Women Work

By INEZ BAKER

Do you remember when: The only women we saw down town were milliners? And they were not home girls either, they were "fetched on." When our merchant went to market to buy his spring or fall hats he hired an experienced woman, recommended by the wholesale house, who had been trained to make hats by covering wire frames with velvet or lace and trimming them with ribbon and flowers or plumes and birds. The merchant came home and announced "Opening Day" and that Miss So and So of New York City would be with his store this season. At these openings tea was served and we caught our first glimpse of the new milliner. She was an object of admiration to all the young men and one of envy to all the young women. For she was pretty and smart and wore the latest style in dresses, hats, shoes and gloves, and hair-do.

That hasn't been too long ago but we think Miss Milliner would be surprised to see what women are doing today. Recently we told you that Hall County women were taking men's places in many of the stores and driving taxis and tractors, now we add to those, laundry pickups and blacksmith shops, not to mention the WAC and WAVES and others who are going to other towns to work as telegraph operators and in defense plants. We are just a little town with no war plants but our women are finding a place to serve their country. Many of these are married women who are carrying on the things necessary to war and civilian life until their husbands return. Not only are they speeding the day of victory, but the money thus earned, and saved by investing in war bonds, will mean the difference between want and security when their husbands return from war, weary and torn.

Your reporter has found it necessary to resign as County Chairman of WAC, and Mrs. T. D. Weatherby has been appointed to that office. We are glad to have been able to serve our country in this way. We are proud of every woman who has joined and feel that they will always belong partly to us. We shall not lose touch with this phase of women at work, but follow it with great interest to its fulfillment. It is with the deepest regret that we are resigning but we know the work will be in good hands under Mrs. Weatherby's supervision.

Did you notice we said "WAC"? It is no longer an auxiliary of the army but by order of Congress and President Roosevelt it is the Woman's Army Corps, a part of the U. S. army with its personnel entitled to all the rights and privileges accorded to men in the army. While the educational qual-

"I knew we couldn't bank on any new models for a long while after this mess, so I played safe with our car...kept her engine OIL-PLATED like always, with Conoco Nth motor oil, especially to not let the engine get ruined by acid. Your old Mileage Merchant pal told me why there was no worse wartime danger than engine acid."

"Dad, I learned that too, in the service..."

"Quiet Sergeant, till I show off what I know. That acid comes from ordinary combustion, but when the car was run often and got plenty warm the acid petered out—not causing rank corrosion the way it does with the engine mostly resting. But knowing as I did that chromium-plating won't corrode easy, I could see it would check corrosion and give the engine's insides OIL-PLATING.

"A synthetic in Conoco Nth oil acts sort of like 'magnetism'...to keep OIL-PLATING fastened to inside engine surfaces—not draining down to the crankcase even standing still. The car ran sweet bringing you back home, didn't it? Too bad some fellows have got to wait months for new models when they should've used Conoco Nth OIL-PLATE and save their car. Let's go."

City officials can dramatize to urban residents the importance of getting crops harvested and processed. They can give the official sanction to the mobilization, release municipal employees for farm work and assume a leading role in over-all plans for mobilization.

Local schools can recruit and train Victory Farm Volunteers. School boards can, if necessary, close schools in peak seasons when additional farm workers are needed and they may change school hours, vacations and school terms to free students when they are needed most.

Service clubs, women's clubs, church groups, civic bodies and youth organizations can give farm work social standing as a vital war job by assisting in the local mobilization and by enlisting as groups for farm work.

Transportation companies can help in getting crops corps workers to and from work.

Newspapers, radio stations and motion picture theatres can explain local labor needs, tell where to register, report progress of mobilization, and give other essential support.

Suggested Local Organizations

Farm labor advisory committee composed mostly of farm people already is helping the county agricultural agent. This committee will aid in determining local farm labor needs, place new workers where they are needed, and help in developing plans to make the most efficient use of all labor.

A farm labor mobilization committee will be needed in each urban community where local mobilization is necessary. Its membership should include farmers and other leading citizens, city officials, and representatives of the main groups and agencies that can help. The efforts of the committee will include one or more of three major activities:

1. Obtaining the active participation of agencies, groups, organizations, and community leaders in the mobilization campaign and in getting farm work done.

2. Promoting a publicity campaign to inform urban people of farm labor needs and of the procedure for enlisting people for farm work.

3. Developing plans for a house to house canvass to enlist people for farm work and assisting in the canvass.

SALUTES TEXAS

George Olsen

Culminating a day long celebration, George Olsen and his orchestra will feature a national program on the night of June 28, American Made Rubber Day in Texas.

Over 160 stations will salute Texas on the occasion of the opening of the General Tire and Rubber Company Synthetic plant at Baytown. The salute is sponsored by the Coca-Cola Company and will be heard by millions of people throughout the country.

Texas is playing a vital role in the production of rubber, and William O'Neil, president of General Tire and a leader in the rubber industry, has pointed out that the state provides the four vital components of a tire. Rubber, which gives the needed stretch and acts as a binder for the other ingredients; cotton, which gives strength to the tire; sulphur, vital in the curing of synthetic; and carbon black, which adds the wearing qualities, all are products of Texas.

It is the opinion of informed tire manufacturers that the post war period will see an influx of factories for the production of tires close to the source of supply of these raw materials. Sound economy would indicate that the tires be built and distributed from Texas, rather than to have the raw materials shipped north and then the tires shipped south again, O'Neil pointed out.

The Rubber Day ceremonies will be at the Tri Cities in the morning, move to Houston for luncheon and reception, and wind up with the Olsen broadcast from 8 to 12 in the evening.

Soldier Patients Receive Supplies From Club Women

Home demonstration club women in 19 central and west Texas counties have been helping meet the recreational needs of service men in their vicinity. These 4,000 club women pooled their efforts through their local county home demonstration councils to assist men who are patients at Camp Bowie Army base hospital near Brownwood.

In this program they successfully have followed the recommendation of their state organization, the Texas Home Demonstration Association, says Maurice Hearn, district agent for the A. & M. college extension service, who supervises home demonstration work in district seven. All gifts were sent to the American Red Cross for distribution.

Supplies contributed for use during parties and other entertainment included 682 water glasses, 305 cup towels, 143 candy and bon ton dishes, and a variety of other utensils. Other recreational gifts were 50 decks of playing cards, a radio, 135 phonographs, and 146 games including checkers, dominoes, jigsaw puzzles, chess, Chinese checkers, bingo and croquet.

For the comfort of the patients the women provided 85 lap robes, 77 pillows, 87 pillow cases, and 816 individual gifts, varying from sewing kits to hair tonic.

Feed Beef Cattle According to Farming Sections

Beef cattle feeding is a system of beef enterprise which is adaptable to the different farming sections of Texas. According to the A. & M. college extension service, the cotton, peanut, grain sorghum, wheat, or corn crop areas, or any combination of these, are suitable for carrying it on.

In feeding experiments different grains and grain combinations have been fed with and without protein supplement. But conclusions drawn from experience are that a ration for fattening a steer or calf comprises (1) roughages (hay, silage, hulls, corn fodder, etc.); (2) protein supplement (cottonseed meal or cake in Texas); and (3) grain (corn, milo, barley, kaffir, etc.). From the start to the completion of the fattening period a steer may be given all the roughage it will eat. With protein supplement, a specific amount should be fed from the beginning to the end of the fattening period. Weaned calves, regardless of weight, should receive two pounds of cottonseed meal or cake of 43 per cent protein content daily per head, and they should be eating all of it before being fed any grain. They should be doing that in a week or two, and that takes care of the roughage and protein.

Farmers and feeders should experience no trouble if they begin by adding one-fourth of a pound of grain daily per head to the two pounds of cottonseed cake, and continue adding the one-fourth pound until the steer or calf indicates that it has had enough. The animal will show that by leaving feed in the trough. Accordingly, no further increase is necessary for a few days. After that lapse the feeder may again start adding the one-fourth pound increase, and it will not be long until the steer or calf is finished. By following this method cattle gradually are placed on feed. This is very important if the feeder desires a maximum of gain with a minimum of trouble in the feed lot.

Quantity Canning Saving Foodstuff

The cycle of a Victory garden turns swiftly from planting to harvesting, and maturity brings the problems of conserving the surplus. Colorado County women set an example of stocking the home food supply by opening three community Victory preserving centers.

According to the county home demonstration there, the Columbus Gardening and Canning club reported 2,148 containers of food prepared in the last 18 days of May. The largest number filled in one day was 360. Vegetables brought in included green string beans, beets, greens and black-eyed peas. About 20 number two cans of pineapple also were canned.

Women of Weimar opened their cannery on May 3, and through the remainder of the month processed 3,400 containers. The Weimar cannery operates through the Vocational Educational department of the high school.

Negroes in the Weimar area also have access to the facilities of the cannery.

The Glidden women's home demonstration club organized a neighborhood group for canning work, and at the end of May had processed 550 containers of food. Canning corn, peas and tomatoes reached its peak in Colorado County in early June.

Biologist Warns Against Botulism

A poison so powerful that a teaspoonful is enough to kill 40,000 guinea pigs is not a good thing to take chances with, a leading Texas biologist has said in warning Texas homemakers against the hot water method of canning for non-acid vegetables. This method does not destroy the bacteria that cause botulism.

The entire text of a statement on the subject by Dr. Asa C. Chandler, professor of biology of Rice Institute, Houston, has been circulated among the county home demonstration agents of the Texas A. & M. college extension service. Dr. Chandler's statement is in harmony with recommendations on home canning given by Winifred Jones, extension specialist in food preservation.

Dr. Chandler believes the chances for accidents are too great to be worth the risk if people undertake to can non-acid vegetables or meats by the boiling water bath method. "Outbreaks of botulism will almost certainly occur," he says. "It is like having rattlesnakes on your golf course. You may keep your ball on the fairways and treat the rattlesnake with impunity, but sooner or later somebody a little less careful will suffer. By comparison (with botulism) rattlesnake venom is only mildly poisonous."

Bacteria that cause botulism grow in non-acid vegetables when strictly protected from air. Dr. Chandler says there is one case on record where the spores survived heating and germinated after 22 months. The poison produced is so deadly that a person has been known to die after eating one piece of a string bean.

Farmers To Have Assistance of FDA In Crop Markets

Assurance that Texas farmers will have assistance in marketing their production of vital crops was seen in an announcement today by E. L. Upshaw, State Marketing supervisor for the USDA War Board.

When a commodity cannot be readily disposed of without assistance, the State USDA War board in cooperation with the Food Distribution Administration will make every effort to help move the commodity into regular channels at a fair price, Upshaw assured growers. Failing in this, the commodity will then be assembled by County USDA War Boards and purchased by the Food Distribution Administration.

As an example of the way this program will work, Upshaw cited several recent instances in the state in which it has been necessary to assist farmers in moving their crops.

Green beans have been diverted to processors, carrots have been purchased and dehydrated for Lend-Lease shipment and future use, and potatoes have been moved into regular commercial channels. Those commodities came off at a time when regular local marketing channels were glutted, and the War Boards cooperating with the Food Administration had to assist the farmers in finding additional outlets.

CAPTAIN Harlan E. Hood, who has recently been promoted to that rank. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Zach Hood of Estelline and has been on or near Guadalcanal since November. His letter to his parents telling of his promotion is published in this issue of The Democrat.

Mr. and Mrs. Zach Hood of Estelline have received a letter from their son Harlan E. Hood, stating that he has been made Captain. He is somewhere near Guadalcanal and has been there since November. His letter follows:

June 12, 1943
 Dearest Mother and All:
 Well, I've got good news and bad news. I made Captain yesterday but at the same time, we got word that we are losing our commanding officer, which is quite a blow to our squadron. Also are losing Capt. Pool who has been with the squadron since it was formed. It really going to be a tough job trying to keep this outfit together now.

That leaves me third in command and first in command as far as flying is concerned. Major Richard wants me to go to his new squadron with him, but I hate to leave all the friends that I have in this squadron. I think I'll stay with the old outfit unless he insists.

I had a feeling what was going to happen a few days ago when I wrote you but didn't know anything for sure. Thought I had better write you again and straighten things out a bit. Still don't know what we will do from here but I figure it won't be long before we are plenty busy again. We will do the best that we can but don't know how much that will be.

Received a letter from Aunt Leora yesterday. Also one from you, Arwin and Nelda. Glad that you are all well and able to work. Love, Harlan.

These cards are enclosed in each package the local Red Cross mails, so there is proof that some one on that ship received one of the Hall County packages.

Crump was called back to Lubbock Friday and transferred from the Lubbock Flying School to Randolph Field, San Antonio, where he will attend school for the next six weeks. Navy, with headquarters at San Diego. These are grandsons of L. D. Stout who says these are the last of his daughters' sons, and they both volunteered, J. H. Jr. in January, 1942 and Lee this year.

A. J. Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berry of Estelline, who has been attending Texas University, has been called to report to Dallas July 10 and from there will be sent to Del Monte, Calif.

Seabee Dewey Hendrix, of Seabee, who volunteered in the Seabee branch of service more than a year ago, is at home on leave, and while here took unto himself a bride. Dewey has seen quite a bit of service in the Southwest Pacific, but will divulge but little, using the same excuse as all the other boys who come home—"We are not permitted to tell."

Anyway, he told of a few instances when he thought he would have to fight the Japs, but fortunately the soldiers turned them back in time. "I have really enjoyed the time I have been in service, and have had many good laughs," Dewey remarked.

A card from Tom Wood, Memphis Democrat printer who was inducted into service some two weeks ago, states, "Well, here I am in Camp Claiborne, La. In fact I'm a long way in. It's eight miles to the gate from where I am stationed." The front of the card showed a picture of soldiers on a train stopped at a station. Some girls asked, "Where ya' goin', boys?" The answer was, "How the h-ll do I know. I don't even know where I am."

STAYING HOME?

ARE you one of those who will have no vacation this year? Many folks will not have much time away from their work this summer, since practically every business firm in Memphis is working short-handed. But this does not mean there are not many beauties of nature around Memphis.

The City Park so recently completed is a thing of beauty and restfulness. Take your family out there and select one of the many picnic spots, spread your lunch and enjoy the cool breeze. Let the children play on the swings and the other playground equipment. That park was built for our enjoyment and this year, of all years, we should take advantage of it.

There are many places of interest and beauty near here. We don't need to leave town, though, to have a rest—at least the kind of rest we need. Let's enjoy our homes, our own back yards, our families, and above all, our comparatively easy way of life in spite of a nation at war.

Take advantage of leisure hours instead of moaning over the loss of leisure weeks or months that used to be.

ooOoo

To relax one minute in the united defense effort might lead to disaster. The idea is to keep production going with more determination and to press the fight harder. Yes, we are gaining, we are moving forward, we are on the way.

Any excuse you can give for not upping your payroll savings will please Hitler and Hirohito.

DEMOCRAT'S EXCHANGE

War-time food rationing will touch Wet Texas lightly so long as black-eyed peas and corn meal require no coupons. Some day Washington will probably be disgruntled upon becoming aware of the luxuries which we have hidden behind our scattering votes. —Matador Tribune.

Just picture for yourself the kind of transformation the Perryton area would undergo if every acre was under the control of a famer-stockman living on his place. Good houses; barns, chickens, hog and sheep sheds; machinery houses and granaries, all surrounded with fields of grain and feed and herds of cattle, sheep and hogs.—Ochiltree County Herald.

Must be a conspiracy against coffee drinkers. The government waits until the arrival of real summer weather to announce that coffee ration has been boosted to a pound every three weeks. Not that we're kicking about the increase, but it would have meant a lot more two months ago.—Hereford Brand.

It is an awful thing to think about while we are enjoying comparative plenty, with only slight annoyances, more than half of the world's population is slowly starving to death—some of them not so slowly. The situation is particularly acute in large portions of China and from some points inside of Europe comes underground stories indicating that the situation is quite grave. This latter situation we cannot help until such time as our fighting men can crack the enemy wall set up by Hitlerites and their satellites. But authorities are said to be making every possible preparation, with the assistance of the food distributors and the Red Cross to take care of these populations just as quickly as possible. This is one reason, so we hear, why the Burma campaign is being prepared for, as to clear the Burma road for a route to supply starving Chinese as well as to give the fighting men needed armament and other equipment. —Floyd County Hesperian.

Now comes Miss Jo Ann Ritter, aged nine, to make a new record for achievement in her age class in old Donley. At her home a few days ago, this little lady killed a rattlesnake with a hoe. The snake had fifteen rattlers. She killed the first one this season with rocks. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ritter are the parents, both of whom live with Jo Ann. Old Donley leads in everything.—Donley County Leader.

A well-dressed stranger ordered a breakfast at a local cafe this morning. He asked that the order be cut a fourth since it was more than he would eat and he did not care to waste the food. The eyes of the waitress popped and the customers within hearing distance, turned for a good look at the well-dressed connoisseur. It was no doubt that it had been a long time since the girl at the counter had heard other than beefing about the limited amount and quality of bacon and other food. The interested patrons have long ago become accustomed to the waste in the government building in this section as well as the amount of precious food that is thrown away by the service men in every camp. The man's act was a small thing, but so unusual at this time. —Quannah Tribune-Chief.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lindsey and daughter Betty went Sunday to Lubbock for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Norman Heath and husband. Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey returned Monday and Betty remained for a visit.

Town and Farm In Wartime

(Weekly News Digest prepared by the Rural Press Section, OWI News Bureau)

Stoves to be Rationed

All new heating and cooking stoves designed to burn coal, wood, oil or gas for domestic use will be rationed in mid-August, the OPA has announced. If you have no cooking stove now and need one, you may apply to your nearest War Production Board office. If your present cooking stove is worn beyond repair and you wish to replace it before the amended ration order becomes effective, go to your local dealer for information.

Pick Up Gas Application Forms

Application forms to renew present "A" and "D" gasoline ration cards are available at places announced by local ration boards. OPA urges car and motorcycle owners to pick up copies of the application and mail them to their ration board immediately. Present "A" books expire July 21.

Certificate for Slaughtering

A livestock owner who buys custom slaughtering, after July 1, must sign a certificate giving his address, the slaughter permit number, the kind and number of livestock killed and the total dressed and live weight, this certificate must also be signed by the custom slaughterer.

Christmas Packages for Soldiers

Christmas packages may be mailed to American soldiers overseas without a request from the soldier, from September 15 to October 15. The packages must be no more than five pounds in weight, fifteen inches in length, and thirty-six inches in length and girth combined. They should be marked "Christmas gift parcel." Only one such package will be accepted for mailing by or on behalf of the same person or concern to or for the same addressee during any one week.

Cannot Raise Battery Prices

Complaints have reached OPA from various parts of the country that farm radio batteries which are sold for $5 to $7, lately because of scarcity—have been selling for $10 to $14 each. Retail prices on batteries are "frozen" under the general maximum price regulations at the March 1942 level of the individual dealer. OPA encourages farmers to report any overcharge.

Clothing Prices Stabilized

Women's, girls' and children's fall dresses, suits, coats, blouses and similar apparel will cost approximately the same as last year as a result of a revised maximum price regulation for manufacturers issued recently by OPA.

Older Workers Employed

More than a third of all persons employed in May were 45 years of age or older, said Paul V. McNutt, chairman of WMC, and added that the steady rise in employment among older workers indicate that employers are learning to value the experience and steadiness of more mature workers.

Fewer Drivers Eligible for Used Tires

Beginning July 1, a motorist to be eligible for a used tire must show he used his car for an essential occupational purpose. The applicant must also meet certain other tests, including formation of a ride-sharing club where possible, or establishing the lack of reasonably adequate alternative transportation.

More Farm Goods Set Aside

LIEUTENANT IN FAR OFF BATTLE SAYS PRAYER WILL WIN THIS WAR

Note—Here with is presented a letter from a lieutenant in the United States Army in some far off battle front to his sister in Pennsylvania. The original is in possession of Rev. Ray B. White, of Zarepath, N. J.

The Wilds of Nowhere, The Land of Death and Destruction. Dear Sis: In writing this letter to you, I don't know where to start first. So many things have happened since I last wrote. Well, to begin with, I have escaped death at the hands of an enemy in a way so amazing I am in a daze.

You remember I told you when I was going over, I was going over armed with the Bible. The Bible is the reason I am still here and able to write this letter to all America.

"Here is the story: My buddy and I were sent out on duty with our men in the work I told you before was our job. We had just received information—the most important in weeks. When we were discovered by the enemy, I gave my buddy the information we had collected, told him to beat it with it and prepared myself to face them. It was the first time I had been faced with the necessity of pointing my gun at a man and blasting the life from his miserable body. I thought fast; then I said, "Lord, it's your responsibility now." My buddy had not obeyed my order. He had no such scruples. As I reached for my carbine, a shot from one of them struck me down. Thinking I was dead, my pal jumped for me, grabbing my carbine as well as his own, stood astride my body, blasting away with both guns. He was blasted too—his knees with three bullet wounds, but when he finished, there was not one of them left. He was amazed when I rolled over and tried to get up. The force of the bullet had stunned me. Dazedly I wondered why I pulled the Bible out of my pocket and in utter muteness looked at the ugly hole in the cover. It had ripped through Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, on through the Petateuch, on through other books, Samuels, Kings, Chronicles, and kept going. Where do you think it stopped? In the middle of Psalm 91, pointing like a finger at these verses, "A thousand and shall fall at their side, and ten thousand at their right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. Only with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked."

Sis, when I read that verse it raised me three feet off the ground. I did not know there was such a verse in the Bible. I'd been reading mostly in the New Testament. I read the rest of the chapter—the first part that ripped apart. In utter humility I said, "Thank you, precious God." And I felt like a little boy that had escaped the mouth of an enemy of prey.

When I got my buddy back to the post he said: "Lute (he calls me Lute), I've had enough. This convinces me. Come on—I want to get right with God, and starting right now." He wouldn't let them tend his wounds. He said, "Nothing mattered now but this." He stayed on his knees sixteen hours with three wounds. His body became numb, he couldn't move it. But he wouldn't give up. When the Lord finally came in he moved. That soldier went Crazy for God. He jumped over chairs (mean boxes). He jumped over bunks. He even ran outside and shouted to the whole camp.

"Since I've given my heart to God, and talked with the boys, holding meetings and prayed with them, God has given me twenty-five of my buddies have prayed through and come out for God. God has even given me my General. It took a long time, he was so dignified. But God told me to go after him, I stuck on his tail until he was grounded and came through. Spirit of God hovered over that tent with a sort of glimmering golden haze. I tell you Sis, prayer is going to win this war, not guns alone. Fervent agonizing prayer I know is. God is bringing them in one by one. The whole company will be a company of praying men. God has promised them to me, giving me the assurance. Think of it—120 praying men and one general in one regiment! When that happens this unit will be unconquerable. Pray sis, pray as you have never before. Tell everyone to pray. Tell all America to go on its knees.

"Before such decisive victory anywhere over here sometimes for hours, sometimes for days, there has been a feeling of praying far away. The feeling is so strong you can hear many of the men, the most stubborn of them, say in the stillness of the night that it is so strong you can hear it. One said, 'Sounded like people praying from some distant place. Must be hearing things in this dead place.'"

So pray everyone, it will have to come from afar off. No one prays in this land of utter desolation. God has turned His face away from the horror and destruction man has brought on himself.

Again, I plead, tell America to pray! This war will not end until nations and peoples have paid in blood and tears for thrusting God out of their hearts, out of their nations, out of their lands.

And tell them for God's sake to send Bibles, and more Bibles. A Bible will give him confidence that God is with him. I'd like to have this letter broadcast from every radio station in America. Try to get it on the air, in the papers, anything that is printed. Make copies of it and send it from coast to coast, tell them for God's sake to send Bibles.

...I could go on, but I am so tired, so weary, but in all so happy to see them coming to God one by one. So tell them to pray, atone for sin, and keep praying. And when you send things to your boys, send Bibles. They want Bibles. Your loving brother, Lieutenant

Phillips Petroleum Company

Announces the Completion and First Operation of its 90,000,000 Lb. Butadiene Manufacturing Plant

For an annual production of rubber equivalent to 11,000,000 tires

A MODERN miracle of petroleum research and chemistry has figuratively transformed a few acres in the Panhandle of Texas into one-third of a million acres of rubber plantation.

Here rubber will be drilled from the depths of the U. S. earth, instead of tapped from East Indian and Malayan trees.

From wells overlying the greatest raw gas field ever discovered, will come the natural gas to be processed into butadiene, the basic and major ingredient in synthetic rubber.

This great plant . . . designed and built by Phillips . . . based on Phillips research . . . using Phillips own patented processes . . . independent of German research . . . will make butadiene for an equivalent of 30,000,000 foreign rubber trees.

Thus is brought nearer the no-longer distant day of U. S. self-sufficiency in rubber. This is Victory made more certain. And with that great day will come to all Americans the full peacetime benefits of this outstanding wartime development.

PHILLIPS PETROLEUM COMPANY, Bartlesville, Oklahoma

Brief Notes about Phillips as Trail Blazer in the Synthetic Rubber Field

Three containing rubber produced from Phillips butadiene have been on the nation's highways for more than two years.

In 1941 Phillips produced, for commercial rubber use, more than four times as much butadiene as any other oil company.

Phillips was first to discover and report, in 1933, the efficient dehydrogenation of butane, the most important process in the production of butadiene.

Phillips has several hundred inventions, covered by U. S. patents and patent applications, relating in various ways to the manufacture of butadiene; exclusive of nearly one hundred pending patent applications which have been placed under Government secrecy restrictions because of their importance in the war effort.

Almost three years ago, Phillips proposed to U. S. Government agencies the manufacture of butadiene by catalytic dehydrogenation, based on four prior years of actual pilot-plant operations.

Phillips has freely supplied technical data on butadiene, styrene, and other related processes, to the petroleum and other industries participating in the Government rubber program. As a matter of company policy, Phillips advocated the production of butadiene by all dependable processes, from all possible raw materials, including products of the farm.
