Traffic Group Votes To Back Speed Limit Hike On Hobart

At a meeting Tuesday night the Pampa Traffic Commission voted unanimously to recommend that speed limits on N. Hobart, and Brown, Wilks and Frederic (U.S. 60) be raised to 35 miles per hour.

Commission Chairman Elmer Radcliffe said the recommendation must be approved by the Pampa City Commission before limits are raised.

The commission also tabled until Jan. 20 a plan to set up either parallel or indenture parking in the 300 block on S. Cuyler.

The plan was recommended to alleviate traffic 'bottlenecks' south of the Cuyler St. Underpass.

Five merchants in the 300 block appeared at last night's meeting and said they felt the traffic problem wasn't as bad as it appeared.

City Engineer Monroe Moore said the street is presently too narrow for two - lane traffic. Police Chief Jim Connor felt the problem would be lessened with the painting of lanes.

In other business the Commission recommended a four-way stop be installed at the intersection of Kentucky and Duncan, and another four-way stop be installed at the intersection of Cook, Charles and Georgia Streets.

Iraq May Fall Into Red Hands

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials, anxiously scanning reports from the Middle East, said today that it is touch-and - go whether Iraq's beleaguered government will fall captive to the Communist forces which support it.

Officials were convinced that Communist elements in Baghdad planned the demonstrations against William M. Rountree, assistant secretary of state, on Monday. They were awaiting Rountree's first hand report on the situation in the Middle East.

Officials here disclosed that Rountree's arrival in Baghdad was preceded by rioting in Basra in southern Iraq, near the Persian Gulf. In Beirut, official sources reported that armored cars and aircraft were employed in fighting around a former rebel stronghold in central Lebanon.

However, the Iraqi government of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem was the principal subject of concern for Middle East experts today. Kassem's government, born in the revolt of July 14th, has been beset from the beginning by pressures from the Communists and from the supporters of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo have predicted the Communists probably would take over the Iraqi government in a matter of weeks if the pro-Moscow drift there is not stopped.

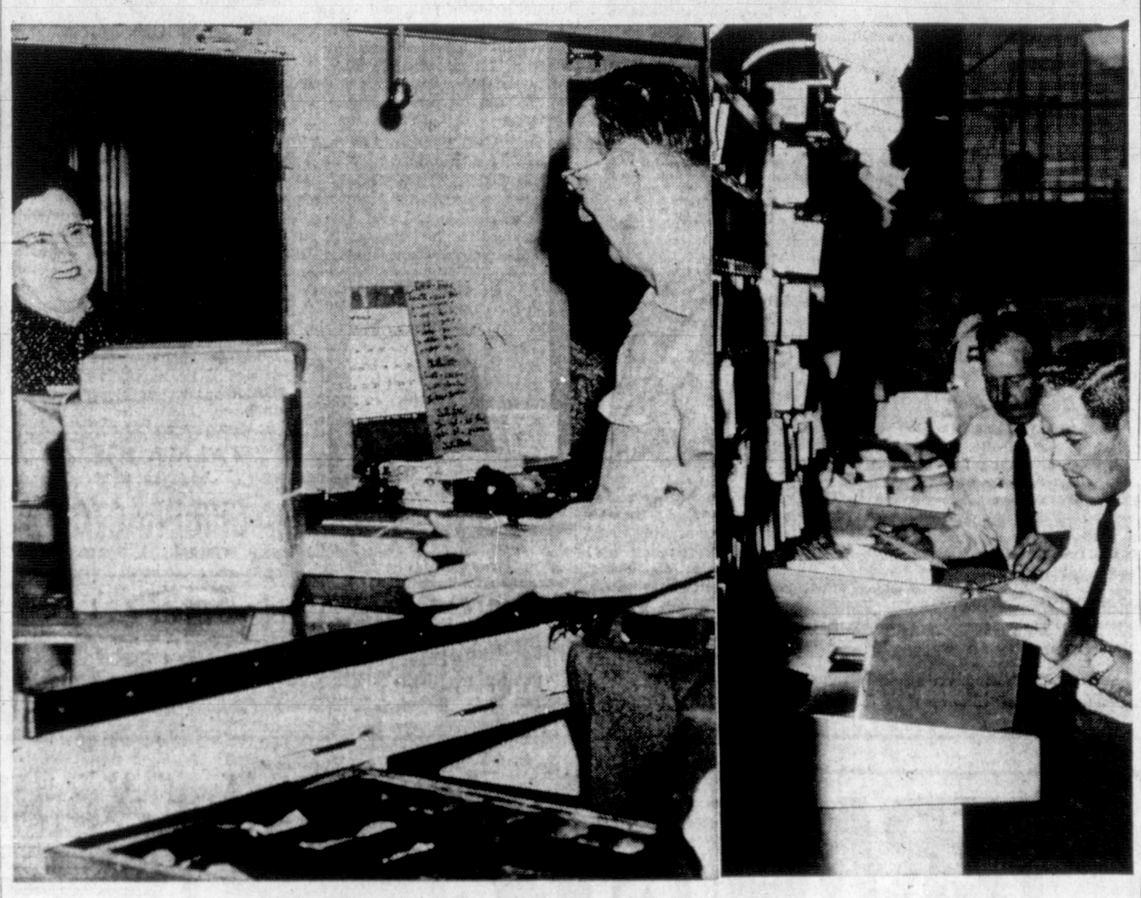

The sources said the Reds also had infiltrated the Iraqi Economics Ministry headed by leftists Ibrahim Kubba, the propaganda, and censorship departments and the high court.

TEXAS TRAFFIC DEATHS DECREASE

Traffic deaths in Texas have decreased 10 percent in the first 10 months of 1958, and Sgt. E. G. Albers of the Texas Highway Patrol — anticipating heavy travel during the holiday period ahead — has urged Gray county motorists to help push the decrease even lower.

Gray county has had five traffic fatalitites in the 10-month period according to Sgt. Albers. This year's county death toll compares to eight fatalities in the same period of 1957.

THE CHRISTMAS RUSH

The Pampa post office—for some reason not explained—has not yet experienced an old-fashioned Christmas rush. Monday was one of the busiest days in Pampa in years, but Tuesday and Wednesday have both been describedas "under average." One mailer who beat the inevitable rush this morning was Mrs. Nell Earp of White Deer (left). Giving the friendly service is parcel post clerk J. B. White. At right Pampa letter carriers sort out some of the Christmas cards and letters pouring into Pampa by the thousands. In the foreground is R. W. Phillips; next to Phillips is Doty Warner. 200 Injured In Holiday Tragedy

By Carlos J. Villar Borda
United Press International

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) —A fire which started in a Christmas nativity display swept through the crowded Veda department store Tuesday night in one of the worst holiday tragedies in Bogota's history.

At least 98 persons died in the flames and smoke—many of them trampled and smothered in the panic that followed the first dreaded cry of "fire." An estimated 200 others were injured, of whom about 50 were near death today.

The fire started at 5:25 p.m. while the store was crowded with shoppers, most of them women and children. A fire department official said the blaze was caused by a short circuit in the colored lights of the nativity display in the center of the ground floor.

The flames, fed by paper and straw in the simulated manger of the Christ Child, leaped to nearby counters piled high with inflammable plastic toys and gifts.

In a matter of seconds, the flames raced across the ground floor, trapping scores of persons in the windowless, doorless rear portion of the building. Dense smoke quickly filled the store.

Firemen reached the scene only 2½ minutes after the alarm was sounded. But by then the whole front of the store was aflame.

Many were trapped, and investigations were underway to determine if the store's doors had been ordered locked to prevent theft.

Within an hour, the blaze was under control. But the scene inside the store was grim.

One fireman said bodies of many of the victims were piled against the back wall of the store's ground floor. They apparently had milled about desperately and blindly there until they fell. Most were asphyxiated.

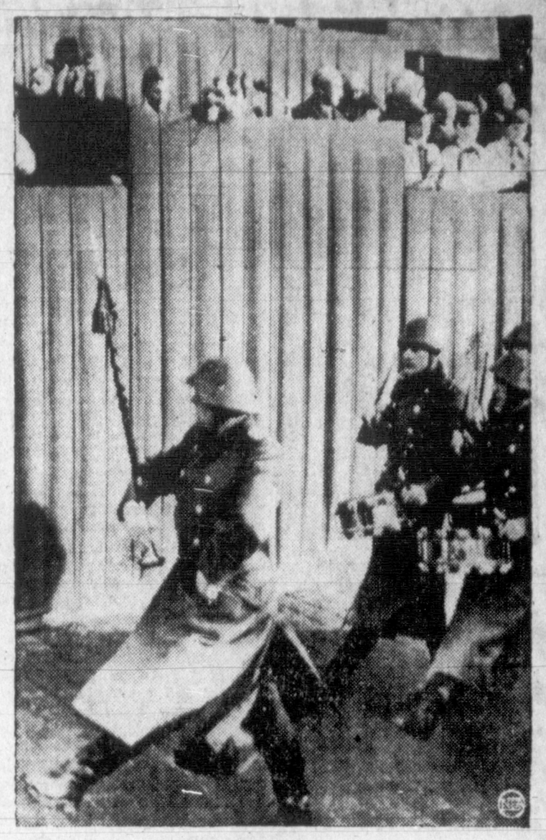

The injured were taken to hospitals. Some were placed in oxygen tents. Some were given blood transfusions.

Friends and relatives crowded morgues and hospitals this morning, hunting for their loved ones.

By dawn, every available coffin in Bogota had been used, and additional ones were brought in from nearby communities to hold the dead.

Many of those who escaped saved their lives by making their way to the store's roof and jumping to the tops of adjoining buildings.

One group of men, trapped at the rear of the second floor, grabbed tools from the hardware section and chopped their way through the wall to safety.

MAKES HINT

East Germany Communist Party Commander, Walter Ulbricht, upper left, salutes as members of an East German Peoples' Army unit pass in review in East Berlin. Returning from an official six-day visit to Poland, Ulbricht hinted that Red troops will invade West Germany if any attempt is made by the West to break a Berlin blockade.

STUDENTS FLEE CHICAGO FIRE

CHICAGO (UPI) — A school sprinkler system and an alert custodian were credited today with possibly averting a second serious school fire in the Chicago area.

About 600 children fled to safety Tuesday when a blaze broke out at the Joseph Sears elementary school in the fashionable suburb of Kenilworth.

Fire Marshal Rod A. Porter of nearby Winnetka said the flames started in a lost-and-found room under a wooden stairway in the school's basement. Porter said a youngster sneaking a cigarette probably caused the fire.

The inception of the fire bore a striking resemblance to the outbreak of the holocaust which killed 89 children and three nuns at the Our Lady of the Angels Roman Catholic elementary school in Chicago Dec. 1. Nearly 100 persons were injured in the parochial school fire.

Both schools were more than 40 years old.

In contrast to the Chicago fire, however, all of the children marched out safely without so much as a scratch. School officials said the building was evacuated within a minute after the alarm sounded.

The custodian, Willie Love, spotted the fire momenis after it started and alerted a teacher who sounded the school fire alarm. The sprinkler system extinguished the blaze before firemen arrived. Damage was negligible and classes were resumed in the school within 20 minutes.

THEY FRET IN BERLIN

BERLIN (UPI) — Worried West Berliners today sought a stronger declaration from the West on the future of the city—an Allied ultimatum that further Soviet moves would mean war.

They were pleased with the Allied declaration at the NATO council that Soviet Russia would not risk a nuclear war over Berlin but they wanted something stronger.

Sentiment favoring such a Western ultimatum built up as the first three weeks passed of the six months waiting period the Russians have given the West to quit the city.

A feeling that the Soviets must be told flatly that they will risk a shooting war if they move further to make the Western position untenable here was pointed up by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt.

Brandt told a news conference Tuesday after returning from the NATO talks in Paris that a "horrible disaster" faced Berlin unless the West convinced Russia it really meant business here.

The fear of Berliners was that the "something horrible" can happen if the Soviets are not made fully aware of the Western stand. The Allies have said they would defend Berlin with force; West Berlin wants them to threaten war, as the Soviets have done.

Shooting Victim Much Improved

Mrs. Jennie Lee Guffey, arrested Monday night following a shooting incident in her Pampa home, was charged Tuesday with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

In county court late Tuesday afternoon she entered a plea of guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

Mrs. Guffey's husband, James Guffey is reported improved and "getting along fine" at Highland General Hospital.

Guffey was taken to Highland suffering a bullet wound in the lower abdomen. The shot was fired from a .32 caliber pistol during an exchange of words in the Guffey home kitchen late Monday afternoon.

The Guffeys live at 1056 Huff Rd.

Red Chinese President's Resignation Now Official

No Successor Is Announced

TOKYO (UPI) — Peiping Radio announced officially today that Communist leader Mao Tse-tung will be replaced as chairman of the Red Chinese government.

The official Communist broadcast did not name a successor. Reports reaching Tokyo said aging Marshal Chu teh, now vice chairman, would succeed Mao.

A Communist New China News Agency dispatch from Peiping said "the question of not nominating Comrade Mao Tse-tung as candidate for chairman (president) of the People's Republic of China for the next term" was discussed by the Chinese Communist Party's central committee.

"The plenary session adopted

NEW RED BLOOD

A Nationalist Chinese source in Taipei, Formosa, said that Marshal Chu Teh, left, will replace Mao Tse-Tung, right, as the leader of Communist China. The Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party elected Chu as next chairman of the People's Republic, reason, the source said, was popular discontent over a new labor system and failure to capture the Quemoys.

Mao Not Being Down Graded

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials said today that Mao Tse-tung's resignation as president of Red China probably means he wants more time for his drive to force China's 650 million inhabitants into tightly regimented agricultural-industrial communes.

There was no immediate official State Department comment. But Mao's resignation was not interpreted here as any sign of a downgrading of the dedicated 65-year-old leader who has been the chief architect of the Chinese Communist revolution.

Officials said his resignation from the presidency has little significance, since under the Communist system the presidency is principally honorary and ceremonial.

They said Mao apparently remains the undisputed boss of Red China, since he is keeping the post as chairman of the Communist Party's Central Committee—the top power job.

Officials said the change probably would signal intensification of Red China's new drive to complete the commune system, which American authorities describe as a "slave state" based upon unprecedented regimentation of the people under forced labor.

Officials said that they did not expect Mao's resignation as president to have any effect whatsoever on Red China's foreign policy. That policy still will be under his complete control and based upon unalterable opposition to the United States, they said.

American officials said they believe Mao and his colleagues have passed the point of no return in their campaign to whip China's millions into a system which Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has described as a program of "slave labor that sacrifices human dignity on a scale

300 Homes, Camp Pendleton In Path Of 4-Day Blaze; 51,000 Acres Burned

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (UPI)—A huge brush fire whipped by turbulent winds roared up to the edge of Camp Pendleton Marine base today and in other areas threatened nearly 300 homes.

The four-day blaze already has swept over more than 51,000 acres, destroyed 19 homes and taken an inestimable toll in valuable watershed.

About 2,000 firefighters—including many Marines—aided by bulldozers and planes manned the gigantic fire's 80-mile perimeter which was burning unchecked at three strategic spots.

—To the south, the fire was skirting the northern tip of sprawling Camp Pendleton and within about three to five miles of the nearest barracks.

—To the northeast, Trabuco Canyon which is spotted with summer cabins and homes was less than a half mile from the conflagration and the community of Trabuco Oaks had only about three miles separating it from towering flames. Residents in some 200 homes and cabins in the area have been alerted to be ready to evacuate.

—To the north, some 80 homes in Long Canyon were threatened as the fire burned within a mile of the area.

The weather forecast for today was for "Santa Ana" winds—dry, fast - moving winds that whip across southern California from the desert and are one of the major causes for the area's high fire danger at this time of year.

The area has been without rain for nearly two months.

No major injuries have been reported so far, although the Forestry Service said there were the usual number of minor burn cases and smoke inhalation suffered by firefighters.

Double-Barrelled Missile Launching Paves The Way

By BILL WILKS
United Press International

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI) — A double - barrelled launching of Thor missiles at this giant new missile base and at Cape Canaveral, Fla., has paved the way for the first launching in the project discoverer program before the end of the year, missile sources indicated today.

At the same time, it was expected that the first flight test of the Titan ballistic missile, slated as the eventual successor to the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile, would be conducted before the end of this year at Cape Canaveral.

Thus, the Air Force entered a program of military and scientific missile-space launchings on both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans.

These developments followed Tuesday's first successful Air Force firing of the Thor intermediate range ballistic missile at this new Air Force missile base on the Pacific Ocean. The launching inaugurated ballistic missile firings on the West Coast.

Another 50-ton Thor was fired from Cape Canaveral four hours later. The Canaveral Thor was aimed at an impact area in the Atlantic about 1,700 miles southeast of the Cape. It was the 22nd Thor fired from the base.

The Thor firing at Vanderberg gave the free world its first long range operational ballistic missile, Maj. Gen. David Wade, commander of the First Strategic Air Command (SAC) Missile Division, stated. He said that the missile was now considered operational although the free world's first operational Thor base was yet to be announced in England. This announcement was expected shortly, possibly in January, sources said.

Tuesday's Thor launching here was notable because it was the first by a strictly military crew.

Danny Thomas Deplores Lack of Dialect Jokes

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Audiences have become too thin skinned for comedian Danny Thomas who says dialect jokes are a forgotten art, thanks to over-sensitive groups and individuals.

"From now on I'm going to use as much dialect material as possible in my guest appearances," Danny vowed. "I can't use dialect stuff on my own show because it doesn't fit in.

"I'll do Yiddish, Greek, Arabic, Negro, Italian and Irish vernaculars, and to heck with the squawks.

"Dialect jokes are the best weapons available to fight prejudice. People who complain about dialect bits cause more bigotry than they prevent. After all, everybody in this country belongs to some kind of minority group."

Thomas deplores deletion and changes of lyrics in "Old Man River" and Stephen Foster's classics.

Worked As Candy Butcher

"Those songs glorify a great and colorful era in American history. It's abominable that they have been altered," he said.

"When I was 11 years old I took a job as candy butcher in a Toledo, Ohio, theater. During the seven years I worked there I saw the greatest dialecticians in show business. Whenever the audience was in an absolute uproar, laughing itself to death, you could bet 99 per cent of the time the comedian was doing dialects.

"There was no hatred nor hurt feelings. The people loved it

"And I'll tell you why. In those days you lived in neighborhoods where the butcher was usually German, the tailor Yiddish, the cop Irish and the fruit peddler Italian. Their native accents were a part of everyday life.

"Sure, they beefed and fought with one another, but they loved each other, too.

People Proud Of Backgrounds

"Those people were proud of their backgrounds and old-country culture. Their laughter was genuine when they heard a visiting comic mimic their mannerisms and accents."

Danny's own beginnings in show business included dialects. But he gave them up in 1941 when he was advised that the road to stardom wasn't paved with imitations of other stars nor the accents of racial groups.

Occasionally he works in a character with a strong dialect on his CBS-TV "Danny Thomas Show." Usually it is a warm-hearted characterization which keeps his audience from becoming mutinous.

"One of these days I'm going to give a block party in my neighborhood in Beverly Hills," Danny went on. "Everyone will wear costumes representing their family origins.

"It would help us all get to know one-another better.

"Nobody has anything to be ashamed of regarding his national origins — and by golly I'm trying to prove it."

GOP Senators Choose Sides For Hot Leadership Fight

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate's 34 Republican members are choosing sides for the hottest leadership fight the Grand Old Party has seen since the 1952 National Convention.

Members of a rebellious liberal faction claimed they needed only four votes to insure success for their revolt and grab off the top leadership posts held by conservatives next month.

They said they would spend the next two weeks trying to line up more supporters and putting together a slate of candidates. They were reluctant to mention names at this point but Sens. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) and Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) figured in speculation.

They mapped their strategy at a rump caucus Monday attended by 10 senators while present GOP leaders sat in on a legislative conference at the White House.

Had Backed Taft

Some of the White House group—notably Sens. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) and Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) — backed the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) against President Eisenhower for the presidential nomination six years ago.

But the insurgent band which met in Aiken's office included some of the staunchest supporters of the President's legislative program.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Policy Committee, said afterwards that he regarded Dirksen as the logical man to succeed to the Senate GOP leadership vacated by Sen. William F. Knowland (Calif.). He said he personally would like to continue as policy chairman.

Bridges said he still favors working out a compromise on the dispute.

"I certainly don't want to start a new session with a battle among Republicans," he added. "I hope there will be some way of adjusting the differences and giving representation to all elements of the party."

Full-Blown Battle

However, the Aiken group served notice it would put up candidates for all five leadership posts when the Republican Senate conference convenes in January to select party officers for the new session.

The liberals began demanding a greater voice in party affairs in the Senate immediately after the November congressional elections reduced GOP membership to 34. This has now developed into a full-blown battle for leadership control.

After Aike had announced the move, Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) called a news conference to explain it further. He quickly found himself the target of a barrage of pointed questions.

Case insisted the situation was too fluid at this stage to endorse one candidate or harpoon another. But he finally conceded that he would prefer Aiken over Dirksen for the leadership job.

Girl Scout TV Series Scheduled

Television viewers will be introduced to Girl Scout troop meetings when "Adventuring In The Hand Arts," the first Girl Scout sponsored educational television series, starts on station KGNC - TV, Channel 4 at 9:30 a.m., Saturday. Mrs. John Holt Jr., president of the Top O'Texas Girl Scout Council, announced today.

The series will continue at 9:30 a.m. each Saturday for 10 weeks.

Approximately 800 Girl Scouts in this area will view the programs and adapt their TV lessons to future hand craft work. The series is a cooperative venture of the Girl Scouts of America, the National Broadcasting Company and the Educational Television and Radio Center in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Designed to interest the general viewing public as well as to stimulate Girl Scouts to new approaches in the arts and crafts field, the series will explain the need, origin and development of hand crafts and will highlight examples of art work being done by peoples in far distant lands.

The peoples, arts and cultures to be visited in the series include Peruvian, Polynesian, Melanesian, Alaskan, African and Mexican. It is not a how-to-do-it series, nor is it aimed specifically at Girl Scouts, but a dynamic explanation of man's creative activity.

The Girl Scouts of America provided guidance in the development of this educational series and, by this endeavor, have established themselves as the first youth agency to employ nationwide educational television as a means of reaching their membership, which now numbers over three million.

Hostess for the series will be Shari Lewis, one of TV's outstanding young personalities, whose recent "Shariland" program won the Emmy Award for the best local children's TV program. Each session will feature a guest expert in the field of anthropology or the arts, and a group of Girl Scouts.

Saturday's program will feature "The Hands of Man," showing how they have contributed to the development of man spiritually and physically, and how they have been used to satisfy man's need for food, shelter, adornment, religion, beauty and entertainment.

Dr. Howard Conant, professor of art education at New York University, will be the guest consultant.

"Pottery and the Container" will be the topic for Dec. 27, with William Daley, potter, of the Philadelphia Museum of Art, as the guest consultant. It will deal with the evolution of the container from a primitive bowl through jars, pitchers and vases to the decorated work of art.

Other topics for succeeding weeks will be "Basketry," "Ornaments and Beauty," "Masks and Imagination," "Music and Musical Instruments," "Dolls, Puppets and Diversion," "Woodcarving and Artistic Expression," and Design and Decoration."

Boys Taken To 'Lineup'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two boys, aged 9 and 10, were to be taken to a "lineup" of their fellow schoolmates today in an attempt to pick out two other students they say were smoking cigarettes just before the tragic fire at Our Lady of the Angels school.

A "blue ribbon" coroner's jury of 16 building and insurance experts had retired meanwhile to evaluate the mass of evidence introduced at the probe of the blaze that killed 89 students and three nuns.

Arson squad investigators disclosed after the final hearing of the inquest Tuesday that questionnaires submitted to 1,200 students of the parochial school gleaned the information that two boys had been seen smoking in a stairwell on Dec. 1, the day of the fire.

Police withheld the names of the two boys who claimed to have seen the two older students smoking. They were to visit classrooms where Our Lady of the Angels students are now located and, if possible, to point out the offenders whose names they don't know.

The final session of the inquest was marked by sharp criticism of Sgt. Drew Brown of the arson squad by church spokesmen and Wyatt Jacobs, lawyer for the Chicago archbishopric.

The attack followed Brown's summation of the investigation's findings: "We have found out there definitely was smoking in the stairwell. There definitely was combustible matter in the stairwell. There definitely was delay in sounding the alarm."

Jacobs said Brown had no facts to back up his statement on delay, had not accounted for the possibility water from firemen's hoses had sluiced papers and other combustible materials into the stairwell after the fire, and had made general and "careless" use of the word "arson."

Brown conceded he had no evidence of arson, but was willing to stand on his other statements.

Club Hears Young Barber Shoppers

A group of barbershop singers, aged between seven and ten, produced some hilarious antics under the direction of Mrs. Flaudie Gallman, at the Top O' Texas Kiwanis Club Tuesday night.

"I want them to play football but I don't want them to forget how to sing," remarked Mrs. Gallman, a teacher at Baker Elementary School.

The Barbershoppers are Jim Arthur, Ricky Jones, Tommy Brewer, Gene Ferguson, Barney Baker, David Robertson and Kent Follis.

During the business session, H. E. Stanfield, newly elected president, called for 100 per cent participation in what he termed "a Kiwanis Club with a great future."

Members discussed ticket sales for a Jan. 15 Boxley and Murray Mystery and Illusion Show, which will be staged in the High School auditorium. Tickets went on sale today and will be available until showtime, $1 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Forty Persons Killed In Rebel And Govt. Fray

ARSAL, Lebanon (UPI)—Forty persons were killed this weekend in a major government - rebel clash caused by a simple misunderstanding.

Army infantry, armed cars and jet planes pounded this rebel stronghold in the Bekka valley with mortars, rockets and shellfire in perhaps the bloodiest battle Lebanon has witnesed in the last eight months.

Village elders reported 40 persons were killed and more than 100 wounded in an eight-hour battle with army units which encircled the town on high ridges overlooking it.

Jet fighters made five runs on the village, firing machine guns and rockets. In addition to the human casualties, the road into the city was studded with dead sheep, cows and donkeys killed in the wild firing.

The whole tragedy occurred because of a misunderstanding which developed when rival villagers across the valley fired in the air at a funeral. Arsal residents, thinking the fire was directed at them, opened up.

Details of the action, which took place about fifty miles north of Beirut along an isolated strip of the Syrian-Lebanese frontier, were not released in Beirut until Tuesday.

An official government statement said 15 persons were killed, but villagers put the toll at 40 when I arrived here with UPMT photographer Von Reibnits.

NEW YORK (UPI)—We women are easy marks for salesmen. It's the husband who usually resists the quickly closed deal.

Who says so? A salesman and executive who has been peddling or telling others how to peddle household appliances for the last 45 years.

"If today's housewife doesn't own some specific labor saver, she wants it," said A. L. McCarthy, vice president of the Eureka Williams Corp., a subsidiary which makes vacuum cleaners.

"And what she wants, she gets," said McCarthy, sounding just like a line out of a Broadway musical hit, "Damn Yankees."

"The wife is always easier to sell," he continued. "Why? Because she runs the man, that's why. After a while, he learns this."

Recalls A Sale

To show how salesmen often have to overcome manly stubbornness, he told of one Kansas City family he once called on. Those were the days when he was ringing doorbells. "The missus wanted a cleaner badly," said McCarthy. "Her husband kept saying, 'my grandmother used a broom. My mother used a broom. You can use a broom'."

"The next day," said McCarthy, "I just called on the husband at his office. The first thing I noticed was this fancy pencil sharpener. I thought, well, I've lost this sale anyway, so I just indicated he was a cheap skate. Five dollars he could spend on a pencil sharpener but nothing to make life easier for his wife."

McCarthy made the sale.

McCarthy, a rugged looking, good-humored man in his 60's, has used this approach and other techniques to sell some 500 million dollars worth of home appliances in his 45 years in the business.

Government May Curb Oil Imports

Eugene M. Locke, President of Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, released a statement following press reports from Washington which said "informed sources" has reported "the probability of mandatory government curbs on oil imports".

According to Associated Press Wednesday, the President's Cabinet Committee was said to have "turned to mandatory controls after Justice Department objections blocked a revision of the present voluntary program."

Locke said: "There is ample legislative authority for a proper mandatory imports control program. We welcome, of course, the news that the Cabinet Committee may now have recognized that a voluntary program is inadequate and that a positive program will be undertaken."

$1,500 Bond Posted

A Liberal, Kansas man, Robert F. Mayer, 45, posted a $1,500 bond late last night for his release from county jail.

Mayer was arrested Tuesday afternoon for allegedly driving while intoxicated. The arrest was made west of Kingsmill by Patrolman Travis Underwood.

Colonial Inn Scene Of DKG Yule Fete

Beta Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held its Christmas breakfast in the Colonial Inn on Saturday morning with approximately fifty members attending. Each member brought a gift for the Wichita Falls State Hospital.

Miss Oleta Marlin, speaking on "Spiritual Security," used the Christmas story recorded in St. Matthew as the basis of her devotional.

"Like those who followed the star, we must look up. Set your sights high," she advised. "One must search for the star with great expectation."

Miss Marlin went on to say that we must trust in the star and be willing to accept the gift to which the star leads. "The gift of love will bring us a dream of walking another way with reverence, integrity, meekness, assurance, and trust."

"Christmas is spiritual security," she said, "if you have a star, a gift, and a dream."

The Beta Delta sextet, composed of Mrs. Roy Sullivan, Mrs. Wendell Altmiller, Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams, Miss Bernice Larsh, Miss Mary Reeve, and Miss Mary Dean Dozier, sang a selection of Christmas carols.

The Christmas motif was carried out in table decorations. Miniature trees of net and Christmas balls, made by the homemaking classes of Robert E. Lee Junior High, were flanked by holly and evergreen.

Hostesses were Mrs. L. B. Penick, Miss Mary Reeve, Miss Bernice Larsh, and Mrs. William Bennink.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Not wishing to reveal my identity, let's just say I am a man whose business takes me into the homes of my clients. While on a business call to present the bill) a very attractive woman practically "threw herself" at me. Being human, I "caught" her. When I presented my bill for what she owed me, (labor and materials) she tore it into little pieces. It amounted to $400. I took it to my lawyer and he advised me to forget the bill, the woman, and the incident. Should I?

'HOMO SAPIEN"

Dear Sap: Take your lawyer's advice. You're lucky she didn't add an amusement tax.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for "LUCILLE," the woman who is taking away our Daddy.

"Yes, Lucille, what about us kids? We were happy before you came along. Why don't you find your own man instead of our Mommy's man? Don't you know about the Ten Commandments? I go to Sunday School and learns about Jesus and Mommy says when it rains Jesus is crying because someone was bad. It rained here all day Saturday. Jesus was crying because you were bad and took our Daddy away. Please go away and leave our Daddy alone. Please put this in your paper, Miss Abby, and I wish you a Merry Caristmas.

THIRD GRADER

DEAR ABBY: My husband's second cousin, age 65, is going to marry a man, age 67, in January. Her husband and his wife passed away last summer. She is going to be married in a white dress and wedding veil. She asked my husband to give her away. I refuse to attend the wedding and see them make fools of themselves. Am I wrong? Shouldn't the preacher talk them into have a quiet wedding?

DISGUSTED

Dear Disgusted: The preacher will probably prevail upon them to dispense with the gown and veil type wedding. If they insist, and your husband "gives the bride away" . . . don't be conspicuous by your absence.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I'm wrong, but with my family the children seem to run everything. At an adult party, the children are the center of attraction. When I visit any one of my sisters or brothers, their children have to be right in the middle of everything we say or do. I have one boy, 4 years old. When anyone comes to see me, he says "hello" and then goes into his bedroom or outside to play. Am I right? Or do children belong in their mother's laps and in every adult conversation until they reach the age of 16?

ROSE

Dear Rose: If you are wrong, then that makes two of us.

DEAR ABBY: We are two young wives whose husbands work for the same company and they both tell us the same tale. They get off work at 4:30 p.m. and don't get home until 6:00 p.m. They say they are playing PING - PONG. Don't you think this is a very childish game for two grown men to be playing?

PING PONG WIDOWS

Dear "Widows": Don't complain. There are worse games.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self - addressed, stamped envelope.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters and answers in one book, ask your bookdealer to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

BUT VARIETY TODAY

Thirty years ago, the groceries available in retail stores were limited in variety and governed largely by seasons. Today the variety of products and meats available to the consumer has greatly increased. In fact, did you know that there are enough different meat cuts available to provide a new meat dish every day for an entire year!

A brook trout may lay as many as 4,000 eggs in a single "nest" scooped in a stream bottom.

ROCKETS OVER THE PACIFIC—The Navy has proposed a 15-year program for turning much of the Pacific Ocean into a vast testing area for missiles and space vehicles. Newsmap spots: proposed range in the central Pacific south of Hawaii where satellites—both unmanned and manned—could be recovered as they returned to earth; Manus Island in the Admiralties, now under United Nations trusteeship, suggested for the launching of satellites in orbits along the equator; and "bull's-eye" areas near Wake and Midway Islands, proposed as targets for intercontinental-range ballistic missiles fired from bases in California.

All Eyes Are On The Hawthorn Tree

By MARGARET SAVILLE
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — Citizens of ancient Glastonbury in the west country are anxiously watching the sturdy little Hawthorn tree which grows near the high altar in ruined Glastonbury Abbey on Wearyall Hill.

For this is the famous holy thorn of legend and if it duly blooms on Christmas Day, the first spray of blossom must be ceremoniously cut by the vicar of Glastonbury and dispatched at once to the queen.

If it fails to bloom, it is believed that a year of grief and tribulation for the royal family and for England generally lies ahead.

Staff Takes ROOT

Legend says that this tree dates back to Saint Joseph of Arimathea who came to the vale of Avalon to preach Christianity carrying a staff cut from the tree which provided Christ's crown thorns. Exhausted from climbing the steep hill, he stopped to rest remarking, "We are weary all," and plunged his staff into the ground.

It immediately took root and became a tree which always blooms at Christmas, unlike normal thorn trees which bloom in the spring. It also blooms whenever royalty visits the abbey.

The tree has bloomed at Christmas for centuries past. There are historical records of its flowers being ceremonially presented to King James I and Queen Anne. The late Queen Mary always looked forward to receiving the flower at Sandringham House and the sprays were placed by her in the local church.

As one tree has reached its normal span and died, cuttings from it have been planted so that the holy thorn can continue in perpetuity. The present tree has matured from the cutting officially taken and planted with considerable pomp during the festival of Britain celebrations in 1951.

Seeds from the tree have often been cultivated but the result has always been an ordinary spring-blooming thorn.

But cuttings sent to many parts of the world have occasionally rooted successfully and matured into Christmas - blooming trees. They are always required to be planted in holy ground.

One is at St. Alban's Cathedral in Washington. In 1951 when Princess Elizabeth visited Washington it suddenly bloomed and a spray of the blossom was presented to her in a special silver casket.

Just over two months later her father died and the princess became the queen.

Top Steer Is Meat For Ike

CHICAGO (UPI) — Steaks from the nation's top steer will grace the country's first table, it was announced Tuesday.

Restaurateur Howard Johnson, who bought the Aberdeen-Angus grand championship steer at the International Live Stock Exposition, said that steaks from the recently slaughtered animal would be sent to President and Mrs. Eisenhower and two state governors.

"Holy Cow," 925-pound black beauty raised and exhibited by Chuch Wood Jr., 17, Spence, Iowa, dressed out at 639 pounds after slaughtering. On the hoof, "Holy Cow" brought Wood a sale price of $23,125.

Iowa Gov. Herschell Loveless and Gov. Foster Furcullo of Massachusetts — Johnson's home state—also will receive part of the prime beef.

A Johnson spokesman said a rug made from the hide will be sent to young Wood.

Decision to slaughter the steer was made after plans to take "Holy Cow" to the Rose Bowl with the Iowa football entourage fell through.

TOP TUNE

LONDON (UPI) — Daily Telegraph columnist Peterborough claimed today he overheard a phonograph record salesman tell a clergyman when he handed him a record:

"There you are, sir, 'Silent Night,' number seven in the top ten and climbing fast on the 'Two for Tea Cha Cha'."

SNOW FUN

MIAMI (UPI) — The temperature was 60 degrees Tuesday, but there was a snowstorm here. The Weather Bureau said a heavy snowstorm raged over the city at 25,000 feet — but the snow became rain by the time in reached the streets.

Ewald Shudders at Thought Of 'IQ' Lasting 20 Years

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Back in the days of radio — that, children, was television with a wretched picture, but cheaper repairmen — there was a show calld "Dr. I.Q."

It lasted 20 years, asked several thousand silly questions, doled out more than a million silver dollars and rescued countless ladies who had somehow become captives of announcers in the balcony.

Monday night, ABC-TV dipped into this cro-magnon period of entertainment, resurrected "Dr. I.Q." and I must say it all looked properly calcified.

The silver dollars were on hand and so were the silly questions. There was also an ensnared lady in a jerry-built balcony. Whether the present edition will endure for 20 years is too frightening a prospect to contemplate. However, anything is possible. Franklin Pierce, after all, made it for four.

"The genial, rapid-fire quizmaster" — I quoted from press releases — was Tom Kennedy and he genially fired rapidly such questions as "Why do camels have long eyelashes," "What was the family name of Tiny Tim" and "What is the name of the salad dressing-named after the islands in the St. Lawrence River."

The questions were worth, respectively, eleven, seven and five silver dollars and it occurred to me the contestants might have spent their evening more profitably over a sidewalk grating with a piece of gummed string. I know for sure the home audience should have.

Short Shots: "The Night the Phone Rang" on CBS-TV's "Desilu Playhouse" was a mediocre effort, saved only slightly be some on-the-scene photography in Los Angeles. NBC-TV's Jack Paar, who has been running into some sodden Monday night audiences recently, got a fairly responsive audience Monday night and turned out a nice, crisp show.

The Channel Swim: CBS-TV will launch a new 30-minute Sunday afternoon show, "The World of Ideas," starting Jan. 18. The same network is planning a couple of Sunday afternoon 60-minute one shots: "Big News of '58" on Jan. 4 and "Meet the New Senators" on Jan. 11. "The Last Word" returns to CBS-TV Jan. 18.

Sherry Jackson, who plays the oldest daughter on the CBS-TV "Danny Thomas Show," is being replaced by Annette Funicello, a former performer on 'Mickey Mouse Club." Annette will play "Gina," an Italian exchange student. Ricky Nelson has been absent from some recent ABC-TV "Ozzie and Harriet" shows because he has grown a beard for a Western movie, "Day of the Outlaw."

BAH! HUMBUG!

LONDON (UPI)— The following advertisement appeared today in the personal columns of the London Times:

"Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Bonning of Northwood, having joined the Biennial Christmas Society (odd years only), wish to inform their friends that they are leaving the country during the coming difficult weeks. No cards, by request."

Hubby Didn't Tell All!

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 21-year-old German girl who met her Houston husband through the mails won annulment from her three-day marriage because she claimed he failed to tell her of seven former wives.

The husband, 49-year-old George Lee Childs, denied her charges, although he did not appear in court to contest the annulment. Childs said he had only been married six times previously.

District Judge Byron Johnson granted Mrs. Ursula H. Childs the annulment Monday. She said she had married Childs on Oct. 18 a week after arriving in Houston from her home in Essen, Germany. Johnson also restored her maiden name of Ursula Hupp.

Miss Hupp said Childs, who courted and proposed to her through correspondence from Houston, had told her he had been married once before and had a 12-year-old son.

But two days after their marriage, she said Childs told her he also had a 23-year-old son and that she was his eigth wife. She left him the next day.

Childs said one of his previous six wives was killed in a car-train crash four days after their marriage. Another died two months after he married her and the other four ended in divorces — two by lawsuits in which he charged adultery and the other two because of "mother-in-law troubles."

"I feel empty inside," Childs said after the annulment. "I really loved her. But when I get divorced I get it out of my mind."

Bill Corum Dies Tuesday Night

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Death caught up with Bill Corum, one of the nation's most popular sports writers, before he could finish his autobiography.

The 63-year-old New York Journal-American columnist, who also served as president of the Churchill Downs race track and impresario of the Kentucky Derby, died Tuesday night of lung cancer at St. Luke's Hospital.

"Try to keep me going so I can finish my book," Corum told his physician and long - time friend, Dr. John S. Davis Jr., only Tuesday morning.

"We tried awfully hard and so did Bill, but it was too late," Dr. Davis said. "I asked him, 'How do you feel, Bill?' when I visited him early last night. He blinked his eyes a couple of times but didn't reply. Then he died."

Contracts Pneumonia

Corum had been in and out of the hospital since he contracted pneumonia during the World Series in October. He resumed writing his column about a month ago but felt so weak he returned to St. Luke's last week.

The roundfaced, jolly "amateur horse player" never saw another typewriter.

Corum was still a student in college when he took time out to serve as an Army private in the expeditionary force that fought against Pancho Villa in Mexico in 1916. He quit school again when World War I broke out and later became the youngest major in the AEF at the age of 23.

While serving with the famed 26th (Yankee) Division in France Corum received his degree from the University before going to work for the New York Times in 1920.

Becomes Star Columnist

In 1925, Corum "jumped" to the Journal 8 American at the behest of the late Arthur Brisbane. He was a baseball writer during his early years with the Journal-American, then became the paper's star columnist in 1927.

When Matt Winn, the "father" of the Kentucky Derby, died in 1949, Corum was named to succeed him as president of Churchill Downs. He would take a leave of absence from the Journal-American each spring to help direct plans for the Derby.

Corum also became well known as a radio sports commentator. He served for many years as a "color" announcer at the World Series and at championship fights.

Among Corum's survivors are his mother, a brother, Clayton, and a son, Robert. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Moore Named Top Fighter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, the ring's marvellous Methuselah, was named "Fighter of the Year" today by the Boxing Writers' Association.

The BWA unanimously voted him the annual Edward J. Neil Award for outstanding contributions to the sport during 1958. His greatest contribution was last week's heroically dramatic defense against Canadian Yvon Durelle at Montreal.

When informed of his selection, Archie declared, "Oh, great! All my life I've been fighting toward this. It's the richest reward of my career."

The writers also voted the James J. Walker Memorial Award for long and meritorious service to Brooklyn's Sam Taub, once secretary to the famous Bat Masterson and long-time boxing writer and radio announcer. He has been the association's recording secretary nearly 30 years.

Moore, 42 or 45, and Taub, 72, will receive their plaques at the writers' dinner next month.

Whatever Happened To ...

VIC BOTTARI

Some of Vic Bottari's teammates on California's 1937 football team grabbed more headlines during the season than Vic did but in the Rose Bowl the following New Year's Day Bottari was the big wheel. That was the year the Rose Bowl picked Alabama as the "guest team" against California's Western champs and the folks at Fordham drew considerable public sympathy for being by-passed. Well-drilled Alabama was the favorite but California won it 13-0 with Bottari scoring both touchdowns and rushing 137 yards in 34 attempts.

Whatever happened to Vic Bottari? The former halfback of the Bears is in the insurance business at San Francisco.

Baylor Elects Co-Captains

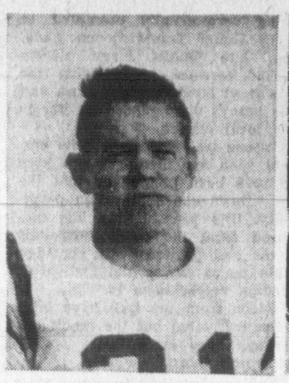

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Quarterback Buddy Humphrey and tackle Billy Joe Kelley were elected permanent co-captains for the 1958 Baylor football team Tuesday.

The captains are elected after the close of the season.

Both players will participate in the North-South Shrine game at Miami, Fla.

Humphrey, from Kilgore, led the nation in pass completions. Kelley, from Galena Park, was a defensive standout.

IN STATE FINALS

Can Bucks Beat Elgin?

Can White Deer beat the team that beat the champ?

The team that beat the champ is Elgin, White Deer's opponent in the state finals Saturday in Sweetwater, at 7 p.m.

In the quarterfinals, Elgin, a twice - beaten squad, knocked off the defending class A co - champ, Mart, by a 16-8 score.

Elgin has chalked up a 12-2 record for the season, while outscoring its opponents by exactly 200 points — 329 to 129.

Elgin's losses were in the fourth and fifth games of the season, 0-21 to Caldwell and 8-24 to Taylor. In other regular season games, Elgin defeated Smithville 66-0, Round Rock 26-0, Georgetown 14-0, Del Valle 27-8, Thorndale 24-8, Thrall 18-6, Granger 18-6 and Bastrop 34-0.

Playoff wins were chalked up over West Midway in bi - district, 26-18; Warren in the regional playoff, 38-24; Mart in the quarterfinals, 16-8; and George West in last week's semi-finals, 14-6.

White Deer is one of the highest scoring teams in the state, with a total of 511 points in their 14 games. The Bucks have allowed 118 points, while winning 13 games and tying one.

The Bucks have passed the 6,000 yard mark in total offense and are a cinch to pass the three - mile rushing mark this week. They have gained a total of 6,356 yards. Of this, 5,269 yards — just 11 short of a mile — have been on the ground.

Two White Deer tailbacks, Allen Harmon and Hershel Powell, have scored as many points and made as much yardage as many teams. Powell has already passed the one-mile mark, and is now shooting for 2,000 yards, with only 30 to go. He's made 1970 yards on 246 carries, and has scored 130 points.

Allen Harmon needs only a running conversion to hit the century mark in scoring, since he now has 98 points. He is also way over the thousand - yard mark in rushing, with 1,152 yards.

Although White Deer has passed sparingly, their air attack has also been effective. The number one tosser, quarterback Jackie Burns, has completed only 24 passes, but 10 of them have been for touchdowns.

Dickie Hanna has completed 11 throws, five for touchdowns; and Powell has completed two, both for touchdowns. End Jeff Bearden has been on the receiving end of nine of the 17 touchdown tosses.

High-Ranked West Virginia Almost Upset by Richmond

United Press International

There's fresh evidence today why Jerry West, a lean 6-foot, 3-inch forward, is "Mr. Basketball" to West Virginia.

West, those development last season sparked West Virginia to the national championship, came through when he was most needed again Tuesday night to lead West Virginia to a 98-67 victory over Richmond. It was the Mountaineers' first game since Saturday's 75-72 loss to Virginia and for a while it seemed they might be victimized by another upset.

Richmond, which made the trip to Morgantown, W. Va., with only seven players, trailed by only 39-34 with two and a half minutes left in the first half. The Mountaineers were playing as listlessly as they did in the Virginia defeat and the partisan crowd feared another upset.

That's when West took over with eight straight points to boost the Mountaineers into a 54-38 half time margin. Richmond never came close thereafter and Coach Fred Schaus yanked the Mountaineer regulars after they opened up a 70-41 bulge with six minutes gone in the second half.

West scored 29 points and Bob Smith tallied 23 for West Virginia which scored its sixth win in seven games this season. The seventh - ranked Mountaineers have won 26 consecutive games at home and 40 straight games in the Southern Conference.

Clarence Iba topped his more famous coaching brother, Hank, as Tulsa scored a 71-50 win over Oklahoma State; Oklahoma City whipped North Texas State, 70-56, Loyola of Chicago defeated Drake, 74 - 71, Arkansas City knocked off Weber College of Utah, 60-44, and Portland beat Washington of St. Louis, 63-50.

Mississippi Southern beat Southeastern Missouri, 65-60, Hofstra upset Penn Military, 83-71, Rutgers defeated Columbia, 84-73, Canisius whipped Gannon, 77-54, Yale shaded Brown, 76-73, Rhode Island walloped New Hampshire, 80-65, Baylor beat Abilene Christian, 65 - 58, and Penn State downed Gettysburg, 71-60, in other games.

Bowl Teams Go Back to Work

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Texas Christian Coach Abe Martin called off the day's practice scrimmage Tuesday because he was dissatisfied with the Frogs' inability to stop Air Force plays.

"The score will be 47-0 if we play defensively against the Air Force like we did today in scrimmage," Martin said disgustedly.

Martin said the man in motion and the unbalanced line used by the Falcons seemed to be the root of the trouble for his Frogs.

On offense, TCU looked better, moving the ball well during a 45-minute scrimmage, the first scrimmage for the team in six weeks.

Reserve halfback Jack Reding's running highlighted the workout.

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI)— Heavy contact drills were started for the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys Tuesday, and two key players were injured.

Knee injuries sent halfback Earl Brown and quarterback Harold (Hayseed) Stephens to the training room, where their injuries were pronounced serious.

The first and second units went against the third and fourth units, which used Wyoming defenses during the workout. The coaching staff was pleased with the showing of the defensive players.

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)— The Oklahoma Sooners went through their fourth practice in the current preparations for the Orange Bowl game with Syracuse Tuesday.

The Sooners had an hour-long workout on tackling offensive drills.

Coach Bud Wilkinson said his quarterback choices are the same: Bobby Boyd on the first team, Bob Cornell at alternate, and Bob Page on the third lineup.

The teams worked on individual conditioning, then ran plays against the Freshmen.

The injury situation looked the same, with Jerry Thompson still smarting from an injured bone in his chest, and being held to running exercise without heavy contact.

BAYLOR BEARS WIN; HOUSTON, NT LOSE

United Press International

Baylor took its second straight game Tuesday night by defeating Abilene Christian College 65-58, in the only game involving a Southwest Conference team. The game was played at Waco.

The red-hot shooting of reserve David Pierce in the final minutes of both the first and second halves was a significant factor in the victory, and gave Pierce a total of 12 points, second only to starting center Carroll Dawson, who totaled 13 to lead the Bears.

Baylor took an early lead, then watched the winning edge trade hands three times, and become tied three more, before guard Jerry Walsh hit on a jump shot from the corner to put the Bears ahead for good, 15-13, with 10 minutes left in the first half.

Baylor led at the halfway point, 34-28.

With six minutes left in the second half, ACC pulled within two points of the Bruins, 51-49, but Pierce hit on three field goals to pull the Bears ahead with a safe margin.

Robert McCleod of Abilene led the game's scoring with 16 points.

It was Baylor's third win in five starts.

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI)— After running up a quick 20 point lead, the Santa Clara Broncos coasted to a 73-68 victory over the Houston Cougars Tuesday night.

Ted Philips was high point man for the Cougars with 18 points, but trailed Santa Clara's Jim Taylor, who had 19.

The Broncos connected on 47 per cent of their shots from the floor while Houston hit only 38 per cent.

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) — With five minutes left, Oklahoma City University went into a delaying action to protect a four-point lead Tuesday night, then piled on the points as North Texas State repeatedly fouled in efforts to get the ball, and finally defeated the Texans by 70-56.

The Eagles hit 43 per cent from the field and led the visitors by as much as seven points through the first half, and led at intermission, 31-30.

But North Texas went cold in the second half, and quickly lost its lead.

OCU was leading 58-54, when it started its delaying game at the close.

Harvesters Shoot At Fast .503 Clip

The Harvesters went into the Hobbs series shooting at an almost impossible .500 clip.

They not only held their own — they gained three percentage points. The Harvesters have now hit 190 of 378 field goal attempts, for a .503 percentage.

From the free throw line, Pampa has connected on 140 of 192 tosses, for a .728 average.

The two Harvesters mainly responsible for the high shooting percentage are Coyle Winborn and Bobby Gindorf. Winborn, an all-state forward last year, has hit 53 of 84 shots for an amazing .631 percentage.

Gindorf has netted 28 of his 50 attempts for a .560 percentage.

Winborn has a big lead in individual scoring, with 136 points. He has never gone under 15, and he got the high single game total, 25. Friday night in Hobbs. The big forward is also second in free throws (32), free throw percentage (.800), and rebounds (72).

Guard Charlie Minor dipped slightly below the season level in scoring and free throws, during the Hobbs series, but he is still second to Winborn in total points and tops in free throw shooting. Minor has netted 97 points, 32 on free throws.

Gindorf leads the team in free throw percentage, with .813, and is tied with center Mack Layne in scoring, with 82 points.

Layne, the tallest man on the team at 6-5, has grabbed the most rebounds, 74. Layne had his best night of the year Saturday, hitting 24 points against Hobbs.

A couple of reserves, Joe Timms and Phillip Gist, have made a good dent in the scoring column. Gist has tallied 27, Timms 26. Both saw quite a bit of action against Hobbs.

Timms played most of both games, in place of ailing Craig Winborn, who has the flu. The junior forward, only 5-11, has grabbed 28 rebounds while playing the equivalent of only about three full games.

NON-DANGEROUS CURVE—A quarter-mile of continuous railroad rail rides on 34 flat cars, so flexible that it follows curves as the train comes off a siding. The rails were welded by the new NCG continuous rail-welding system. Standard 39-foot length rails are fed into one end of a traveling welding car and emerge at the other end as continuous ribbons of steel on the flat-car train. Sponsors of the new system say welded rails will save millions of dollars in track installation and maintenance costs and in reduction of damage to rolling stock and freight caused by the "rock-and-roll" as car wheels click over the gaps between old-fashioned bolted rail joints.

St. Nick Composes Letter To 'Old Nick' Khrushchev

SANTA CLAUS, Ind. (UPI) — Santa Claus mailed a letter to Nikita S. Khrushchev today.

"Let us abide," he wrote. "We can live together so peaceful. It sure will make many more homes happy."

The writer was the year-round professional Santa Claus of this community named for the Christmas saint. But the letter was personal, not official. Santa said: "I don't know if it will be delivered personally to Nikita, but the words came to me before I got out of bed so I had to send it

Santa's real name is Jim Yellig, but he's been Santa Claus for 25 years and that's the only name he'll answer to if there's a child in earshot.

That's the name he signed to the letter to the Soviet premier:

"As this big world of ours is approaching the great feast day of the birth of the Prince of Peace, Santa Claus, who wishes to bring happiness to everyone, wants to be good to you also and to all Russian children, especially," Santa wrote.

"So on this day, Christmas, 1958, let us join and pay homage to the little Prince of Peace, whose birth 19 centuries ago has brought so many good things to our world.

"The same twinkling stars that shone over Bethlehem still shine on us today, and listen, hear those sounds—peace on earth, good will toward all men. Is there any time in all the long year as truly wonderful as Christmas? It is a holy time, too, pulling us without resistance on our part, closer to our faith, closer to the meaning of Christ-like, closer to our fellowman.

"Let us abide. We can live together so peaceful. It sure will make more homes happy.

"You know my trusty reindeer do not know any boundary lines. We must bring joy and happiness to children all over this world. Keep the candles burning, as I will be in Moscow on time."

GET PAY INCREASE

PARIS (UPI) — A government decree has raised salaries of French senators and deputies from $714 to $922.25 a month.

Daniel Asks Big Budget

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Price Daniel today recommended a state government budget for the next biennium calling for a 10 per cent increase in state spending.

The governor's budget, submitted to members of the 56th Legislature convening Jan. 13, provides for a boost of almost $29 million in expenditures from the state's General Revenue Fund during the two-year period starting Sept. 1, 1959.

"The outlook is for continued growth of our state," Daniel said in a letter accompanying his proposed budget.

"To meet the resulting increase in population in schools, colleges, hospitals and other state institutions, and to provide a minimum of essential improvements, an increase of approximately 10 per cent in state spending will be necessary," Daniel said.

Overall spending from the General Revenue Fund, under the governor's plan, would total $310,221,763, compared to the present biennium's total of $281,295,649.

"This does not include any new program which has not received legislative approval, except a system of parole supervision for juveniles committed to correctional institutions of the Texas Youth Council," Daniel wrote lawmakers.

Business Views

United Press International

Thomas J. Hargrave, chairman of Eastman Kodak Co., predicted gradual gains for the economy next year. At the same time he voiced moderate optimism for the big photographic equipment concern. He said sales for all of 1958 should maintain the 2 per cent gain shown in the first nine months.

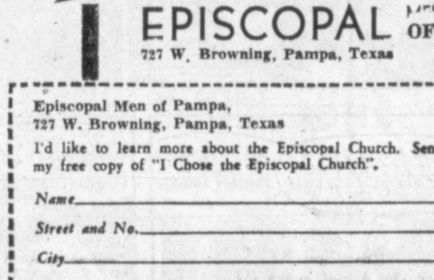

Refiners were raising light heating oil prices in moves attributed to stepped up demand created by the cold wave. In the mid-continent increases amounted to ¼-cent a gallon. On the Atlantic Seaboard Esso Standard Oil Co. boosted prices for light fuel oils ½-cent a gallon in New Jersey and 0.3-cent in other states.

The Civil Aeronautics Board denied the request of four all-cargo airlines for federal subsidy, but ordered a study of the all-cargo carrier industry. The carriers said they have suffered losses because of the recession and fewer contracts to haul military cargo.

Gwilym A. Price, chairman of Westinghouse Electric Corp., said the second biggest electrical manufacturer looks for "steady improvement in billings and new orders" during 1959. He said the outlook is based on expectations of "increasing personal consumption expenditures" and "the accumulation of business inventories which will be under way during the first six months of 1959."

You Don't Worship God Alone

One of the old favorite hymns starts out "We Gather Together . . . "

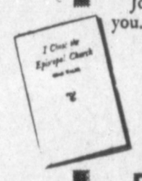

To us who belong to the Episcopal Church the thought of gathering together to worship God is one of the most important things in our religious life. We gather together to worship God in a body.

You see, in the Episcopal Church, the services you attend whether Morning Prayer, Evening Prayer or the Service of Holy Communion, are centered in the worship of God. You say, "That's true of any church," and that's right but in an entirely different degree. Sure, we have a sermon in most of our services, and we believe that "preaching the word" is most essential. But, the service is not "preaching centered". It's centered around the worship of God.

And we all take part in the services which are contained in our beloved Book of Common Prayer — we refer to it as corporate worship.

Wouldn't you like to join us? We assure you of this much — you'll leave feeling you've really been in church.

Join us soon in the Episcopal Church near you.

Scientists Unhappy About Pulbic Contempt of TB Bug

SCIENCE TODAY
By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tuberculosis scientists aren't happy about the public's increasing disrespect for tubercle bacillus. Regardless of the wonderful new drugs that have made it easier to cure tuberculosis, it cannot be forgotten that TB remains a communicable disease which can menace anyone.

The principal anti-TB drugs are streptomycin, isoniazid, and paraaminosalicylic acid or PAS. They slaughter tubercle bacilli by the multitudes, but neither in the first onslaught or in many onslaughts can they kill all the bacilli in a tuberculous lung.

Three to six months of daily drug taking are usually necessary before the patient's sputum contains no bacilli. This means lung destruction has been arrested and the patient can be turned out of the hospital, since he can no longer transmit his disease to others.

But he may well contain bacilli still. They are "sleeping" but will awake and multiply. Then lung destruction resumes and he is a TB transmitter again. That happens, of course, only if he stops taking a drug. He must not stop for a minimum of 18 months.

Another potential menace to public health is the fact that 35 to 50 million Americans are "positive" to the tuberculin test which means their defensive chemistry once engaged tubercle bacilli successfully. They were attacked but didn't succumb. But bacilli "sleep" in many of them and many awaken and make them both tuberculous and TB-spreaders. Practically all the new cases come from "positive reactors."

Still another danger is that of the estimated 800,000 active and inactive cases of tuberculosis in the United States — one half unknown to public health authorities or private physicians.

TB is conspicuously a waxing and waning disease. An active case is one in which the disease is on the upswing; when it swings downward the case is inactive—until it swings up again.

To have some 400,000 of these unsupervised "unknown" carriers around spreading bacilli displeases public health authorities.

They and tuberculosis scientists don't want to panic anyone, and have no need to. It can be demonstrated mathematically that tuberculosis is on its way out in the United States and Western Europe, and certainly the chances of any healthy person catching it are infinitesimal compared to what they used to be.

But so long as tubercle bacilli exist in any individual, family, community, city or nation public health is endangered in some degree. Despite the relatively low estate of TB today, the federal, state, and local governments, plus private organizations such as the Christmas seal supported tuberculosis societies, are spending approximately 775 million dollars on it annually.

This money goes to treat new and old cases, to find the bacilli-spreading unknown cases, to seek new and more effective anti-TB drugs, and to explore the remaining mysteries concerning the disease and the bacilli. Tuberculosis scientists and public health authorities would like a knowledgeable public, rather than an indifferent, complacent one, in order to wipe out the disease sooner than it could be otherwise.

Oil Allowable Stays Same

AUSTIN (UPI)— Texas' oil allowable for January was set Tuesday at the Railroad Commission at 3,128,366 barrels daily, the same level as current permissive production.

The commision held state-wide and East Texas field producing days at 12, the same as during December. The allowable figure was exactly the same as at present.

A majority of major oilmen attending the brief, 45-minute statewide proration hearing urged a cut in production.

Only Texas Company requested 13-day production, while Humble Oil and Refining Co., was the only major oil company asking for continued 12-day production.

Asking for a reduction to 11 days were spokesmen for Atlantic Refining Co., Cities Service Oil Co., Sinclair Refining Co., Magnolia Petroleum Co., Indiana Oil Purchasing Co., and Gulf Oil Corp.

Ten-day production was requested by Shell Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., Phillips Petroleum Co., Standard Oil Co. of Texas, and Continental Oil Co.

Special field allowables included Dora Roberts Devonian and Headlee Devonian, six days each, and Howard Glasscock, Iatan East Howard and Snyder, 11 days each.

Lefors Holds Grid Banquet

LEFORS (Spl) — Junior Arterburn, Assistant Coach of Texas Tech, Lubbock, was speaker for the annual High School football banquet held in the high school cafeteria.

He stressed what it takes to make a football player — desire, ability, applying oneself, and elaborated on the enlargement program now being carried out in Texas Tech, summarizing with the thought that applying oneself in college is the greatest asset that a good football player, college girl, etc. can have.

The "Future Pirates," a quartet made up of David Roberts, Mickey Archer, Bill Nichols and Jimmy DeGray, in costume presented a musical program accompanied by Miss Margie Nichols at the piano.

Co-captains, Larry Blair and Calvin Stracener, presented the coaches, H. W. Callan and Edward Lehnick, with gifts.

Following the banquet and program a Southwest Conference game was shown to the parents in the band hall.

G. N. Mounger, high school principal served as Master of ceremonies, Brp. Charlie Tutor gave the Invocation, and Rev. D. H. Priest gave the benediction.

"Pirate Paradise," the theme, was elaborately carried out in silver and pink, the tables being laid in white, stripped with pink and centered with pink glittered football helmets in a base of flocked leaves, pink buds and pink ornaments. Pink candles in crystal holders completed the center arrangements.

Huge letters inscribed the theme on the wall in an arrangement of huge silver and pink oak leaves with clusters of pink balloons.

A trellis covered in silver and pink pleaves with the balloon clusters formed a background for the head table which was centered with pink carnations, silver footballs.

Place cards held silver footballs on pink glitter. The affair was sponsored by the football mothers who served a menu of steak, gravy, potatoes, rolls, salad, coffee, tea, and cherry cobler ala mode.

Those attending were the football boys, their parents and dates, and Supt. and Mrs. Jerry Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Callan, the Ed Lehnicks, Charlie Tutors, D. H. Priests, Rev. & Mrs. L. M. Berry, Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Daniel, G. N. Moungers, and the guest speaker.

Making up the Pirate squad are David Fulton, Chas. Dickerson, James Blair, Bill Phillips, James Mote, Lee Blankenburg, Wayne Timms, Jimmy Gotcher, Doug Burress, Jerry Nichols, Larry Blair, Jerrell Montgomery, Mark Braly, Calvin Stacener, Kenneth Fields, John Atchley, Gene Shipman, Jerry Carpenter, Tommy Johnson, David Lewis, Mickey Archer, Tex Nolan, Buddy Chase, D. LP - MFT

Roger M. Blough, chairman of the board of United States Steel, has recently addressed the Newcomen Society in North America at the Hotel Pierre in New York City. What Mr. Blough had to say is important and deserving of notice.

First of all, it would be instructive, in the face of rising steel prices — the result of another wage increase demand by the labor czars — that we place steel in its proper framework of reference.

Steel is, uniquely, an American development. This is not to suggest that the use of iron ore was pioneered by Americans. On the contrary, history suggests that the Hittites were the first users of iron and were able, as a result of their development of the then rare metal, to best their Egyptian rivals in hand-to-hand conflict.

In early frontier days, steel processing was almost unknown and what little processing did occur made the end product enormously costly. For example, when Andrew Carnegie was born, steel was selling at $500 per ton.

Then came the invention and development of the various processes which brought mass production to the steel mills. The Bessemer converter unleashed a river of molten metal which quickly flooded the market place and made the price of steel a tiny fraction of its former prohibitive cost. Except for iron itself, steel became the most inexpensive and most plentiful metal in America; and according to Mr. Blough, it still is, regardless of the recent raises in price.

What most of us don't seem to get thru our heads is that these tremendous advances in metallurgy have come about because of vastly improved tools, of which the Bessemer furnace is only one. And the advent of each new tool in the steel industry or any other industry, is preceded by the necessity of private savings. We can never tool America beyond our ability as a nation to save money privately. And here is a very useful little idea submitted by the chairman of U.S. Steel.

Mr. Blough suggests that we haven't begun to save the necessary money to improve our productive capacity by the advent of new and better tools, that we can and must save. Billions of dollars must find their way into the hands of our enterprisers so that we can keep pace with the demands upon our industry. These billions must be dollars which are retained in private hands AFTER taxes. What the government drains away will never come back again. It is only what we can keep and invest that is going to do our standard of living any good.

Says Mr. Blough: "You know, somewhere, in some undiscovered cave, there may be some fugitive from a television set who does not know that LS-MFT—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. But have we ever advertised the fact that LP-MFT — les profit means fewer tools? I leave the question with you."

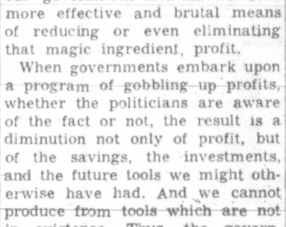

This is the point. All savings must come from profits. Yet it is profit that is always the central target of the looters who inhabit our government and devise ever more effective and brutal means of reducing or even eliminating that magic ingredient, profit.

When governments embark upon a program of gobbling up profits, whether the politicians are aware of the fact or not, the result is a diminution not only of profit, but of the savings, the investments, and the future tools we might otherwise have had. And we cannot produce from tools which are not in existence. Thus, the government, by its large and extensive program of collecting tax money is actually in the process of devouring our productive capacity.

Other nations are in a breakneck competitive race with us in all areas. We do not begrudge them a competitive position. What is difficult to endure, however, is the practice of the government of the United States, of siphoning up American profits and then sending that money abroad with which to encourage American competition. This is scarcely a free market or an American idea, and today's hard-pressed businessman is caught in the jaws of a financial pincer movement leveled against him simply because of his profits.

We are indebted to Mr. Blough for most of his remarks, which, as usual, are reasonable, timely and economically sound. We should remember that LP-MFT. Also, we should keep in mind that MP-MMT; more profit means more tools.

THE FARM REALITIES

U. S. farm policy is forcing the American taxpayer to mortgage his future. The cost of bumper crops, in terms of federal subsidies, will be a record $6-$7 billion for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959. And that's not small potatoes when one searches for the reasons the country is being plunged into debt. Only five years ago the taxpayers were shelling out less than half that amount — $3 billion — to the nation's farmers.

Something will have to be done soon if the mortgage on each of this country's tax payers isn't to be vastly increased. Technical accomplishments are helping farm owners make gigantic increases in their crop productivity. The result: gigantic increases in federal farm subsidies.

This bountiful land of ours is producing more and more foodstuffs, despite the fact that farmers are leaving the land in large numbers. New insecticides, fertilizers and farm equipment are making the agricultural methods of 10 or 20 years ago seem almost as outdated as the wooden plow.

The Department of Agriculture predicts, for instance, that the current corn crop will amount to 3.8 billion bushels. That would be a record figure. Many believe that the recent vote of the corn farmers for reduced price support and unlimited acreage will result in a higher subsidy total than ever. The soybean crop has been estimated as being 20 per cent greater than last year — and an all-time record.

This means more and more money spent for farm subsidies. It means a guaranteed increase in income for a special class of privileged citizens who receive a bounty from the mass of tax payers.

Twenty years ago, the Agricultural Adjustment Act came into existence. It was designed to save the family farm in the idst of hard times. The family farm has changed adically in the intervening two decades, but the flow of federal subsidies has not stopped. Instead, it has been increased. Naturally, the nation's debt has been increased by staggering sums.

The subsidy plan was unsound from the beginning — as if a free enterprise system could be rescued by socialist spending! But it is more unsound than ever now because agriculture is rapidly ceasing to be a family farm basis and is becoming a big business. It may be nice at Thanksgiving time to think of farming in terms of an old-stock American and his family working a small acreage owned by his family for generations. A more accurate picture would be that of a great commercial farming company which owns thousands of acres.

There is no reason in this world why farm corporations ought to enjoy subsidies while other corporations, big and little, have to depend on their own enterprise. The change that has taken place can be discerned in the fact that in the U.S. today some 2.1 million farms, out of a total of 4.8 million, currently produce 90 per cent of the food and fiber in the country.

This change may be very healthy. Farm corporations may be the answer to this growing nation's food and fiber problems. But that doesn't mean an outmoded and hideously expensive subsidy program should be continued. Farm legislation this year and in the years ahead should be based on the realities of farm life — increasingly centralized ownership and revolutionary technical improvements in growing crops.

The time has come when U. S. agriculture should be freed from the socialistic controls and subsidies fastened upon it during the eras of the New Deal, Fair Deal and Modern Republicanism. Never again should the tax payers be asked to finance a crop like the current one — and the whole program should be brought to an end as quickly as possible.

It's None Too Early Now

Robert Allen Reports:

Social Security Steps On Democrats' List

WASHINGTON — More social security — with hospital and surgical benefits for persons over 65 —is high on the Democratic program for the next Congress.

House leaders plan to start hearings as early as February before the Ways and Means Committee.

First draft of the legislation, now under study, would provide 60 days of hospital or nursing home care yearly, and a surgeon's fee if necessary, for persons over 65 under the social security system. Premanently disabled also would be covered.

Of 12,000,000 now getting social security, some 6,900,000 over 65 would be eligible for the new benefits; 210,000 for permanently disabled benefits.

Democratic leaders propose to finance this social security expansion by increasing the tax by one-half of one percent on both employer and worker. Self-employed would pay an additional three-fourths of one percent.

Legislative strategy on this issue is being formulated by Speaker Sam Rayburn, Tex.; Democratic Floor Leader John McCormack, Mass.; and Representatives Wilbur Mills (D.,Ark.), Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and Aime J. Forand (D.,R.I.), author of the proposal.

Tentatively they have decided to enact this plan in the House in 1959. However, this depends on whether a poll shows sufficient support there to do that after the Committee hearings have been held.

Senate action will largely depend on what happens in the House. Senate leaders are inclined to the view that it may take longer to put this through there than in the House. That has been the general pattern in the past.

In both chambers the medical proposal is certain to encounter powerful opposition.

Already House Republican Floor Joseph Martin, Mass., has let it be known he will vigorously oppose it. According to Martin, President Eisenhower will veto the Democrats' proposition.

EARLY SHOWDOWN — To get the Administration's attitude on this plan, Representative Mills already has asked Arthur S. Flemming, head of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to appear before the Ways and Means Committee by February 1.

Mills has asked Flemming to discuss specifically the cost of the plan.

HEW insiders are indicating Flemming will ask Congress to postpone action until after the White House conference on medical care for the aged — which doesn't take place until 1960.

Labor unions are making no bones of their intention to throw their full weight behind this program. AFL-CIO heads have put medical benefits near the top of the list of 12 major legislative proposals they want the new Congress to enact.

Representatives Mills and Forand are going to get an indirect boost from a Senate source in putting through their measure.

Senator Wayne Morse (D.,Ore.), chairman of a Senate District of Columbia Subcommittee, is starting an investigation of hospital and medical costs aimed at stressing the need for this kind of social security legislation.

Morse intends to have a look at hospital and medical costs in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, California, Ohio and Virginia, as well as the District of Columbia.

A correspondent has asked for a discussion of ringworm of the scalp. She says that her four-year-old girl acquired this disease from a cat.

Actually, there are several kinds of fungi which can cause so-called ringwom of the scalp. One is a form particularly resistant to treatment, which is transmitted only from person to person.

Another — and apparently the one involved in the four-year-old girl — is caused by a fungus acquired only from animals and is relatively easily treated.

There is still a third acquired from the soil.

Probably the most frequent form of scalp ringworm is that which is spread from person to person. This is restricted largely to youngsters. There have been many outbreaks of this disease.

Typical ringworm of the scalp tends to produce scaly patches on the back or sides of the head. The hair on these patches has a dull appearance and often breaks off near the roots. The hair may fall out in irregular spots.

Special equipment is needed to identify the fungus. A light which consists of ultraviolet rays filtered through a special type of glass is necessary and examination must be carried out in a darkened room. The infected hair (except the soil-acquired variety) usually gives a bright glow under this special light.

Other tests, such as looking at the hair or scrapings from the scalp under the microscope are also usually used.

Many of the ointments containing chemicals which are effective in other kinds of fungus infections of the skin may not be successful. X-ray treatment has had some success but must be used with caution.

The contagious nature of the person-to-person kind of scalp ringworm must be recognized.

The backs of seats in movie theaters are said to be responsible for many cases. It has been suggested that movie houses furniture should be disinfected once and afterwards the backs protected with paper covers which could be changed fairly frequently.

If ringworm of the scalp is common in a community, some such preventive steps are certainly desirable. It has also been suggested that children wear close-fitting caps to guard against danger of infection in public places, such as buses, subways or theaters.

Should ringworm of the scalp break out in a community, an attempt should be made to find all of the cases by making a survey of preschool children in families in which an older brother or sister has developed the disease.

Children in institutions are more likely to be exposed than children in homes. School teachers and barbers, as well as parents and doctors, should be on the lookout for suspicious signs so that steps can be taken early to prevent the spread of the disease.

The fact that one variety can be acquired from animals suggests that small children should not sleep with their pets or fondle them too intimately.

LABOR OF LOVE

TOKYO (UPI)— A big favorite in Red China's current musical hit parade is an ideologically correct ballad entitled "Three Young Men," Radio Peiping reported today.

"It is a song about the love of three young men for the same girl," the Communist broadcast said. "The hardest worker — a model worker—wins the maiden."

Looking Sideways

By Whitney Bolton

NEW YORK — A few years ago, say five, there was a cover on the New Yorker magazine showing a suburbanite with storm boots, heavy gloves, ulster, wool scarf and knit cap standing before his garage, one hand on his brand-new home-size snow plow, one eye on a single tiny flake of snow falling toward his driveway. It seemed amusing then and still is, something like a man spending $2,000 for the best, complete kit of surgical instruments when he has been invited to carve a turkey. But, as a fellow who has passed 50th Street as George Solotaire happily puts the age progression, it all seems to me to make a deal of good sense.

It is almost impossible these days for me and my kind to pick up a newspaper without reading of the sudden, untimely deaths of friends who range between 42 and 58 years old. Not men in their 70's or 80's, but reasonably young fellows. Ty Power was not, in all simple truth, a friend. He was an acquaintance. His death from heart disease at 44 is and was shocking. Another acquaintance died the other day, at his desk, at 47. Friends in the 50's make wry jokes about being their last days and mamy, of course, will turn out to have been correct in their estimations of The Day.

Last summer a self-propelled, power lawnmower came into use at our house and it resulted in letting a $12 a day gardener go. We couldn't afford both and did not need both. If I could steer a lawnmower, the rest was easy and hiring help was uneconomic. The lawnmower was a cinch and so was grass cutting. It did everything but direct itself and sometimes it seemed even to do that. A fair-sized patch of lawn was cut with ease and without any semblance of fatigue. When I wanted to stop and relax and talk to passing friends or snag a glass of iced tea, I did. The whole job was as easy as cutting meringue pie.

This fall, when the crimsoning leaves started to fall from 14 large trees, my bride said we'd have to call the gardener back and have him rake, about four days total at $12 a day because it was a tough, dragging job and she didn't want me dying on the job.

"If you have to die it ought to be while doing something not quite so prosaic as raking leaves," is what she said. She made it blunt to create a point.

So I went out and spent $2.25 for an attachment which mulches the leaves, reduces them to a fine powder and this fine powder feeds the ground as well as disposes of the leaves. It took two easy minutes to bolt it onto the lawnmower and now our lawn is billiard-table clean and I never raked a leaf. Not one. Power did it, a little oil and gas and a fine machine. Nor did we have to call the undertaker — not yet.

My girl came home the other night and said that everybody from the local Indian to weather scientists was saying we are going to have a tough winter and why didn't we get a motorized snow plow.

"Like the mower," she said. "Made by the same people. That makes it a good one, as the mower was. It chews the snow up into a chute and that can be directed to right or left. The chute spits the snow out about 15 feet from a walk or driveway or sidewalk. You clean a walk or driveway in minutes without that killing business of hefting a snow shovel. They cost $149, but may be you can get one at a discout somewhere. Look around."

And now it's there. And I feel like the man on the cover of the magazine. I want to bundle up in warm clothes, with gloves and boots, and stand by my little plow and wait for the snow to fall. We had a beauty of a snow fall, among several, last winter. It cost $20 to have the walk, driveway and sidewalks cleaned, plus one walk from house to garage. I tried, once, moving the stuff myself. It was no job for me and I felt it wasn't within 10 minutes. Picking up wet, heavy snow on a wide shovel is a quick way to ask for trouble when you are past 44 and, in this case, 50.

The man who sold it to me said I could save a lot of money by getting four neighbors to go in with me at $30 each for the five of us. "The exact figure is $29.80 each," he said. "A cooperative snow plow ownership plan."

All four said they'd rather do it themselves. So be it.

At least one will have a lovely funeral which will cost him something more than $29.80 — or his widow.

Pilots Making Mint With Commercial Jets

If it weren't for the distressing fact that wearing headphones makes my ears itch, I'd enroll in a school for commercial jet pilots before three this afternoon.

Never have so few earned so much, for so little time at the controls.

The recent airline strikes brought out the information that their senior pilots may average around $30,000 a year, with a work day that averages out under three hours a day. And they'll have time to enjoy the money, too, for the pilots will get 18 days off each month, or 216 days a year.

Until I read these figures, my goal in life was to become a baseball umpire. But a baseball umpire, as soft a job as he has, is a Welsh coal miner in comparison to a commercial jet pilot.

An umpire works better than three hours a day, his year is at least six months long, he runs the risk of being hit on the head with a pop bottle, he doesn't get anywhere near thirty grand a year, and gets called some pretty awful names.

I never have flown a commercial jet, but something tells me that sort of pay, for those sort of hours, is out of line. The President of the United States doesn't make much more than three times that much, and he must work 17 times as long. If the President knocked off after two hours' work he wouldn't even have time to read a condensation of what he had to do during the day.

Of course, to fly a commercial jet a man must have fine reflexes, but with 216 days off a year a man could grow a garden of reflexes. With that much time to tend them, a fellow could sweep the county fair prizes with his reflexes. He'd get the prizes for size, arrangement, hardiness and color. Or, with the sort of money he is getting for 84 or 85 hours of work a month, he could buy or rent all the reflexes he needs.

On the other hand, who needs 216 holidays a year? Rubirosa maybe. Or Junior Trujillo. Or Zsa Zsa Gabor. But an airline pilot! Why?

There is nothing that flies that wears out a man so much that he needs that much rest. Given even 100 days' vacation a year, a man should be able to fly the Dog Star on one motor, or Halley's Comet, even with the wheels stuck!

Then there is this to consider: lots of people are likely to be nervous about flying in a contraption that is so nerve-wracking for the pilot, that after two hours he has to have a long rest and must be fattened up on the ground for 18 days out of 30!

Some people are likely to choose to ride a bus, which a man can drive for six, seven or even eight hours without collapsing.

Still, if those headphones didn't make my ears itch, I'd try to become a commercial jet pilot. You can't beat the hours, you can't beat the pay, and most of the stewardesses are good looking dolls. It might be a racket, but it's a jolly fine one.

Windy City Roof Hopping Some Fun!

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

When I was a juvenile delinquent in Chicago I knew a fat old lady, probably 33, who would scold us desperados for jumping a gap of three or four feet from the roof of the building next door onto the roof of the building where she and her parents lived on the top floor. These were three-story buildings and she said it was dangerous to jump that gap, especially in the dark. The noise was unpleasant to her and her father and mother.

Her name was Miss Myrtle Reed and she had just written a novel called "Lavender and Old Lace." I gathered from my mother's comments that she was unhappy and I faintly recall, with my elephantine memory for absolutely useless information, that she had spoken at some literary tea of beery kisses as a disenchanting reality of marriage. Her husband was a copyreader of The Journal. I have not the faintest notion how that burr got snarled in the wool of my memory, but you may have some like it yourself.

I remember the name of a Polish immigrant who was killed by the Chicago Chief of Police when he went to report his arrival in town, according to the custom in Poland. There was a current scare about anarchists and the chief shot him dead. The man's name was Anton Averbuch. Harold Ickes tried to tell me it was Auerbach, but that was the Tribune version.

I belonged to the Chicago American School. My old man worked on The American. We had a picture of Averbuch on the slab at the morgue kicking around in the catch - all drawer of the Mission table in our living room for years. Mission furniture was ugly, but strong, solid, honest stuff by contrast with flimy junk with brass ferrules on canary legs which is stylish today. When you got a big Mission chair you did not get those tacked-on cardboard sidewalls of the modern big easy chairs which make a boom when you drum your fingers on them.

My old man was a wonderful reporter and as Ben Hecht said on the TV one night, a wonderful writer too. And moreover, he was a hell of a fighter.

It shames me to read that Frank Sinatra with his record on file in the archives of the FBI, one gunrap, one pinch in Jersey for rape marked down to assault, and finally dismissed, two collars for slugging people with sneak punches, and his association with rummy gangsters, hollers filthy names at reporters and gets away with it. Let me tell you that when he got drunk and boasted that he had gone to my room in the Waldorf to slug me on the night that Roosevelt licked Tom Dewey I chased this ratty bum clear up to Canada and made him admit that he hadn't gone anywhere near my quarters. And if he had I would have thrown him down the stairwell. That still goes.

If I had the desk I would fire any reporter who took anything off Sinatra.

In my old man's day in Chicago, he and Jack Palmer, Jim Crown, and a little harp named Bill McCormick were highly respected by tough characters around the Loop and even by cops.

Jack Palmer, an orangeman from Belfast, joined the Princess Pats when the first war broke out and went all the way. He loved to fight. In a jam he could swing that black leather plate-box which News photographers carried then with grace, emphasis and effect.

When I was a juvenile delinquent we were allowed out until 9 at night and my mob had a specialty of jumping that gap onto the building where Myrtle Reed lived. We never tried it in reverse because the other building was a couple of feet higher with a rampart about 18 inches high and we couldn't get the momentum for the uphill pull. Miss Reed's mother used to complain gently because, in landing on their roof, we shattered their Welsbach gas mantles, which cost 35 cents. They were very fragile.

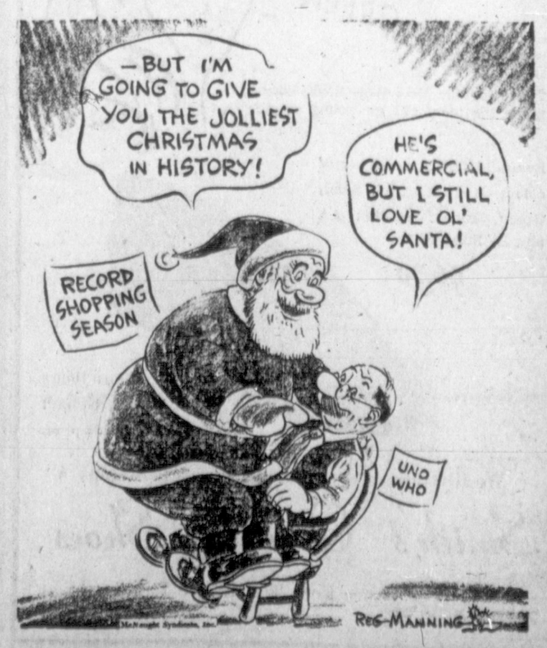

I never read "Lavender and Old Lace," but I dimly resented the sneer in the title of the play a few years ago, "Arsenic and Old Lace." Myrtle Reed was a repeater, but, as far as I know, the author of "Arsenic" never had another hit. Anyway, it takes no writer to write plays. Read a play and see.

There were about a dozen delinquents in our mob.

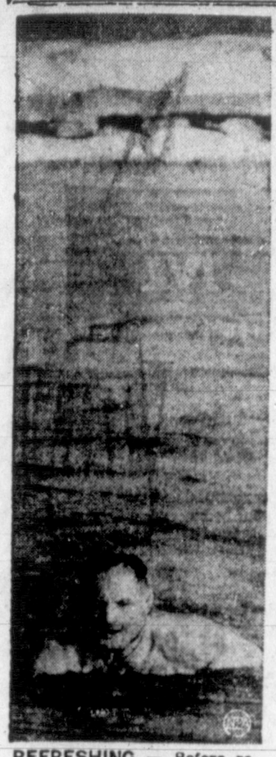

Johnny Guthrie went up to Canada and became a flier. He went down on the Western front and never was found. Joe Graffis flew with LaGuardia's outfit in Italy. After the war he grounded himself and always rode the trains. Manton Eddy became a lieutenant general with an army in the second war in France and Germany. Harry Hebner made the 1912 Olympic team. Another problem kid is manager of big chain of New York hotels.

We were a beatnick lot in our generation.

Pampa Boy, TCU Class Favorite

Donald Katz, 22, Amarillo, has been awarded a Rotary Foundation Fellowship for advanced study abroad during the 1959-60 academic year, Pampa Rotarian Lon Cain reported today.

Katz is presently working toward a B.S. in chemical engineering at Rice Institute.

Cain also reported that nominations for the 1960-61 fellowship are now open. He invites college students from Pampa to contact either Jack Edmondson or himself (Cain) for more information.

Since 1953 there have been no fellowship nominees from Pampa. Last year's winner was Florence Coffee, a graduate of Canyon high school.

Tuberculosis Fight Brings Changes

NEW YORK (UPI)—The tremendous changes the 54-year-old anti-tuberculosis crusade has brought about include even our manners.

Anyone who now coughs in public without covering his mouth with a handkerchief or at least with his hand, definitely is ill-mannered. Spitting has been made so vulgar that even the word offends some ears.

More and more mouth-kissing is confined to lovers and spouses because of a prejudice implanted by the early crusaders. It used to be everyone mouth-kissed parents, aunts, uncles, cousins, and even good friends. Now it is the cheek which it is polite to kiss and anyone who kisses a child on the mouth runs the risk of getting slugged by an indignant mother.

It was drilled into our grandparents or parents that tuberculosis is a communicable disease which is communicated by intimate contacts between people and by the sputum of the TB victim. This knowledge was taken very seriously 50 years ago when tuberculosis was feared like the plague and was, indeed, "the white plague."

Sanitation A Gospel

Sanitation was a gospel for the anti-tuberculosis crusaders and the good their preachings brought about, in cutting down the TB rate and also that of other communicable diseases, is incalculable. But their principal weapons were to find the persons who harbored active tubercle bacilli, isolate them, treat them in special hospitals or sanatoriums, and to improve general living conditions since tuberculosis was known to thrive among the undernourished who are crowded together in filth.

There was no specific treatment, really. What was done, in the main, was to build up the body defenses against the bacilli (whatever the defenses are) and give them the best possible chance to win out. This was done by keeping patients in beds for months at a time while fattening them with body-building foods. Surgical techniques, such as lung collapse and removal of diseased parts of the lungs, came later.

"Pure Air" Cure

It worked, although why it worked was not apparent for some time. For a while "pure air" and dry air or cold air were thought to be curative, and sanatoriums were located in mountains or deserts. Patients were forced to stay in beds on open, snowy, wind-swept porches, swathed in blankets and furs.

Sanatoriums were being built at a tremendous rate. In 1900 there were less than 10,000 beds for the tuberculous; by 1953, which was the crest year, there were 108,000 beds, 93 per cent of them in sanatoriums. In 1900 there was one bed for every 18 tuberculosis deaths that year. In 1953 there were five beds for each tuberculosis death.

Slowly it was understood that bed rest arrested tuberculosis in most cases, and it didn't matter where the bed was as long as the patient was confined to it. By the time the first "wonder drug" capable of killing tubercle bacilli came into wide use in 1947, both the death rate and the "new cases" rate were well below what they had been in 1900.

The drugs have accelerated the pace but they have brought new and difficult problems with them. One is that the public has more confidence in them than the tuberculosis physicians who use them.

Florida Wants Some Color In Oranges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Florida congressman announced today he would introduce legislation to permit his state — and Texas — to continue artificial coloring of oranges.

Seems some ripe oranges from those states are green — not orange — until they are touched up.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland's (Democrat) office said his legislation would overcome the effect of Monday's unanimous Supreme Court ruling outlawing the coloring additives under present statutes. The process may be continued under a special law only until next March 1.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. wrote the opinion which upheld the government order barring Texas and Florida growers from coloring oranges with "red 32," a coal-tar product the government found poisonous.

Holland's office said his proposed bill to the new Congress dealt with a substitute coloring material which has approval of the Food and Drug Administration.

Artificial coloring of the oranges is a critical problem to that industry because housewives won't buy green-skinned oranges.

Red 32 originally was approved by the federal government in 1939 as harmless for use in food. Later it became suspect as a possible cause of cancer. The Food and Drug Administration removed the substance from the approved list in 1955 and the validity of the removal order was at stake in Monday's case.
