HOUSE DEMANDS TO HEAR ALL OF TESTIMONY READ

MEASURE WOULD PUT $25,000,000 IN LOAN CHEST

VETERANS' BUREAU MAY LEND ON ADJUSTED CERTIFICATES

LITTLE ARGUMENT

"VOTE" CRY LAWMAKERS; BILL GOES TO SENATE FOR ACTION

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Less than half hour after it was called up, the house today passed the Green bill to enable World War veterans to obtain loans direct from the veterans' bureau on adjusted service certificates. The measure was sent to the senate without a record vote.

It would authorize the bureau to make loans at six per cent at its various offices and hospitals. To finance the loans, an appropriation of $25,000,000 would be authorized from the government life insurance fund to be repaid upon maturity of the loans.

"Vote" They Cry To speed consideration, Chairman Green of the house war and means committee, which reported the bill, moved its passage under procedure that shut off amendments, limited debates to forty minutes, and required a two-thirds vote. The bill then for debate was not used, members shouting "vote, vote" as soon as he had finished an explanation of his provisions.

Representative Shaffer, republican, Wisconsin, objected to considerations under rules prohibiting the offering of amendment. The representative of Louisiana, of Maryland, Rankin of Mississippi and Blanton of Texas, democrats declared that a lower rate in interest should be charged. They contended the veterans should not be forced to pay a higher rate than the government charges of foreign nations on world war debts.

Two Killed in Train Wreck in Georgia

CORNELIA, Ga., Feb. 7. (AP)—Two persons were killed and several injured, two seriously, when the Tallulah Falls passenger train from Franklin, N. C. to Cornelia, Ga., was wrecked at Harlowood creek, twelve miles from Cornelia, Ga., late today. The body of E. S. Hoped, news agent of Cornelia and that of a negro passenger had been recovered from the wreckage. The negro was not identified.

VOTES "NO" TO OWN BILL

Miss Margie Neal Gets Mixed Up in Parliamentary Red Tape of Legislation AUSTIN, Feb. 7. (AP)—Parliamentary complexities overwhelmed Miss Margie Neal, only woman in the Texas senate, as she voted today that she would finally vote against one of her own bills. Miss Neal had sought to strike out the clause of the Fairchild school certificate law which grants permanent certificates to all teachers who have taught successfully six years since 1916. After arguments that lasted almost all the day the senate finally voted on an amendment by Senator Love of Dallas which peacefully wiped out Miss Neal's bill and left the original law as it stood, with the exception of one word. Apparently Miss Neal did not understand what had happened, for she asked unanimous consent to bring the bill to a vote as amended, and had it passed. After the roll call, however, she changed her vote for Aye to No.

Amarillo Smallpox Scare Blows Over

AMARILLO, Feb. 7. (AP)—Amarillo's "smallpox" scare blew over Monday with the lifting of the ban on churches, theatres and public meetings, which had been in effect for two weeks. Steady improvement in the situation has been shown in the past week, resulting in an order to lift the ban at a called meeting of the city health board late today. Cases under quarantine are being gradually released and spread of the disease has been checked through strict isolation and quarantine of individual cases. A total of 116 cases have been treated by Dr. M. L. Fuller, city health officer, with the number now under quarantine being placed at 48.

SHOOTS FRIEND IN GOLF ARGUMENT

TOLEDO MAN SUICIDES AFTER FATAL ROW ON LINKS AT LOS ANGELES

(By Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Death ended an argument over a golf game here today when Andy Jankowski, 50, automobile dealer of Toledo, Ohio, shot and probably fatally wounded Cornelius J. Callahan, also of Toledo, and then ended his own life. The shooting occurred at the eighth hole of the Belvedere Golf Club links.

Wife is Witness

Mrs. Jankowski who was accompanying the two men on their round of the links, witnessed the shooting. She told police that Callahan and her husband were playing a friendly round of golf when an argument developed over the score. Her husband, flaring into sudden anger, drew a revolver and fired. The bullet entered Callahan's head. Jankowski then turned the gun on himself, sending a bullet through his temple. He died instantly. Callahan was reported in a dying condition at the emergency hospital. Jankowski, according to his wife, had come to California for his health. He had suffered a nervous breakdown and was ordered to exercise outdoors.

Were Close Friends

TOLEDO, Ohio, Feb. 7. (AP)—Andrew Jankowski and Cornelius J. Callahan were considered close friends and had been associated in business here for several years. Both men were members of the Toledo business commission which supervised the Dempsey-Willard fight here in 1919.

BOY SCOUT DRIVE IN SOUTH PLAINS IS UNDER WEIGH

MEETINGS AT SLATON AND POST ENTHUSIASTICALLY ATTENDED

MEETING TONIGHT

PUBLIC INVITED TO GATHER AT FIRST METHODIST AT 7:30

The South Plains' Boy Scout educational and budget drive got under weigh yesterday with well-attended and enthusiastic meetings at Slaton and Post, and will be given further impetus by the gathering of Lubbock citizens at the First Methodist church here tonight to witness various examples of scout activities. Tomorrow the Lubbock teams, commanded by J. A. Raley, as colonel, with Majors W. T. Rayson, G. P. Kuykendall, H. D. Woods, and B. Sherrod leading the four divisions, will take the streets of the city to raise Lubbock's quota on the 1927 scouting budget for the twelve counties of the South Plains area, while teams in the various other cities of the section will do the same thing.

Model Home Will Be Left Open Remainder of Week

After having more than 3,000 visitors in the first two days of this week, the "Home Sensible" will be kept open throughout the remainder of the week. Mrs. Cyrus Leiland, acting as hostess, the management decided after scores of visitors inspected the home yesterday. The home will also be thrown open to any woman's club or organization of the town for a meeting place. Permission to use the home may be obtained through Mr. D. D. Roderick at the Avalanche-Journal office.

Shrubs Planted

The home was made more beautiful Sunday with the addition of shrubs and plants set out by H. G. Turner, of the Texas Nursery company, and by Callie Dean of the Lubbock Floral company, who decorated the rooms with beautiful cut flowers. The Home-Sensible is reached by turning south from 18th street at the Dupre school, either on Avenue T or Avenue U, both of which streets are being graded, and turning west on 26th street. The house faces north on 26th street, between Avenues U and V.

Meat Here Tonight

Tonight's meeting in Lubbock at the First Methodist church begins at 7:30 o'clock. R. J. Murray, general chairman of the campaign committee, yesterday sent out hundreds of invitations inviting the public to come and see scouts make fires without matches, illustrate first aid methods, and witness various other exhibitions of scout skill. He invites that the general public is welcome to attend, with or without invitation or special solicitation. He declares yesterday that he expected the church to be filled to overflowing.

Bandits Are Captured Through Ruse of Pennsylvania State Trooper Who Joins Gang and Learns of Their Plan to Rob

(By The Associated Press) CLARION, Pa., Feb. 15.—A Pennsylvania state trooper who joined a band of New Castle bandits in an effort to solve a $10,000 diamond robbery, today succeeded in bringing about the arrest of two members of the gang after they had obtained $5,000 in cash from the Clarion County National bank at Knox, near here.

5 Are Jailed

Five men were in jail tonight, including the two who staged the bank holdup, the three suspects taken into custody at New Castle. The money was recovered.

Named the Trooper Who Joined the Gang Suspected in the robbery of a diamond merchant in New Castle is Vincent Bridge. He was known to the gang as "Smith". The trooper was detailed on the diamond robbery and it was he who worked his way into the councils of the gang. On the eve of turning up the diamond thieves the trooper learned of plans to loot the Knox bank. He advised his superiors.

"Planted" Automobile

The two bank robbers, captured at San Earl and Ed Guy, both of New Castle, told "Smith" they needed an automobile for the holdup. The trooper it was stated, had a New Castle bank or plant his machine on a street, and the gangsters, accompanied by the trooper, stole it. They made their way to Knox. When a clerk opened the bank doors, the robbers went to the home of the cashier nearby, covered him with pistols, forced him to march to the bank and to hand over $5,000. Another bank officer, acting on request of officers, told the cashier not to resist. The cashier and his co-workers were then marched toward the former's home by the bandits. As they neared the residence, the state trooper and county officers overtook them. The robbers surrendered without a fight.

Mystery Man Found Dead at San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Feb. 7. (AP)—Identity of a white man, found unconscious today on the Llano pasture ten miles northwest of here, had not been established tonight. The man had been shot in the right temple, presumably with a small calibre revolver, that lay beside his body, the man coming out of his right eye. "Chances of recovery were considered slim. Officers believe suicide was attempted but worked on the theory that the man may have been attacked. He appears about 27 years old, five feet, seven inches tall, weighing around 150 pounds. His blue serge suit, felt hat and other clothing was new and contained a stick pin, with a cluster of pearls, an Elgin watch and a purse with thirty-seven cents.

Forced to Strangle Himself to Death

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—The body of a man believed by police to have been the victim of underworld vengeance and who apparently was forced to strangle himself to death, was found on Eighth street today. The victim's hands had been tied behind him with a snail cord and the string then taken upward and looped about the throat in a noose. After this, detectives believed, he had been seen in two coffee sacks and thrown into the street, his torturers knowing that his struggles to regain his freedom would result only in drawing the noose tighter and tighter until he had choked to death.

HOUSE DEMANDS TO HEAR ALL OF TESTIMONY READ

LISTENS TO TRANSCRIPT TILL 10:40 P. M., THEN RECESSES

BOBBITT HITS DELAY

(By the Associated Press) AUSTIN, Feb. 7.—The Texas house of representatives late today voted 67 to 58 to hear a full reading of testimony before acting on today's recommendation of an investigation committee that Representatives F. A. Dale and H. H. Moore, charged with accepting a $1,000 bribe to influence legislation, be expelled.

Recessing until eight o'clock tonight, the house reconvened and heard testimony read until 10:40 o'clock then recessed until 9 a. m. Tuesday. It is estimated that eight hours will be required to read all the record, covering the committee hearing Friday and Saturday.

Wrangling for hours, at times bitterly, the house became involved in a long parliamentary tangle in the question of what to do with the report. Before the final issue of adoption or rejection got before the house, Speaker R. L. Bobbitt relinquished his chair and charged that certain "dilatory" tactics were making a "third rate criminal court" of the house, while the "legislature and five million Texas people are on trial."

Decision to read the whole transcript of testimony favored several speakers who declared that many members had not heard the testimony and could not be expected to vote intelligently or justly.

Speaker Bobbitt, relinquishing his chair to former Speaker Lee Satterwhite, spoke for more than half an hour, declaring that "the very fact that the accused have not asked suspension of membership during the investigation shows they are guilty."

To Print Report

Printing of the committee report and testimony in the house journal was assured when rules of the house were found to require such. A motion had been made and debated at length as to whether action should be delayed until printing had given all members a chance to examine testimony.

The house accepted an amendment by the committee to make its report provide that separate action be had with respect to the two delinquents.

Voting "call of the house" to bring every representative in Austin to the floor, the house instructed the sergeant at arms to round up all absentees. Finding that "call of the house" revealed adjournment until the question of further action should be delayed until printing had given all members a chance to examine testimony.

Can Take Action

Acting Speaker Satterwhite warned that whatever number of members returned to hear testimony would be returned to hear testimony on Monday night could vote to halt proceedings and take any action on the report, if no one questioned absence of a quorum.

Moore and Dale were arrested Wednesday night and charged with accepting a $1,000 bribe to get a bill relating to optometrists reported unfavorably by the house revenue and taxation committee.

Willis Chamberlain, Houston optometrist and legislative chairman of the Texas Optometry Association, testified at the investigation hearing that he put $1,000 in Dale's hand after "tipping officers off" to the transaction.

Chamberlain said Dale offered for $1,000 to "fix things" on a pending bill by Moore which would have taxed stationary optometrists $50 a year. He said that Moore referred him to Dale and that Moore was with them last Wednesday night when the details of the transaction were completed.

Moore testified Chamberlain was "bull shot" at dinner and that he had never wanted him in his room. R. L. Bobbitt, of Laredo, speaker of the house, swore he was informed of the purported bribe and grilled Chamberlain before a group of house advisers and that he finally asked Governor Dan Moody's advice before referring Chamberlain to state ratifiers.

The Travis county grand jury today was charged by District Judge James R. Hamilton to thoroughly investigate allegations of "misconduct" in the house of representatives.

Hamilton said he has heard bribery charges were filed and declared "there is nothing in the black catalogue of crime which will shake the government more quickly than the offense of bribery."

He charged the grand jurors that if

The Woman's Day

By Allene Summer

The girls do it like this in the land of the steppe. They take their pens in hand and write to their chosen swains. "If you married to you!" and the law proclaims that, to be is indeed a benedict willy-nilly! If the man says something to the effect of "how do you get that way?" or "I'm god-darned if I'm married to you," the lady who took her pen in hand can collect alimony with the fullest approval of the court. And American women with their few advantages think that they are still atop the world!

Blame Old Maids Now they're blaming the old maids for the modern sex novel. At least one Cecil Roberts, an English novelist. He says that "all the disappointed, unloved old maids are writing sex novels." Which is a cute way of calling all the writing boys "old women," for anyone knows that the most flagrant examples of over-sentimental times are authored by boys.

The Holy Estate Being on the subject of the holy estate of matrimony, just as we expected, fearless Judge Ben B. Lindsey, who came right out in public and asked for an entirely new code of morality, has gotten himself into trouble. They're trying to make him lose his job. Trouble always comes to the thinker, the man who tries to think things through, and perhaps make the mob think a little too, and thus upset the even tenor of their ways!

The Kink and the Bob Cats may look at kings, but a king positively refuses to look at bobbed hair! None less than King George of All the Britains refuses to let the girls of his court wear abbreviated locks. Many of the court maids and mistresses had their hair shorn before the edict. Now they wear switches around their waists. Serve the king right if said switches fell off at some of his most swanky functions! And one simply cannot resist remarking that if one or two women of his immediate family circle bobbed their hair, their hats might lose resemblance to the well-known road sitting upon a roadstool.

Another Viewpoint Talking out another side of the mouth is another Britisher, Beatrice Forbes-Robertson-Hale, who says that Catherine de Medici committed a worse crime when she decreed the bloody massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day, and that short hair was the world's greatest glory to the Lord! Theoretically, we should listen to a woman on this subject, rather than to a man, for the woman knows her stuff. She has had to endure the long hair, et al. But so it is, and ever has been, that what the boys say makes a great deal more difference whether they know the subject or the reverse.

Stupid Tummies Stomachs are the most stupid organs of the human anatomy, says a professor of physiology. He explains that if a stomach is fed a rubber ball or a tin can or a pickle jar it will set to work to digest it with as much gusto as though it were beefsteak smothered in onions. Ask any wife, however, if this story will do her any good when the Lord and Master demands portershouse with mushrooms.

evidence they develop sustains indictments they will be "dissected in their duty" not to return them.

Morse Demands Reading

Representative R. E. Morse of Houston made the demand to have the entire transcript of testimony read before the house accepted the committee report holding that the "charges were entirely justified" and "deserving of the highest punishment" the house can impose. Long argument ensued as to whether Morse had any right to call for full reading. Many held that such right applies only to bills on second reading. The motion was sidetracked about an hour and a half while opponents fought out the merits of the testimony in speeches at times heated. Charges were made variously that reputation of the whole house is "under a cloud" while decision is pending, and that hasty action on the matter would be "ten more times censurable" than delay to a deliberate judgment.

Bobbitt's Attack

Speaker Bobbitt's attack on alleged defamatory tactics "created" a sensation. The house and galleries strained forward tensely while he declaimed passionately that the "honor and integrity of the legislature and five million people of Texas hang on the action of this house" which, he said, is "not trying the accused," but trying to uphold honorable government. "The criminal phase of this case is being considered right now in the proper tribunal," Bobbitt said. "These men will soon be where they ought to be—before a bar of judgment. But we are faced with the proposition of vindictive good government. "Are we going to stand by idly, dallying with technicalities while the whole state looks on with its honor at stake?"

"Whatever this house thinks is the fair thing to do to give these men a fair verdict is all right with me, but let's not let them and their supporters challenge the integrity of this house with technicalities to obstruct a decision. Delay is being sought at the expense of the good name of Texas."

"Why wouldn't those who didn't hear the testimony, which I think is unimpeachable, be admitted to go into a committee room, examine it, and come back today or tonight and vote?"

"I've been through hell about what ought to be done in this case, and I'll look any man squarely in the face and defend any move I've made since charges were filed. I appointed a 60-member jury, led by Judge E. R. Sinks, a veteran jurist, a 'cock of ages' among Texas lawyers. You have that committee's unanimous report before you. It is unfair to the five million people of Texas to put this house in the light of a third rate criminal court called that smacks so of the tactics of criminal lawyers."

"A former attorney general of the United States is under a cloud of bribe taking charges. I hope we take no chances in Texas on having the name of our government stained. We take no chances in war times, and a man who violates a public trust is ten times worse than a slacker in war times. Let's show the people of Texas that we are not a bunch of bribe takers and bootleggers."

Bobbitt's face was white and drawn. "I resent with every ounce of energy I have the insinuations of the defense counsel. They were untrue, unfounded and unmanly."

T. H. McGregor, defense lawyer had tried to bring into the Dale-Morse hearing testimony bearing on alleged enticement of legislators with whiskey by lobbyists.

"Those insinuations come with particular bad grace, considering the source I understand he (Bobbitt named no one) had a very lucrative law participation—I won't say practice, but business—during the last two years, but I resent any pardon broker attempting to cast insinuations of misconduct in government upon this legislature."

$6,000 Subscribed to Methodist Fund

In an effort to raise the $7,000 indebtedness which is existing against the church, members of the First Methodist church, Sunday, raised more than $6,000 by subscription. Announced that no money would be accepted at all unless as much as $6,000 was raised, the money was soon subscribed to pay off claims against the church property. George R. Bean, chairman of the board of stewards states that the other money will likely be raised soon.

A Woman's Hand on Giant Throttle of Steel Hercules

By NIEA Service. HOLYOKE, Mass., Feb. 7.—A bell rings, a crane reaches its arm across a factory yard and picks up a giant piston, cylinders, base, all weighing up to 28 tons—and moves it easily and with exact precision to its appointed place. A little car swings along with the crane, the eyes and nerves and brain of the vast power there concentrated, and reaching the control lever of a woman. She has held her post ever since the war. No more complex symbol of the man's industrial might with man could be found than this. The most powerful of mechanical contrivances, an obedient slave to the feminine touch. The engineer of this crane is Miss Minnie C. Peterson. She is in her field as distinctive a champion as Getzdoe Elder or Helen Wills. At the Dustinham plant there where she works, it is claimed that she is the only woman operator of a big crane in the United States. Her crane has a personality. It moves with grace and ponderous responsibility, carrying great loads over the heads of the workers below. There is no lost motion when this crane sets out. In the little open car attached to

YOUNG STRIBBLING WINS DECISION IN SLOW TEN-ROUND FIGHT WITH EDDIE HUFFMAN OF PACIFIC COAST

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—William (Young) Stribbling of Macon, Georgia, celebrated his entry in Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament by defeating Eddie Huffman of the Pacific Coast in a 10 round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight. The match was slow and uninteresting most of the way.

Round One
Stribbling endeavored to feel out his opponent with a long left jab, but Huffman rushed to close quarters and whaled away at the southerner's ribs. Stribbling backed into a corner but fought his way out with a right uppercut which drove Huffman to the ropes. Huffman then hooked a fine left to Stribbling's body but took two rights to the head in return.

Round Two
Stribbling went a left to Huffman's head then danced away to size up the situation. The Georgian drove Huffman to the ropes with a flurry of rights to the body. Stribbling took a left to the stomach and dove into a clinch. Stribbling's long left easily found Huffman's chin. Huffman landed a glancing blow but took two rights to the side of the head. They danced about with little action, waiting for openings up to the bell.

Round Three
They were cautious at the start dancing about like acrobats, but when Stribbling shot a right to the stomach they closed in the center of the ring and pounded away fiercely at the head and body. The crowd booed Stribbling for hitting overhand in the clinch, but he whipped his right hand again to Huffman's ear despite their cheers. Eddie hooked his left twice into Stribbling's body but when they clinched again Stribbling easily regained the sailor's ribs. They bounced about the ring until the gong.

Round Four
Stribbling plowed into Huffman, coupling two lefts to the head with a right to the ribs but the sailor came right back and bruised him in a clinch. The Georgian missed a long left, then wriggled that one about Huffman's neck and beat him about the ring with his free hand. Huffman broke away but ducked in close again and walloped his left twice into Stribbling's stomach. He was plastering the Georgian about the head with both hands when the bell sounded.

Round Five

Round Six
Stribbling popped his long left into Huffman's face and they bobbed and danced about the ring. The Georgian came in close but missed his left lead and took two punishing rights to the body close to the ropes. As they came away a straight left japed Huffman but he closed and crossed his right to the southerner's chin. Stribbling drove a powerful right hand shot to Huffman's body. The southerner danced away and then smiled. As the sailor missed by feet two long left leads to the head, Stribbling hooked neatly to Huffman's chin with a short left as the round closed.

Round Seven
Huffman was slow in coming up and Stribbling knifed him three times with that long left before the gong came up. Stribbling drove in close and pounded Huffman's ribs in a corner. Eddie twisted loose and sank a fine left hook to Stribbling's body. As he came away Stribbling infamously smashed away with both hands scoring effectively to both head and body. Huffman looked tired and he clinched when Stribbling twice cuffed him on the chin with his left before the bell.

Round Eight
Stribbling started dancing again but Huffman's short right brought him in close for a slugging bee. The sailor pounded Stribbling about the ribs but took a short left to the head as they went away. Stribbling mauled away at Huffman's body as they went from clinch to clinch in the center of the ring. The Georgian snapped over two lefts before pounding Huffman heavily with a right to the head. Stribbling's long left found an easy target in Huffman's chin, but he was dancing away again at the gong.

Round Nine
Stribbling loafed around the center of the ring content to jab and fiddle. Huffman took after him and whaled a fine left into Stribbling's stomach. The Georgian's showing was disappointing as he mauled and pulled at the coast battler. Stribbling cocked his right but Huffman tore in and evading it whipped over his rights to Stribbling's head. The sailor jumped in with a left hook to the stomach but Stribbling grabbed him and they were wrestling when the gong rang.

Round Ten
Both jumped into a furious exchange, a glaring difference in fighting style that brought cheers from the fans. Huffman ripped in with his left and dug his right into Stribbling's body. Stribbling's left hook walloped all the way around Huffman's neck and his head bumped into two neat uppercuts. Stribbling jabbed erratically to the head and pounded with even less accuracy to the stomach. The fans booed openly as Stribbling grabbed and hit. They were mauling and shoving at the bell.

JURY COMPLETED TO TRY DAUHERTY

FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL AGAIN GOES ON TRIAL IN ALIEN PROPERTY SCANDAL

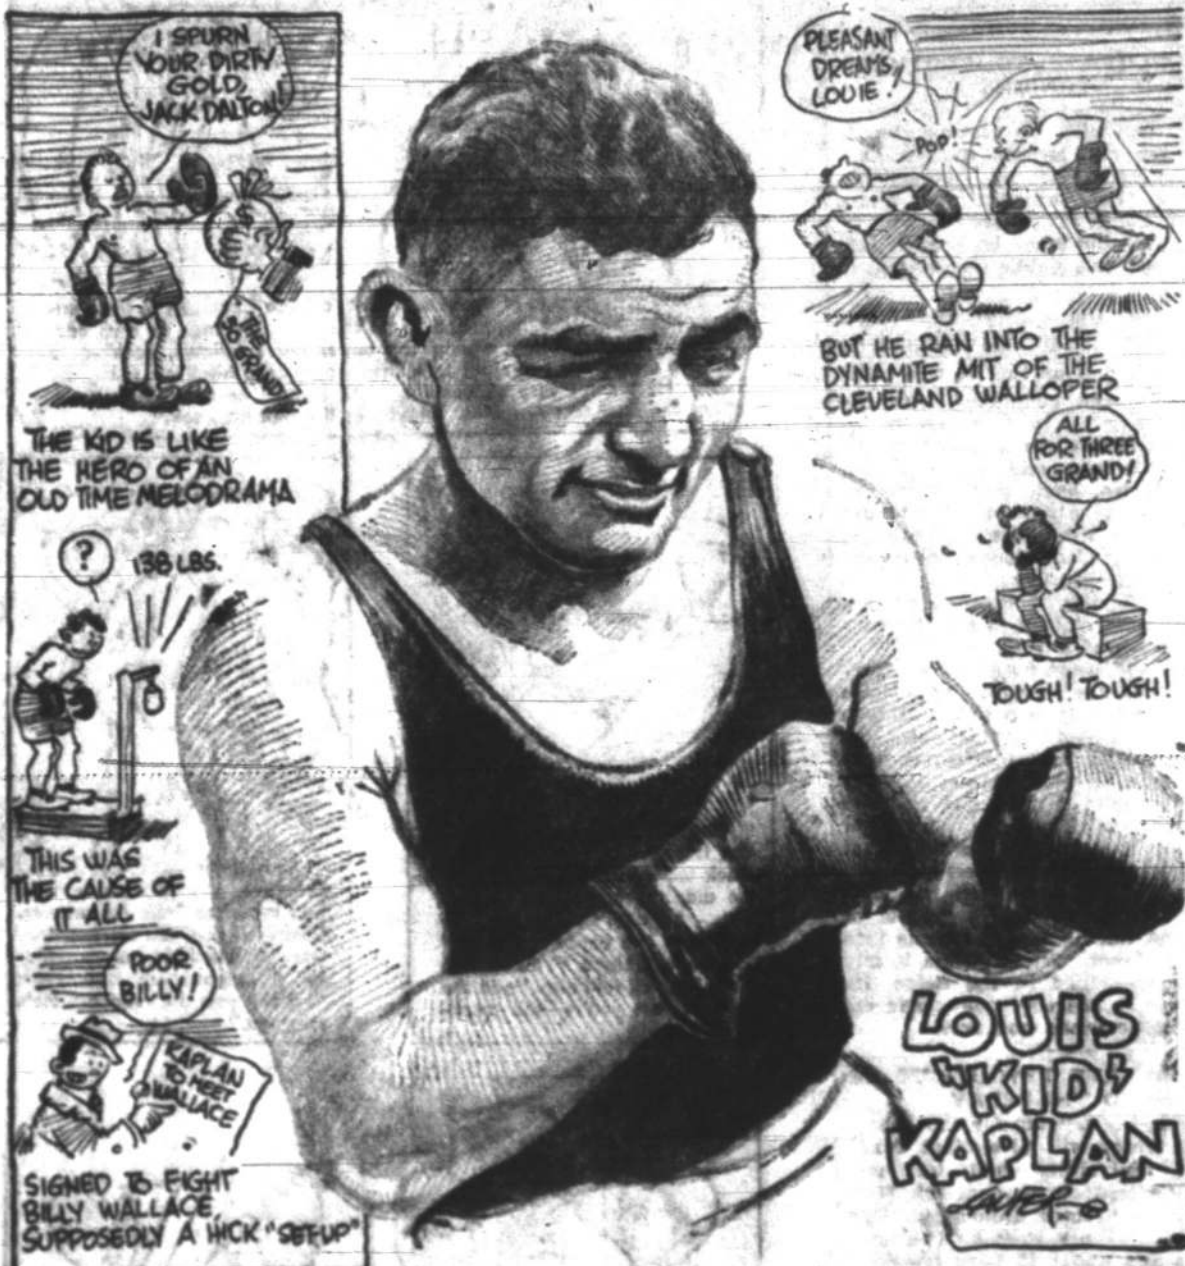

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—For the second time in five months, Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, have been put on trial for defrauding the United States of their honest and unbiased services. The jury that will hear the evidence in the second trial was selected today after the referee had exhausted his challenges and the government had used all but one of its six. Forty taxpayers were called before the jury was sworn at 9:15. A number were rejected by the court for cause, several having formed opinions of the case, and others being ill or exempt for other reasons.

Daugherty and Miller are charged with defrauding the government of their best services in connection with the transfer to Richard Merton, German agent of the Soviet Union, four Volvoys, De Soto's, the $7,000,000 assets of the American Metal company and an enemy-owned property, during the war.

Kaplan Refuses Fifty Grand to Frame a Fight— AND THEN IS KNOCKED OUT BY A MID-WEST "SUCKER" FOR THREE THOUSAND

By JOE WILLIAMS
NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Louis Kid Kaplan, the Russian, may never win the lightweight championship of America, which happens to be the goal he has set for himself, but whatever develops he deserves something more than a kick in the pants from the Olympian Gods of the Fight Racket.

Louis Kid Kaplan is the featured hero of one of those rare stories of the ring which portray the principal character spurning gold and wearing rings for virtue's sake—one of those old-fashioned "melodramas" that used to thrill the boys on the tan shoe and over the circuit.

It runs something like this in three acts, an epilogue and an exit march, and a hallel of hot dogs. Who's next, gent?

Act I
Louis Kid Kaplan stepped on the scales and the "boom" in Meriden, Conn. (you should see the fine morning they have in Meriden, no foolin'), and noted with dismay his weight had leaped to 128 pounds in the naughty mood. At the time he was the sole and exclusive custodian of the featherweight championship of the world. To continue as such Louis Kid Kaplan realized the necessity of scaling down to 126 pounds. This being impossible without the amputation of a leg, an arm or his rich Soviet dialect, none of which he cared to divorce, Louis Kid Kaplan decided to advance automatically to the lightweight division.

Act II
Louis Kid Kaplan and his then-manager, Dennis McMahon, about this time were called to a conference requested by a well-known and wealthy manager of prizefighters. Was it true that Louis Kid Kaplan had outgrown the featherweight division? Was it true that he was determined to fight in the future as a lightweight? Was it true that he had casually tossed aside a $200,000 title as if it were so much tripe, without even going through the motions of losing it?

Louis Kid Kaplan and Dennis McMahon admitted the charge on all three counts. The fight manager was stunned. This was contrary to all the oaths, scruples and finer principles of the sport. There was a better way to do the thing. The manager would match Louis Kid Kaplan with a certain featherweight in a championship bout, Louis Kid Kaplan could weigh anything he wanted to, but it would be announced from the ringside that he had weighed in at the featherweight limit.

Louis Kid Kaplan would then proceed to lose and in return he would be paid $50,000 for formally handing over a title that he had to give up anyhow. What could be sweeter? But Louis Kid Kaplan and Dennis McMahon wouldn't do it. They preferred to stay on the level.

Act III
Months passed and Dennis McMahon peddled 50 per cent of his interest in Louis Kid Kaplan to Billy Gibson for $7,000. Gibson had made Benny Leonard one of the greatest lightweight of all time and had brought him to the world championship. Dennis McMahon rested content in the knowledge that his protégé could not be in more competent hands. So it was that

Louis Kid Kaplan passed to Gibson and the Broadway hallyho started a ballyho that had as its immediate objective a match with Sammy Mandell for the title.

Epilogue
A part of the ballyho was a warm-up match out in Cleveland with a sucker—one Billy Wallace, whose chief distinction as a fighter prior to that time was that he had been born next to Tex Rickard in Alaska 23 years ago. For our rounds Louis Kid Kaplan looked like a combination of Bat Nelson, Joe Gans, Ad Wolgast and Leonard himself. Then in the fifth the ship hit an iceberg. To be more exact, Wallace's right hand hit Louis Kid Kaplan's jaw and the ball attendants were called into the ring to sweep up the debris.

Exit March
What a swell break for a youth who had played the game on the level! Knocked out in his first start as a lightweight and for a $2,000 purse. Professor, a few bars of those "What's the Use Blues," if you will!

College to Big League Star in Just Three Seasons

By NEA Service
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 5.—Few of the highly-touted spring baseball phenoms stick in the majors. Outfielder Taylor Douthit of the St. Louis Cardinals is one of the exceptions.

"A second Tris Speaker" is what the experts write of Douthit two years ago when they looked the youngster over in spring training. He is coming mighty close to living up to that reputation.

Douthit was secured by the Cardinals in the spring of 1924 from the University of California. Two years in the minors for seasoning and he returned ready to win a regular berth. He at once displaced Heinie Mueller, the Cards' center fielder.

His judgment is spot-on in every phase of his play. He gets his ball on a perfectly-timed journey. (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

LUBBOCK HIGH SCHOOL QUINTET WILL INVADE LAMESA FOR RETURN TILT WITH FIVE THEY DEFEATED HERE

Strolling Down Sport Lane With James R. Dow

The Lubbock Tigers were over yesterday evening for a workout on the assembly hall floor. They are getting ready for the county tournament in basketball to be held here on Saturday.

Tyrus Cobb is undreamed of whom he will contract with. The Georgia Peach is not looking for a job—but deciding just who to sign with. Should Cobb's eyesight improve the hitting of Cobb will strengthen the club's standing.

This evening the Westerners will journey to Lamesa where they will meet with the Golden Tornadoes in a return contest. The Von Tungen crew defeated the Lamesaans here last week with a score of 35-21. It was last quarter offensive drive that gave the local quintet a victory.

Coach, Grady Hutchingsham is smoothing out the rough spots of the Mustang showing while in Abilene and plans to send in a much improved machine. The trip, while a losing one, gave to the flashy jersed crew some good experience that will greatly assist them in their future games.

The Amarillo Texans will open the season at home meeting with the Lincoln nine. That will be great for the Texans—a new club opening in their new home. The fans of the Panther will no doubt throng in great numbers for the opener.

Grover Alexander has sent his contract into the Cardinals or another season with the 1926 base ball champs "Alex" was given a substantial increase in the new contract—nothing more than what was coming to him.

Dallas Steers will meet with the whiskered nine of Benton Harbor from the House of David on March

This evening the Westerners will meet with the Golden Tornadoes of Lamesa in a return contest with the Lamesaans. Preparations are being made by the athletic department of the Lamesa high school for one of the best attendances in basket ball to be shown in the Dawson county city. The von Tungen quintet recently defeated the Tornadoes in a cage bout on the Tech floor with a score of 35 to 21. This, while indicates a pretty bad defeat over the Lamesaans, was one of the fastest exhibitions and closest games the homeboys have participated in during the season. With a last quarter bombardment of leapers in a rally-offensive drive the Westerners counted a victory over the Stevensmen and turned a 18-18 count into a winner.

According to Coach L. J. von Tungen this will be their last game. The Westerners will take part in a county tournament that will be conducted in Lubbock Saturday.

4th. That's a fine send off for the Dixie Champs—make them feel young and spry to play against an aged looking baseball team.

A number of the Texas Tech baseball recruits have donned their baseball paraphernalia and are taking advantage of the spring weather. Working up the old soup bones for a good season in baseball. Coach "Big" U. Freeland has plenty of good stuff this season—looks like an excellent year.

Work has begun on the Mustang track. On completion of the quarter mile track the Texas Tech will have one of the fastest cinder paths in the state.

DR. PFLUEGER TO LECTURE TONIGHT

Illustrating, with his lecture, Dr. L. A. Pflueger will lecture tonight at 7 o'clock in room 229 on Strasburg, Alsace and the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris. The lecture will be given for his students in French and German, but the public is invited to attend.

Strasburg, the capital and larger city of Alsace is situated not directly on the Rhine, but on the Ill, two miles to the west and connected with the Rhine by canals. In this city is located a university which has been alternately German and French for some centuries past, and which the youthful Goethe attended. Strasburg also possesses the most famous of Europe's mechanical clocks, constructed in the 16th century and rebuilt in the 19th. A large crowd collects daily at twelve o'clock to see the various figures which then come to life.

Perhaps the most noted of all European cathedrals is that of Notre Dame in Paris. It is a splendid type of Gothic architecture. The cathedral has had a long and interesting history. Begun in the 13th century, it was not completed until one hundred years later. During the revolution and again during the Commune of 1871 the church was desecrated. In the period of the Revolution the edifice was converted into a temple of reason, and during the Commune into a military depot. Notre Dame is situated on an island in the Seine. Its appearance is scarcely commensurate with its importance and fame.

T. C. U. DEBATE TRYOUTS TO BE HELD THURSDAY

Finals in the tryouts for the debating team which will go against Texas Christian University will be held Thursday afternoon in room 202. Miss Ruth Pirtle, director announced. The preliminary tryouts were held several days ago and about 15 boys tried for positions on the team. The boys who will go into the finals Thursday are: Huton, Jordan, Coleman and Sewell. The T. C. U. debate will be held in March and close competition is expected. This is the first debating contest between the two schools.

SCHOOLS TO EDIT PAPERS

Announcement was made yesterday by the staff of the Tutorator that the various schools will begin issuing their paper next week. As was the policy last year, each school will edit one issue of the paper, using their own staff members. The school editions last year caused much attention and more is expected from them this year. The school of liberal arts will edit the first issue, beginning the week of February 14. They will be followed by the agriculture school, the engineering school and the school of home economics.

COLLEGE INN TO ENTERTAIN

Announcement was made yesterday by officers of the College Inn club that a party would be given at the dormitory Friday night. The girls hold an entertainment of this sort every term and this one will be the feature of the winter's social activities. Arrangements are being made for an elaborate array of entertaining features, the girls said.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD ESTABLISHED BY COUNCIL

In their regular meeting last night, student council voted to establish a publications board at the Tech, which will have authority and control of the publications put out by the students. The board is to be selected by the members of the Faculty publications committee and will be brought about in the next few days. Then the board will submit nominations for the staffs to the student body.

COLLEGE COUNCIL VOTED TO ADD

The council also voted to add the college year book to the student activities fee for the next year, the matter to be brought up at the student convocation which is to be called by the students for Wednesday in the new assembly hall.

To Double Capacity Plainview Hatchery

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 7.—N. W. Connor, proprietor of the 12,000 egg custom hatchery of Plainview which was recently installed, has announced his plan of doubling the capacity of the plant to meet the demand for hatching eggs being made upon him by farmers of the Plainview country.

Connor opened his plant in a small building near the industrial trackage of Plainview thirty days ago, and has already found it necessary to install another unit and move to larger quarters in the main business section of the city. With the installation of the new unit, he will be prepared to sell baby chicks and will deal extensively in them.

BUTLER SAYS COOLIDGE WILL NOT OFFER AGAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—When the proper time comes, President Coolidge will announce his unwillingness to have his name considered for the republican presidential nomination in 1928, is the opinion of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university.

DRIVE OUT SQUATTERS

VIENNA—More than 1,000 unemployed, with their families, who squatted on a large area near Orth, recently were driven out by gendarmes. The marshy land near the Danube has been condemned as unhealthy, often being submerged for half a year.

In the seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries family Bibles were kept in oak boxes kept especially for that purpose. Many of the boxes were elaborately carved.

There was no rule of the school that forbade freshmen to have automobiles, but Jack happened to be the first freshman to own one. McNally went around among the upper class fellows, seeking to arouse a sentiment against Jack that would keep him from using the car. He wasn't very successful. "All right," he said disgustedly. "Let the poor fish run wild. Maybe he'll break his neck."

The sophomores challenged the freshmen to play baseball. Jack went out to practice, but he didn't seem to be acceptable. He didn't know the reason until the captain, "Chick" Bevins, explained. "You own an auto," Chick told him, "and the fellows feel you're too snobbish."

Sometimes Jack was super-sensitive, a weakness that he had inherited from his mother. Seeing Jack wasn't practicing, Darling asked the reason. "McNally stepped up and said: 'I'll tell you the reason. He's no good.'"

That aroused Jack's battling spirit. "I understand you're the pitcher for the sophs, McNally," he said. "Well, maybe you'll find out whether I'm any good or not." He was on the field again the next time the freshmen practiced. Walking up to "Chick" Bevins, he said: "I can play baseball, and I'm here to practice. I'm going to have a chance to show you what I can do if I have to fight the whole team for it."

Now Bevins admired that spirit. He grinned. "Where can you play?" he asked. "Anywhere you put me," was the answer. Bevins sent him into right field, the position of least importance. Jack demonstrated that he could cover as much ground as the big tent for Barnum and Bailey's circus, and when he grabbed the old apple he got away from him about as often as a criminal could escape from Sherlock Holmes.

"Probably he's weak with the wench," said Bevins to "Slants" Magovern, the pitcher, as Jack got ready to take his turn in batting practice. "Show him up." But Jack whanged Magovern's shoots to all parts of the outfield.

Yet Jack could see he was still unpopular. Classmates continued to shun him socially. He received no invitations to the clandestine midnight spreads behind darkened windows and locked doors.

Magovern failed to appear at practice the day before the freshmen were to play the sophomores. Captain Bevins dejectedly informed the team that Slants was down with the flu, which would prevent him from pitching. "And there's nobody else who can hold the sophs down," he declared. "With the Bad Egg shooting 'em over for them, they'll make us look like a hole's dress shirt." Jack pitched.

MANY LIFE MEMBERS ADDED TO HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Special to The Avalanche
CANYON, Feb. 7.—The list of life members of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society shows that representative citizens of the Panhandle and some very distant points are intensely interested in the history of this region.

MODERN USES OF ANCIENT CEREAL

Rice has been known for twenty-two centuries. Small wonder that in that time over three hundred ways of preparing it have been found.

Of course, rice can be combined successfully with soup, meat, vegetables, salads, desserts. It is the one food which absorbs the flavor of whatever it is cooked with.

For the best results in cooking, much depends upon the regularity in the size of rice. Coarse rice is sifted again and again so that no small particles and broken kernels remain to cook first and become a gummy mass. That accounts for Comet's delicious, dry flake rice.

Patented clean and machine packed, Comet Rice reaches you so pure that it needs no preliminary washing.

Send a 6-cent stamp to the Comet Rice Company, 77 Laight Street, Dept. 214, New York, for new recipe booklet.

Surplus Livestock Is Well Cared For

HOUSTON, Feb. 7. (AP)—Even though Texas has nearly a million and a quarter more head of livestock than the 12,325,000 it had a year ago, its horses, mules, cattle, sheep and swine have been better cared for this winter than probably ever before. P. P. Schultz, government statistician here, reports in his monthly livestock report, issued Saturday.

The winter has been unusually favorable, he says, feed and grazing have been abundant, and cheap and there is a demand for all classes of stock at fairly satisfactory prices.

A quarter of a million cattle more than the 5,950,000 a year ago are wintering well, the report says, without the necessity for extra feed.

Big Lake Votes School Bond Issue

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Feb. 7. (AP)—The Big Lake Independent school district, comprising all Reagan county today voted 141 to 24 for the issuance of $100,000 in bonds, $75,000 for a high school at Big Lake and $25,000 for a school at Stiles, former county seat. The high school will be the first in the county. An $80,000 court house and a $15,000 masonic hall at Big Lake will be completed next week. Reagan county property tax valuations this year total $12,775,582, a big increase due to oil production.

"Secrets Of The Herrin Gangs"

A Former Gangster Tells the Inside Story of the War in Southern Illinois

EDITOR'S NOTE: The lurid history of southern Illinois gang warfare and rum running and the tale of the bloody feud between Klan and anti-Klan forces has been told to NEA Service exclusively by Ralph Johnson, erstwhile member of the Shelton "mob."

In preceding articles of this series, Johnson told of the real cause of the Shelton-Birger feud and brought his story down to April 12, 1925—election day in Herrin, Ill. with Klan and anti-Klan forces battling with machine guns, rifles and revolvers to elect their tickets. Today he describes the break between the Birger and the Shelton gangs, which led to bloody gang warfare.

BY RALPH JOHNSON As Told to Paul Hayward

The Sheltons were still nursing their secret grudge against Charlie Birger for his wrongful division of the slot machine spoils and they now decided to drop all pretense of friendliness with the increasingly powerful little boss known from Herrinburg.

Birger by this time had added a new line to his whiskey racket—the sale of doctored beer.

Inasmuch as Birger had been buying whiskey from the Sheltons, he now assumed that the Sheltons would buy his new beer goods in return and accordingly sent ten cases over to the Shelton's roadhouse north of Herrin.

Partly because of the Shelton's secret grudge and partly because the beer was not up to standard, Bernie Shelton returned it. Then Birger came to Carl Shelton, still believing they were on good terms, and told him that he (Birger) had lost two pistols and several rifles in the election day battle.

"Blacky" Arms one of the Shelton's followers, was carrying one of the lost pistols, Birger said. He requested its return.

Shot Off Birger's Supply The pistol was never returned and Carl never gave a reason for allowing Arms to retain it.

These circumstances forced Birger to sense that an ill feeling existed—a feeling that was strengthened late in May when the Sheltons refused to sell him any more of the liquor they had been running up from Florida.

As ill feeling grew between the Shelton boys and Birger, the rum runners and hangers-on in the Williamson county liquor traffic began to align themselves with the opposing camps.

County Wide Open The county was running wide open again as usual, following a few weeks of restrictions placed in effect when National Guard troops were brought into the county after the election day battle at Herrin.

Chief among the frequenters of Birger's shady best resort as battle lines were forming for the gang warfare were Ward "Casey" Jones, Art Newman, Freddy Wooten, Charlie Ritter and one "Aladdin." Over at the Shelton's place, north of Herrin, "Blacky" and "Jar Down" Arms, Roy and Harry Walker, "Wild Bill" Holland, Everett Schmitt, Oklahoma "Curly" Hardin and Max "Tex" Pulliam held forth.

"Hi-Pockets" McQuay continued friendly with both sides for a time and stories he carried to Birger from the Shelton camp finally placed Birger on his guard.

Then in July, Birger and Carl Shelton came face to face at Shaw's Garden, a roadhouse between Johnson City and West Frankfort in which Birger was interested.

Birger, with four or five men at his heels, walked up to Carl, who was surrounded by an equal force of his own men.

"Carl, what have you got against me?" Birger demanded.

Shelton whipped out his pistol. "Charlie, you ought to kill me," he said. But after a few more hot words Carl withdrew with his men.

Birger, after this, quietly began to assemble his forces.

Later in July, "Oklahoma Curly" Hardin was shot by the Shelton forces through the gun of one of the Shelton's own men, Harry Walker.

Wrong Man Held for Murder "Curly," drunk and quarrelsome, swaggered into Ed Rocca's resort north of Herrin and asked to see Ed who was closeted with Walker in a rear room. Rocca's wife barred Curly's way and received a bullet through the hand from one of the two pistols the Oklahoma habitually carried.

Walker jerked open the door at the sound of the shot, and emptied his revolver into Curly's body. Rocca assumed responsibility for Curly's death and inasmuch as Curly had wounded Mrs. Rocca this offered a good defense. He is free on bond now, with the case still pending.

The Sheltons lost two more men a few days later when Ervey Walker himself and Everett Schmitt were killed in a gun fight at Ted's Place, a road house north of Marion. A coroner's jury returned a verdict that they had shot each other, but inasmuch as they were the best of friends it is the general opinion in the neighborhood that they were killed by a third person as the result of the increasing friction between the Birger and Shelton gangs.

Then Open Warfare Thereafter counter-attacks filtered back and forth between the two camps until late in September. Then open warfare burst out.

One night as "Wild Bill" Holland of the Shelton forces, with Pat Pulliam and his wife, emerged from Gene's Place, a roadhouse between Johnson

Shelton whipped out his pistol "Charlie you ought to kill me," he said

DREAM COMES TRUE FOR A. B. BROWN, WHO CASHES IN NOW ON HIS EARLY HOPES FOR LOCKNEY DEVELOPMENT

Special to The Avalanche

LOCKNEY, Feb. 7.—Dreams often come true, and those who have done most dreaming have the most happy ending at the close of a day. A. B. Brown, banker, chamber of commerce executive and community builder, and one of the greatest dreamers known to our people, is now "cashing in" on his dreams for Lockney, the town of his heart, given promise of changing from an over-grown cow camp into a thriving little manufacturing city and railroad center.

Ten years ago when Mr. Brown came here, Lockney was just a village. There were few stores and the population was slightly more than 1000 souls, yet Mr. Brown figured that in time Lockney would be a real city—would figure prominently with other Texas and South Plains cities. The country was in the heart of the famous shallow water belt, and crop failures were unknown.

Being a banker—a man looking for profit and development, he cast his lot with the people of Lockney, and he has stood by them since that time. Occasionally he has done more than his part of community work, but at no time has he ever been accused of "falling down" on the job. He was the first man to picture a Fort Worth and Denver line for the South Plains and was the first man to go to Fort Worth to consult with railway officials. They gave him some encouragement, and he took his dreams to Washington—to the interstate commerce commission. The fight was a long one, but he never gave in. Ever on the alert, and always ready to "prove" Lockney's claims, he kept working.

At last the permit was granted, but Lockney's most tireless worker did not cease his labors. Since that time he has been trying to prove to large manufacturing concerns that his city is the most desirable on the South Plains for large manufacturing plants. His words have not been passed by unheeded, for during the past 30 days he has induced capitalists to invest approximately one million dollars in this city.

Shortly after his arrival in Lockney Mr. Brown began advocating the need of a chamber of commerce, and at the close of his first year's work he succeeded in bringing about the organization of such a body. At that time and Herrin and seated themselves in Pulliam's auto, fire from machine guns was opened up on it.

Holland slumped in his seat, instantly killed by the 14 bullets that hit into his body. Mr. and Mrs. Pulliam were wounded.

Further events in this civil war in gangland, during which new annuals in crime were written, will be told in the next article of this series.

LOCKNEY BUSINESS BETTER AND BETTER

NEW FIRMS COMING TO TOWN BOOST CONFIDENCE OF MERCHANTS

Special to The Avalanche LOCKNEY, Feb. 7.—Yes, business is good in the Lockney community—better than it has ever been before, but local citizens are taking the change just as a matter of course, and the fact that Lockney is to get a new railroad, a compress and an oil mill, as well as scores of smaller industries, isn't blinding people as to their duty. For, after all, Lockney is strictly an agricultural area, and it makes no difference how many manufacturing plants are erected here, agriculture will not be overlooked.

The very fact that a number of manufacturing plants are opening here speaks well for the city and community, for manufacturing plants, as a rule, are not established on deserts, in swamps or other isolated districts, but in cities where natural resources may be counted upon—where there are people, and where "business" has a chance to grow.

True Valuation One year ago Lockney's tax valuations were less than a million dollars—to be exact $900,000. But there have been some radical changes since that time, and even if there is not another building permit granted during the coming year (and there will be many) the city's valuations will have reached the two million dollar mark.

Every day there are new faces here. People from all sections of America are coming to the South Plains to enjoy prosperity, and when they get on the Plains it takes them only a few moments to decide that just at this time Lockney offers more than any other city. There is a reason for this. From one thousand to fifteen hundred people will be employed to build the new Denver South Plains railroad, and most of them will work out of this city—they will be paid here, buy their provisions here, and get their mail here. Fortunately Lockney is located in the heart of all activities. The new oil mill and compress will have from 200 to 300 men on their pay rolls, and most of them will be permanent. So people from all sections are coming here so that they may get in on the ground floor, and take advantage of the opportunities offered.

Too Much for Granted Some are going to be disappointed, for they have taken too much for granted. With valuations have attracted them and they come here without promise of work. Most of them, so far, have been able to find employment, but some must be disappointed if the general exodus from other points continues. They should at least inform themselves as to the actual conditions.

People of this city are doing all in their power to care for the new comers. One of the first things to be done will be to enlarge the corporate limits of the city, so that lights, water, etc., may be furnished those who reside outside of the present city limits. Additional fire protection is needed and the city council is arranging to grant this at the earliest possible moment.

The city has a new high school building, but a second or junior high building will likely be erected before another year shall pass. Church buildings are adequate, though members of the Church of Christ are now raising money to erect a new $20,000 structure.

Yes, Lockney is growing—growing by leaps and bounds, but there is still room for thousands of families; if all can not work in the new railroad, Lockney is in the famous shallow

HEREFORD SHOWS MUSIC APTITUDE

MUSICAL CLUBS ABOUND IN DEAF SMITH COUNTY CITY

Special to The Avalanche HEREFORD, Feb. 7.—No city in Texas with a population of 2,000, can boast of more musical talent, and more musical organizations, than the city of Hereford. In the heart of the cow country, Hereford has been famous for its Hereford cattle, that have gone out to all parts of the country, but during the last few years the Deaf Smith capital has been training her youth in the art of music, so that today at least twenty-five per cent of the population of Hereford has seen service in one or more of the fourteen musical organizations of the city.

When the Hereford chamber of commerce attends a convention, makes a trade excursion, or goes for a good will visit to one of the neighboring towns—the local body can call on any one of a dozen organizations to furnish jazz or classical music as the occasion demands. If a banquet is staged, visitors are promised musical talent that will compare favorably with the best that the larger places have to offer. When a program is to be given in any community in the Hereford country, with a few hours' notice, Hereford can send out a group of youngsters that can put on a program that would do justice to any of the larger cities.

If a lyceum course is given here, if a symposium is staged, or if a band of trained musicians come through, they must give the best that can be offered. Hereford folks are to appreciate their programs. Those who are amateurs in the art of music, often find that their appearance in Hereford are not so popular as might be expected in a town of this size, while the gifted artists find that their programs take just as well here as in the larger cities.

THE UNITED STATES CAN-OPENER

Great progress has been made in the canning industry of the United States. In the twenty years which have passed since the enactment of the pure food and drugs act there has been a remarkable growth of the canning industry in this country, and incidentally a complete understanding has been reached between canners and the Government.

That the can-opener has largely superseded the "hired girl" in American domestic economy is evident from the summary of the canning industry just made public by the Census Bureau. That summary shows that during the season of 1925, 112,935,180 cases of vegetables were packed in the 2,402 establishments which reported their operations to the Department of Commerce. During the same period 25,718,141 cases of canned fruits, besides 1,052,636,757 pounds of dried fruits and 1,237,550 pounds of dried vegetables were "put up."

This, however, does not represent all the activity of the canners, for they were busy with pickles, sauces, preserves and jellies, together with miscellaneous products with which to pack the shelves of the "delicatessen" stores and domestic pantries. The total value of the products of these factories, and by the way they do not include meats, fish or oysters, reached the enormous total of $616,067,748. By the time these cases of fruits and vegetables have passed through the hands of the jobber, the wholesaler and the retailer, the ultimate consumer will have paid somewhere about $1,250,000,000 for his canned stuff.

No figures can ever be obtained of the canning operations conducted in the homes and on the farms. Every farm wife considers it her duty to "put up" a winter's supply of cherries, strawberries, pears and other fruits, with plenty of jelly, and in the orchard districts "apple butter" and marmalades are not neglected, to say nothing of corn and tomatoes, which are always staples.

CANADA'S JUBILEE

Exhibiting a stronger national spirit than ever before, Canada is preparing to celebrate on July 1 its sixtieth anniversary as a dominion. That country has overcome handicaps which at times seemed hopeless, and today its few remaining problems are comparatively insignificant.

Britain, France, the United States and Canada; the Prince of Wales—now King George V—was the guest of honor. Vice President Fairbanks was our Nation's envoy and Ambassador Jusserand spoke for France. The celebration also recalled the battle between Wolfe and Montcalm 149 years before, and the attack upon Quebec which Brig. Gen. Richard Montgomery led on December 31, 1775.

Premier Mackenzie King has invited George V to visit the Dominion again. Both political and personal interests probably will bring the monarch overseas. This year the principal celebration will be held in modern Ottawa, instead of old Quebec, and it will be devoted to the present and the future. Ottawa—until 1854 it was called Bytown—was designated the Dominion's capital by Queen Victoria, who was requested to decide among the conflicting claim of Quebec, Kingston and Toronto for the honor. Victoria reputedly selected Ottawa because of its strategic situation on the Ottawa River, at the junction with the Rideau Canal. The canal's southern terminus is at Kingston on Lake Ontario.

When Canada began its career as a dominion it embraced only four provinces—Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Much of the present area was regarded as a hopeless wilderness, particularly the region between Lake Superior and the Rocky Mountains. That section long had been the property of the Hudson's Bay Company, which was interested only in the fur trade and not in developing its territory agriculturally.

Today that "wilderness"—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta Provinces—is one of the greatest wheat-growing areas and yields gold, silver, oil, coal and other minerals. Canada now has jurisdiction over 3,797,123 miles, and the 1921 census gave it 8,788,483 people. Notwithstanding the heavy loss of life and increase in the country's debt due to the Great War, Canada has forged ahead steadily since the dominion was formed. It now is a nation in all but name, blessed with domestic peace and cordial international relations.

IDLE WOMEN

In a discussion of the subject of idle women, the New York Times recently concluded that Lady Rhondda's warning against the "leisured women" would seem at first sight to be imperfectly timed. The belief is general that we are witnessing an accelerated rush of women into gainful occupations. There are less idle women than formerly. An examination of the figures suggests caution on the subject. Both in England and in the United States the post-war years seem to have been a turning point. In England and Wales the percentage of females over 10 gainfully employed in 1901 was slightly less than 31. By 1911 it had risen to 32.2. In 1921 it was just below this percentage for females over the age of 12. By the earlier age standard there would have been a decline from 1911. In part the explanation would be the steady restriction of child labor, but it is not the entire explanation. In this country the figures are more striking. Between 1880 and 1910 the percentage of females over 10 gainfully employed rose from 14.7 to 23.4. By 1920 it had sunk to 20. There is fair reason for believing that the present growth in the number of self-supporting women has been exaggerated.

Actually, Lady Rhondda is not concerned with the "leisured" woman. The census takers register as gainfully occupied millions upon millions of housewives very much gainfully employed. These are not the parasites of the harem type to whom Lady Rhondda refers. She has in mind the "idle rich," and she believes that their number has enormously multiplied in the last sixty years. Whether enormously multiplied in the last sixty years. Whether enormously or not, they certainly have increased, and their influence has arisen still more rapidly. Half a century ago the gulf between class manners was wide and deep. The working girl rarely aspired to imitate the lady of Belgravia—or Fifth avenue. Today the differences have largely been flattened out. The Rue de la Paix's fashions are adapted for the shop-girl. The manners of Park avenue are widely advertised and copied. If it be true that the idle rich woman is poison, as Lady Rhondda believes, then it must be conceded that the facilities for distributing the poison through the entire community are much greater than they used to be.

It is this basic premise that calls for scrutiny. In this country, at least, it remains to be proved that rich women are more idle than they used to be. The general impression is to the contrary. If not exactly by entering gainful occupations, American women in the higher income classes have been showing a greater interest in society with a small s. Our culture, which is largely in the hands of women, has not been suffering from lack of patronage. In social relief work women have played a notable role. Interest in politics is growing. A great deal of fun may be poked at the American "clubwoman," but the practice only testifies to the fact that she must be reckoned with.

Just how seriously she must be taken into account is suggested by Mr. Chesterton's argument in last week's picturesque debate in London. "He admitted that there was danger that the leisured woman might take up philanthropy. She might take up public work." To Mr. Chesterton, who hates modern philanthropy along with most of the modern world this may seem a serious menace. But obviously the peril is not of the parasitic, harem type.

Little Avalanches

But perhaps the best service Mr. Taft has rendered is in making it clear that the State is the agency best equipped to cope with crime, and that the power to make it function vigorously is lodged in the Legislature.

OUT OUR WAY

By William

LAUGHS

The Egg That Wasn't
It happened aboard the liner on a southern train. The chief figure was a conch-bro, exceedingly polite waiter, whose manner was most gratifying from every angle.

"George," said a lone traveler as he set himself down at one of the little tables, "bring me grapefruit, hot toast, coffee and two poached eggs."

"Judge," said the waiter bending forward confidentially and speaking under his breath, "seuse we, sah, but effer Ah was you Ah'd tek something else dis mawning for breakfast. Ah'm feared Ah can't recommend aigs."

"What's wrong with them—aren't they fresh or what?" asked the traveler.

"Well," said the dandy, "dey mought be fresh so far as Ah knows. But, to tell you de truth, judge, we ain't got no aigs today."

Help-Wanted
Sandy and his lass had been sitting together about half an hour, in silence.

"Maggie," he said at length, "wasn't I here on the Sawbath night?"

"Ay, Sandy, I dare so yo were."

"An' wasn't I here on Monday night?"

"Aye, so yo were."

"An' I was here on Tuesday night, an' Wednesday night, an' Thursday night, an' Friday night!"

"An' this is Saturday night, an' I'm here again!"

"Well, I'm sure yo're very welcome."

Sandy (deprecatingly)—"Maggie, woman! De'n no begin to suspect something!"

Mrs. Spoon—"How is your daughter getting on with the piano?"

Mrs. Goo—"Fine. She plays with both hands now and she says she will be able to play by ear in six months."

We would like to be involved in a tax with involving some $24,000,000.

SO THINK WE

We think it will be only a few more shopping months till B-V-D.

We think that silence of pure innocence often wins when a storm of words will fail.

We think the farmers of this section of the state have an opportunity to teach the rest of the world one of the greatest lessons in thrift that has ever been taught, when they put on a strike diversification program, that will work admirably in this part of the southwest.

We think the Methodist people of this community have shown to the world that they are standing four square for their church and its efforts to help the community. They put on a campaign last Sunday and subscribed more than six thousand dollars in less than four minutes to take up some indebtedness on the church property.

We think that Lubbock would not be a very good place to live if it were not for the church organizations in the town, and still a great many people do not seem to pay much attention to the church, but take it as a kind of matter of fact proposition.

We think that every home owner or every person who expects to live in Lubbock for next six months should have some nice flower beds around the house, but in order to do that the neighbors must keep the chickens in their own back yard. Chickens and flowers will not grow well in the same neighborhood, and neither do gardens and chickens do well without a good fence between them.

We think there is a distinct note of selfishness in the proposition that one neighbor will yield up a hen and some chickens and all the others want to grow flowers and gardens, and the owners of the hens and chickens wait all the other twenty to thirty to the one hen and chickens.

We think we might just as well begin trimming the trees and getting ready in a general way for the coming of spring. She is on the way, and will be here in spite of what G. Hog said about it.

We think from the looks of some of the best yards in this city that somebody is going to plant a great number of fruit trees and shade trees and shrubbery around here this year.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that some of the tax paying troubles are not over yet. We notice in the paper that the tax collector has some cold checks and says if they are not taken up right quick the tax receipts will be equally as cold.

It is reported that one fellow paid for two hats for his wife a few days ago—one was a winter hat and the other was next spring's hat. It has gotten so that not only the seasons lap, but the boy's also.

It is reported that some of the back-woods fellow has suggested that the automobile manufacturers cut several hundred dollars off the price of the car instead of putting another cylinder on it.

It is reported that two thousand people visited the home-suitable building of the Avalanche-Journal yesterday.

It is reported that the reason that Dan Moody wanted the inauguration ceremonies to be outside the building, was because he wants all of his official acts to be out in the open.

It is reported that some fellow on the South Plains has invented a machine that will take all of the leaves and sticks out of the feeded cotton, and it is expected that very soon it will not be necessary to pick cotton. The stalk will be carried to the gin

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

The Avalanche started the announcement that one-eyed cars would no longer be tolerated on the streets of Lubbock. All cars must be equipped with two lights in front and one behind if they are to be respected by the traffic department.

The Avalanche stated that the building permits from the first of January as shown by the city secretary's records showed to be $96,315.

The Avalanche stated that the state Y. M. C. A. secretary addressed the student body of the Tech college Monday afternoon.

The Avalanche stated that the water extension contract had been let at Canyon covering $12,000.

The Avalanche stated that three cars were stolen in Lubbock during Saturday night and Sunday. One was the property of F. B. Hudson, another of Frank Howard, and another belonged to a Littlefield party.

The Avalanche carried the following news items: "The first officers for Lynn county were elected last week and were—county judge, M. L. Elliott; sheriff and tax collector, C. H. Deak; county and district clerk, K. M. Daniel; county treasurer, G. L. Miller; assessor, A. L. Lockwood; each receiving 26 votes. Commissioner Prec. 1, J. E. Ketter; Prec. 2, H. E. Ballard; Prec. 3, B. Humphries; Prec. 4, W. T. Petty."

"George Brazz fell from a window March 20th and broke his arm, both bones being broken below the elbow."

"Edgar Standifer, Charley Boston, and Mayo Whitlock attended a party Friday night over in Terry county, at Meadow."

DIVERSIFICATION BEING PROVEN

Cheap Corn Production in Hockley County

O. M. Hiles of the Hiles Hardware company, has a farm about five miles northeast of town upon which he had sixty-five acres of cotton planted last spring. The cotton for some reason did not come up to a stand and in June he had it planted in corn. Aside from being planted, the crop was never worked. At one time a man was sent out with a tractor and cultivator, but broke down before starting to work. Shortly after other work demanded the attention and it was decided that the corn should have to be neglected.

The corn grew off nicely and to the surprise of everyone made good corn. It is being gathered now and from a measured acre, a truck load was brought to town and weighed over a fraction over forty-two bushels. It is being sold as gathered and the buyers claim that it is No. 3 white corn.

W. A. Douglas, who resides on a half mile west of Levelland, has just gathered and sold twenty acres of corn from his farm which adjoins the city limits. This corn weighed out a little better than 53 bushels per acre. Mr. Douglas is from Louisiana and says his corn crop this year is the best up-land corn he ever saw.

Where corn will grow and yield as it will in Hockley county, bugs and all kinds of live stock can not help from being profitable. As a diversified farming district this country can not be beaten in the state.

Deducting the labor charges from the above two crops there was enough net profit to pay for one-half the price of the land. The opportunities are here and the farmer who takes advantage of them now is the man who is going to be on "Easy Street" a few years hence.—Hockley County Herald.

The Spirit That Builds Cities

By DON E. MOWRY (Secretary American Community Advertising Association)

Natural advantages are important to a city. Even more important is a forward-looking, progressive spirit on the part of her citizens.

Determination and vision have made more cities than natural advantages have.

Detroit is not the automobile center of the world because of any natural advantages that other cities do not have.

Akron is the rubber center of America. But no rubber is grown at Akron. A score of other cities had the same opportunity Akron had.

Los Angeles, midway between the

And the cotton and the balance of the plant will be nicely separated and come out a beautiful sample.

RESPECT OUR FLAG

(By Alvin M. Grewley)

When you see the Stars and Stripes displayed, stand up and take off your hat.

Somebody may titter. It is in the blood of some to deride all expression of noble sentiment. You may blaspheme in the street and stagger drunk in public places, and your neighbors will not pay much attention to you, but if you should kneel on your knees and pray to Almighty God or if you should stand bareheaded while a company of old soldiers marches by with flags to the breeze, some people will think you are showing off.

But don't you mind! When Old Glory comes along, salute, and let them think what they please! When you hear the band play "The Star Spangled Banner" while you are sitting in a restaurant or a hotel, get up, even if you rise alone, stand there and don't be ashamed of it either!

For all the signs and symbols since the world began there is none other so full of meaning as the flag of this country. That piece of red, white and blue bunting means 4,800 years of struggle upwards. It is the flag of growth, of peace, of freedom, of liberty. It is the century plant of human hope in bloom.

Your flag stands for humanity, for an equal opportunity to all the sons of men. Of course, we haven't arrived yet at that goal; there are many injustices yet among us, many conditions and cruel customs of the past still the only hope of righting the wrongs of men lies in the feeling produced in our bosoms by the sight of that flag.

Other flags mean a glorious past, this flag a glorious future. It is not so much the flag of our fathers as it is the flag of our children, and of all children's children yet unborn. It is the flag of tomorrow. It is the signal of the "Good Time Coming." It is not the flag of your king; it is the flag of yourself and of all your neighbors.

Don't be ashamed when you threaten children and the tears come, as you see it flying from the mast of our ships on all the seas or floating from every Intelligence test: Who is who at Hankow?

It is funny how a man short in his cash will juggle his funds.

Honesty, if here, would begin a search for an unbroken resolution.

Placemen would have succeeded here in 1927 they allow only three holidays.

Our idea of an optimistic bank is one which gave no order for printed slips reading, "Your account seems to be etc."

Some folks are crying for a total policy; what the navy needs is cash.

The average pedestrian has dodged about 25 speeding cars so far in 1927.

With the radiophone going a bus-bus, won't he half, even across the Atlantic.

When the average legislature meets it is time for the average population to sit in suspense. The taxes will be paid later.

Today's Poem

THE RIVER AND THE TIDE
On the bank of a river was seated
Yet it ebbs it to soon and its waters grow cold.

As it creeps back again to the sea,
But the river returns' cried the boy,
while his eyes—
Gleamed bright at the water's edge.

"Ah! yes," said the old man, "but time, as it flies,
Turns the tide of our life, and it never can rise.
"But first," said the boy, "it must flow."
Thus, watching its course from the bank of the stream,
They mused, as they sat side by side.
Each read different tales in the river's gleam—
One, whose with the flow of a glorious dream,
And one going out with the tide.

DAILY MARKET

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7 (AP)—The cotton market turned into a tug of war today which swung price ribbon far over into the lows before bullish sentiment recovered from the surprise and brought reserve strength into play where it hovered until the last hour of trading. Disbelief in the ultimate passage of the McNary-Haugen measure and poor cables gave the first pull toward the low side and prices moved 15 to 17 points before the bulls steadied, threw trade buying and exports into the backward tug and hauled the ribbon back to the starting point. In the last hour of trading, however, intermittent bear realizing tugs again pulled prices backward until they registered losses of six to eight points for the day. In the early morning trading, March traded down to 18.67, May to 18.83 and July to 14.91, 15 to 17 points below the previous close. The upward movement swept March into a new high at 18.82 and October to 14.36 to within a single point of Saturday's close. Exports totaled 46,932 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Advances in the cotton market last week were followed, by reactions today. There was some southern selling and realizing, but after declining to 12.53 for May, or about 17 points below Saturday's closing quotations, the price rallied to 14.02 on renewed covering. May closed at 12.98 compared with 11.98 at the close Saturday. The general market closed steady at net declines of 6 to 12 points. The market opened largely steady at a decline of 4 to 10 points under liquidation by recent buyers who were probably influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables and belief that the advance of last week had left the market in an easier technical position. Some trade buying and covering absorbed early offerings as prices worked lower, but the decline continued until March sold at 12.68, July at 14.10 and October at 14.31 or about 13 1/2 points net lower on active positions. This decline was accompanied by expressions of uncertainty in some quarters as to whether farm relief legislation would be actually enacted, but there was no indication of increased spot offerings in the south or hedge selling, and the market steadied up at mid day on renewed covering. Rallies extended to 12.81 for March, 14.22 for July and 14.44 for October, which carried the market back within 5 to 4 points of Saturday's closing quotations realizing continued, however, and there may have been a little more southern selling in the late afternoon, as a result of which last prices showed reactions of 3 to 4 points from the best. Private advices from the south claimed a continued steady basis in the spot markets. But local traders were evidently disposed to take profits on long contracts after the advance of last week, while waiting the further progress of legislation, or fresh trade developments. Private cables reported London and Manchester liquidation together with hedge selling in Liverpool, and that trade calling was less active, but a well sustained demand for cotton goods. Exports today 46,932 making 6,900, 746 so far this season. Port receipts, 42,343. U. S. port stocks, 2,568,237.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 (AP)—Record breaking big quantities of wheat about for Europe tended today to pull prices down, and, as a result, the large domestic arrivals, south-west and west wheat closed unsettled 3/8 cents to 1 cent net lower, corn 1/2 to 3/8 cent to 3/4 cent off, oats at quarter to 1/2 to 3/4 cent drop, and provisions varying from a shade decline to 10 cent advance. Corn and oats went lower with wheat and as a result of 577,000 bushels increase of the corn visible supply. Provisions averaged higher, the China situation having some effect on account of the uncertainty regarding Oriental oils.

POULTRY AND DAIRY BUSINESS IS FAST BECOMING ONE OF CHIEF SOURCES OF REVENUE TO TERRY COUNTY FARMS

Special to The Avalanche.
HOUSTON, Feb. 7.—The poultry and dairy business in Terry county is rapidly becoming one of the most important sources of revenue and promises to become within the next few years its most dependable industry. The following figures are rather astonishing to the residents of this county who have not heretofore kept in touch with results being attained by our farmers and are causing much comment among those who have been leading unimproved.

During the year ending December 31st, 1926, there was shipped 175,200 pounds of butter fat for which was paid $41,310. 48,768 pounds in turkeys brought $12,442. 92,847 pounds of chickens were sold for $25,622. 27,212 dozen eggs returned $12,318. $11,212 pounds in hides marketed for $1,196. At total value of $105,229. These figures only on purchases made by produce houses of Brownfield and do not include purchases made by our grocery merchants nor of any other town in the county.

Judging from receipts of January this year, our poultry and dairy shipment will be more than double that of the year just closed.

Send 180 Bulls to New Mexico Ranch

Special to The Avalanche.
HEREFORD, Feb. 7.—A deal has just been closed that sent 180 choice range Hereford bulls to the Captain Muesman ranch at Roswell, N. M., from seven breeders at Hereford, Texas. The price for the 180 head was not disclosed but it is reported to be much higher than local breeders received last year. This is an indication that the Hereford industry is on the upward trend.

Breeders of Hereford, Texas have built up a reputation for good Hereford stock and each year breeding stock goes from here to various parts of the United States and into Mexico.

Cowboy Band to Play in Floydada

Special to The Avalanche.
FLOYDADA, Feb. 7.—The Simmons University Cowboy Band, Inc., will give a concert in Floydada, Feb. 25, under the auspices of the High School music class. The band will be on its tour of the Panhandle and will visit Floydada, Tahoka, Snyder, Lamesa, Midland, and Big Spring. This was the official band at the inauguration of Dan Moody. The famous "pop" squad will accompany the band on its visit here.

W. A. Duke Is Again Held on Pro Charge

W. A. Duke, already out on bond in one liquor case, was yesterday charged in Justice W. S. Clark's court with violation of the prohibition law, and his bond set at $1,000. He was arrested Sunday by Deputy Sheriffs Vernice Ford, Terrill Williamson, Lem Cheshire, and R. Bundy.

The ground on which the White House stands at Washington is appraised at $10,000,000. The 16 acres in the plot were purchased originally for $1,000.

Rheumatic Pains Yield to Capudine

No matter what treatment your doctor may be giving you for the cure of rheumatism, you will find that the addition of Capudine to the treatment will greatly assist, by relieving the pain and reducing the fever and inflammation. Ask your physician about Capudine—nearly all of them approve it and many prescribe it regularly as a part of their treatment for rheumatism, gout, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia and nervous headache.

Remember that rheumatism is a dangerous disease. It should have the attention of your physician and every available remedy should be employed for the comfort, safety and welfare of the patient.

Will Show Anxiety Bulls at Amarillo

Special to The Avalanche.
HEREFORD, Feb. 7.—Seven Anxiety 4th Hereford bulls from the D. L. McDonald Hereford farm at Hereford, Texas, will be shown in the big Hereford show which will be held in Amarillo the first week in March. All seven of these husky aristocrats are sons of Super Anxiety, McDonald's premier herd bull. Three of the youngsters have been consigned to the Panhandle Hereford Breeders' Consignment sale to be held in Amarillo, March 2. The other four straight line bred Anxiety 4th Hereford bulls will be taken to Fort Worth to the big Southwestern exposition and fat stock show. The four have been consigned to the Texas Hereford breeders' sale in Fort Worth, March 9.

Mr. McDonald will also take six daughters of Super Anxiety to the Amarillo and Fort Worth shows, but none of these females are for sale.

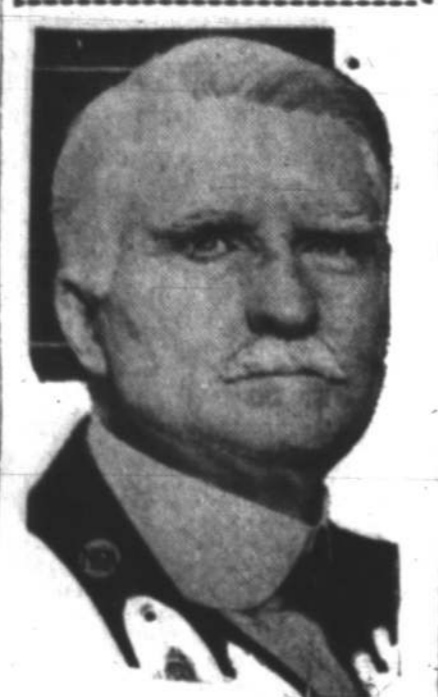

ARC IN OLD CASTLE

LONDON.—For nearly 1000 years Dunvegan Castle, in the Isle of Skye, was lighted by torch and lantern. Now it has been refitted with modern electric light. Dunvegan is said to be the oldest inhabited keep in Scotland, and is known as Macloed or Macloed. One of the castles' treasures is a drinking horn bearing the date 993.

HAIR TELLS IT

TOKYO.—You can tell if a Japanese girl is engaged by looking at her hair, according to Miss Constance Duncan, of the Y. W. C. A. in Kyoto. When the girls become engaged they "do" their hair in the old Japanese style, training and grasping it to stand out from their heads in graceful curves.

Owner of Recovered Car Finally Found

A Ford sedan, held by Lubbock police since early in January, when it was found abandoned on the streets here, soon will be returned to its owner at Laredo, Texas. The owner was located yesterday by Desk Sergeant J. T. Inman through an insurance firm in Dallas, after nearly six weeks of investigation and correspondence to various places over the United States, which included Baltimore, Maryland.

The car when found bore a Maryland license plate, which according to the information from Baltimore, was sold to the city water department there for 1926. The machine was in fairly good shape when found by the police here.

DUGGAN CHEERS FOR MOODY PLANS

W. T. C. C. HEAD BESPEAKS SUCCESS FOR YOUNG GOVERNOR

Special to The Avalanche.
LITTLEFIELD, Feb. 7.—H. Dan Moody is successful in carrying out the major portion of his ideas, I bespeak for him a most successful term of office, and for the people of the state greater unity, prosperity, and general satisfaction than for many years past. President Arthur P. Duggan of the West Texas chamber of commerce has said.

According to the head of the great regional organization of the west, "No one ever entering the office of the Governor of the State of Texas—has ever outlined such a comprehensive plan of wise and efficient administration as has Dan Moody, and if he can continue to carry the legislature with him, there is no doubt that his administration will prove to be one of the most valuable and constructive in the entire history of the state."

President Duggan of the West Texas chamber of commerce believes that Moody has outlined measures of economy, statesmanship, reform and political advancement of the very highest order. Many of the opinions of the new governor are directly in line with the plans and activities of the West Texas chamber of commerce. Moody is in favor of the tax survey of the state as advocated by the West Texas chamber of commerce and it is believed that important work will be done along this and other lines during the new governor's incumbency.

Only five men have ever held the rank of general in the American army.

Slaton Man Facing Liquor Law Charge

Jose Madrid was yesterday charged before Justice J. J. Ross of Slaton with violation of the prohibition law, and was locked up in the Lubbock county jail here pending making of bond of $1,000.

Which Prince Will She Pick For A Husband?

One royal suitor would be enough to make most girls proud. Consider, then, now Princess Giovanni of Italy feels—three princes are seeking her hand in marriage. The princess and her royal suitors are shown here. Above is Prince Wilhelm, son of the ex-crown prince of Germany; below is Archduke Albrecht of Hapsburg, who is contesting for a claim in the crown of Hungary; at the left is Prince Albrecht of Bavaria.
