Brill Says He Was Shanghaied To An Altar By Spouse

(By The Associated Press)

VENTURA, Calif., July 1—William Brill II, wealthy Los Angeles sportsman, testified that Nan Pierson Brooks Macy Brill, of the New York blue book, shanghaied him to the altar last March 29 after 14 hours of continuous drinking.

During those hours, another witness said, he imbibed two bottles of beer, 10 glasses of whisky and soda and three quarts of champagne.

Case Is Closed

The case, in which young Brill is asking an annulment of the marriage to the pretty easterner came to its close yesterday.

Judge Edward Henderson took it under submission.

"My mind was a blank," Brill testified. "I don't remember going to Yuma, signing the license, talking to the judge or marrying anybody."

"Was the marriage consummated," the judge asked.

Brill said it was and Mrs. Brill's attorney, S. S. Hahn, asked if his mind was a blank at that time, too. Brill said it was not.

Brill said he woke up the previous morning in his automobile in San Diego. He said he had no recollection of having met Mrs. Macy in

Two Men Are Being Held In Inquiry

Scion Of Prominent Family In Los Angeles Nabbed In Drunken Stupor At Home

(By The Associated Press)

INGLEWOOD, Cal., July 1.—Two men, one the scion of a prominent Los Angeles family, the other a transient ex-convict, were held today in connection with the brutal kidnap-murder of three young girls.

The ex-convict, Luther Dow, 33, was charged with suspicion of murder after he was identified as the man who played with the three victims before they disappeared last Saturday.

Name Is Withheld

Officials withheld the name of the other chief suspect. Captain William Penprase of the sheriff's office said he was removed in a drunken stupor from his home to an Inglewood hospital late last night.

The man has been under scrutiny and his home closely guarded since last Monday Penprase said, when he returned home with boody clothing and in a semi-hysterical condition.

He remained in his home drinking heavily. Last night officers went into the house and removed him to the hospital in a critical condition from alcoholism.

Must Report On Actions

When the man's mind clears, he will be asked to give an account of his actions over the week-end.

A crowd of 2,000 irate citizens pressed about the Inglewood city hall last night as Dow was transferred there from the Los Angeles central police station.

Dow was arrested yesterday in Los Angeles. He carried a woman's handkerchief which Mrs. Merle Everett, mother of two of the slain children, said resembled one of hers she believed one of her daughters had when she was abducted.

Identified By Women

Later, Dow was confronted by Mrs. Jenny Vice and Mrs. Helen Diard, of Inglewood, and both women identified him as the man they saw playing with the murdered children in Centinela park last Saturday.

The victims, Madeline Everett, 7, her sister, Melba, 9, and Jeanette Stephens, 8, stepped into an automobile Saturday with a man who said he would take them rabbit hunting.

Last Monday, their bruised bodies were found lying face down in a gulch in the Baldwin hills sector.

Rusted Key Is Found

Two park employes, Haskell Wright and Kenneth Highlander, however, did not identify Dow.

On Dow's person was found a rusted roller skate key which Don Oliver, police officer and uncle of the Everett children, said was similar to one he gave the girls several months ago.

The prisoner's clothing was full of burrs and grass which police hemists removed for comparison with the vegetation found near the scene of the crimes.

Plants Reopen; Three Firms Still Locked

Question Of Who Won Strike Still Unanswered; No Truce With CIO Signed By Trio

(By The Associated Press)

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., July 1. — The steel strike ended today, so far as Inland Steel and its 12,500 employes here are concerned, but who "won the strike" was very much a moot question.

The mills reopened today under an agreement by which CIO is recognized as the bargaining agent for its members only.

Militia Demobilized

Governor M. Clifford Townsend announced the settlement late last night. He immediately demobilized militia which he had called out only a few hours before.

There was no break in the strike as it affects the three other "little steel" corporations—Bethlehem, Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. President Frank Purnell of the latter company, which has plants in this steel making area, stated early today:

"We will sign no agreements with CIO."

Neither, for that matter, did Inland Steel.

The Inland settlement was on the basis of agreements between the steel company and the governor and the union and the governor.

Terms Are Declined

Governor Townsend, after long conferences that lasted well past midnight, said that Youngstown Sheet & Tube had declined to accept similar terms.

Sheet & Tube, the governor added, asked him to remobilize the national guard as protection for its workers here. He refused to do so, whereupon the company cancelled its plans to reopen today.

The settlement of the Inland Steel strike was on these terms:

1. No discrimination.
2. Inland steel's labor policy of May 29 date "and the statement attached thereto" will be carried out.
3. All grievances "within the scope of the labor policy of May 29" to be settled in the manner provided in that policy, with the Indiana commissioner of labor as "final" authority if other settlement proves unsatisfactory.

Others Strike-Ridden

The plant of Youngstown Sheet & Tube, with its 6,500 employes, and Republic's mills in this same Calumet area remain strike-ridden.

The strike still grips Ohio's Mahoning valley, with its smoke-grimed mills at Youngstown, Warren and Niles, at Canton, Massillon and Cleveland; and in Johnstown, Pa., where the dynamiting of Bethlehem Steel corporation pipelines earlier this week forced a temporary shutdown after the mills had reopened.

At Johnstown, the CIO leader, James Mark, ignored a "suggestion" of the mayor that he leave town, and called a huge union rally for July 4 "to show that we can get 40,000 men to Johnstown." The sheriff there, Michael Boyle, conferred with Mark and other strike leaders early today, and then said there was "no reason" to ask for a return of martial law in Johnstown as requested by Mark.

Canton strike leaders are still debating the advisability of calling a general strike there in protest against the reopening of steel mills yesterday. Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube report such a back-to-work movement in the Mahoning valley as to bring production virtually up to its pre-strike basis.

Gus Hall, the Warren CIO organizer who has been named in police charges as "master mind," of a dynamite terrorism campaign, telegraphed the police he would surrender; but that the charges were "an unadulterated frameup." Three strikers who are said to have made confessions naming Hall as the dynamite plotter, are being held under heavy bond.

Hobbs Bone Dry Today; Liquor Dealers Protest Tax; Close Until After City Election

(By The Associated Press)

HOBBS, N. M., July 1.—This oil boom town was bone dry today by the vote of the liquor dealers themselves.

Every liquor dispensary of the city was locked tight and operators said they would remain closed until after a city election July 30.

The operators closed their doors in protest against $1,500 licenses. Permits for 1936-37 expired at 12 last night.

Tri-Power Monetary Pact To Remain In Force Despite French Finance Crisis

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Secretary Morgenthau announced today that the tri-power monetary agreement will be continued despite the financial crisis in France.

Calling reporters to an early-morning press conference, the treasury secretary made public a communication to Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, saying that this country looks forward "to a continuation of close cooperation between our treasuries under the tri-partite declaration."

Prevent Sharp Fluctuations

The monetary understanding, effected last September by Great Britain, France and the United States pledges participating nations to use stabilization funds to prevent sharp fluctuations in international exchange.

The stabilization funds buy and sell currency to raise or lower its value and maintain steady money relationships.

Morgenthau said he had been in constant touch with British and French financial authorities during the French crisis, which was climaxed last night with a French parliamentary decision to grant the Chautemps government emergency power over finances and action freeing the franc from its gold peg.

Morgenthau told reporters there had been "no changes in any technical arrangements under the agreement."

This statement indicated that participating nations would continue to permit the free movement of gold between their central banks and stabilization funds.

France suspended gold payments early this week, but Morgenthau said this country had done a small amount of dealing in francs for the account of France.

This, Morgenthau said, coupled with stabilization activities of Great Britain and the United States in their own currencies, continued the agreement in full force.

Ringed by a group of his top-flight monetary advisors while he talked, the treasury secretary said that, had it not been for the agreement, serious upsets in international exchange probably would have occurred this week.

"Due to the tri-power agreement," he continued, "we have had no disturbance of any kind."

Rust Causing Wheat Loss

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 1.—Rust enemy of wheat and question mark of 1937 farm fortunes, was reported today to have spread into fields of waving grain in practically every middle western wheat belt state.

Despite revisitation of the scourge that attacked wheat so seriously in 1904, 1916 and 1935, workers with combines and threshers, edging slowly northward from the gulf as they reap the United States' biggest winter wheat crop since 1931, have had cheering results so far.

Extent Still Unknown

Grain traders here said the full extent of rust damage cannot be determined until harvest. They said farmers in whose fields the scourge has been found or whose grain has yet to catch the flying spores hope only for cool, dry weather to minimize damage and check spread.

H. O. Donovan, a widely recognized crop expert, said he found black rust on winter wheat throughout parts of northwest Kansas, northern Missouri and central Illinois to be bordering on calamity because prospective damage ranged all the way from 10 percent in hard winter wheat to 80 percent in soft wheat. Some fields will not be harvested.

Mrs. R. H. Miller, another expert, said wheat across central Illinois, northern Missouri, eastern Kansas and southeastern Nebraska has been damaged badly.

Promotion Of FDR's Aides Is Blocked By Lack Of Notary

(By The Associated Press)

WILMINGTON, Del., July 1—President Roosevelt is not a notary public to three of his White House aides had to wait until one could be found today before becoming full-fledged presidential secretaries.

Stephen T. Early and Marvin H. McIntyre, assistant secretaries, and James Roosevelt, administrative assistant, became full secretaries at $10,000 a year under the independent offices appropriation act.

They were to have taken the oath last night on the president's special train at the depot near Wilmington, but after the president and James arrived an hour late from the Du Pont reception, it was explained the president, who was to have officiated, was without authority to administer the oath.

Hence, McIntyre may try to find a stray notary during the president's stay at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Early and James probably will take the oath in Washington.

New Series Of Secret Trials To Be Started In Germany

BERLIN, July 1. (AP)—A new series of secret trials of Congregational church leaders in Germany will be started tomorrow on charges of violating a government decree prohibiting the reading from pulpits of the names of persons who have left the church.

Both the press and pubic will be barred from the trials of the Rev. Gerhard Jacobi, pastor of the fashionable Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial church in Berlin, two other pastors and a legal advisor.

Young Newlyweds Honeymooning After Wedding Wednesday

WILMINGTON, Del., July 1. (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., and Ethel Du Pont were man and wife today, honeymooning in secrecy after a rich but simple wedding.

Japs, Russians Are Prepared For Break

Immediate Withdrawal Of All Russian Troops Demanded; Soviets To Hold Fast

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, July 1. — Emperor Hirohito called upon high defense heads today for the facts in the Russo-Japanese crisis after a Japanese cabinet decision that only the immediate withdrawal of Soviet fighters and gunboats from the disputed Amur river border lands could effect a peaceful settlement.

In an uneasy atmosphere of official silence, indicating a ban on dispatches from the trouble zone that lies between Soviet Siberia and Japanese-sponsored Manchoukuo, the armies of Japan and the so-called "puppet state" were announced to be prepared for any eventuality.

Troops On Move

From both sides of the frontier were reports of mass troop movements after a naval-artillery burst of violence—some Japanese newspaper divisions said the Soviets had mobilized 300,000 in thirteen divisions of their vast far eastern red army, supported by planes, armored cars and tanks.

The mikado, after the cabinet meeting, called Navy Minister Admiral Yonai to his palace to give him the newest developments. These developments, presumably, were contained in secret army and navy dispatches.

(In Moscow, the Japanese ambassador warned the Soviet government in strong tones to evacuate its armed forces from the vicinity of Manchoukuo-claimed Amur river islands, which really are sandbanks that vanish at flood tide.)

Strong Warning Is Given Russia By Ambassador

MOSCOW, July 1 (AP)—Japan's ambassador to Moscow, Mamoru Shigemitsu, pressed today his empire's demand that Russian troops be immediately withdrawn from the disputed Amur river islands.

Both Japan and Russia exchanged sharp protests after yesterday's clash

Substitute To Be Proposed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 1—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said today he was drafting a substitute for the Roosevelt court bill for probable introduction tomorrow.

He declined to discuss the terms of his measure, but colleagues said it was based on the idea of adding one justice a year to the supreme court for each justice over 75.

Formal Abandonment

Introduction of this substitute will mark the formal abandonment of the fight for the original Roosevelt proposal by senate administration forces.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) and other foes have said for weeks they could beat the original Roosevelt bill, and that any compromise which might gain enough votes to win would meet with a filibuster.

Senate leaders, who have been negotiating for a compromise such as Robinson has been drafting, have said it would get at least 54 votes in the senate, or five more than a majority.

Jones Says Millions To Be Spent In Great Plains

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP)—Representative Marvin Jones, Amarillo, Tex., said yesterday he felt sure at least $10,000,000 of the appropriation contained in the relief bill signed by President Roosevelt would be spent on construction of dams and reservoirs in the Great Plains area.

He said details would be worked out later and that there was no way of knowing now how much would be spent in the Texas Panhandle.

Accidents Cost United States Staggering Bill During 1936

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 1—Accidents cost the United States a grim toll of 111,000 lives and a staggering bill of $3,700,000,000 in 1936, the National Safety Council estimated today.

Its annual summary of accident facts said such fatalities of all types exceeded by more than 10,000 the 1935 total —99,967.

It noted 10,750,000 persons were injured accidentally, one every three seconds last year. 400,000 were permanently disabled, and an accidental death occurred every five minutes.

Approximately half of the increase was ascribed to last summer's severe heat wave.

Although traffic deaths were counted by the safety council at a new high total of 37,800, fatal injuries to 38,500 were blamed upon carlessness in the home.

The safety council calculated that two billion dollars in wages were lost in 1936 by accident victims, that hospital and medical expense amounted to $450,000,000, insurance costs were $200,000,000, excluding claims paid, property damage in motor vehicle accidents were $820,000,000, and fire losses $2993,000,000.

Arizona had the highest fatal accident rate—165.5 deaths per 100,000 inhabitants; Rhode Island's rate was lowest—59.8 per 100,000.

Bandits Take Advantage Of "Pay Day;" Stage Regular "Field Day" In Santone

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, July 1.—Lawlessness took advantage of "pay day" to stage a "field day" here last night.

W. J. West was held up within a block of police headquarters by two men who robbed him of $14 as he started to enter his parked automobile.

Beaten Over Head

Melton Dean, truck driver for a brewing company, was beaten over the head with pistols by two bandits who forced him to drive them into the country and robbed him of $38 and his truck.

The driver was found unconscious on the Seguin highway, seven miles from the city, by a passing motorist and carried to the county hospital.

Private J. E. Sutherland of the headquarters company, 23rd infantry, reported that he was held up by a negro man and woman and robbed of $15. He said the man held a knife on him while the woman rifled his pockets.

Watch Is Taken

A wrist watch and 35 cents were taken from Frank Andrea by two robbers who held him up near his home.

A knife-wielding negro woman held up Private E. L. Savage of Company G, ninth infantry, and robbed him of $18, the soldier reported to detectives.

Police chalked up one triumph over robbers shortly before midnight when they arrested a 17-year-old boy as he climbed into a parked automobile and tried to start the motor.

Tension Is Reported Growing As Higher Wages Are Asked

EDINBURG, July 1. (AP)—Peace officers were on the alert today for signs of friction between cotton farmers and union-minded cotton pickers whose leaders have sought more money for harvesting the Rio Grande valley's bumper crop.

Chief of Police S. B. Bledsoe of Weslaco said last night tension was growing throughout the valley between growers determined to pay 60 cents per 100 pounds, and labor organizers demanding $1.

Twelve Millions Available To Texas For Highway Work

AUSTIN, July 1. (AP)—A total of $12,273,957 became available for Texas highway improvements today from the federal government which is beginning its new fiscal year.

State highway commission officials said, however, the money probably would not be touched until after Sept. 1 when the new state fiscal year will make matching funds available.

Train Is Delayed Here Today As Result Of Freight Wreck

The morning Santa Fe passenger train from Sweetwater was expected to arrive at Lubbock at 12:15 this afternoon, almost four hours late, because of damage officials said was occasioned by a freight section running off the tracks sometime Wednesday night near Justiceburg.

R. F. Bayless, passenger agent, said officials here did not know "more details pending arrival of the passenger train."

It has been learned unofficially none was injured.

Pioneer Dies Here Today

K. J. Matthews, 72, resident of the South Plains for 40 years and one of the original settlers of Crosby county died at a Lubbock hospital about 10 o'clock this morning after a 12-day illness with heart trouble.

The body was removed to his home in Floydada and funeral services will be held at Lakeview cemetery near there Friday morning. The Baptist Missionary church, of which he has been a member 45 years, will have charge of the services. Burial will be under direction of Harmond funeral home of Floydada.

Moves To Texas

A native of Alabama, Matthews moved to Hill county, Texas, when he was 19 years of age. Two years later he settled at Mt. Blanco, Crosby county, and engaged in farming and stock raising until failing health forced his retirement a few years ago.

Survivors include his widow and Mrs. James E. Green of Floydada, Mrs. W. A. Latta of Mt. Blanco, Mrs. J. B. Massingale of Borger, Mrs. W. R. Coggins of Dexter, N. M., and Mrs. A. T. Broyles of Salinas, Texas.

Powerful Nations Sharpening Swords And Tiny Flame Only Is Needed To Start War

BY JOHN EVANS
Associated Press Foreign Editor

Japanese and Russian guns in the wilds of Asia have startled into new fear a troubled world arming for war while it preaches peace.

Statesmen in every capital wondered whether the unofficial battle yesterday along the Amur river in Japan's foster nation Manchoukuo was the signal for a new conflict or a warning that would inspire anxious leaders with caution. The two opposing armies in that region are estimated at two-thirds of a million men.

World Forever Stewing

The sun never sets on the British empire and it shines always on some spot that may start another World war.

Tokyo and Moscow defy each other and flaunt their "rights" and their strength in a universe that already is stewing with the civil war in Spain and its complications.

Few regard the Japanese-Russian conflict as likely to lead directly and immediately to war but everyone realizes each new clash makes it easier to go further the next time.

Clouds Hang Everywhere

So many shocks have come to so many countries in the last few years that the whole world talks of war as a possible if not an inevitable explosion that will cauterize festering international sores.

War clouds hang everywhere. Sometimes they seem gray and about to disappear. Then a clash somewhere darkens them again. In the 19 yers since Germany, France and their allies laid down arms there have been such a series of difficulties that often the "peace" of those years is called a continuation of an unended war.

Spain's civil conflict is nearly one year old.

Out of it have come a network of powder-trains, there are too many nations hovering about with matches.

Spread Feared Any Day

Germany and Italy, fascist states, now have left the non-intervention control system devised by Great Britain and France and in which 27 nations cooperated. Unless there is a new remedy, British statesmen see little hope of keeping Spain from continuing to be the place where "right" and "left" political enthusiasts fight a little World war that any day may spread to other countries.

Down in the Balkans where the 1914 war began there is the same tensness and the same arming for possible trouble as elsewher... Austria still wonders if some day she will not be absorbed by a strong Germany. Hungary wants more military power and wants back the territory the "peace" treay of Versailles took from her. Rumania is making new arms contracts. Yugoslavia is restive in the Little Entent that groups here Czechoslovakia and Rumania.

Over in India a third of a billion British subjects have maintained for years a resistance to English rule that now shows itself in defiance of Britain's proposed constitution. Much of India wants independence.

Formation Of Trusts To Dodge Taxes Reported By Experts

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 1—Congressional tax investigators received testimony today that Mrs. Grenville Clark of New York saved $90,000 in taxes in one year through the use of 16 trusts.

Paul W. Bruton, internal revenue bureau attorney, identified her as the wife of a member of the law firm of Root, Clark, Buckner and Ballantine.

Bruton also testified Martin F. Tiernan, who apparently lives at Essex Falls, N. J., and Charles F. Wallace, of Westfield, N. J., had accomplished "a total reduction in their income taxes of $611,328" in 1935 and 1936 by the use of multiple trusts for the benefit of minor children.

The Clark trusts were established, Bruton said, by Mr. and Mrs. Clark and operated so that during the 1936 tax year each of their three children was the sole beneficiary of five separate trusts and also was one of the ultimate beneficiaries of an-

MRS. DIZZY DEAN: Rings Curfew For Hubby

Patsy Sounds Curfew For "Dizzy" And Won't Take "No" For An Answer

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER

NEW YORK, July 1. (AP)—Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean looks the baseball world in the eye each morning with the unbefuddled gaze of a man who's had eight hours sleep.

Who is responsible for that wide-awake look? Mrs. Jerome Herman Dean (Patsy to her friends) who usually travels around with the ball club, sounds curfew for Dizzy, and won't take "no" for an answer.

Brunette and buxom, Mrs. Dean has a high and serious concept of the duties of a baseball widow. One is to see that her husband, the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching ace, gets to bed at a reasonable hour.

The boys complain she has a habit of breaking up their card games by saying, "C'mon Diz." And Diz comes. The boys don't say much. They know Patsy's right, and if they argued, she would win.

His Chief Adviser

She is one of the most colorful wives in the big leagues. She has a definite philosophy of life, and sticks to her guns.

Every wife should be vitally concerned about her husband's advancement and future, says Mrs. Dizzy. It follows naturally that she should interest herself in his financial arrangements.

Patsy married baseball's "big windjammer" in Houston, Texas, in 1931. Since then, he has made no move without consulting her.

"Two heads are better than one," she says. "All I have ever done is to see that my husband gets everything that is coming to him.

"Baseball stars seldom get what they are worth from their club-owners without their wives' help and advice."

Part Of The Game

She calls her husband "Jay." He was born Jay Hanna Dean—named after Jay Gould, the financial, and Mark Hanna, the political leader, but changed it to "Jerome Herman" because he had a boyhood friend by that name.

Mrs. Dean's permanent home is Florida but she moves north with the Cardinals when they break camp in the spring.

"Many declare I travel with the Cardinals to keep Jay out of trouble," she says. "But that is not true. I do it because I like that sort of thing, and my husband likes to have me with him."

Patsy loves baseball with the vim of a schoolgirl playing scrub on the corner lot. And baseball loves her. She is as much a part of the great American sport as peanuts in the grandstand and the right to razz.

Attendants were Miss Louise Haner, maid of honor; Mrs. Aline Cole, matron of honor; Misses Elizabeth Brown, Melve Watson and Mildred Strader, attendants; A. J. Strader, brother of the bridegroom, best man; Eugene DePauw, Audrey Hindman and Preston Wynn, groomsmen; Glenna Ruth Adams, sister of the bride, flower girl, and Donald Gee, ring bearer.

The couple is at home here where Mr. Strader, a former Smyer resident, is manager of a service station.

E. C. Kuykendall went to Plainview this morning on business.

Ceremony Held In Residence

The marriage of Miss Juanita Hawthorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hawthorne, and Neal Smallwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Smallwood, all of Southland, took place Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. T. A. Rogers, 2111 Ninth street, with the Rev. Cecil R. Matthews, educational director at the First Methodist church, officiating.

Music for the ceremony was furnished by Miss Pauline Hawthorne, cousin of the bride, who played the wedding marches and who accompanied Kary Mathis, uncle of the bride, who sang "O Promise Me" (De Koven). She played "To A Wild Rose" (MacDowell) during the ceremony.

The bride wore a navy blue net with white accessories. Her corsage was sweetheart roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Katie Belle Hawthorne, sister of the bride, wore a pink net dress.

Only the immediate family was present.

The couple left for Midland to live, where the bridegroom is with the Firestone company.

Rapid Progress On Road Is Reported

Rapid progress is being made by state highway department men on putting down a stabilizing base on highway 15 from Seminole west to the state line, according to George M. Garrett, division engineer.

About 10 or 11 miles of the 25 miles have already been laid and the other 14 or 15 miles will be completed early in the fall, probably September.

The stabilizing base is made of "tank bottoms," the residue from oil tanks in New Mexico oil fields, especially in the Hobbs area.

Thousands Required

Some 20,000 barrels of tank bottoms will be needed Garrett estimates, to finish the work on the 25 miles. Thickness depends on the condition of the road, but the average will be probably five to seven inches.

Asphalt topping has been authorized for the 25 miles and when enough base is finished, topping will start, probably in about 30 days.

Grading of the road has been a stupendous task, owing to the heavy traffic and also to the fact that there is no other place for a detour except in the barrow-pits.

When completed the road will give Lubbock all-weather connections to Hobbs and also only a short unpaved sector between Lubbock and Carlsbad, N. M. Likewise, the short route to El Paso will have a comparatively small portion of the distance unpaved, all of which will be in New Mexico.

Mrs. W. C. Pryor and her mother, Mrs. L. E. McDowell, 2315 Sixteenth street, returned Wednesday from a trip to San Antonio.

Mrs. Dan H. Bearding, 1711 Fifth street, is leaving today to spend a month with her son in Oakland, Calif.

Mrs. A. W. Blankenship, 1408 Avenue R, has as her guest for the summer her niece, Miss Wilma Hill, of San Francisco, Calif.

Music Association Plans Campaign

The week of August 30-September 4 has been set as the time for the second membership campaign sponsored by the South Plains Civic Music association. Plans for the coming season were made Tuesday night at a meeting of 14 officers and members of the board of directors in the home of the Rev. W. R. Vivrett, chairman.

Six hundred persons made up the initial membership and it is hoped to enlarge the number this year, thereby insuring an opportunity for even greater talent than that brought last year, said Rev. Mr. Vivrett.

The group is to meet at the Vivrett residence on July 27 to further plans.

Water Projed Being Urged

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — Senators Dennis Chavez and Carl A. Hatch, of New Mexico, asked congress to authorize construction of the San Juan transmountain water diversion project in New Mexico, estimated to cost about $15,000,000.

The project would be carried out as a reclamation undertaking to divert water from the San Juan river, a tributary of the Colorado, into the Chama river, a tributary of the Rio Grande. The project would require tunneling under a vain range of the Rockies in northwestern New Mexico.

The bill specifies construction would not be initiated until the project is found to be feasible under the reclamation act and specifies that the amount of water to be stored shall be allocated as follows:

Provisions Set Out

"The existing and potential water rights and irrigation interests of the people of San Juan county, including the Navajo Indians, shall have first consideration . . . All surplus water, after their rights have been cared for, shall be diverted for use of the lawful water users of the Chama and Rio Grande rivers within the state of New Mexico."

The bill provides the water shall be disposed of subject to the Colorado river compact and that the project "shall be considered as coming within the medium of projects provided for and to be constructed under the Colorado river compact.

Chavez said completion of the project "not only will assure sufficient irrigation water for the Rio Grande valley, our biggest crop-producing area, but also will create sufficient flow in the Rio Grande to take care of the needs of Texas and thus may end the controversy between Texas and New Mexico over the use of Rio Grande water.

Plans For Construction Of Radio Station Blocked

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — A communications commission examiner has recommended T. E. Kirksey, Waco, Tex., be denied authority to build a new radio station which would operate unlimited time on 930 kilocycles with 250 watts power night and 500 watts day.

The examiner said there was "no satisfactory evidence" to indicate Kirksey has any well-defined plans for construction and operation of the proposed station or that he might reasonably expect any local commercial support.

Winner Of Contest Is Facing Charge

HOUSTON, July 1 (AP) — A charge that Bruce McKnight, 19-year-old high school student and winner of a Women's Christian Temperance Union anti-liquor essay contest, drove an auto "while intoxicated" was before the Harris county grand jury.

The charge was sent the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Thomas L. Decker.

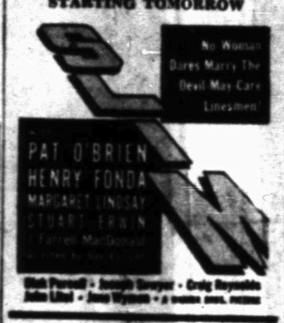

Young McKnight was charged with having driven an automobile "while intoxicated" June 8.

"My son was not intoxicated," Mrs. Delta F. McKnight, the boy's mother, said.

Young McKnight was the winner of the WCTU essay contest among the students of his school.

Most Progressive Half Year In History Of Lubbock Just Closed

Bright Prospects For Future Seen; Evidence Is Offered

Lubbock's most progressive half-year in history closed, the city bounded forward with unslackened stride today into a future which holds even greater promise than the past.

Every available indicator accepted by the conservative business world as an accurate barometer of growth, progress and prosperity offered evidence impossible of contradiction that the first six months of 1937 have seen Lubbock expand with gaining momentum.

Surveys in which seven experienced newspapermen participated for Avalanche-Journal publications and which applied to a broad cross section of the city's civic and industrial life all pointed to the same facts—that development of the half-year has been steady, rapid and solid.

It was disclosed from quizzing the man on the plow, the executive behind the big desk in the bank, waiters, domestics, the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker—in short, as nearly as possible, all representative classes and vocations—that all economic indices are "on the way up" and that, with visions of bumper crops this fall, collective satisfaction is returning.

Notable increases, presented below, show advancement in building permits; bank deposits, employment, wages and salaries, home ownership, consumption of foods and utilities, automotive vehicle registrations, scholastic enrollment, oil lease conveyance, department store and wholesale volume, freight carloadings, dairy products, postal receipts, and the like.

Building Permits In Van Of City's Steady Rise

Building permit records generally are accepted as perhaps the most accurate barometer of the progress of a city.

In that respect, Lubbock's record for the first six months of 1937 borders on the phenomenal. Not only does its total put in ahead of any city in Texas of its size, but it gives it rank right along with, and in some cases, in front of cities two and more times its population as shown by the last official census in 1930.

An analysis of the records further magnifies their value as an accurate gauge of growth in Lubbock, because more than 80 per cent of the money invested in construction since January 1 has been for new homes or for improvements of residences.

Permits Almost Doubled

Permit totals for the first six months of the current year, according to official tabulations last night at the office of Building Inspector D. J. Schlag, were $646,750. For the same period of 1936, they were $330,114.50—a little more than half. For the first six months of 1935, the total was $84,517.67, less than one-seventh as much as for the corresponding period of this year.

New building has been sustained, without any one month showing any tremendous margin over another. February, with $60,710, ranks as the low month of the year, with May the high with its total of $159,988. June ranks second, with $140,943, the figure having been boosted to an unexpectedly high total by $19,832 worth of new construction authorized Wednesday.

General Building Wave On

The total represents 388 separate building projects, as compared with 240 to July 1, 1936, and 159 during the same period of 1935.

More than half a million dollars of the building thus ... has been for new residences, for which 155 permits have been issued as compared with only 32 during the first six months of 1936. In addition, permits have been granted for repairs and alterations to 660 residences, as compared with 73 last year.

Increase Of $671,000 In Bank Deposits Reported

An increase of approximately $671,000 in deposits of Lubbock's three banks—a gain of 16 per cent plus when compared with June 30, 1936, reflects the city's strengthened financial stability.

Combined figures show deposits, during closing days of June, 1937, totaling $6,974,000, in round figures. On July 1 last year they aggregated $6,303,000.

Indications are, bankers said, that comparative margin between the two years will be further widened during the closing months of 1937 as South Plains farmers deposit the proceeds of one of the greatest crops in history.

Employment, Wage And Salary Hikes Are Taking Strides

Employment and wage and salary hikes took substantial strides.

Despite the recognized limits of an unofficial survey, numerous managers of business establishments, agencies and professional concerns contributed information which could be averaged and considered authentic—and which indicated that, while figures on employment vary considerably because of seasonal influences employment has increased anywhere from 20 to 33 1-3 per cent.

Wages, Salaries Have Climbed

At the same time, wages and salaries have climbed more than had been expected.

On farms, for instance, a field hand at this season, when there is plenty of work, gets from $30 to $35 a month and his board and room, several farmers indicated. A year ago, he was lucky to get $20 to $25, and many got $15.

One farmer said he knew several agricultural operators who are paying $2 a day and board and room to those who operate tractors.

Two chain stores had hired 25 per cent more help and were paying from 6 to 10 per cent more in salaries.

Waitresses Getting More

Several waitresses said they had worked for $5 a week last year and now are getting $7.50 a week plus all their tips.

Cotton choppers get from $1.50 to $2 a day, whereas they formerly got anywhere from $1 to $1.25.

Carpenters, masons, electricians and other skilled laborers who had worked "part time" have to be hunted out if their services are required. And, sometimes, one has to wait several days for them to complete projects on which they are employed.

Domestics who formerly worked for as low as $2 a week with room and board now get from $4 to $5 in numerous cases.

Seven hundred cotton choppers have gone to the fields recently.

Truck Drivers Better Paid

Truck drivers, many of them having received only 25 cents an hour last year, are getting 35 and 50 cents an hour now, those questioned said.

Numerous persons, 500 of them since Jan. 1, have left voluntarily the relief rolls of the WPA, constituting 14 per cent of the case load, said J. O. Jones, supervisor. What percentage of that number entered private employment or went into business for themselves was not available, but figures were taken to indicate the rising healthfulness of the times.

More Potential Home Owners Reported Now In City

There are more potential home owners in Lubbock today than at any time in the history of the city. Not only has there been an increase in building construction over last year, but in the sale of properties to prospective home owners.

During the early 1930's hundreds of houses were turned back to lien holders, such as building and loan associations, banks, trust companies, insurance concerns, bond houses, etc. Number of these at one time was estimated by several real estate men at between 2,000 and possibly 3,000 houses.

Now it is estimated, there are less than 700 such places. A surprising number of such purchases have been for cash, the buyer securing his deed to the place.

Lot sales have shown a steady increase as home owners have decided to build their own residences.

Grocery Prices About Same As This Time Last Year

Grocery prices are on the whole, about the same for this year as last, although a few items show a fluctuation upward and some downward.

Flour and sugar are slightly higher; canned goods about the same. Increase in this area has not been more than the average over the nation, grocers say.

Canned goods are down due to relief from drouth conditions that prevailed during 1936, with vegetables and fruits scarce.

Volume is considerably higher, increase in population being responsible for the greater amount.

Increase In Consumption Of Electricity Is Reported

Significant in the advancement of business was increase in electricity consumption.

One of the two plants that supply Lubbock with electrical energy, for instance, produced 6,483,500 kilowatts the first half of this year as compared with 5,712,000 for the first six months of 1936.

Agricultural Situation Has Brighter Outlook Now

And what is the agricultural picture?

Based on a roundup conducted last week by Lubbock Production Credit association, conditions are far above those of this time last year. Rains in the fall have caused a good sub-soil moisture condition. This, coupled with recent rains and a following "million dollar" heat wave, is causing rapid growth of crops. Last year there were many dry spots, but almost none are reported now. Cotton acreage has increased 18 per cent, and although planted late, the crop is expected by many authorities to mature at the regular time—because of excellent growing conditions.

The wheat crop is better than it has been in many years, with nearby Crosby, Hale and Floyd counties harvesting the best wheat crops in their history.

The financial status of stockmen and ranchers is better than it has been in several years due to the increase in livestock prices, particularly sheep and cattle. Range conditions are good, and the calf and lamb crops are normal.

Postal Receipts Show Gain Of Over 12 Per Cent

Postal receipts for the first six months of 1937 increased more than $8,700, or slightly more than 12 per cent over the corresponding months in 1936, according to figures from Postmaster Amos Howard.

Receipts for the second quarter were incomplete late Wednesday but were in excess of $41,300, it was estimated. June receipts were not to be available until after the close of business that day, but an estimate of $13,000 indicated the quarter's total would pass the $41,200 mark.

First six months of last year showed receipts of $71,787.58; estimated this year, $80,713.23; net increase $8,925.65.

Water Meters And Consumption Show Steady Gain In 1937

Another of the barometers of growth is the record of water meter installations. Again the figures show steady and rapid growth of the city.

Tabulations supplied by D. D. Martin, city auditor, show 193 new meters installed since January 1, having ranged from 24 each in January and February to 46 in May. The number of monthly statements sent out in May, 1937, was 4,607 as compared with 4,362 in May, 1936, an increase of 255, or more than five per cent in a single year.

Pumpage Increase 40 Per Cent

Water usage also is proof of the steady growth. In May, 1937, for example, city pumpage totaled 77,166,000 gallons. In May, last year, it was 55,754,000, an increase in a single year of almost 40 per cent.

An analysis of the new installations shows that Lubbock has been gaining population at the rate of approximately 400 families a year, and water department officials said that the pace of growth is gaining momentum.

Telephones Increase 220 In Comparison To 98 In 1936

Further evidence of Lubbock's advance during the past six months is supplied by telephone installations.

J. A. Williams, Lubbock manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone company, reported that approximately 220 new telephones have been installed since January 1, and more than 500 since July 1, 1936. The present "telephone population" of the city is approximately 4,650.

His figures also giving striking evidence of the fact the city growth is gaining momentum. During the first six months of 1936, for example, 96 new phones were installed. During the same period this year, the number was 221, a gain of approximately 130 per cent.

To care for added demands upon it, the telephone company, completed an expansion program costing $110,000 within the last week.

More Than 30,000 Acres Of Land Leased For Oil

Oil leasing activity in Lubbock county, which began in October, has climbed to a total of more than 30,000 acres affected in transfer of oil and gas exploration rights. Of that figure, 24,355 acres have been leased since Jan. 1.

In the first half of 1936 only a few leases were filed, involving mineral rights on approximately 500 acres of land, according to records at the office of the county clerk.

More Than Thousand Cars Registered Than In '36

Substantial gains were shown in all forms of automotive vehicle registrations at the office of the county tax assessor-collector.

Passenger cars registered since Jan. 1 numbered 9,302, an increase of more than 1,000 over the previous figure of 8,269. Increase in commercial vehicles was from 1,194 to 1,455 and in farm trucks from 246 to 308.

Automobile transfers, reflecting exchange of used cars, numbered 3,725 for the first half of the year. The total for the first six months of last year was 3,370.

Dairy Products Show Gain Of Ten Per Cent In Price

Dairy products and produce have increased around 10 per cent in price, with more than that in volume, according to produce house officials.

Butterfat is probably 10 to 15 per cent higher; eggs about the same; spring chickens higher; milk about the same.

Lubbock and the area still lead the state in commercial butter production; butterfat receipts are up, owing to better pastures.

Department Store Sales In '37 Show Good Increase

Department store sales in Lubbock show a substantial increase as increased purchasing power has come to the city and area through more employment and larger population.

Increase in volume for the first months of 1937 over 1936 was from 10 to 20 per cent. The first half of the year is usually quiet in this area, except for buying of women's ready-to-wear items for summer.

Merchants see much wider range in prices for the fall; manufacturers are not quoting long advance prices. The market is unsettled at this time; strikes have cut down manufacturing of piece goods to some extent.

Freight Carloadings To Be Greater Than Last Year

Freight carloadings on the two railroads serving Lubbock and the South Plains, will show a substantial increase for the first six months of 1937 over the same period in 1936, due to much better wheat crop, railroad officials said.

June loadings will exceed 5,000 cars, with an additional 1,000 on the G. A. & P. A year ago in June, loadings hardly exceeded 2,000 cars.

Carloadings on the Slaton division of the Santa Fe are mostly of agricultural products. Cattle movement comes in the late winter and spring, with wheat in summer, cotton and grain sorghums in the fall and winter. Throughout the winter there is a steady grain sorghum movement, as a rule.

Same Four Judges Will Serve At Stamford's Big Reunion

STAMFORD, July 1 — The same four judges who presided over rodeo events at the Texas Cowboy Reunion last July will again render decisions in events this year. The four, Frank Rhoades of Throckmorton, Jess Slaughter of Big Spring, George Humphrey of Guthrie and W. B. Willingham of Rotan, will all work on an equal basis, with the fourth man taking a rest each time as various events come up.

All four judges are thoroughly familiar with bronc-riding, calf-roping, steer-riding, wild-cow-milking and various other contests which are scheduled for the three-day reunion. Willingham is a rancher from the Hobbs community near Rotan, Slaughter, sheriff of Howard county, is another well-known rancher-man. Humphrey is another sheriff, serving for King county, and as wagon boss on the 6666 ranch. Rhoades, veteran judge of the reunion, was also manager and ring master of the rodeo of the Baylor County Fair association for three years and is a well-known rancher-man of Throckmorton.

First Monthly Meeting For C Of C Will Be Staged

LITTLEFIELD, July 1 (Special) —The first monthly membership meeting of the fiscal year will be held by the Littlefield chamber of commerce at the Presbyterian church at noon Tuesday, July 6. The new program of work will be discussed by the chairmen of the various committees, and the meeting will adjourn promptly at 1:15.

Homer Hall, president, urges that everyone possible come to these meetings, stating that non-members are always welcome.

It is planned to have a short musical program for each monthly meeting.

Survey Reveals That Proper Diet Can Be Maintained For Only $2 Per Person

Can you eat properly—spending only $2 a week?

Ten of every 100 housewives on the Pacific coast say you can, and research shows that they are able to do so because they are more "calorie conscious" than their sisters in other parts of the United States.

Survey Is Made

Results of a survey released recently by the Department of Agriculture's bureau of home economics show that 10 per cent of the housewives in the western area serve meals that meet dietary requirements for $2 per person weekly. Only two women out of every 100 on the North Atlantic coast are able to hit this high mark, and in the east and south central area only six per cent.

How shrewd are Lubbock and South Plains wives when it comes to buying the family provisions?

Women Are Shrewd

There has been no survey made in this area, but grocers say women will rank higher than the six per cent class. Their theory is based on the number of women who weigh and figure, who know whether it is cheaper to buy bananas by the dozen or by the pound, and who come into the store with carefully made out shopping lists.

4-H clubs of Texas, in conjunction with the extension service of Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas have launched a campaign whereby Texas farm families of five may be adequately fed on less than $100 a year. In this connection, they have issued bulletins explaining a pantry system, and the proper planning of meals.

In Lubbock county every club woman plans a week's meals by charts provided by the extension department.

Eastland Woman And Daughter Recovering After Accident

KNOX CITY, July 1. (AP)—Mrs. Clyde Grissom of Eastland and her 9-year-old daughter, Emily Jean, were recovering from injuries at the Knox county hospital today after their automobile crashed into a culvert here Wednesday afternoon.

The patients are the wife and daughter of Judge Clyde Grissom, justice of the court of civil appeals at Eastland.

Attendants said Mrs. Grissom and her daughter received painful bruises and cuts about the head and that they were suffering from shock.

Mrs. Grissom was returning from a trip to the Knox county clinic, where her daughter was examined, when the accident occurred. She glanced toward the child in the rear seat and their automobile went into the ditch. Before Mrs. Grissom could regain control, the machine struck a concrete culvert. It was badly damaged.

Cowboy Band From Iraan, Tex., Takes Boy Scout Spotlight

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — A cowboy band from Iraan, Tex., took the spotlight today at the Boy Scout jamboree.

Accompanied by more than a score of scouts from the Lone Star state dressed in colorful cowboy costumes the band met the "grand old man of Scouting" on his arrival in Washington.

The cowboy escort accompanied Dan Beard, 87-year-old Scout leader to his hotel, then marched to the general camp headquarters area near the Washington monument.

There, with R. C. Calk and Joseph Baggett twirling drum majors' batons, they entertained hundreds of visitors to the camp.

Your Chances of Marrying a Movie Star

Very poor — almost non-existent. And why? Well, these Hollywood eligibles are pretty altar-shy — and when they do marry, they seldom pick outsiders

It's often hard to figure just who is whose, in Hollywood. Cary Grant, for instance, who used to go with Betty Furness, now goes with Mary Brian, who used to go with Jack Oakie and Dick Powell.

Merle Oberon, once engaged to David Niven, is now being escorted by Brian Aherne . . . who once squired Marlene Dietrich about.

Marriage is definitely more important than a career to Virginia Bruce. "If I should marry again I would drop my profession without a regret," she says. So . . . will it be for David Niven?

By Jeannette Meehan

HOLLYWOOD

THERE'S a "catch" to it all right.

A girl (or a boy) may be wise in the whys and wherewithals of baiting a beautiful hook. She may be a most audacious angler. Her "lines" may be perfect and her patience may be infinite, and no doubt she has an idea that it's more lucrative to fish on land than sea—particularly on Hollywoodland.

But Hollywood's million-dollar bachelor boys and girls look before they bite. You see, most of them have been caught before. They're bachelors only by virtue of the trial and error method, and they're cagey.

Of course there are those who just grew up and remained single, but they're cagey too. Suddenly they remember Rodney Romeo who has been divorced three times—and then they forget to propose.

It's believable to assume that there isn't a young girl in the world who hasn't at some time or another, retired into the delightful recesses of an imaginative romance in which her favorite screen lover played the leading role.

Sally, in sackcloth, gazes out of a tiny window, beyond Paw's pants on the clothes line, to the moon. She makes herself beautiful. She is dressed in the most striking Paris gown—a miracle of dainty ruffles with lace and hand tucks. She carries a pale blue parasol in one hand and a basket of blossoms in the other—or perhaps, just perhaps, two Russian hounds, glossy white ones, on a leash would give a better effect.

Thus, a veritable princess of perfection, she walks along a woodland path adjoining HIS country estate. It's spring, and the world is all a-buzz and a-bloom with birds and bees and flowers and things. Suddenly HE appears from out of nowhere—appears so abruptly that he deprives milady of her footing.

She falls. She sprains an ankle, and the Great Lover finds her a-swoon in his arms. (He likes it.) He smoothes her hair, shakes her a little, and, finding her still a-swoon, he lifts her in his arms and carries her to the patio overlooking the lily pond. In the meantime, of course, they've fallen madly in love.

THAT happens—something like that happens every day in Hollywood. But the heroine will be wearing a pair of false eyelashes and the hero will powder his nose and there will always be a director and a camera somewhere about. And after that final clinch, the lovers will probably take on a very unlover-like attitude toward each other.

Sorry, girls.

The point is, that any female who comes to Hollywood in quest of dollars and a handsome profile is only going about it the hard way.

In the first place, Hollywood marries Hollywood. True, there are stars who have married non-professionals, but those marriages usually occurred before the silver screen became important in their lives. For the most part, Hollywood leaves debutantes to foreign titles and co-eds to fraternity boys.

Besides that, Hollywood boasts the most beautiful women in the world, and they outnumber the local million-dollar bachelors five to one! Any moneyed male star in Hollywood who can face these figures (literally speaking) and remain single is pretty—er—immune, and the unmarried ones seem determined to stick it out alone—well, most of them anyway.

First we have to eliminate Clark Gable. If you don't make the mistake of including him among the ranks of Hollywood's best catches, others will. Fifty million women have assumed that at last they have what they've always wanted—a chance at Gable.

But don't rush him. Although he's separated from Mrs. Gable, he's still a married man. When, and if, Mrs. Gable ever does get a divorce, Clark isn't apt to rush headlong into another halter. According to his own statements, he's too fond of doing as he likes, and of going hunting and fishing with the boys whenever he feels like it.

At the moment, Carole Lombard is his palsy-walsy and they have a barrel of fun together. But with Carole another marriage is a question too. "I suppose I would," she says, "if the right man came along." But whether or not Mr. Gable is the right man, Carole doesn't say.

In the meantime, she's a million dollar bachelor girl herself, with an income of $300,000 a year from Paramount, and there's a clause in her contract which permits her to make a picture off the lot for which she may ask her own price.

However, not many women have much sympathy for Carole. To have had William Powell for a husband, and Clark Gable for a beau, all in one lifetime—t'aint fair!

MR. POWELL is another bachelor by virtue of the trial and error method—having been divorced twice. In 1915, he married Eileen Wilson who was appearing with him in the road show of "Within the Law." That marriage went along for 10 years when a clash of temperament threatened to break it up. Just about that time, however, a son, William, Jr., was born to the Powells, and so they remained married, though separated, for five years more.

Divorced from Eileen in 1930, Powell got the "yes" from Carole Lombard a year later. But that union lasted only two years.

Even the younger bachelors, all of them, seem to be dyed in the wool.

There's Robert Taylor. Surely Robert is a catch in any girl's language, but your chances here aren't very good either. When he wants company, he, like most of his actor-brothers, seems to prefer Hollywood girls to Junior Leaguers and society divorcees. He has made love (cinematically) to most of Hollywood's leading beauties, and has been out with practically all of them—Irene Hervey, Virginia Bruce, Eleanor Powell, Janet Gaynor, Greta Garbo, Loretta Young. Now the leading woman is Barbara Stanwyck.

But Bob remains single. By his own admission he's fickle, and therefore he doesn't expect to be married before he is 30. Get out your knitting, girls, because that leaves him five years yet.

Tyrone Power isn't a million-dollar bachelor—yet. But Darryl Zanuck will make him one, barring national calamities. He's a catch too, but he's definitely avoiding being caught. "Marry?" smiles Mr. Power. "Not me. I want to save a lot of money first and I'm going to be too busy working for it."

And like Bob, Tyrone is also "attached"—to Sonja Henie. Unless the ice queen is out of town, the rest of the girls are out of luck.

WHO'S whose in Hollywood? Almost any star that you or you may have your secret eye on is somebody's "who."

There are lots of marriageable boys and girls about town, but look what you get into. Cary Grant, who used to go with Betty Furness, now goes with Mary Brian, who used to go with Jack Oakie and Dick Powell, who are both now married. David Niven, who used to be engaged to Merle Oberon, is now adoring Virginia Bruce, who used to go with Caesar Romero, who used to go with Betty Furness. Miss Oberon is now being escorted by Brian Aherne, who used to carry a torch for Marlene Dietrich . . . and so on around an infinite circle.

Aw! What's the use?

Most of Hollywood's bachelor girls are definitely the marrying kind, but even so, a fellow on the outside couldn't get a date with one of them without a feud. They profess that they don't like Hollywood men, but they go out with them anyway. They all have "Hollywood" beaux.

Alice Faye comes right out and says that she feels her career would be well lost for love, and that the most important thing in life is finding the right man. Will it be Tony Martin?

Sonja Henie, who had a right sizable fortune before she ever became a movie star, says she isn't looking for a husband. But somewhere, she hopes there's a man looking for her. Does she mean Tyrone Power?

Virginia Bruce says she thought marriage was more important than her career—and she still does. Her divorce from the late Jack Gilbert hasn't discouraged her. "If I should marry again," says Virginia, "I would drop my profession without a regret." Will it be for David Niven?

Rosalind Russell speaks up like a soldier to remind you that money doesn't make million-dollar men—or women either. According to Roz, character is so much more important. Oh yes, she'd stop working if it would make a husband happier, but she doesn't believe that she'll find her ideal spouse among the ranks of Hollywood actors.

There's your chance, gentlemen.

Eleanor Powell is a home girl who likes to cook and doesn't mind washing dishes, and she doesn't care whether the man she marries is a million-dollar man or not, or whether he's an acter or not.

But the star who will really delight your masculine hearts is Janet Gaynor, who says that if she falls in love again she'll marry the man regardless, even if "he talks more than she does?"

Lubbock's Final Arguments For New State Hospital Are Offered

Control Board Resumes Trip

Members of the state board of control resumed their journey this morning with Plainview and Amarillo on the day's itinerary after having listened to Lubbock's personally presented and final argument as to why the West Texas state hospital for mental cases should be located here.

A banquet at which board members were guests of honor at Lubbock hotel last night found Lubbock spokesmen and board members in complete expressed harmony on the one factor governing location of the new $817,000 institution—that it shall be so placed to render the greatest service [illegible] the most people in the West Texas area for which it is created.

Aim Enunciated By Teer

The aim was enunciated by Chairman Claude B. Teer and Members Jno. P. Wallace and Henry C. Meyer of the control board.

George W. Dupree, local attorney and chief spokesman for the city on the occasion, and Durwood H. Bradley, city attorney and toastmaster at the banquet, gave assurance that Lubbock's wishes coincide with those of the board—to locate the hospital where it will do the most good for the most people.

County Judges Guests

Their contention that Lubbock meets the requirement more completely than any other of the 13 or more applicant cities found declared support from, among others, three county judges of neighboring counties who also were guests. The county judges were L. R. Crockett of Lamb, M. G. Miller of Bailey, and Marshall Formby of Dickens.

Close of the banquet, at which Lubbock's final argument for the hospital was voiced, left no one in position to say where the hospital will be located, nor when the choice will be made. Each member of the control board explained that they have refrained carefully from discussing possible locations even among themselves until, in Wallace's words, "all the evidence is in."

The banquet, attended by directors and members of the hospital committee of the chamber of commerce and city and county commissioners, followed an inspection by control board members during the afternoon of several of the six sites Lubbock has offered for the hospital. With the visitors on the inspection and also guests at the banquet were Dr. C. W. Castner, former superintendent of the state hospital at Wichita Falls and who now is chief of the eleemosynary division of the board; Tom Leach, attorney and pay-patient collector for the board, whose son, T. L. Leach, was honor graduate at Texas Technological college four years ago and is now an instructor at Tech; and Ray Shaver, of Lynn county, dairy and farm supervisor for the board.

Application Only On Merits

Dupree, as chief Lubbock spokesman, emphasized that this city asks consideration as a location only on its merits as he stressed the rapidity of growth of recent years, the fact that not more than one-third of some of the finest agricultural land in the world has been put under the plow, the paved highways which serve Lubbock in all directions, the railroad facilities which make Lubbock a hub of West Texas, and the fact that the business trend is definitely in this direction.

Of the highway advantages he commented that "when your sheriff wants to go somewhere, he doesn't catch a train. He gets in his automobile, and starts." He remarked also that Lubbock and its area are only at the beginning of their development, without consideration of prospective oil development to which not even thought was given a few years ago. "If we find oil", he remarked, "we'll just be luckier than we expected to be."

Teer, first of the board members to be introduced, prefaced his brief talk with commendations for Senator G. H. Nelson and Representative Doyle Settle, members of the legislature from South Plains districts. They were joint authors of the hospital bill, and he credited them with having secured passage of the measure after eight or 10 years of previous efforts by others had been unsuccessful. Both were at the banquet and were introduced.

The board chairman emphasized that members have not discussed possible locations even among themselves, and expressed the conviction that none has made up his mind. He pledged that the welfare of those to be served by the hospital will be the only consideration when the selection finally is made.

"We are not interested from the political standpoint in this matter because we are not running for office," he continued. "We will be no better off when we locate this hospital than we were before. Rather, we will be worse off. We can please one town or city by our selection. We may antagonize 10 or a dozen others which must be disappointed. Our only possible satisfaction will come from the knowledge that we have made an earnest effort to render an efficient and honorable service. That's what we want to do. That is what we are going to do."

Emphasizes About Clear Title

Wallace and Meyer reiterated and emphasized those same declarations, Wallace taking occasion to advise that utmost care be taken by applicant cities to make certain that titles to land offered are clear. He said that the absence of a clear title, because of the urgent need for the hospital, might cause the board to make a second choice if obstacles should arise to delay the first selection. He added that 600 or 700 persons of unsound mind now are awaiting admission to state hospitals because room cannot be made for them in the six existing state institutions of that type.

Wallace explained later that the choice of the hospital location has been placed specifically in the hands of the board, which also has been charged with the responsibility of seeing that it is erected.

Uncertainty Exists

He explained further that uncertainty exists as to how rapidly plans may develop, but he expressed the hope that the selection will be made, the plans drawn and perhaps contracts awarded by next September. It probably will be 18 months, he said, before the institution can be made ready to receive patients.

The entire banquet program, from the moment of seating guests, through dinner, eight talks and the introductions of speakers and guests until Bradley's announcement of adjournment occupied only an hour and 45 minutes. J. D. Hassell, jr., president of the chamber of commerce, called the meeting to order.

Board members said they would start for Plainview this morning after an early breakfast. Lubbock hotel was their headquarters.

Swelling And Pain Has Left His Shoulders, Arms And Limbs; Kidneys Regulated, "Sleeps Good, Nerves Quieted; Gly-Cas Amazing

"This new remedy, Gly-Cas, will do everything that is claimed for it," said Mr. W. R. Willett, Rt. 6, Ex. 76, El Dorado, Ark. "For the past several years my kidneys and bladder had caused me constant distress. Was up from three to five times each night and it was impossible for me to get my proper rest. I would have severe dizzy spells when I could not stand alone. The pains in my back, shoulders and arms which extended down into my limbs were almost more than I could bear and my joints would swell and hurt so bad at times. My entire system became disordered, headached continually and was so nervous and irritable that the least noise disturbed me. All medicines seemingly had failed in my case and I had become very skeptical as to the merit of any of them—but one trial of Gly-Cas proved different—it has REAL MERIT.

"Gly-Cas showed me improvement from the first few doses," continued Mr. Willett. "Today all those dreadful dizzy spells have left me entirely, my kidneys are regulated, bowels fine and those dreadful pains and swelling have disappeared. Just think—Gly-Cas has brought me this wonderful health at my age of 70. All praise to Gly-Cas! It is outstanding in its merits."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1319 Broadway, this city, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

Reporter's Wish To Hold Millions Given Setback; Practice Is Being Banned

BY EDDY GILMORE

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — The bureau of engraving and printing blasted today this reporter's hope of laying hands on $126,000,000.

A report the bureau was offering a monetary though momentary thrill free to sightseers merited investigation.

After federal red tape was cut at a half dozen points, the last barrier was the director's secretary. Miss Ednah Sible.

"Yes?" she asked, suspiciously.

"I want to hold $126,000,000."

Holding The Bag

"Well," she replied, "you're holding the bag on that. We've had to stop it."

"Why?"

"Swamped," said Miss Sible. "It seemed as if everyone in America wanted to hold $126,000,000."

It began as a hospitable pleasantry when a bored guide told a tourist to lift a paper covered package.

"You've just had your hands on $126,000,000," he explained.

The bureau has been in a mild uproar ever since. Business became so good that employes were pointing in desperation to all sorts of packages and people were lifting them.

Once a congressman sent down 600 school children, flexing their youthful muscles in anticipation of the multi-million dollar lifting stunt.

The bureau, however, hasn't abolished al lits tricks. If you know the right people, they will let you hold a sheet of one cent stamps.

Plans were discussed and committees appointed at a meeting of officers and board members at Rev. Vivrett's home Tuesday night. Fourteen persons attended.

Miss Mary Dunn was appointed chairman of a committee to obtain artists to appear on the association's programs.

Next meeting of the officers and directors will be at the home of Rev. Vivrett July 27. At that meeting further details of the drive will be discussed.

Guldhal Says That Good Golf Is Forged In The Furnace Of Competition On Links

This is the second of a series of six autobiographical, instructive articles by Ralph Guldahl, National Open champion and U. S. Ryder Cup team member, written exclusively for NEA Service and The Evening Journal.

By Ralph Guldahl

National Open Golf Champion
As Told To Art Krenz

Good golf is forged in the furnace of competition. Competition brings out the best in a man and spurs him on to greater heights.

It was my good fortune to be reared in a land where every mother's son and his brother—not forgetting his sister, too—is a good golfer. I mean Texas.

They call it the Lone Star State, but they weren't thinking of golf when they gave it that name. The Lone Star State is studded with stars.

Among the golfing greats who have come off Texas fairways are Harry Cooper, the nation's leading money winner this year; Byron Nelson, the winner of the Masters' Tournament at Augusta; Spec Goldman, Gus Moreland, Ray Mangrum, Reynolds Smith, who is the present Texas amateur champion, and Babe Didrikson, one of the best women golfers.

You've got to be good to compete against golfers of this caliber.

My days in Texas—battling such par-breakers as these fellows—gave me many worried moments, but I enjoyed it all in the long run. The competition made me.

Seek Competition

You should seek competition, too. Don't just play with a fellow you know you can beat, or one who is your equal. Try to have frequent matches with better players.

Through pride, association, necessity, and desire you will find yourself playing better.

Practice, of course, is just as important as competition. You should practice whenever possible.

But practice correctly. Consult your pro. Have him watch you. Then he can tell you what you are doing wrong and you can practice to eradicate the fault. If you don't do this, then you will develop the fault and groove it instead of correcting it.

Equipment also is most important to a golfer, be he a veteran or a novice star or dub.

The workman is no better than his tools. The golfer is no better than his clubs.

My clubs were designed by Jim Gallagher, whom I consider to be the best in the business.

Because I am a fast swinger my woods have a light, stiff shaft. The driver weighs 13 3-4 ounces, the brassie 14 ounces, and the spoon from 14 1-4 to 14 1-2 ounces.

Equipment Much Improved

Irons are made much more carefully nowadays than they used to be. The old-time clubs varied in weight and in the placement of weight in the head because they were made individually.

Now, however, they are so constructed that the weight is concentrated behind the most effective hitting area, helping the golfer groove his swing and maintain the rhythm.

I think a new ball I have been using helped me considerably. It is so designed that the liquid center weighs less than the envelope, giving the ball much more spin and a sort of fly-wheel momentum.

The improved equipment available now has done more than the golfers themselves in bettering their scores, I believe.

The golfer should take advantage of it. Get yourself a good set of tools and go out and use them on a good golfer. You'll be the winner in the long run.

NEXT: Ralph Guldahl tells of the trials and tribulations of the touring pro.

The Open champion had perfect form in his 'teens.

Tunney Says New Champion Is Due

Nimble Houston Outfielder Is Slugging Way Into Big Time

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT

DALLAS, July 1 (AP)—Seven days ago Hal Epps, Houston's nimble outfielder, started a hitting bee that may land him a lower berth on a train headed for the big time. . . . He was doing a mediocre .286 at the plate when he started and now he is fourth in the slug column with an average just under .330 . . . One of the classiest of all Texas loop gardeners, the youngster has needed only a chubbier batting average to don his St. Louis Cardinal uniform.

Old Fred Marberry, who quit the majors because he felt he was weakening, has won his last seven starts for the Dallas Steers, a basement club he now manages, and could make it eight wins within a month if he comes through on his next trip to the mound . . . Always considered a fine fielder but weak with the mace, Tody York is getting his basehits now up at Tulsa.

Add another champion to Houston's golfing Demaret family. . . . Milton, 28-year-old older brother of Professional Jimmy, three times winner of the Texas P. G. A. title, stepped out and won the Houston city amateur title by whipping Glen Chrisman in the finals. . . . Milton, unheralded when the tourney started, dipped below par in bagging the trophy.

Golf Columnist Tommy Griffin of Port Arthur had real news for his pillar the other day . . . He made an ace on the third hole of the Port Arthur Country club . . . Tommy had started with a par, birdied the second and aced the third. . . . He was two over par at the twelfth when rain drove him off the course.

Bull-shouldered Don Schumacher, the Trans-Mississippi champion, will compete in the Rivercrest tourney at Fort Worth this week-end and will follow up with the Pine Crest at Longview, July 9, before settling down for training for the National Amateur . . . Colonial golf club officials at Fort Worth are confident the Trans-Miss event will be played over their bent grass greens next summer.

If you have a bow and arrow, the state archery tournament will be held at Fort Worth next Sunday and Monday . . . Sixty entrants are expected, with four man teams from San Antonio, El Paso, Longview, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Dallas and Ranger. . . . Transportation note: The T. C. U. Horned Frog footballers will do a mere 7,000 miles in traveling to games in five states next fall. . . . Only four of the Frogs' 10 games will be played at Fort Worth.

Weber Acts Quickly To Snare Victory Over Kopecky Here

Dutch Vic Weber finally figured Joe Kopecky out, but almost waited too long to act, in their third main event meeting at the Auditorium. On the verge of a third straight defeat at the hands of the cunning Kopecky, Weber suddenly turned the tables to snare a third fall and a victory.

The patrons were in the mood for some fireworks when Kopecky and Weber took the spotlight. For the last 30 minutes the customers had viewed a "shootin' match" between Pack Hagen and Tony Piluso, which went to a draw and which produced some fine grappling. Pandom had tasted blood in the prelim when Buck Lipecomb and Silent Tarzan Krause waged a more or less one-sided battle, Lipecomb finally winning with a semi-crab hold.

Knockout From Outside

For the veteran Kopecky, it was the first defeat in more than two months, or since he came back to the circuit this time, aside from the "unofficial" licking handed out by Welterweight Champion Jack Reynolds the other night. Joe had walloped Weber twice, once with the help of a referee. He came close to winning last night. Vic won the first fall in 24 minutes by butting Joe head over heels and following up with a smashing body pin. Joe had catapulated Weber from the ring, and had kicked him back out twice. Weber clambered back up, poised himself against Joe's rush, met him head on while he, Vic, was still outside the ropes. Weber came through with the charge, landed atop Kopecky and held him there.

There was some unruly tactics in the second, Vic almost winning twice, through rough tactics, before Kopecky shagged him with a drop toe-hold as Weber charged for a flying tackle.

Kopecky tried the same thing in the third, after being weakened by Weber's uppercuts and flying blocks, Irish whips, etc., but Weber rowed for the ropes. Joe caught him again with the toe hold, a la Yaqui Joe, but failed to get both legs tied up Weber twisted around, reversed the hold, tied up both of Kopecky's legs, bore down hard. Joe was forced to give up.

Piluso and Hagen drew much applause, of the formal, hand-clapping type, during their vigorous wrestling match. They exchanged holds and upper hands numerously, providing comedy when they attached the same leg locks to each other and became tied up like a sack of cats. The referee had trouble separating them. They always broke clean, fought clean, and were applauded.

Lipecomb came very near starting another riot. He attacked the deaf mute, Krause, before the gong sounded, and kept it up. Krause disappointed the folks by refusing to fight back. He took a pretty bad beating, and went down for the count after 14 minutes, victim of a Japanese crab.

Underdogs Get Their Ire Up

(By The Associated Press)

In all but one instance the underdog came through to victory in the Texas league last night.

Most notable on the program was Fort Worth's audacious assault on the league-pacing Oklahoma City Indians. The second-placers handed the Indians their second straight loss, 9 to 1. Jackie Reid, Fort Worth ace, was easily the superior of Ash Hillin in the pitching encounter. The 16 hits the Cat batters managed were of considerable importance too.

Stout Is Hero

Houston, which almost rates squatters rights to the cellar, turned on San Antonio in a close 4-3 battle. Allyn Stout, Houston hurler, was the hero with his effective relief work and his run-producing single in the eighth.

Beaumont of the upper division lost out to Galveston in a wild game, 13 to 11, after the lead switched around four times. Beaumont used 15 players, five pitchers and hit 15 times but Galveston had what it took in the final drive.

Dallas continued its unspectacular ways by losing to Tulsa 7 to 2. Twardy granted the Steers six hits while the Oilers were pounding the ball hard and often.

WILMER ALLISON ADVANCES

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP) — Former National Champion Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, led the way into the quarter finals of the Illinois State tennis championship tournament men's singles today by a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Norbert Burgess, University of Chicago star.

Allison will meet another University of Chicago player, Chester Murphy, tomorrow. Murphy advanced by defeating Seymour Greenberg, Illinois interscholastic champion and former national boys' titleholder, 6-2, 6-2.

Goofy Pitches One-Hit Ball For Yankees

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This being the open season on advance sharpshooting at the all-star game proceedings, Mr. Lefty (El Goofy) Gomez appears today as an American league life-saver for the forthcoming festivities at Washington.

Overshadowing such other fireworks as the Cubs' second straight win over the Cardinals, the Giants' continued display of power-hitting to stay in the National league race, and a somewhat startling shutout streak of 30 consecutive innings by Boston Bees' pitchers, Mr. Gomez pitched himself a ball game yesterday.

Athletics Handcuffed

He handcuffed the Athletics with one lone hit for a 5-1 win, thereby posting his best performance in two years, and one of the top jobs in a somewhat lengthy career of southpaw speedballing.

With Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell and Van Lingle Mungo primed to serve the National leaguers in the all-star classic next week, the Gomez magic gladdened the hearts of the American's supporters, and particularly Marse Joe McCarthy, who is master minding the junior circuit warriors. For otherwise, the American leaguers could hardly hope to get such pitching as the Nationals can expect.

In sharp contrast to his tight pitching, was the pounding party put on at St. Louis for the second game of the Cubs-Cards series.

The Cubs came through, 9-4, to stay a half game out in front, but only by banging out 20 hits and watching a troop of seven pitchers march in to the mound.

Giants On Their Heels

Meantime the Giants were sinking right on the heels of the Cubs by walloping the Phillies, 7-2.

Probably the most remarkable achievement of the day was the double-header shutout the Bees pinned on the Dodgers, winning 1-0 behind Gabbo Gabler's four-hit pitching and 7-0 on the strength of a five-hitter by the veteran Guy Bush.

Wes Ferrell pitched and hit the Senators to a 6-4 win over his old pals, the Boston Red Sox. The Detroit Tigers regained third place by topping the White Sox 4-1 behind Tommy Bridges' four-hit effort. Hal Trosky clouted two homers as the Indians slaughtered the Browns 10-3.

The Pirates called on Cy Blanton in their night game with the Cincinnati Reds and Cy responded with a seven-hit shutout for a 6-0 victory.

Sweden is no "melting pot." There are only 61,000 foreign born residents, about one per cent of the entire population.

Young Rookie Hurls No-Hit, No-Runner

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., July 1 (AP)—Bill Fraser, 18-year-old southpaw rookie, boasted a no-hit, no-run game today for his first victory in organized baseball.

The young Californian, who pitches for Pittsburgh's Hutchinson, Kan., farm club in the Western association, beat Bartlesville, 1 to 0 and struck out 19 men.

His record for his first year in "pro" ball before last night read "no wins, four losses."

Fraser said he "hadn't thought much about a no-hit game, until the last man struck out."

The 18-year-old left hander who joined the Larks this spring is six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds. After his graduation from Freemont, Calif., high school, he played semi-pro ball last year with the Houghton Park team of Los Angeles, where he was discovered by a Pittsburgh scout.

THE CHEAPEST THING ON YOUR CAR IS THE BEST TIRES YOU CAN BUY!

The average maintenance costs obtained from the records of that amount operating hundreds of cars on Goodyear tires show that a full set of Goodyears costs only one-fifth as much per mile as gasoline—one-fourth as much as insurance, licenses and depreciation—one-third as much as garage and repairs—one-half as much as lubrication, washing and miscellaneous. Motor-wide records prove Goodyears cost least under any conditions.

Grasshoppers Are Following Dust To Harass Farmers Of Section

Big Invasion Is Reported

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, July 1.—Grasshoppers are following the dust to harass beleaguered farmers of the southern high plains.

The largest row crop in history—planted largely for the purpose of getting cover crops to protect the soil against next spring's winds—is endangered. Millions of the tiny green insects are growing wings now and are advancing, in some places, two miles a day, devouring everything in their path.

Farmers are fighting them with poisoned bran furnished by the federal government—but a survey conducted today by the Amarillo Daily News indicated there is not enough to curb the invasion.

Invasion Termed "Serious"

County agents in three states termed the invasion as "serious."

The most seriously affected part of the three state area is Union county, N. M., though damage has been heavier in southeastern Colorado.

Until a week ago, Union county had prospects for its largest grain sorghum crop in seven years. But already the hoppers have damaged 750,000 acres—half the county.

They are moving southward at the rate of two to two and a half miles a day, taking everything in their path.

Center of the devastation area is Des Moines, in the northern part of the county. All tender growing crops and range grass in a ten-mile wide strip in that sector have been destroyed, said County Agent J. B. Copeland.

"You can see that strip five miles away," Copeland said. "Everything is brown. It looks like it had been through a long drouth."

Farmers are anxious to battle the invading hoppers but poison has not yet been received, he said. The only poison distributed so far has been borrowed from adjoining counties.

Will Take 4 Or 5 Carloads

"A carload of bran is supposed to be on the way but it will take four or five carloads to stop the hoppers," he said. "If something isn't done, they will be all over the county in another week or ten days."

Farmers in Union county are all set for a concentrated campaign when the poison arrives.

"Those who are not yet affected have volunteered to go in their trucks and camp out until the poison has been scattered," Copeland said.

Just across the line from Union county, in Cimarron county, Okla., the situation is also serious. Farther eastward, 10,000 acres of crops have been damaged and over half the gardens in Beaver county, Okla., have been damaged or destroyed.

Poison Distributed

County Agent Walter Schnelle said 20 tons of poisoned bran already has been distributed but that another 20 tons due the county has been lost in shipment. But even that "won't nearly do the job," he said.

The hoppers are steadily moving westward.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 acres of crops have been damaged in Sherman county, Texas, and 2,000 acres have been damaged in Hansford county, but county agents believe they will be able to keep the hoppers under control "if more don't come in."

Damage is just beginning in Dallam and Ochiltree counties. George Brockman, assistant Ochiltree county agent, said he feared the two tons of bran allotted his county will "not be enough."

Reports received here indicate the entire Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles are threatened, with hopper damage. Farmers in Hall, Childress and Collingsworth counties are fighting to save a young cotton crop—the most promising in years.

Five hundred and 20 tons of bran and 10,700 gallons of sodium arsenite have been distributed in 20 northern Panhandle counties through county agents and R. R. Reppet, state leader of the grasshopper control program, said in College Station that an additional 160 tons of bran and 3,500 gallons of sodium arsenite is now being apportioned to the district.

Farmers are mixing sawdust and cottonseed hulls with the bran in order to get more bulk, and are making a "mash" with water and the sodium arsenite. It is broadcast by hand over the fields.

Man Is Slain By Intruder

(By The Associated Press)

CALVERT, July 1.—John Slovacek, 40-year-old roadside storekeeper who lived alone, was hacked to death last night by a burglar wielding a hatchet.

Police believed Slovacek knew the killer and admitted him through the front door of the establishment. They said the storekeeper always had been cautious of visitors after night fell.

A customer this morning found Slovacek's body, five hatchet wounds on the head, at the first door of his place four miles north of here.

Bacon, candy, chewing gum, tobacco and about 100 chickens housed 40 yards from the store were missing.

Despite their belief in Slovacek's acquaintance with the killer, the investigators said they were without tangible clues.

Slovacek was survived by his sister, Mrs. John Moore, of Calvert, and his wife, whose whereabouts were unknown here.

Remains of a stone age settlement, believed more than 6,500 years old, have been found at Trollhattan, on Sweden's west coast. Twenty-five prehistoric buildings were unearthed.

THE people of Texas will have to pay a quarter of a million dollars—$250,000—to hold a special election in August of this year.

The election has been called to permit the electorate to voice its sentiments in connection with six proposed amendments to the state constitution in which only a very small percentage of our people have more than passing interest.

It seems to us to be a fine way to pour public money down a rathole and that we would have done better had it been possible to hold the vote a year from this summer, or a year from this fall, in connection with regular elections.

However, there's never much business judgment put to bear upon matters pertaining to expenditures of public funds.

Regardless of how foolish, that's our accepted method of operations.

His brow was wet with perspiration. He moaned to himself: "Won't they ever get through with her? I can't go much longer like this! She means all the world to me and I've got to know!"

A few minutes later a nurse tiptoed out of the operating room.

"OK," she called softly. "I can get off tonight!"

ONE would be surprised, were one to look into the matter, how many of our busy business and professional men stumble over the simplest of questions.

At the Rotary club yesterday Toastmaster Charles I. (Stony-to-you) Wall put on a "baseball game." He appointed Overton Ribbig as captain of one team and Alex McDonald to head the other and these two each chose eight men to complete their teams. Questions based on Texas history and current events were asked, a hit being given for the correct answer and an out being charged if the answer were wrong. Chief thing about the game was, of course, the way the boys missed the mark.

Some of the questions were plenty tough and there's no blame attached to the average citizen's inability to answer them. For instance you don't know on what party ticket Sam Houston ran for governor of Texas, and if you know whether or not Francis Lubbock was governor of Texas, the chances are you couldn't say whether he completed his term. Furthermore, the average man isn't supposed to know whether Texas was ever, since state-hood, without a governor and if so, when. (And the answer is not "while 'Ma' Ferguson was in office!")

But it does look like any business man would know that J. Doyle Settle is not the state senator from this district, that Cordell Hull is secretary of state, Harry Woodring secretary of war and that Texas has two United States senators.

Those were some of the questions which tripped some of the well known boys about town!

SOME of the more erudite followers of this column may not consider as worth reading the so-called fact detective story magazines to which The Plainsman, as well as many another, is addicted for relaxation at the close of a hectic day. That, however, is neither here nor there and we do not intend to argue the point. What we're getting around to is calling attention to a real gem of wisdom appearing in one of those magazines of recent issue.

In connection with the story of the arrest and sentencing of a sexual pervert in Chicago—after, of course, his commission of a revolting crime which ended in the death of a young girl—the magazine gave some space to pointing out that often—and much, much too often—men convicted for crimes against nature are pardoned or paroled, only to turn to their nefarious habits and bring trouble, grief and even death to other innocents. The magazine naturally spoke strongly against clemency for law violators of that type, pointing out as it went along that such criminals usually turned out to be "repeaters" even after several incarcerations.

THE dreadful case in California, in which three young girls were mistreated and then murdered, should again draw thoughtful attention of both pardon and parole bodies and scientists who are experienced in the study of the degenerate mind.

No perpetrator of such a crime should ever be permitted to again roam free among his fellows unless medical or surgical science corrects his mental deformity after his term in prison is ended. To permit a degenerate to run loose even after he serves his punishment is as foolish as turning a mad dog out into the streets simply because it has been proven he is mad.

"Flame Trail"

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD
(Copyright, 1937, Marie De Nervaud)

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine hires a new puncher, Ted Gaynor, whom she finds in the forest desperately about to set fire to get a job. Josh Hastings, who wants to buy the Lazy Nine and wed Kay, invites her to the Flying Six when her ranch house and barn mysteriously burn. She refuses, distrusting him, but young sister Babs and Aunt Kate go. Kay finds she can't get the insurance money to rebuild—it goes on the mortgage. Ted stirs the outfit to cut its own lumber and rebuild without pay. Kay carelessly tells this plan to Hastings before buying the only available timberland.

Chapter 12
Race To Old Man Warren's

"There's something I want to ask you," said Josh Hastings. "Who was the fellow you were in town with, today?"

"He's a new puncher I've just taken on." Kay dextrously evaded his grasp and ran lightly down the steps.

"What's his name?"

Kay pretended not to hear as she swung into the saddle and picked up the reins. "I'll tell you about him some other time," she called, with an attempt at a gaily nonchalant tone. Controlling her impatience with a mighty effort, she headed Flicker for the Lazy Nine at a leisurely calm trot until she was out of sight of the ranch house.

Once safely hidden in a coulee, Kay swung about at right angles, and touching Flicker with her heel, started off on a dead run for Red River.

"Stupid, garrulous fool!" she stormed at herself, as she urged Flicker on. "Why did I have to be so smarty about telling all my plans? It would be no more than I deserved if he did get that timber land away from me!"

Resolved to make every effort to undo the possible mischief her ill-considered remarks might have caused, Kay busily made her plans as she raced across the mesa.

Old Man Warren was an old prospector who lived in a shack just outside Red River. He had impulsively invested his savings some years ago in the timberland that was so necessary to Kay's plans, and had been cursing his luck ever since.

Kay had no doubt at all but that he would be only too glad to sell. But once let him get the idea that two people were after his property, and his price would skyrocket out of sight.

As Kay pulled in for a few minutes to let Flicker get his wind, she laughed at herself for her mad haste.

"I suppose I am as crazy as that locoed coyote Josh Hastings was talking about," she observed. "Probably it hasn't occurred to him at all, to buy up this land, and I'm having all this panic for nothing. Just the same it's lucky Old Man Warren hasn't any telephone, or he might beat me to it, even now."

Spurred on by the sudden fear that Hastings might send a message to the store for Warren to go over there and call him up, Kay urged Flicker on again. Gradually through the clatter of Flicker's hoof beats, she heard the insistent pounding of more hoofs behind her.

Sudden panic seized her, and she gave Flicker a touch of her spur, not daring to glance back, in her certainty that she would see Josh Hastings following post-haste on her trail.

Imperceptibly she could feel the pursuing horse catching up, and at last, unable to bear the suspense and uncertainty any longer, she glanced around.

She gasped out her relief, and reined in slightly at the sight of the mysterious horseman. She had no idea who he was, but that slight figure couldn't be Josh Hastings. It would be better, she decided, to wait and see what he wanted, as he was obviously trying to catch up with her. His horse being faster than Flicker, he was bound to accomplish his purpose sooner or later, so it would be more dignified to slow down than to appear to be frightened into flight.

Gradually pulling Flicker in, she rode ahead more at ease, and as the pounding hoof beats behind her drew near, she reined in, and turned to face the stranger.

No Fear For Herself

Kay had a vague feeling of having seen the man who was coming on at a hard gallop, but for the moment she couldn't place him. Then, as he drew nearer, she recognized him as one of the Flying Six punchers.

She couldn't remember his name, but she clearly recalled having seen him at the last dance on the range. Something about him had distinctly repelled her. She had disliked his narrow face, with its close-set grey eyes, broken nose and the unpleasant twist to his mouth. He'd tried to dance with her, but she had deftly evaded him. As Kay swiftly thought back to this former encounter, she felt her heart beating fast, with a sudden fear.

Not fear for herself, because he wouldn't dare molest her in any way. But fear that Josh Hastings might have sent him on to make an offer to Old Man Warren, and foil her plan to get the necessary timber to rebuild her house and barn.

Scanning his face as he came toward her in the vain effort to read his purpose in his expression, Kay steeled herself to meet the situation with all the cunning at her command.

There was a chance, of course, that he was simply on his way to town with no thought of Old Man Warren in his mind, and that all her fears were groundless. In that case, she must just play him along, and not show any anxiety.

"Say, this is what I call luck!" Kay instinctively disliked his rasping voice, and the bold way he eyed her, as he drew up beside her. "I spotted you a long ways back," he went on, "and reckoned as we both seemed to be headed for town, we might as well go along together. But it took some catching up! What's all the rush, Cutie?"

Kay's eyes blazed at his familiar manner, but she controlled her anger, and forced herself to pretend she hadn't noticed his impudent form of address.

"I am in rather a rush," she answered, "so I'm afraid I won't be a very agreeable companion. You probably won't want to keep up my pace, so I'll go on ahead."

"Haughty as ever, eh?" His laugh had a harsh, disagreeable note. "Well, I reckon I can keep any pace you set."

Kay bit her lip as she tried to decide what would be best to do. If he hadn't been sent after her by Josh Hastings, it would be better to put up with his company rather than have any argument about it.

TOM GALLAHER GOES UP AGAIN

A couple of years or so ago, when Tom Gallaher, boss of the Santa Fe lines in this area, was promoted from his Amarillo office to Chicago to be assistant to the vice-president in charge of traffic, The Journal commented that Mr. Gallaher had just taken one of several steps destined to raise him to top rank among American railroaders.

We felt no squeamishness about that forecast.

We knew the Gallaher record in West Texas.

We knew rough-and-tumble, tough Tom Gallaher as a railroad man's railroad man who, through the very nature of things and by virtue of his unusual railroading talents, was bound to go places and do things with old John Santa Fe.

Hence, it was without surprise that we noted a news story from Chicago yesterday telling of another promotion for Tom Gallaher—a promotion to the post of passenger traffic manager of the entire Santa Fe system. That Tom Gallaher got the promotion was, we know, not due entirely to whatever fine record he must have made since going to Chicago, but also to his masterful operations down here in West Texas with us West Texas folks.

We won't be surprised when Tom Gallaher, whose smashing football tactics at Baylor are similar to his railroading methods, gets his next promotion, or his next one. We won't even be surprised when the announcement is made some day that Tom Gallaher has been elected president of the far-flung Santa Fe system.

He is one of those fellows with, as we say, "a lot on the ball," and The Journal is glad to see one of West Texas' own swiftly climbing the ladder to a full measure of success and national prominence.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 1 — Tricks of the trade: In various war and gangster pictures lately you've been seeing and hearing explosions. But—the ones you see are not the ones you hear.

For example, the heavy booming of a five-pound black powder bomb either would blow out all the tubes in sound-recording apparatus or would leave a series of jagged marks on the sound track which wouldn't reproduce anything like a bomb.

A better way is to explode a very light charge of powder for the initial concussion, and at the same time turn on a "thunder loop." This is a recording of actual thunder and it provides the reverberations which sound like receding echoes of a blast.

Vocal "Dubbing"

Voices, too, especially singing voices, do not always come from the people who seem to be speaking or singing. True, there's less dubbing nowadays than ever before, because the studios are hiring more and more radio and opera stars. And movie people themselves — notably Virginia Bruce — are training their own voices so that they may avoid vocal doubling.

Yet in "Wake Up and Live," the story of a crooner, Comedian Jack Haley had a singing double for many of his scenes. It was a heart-breaking situation, really, because Haley has been struggling for film fame for 15 years.

Hollywood emerged from the preview of the picture raving about the "discovery" of his fine voice and rejoicing that at last he was surely destined for stardom.

But it turned out that the crooning which promised so much for Haley was not actually his own. He did do some of the warbling, but Buddy Clark, from radio, was responsible for the rest.

In justice to Haley, and to several other players for whom dubbed voices have been used, it should be said that they may be able to sing perfectly acceptably for certain types of numbers, but they naturally cannot fill all sorts of vocal requirements.

A good example of that occurred in the famous "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" number in "The Great Ziegfeld." Stanley Morner was the fellow who seemed to be singing it, and the fact was that he did sing it at first.

But before the picture was released it was decided that Morner's voice somehow just didn't give the impression of the power and volume that were needed. So they dubbed in Allan Jones'.

When Francia White played soprano ghost to Virginia Bruce in "The Mighty Barnum," Hollywood's conversationalists of illusion were indignant that the secret should be discovered and publicized. Fans didn't seem to mind, though, but any who did will be glad to know that Miss Bruce has done her own singing ever since.

Voice dubbing has been going on since the talkies' earliest days. John Murray sang "Weary River" for Dick Barthelmess. Another voice ghosted for Corrine Griffith in "Divine Lady."

The practice was as well established as the dubbing of beautiful legs and slender, artistic hands for close-up shots.

Unseen Sock Scene

One of the funniest, most incongruous sights to be found around the studios is an occasional scene showing couples dancing and talking.

What the camera sees looks natural enough, because it picks up the players at waist-height and moves in for close-ups to catch expressions of ardor on the pan of the hero and the huskily whispered words of his gal-friend.

But if the camera suddenly should draw back and reveal the whole scene you'd get quite a start. For there would be the dancers, evening-clothed and in smart surroundings, tripping their measures while wearing grotesque flannel bed-socks over their shoes.

Reason for this is perfectly obvious—they wear the flapping foot-warmers so that no scraping of feet on the floor will be audible to the microphone.

After all, the main point was to get to Red River as soon as possible. And even if he was planning on seeing old Man Warren it would be the lesser of two evils to have him arrive with her, rather than to beat him to it.

The fact that he had caught up with her instead of trying to pass her and race ahead, somewhat allayed her fears about Josh Hastings' complicity in the matter. So, deciding to make the best of the situation, she accepted his company with as good a grace as she could muster.

"All right, if you want a hard gallop." In spite of herself, Kay couldn't keep her dislike entirely out of her tone, and she saw an ugly flash come into his eyes, and his mouth twist into a sneer.

Without waiting for an answer, Kay picked up Flicker's reins, and touched him with her heel. He

"Let Joe And Missus Davis Do It," State Department Says Of Worn Out Embassies

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1. — The question of what to do about dingy, unprepossessing American embassies abroad would seem to be practically solved.

The idea around the State department, at least, is that you just keep transferring Ambassador Joe Davies from post to post. Or, to be more specific, you transfer the wealthy former Marjorie Post—whom Joe recently married—from post to post.

Perhaps the way the boys at the department feel about the problem is best indicated by recalling the time when Davies, just appointed to his present ambassadorship at Moscow, asked Roosevelt what ought to be done about the Russian debt, and the President wisecracked back the suggestion that Mr. and Mrs. Davies assume it.

Dutcher

The old embassy at Moscow was treated to new bathtubs, plumbing, air-cooling and various other renovations when Ambassador and Mrs. Davies moved into it. The simple Russians were aghast at the display, according to cablegrams.

It was understood at the time that those twain would not stay in Russia long, but would be transferred to a livelier European capital. Right now the gossip about Mr. and Mrs. Davies emphasizes Berlin.

The American embassy at Berlin, it is pointed out, is or should be the old Bluecher palace. It has one of the best locations in the city and this government paid $1,700,000 for it. Unfortunately, fire destroyed the entire interior about the time of the purchase. Ambassador Dodd lives in a rented house. But, as they point out in whispers at the State department, that interior offers a splendid opportunity for Ambassador and Mrs. Davies.

They Can Thank Garner

The wealthy men recently named as tax avoiders can thank Vice President Jack Garner that they haven't been paraded down here before the joint tax evasion committee which has been hearing the Treasury officials tell how it's done and who does it.

Certain forces within the administration—including, perhaps, Roosevelt himself—had fondled the idea that the "culprits" should be subpoened and asked to explain their tax returns. This would have been in line with the administration's vague general policy of soaking the rich and sharing the wealth.

But one of the last things Garner did before leaving town was to appoint the senatorial wing of the committee from among the oldest members, in point of service, of the Finance committee, which meant the most conservative members such as King of Utah, Glass of Virginia, Harrison of Mississippi and George of Georgia. LaFollette of Wisconsin went on because he happened to be the Finance committee's highest ranking minority member. Most House appointees also were conservative.

The result was that the committee decided it wouldn't call witnesses, except for the Treasury officials and the hearings have been quite tame.

"Garner's last act of sabotage," say some of the disgusted New Dealers.

Short Weight At Chains

The House of Representatives recently refused to pass a committee bill which would have imposed an income tax on residents of the District of Columbia—obviously because the lawmakers didn't want to tax their own incomes. One of its substitutes was a tax on chain stores, expected to yield $750,000 and proposed by Congressman Martin Dies of Texas. This was another victory for Congressman Wright Patman of Texas, who is forever warring on the chains.

Of great aid to Patman and Dies in their propaganda for the bill was a report of local weights and measure officials, who secretly checked the weight of 81 purchases—dressed poultry being selected for the experiment—from the stores of one large chain.

Of the 81 purchases, 68 were found to be short weight, 13 full weight and not one overweight.

"There must be some system there," declared Patman—and the House voted for the chain store tax.

TWICE IN 41 YEARS
HUMBOLDT, Ia. (AP)—When Dr. A. H. Swallume was a young physician at Earleville, Ia., in 1896 he came to Humboldt on a fishing trip. When he left he stored his fishing pole in a barn here.
He came here again from Florida this month to try his luck. In a corner of the old barn, where he had left it 41 years ago, he found his old fishing pole.
He used it.

Court's Ruling Draws Study

A decision Monday of the U. S. court of appeals at Washington, D. C., may mean that several hundred Lubbock and South Plains farmers may recover some of the money they invested in Bankhead cotton exemption certificates in 1935 and 1936, according to authoritative opinion in Lubbock.

When they may recover, however, is in extreme doubt as an appeal by the tax division of the department of justice from the decision favoring four Alabama and Mississippi farmers is regarded as certain.

It is not believed that there is enough money on hand to pay 100,000 producers who bought $3,500,000 worth of certificates through the pool. Purchasers from an earlier pool of $2,500,000 worth of certificates also may recover, if money is available.

Recovery To Be Drawn Out

Recovery will be a matter of months. Even if the appeal is not made to the higher court, department of justice leaders must study the decisions, then have department of agriculture officials work out for approval, necessary forms and papers. When these are approved, the forms must be printed and distributed through cotton states.

It will be fall, probably, before the forms can be made, if then. After that months may elapse before the necessary supporting information for each claimant can be assembled.

Other Questions May Appear

Many other legal questions may also come up to hinder final payment, if any is made.

Most of the certificates purportedly sold in cash to farmers for around $20 a bale. Whether the actual transaction was for that amount is not known in many cases.

Farmers who bought from the pool paid cash to the pool and those who pooled certificates were paid either in full or in percentage of the portion sold. Practically all of these have been settled. Now the rebate, if any is to be made, will be made, is not known.

Officials Here In Dark

Extension service officials here are in the dark, they state, as to what will or can be done, towards probable settlements. No word has come from College Station or the U. S. department of agriculture on the attitude on the decision.

It would entail endless work to check back local records in each county agent's office to determine those who have purchased certificates.

Hollywood, cashing a check and driving this 100 miles with her.

"Did you turn around and go home to mother then?" Hahn asked.

Brill said no, that they went to Tijuana, back to San Diego, to El Centro and then to Yuma. During that time he had alternating periods of mental blankness, he said.

Rosemary Nelson testified she was with Brill from noon Easter Sunday to 2 a. m. Monday.

Says He Was Drunk

Miss Nelson said she drove Brill home at 2 a. m. because he was drunk. On cross-examination she was asked just how drunk he was.

"Oh, I wouldn't say he was really drunk," she testified. "He could still talk."

Preceding Brill on the stand, his mother, Mrs. Mary Brill, said she had seen her son "pass out" several times from drinking.

She declared he has a stated allowance of only $15 a week and out of this has been making payments on an expensive automobile.

War Tension

between Soviet gunboats on the Amur and Japanese land forces.

The Japanese ambassador delivered to M. Stomoniakoff, vice-commissar in the Russian foreign office, a strong warning for the evacuation of Russian troops from the islands.

Conference Arranged

Then he arranged a conference with Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs.

Stomoniakoff also protested, charging Japan was responsible for the outbreak of hostilities along the far-eastern boundary of Soviet Russia and the Japanese-inspired state of Manchoukuo.

The Japanese ambassador declared Japan intends to protect fully Manchoukuo's claim to the territory which the Soviets assert belong to them under two treaties signed with China in 1858 and 1860 before Manchoukuo became an independent state.

Shigemitsu's midnight interview with Stomoniakoff was said to have ended "inconclusively," after Stomoniakoff told Shigemitsu that he was not authorized to deal with the question of troop withdrawal.

Flocks Of Turkeys In Demand As Grasshopper Eradicators

BALLINGER, July 1 (AP)—M. F. Lett, manager of the Runco Poultry association and a director of the Southwestern Turkey Growers association said today that flocks of turkeys are in demand as grasshopper eradicators.

"When grasshoppers are plentiful, as they are now" said Lett "a grown turkey catches and consumes from 400 to 700 grasshoppers daily, government tests show."

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, down 4 to 7 points on lower Liverpool cables and under liquidation and foreign selling. July 12.00; Oct. 12.04; Dec. 12.01; Jan. 12.08; March 12.10; May 12.11.

Favorable crop prospects were having more influence on trade sentiment and following the call offers increased from Wall street and foreign sources.

Prices eased to or below the 12-cent level in a number of positions and on the lower levels attracted additional offerings. At the same time some trade buying and covering were encountered. Trading was fairly active on the decline that carried Oct. off from 12.07 to 12.00. Prices shortly after the first half hour were at the lows and at net losses of 5 to 14 points.

Distant positions were easier than the nearby. Only two July notices were issued this morning and there was a consequent further narrowing of the July discount under October.

At Liverpool the market eased under the influence of weakness at Bombay and large private American crop estimates issued yesterday.

The market became quieter later in the morning but price changes were narrow. The early pressure let up but buying was not aggressive and rallies were feeble.

October at midday was selling at 12.08 with prices generally 6 to 10 points net lower. The weather map, showing generally clear conditions with only a few light scattered showers and the forecast for generally fair weather in the eastern belt, were considered favorable.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 1 (AP) — Cotton opened steady in moderate trading today and initial transactions showed losses of 3 to 10 points.

Decidedly lower Liverpool cables and circulation of additional notices for 500 bales of July cotton were the depressing influences. Offerings consisted mostly of liquidation by tired longs and profit taking by recent buyers.

July opened at 12.00, October at 12.04, December at 12.08, January at 12.11, March at 12.20, and May at 12.21 bid.

After rallying a few points from the opening lows the market encountered renewed selling and towards the end of the first half hour active positions were 9 to 13 points net lower.

Liverpool reported July liquidation and general selling, particularly Bombay, found only scale-down support. Favorable weather, large private crop estimates and lack of confidence were the depressing factors.

Only four or five projects remain to be planned.

Two Are Charged In Shooting Of Man And Woman At Denton

DENTON, July 1 (AP)—Otis Hudson and Dewey Burns, both of Denton, were under charges of murder today in connection with the slaying of Leroy Franks here Monday night. Mrs. Franks was wounded in the altercation.

County Attorney Gerald Stockard said Hudson told him the pistol was discharged during a scuffle. Burns was quoted by Stockard as saying he had been struck on the head and did not know what happened.

Hudson and Burns were arrested at Decatur.

Allred Offers To Trade Mexico One Alleged Swindler For Three Alleged Murderers

AUSTIN, July 1 (AP) — Gov. James V. Allred has offered to trade Mexico one alleged swindler for three alleged murderers.

Replying to a request from the governor of Nuevo Leon, Mexico, for return from San Antonio of a man accused in the Mexican state of fraud of more than $100,000, Allred indicated he would not grant it unless Mexico sent back three men charged in San Antonio with the slaying of Quirino and Eufemia Ramos.

Allred said the Texas request for custody of the trio, Juan Morin, Jose Morin and Jose Garcia, had been pending for several months.

More Evaders Of Taxes Are Announced

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 1—A congressional committee received testimony today that Alfred Sloan, jr., Myron C. Taylor, John Hay Whitney and Ed Wynn saved some $700,000 in taxes by incorporating yachts, country estates, racing stables or personal talent.

Arthur H. Kent, treasury attorney, also informed the senate-house committee on tax evasion and avoidance that more than half a dozen other individuals had accomplished similar tax reductions of another $700,000.

Saved $1.8,528 On Yacht

He said Sloan, president of General Motors corporation, saved $128,528 on his yacht Rene; Taylor, or his wife, from $4,400 to $16,800 on their large residences; Whitney, well known for his interest in horse racing, $396,125 on his stables; and Wynn, actor, radio entertainer and show producer, $196,728 by turning over his contracts to his own corporations.

In New York, Sloan called the treasury's figuring "illogical" declaring all deductions he made were legal, he said that 80 cents out of every dollar of his income last year went to the federal or state governments or to charity.

Fish Demands Probe

Soon after Kent had finished his presentation, Representative Fish (R-NY) took the house floor to urge again that the comptroller scrutinize the tax returns of President Roosevelt. He said the chief executive himself "is using legal loopholes" and has "admitted that he is using them."

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said Fish would be given a "fair opportunity" to present any material he might desire, adding:

"I challenge the statement that the president has resorted to such methods of tax avoidance."

In 1935 alone, Kent said, 24 internal revenue agents in various parts of the country found that 51 individuals reported net incomes aggregating $13,325,155 and claimed reductions of $3,176,278 for losses on farms and racing stables.

Tension Increasing Over Pickers Union

EDINBURG, July 1 (AP) — Chief of Police S. B. Bledsoe of Weslaco today warned tension was increasing in the Rio Grande valley between cotton farmers and organizers of cotton pickers who have appeared in this section in the last 10 days.

Friction arising from demands of the organizers for a $1 per hundred pounds rate and affiliation with the American Federation of Labor was reported extant in every portion of the valley.

John Arrant, an organizer, and Tom D. Blackwell, Weslaco farmer, climaxed an argument with a fist fight today on the town's main street. No action was taken.

Hidalgo County Sheriff R. T. Daniel warned peace officers to be prepared for possible violence. Cotton farmers generally were reported determined on a 60 cent a hundred rate for pickers.

W. K. Coley and Dan Morales led Edinburg pickers in a discussion last night of possible affiliation with the A. F. of L.

Trouble Is Facing Russia And Japan

TOKYO, July 1. (Thursday) (AP)—Japanese newspapers charged today that Russia has a fleet of 40 warships, heavy contingents of troops, airplanes and tanks ready for action along the Amur river on the Siberian frontier, where three Russian gunboats were reported yesterday to have engaged in battle with Japanese-Manchoukuoan artillery.

One Russian gunboat was sunk, another disabled and a third forced to flee, Japanese army advices said in an account of yesterday's battle off Sennufu island, one of a small group claimed both by Manchoukuo and by Russia.

Describing the Soviet flotilla which figured in the Amur river clash, the newspaper Asahi said the fleet was composed of 40 modern warcraft.

The newspaper Nichi Nichi declared that Russian troops had mobilized along the river between Khabarovsk, Siberia, and Blagoveschensk, ready for action. There were 300,000 troops, including ten infantry divisions and three cavalry divisions, Nichi Nichi said, and a thousand airplanes, 60 armored motor trucks and a thousand tanks.

Japanese forces also are being established along the river area, advices here said.

Jury Decides That Woman Is Entitled To Man's Estate

DALLAS, July 1 (AP)—A jury decided yesterday that the $100,000 estate of the late J. C. Hooper, elderly bachelor, should go to Miss Isabel Hutchison, 62, a music teacher his will named as principal beneficiary.

The jury found he was of sound mind when he wrote the will and that undue influence, as charged by 40 contesting relatives, was not brought to bear in the bequest. There had been testimony from contestants that Hooper was "woman crazy" and was unduly influenced in behalf of Miss Hutchison.

Among those pictured above are the three state board of control members charged with the responsibility of selecting the site for the $817,000 West Texas hospital for mental cases for which the last legislature made appropriation, and for which Lubbock's final argument was voiced last night. Hopping, chairman of the site committee; and Glen Hess, committee member.

Paul Whiteman To Ride In Cowboy Reunion Parade

(Special To The Avalanche)

STAMFORD, July 1 — Paul Whiteman, jazz king who has gone western, will ride with the governors of three states at the head of the grand parade at the Texas Cowboy Reunion on July 2. The reunion will last three days starting July 1.

Whiteman's acceptance of an invitation to attend the reunion and appear in the parade has just been received. The three governors accepted some time ago. They are Governor Clyde Tingley of New Mexico, Governor Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas and Governor Jas. V. Allred of Texas. Governor Allred is an annual visitor at the reunion.

Bands Are To March

Five brass bands will march in the parade, Warren B. Tayman, parade chairman announced. They are the Abilene Eagles High School band, Haskell Municipal band, Breckenridge High School band, Cisco High School band and the American Legion band of Stamford.

The parade promises to be the biggest in the history of the reunion being more than a mile in length. Probably two hundred cowboys, fifty cowgirls, besides junior cowboys and other riders will be in the procession. Chuck wagons just in from the spring round-ups on West Texas ranches will rumble along the streets, drawn by mule teams. An ancient stage coach will be among the units reminiscent of pioneer days. Decorated floats and other commercial entries promise to be larger number than ever before. The Business and Professional Women's club has charge of the commercial and individual entries this year.

Prizes will be awarded for the best entries in the various divisions of the parade as follows: commercial entries, first prize $25; second $15; best out-of-town entry, $10; most typical ranch entry $10; best individual entry $10; juvenile entry $10.

Besides the grand parade which starts at 11 a. m. on July 2, lesser parades will be held on the other two days, July 1 and July 3.

FLORENCE, Ariz., July 1 (AP)—Mark T. Clemens and W. J. Clemens, who recently purchased the $150,000 livestock herd of Col. W. T. Johnson, San Antonio, Tex., will furnish all livestock to be used in the annual Madison Square garden, N. Y., rodeo next October, they announced today.

The herd, which includes bucking horses, parade horses, and cattle, will be left in San Antonio until September when it will be shipped East.

The Clemens brothers have engaged Evert Coleburns, Blackfoot, Ida., to manage the newly acquired livestock.

Ball Brothers Will Improve Plant In Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, July 1 (AP) — Ball brothers will spend $100,000 in improvements at their fruit jar plant here, it was announced last night by officials of the company.

The improvements, which are now underway, will increase production about 25 per cent. The plant, closed while the additional equipment is being installed, will reopen about July 15.

President Roosevelt Approves Extension Of 'Nuisance' Taxes

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — President Roosevelt signed today legislation extending for two years the so-called "nuisance" taxes which are designed to raise approximately $625,000,000 in revenue annually.

The taxes apply to a wide variety of products ranging from automobiles and trucks to furs and chewing gum. The bill also continues the 3-cent postage rate.

Chinese farmers, who compose almost 82 per cent of the 400,000,000 people in that country, own an average of half an acre of land each.

Hobbs, N. M.'s Mayor Is Young Like Town And Just As Progressive; Clay Mining Company His Latest Business Venture

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

He's democratic and in his early thirties.

He's only 5 feet 9 inches and 175 pounds—but appears to be 6 feet in inch and 190 pounds.

He's handsome and business-like—and he's the chief official of a remarkable town.

You have met the mayor of Hobbs, N. M., Ross Walker.

Walker, brother of M. I. Walker, proprietor of Walker hotel of Lubbock, has added a new "racket" to a diversity of business ventures in which he indulged over the past. He has organized a company, Red-Wan Clay company, named from Red, 2 1-2 years old and Wanda 14 months younger, his two children, and supplies from Castle Gap, 40 miles south of Odessa; four miles from Slaton, and a Shafter Lake, between Seminole and Odessa, the peculiar clay used by oil drillers to "mud off" gas and oil production.

Is Sold By The Tons

They clay is mined, just as are various minerals, and is pulverized and sold in 100-pound bags, by the tons, to oil companies over a great section of the producing section. Five to 10 tons at a time constitute the average order.

Ross Walker is mayor of an unusual township. Formerly there were rival townships—and rival factions. Within the past few weeks there has been effected a consolidation of the two towns—New Hobbs and Hobbs—James Murray, jr., former mayor of New Hobbs becoming a member of the city commission of the merged city and Jimmie Robinette, commissioner of New Hobbs, going over with him as a member of a board otherwise composed of Walker, Glen Dish and C. W. Jobe. All are well-established business men.

Has No Bonded Indebetdness

Hobbs enjoys numerous distinctions. First of all, it has no bonded indebtedness.

"Utilities are privately owned," said the mayor, in Lubbock this week. The city was born only about 1927 and, despite its population of approximately 14,000, has no sewerage system.

"The first bonds the city is likely to vote would be a sewerage system," said the young mayor, interspringling his ideas with a telephone conversation with A. B. Davis, manager of Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, relative to a road being constructed from Seminole to Hobbs across Gaines county.

Area Has 108 Rigs Going

Disputable ideas which formed around earlier development of the oil capital of New Mexico—there are 108 rigs running in Lea county now, not to mention several hundred producing wells—have been merged in the "good of the whole"—and the town has been changed recently to the official designation of a "city of first class." That necessitated a special election for city officials, which election will come up immediately. A mayor and four councilmen will be elected. So far, said Walker, he had not decided whether he would be a candidate, "and there is no ticket, so far as I have been advised." None had indicated they would be candidates, he said.

Town Is Building Rapidly

Walker, apparently, is more interested in discussing growth of Hobbs than in referring to his own business ventures. He said one Lubbock contractor, for instance, W. S. Moss, was engaged now in construction of several important business establishments there. Quickly he enumerates some of them: A $35,000 two-story building for Dashgo, office and store buildings; a store for Mrs. Morris Lipton; the Economy store; Jobe-Rollins automotive agency building—all on Turner street. He refers, too, to Kohler Funeral home's new building going up on North Turner—and numerous other structures.

There's a patter of conversation on depths of production horizons—round figures in each instance. At Hobbs, 4,200 feet; Monument, 3,890; Jal, 3,600; Seminole, 5,000, and so on.

Pipeline Development Talked

Then there's pipeline development. Right now there is being laid a line from Hobbs to Houston which will increase the load carried from 30,000 to 75,000 barrels daily. And there are three or four gasoline cracking plants. And Phillips will build a new gasoline plant south of Eunice.

Education is not being neglected, the mayor points out in the midst of a maze of figures. A new high school building has been constructed. Three hundred feet long. And a ward—possibly two ward schools—building will be constructed this fall.

With all the wealth of the city as deduced from recent development and from higher prices commanded by natural resources, Hobbs' tax rate has not increased—and "will not unless a bond issue should be voted," said the mayor. The township has been increased by 7 1-2 square miles, and its population rapidly becomes less static. Rural, as well as city, homes are being built; the educational system is being improved; roads are being built, notably that which comes indirectly to Lubbock through Seagraves, and churches are keeping pace.

"An ideal town, and one that not only has New Mexico's interest but, eventually, will concentrate the attention of most of the Southwest," summed up the city's young mayor.

Tax Inquiry

other insurance trust.

Clark and the Fiduciary Trust company are the trustees of each trust, the youthful-appearing lawyer asserted.

Referring to 1936 tax returns, Bruton said 16 individual returns were filed by the trustees, showing separate trust incomes aggregating $170,236 on which taxes totaled $10,930.

He said an individual exemption had been claimed for each trust and that the splitting of income among the sixteen trusts "resulted in a drastic reduction of surtaxes."

In response to questions from committee members, Roswell Magill, undersecretary of the treasury, said he had been working with legislative draftsmen and they agreed one "plug" that might be adopted to fill the trust fund loophole in the tax law would be elimination of exemptions where personal trusts are concerned.

Representative Crowther (R-NY) said he believed there had been "negligence on the part of the treasury" in failing to inform congressional committees working on tax legislation in recent years of "contentious cases" now being brought to light.

Magill said it was his impression this information had been presented.

The undersecretary testified he did not regard creation of single trusts as "illegal, or immoral" but said when one person forms a dozen, or more, trusts "I think congress better step in and do something about the law."

Decline Natural At This Time

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 1 — A government survey disclosed today farm prices have moved downward in recent weeks but still are well above a year ago.

Agriculture department economists said the decline was natural, resulting from approach of new marketing with larger supplies indicated.

They reported major farm products averaged 124 per cent of pre-war price levels in mid-June, a decline of 4 points from a month earlier, but 17 points above June 15 last year.

Marketing of winter wheat from Texas and Oklahoma dominated the wheat market recently, the survey said, as the grain dropped 9 cents a bushel to $1.09. This was 30 cents higher than a year ago.

Beef Cattle Higher

Beef cattle brought $1.14 more than on June 15, 1936.

Cotton prices lost half a cent a pound recently to average 12.4 cents in mid June, an even cent above the same date in 1936.

The survey showed prices of things the farmer must buy averaged 133 per cent of pre-war levels, a decline of a single point from a month earlier, and 13 points above a year ago.

Cotton Swings High, Then Melts On Crop Estimates

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP) — The first half of 1937 saw cotton prices swing up to the highest level since early 1930, then melt away before steadily advancing estimates of the size of this year's crop.

Prices moved narrowly during the opening months of the years, with the trade somewhat apprehensive of the market's ability to absorb heavy government sales of loan cotton.

The boom fever rocketing prices of other international staples during this period, however, gradually seeped into the cotton market, drawing support from the fact that mills were consuming the fibre at the fastest clip ever recorded.

Spot cotton in New York ran up from around 13 cents in February to 15 1-4 cents a pound on March 30, paying little attention to reports of increased acreage throughout the South.

Approximately 31,000,000 acres were planted to cotton in the 1936 season, and analysts hold roughly 35,000,000 acres have been seeded this year.

Weather has been distinctly favorable to date, and brokers estimate a harvest of some 14,000,000 bales, compared with 12,300,000 in 1936.

ens her sword, develops army and air force and holds off Japanese demands.

In Europe, where are most of the seeds of war, there are a score of possible troubles.

Germany has proclaimed a demand for return of her colonies, taken from her in war, and she has set the pace for arming nations.

Germany and Italy, leaders of fascism, are in agreement to oppose communism and act together on European politics.

Soviet Russia, with her army of a million and a quarter and thousands of war planes watches in two directions. Her leaders have immediate trouble with Japan and she has warned her people that Hitler's nazis covet the rich wheat fields of the Ukraine and Russia's wealth of minerals and oil. Inside the Soviets have troubles of their own, shown by the big spy hunt and the scores of executions of once-high officials.

Italy Finds Strength

Italy found new strength when Mussolini's forces swept through Ethiopia although Great Britain and the League of Nations said "hands off." Italy today stands with Germany in some of their fascist interests and both have confidence born of big war machines.

Almost as bad as war is the crisis in republican France where the Franc has fallen and an empty treasury expects to be shorn almost as much as France normally spend in a year.

Under the powder kegs is a seething, shifting surface of social unrest with fascism and communism the rallying points of hundreds of millions.

Witnesses Identify Photos Of Bandits As Escaped Convicts

PALESTINE, July 1 (AP)—Sheriff W. G. Rogers today notified Texas prison officials six witnesses had identified photographs as those of Hilton Bybee and James Rice, escaped Eastham farm felons, as the pair which held up a storekeeper Monday and fled with $35.

Bibee and Rice were credited with leading 17 convicts, all long-termers, in a break from the prison farm last week.

The sheriff said Bybee also was identified as the driver of a stolen Denton automobile found here. The robbed storekeeper was Dave Rogers of Pert.

NEW YORK, July 1. (AP)—The board of governors of the New York stock exchange ruled today the market would be closed on Saturday, July 3.

The ruling was made in response to a petition by members. The exchange will also be closed Monday, July 5, in observance of the Independence day holiday.

Flame Trail

shot ahead, impatient to be off after the delay, and like a flash put some distance between Kay and her unwelcome escort, who had been somewhat slower in starting.

Hoping that the man had taken her hint, and was going to let her go ahead alone after all, Kay bent forward and gently urged Flicker ahead.

Helplessly Pinioned

A sudden whirring sound made her start and straighten in the saddle with instant alarm. But before she could make any further move, she felt the loop of a lariat drop over her shoulders.

The next instant it tightened, and Flicker started at the sudden check, springing to one side as Kay made a desperate effort to free herself. Thrown off her balance, and held helpless by the rope pinioning her arms to her sides, she swayed in the saddle, and then felt everything grow black as she crashed to the ground.

It was only a minute or two before she came to herself again, but in that interval the Flying Six puncher had plenty of time to finish the job of tying her securely and rendering her absolutely helpless.

As Kay opened her eyes, stung into consciousness by the sharp pain of the ropes that cut cruelly into her wrists and ankles, she found him standing over her with a gloating, jeering expression that filled her with a sinking fear.

Resolutely forcing back her panic, she summoned all her wits and courage to her aid. Her only safety lay in getting a mental advantage over her assailant. Any sign of fear and she would be lost.

Struggling into a sitting position, she fixed him with blazing eyes. "How dare you do this?" she demanded, her voice firm with sudden outraged anger that actually did, for the moment, dispel her fear. "Cut me loose at once, if you don't want a necktie party when my outfit knows of this outrage!"

He laughed softly as his narrow gray eyes traveled with leisurely deliberation from her head to her feet.

Ted decides to nail down that option for Kay, tomorrow.
