United Automobile Workers To Ask Chrysler Corporation To Recognize Union; Other Troubles Reported

(By The Associated Press)

SPOKESMEN for 16 railway brotherhoods, claiming a membership of 800,000 "non-operating" railroad workers, shaped a request for a pay increase Monday.

They discussed the move at Chicago—where the heads of the five operating brotherhoods, representing the 300,000 men who man the nation's trains, recently approved a demand for a 20 per cent wage hike.

To Ask Chrysler

At the same time, employe and employer alike studied the United Automobile Workers' announced plan to ask the Chrysler corporation for recognition as sole bargaining agency for its 77,000 employes in nine cities. A similar move by the union led to the widespread strike in the plants of the General Motors corporation. Grievances left unsettled when that dispute was terminated were under discussion by representatives of both sides at Detroit.

Gov. Harold Hoffman of New Jersey coupled a warning that he would not tolerate "sit down" strikes with an attack on the Committee for Industrial Organization—the spearhead of unionization drives in the automotive, steel and oil industries.

Charges Defies Law

The C. I. O. he charged in a radio address, claimed "governmental blessing as it seizes private property, defies the law and denies the authority of the remaining 98 per cent of our people."

Refusal of officials of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation at North Chicago, Ill., to deal with C. I. O. chieftains left the "sit down" strike of 80 of its employes in status quo. The men received supplies for a long siege in the two factories they have held for six days.

Proxies employed by 82 wholesale dry goods dealers in New York picketed the headquarters of their employes union—contending the unionists refused to bargain collectively.

War Talk Booms Price Of Metals

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP) — Prices leaped spectacularly on the London metal exchange today as the nations of Europe began to scramble in a big way for metals used in the manufacture of war materials. Germany was prominent among the buyers.

The price of tin rose $30 a ton to approximately $1,245 a ton, the highest since 1928 and a rise of about $107 a ton since Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, announced plans for the loan to finance Britain's huge armament program just eight business days ago.

Feverish buying by both speculative interests and industries, helped by a brisk demand from the United States, where markets were closed, caused copper to jump as much as $30 a ton during the day to $349 a ton.

Traders and brokers, shouting and perspiring in their efforts to execute the seemingly unending stream of orders, envisaged the return of inflated world war prices when copper touched $765 a ton.

Snow Piles High In Midwest Areas

Drifts 20 To 25 Feet High Cover Highways In Minnesota, Iowa; Five Lives Lost

(By The Associated Press)

ZERO or sub-zero weather descended on most of the Midwest yesterday after week-end floods, near hurricane winds and heavy snows took at least five lives and spread destruction over a wide area.

MERCURY HITS 75 HERE

Sunday's pleasant sunshine, which drove the mercury to a higher of 62 degrees, was exceeded by Monday's broiling heat. A maximum of 75 degrees was established at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

At 9:30 o'clock at night warmth continued, thermometers at main line station of West Texas Gas company registered 49.5 degrees.

The day's low was 31 degrees, registered at 3 o'clock in the morning.

The forecast was for generally fair weather today and Wednesday, with somewhat colder weather in the north portion today and in the southeast portion of West Texas Wednesday.

Southern Minnesota and Iowa cleared highways buried under snow which in some places was piled in drifts 20 to 25 feet high. Temperatures generally in Minnesota were from zero to 10 below. North Dakota felt the sting of zero to 18 below temperature.

Motorists Marooned

Iowa dug out from under the worst snow drift blockade of the winter. Hundreds of motorists were marooned Saturday and Sunday. Several trains were stalled for hours.

Illinois, where flood waters took three lives, saw new hope in the cold wave. It froze the surface of Rock river and other streams and they began to fall. Galena, Ill., placed its flood loss between $250,000 and $300,000.

Southern Wisconsin's flood danger also was alleviated by the freezing weather. Rivers there were falling, but tens of thousands dollars worth of damage had been done. Northern Wisconsin faced the task of breaking through snow drifts ranging up to 20 feet high. Hurley, Wis., and Ironwood, Mich., measured their snow fall at 30 inches.

Winds Plague East

High wind plagued Vermont, Rhode Island and parts of New York. At Binghamton, N. Y., wet snow temporarily disrupted telephone and electric light service.

Fifteen members of a construction crew, marooned by snow since Christmas on the north rim of Grand Canyon in Arizona, reached a ranch house at the bottom of the mile deep gorge. Fifteen other men and two women remained at the snowbound lodge on the rim.

Several houses were demolished at Charlotte, N. C. The town of Norris, Tenn., site of the Norris dam, was without electricity because wind blew down their power lines.

Forecasts generally were for fair weather. In the Midwest continued cold was predicted.

Blockade Plan Being Pushed As War Rages

Spaniards Battle Desperately In Widespread Sectors Of Blood-Drenched Land While Blockade Is Prepared

(By The Associated Press)

Waring Spaniards battled desperately in widespread sectors of their blood-drenched land last night while in London plans neared completion for policing Spain's borders and coasts to supervise bans on foreign aid to the belligerents.

Portugals objections to a patrol on the Hispano-Portuguese border were withdrawn in an agreement with Great Britain announced in London by Lord Plymouth, chairman of the international "hands-off Spain" committee.

Lord Plymouth said Portugal had agreed sufficiently to enable Britain to undertake effective patrol of the border.

Russians Object

Only Russian objections to sea patrol duty in the rough Bay of Biscay were reported to the holding up final approval by the six nation sub-committee of the intertional committee of plans for a complete blockade of Spain.

The blockade is scheduled to become effective March 6.

Inside Spain the war raged from the far north in down through the central part of the country, around Madrid, to the south.

Drive To South

Other government troops drove an offensive southward on Leon, 55 miles south of Oviedo, to cut off possible insurgent aid for the beleaguered provincial capital.

Northeast and southeast of Madrid, belligerents were locked in major actions which the government defense commander, Gen. Jose Miaja, said, might be the decisive factor in the civil war.

Government commanders announced their battalions had regained control of the vital Madrid-Valencia highway, the capital's main artery for supplies.

"Strike" Proposed For Texas Solons

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—Rep. Ross Hardin of Prairie Hill today proposed a "strike" by the house of representatives.

He offered a resolution declaring the house would pass no revenue measures until a "genuinely liberal" old age pension law had been enacted.

The resolution said the house had said by resolution the raising of revenue for old age assistance was its most important problem, but other matters had delayed action and Governor James V. Allred had opposed liberalization.

Securities In Nation Struck

Two Millions A Day In Gold Of Foreign Countries Markedly An Influence; Government Branches On Watch

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Foreign gold, flooding into this country at the pace of more than $2,000,000 a day, has affected importantly the behaviour of American security markets, a number of Wall Street experts agreed today.

In an average session of the New York Stock exchange, several representative brokers estimated from five to ten per cent of the transactions result from the play of so-called "hot money."

To devise means of taming the nearly $8,000,000,000 in alien capital in the United States and make it harmless to the balance of American markets, three branches of the federal government have turned their attention.

Liquidation Influences Noted

In Washington the treasury, Securities and Exchange commission and Federal Reserve board are at work on a concerted plan to deal with the continued flow of money abroad into American investment.

Rapid liquidation of this huge sum and subsequent repatriation to the lands of its origin might, they are said to feel, provoke a major disturbance in our markets.

Wall Street brokers and bankers mostly express the view that save in the case of a major war, the danger of such a disturbance is remote.

Fears Expressed Operator Of Electra Station Is Hostage

ELECTRA, Feb. 22. (AP)—Two hours of vain searching strengthened officers' fears that Clarence Ronnsonville 22-year-old filling station operator, had been abducted during robbery of the station tonight.

Chief of Police Walter Suttle said a new model light car had been stolen from F. P. Hodge, wholesale oil distributor there, a few minutes before the station robbery, in which $78 was taken.

Ronnsonville was discovered to be missing when Tommy Rowe, another station employe, returned to the place and found the cash register empty.

Court Reform Battle Is To Start March 9

Supporters Of President's Plan Succeed In Getting Senate's Judiciary Committee To Set Date For Hearing

Long Fight Looms

Hearings May Continue For An Indefinite Period, Leaders Say; More Support Revealed For Reorganization

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Capitol Hill received notic today that the intensive phase of the gigantic struggle over President Roosevelt's court reorganization proposal would begin March 9.

Supporters of the presidential proposal succeeded in getting the senate judiciary committee to set that date for the beginning of hearings on the program to empower the president to name one new justice to the federal courts for each justice over 70 who refuses to retire.

Cummings First Witness

The committee acted without a record vote after rejecting motions that hearings be postponed until March 15 to 21. Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz) said Attorney General Cummings probably would be the first witness.

A vote of 13 to 5, the committee directed a favorable report on another court measure, which is supplimentary to the presidential program but which is comparatively non-controversial. It is the long-pending Sumners bill to premit the retirement of Supreme court justices at full pay upon reaching 70 years of age. Already passed by the house, it now will go to the senate floor.

Bobs Up At Conference

Meanwhile, the subject of revamping the Supreme court bobbed up incidentally at a White House conference, in which Mr. Roosevelt discussed his agricultural program with leaders of farm organizations. It was mentioned, participants said, as one of the things that must be borne in mind in shaping farm proposals.

Other developments:

Senator Burke (D-Neb), an avowed opponent of the president's bill to name new Supreme court justices, asserted in a radio speech that "the independence of the judiciary is undergoing the most insidious attack since the constitution was written." He asked that the youth of the nation rally to the opposition.

Senate Should Act First

Speaker Bankhead told a press conference the senate should act first on the persident's bill. Because the senate has the responsibility of approving appointments to the federal bench, he said, it has a deeper interest in the legislation.

Pension Study Is To Be Conducted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The senate finance committee ordered a study today to see if it is necessary for the social security system to accumulate a gigantic reserve fund of $47,000,000,000.

It has been estimated that the reserve will reach that figure by 1980 if the present law remains unchanged. Some critics have maintained that such a reserve would be unnecessary and unmanageable.

The committee directed three of its members, Chairman Harrison (D-Miss), Senator Byrd (D-Va) and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), to join with Social Security board officials in setting up an advisory council composed of disinterested experts to make a study of the old age pension section of the act.

Rep. James P. Buchanan Of Texas Dies Of Heart Attack

Veteran Chairman Of Appropriations Is Fatally Stricken

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. —Rep. James P. Buchanan (D-Tex), economy advocate who held the chairmanship of the powerful house appropriations committee, died tonight after a heart attack. He was 73 years old.

His death took from the congressional finance post a frequent critic of the administration's "lump sum" appropriations.

Despite his personal penchant for economy, however, the veteran Democrat had accepted responsibility for winning house approval of huge sums requested by the president.

Pilated Measures Through

He piloted through the chamber the $4,880,000,000 work relief appropriation, largest single money measure in the country's history, and also saw national defense expenditures reach a new peace time high during his committee leadership.

Buchanan will be succeeded as appropriations chairman by the oldest member of the house, Rep. Taylor (D-Colo). Taylor, who will be 80 his next birthday and has not been in the best of health recently, is expected to pass on some of the chairmanship's arduous duties to other committee members.

Stricken Back In 1936

Buchanan's fatal heart attack was foreshadowed as far back as January, 1936.

At that time he spent three consecutive nights, until after midnight, in a dentist's chair. A short time later his heart began troubling him and he went to the hospital for three weeks.

Apparently recovered, he returned to his desk again to tackle his tremendous job. A bronchial cough developed.

With the beginning of the present congress this January, Buchanan told friends he was more nervous and tired than usual, but continued his work. He was stricken suddenly today and taken to naval hospital.

Widow, Son Survive

Buchanan is survived by his widow and one son, James P. Buchanan, jr. both of whom were present when he died at 10:40 p. m.

Only nine house members have served longer than Buchanan. He was elected April 5, 1913, to succeed Albert Sidney Burlson, whom President Wilson appointed postmaster general and the tenth Texas district sent him back in each election thereafter.

He took the chairmanship of the house appropriations committee at the start of the seventy-third congress in March, 1933, when the late

Ten-Year Sentence Is Given Engineer For Extortion Try

DALLAS, Feb. 22. (AP)—An attempt to extort $15,000 from R. L. Thornton, Dallas banker, brought a ten-year penitentiary sentence today to Walter Burks Dunnahoo, 29-year-old engineer.

Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson heard family friends describe Dunnahoo as a "psycopathic case" before passing sentence on his plea of guilty to using the mails in an attempt to extort.

Survivors included Mrs. Byron Gist of Amarillo, Mrs. O. L. Jameson of Knox City and Mis. Elizabeth Bryant of Memphis.

"He Doesn't Work Here," "Sit-Downer" Boss Says Regarding Union President

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Feb. 22.—Walter L. Fry, president of Fry Products, inc., who went on a sit-down of his own after 188 of his employes had struck, said today he had refused to confer with Herbert Brown, organizer for the United Automobile Workers of America.

"I never saw this man or heard of him before," said Fry, whose strike made him the nation's first "boss sit-downer."

"He doesn't work here. This is a matter between myself and my employes. I will meet any or all of them at any time. But I do not believe out situation here warrants outside interference.

I want my employes to do what they always have done in the past—come to me and talk over their problems. If they had done that before they struck, there wouldn't have been any strike."

Fry said he had received no formal demands from his employes but had heard rumors they wanted double their present wages. That, he said, would be "ridiculous."

"Our payroll last year was $106,000 and the company's profits were $32,000," he said.

Federal Programs Have Contributed To Misuse Of Land, Parley Charges

Subsidization Blamed For Promulgating Bad Practices

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Feb. 22. — Uncle Sam's farm agencies were told here today that recent federal farm aid programs have contributed to land misuse rather than aided promulgation of better farming methods.

Land use experts of the Resettlement administration made the charges during a three-hour discussion before the regional advisory committee on land use, which opened a two day session this morning.

Has Subsidized Production

"The AAA has subsidized production of wheat on land where wheat should not be produced," charged Roger Stewart, Resettlement administration coordinator for Kansas.

Stewart had just finished a review of rainfall and crop production in a 25-county area of Kansas, which he said is comparable to the entire plains territory of Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

Low Crops Cited

He said only 10 wheat crops of eight bushels or more to the acre have been made in this territory in the last 20 years.

He declared 52 per cent of the farmers in this area are tenants and that government programs have resulted in tenants being "pushed off their farms" and the owners operating them themselves to secure all benefit payments.

Morris Evans, Amarillo, touched briefly on money spent by the federal government in the wheat belt in recent years, and asked: "Has there been a worthwhile return on

License Bill Is Advanced

Measure Would Put Teeth In Drivers Licensing Law By Requiring Examinations For Driving Ability

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 22.—A bill to put teeth in the motor vehicle drivers licensing law advanced a step in the house of representatives today.

The house engrossed the measure and passed another extending the powers of municipalities to regulate public utilities while the senate was in adjournment for Washington's birthday anniversary.

Would Require Examinations

The licensing bill would require examinations of motorists with the exception of those who applied for permits within three months after the law was effective and demonstrated they had driven satisfactorily for not less than a year.

The utilities measure, approved 117 to 0, would extend regulatory powers to all cities, in contrast with the present statute which applied only to those of more than 2,000 population, and would include telephone companies. It also would limit the return on investments to eight per cent, compared with a minimum of 10 per cent now specified.

Refuse To Consider Amendment

By a vote of 55 to 68, the house refused to set aside the regular order of business and take up a resolution to ratify the child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

Meanwhile, several committees held hearings and more bills were introduced in the final rush to get under the deadline to be drawn Thursday. After that time, bills may be introduced only by the consent of four-fifths of the members.

The revenue and taxation committee sent to sub-groups for study bills to increase taxes on coin-operated music machines and license

State's Appeal Courts Would Be Abolished

Rep. Penrose Metcalfe Of San Angelo Proposes Measure To Enlarge Supreme Court To Nine Members

District Courts, Including 99th Of Lubbock County, Would Be Changed; Salary Savings Cited In Measures

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 22.—A proposal to abolish the 11 courts of civil appeals and increase the Supreme court from three to nine members reached the legislature today.

Rep. Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo, the author, said elimination of the civil appellate courts would save taxpayers $280,000 annually under the present scale of judges salaries or $366,000 under increases recently authorized.

AUTHOR NOT CONTACTED

Efforts of the Morning Avalanche late Monday night to get further information regarding a shakeup of the state judiciary and abolishing of 21 courts failed to locate the measure's author, Rep. W. H. Adkins of Brady.

"The author of the redistricting bill is unavailable," Austin reported by the Associated Press, which clarified the new setup locally by adding: "The house bill gives Lubbock, Crosby and Garza county one district court, to be known as the 72nd."

"The senate bill, offered by Olan R. Van Zandt of Tioga, does not offer to abolish the 99th district court," the Associated Press further explained.

Savings In Time, Cost

"The greatest saving, however, will be to litigants in time and cost," Metcalfe said. He pointed out decisions by the intermediate courts were not conciusive and final judgments were sometimes delayed for years.

He cited the case of Tally vs. Texas Employers insurance association in which the employee was injured in 1928. Nine years later, it has been sent back to district court for re-trial.

Lubbock's 99th Court Would Be Abolished Under Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—Rep. W. H. Adkin's of Brady today introduced a bill which would redistrict the state judiciary and abolish 16 regular and five special district courts.

A similar proposal, eliminating 28 courts, has been submitted in the senate by Olan R. Van Zandt of Tioga.

Proponents claimed the courts at present were unequally distributed with some handling more than 400 cases a year while others tried less than 100. They said a saving of thousands of dollars would be effected in elimination of judges' and clerks' salaries.

Among others, the house bill would abolish the 99th district court at Lubbock and make the county part of the 72nd judicial district to include Crosby and Garza counties. Terry, Lynn, Bailey, Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum, Hockley and Cochran would be grouped in the 106th district.

The 64th district would be composed of Lamb, Hale, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe and Floyd.

Haskell, Stonewall, King, Dickens, Kent, Throckmorton and Shackelford would make up the 39th district whole Wilbarger, Foard, Hardeman, Cottle and Motley could comprise the 46th.

Local DAR Chapter Joins Others Of United States In Celebrating Holiday

The Woman's Angle

by Margaret Turner

THE observation of Washington's birthday Monday recalled a circular letter the first president wrote to governors, dated June 8, 1783, in which he revealed the type of government he felt that he and his compatriots had set in motion and under which he believed the United States would some day lead the world. Take it for what it may be worth.

"There are four things which I humbly conceive are necessary to the well being—even to existence of U. S. as an independent power:

1. An indissoluble union of states under one federal head.

2. A social regard to public justice.

3. The adoption of a proper peace establishment and the prevalence of that pacific and friendly disposition among the people of the United States, which will induce them to forget local prejudices and policies—to make these mutual concessions which are requisite to the general prosperity and in some instances to sacrifice their individual advantages to the interest of the community."

MORE ON ART

OUR interest in surrealism grows daily. Monday afternoon we taked briefly with Mrs. Clarence S. Mast who has painted some gorgeous still lifes and who knows more about art than most of us. She questioned us as follows concerning surrealism. "Is it 'realizing the ideal by idealizing the real?'"

IN THE MAIL

DEAR MISS TURNER: You accused me and my verse of being silly. I very humbly accepted your version. Now I have my very private opinion of "surrealism" being run in your column. Yours very silly, Smith Shaw, sr.

Well Mr. Smith Shaw, sr., to be very trite we quote, "It's everyone to his liking, said the old lady as she kissed the cow." For the enlightenment of our readers we'll say that some time back Mr. Shaw sent in some verses about fat women and skinny women wearing bathing suits. Being a fat woman, we couldn't appreciate the humor and having even fatter readers (we hope) we decided against printing the verses. As much as we cherish our men readers, we direct your attention to the fact that this is the woman's page, and our first thought is to try to please them.

COMES also a letter from a member of the Lubbock Garden club, whose identity we will not reveal. He, she or it writes:

"At the last meeting of the Garden club there was a committee appointed to consider forming another garden club. I feel this is a big mistake. Neither do I approve of the present limitation of membership. A garden club should be open to all who are interested in gardening and landscaping and who want to belong to the club. This should be the sole requirement for membership.

"Excuse for the present limitation is that no more can belong and continue meeting in the homes. There are too many now to meet in the homes. There are plenty of larger places to meet. Why not select one of them and let everyone join who cares to? If this were done we would have one of the most outstanding clubs in the country.

"Members who are opposed to enlarging the club say that if the meetings are taken out of the homes, the members will lose interest. If they do they had better get out and let someone take their place who is anxious to know on which side of the house to plant Mahonias to get the best results.

"If another club is formed all present members will want to stay in the old club. New officers will have to be found to do the same work the present ones are doing. Everyone is busy and this is a useless burden. The same program could be enjoyed by all who are interested, with no more work for anyone."

We'd like comment from other members of the club. As much as we like flowers and as much as we appreciate the work of the Lubbock Garden club we are going to stay out of this argument. One time when we tried to help we were hopelessly squelched. It happened this way.

On a pilgrimage to different yards we stood by a club member who was bending to touch a particularly lovely bloom. Suddenly we noticed a GREAT big worm—one of the kind that is so fond of tomatoes—those green ones, the sight of which makes gooseflesh crawl on your arm. Quickly we said, "Oh look out, there's a worm."

Drawing herself up in all her dignity that C. M. said haughtily, "I'm not looking for worms."

However, if any one is looking for an argument we'll be glad to hear from you.

No Friction Is Seen In Drive

American Federation Of Labor And Lewis' Committee For Industrial Organization Not To Row In Oil Union

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Feb. 22.—Labor leaders said today a drive to unionize the oil industry workmen, set to open April 5, would cause no friction between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The announcement was made after a "get together" conference between heads of the Houston labor and trades council, local affiliate of the A. F. of L., and the International Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of America, a branch of John L. Lewis' C. I. O.

Talked Over Plans

Their statements concerned plans for the unionization movement in the Texas and Louisiana coastal regions.

Secretary George A. Wilson of the Houston labor and trades council said local central councils and the state branch of A. F. L. had received instructions from President William Green not to engage in any fight with the C. I. O.

Reports that the A. F. of L. would compete with the C. I. O. had followed an official announcement that Lewis' organization planned a nationwide drive to unionize the oil industry's some 1,000,000 workmen.

Are Extended Welcome

"We welcome the oil workers in their organization drive," said President A. J. Bannon of the trades council, "and there is no antagonism among any to the unions in this vicinity."

Roy Sessions, president of the local oil workers union, and P. G. Wilson, international executive councilman for district 4, issued a joint statement, saying:

"The oil workers of this district and the international union, as well, have no fight with the A. F. of L."

Evidence Of Mechanical Trouble Seen As Transport Plane's Motor Is Found

(By The Associated Press)

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 22.—Evidence of serious mechanical trouble was found today, airline officials said, in the right motor of a transport plane which plunged 11 persons to death in San Francisco bay the night of Feb. 9.

Mechanics dismantled the motor, hauled by grappling hooks from the bay bottom, and C. E. Johnson, division superintendent of United Airlines, operators of the ship, said the reduction gear in the engine was broken.

Connects With Propeller

This gear connects the motor with the propeller.

Parts of the propeller and pieces of the right wing, torn from the hurtling plane, also were recovered from the water today.

The motor was located three-quarters of a mile from where the plane struck, indicating the possibility the 12-ton, 21-passenger craft, which hit the water at a sharp angle, lost its right engine shortly before the plunge.

Pilot Not At Fault

Experts, who suggested mechanical failure as a cause of the tragedy, testified at a coroner's inquest and a department of commerce hearing that there was no evidence to show Pilot A. R. Thompson, a veteran flier, was at fault.

Officials did not comment on what might have caused the broken gear, whether this caused the motor to tear itself loose, or whether loss of the engine plummeted the plane to destruction.

A sister, Mrs. B. D. Posey, said Mrs. Stevenson suffered a nervous breakdown and disappeared last Wednesday night.

The board authorized enlargement of the student mess hall facilities to include a basement dining room seating 600. That would bring the total mess hall seating capacity to 3,400. Construction was ordered to begin immediately.

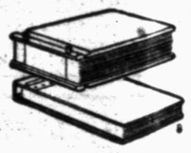

When Accumulated Mucus causes
STOPPED-UP NOSTRILS
If people realized how delicate the mucous membranes of nasal passages really are there would be far less blowing—far less trying to drive accumulated mucus out by force.
There is a much gentler way to do this. If your nostrils are stopped up with mucus, just insert a little Mentholatum in them.
You'll be surprised at the gentle and quick way in which Mentholatum breaks up the accumulated mucus. You'll be delighted, too, as you notice how the stuffiness is relieved and you can breathe more freely again.

"A little over a year ago I changed to Luckies because I enjoy the flavor of their tobacco. Ever since, my throat has been in fine shape. As my voice and throat mean so much to me in my business, it's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke. So I'm strong for Luckies!"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.
Mr. Cooper verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. Tech Cagers Razzle-Dazzle Arizona U., 39-24; Fairy Hill Cops Santa Anita

Long Distance Shooting Puts Raiders Ahead

Teams Clash Tonight In Last Game Of Series And Closing Game On Tech's Schedule; Seniors Bow Out

In a dazzling display of long distance shooting, the Texas Tech Reds took the University of Arizona Wildcats to an old-fashioned drubbing last night and retain a mathematical chance in the Border conference basketball championship race. The final score was 39 to 26.

Coach Fred Enke's Wildcats from Tucson were caught flatfooted and by surprise at the very start, when the Reds cut loose with their heavy guns to blast virtually all the pepper from the hitherto high-flying Arizonans. They looked around at each other and at their coach sort of helpless when —

Making 'Em Count

Taking the tip-off, Judge Garrett whirled and fired from near midcourt for a bucket; catching a pass in the corner, his back to the goal, Wilkinson pivoted, sent a one-handed shot through the netting; taking definite aim from the sidelines, beyond the free-throw circle, Hugh Snodgrass didn't even touch the iron ring; running away from the goal, Iggy Morris turned quickly, heaved one that swished. It was Wilkinson's turn again, and he counted. Snodgrass missed one, but followed up and made it good.

And so with seven heaves at the backboard, the Reds counted six field goals and were off with a 12-0 lead less than three minutes after the game started.

The victory was a personal triumph for each of the four seniors in the starting lineup. Those four—Garrett, Snodgrass, Wilkinson and Crews—wind up their collegiate basketball careers tonight, appear before the public as Tech stars for the last time when they meet the Wildcats in the second game of the series and the final game of Tech's 1937 schedule.

If they carry on tonight like they started last night, it can be truthfully said that Huffman's hustling seniors closed their careers in a blaze of glory.

The odds were slightly against Tech when the series opened. Arizona being the champion and still in the running for a second straight title. Last night's defeat put the pressure on the Wildcats, who now need to win from Tech tonight and sweep a two-game series from University of New Mexico Thursday and Friday nights to retain a mathematical chance. New Mexico's Lobos defeated Tech twice recently, the only team to sweep a series from the Big Reds.

Surprise: It Isn't Rough

Tonight's game begins at 8 o'clock. An hour or so earlier, the Texas Tech Picadors clash with the Tip-Top Mystery Men, whom they defeated last night 42 to 12, in a curtain raiser.

It was a different Tech team that played last night. There was no time for fun and frivolity. The Raiders got down to business, kept their mouths shut and played basketball, trying to make every pass and every shot count. Except in the matter of free shots, they pretty well did it.

Promise of a "rough game" was unfulfilled, as both teams played seriously and without horseplay. Only one player was banished, he was a Wildcat, John Barringer, center. Ten fouls were called against the visitors, a dozen against Tech, and there was a minimum of jeering.

Defensively and offensively, the Raiders played perhaps their best game of the season. Approximately half their points were made from long shots, but they were effective under the basket. Cotton Wigington, going into replace Paul Morris, thrilled the crowd with his daring dribbling down the court, through a mass of Arizona defenders and up under the basket for crips. He sank three of these, and made one free throw for a swell evening.

For the second game in a row, it was Captain Hugh Snodgrass, whose clever dribbling and passing will be seen for the last time tonight, who took scoring honors. He poured in five field goals. Judge Garrett made four. Wilkinson made three and one free shot. Crews added five points and played a clever defensive and floor game.

Cat Stars Controled

Lorry Di Grazia, heralded prize in the Arizona lineup, was all over the court, handling himself and the ball well, but restrained to two points during the evening, both of them from the free-throw line. Barringer, lanky center, made eight points to lead his side. Coltrin, highly publicized guard and goal shooter, made but two free throws, but his floor game did not go unnoticed.

After Tech's opening gesture of a dozen points, the Wildcats began to catch on, Ralph Warford, not exactly a congenial person, opened the Wildcat scoring with a field goal. Barringer made his first one. Wilkinson for Tech and Coltrin for Arizona made free shots, and Garret looped another field goal. Jackson, replacing Warford, shot a field goal and Barringer another before Crews made his first one. Jackson made a free touch and Snodgrass another field goal as the half ended, 19-10.

Reserves Wind It Up

Crews opened the second half with a sizzling field goal. Coltrin made a free one for the visitors, and Wiginton, who had stayed in the game after replacing Morris, dribbled through for a crip. Di Grazia made his offensive gesture of the evening then, sinking both free shots after Crews fouled him under the basket. Snodgrass dropped a two-pointer and Crews a free shot. Barringer did a field goal and a free goal and Helm added a free goal.

The Reds got hot again and Garrett, Snodgrass and Wilkinson made field goals. Wiginton added a free goal and one from scrimmage for a run of nine points before the invaders added a free shot. Garrett made his final field goal, and Huffman sent in his reserves. Against them, the Wildcats scored three field goals and a brace of gratis shots while Wiginton, staying with the reserves, cut loose for another crip.

Rose Bowl Coach At Odds With Pitt

DR. JOHN BAIN SUTHERLAND

Sutherland To Ask Showdown At Pittsburgh

Gloomy Jock Not Getting On Well With Pitt Director Of Athletics; Says: "We Can't Go On Like This"

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22. (AP) — "Gloomy Jock," the big silent Scot who has led Pitt's Panthers to the football heights, is at odds with the athletic powers at Pitt.

And the campus heard today in gossip—"Jock Sutherland might resign"—"he won't quit, he can't."

But Dr. John Bain Sutherland, it was generally agreed, wants a "showdown" with Don Harrison, athletic director on differences which have been rankling since the Rose Bowl game New Year's Day.

Just what the differences are nobody seems able to say definitely. But among the students and the followers of Pitt, there was much discussion of reports that Sutherland wanted to loan football players money to attend a dance after they trounced the University of Washington and that Harrison didn't agree.

Three Aides Move

Too, some talked of the transfer of three members of Sutherland's coaching staff to the "across-the-street" rivals at Carnegie Tech.

That, however, was discounted by Harrison.

As for the "showdown" Harrison said:

"There's nothing to discuss. If Jock thinks a showdown is necessary, he's perfectly free to have one."

And the taciturn Scot? He was "somewhere in Ohio" and no comment was forthcoming beyond his statement to a Cleveland sports writer that:

"We can't go on like this."

SANTA ANITA, Calif., Feb. 22.—The Foxcatcher farm's Fairy Hill captured the $50,000 added Santa Anita derby today over a hard riding field of 21 starters.

The shimmering chestnut son of Messenger and Star Fairy, with Jockey Maurice Peters applying the whip, thundered down the stretch to win by a length over the Milky Way farm's Military, with Cornelius V. Whitney's Ptolmey finishing third.

Upwards of 40,000 turf fans jammed Santa Anita park for the third running of the rich classic for 3-year-olds.

Freddie Lindstrom Is Cut Adrift By Dodgers; Won't Fit In Grimes' Plan

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers handed Freddie Lindstrom his unconditional release today, apparently cutting off his hopes of a comeback after retiring voluntarily last season.

The 31-year old outfielder, once a star third sacker for the Giants' was signed as a free agent last season after he was cast loose by the Chicago Cubs. He played only a few games before a leg injury forced him to the bench, and he retired in May saying he was not helping the Brooklyn club.

Recently he applied for reinstatement, saying he had recovered completely from the injury and was in good condition. The Dodgers' new manager, Burleigh Grimes, could not fit Lindy into his plans, however, and the club's announcement today disclosed he had been offered to several other teams without takers.

At the same time the Dodgers announced the receipt of a signed contract from Outfielder Gilbert Brack, the speedy slugger recently purchased from Louisville for Catcher Ray Berres and cash.

Compromise Idea Has No Interest For Garden Head

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—The possibility of a compromise in the heavyweight industrial conflict, by which the winner of the Joe Louis-Jim Braddock title fight in Chicago would meet Max Schmeling, the German challenger, in the New York in September, failed to interest Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden today.

"I see no chance of a compromise, along that or any other line," Col. Kilpatrick told the Associated Press after hearing about a suggestion put forward by Mike Jacobs, of the Rival 20th Century Sporting club.

Offers Olive Branch

Jacobs, just back from seeing negotiation scompleted for Braddock and Louis to fight for the championship at Comiskey park, Chicago, June 22, consulted legal advice before issuing a statement in which (1) he denied doing anything to impair the Garden's contract for a Schmeling-Braddock title bout here, (2) stated he had been advised nothing can "lawfully" stop the Louis-Braddock match and (3) offered what looked like an olive branch to the Garden.

"If on account of conditions beyond my control, the Braddock-Schmeling fight fails to materialize," said Jacobs' manifesto, "I am confident I can persuade the winner of the Braddock-Louis match to meet Schmeling within 60 days."

Big Shots Named For Annual Golf Play At Houston

HOUSTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The cream of the Texas amateur crop, including five former tourney winners, will meet Wednesday in the 23rd annual Houston Country club invitation golf tourney.

Although studded with stars and champions, the field will be without a defending titlist for the second straight year. Lieut. Ken Rogers, stationed at Kelly field at San Antonio when he won the 1936 title, was transferred to the Panama Canal Zone and won't be able to make the long trip to defend the crown. Gus Moreland, former Dallas shotmaker, who live at Peoria, Ill., failed to defend his title last year but has entered the 1937 tourney in quest of his fifth championship.

Other Ex-Champs Entered

Other former champions who will match shots in the 18 hole qualifying round are George Rotan, of Houston, five times a winner since he took first honors in the first tourney in 1914; C. L. Dexter, Dallas veteran; Ossie Carlton, Houston, and Johnny Dawson, Chicago.

Other stars, many of them already taking practice shots, will include David L. Davis of Austin, a surprise package in the 1936 national amateur; Bill Welch, member of the University of Texas team the past year; Dees McDermott, Waco Country club; Jack Cummings, Memphis, Tenn.; Freddie Haas of New Orleans, former Southern and National Intercollegiate champion.

Tournament Chairman Henry Rockwell predicted a field of 200 for the five days of competition in five flights. Match play will start Thursday.

Watkins Meets Fenton On Mat

Wrestling Card Seems Turned Around, With Main Event Men On Prelim; Markus And Joe On Semi-Final

It might appear to one division of grappling enthusiasts that Promoter Sieb Allen has his card turned squarely around this week, but he vouches for the authenticity of the announcements.

Sailor Watkins and Rod Fenton, for instance, are to fight in the curtain raiser of a promising supporting card. This is quite a comedown for the Sailorman from Post and Jackson, Miss., who last week pinned back the ears of Jerry Markus in the main event here, and for the Lightning Rod from Canada who kicked Walter Stratton into defeat in Amarillo's top billing last week.

But even the big shots must take their turns on the bottom in this circuit, so the cards will be well balanced, and it's Sailor and Rod in the curtain raiser tomorrow night.

Jabbery Jerry, who put up an unexpectedly good scrap against Watkins last week, is on the semi-final tomorrow night with the Indian grappler, Yaqui "Legs" Joe, and this should prove interesting.

In the main event, Andy Tremaine, who settled Joe Bauer's hash in short order with an explosive right fist last week, takes on Dangerous Dale Haddock in the main event. And more about that later.

Sixto Escobar Retains Box Title; Fiesta Is Ordered

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 22. (AP)—A fiesta was scheduled in the little town of Barcelonita today as Sixto Escobar celebrated his retaining the world bantamweight championship in the first title fight Puerto Rico ever has seen.

Sixto outpointed Lou Salica of New York before a banner crowd of 26,000 fans to retain his crown in a 15-round "rubber" fight. They had met twice before with each winning one bout.

Majority Of Major Leagues Offer 'Big Opportunity' To Rookies From Bushes

Yanks Only Club To Stand Pat; Others Say Jobs Open

By SCOTT RESTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Practically every major league baseball club except the world champion New York Yankees is in the process of revision, and rookies from even the wildest bush league are given a chance to crash the big time.

As players migrate southward this week, a quick survey reveals the following vacancies and candidates:

St. Louis Cardinals: Catching job, two infield and one outfield post open.

Light hitting Terry Moore must beat out Johnny Rizzo Houston, and Lou Scoffic, Rochester, for the open outfield job.

New York Giants: First and third base open, catching uncertain.

Cincinnati Reds: Every job in the field is as open as a Broadway night club.

Frazier To Bees

Boston Bees: Manager Bill McKechnie is banking on these new "oldtimers" from the pitching ranks of the minors: Lou Fette, St. Paul, won 25 lost 8; Vic Fraser, Dallas, 14 and 7; Bill Harris, Buffalo, 15 and 10; Ira Hutchison, St. Paul, 13 and 8; Bill Perrin, New Orleans, 18 and 8; and Jim Turner, Indianapolis, 18 and 13.

Brooklyn Dodgers: So desperately in need of talent that some men with unempressive minor league records are being tried out.

The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates both have a couple of youngsters who promise to break into the regular lineup. Outfielder Joe Marty and Infielder Dick Siebert are given a chance with the Cubs, and infielder Lee Handley and outfielder John Dickshot who hit .397 for Buffalo look good to Pittsburgh.

In the American League, the Athletics, Boston Red Sox, and Detroit Tigers are depending most on the arrival of new talent.

Athletics In Mexico

Tigers—hoping pitching support will come from prospects George Gill, who won 15 and lost 10 at Beaumont last year, Clyde Hatter, who won 16 and lost 6 for Milwaukee and Bob Logan, who won 16 and lost 9 at Indianapolis.

Red Sox—Counting on second Baseman Bob Doerr from San Diego, and hoping for outfield support from Fabian Gaffke, Minneapolis, and Buster Mills, Rochester.

The Athletics, who vanished into Mexico today are almost unpredictable.

The Chicago White Sox are placing some confidence in Infielder Steve Mesner, who hit .344 for Los Angeles last year, and in Henry Steinbacher, who clubbed .356 for St. Paul.

The St. Louis Browns admittedly are wide open but have reported nobody worth of special mention.

Healthy Again, Tinker Asks For Dust Of Diamond

ORLANDO, Fla., 22. (AP) — Joe Tinker, baseball immortal of another day, wants to get diamond dust under his feet again.

For 20 years he's been alternating between the game and real estate. In December a serious illness nearly took him out.

But the hero of the Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance combination is up and about again and asking Maurice I. Bloch, president of the Southeastern league, to keep an eye open for a manager's post on "some small club."

"The old yen has me again," Tinker said today. "The boys showered me with telegrams, letters, flowers and tokens while I was in the hospital. They made me well again, and I think there ought to be a place for me again in baseball."

Since leaving the hospital Joe has been helping to manage a group of ambitious sandlotters.

Alf Engen Snares Ski Championship

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 22. — Smiling Alf Engen, Norwegian-born Utah ski-master, won the National Amateur Ski association championship today.

Setting a new national ski-jump record of 245 feet, he scored 226.3 points to barely defeat his boyhood friend, Sigmund Ruud of Norway, winner with 224.6 points. Einar Fredbo, Anaconda, was third with 207.6 points.

Patience Pays, And Lloyd Van Sickle Repents In Dog Derby; Woman Driver Fifth

ASHTON, Idaho, Feb. 22. (AP)—The same team of Chesapeake bird dogs that raced to victory in the American dog derby a year ago won again today for a hometown driver who thinks "patience pays."

Alternately scolding, coaxing and shouting stern commands, Lloyd Van Sickle of Ashton sent his panting team over the 16-mile course in one hour, nine minutes and 10 seconds.

Celey Baum, another native of this eastern Idaho entrance to Yellowstone National park, finished second in one hour, 10 mintes, 28 seconds, as 5,000 spectators mixed yells of encouragement with stomping and slapping to keep warm.

In fifth place among the 11 drivers—and still vowing she'll "win this derby yet"—mushed pretty Thula Geelan of McCall, Idaho. She was the only woman entrant. Mrs. Geelan finished in the same position two years ago and proclaimed:

"I'm going to keep driving in the American dog derby until I win it, or until I am too old to drive any longer!"

Free Fishing On Red River Is Promised Texas Waltons

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—A conference of Oklahoma and Texas legislators is scheduled to consider tomorrow the "fishing war" on the Red River, boundary between the two states, Rep. William Coe, Oklahoma county, said today.

Coe said final solution of the problem probably would be opening the river for free fishing both to Oklahomans and Texans. Texas has complained its fishermen have been arrested by game wardens from Oklahoma, which controls the stream.

The Texas delegation, headed by State Senator Franklin Spears, will confer with a house and senate joint committee.

Metz Cards Eagle And Beats Dudley

THOMASVILLE, Feb. 22. (AP) — Finishing with a sensational eagle on the Home green, Dick Metz, 27-year-old curly-haired professional from the Mill Road farm club of Lake Forest, Ill., defeated big Ed Dudley, Augusta, Ga., today in the 18-hole playoff of the $3,000 Thomasville open golf tournament.

The youthful pro, who tied with Dudley at the end of the regular 72 holes yesterday with 284, four under par, didn't need his Garrison finish for he led the Augusta National country club professional by three strokes going to the 18th.

Metz had a card of 37-35—72, even par, while Dudley counted 38-38—76, slipping mostly on his approaches and putting.

Through his triumph, Metz collected first money of $700, his first victory of consequence in his 10 years of campaigning with the professional bridage.

Dudley's share of the purse was $450. Metz also received 50 per cent of the extra day's gate.

Convict Makes Science Offer

Julius Bohannon, One-Time Texas Convict, Offers To Serve As 'Human Guinea Pig' For Scientific Tests

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 22.—A 31-year-old felon under two life sentences for murder, a leader in a bloody prison break from McAlester penitentiary last May, has offered to become a "human guinea pig" for science, Paul Colvert, member of the board of affairs, said today.

Colvert said the prisoner, Julius Bohannon, one-time Texas convict, probably made the offer realizing it was his only method of ever being eligible for release, but added the state was accepting the offer in good faith.

"He wants to be a guinea pig," Colvert said, "and if some medical organization is anxious to perform some experiments with new medicines or drugs, I think the way is open."

Bohannon was dismissed from Huntsville, Tex., prison in 1931 after serving a short term for theft.

Under live sentence for murder, he had served less than a year when he participated in the McAlester prison break. He was captured in Texas several years after the break.

"I want to help my children get an education," said the square-jawed prisoner, now under two life sentences.

Wants To Help Children

"I don't expect any clemency," he told Warden Jess Dunn. "I just thought I could do something for someone. I want to help my children get an education."

Dunn said Bohannon had two children, and through the medical experiments might get funds to send them through school.

Bohannon called to Colvert as the state official passed through a prison wing where Bohannon has been "on high" in a solitary cell since his capture near Texarkana, Tex., and made the offer.

Will Try Any Kind

"He told me," Colvert said, "he is under two life sentences, both for killings, and that he will submit to any kind of tests or experiments."

Several Negroes Questioned In Abortive Burglary In City

Police, investigating an almost abortive burglary Sunday night of Furr Food store at 1915 Nineteenth street, Monday night had announced no charges, although several negroes had been questioned.

Several packages of cigarets had been sacked, but had not been taken from the store because of evident fright. Approximately 75 cents in "change" was taken.

Across the street, witnesses heard the tinkle of broken glass and, later, a car that sped away. No significance was attached to the incident at the time, police were told.

Except for three women, who were charged with vagrancy, 23 negroes who had been arrested Sunday night in the Flats had been released. Theft of bicycles, drunkenness, fighting, and investigation in connection with an attempted theft were other cases referred to attention of enforcement authorities over the week-end.

"Lay Justices" Asked Of FDR

Educators Send Request To President Roosevelt Monday Asking Consideration In His Court Reform Plans

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—A suggestion to President Roosevelt that a "substantial majority of lay justices" be included in his proposed plan to reorganize the Supreme court drew the attention of delegates to the annual convention of the National Educational association today.

"Undoubtedly the conservative rulings of the court during the past generation are traceable to the fact that the great majority of the justices have been men long associated with the great corporations of the nation," said a telegram sent to the president by directors of the John Dewey association and the "Social Frontier," an educators' journal, both allied with the N. E. A.

"While this interest is important and entirely legitimate the principles of democracy would scarcely permit the inclusion in the court membership of more than two justices of such background," the telegram said.

The communication, signed by 31 educators, suggested a court in which the following "areas of interest and outlook" would be represented:

"Corporate business, farming, labor, civil liberties, humanitarian interests, national and racial minorities, international relations, social legislation, culture and education and scholarship in American constitutional history, government and economics."

Are You Mentally Efficient?

Increasing attention is given in these days to the subject of Eye Care and Eye Health. Authorities are unanimous in asserting that poor vision heavily taxes nervous force and is, therefore, a vital draw-back to mental efficiency.

Unknowingly many people suffer from poor vision, which, if corrected, would clear the mind, steady the nerves, and produce all-around comfort.

School children's eyes are heavily taxed, often resulting in special strain upon their nervous force. This is equally true of adults in occupations in which their eyes are employed a large part of the time in reading, desk work or "closework" of one kind or another.

Consult your oculist (eye physician) for it pays to know exactly the condition of "the only pair of eyes you'll ever have"!

A Healthy State Of Affairs

REGARDLESS of the outcome of the President's judiciary reform plan, the argument which is sweeping the nation is a healthy one.

Millions of people who have supported the Roosevelt administration at the polls and throughout the greater portion of its New Deal efforts have broken with the Chief Executive over the question of court reform, but the break is not a personal one. Instead, it is an honest difference of opinion over a public question—and that is exactly as it should be.

A recent nation-wide poll taken by Dr. George Gallup's Institute of Public opinion, concerning the President's plan to aid the plight of the tenant farmer, shows the great majority of Americans—83 per cent of them, to be exact—are with Mr. Roosevelt lock, stock and barrel. Since doubtless a large percentage of his farm tenant plan supporters are against his court remodeling efforts, the plain indication is that even that portion of the public opposing the court change is not making the matter a personal fight against the President and everything he stands for. That is cheering.

Honest difference of opinion and constructive criticism is good for any nation.

Public airing of any public problem is to be desired.

So regardless of the outcome in the squabble over the courts, the country will not be hurt by any widespread split—as long as conditions continue as they are.

THE DALLAS-FT. WORTH PROBLEM

Dallas and Ft. Worth are girding for a second of expositions in an effort to "get well" following the centennial expositions of 1936.

While we hope for both shows a good attendance and the needed profits, it occurs to us that the 1937 backers of both events are running a terrible risk of sending good money after bad.

If the Dallas and Ft. Worth shows of 1936—and they were both good shows—could not break even under the incentive of celebrating the state's 100th birthday, how can they possibly make money this year when there is no particular reason, aside from recouping losses, for having them?

Since both the Dallas and Ft. Worth shows of '36 were of unusually high calibre, will the 1937 features have a chance if they are not held to the same high level?

And if they are not held at the same high level, where will the patronage come from?

The Morning Avalanche would like to see the patriotic bondholders of both Ft. Worth and Dallas paid off in full. We'd like to see the contractors, and other creditors, get theirs, in full, too.

But it looks to us like the 1937 exposition going is going to be pretty rough. We can't figure it any other way.

King without a country

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Surrendering his throne for the love of ARDATH RICHMOND, Canadian-born actress, PAUL I, King of Northumbra, becomes private citizen PAUL FERRONE, and quickly he finds that he has made a bad bargain.

He soon tires of the COUNTESS DI MARCO, REGGIE VAN TWYNE, and the gay, vacuous crowd that people the Bay of St. Francis resort center. He travels, buys a sailing ship, travels more, but always restlessness, and the shadow of the lost throne follow him.

Finally he and Ardath quarrel over her friends. Paul takes more and more to his boat. One day he suggests to Ardath that they have a child. She cries, "Paul, are you insane?" After that they cool toward each other increasingly.

Then one night at a villa party Paul overhears Reggie asking Ardath to leave Paul for him. The next morning Paul tells Ardath he is going back to Northumbra, to get hold on himself; asks her to wait for him.

Arriving at Gailport, on the coast of Northumbra, where he was once hailed as a savior in the coal fields, Paul visits an inn, finds the new king is about to visit the town the next day. Then he asks, "What about King Paul?" "Oh, we liked him all right," says a miner, "but he was just a lightweight."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

All the rest of that day and evening Paul wandered idly about Gailport, unrecognized and lonely, drifting from one casual group to another, asking questions and directing each conversation to the subject of the king.

When he went to bed, at last, in the cabin of his sloop, he had to admit that the thing he had come back to Gailport to find had eluded him. For he had come back to bask in the radiance of the old days—to snuggle up against the warm love his people had once had for him—and he had found that it no longer existed.

The truth of the matter was that they had simply forgotten him. They did not look back at his reign with the fond longing he had imagined; they did not look back at all until someone reminded them of it, as he had been doing; and then their attitude was one of, "Oh yes—King Paul. To be sure; he was king before King Joseph, wasn't he?"

Here and there he found a faint note of hostility; a feeling that King Paul had deserted them, had fled when they needed him. But for the most part that was absent. In the space of a brief year he had become an obscure figure in history; a person one remembered when his name was mentioned, but not one that anybody looked back to with any desire or yearning.

When he got up the next morning he found the little city decked out with flags and bunting in honor of the expected visit of Joseph. Each house, no matter how humble, had found some means of putting on a festive aspect. Stores sold cheap lithographs of the king, and these appeared in almost every window. Small crudely lettered signs, "God Bless Our King," were strung over gateposts and alleyways. A holiday had been declared, and innumerable children, joyous at their release from school, were already massing in a vast group on the common, tiny flags clutched in unwontedly clean fists, while anxious teachers scurried about to make sure that their charges would give the monarch a proper welcome.

By 10 o'clock the sidewalks were crowded. Paul found a place by the pedestal of a dust-grimed war memorial, at the entrance to the common. A pang of memory assailed him as he recognized the memorial; he had dedicated it, 15 years ago, as crown prince. He climbed on a granite abutment so that he could look over the throng, and waited.

Far off, at last, he heard the sound of music and cheering. The noise came in intermittent bursts, at first, and then swelled to a steady tide of sound, given rhythm by the blood-stirring pulse of drums. It came nearer, and an electric current seemed to pass through the waiting crowd. They could make out now the tramp of marching feet, the blare of trumpets and the shrill scream of the fifes, and a wave of cheering came sweeping in toward them as the people hailed their king.

There it came, at last, down the street on the far side of the open common. The regimental band of a famous regiment of regulars—a regiment that had fought the king's wars for three centuries, and had the names of great battles and obscure ones inscribed on its banners—swung into view. After it came the regulars themselves, trim and grimly elegant in blue and white, their gaitered ankles twinkling, their rifles sloped with professional exactitude, something elated and confident shining forth from the way they stepped out, the way they held their heads, the way they swung their left arms.

A mist came into Paul's eyes as he watched them. His amber spectacles fogged, and he impatiently jerked them off and thrust them into his pocket. He had been honorary colonel of this regiment. They were his men; he knew all of the officers and half of the men. They were great men and a great regiment; he looked on with a lump in his throat as the steady blue ranks swept past him, the jaunty caps bobbing over bronzed faces.

Then, as the roar mounted to a crescendo, there came an open touring car. Standing in the tonneau was a slight, straight figure in a plain business suit, bareheaded, a white, earnest face looking out over the town—Joseph, King of Northumbra.

The car moved abreast. Instinctively, Paul snatched off his hat and held it over his heart. He stood in an exposed position, and his sudden movement must have caught the royal eye; Joseph turned his head and looked squarely at him, and Paul saw a start of quick recognition. Then the car moved on again, a company of local militia filled the gap behind it—and the royal pageant had passed.

Paul climbed down. The crowd was surging down the street, follwing the parade, to find a place by the waterfront where the ceremony of breaking ground for the new coal dock was to take place. For want of anything better to do, he followed.

This, he told himself, was a king's only function—to be ornamental at public occasions like this: the laying of cornerstones, the unveiling of statues, and the like. Well, he would go along and see how Joseph did it. If it was all a king could do, it at least ought to be done well. He would have a look at it.

He followed the crowd, and came out presently in an open space on the waterfront. The morning was gray, but the sun was trying to shine; and even as Paul entered the open space, and found a place in the packed ranks, a sudden ray of light pierced the clouds and lit up the bunting-draped stand where royalty had just taken its place. The crowd took it as an omen and roared approval. Then a band struck up the national anthem, heads were bared, and the whole city became silent as its people lifted their voices in song.

Paul saw the slight figure step to the front of the platform and begin to speak. The first words were lost; then a shift of the wind, or a diminution in the noises of the crowd, let them through, and he heard Joseph saying:

". . . and I like to think that what we are doing here is to begin a new battle—not a battle against external foes, but a new fight in the age-old campaign against the eternal enemies of our race: hunger, want, cold and misery.

"The English had a great poet, William Blake, and he wrote some great lines which I think we can borrow for our own nation. Let me quote them to you:

"And did the Countenance divine
Shine forth upon our clouded hills?
And was Jerusalem builded here
Among these dark Satanic mills?"

Joseph paused; then, gripping the railing in front of him, he leaped forward, his earnest young face shining, and went on with the poem in an impassioned voice that reached every man in the great throng:

"Bring me my Bow of burning gold!
Bring me my Arrows of desire!
Bring me my Spear! O clouds, unfold!
Bring me my Chariot of fire!
I will not cease from mental fight,
Nor shall my sword sleep in my hand,
Till we have built Jerusalem
In this our green and pleasant land."

The young king remained leaning forward, his face alight; and suddenly the great crowd responded, and a tremendous shout went up to the sky as the people caught the vision he had held out to them—the building of a white and shining city amid their coal tipples and slag heaps, the constructing of a braver and better society, the vanquishing of the ancient enemies of man, the union of all faiths and all men in an unending struggle to build on the imperfect earth the holy city of God.

Paul found that he had left the crowd, somehow, and was walking along toward the warf where he had moored his sloop. The words of Blake's mighty poem still rang in his ears; before his eyes remained the picture of his brother Joseph, so young and so sincere, standing tense before his subjects and lighting in their hearts the flame that enables men to transcend themselves.

And as he thought of this, there came to Paul, at least, a realization of the full measure of his failure.

This, then, was what a king was nowadays; to reach up to those lofty summits where the great spirits dwell and bring down a vision and a hope for his people. It was not a dull and spiritless task, choked by enless formality and meaningless ritual; it was the highest task a man could be given. It was this that he had turned his back on, this that he had failed to see, this that he had given up in order to chase the will o' the wisp freedom across Europe.

He walked dejectedly to the wharf

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

HOUSE leaders' decision to defer a vote on the Supreme court reform bill has been erroneously interpreted as anti-administration strategy. Actually the lower chamber is playing both peanut and presidential politics.

It's true that the boys would like to duck the issue entirely, though the measure would skim through the House with a majority of 75 votes if it came to a showdown today. But the second-thinkers see no reason for sticking out their chins until there is some assurance that the scheme won't be killed in the Senate. There the forces split into 30 for, 30 against, and 30 on the fence, with six absent. A margin of 12 for F. D. R. is forecast by the most canny canvassers.

The House postponement, however, tends to turn the heat on the Senate, to pillory that body as responsible for presidential triumph or failure. Hasty senatorial action may be based on misconstruction of the popular mood, thereby making the honorables easier meat when rivals from the House oppose them at future primaries. That's where the "peanut politics" figure in the picture.

HOWL: President Roosevelt may spring a sad surprise on steel corporations which won't bid on naval contracts out of prejudice toward the Walsh-Healey act. In discussing the blockade recently F.D.R. used the word "steal," which shows how he feels about the naval blockade.

The White House is fairly well convinced that the bidders are acting collusively in a sort of sit-down strike. They are holding up construction of six destroyers, throwing men out of work, and they will soon stand in the position of blocking the building of two capital ships. Labor leaders have flatly refused to agree to modification of the act in accord with the manufacturers' suggestions. Under-Secretary of Navy Edison favors the amendment, but Secretary Perkins won't listen to it.

F.D.R.'s prospective solution is purchase of foreign steel, which he can obtain at lower prices than he must pay for the American product. Secretary Ickes resorted this strategy when the steel men submitted high bids on P.W.A. projects. It would cause a howl, but it would also spotlight the steel magnates' recalcitrancy.

HOLDOUTS: Legislators backing the Sumners retirement measure as a substitute for the President's more radical reforms are casting more serious reflections on Supreme court justices than F.D.R. did in mentioning their age.

The Sumners bill would permit the jurists to resign with assurance that their retirement salaries ($20,000 a year for associates, $22,500 for the Chief Justice) would never be taxed by the Treasury or cut by Congress. It implies that the members of the honorable court are chiefly concerned over pocketbook considerations. Two members—Messrs. Van Devanter and McReynolds—are supposed to be ready to retire if their financial future is assured. House Judiciary committee members are publicly peddling that promise.

The income tax on $20,000 a year amounts to about $1,000. The deepest Congressional cut in salaries would be 15 per cent—or $3,000. Therefore, if you believe the advocates of the Sumners measure, two distinguished members of the court are holding out—and on—for less than Dizzy Dean gets as a bonus for extra games won—about $4,000 a year.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORKERS with exceptional knowledge of Washington conditions state privately and positively that two justices of the Supreme court are in tenuous health and would have resigned last year if they had consulted only their own inclinations and their families' wishes. But they were induced to stay on. Arrangements were made to take care of most of their work for them and otherwise to ease the demands of the job as much as possible. Who induced them? According to these well-posted and reliable sources, it was Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

Close personal friends of one of the justices in question go so far as to say that the only consideration which kept him on the bench was the feeling that perhaps Mr. Hughes would have sufficient influence with Congress to prevent his getting a pension if he quit.

It is confidently predicted that there will be two resignations soon after the Sumners bill automatically assuring a pension to Supreme court justices over 70 becomes effective—unless Chief Justice Hughes finds some new way to dominate those who wish to retire. These resignations might solve many problems.

SHOWDOWN: Mr. Hughes is known to have been fond of power all during his career. Keen New York observers figure, on the basis of indications noted above, that he has kept the court intact largely through the force of his own personality and determination.

Because of this, a situation has resulted in which the court has had the President at a disadvantage. It could not, of course, be proved that the chief justice "planned it that way," but there is reason to believe that he is personally gratified at repeated demonstrations of the court's ability to thwart the New Deal "heresies" perpetrated by the Executive and Congress.

In essence, there appears to be a fundamental contest here between a powerful chief justice of one party and a powerful President of the other party. Now there must be a showdown to determine who really is boss. That's the news-behind-the-news background of the whole tense struggle.

CLASSIFY: New York sharps spot another angle of F.D.R.'s "declaration of war" on the Supreme court which has escaped general attention. It was emphasized by the President's recent intimation that he is in no rush to have the House of Representatives pass on the court issue.

The front pages will focus on this fight until it is settled. Terrific opposition pressure is concentrated on Congress—especially the Senate. The furore tempts Democratic politicos who have no real loyalty to Roosevelt to stick their necks out.

Everyone who is responsive to the conservative whip of big business will be on the White House black books thereafter. It's a simple system to make the political sheep and goats classify themselves.

BOOMERANG: Financial insiders figure that General Motors has pulled one very smart stunt since the end of the strike—and a very dumb break has also come to light. Even Stephen. The dumb one was destruction of all papers pertaining to labor espionage. Powerful New York friends of G. M. cuss that boner to the skies. "No matter how bad the facts were, the imagination of critics will not make them appear infinitely worse."

The smart move was Bill Knudsen's apparently reluctant admission that the company had no objection to the wearing of union buttons inside the plants by employes belonging to the United Automobile Workers.

This had never been allowed before and union members hastened to avail themselves of the privilege. Result—G. M. could count union noses among its workers for the first time, which is what the management has wanted to do all along. Such a count has been blocked hitherto by John Lewis and his associates.

General Motors finds, on this basis, that in all its plants collectively non-union men outnumber union men by 25 to 1. This is undoubtedly an exaggerated proportion, because many U.A.W. people still hestitate to wear their buttons, but it serves very prettily the corporation's purpose of demonstrating that the Lewisites are only a small minority. A seeming concession booreranged on those who accepted it.

DEFENDS COURT CHANGE

Editor, The Avalanche—The cry of dictatorship, originating with the bar associations and echoed by the press associations it too absurd to be amusing.

An old law of logic—a cause for every effect—is as applicable to statecraft as otherwise.

The three European dictatorships that exist today are but the results of generations of misgovernment that preceded, and the chaos and disorder that followed the breakdown of the old forms of government. As repulsive as communism is, yet I am constrained to believe that the masses of people in Russia are fairing better today under Stalin's dictatorship than they did under the oppressive despotism of Czar Nicholas and has predecessors. Likewise the German people are at least, no worse off under Nazism administration by the iron hand of Herr Hitler than they were under military despotism or despotic militarism of the Kaiser. Mussolini's Fascism in Italy, destestable as it is, could not continue in force except by consent of the people. France owes her present form of government with its leaning toward communism, to the oppressive misgovernment preceding the French revolution.

In America, with representative Democracy functioning, this nation need have no fears of a dictatorship, but, when democracy becomes only a form, and government of the people by an aristocratic oligarchy for the special interests, or economic royalty prevails, as was the case for some years prior to March 4, 1933, we should not be surprised at any form of protest.

Perhaps nothing would be more conducive to the development of a dictatorship in this nation at present than a return to the old reactionary form of government with its favoritism to the special interests that permitted a very small minority to appropriate and concentrate the wealth produced by the unfavored millions into their stupendous fortunes.

The question, that has stirred America as she has not been stirred since the early days of Wilson's League of Nations, is—shall this nation allow five or more men sitting on our Supreme court the right to deny the people liberal, progressive legislation designed to restore to the masses their rights and their just share in the wealth which they produce?

If these five or more old men consisting of defeated and prejudiced politicians and ex-corporations lawyers who have fed and waxed fat in the past on large retainer fees, are to allow this nation only such legislation as they approve then we no longer have representative democracy but instead government by oligarchy. One can be consistant and reasonable in defending their rights to thus rule only by attributing infallability to these men and inflexibility to the constitution.

To your contention that Mr. Roosevelt's court reform measures are not intended as such, but merely at obtaining power to ram over certain pet legislation, may I suggest that no legislation ever comes to the Supreme court except it has first been approved by a majority of the members of both houses of our national congress who are elected by the people as our representatives. These together with Mr. Roosevelt on last November received one of the most overwhelming endorsements by the sovereign citizenship of this nation, which constitutes nothing less than an endorsement of their liberal gov-

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS, No. 32

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The immediate necessity was to obtain medical aid for Major Martling. The ox-cart was too slow, so Tarzan took the explorer in his arms like a child, and at a gentle trot bore him back to the quarters of Padre Dormund, where a physician was summoned to attend him.

It would be weeks, the doctor judged, before Martling could walk again. The explorer moaned in mental agony. By then the Green Goddess would be in the hands of mysterious enemy who had stolen the chart. But Tarzan repeated his determination to go on alone.

He was not interested in the fabulous Green Goddess, but he was resolved to save his friend D'Arnot, who was a captive of the strange Mayan Monsters of the Lost City. "If you will give me the general directions," he said to Major Martling, "I'll be on my way at once."

"I wish I could dissuade you," Padre Dormund pleaded. "Perhaps the theft of the document and this attack were providential warnings to prevent you from undertaken a fatal journey. Many men have gone into the jungle to seek the Lost City. Few have ever returned!"

can citizens. Its passage would preclude the appointment of Senator Wagner (D-NY) and Felix Frankfurter, both frequently mentioned as likely appointees.

Announces Support

Senator Neely (D-W Va) announced his support of the presidential program asserting that the "greatest danger" to the republic is "the dictatorship over the executive and legislative branches of the government which the Supreme court has arrogated to itself."

Labor's Non-Partisan League circularizes its membership with an appeal for letters to members of congress urging approval of the White House program. The circular said: "The president is fighting in your interest. Don't go back on him now."

The Sumners act was put in the charge of Senator McCarran (D-Nev) who began work on the report at once, announcing he hoped to bring the bill up in the senate within a "few days."

Voting against the bill were Senators King, Pittman, Borah, and Steiwer. Voting for were Senators Neely, McCarran, Van Nuys, Logan, Dietrich, McGill, Hatch, Connally, O'Mahoney, Hughes, Norris, Austin and Ashurst.

Borah Opposes Provision

Borah opposed a provision under which retired judges might be assigned to hear cases in jurisdiction having congested dockets. His motion to eliminate this section of the measure was defeated on a vote of 12 to 6.

Senator Pittman offered a proviso that a retired Supreme court justice could be called back to duty on that court by a two-thirds vote of the court. His amendment was rejected, 11 to 2.

After the meeting, Ashurst said the hearing on the presidential proposal would be open to the public and that no limit had been set upon their length. They will be held, he said, in the tiny judiciary committee room in the capitol rather than one of the spacious hearing rooms at the office building.

The White House conference was attended by Secretary Wallace and eleven farm leaders, including Edward A. O'Neal of Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau federation.

His organization, he said, has taken no stand on the court proposition as a unit although some of its 39 state units were probably in favor of it. L. C. Trousdale of the American Rice Growers association and Ace G. Lucas, president of the Texas Agricultural association, said their organizations were supporting the plan.

be for the best interests of the public in this section," said Judge E. L. Pitts of that district Monday night when informed of the Associated Press report a house bill aimed at abolishing his court had been introduced.

"I am willing for public interest here to determine whether the 99th district court can justify its existence hereafter."

Has Justified Existence

Judge Pitts told the Morning Avalanche the 99th court was created more than 10 years ago and that it had "justified its existence ever since its creation." In 1936, he said, it actually tried and disposed of 295 civil cases of all kinds and 41 criminal cases, making a total of 336 cases actually tried. One hundred thirty-one other cases were filed and disposed of by being dismissed. Of that number 106 were civil cases and 25 criminal cases, making a total of 467 cases disposed of by the court that year.

The actual cases handled and disposed of by the 72nd district court, which district is composed of Hockley, Cochran and Crosby counties, as well as Lubbock county, are approximately the same as those handled by the 99th court, said Judge Pitts, "since it is in session as many weeks during the year the 99th and is usually just as busy. Both courts have justified their existence."

"The growth and development in this section of the country will give the courts even more business in the future than they have had in the past; particularly will such be the case as the oil developments in this section continue to spread," Judge Pitts said.

"If the citizens of the 99th and the 72nd judicial district think we should keep both these courts intact, I shall be one of the last men to retreat from the cause."

He was born in South Carolina in 1864, the son of a wealthy plantation owner who thought the South would win the civil war. Afterward, the elder Buchanan started back to his home but learned some persons accused him of being a spy and he decided to leave the state.

The father headed west by one route and Mrs. Buchanan and her two children went another. At the age of eight, James P. Buchanan was picking cotton on rented acres of Central Texas.

After graduating from the University of Texas with a law degree, he became county attorney of Washington county, Texas, and later served in the Texas legislature.

"Erosion during last week's dust storms in this area was some of the worst we have ever had," he added.

W. D. Blachley of Amarillo told the committee that 640-acre farms are the most practical in the territory and advised against present methods of farm aid.

"We are subsidizing wheat farmers so they can continue to plant more wheat," he said.

The speeches brought from H. H. Umberger of Manhattan, Kans., chairman, the assertion that reports given by the Resttlement group offered "the basis for a permanent program."

Virtually all of the committee's afternoon session was given over to the Resettlement report. During the forenoon the committee heard reports from five states on the extent of the present blow hazard and the need for federal funds to fight erosion.

Three sub-committees met tonight. Tuesday morning the committee will review the recent report of President Roosevelt's Great Plains drouth committee and later in the day formulate its own formal report on the problem.

TCU Champion Challenges All Comers

Joe Frederick "Ugliest Man On Texas Christian Campus," Wants To Be Known As "Ugliest College Man In Texas"

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Feb. 22.—Joe Frederick, proud of his title of "Ugliest Man on the Texas Christian University Campus," has challenged all comers among Texas college students to prove they are uglier than he.

The homely Groveton senior issued his challenge through the columns of The Skiff, student newspaper, suggesting all contenders for the distinction submit their claims to a distinterested authority. The contest would be to determine the rightful claimant to the title of "ugliest college man in Texas."

By a vote of his fellow students, Frederick last fall won "beau ugly" honors on the T. C. U. campus, winning a free trip to the T. C. U.—Rice football game in Houston. Hearing that other schools since have held similar contests, Frederick issued his blanket challenge.

Editors of The Skiff suggested Robert Taylor, current movie idol, as judge—provided a glance at Frederick's photograph does not scare off would-be challengers.

A date with the prize beauty the evening of March 6 is the attraction offered the "beast."

The Hardin-Simmons ugliest man will be entered in a south-wide contest sponsored by Texas Christian university.

Jefferson Journal Is Sold To Foster

KILGORE, Feb. 22. (AP)—Mrs. Jean Winsborough of Marshall today announced sale of the Jefferson Journal, one of the oldest newspapers in Texas and a member of the Associated Press, to Tom E. Foster, owner and publisher of the Kilgore Daily News.

The sale was effected yesterday. Mrs. Winsborough had been owner of the Jefferson Journal for several years and, until a few months ago, owned the Marshall News and Messenger.

The Journal is the successor of the Jefferson Jimplecute, established in 1865. The Jimplecute and the Journal have been published continuously in Jefferson for 72 years. The Journal was a daily newspaper until 1932, and has been a semi-weekly since then.

Jefferson is one of the oldest cities in Texas and, at one time, was the state's largest town. It was in Jefferson that the first federal court for Texas was established. Oil activity around this Marion county seat has caused Foster to envision an immediate "boom."

Rayon May Replace Cotton In "Cord" Of Automobile Tires; Found To Resist Heat Better

CINCINNATI, Feb. 22. (AP)—Science experimented today with rayon as a substitute for cotton in the "cord" of automobile tires.

Dr. Charles M. A. Stine, chemist and vice president of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours co., predicted the new cord would prolong a tire's life considerably beyond the 25,000 to 30,000 miles he said was possible out of a "good" product.

Cotton, he said, "loses in tensile strength when a tire becomes heated and this may lead to the failure of the tire. Now it is found that rayon, of which cotton is the base, resists that type of failure due to heat."

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 22. (AP)—J. R. Jordan, alias Martin, 52, Denver (Col.) comic artist, had a good laugh here today but the laugh was on himself.

When two men came to his room Jordan showed them his funny cartoons of prison life and laughed. But the men, Detectives Lahrman and Coleman, looked elsewhere in the room and found what they said was approximately $200 in stolen jewelry.

Mississippi Flood Believed To Have Crested At Natchez

NATCHEZ, Miss., Feb. 22. (AP)—W. F. MacDonald, meteorologist at New Orleans, said today he believed the Mississippi river flood was definitely crested at Natchez, after several days of fluctuations above here which he laid to northerly winds, rains and rush of current through the cut-offs above Natchez.

The stream was reported at a crest of 58 feet at Natchez, 12 feet above flood stage.

Sandboils were appearing behind levees at several places below Natchez in the fifth Louisiana levee district, but they were reported under control.

Detroit factories. Another, the Michigan Steel Casting company, closed its plant after 200 workers voted to seek a 40-hour week and a wage boost.

Agreements stipulating higher pay sent 500 men back to duty at four pottery plants in the Zanesville, O., area and 275 back to their jobs at the Freeland Shirt factory in Hazelton, Pa.

Their differences apparently resolved in conference, striking Baltimore taxi drivers returned to their cabs.

Pickets patrolled the Braeburn (Pa.) Steel corporation. They sought recognition of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers Union.

Responsible sources said the Electric Utolite company at Toledo, O., had agreed to grant pay increases to its 5,000 workers.

Dallas Walkathon Is Ended Monday By Temporary Writ; Hearing On Injunction Set

DALLAS, Feb. 22. (AP)—A temporary restraining order forced 25 couples to end their endurance dancing at a "walkathon" here today.

District Attorney Andrew Patton filed suit on the grounds a common nuisance was being maintained. The petition said eight couples had withdrawn "because of their physical exhaustion and or ill health." Judge Claude McCallum, who granted the order, set a hearing for an injunction March 13.

An attorney for the walkathon said he would ask the court to advance the hearing date.

Death For Unruly Ethiopians Rule After Graziani Incident

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 22. (AP)—Italy's makers of a new Roman empire, stung by an assassin's attack on their new viceroy, ordered the firing squad instead of the peacemaker for unruly Ethiopians tonight.

From Rome, Chancellor Benito Mussolini decreed summary execution for the chamma-clad natives who, on pretense of receiving gifts, threw hand grenades that wounded Rodolfo Graziani, the hard-bitten marshal who fought his way through the sands and marshes of the south to conquer and become the viceroy of Africa's last independent kingdom.

Death for every native chieftain or officer who opposes Italian troops, even in the territory yet unoccupied, also was decreed.

Rush To Apply For Loans On

Offices Are Established Over District, Fred N. Warren, Supervisor, Announces In Arranging For Service

Rush to make application for emergency feed and seed loans is well under way said Fred N. Warren, district supervisor, in announcing several offices in his district are now open.

Besides the Lubbock office he has one in Tahoka, Abernathy, Hale Center, Plainview and Tulia.

F. C. Rector is in charge of the Lubbock office, 217 federal building. Applications were first taken Friday. The office is open all day.

Office At Tahoka

At Tahoka, Mrs. Lucille Knight has an office in the rear of the First National bank. A. L. Lockwood is chairman of the Lynn county committee.

N. C. Hix, in the First State bank, Abernathy, is receiving loans. He has been with the work for several years and is on the Hale county committee.

At Hale Center Mrs. Orlene Church, in the office of W. G. Sears, is authorized to take applications.

Mrs. Clara Kelley Neis, assistant secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, is handling applications. She has handled the work for several years.

Mrs. Opal Browning handles applications at Tulia.

Not Asking For Limit

Most of the applicants, Mr. Warren explained, are not asking the limit, $400. "Their requests are reasonable—about what they think they will need for the season," he added.

Security will include a first lien on the crop, if for financing a crop; on livestock if feed is to be bought. Landlords will be required to waive their claims in favor of the lien to the government through the Farm Credit Administration, until the loan is paid.

Checks in payment will come from the regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office at Dallas.

Letters To Editor

ernment and incidentally, Mr. Roosevelt's feeling toward the Supreme court, since his attitude toward the court was a matter of common knowledge and public interest long before election day. This fact, within itself constitutes ample justification of the President's move to apply the quickest and most effective method available to curb the authority of a reactionary court to thwart the desires and purposes of the sovereign citizens expressed through their duly elected and constituted representatives.

Respectively,
E. A. Madera,
Cotton Center.

(Dear Mr. Madera: Of course, I know legislation must pass Congress before it gets to the Supreme court. But I also know that up to the present time a badly scared Congress has been whipsawed by the President and that if he succeeds in kidnaping the Supreme court, the executive branch of the government will be in control of not only the legislative branch, but the Judicial branch, as well. As for your claim that "the cry 'dictatorship' originated with the bar associations and is echoed by the press associations," that's only your opinion, which, of course, you are quite welcome to hold. The fact is, however, that I have yet to see a press association on record regarding the court reform question and I don't believe any has gone on record, one way or another. As for the bar associations, the American Bar association was polling its members on the court question, at the time your letter was written and, had not received sufficient replies to announce the poll's findings. As for me, I don't need a bar association or a press association to aid me in making up my mind regarding any public question. I am even so oldfashioned that I don't think I need master minds in Washington to do my thinking, either! Thanks for your letter, which I am sure will be enjoyed by readers on both sides of the court reform fence. Resp. The Editor.)

AGAINST COURT CHANGE

Editor, The Avalanche: I want to congratulate you a thousand fold for your effort you are making through your paper to keep this nation from total destruction at the hands of the ones who at present hold the reins in Washington.

Keep pouring it on.

King without a country

and descended to the cabin of the sloop. Ashore, the ceremonies ended, people streamed back through the streets, city life regained its normal round, the day wore away; and all the while Paul sat alone in the cabin, his chin in his hands, thinking long and melancholy thoughts.

He roused himself, at last, and came on deck. Dusk had come; night was veiling the bleak ugliness of the harbor, and the waterfront was taking on a spangle of lights. Paul stood by the mast, looking dully at the foreshore.

A huge motor car came down the nearest street and swung onto the warf. It halted, and a uniformed military aide got out. He looked about for a moment, spied the sloop, and walked briskly over to it. Halting at the edge of the wharf, he clicked his heels and saluted.

"Sir," he said, "his majesty the king would like to talk with you. Will you come with me, please?"

Dickstein Bill Is Attacked By Movie Producer Monday

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 22. (AP)—The Dickstein bill, calculated to keep America safe from foreign "ham" actors, was called "ridiculous" today by Samuel Goldwyn, pioneer motion picture producer.

"We can not place tariffs on talent as we would on plowshares and food-stuffs," Goldwyn added. "It is exactly as if we would ban from America all books by H. G. Wells and all plays by Noel Coward because they are written by foreign authors."

Goldwyn declared that foreign governments are subsidizing their own film industries by placing stringent quota laws against American-made pictures.

"Now," he said, "this Dickstein bill would add an American menace to American-made films and possibly jeopardize one of the greatest industries of the nation.

"The advent of foreign talent into Hollywood has been one of the biggest boons toward building up the American film industry."

England has one motor car to every 37 of its population.
