Lamar water hike pre-hearing set

Residents and businesses receiving their water from Lamar Water Supply Inc. are facing a rate increase that could possibly go into effect as early as Nov. 4.

That is the date of the pre-hearing on the rate change, as set by the Public Utilities Commission (PUC). If the applicant, Lamar Water Supply, Inc. can prove immediate need, an interim rate increase could take effect at that time. If no interim rate is approved by the PUC the increase would become effective only after the regular hearing procedure is carried out and a final approval order is issued. In that case, Lamar Water Supply customers would not be hit with the raise until after the new year, possibly as late as February.

Lamar Water Supply Inc. had originally requested a pre-hearing date of November 1, but that date was not approved by the PUC, which scheduled the hearing for three days later.

At present, residents using three-quarter inch pipe are paying a monthly minimum of $8.15 for usage up to 3,000 gallons. One inch pipe owners pay $14.70 for up to 3,000 gallons and two and a-half-inch users are paying $69.30, up to 3,000 gallons. Gallonage in excess of 3,000 gallons is set at 75 cents per thousand.

The proposed rate change would set a minimum rate of $23.50 for all users, regardless of pipe size. Gallonage cost

Two cast absentee ballot

Two persons had cast ballots and two more ballots were in the mail in absentee voting for the Nov. 3 election on seven proposed Texas constitutional amendments, according to Voter Registration Clerk Fran Gudim Monday morning.

Absentee voting, which began last week, will continue through Oct. 30 in the office of Aransas County Clerk Ruby Hart at the county courthouse in Rockport. Hours are from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Anyone who will not be in Aransas County on election day, who is age 65 or over who is physically unable to go to the polls may vote absentee under Texas election laws.

Those unable to go to the courthouse may get an absentee ballot by mail by contacting Mrs. Gudim in Mrs. Hart's office. Absentee ballots returned by mail will be accepted if they arrive in the mail by election day, Mrs. Gudim added.

The seven proposed amendments include:

Proposition 1 would allow cities, towns and other taxing units to grant ad valorem tax exemptions on an "unproductive, underdeveloped or blighted area" to encourage development.

Proposition 2 would authorize a person to receive a patent to public free school land under certain conditions including a requirement that the applicant and his predecessors have held the land for at least 50 years.

Proposition 3 would provide for creation of a state finance management committee to handle state funds.

Proposition 4 provides for one-half of surplus state tax revenues above a spending limit provided by Article VIII of the Texas constitution would be placed in a water assistance fund.

Proposition 5 would exempt livestock and poultry from taxation.

Proposition 6 would allow local taxing entities to exempt a portion of the market value of a residence homestead from ad valorem taxation.

Proposition 7 would authorize the Veterans' Land Board to issue and sell an additional $250,000 in bonds to finance the veterans land program.

Goose Island board seeks alternative to high taxes

Members of the utility district that serves Goose Island Lake Estates again deferred decision on a 1981 tax rate Monday night, pinning their hopes on a meeting between attorney for the District Herman Little and representatives of Southmost Savings and Loan.

Stephen Shenk, secretary for the board, told those present at Monday night's meeting that Little was scheduled to meet with representatives of Southmost in Brownsville Tuesday morning "and discuss some type of subsidy" that might allow the district to continue operating "without excessive tax rates."

Southmost foreclosed on a mortgage earlier this year and owns a large portion of Goose Island Lake Estates.

Board action on the 1981 tax rate — deferred from the Sept. 24 utility destrict meeting — may be taken at the next scheduled session on Nov. 9.

In other action at the meeting that began at 7:30 p.m. Monday, board members voted to accept payment of taxes from four Goose Island Lake Estates property owners who claimed they were erroneously listed as delinquent.

The action, not scheduled on the posted agenda, grew out of an inquiry by property owner Jack Battles who told the board he received a tax notice on Feb. 13 of this year, "then about a week and a half, two weeks later, I got notice to disregard that (previous) notice. Then I got a statement that said go ahead and pay the Feb. 13 tax statement."

Battles said he paid his taxes within a month of receiving that final statement and only recently found out that he was being considered delinquent in payment.

Tax Assessor-collector Pat Hill said Battles' check was not received in the district office "until after the date the board set for taxes to become delinquent" to which Battles replied, "I don't know when it was received. I know when I mailed it.

"My question," he continued, "is, if it was delinquent, why wasn't I notified?"

Mrs. Hill said that was "an error on my part."

Board members voted, on a motion by Board President Richard Hughes, to accept the payment Battles had made on his taxes and to waive penaly and interest. Later in the meeting, the board voted to accept tax checks from three other people who had sent their payments in about the same time as Battles.

Also in an unscheduled item, Hughes told the board and the eight or 10 people present in the meeting that a representative from Calame, Linebarger & Graham was seeking a meeting with Mrs. Hill to go over the delinquent tax list.

The firm was engaged at last month's meeting to begin a push for collection of some $39,000 in delinquent taxes owed to the district.

The board repaid some $3,355.25 borrowed last month from the operating account into the tax account to meet a bond obligation, then voted to pay the current bills plus bills deferred from last month.

Among these was a current bill of $597 plus a pending bill of $629.49 to Central Power & Light. Also paid was the fourth quarter payment of $705.53 to the Aransas County Central Appraisal District.

Shenk informed board members that, after payment of bills, the utility district had a balance of $120.52 in the operating account.

Choir boosters need nearly $40,000

Approximately $37,650 has to be raised by the Rockport-Fulton Choir Boosters before the high school choir can participate in the 1982 Vienna International Youth Music Festival.

Sixty-two students are planning to participate in the festival at an estimated cost per student of $1,500, totalling to $92,000 for the group. As of the last meeting of the choir boosters, held Thursday, Oct. 15, 21 students have pledged to pay full fare, accounting for $31,500.

Partial payments of $22,850 have been pledged by 28 students, which leaves a minimum of $37,650 yet to be raised.

These figures were read to those present at the booster meeting by treasurer Carol Crawford.

The group's Oct. garage sale netted $692 and the dunking booth at SeaFair brought in $1,065. It was emphasized at the meeting that if the goal of $92,000 is to be met more parents and students must get involved in money-making projects sponsored by the boosters.

On-going projects include the sale of Sonic Bucks, which has been handled by Olga Cisneros at home football games on Thursdays and Fridays. The tickets can be spent like cash at the Sonic drive-in and are also available at Stephen's Hair Co., Casual Closet, Jerry's Hair Designs and the Captain's Razor. Sonic donates a portion of each dollar collected when the "Bucks" are redeemed.

An adult dance sponsored by the Sandollar Restaurant will be held on Saturday, Nov. 21. Tickets for prizes to be awarded at the dance are available at the Rockport Pilot office or from Cheryl Register.

A special haunted house will be open Oct. 29, 30, and 31 in West Terrace. Chairman of this project is Butch Stephens. Stephens reported that the house will be the old school Administration office, which was recently moved to Mallard Drive. Workers are needed to decorate the rooms during daylight hours since there is no electricity at the site. Admission has been set at 50 cent for children below the fifth grade level and at one dollar for sixth graders and older.

Other booster business included the election of a new vice president and publicity chairman. Dorothy Wolfe was elected vice president and Barbara Carter was elected as publicity chairman.

Future projects discussed included "A Night in Old New Orleans" slated for Dec. 12; the Sandollar dance, a silent auction of brass tomb rubbings from England, a game night and a concert which is still in the planning stage.

Those interested in helping out on any project may call Butch Stephens at 729-1320/729-7287 or Frances Iles at 729-0189.

Rockport youth killed in motorcycle collision

Robert Park, 18, of Rockport was pronounced dead at the scene of a two-motorcycle head-on collision Friday night on FM 881 about three and a half miles west of Rockport.

The rider of the second motorcycle, 27-year-old Joe Dickens, also of Rockport, was in critical condition in Memorial Medical Center, Corpus Christi, Monday afternoon following the incident. Highway Patrolman Mark Little who investigated the accident said Dickens' left leg was amputated.

Little said the accident occurred about 7:30 p.m. Friday as Park, westbound on 881, attempted to pass "a line of slow-moving traffic."

As Park pulled into the eastbound lane, his motorcycle struck head on the eastbound motorcycle ridden by Dickens. Park's motorcycle exploded on impact and Park was thrown back into the westbound lane, into the path of a car driven by Patricia Bechtol of Rockport.

Little said Miss Bechtol was not injured in the mishap.

Park was pronounced dead at the scene by Rockport physician Dr. Fred Warren.

Fulton pier groundbreaking reset for Oct. 26

FULTON — Groundbreaking for Fulton's new 1,000-foot public fishing pier has been rescheduled for 2 p.m. next Monday, Oct. 26.

Groundbreaking was originally set for Friday but had to be changed because of a conflict of scheduling, according to city officials.

Fulton officials have invited the public to help name the new pier which will be open to the public and lighted for night fishing. Anyone who wants to nominate a name for the pier is asked to write the proposed name on a post card and mail it to the City of Fulton.

Pirates brace for Trojans

Riding high atop District 15-4A, the Beeville Trojans will make the long journey to Rockport this Friday night to battle Rockport-Fulton's Pirates. The battle promises to be a war.

Beeville is perched at the top of the heap in 15-4A after last Friday's action. The state ranked Gregory-Portland Wildcats ran into some tough folks at Tuloso-Midway and were beaten 16-14, leaving Beeville in the driver's seat.

Beeville has been rolling over the past few weeks after a slow start. The Trojan offense has been very productive of late, featuring the running of shifty J.J. Robinson and steady Chris Thomas. The Trojans ran for 299 yards last week against West Oso.

Rockport has turned on the offense in the past few games as well, except in last Friday night's second half against Sinton. The Pirates racked up 329 yards in that contest, and the Pirates ran through and around the tough Tuloso-Midway defense which shut down the Wildcats of Gregory-Portland.

Where the Sinton team had to rely on its outside speed to plague the Pirates, Beevile will use their huge line to attack the Pirates straight on, going outside with Robinson when they see the situation calls for it.

Rockport's defense has been battered over the past few weeks, but they have made enough big plays to win the past two games, even though they gave up quite a number of yards. Linebacker Eddie Naro continues to lead the Pirates in tackles, and No. 89 always seems to be around the ball unless an offensive player has made an exceptional play on him.

Rockport could fire the shot heard around the district if they could drop the Trojans who might be looking over the Pirates to think about their encounter with GP.

Austin At Wharf

SO RECENTLY AS LAST weeek this column quoted Richard Nixon as saying that World War III is already here and we are losing it.

On Oct. 14, 301 members of the United States Congress struck a blow, not for freedom, but for the Soviet Union and its unrelenting ambition to rule the world. Strong words, but tragically true. Those puny congressmen acting in fear and self interests turned against the President of the United States, three of his predecessors and the best military and diplomatic minds of the nation and threw their lot with Israel's gangster leaders and his stateside mafia. They voted against the sale of AWACS to Saudi Arabia.

Something over a year ago former British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan compared the current world situation to that of Europe before World War II. "I would say that we are now at 1935 or '36. We can save ourselves only by looking at realities, and by organizing the resistance which we must create if what we have won in two world wars we shall not lose in the third."

Here I only completely agree with the opening part of the MacMillan statement. Let the reader, fortunate or unfortunate enough to recall, the world scene of the 1930s. In those days I was, shall I say, adrift on the planet, observing much of it at first hand, meeting and discussing evnets with peoples of many nationalities. By 1934 I was totally convinced that World War II was inevitable. Oh, there was a chance that it might not be — except that the leaders of the western world were of the same fiber as those 301 who dominate our congress in Washington today. What then could we, the little people, men and women, modestly successful, do? Air our views, vote, and some wrote, but usually to mini audiences. As to the final words from MacMillan, I wonder more strongly with each passing year — Did we really win World War II?

In me, idealism was not yet dead. The world needs, I pontificated, a Tom Paine. The best and most able people in communities, states, regions, nations should convene and choose able candidates for office at all levels and insure that they are elected. Youth! Instead, then as now, the good old boys take to the political barbecue trail. The result: seldom can the people from any region proudly pronounce that they have sent their best man or woman to Washington. And so throughout the free world.

HERE I FEEL OBLIgated to insert a provincial note. Congressman Bill Patman was not and is not my choice for congress. His views are too liberal for my conservative bent. But Bill Patman is an American. His was not among the 301 votes against the sale of AWACS. Here I must reluctantly record that of the Texas representatives who stood with Patman there were only two, Abraham Kazen of Laredo and Charles Wilson of Lufkin. So, if World War III becomes a shooting war American mothers who lose thier sons may trace the origin of their losses to Oct. 14, 1981. Bring the blame home to Texas and let them remember Congressmen Kiki De La Garza, Martin Frost, Henry B. Gonzalez, Mickey Leland, Jim Mattox, Jake Pickle, Jim Wright — names to be remembered in shame. For now they are being toasted in the Kremlin, and if there is truth in the portents of history past, if my concerns for the future justified, it must be quite a party.

THE AVOWED JUSTIFIcations for opposing the AWACS sale are enough to arouse one's anger and disgust. The sale, they say, would be a threat to Israel and to the AWACS technology if the Saudi royal family is overthrown.

Very well. Is a country with a few more than three million souls twisting our country's tail? That is part of what Moscow is celebrating today. "Ha, Ha, Ha, little old Begin has twisted President Reagan's tail and his more than 200 million people are taking it calmly." The thoughtful among us of course know that while the Jewish people have a right to a land of their own it remains that to establish one in the Arab world in 1948 was stupid, foolish and potentially disasterous, as we are now seeing.

Then the possibility of the overthrow of the Saudi royal family. I believe that we should insofar as possible maintain a hands-off policy in the inner affairs of the Arab world, but while seeking to gain the affection and more important, the trust of its leaders. However, we should firmly take it upon ourselves to guarantee the sovereignty of the Saudi royal family, while quietly but firmly letting the rest of the world understand we mean business in that regard.

Already we bear a large measure of blame for the disruption in the Middle East, specifically in Iran. When the late shah encountered trouble we became wishy washy instead of standing behind him. We did everything from blaming the CIA for helping Iran enter the 20th century to becoming sentimental over the charges of cruelty made against the shah by his opponents, forgetting, that in less than 20 years he brought his country into the present century, instituted land reform in a country where all the land was held by less than one percent of the people. In a country where illiteracy was rampant he established schools and colleges. One might go on for pages.

What shall the cost be to the United States. Would anyone deny that the big men in Moscow are smiling? -- ahab

Second in a series

Amendment authorizes land patents -- under conditions

By Pat Blair

Editor's note: The following is the second in a series of articles on the seven proposed Texas constitutional amendments up for election on Nov. 3. Other articles will follow in successive issues of the Pilot Weekender and Midweek.

On the ballot, Proposition 2 appears as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the commissioner of the General Land Office to issue patents for certain public free school fund land held in good faith under color of title for at least 50 years as of Nov. 15, 1981."

The "certain public free school fund land" must meet some stiff requirements in order to qualify under this amendment if it is adopted.

For openers, the land must be surveyed public free school land not previously patentable.

Then the purchaser must have a "properly recorded deed" to the land which must have been acquired without the purchaser knowing of the patent defect.

As further qualification, the purchaser and his "predecessors in interest" must have continuously claimed the land and paid taxes on it for at least 50 years.

In addition, the amendment is self-limiting: application for the patent must be made within five years from approval of the amendment.

The proposed amendment does not apply to beach land, submerged land or islands and an applicant may not use this provision to resolve a boundary dispute.

The amendment also will not apply to land determined "by a court of competent jurisdiction" to be state-owned or that has a productive state mineral lease on the effective date of the amendment.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

SUBSIDIZED HOUSING $102,000 PER UNIT

Representative Robin L. Beard (Tenn.)"...In this morning's Washington Post there is an article which really needs to be brought to the attention of this body.

"The newspaper story reports that one of our colleagues, Congressman Stan Parris, led a successful fight against a subsidized housing project in Fairfax County, Va. Obviously our colleague's principal objection was an estimated cost of about $100,000 per unit.

"I, for one, would like to congratulate Congressman Parris. He has demonstrated an unusual courage by turning away a $3.5 million project for his district. It is the kind of political courage we need more of...I submit the Washington Post article...(Some excepts):

Parris Halts Public Unit House Plan
[By Fred Hiatt]

The Fairfax County Redevelopment and Housing Authority is as determined to develop as Parris is to prevent development (and) last week purchased the 11½ acre site in West Springfield for $445,000 when the development option expired. (The County Housing officials still hope to build something on the site).

"We don't take this as a defeat," said housing authority spokeswoman Deirfre Coyne, "It may take a little more time, but we'll do it."

The land purchase prompted Parris to fire off another letter last week, this time to Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel Pierce, Jr.

"As a member of the committee of Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs, I continue to oppose this project as inefficient, a poor selection of site and a true example of government extravagance," Parris wrote on Sept.18.

The (County) authority says it is willing to spend $85,000 for each house on the site and the developer proposed charging more, $102,000 per house. Because of Parris' opposition the authority and the developer never negotiated a final price.

"I think subsidized housing does not necessarily have to be the classiest shelter..."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Everyone is aware of the fact that there are no "federal funds." It's money collected from the American taxpayer. There is a move on foot to stop raids on the Federal Treasury.

But the raiders are determined. As the spokeswomen for the Fairfax County Housing Authority said, "We don't take this as a defeat. It may take a little more time, but we'll do it."

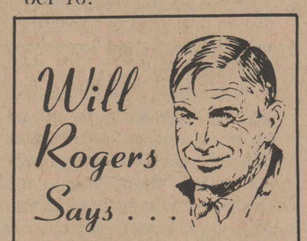
Permit requests

The Army Corps of Engineers has received the following requests for permits. Comments must be submitted to the District Engineer, P.O. Box 1229, Galveston, Texas 77553 on or before the deadline shown:

CORPUS CHRISTI BAY

Cities Service Company, Houston, permit to erect and maintain structures and perform work for drilling wells and for producing oil and gas in the State Tracts 85, and 28 others, all central to a point approximately eight and a half miles east from Corpus Christi.

Comments must be submitted on or before November 16.



Will Rogers Says . . .

"You know, I am at heart a coward. I am scared of everything, but I just got so much confidence in these pilots that I just crawl up in to those planes like a baby crawling into its mother's arms. She could walk into the fire with him, but that baby knows she won't.

"Why, these fellows are the most careful ones in the world. They have all flown enough to know the danger of it. Do you think they are purposely taking a chance with their lives? I always figure their lives are worth more than mine."

The store's specialty is the Western Look and George offers a complete line of western wear from jeans for toddlers to matching "his 'n' hers" shirts for the adults.

The Look includes "square dance dresses" for the little girls as well as the older ones and Tustep also has a line of more casual styles suitable for wear with street shoes or boots.

Jeans include the name brands in western wear, like Tony Lama and Larry Mahan. "We try to stay with traditional name brands, but we also will look for the new," George pledges.

He also pledges prices competitive with stores in Corpus Christi — a good incentive for area residents to "shop at home".

Open earlier this month, Texas Tustep is closed on Monday but open from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and from 11 a.m until 5 p.m. on Sundays.

In addition to clothes, Tustep also offers a line of western boots, hats (and hat blocking), belts (they'll put your name on the belt if you want), western style jewelry and western art.

The store also carries boot protectors and clothing bags, complete with boot protectors, that convert to suitcases — ideal for the traveler, says George, adding, "We (he and his wife) have traveled a lot and we love these things.

"Mostly what we're going with," he continued, "are things we like, or things people have requested." Eventually, he plans for Texas Tustep to carry tack and rodeo equipment — again items people in Aransas County ask for.

Besides its wide range of merchandise, Texas Tustep also aims to please with its rustic decor, its two comfortable - sized dressing rooms and the abundance of mirrors throughout the store.

"We're here for the people," George said. "Naturally, we want to make money, but we also want to help our customers in any way we can."

Quality western wear and friendly service — that's the pledge of George and Sharon Miller at Texas Tustep.

Shrimporee offers weekend fun

ARANSAS PASS — With finishing touches being put on the entries in the great outhouse race, entrants in the great American bubble gum blowoff perfecting techniques and the hula hoop marathon contestants working in circles, the 33rd annual Shrimporee is almost upon us.

Shrimporee '81 will be held in Aransas Pass on Oct. 23, 24 and 25. On Shrimporee Friday, Oct. 23, the celebration will begin with the blessing of the shirmp fleet by ministers of various religious faiths at 5 p.m. Also boarding the elaborately decorated shrimp boats will be banner-gearing teenagers and women of the churches carrying wreaths to be tossed into the waters of Conn-Brown Harbor in memory of those who lost their lives at sea.

No less than a dozen boats will parade through the Conn Brown Harbor waters as the ministers offer prayers and blessings for the safety of the fleet and its crews and a bountiful harvest.

The "Mother Ship" leading the parade is owned by Ocean Reef, Inc. A plaque will be given to the best decorated boat and the invitation extended to bear the coveted title of "Mother Ship" for next year's celebration.

The age-old custom of pageantry and revelry will continue on Shrimporee Saturay, Oct. 24. A unique form of revelry is the great American outhouse race, known for it's strategies and quick-thinking participants.

The great American outhouse race is one of the favorite contests of Shrimporee and draws one of the biggest crowds.

The Shrimporee parade will begin with over 100 entries winding their way through the streets of Aransas Pass led by the grand marshal, San Patricio County Attorney R.D. Hatch. Hatch was the organizer and first chairman of Shrimporee in the year of its birth, 1949.

At 1 p.m. the pageantry will continue as Queen Shrimporee, elected by penny vote, will be crowned. The beauty pageant will then begin and judges will select beauty queens from age three to 21.

The remainder of Shrimporee Saturday and Shrimporee Sunday will be devoted to the fun and games and good foods that have made Aransas Pass a favorite weekend spot for families.

The great American bubble gum blowoff will interest those who feel that they have the wind to spare and urban cowboys will compete in the cowboy hat contest.

There will be a shrimp eating contest in which the entrants will see how many boiled shrimp they can consume in a 30-minute period, and the really energetic folks will enjoy the hula hoop marathon.

One of the high points of the Shrimporee contest will be the men's sexy legs contest. Next to the great outhouse race, this is probably the biggest draw and fastest growing contest in Shrimporee.

More than 16 different kinds of foods, and the works of artists craftsmen from all over the southwest will offer more diversion for the thousands that annually attend Shrimporee. Shrimporee, sponsored by the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce, is expected to draw it's biggest crowd ever this year.

The Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce hopes that you will accept their invitation to become a part of the fun-loving crowd and join in the kind of weekend that can only be found in Aransas Pass, the Shrimp Capitol of the World.

For further information write Chamber of Commerce, 452 Cleveland, Aransas Pass, Tx. 78336 or call Shrimporee Hotline 512/758-3713.

ACMSI sets date for next Christmas bazaar

By Pat Blair

Dates for this year's Christmas Bazaar were announced and a plea made for donations during last Friday's luncheon meeting of the Aransas County Medical Services Inc. Women's Committee.

In other business, John Mitchell, on the ACMSI board of directors, clarified a statement made at last month's Women's Committee luncheon about funds being channeled from Enterprise Medical Clinic into the county's ambulance service.

Mitchell told Women's Committee members Friday that rental fees from the clinic's two physicians will be channeled into the Emergency Medical Service (ambulance operation).

This amounts to some $1,056 per month from Dr. Fred Warren and Dr. William Kemmerer.

Women's Committee president Joyce Thornton announced that more donations are needed for the Committee's Christmas Bazaar, set for Saturday, Nov. 21, and Sunday, Nov. 22, this year. Set at the Paws & Taws Building, the Bazaar will be from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. Sunday.

In keeping with the Christmas theme, special guests at Friday's luncheon were Nelda Lee, Donna Kay Hill, Linda Bechtol and Sandy Johnson from Rockport's Crazy Daisy.

Donna Kay and Sandy demonstrated how handmade Christmas decorations can be made simply and inexpensively.

During the business meeting, Billie Franklin, co-chairman for the Women's Committee Sea-Fair shrimp booth, estimated the organization will clear about $2,500 in profit. She added four cases of shrimp were left over and would be available for purchase by committee members after the luncheon.

She and Joyce extended thanks to the volunteers who helped with the shrimp booth and extended special recognition to Ed Armstrong who stores the organization's cooking unit between SeaFairs.

The treasurer's report for September showed a total of $3,485.78 raised through the organization's activities, including $2,903.28 from workshop sales and $534.50 for memorials and donations.

Mary Casey, in charge of the Women's Committee workshop, announced that the organization in the past week has presented the Aransas County EMS with a check for $5,000.

All proceeds raised by the ACMSI Women's Committee are donated to the ambulance fund to help maintain the three Aransas County ambulance units.

Jeanne Willis is guest at Center

The Rev. Jeanne Willis of Corpus Christi will be the special guest speaker at the Center of Positive Thought for the month of October. She will discuss creative release, a technique she perfected working with her late husband, Robert Willis.

Rev. Willis will speak at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 23, at the Center, located on the corner of Magnolia and Cornwall.

An ordained minister in the Church of Divine Science, Willis has also acted as interim minister for the Unity by the Sea Chapel in Corpus Christi. She is a frequent guest speaker for the Center of Positive Thought.

Willis also teaches classical guitar and is an artist, having received many awards on a local, regional and national level. She attributes her success in the art field largely to having worked with the creative release technique.

She describes creative release as "a ministry in the arts" and feels that it is a form of meditation, or "centering a forgetting of the human self."

When using this technique, one becomes totally involved in active creativity, which, says Willis, opens the right side, or creative side, of the brain and releases inventive, intuitive and imaginative powers that have remained untapped due to our verbal, technological culture and educational system.

When demonstrating creative release, Willis first leads a meditation to music and then executes a series of body movements to music. These are followed with the attempt, with pen or pencil on paper, to draw the energy lines which produce abstract shapes. Drawings are done in black and white and in color.

In other Center news, a hypnosis workshop will be presented by Jean Glowka from 2 to 5 p.m., Nov. 1, at the Shapemakers Exercise Club. For more information, call 729-2720 or 729-3424.

McMahan is 'proof' of armed service claim

Bruce McMahan, owner and operator of a local security and answering service, told fellow members of the Rockport Rotary club his career provides proof of the validity of the armed forces current television program designed to attract recruits to the various services where they can acquire valuable technical experience.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon meeting of the local service club at Sandollar Restaurant last Wednesday, McMahan said he enlisted in the Air Force in 1950 without any business experience or special skills.

Before he retired in 1973 he had spent eight years of his service in the Space Systems Command and Control Division of the 9th Aerospace Defense Command. His primary duties involved satellite and space craft communications involving use of the newest and most sophisticated of computers and other electronic devices.

One tour of duty in the late 1960s brought him to the Aransas County Airport's radar site. McMahan said the two year tour in this community led him to seek permanent residence here after he retired. His first local venture was to establish the McMahan Electronic Security Services to serve homes and businesses. Soon he added an answering service to respond to alarms from security subscribers.

As business grew McMahan purchased a relatively simple computer to handle his own record and bookkeeping needs. About two years ago he "went public" with it when he learned there was a demand for bookkeeping computer service by many small businessmen who could not affort to buy a computer for their own use. McMahan bought a larger more complicated computer capable of not only handling a firm's accounting, but also bills, labels and other mathematical and data chores.

He added that within a month he expects to have in operation a Zerox type of telephonic transmitter that will reproduce and send a full page of figures and type by telephone to any part of the country.

Police Report

Cash taken in burglary

An estimated $23 in $1 bills and an undetermined quantity of $5 and $10 bills were reported missing after the residence of Jowell M. Hearn Jr., 729 S. Church, was burglarized last week.

The incident occurred sometime between 9:30 p.m. last Wednesday and 8:45 a.m. Thursday, according to the police report. The money was in a money bag in the bedroom of the residence.

Stereo missing

A stereo turntable and two speakers, valued at $100, were reported missing from the residence of Henry S. Sherwood Jr., 1417 S. Water.

The incident was reported as a "possible break-in" but police had not as of Monday found any indications of forced entry. The incident occurred Saturday.

Four intoxicated

Four persons were charged with public intoxication in separate incidents this past weekend.

Gerald Houghton Butler, 31, of Shephard, MI., was fined $56 on the charge after he was arrested by police about 2 a.m. Saturday.

Butler was picked up at the intersection of St. Mary's and Magnolia streets where police reported his van was "illegally parked."

He paid $6 court costs and worked six hours in lieu of the fine.

Also fined $56 was Santiago Tijerina, 25, of Mars Courts who was arrested at the Rockport Post Office on a charge of public intoxication about 10:12 p.m. Saturday.

Earlier, Richard Douglas Steward, 41, of 1516 West Terrace was arrested in Julie's parking lot on a charge of public intoxication about 10:11 p.m. Friday.

Steward was released on $75 cash bond.

Vicente Luna Escobedo of the Rod & Reel Motel was charged with public intoxication about 2:30 a.m. Sunday after police stopped him on Market Street near Sipe Realty.

Escobedo was allegedly walking west on Market in the middle of a traffic land. He was fined $56.

Shrimp boat sunk

Carl Olson called police Sunday after he found his shrimp boat filled with water and sinking in Rockport Harbor.

Olson told police he tied up his boat in the harbor Saturday then took a bus to Corpus Christi about 1 p.m. He returned about 2:30 a.m. Sunday and found his boat full of water and sinking.

Police speculated that the craft may have been struck by another boat or that it struck something as a result of drifting. Olson alleged his lines had been switched.

No determination was made on whether the incident was intentional.

Exposition to provide message service

Leaving a message for someone attending this year's South Texas Oil and Gas Exposition in Victoria could be as simple as dialing a telephone number, thanks to a special effort by Southwestern Bell.

Harold Johnson, district manager-residence service center for Bell in Victoria, said the company's local Community Relations Team will provide a message center at the exposition, as it did last year.

The team is composed of Bell System employees who participate in various projects relating to telephone service or community involvement.

"The number to call to leave a message for an exhibitor or visitor at the exposition will be 573-3274," Johnson said. "We will write the information down on a message sheet and post it at our booth."

Johnson said messages will be posted according to the first letter of the last name of each person to be contacted.

Bell's message center will be manned from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each day of the exposition, Oct. 28-31, and those wishing to check for messages may visit the center at any time during those hours. The center will be located near the front entrance of the Victoria Community Center.

"We also will provide general information concerning the exposition to those who call the center or drop by," Johnson said.

In addition, Southwestern Bell will install an extra 20 coin telephones for the calling convenience of those at the exposition.

Hiller receives badge

Second Class Petty Officer Scott Hiller, U.S. Navy, son of Delmar and Sherry Hiller of Rockport, has recently received his "Dolphins," the badge of the submariner.

Presentation was made by Commander J.B. Johnston aboard the submarine U.S.S. Simon Bolivar where he is a Gold Crew radioman. As part of his qualification, Hiller learned each system aboard the "Bolivar", location of all equipments, general operation of the ship and the use of all damage control and safety apparatus.

Hiller was recently home on leave and he and his parents spent some time on the Hillers' Frio Cielo Ranch Cabin near Concan.

A 1976 graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School, Hiller attended Texas A&M University and joined the Navy in February, 1979, under an advanced technical training program. In July, 1981, he was awarded a meritorious promotion to second class under the Command Advancement Program.

Farmers at head of line in risk and uncertainty

COLLEGE STATION — When it comes to risk and uncertainty, farmers should be at the head of the line.

"Managing a modern farm operation in today's complex and risky world is no easy task," says Dr. James Ahrenholz, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Farmers face ever-changing conditions in the weather, market place and their total environment that make their business a gamble."

While farmers have always had to cope with various degrees or levels of risk, it's important for them to have a better understanding of the different sources of risk in the decision-making process, notes Ahrenhloz.

He presents these major sources of agricultural risk as identified by Gene Nelson, Oregon State University, and Tel Nelson, Oklahoma State University, in a special Extension Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture report:

—Production and yield risk: Yields and production can vary greatly due to weather, diseases, insects, varieties, machinery, timing of practices and related factors.

—Market and price risk. Prices paid for production inputs and received for farm products are affected by supply and demand conditions, trends, speculations, government programs, commodity cycles, seasonal variation and consumer demand.

—Business and financial risk: Increased use of borrowed capital and larger capital investments have increased financial risk and put more pressure on maintaining an adequate cash flow.

—Technology and obsolescence risk: Rapid development of new technology can make current production methods obsolete shortly after important investments are made. Thus there is risk in adopting new technologies too late as well as too soon.

—Casualty loss risk: Loss of assets due to fire, weather and theft can be devastating, especially in inflationary times.

—Social and legal risk: Agriculture is subject to changing social attitudes that affect government laws and regulations dealing with such areas as environmental protection, use of certain chemicals, and land use planning.

—Human risk: Farming is a hazardous occupation, and accidents and health problems can be critical to the survival of the operation, particularly during crucial production periods. Dishonesty and undependability of business associates also can undermine an efficient operation.

"The key to coping with the uncertainties of agriculture is the risk-taking attitude of the farmer himself — how he views risk," contends Ahrenholz.

Risk-taking attitudes mainly result from farming goals and objectives, financial ability to assume the risk involved, and size of the possible gains or losses involved in the decision.

There are risk takers, risk avoiders and risk neutral farmers, notes the economist. All have their own management style and all can be successful. The main point is that a farmer needs to consider his attitude about taking risk.

Rockport squeezes past Sinton in wild affair, 43-41

Although track season is many months away, Rockport-Fulton and Sinton squared off in a scoring battle which literally left both sides breathless as the Pirate team from Rockport-Fulton jumped ahead in the first half and then had to hold on to secure a 43-41 thriller victory over the Sinton Pirates.

Rockport entered the game with a record of 3-3, while the Pirates of Sinton carried a record of 2-3 into the contest.

Rockport indicated their intention to dominate the contest from the opening kickoff. Using the running game, the Rockport team pounded away for 11 plays before Michael Simmons scooted into the end zone from eight yards out. To put the Pirates even further ahead, Michael Henderson kicked the point-after, giving Rockport a lead of 7-0. The scoring drive ate up half of the first period.

Wasting little time, Sinton gave notice that they could also ring up the points as they executed the option down the field before quarterback Mac May slipped into paydirt on a seven-yard run. With the extra point kick, the game was back to square one, all tied up.

The Pirates of Rockport scored to go ahead on the third play of the second quarter as quarterback Adam Harden kept the ball around his own left end and then proceeded to blaze down the sideline 73 yards for the six points. This time Rockport's attempt at the extra point failed, leaving the score at 13-7.

Sinton probably would have been pleased to go into the locker room at that point, trailing by only six points. Before the next 11 minutes had elapsed, Rockport had struck for 23 additional points, making the half time score 36-7.

That big second quarter for Rockport began with Harden's run, but then the dam burst, and everything began happening to the Sinton Pirates. Big Michael Arthur latched on to a Sinton fumble on Sinton's 37, as teammate Jeff Woodman helped screen the Sinton players off the ball so Arthur could recover.

The powerful Pirate offense cranked up again, this time using a 29-yard sprint by sophomore Dwayne Walls. Simmons added the two-pointer on a run, and Rockport led 21-7.

Just moments after Walls scored, the Pirate defense forced Sinton's quarterback into an errant pitch on the option play, and David Kelly recovered at Sinton's 6-yard line. Rockport made quick work of that opportunity by sending Simmons into the end zone from three yards away. Simmons took the ball on the extra point attempt, and he appeared to be going to hand the ball to Ernest Gonzales on a reverse. Simmons kept the ball and sped into the end zone around the right end for the two points, making the score 29-7.

Rockport wasn't through. Sinton moved out to near midfield, but was forced into a fourth and three situation. They lined up in punt formation, then snapped the ball short to a running back who was nailed on a combined effort by Eddie Naro and Carl Conn.

The passing game had been laid to rest in ball games lately, but the Pirates surprised Sinton as Harden faked the ball to his running backs, dropped straight back, and sent a pass downfield for Gonzales. Gonzales, who was 15 yards in the clear, pulled up to wait on the short pass, and after catching it, escaped the clutches of would-be tacklers to race to the end zone to make the play a scoring toss of 42 yards. Henderson came on to kick the ball, and Rockport had what seemed to be a safe lead of 36-7.

Rockport got another chance to score before the half as they got the ball at midfield with 95 seconds remaining on the clock. Appearing not want to run up the score, the Pirates did not make any effort to put the ball in the end zone, letting the clock tick down, an almost costly mistake.

To show how the fortunes of football can change, Sinton came back on the field after the half, fired up and ready to go. And except for one play in the next 12 minutes of play, they would outscore the Pirates of Rockport by a 21-7 margin in the quarter. That one play mentioned before was an 80-yard romp by Simmons to give the Pirates of Rockport their last score of the night.

Sinton scored on their first possession of the second half as May directed his team to an 80-yard drive before he plunged into the end zone from a yard away.

After picking up the extra point, Sinton kicked off to Rockport. The kicker boomed the ball out of the end zone, so the Pirates from Rockport had to start at their own 20-yard line. Simmons showed his sprinter's speed as he raced 80 yards for the TD. It must be noted that at that point, a series of questionable calls by the officiating corps began to unwind. As Simmons raced untouched down the sidelines and approached the 10-yard line, he hoisted the ball in the air in jubilation, the official closest to the play dropped a yellow flag, saying that it was unsportsmanlike conduct to taunt the other team. Although Henderson went on to kick the point-after, the Pirates had to kick off from their own 25-yard line.

Sinton took that opportunity to begin putting things together to stage a brilliant comeback, scoring 27 points in the final 16 minutes of play.

It was May again who crossed the goal line for Sinton as they climaxed the drive following the kickoff with May scoring from eight yards out.

Rockport's offense became totally inept at that point, and the Sinton defense swarmed on the ball carrier each time Rockport snapped the ball.

With Rockport forced to punt, Sinton took advantage of a short punt to get good field position near midfield. Rockport's defense held for two downs, but then streaking, apparently unnoticed, into the game was Sinotn's No. two quarterback Genaro Garza who lined up at a tailback position. Rockport made no adjustment to the man who had been throwing 50-yard passes before the game had begun in warm-ups. Garza caught the Rockport defense napping as he took the ball on a pitch from May and lofted a perfect pass to Barry Eads, the play covering 58 yards. The score for Sinton continued to creep up on their side of the board, leaving it at that point 43-28 in Rockport's favor.

Rockport was completely flat, whereas Sinton was on fire. Each time a Rockport runner got the ball, it appeared that Sinton had two teams on the field. On third down and 16 to go, the most crucial call of the game was made by the referee. Walls took the ball and was swarmed by Sinton's defense. The whistle came late to stop the play, and then some shoving occurred between Walls and a Sinton player after some heated words. The officials were nowhere near the play. Walls delivered little more than a push-away to his taunter, then some words to the official, and the next thing Rockport fans knew, Walls was being escorted to the sideline and was put out of the game, while the Sinton bench rejoiced that their player was not put out. It was a definite key call in the game because of the Building up a 20-0 lead at the half, the Rockport Fulton JV did what they had to do in the second half to go on to win over the Sinton JV 34-20 in Rockport last Thursday night. The victory moves the JV's record to 5-1.

Pirate JV scores 34-20 victory over Sinton

The Pirates ran into some error-laden plays early in the game when they turned the ball over on a fumble at Sinton's 28-yard line.

Rockport's tough little defense wasted little time getting the ball back for the offense when cornerback David Cochran made a diving interception at the 33 of Sinton.

Rockport's offense took charge and made the best of the opportunity by using tough running by Mike Riddle behind some good lead blocks by Steve Arkell. Riddle swept into the end zone from six yards out. Quarterback Bobby Dingenary then hit tight end Kevin Billeiter for the two points and the Pirates were on top 8-0.

The Pirate defense stopped Sinton on their next possession when Sinton faked a punt, but the defense held. Rockport tried the same strategy on their fourth down, but it had the same result.

When Sinton got the ball again, they moved to Rockport's 29 where a fourth-and-three came up. Rockport's two big boys, Bennie Crabtree and Philip Ochoa, stopped up the middle and Sinton did not make it.

Rockport missed an excellent opportunity to score when Dingenary laid a pass out for Derek Conn, but Conn lost his concentration and dropped the ball. Just a week before, that combination teamed up for three TD passes.

Although the Pirates had to punt, they got the ball bakc when the Sinton punt returner dropped the ball and Joe Cantu recovered at the 35. After a penalty against Rockport, Arkell broke loose for 42 yards and a TD. The try for points was no good, but the Pirates led 14-0.

Rockport got yet another chance to score in the second quarter as Robert Dominguez intercepted a pass and returned it 40 yards to Sinton's 37.

Sinton's defense stopped the Pirate attack at the one-yard line. That just prolonged things. The Pirate defense forced a punt from the end zone, and Cantu returned the ball 30 yards to the Sinton two where he tripped over his own man. Arkell finished the job by going in for the TD. A try for two was no good, but the Pirates led 20-0.

Aided by an interference call on Rockport, Sinton scored on their first possession of the second half. A pass for 12 yards netted the six points, then the kick was good, making the score 20-7.

The Pirates would have none of that and took the ball following the kick and marched 56 yards in 15 plays before Riddle legged it in from eight yards away. The Pirates could not tack anything on the TD, so the score was 26-7.

Sinton just ran one play after taking the kickoff, and it went the distance from 66 yards out. With the kick, the score was 26-14.

Rockport got themselves in a bit of trouble when Sinton tried an onsides kick that went out of bounds at the Pirate 43. Rockport, for some reason, turned down the ball in favor of making the Sinton team kick from their own 35. The result was a 13-yard loss of territory as the Sinton kicker kicked a ball which was downed at Rockport's 30.

In the fourth period, Rockport finally got their passing combination of Dingenary to Conn on track and the play was good for 24 yards, setting up the Pirates at Sinton's 13. Two plays later, Dingenary again found Conn, this time for a twelve-yard TD. Riddle made the run for two points following the TD, and the Pirates had increased their lead to 34-14.

Sinton came back to score again, using a reverse against the eager Pirate defense.

Sinton beats Rockport freshmen 12-0

Lack of offense cost the Rockport-Fulton Freshmen their first win of the year as the Pirates could get nothing going against Sinton in a 12-0 loss in Rockport last Thursday night.

The Pirates of Rockport stalled themselves after the defense kept them in the game. The defense played well, although at times they made some key errors, and those errors cost them the football. Early in the contest, Rockport recovered a Sinton fumble near midfield, but a Pirate on defense had lined up offside, so Sinton got the break. The defense did go on to halt Sinton's progress on that drive at the eleven yard line.

A short punt got the Pirates in trouble in the second period, and the result was good field position for Sinton. Taking over at the Pirate 38, Sinton used just seven plays to move in for the score. Sinton went for the kick for the extra point, but Rodney Simmons burst through and blocked the try, leaving Sinton ahead 6-0.

Sinton got another crack at scoring in the second period and had the ball at the Pirate two-yard line, but a fumble occurred, and Carl Garrett pounced on the loose ball for Rockport.

A pass from Louis Solis to Ronnie Sifuentes moved the ball out to the Pirate 12-yard line. Then Solis scrambled for 14 yards to move the ball out to the 30-yard line. The drive continued out to the 50, but time ran out in the first half.

Sinton took the kickoff after the half and pushed the ball downfield for a second touchdown. Following that score, Sinton again went for the kick, and this time Trinelle Walls broke through to knock the ball down, holding Sinton to a 12-0 lead.

Rockport did get one decent drive going in the second half, but it failed when Sinton rose up to stop Rockport.

The Pirates managed to pick up only 63 total yards for the game. On defense, Bill Mott, Ronnie Wagoner, Toss Stubbs and Alan Scholtz led the attack.

Ducks Unlimited Banquet best ever

The recent banquet held by Ducks Unlimited was the most successful event of its kind that the group has had, says spokesman for the club Jim Friebele.

"It was the best ever," said Friebele, who said that the event netted $73,000 for the club.

The sum of $10,200 was brought in from the sale of an original Herb Booth painting during the auction following the barbecue banquet. Al Barnes also donated a painting for the auction which brought in $10,000.

A special gun cabinet built for sale at the DU auction by Horace Haquin brought in $6,600 for the club. The glass doors of the cabinet were designed by Herb Booth and etched by Bob Eschberger and Donna Price of Escondido Galleries.

Following the dinner and auction a dance was held with music provided by Ray Wylie Hubbard. During the evening, door prizes of shrimp, decoys and other items were awarded.

Other items auctioned off were four DU commemorative shotguns, hand carved decoys and hunting and fishing trips donated by local guides.

President McMahan has been involved in residential real estate in Dallas for the past twenty years and has held every State Association office from regional vice president on up. He has recently been reappointed to the Texas Real Estate Research Center Advisory Committee. McMahan served as chairman of that committee in 1979. In 1976 he was president of the Dallas Board of Realtors and in 1978 was elected "Dallas Realtor of the Year".

Other members of the seminar team are: Mark Hanna, Legal Counsel for T.A.R.; Jim Sawyer, Executive Vice President for T.A.R.; and Joe Williams, Training Director for the J.B. Goodwin Company in Austin.

The seminar will be presented to the Realtors of Region VII in Portland at the Bayview Restaurant/-Motel 11 on Highway 181 between Portland and Corpus Christi.

Ross makes 1000th jump

Pirates

The call also cost the Rockport team 15 yards, so Harden had to punt from his end zone. The pressure was on the entire Rockport team, still feeling the result of the official's call. Harden let the ball slip off the side of his foot, and Sinton took over at the Rockport 31-yard line. A big play halted Sinton's attempt as Dennis Hull found a loose football in the open field, and Rockport had dodged that bullet for the time being.

Nothing was going right for Rockport. Harden threw a pass under pressure, and Sinton's Garza stepped in front of the receiver and intercepted the ball and raced 20 yards for the TD. Only a great defensive play by Paul Beck in the end zone kept the Sinton team from getting two points as he took a pass away from the Sinton receiver, stopping the two-point attempt.

Again the Sinton defense was all over the Rockport runners. With a third-and-24 at the Rockport 17, Harden managed to work his way out to the 34 where the Pirates had to punt the ball away.

Sinton got a 15-yard run-back, but were penalized back to their own 22-yard line for a clip. Rockport's defense held, but the Sinton punter really hit one and the ball rolled out of bounds at the Pirate 9-yard line.

Rockport was in trouble again, and it got worse. Harden, having to work that much harder with Walls out, got cracked on a good tackle by Sinton, and the ball popped loose, and Sinton recovered.

The same play as before would haunt Rockport when Garza came in the game again at tailback, and again, the Pirate defenders made no adjustment. Garza hit 6'6" Joseph Goynes in the end zone for six points, and with the conversion, the score was Rockport 43, Sinton 41 with 3:05 remaining.

Rockport was sitting back and watching one of the miracle comebacks of the year which would rank with their second half comeback over Taft. To make matters worse, Sinton got benefit of yet another penalty against the Rockport team, and the penalty was put on the kickoff, letting Sinton kick from Rockport's 45-yard line. At that pint, a crucial decision was called for on Sinton's part: Should they try for the onsides kick? If it failed, Rockport would have the ball around the 35-yard line. Should they kick it out of the stadium and let their defense, which had shut Rockport down, try to hold the Pirates from the coast. The decision was to kick the ball away; however, it did turn out to be a gamble which did not work out, but it nearly worked perfectly.

Rockport knew they had to hold on to the football, and hope to run out the clock. Harden called on Simmons three times in a row to get a first down. Then Sinton toughened up. With third-and-nine at Rockport's 31, Simmons made his best run of the night, although it was for only 14 yards. He was hit, but he had a purpose in mind, and he pulled away to get to the outside and pick up the most important first down of the entire night. Sinton tried all of the tricks, and they worked despite everybody's knowing that play-acting was going on. Out of timeouts, Sinton players began going to the ground, faking injuries, and the referee obliged Sinton by stopping the clock twice. He fainaly had to wind the clock, and Rockport ran out the time to hold on to the win.

The game provided two entirely different games. Rockport easily won the first half, but Sinton made Rockport wonder if they had really indeed had won the game with their great comeback.

Simmons was a real workhorse for the Pirates, as he kept his rushing lead in District 15-4A with a 152 yard performance. Harden piled up 89 yards for the night, and before Walls sat down, he collected 83 in 12 tries.

Rockport not affected by Reynolds shutdown

Reynolds Metals Company, an employer of many area workers, announced it will temporarily suspend production of five primary aluminum potlines. However none of the suspended plants are in the Rockport area.

The temporary suspension of production will involve two 25,000-ton-per-year potlines at its Troutdale Ore. reduction plant, one 44,000-ton-per-year line at its Listerhill, Ala. reduction plant, one 23,000 ton-per-year line at its Longview, Wash. reduction plant and one 25,000-ton-per-year line at its Jones Mills, Ark. reduction plant.

The company said the curtailments were made to keep inventories in better balance with reduced demand by continuing to cut back production at higher cost facilities. Power rates continue to play a significant role in determining which plants are to remain operating.

Preparations for the orderly shutdown of the potlines will begin immediately.

The Lewis Grizzard Column

These are tough times. The prime rate is out the ceiling. Inflation is still eating away at our dollars. The whole country has buzzard luck. Can't kill nothing. Can't find nothing dead.

So, today, we dream. Today, we forget our troubles and we take a trip. A marvelous trip. Pick your spot. Rio. Hong Kong. Singapore. Honolulu. Around the entire, dadgum world is where I am talking about.

The idea came to me when I was thumbing through a magazine and saw an ad for the luxurious ocean liner, the Queen Elizabeth II.

"AROUND THE WORLD CRUISE!" screamed the ad.

You leave New York Jan. 17, 1982, and get back in April and you hit something like 23 ports. Magellan would have been impressed.

There were some prices quoted. You don't take an around-the-world trip on a luxury ocean liner for bus fare.

Tops is $250,000. Around the world in 80 days aboard the Queen Elizabeth II in a penthouse suite would cost a quarter of a million dollars. Magellan couldn't have afforded it.

And neither can any of the rest of us, but today, we dream.

I called Cunard Lines in New York and I asked the woman who talked to me, Sue Alpert, what you get for $250,000.

"That's for four people," she said.

That's more like it. Split the tab four ways and everybody gets out for $62,500.

"And meals are included," said Sue Alpert.

For a quarter of a million, you should get a bar stocked with only the best thrown in for the entire 80 days.

"You do," said Sue.

And here is what else:

—Split-level penthouse accommodations. Two adjoining bedrooms, two baths.

—A spiral staircase connecting the two levels.

—Sitting room.

—Balcony. (Overlooking whatever ocean you happen to be cruising in at the time.)

—Stereo.

—Gold-plated fixtures in the bath rooms.

—Stewards standing by at all times, in case there is anything else you might need, as in, more champagne, please, Harry.

By Lewis Grizzard

There are two such suites aboard the QEII, the Queen Mary suite and the Queen Elizabeth suite, and I asked who has the money to afford such and who can take 80 days off to enjoy it?

"Retired people, the very rich retired people," said Sue Alpert, "and celebrities who want to get away from it all for awhile."

Such as?

"I can't reveal such information," she said, but for all those people who think Elvis isn't really dead, I suggest maybe they should look for him in one of the penthouse suites.

Let your mind race, then. It is 4:45 p.m., Jan. 17, 1982, and you are sailing out of New York harbor, toasting the waving crowd from your penthouse balcony. The world awaits you. The ship's staff is at your feet. A quarter of a million? Chicken feed for a big spender like you.

Got the picture? Good. More champagne for my friends and me, Harry. We'll worry about how to save ourselves from the buzzards tomorrow.

Ferry Superintendent Melvin Littleton retires

PORT ARANSAS — State Department of Highways and Public Transportation District Engineer Nino Gutierrez has announced the impending retirement of Port Aransas Ferry System Marine Superintendent Melvin O. Littleton. Duties and responsibilities for operation of the system have now been given to Ernest Hinojosa, Jr., who begins immediately as acting Marine Superintendent for the ferry system.

Littleton is culminating a 30 year career with the ferry system. He began work with the operation while it was under jurisdiction of Nueces County. In Jan. 1968, responsibility for the ferry system at Port Aransas was assumed by the State Highway Department. Littleton continued as superintendent for the organization. During his tenure, Littleton has seen the system grow from two ferryboats and one set of ferry landings to six ferryboats and three sets of landings. Traffic volumes have incresed from 252,224 vehicles making the trip in 1961 to 1,372,484 vehicles making the ride across the channel in 1980. In July 1981, the free ferry service across the channel was enjoyed by riders in 178,704 vehicles.

Lamar

over 3,000 gallons would decrease to 38 cents per gallon.

Tap fee cost under the rate change could not exceed $350. At present tap fee cost cannot exceed $300.

Lamar Water Supply, Inc. is owned by Sea Gun Sports Inn, Inc., which is in turn owned by Hamelet's, Inc., which is owned by McClure Bintliff, Inc. of Austin. The supply company was bought in 1977 from American Home Corporation, which was operated by Toddie Lee Wynn.

According to McClure Bintliff spokesman, Oscar Roane the "raise is necessary because we're not making ends meet."

Said Roane, "We're losing money. We have a tremendous investment and we'd like to at least break even. The profit isn't that important — we're interested in providing a service — we'd settle for just breaking even."

The change in minimum rates alone would result in a 55 percent gross revenue increase for Lamar Water Supply, Inc.

The pre-hearing set for November 4 is for the purpose of deciding participants in the case, which would include the public utilities commissioners, a hearing examiner, the staff representatives of the supply company and, if approved as necessry, customers of the service.

The customers would be selected only if they could produce evidence of consequence to the proceedings. A PUC spokesman give the example, "if a group of people could prove their rates were unfair, that could be used as evidence."

Residents participating in the case would be able to cross-examine evidence offered by the supply company during hearings.

Whether or not residents are chosen to participate in the proceedings, they can appear and voice their opinions at the formal hearing on the rate increase, the date of which will be set at the pre-hearing.

Those customers wishing to appear at the pre-hearing and or the formal hearing should contact the Public Utilities Commission, office of Debra Miller, (512) 485-0100, (512) 458-0227. Those persons wishing to contact the office by mail should address correspondence to: Consumer Affairs Office, Public Utilities Commission o. 'Complete, confidential' is motto of Professional Secretary Service

At Professional Secretarial Service, "complete and confidential" are the bywords, according to Carolyn Spielman.

This relatively new business — Carolyn got it under way around the first of August — can handle just about any job area businessmen need, from writing a resume to setting up an office.

Right now, Carolyn is her own "one-woman" agency, operating out of her home, but she anticipates future expansion as the demand grows for her services. Office hours are "officially" 8-to-5 ("That's what it says on my letterhead). But her hours are flexible and she will consider putting in additional hours if the job demands it — as, for example, the businessman who calls on Sunday for a job that must be ready Monday morning.

She will also do business accounts and business letters — either composing her own or taking dictation — and she is available for private secretarial work.

A resident of Rockport for about a year now, Carolyn enjoys the area and looks forward to making her business grow by providing the kind of professional skills and services businessmen need.

Leaky pipe system offers home gardener versatility

By Ted Brice
The Garden Editor

For hundreds of years there has been various methods of irrigation used. The Romans had the aqueducts during the time of the Roman Empire. Man has tried many, many forms of irrigation. He has used the water hose to do what is described as "flood irrigate", and more recently, the sprinkler system. There are more plants killed both outside and indoors from over watering than from any other cause. Just too much TLC.

Each form of irrigation has improved on its predecessor but still there have been problems even though each new system was an improvement. With the sprinkler system there has been evaporation loss as well as the cutting of the sprinker heads when mowing your lawn.

The basic purpose of irrigation is to water plants, trees and lawns. Where does this plant material take in this water? Of course, it is at the root system of the plants. Therefore the best place to put the water for these plants is down at the roots.

Some 10 years ago I built a new chrysanthemum bed and placed PVC pipe that had been perforated about six inches below the surface of the bed. When I wanted to water this bed I attached a garden hose to the PVC pipe that was extended above the surface of the flower bed. The chrysanthemums that were produced in this particular bed had fantastic color and were extremely large with most beautiful foliage.

Recently a new method of irrigation was introduced to the garden world called "leaky pipe." There is no trenching and no damage to the yard for installation. "leaky pipe" is so versatile one system can water both the lawn, garden, flower beds and planter boxes. It is completely automatic. Even when you are on vacation the moisture sensor maintains the desired amount of moisture. The water goes to the roots, not on the top of the grass and beds. The basic principle is that the water leaks droplets through the wall of the pipe. "Leaky pipe" can be placed at a depth of 10 inches in order to allow normal yard work including rototilling. Nutrients (fertilizer) and health giving chemicals can be fed to the growing plants at the root level through "leaky pipe." The "leaky pipe" irrigation system is or has been installed by the park departments of many cities here in the Southwest. Over the past 15 years a number of agriculture colleges and universities have tested "leaky pipe" with the most fantastic results. An agriculture university in California ran extensive test on the "leaky pipe" system. The results of these test showed four years growth in just one year on almond trees. Another advantage — "leaky pipe" has been a proven factor in foundation stabilizing.

If you would like more information on this new system of irrigation, write your Garden Editor in care of this newspaper.

So long until next week and good gardening from your Garden Editor, Ted Brice.

County Agent News

By Mike Rothrock
County Extension Agent-AG
San Patricio-Aransas Counties

Vegetable crops which can still be planted this fall include beets, carrots, chard, collards, garlic, kohlrabi, lettuce, mustard, onion, parsley, radishes, spinach and turnips. All of these crops have at least two characteristics in common — they tolerate cold temperatures and they produce optimum growth and quality at monthly temperatures which average 60-65 degrees F.

Two additional characteristics of these cool-loving vegetables is their small height (except collards) when mature and their ability to produce quality produce when plants are growing only three inches apart. Only lettuce, chard and collards need 12 inches between plants to grow properly.

The short growth habit and dense population potential of these crops make them ideal for intercropping. Intercropping means planting plants between plants. Such plants as tomatoes, pepper and eggplant require at least 24 inches between transplants. Most gardeners plant them 30-36 inches apart rather than having to use a machete to hack a path through a jungle of foliage at harvest time. This 30 or more inches of soil between transplants will be barren and non-productive for several months unless small, fast maturing crops are planted. Such "barren" space can become a nuisance because of the necessity for weed control. Mulching with compost or organic matter will prevent weed problems but why not use an edible mulch? Beets, lettuce, radishes, turnips, kohlrabi and mustard will be ready to harvest within two months, will have performed a function as an edible, yet will not interfere with the growth of larger growing plants.

Efficiency and economics should be two prime considerations of the backyard gardener. Since most gardeners spread fertilizer over the entire growing area and till or spade it into the soil, growers are wasting "prepared" soil if intercropping is not utilized. Also, most gardeners water the entire planting bed when irrigating so the most efficient use of that water is to grow additional fresh vegetables.

Some of these low growing, fast maturing crops ideally suited for intercropping such as lettuce, onion, parsley and spinach germinate (seeds begin to grow) best when soil temperatures are 70 degrees F. During a hot fall seeding of these cool-soil-loving crops can occur earlier with greater success if interplanted in the partial shade of taller growing, longer maturing vegetables such as tomatoes and peppers. Partial shading will not greatly decrease the production of the leafy crops and since vegetables between which these small growing, frost tolerant intercrops are growing will be killed by frost, plenty of sunlight will be available after the first cold weather necessitates the removal of the taller growing plants.

There are many advantages of intercropping vegetable crops. Gardeners should realize that the same caution must be taken when seeding fast maturing vegetables in an intercrop system as when planting on a regular bed — don't plant too much area at one time.

Morning mail may bring tempting offers to buy, to make money, to fulfill all sorts of dreams. Proceed with care.

Postal Inspector J.G. Horton warns that while most of the business conducted by mail is legitimate and ethical, you need to be alert to confidence men, swindlers and dishonest promoters.

He says that no matter what is offered, some people will respond. Most of the time, victims taken for small amounts of money will not report it. They think it is too much trouble for the amount involved, or they are embarrassed to admit they were rooked. The worst part about this is that as long as no report is made, the swindler can keep operating. He's cheating other people. Small amounts of money are growing to large sums.

With inflation, many people are desparate to make additional money. Older or handicapped people, or those who have responsibilities that prevent them from leaving their homes, see offers for making substantial amounts of money at home, with such projects an envelope stuffing. Horton says companies don't pay to have envelopes stuffed at home. If you send a required fee for information on such work, the information returned to you is useless.

Franchises and vending machines are involved in an increasing number of business transactions. Horton says it is not unusual for a person to lose his or her life savings, investing in what is clothed as a profitable venture which turns out to be worthless. Get full information from the Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce where you live or write to those agencies in the town which you are told is the headquarters of the company with which you are negotiating.

Charity rackets are doubly tragic. If you contribute to a cause that only helps the crook, you waste your money. At the same time, legitimate charities do not benefit from your generosity as they otherwise could. You have some idea of what happens to money that goes into charities you see serving people in your own community.

Land sale frauds have been succeeding for years, when people buy land by mail without looking at it and checking legal records. Investment swindles are as numerous. Horton advises you to be suspicious of the investment described as low risk with abnormally high rates of return. Home improvements offer another opportunity to take money by a bid far below going rates, then failure to produce.

Our pride and our health cost us money from which we get no return. If we are in pain or failing health and the medical profession has no answer, the miracle is tempting. Frustrated with dieting and exercise, that magical weight loss that requires neither energy nor willpower is easy to believe. Horton advises against trusting your health to a high pressure salesman.

The business as well as the individual can be the victim of mail fraud. If invoices are not verified against goods or services received, a bill may come in the mail and be paid, for something you did not want and did not get. If you pay for a listing in a directory or an ad in a publication you have never seen or heard of, it may not exist.

Whenever you are aware of any use of the mails involving an illegal scheme, call your postmaster or the nearest postal inspector. Save as evidence envelopes and all the material which came in them. Do it for yourself and for the next person who would otherwise be cheated.

Horton leaves you with the thought, ''If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.''

REAL ESTATE CONSUMER

Research into Texas home prices and sales activity reveals the best time to sell a home is in the third quarter, during the months of July, August and September.

The typical Texas home sold in those months brings an average price of almost 14 percent more than the price of a home sold in the first quarter. Even when adjustments are made for inflation, the third quarter is still better by almost seven percent.

Of course, buyers have more houses from which to choose during the summer months. The number of homes available during that time is 36 percent higher than during the first quarter.

Better prices during the third quarter do not necessarily mean you are better off by waiting until the third quarter to sell. There are other factors to consider, such as market exposure, money market conditions and appreciation.

Be picky about locks

Are flimsy locks on the doors of your home an open invitation to a burglar?

Perhaps you should augment your spring latches with dead bolt locks which are harder to jimmy open. A good dead bolt is made of brass, bronze or stainless steel and has a bolt that sticks about an inch into the door jamb.

You could even go a step further and buy pick-resistant locks. And for a door with windows, your best choice might be a lock with a double-sided cylinder. Such a lock requires a key to open it from either side, so a burglar can not just break the glass and reach through to open the door. The double-cylinder lock, however, can be dangerous in a fire, and some communities restrict their use.

Whatever your choice of locks, remember to put them on all your doors, not just the front door.

Saving money on vacancy ads

Advertising a vacant apartment can become expensive, so if you have a rental unit, here are some ideas that can save you money.

First, seek the help of your tenants. Ask them to be alert for people who are interested in renting an apartment, and encourage them to refer these people to you.

Record the names and phone numbers of people who call about vacancies. Then, when you lose a tenant, contact the most recent additions to your list of callers. Perhaps one of these is still looking for a place to live.

Finally, advertise your vacancies on the bulletin boards in laundromats and grocery stores. Many prospective renters see these boards, so a simple index card with the appropriate information can serve as an inexpensive supplement to your normal newspaper ad.

Adjustable rate mortgages

Federally chartered savings and loan associations now have an array of mortgage plans from which to choose. The Federal Home Loan Bank board has authorized the use of adjustable rate mortgages under which interest rates may vary during the loan term. The Board already has approved variable rate mortgages under which rates may be adjusted every six months. And it also has approved renegotiable rate mortgages with adjustment periods of three to five years. These plans restrict the amount of rate adjustment.

Now a new adjustable rate mortgage has been authorized with no limit on the amount of frequency of rate change, rather such restrictions are to be renegotiated between the lender and the borrower. Regulators feel such flexibility is needed to allow savings and loan institutions to continue making home mortgage loans.

Structural features can save energy

Generally, an elogated house, oriented on an east-west axis, is easier and less expensive to cool. In addition, roof overhangs on the south side will protect living areas from the summer sun, as will the placement of a garage on the west side.

Geneticists battle retardation

Using scientific advances as their tools, geneticists have begun to more accurately chart the makeup of man to decrease the adverse inborn effects of chance which potentially influence every conception.

Man starts as a single cell containing a nucleus. The nucleus contains 46 chromosomes on which are found thousands of genes which determine our identities and make each individual unique. While an overwhelming percentage of babies are born with a normal potential, others have abnormalities in their chromosomes or in individual genes which lead to many types of birth defects.

While medical researchers are at work, educational efforts are being made nationwide to inform individuals of genetic risks. The Texas Department of Health (TDH) administers the Texas Genetics Network, with contractors providing patient services in different parts of the state.

Dr. Walter P. Peter Jr., Chief of the TDH Bureau of Maternal and Child Health, is project director of the TDH program. Genetic screening, testing, diagnosis, counseling and education are provided by the contractors, said Dr. Peter. Most people are referred for services by their private physicians, primary health care clinics, or other agencies such as a family planning agency. Others may refer themselves out of the fear of having a genetic problem. Some of the services in Texas are directed toward sickle cell disease, which is found primarily, but not exclusively among blacks.

"We are looking toward the preventive aspects of inherited problems, or genetic diseases," said Dr. Peter. "We have asked nurses, social workers, and teachers to be on the alert for retardation or any genetic condition for which counseling is indicated." An example, is a pregnant woman over the age of 35. These individuals have an increases risk of having a baby with Down Syndrome (Mongolism), a chromosome disorder, said Dr. Peter. Down Syndrome causes retardation but also may affect other systems, in addition to brain cells, such as the heart. Candy Holtzman, R.N., coordinator of the Texas Genetics Network, said many birth defects can be detected before birth. "There are several prenatal testing procedures that can tell if a fetus is affected by a particular disorder for which a woman is at risk." The parents then have the information by which to decide whether to continue the pregnancy.

It also is possible to detect potential abnormalities through laboratory tests before conception and to inform parents if they are carriers of genetic abnormalities. Laboratory tests may be recommended for couples who have fertility problems or where multiple miscarriages have occurred. Chromosomes studies often are helpful in multiple malformation syndromes. Birth defects sometimes are the result of a number of factors. Some abnormalities are inherited and some are caused by the prenatal and postnatal environment; some result from a combination of the two. Environmental risks encompass a number of things, including viruses, such as rubella, radiation and drugs.

Health has a screening program for newborns in a search for babies born with inborn errors of metabolism which can cause phenylketonuria (PKU), congenital hypothyroidism, galactosemia or homocystinuria. All can cause retardation or even death.

Ms. Holtzman says genetics is a comparively new field due to the application of research findings to patient care and services.

Dr. Jean Cooper, with MHMR, said a distinctive component of that agency's genetics program is to identify people at high risk.

She also spoke highly of infant stimulation programs for children born with problems. Your must get them into a learning atmosphere.

"This is a strong thrust. If you have a retarded baby, get with agencies where the baby can get help to do the most good. The earlier you get a child into training, the better off it is for the child and family. You m.. have to put the child under full-time care in an institution," she said.

The TDH genetics contractors are the University of Texas (UT) Health Science Center in Dallas, Texas Tech Regional Academic Health Center in Amarillo, UT Medical Branch in Galveston, UT Health Science Center in San Antonio, El Paso Rehabilitation Center, and the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation (MHMR) Genetics Screening and Counseling Service. Headquartered in Denton, the MHMR program has satellite clinics in Abilene, Beaumont, College Station, Corpus Christi, Denton, Fort Worth, Harlingen, Laredo, Lubbock, Lufkin, Richmond, Tyler, Waco, Edinburg, and Odessa. TDH sickle cell contractors are the Sickle Cell Disease Research Foundation in Dallas. Other sickle cell agencies are located in Fort Worth, San Antonio, Austin, and El Paso.

Heifer management program set

CUERO — Discussions on selecting and managing heifers for a profitable beef cattle business will highlight the second annual South Central Texas Beef Cattle Symposium here Oct. 29.

The program will be held at the Cuero Livestock Commission Co., with registration from 8 to 9 a.m, announces Orval Wright, Gonzales County Extension agent and publicity chairman for the event.

Dr. Larry Boleman, Extension beef cattle specialist, will lead off the program by discussing "Heifer Selection and Development."

Dr. John Beverly, Extension animal reproduction specialist, will follow with a talk on "Easing into a Controlled Breeding Program."

Rounding out the morning program will be a panel discussion and a live animal demonstration on heifer selection moderated by Frank Litterst, animal science lecturer at Texas A&M University. The panel will feature Extension specialists and local cattlemen.

A discussio on "Herd Health" by Dr. Joe Bitter, Edna veterinarian, will kick off the afternoon session

Then Dr. Dennis Herd, Extension beef cattle specialist, will discuss "Economics on Carrying a Freeloader."

A panel discussion and live animal demonstration on "Why the Difference in Dollars" will conclude the program. Litterst will again serve as moderator, and local and area cattle buyers will be featured on the panel.

Dr. Zerle Carpenter, head of Texas A&M's Department of Animal Science, will be master of ceremonies for the program. Raetzsch Wagener of Yoakum, chairman of the DeWitt County Cattle Subcomittee, will make introductions, and DeWitt County Judge Robert Sheppard will welcome program participants.

Program sponsors include the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System and beef cattle committees in Gonzales, DeWitt and Lavaca counties.

Advice will be based on weather

Agricultural producers of the future will be better able to cope with Texas' highly variable weather when a high technology advisory system is completed by scientists with Texas A&M University.

Present inadequate weather information, collected primarily for aircraft, is poorly suited to the needs of farmers and ranchers. Crop and range production risks are great and yields are highly variable.

Scientist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station working with several departments at Texas A&M, the USDA, and the National Weather Service, are developing an effective system to collect weather information for Texas, interpret it, and provide useful and timely production advisories.

"While this won't improve the weather, it should cut production risks and increase economic returns," according to Dr. G.F. Arkin, Experiment Station scientist at Temple.

Automatic equipment for weather imformation gathering is being studied. Only the best will be selected for installation across the State.

In addition, alternative means of collection of weather information (for example, radar data for precipitation estimates) are being examined, according to Dr. William Dugas, agricultural meteorologist at Temple.

Meanwhile, crop growth "models" are being developed that can be used with weather and climate information for predictive purposes.

These "models" are really detailed production systems that contain every factor that goes into crop or livestock production.

By incorporating crop growth and weather models into economic models, more realistic economic assessments can be made of production systems.

This systems approach will provide a more realistic assessment of the feasibility of new, efficient water-use systems in areas of limited water availability where usual irrigation techniques are not suitable.

Imagine in the future, the automatic machines continuously collecting weather information across the state and feeding it into computors for both long and short-range analysis.

The weather analysis will then be compared, with incredible swiftness, to the livestock and crop production models in the computers for advice to producers on which crop to plant, irrigation duration and frequency, insect control, fertilization amount, harvesting advice, marketing options, and a multitude of other types of informations.

The information base in the computers will be refined as research by Experiment Station scientists develops additional data.

This won't take all the risk out of production by our food and fiber producers but it will change the odds and enable farmers and ranchers to adjust production practices for the best chance of success, based on climate and weather events.

Scientists involved in developing this expanded research area, Weather Information for Crop Production, say it will result in improved information to producers for decision making, reduce production risks, improve water use efficiency, and improve crop yields.

All of us, as consumers, will benefit from a more secure supply of additional food and fiber.

It is this spirit of community interest and concern that will enable Aransas Pass to flourish in the future.

It has been my pleasure to serve as President of the Chamber of Commerce for this year. The members and directors have been enthusiastic and eager to help in whatever capacity they were asked.

Once again, welcome to Shrimporee and may you return home safely from your visit to Aransas Pass, Shrimp Capital of the World.

Family tree of Shrimporee

A history

By Laura Simank
Associate Editor

Welcome to the 33rd annual celebration of Shrimporee, a time of thanksgiving, pageantry and fun.

Shrimporee, since its birth in 1949, has had a central binding theme in the community's economic dependence on the shrimping industry and the age old romantic fascination with the sea.

From 1949 to 1951, the celebration was known as "Democracy Beats Communism," a name that reflected the post war feeling that embraced the entire country.

"Democracy Beats Communism" was first chaired and organized by R.D. Hatch, Sr., then city attorney for Aransas Pass and now San Patricio County Attorney.

He was aided by John Ben Shepperd, who had successfully carried out a similar celebration in his hometown of Gladewater up in East Texas.

In 1949, the dates were August 12-14 and consisted predominantly of patriotic addresses by such noteables as then San Patricio County Judge William E. Nicholas, who told a group of ladies that they should be prepared for the eventuality of being called upon to serve on juries.

Other speakers were State Senator John H. Bell and Rev. Lester Roloff.

Hatch recalled that the fish houses on the waterfront provided free boiled and fried shrimp to the public at which the patriotic addresses were given.

This 1981 Shrimporee is being sponsored by the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce but has not always been. The Aransas Pass Jaycees, the Woman's Club and a group who called themselves the Shrimp Clan have taken turns at different times in sponsoring the traditional celebration.

The only thing about Shrimporee that has remained the same throughout the 32 years of the celebration is its central theme, that of the shrimping industry's impact on this coastal community.

Everything about the annual event has undergone changes of one kind or another through the years.

Without changes, however, Shrimporee would not have matured from its infancy to its present state of adulthood.

Some years have seen other events combined with Shrimporee to enhance its importance and swell its crowds as in 1950 when firemen shared the limelight of "Democracy Beats Communism" with their quarterly convention of the South Central District Firemen's Association.

That year, pumper races were held in addition to the luncheons and patriotic addresses. The pumper races were won by the Alice firefighters team with a time of 20.9 seconds.

Firemen from Sinton won the Paris rule race with a time of 23.9 seconds and a team from Edinburg won the comparison pumper race with their record time of 17 seconds flat.

Humerous contests were held and a fireworks display was all part of the three day festival. Traditional blessing of the shrimp fleet was considered to be the highlight of the second annual "Democracy Beats Communism" celebration in Aransas Pass.

In the early years, the seafood industry offered free boiled and fried shrimp at their open houses.

R.D. Hatch recalled one instance where a lady, obviously visiting from further inland, had eaten a considerable amount of boiled shrimp, peels and all.

Oscar Galjour reportedly peeled one for her and offered it to her suggesting that she "try it the way we like it." It is further reported that she reponded, "Yes, I think I do like it better your way."

The parade of 1951 saw Thomas Jefferson High School of San Antonio place first, Port Lavaca second and Odem third in the marching band competition.

The most attractive float title went to the Fiesta Association of San Antonio and the Lone Star Beer float took second.

R.G. Kindle, president of the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce in 1951, made it a point to express his thanks and appreciation to all committees and workers whose efforts contributed to the celebration's success.

In June of 1951, plans began for the next celebration and it was decided that it would be held on October 26-28. The name of the celebration would be Annual Homecoming and Blessing of the Fleet.

That year, as in years to come, the event featured the blessing of the shrimp fleet, a free fish fry, free boat rides and numerous other attractions.

It was in May of 1952 that Shrimporee was given the name that it now bears. It was believed that the new name was good because it was short and, according to a story in the May 15, 1952 issue of The Progress, "the name Shrimporee depicts the city's major industry, 'shrimp.' It is believed

Shrimporee Queen had busy year

Cindy Haskett

Queen Shrimporee for 1980 has been a particular source of pride for Aransas Pass and the Chamber of Commerce.

City Haskett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Haskett of Aransas Pass, has reigned this year as Queen Shrimporee with charm and grace, riding the city's float in nearly two dozen parades, representing the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Haskett has been an active student in her years in Aransas Pass Schools culminating in being a letter student in the band, a twirler in the school year 1977-78, co-captain of the flagline in 1979-80 and cheerleader in 1980-81.

She has been a registered girl scout for 11 years, being awarded the rank of first class at age 13.

She has displayed outstanding talent in music, singing and gymnastics since her early childhood. She took piano lessons for nine years and won the Beethoven, Bach and Sonatina awards for musical achievement.

Miss Haskett apparently cut her teeth on beauty pageants, so to speak. She has been entered in and placed highly in beauty pageants since she was a child.

She represented Aransas Pass in the Miss South Texas Pageant for the Miss Texas Contest as Queen Shrimporee placing third.

She placed first in the Miss Shrimp Tot when she was three and as the years progressed, she became first runner up in Miss Shrimpette, Miss Shrimp Petite and entered the 1966 National Childrens Photo Contest. She also competed in the Miss Texas Teen USA.

To be elected Queen Shrimporee, she raised a total of $2,777.77 at one penny per vote. The sources of this amount were three junior high dances, one country/western dance at the Ingleside VFW, four bake sales and a drawing for two paintings at Ingleside and Aransas Pass.

The amount that Miss Haskett raised was more than half of the total amount turned over to the Chamber of Commerce by all four of the Queen candidates combined.

As Queen Shrimporee she attended grand openings of new businesses, was Santa's helper at Christmas and was on call to speak on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce.

She plans to enter Texas Women's University as a music/drama major and a physical education minor. She holds a regional medal in gymnastics and was a member of the state choir.

The City of Aransas Pass and the Chamber of Commerce would like to take this opportunity to wish Cindy Haskett, Queen Shrimporee for 1980, the very best in her future endeavors.

Dick Hatch to lead parade

The 33rd annual Shrimporee Parade is being led by the Honorable Richard D. (Dick) Hatch, county attorney of San Patricio County.

Hatch has recently reached the 30th anniversary of his career as a prosecutor.

He first came to Aransas Pass in 1949 and became the organizer and chairman of the first Shrimporee celebration that was then known as "Democracy Beats Communism."

He began his duties as city attorney for the City of Aransas Pass in 1950 and continued in that capacity until assuming his present duties in February of 1970. Hatch was president of the Texas City Attorney's Association in 1958-59.

He and his wife, Katherine have two sons. One of them has a law practice in Aransas Pass and the other is a PA in Virginia.

In recalling the early years of Shrimporee, Hatch says that he called on the help of John Ben Sheppard who was then running for the office of Governor of Texas to help with the planning the three day celebration that would become a tradition and make Aransas Pass a noteable community on the map.

Hatch said that he remembers his friends, Hal Parks and W.H. Taylor staying up all night before the celebration to pour the concrete slab on the sea wall that was used for a dance floor.

Another of his rememberences the early years of Shrimporee is that all the fish houses along the waterfront held open houses, adding, "There were hundreds of people eating their fill of boiled and fried shrimp courtesy of the fish houses on the waterfront. It was a community wide celebration."

Hatch says that he looks forward to retirement when his current term as county attorney expires in 1984. But the humanitarian side of him characteristically shows in the quote he gave to the August issue of the Prosecutors Coordinating Council Newletter.

He said, "I would continue to use my legal talents in some other capacity to help people."

Richard D. (Dick) Hatch has given many years to the city of Aransas Pass and to the Shrimporee celebration. It is with pride and gratitude for all that he has done that we present him to you as Grand Marshall of the 1981 Shrimporee Parade.

★ Honors set for Admiral Wright ★

Shrimporee Parade Chairman Gary Boehnke has announced that this year's Shrimporee parade will have a special honored guest.

Rear Admiral W.L. (Bull) Wright, USN retired, is being honored this year with a special place in the 33rd annual Shrimporee parade.

The Shrimporee celebration began in 1949 and was called "Democracy Beats Communism." Admiral Wright spent 26 years on active duty with the U.S. Navy doing his part to beat the tyranny of communism and defending our right to gather and enjoy celebrations like Shrimporee.

The Corpus Christi native is a real source of pride to Aransas Pass, giving residents a real live war hero to look up to, admire and honor.

He entered the U.S. Navy as an apprentice seaman in 1920 and the next year entered the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis where he graduated as an Ensign in 1925.

In 1928 he attended submarine school in New London, Conn.

During his active naval career he served on battleships, cruisers, gunboats, destroyers and submarines, as he saw duty in Europe, Australia, the Orient and South America.

When WWII started he was a commander of a submarine in Manila. When the war ended, he was back in Manila, but this time as Chief of Staff for submarines.

At the onset of WWII, he was in command of the famous submarine, USS Sturgeon. In the one year that Admiral Wright was in command of that boat, he sunk the first Japanese carrier and seven other large Japanese ships.

For these feats, the U.S. Navy awarded him the Legion of Merit, The Bronze Star, the Silver Star and two Navy Crosses, the second highest honor in the nation.

Wright was also decorated by the Army with a Distinguished Unit Citation from General MacArthur for rescuing soldiers from the island of Corregidor which guarded the entrance of Manila Bay.

The nickname "Bull" was pinned on Wright because of one of his many exciting experiences during the war.

The story is told that he was in command of a boat that had been ordered to leave where it was and proceed to the nearest friendly point south of Manila.

As Admiral Wright put it, "In those days, the friendly points were getting farther and farther away so I started through the Mindoro Passage at night. The Japs had the islands on both sides of us."

He continued, "We had safely traveled about half way through going no more than about 20 mph when my communications officer suddenly ran on board with an urgent message from the high command saying that the passage was mined and we should not attempt passage through it."

Wright went on to say that he could not turn around so they had to keep going the remaining 15 miles, inching along expecting to hit a mine any minute.

He said that they did make it through only to find out a few days later that the message had been false. There were no mines in the passage and had never been any.

Admiral Wright set an example for the men under his command all through his career of not turning back. He once said, "War is a funny thing. I believe that a country should do everything it can to avoid going into war, but once a country does get into a war, it should do everything it can to win it. If there is no winner, there is no decision."

Aransas Pass is proud to have Admiral W.L. (Bull) Wright among it's residents. He continues to contribute to the legacy of this growing city, just as he contributed to the legacy of this great nation.

Admiral Wright, we salute you on this the 60th anniversary of your entrance to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

BLESSING OF THE FLEET is a highlight each year of the Aransas Pass Shrimporee. Here Kay Wolf, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, holds a wreath used in last year's event. Participants in the blessing included Fr. Bob DeWolfe (L) and Father James Hamilton.

that the name is one that will be appropriate for the celebration now and in years to come and that it will soon gain areawide recognition."

Hal Parks, general chairman of the Shrimporee for that year and his friends did not know how right they would be. Shrimporee in 1980 drew crowds in excess of four times the city's population.

Shrimporee and Aransas Pass have received publicity in nationwide travel magazines as another of the founding fathers prophicies came true.

Featured events were greater in number in 1952 with the addition of street dances, a bathing beauty revue and a cyclecade. All of these events are still a part of Shrimporee today.

The 1952 celebration, held in August, saw the crowning of King Shrimporee, Murray Mobley, skipper of the "VE Day." It was customary for the identity of the King to be kept secret until the actual coronation ceremony.

Charles W. Marshall, a name that is found deeply rooted in the Shrimporee celebration, was president of the Chamber of Commerce.

He had the pleasure of crowning Miss Mary Barecky as Queen Shrimporee for 1952.

Back in those years a King Shrimporee was crowned and was selected on the basis of owners of boats who offloaded the most shrimp.

In 1955, the celebration was held in July as part of the Independence Day celebration on July 2-4. The three day event was under the directorship of Eugene Webster, C.W. Marshall and Jack Johnson. It was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. King and Queen Shrimporee were Mr. and Mrs. C.O. Robert.

In 1954, the warm July sun once more covered the crowd estimated at more 7,000. Waterfront dealers and individuals treated the crowd to 1,500 pounds of boiled shrimp which were prepared and served free during the day. Visitors were also treated to boat rides.

In 1956, the Aransas Pass Jaycees sponsored the celebration and King and Queen Shrimporee and Mr. and Mrs. Miller Darce. Darce owned and operated the trawler, "Captain Grumpy."

Bill Ellis was master of ceremonies for the beauty revue as it was called then. Barbara Martin of Corpus Christi was first place winner in the senior division;

Judy Blackmon was winner of the subteen division and Carol Ann Brewster was named in the junior division.

Janice Kay Hagy claimed first place in the tiny tot division. She is now Mrs. Jeffery Holden, the owner of a local children's wear store and a director in the 1981 Board of Directors of the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce. She is in charge of the cyclecade contest for this year's Shrimporee.

The ministers participating in the blessing of the shrimp fleet in 1956 were Rt. Rev. Msgr. William H. Oberste of Our Lady of Refuge Catholic Church in Refugio and the vicar general of the diocese of Corpus Christi Knights of Columbus honor guard.

Rev. Patrick Doherty, Rev. Gregory A. Boensch of St. Mary's Star of the Sea Catholic church and Rev. Robert Ulrich.

The best decorated boat in the blessing parade in Conn Brown Harbor was the "Long Island" owned and operated by Lawrence Frakich.

The year 1957 was not unlike the previous nor was 1958. The Jaycees sponsored the three-day event both of those years.

In 1959, the King Shrimporee candidates were Johnny Nelson, Puck O'Neil, Al Wilkerson, Wilson Wehring and Barney Sanders who was crowned to reign over the September 4, 5 and 6 festivities.

Sissy Sims of Port Aransas was named Miss Shrimporee and her runners up were Brenda Roell of Corpus Christi and Sharon Sykes of Ingleside.

The subteen division in 1959 was won by Kathy Balzar, the junior division by Cynthia Ann McCrory and the tiny tot contest by Gwendolyn Kay Fahrenthold, who is now Mrs. John Bowers of Aransas Pass.

Justice of the Peace Martin Haskett recalled that in 1960 there was almost a breech of military protocol. It seems that it is customary for the oldest branch of the service to appear first in a parade when more than one branch is represented.

Haskett said that the Fourth Army Band from Fort Sam Houston was invited to lead the parade and when the breech of etiquete was realized, it was solved by allowing the Coast Guard color guard to lead the band. The Coast Guard is an older branch of the military than the Army.

Haskett and his family have deep roots in the Shrimporee celebration and have had since 1958. He was a member of group of citizens who took over sponsorship of the celebration in the early 1960's.

He said that the Shrimp Clan charter stated that the Clan's purpose would be to "bring in business and industry from an economic standpoint." He added that it was also expected to be a patriotic, social, fraternal, athletic and aesthetic undertaking to benefit the entire community.

In 1962, Melvin Beyer was chairman of the board of the Shrimp Clan and Hallie Ruth Lewis served as its secretary.

Haskett said that in the early 1960's the Shrimp Clan would go out with shrimp boats completely outfitted with beverages for the entire crew and catch all the shrimp to be given away the next day.

He said that in those days it cost less than $3,000 for the three day event with the time and boat expenses donated by the boat owners.

Haskett laughingly recalled that one year he received a certificate of appreciation from the Southern Texas District of the U.S. Navy for an entry in the boat parade in Conn Brown Harbor.

He related, "In 1962 we got an armored personel carrier with two soldiers dressed in confederate uniforms to accompany it. We mounted a small cannon on the APC and drove it off into the waters of Conn Brown Harbor and joined the boat parade." He added that it was a real hit with the crowd.

The 1963 Shrimporee got about two-inches of rain that did not damper the spirits of the festival goers. It has rained on Shrimporee in several of the past years but, thankfully, bad weather has never been the cause of cancellation.

In 1963, the King of Shrimporee was Decator D. Hankins, captain of the "Lyco X" which had offloaded 71,227 pounds of shrimp.

That was also the year that Mayor Conn Brown declared a holiday for parking meters. Haskett said that Bill Roth of Lone Star Beer covered the twon with public relations people and sound trucks. "Roth has always been a big supporter of Shrimporee," added Haskett.

For many years, Shrimporee was held on Labor Day but it was changed because of the problem of getting high school bands on that holiday before school started.

It was also in the early 1960's that the fire department sponsored a rodeo each day. New features became part of the celebration such as a merchants bazaar and boat races. There was a return of the children's perch derby, helicopter shows and shrimp boils.

Shrimporee 1965 was held in June. Miss Shrimporee was Suzanne DeMouche. First runner up was Shirley Shannon and third runner up was Angelika Lange. All three girls were from Portland.

King Shrimporee that year was Fred A. Trowbridge, skipper of the Trawler, "Southern Pride."

The blessing of the fleet took place at the end of the event as it had in most of the years of the past. In 1965, Rev. Fr. Thomas L. Meany of St. Mary's Star of the Sea Catholic Church officiated with an interpretive commentary by Larry White. White was a student for the priesthood and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Winston White of Aransas Pass.

Jr. Miss Shrimporee was Dorothy Ann Bruton, Miss Shrimp Pre-Teen was Deborah Ann Gum and Miss Shrimporee Subteen was Sherry Giles.

This was also the year that the City of Aransas Pass celebrated its 75th birthday with a diamond jubilee at Shrimporee. In honor of the birthday, a time capsule was buried in Newbury Park and was to be dug up in 1990 during the city's Centenial Celebration.

Shrimporee was later discontinued, not from bad weather but from what is reported to have been a feeling on the part of some of the shrimpers that Shrimporee had lost its meaning and become too commercial.

The resumption of Shrimporee in 1969 hit a few minor snags but did work out to be a good year for the town and the celebration.

One of the snags had to do with bingo. It was decided that bingo would not be held as a concession at the carnival, when city officials expressed opposition to the idea. The objections were raised in spite of the fact that the games were played for prizes instead of money and the sponsorship was by a non-profit organization.

Ann Markley was chairman for the waterfront activities that year and reported that she ran up against a "stone wall" in attempting to get the cooperation of the shrimping industry.

Later that year, things were worked out to the satisfaction of all concerned and the celebration was revived with the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce voting to sponsor it.

Ollie Otten was named to head a special committee on arrangements. He was empowered to set up a working group to plan the event and it was decided to hold Shrimporee for an entire week.

Among the events planned were boat races, a fish fry, amusements for the children, a golf tournament, naming of a King and Queen, band concerts, an air show and the usual beauty pageants.

This was also the year that the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce voted to eliminate Port Aransas from the association's official name.

Plans were underway in Port Aransas to form a separate Chamber of Commerce. For many years, the Aransas Pass and Port Aransas Chambers of Commerce had been one.

The 1970 Shrimporee drew a crowd that was estimated to be between 8,00 and 10,000. It was termed the best ever and a tremendous success. There was a fireworks display at midnight on closing day and the Sons of Texas played for the street dance.

That year the celebration lasted for nine days from May 9 to May 17 and featured a total of 25 events. This was the year of the official dedication of the Seaman's Memorial Tower that stands at the mouth of the harbor.

There was the fleet blessing, two shrimp boils, a carnival, a street dance, an air-sea rescue demonstration, boat parade, street parade, fishing tournament and beauty pageant.

In 1970 Queen Shrimporee was Pat

Galjour and King Shrimporee was David Gentry. It was the first year for the Shrimporee style show co-chaired by Mrs. Wendell Roberts, Mrs. R.C. Thwing and Mrs. Hugh C. Jackson.

The shrimp eating contest of 1972 had 10 contestants but one disqualified.

Albert E. Gaether was entered by the Portland Chamber of Commerce. The name had been given to a 250-pound alligator that was seven feet long. Neither of these facts, however, was the reason for disqualification. The shrimp eating officials found fault with "Albert" having two sets of teeth.

Bobby Ousley of Port Aransas, who had only one set of teeth, won the event with his consumption of 4¾ pounds of boiled, headed shrimp.

The crowd of approximately 7,000 consumed in excess of 500 pounds of fish at a free fish fry at the foot of the Seaman's Memorial Tower, despite winds that gusted at 27 mph.

Dan Murrow won the shrimp eating contest in 1973 with his total of 2½ pounds eaten in 30 minutes.

King Shrimporee was Andy Allen and Queen Shrimporee was Patricia Gilden. Miss Shrimporee was Becky Young of Corpus Christi.

In 1974, Shrimporee honored the Coast Guard as more than 400 Coast Guardsmen and their families attended. The Coast Guard was incorporated into each individual event, and the celebration lasted only one day as opposed to the three and more days for previous years.

That year the celebration was dedicated to six Coast Guardsmen who had lost their lives in September of 1973 while attempting to rescue crewmen lost overboard a shrimp trawler.

There were 10 entrants in the shrimp eating contest and 80 girls in the beauty pageant. Larry Sibley ate 3½ pounds of shrimp to win the 1974 championship.

The 1975 Shrimporee included an open house at the nursing home and a bowling marathon was held. There were 80 entrants in the beauty pageant and a children's rally was held.

A softball tournament was held at the 1977 celebration in May. In addition to the shrimp eating contest, there was a crab race and a gumbo cookoff.

This was the 25th birthday of Shrimporee. Country recording artist Buddy White was featured in the entertainment and Joe Diamond and the Blue Diamonds played for the street dance.

The Winkles dancers gave an exhibition of round dancing and Bob Herndon and his sons performed their famous snake show.

There were 68 young ladies in the beauty contest and children from 8-12 enjoyed a slowpitch softball tournaments.

Shrimporee has felt its growing pains over the years but has not undergone any major changes except in the people who have put it together and given tirelessly of themselves for the annual community effort.

The shrimping industry is a major economic factor in the economy of Aransas Pass and it is to this that Shrimporee is dedicated.

A special thanks is in order to those have been active for many years and whom the younger planners may turn for advice and help when needed.

The Shrimporee veterans of all the past years are a particular breed of folks that receive pleasure out of long hours and hard work that has to be put in to make Shrimporee the nationally-known attraction that it has become.

Shrimporee is a tradition that has been gently cared for and handed down through the community generations since its birth in 1949.

It will continue to be observed and handed down as an endowment to future generations charging them with the responsibility to always remember the gifts of the sea and their obligation to defend and protect that precious bounty.

Thanks to the generous cooperation of the shrimping industry in Aransas Pass, Shrimporee 1981 is expected to break attendance and be the most impressive festival of its kind anywhere.

Editor's Note: Research for the Shrimporee history was done with the cooperation and assistance of the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce. Special thanks to Kay Wolf and Mary Fahrenthold.

CUB SCOUTS fill just about every inch of this popular float in last year's Shrimporee Parade. The parade spells excitement each year not only for the scores of participants but also for the spectators who line downtown Commercial St. to gaze at the myriad floats, bands, and clowns that provide the touch of magic to spring a parade to life. Long hours have again been spent this year to assure a festive parade extravaganza.

Shrimporee -- fun for the whole family
