plainview.

Saturday night the Westerners will face another tough battle when they journey to Borger for a final setto with Coach Tex Hanna's dangerous crew. The Bulldogs have made no secret of the fact that they are "pointing" for the Westerners, and the Borger crew will have the all-important home court advantage.

How They Stand

Pampa travels to Brownfield for the other Saturday night tilt.

The district standings:

TEAMS	W	L	Pct.
LUBBOCK	5	1	.833
Pampa	4	1	.800
Amarillo	4	2	.667
Borger	1	3	.250
Brownfield	1	3	.250
Plainview	0	5	.000

Clovis Pioneers Now In Hands Of Ex-Card Hurler, Paul Dean

CLOVIS, N. M., Feb. 2. (AP)—Paul Dean, the former major league pitcher, took over the Clovis baseball club in the Class C West Texas-New Mexico league today.

Dean purchased the local franchise several weeks ago from a group of Clovis residents.

"We'll have a fighting, hustling ball club," the former St. Louis Cardinals star promised. He will be field manager of the Clovis Pioneers and plans to do some pitching, principally home games.

Wayland College Pioneers Drop Panhandle A&M, 55-53

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 2. (Special)—Wayland college's Pioneers defeated the Panhandle A. and M. quint, 55-53, here tonight as Leon Burch tallied 22 points. Steen hit the loop for 17 for the visitors.

Wayland jumped into a lead early in the tilt to take a 32-28 margin at halftime, then the Pioneers staved off a late Panhandle rally to clinch the triumph.

WOLVERINES PLAY TONIGHT

SLATON, Feb. 2 (Special)—The Slaton Wolverines, negro basketball team, will meet the Lubbock All-Stars and Lubbock Lions tangle with the All-Stars at Slaton High school gym tomorrow night in a negro independent basketball double header.

SEMI-FINAL MATCH ENDS IN DRAW

Billy Hickson Wins Disputed Mat Feature Over Karl Gray

Billy Hickson won a disputed two of three falls victory over Karl Gray in the main event of the regular Wednesday night mat card at Sled Allen's arena, after Referee Vick Weber disqualified Gray in the third fall for throwing—and following—Hickson out of the ring.

Hickson took the first fall of the feature bout in 12 minutes, using a body and shoulder pin, but Gray rebounded to take the second fall in just four minutes with a single leg crab.

The third fall was awarded to Hickson in six minutes after he was thrown out of the ring by Gray. Gray followed Hickson through the ropes, apparently with the purpose of continuing the bout in the middle of the paying customers.

George Bruckman and Glen Detton battled to a draw in the two of three falls semi-final setto, after each of the grapplers had won a single fall. Detton took the first fall in 23 minutes with a rocking chair cradle, then Bruckman took the second go in three minutes with a series of body slams and pin. Time ran out before either of the men could win a decisive third fall.

In the preliminary Gorilla Poggi and Bill Parks grunted and groaned to a draw in the 20-minute setto.

Baseball Holdouts After More Money

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. (AP)—It comes as no great surprise to learn that these lush times in baseball, brought about by an abundance of cash in sports fans pockets, have produced nearly two dozen known holdouts.

All are eager for a bit of that ready money poured into the pockets of the big league club owners by last year's record turnouts which passed the 21,000,000 figure.

Holdout is a word abhorred by the owners. They contend that a player is not a holdout unless he fails to report to spring training.

The fact remains there are at least 20 grumbling and dissatisfied athletes today who believe they should be getting more money than the amount offered by their respective bosses.

The most publicized are, of course, Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees and Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

Three other Cleveland stars, besides Feller, said "nix" to salary proposals for 1949 Pitchers Bob Lemon and Gene Bearden and third baseman Ken Keltner returned unsigned contracts, all demanding around $20,000. Although no official statements have been issued, it is known that Larry Doby, Dale Mitchell and Jim Hegan, among others, have not yet come to terms.

The New York Giants have three stubborn holdouts, headed by captain Walker Cooper. The other two are pitchers Andy Hansen and Clint Hartung.

Detroit's holdout brigade is led by pitcher Freddie Hutchinson.

Dom DiMaggio, fleet-footed centerfielder of the Boston Red Sox, wants more money. So do Don Kolloway, Chicago White Sox infielder; Del Ennis, Philadelphia Philly flychaser, and Phil Marchildon, Philadelphia Athletics righthander.

Port Arthur Coach May Take Mentoring Job At Vanderbilt

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 2. (AP)—John F. Tomlin, head coach and athletic director of the Port Arthur high school Yellow Jackets meets this afternoon with Vanderbilt university regents regarding the football coaching vacancy at Vanderbilt.

The Port Arthur News said Tomlin, former head coach at Arkansas university, was invited last night to confer with the regents. H. R. Sanders resigned as Vanderbilt coach last week to become head coach at the University of California.

Experts Will Coach TIL Diamond Clinics

AUSTIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Interscholastic league's February baseball coaching clinics will be directed by two teams of professional experts.

The National Association of Professional Baseball leagues has named Gus Mancuso and John Hudson for team No. 1. Team No. 2 is Jack Knott and Bob Bragan.

Mancuso is scout for the St. Louis Browns; Hudson is a scout for the New York Giants; Jack Knott is a scout for the Cincinnati Reds and Bragan scouts for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Dr. Rhea H. Williams, athletic director of the Interscholastic league, said other major league stars who live in Texas have been invited to help as teachers in the clinics.

The clinics to be directed by Mancuso and Hudson will be held Feb. 13 at El Paso; Feb. 14 at Odessa; Feb. 15 at Lubbock; Feb. 26 at Abilene; Feb. 17 at Austin; Feb. 18 at Corpus Christi, Feb. 19 at Edinburg.

Team No. 2 of Knott and Bragan will be at Sherman Feb. 14; Dallas Feb. 15; Tyler Feb. 16; Waco Feb. 17; Houston Feb. 18, Beaumont Feb. 19.

Anton Cagers Gain 43 To 36 Victory Over Smyer Quintet

ANTON, Feb. 2. (Special)—Anton's smooth-working cagers nosed out Smyer in an exhibition game here tonight, 43-36. Glasscock, Smalley and Harper each tallied eight points for Anton, while Pair notched 14 for Smyer.

In the "B" game, Anton dropped Smyer, 28-17.

Bill Henderson On El Paso Card

Bill Henderson of Levelland and Charley Neff of Petersburg, now Lubbock professional fighters, left yesterday for El Paso, where tonight they each will appear on a card in the Border City.

Henderson has drawn Dick Rivera, a light weight, and Neff's opponent will be Freddy Marquis, brother of the former Texas flyweight champion. The Levelland boxer will appear in a six-round semi-final fight, while Neff will have a four-round preliminary.

The two boxers held a light sparring session at Foster's gym Tuesday and then did light work before leaving here. Both were pronounced ready for their fights by Babe Ritchie, former heavyweight fighter, who is training them. Ritchie is accompanying them to El Paso and will be their second.

It will be Henderson's 12th professional fight, the Levelland fighter winning his previous 11 either by knockouts or decisions.

Joe Louis Refused N. Y. Beer License

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (INS)—The New York State Liquor Authority rejected today a wholesale beer application listing heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis and welterweight champ Ray Robinson among corporate officers.

The liquor authority charged that the Canadian Ace Brewing Co., a principal stockholder in the applicant corporation, was linked through one of its officials with the former Al Capone gang in Chicago.

In rejecting the application, the liquor authority asserted that it believed "that like many other prominent and creditable persons, Joe Louis and Ray Robinson have unwittingly allowed their names to be used by persons of evil design."

The application was made in the name of World-Champions, Inc. The liquor office said Canadian Ace apparently "planned to use both Louis and Robinson in an attempt to 'push their beer' in New York State."

Deal Said To Involve $1,000,000

De Witts Purchase St. Louis Browns

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 2. (INS)—Richard Muckerman tonight announced he has sold the St. Louis Browns, at an undisclosed price, to William and Charles De Witt, two officials of the team.

The sale was consummated by William De Witt and Muckerman in Kansas City this afternoon. Muckerman said he had disposed of his entire controlling interest in the club, which was 56 per cent.

Observers put the sale price at approximately one million dollars.

In addition to owning Sportsman's Park in St. Louis, where they play and which they rent to the St. Louis Cardinals, the Browns have a 16-team minor league farm system.

William De Witt, 46, had been vice president and general manager of the Browns. His brother Charles, two years his elder, was traveling secretary for the team.

Wanted Right Offer

In announcing the sale, Muckerman said he had discussed selling the Browns on several different occasions in the past, but that "no firm offer" had been made. He said he has long desired to devote his full time to the St. Louis City Ice and Fuel Company, of which he is vice-president.

Muckerman added:

"The question of to whom I should sell to protect the interests of the Browns and the fans became the main issue. After long deliberation, I have decided that for this protection Bill and Charlie De Witt are the only ones who will do the job."

The sale of the Browns followed by six days the sale of the Cardinals by former postmaster general Robert Hannegan to his partner Fred M. Saigh, Jr.

William De Witt was a member the American league executive committee, will become president of the new Browns organization and Charles will be vice-president. Together they now own 58 per cent of the club, having had two per cent of the stock before buying out Muckerman.

In a joint statement tonight, the De Witts said:

"It is our hope and ambition to give St. Louis fans the greatest ball club they have ever had in the American league. We plan to develop a hard-hitting, progressive and aggressive organization."

They added, significantly, that they plan no change in personnel, which would leave Zack Taylor in command of the team as field manager.

William De Witt, a member of the syndicate that purchased the Browns from the estate of Phil Ball in 1936. Don Barnes, leader of that group, sold out to Muckerman in August of 1945, less than a year after the Browns won their first and only American league pennant.

De Witt stayed on as vice president of the club, and was joined at that time by his brother, who became traveling secretary.

Levelland Lobos Drub Morton Five, 53-23, In 4-A Loop Tilt

LEVELLAND, Feb. 2. (Special)—Levelland's Lobos drubbed the Morton quint, 53-23, in a north District 4-A conference clash here tonight. J. T. Pugh paced Levelland with 12 points, while Hill notched nine for Morton.

The Levelland "B" trounced Morton, 58-14, as Jimmy Spence swished the net for 15 points. Bill Bailey connected for 12 for Morton.

MATADOR DROPS PADUCAH

MATADOR, Feb. 2. (Special)—Matador High's quint defeated Paducah, 40-24, in a District 3-A cage tilt here tonight. The Paducah "B" drubbed the Matador reserves, 26-13.

Publinx Ladies Golf Club Meets

Mrs. A. B. Holton was elected secretary-treasurer of the Meadowbrook Ladies Golf club yesterday to replace Mrs. Oma Lee Gilmore, resigned.

The election featured the regular monthly meeting of the club held in Kattman's restaurant.

After discussion of dues for 1949, the members voted to keep them at the present price of six dollars a year.

Discussion also centered on obtaining new members for the club and one method of raising funds was adopted. The club will sponsor an informal dinner-dance Valentine's night at the Cactus Inn. The dinner will start at 8 p.m. Feb. 14 and anyone interested in attending is welcome.

Mrs. Ethel Herriage, organizer and backbone of the club, as well as its retiring president, was presented with a silver compote dish in recognition of her service.

The next meeting of the club will be held March 2, probably again at Kattmann's.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

Lubbock and Texas Tech basketball fans will be glad to hear that Virgil Johnson, Westerner cage ace of the 1947-48 season, will enroll at Tech within a few days for the spring semester. Virgil was voted to the all-District 1-AA basketball team last season, and was one of the top schoolboy scorers in the state. He has been keeping in shape this winter by playing with an independent basketball team, as well as taking a brief vacation before starting the long college grind. We know Coach Polk Robison will be glad to have Virgil on his roster next year, since the tall cager has been rated as one of the top college prospects turned out in this area in recent years.

• • •

We're sure that some fans will be more than slightly surprised when they find out that the numbered reserve seat tickets for the Lubbock-Pampa cage tilt here Friday night, as well as the remainder of the games this season, will be sold for one dollar each—including tax. That price, to most of us, seems to be a little steep. But a quick survey of other 1-AA schools Wednesday afternoon showed that the new admission price is not out of line. Borger opened the season selling reserved seat ducats for $1.20, but recently cut the price to one dollar. Amarillo and Pampa, according to reports, have charged near the one dollar mark for their cage tilts this season.

• • •

Lubbock High officials believe the one dollar price tag is justified because of the good seats, the convenience to fans and the top quality of the games. The reserved seats numbered are the new permanent type seats on the south side of the gymnasium, and each seat is wider than the usual space allotted per person. Since the seats are numbered, fans can buy their ducats early and not have to rush to the gymnasium an hour before game time in order to get a good seat. Officials emphasize, however, that all the seats on the other three sides of the gymnasium are not numbered and will be sold as general admission seats for the regular price of 75 cents.

• • •

Although it's a long time until football season, we think Lubbock fans will be interested in the report that Pampa's Coach Tom Tipps will switch from the "T" formation to the single wing this fall. The Harvesters have used the "T" for several years, with good results, but Tipps reportedly does not have a top-flight T-formation quarterback prospect for next season. Amarillo is almost certain to use the "Michigan shift" again this fall and Plainview and Brownfield will probably stay with the "T". Lubbock's Westerners, as reported several days ago, may switch to the "T" this fall if Coach Pat Pattison decides it will be better suited to the material available.

Joe Noerlker Of Virginia Is Nation's Top Cage Scorer

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. (AP)—Joe Noertker of the University of Virginia found himself the leading individual scorer among the nation's major basketball teams today with an average of 22 points for 12 games, though he hadn't played for two weeks.

What happened was that Tony Lavelli, Yale's great marksman who led in the last previous tally by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, was limited to 16 points by Dartmouth in one game and dropped to second place with a 21.8 average in 16 contests.

All coaches guiding teams in the United States Hockey League once were connected with the American Hockey League.

Westerners Play Host To Pampa Friday Night

District 1-AA Basketball Crown Will Be At Stake Over Weekend

Basketball championship of District 1-AA for the 1949 season will be at stake this weekend when the top cage quints of the loop clash in a series of important encounters.

Outstanding game of the weekend slate will be unreeled here Friday night at the Chapman field gymnasium, where the league-leading Lubbock Westerners play host to Pampa's potent Harvesters. The Westerners are in the top position in the circuit standings on the basis of percentage, with five wins and a single defeat, but the Harvesters have also lost only one district setto while winning four games.

Pampa Among Best

The Harvesters are rated as one of the top schoolboy cage teams in the state, holding four tournament titles, with a record of 17 victories in 19 games this season. The Pampans lost their first game of the season to strong Stratford by one point, then won 16 games in a row. Last week the Harvesters were nosed out by the Golden Sandies at Amarillo by four points, but the Pampans started another win streak by downing Borger Tuesday night at Pampa.

In other Friday night games Amarillo's Sandies will invade Brownfield for a tilt with the Cubs, while Borger clashes with the Bulldogs at Plainview.

Saturday night the Westerners will face another tough battle when they journey to Borger for a final setto with Coach Tex Hanna's dangerous crew. The Bulldogs have made no secret of the fact that they are "pointing" for the Westerners, and the Borger crew will have the all-important home court advantage.

How They Stand

Pampa travels to Brownfield for the other Saturday night tilt.

The district standings:

TEAMS	W	L	Pct.
LUBBOCK	5	1	.833
Pampa	4	1	.800
Amarillo	4	2	.667
Borger	1	3	.250
Brownfield	1	3	.250
Plainview	0	5	.000

Clovis Pioneers Now In Hands Of Ex-Card Hurler, Paul Dean

CLOVIS, N. M., Feb. 2. (AP)—Paul Dean, the former major league pitcher, took over the Clovis baseball club in the Class C West Texas-New Mexico league today.

Dean purchased the local franchise several weeks ago from a group of Clovis residents.

"We'll have a fighting, hustling ball club," the former St. Louis Cardinals star promised. He will be field manager of the Clovis Pioneers and plans to do some pitching, principally home games.

Wayland College Pioneers Drop Panhandle A&M, 55-53

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 2. (Special)—Wayland college's Pioneers defeated the Panhandle A. and M. quint, 55-53, here tonight as Leon Burch tallied 22 points. Steen hit the loop for 17 for the visitors.

Wayland jumped into a lead early in the tilt to take a 32-28 margin at halftime, then the Pioneers staved off a late Panhandle rally to clinch the triumph.

WOLVERINES PLAY TONIGHT

SLATON, Feb. 2 (Special)—The Slaton Wolverines, negro basketball team, will meet the Lubbock All-Stars and Lubbock Lions tangle with the All-Stars at Slaton High school gym tomorrow night in a negro independent basketball double header.

SEMI-FINAL MATCH ENDS IN DRAW

Billy Hickson Wins Disputed Mat Feature Over Karl Gray

Billy Hickson won a disputed two of three falls victory over Karl Gray in the main event of the regular Wednesday night mat card at Sled Allen's arena, after Referee Vick Weber disqualified Gray in the third fall for throwing—and following—Hickson out of the ring.

Hickson took the first fall of the feature bout in 12 minutes, using a body and shoulder pin, but Gray rebounded to take the second fall in just four minutes with a single leg crab.

The third fall was awarded to Hickson in six minutes after he was thrown out of the ring by Gray. Gray followed Hickson through the ropes, apparently with the purpose of continuing the bout in the middle of the paying customers.

George Bruckman and Glen Detton battled to a draw in the two of three falls semi-final setto, after each of the grapplers had won a single fall. Detton took the first fall in 23 minutes with a rocking chair cradle, then Bruckman took the second go in three minutes with a series of body slams and pin. Time ran out before either of the men could win a decisive third fall.

In the preliminary Gorilla Poggi and Bill Parks grunted and groaned to a draw in the 20-minute setto.

Baseball Holdouts After More Money

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. (AP) — It comes as no great surprise to learn that these lush times in baseball, brought about by an abundance of cash in sports fans pockets, have produced nearly two dozen known holdouts.

All are eager for a bit of that ready money poured into the pockets of the big league club owners by last year's record turnouts which passed the 21,000,000 figure.

Holdout is a word abhorred by the owners. They contend that a player is not a holdout unless he fails to report to spring training.

The fact remains there are at least 20 grumbling and dissatisfied athletes today who believe they should be getting more money than the amount offered by their respective bosses.

The most publicized are, of course, Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees and Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

Three other Cleveland stars, besides Feller, said "nix" to salary proposals for 1949 Pitchers Bob Lemon and Gene Bearden and third baseman Ken Keltner returned unsigned contracts, all demanding around $20,000. Although no official statements have been issued, it is known that Larry Doby, Dale Mitchell and Jim Hegan, among others, have not yet come to terms.

The New York Giants have three stubborn holdouts, headed by captain Walker Cooper. The other two are pitchers Andy Hansen and Clint Hartung.

Detroit's holdout brigade is led by pitcher Freddie Hutchinson.

Dom DiMaggio, fleet-footed centerfielder of the Boston Red Sox, wants more money. So do Don Kolloway, Chicago White Sox infielder; Del Ennis, Philadelphia Philly flychaser, and Phil Marchildon, Philadelphia Athletics righthander.

Port Arthur Coach May Take Mentoring Job At Vanderbilt

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 2. (AP)—John F. Tomlin, head coach and athletic director of the Port Arthur high school Yellow Jackets meets this afternoon with Vanderbilt university regents regarding the football coaching vacancy at Vanderbilt.

The Port Arthur News said Tomlin, former head coach at Arkansas university, was invited last night to confer with the regents. H. R. Sanders resigned as Vanderbilt coach last week to become head coach at the University of California.

Experts Will Coach TIL Diamond Clinics

AUSTIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Interscholastic league's February baseball coaching clinics will be directed by two teams of professional experts.

The National Association of Professional Baseball leagues has named Gus Mancuso and John Hudson for team No. 1. Team No. 2 is Jack Knott and Bob Bragan.

Mancuso is scout for the St. Louis Browns; Hudson is a scout for the New York Giants; Jack Knott is a scout for the Cincinnati Reds and Bragan scouts for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Dr. Rhea H. Williams, athletic director of the Interscholastic league, said other major league stars who live in Texas have been invited to help as teachers in the clinics.

The clinics to be directed by Mancuso and Hudson will be held Feb. 13 at El Paso; Feb. 14 at Odessa; Feb. 15 at Lubbock; Feb. 26 at Abilene; Feb. 17 at Austin; Feb. 18 at Corpus Christi, Feb. 19 at Edinburg.

Team No. 2 of Knott and Bragan will be at Sherman Feb. 14; Dallas Feb. 15; Tyler Feb. 16; Waco Feb. 17; Houston Feb. 18, Beaumont Feb. 19.

Anton Cagers Gain 43 To 36 Victory Over Smyer Quintet

ANTON, Feb. 2. (Special) — Anton's smooth-working cagers nosed out Smyer in an exhibition game here tonight, 43-36. Glasscock, Smalley and Harper each tallied eight points for Anton, while Pair notched 14 for Smyer.

In the "B" game, Anton dropped Smyer, 28-17.

Bill Henderson On El Paso Card

Bill Henderson of Levelland and Charley Neff of Petersburg, now Lubbock professional fighters, left yesterday for El Paso, where tonight they each will appear on a card in the Border City.

Henderson has drawn Dick Rivera, a light weight, and Neff's opponent will be Freddy Marquis, brother of the former Texas flyweight champion. The Levelland boxer will appear in a six-round semi-final fight, while Neff will have a four-round preliminary.

The two boxers held a light sparring session at Foster's gym Tuesday and then did light work before leaving here. Both were pronounced ready for their fights by Babe Ritchie, former heavyweight fighter, who is training them. Ritchie is accompanying them to El Paso and will be their second.

It will be Henderson's 12th professional fight, the Levelland fighter winning his previous 11 either by knockouts or decisions.

Joe Louis Refused N. Y. Beer License

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (INS)—The New York State Liquor Authority rejected today a wholesale beer application listing heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis and welterweight champ Ray Robinson among corporate officers.

The liquor authority charged that the Canadian Ace Brewing Co., a principal stockholder in the applicant corporation, was linked through one of its officials with the former Al Capone gang in Chicago.

In rejecting the application, the liquor authority asserted that it believed "that like many other prominent and creditable persons, Joe Louis and Ray Robinson have unwittingly allowed their names to be used by persons of evil design."

The application was made in the name of World-Champions, Inc. The liquor office said Canadian Ace apparently "planned to use both Louis and Robinson in an attempt to 'push their beer' in New York State."

Deal Said To Involve $1,000,000

De Witts Purchase St. Louis Browns

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 2. (INS)—Richard Muckerman tonight announced he has sold the St. Louis Browns, at an undisclosed price, to William and Charles De Witt, two officials of the team.

The sale was consummated by William De Witt and Muckerman in Kansas City this afternoon. Muckerman said he had disposed of his entire controlling interest in the club, which was 56 per cent.

Observers put the sale price at approximately one million dollars.

In addition to owning Sportsman's Park in St. Louis, where they play and which they rent to the St. Louis Cardinals, the Browns have a 16-team minor league farm system.

William De Witt, 46, had been vice president and general manager of the Browns. His brother Charles, two years his elder, was traveling secretary for the team.

Wanted Right Offer

In announcing the sale, Muckerman said he had discussed selling the Browns on several different occasions in the past, but that "no firm offer" had been made. He said he has long desired to devote his full time to the St. Louis City Ice and Fuel Company, of which he is vice-president.

Muckerman added:

"The question of to whom I should sell to protect the interests of the Browns and the fans became the main issue. After long deliberation, I have decided that for this protection Bill and Charlie De Witt are the only ones who will do the job."

The sale of the Browns followed by six days the sale of the Cardinals by former postmaster general Robert Hannegan to his partner Fred M. Saigh, Jr.

William De Witt was a member the American league executive committee, will become president of the new Browns organization and Charles will be vice-president. Together they now own 58 per cent of the club, having had two per cent of the stock before buying out Muckerman.

In a joint statement tonight, the De Witts said:

"It is our hope and ambition to give St. Louis fans the greatest ball club they have ever had in the American league. We plan to develop a hard-hitting, progressive and aggressive organization."

They added, significantly, that they plan no change in personnel, which would leave Zack Taylor in command of the team as field manager.

William De Witt, a member of the syndicate that purchased the Browns from the estate of Phil Ball in 1936. Don Barnes, leader of that group, sold out to Muckerman in August of 1945, less than a year after the Browns won their first and only American league pennant.

De Witt stayed on as vice president of the club, and was joined at that time by his brother, who became traveling secretary.

Levelland Lobos Drub Morton Five, 53-23, In 4-A Loop Tilt

LEVELLAND, Feb. 2. (Special)—Levelland's Lobos drubbed the Morton quint, 53-23, in a north District 4-A conference clash here tonight. J. T. Pugh paced Levelland with 12 points, while Hill notched nine for Morton.

The Levelland "B" trounced Morton, 58-14, as Jimmy Spence swished the net for 15 points. Bill Bailey connected for 12 for Morton.

MATADOR DROPS PADUCAH

MATADOR, Feb. 2. (Special)—Matador High's quint defeated Paducah, 40-24, in a District 3-A cage tilt here tonight. The Paducah "B" drubbed the Matador reserves, 26-13.

U. S. Rejects Stalin's Latest Bid For Two-Power 'Peace' Talk

unless British and French leaders are present.

Stalin's bid for a peace conference was made in two messages to J. Kingsbury Smith, European general manager of International News Service. Stalin invited Mr. Truman to come to Russia, Poland or Czechoslovakia for such a meeting.

Seen As Propaganda Move

The American government's position is that the United States will stand squarely side by side with Great Britain and France in any settlement of the Russian controversy. It means Stalin must deal simultaneously with the three major western powers if he wishes to end the "cold war."

It was made obvious that the United States views the Stalin bid as an effort to wean America away from the North Atlantic security pact, now under negotiation. It is obvious that the United States intends to adhere to such a pact as a major instrument in its foreign policy.

Acheson opened his conference by anticipating the questions which might be asked regarding the historic exchange between the Kremlin and Kingsbury Smith.

Stand Is Emphasized

The Secretary of State gave greatest emphasis to Mr. Truman's determination not to confer privately with Stalin on matters in which other powers have a stake.

The secretary noted an earlier statement by White House Secretary Charles G. Ross that the President would be happy to meet Stalin in Washington on a personal basis only.

Acheson also cited Stalin's statement to International News Service proposing a meeting with Mr. Truman in Russia, Poland, or Czechoslovakia.

Stalin Seems Grounded

Acheson then said:

"We gather that Premier Stalin is unhappily prevented from coming to Washington because he cannot seem to travel by air or sea.

"Thus, he seems to be effectively grounded.

"The implication must be that the President of the United States should travel half way around the world to meet Premier Stalin on matters so tremendous that it defies any specific statement."

Acheson, speaking for direct quotation but rapidly and with deep sincerity, devoted his entire weekly conference to the INS exchange with Stalin.

He said:

"The interest of the United States and of all the hundreds of millions of people throughout the world in peace is so fundamental that the matter of peace cannot be tampered with and cannot be used as an instrument in any political maneuvers and will not be so used by the United States.

Suggests Reds Playing Politics

Asked what is the status of the Council of Foreign Ministers of the Big Four powers, which is supposed to meet three or four times a year, Acheson asserted that the ministers are awaiting a solution of the Berlin problem.

He said that as soon as the blockade can be resolved the three western powers are ready and willing to meet to solve outstanding political problems.

Acheson opened his conference by saying:

"I suppose that except for the preservation of our nation and our liberties there is nothing more fundamental than the preservation of peace.

"I sugegst this because this matter is not only fundamental but sacred. No one would play politics in a matter like this.

"No man of conscience would tamper with these hopes or use them to raise or lower them in a political maneuver."

The Secretary then expressed his interest in the question and answer exchange between Smith and Stalin.

Questions Are Answered

He took up the first question, in the answer to which Stalin said he would be willing to consider a joint declaration against war between the United States and Russia.

Acheson declared that this question "puzzled" him. He said:

"Both the Soviet Union and the United States are pledged as members of the United Nations by the most solemn treaty commitments not to conduct war against each other."

The Secretary then added that President Truman had repeatedly said that the United States would give its unfaltering support to the United Nations.

Says U. S. Led Way

On the second question regarding the desirability of an agreement for a gradual disarmament, Acheson recalled that the United States has sought to co-operate in a disarmament program but has been thwarted by the Soviet Union.

He then said:

"The United States, rather than hanging back, led the way by demobilization after the last war, a demobilization which was not gradual but precipitate.

"This country dispersed the laregst assembly of armed force ever put together in the world before.

"All other nations, with the unhappy exception of the Soviet Union, did their best to implement the United Nations charter which was first designed for the peaceful settlement of disputes and secondly for the creation of an armed international force to give authority to the United Nations.

Soviet Moves Assailed

"The Soviet Union used its veto to frustrate the first effort.

"In the Atomic Energy commission the United States attempted to put under control the most destructive force man has yet devised.

Of Stalin's fourth answer, in which he said he would not object to a meeting with Mr. Truman, Acheson noticed that this referred to the first two questions which involved treaty arrangements with other powers. At that point Acheson recalled Ross' earlier statement that Mr. Truman would be pleased to have Stalin visit him in Washington. President Truman is known to have extended two "official" invitations to Stalin to come to Washington:

In July, 1945, at the conclusion of the Potsdam conference Truman asked if the Russian leader could visit Washington. Stalin replied that "God willing," he hoped to do so.

In April, 1946, when Gen. Walter Bedell Smith was sent as ambassador to Moscow, he carried a personal message from the President to Stalin, renewing the invitation. However, Stalin replied through Ambassador Smith that for reasons of health he could not make the trip.

Cotton Plan Okayed

Ken Regan, Midland.

Regan pointed out that while he felt this step was beneficial to the cotton industry generally, as helping to eliminate surplus production, at the same time he noted with some concern the question of new land planted to cotton this year in the Pecos valley.

However, he said Texas would get an allotment of 150,000 acres for new land, or two percent of the 7,500,000 acres previously planted. Regan also pointed out that in the Waco area some 750,000 acres formerly planted to cotton now was being planted in other crops.

CONG. MAHON IN APPEAL FOR GRAIN PRICE SUPPORT

Seeking to offset price uncertainties, and indirectly to assure an adequate supply of feed grain, Cong. George Mahon has joined others in the nation's capital in appealing to the secretary of agriculture to announce immediately a 90 per cent parity loan on grain sorghum for the 1949 crop.

The announcement came in connection with a release from Mahon's Washington office yesterday in which he discusses at least two major points in the agriculture picture.

Loan Not Assured

Setting out that the present law permits, but does not guarantee such a loan, and asserting that any government loan or price support program of less than 90 per cent "would be unsatisfactory and inadequate," the congressman said also that he is supporting legislation that would not only permit, but require, such a loan support, because "producers need to know what to expect in the way of support prices long in advance of planting time."

The situation could have material effect on the cotton and grain production picture in West Texas, and the loan proposal dovetails with an announcement by County Agent D. W. Sherrill here, who, in his last week's crop condition report, set out that a support price on grain probably would have much bearing on acreage in this area. The 1949 cotton crop is under a 90 per cent of parity support.

That in turn would have a direct bearing on cotton acreage, because as grain acreage decreases or increases, cotton acreage drops or rises in about the same proportion.

Warning Is Given

Mahon's newsletter sets out that "I hope we can secure passage of a long range farm program assuring a support of at least 90 per cent parity on grain sorghum, cotton, and other important crops."

And in that connection, the congressman warned that "producers should be on the alert for developments, particularly in connection with the 1949 crop." This was the same warning he broadcast repeatedly while visiting in his home territory during the fall months of congressional recess.

He believes that the program as finally approved for the 1949 crop will virtually chart the course for years to come, and "it is much easier to pass legislation, good or bad, than to repeal it or nullify it after it is passed."

After asserting that the House committee has heard some of the recommendations of the Farm Bureau in regard to cotton acreage allotment problems, Mahon warns that "Farm Bureau members in West Texas should see to it that the West Texas viewpoint is not overlooked in the Bureau's presentation."

A group of West Texans are to appear before the House committee next Monday, but Mahon cautions that committee officials have advised him it will be impossible to hear all individual farmers who might want to appear.

Evidently this was by way of warning that the West Texas story should be formulated and arranged in advance in as concise a form as possible, so as much of the picture as time will permit can be put into the record.

Funeral R'ites For S. H. Botts Scheduled In Fort Worth Today

Funeral services for S. H. (Sam) Botts, 68, former South Plains resident who died Tuesday night in his home in Fort Worth, are to be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Fort Worth.

Relatives here last night had not learned other details regarding the services. Burial is to be in Fort Worth.

Relatives from Lubbock who plan to attend services in Fort Worth today are Sterling Parrish, a nephew; Mrs. Pink L. Parrish and Mrs. J. C. Orr, sisters of Mrs. Botts; and Ance English, a brother of Mrs. Botts.

The United States contains 242,000 gasoline stations, 52,000 auto repair garages, and 24,000 taxicab companies.

Renegade Democrat Back In Fold After 20 Years With GOP

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 2. (INS)—A former GOP alderman in St. Louis announced his return to the Democratic party today because he is "tired of being a Republican."

Joseph Saputo said he is going to head the fifth ward Democratic organization, explaining:

"I quit the Democratic party 20 years ago, but I'm back with them again because I am satisfied they can do more for my constituents in the ward."

Saputo added "being a Republican doesn't mean anything."

Stalin Invites HST

Secretary Bevin and his ministers closely studied the Stalin message but declined official comment. Spokesmen who would not allow use of their names were cool in their reception.)

The official English language text of Stalin's telegram:

To Kingsbury Smith,
European General Manager
International News Service.

"Your telegram of Feb. 1 received.

"I am grateful to President Truman for his invitation to come to Washington.

Longed To Visit U. S.

"For a long time it was my wish to visit Washington and at one time I mentioned this to President Roosevelt at Yalta and to President Truman at Potsdam.

"Unfortunately, at present I am unable to realize this wish of mine, since doctors strongly object to my undertaking any prolonged journey, especially by sea or air.

"The government of the Soviet Union would welcome the President's visit to the USSR. The conference could be arranged at the President's choice either in Moscow or Leningrad, or in Kaliningrad, in Odessa, or at Yalta—provided, of course, that this does not go against the President's considerations of convenience.

"However, should this suggestion meet with an objection, the meeting could be arranged at the President's discretion in Poland or Czechoslovakia.

"Respectfully,
"(Signed) J. Stalin,
"Feb. 2, 1949."

The message containing the invitation to President Truman to visit Russia or the two other eastern European lands was delivered by the French postal and telegraph service in an envelope marked "urgent" with several official stamps bearing the same label pasted on it.

RED AGENTS CONTINUE AGITATION IN GERMANY

BERLIN, Feb. 2. (AP)—Communist agents in Germany are urging mass demonstrations against the Western Allies' occupation policies even as new reports of Soviet peace moves come out.

Soviet support, "in word and deed," was promised today by the Russian-sponsored German Communist people's council.

"We can get out of national catastrophe only if we take our fate in our own hands," the council told the Germans.

Throughout Soviet-occupied eastern Germany, trade unions sent out statements protesting the three-month jail sentence meted out by a British court yesterday to Max Reimann, western Germany's Communist boss, for making an inflammatory speech.

Even the Moscow radio joined in.

Labor Law Debate

vides only for 30-day cooling-off periods and recommendations by a presidential emergency board in major labor disputes.

Under pressure from organized labor, drafters of the proposed Democratic substitute for the Taft-Hartley act left out any reference to anti-strike injunctions. This drew heavy fire from Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and his minority colleagues who felt it left the government helpless in a national strike crisis.

Sen. Thomas (D-Utah), chairman of the Senate Labor committee, read Clark's opinion into the committee record while Secretary of Labor Tobin was on the witness stand.

Taft immediately asserted that "I entirely disagree with the attorney general." The Ohioan added:

"I don't know of any inherent right of the president to get an injunction against anyone. If we want to do that we ought to say so in so many words."

"Amazing Stories" Laughed At

Eddie Albert Denies Reports He Is Broke, With Big Debts

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 — Actor Eddie Albert put on his famous puzzled grin today and denied "those amazing reports that I am broke and hounded by creditors."

Said Eddie:

"I have no problem with creditors. I'm not broke. In fact, my film company has just entered a million-dollar expansion program!"

Published comments recently have stated that the actor had lost his money in Eddie Albert productions, his movie company making educational films. Column mention was made that creditors are pounding his door since they learnned he is staying in the swank Waldorf-Astoria.

"I don't want to get into a silly cat-fight about these rumors," Albert said, "but I'd like to clear up a few things."

Through his best lop-sided smile, he explained that he stays at the Waldorf, not out of "showy" instincts, but because his wife, Margo, gets a cut rate on the rooms. The reason: she has been dancing in the hotel's Sert room under contracts since she was nine years old.

Albert admitted that he has been "spreading the money pretty thin" on his business for some time. However, the film project was slid off the thin ice and onto solid ground this year, he insists.

"In three years, I've invested $150,000 of my own money in Eddie Albert productions because I didn't want to float loans. I acted in ten movies to make enough money to keep the company going.

"This year," he added, "I'm going to make more money for the company by going on Broadway."

Signed For Musical

Albert has just been signed to a starring role in Irving Berlin's new musical, "Miss Liberty," scheduled to open in June.

"I consider the money I've spent an investment, not a loss," he says. "And now, just beginning my fourth year in business, looks like I'll get some of the money back.

"Things are moving so well that I've just opened a New York office. I now have the respect of picture and financial people, and it looks like I'll get other investors."

That's why, he explained, the newspaper reports of "my poverty" came at a bad time—for him.

Albert calls his film-producing a venture in "idealism."

It started during the war when he was sent to the South Pacific with the Navy. As Lt. Eddie Albert, USN, he took chances and decided that the Hollywood life was "plenty right." He'd go back to it.

Made Educational Films

But during the last half of the war he was sent to Washington, D. C., to make educational war films —and it was there, he says, that he had a celluloid re-birth.

"Quite suddenly I realized that the U. S. isn't equipped to mobilize quickly for war, because there's no really lively way of getting the word to 140-million people so they can act with discernment and knowledge."

While he was feeling this, he says, he also decided:

"It's no fun fishing anymore when you're worried."

Albert said that starting into the business was difficult, because he'd saved no money during the war. The first year he acted in 10 movies ("I worked 58 weeks that year") to get the company going.

"And all the time I was watching the business reports," he recalls.

"Ninety per cent of the educational film companies such as mine folded. I was spreading the money thin, making mistakes, and owing the government taxes."

He insists, however, that the only creditors he now has are a few close friends who helped him with the company's expenses when he needed money.

"Everybody gives a buddy a hand when he needs it, you know," remarked Albert.

"There are probably as many people in debt to me as I have creditors."

But all this financial chit-chat is not important anyway, Albert maintains, compared to the good that educational films can do for children, parents, doctors, teachers, labor and management.

"In five years, every child in America will be looking at one of our pictures and learning to live better," he says. "That's what counts."

Albert's movies, to date, have been two-reel, 20-minute films for use by schools, churches, and civic organizations, on the topics: sex education, hygeine, growing-up processes, etc.

He is now working on a series of medical training films for doctors and another series of two-reelers on labor-management relations. He hopes to branch out this year into live and screened television.

Yugoslavia Hits Ban From Council

BELGRADE, Feb. 2. (INS)—Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj said today that the Yugoslav government was "astonished" by its exclusion from the East European economic council. He said Yugoslavia has complained to Russia and other members of the cominform.

Kardelj implied that failure to invite Yugoslavia to join the mutual aid council would make it more difficult to end the "existing misunderstanding" between Yugoslavia and the Cominform.

Would Give Co-operation

Kardelj at the same time made it clear that Yugoslavia would be willing to co-operate with the council, provided the Cominform nations ended their trade discrimination against the Belgrade government.

In a statement distributed by the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, Kardelj emphasized that in the past responsible Yugoslav officials frequently had taken the "initiative for closer economic collaboration between the Socialistic and Democratic countries" of eastern Europe.

He indicated Yugoslavia was particularly nettled because the countries which were represented at Moscow when the economic council was set up "are tied to Yugoslavia by trade treaties."

Kardelj declared that Yugoslavia approved the idea of an economic council for Eastern Europe and added:

"The decisions in Moscow are fully in accordance with Yugoslavia's ideas of economic collaboration—specially the part dealing with equality of participants in the council.

"Thus Yugoslavia could collaborate in the council of mutual economic aid because these ideas are identical with Yugoslavia's."

ible casualties.

Investigation of the wreck had not been completed last night, the highway patrol said. Sowder was the only person injured, according to reports.

City police earlier Wednesday had cautioned motorists that streets and highways were "more deceptively dangerous perhaps" than at any time in the last three ice-locked weeks.

"Two successive months have broken all-time records for mishaps investigated by this department," Capt. Bill Lamb, police traffic officer, said.

"December's record of 160 investigated mishaps fell when January racked up 196—86 more than for January a year ago.

"Sixteen persons were injured in January, six of them seriously, and one was killed.

"Conditions like those this morning are dangerous even when utmost care is exercised.

"There should be no carelessness in operation of cars on this ice skim."

Approximately a dozen collisions were investigated by police Wednesday, but none involved personal injury they said.

Demonstration Of Hypnotism At Tech Convinces Skeptic

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche Staff Writer

If you don't believe in hypnosis, you should drop in on one of Dr. Franz Polgar's shows sometime. The doc will convince you, I'm sure.

To be quite truthful, I'd always had my private doubts about the stuff, so when I heard that Palgar, a stocky little Hungarian, was to appear at Texas Tech's recreation hall Wednesday night, I decided to go out for a first-hand look. Matter of fact, I volunteered as a "guinea pig" for one of the doc's hypnotic stunts.

Made a Believer

And while he didn't really put the old evil eye on me a hundred per cent, I saw—and felt—enough to make a believer of me.

Palgar, in case you haven't been reading your Avalanche closely the last few days, is supposed to be one of the country's top hypnotist-telepathists. In fact, he's so sharp that right now a Collier's magazine writer, Daniel Mannix, is accompanying him to do an article which will probably be published in about six months.

Well, due to a slight transportation mixup, Polgar arrived a few minutes late, but once he started he quickly made up for lost time. In short, he set a flabbergasted audience on its collective ear.

Misses First Shot

First he pulled a "photographic memory" feat with a block of 16-name-number combinations. The whole procedure was too complicated for explanation here, so suffice it to say that the doc would have gotten an "A plus" from any math prof on the Tech campus.

Next, he had a group of five students secretly select the name of some acquaintance in the audience. After one misfire, he led a girl member of the group directly to the person of whom she was silently thinking.

Then Polgar shifted into high gear with his hypnosis routine which had the 175 persons in the audience roaring with laughter for the remainder of the show.

"Frankie" Takes Over

His feats were too numerous for a detailed account, but, briefly, here are a few:

He convinced a husky male subject, clad in a "T" shirt (without a tie, of course) that he was Frank Sinatra. The youth, a Tech student, was so completely in Polgar's grip that he even obliged by singing a chorus of "Blue Skies," pausing occasionally to "straighten" the bow tie he thought he was wearing! Asked to sign his autograph, the boy boldly scribbled "Frankie Sinatra." Later, awakened from the trance, he could not remember writing the name at all.

Later, the doc convinced two of the boys that a five-pound wood chair was too heavy for them to lift, and, sure enough, the two of them were unable to budge it until he snapped them from their trance.

He also made one subject believe that his foot was stuck to the floor, and another to believe that he could not take his hands from coat pocket. And until the doc got good and ready, that foot and those hands stayed right there.

As for my own experience, Polgar didn't get quite so far. He did succeed in hypnotizing me to the point that I couldn't separate my clasped hands, nor open my closed eyelids. To top it off, he had me stand rigidly and then fall stiffly backward into his waiting arms.

Then he snapped me out of it, and when he tried the old hoodoo again, it just didn't take. I remained wide awake.

Perhaps I was just trying to cooperate too hard.

U. S. Livestock Inspector Is Killed By Mexican Mob

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 2. (AP) — A mob killing of a U. S. livestock inspector Monday brought a demand today that Mexico furnish better protection.

Robert L. Proctor, 23, Tucson, Ariz., killed while on a vaccinating trip for the joint U. S.-Mexico Aftosa commission, is the second U. S. citizen killed while on duty for the commission.

Proctor, with a inspector, Raul Sanchez, and a guard of two soldiers, was attacked Monday about 4:00 p.m. when the four rode into the village of San Pedro Del Alto, five miles north of Temascaltzingo, 75 miles northwest of here.

Plawn grass lawns (grown from United States turf) which need to be cut only twice a year, are in great demand with Australian gardners, Sydney reports.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN ILLINOIS

Woman Is Held After Confessing 'Kidnaping' Of Five Children

MACOMB, Ill., Feb. 2 (INS) — Macomb authorities today planned a lie detector test for Mrs. Joan Brokus, 22, who admitted "kidnaping" five children in the last five years.

State's Attorney Roger W. Hayes said that Mrs. Brokus, who was returned to Macomb from Denver on a charge of kidnaping a 7-year-old boy, would be taken to Springfield, Ill., for the test.

Hayes said she probably would also be questioned about the disappearance of a 9-year-old Chicago lad, John Navickas, who has been missing since last July. The state's attorney commented:

"That might be the one thing she didn't tell us."

Driving Stolen Auto

However, Hayes stated that the missing boy's mother, Mrs. John J. Navickas, could not remember having known anyone of Mrs. Brokus description. The accused woman is almost toothless and weighs around 200 pounds.

The charge against Mrs. Brokus accuses her of kidnaping Richard L. Strickler, 7, of Dubuque, Ia. When seized in Denver, authorities said, she was driving a stolen automobile.

State's Attorney Hayes said the woman operated by soliciting money on a percentage basis. The state's attorney said she told him she picked up the children as "atmosphere" in her work.

Mrs. Brokus said she met Richard Strickler, father of the Dubuque boy, after separating from her husband, Floyd Brokus, last year.

She declared she planned to marry Strickler at Springfield, Ill., and they stopped overnight at Macomb.

Hayes said that the next morning Strickler found that Mrs. Brokus had departed, taking his boy with her. The father swore out the kidnaping warrant in Macomb.

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Batt of Abernathy route 1 on birth of a daughter weighing 6 pounds 6 ounces at 2:27 p. m. Wednesday in Lubobck Memorial hospital. The father is a farmer.

make some money and she wouldn't split with me."

Hankins was arrested at his apartment by Bowie County Sheriff E. G. (Zeke) Henslee, City Detective Homer Goff and Constable A. S. Herrington.

Woman Beaten, Stabbed

Chief of Police Jack Runnels and Sheriff Henslee said Hankins admitted under preliminary questioning that at 7:20 a. m. he had checked into the hotel room where Mrs. Shelton's body was found. But they said Hankins denied that Mrs. Shelton aver had been in the room.

Runnels said Mrs. Shelton had been beaten, stabbed and strangled. Lem Rawls, negro porter, found her body about 9 a.m. while he was making a room check. It was sprawled on a hotel room bed and the lower part of the body was covered with bloodstained blankets.

Mrs. Shelton's throat had been stabbed and a cloth was knotted around her neck. She had been stabbed three times in the left breast. Police said the murder weapon was a thin-bladed knife or an ice pick. It was not found in the room.

Police Open Search

City, county and state police had immediately launched a search for a man who signed the hotel register "Mr. and Mrs. James McKnight, Houston, Texas." He checked in at the hotel at 7:20 a.m. yesterday. He was alone but told the hotel clerk: "my wife will be here later."

At 3:30 p. m. he was seen by Mittie Daniels, negro maid, who said he appeared intoxicated and that Mrs. Shelton was "shoving him in the door of the room."

Officers said the man being sought left the hotel about 5:30 a.m. today.

Police found bloodstains on a lavatory in the bathroom, leading them to believe the slayer washed blood from his hands before leaving the room. The shades were drawn and the lights were off when the body was found.

The last time hotel clerks saw the man he was hurrying through the lobby about 5:30 a. m.

Three hours and a half later, the porter found the body.

WOMAN MAY HAVE HAD POLICE RECORD HERE

Lubbock police last night were speculating whether the young woman found slain in a Texarkana hotel might be the same woman whose name has appeared on police blotters here numerous times over the past three years.

According to records of the sheriff's and police departments a Mrs. Bonnie Jean Shelton has been arrested here several times since Aug. 26, 1946, and has paid several fines, including fines for vagrancy, drunkenness and drunk driving.

Two Army Fliers Killed When B-25s Collide Near Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 2 (INS) —Two Air Force men were killed and five others injured today in a collision of two B-25s in flight five miles south of Shreveport.

Dead were idenitfied by Army officials as Capt. George E. Johnson, 33, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Capt. David R. Powell, 27, of Baldwin, L. I., N. Y. Both were based at Bolling field, Washington, D. C.

Listed as critically injured was T/Sgt. Robert W. Welch, of Oakland, Ill., whose left arm was amputated.

Listed as "serious but not critical" was instructor-pilot Byron B. Boon, of Linden, Tex.

Instructor-pilot Capt. Harry A. L. Jones, of Oakland, Calif., and Aviation Cadets John L. Roberts, Akron, Ohio, and Cal Ramsey, of Columbus, N. C., were reported not seriously hurt.

Three Air Lines Make Bids To Add Pecos To Flight Schedules

WASHINGTON Feb. 2. (AP) — Three air lines today made bids to serve Pecos in far West Texas.

Spokesmen for the lines urged the Civil Aeronautics board to authorize their companies to serve the community.

The lines are Continental airlines, Trans-Texas airlines and Pioneer airlines.

Arguments were heard by the board on recommendation by one of its examiners that Continental be permitted to put Pecos on one of its routes. Robert Smith, president of Pioneer airlines and James V. Allred, attorney for Trans-Texas, spoke for their companies.

ANCIENT CITY FOUND

MOSCOW —(AP)— The ruins of Kolodyazhin, one of the ancient cities of Kiev, Russia, have been discovered. The newspaper Gudok said a Ukrainian expedition headed by V. K. Goncharov found the once powerful fortress city which was besieged by the Tartars without success. The gates of Kolodyazhin were finally opened by trickery on the part of the Tartars and because of its heroic resistance it was burned and all the inhabitants cut to pieces. Excavations reveal the city was surrounded by double ramparts with double trenches. Many Slav and Tartar armaments have been found including arrows, axes and spears.

When the accident occurred he was on his way to his home in Fort Worth from Phoenix, Arizona, where he played in the Phoenix open.

Tried To Avoid Bus

Ben's brother, Royal Hogan, an amateur golfer, flew here from Fort Worth. Ben Hogan had sent word that no announcement of his condition was to be made until his brother arrived.

The accident occurred at 8:30 a. m. (MST). Hogan and his wife were rushed here, reaching El Paso about 1 p. m.

Attendants said Hogan was sleeping after his examination.

Mrs. Hogan said she saw an approaching bus, traveling the opposite direction from their car, start to pass a truck shortly before the accident. Her husband tried to avoid a collision but could not because of a culvert, she recounted, and the two vehicles met squarely.

She said there was some ground haze despite bright sunshine at the time. The impact hurled the engine of the Hogan car back into the front seat, Mrs. Hogan said.

Contrary to first reports, none of the bus passengers was injured, authorities here said. They proceeded in a relief bus which reached El Paso about 1:30 p. m. (MST).

HEAVY DAMAGE CAUSED BY PAST MONTH'S STORMS

(By The Associated Press)

Severe weather during January in the western half of the nation caused at least 112 deaths, possibly $50,000,000 in damage to fruit and vegetable crops and untold millions of dollars property damage, a survey showed Wednesday.

The January blizzards, bringing one of the most damaging midwinters in history to western states, accounted for the principal damage.

Storm damage to personal property, transportation and communication equipment has not been determined. The livestock loss probably will not be known until spring.

Meanwhile, rescue efforts continued in the Midwest Wednesday as residents kept an eye out for possible new storms.

ENGLAND NEEDS SCIENTISTS

STAFFORD, England (AP)—Britain needs at least 200,000 scientific and technical workers—twice as many as it has now—says Dr. C. P. Snow, wartime director of scientific appointments for the government. Opening new electrical training laboratories at Staffordshire county technical college, he said that "the scarcity of scientists is a problem more vital than the shortage of raw material." At present Dr. Snow is director of technical personnel for the English Electric Co. at Stafford. The company contributed $40,000 worth of equipment to the college and gives its apprentices time off to attend school.

METEOR REPORTED

Two more South Plains residents Wednesday reported seeing the meteor which streaked across the area early Sunday night. W. C. Vardeman, farmer of six miles west of the city, said he believed parts of the meteor fell near his place but no fragments had been found. Mrs. Dave Fawcett of 2602 Ruby also reported seeing the bright flash of the meteor.

House Committee Revealed Japs' Spying On U. S. Navy Before War

Eisler case without informing a single member beyond Chairman Thomas, until the night before the witness was called and gave his remarkable performance on the stand.

The Eisler case went like clockwork. I would urge the same procedure on my successor.

If any of the above is regarded as a reason for discontinuance of the Committee, it not intended thus. If the Committee is crushed, or even vitiated by being packed with its inherent Congressional critics, the Communist Party will have cause for celebration. Communism's most formidable declared opponent in this country will have been liquidated and the conspirators can thereafter pursue their operations reasonably assured that if they run afoul of the F. B. I. there will always be elements in the government ready to soften or ward off the blow.

• • •

THE Committee has made mistakes, but in one chief instance it has never wilted, never backed up: and that is its diligent pursuit of the Communist menace in this country.

A standard criticism of the Committee is that it combats Communism wholly and ignores Fascism and other Un-American activities. Yet up until the time we uncovered the Hiss-Chambers case, 25 per cent of the 19,651 pages of testimony the Committee had taken concerned Nazi, Fascist and Japanese subversive activities.

Committee investigators prepared, as the first case heard by the committee, a report showing that the Nazis were maintaining a force of 5,000 uniformed storm troopers in this country's Bund camps, and that Italian Fascists were active in a number of cities.

Has Exposed Others

We had Fritz Kuhn on our witness stand twice before he went on trial in New York for stealing Bund funds. Ralph Townsend was exposed as a Japanese agent by the Committee in August, 1939, and was later sentenced for violation of the Foreign Agents Act.

Fraser S. Gardner, secret agent of Silver Shirt Leader William Dudley Pelley, was convicted of perjury in a case growing out of his appearance before the Committee. George Deatherage, leader of the Knights of the White Camellia, was found and exposed by the Committee, as were Henry D. Allen, former Silver Shirt leader, and countless Bund members, including G. Wilhelm Kunze.

I personally seized, and the Committee exposed, the records of the subversive Kyffhauserbund. In 1940 we published a 414-page report on U. S. Nazis and their fronts. We first directed attention to the fact that Adolf Hitler was making considerable use of his diplomatic and consular officers as spies in this country.

This evidence was later cited by President Roosevelt as a reason for shutting down German consulates.

• • •

WE exposed Dr. Frederick Auhagen, head of the American Fellowship Forum, a Nazi front; Manfred Zapp and Guenther Tonn, of the pro-Nazi Trans - Ocean News Service. We subpoenaed the important records of the German Library of Information and the German Railroads organization, both of them Nazi fronts.

Hans Ackerman and his wife were deported after our public interrogations of them. Late in 1940 we revealed to the Post Office Department that tons of Nazi propaganda were reaching the U. S. by means of Japanese ships.

The Bund documents we released in a 178-page report in May, 1941, were subsequently used to try and convict Kunze.

By the simple method of having our agents suffer convenient flat tires in the vicinity of Bund camps, and tabulate the license plates of cars entering and leaving the camps, we compiled a list of Bundists working in defense plants. In time, the Committee was able to send President Roosevelt a list of 17,000 persons identified with the Nazi movement in America.

Before Pearl Harbor the committee, through the industry of its investigators, released a 287-page report showing that Japanese had detailed information concerning all the naval craft of the U. S.

We showed that Japanese knew our fleet positions at Pearl Harbor, were using Japanese naval officers on their radio-equipped fishing boats, and had set up action committees in Hawaii and on our West Coast.

• • •

LATER, our studies of conditions in Japanese Relocation Centers brought out that disloyal Japanese were permitted to mingle with and often terrorize loyal Japanese-Americans. That led to the transfer of the relocation authority to the Interior Department.

These achievements speak for themselves. They did not go unnoticed.

But whenever we cast an inquiring eye on the equally subversive activities of the Communist Party, we were instantly assailed, though the strongest microscope could not differentiate between the nature of the Party's conspiracy and that of the Germans, Japanese and Italians.

Services Set Today For Mrs. N. L. Kiker

MEADOW, Feb. 2 (Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. N. L. Kiker, 80, of Meadow route 1, are to be held at 11 a. m. Thursday in the Meadow Methodist church.

Rev. T. E. Rutledge, jr., Methodist pastor of Wolfforth, will officiate.

The body is to be taken overland by Brownfield Funeral home to Jacksboro for a second service in the Methodist church there at 2 p. m. Friday.

Burial is to be in Jacksboro cemetery, beside the body of Mrs. Kiker's late husband, who died Sept. 13, 1948.

Mrs. Kiker died at 8:40 p. m. Tuesday in Lubbock Memorial hospital, after an illness of several weeks. She had been a resident of Terry county since 1930.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Morrow of Shallowater and Mrs. J. E. Hall of Meadow; two sons, O. A. of Wellington and M. M. of Frederick, Okla.; five sisters, Mrs. Don Files of Mobeetie, Mrs. Bella Meadowbrooks, Mrs. May Shields and Mrs. Jess Shields, all of Jacksboro, and Mrs. Eunice Ross of Fort Worth; three brothers, Emiry Weir of Tulsa, and Willie and Ewing Weir, both of Jacksboro; and six grandchildren.

California Woman Accused Of Murder Freed By Jury

NEVADA CITY, Calif., Feb. 2. (AP)—Lois Hunt Hardy was acquitted on a murder charge today by a jury which deliberated only 30 minutes.

Mrs. Hardy, once sentenced to death for the "sex lure" slaying of a man, had been granted a new trial. She testified that she had "blacked out" after the man molested her and could not remember what happened.

Iowa Jury Acquits Negro Held For Manslaughter In Strike Riot

WATERLOO, Ia., Feb. 2. (AP)—A 55-year-old Dunkerton, Ia., negro was free today of a manslaughter charge which stemmed from last May's riot and shooting at the strike-bound Rath Packing company plant.

A district court jury, after 3½ hours deliberation yesterday found Fred Lee Roberts innocent of manslaughter in the shooting of William (Chuck) Farrell, a striking CIO packinghouse worker.

In closing arguments, attorneys for both sides touched on "a man's right to work."

Roberts had pleaded self-defense. He said he shot into the air "in terror" when his car was stopped by a crowd outside the plant gate as he was driving to work. He had testified that the crowd began shaking his car and crying out, "kill the jig."

Special Prosecutor Robert Buckmaster told the jury that Roberts "was determined to go to work, no matter what happened, even if he had to shoot somebody."

Senator To Ask $500,000 For Flood Control Along Rio Grande

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. (U.P.) — Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM) said today he will request a $500,000 appropriation for strengthening Rio Grande river protective works in anticipation of spring floods.

Chavez, chairman of the Senate Public Works committee, said Army engineers are studying the prospects of flood conditions in western states as result of the recent heavy snowfalls.

Regarding flood control along the Rio Grande, he said Army engineers have developed a program to safeguard Albuquerque and lands along the river. The district, Chavez said, will bear about $200,000 of the cost and the remainder must come from federal funds.

Senate Nominations Committee Okays Seymour Man For Post

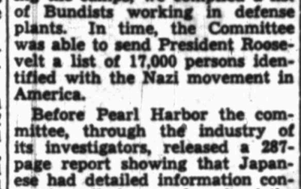

AUSTIN, Feb. 2 (AP) — The Senate Nominations committee today approved the nomination of Dee J. Brookreson of Seymour as district attorney for the 50th judicial district.

Senator Gus Strauss, committee chairman, said the special session of the committee was called in order that the work of the Baylor county grand jury might continue.

The appointment still must be approved by the Senate.

Knotty Problem Of Closed Shop Must Be Decided By Congress

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — In writing a new labor law this year Congress faces the angry problem of the closed shop.

A closed shop is where boss and union agree that everyone must belong to the union or lose his job and only union members can be hired.

Should a closed shop be banned by law? There's divided thinking on this. The following story gives both sides of the argument.

Foes Have Strong Argument

Say those who want a law against a closed shop—

1. A man should be free to join, or not join, a union. He should not have to lose his job if he doesn't want to join.

2. A closed shop forces a boss to fire good men, who need their jobs, just because they won't join. And it prevents him from hiring other good and needy men unless they have a union card.

3. Closed shops are monopolies. Under the law, companies can't form monopolies. So why should unions be allowed to have them

4. In a closed shop a worker has no protection against some unfair action against him by enemies within the union.

(But a worker who is not a union member has no protection against unfairness by his boss.)

5. Some union men are against a closed shop because, they say, it's such a 100 per cent all-union affair, the union gets lazy and is not as progressive as a union which has to fight to keep its members happy.

Supporters Have Points

Say those who want no law at all against a closed shop—

1. It's unfair for a worker not to join a union if he receives the benefits won by the unions. They put up the fight and pay their dues while, doing nothing, he gets all benefits for free.

2. A closed shop gives a union greater security against any attempt by the boss to wreck the union.

3. In a closed shop there's less trouble, the kind which might arise between union and non-union men.

4. A closed shop prevents discrimination. That is, the boss can't favor a non-union man over a union man.

5. And some union men argue that a closed shop protects a craft —that is a group of workers doing highly skilled work—from the poor work of a non-union unskilled man who might be hired.

(In a closed craft-union shop unskilled men would have to work as apprentices before they could move up to skilled jobs.)

State Laws Upheld

Until the Taft-Hartley law was passed in 1947, there was no federal law against a closed shop. But Taft-Hartley banned it absolutely.

And a number of states passed their own laws banning a closed shop.

Recently the U. S. Supreme court gave a decision saying a state had the right to ban closed shops.

So, between the Taft-Hartley law and the state laws, it seemed that a closed shop was a dead duck.

But President Truman and his advisors have asked Congress to abolish the Taft-Hartley act and pass a new labor law.

And they've asked Congress, in that new law, to do this:

1. First, to wipe out any federal ban on closed shops.

2. Second, to say this federal law stands above state anti-closed shop laws.

Congress To Decide

That means: If a union and a boss—whose plant turns out work which crosses state lines in interstate commerce— want a closed shop they can have it. And no state law can interfere with that.

But in a plant whose work doesn't cross state lines, it's all right for a state law to forbid a closed shop. That's a business done entirely within a state and the federal government has no say over that.

In this country the closed shop is old. There were closed shops in the early 1800's. They were widespread by civil war days.

Since the Democrats control Congress, it's likely they'll follow Mr. Truman's wishes and wipe out any ban on the closed shop. This is not certain, of course.

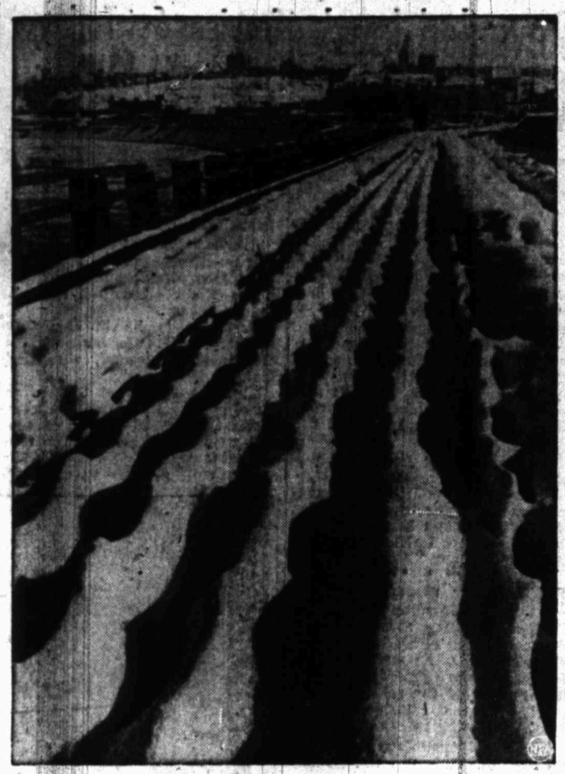

(A closed shop is different from a union shop. In the latter, just as in a closed shop, everyone must join the union or lose his job.

(But in a union shop non-union workers can be hired although they must then join the union. As noted, in a closed shop they must have a union card before they're hired.

(Under the present Taft-Hartley law, the union shop is permitted, within certain limits, but this Congress probably will wipe out those limits and leave unions and employers perfectly free to agree on union shops.)

'Boys Ranch' Supervisor Explains Operation, Aims Of Institution To Lubbock Rotary Club

Boys Ranch at Amarillo now has 114 boys, and "because we don't know how to say no," the demand is increasing rapidly from ever-widening areas, Cal Farley, who started the character building institution and still supervises its operation, told the Rotary club Wednesday at luncheon at the Hilton hotel.

Speaking in his typically humorous vein, Farley, told his story, emphasizing that "although our needs are many, we are not asking you for anything."

Lubbock Boys Included

Asked from the floor how best a group or an individual can help the institution, Farley said monthly cash subscriptions have proved to be the most helpful. He said that with foodstuff and cash income from a farm operated by the organization, it costs about $18 a month to care for each boy, not including cost of equipment and building expansion.

Farley said the 114 boys now on the ranch are from 17 states. The institution has handled a total of 486 boys since it was started, and nine of those have been from Lubbock.

Citing the influences and circumstances that usually cause a boy to go wrong, and tracing the trend of crime from its early beginning with probable theft of food or some such commodity, Farley believes it is much better to spend $200 to set a boy on the right track when he first starts at nine or ten years of age than to spend $4,000 to $6,000 a year to keep him incarcerated after he becomes a hardened criminal.

Visitors Introduced

The speaker was introduced by Walter S. Posey, program chairman.

Visiting Rotarians included H. W. Shirley of Childress, E. W Jones of Wellington, Ellis Smith of Ralls, Irving Allstead and Art Chesher of Littlefield, Cliff Cooper of Alhambra, Calif., Abe Kessel of Slaton, Van Clark of Littlefield, Kendall Young of Ralls, Burnett Roberts of Levelland, and Mark Allen of Seagraves.

Junior Rotarians for the month were introduced. They were George Carpenter from Lubbock High school, and Marshall Gettys from Texas Tech. Irving Jones, club president, was in the chair, with invocation by George Blackwell.

Winners Named At Stock Show

FORT WORTH, Feb. 2 (AP) — H. G. Royal Mixer 984, owned by Hardy Grissom of Abilene, today was named the champion at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show in the last judging event of the Texas Hereford Golden Jubilee.

The class matched horned Herefords against polled Herefords and was limited to Texas entries.

Reserve champion bull was H. G. Proud Mixer 673 of the Barret Hereford ranch of Comanche.

Blue Bonnett Domino, owned by W. J. Largent and Sons, Merkel, was named champion heifer. Grissom's HG Miss Blanchard was declared reserve champion heifer.

Sale Set Today

Barret had the champion get of sire with R. A. Halbert of Sonora showing the reserve champion get of sire, the only place won by polled Herefords.

Auction sales of shorthorns and angus will feature the program Thursday.

Visitors are expected tomorrow from Waco and from Hillsboro and other Hill county communities. Carolyn Casey, 16, a member of the Waco Longhorn club and daughter of former Sheriff Homer Casey will be the matinee sweetheart.

More than 100 residents of Abilene and vicinity attended today's matinee. Miss Doris Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jap Reid, Hardin Simmons university student, was sweetheart and rode in the grand entry.

McMurry Band Plays

The McMurry college band, directed by Raymond Bynum, presented a concert. The Abilene delegation included Mayor Roscoe Blankenship; John Womble, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and Bob Pressley, president of the Taylor county sheriff's posse.

Four other grand champions were named in livestock judging divisions. The grand champion shorthorn bull was Glassing All Research, shown by Mathers brothers of Mason City, Ill. The champion shorthorn female was Golden Rule Luxury shown by Holz brothers of Rippey, Iowa.

Grand champion Aberdeen-Angus female was Eileenemere's Effie W., shown by J. Garrett Tolan of Pleasant Plains, Ill.

The grand champion barrow of the show was a medium weight poland china shown by Curtis Jeffreys of Sterling, Okla.

Groundhog Holds House Attention

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Feb. 2.—The House of Representatives agreed today that groundhogs were monkey business, not state business. That's about all it did on the day it was supposed to get down to business.

The house met for an hour and 15 minutes, during which time it:

1. Argued over and killed a resolution to keep groundhogs underground;

2. Argued over the mechanics of introducing bills;

3. Sat or stood at ease waiting for introduction of the 51st session's first House bill. It never arrived.

4. Joined the Senate in adjourning until tomorrow.

Senate Gets Bills

In a 15 minute session, the Senate heard introduction of these three bills:

1. To permit cooperative development of oil fields.

2. To extend the 35-foot length limit of motor buses to 40 feet under certain conditions.

3. To set a speed limit of 25 miles an hour on vehicles using beaches as roadways.

In an action-packed afternoon session, the Senate Finance committee recommended 15 bills for passage, including $9 million emergency appropriation for rural schools. It set public hearings on eight other measures and sent 12 to subcommittee.

House In Bad Mood

The House was not in a gay mood the day after it completed its organization with appointment of committees.

There was considerable muttering among members, but no open protest, over enforcement of an old rule barring lobbyists from an entrance hall leading directly to the House chamber. Speaker Durwood Manford's order now puts two sets of double doors between visitors and members, and they must confer in the capitol corridor near the House chamber.

Rep. Lamar Zivley of Temple and Phil Willis of Kaufman collided over the groundhog resolution.

It urged Texas people to arm themselves with baseball bats to keep groundhogs underground and thus guarantee a moderation of the severe winter weather.

Raps "Monkey Business"

Willis came to the mike and snapped that he didn't think the resolution was state business.

"It's nothing but monkey business," he said. "Just this morning the papers of the state are accusing us of spending $100,000 this session and still not having done any business."

Zivley said he didn't see why

Swine Group To Hold Spring Sale

A total of 48 purebred Poland China gilts and boars have been consigned by 14 breeders for the spring sale of the Panhandle-Plains Poland China Breeders association. To be held at the Panhandle-Plains show barns at Plainview Feb. 12, according to announcement by L. M. Hargrave of Lubbock, association secretary.

The animals are classified as 21 bred gilts, all but four of which are to farrow before March 5; 19 open gilts, and eight boars. Among the 14 consigners of stock, all members of the association, are seven junior members.

Huseman Heads Group

Frank Huseman of Nazareth is president of the association, and John H. Adams of Tulia is vice president.

All animals are to be in the sale barn the afternoon or night preceding the sale date. The Plainview Chamber of Commerce and Fat Stock show are sponsoring a free lunch at noon on the day of the sale, with all breeders, advertisers and prospective buyers invited to attend, the announcement said.

Those consigning animals to the sale are John H. Adams of Tulia, J. R. Boyd of Lubbock route 6, T. J. Edwards of Baird, L. M. Greer of Roaring Springs, Jones Hales of Amarillo, Jack Heald of Muleshoe, S. C. Haran of Plainview Frank Huseman of Nazareth, James Lattimore of Levelland, W. R. Lindsey of Plainview route 3, John Meekma of Olton, Clarence Oswalt of Lubbock route 5, Rayphard Smithson of Dimmitt route 4, and Leroy Thornburg of White Deer.

Tahoka Man Sends $10 Bill To Help Lubbock's Destitute

E. S. Brown of Route 4 Tahoka admittedly is a "poor man," but he has a "warm room and something to eat."

So he, reading of distress occasioned here by sub-freezing weather's shutting off of outside employment, wrote Mayor W. H. Rodgers that he wanted to help—"I hope this relieves matters a little."

A $10 bank note fell out of the folded letter.

Mayor Rodgers will say his appreciation in a letter to Brown today, and will inform the Tahokan the money has been turned over to the City-County Welfare association for administration.

U. S. Senate Committee Report Assailed

Thompson In Defense Of State Oil Policy

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 2.—Texas Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson believes the U. S. Senate's Small Business committee may be confused about the flare gas situation here.

In a statement here today, the member of the oil and gas regulatory body said the committee complains about flare gas in Texas "and in the same breath says we do not produce more oil than needed."

Thompson's statement was in answer to sharp criticism from a subcommittee of the Senate Small business group that Texas was permitting wastage of gas through flaring.

Program Is Praised

Yesterday, Commission Chairman William J. Murray Jr., said the Texas gas conservation program was the 'greatest in history and "the commission is doing everything within its power to expedite the program."

"The sub-committee report takes us to task for not shutting in the flare gas from oil wells long ago," Thompson said.

"This would have made the oil shortage of 1946 and 1947 which they complain about, even worse. To have shut in the gas then would have shut off the oil produced with the gas. That's why we did not cut off the gas wastage sooner."

Output Was Boosted

He said that in 1946 and 1947 Texas produced "every barrel of oil that could be produced without doing irreparable harm to the oil wells. We permitted production of oil at the maximum efficient rate in every field in Texas. Month after month oil production in Texas was increased until in December 1948, we found it necessary to reduce production because of the flood of imported oil coming into the U. S. taking the market formally filled with Texas crude."

"We are vigorously fighting at the court house to prevent the waste of oil well gas. A cold spell illustrates the need for saving gas," he said.

Stand Is Explained

"The committee complains that we did not allow enough oil to be produced when every Texas well was straining at maximum rates every day all during these years. Then they complain at us for not shutting in oil well flares in the same breath, when to have done so back in 1946 and 1947, would have shut off badly needed oil."

"We simply waited until oil was plentiful and then said stop flaring oil well gas," Thompson said.

Thompson said the committee report "seems confused."

"Surely the federal control boys can't complain when we produce all the oil the Federal Bureau of Mines says is needed. . . . they even ask that the Bureau of Mines be requested to stop forecasting market demand."

"That's like telling the Weather bureau to stop giving us weather forecasts," he said.

Tech Meat Judging Team Places Second In Fort Worth Contest

The meat judging team of the animal husbandry department of Texas Technological college placed second in a contest held Tuesday at the Armor and Co., packing plant in Fort Worth, it was announced Wednesday.

Members of the Tech team were Glenn Quattlebaum, W. D. Hill, jr., and W. J. Krueger, jr., with Frank Ebner as alternate. Stanley Anderson, of the animal husbandry department, was coach.

In addition to placing second in the entire contest, the team was first in beef judging and third in pork judging.

Hill was third highest individual in the contest, and placed fourth in beef judging, fifth in pork judging, and first in classification and identification of beef carcases. Quattlebaum placed fourth in the entire contest and second in beef judging.

The Oklahoma A.&M. judging team placed first in the contest. Wisconsin placed third, Texas A & M fourth, and Nebraska fifth.

Sudden Power Failure Darkens Sections Of Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, Feb. 2 (AP)—A sudden power failure darkened part of Corpus Christi for more than an hour tonight. It also caused a brief "lights out" in some of the lower Rio Grande valley.

The Central Power and Light company, which serves this section, was trying to find the cause of the trouble. E. S. Joslin, district manager for the company here, said it had no reports of any prolonged failure in the valley.

But the lights were out in part of Corpus Christi from 6:26 to 7:40 p. m.; came back on, went off again for about ten minutes. A brief failure was noted also at Kingsville.

Personnel Group Organized Here

The Lubbock Personnel association, listing a six-point program designed to aid area personnel workers, has been formally organized and will conduct meetings twice monthly in the future, A. A. Kizer, president of the new association, announced Wednesday.

Twenty-two members attended the association's first meeting in the Hilton hotel, at which Kizer and three other officers were elected. These included Mrs. Mable Chapman, interviewer for the Texas State Employment service, first vice-president; Argo V. Peek, city personnel officer, second vice-president; and Miss Marian Simmons, personnel manager for Sears Roebuck & Co., secretary-treasurer.

Kizer, personnel officer at the local Veterans administration office, said the association had adopted this six-point program:

1. To promote understanding of the principles, policies and methods necessary for developing and maintaining satisfactory human relations in commercial and industrial, governmental, educational and social institutions in the Lubbock area;

2. To assist in improvement in techniques and methods of personnel administration;

3. To afford a medium for interchange of ideas and experiences on personnel problems;

4. To advise and assist institutions desiring to introduce personnel work;

5. To promote and encourage development of a spirit of professional pride in personnel administration; and,

6. To advance the interests and welfare of those engaged in personnel work.

Regular meetings are to be held on the second and fourth Sundays of each month, Kizer said.

At a later date, it is hoped that the association will be able to sponsor a clinic to provide instruction regarding the proper method for applying for positions, he added.

Present at the first meeting were the officers listed above, J. F. Botik, Helen W. Carr, Dorothy S. Casstevens, J. S. Crumpler, A. B. Hunt, Clinton Lackey, A. W. Lawrence, W. H. Bacus, W. G. Hearne, C. H. Cale, B. T. O'Connell, Marvin L. Pruitt, W. D. Rogers, jr., E. F. St. Clair, G. C. Stewart, R. G. Tucker, A. B. Watkins, E. J. Berry and J. P. Watt.

WAIT FOR MORE SOUP—Hunger kept many persons waiting Wednesday, after the noon supply of 30 gallons of soup had been issued to 281 persons in the Mexican quarter of Lubbock. Above photograph shows some of those who waited several hours until more soup was received. Mrs. F. B. Malone, chairman of the canteen corps of the Red Cross, and Paul G. Dimes Drive Total Over $8,500 Mark

The Lubbock county March of Dimes campaign fund Wednesday was enriched by $1,444.66, after coin collection boxes which had been placed throughout the city and county were taken up.

Warlick Carr and Lester Grimes, co-chairmen of the Exchange club campaign collection committee, said last night that a few such boxes had not yet been taken up, but would be brought in this week. They said that of the above total, $68.25 came from collection boxes at Shallowater.

Thus, the local March of Dimes fund stood at approximately $8,568 by late Wednesday. Yet to be added into the total are proceeds from the three local President's Birthday balls held here Monday night, recent contributions to the March of Dimes "Wishing Well," and late contributions mailed into March of Dimes headquarters.

The March of Dimes, which originally was to have ended last Monday, is being continued all this week because of recent adverse weather conditions.

House To Get Proposal Lowering Texas' Legal Voting Age To 18

AUSTIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment to lower the legal voting age to 18 was ready today for introduction in the House of Representatives.

Rep. Frank B. McGregor of Waco said he would offer the joint resolution calling for submission of the question to the electorate in the House soon.

The proposed amendment, if approved by the legislature, would be submitted to a vote of the people at a special election in November, 1949.

Relief Agencies Issue Soup To 1,463 Destitute Persons Here

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

Soup was issued to a total of 1,463 persons in the Mexican quarter of Lubbock Tuesday and Wednesday, figures compiled Wednesday night show.

Of that total, 281 received soup Wednesday noon, 293 received soup Tuesday night, 301 received soup Tuesday afternoon, and the remainder on Wednesday afternoon.

At noon Wednesday, 30 gallons of soup were available. By about 12:30 o'clock, the 30 gallons had been issued and approximately 200 persons were waiting in a building on St. Joseph's Catholic church property in the Mexican quarter.

Many Firms To Give Aid

Many of that number waited until more soup was furnished several hours later.

Soup was furnished by Kattmann's and Hilton hotel. Soup is to be furnished today by Hotel Lubbock. Bread is being furnished by Chism's, Meads, Holsum and Baldridge bakeries.

CO-OPERATION IS ASKED

Jimmie Wilson, past president of the American Business Club, Wednesday night offered a suggestion in which various Lubbock sportsmen and others might help alleviate the hunger of numerous families in the city hard hit by three weeks of winter weather. Wilson suggested that anyone having extra meat, such as deer or elk or fish, in their frozen food locker, contribute a portion of it. "Many people have been forced to dispose of such meat because of inability to use all they bring in from a hunting trip," he said. Two men, George Turner and Charles Bacon, already had pledged to help, Wilson said. Wilson said anyone wishing to co-operate in this move could call him at No. 6084 and he would pick up the meat and deliver it to Welfare agencies.

Dr. M. F. Swart, local optometrist, has paid for 1,000 loaves of bread which are to be distributed today.

With each container of soup, a loaf of bread and a can of vegetable juice also were issued. The vegetable juice came from a supply which had been given to the Salvation Army several months ago by Standard Brands, Inc.

Relief Agencies Kept Busy

The flow of needy to relief agencies was like a rising tide.

The Red Cross, City-County Welfare association and Salvation Army were registering those in need of help in addition to the soup and other supplies being issued in the Mexican quarter. In addition, Mrs. Charlotte Carter, Bob Martin and Bernard Holly from St. Paul's Episcopal church were working at the building in use for the purpose on St. Joseph's Catholic church grounds to register needy.

Other food in addition to soup and bread and vegetable juice were needed by some families. Clothing and fuel and other items were being sought by others.

Lubbock Court's Judgment In $30,000 Note Action Upheld

A recent judgment of 72nd District Judge Dan Blair for Ernest Lollar and against L. D. Thomas and others upon a $30,000 note has been affirmed by the seventh court of civil appeals in Amarillo, it was learned here Wednesday upon receipt of an opinion signed by Associate Justice W. N. Stokes.

Thomas and others appealed from the judgment which Judge Blair had signed only after Lollar had presented to the court a complete waiver of a deed of trust lien securing the note and asked personal judgment against Thomas and others for the amount due on the note.

Record Outlines Deal

The record in the trial court showed that the note and the deed of trust were executed to Lollar after Rocket Aircraft Sales corporation had accepted $30,000 from Lollar as deposits on airplanes Johnson Aircraft, Inc., was to manufacture. Lollar never received any planes. Thomas and M. L. Young, both of Lubbock, were principal stockholders and officers of the sales corporation. Lollar, of Iowa, had contracted with the sales corporation for the exclusive right to sell the Johnson planes in that state.

The airplanes were not delivered because of financial difficulties of Johnson corporation, and Lollar and his Iowa attorney insisted upon a return of the $30,000. The note, payable in 12 months, and the deed of trust securing it were executed July 6, 1946.

Asked Note Cancellation

But on June 27, 1947, a brief time before the note was due, Thomas and others instituted suit against Lollar in which they alleged that Thomas, on the date he executed the deed of trust, thereby had given a lien on property that constituted the homestead of himself and his family.

They alleged that the note and the deed of trust were executed because Thomas and others had been threatened by Lollar and his Iowa attorney with criminal prosecution, hence, plaintiffs had acted under duress. They claimed they were not personally indebted to Lollar. They asked Judge Blair to cancel the note and deed of trust, that title to the homestead property be declared free and clear of the deed of trust, that cloud to title of the property be removed, and that they be discharged from all liability upon the note.

Jury Answers Issues

Lollar answered by a general denial, and instituted cross action upon the note and deed of trust.

The jury, answering special issues, found that threats of criminal prosecution had been made against Thomas and Lollar but that such threats did not alone cause appellants to execute the instruments. It also found among other answers that, in consideration of the note and deed of trust, Lollar had released the aircraft sales corporation from any further liability to him; that the sales corporation and the plaintiffs, prior to execution of the note and deed of trust, had promised to return the deposits to Lollar; and that the note executed by Thomas and others was the instrument representing their agreement to do so.

The jury failed to answer the special issue asking it to find whether the Lubbock property, an apartment house, was the residence homestead of Thomas and his family.

The court received the verdict but overruled a motion of Lollar for judgment in his favor upon the note. It was then that Lollar presented his waiver of the deed of trust lien and asked personal judgment on the note.

Court Upholds Ruling

Sixteen assignments of error were presented by Thomas and others on appeal, pertaining principally to the action of the trial court in granting judgment against them upon the note, in absence of a jury finding as to the homestead character of property covered by the deed of trust, and to contentions that a number of the special issues answered by the jury were without evidence to support them.

The appellate court said, in part, that, insofar as the deed of trust was concerned, "the judgment (of the trial court) compiled in every respect with the prayers contained in appellants' pleadings" and "was fully as comprehensive in extending relief to appellants as it could have been if the jury had answered (the) special issue . . . and found that the property was (a) homestead . . . at and before the time the deed of trust was executed."

The reviewing court said Lollar had a right to withdraw his action as to the deed of trust.

None of the assignments revealed reversible error, the court opinion said.

Lollar was represented by the Lubbock law firm of Nelson and McCleskey.

W. C. Edwards, linotype operator in the Avalanche-Journal composing room, was on his 35th year as an employe of this newspaper Wednesday. He started to work on the old Lubbock Avalanche, a weekly paper, on Feb. 1, 1915.

Starting of Edwards' 35th year reminded other employes of the composing room of their tenure with the paper. Nine other employes of the composing room have a total of 223 years of service.

A. L. Borho, superintendent, has 28 years; A. M. Eubanks, 27; Tim Stovall, 26; Will White and Edward Whittaker, 25; Herman Patterson, Leroy Davis, A. E. Jones, and N. L. Ball, 24 years.

Plan For 1,600-Mile Gas Line Delayed By Atomic Energy Board

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2. (AP)—A representative of the Atomic Energy commission today declined to agree to immediate submission to the Federal Power commission of a plan for building a 1,600-mile pipe line.

Two companies, El Paso Natural Gas company and the Pacific Gas & Electric company, have urged at a hearing before Examiner George T. Liddell of the FPC that permission be granted immediately.

They have asked that the record as it stands be presented directly to the Federal Power commission. This would eliminate the intermediate stage of the proceedings, involving a recommendation by Liddell, and also the time for filing additional briefs on the basis of the examiner's findings.

William D. Denson of Washington, D. C., representing the AEC, would not agree to the proposal. In previous testimony AEC representatives had expressed fear that natural gas reserves might be drained by the pipe line which would bring gas from New Mexico, Colorado, Utah and Texas into California.

Denson said he would have to consult with the Atomic commission and report later on the commission's attitude on cutting procedure of the hearing.

Coast Guard Rescues Small Boat In Gulf

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., Feb. 2 (INS) — A joint rescue effort by the Coast Guard and the Air Force saved a cabin cruiser in distress in the Gulf of Mexico with three Wisconsin men aboard.

A Coast Guard life boat, guided by a circling Air Force plane, located the disabled 46-foot pleasure craft "Merry K., III" and towed it 10 miles to Tarpon Springs.

Aboard the vessel were L. J. Kelly; his son, L. J. Kelly, jr.; and Loyal Clabbots, all of Green Bay, Wis.

Motors Went Dead

Kelly said they left New Orleans a week ago enroute to Miami and the vessel's motors went dead Tuesday afternoon, leaving the men stranded 16 miles off shore.

After they made futile attempts to repair the engines, the men began sending S.O.S. messages that were picked up by numerous receiving stations in the Gulf area and all along the Atlantic coast.

Radio direction-finding equipment pin-pointed the boat's position and a plane from the Fifth Rescue squadron at MacDill Army air field located it.

A 25-foot motor-powered Coast Guard lifeboat took the "Merry K" in tow in the pre-dawn darkness and hauled it to Tarpon Springs.

SOLONS OPPOSE PROPOSAL

GOP Leaders In Congress Turn Down National Party Session

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. (AP)—Congressional Republicans turned thumbs down today on the idea of a national conference to draft a GOP platform for the 1950 elections.

A decision on whether to hold such a meeting was checked to a 14-member strategy group at the party national committee meeting in Omaha, Neb., last week.

But even before the four Senate and House members of the group have been chosen, lawmakers said they don't think the Republicans in Congress want any part of the policy conference. The idea was first suggested by Hugh D. Scott, jr., national chairman.

Parley Believed Opposed

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire told a reporter he thinks a majority of GOP Senate and House members are against such a conference.

Senator Brewster of Maine, who heads the GOP senatorial compaign committee, said he found that most of his colleagues want to go slowly in committing themselves ahead of time on the issues in 1950.

"We're going to write the record in Congress this year and early next year on which these Republicans will run," Brewster said. "It might complicate matters to have a policy declaration that couldn't be followed out in Congress."

Behind the congressional opposition was said to be a feeling that any big scale gathering of Republicans in 1949 might turn into another who-dunit session like the Omaha meeting—with party members spending most of their time arguing over who lost last November's election.

Dewey Speech Awaited

That argument wasn't settled at Omaha. Neither was the Republican course for the next two years charted in the party-splitting 54 to 50 votes of confidence which kept national chairman Scott in office.

Scott dubbed the 14-member strategy committee a "policy" group. He clothed it with powers to call a conference. The group also was directed to merge Republican campaign efforts so national committeemen, state chairmen, state finance directors and members of Congress wouldn't be stepping on each other's toes.

Republicans arranging some 600 Lincoln day dinners next week are expectantly waiting to hear what Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has to say about the party's future at the Washington Dinner Feb. 8.

Plans Activity in Party

This affair will be the first of the week-long series for which some 50 senators and representatives will take time off to attend from here to the Pacific coast and in the South.

Dewey said four days after the election that Republican overconfidence was a big factor in his defeat.

He also took that occasion to repeat that he has no intention of trying a third time for the presidency, but that he certainly will continue as titular head of the party in the next four years.

Since then GOP factions have been battling in and out of Congress over the party's fifth successive failure to put a tenant in the White House, the cause and what to do about it.

Dewey will be the main speaker here Tuesday at a dinner sponsored by a House committee headed by Rep. Martin of Mass., the minority floor leader, and the league of Republican women. Martin also will speak as will Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Guatemala To Buy More Texas Cattle

HOUSTON, Feb. 2 (AP) — Guatemala's minister of agriculture today said the Central American country will continue to purchase Texas breeder cattle.

Minister Jorge Matheau arrived here today as personal representative of Guatemalan president Juan Jose Arevalo to the Houston Fat Stock show and Livestock exposition.

He was accompanied by the president's brother, Mariano Arevalo, director general of livestock for the Guatemalan government.

Matheu said president Arevalo's government last year purchased 297 head of Texas livestock valued at about $83,000. He described the action as the initial shipment of a broad program aimed at making Guatemala an important cattle country.

The cattle was shipped by air, the largest single air shipment of livestock ever to originate in the United States.

Matheu said livestock figures prominently in President Arevalo's objective of seeing his country more than just a coffee and banana exporting nation.

He said his government is looking to Texas to supply the animals it needs in that Texas has the best dairy and beef cattle.

"The 1948 purchases were experimental," he said. "Different breeds were bought to try them out in our country's different climates."

He offered no estimate of plans for 1949 and 1950 purchases and said the imports would be continued.

Coast Guard Tug Goes To Aid Of British Ship Aground Off Cuba

MIAMI, Feb. 2. (INS)—A Coast Guard tug sped today to the aid of the 8,450-ton British cargo ship "Eastern City" which ran aground on Great Inagua island 100 miles northwest of Guantanamo bay, Cuba.

Radio messages from the ship reported 37 persons aboard, but added they were in no danger.

The "Eastern City" was bound from Vancouver, B. C., to England when the mishap occurred.

Coast Guard officers sent the "Utina" to try to refloat the freighter.

The grounded ship is owned by Sir W. Reardon Smith and Sons and the American agent for the company is listed as the Marine corporation of New York.

Panhandle Water Authority To Ask $10,000 Operating Expenses

AMARILLO, Feb. 2. (AP)—The Panhandle Water Conservation authority said today it would ask the state legislature for $10,000 for operating expenses.

The authority at a meeting yesterday adopted a resolution to investigate damages of the six dams under its control, including a dam near Perryton which has been washed out.

John McCarty of Amarillo was re-elected president of the authority.

The Bureau of Reclamation told members that additional funds have been received by the bureau to carry on surveys for a proposed Canadian river dam north of Amarillo.

Last Rites For B. K. Baldwin Scheduled In Paducah Friday

Funeral rites for B. K. Baldwin, 64, of Paducah, who died Wednesday morning in the home of a son, B. H. Baldwin, Cooper school superintendent, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday in the First Baptist church of Paducah.

Rev. Cole, of Chalk, Texas, is to officiate, assisted by Rev. M. C. Fields, pastor of Cooper Baptist church.

Burial is to be in Paducah cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Tommy Thaxston, Ray Slaughter, W. F. Ditwiler, Burnett Richards, G. R. Shaver and M. R. Holmes.

Honorary pallbearers will be Clifford Killingsworth, Elzie Jones, Jack Barton, H. H. Nicholas, Hubert Taylor and Roy Powell.

Rix Funeral home will take the body overland Thursday to Paducah for funeral and burial services.

Baldwin, a resident of Paducah since 1901, had been in ill health since last August.

Survivors include the widow; three daughters, Mrs. R. C. Holly, Mrs. L. S. West and Mrs. W. B. Wadley, all of New Mexico; five sons, B. H. of Cooper, J. P. of California, F. S. of Whiteface, W. C. of San Angelo, and M. B. of Albuquerque; two sisters, Mrs. J. R. Orchard of Amarillo and Mrs. J. S. Dawson of Oklahoma; a brother, Clifton of Dallas; and 30 grandchildren.

TAKES MAYOR'S POST

HOUSTON, Feb. 2 (AP) — E. E. Dunn, 39-year-old pumper for the Shell Oil refinery, today became the first mayor of the newly incorporated city of Deer Park. Dunn, sworn in by County Judge Glenn A. Perry, will serve as mayor of the Harris county community until an April election.

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. P. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but wasn't losing much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 200 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

U. S., British Policies Fail To Please Either Jews Or Arabs

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

A man asked me the other day if the United States and Britain could be backing opposite sides in the Jewish-Arab dispute in a calculated effort to tie them both to the Anglo-American entente for the long pull.

His idea seemed to be that if the U. S. had Israel for a satellite while Britain had the Arabs, the Palestine trouble would fade before a real world crisis as did the differences between Chinese Nationalists and Communists in the Sino-Japanese war.

"Conspiracy" Denied

I told him there was no such Anglo - American conspiracy. American policy, although beset by considerable "realist" pressure, shows no signs of stooping to such immorality.

But above all it doesn't sound practical. Britain and the U. S., if you omit their jockeying for position against Russia and refer only to their joint standing with the Jews and Arabs, seem actually to be doing themselves more harm than good in the Middle East.

Britain, because of her ties with us, hasn't done enough for the Arabs to offset the enmity she has earned from the Jews — hasn't been able to tie the Arabs to her in any real sense. The U. S. has alienated the Arabs, who control most of what is vital to us—oil and air bases.

Both Sides Displeased

Then I received a communication bearing on this point. It is from a long-time middle eastern observer, trained to be impartial. He says the United States has failed to do herself any lasting good with a lot of Israelis.

In Tel Aviv, he writes, "Jews in high places say openly the Israel-U. S. honeymoon will be over when the U. S. quits winking at its own arms embargo to allow contraband shipments of "farm machinery" which fires 30 calibre ammunition, when American Jews quit footing the Israeli bill, and when U. S. influence in favor of Israel is less than Russia's.

Almost simultaneously comes confirmation from another observer in Cairo that millions of Arabs now distrust the United States, and that they are particularly bitter because it is a reversal of former friendship.

"From the long-range viewpoint," this man writes, "many Americans believe Russian political penetration will eventually overrun the oilfields and the approaches to Suez unless some way is found to end the turmoil."

There you are. We are not completely pleasing either side. Since we have no reason to do any of them dirt, the most obvious answer is that we are just fumbling along toward what we think will work out best in the cold war, and toward what we think is right.

Following a protest strike that closed most businesses in Port-au-Prince, the Haitian Government temporarily called off its new sales and luxury taxes.

'Nature Boy' Forced To Bare Secrets In Federal Court Suit

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2 (INS) —"Nature Boy's" secret finally has been bared, but it took a federal court suit to do it.

Eden Ahbez, 38 - year - old composer of the song hit whose nationality has been variously rumored as being Arabian, Indian or even Egyptian, admitted today that his real name was Alexander Aberle.

Furthermore, he was born in the good old American burg of Brooklyn!

Not only that, but from the age of seven he spent his youth in the good old American state of Kansas!

"Nature Boy" was forced to give out with the facts today in the U. S. court where the J. J. Kammen music company has tied up Eden's royalties by alleging that his song infringes on an old Hebrew melody, "Schweig Mein Hertz."

The composer said he and a twin sister, Editha, were sent to an orphans' home in Kansas at the age of seven and there they were placed with the late W. M. McGrew.

"I became known as George McGrew, although never legally adopted by McGrew," he said.

"I came to California in search of a way of life," he added. "I studied yoga and theosophy and decided on a pastoral life. My music has been only the sort of music that ties in with and expresses that life."

Plans For International Wool Group Set At San Antonio Meet

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 2. (AP)—Organizations representing wool producers of six countries Wednesday announced they will pool their efforts in a new international organization, the Wool Bureau, Inc., designed to promote new market for wool in the United States and Canada through a broad-scale program of research, education and promotion.

The announcement was made by Harry J. Devereaux, Rapid City, S. C., president of the American Wool council, at the National Wool Growers Assn. convention here.

The new bureau, with principal offices in New York City, will function as a non-profit membership corporation. Countries backing the bureau are said to produce more than two-thirds of the world's apparel wool.

Devereaux's re-election as president of the American Wool council also was announced here Wednesday. Other officers, all re-elected, are: J. B. Wilson, McKinley, Wyo., vice-president; J. M. Jones, Salt Lake City, secretary-and F. Eugene Ackerman, New York City, executive secretary.

Houstonian 'Assures' $12,500 For Steer

HOUSTON, Feb. 2 (AP) — Two hours after today's official opening of the 17th annual Houston Fat Stock show oilman Glenn McCarthy said he is "certain" the show's grand champion steer will sell for at least $12,500.

That was the price paid for last year's grand champion, a slick black angus entered by Robert H. Johnson, jr., Goldthwaite 4-H club boy.

McCarthy did not say he definitely intends to be the new champion's purchaser but he told reporters the auction price may even go higher than the 1948 figure.

The Houston oilman, newspaper publisher, hotel operator and motion picture producer two months ago paid $12,900 for "Old Gold," a 1200-pound aberdeen angus steer judged grand champion of the International Livestock exposition in Chicago.

He said the steers will be served as steaks at his new $20,000,000 Houston hotel, the Shamrock, at its formal opening March 17.

The record price paid for the Houston grand champion is $15,000, received by another Goldthwaite 4-H clubber, Jim Bob Steen, now a student at Texas A. & M.

Goldthwaite moved back into the championship picture again today as first judging was completed in the boys' fat steer division.

Merion Reynolds, 16, saw his 825-pound light weight Hereford judged grand champion of the boys' division. Last year Reynolds exhibited the show's reserve grand champion.

Another Hereford, entered, by Melvin Griffin, 18, Lampasas, took reserve champion honors today for the boys' division.

FORMER POSTMASTER DIES

HOUSTON, Feb. 2 (AP) — I. G. Parr, Sr., 71, retired Sabinal postmaster, died at his Houston home today. He had resided here 14 years.

Charges Filed On Lubbock Youths

Charges of passing a forged instrument were filed here Wednesday against two Lubbock youths who are held by Indio, Calif., police on check charges filed there.

They were identified as Cleo Duncan Reese, 20, and Billy Joe Young, 18.

They are charged in the court of D. W. Robertson, justice of peace here, with passing a forged $42 check Jan. 17 to C. V. Bates of Hub clothiers.

Asks For Warrant

Information of their detention came in a letter dated Jan. 27 to Lubbock police, from Indio Chief of Police P. H. Cunningham.

Cunningham said the youths had admitted cashing two checks here. He asked that a warrant be mailed so that he could place a "hold order" for Lubbock county, after prosecution of the California charge.

The complaints here were drawn by E. G. Pharr, assistant district attorney, and sworn to by Bates.

Judgments signed Wednesday by County Judge Walter Davies after defendants had entered pleas of guilty included: Mrs. S. J. Speck, $5 and costs for check law violation; Charles Cranford, $1 and costs, check law violation; and S. B. Fitz, $10 and costs, check law violation.

Bond of $400 was set for Phillip Gant after he pleaded innocent of a similar charge, the office of County Attorney Waggoner Carr announced.

GOOD DEED MISPLACED

MONTEREY, Calif. (U.P.)—Coast Guardsmen thought they were doing a favor when they pulled a small boat off the beach here but they got no thanks. The owner Luigi Piampia, called them to ask what had become of the boat he had beached at high tide so he could work on it when the water lowered.

Brief Bits Of Local News

Damage apparently was not heavy in a fire reported early Wednesday afternoon at 2410 Fourteenth. Fire developed in a basement storage room, Mrs. Rhea Young informed firemen. Approximately two hours later, at 2:45 p. m., firemen went to 2607 Ave. H, but a small fire there had been extinguished before their arrival.

J. J. Dillard, 78, of Lubbock route 7, former Lubbock county judge who Wednesday underwent an operation in West Texas hospital for a fractured left hip, last night was in good condition, a hospital attendant reported. Dillard suffered the fractured hip in a fall on the ice Wednesday morning.

Graveside services are to be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Tech Memorial park for Sgt. Anthony H. (Tony) Woodward, who was killed in France Nov. 15, 1944. Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of Broadway Church of Christ, is to officiate. Interment will be directed by Sanders Funeral home.

Mrs. J. J. Adams, 73, of 1502 Ave. T, last night was reported to be resting well in West Texas hospital. She fell on the porch of her residence Wednesday morning and suffered a fractured knee.

The annual convocation of the North Texas district of the Episcopal church, which was originally scheduled to be held Sunday afternoon and Monday at the Episcopal church in Big Spring, has been postponed indefinitely due to illness of Rev. J. R. Macio, rector of the Big Spring church, it was announced here Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Claude E. Canterbury, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Argentina's social security laws now cover 3,000,000 men and women.

CHEERS PREMATURE

Stalin's Statement

CHEERING is wholly premature if based upon reports that Josef Stalin is willing to meet President Truman at a "mutually acceptable place" to discuss peace, disarmament and many other problems.

There has been nothing to indicate Stalin has budged an inch from the impossible position he has maintained all along. He has professed willingness several times to meet representatives of the democracies, provided they would crawl to him. He has indicated the meeting places—invariably in or close to Russia— of all conferences thus far held. The meetings have been held under basic conditions laid down by him.

Another meeting would be doomed before it started unless assurances worthy of reliance are received that Stalin will be disposed to be reasonable. If any such assurances have been received thus far, they have not been disclosed to the public.

If advance assurances should justify a reasonable hope that something might be accomplished, a meeting should and undoubtedly will be arranged. There can be no question as to the willingness of the United States and the democracies to meet Joe Stalin, or anyone, more than half way in any maneuver that might ease present tensions.

But until Russia gives persuasive evidence of a desire to cooperate in securing peace, most Americans will string along with the attitude voiced by President Truman on several occasions, and just reiterated by him, that he will be happy to see Joe Stalin any time he visits Washington.

That's probably a good place to leave matters until there can be advance assurances of a conference which won't be strictly a one-man Joe Stalin show.

Elections Of Speakers

THE suggestion of Rep. Preston Smith that members of the Texas House of Representatives arrange to elect their Speaker in advance of their biennial regular sessions has the sound of obvious common sense.

The present session began January 11. Little has been done since then while members elected their Speaker and awaited his appointments of the committees, announced the other day, which do practically all the detail work of any legislative body.

The election of a Speaker well ahead of time should be practical. The membership of the House is determined in early November. A special meeting or a mail ballot—the method is unimportant—should be easily arranged to name the Speaker and enable him to announce his committee selections soon after the session convened. The Legislature then could settle down to business without delay.

The result should be improved legislative efficiency and a substantial savings to the taxpayers. The plan is one worthy of serious study and action before the slow-starting present session is adjourned.

"Bald-headed men are happiest," says a psychologist, who may have mistaken their shining pates for shining countenances.

Some one asks a medical columnist what causes him to feel as if he were floating on air. It's probably love of liquor.

Beware Of Romance

By ROBERTA COURTLAND
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: When sixteen-year-old Mary Carson learns that her old Merry Carson learns that her selfish mother, Susan, for a divorce, her whole world turns topsy-turvy. Kip leaves home and Susan goes to pieces. Aunt Jane comes to look after things. The doctor advises a change for Susan and they take her to St. Vincent's, an inland resort. Merry Susan buys a house from Carter Bagby. Carter treats her gallantly and Susan begins to perk up. Merry goes to spend a couple of days with her father in their home town. She sees Tip Kennedy again but tells him she still doesn't believe in marriage, after what happened to her parents. Merry's father says he has deeded the Marshallville house to her. She returns to St. Vincent's. Tip and others of the Marshallville crowd, spend the summer there and Merry enjoys herself. In August she and her mother see the announcement of her father's second marriage in the paper.)

• • •

XVIII

TWO weeks later when most of the crowd were gone, Merry came home from a bicycle trip to the library and entered the house, her arms filled with books, whistling cheerfully. From the big living room, Susan called to her; and there was something excited and oddly breathless in Susan's voice that startled Merry so that she spilled the books hastily on the table beneath the big gilt-framed mirror and went swiftly into the living room.

Susan, flushed and bright-eyed, stood beside a beaming Carter Bagby, and they looked at Merry with what was, to Merry in that moment of wild shock, an almost indecent youthfulness.

"Merry, darling, I have some news for you," said Susan gaily. "Darling, you're going to have a brand-new father."

Merry felt as though she reeled from the shock, though as a matter of fact she only went rigid, and white-faced beneath her honey-gold tan, as she stared with wide, incredulous eyes from one beaming face to the other.

"Your mother has done me the very great honor to accept my proposal of marriage," said Carter pompously, and beamed fatuously at Susan.

"Mother!"

Merry was too shocked, too swept off her feet to be able to control her shocked disapproval, her bewildered protest.

"I shall do my utmost to make your mother happy, Merry, I assure you, and to be a good father to you," said Carter, but there was now a faint edge to his tone.

"Thanks, I have a father and a darned good one, and that will be quite sufficient, thank you," flashed Merry before she could control her words.

"Merry!" Susan was outraged, indignant. "How dare you be rude? Apologize to Carter immediately."

But Merry had had all she could take and suddenly ran down the hall and into her own room, closed the door and flung herself face down across the bed.

• • •

SOME time later—she was too dazed and shaken to know how long—Aunt Jane sat beside her on the bed, patting her shoulder soothingly as though she had been six months old and in need of being burped.

"Honestly, Merry, I am astounded at you. Have you been blind, that you couldn't see this coming?" asked Aunt Jane at last.

Merry rolled over and sat up.

"Aunt Jane, we can't let her marry him—we can't."

"How do you suggest we stop it? By locking her up somewhere on bread and water?"

"But there must be something we can do."

"Oh, there is, of course."

"What, Aunt Jane?"

"Take it and pretend to like it."

"You mean just stand by and not try to save her?"

"Save her?" Aunt Jane snorted furiously. "My dear blessed little innocent! How the heck can you save her from something she wants? She's crazy about the guy. She's been married so long that it's a habit she can't break. She's the incurably domestic type, born to marriage as the sparks fly upward or something. She was born to be a wife and mother, and she's miserable in any other existence. I don't suppose Bagby is such a bad little guy; I just don't like him, because he's not my type at all. But that's not to say he won't make her happy. I'm probably a no-good so-and-so to feel he's looking for a soft berth and thinks he's found it with Susan; at his age, at any rate, he'll probably be properly grateful for all she can do for him and repay her by being loyal and faithful and the lap-dog kind of husband Susan needs."

• • •

SUSAN was reproachful and a little cool to Merry for her attitude toward Carter Bagby.

But Carter himself was very sweet and gentle with Merry. Offensively so, Merry told herself grimly; parading his gentle forgiveness for her unbearable rudeness, and thus high-lighting at the same time her bad manners and his excellent ones.

Aunt Jane looked on, saying nothing, but a tower of strength to Merry in the difficult days that passed until the wedding day dawned at last. And then, with a group of acquaintances from the various committees and clubs she had joined and some of Carter's rather odd-looking friends as guests, Carter and Susan were married.

Afterwards, Susan turned to Merry, and there were tears in her eyes as she kissed her and said impulsively, "Forgive me, darling and be happy—because I am."

"Of course, Mother."

Carter was almost unbearably possessive and pompous. And when at last they had gone on their honeymoon, Merry and Aunt Jane relaxed and Aunt Jane shook her head sadly.

"How Susan could ever for a moment let herself fall for that stuffed shirt—after Kin!" she exploded.

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

WHY is Dr. Albert Einstein so famous when nobody with whom I have talked has any idea what his theory of relativity means and why it is so important?"

Thus writes one of my readers, a young lady who would like to be famous herself and asks me how to go about it.

Just to make the thing a little more complicated she asks me to explain the Einstein theory in a few simple words and to tell her how to acquire fame.

BRANDEIS

So that is my simple little problem for today; to explain the Einstein theory, and to tell how to become famous. As far as Dr. Einstein's fame is concerned, I have often wondered myself.

From the good doctor's political and social activities, since arriving in this country, one would certainly not deduce a tremendous intellectual stature.

Perhaps that unusual head of hair of his, plus an extraordinary competent press-agent, have a whole lot to do with his fame.

And there, I believe, we have at least one of the recipes for fame — eccentricity and a good press agent.

• • •

Of course, it all depends on what one means by fame.

To many people fame and notoriety are synonymous.

I have a slight suspicion that nowadays most of those who talk about fame really mean notoriety.

In my opinion no living person can be called famous.

Fame is posthumous, notoriety contemporary.

A living person may be noted but not famous.

Einstein is noted. Will he be famous. Who knows?

• • •

AS far as the theory of relativity is concerned, there were many others before Einstein who worked on it and developed it.

There was Arago in 1818. There were Fresnal, Fizeau, Michelson, Morley, Miller, Minkowski.

Did you ever hear of any of them? I did not.

But ask any physicist. One of them informed me that Michelson and Morley are every bit as important as Einstein—perhaps even more. Among physicists they are famous. Will Einstein be famous among physicists? My scientist informant does not know.

"History establishes fame," he said, "and history does not employ press agents."

My correspondent asked me to explain the theory of relativity in a few words. That is so simple, I am almost ashamed to do it.

"The principle of relativity is equivalent to the impossibility of defining absolute motion," my Encyclopedia Americana tells me. "For if there were any law that differed at different velocities of the reference system, that law could be used to distinguish such differences of absolute velocity, and, conversely, such differences could only be detected by observing some phenomenon which changed with velocity."

Or, if that is too difficult, this may serve as another definition: A person can have a hundred relatives, yet not a single friend.

HST Program Surprise

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — A ten-day, painstaking survey through every branch of the government reveals that President Truman sprang his "bold new program" for development of backward areas overseas without consulting any of the Cabinet, European Recovery or Congressional experts who would ordinarily be called in about such a grandiose project.

Such leading members of the official household as Secretary Acheson, Secretary Krug, Secretary Brannan and ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman were flabbergasted by the presidential proposal. It was news to his Capitol Hill leaders, including the heads of the Foreign Relations and Foreign Affairs committees in Senate and House respectively.

TUCKER

It is the general belief that the inspiration for the idea, which becomes vaguer and vaguer each passing day, came from some surviving New Dealer in the Interior or Agriculture departments. It stems directly from the late President Roosevelt's interest in the development of waste land and foreign markets overseas.

• • •

DARK: Prior to his proclamation of Point Four in his anti-Communist battle plan, Mr. Truman had not discussed it with American or foreign representatives of the United Nations, although he named that organization as the agency which would head up the program.

Nor had he revealed his scheme to Foreign Minister Bevin or the heads of other governments, which are expected to pool their technical and scientific skills and resources for the common good of the world.

Secretary Acheson virtually throws up his hands when asked to give answers to questions which have been asked by every banker, industrialist, exporter and agriculturist, here and abroad, ever since this new version of a "white man's burden" undertaking was proclaimed.

He admits that he knows no more about the program than his questioners. He did not discuss it with Mr. Truman before inauguration, and he has been kept in the dark ever since.

• • •

IMPRESSION: Important financial interests in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, which have been reluctant to accommodate foreign borrowers and promoters under present turbulent conditions in China, South America, North Africa, the Middle East and Asia, first got the idea that the "bold new program" would be financed along Federal Housing Authority lines.

It was their impression, based on a checkup in usually well-informed circles, that the federal government might advance at least twenty-five per cent, and private investors fifty per cent.

If, as Mr. Acheson believes, Washington does not plan to invest any capital directly, it was expected that Uncle Sam would furnish at least a twenty or thirty per cent guarantee against losses, as with the twenty per cent margin in housing.

This guarantee would not cover ordinary business losses, mistakes and errors of judgment, however, according to early reports. It would be used only to protect American firms against damages suffered from revolutions, Communist seizures, restrictive legislation and expropriations abroad, as happened to American oil companies in Mexico during the Coolidge regime.

• • •

LOATH: Secretary Acheson, however, has no ideas on the vital question of federal investment or guarantees. Nor has he or any presidential representative approached the governments of the so-called undeveloped countries to ascertain whether they are willing to cooperate or eager for American assistance of this long-range kind.

The Secretary of State gives the impression that he expects private funds to be forthcoming, although he has not conferred with bankers on the question, "if proper conditions can be created" in the foreign areas it is planned to develop.

But he cannot hazard a guess as to whether the U. S. government will undertake to assure prospective investors that "proper conditions" will be created and preserved through the good offices and intervention of the State department.

He is obviously loath to discuss that angle because under certain circumstances it would amount to only another form of the "imperialistic exploitation" and "dollar diplomacy" condemned and deplored by President Truman.

• • •

ELOQUENT: The new Secretary of State grows most eloquent, even dramatic, in his impromptu discussions of the White House plan. But, although his hazy outline is well adorned, sophisticated and fascinating for its literary polish, it is extremely non-realistic and non-informative. So far, he admits, the inaugural proposal represents "only a long-range purpose, not a plan."

In short, every attempt to learn what the President has in mind leads veteran observers, despite their sympathy for the project, to observe:

"The 'bold new plan' reminds me of a man who wants to build a house. His only troubles are that he has no site, no money, no architect's drawings, no architect, and he doesn't know where to get them!"

As the Post Office department seems to be running out of ideas for special issue stamps we suggest that a stamp commemorative of the first commemorative postage stamp be issued.

Note to the pessimists: Many of the things you fear will happen in the future most likely will not eventuate, but the chances are that other and worse things will come to pass.

"A person is not younger than his legs," says a physician. This sounds plausible, in view of the fact that a person isn't born in installments.

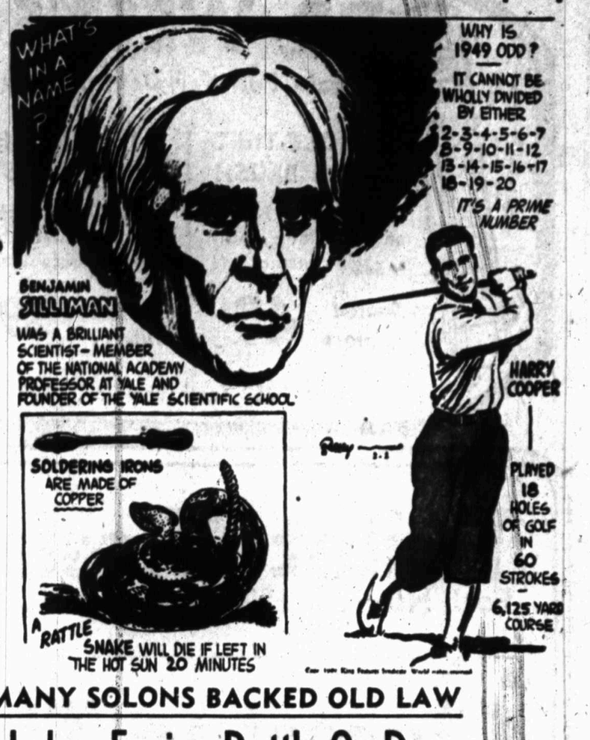

A columnist says one way to stamp out quarrels among individuals, groups and nations would be to stamp out people. It's probably the best solution.

A Texas GI is claiming $10,000 in compensation for a finger bitten off by an Army mule. The case will probably hinge upon whether or not he was officially warned in advance that both ends of a mule are dangerous.

For several years our national income has been increasing. (It is estimated at 240 billion dollars for 1948.) If this trend continues, perhaps the time will come when we Americans will make as much money as we spend.

It is estimated that the national income for 1948 will total 240 billion dollars, most of which, of course, was spent as fast as it was earned. And that's a lot of money not to have much to show for.

MANY SOLONS BACKED OLD LAW

Labor Facing Battle On Program

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Labor faces an uphill fight in Congress to get something approaching what the administration is asking on its behalf, through Secretary of Labor Tobin, in modification of the Taft-Hartley act.

This is clear as the Senate Labor and Public Welfare committee begins public hearings on this still-highly controversial and politically explosive issue.

As a matter of fact, there was the suspicion of political bargaining in the curtain-raising in the extent to which Secretary Tobin went in proposing revision of the existing law which surprised some members of Congress. Whether this was more than the expected political strategy to get as much as possible and contained some effusive lip service to pay off election obligations remains to be seen from developments. Some Republicans expressed doubt that President Truman really wants all that his Secretary of Labor specified, and suggested he probably would be satisfied, if not pleased, with something less.

STOKES

• • •

Vote Affect Studied

There were two facts of politics that enter into any calculations of what finally may come from Congress in the way of labor legislation to which perhaps too little attention has been paid in glib analyses of the November election. One relates to the President; the other, to Congress.

While President Truman certainly is truly appreciative of what the rank and file of labor did for him in the election, he is not as beholden to labor leadership, itself, as that leadership sometimes tries to assume. Many labor leaders were very active in the movement early last year and up to the party's national convention to dump him and get another candidate, and President Truman would be less than the human being he is if he forgot that. It is true that, after the convention, the labor leadership, with very few extreme left-wing exceptions, closed ranks and organized its forces for the party, but always with more emphasis on Congress than on his candidacy.

• • •

Labor held the line for him in big urban centers, but just held the line; for, in many cases, his big-city vote ran behind that of President Roosevelt four years ago. In that way it was an important factor. But President Truman could not have won without the farm votes in the Middle West that threw to him states that went Republican in the two previous national elections and provided the margin of victory. That is a political fact, not a fancy.

Additions to Democratic ranks in Congress from the farm states exert a different sort of pull not only on him, but on Congress. For those midwestern farm states have had a conflict of interest with labor, sometimes bitter, that is well known. While the Taft-Hartley act was a rallying symbol for city labor, it was not so in the farm states.

This brings us to Congress, itself. It is not a labor Congress at all, and anybody who figures it that way makes a mistake. It has more members sympathetic with labor than the Republican 80th Congress; but it does not represent a great shift in that respect, part of which goes to the plain fact that Congress, especially the House, still is from preponderantly rural and small-town constituencies where labor is not so effective.

• • •

Many Backers Returned

While a number of supporters of the Taft-Hartley act were defeated in the election, there is still a majority in both branches who voted to override President Truman's veto of the bill, or were so paired or so announced—54 in the Senate, including four former House members, and 226 in the House. A majority of the Senate is 49; of the House, 218.

Labor's success, then, will depend not so much on political pressure, which it naturally will use, as upon what might be called "an appeal to reason" for the justice of its case against the Taft-Hartley act, and its case is a just one.

• • •

Anyone who watched the 80th Congress at work on labor legislation was very conscious of the punitive spirit abroad and how the confusion and turbulence of the post-war era was exploited by those who would restrict labor's rights. Secretary Tobin described this aptly when he pointed to the widening gap in those days between wages and the cost of living that caused exasperation and industrial conflict which, in turn, provoked the strikes that brought public pressure upon Congress to do something.

He also put his finger on the chief evil in the Taft-Hartley act, which is the weapon it would give unprincipled interests in time of depression by which they could well-nigh wreck the labor movement. Sad to say, there are those who would use it for just that.

USDA Reports Sharp Decline In Texas Honey Production

AUSTIN, Feb. 2. (AP)—The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today that the 1948 honey production in Texas was less than half of the large 1947 crop.

It was about four-fifths of the 1942-46 average yield of 7.4 million pounds.

The USDA report said the spring flow was cut by the March freeze in 1948 and the fall flow cut short by severe drouth.

Prices were down sharply from the postwar peak.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 (AP) — Grains, soybeans and lard sank into new low ground in active dealings on the board of trade today.

Lard was hardest hit by the selling, dropping more than $1 a hundred pounds at times. Stocks of lard here increased 49,000,000 pounds during January, which analysts said was an exceptionally large jump for this time of year.

All corn, oats, rye, soybean and lard futures sank to new seasonal lows. December wheat also made a new seasonal low. May wheat sold at its lowest price since late last September.

Wheat closed 2 to 2⅞ lower, May $2.15⅝-½, corn was 2⅜-4⅝ lower, May $1.35⅛-⅜, oats were 1¼-1⅞ lower, May 68⅛-68, rye was 6⅞-7⅛ lower, May $1.43-1.43¼, soybeans were 2¾-3½ lower, March $2.34-2.23⅝, and lard was 90 cents to $1.30 a hundred pounds lower, March $13.60.

STOCKS IN SLOW ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. (AP)—Stocks had a difficult time keeping slightly ahead today in a market devoid of broad features.

Interest settled in individual issues and in a few of the major groups. For the most part, however, prices were thoroughly mixed.

Steels and motors took the lead early in the day when buying appeared in U. S. Steel, ex-dividend of $2.25, and in General Motors, the third most active stock of the day. G. M. directors meet Monday and speculation grew as to their attitude toward an increased dividend reflecting higher earnings.

Steel fell back late in the day and closed off ⅛ at 75, while General Motors added ⅝ at 62⅝.

Higher were Youngstown Sheet and Tube 72½, North American Co. 17¾, Goodrich 61½, U. S. Rubber 41¾, Montgomery Ward 54¾, Phelps Dodge 49¾, Lockheed 17⅞, Westinghouse 24⅞, Allied Chemical 186½, American Woolen 30⅝, Gulf Oil 66¼, Transcontinental and Western 12, and Twentieth Century Fox 39¼.

On the downside were Atlantic Coast line 43⅝ (new low), and Beaunit Mills ⅝ (a new low after directors cut the common dividend), Santa Fe 100, U. S. Steel 75 (sixth most active stock), Bethlehem 33¾, Studebaker 18¾, Texas Co. 51⅝, and Dow Chemical 49½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced only .1 of a point to 65.5. The industrial component lost .1 of a point while rails were up .1 of a point and utilities gained .2 of a point.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP) — Cotton futures registered losses extending to about $1 a bale today on commission house and New Orleans liquidation. Trading was active and while prices rallied at times they encountered selling on the upturn. The reaction was influenced partly by easiness in some commodity markets.

Old crop deliveries, which were more than 1½ cents a pound above the loan level, were particular targets. Liquidation in nearby March and the quiet situation in exports were unsettling influences.

Cotton closed steady.
