Politicos Step Up Pace For Nebraska

Republicans, waging a stiff presidential nomination battle in Wisconsin, today stepped up their efforts to make Nebraska also a prime popularity testing ground.

Both states hold primaries next Tuesday to choose GOP and Democratic convention delegates.

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio drummed up a write-in campaign in Nebraska they hope can offset his losses in New Hampshire and Minnesota. And supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower tried to match the Taft drive.

Two weeks ago the Nebraska primary appeared of little national significance in the Republican picture with only Harold Stassen and Mrs. Mary Kenney, Lincoln housewife and backer of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, entered.

Taft's forces called in retired Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, a native Nebraskan, to give their campaign a shot in the arm.

Wedemeyer told newsmen he considered Taft "the best qualified avowed candidate for the presidency considering the conditions faced by our country today." He said Eisenhower was "an avowed candidate" but not MacArthur.

In the Democratic race, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee returned from Wisconsin to resume his Nebraska campaigning. Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, his April 1, opponent, told newsmen in Lincoln last night he thought "we are gaining on Kefauver."

Jack Bell, Associated Press political writer, wrote from Milwaukee that the Wisconsin outcome could hinge on Democrats who vote the GOP ticket. Voters are handed both tickets and given their choice.

Stassen has pledged that he will turn over to Eisenhower half of any of his delegates elected since the general is not on the ballot and write-ins are not permitted. Delegates backing Gov. Earl Warren of California have promised to support the general if the California governor drops out of the convention race. Warren himself has made no promises except to release his delegates if he fails to make headway.

Bell said a strong Eisenhower sentiment among Democrats could benefit both Warren and Stassen. He said Wisconsin politicians thought Warren would get the most good out of such votes even though he has not taken a stand one way or the other about Eisenhower.

Taft, the other GOP candidate in the three-way race, called the Stassen and Warren linkups with Eisenhower "hybrid tickets."

Opposition Flares On Steel Pay Rise

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Storm signals were up in Congress today on the administration's request to extend and strengthen the network of price, wage, rent, credit and materials control.

Angry comments about the proposed steel workers' pay boost, intended to avert a crippling strike, whipped up gales of opposition.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) is pushing the Senate banking committee to get is extension bill on the Senate floor.

But Congress was suspended until next week after Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) officials entered a hurried protest on tentative Senate committee actions.

One was a vote to revise the Herlong amendment which last year assured retailers and wholesalers of historic profit percentages, or margins, on price ceilings fixed "hereafter."

President Truman and price control officials have been pushing for repeal of the Herlong amendment, saying it is inflationary. An attempt to kill it was beaten 10 to 3 in the Senate committee yesterday.

Then the group voted to strike out the "hereafter." OPS officials said that would reopen thousands of price ceilings fixed prior to last August when the Herlong amendment began to operate.

Failure to kill the Herlong amendment and broadening its application is regarded as a blow to the administration.

Rent controls in Chicago and other large cities survived by a 7-6 vote in the Senate committee.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) moved to limit the rent control extension to strictly critical defense areas. This failed by a single vote.

Sen. Mood (D-Mich) said Dirksen's move would have killed federal rent controls in most large cities, except New York which is covered by state law.

President Truman had asked a two-year extension of the entire controls program but the Senate group accepted, without a record vote, the one-year extension proposed by Maybank.

Truman also had asked outright repeal of a section that now bans imports of foreign cheese, butter and dairy products. The committee did this but promptly substituted a world war imports ban which Maybank said was more liberal and should please the President.

Still intact was the Capehart amendment which Truman has called "terrible."

Inserted last year, this amendment directs officials fixing prices for manufacturers and processors to consider all post-Korea cost increases such as wage and tax boosts prior to July 26 last year.

There have been rumors of an attempt to move this deadline of July 26 forward and thus increase some price ceilings, but Sen. Capehard said he has no such plan.

For a brief time yesterday Sen. Moody won 7-6 approval of more liberal installment provisions on new automobile purchases.

Present law requries payment of one third down and the balance within 18 months. Moody, saying the new car market now is clogged because many buyers are unable to meet these terms urged a one-fourth down payment with 24 months on the balance.

Pilots Decline Credit For Landing Of Flaming Plane

HUGOTON, Kan. — (AP) — Two pilots guided a flaming airliner with 50 persons aboard to a perfect landing in a wheat field yesterday, then brushed off the feat as an ordinary job.

The Braniff airlines DC-4 came down with one of its four engines gone and a wing in flames. Only one passenger was injured.

Chief Pilot Jack Stanford commented tersely:

"The only sensible thing to do was land."

Minutes after the 45 passengers and five crew members scurried out, flames consumed virtually the entire plane.

Neither Stanford nor Co-pilot John Beakley, both of Dallas, would take credit for an extraordinary job. They had little to say, say.

But O. R. Stites, an Oklahoma City lawyer who was a passenger, described the landing "as smooth as any I've ever seen."

He gave this description:

"I was sitting on the right side about two seats back of the wing when I noticed fire around the right inboard engine. I called the stewardesses and they went forward to tell the captain (Stanford).

"He came back, took one quick look and told us to fasten our safety belts. Then he banked the plane to put the stress on the opposite wing and started down. I judged we were about 6000 feet above ground then.

"About halfway down the motor fell off."

"No one talked at all. I guess they were too scared, just like I was."

Stites said the passengers "could feel the heat of the flames as we came into the wheat field."

Another passenger was W. C. (Bill) McPhail, general manager of the Colorado Springs, Colo., Skysox in the Western Baseball league.

"I don't know much about airplanes," McPhail said. "But I still don't see how the pilot ever got us down. When we landed, they threw ropes out the doors and out of an emergency door on the left side of the plane.

"Most of the men jumped down, but the women slid down the ropes. One of the women, who said she was 82, wrapped

Agriculture Dept. Slash Urged By Farm Federation

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The American Farm Bureau Federation again has recommended substantial cuts in Agriculture department funds.

This was disclosed today in testimony of Allen B. Kline, its president, before the House Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee.

Rep. Whitten (D-Miss), chairman of the subcommittee, didn't like the idea. He told Kline:

"It is disturbing to me to see the head of the great farm bureau organization come in here this year as he did last year and recommend, with only two exceptions, curtailment of programs so vital in my judgment to the welfare of the nation."

Kline, advocating a balance of the budget, called for all possible reduction in federal expenditure in this emergency including cuts for agriculture "which directly affect us."

The bureau president proposed increases in appropriations of $4,300,000 for research; four million dollars for the extension service and an "adequate" meat inspection service, but urged heavy slashes elsewhere.

Rotary Gets First-Hand Look At Recently Completed Cable

Pampa Rotarians yesterday got a first hand look at a section of the coaxial cable completed Tuesday between Amarillo and Oklahoma City.

Development of the cable, its installation and capabilities were outlined by Roy McKinney, chief of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. toll service in Amarillo.

McKinney's talk was followed with a sound picture showing the component parts of the cable and how it is buried in the ground to protect it from the elements.

McKinney told Rotarians a new lead-encased line from Pampa to Jericho, going on into Amarillo, will be able to carry 48 conversations without interference. He said the cable to Jericho will be strung on poles instead of underground like the cross-Panhandle coaxial cable. The telephone company counts on prevention of damage from inclement weather, increased business and less cancelled long distance calls to make the cable pay for itself. The Pampa - Jericho cable will tie into the coaxial cable there.

McKinney also traced the technical developement of cross-country communications for voice and radip, and now television, from 1924 to the present day. He added that the line is equipped to carry television programs, and will, as soon as the company gets orders for the service from television or radio stations after September. But that, he said, depends largely on whether the radio stations can get allocations on necessary equipment and the various relay and amplifier stations needed can be built due to shortages in scarce materials.

The program was introduced by George Newbery, manager of the Pampa exchange of Southwestern Bell.

George Scott, president of Rotary announced that a transcribed program centered around the FBI and anti - Communist activities would be presented next week by Coy Palmer, manager of radio station KPDN.

The group is the local professional teachers' organization and is affiliated with the Texas State Teachers Assn. and the National Education Assn.

Miss Richey succeeds Jack Nichols, high school teacher.

Other officers elected for the year are Mrs. Hazel Poole, junior high teacher, first vice-president; Mrs. Ben Ogden, of Horace Mann, second vice-president; Mrs. Orland Butler, of junior high, secretary; Miss Alma Wilson, of Baker, treasurer; Miss Lillian Mullinax, of Sam Houston, corresponding secretary, and Alex Swenn, of Woodrow Wilson, parliamentarian.

The group is planning a barbecue April 29 for its final activity of the year.

Groundwork For Improving Traffic Signals Is Started

Groundwork for future improvement and expansion of the Pampa traffic signal system got underway yesterday as the first of 21 intersections went under traffic counters' pencils.

The count being taken will be used by the Pampa Safety commission: possible change of time cycles; and as an aid in locating new traffic signals in the future.

Under the recently approved $675,000 bond issue signal lights for N. Somerville and the W. Foster and Hobart intersections were included.

However, City Engineer Ray Evans said this morning that the count will actually determine whether the N. Somerville locations at W. Foster, W. Kingsmill and W. Francis are carrying the heaviest traffic. He added he had "little doubt, but that they would show the heaviest traffic counts."

The counting will be done on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, but only on clear days. These days were picked because they will show the average traffic tally, Evans said. The count is expected to take three weeks.

It will show the total number of cars entering each intersection, how many went straight, how many made left turns and right turns, from all directions.

Five School Board Candidates Draw For Position On Ballot

Ballots for the April 5 school board election of the Pampa Independent School district were in the hands of the printers today with absentee voting scheduled to start tomorrow.

Absentee balloting ends at midnight, Tuesday, three days before the election.

Only five candidates will appear on the ballot for the two three-year term seats expiring next month. Positions on the ballot were drawn for this morning in the school office by school officials and in the presence of reporters.

The five candidates will appear on the ballot in this order:

Frank D. Smith
W. B. Moore
E. L. "Gene" Green, Jr.
J. C. McWilliams
Elmo J. Hudgens

As usual, only one polling place will be used in the election, the lobby of the Pampa Junior High school.

Smith and McWilliams, both running for re-election were the first candidates to file for the office. They were followed by Hudgens and later by Moore. Last week a group of citizens circulated petitions in behalf of Green and Dr. Joe Donaldson, obtaining more than 500 names on each.

Donaldson, however, refused to run a day before the deadline for filing as a candidate rolled around. The young doctor, who served as president of the Pampa Quarterback club, said rumors were circulating around town that he was being backed by a "certain group" and he did not "want to substantiate them."

Moore, a Negro groceryman and minister, is the first of his race to ever make a try for the public office in Pampa.

McWilliams, an automotive dealer and Smith, a shoe store operator, are completing their first three-year terms. Hudgens, a welder for Humble Oil and Refining Co., is making his first bid for public office.

State Constitution Is Said Out-Grown

DALLAS —(AP)— The Texas League of Women Voters was told yesterday that Texas has grown out of its 76-year-old constitution but, "we're not informed enough to write a new one."

Virgil T. Seaberry, Eastland attorney who heads the state's committee on the constitution, told the League "any constitutional convention now would be an exhibition of prejudices."

Seaberry advocated a broad program of public education to show faults and virtues of the constitution. About 200 women are meeting.

Intensified Activities For Clubs Sought By Area Kiwanis

Representatives from nine area Kiwanis clubs last night heard district officers tell how they could build better clubs and better communities through intensification of activities.

Claude Morris of Vega, Texas, lieutenant governor of Division Six of the Texas-Oklahoma district, and Harold Wilson of Lawton, Okla., district secretary, spoke to more than 50 persons in the Palm room.

Morris said many Kiwanis activities went unreported. He urged the presidents and secretaries present to turn in full reports.

Wilson said District Six was one of the lowest in the division for reporting activities.

Pampa was 100 percent in its activities for January and February, but most of the clubs from Amarillo, Guymon, Boise City, Wheeler, Vega and Stinnett were lacking in one or more classifications.

He said vocational guidance, agriculture and support of churches should be emphasized.

"You belong to the finest service club in the world," he asserted. "Don't pass up the small things. Build your activities."

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock's school census is slated to be finished by April 1 or shortly thereafter, reports Elmer J. Moore, Shamrock superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Mary Lee Barth is conducting the census and those who have not been contacted by April 1 should get in touch with Mrs. Barth.

Supt. Moore said the Shamrock schools receive a state fund apportionment from the number of scholastics in the district, amounting to approximately $62 per child.

He said the school was particularly anxious to include all children who will be six years old by September 1.

Burglars Are Active Here

Burglars were active in Pampa last night as they stole an automobile from 701 N. Banks and an automobile radio from another car while the owner was attending a church service.

A 1949 two-door Chevrolet was taken from North Banks street about 3 a.m. this morning. Neighbors said they heard the dark green car being driven away. It is equipped with a loud muffler.

B. G. Gordon, 427 Hill, reported to police that someone stole a car radio from his car between 7 and 9:30 last night while it was parked near the First Christian church.

Police investigation was underway this morning but no results were released by officers.

Church Undergoing Crucifixion In China, Say Visting Missionaries

By CHARLES FRANKEL

"Part of the Christian church is undergoing a crucifixion," said Deane C. Walter, missionary to China for 25 years who returned to the United States seven months ago.

He and Mrs. Walter spoke to the Presbyterian church brotherhood last night.

The Presbyterian couple saw China under the control of the various Nationalist governments, under Japanese occupation and under Communist rule. He did not dwell on the political questions, but told of missionary work there.

Not as pessimistic as many persons who spent years with Chinese experiences, the preacher saw the withdrawal of the Western missionaries as a test of the church.

Under the Red rule, the Walters were able at first to teach student nurses English. High school students made the Walters' home their home as they studied Biblical stories and Christianity.

He saw an increase in the feeling for Christianity under the Communist regime because the people felt a need for the spiritual after the materialist propaganda.

Thirteen missionaries of his faith remain in China. All but two are attempting to get exit permits. Three are in jail and have not been heard from in a long time.

It took the Walters six months to get permission to leave China. He said if they remained in China they would have endangered their friends who remained loyal to them despite Communist propaganda asking for severance of all ties with "Western imperialists."

Verdict Expected Today In Shooting

STINNETT — (AP) — A verdict was expected today in the murder trial of Clyde Davis Hanks, 32, oilfield worker charged in the fatal shooting of Eddie Brock.

Brock, 30, was shot down at the door of his Borger home last Sept. 24. He was a former state Golden Gloves champion from Abilene and a drilling crew operator.

Hanks, also of Borger, yesterday portrayed himself as an unwilling "punching bag" for Brock.

The case went to the jury in 84th District court last night and the jurors retired without reaching a verdict.

Engineer Runs Two Million Miles With No Accidents

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — James Lemley is a railroad engineer who has driven trains 2,000,000 miles in nearly 40 years and never hit a motorist.

"I've just been lucky," he said.

His record is unusual. Almost equally unusual is the fact that in traveling a distance equal to 80 trips around the world none of his trains have ever been hit by a motorist. For in about one third of the nation's grade crossing accidents it is the motor car that crashes into the train.

"I sure would like to keep my record," said Lemley, a gray man of 69 who retires next September. "But these accidents are up to the motorists. How can you make them comply with the red warning lights? A train can't get off the track."

The railroads for some years have waged an intensive safety campaign to reduce grade crossing disasters, which account for about five percent of all auto fatalities.

To see the problem from an engineer's standpoint I rode in his cab the other day with Lemley. He pilots the Baltimore and Ohio's crack passenger train, "The Royal Blue," from Washington, D. C., to Jersey City, N. J.

The nine-car train is pulled by a 4,000 - horsepower diesel locomotive and reaches a speed of 70 to 80 miles an hour in the 223 mile-trip.

It turned out that the chief problems of Lemley and his fireman were to see that the track was clear — and to warn motorists.

"There are about 200 grade crossings along the way," Lemley said. Exactly 1,600 feet before each crossing stood a concrete whistle post. At each post Lemley tugged four times on the whistle cord — two longs, a short, and another long. And the whistle — it is really a horn — moaned with a sound audible for miles.

"The train bell rings before each crossing, too," explained the engineer. "But the sound travels forward and you can't hear it here in the cab."

Lemley, a white-haired man with two grandchildren, has to pull that whistle cord 800 times by law. But he did it at least another 100 times for himself — to signal back to waving kids, farmers, and housewives hanging laundry on the line.

"You get to know quite a few people along the way over the years," he said, smiling.

It gives you a lift to hear the singing rails as you zoom along in a locomotive cab. I began to understand the feeling railroad men have for their work.

With us in the cab rode Lemley's boss, Wilson H. Stevens, B. & O. road foreman of engines, a former engineer himself. As a big dump truck suddenly trundled across the tracks ahead of us in violation of the red warning lights, I asked what would happen if the truck suddenly stalled.

"We'd hit him," said Stevens. "We could slow down — but we couldn't stop in time.

"I've hit 'em myself. It gives you a completely helpless feeling. You keep waving at the driver, trying to tell him to get out. What do you think of? Well" — he hesitated. "I've had five children myself. All I remember thinking about when I saw there was going to be an accident was"

He hesitated again. "I just hoped there wouldn't be any kids in the car."

There was a long silence among the three trainmen as we roared on down the rails. Trainmen hate to talk about grade crossing accidents, because they don't feel there is much they themselves can do to halt them.

When I climbed down from the cab later, Lemley said, almost apologetically:

"You know, I've been lucky — just lucky, that's all."

A trainman then mentioned a case in which a motorist at a crossing crashed into the caboose at the end of a 100-car freight train.

"We still can't figure that driver out," he said, scratching his head.

DPs Trapped In Shanghai

HONG KONG — (AP) — An International Relief Organization official estimates there are more than 5,000 displaced persons still trapped in Communist Shanghai because nobody wants them. Most of them are White Russians, according to IRO Special Envoy Thomas Jamieson.

The problem is to find countries economically capable of absorbing them, he said. Australia, Canada and the United States have taken in 640,000 displaced persons in the past few years while the United Kingdom took 80,000.

Hey, New York! Be On The Lookout For Henry On A Mule

By HENRY McLEMORE

To start this out straight from both shoulders, let me say that I do not trust people who advertise automobiles.

This doesn't mean that I am not a trusting man. I am a man who has implicit faith in the ground-hog. When I break a mirror I jump out of a window. When I spill salt I throw it over my shoulder, and when I sneeze I say something that sounds like "Gee, what is your height?"

But I don't think automobile people are on the dead, golderned level. When I bought my first car I was assured that it would last me a lifetime, that it was the supreme perfection of round-shouldered men on draft boards, and that if I bought any other car people on the street would look at me as if I were an utter fool.

That was long ago. The car that was to last a lifetime didn't last a lifetime. The car that very next year the same engineers i trusted so much came out with a car that said any car I had was something Daniel Boone wouldn't drive.

It is now 1952 and I have on my hands a four-wheeled machine that cost me close to thirty-five hundred bucks. It is only three years old, and has fewer than 20,000 miles on it, but I might just as well have a dehorned ibex on my hands as this car. I tried to sell it the other day and the used car dealer said he would give me two packs of cigarettes and a round trip to Coney Island for the machine.

I protested. I said that millions of dollars had been spent advertising this automobile as the last word. That was the last word I heard from him. He went over and started putting whitewash on black tires, optional plus tax, if available.

I won't tell you what kind of car mine is, because that wouldn't be fair, but there was a Civil War president who stole his name from the car. The President I'm speaking of had a beard and so does my car, as far as trying to sell it is concerned.

When I bought this car they said I was getting a steal. The spark plugs were all married and could show their marriage and birth certificates. The back window was in there just to enable me to see the people I passed. Easy to park, so easy that a one-year-old in diapers could bring it to the curb without yelling for Mama.

Now I see they have improved on my car. A baby can breathe on the wheel and it will go straight to any destination you pick out on the map. When you stop for a soft drink, the hood jumps up, tips its hat, shakes your hand, and says, "Don't worry about my using oil because I'm a root beer man."

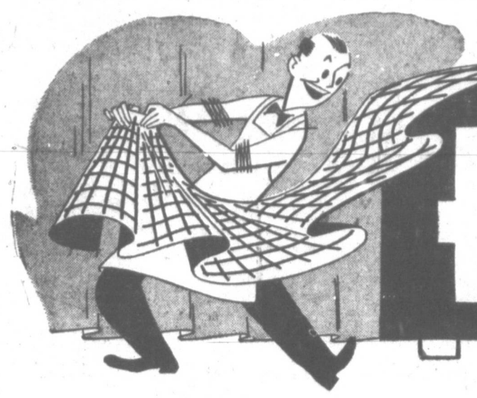

When this new car passes by, women quit hanging clothes on the line to run out and see how pretty it is, and their husbands quit their plows to say, "Ain't seen nothin' so beautiful since Mary Pickford was here in a picture show."

I'm going to turn my car in for a mule, even though it costs me a few dollars. Mules don't have white-wall ears. They don't have shift-o-matic, extra if desired, but optional. When you get a mule you get a mule. But when you get a car these days you don't get a car. Well, you get a car, but only for one year. But when you get a mule you've got yourself something that's just as good when it dies as when it was born, and doesn't need any chrome on it, or horsepower. I consider automobile people varmints. I'll show them up when I cruise down 5th Avenue on my mule. Ithink I'll name him Abe.

Oilmen Favor Unitization, Less Controls

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Unitization, as well as decontrol, will come in for attention during today's deliberations of Texas Independent Producers & Royalty owners association committees here.

The committees are meeting in advance of the general sessions of the association's 6th annual convention here tomorrow.

Whatever recommendations come out of the committee meetings will be presented to the membership, of which approximately 400 are expected to be present at the general sessions.

In the matter of unitization, condemnation of all compulsory features anticipated. At the same time, it is expected to be pointed out that voluntary unitization is a part of any well-rounded conservation program for the industry.

A united front for decontrol from the standpoint of both price and materials may develop.

The price committee, in urging decontrol, is expected to lay greatest stress on the fact that small companies can not prosper under controls represented in the price program.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK — Cotton futures were quiet Wednesday in mixed trading. Short covering and light trade buying imparted a steady undertone, with hedging and liquidation limited. Kansas Jayhawks NCAA Champions

SEATTLE — (AP) — Kansas rules the world of collegiate basketball today and big Clyde Lovellette wears the crown.

The Jayhawks won the NCAA title in convincing fashion last night by downing St. John's of Brooklyn 80-63 in the championship finale of the 1952 playoffs.

Lovellette, keeping up a terrific scoring pace with the championship chips down, led the way with 33 points. His record-breaking performance brought him the designation as most valuable player of the tourney.

The Kansas conquest came after Illinois won third ranking by downing Santa Clara 67-64 in the consolation game. Kansas had beaten Santa Clara and St. John's had upset Illinois in the semi-finals.

Kansas, which was rated eighth by the nation's sports writers in the 1952 Associated Press poll, never gave the Redmen of St. John's a chance in the payoff game. Lovellette put the Kansans in front with an opening free throw and they stayed there all the way.

The Jayhawks set up an iron defense that kept the Redmen in check so they never were able to keep a sustained offensive clicking until the final period. It was the only one in which the losers held a scoring edge.

Meanwhile, Lovellette kept firing his deadly pushups and hook shots to run up a dozen field goals along with nine free throws.

Guard Bill Lienhard and Forward Bob Kenny added a dozen points each as they shared the sharpshooting role with Lovellette, and Guard Gene Kelley was a sparkplug on the floor, a sparkplug on the floor.

The 6-foot 9-inch Lovellette ran his four-game NCAA playoff scoring total to 141 points. He had broken the old record of 83 points in the first three games. It had been set by Don Sunderlage of Illinois last year.

He also set a new free throw record of 35 for the four games. The old record of 27 also was held by Sunderlage.

Another record that fell before the deadeye Kansans was the high score for an NCAA championship final. The 80 points topped the 71 tallied by City College of New York in beating Bradley for the title in 1950.

The tight Kansas defense kept the St. John's star center, Bob Zawoiuk, fairly well in check through most of the game as Lovellette hung over him like a leaning tower under the basket. Zawoluk got nine points in sparking a fourth quarter St. John's drive, bringing his game total to 20. He fouled out three and a half minutes before the end.

Kansas made it look like an impending runaway at the start, in running up a 7-1 margin. The Redmen rallied to pull up within a point at 10-9. Then Kansas started clicking to run up an 18-13 first quarter lead and a 41-27 halftime score. Kansas hit a decisive second period hot streak for 12 points while St. John's could get only a single field goal.

Santa Clara kept challenging all the day.

After the score was tied at 57-57 and 58-58, Illinois pulled ahead to 64-60 and held on to finish three points in front.

College Boy, Chuck Davey, Batters Ex-Champ Williams

CHICAGO — (AP) — After it was all over you would expect the winning fighter to say: "I murdered de guy."

Instead you heard Chuck Davey orate: "I'm glad the referee stopped it because I would hate to have to see such a great former champion as Ike Williams knocked unconscious."

And then, in Williams dressing room where he was on a rubbing table with his seconds dabbing cotton on his gashed cheek, his manager said:

"Ike was lightweight champion for six years and was the best with class and punch. . .three years ago you should have seen him pulverize. . ."

And so it went last night at Chicago Stadium.

Blinky Palermo, Ike's manager whose license in Illinois has been suspended pending a probe of a police record, hovered ove his has-been like a mother hen.

"We didn't take Davey seriously enough," Blinky repeated. "Ike would like one more fight. As for a rematch with Jimmy Carter (who dethroned Williams for the lightweight crown 11 months ago) we won't hold him to a return bout now — it wouldn't be fair to the public. But a couple years ago Ike could have. . ."

Ike, on the dressing table, didn't say a word. There was the impression in the whole room that this one-time lightweight king was washed up at 28 after 149 fights as a pro.

Davey, holder of a masters degree from Michigan State, had graduated to the ranks of a top welterweight contender.

He remained undefeated through 32 professional bouts by scoring a fifth round technical knockout over Williams in the televised scheduled 10 rounder in Chicago Stadium last night. Each weighed 145 pounds.

Davey's southpaw style appeared to fluster Williams — a veteran who shouldn't be bewildered by it after beating 10 portsiders in the past.

Davey's speed and buzz - saw cuffing was just too much for Ike who kept holding his one-lethal right cocked but couldn't pull the trigger.

Williams was the stalker continuously, but was like a hunter who flushed the quail and then found his gun wasn't loaded.

Lew Tendler, the terrific southpaw mauler of the Twenties who helped train scholarly Davey, said: "Williams is a nice fellow. . . he has enough money. . .he should quit. Even a train stops, and Williams ain't even a train any more."

24 Years in National League

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Q. What was the largest salary Honus Wagner ever received as a major league ball player?

Beans Reardon

A. Pittsburgh paid him $350 a month in 1900, and, while the Flying Dutchman was the best paid performer of his time, the most he ever got was $10,000 a year.

Q. Is Grover Cleveland Alexander the only 20th century big league pitcher able to bag 30 or more wins three years in succession?

A. No. Christy Matthewson reached the 30s in 1903-04-05, won 37 in 1908, when he walked only 42 in 416 innings.

Q. Has there ever been a case of a ball player being killed in a major league game?

A. Yes. Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, was hit on the head by Carl Mays, the submarine pitcher of the Yankees, at the Polo Grounds, Aug. 16, 1920, died later in the hospital. A tragic quirk of fate was that Chapman, veteran of 11 seasons, had been planning to retire the following year from baseball.

All Pampa players wishing to attend the tournament are asked to leave their name with Johnny Austin at the pro shop, phone 4410, before 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Last year Pampa had the largest representation at each of the meets.

Officials of the association held a meeting yesterday morning at the Pampa Country Club to iron out final details for Sunday's opening match. R. M. Samples of Pampa is president of the association this year.

Basketball Rules Due For Changing

SEATTLE — (AP) — Basketball's rules doctors will operate today on late-game stalling and cheap fouls — and in the opinion of most coaches who watched a trial run last night it should be major surgery.

It seemed certain that the rules body — the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada — would come up with something along the line of last night's experiment in the Illinois - Santa Clara consolation game at the NCAA championships, won by the Illini, 67-64.

Briefly, here were the changes tried:

1. All foul shots had to be taken. Present rules permit a fouled team to take the ball out of bounds and retain possession, instead of shooting.

1. A second shot was awarded when the first was missed on any foul, either defensive or offensive, up to the final three minutes.

3. In the final three minutes, every foul was considered intentional and worth two shots.

The ball remained in play if the last foul shot was missed. It went to the opposing team if the toss was made.

Howard Hobson, Yale coach, had this to say:

"It certainly didn't hurt the game and made it faster, with a better finish. There was the same ball hawking. In my opinion the trial was very successful."

Harry A. Combes, coach of the Big Ten champs from Illinois, called the changes "very fine."

"They had a lot of merit from the spectators' standpoint and took the pressure off the officials. We experimented with the same rule in the Big Ten two years ago and liked it," he added.

Bill Morris, assistant coach at Washington, thought the revision was well balanced because "forced shooting of all free throws gives the team behind a chance to catch up, while two shots on all fouls in the final three minutes also helps a team deliberately fouled."

The major dissenter was Santa Clara's coach, Bobby Feerick, who thought the idea would increase, rather than curtail, stalling. He said a team ahead, knowing it would get two shots in the closing minutes, would invite fouls by hanging onto the ball. That's what his team tried to do and failed, with the score 58-58 at the three-minute mark.

The crowd watching the Illinois - Santa Clara encounter did not seem to notice that free throws could not be waived.

None of the coaches questioned made any mention of this phase of the experimental rule change.

However, the National Association of Basketball Coaches went resoundingly on record, 45-5, yesterday in favor of banning the waiver of foul shots.

Double Main Event On Mat Card Tonight; Girls Here

A double main event will be featured tonight at the Southern Club when the weekly wrestling show gets underway at 8:15.

In the first headline attraction, blonde Loraine Johnson tangles with beauteous Jo Ann Mullenniex, Loraine, a Red Wing, Minn., girl, is a natural athlete who has Mildred Burke, queen of the women wrestlers, as her idol. Jo Ann, from Reynoldsburg, O., is a former stenographer who found office work too tame.

They will meet in a two-out-of-three fall, one hour time limit scrap.

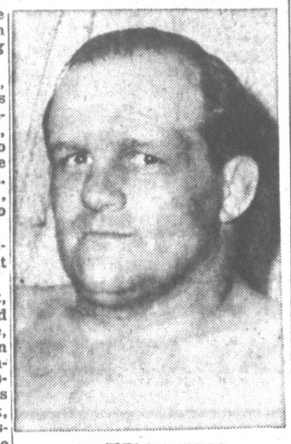

In the semifinal main event, popular Billy Hickson, the ballad singing boy from Knoxville, Tenn., will tangle with badman Benny Trudell, Montreal, Canada's gift to professional wrestling. The two were opponents on a tag team here last week, with Trudell being on the losing team. This match will be another two-out-of-three fall affair, with a 45-minute time limit.

In the opener, newcomer Johnny Pavich of Hungary, tangles with good-looking and popular Tommy Martindale in a 20-minute, one fall bout.

Tickets will go on sale at the Southern club at 5 p.m. this afternoon and remain on sale until fight time. The matches will be broadcast from ringside over KPDN, starting at 8:05.

The Hickson-Trudell scrap will be a renewal of a war started in Odessa several weeks ago. They met down there, went the full distance to a draw and were rematched, and again went to a draw. They hope to determine something from this match.

The boys in the opener are both newcomers to the local arena, although Martindale has been in the circuit for quite some time. Pavich is a newcomer to the circuit as well as to America. His talents will be displayed locally for the first time tonight.

Three Caballeros Still Are Missing As Oilers Open Camp

Few thought that the recent revolution in Cuba would have anything to do with baseball in Pampa, Texas, but right now it appears it may have. Anyway, the Oilers' three gay cabelleros from South of the Border down Havana way, aren't in sight yet.

Yesterday's vacation special airliner arriving from the little country south of Florida failed to carry a single one of the three new Oilers, Jose Blanco, Juan Montero or Manuel Temmes. Whether they are still free and roaming around the country of Cuba is unknown; they might have been jailed during the revolution. No matter what the situation, Oiler officials can do no more than take a "wait and see" attitude. It's impossible to contact the three other than by mail, which takes almost a month for the round trip.

Meanwhile, the rest of the club was scheduled to break out bats and balls this noon at its Cuero spring training base as rookie Manager Jake Phillips strives to get his athletes in shape for a quick start from the gate on April 23. The Oilers have a week in which to get muscles unlimbered before the first spring training game at Cuero against the Amarillo Gold Sockers, who are training at nearby Gonzales.

The Oilers will return home on the 18th of April to play the Sox in Pampa, go to Amarillo the next day to return the tilt, and then on the 20th will entertain the collegians from Southwestern State Teachers college at Weatherford, Okla. They open the regular 140-game schedule three nights later against the neighboring Borger Gassers.

Meanwhile, out at Oiler Park, Business Manager Ivy Griffin is overseeing repairs of the park and working on details for opening day and selling box seats and fence signs.

Work is being done on straightening the fence, strenthening the backstop, and the largest improvement of all, doubling the size of the men's rest room. Before long the lights will be painted and erected, and then Pampa ball fans will know the season is really here.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHOENIX, Ariz. —(AP)— Signs of spring in the great Southwest:

The Chicago Cubs have been slaughtering everything in sight and the pitching monsters of the Cleveland Indians haven't been able to win for losing. As usual, the exhibitions do not count in the final standings.

Leo Durocher of the Giants says he doesn't know what's eating his old pal Charlie Dressen of the Dodgers.

"I keep reading where he says we've been laughing at his club all winter. Hell, I haven't even mentioned the Dodgers all spring until right now. I know better than anyone does how lucky we were when Thomson hit that homer."

Roy Hamey, the Yankees' trouble-shooter, is out this way trying to put together a new scouting staff for the champs, who suffered a serious blow when their two famous talent hunters, Joe Devine and Bill Essick, died within a short time of each other.

Between them, Devine and Essick were responsible for practically all the West Coast stars such as DiMaggio, Gomez, Crosetti and many others who won fame with the Bombers over the past 20 years.

Eddie Montague, the young scout who dug up Willie Mays for the Giants down in Birmingham, has been shifted to the West Coast as the big league clubs prepare to wrestle their coast league pals for talent hidden among the vineyards.

Commissioner Ford Frick passed through Denver on his way to the coast and he brought word that the two-game series between the Giants and Indians in the Colorado capital next week is going to be something, indeed. Given a break in weather—anything short of a foot of snow—he declares the big leaguers will play to two capacity crowds of 18,000 and pay for a lot of training camp steaks.

It isn't Frick's business any more to blow the bugles for any one team or set of teams, and he conscientiously avoids the controversial topics. He does, however, go so far as to say he was more impressed by the Boston Braves than any team he saw in the Florida group. He retains an especially vivid memory of Ed Matthews, the big Braves rookie who accidentally crashed into him on the practice field. He says he still hurts all over every time he thinks about it.

Some astute observers do not feel that the Chicago White Sox are displaying quite the fire and hustle they did in training games a year ago. From what he's seen of them, Rogers Hornsby doesn't hesitate to say his St. Louis Browns will finish higher than Paul Richards' speed boys.

And speaking of speed, the Giants scoff out loud at a recently printed suggestion that the Sox are the fastest club in baseball. They declare that Bobby Thomson would beat either Minnie Minoso or Jim Busby by close to 10 yards in the 100, and that several others of their number, including Al Dark, Willie Mays and Whitey Lockman, would at least hold their own with anything the Sox can offer.

The Giants believe quite seriously that Thomson might have been the greatest sprinter in history if he had been trained for it. No baseball player has come even close to the flying Scot in a match race, and he ran right away from Vic Pollock, Army's top sprinter of two seasons back.

Earl Harrist, a slim 31-year-old righthander, is making good in what probably will be his last chance to stick in the major leagues.

Harrist, a knuckleball artist has turned in some pitching for the "new" St. Louis Browns. At the moment he is counted on for relief chores, a job he performed for Washington and the Chicago White Sox in 1948.

Earl's chief claim to fame is the two no-hitters he pitched for Syracuse of the International League in 1946. He toiled for the White Sox in 1947 and after dividing the 1948 season with Chicago and Washington, returned to the minors.

Harrist was drafted for $10,000 by the Browns from Oakland. Last fall probably upon the recommendation of the Brownie Manager Rogers Hornsby, Harrist won 16 games from Oakland last year and impressed Hornsby who was pilot at Seattle.

The Browns, behind the stout pitching of Ned Garver and Harrist, turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, at San Bernardino, Calif., yesterday.

Garver blanked the Pirates over the first five innings. Harrist was touched for both Pittsburgh runs in the ninth. The Browns sewed the game up in the first frame, jumping rookie Ron Necciai for all four of their runs on three singles, two walks and a wild pitch.

The Chicago White Sox exploded for five runs in the ninth inning to down the Cleveland Indians, 8-5, at Tucson, Ariz. Rookie George Wilson, once with the Boston Red Sox, broke up the game with a three-run homer off recruit Gerald Fahr.

Home runs also figured prominently in the New York Giants' 9-6 triumph over the Chicago Cubs at Phoenix, Ariz. The victory was the Giants' seventh straight.

Bobby Thompson, Al Dark and Whitey Lockman homered for the National League champions to wipe out a 4-0 deficit. Ron Northey poled a round triper for Chicago in the seventh against Sal Maglie to end Maglie's streak of 19 scoreless innings.

The Baltimore Orioles of the International League turned back the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-3, at Hollywood, Fla. Veterans Dixie Howell, Dwain Sloat and Blix Donnelly stopped A's on six hits. Ray Murray accounted for all of Philadelphia's runs with an inside the park homer in the fifth.

Scheduled games between Cincinnati and the Philadelphia Phils, Brooklyn and the Boston Braves, Washington and Detroit, the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati "B" squad and Tulsa of the Texas League, were cancelled because of rain.

The Yanks, Braves and Reds sliced their rosters. The Yanks sold Infielder Gene Mauch, drafted from Milwaukee, to the Cardinals for the $10,000 waiver price.

Boston shipped nine players to the minors and Cincinnati three. The Braves sent Infielders Johnny Logan, Jack Dittmer, Pitchers Bob Hall, Murry Wall, Don Liddle and Catchers Jim Parks and Jim Solt to Milwaukee and Outfielder Harry Hanebrink and Pitcher Norm Roy of Atlanta.

Cincinnati optioned pitchers George McPhail and Buzz Zieser and Catcher Hobie Landrith to Tulsa.

Segura Heads For Masters Title

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Little Pancho Segura plays as if there was a dollar at stake on every point in the Masters Pro Tennis Tournament, and he may not be far wrong.

There's a top prize of $3,000 up for grabs in the $10,000 double round robin event sponsored by the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities. And even though Dick Gonzales — another Pancho — is undefeated after four matches, little Pancho thinks he still has a chance of collecting the big money.

"I'm not playing my best tennis yet. I've been playing on clay courts too much," Segura explained after he had handed bulky Frank Kovacs a 6-2, 6-3 trimming last night. "These other fellows (Gonzales and Jack Kramer) have been playing on cement. It's a much faster game."

It looked faster, too, when Gonzales again showed his mastery over Kramer by winning last night's second match, 6-4, 6-4. Kramer, still is troubled by an aching back, flashed some of his old form and speed to win the first three games in the second set. But Gonzales came right back to take five in a row.

CITIZENSHIP FOR MEXICAN GIs

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Lloyd Bentsen, Jr., of McAllen, yesterday asked Congress to authorize American citizenship for Mexicans who are on active duty with United States military forces in the Korean hostilities.

Training Camp News Briefs

By The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(AP)— Manager Casey Stengel has named Vic Raschi as his opening day pitcher, but the selection came as no surprise.

The Yanks open the season against the Philadelphia Athletics on April 15 and Raschi boasts a lifetime 20-2 record over the A's.

PHOENIX, Ariz. —(AP)— Trade rumors have been revived in the camp of the New York Giants with the arrival of Pittsburgh General Manager Branch Rickey.

Giant Manager Leo Durocher is looking for a left-handed pinch-hitter and part time outfielder. George Metkovich of the Pirates fills the bill. The Giants reportedly are willing to give up Catcher Ray Noble, Infielder Bob Hofman and Pitcher Sheldon Jones or George Bamberger.

ORLANDO, Fla. — (AP) — Irv Noren says he isn't worried about his current batting slump—it happens every spring. And his Washington boss, Senator Manager Bucky Harris, agrees.

"I can't buy a base hit in the spring," Noren said; "and I've known it for years. That's the reason I flunked out with the Brooklyn Dodgers three times in their spring training camps. One look at me, and I was dropped like a hot stove lid."

Harris said the New York Yankees know Noren's history "and they still want him. So do I. That's why a deal wasn't made last month."

CLEARWATER, Fla. — (AP) — Southpaw pitching ace Curt Simmons is coming home from the Army — and with that anouncement the chances of a second National League penant in 37 years for the Philadelphia Phillies went skyrocketing today.

Manager Eddie Sawyer and Owner Bob Carpenter said they were notified the slim, dark-haired southpaw would be sent to a port of embarkation in Europe about April 1 and would trade his rifle for a baseball glove shortly after reaching this country.

LAKELAND, Fla. —(AP)— Cutting of rookies from the Detroit Tiger roster is expected to start any day with at least five of 15 newcomers remaining with the squad.

Those expected to go north when the Tigers leave here a week from Friday are Pitchers Dick Littlefield and Billy Hoeft, Dick Littlefield and BZilly Hoeft.

Most likely farm club candidates include Outfielder George Lerchen, Infielder John Phillips, Shortstop Alex Garbowski, Second Baseman Al Federoff and Pitchers Dick Marlowe, Ernie Funk and Al Yaylian.

Art Houtteman was set to go at least seven inings today when the Tigers take on the Philadelphia Phillies at Clearwater. Yesterday's game with the Washington Senators was called off because of rain.

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — If the Chicago White Sox are going anywhere this baseball season they'll do it in haste.

Last year Manager Paul Richards came up with Minnie Minoso, who led the league in stolen bases with 31. Then there was Jim Busby who was runner-up in the circuit with 26.

Now another speedster seems to have won a job with the Sox. He's Hector Rodriguez, the Cuban third sacker who led the International League in stolen bases in 1951 with 26.

Another whiz who shows promise of catching on is Don Nicholas who filched 45 bases with St. Paul and Mobile last year.

An outfield of Busby, Minoso and Nicholas this season may be just about as fast a fly-chasing trio as ever played on any one team.

But Richards wants to know: "Can they steal first?"

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — There will be a switch in the Chicago Cubs' outfield this season.

Manager Phil Cavarretta, who is against juggling his outer garden men, says "it will be Hal Jeffcoat and Bob Addis."

"I just can't help myself," he says. "Neither is outstanding enough to stay in centerfield every day."

Cavarretta ranks Addis, the ex-Boston Brave who was obtained in a winter swap for Jack Cusick, as the more effective hitter while the fleet-footed Jeffcoat is more accomplished defensively.

"I just can't figure out Jeffcoat," says Phil. "I think he has hit a high of .279 in four years with us. One day he looks great and the next he's the most terrible long hitter you ever saw. Giving him batting advice just seems to confuse him that much more."

CLEARWATER, Fla. — (AP) — The fate of the rookies trying to crash the Philadelphia Phillies varsity rests today in the hands of four men.

Manager Eddie Sawyer says he doesn't make the decision himself on whether the youngsters stay with the club or go back to the minors.

1-Hitter Tops Gophers

AUSTIN — (AP) — Riley Verdine pitched one - hit ball here yesterday as the Texas Longhorns blanked the Minnesota Gophers, 5-0.

Rain halted the game at the end of the fifth inning, but Verdine had been the master of the situation all the way.

Two Minnesota errors helped the Longhorns along as they were able to get only three hits off the offerings of Paul Giel.

Damascus Guns Belong On Mantel

By WARREN PAGE
Shooting Editor

Ever try running a Model T Ford on aviation gasoline? Burned out the valves and popped her gaskets, didn't it? Feeding today's shells into a damascus-barreled shotgun does much the same thing — except that it's more than damaging; it's actually unsafe.

The heyday of damascus barrels came between 1875-1900. Thousands of damascus - tubed shotguns were imported into this country from Belgium and England, thousands more put up in our own gun plants. But regardless of flossy engraving and handsome stocks, the best of these muskets are as out of date as the Stanley Steamer — and they're dangerous.

Those weapons were built when black powder was standard for shot shells and were designed for pressures no higher than 6000 pounds per square inch. Therefore, even if the damascus oldtimer was built with a 100 percent safety margin, it is on the ragged edge with modern shot shells.

Many damascus owners figure they can get by without losing a hand or an eye by using "light" loads. You might shoot the oldtimer the rest of your life without a blow-up. You might get away with passing on blind curves, too.

The "light" loads have nothing to do with it. Under certain conditions of shot shell loading, wadding pressures, the types of powder, chamber measurements, the pressures in hulls throwing shot charges under maximum will run just as high as in duck loads of 4's. A damascus - barreled shotgun will blow up only once, and it's very nearly as likely to let go with low-based shells as it is with the high-brass type.

Furthermore, most of those oldtimers were built with chambers for 2 9-16 or 2 5-8 shells, fired length. Most 1952 shotgun fodder comes with a pie crimp—except for the hulls made by Federal with their bustible top wads—and today's pie-crimp shells all open out to 2 3-4 fired length, regardless of what they may measure before you shoot 'em.

When you fire a long hull in a short chamber the cardboard unfurls into the forcing cone of your barrel, the tapering section between chamber and bore, and partially plugs it up. Pressures rise as much as 15 percent. This stunt in a damascus job makes a bad matter worse.

How can you spot a damascus barrel? They may be marked as London Twist, Belgian Laminated. Damascus barrels are usually browned, not blued like modern tubes. Always you can see as an indelible part of the metal a wavy spiralling grain, often in definite handsome patterns.

The spiral pattern comes from the method of construction. Alternate strips of iron and steel, of low tensile strength by today's pressures, were twisted and welded into ribbons. These in turn were twisted around a mandrel and welded into a tube through which the finished barrel could be bored. Look for the twisty pattern.

If you have a fowling piece with damascus tubes, no matter how sweetly it points, give it well-earned retirement. Hang it over the mantelpiece. If you just don't give a hoot about your left hand or right eye, at least call your insurance man for accident insurance rates.

President Asks Congress To Admit More Immigrants

KEY WEST, Fla. —(AP)— President Truman has asked Congress to open immigration gates to admit 300,000 additional Europeans during the next three years. Many escaped "victims of Communist tyranny" would be included.

This request highlighted a 4000-word, three-point program drafted at the little White House asking Congress to:

"(1) Provide aid for the unfortunate victims of oppression who are escaping from Communist tyranny behind the Iron Curtain.

"(2) Continue our participation in the international effort now being made to assist in the migration and resettlement throughout the world of a substantial number of persons from the overpopulated areas of Western Europe.

"(3) Authorize additional immigration into this country, on a limited basis, to aid in alleviating the problems created by Communist tyranny and overpopulation in Western Europe."

No estimate of the cost of the three-year "emergency period" immigration was contained in the message. It suggested immigrants be brought in at the rate of 100,000 a year.

The message followed up a presidential directive yesterday allocating $4,300,000 of mutual security funds for immediate use to form able-bodied men and specialists escaping from behind the "Iron Curtain" into elements of the Eisenhower military forces supporting the North Atlantic treaty organization.

Keep Foe Guessing Is Excellent Advice

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please discuss the bidding of this hand," requests a Milwaukee correspondent. "We played it at two no-trump and made ten tricks, but tight defense could have held us to eight tricks.

"Should we have reached a game contract? If so, should North have jumped to three no-trump instead of only two — or should South have proceeded on to three no-trump?"

It's a borderline hand, but experts would want to reach a game contract. They're quite willing to play such hands for game on the theory that the opponents will seldom find the killing defense.

Three no-trump is beaten if West opens a heart, for then the defenders can get three heart tricks and two top clubs. The defense is hard to find if West opens a diamond. Dummy wins and returns a club, and East has a problem.

He can play a low club, hoping that his partner will win and lead a heart. But even if West does all this, the hearts will produce only two tricks if South has both the queen and ten or any of several four-card holdings in the suit.

East is likely to decide to play his partner for five diamonds headed by the queen. Hence East will put up his ace of clubs at once and return a diamond to force out dummy's top card before West's entry is removed. This line of play will allow South to win at least nine tricks.

North's bid of two no-trump is quite correct in an expert game. It shows a hand that is too strong for an opening bid of one no-trump but not strong enough for an opening bid of two no-trump. This is quite a reasonable description of the North hand.

South should proceed on to three no-trump. If North had opened with one no-trump, South would consider but would eventually decide against a raise to two no-trump. The decision would be a close one, however, so South should not hesitate when North shows a hand that was too strong for an opening bid of one no-trump.

Rita Hayworth Planning Motor Trip, Then Reno For Divorce

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Rita Hayworth says she will take a month's motor tour of the Southwest and then drive to Reno for her divorce from Prince Aly Khan.

The flame-haired actress finishes work for her picture this week. She has purchased a station wagon and will drive to Southwest sun resorts with her secretary, Margaret Potter. Then she will report to Reno to pick up her divorce from the playboy son of Aga Khan, Moslem leader.

In an exclusive interview, Miss Hayworth scotched recurrent rumors that she is planning a return to Europe to reconcile with Prince Aly. She told me she has not been in touch with him. She agreed that the Aly Khan chapter in her fabulous life is ended.

Miss Hayworth will retain full custody of Yasmin, their daughter. She offered no comment on other terms of the separation. She will not be required to remain six weeks in Reno for the divorce, since she is legally a citizen of Nevada.

"I am a resident of Glenbrook, Nev.," she explained. "I established residence there when I returned to this country. The divorce could be a matter of hours, but I may stay around Reno for a few days. I like Nevada very much."

When I saw her, the actress remarked that she was weary from the movie-making routine.

"I started out with six weeks of dance rehearsals," she said. "That left me completely exhausted. After all, I haven't danced for four years. In fact, I haven't done anything for four years."

"When I started shooting, I had 'screen fright.' I knew I would. But after 10 days, I got settled down. Then I began to like working again."

The picture stopped shooting last week, but she has been posing for photographs to advertise and exploit the picture of "Affair In Trinidad." She is even posing in a bathing suit, proving that princesses are not above cheesecake.

"Now I'm ready for a rest," she said. "I'll rest on the motor trip I'm taking. I love to drive; I've done it on every continent. Once I drove all the way from Algiers to Tunisia.

"I don't know where I'll go on this trip. We'll stop wherever we feel like it, for I do want to get some sun. We'll probably spend some time in Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz."

After the divorce, Rita returns to Columbia studio, where she will start another picture, "Salome and the Seven Veils." Starting date is May 15, and Director William Dieterle is now in Israel filming background shots.

"I wish I could have gotten in the plane with him," said travel-mad Rita.

Her plans after "Salome"? "That's too far away to think about," she replied. She said she loves Europe and plans to return there as soon as possible, but not to Aly, she indicated.

After four years away from Hollywood, Rita seems little changed. She is still shy and reticent in conversation. It almost makes you forget her ability to get involved in so many headlines.

Little Greek Girl Wants To Be Kissed

NEW YORK — (AP) — More than anything else, Martha Stamatiadou wants to be kissed . . . and loved.

"Nobody wants to kiss me," she said.

The seven-year-old Greek girl and two other Greek children, all of them severely disfigured by injuries in Communist-guerrilla warfare, arrived here this week for plastic surgery.

Little Martha said her playmates tease her and "some of them call me funny face," and even her baby brother refuses to kiss her.

"Maybe he'll kiss me when they fix my face up," she added. "I know I'll be pretty like the rest of them."

The children were brought here under care of the Foundation for Orphans in Greece.

Of the burns that scarred her face when a shell fragment set fire to her home in Salonika, Martha said, "I was a baby, that's all I know."

Church Receives Anonymous Donation

MATTOON, Ill. —(AP)— For the third straight year the Rev. Harold Gravvat of the Church of the Nazarene has received three $100 bills in an unsigned letter.

As before, the 1952 note said only: "Enclosed is $300 to use as you see fit." Mr. Gravvat said it was added to the church fund.

Oscar Awards Launch New Hollywood Film Trend

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Now that the hue and cry about the Oscars is over, it's time to figure out what the results mean. It looks like a triumph of upbeat pictures over the downbeat.

In Hollywood terms, an upbeat picture is one which puts more emphasis on entertainment than dramatics. Such films are generally fast-moving, colorful and have a happy ending and-or a moral. Best examples are westerns, musicals, comedies and adventures.

A downbeat picture is one which treats human or social problems, sometimes finding no solution. Such films often concern neurotic, if not alcoholic characters who become entangled in murder, greed, marital troubles and other forms of unhappiness. It is generally such things that win Academy awards.

But this year "An American in Paris" walked gaily into top honors to the tune of a Gershwin melody. The light - hearted musical snagged seven regular awards, including best-picture. It also helped get its producer, Arthur Freed, the Thalberg Memorial award for excellence of movie making and Gene Kelly was tendered a special Oscar for his work in film - musicals.

This is a vindication for Kelly. He told me recently that he thought it was time for the musical to be recognized by the academy, not in a special category, but in competition with dramas. It also indicates the trend of Hollywood thinking, and perhaps that of the nation's movie goers. It would seem that the people want gayety from their movies, not problems.

That doesn't mean that dramas should be overlooked. It would be a sad day for the film medium if producers ignored serious topics altogether. Good dramas can still do big business. But the academy voters seemed to think that it is just as important, and perhaps more difficult, to manufacture 90 minutes of utter joy.

The victory of Humphrey Bogart is another indication of this theme.

His four opponents were nominated for deadly serious roles.

Fredric March played one of the most tragic parts in film history in the completely downbeat "Death of a Salesman." Marlon Brando was the ill-mannered slob in the unrelenting "A Streetcar Named Desire." Arthur Kennedy portrayed a blind war veteran in "Bright Victory." and Montgomery Clift, ambition-mad fellow in "A Place in the Sun," was marching toward the electric chair at the finish of the picture.

Bogart, the easy-going boatman with a thirst for gin in "The African Queen," was treated with little seriousness as a contender. Except by this reporter, who predicted he would win (plug.) But he took home the Oscar to Baby and Steve.

His triumph is a lesson in irony. During most of his 20-year movie career, he has been playing tight-lipped characters on the criminal or enforcement side of the law. So what happens? In his first real comedy role, he wins the Oscar.

Interesting Notes On Meat Business

Today you and your fellow citizens will eat 59,000,000 pounds of meat! You'll do the same thing tomorrow and the next day and all the days of the year. That's enough meat to fill 15,000 two-ton trucks, and every 24 hours it disappears across America's dining tables.

You don't have to know anything about the meat industry to realize how big a job it has on its hands. Most of our meat is produced west of the Mississippi, while most of it is eaten east of that river. The meat industry has to see to it that the meat is moved in an orderly fashion from the far-flung centers of production to all the centers of consumption. It has to get it where we want it and when we want it — and in every one of its many forms.

The meat industry, all the way from the livestock grower through the packing house to the butcher shop, is a basic, essential enterprise. That it is highly efficient goes without saying — meat is a perishable commodity and waste can't be tolerated. And it serves us far more cheaply than most of us realize. As an example, the packing concerns commonly earn, as profit, only a fraction of a cent a pound on the meat they handle. That is one of the good results of competition — there are more than 4,000 packers in the country, all looking for business.

The meat industry's job is getting bigger all the time. Our population is increasing at the rate of about 2,500,000 a year. This is due to two developments —first, there has been a bumper crop of babies in each of the past 10 years; second, more people are living longer. And practically everyone is a meat eater.

Health Service In Britain Costly

Economic Intelligence, publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, recently carried a significant little article on the cost of socialized medicine.

It quoted a British survey indicating that the total cost to the taxpayer there for the socialized national health service is only about 46 cents a person per week.

That seems cheap — on the surface. But, as Economic Intelligence pointed out, the average British factory worker earns 41 cents an hour. Therefore, the average cost of the service for a family of three requires 3.4 hours of work each week.

U.S. factory workers now average $1.61 an hour. Assuming a proportionate real cost in this country for a compulsory health insurance plan on the model advocated by the Administration, the bill would run to $5.47 a week for the three-person family, or $284.44 a year.

But that's only the beginning. In Britain, the present social security taxes pay less than one-ninth of the total cost of health service. All the rest of the bill for so-called "free" medical care is met by levying heavy excise taxes on articles ranging from beer to toothbrushes. The British citizen pays and pays and pays, every day of his life.

As Economic Intelligence observed, "The old adage that you can't get something for nothing seems still to be true." What has happened in England would happen here and probably on a far greater scale — the American government has broken all records for waste and prodigality. Compulsory health insurance would dig deep into every pocket, directly and indirectly, and people of average means would be hit the hardest.

"A Bill Of Grievances"

II

Here is more of what the Sons of the American Revolution are setting forth in their petition to the Congress of the United States regarding the Proceedings for investigation of Subversive Propaganda Affecting Public Schools in the Several States.

The Petition states:

"Petitioner, the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, files the within Petition as an independent application, and adopts the Petition and Brief of the California Society (of the Sons of the American Revolution) as a part of its moving papers herein."

Then it goes on to say:

"The within application is prosecuted in compliance with the following resolution unanimously adopted at the annual meeting of the membership of Petitioner held at Minneapolis, Minnesota, on May 25, 1948:

Here is the Resolution:

"Be it Resolved by the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, in annual Congress assembled:

"First: That we do hereby believe and determine the following to be a true statement of the conditions affecting the public schools of many of our states, resulting from the introduction of subversive textbooks and teaching practices:

"(a) That such textbooks and teaching practices originate from sources which are interstate and national in scope;

"(b) Effective control thereof is beyond the power and outside the reach of any processes available to the Legislature of any one state;

"(c) Intelligent and informed public opinion affords the only sound method of correcting this evil in accordance with American principles;

"(d) Public opinion to be effective in this field should be made national in scope and equal in strength to the subversive influences now affecting our public school system;

"(e) An investigation of the kind required should be conducted in a judicial manner as a non-partisan and impartial inquiry, sufficiently broad in scope to inform the people as to the nature and extent of subversive education problems affecting the public schools in the several states;

"(f) That this Society under its charter has a proper and direct interest in this subject sufficient to justify it in taking action to bring about such an investigation.

"Second: That we do hereby authorize and instruct the officers and request the trustees of this Society to prepare and submit a petition to the Congress of the United States calling for a national investigation of subversive teaching practices affecting the public schools in the several states to the end that appropriate action may be taken thereon, and to do and perform such acts as they may deem necessary to have said petition favorably considered."

"WHEREFORE, Petitioner submits:

"That the Congress of the United States should recognize the urgency and public importance of the questions here presented, by the immediate enactment of a resolution taking jurisdiction of the entire matter;

"That thereafter a complete investigation should be conducted in a non-partisan and impartial manner, with open and public hearings, sufficiently broad in scope to enable Congress and the people to fully understand and to act upon the problem of subversive propaganda which now seriously threatens the continuance of constitutional government in this country;

"That on completion of such inquiry, the Congress should recommend such measures to the people and to the governments in the several states as may seem best adapted to cope with this emergency.

"Dated: April 19, 1949.

Then the California Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, 926 DeYoung Bldg., San Francisco 4, California, before the Congress of the United States of America in regard to Proceedings for Investigation of Subversive Propaganda Affecting Public Schools in the Several States, petitions:

"Petitioner is a patriotic Society directly interested in the defense of the principles enunciated in the Federal Constitution and Bill of Rights. It is vitally concerned over the subversive propaganda—originating from Communist Fronts and disseminated by University Schools of Education—now being introduced in textbook form in the elementary and secondary schools of California and other states.

"For approximately ten years Petitioner has been engaged in an effort to eliminate subversive teaching materials from the California public schools, and has participated in the following proceedings maintained for that purpose:

"(1) Hearing before San Francisco Board of Education in June 1942 opposing use of the Rugg Social Science Textbooks;

"(2) Investigation of conditions in Office of California State Superintendent of Public Instruction, commenced in June 1946;

"(3) Proceedings before California State Board of Education during the period July 1946-January 1947, inclusive, opposing use of 'Building America' textbooks in elementary schools;

"(4) Filing of a Petition for Redress of Grievances with the California Legislature on February 21, 1947, to prevent use of 'Building America' and to investigate conditions in the State Department of Education;

"(5) Hearings before Committees of said Legislature April-July 1947 on a trial of the questions raised by said Petition, and a consideration of legislative bills introduced to correct conditions brought about by the so-called 'progressive' system of education;

"(6) Proceedings before the State Board of Education October 30, 1948, to oppose confirmation of appointment of Jay D. Conner as Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction."

Then the Petition goes ahead to list the exhibits that are a part of the Petition.

Conflicting Views On Best Schooling For White House

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — An odd but significant feature of the presidential races in both major parties is that they find the so-called "federal" politicians arrayed against the "state house" clique — senators versus the governors.

It is not an entirely new or surprising development. It is only natural for members of Congress to feel that the House and Senate provide the finest finishing school for White House matriculation. Similarly, state executives believe that their greater familiarity with practical problems of government equip them for the nation's highest office.

The controversy has been aired in acute form in the GOP preconvention strife. When a Taft speaker questioned whether military service fitted a man (Eisenhower) for the presidency, an "Ike" admirer countered that the Senate had not been such a successful proving ground for promotion.

The reference, obviously, was to Warren Gamaliel Harding and Harry S. Truman.

STRENGTH — General Eisenhower has the backing of numerous members of Congress, especially since his New Hampshire - Minnesota opening. But his original promoters hailed from the "political sticks."

The "big five" in his camp are now Govs. Dewey of New York and Driscoll of New Jersey, and such former governors as Duff of Pennsylvania, Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Carlson of Kansas. If they can control their delegations to the Republican convention, Eisenhower will have a solid bloc of more than 200 votes on the first ballot, not to mention his support from other sections.

Although a few state executives, such as Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah, prefer Senator Taft, his main strength consists of Congressional colleagues — Sens. Millikin of Colorado and Brewster of Main, Reps. Brown of Ohio, Halleck of Indiana, the Illinois delegation and ex-Representative Reece of Tennessee, southern campaign manager.

ADVANTAGE — As the New Hampshire primary results demonstrated, a candidate backed by the state machine has a tremendous advantage. Governor Driscoll's unexpected, pre-primary endorsement of "Ike" immediately forced Taft to withdraw from the New Jersey test.

Thus, if Eisenhower wins the nomination and election, he will be more indebted to local political interests than to the Capitol Hill faction.

This factor can, and probably will, have considerable influence on Eisenhower, if he reaches the White House. Likewisei ,t would affect the policies of any other candidate nominated and elected under gubernatorial auspices — Governor Stevenson of Illinois, and ex-Governor Russell of Georgia, now a senator and the anti-Truman South's entry.

RECOGNITION — A president so sponsored and supported, for instance, might feel obliged to name one of these governors or former governors to the cabinet or a major diplomatic post. It is known that several Eisenhower promoters — Dewey, Duff, Lodge — would not object to such recognition.

More importantly, a chief executive in debt to the state house rather than the Capitol Hill crowd would be in a position to revise the present lopsided relationship between the federal government and the 48 commonwealths.

That would be especially true, if the next national leader should be Eisenhower, Stevenson or Russell. Ironically, Taft is an exponent of the same sort of philosophy.

DIVISION — As financially harassed state administrators, all of these non - Washington presidential possibilities would undoubtedly advocate federal aid to health, education, housing etc. But, unlike Roosevelt and Truman, they would probably counsel that all questions of execution and policy be left to the states.

This division of jurisdiction would also apply to the controversial and still unresolved issue of civil rights. In short, the election of a president on the basis of state house support might result in a better and more constitutional balance in all business involving our dual form of government.

Although Governor Stevenson seems to be Truman's selection, largely because nobody else suits the White House occupant, the Illinoisan is also the favorite of many Democratic governors and ex-governors. He would also be a popular Congressional choice, if the White House insists on him.

BACKING — Although a "fair dealer" in many respects, Stevenson recognizes the danger of continued federal encroachment on the states. He expressed this fear at last fall's governors' conference at Gatlinburg, Tenn.

Senator Russell, an ex-governor himself, was persuaded to enter the race by Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, and ex-Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. He has the backing of all save two southern state executives. There is no need to expand on their viewpoint on federal-state relationships.

Neither Senators Kefauver of Tennessee nor Kerr of Oklahoma has organized support of any kind, federal or gubernatorial. They are self-starters. Despite discreet equivocation for campaign purposes, both lean toward the states' rights philosophy.

BALANCE — Thus, this unpublicized but underlying conflict between the "federals" and the "state housers," as well as the prospect of the supremacy of the latter faction at Washington, no matter who is elected, promises to redress the balance between the White House and states after twenty years of executive centralization and usurpation.

Teacher—What is a flood?

Pupil—It's a river too big for its bridges.

LOOKING SIDEWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

Any time a man thinks up a series for the children and sells 600,000 copies in less than fourteen months, I am for him. The man is Bennett Cerf, and his publishing outfit, Random House, came up with a juvenile series called "Landmarks." The first "Landmarks' had to do with American history and it was in that group that 600,000 copies were printed and sold.

I take it that Mr. Cerf is not above making his banker gleam, so he naturally turned to extension of the series and has come up with the notion of doing "Landmarks of World History." There is no way for me to know, short of asking blunt questions, how long Cerf and his editors haggled over what ten first subjects would be included. I know that if I worked for a publishing house and was asked to list the ten most important phases of world history I would find it convenient to go out for lunch and stay out until the dust settled. That's a rough, bumpy assignment.

Overlooking bruised feelings, thumped heads and other natural hazards, I am able to tell you that Cerf's editors have come up with these, in this order: Prehistoric man and his world, the seven wonders of the world, the story of Cleopatra, the England of King Arthur, the Crusades, Joan of Arc, the Spanish Armada, William the Conqueror, Napoleon the Great, the RAF and the blitz of London.

If you can improve on that within the compass of ten episodes in history, you are welcome to try. My only complaint is in the dating. Obviously, Cerf intends to advance history date by date. In which case, William the Conqueror should be number 7 and not number 8, and the Spanish Armada should come after, not before, William.

* * *

While in a mood to recommend reading matter, let me tell you about one that every thinking citizen should get hold of and read carefully. And don't faint when I give you its title; it is The Congressional Record for Tuesday, February 19th. In it, running across several pages, you will find a discussion of foreign policy by Representative Dorn, a Democrat of South Carolina, a veteran of World War II, one of seven sons from one household who went to war and came back to find a government willfully and energetically destroying our nation and our liberties. Although a Democrat, Mr. Dorn speaks with muscular candor, names names and describes the elaborate process by which we are weakening ourselves and paving the way to our own humiliation. At the close of his address, Mr. Dorn had so impressed his colleagues (which is a nice way of saying he scared them witless) that many Democrats rose to join Republicans in congratulating him for his courage and his frankness.

He quotes the President as pshawing the notion that Russia could get anywhere with its atomic experiments, he quotes the same President as pshawing Russia's ability to do anything for years but lick its wounds. He does, in brief, a magnificent job of describing the reckless policies we are pursuing. I can't imagine that Mr. Dorn ever will get to quote the President again because, after this speech, it is unlikely that the President will be inviting him to the White House.

I don't know how you go about getting a copy, but I suggest a letter to Mr. Dorn or to your own representative. Mr. Dorn based much of his revelations on personal observation and I would think he would reply at once to a request for a copy. Among the most frightening disclosures are those which completely match and parallel similar points of view held by James Michener in his report on our position in today's Asia. Not the least of the frantic jobs of alienation we have accomplished is the arousing of resentment in the huge, articulate and imposing Asiatic world, a world which in the main wants no part of Communism but which would today rather align itself with Moscow than with Washington. Thanks to our foreign policy.

WHO GETS THE GRAFT ON TVA COAL?

(Chicago Daily Tribune)

The facts about the Tennessee Valley authority's new coal contracts are being revealed from day to day in THE TRIBUNE in articles by Carl Wiegman. The scandal is momumental.

TVA was started on the pretense that it would generate cheap electricity at dams build for flood control and navigation. Lately it has been moving into the field of steam generated electricity on a stupendous scale. Within four years its steam plants will be buying 10 million tons of coal a year. The contracts are now being made.

Mr. Wiegman discovered that the TVA has an affinity for coal salesmen without any coal mines. Contracts were entered, sometimes at higher delivered prices than were bid by established coal operators, with brokers who at the time they got the awards didn't even have permission to sell the coal they offered. An original incorporator of one of the companies which got such a contract a few months ago is already under indictment in state courts, but the contract still stands.

This particular company, formed three days before it submitted its bid, had a paid-in capital of only $10,000. TVA gave it a 37 million dollar coal contract, running for years with an automatic extension for another 10. The strip mine — which the bidding company didn't own—from which it proposed to supply the coal has been shut down and its equipment is being removed.

The same two men who got the 37 million dollar contract were, thru another corporation, awarded another contract to supply the TVA with coal from the "Cherry Branch mine." There is nothing to the Cherry Branch mine but a coal deposit that might be opened at some time in the future.

The two brokers who now operate these favored companies, Vaden Lackey and James T. Riddle, offered to supply so-called Cherry Branch coal at $4.85 a ton, delivered. They got the contract despite a bid from an established coal producer to deliver fuel at 4.82½ cents a ton. Then they told TVA that they couldn't supply Cherry Branch coal — having no mine there—and were given permission to ship coal from another mine at $5.05 a ton.

When coal is bought by a government institution at more than the going market price, and at a price higher than other operators offer, the logical assumption is that someone is being paid off. It is up to congress to find out who it is.

The contention of the TVA coal purchasing agent that he had to deal with fly-by-night operators because he had already scraped the market clean of offerings by larger companies is manifestly false. On one contract for 2½ to 3 million tons a year this agent got offers totaling 34,600,000 tons from reputable coal companies. All of these bids were thrown out.

Neither is there any merit in the claim of the TVA agent that when the authority gets a bid from a broker to furnish coal, it gets a lien on the coal in question and can have others mine it if the original bidder does not meet the contract.

By ignoring well established coal operators and making huge purchases from persons whose ability to supply coal is dubious, is TVA getting ready to tell congress that it must run its own coal mines, too? That would be a long step toward nationalizing the coal industry.

WITHOUT DUE PROCESS OF LAW

(The Dallas Morning News)

Three members of the accounting department of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, according to the magazine Railway Age, have filed suit to prevent being made compulsory members of a union. In mid-February, the President's fact-finding board held that the union shop should be adopted by railroads. (Under the union shop, noncomplying employees must be discharged.) The board's decision has no force of law but as a practical matter it will be accepted by the railroads unless the courts intervene. The board held against the railroad contention that the suggested action is illegal.

The News commented at the time that the board is probably right as to that, when the language of the Railway Labor Act is reviewed. Yet the Constitution forbids Congress passing any law abridging the freedom of contract. Unions have long contended that any open shop legislation abridges that freedom. Unions do not admit that freedom is abridged when a man who prefers to remain untrammeled can be forced to sign up or lose his job.

It it an interesting point and the L. and N. suit has the value of forcing the courts to decide it. Of course the railway employees are not the first to meet the issue head on. From the moment that the Wagner Act was placed on the statute books, thousands of workers were forced to pay unwilling tribute to the unions or go without their customary employment.

From the standpoint of The News, the remedy is simple. As far back as 1942, The News offered the "Right to Work" amendment to the Federal Constitution. (It has been adopted in some state constitutions.) Under it no man could be denied employment or discharged because he does or does not belong to a union. Under it the unions could carry on freely with every worker who desired to join. The unions could not force membership on anyone.

Congress has never submitted this amendment. Congress should do so. The News believes firmly that it could be submitted to popular vote and carry overwhelmingly.

Writings Of Labor Leader In Socialist Magazine Quoted

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Continuing my revelations of the political complexion of Irving Brown, the "Ambassador in Europe" of the American Federation of Labor, and David Dubinsky's garment workers' union, with the active support of the State Department, I shall quote today from a publication called the Revolutionary Socialist, "a quarterly devoted to Marxian Socialism," for Nov. 1934. This magazine contains an article by Mr. Brown.

I have already quoted from this piece which is inconceivably muddy but is clarified for our purposes by other matter in the same issue. Brown was described as "an instructor in workers' education classes of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and especially active in the (Socialist) party in New Jersey."

The data further says: "He is a member of the national executive committee of the revolutionary policy committee" of the Socialist Party.

Brown's "project" is a campaign to substitute Marxian Socialism for the present indistinct political nature of Western Europe. "Time," the little jerked-English budget of misinformation published by China-Boy Luce for inscrutable political ends, has represented Brown and his purposes in Europe as not merely harmless but laudable from the standpoint of Americans.

I quote now from an editorial called "The Road to Power."

"The aim of Socialism is to establish a workers' republic," it says. "In the achievement of this aim it is necessary to acquire possession of the State power so as to transform capitalist society into socialist society by the dictatorship of the proletariat. The history of capitalism leaves no room for illusions regarding the behavior of the capitalist class when it is fighting for its life against the advancing workers. The responsibility for the destruction of the civil liberties of the bourgeois Democratic state lies clearly and solely at the door of the ruling capitalist state. That class has shown that when the decisive hour approaches, the conflict between the classes assumes a violent character. We make no fetish of legality. The law in a bourgeois democracy is largely the law of property rights; laid down by those who have 'rights' because they are owners. No institution or instrument set up by the capitalist class can be depended on to establish the workers' republic. Therefore the working class state will be an entirely new type of state based on workers' councils, historically suited to serve as the organs of liberation.

"Workers' councils, organized in direct response to a growing revolutionary situation shall constitute the basic unit by which the working class can carry through an armed insurrection. Once socialists are in possession of the state machinery by the mandate of the workers, their task is to arm the workers against all possibility of a counter-revolutionary resistance."

Under "war," the same "Revolutionary Socialist Review" said this: "Permanent peace can come for the workers only after capitalism has been destroyed. We fight against imperialist wars through propaganda, demonstrations, organizations and strikes in key war industries including forcible stoppage of munition shipments by workers and united fronts with all anti-war groups regardless of political beliefs. (including therefore, Soviet Communists Pegler)."

On "labor" the publication said: "The (Socialist) party is against graft and bureaucracy within the existing unions."

Mr. Brown nevertheless is now a bureaucrat in the foreign "diplomatic" service of the AFL, the most notorious mass corruption in the history of labor's efforts to organize for legitimate aims.

An editorial entitled "The Revolutionary Policy Committee and the Communist," said: "The RPC has been asked frequently to explain the difference between its program and that of various well-known Communist groups and parties in the United States. We are glad to claim to be as communistic as the Communist Manifesto, the great heritage of the Communist and genuine Socialist movements. The RPC differs from the Communist party of the USA on four major points."

The first three points were typical argumentarian Communist-Socialist hair-splitting. But the fourth was "the mechanical domination of the American party by the Russian party."

An article entitled "The Negro, the South and the Socialist Party," by George Streator, depicted the carpet-bag terror during reconstruction as "loyal governments." The freed slaves, and the "poor whites," were "a new proletariat, temporarily in power in the reconstruction governments."

"Northern bayonets kept these loyal governments in power until the 'robber barons' of steel, oil, copper and transportation were certain enough of their control of the hitherto feudalistic Democratic party to risk a 'free election'. Union troops, . . .were drawn away leaving the defenseless Negroes to the mercies of a movement which had all the emotional elements of hate and humiliation which characterized the rise of the National Socialists in Germany. The rule of the Southern proletariat was short. It gave to many sections the first public schools, good roads and other social services."

Irving Brown was then, as he is now, strong in the councils of Dubinsky's autocracy, the garment workers' union, teaching Dubinsky's subjects lessons of Socialism. For all we know to the contary, the foregoing still is the program that the agents of Dubinsky and the AFofL are trying to inflict on all Europe and Asia outside the Russian empire.

Bid For A Smile

You'll never believe this but it's the gospel truth During a long dry spell in upper New York state, residents of a small hamlet turned out enmasse to pray for rain. Only one man, a farmer, failed to attend the praying party. After the prayers a violent thunder storm swept down upon the village and everyone was jubilant except the scoffer whose barn was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The story might have ended there but it didn't. He sued the city for damages claiming the lightning came as a part of the rain which, he declared, was brought about by the prayers. Attorneys representing the town in defending the suit, put 40 witnesses on they stand to testify that no lightning had been asked for in the prayers and that any such disturbance was an "act of God." The jury granted the damages and told him to collect from God.

A certain car manufacturer once advertised that he could put a car together in seven minutes. The next day he received a phone call asking if it was true.

Car Maker—Sure, it's the truth. Why?

Voice on Phone—I thought it was. I think I have the car.

Cook's Nook

Spring has a way of touching us all with that do-it-tomorrow feeling — and it's wonderful! One of these days when you feel like taking life easy in the kitchen, prepare a spicy beef tongue for dinner.

You can leave the tongue cooking while you get away to enjoy Spring's unfolding. Serve it hot or cold, with or without a tasty sauce, as your time allows.

SPICY BEEF TONGUE

1 smoked or fresh beef tongue
1 bay leaf
1 clove garlic
3 whole cloves
1-2 cup vinegar

Wash tongue well. Cover with boiling water (if using fresh tongue, add 1 1-2 teaspoonfuls salt to the cooking water); add seasonings and vinegar. Bring to a boil and skim water, if necessary. Cover and simmer until tender, three to four hours (about 50 minutes to the pound). Cool in water until tongue can be handled, then remove skin and trim off root ends.

Slice and serve hot or cold. If desired, accompany tongue with lemon-raisin or horseradish sauce.

And on cool spring evenings, stew for dinner is as welcome as a friendly handshake. This rich tasting Hungarian goulash, a type of stew, is one you'll find particularly enticing. Bouillon and paprika give it interesting flavor.

HUNGARIAN GOULASH

1 pound beef stew meat
1 clove garlic, minced.
2 medium onions, sliced
2 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
2 bouillon cubes
3 cups boiling water
2 cups diced potatoes

Cut meat in 1 inch cubes and brown in some hot fat. Add garlic, onions, seasonings and the bouillon cubes dissolved in 2 cups boiling water. Cover and simmer 2 1-2 hours. Add the other cup of water and the potatoes, cut into 3-4 inch cubes. Cook 20 minutes longer, or until potatoes are tender. 4 servings.

Business Economy Hinges On Truce

NEW YORK — (AP) — Truce in Korea — that perennial bauble of hope — has been pretty well discounted in advance now by Business and Industry.

But doubtless, if it comes, it still will send psychological ripples through the already troubled American economy — first off, through the stock and commodity exchanges, always sensitive to supposed changes in policy of course. And, conceivably, these ripples could grow into waves.

The interminable gabbing at Panmunjom already has worked the economy into a situation where the dollar - and - cents effects of a truce would depend pretty much on how people take it — just another milestone in the seemingly endless Cold War, or a real let-down in defense effort.

And the public has been taught that the defense effort is a chief mainstay in an economy rather dubiously balanced just now between inflation and depression. Times have changed since the truce talks started last July.

Those who believe the truce would lead to a defense letdown and a business slump fear these possibilities:

A truce could make consumers even more reluctant to buy. Already they are bargain hunters. Some business men fear customers will stay home entirely, waiting for a collapse in prices.

Stock traders might abandon the war babies — industries profiting from rearmament. They might woo again the peace babies — industries hard hit when most materials are earmarked for armament. They might even fear that declining defense spending would send the heavy industries on the downward path that textiles already has trod.

Commodity prices, already weakened, might feel the depressing touch of a truce. War has a heartier appetite than peace.

Store buyers and factory purchasing agents, already playing it close to the vest, might put off future orders.

Congress, looking for a place to whittle the budget, might regard the truce as an invitation to carve on the fat of military appropriations, and foreign aid.

And the pressure to free the economy of controls on prices and materials would take on a load of fresh steam with the first whisper of the peace dove's wings in Korea.

Against all these possibilities must be stacked two facts: billions already appropriated for defense have yet to be spent; and the inflated and vulnerable economy of last summer (when the truce first was proposed) has already started back to normal size. A Korean truce hasn't the jolting potential it once had. The danger now is that even a small jar might upset a teetering economy.

The United States Foreign policy and the defense spending that ready "past the point of no regoes with it is described as alturn." That means, more money.

Congress has appropriated 130 billion dollars for defense — 90 billion of that still unspent. Congress has been asked for 60 billion dollars more in the fiscal year ahead. If this total of 150 billion dollars is poured into the economy, it could offset much of the effects of the letdown from a Korean truce.

And, even if the nation should change its mind about the need for rearmament, the letdown wouldn't show up until after the money already appropriated can there'd be a stretch-out in the be spent — in other words, letdown.

Much of the bubbles have already been squeezed from commodity prices. When the Assoprice index hit its peak in Febciated Press wholesale commodity ruary, 1951, it had jumped 22 percent above pre-Korea and nine percent above the start of the truce talks. But it has fallen since, until now it is only eight percent above pre-Korea, and eight percent below its level at the time the truce talks started. This eight percent drop below last summer is due to many things — but one is the depressing power of the talks themselves.
