Jones' Duties As WFA Head Go To Agriculture Post

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 23.—President Truman shook up his cabinet today by naming three new members and signalled a new, streamlined attack on the nation's No. 1 home front problem —food shortages.

The new cabinet members:

Attorney general—Tom C. Clark, succeeding Francis Biddle. Clark 45-year-old Texan, is now assistant attorney general.

Secretary of labor — Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach, former Democratic senator from Washington. He succeeds Miss Frances Perkins.

Secretary of agriculture—Rep. Clinton P. Anderson, New Mexico Democrat, succeeding Claude R. Wickard.

Also Takes Foods Job

Mr. Truman disclosed that Anderson also will become War Food administrator when Marvin Jones steps out of that position June 30 to resume his position as judge of the court of claims.

Anderson heads the House food committee which has been critical of government food policy and has been calling for a new, coordinated attack. The fact that he was put into the twin posts of agriculture secretary and war food administrator was taken to mean that new measures to combat food problems are in store.

On May 2 the House committee urged the President, among other things, to coordinate the program from grower to consumer to break up black markets and ease shortages.

It advocated top priority for farmers in the matter of manpower and machinery, revised price policies to assure profits to producers and distributors, and special inducements to ward off threats of developing black markets in eggs and sugar.

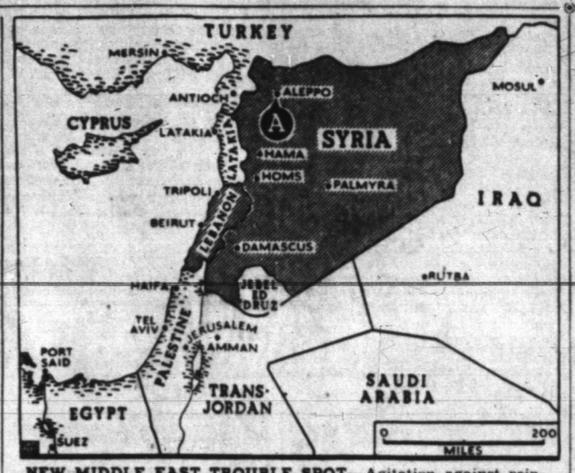

Wickard To Head REA

Wickard, the retiring agriculture secretary, has been picked as Rural Electrification administrator, the President also disclosed at his busiest news conference yet, a session lasting less than 15 minutes. This is the post for which the Senate recently rejected Aubrey Williams, former head of the National Youth administration.

The extent of the sweeping changes in Mr. Truman's official family was greater than had been generally expected today. The White House had reported earlier that the President would have an announcement respecting Biddle's resignation.

As reporters streamed into the oval room, they were greeted by the President's announcement that he had some cabinet changes to report. He started rattling them off in rapid-fire order, reading from both the letters of resignations and his replies.

The President said he had planned to appoint Rep. Anderson as Agriculture secretary even before the House committee's reports

Capture Of Doenitz, Others Destroys Flensburg Regime

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

FLENSBURG, Germany, May 23 Allied supreme headquarters, acting in concert with the Russian high command, arrested Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz and other German leaders today, destroying the so-called Flensburg government and remnants of the Nazi high command.

Doenitz, who succeeded Hitler as fuehrer of the shattered Third Reich, was taken into custody along with Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, Army chief of staff; Admiral von Friedeberg, head of the German Navy; and Reichsminister of Production Albert Speer. Jodl and von Friedeberg represented Doenitz at the German surrender to General Eisenhower at Reims.

At the same time it was disclosed that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, who preceded Jodl as German chief of staff, and who signed the surrender to the Russians at Berlin, had been arrested ten days ago when the Allied mission of less than three dozen officers and men arrived in this North sea port where 175,000 German soldiers still carried arms.

Doenitz, Jodl and Speer were taken from Flensburg by plane today to an undisclosed prison.

(The Exchange Telegraph agency reported that von Friedeberg committed suicide by taking poison 45 minutes after the arrests. There was no immediate confirmation of this report.

(Supreme headquarters in Paris also heard the report that von Friedeberg had killed himself — but was not yet able to confirm it officially).

Face Long Sentences

A high ranking SHAEF officer said all members of the German general staff probably would be sentenced to from 10 to 15 years imprisonment.

Doenitz came to the SHAEF command post aboard a captured German liner in the Flensburg harbor when he was sent for and did not return to his office afterwards. A freshly opened package of cigarettes and papers giving the position of wehrmacht forces as of May 9 were lying undisturbed on his desk.

Jodl, who became wehrmacht chief of staff after Keitel's arrest, returned to his office after his arrest and packed his own bag while his aide, Capt. Herman Brudemuller, picked up odds and ends.

Friedeberg was arrested at his home near the Oberkommando wehrmacht headquarters and Speer was arrested in his private castle in Giuckbord. Capt. Tony Solomon of London said he found the Nazi production minister in his bath.

Others Rounded Up

While Maj. Gen. Lowell W. Rooks, whose appointment as Gen. Eisenhower's representative at Flensburg was announced only yesterday, read the arrest orders to Doenitz, Jodl and Friendeberg in Keitel's old headquarters aboard the American-Hamburg line steamship Patria. British Tommies rounded up lesser members of the German headquarters.

The British soldiers moved swiftly, lining the German men and women workers up against walls with their hands behind their heads while tanks rumbled into

Hopkins Off On Moscow Mission

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 23—Harry L. Hopkins, ailing confidant of presidents and premiers, tonight was embarked on a new mission to Moscow to tackle unsettled issues between the United States and Russia.

In a surprise announcement, the White House made known that President Truman had sent Hopkins to the Russian capital "to converse with Marshal Stalin upon matters now in discussion between the Soviet government and the government of the United States."

Davies Goes To London

Simultaneously it was announced that Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Moscow, would leave immediately for London, there "to discuss with Prime Minister Churchill and other members of the British government certain matters of common interest to the United States and Great Britain arising out of the war."

Hopkins, one time Roosevelt commerce secretary and WPA head, was perhaps the late President's most intimate adviser but there had been no advance hint that he was to be chosen by Mr. Truman for such an assignment.

He has met Stalin on several occasions and the two are said to get along very well together. He accompanied Mr. Roosevelt to many international meetings, including the last Big Three meeting at Yalta.

Recently he has been recovering from a recurring stomach ailment.

Davies Was At Moscow

Davies served as ambassador to Moscow after a diplomatic assignment in Belgium and later made two visits to the Russian capital on special missions for Mr. Roosevelt.

The White House announcement was made as reports from Europe and elsewhere pushed these problems into the foreground of American policy considerations:

1. A Big Three meeting where top-level decisions could be made to break diplomatic log jams throughout liberated Europe.

2. A peace conference or conferences to settle by discussion and agreement many war-created problems confronting the United Nations, and others hanging over from World war 1.

3. Occupational problems such as Berlin and Vienna where joint Russo-Anglo-American accupation was agreed upon months ago but where only Red troops stand guard today.

Yugoslav Problem

4. Yugoslavia, where Marshal Tito's recent occupation of the Italian port of Trieste and southern Austria clashed with American blueprints for lasting peace. Acting Secretary of State Grew has made pointedly clear to the world that this country wants such territorial disputes settled around conference tables instead of "by unilateral action in the wake of armies on the march." Grew said more than thirty such questions are hanging fire.

5. Poland, where fulfillment of the Yalta agreement to broaden the Warsaw government remains deadlocked by conflicting policies of Russia on the one hand and Britain and America on the other.

Deadly Fire Bombs Blanket Large Area

Over 550 Superforts Join In Blow Called Heavier Than Any In Europe

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Thursday, May 24—Striking before dawn, more than 550 Superfortresses today dropped 4,500 tons of bombs on important Tokyo industrial targets, the greatest load of destruction hurled on the Japanese capital to date.

The target area included the highly important Shinagawa sector. The railroad marshalling yards there, through which a third of Japan's rail traffic passes, was a key objective.

The assault equalled two 1,000-plane raids by B-17s or B-24s on Berlin from England.

Happy Combination

A spokesman for Maj. Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of the 21st Bomber command, pointed out the Shinagawa area provided "one of the happiest combinations of inflammability and congestion" that could be found for the Superfortresses.

Taking off from bases in the Marianas, the B-29s carried thousands of pounds of deadly fire bombs to be hurled on flimsy residences built as temporary shelters for thousands of homeless after the devastating Tokyo earthquake in 1923, but never replaced. It was estimated probably 750,000 Japanese lived in the Shinagawa a[illegible].

This area has more small producers of light machine, aircraft precision instruments and technical aircraft component parts than any other Japanese district with the exception of Nagoya which, too, has been heavily hit by the Superforts. Nagoya is Japan's principal aircraft center.

Wave after wave of the big war birds struck at a target area which extended from the Tama river on the south of Tokyo to a foundry only three miles south of the imperial palace. Pathfinder planes, operating after the British pattern in their night assaults on European objectives, dropped oil bombs to light up the Tokyo target.

Tokyo has been a lucrative target for the B-29s since they began their incendiary campaign against Japanese key industries. Prior to today's assault 32.8 square miles of the Nipponese capital were burned out in previous fire bomb raids. In addition, 8.37 square miles in greater Tokyo and adjoining Kawasaki, south of the Tama, have been destroyed.

Bomb loads now falling on Japanese targets from B-29 bomb bays equal or exceed the weight hurled on short-range European targets. Last week the planes dropped more than 9,000 tons in three raids, including a pair of 500-plane strikes against Nagoya.

Six months ago today, 111 Superforts left Marianas bases for their first assault on Japan.

The fire bomb being used by the American planes is so powerful and deadly that reconnaissan[illegible] photographs have disclosed nothing is safe from them, not even reinforced concrete.

While today's assault was the 23rd against the Tokyo area, 1[illegible] of the raids have been directed at Tokyo itself.

Gasoline Rations Hiked, With A Cards To Be Worth Six Gallons; Bs Also Rise

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP) — Gasoline rations for America's civilian motorists were ordered increased tonight as a result of victory in Europe.

Effective June 22, the A card value will increase 50 per cent, from four to six gallons. On June 11 B card ceilings will increase to 650 miles per month throughout the country.

At present, the B card ceiling differ in various sections, being 325 miles a month in the East, 475 in the Midwest, and 400 in the Far West.

Not all B cards will rate an increase, it will be necessary for holders of these cards to show their local rationing boards that they have a real need for more gasoline than they are now using.

The Petroleum Administrator for War and the Office of Price administrator issued the glad tidings to motorists in these words:

"The value of A coupons will be increased from four to six gallons on June 22, when coupon A-16 becomes valid. B card ceilings will be raised to 650 miles per month uniformly over the country on June 11."

Statement By Ickes

Petroleum Administrator Harold Ickes said:

"This is the first time since July, 1941, when we first called upon the public to restrict its use of gasoline, that I have had the satisfaction of reversing the process and providing more for the civilians. We in the Petroleum Administration have looked forward to this day for a long time, and victory in Europe together with the amazing performance of the petroleum industry makes it now possible. This supply is distributed equitably across the country. Every state in the union now receives the same treatment."

Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, said, "I share with the Petroleum Administration the pleasure of announcing increases in gas rations for the civilian motorists.

Pleased For A Card Holders

"The car owner who has had only the A ration during the war period has been severely limited in the use of his car. That is why we are particularly pleased that there will be enough gasoline to increase his ration by 50 per cent starting June 22. B and C card holders, also, of course, have an

18-Year-Olds To Fill Most Of Calls

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—An Army officer predicted today that by fall youths turning 18 probably will be filling 85 per cent of draft calls.

This official, anonymous at his request but qualified by his job to speak authoritatively, made the prediction after noting Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey's estimate that 18-year-olds will make up only 45 per cent of the July call for 90,000 men.

Asserting the total of 18-year-olds will increase from about 40,500 in July to approximately 78,000 thereafter, he expalined it this way:

The Navy, which expects to reach peak strength in July, has been enlisting large numbers of 17-year-olds, thus sharply reducing the total of youths 18 available for the draft.

This drain from potential selective service rolls will be largely eliminated when the Navy goes on a replacement basis, the official predicted, adding that this will ease the pressure considerably on registrants through 29.

"There is no reason at all why people should spend their sugar stamps in any except the normal way," Orth said.

Yanks Hit Northbound Jap Trains In China

CHUNGKING, May 23 (AP) — Tending to confirm recent Chinese statements that the Japanese were transferring forces from the Shanghai area into Manchuria, U. S. 14th air force planes attacked heavily loaded northbound enemy troop trains yesterday.

A communique from Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer's headquarters told of the action today.

North of Pengpu, in north central Anhwei province, a 30-car train loaded with troops, heavy artillery and motorized vehicles was bombed. Ten trucks and two artillery pieces were smashed and troop cars were hit, the bulletin said. South of Pengpu another troop train was attacked. A third train was fire-bombed on the Peiping-Hankow railroad north of Hankow.

Chinese troops moving eastward along the main Shaoyang (Payoang)—Chihkiang railroad in a four-mile advance reached a point 19 miles from Shaoyang.

House Debates Big Texas U. Program

AUSTIN, May 23. (AP)—An overnight recess prevented a showdown vote today in the House on a $9,000,000 building program for the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. college.

Before it was a Senate-approved joint resolution substituting a constitutional amendment authorizing the pledging of university permanent fund income for retirement of bonds to provide buildings.

The resolution will be pending business tomorrow.

The university permanent fund comes from oil royalty and bonuses and grazing rental on university lands in West Texas. Two-thirds of the income from the permanent fund is assigned to the university and one-third to Texas A. and M. but it cannot be pledged in advance for construction without a constitutional amendment.

The resolution was before the House for several hours and it survived every attempt to alter it. Amendments defeated were those permitting all other state supported colleges to share in the bond plan; permitting use of the income for building purposes without a bond issue; splitting the issue equally between university and its branches and Texas A. and M. and its branches; specifically including the Texas College of Mines at El Paso and Prairie View Normal college for negroes in the bond proposal.

Included in the resolution was a provision giving Prairie View the constiutional status of a university but not giving it a share in the permanent fund.

Opposing the resolution throughout was Rep. Preston Smith of

Churchill Resigns, Forcing Election

By ALEX SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 23—Prime Minister Churchill forced Britain's first general election in 10 years by resigning today as chief of the nation's wartime coalition government in the midst of an old-fashioned, slugging political campaign.

King George VI, to whom the 70-year-old premier formally tendered his resignation, appointed Churchill to form a temporary "caretaker government" to serve until after the elections, which promised fireworks between the aggressive Labor party and the long-dormant Conservatives.

At Churchill's request the king announced that the present Parliament would be dissolved by royal proclamation on June 15, the next step toward calling a general election, probably on July 5. The result will remain locked in the ballot boxes for 20 days, until the service-men's vote has been tallied.

At the hour Churchill was breaking up the wartime cabinet he formed in Britain's darkest days in 1940 his Conservative party was undergoing a searing attack at Blackpool by two Labor-ite cabinet ministers, Ernest Bevin, minister of labor and Clement Attlee, deputy prime minister.

Addressing a convention of the Labor party, Bevin—a possible successor to Churchill as premier —blamed the conservative party for the suspicion which he said was growing in Britain-Russian relations and bound the Labor party, if elected, to correct the situation.

Bevin said he always had be-

Both Flanks On Okinawa Buckle As Yanks Lash Out Fiercely Through Rain And Mud

GUAM, Thursday, May 24. (AP) —Both flanks of the stoutly defended Japanese line on southern Okinawa were bent back yesterday by U. S. 10th Army forces, fighting through rain and heavy mud.

On the east side, the Seventh Infantry division crossed the Asato river to enter the capital city of Naha in force. On the east side, the Seventh Marine division captured two hills, expanding its flanking bulge south of Yonabaru, whose occupation was completed against scant resistance.

Marines Cross Asato

The Fourth Marine regiment, including veterans of the old Marine raider battali[illegible]s, forded the Asato and apparently won a secure bridgehead in the northeastern sector of Naha which previously had been explored by patrols.

In the Yonabaru sector, the 32nd and 184th regiments pushed to about 1,200 yards south of that town, enlarging the American hold on heights from which artillery can dominate supply roads to the enemy's "Little Siegfried" line. The infantrymen took a height south of Taira town.

The Yanks also captured a hill west of Yonabaru in sharp fighting. This attack apparently was designed to widen the corridor beyond Yonabaru through which the Seventh could bring supplies to its front in the Ozata Mura hills. The Japanese between the Ozata Mura hills and the Okinawa east coast have not yet been cleared out.

Cut East-[illegible]est Road

The Yanks already have cut the east-west road from Naha on Okinawa's west coast to ruined Yonabar[illegible] and presently are seizing heights from which guns can blast vital supply roads to fortress Shuri in the center of the line.

Sixth division Marines on the northern edge of Naha sent elements yesterday across the Asato river 1,000 yards from the river mouth under cover of artillery and warship guns.

Continued rains and heavy mud made the going slow in all sectors.

On the east coast side, the 96th Infantry division west of Conical hill beat off a stiff Nipponese

Battle On Luzon Flares Furiously

MANILA, Thursday, May 24 (AP) —Fighting in the Manila watershed area increased in violence Monday as the 38th division, behind a tremendous fire-bomb air strike, drove to the junction of the Marikina and Bosoboso rivers and established a river line several miles in length.

Flame-throwing tanks added their destruction to that of hundreds of fighter planes which dropped jellied gasoline incendiaries as the Yank infantrymen moved through acres of Japanese hillside positions.

Jap Attacks Fail

The doughboys counted 136 Japanese dead during their push. The enemy tried several more night counterattacks, but only in small force.

Improvised weapons were effective in the mountain fighting. A medieval-type catapult hurled cans and barrels of jellied gasolins over ridges into Japanese-held gorges and against hillsides which planes had been unable to hit accurately.

Despite these fearsome weapons and thunderous artillery, the Japanese clung bitterly to their positions and fought back with what they had until they died.

In central Mindanao, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today, the 31st raced toward a juncture with the 40th and Americal divisions along the north-south Sayre highway as enemy resistance melted. They were only eight miles apart by Monday midnight.

City's Residents Urged To Keep Cleaning Up Property After Drive

"Every day is clean-up day," G. M. Unger, chairman of Lubbock's 16th annual Clean Up campaign said Wednesday in expressing belief the drive had succeeded principally in an educational way, as well as in some progress in actual clean-up work, and in urging continued clean-up activitieis.

Results of various phases of the drive were given by different officials.

Paper Collection Large

A total of 165,000 pounds of salvage paper was collected by trucks from Lubbock Army Air field from in front of residence and on street corners and is in process of being baled and shipped to paper processing factories. Lt. Lang M. Sheppard, salvage officer at Lubbock Army Air field, reported.

The paper salvage was the most successful thus far, he said, from 10,000 to 15,000 pounds more paper having been collected than the largest amount colletced in any previous drive. Boy Scouts helped in taking paper to corners from avenues.

The paper drive and tin can and waste fats salvage were emphasized in the clean-up campaign, as well as cleaning of property and elimination of fire hazards and garbage sanitation measures.

Enough tin cans to fill a railway car have been given here in the last two months and a large number was given during the clean-up drive, said C. B. Boverie, chairman of the tin can salvage.

Scout Drive Postponed

In the waste fats collection, Girl Scouts decided to postpone their major drive until fall but some individual troops did collect fats and turned them in to grocery stores, said Miss Rosemary Head, executive secretary of the Lubbock Girl Scouts. Points collected will be used when the Girl Scouts go camping this summer.

No unusual amount of garbage collections was noted. The health department is urging that property owners continue to clean their own premises and where possible to clean adjoining vacant lots. The garbage department will make an "especial effort" to haul off refuse collected from such cleaning, and hopes to have another haul truck in operation soon.

Ed Branch, superinendent of the garbage department, has supervised cleaning of about a dozen vacant lots. Some stock lots have been cleaned on suggestion of the health department.

Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, urged observance of sanitation measures emphasized during the campaign, that property owners, for the sake of preventing possibility of an epidemic, check garbage cans and see that they are sanitary, that they have a good tight cover and that they wrap wet garbage in newspapers before placing it in the garbage can.

Unger said the drive was "chiefly educational" and that civic groups, women's clubs, and others had participated.

Law To Force Expose Of Sources Unlikely

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — The House veterans committee all but abandoned today its attempt to have a newspaper reporter punished for refusing to name his news sources.

Just how the group would dispose of the case of Albert Deutsch was a matter of speculation. Indications were, however, it would vote formally to rescind the contempt action it started last Friday against the 39-year-old reporter for the New York newspaper PM.

In a four-hour committee session yesterday, Maisel reviewed criticisms he had made in magazine articles after a first-hand inspection of veterans' hospitals. He acknowledged that some of his statements could not be proved factually, but insisted all his charges were based on conditions as he found them.

Magic Feats Given Before Rotary Club

Lubbock Rotarians witnessed feats of magic performed with oxygen and liquid air at their Wednesday luncheon in the Hilton hotel.

Roy West, member of the oxygen manufacturing firm of West Texas Oxygen Co., 2607 Ave. H, performed the experiments Bill Hord, a partner in the firm, was program chairman along with Neil H. Wright.

West poured liquid air into a pan, dropped pieces of rubber, a rubber ball, cherries, flowers, a cigaret, a vial of mercury and a piece of damp cloth into it to demonstrate the below freezing temperature of the substance. Each article froze quickly and shattered when dropped on the floor. He also 'fried' an egg by pouring it into liquid air in a frying pan sitting on a cake of ice. Other experiments showed how oxygen when mixed with acetylene gas is capable of burning metals.

President C. A. Bestwick announced that the Rotary student loan fund now had a total of $8,500 in bonds, the club having authorized purchase of $2,000 in bonds last week.

Out-of-town visitors at the luncheon included: Sam Hill, Bill Blakney, and Geo. Barron, Abilene; Tom Cartwright, Amarillo; Sam R. Hord and T. E. Popplewell, Fort Worth; Major H. Rodgers, Levelland; J. Melvin Jones, Ellisville, Miss.; Geo. Loos, Laredo; Henry F. Baldwin, El Paso and J. B. Clement, Odessa.

A help to well-being these food-short days

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN GIVES 5 IMPORTANT BENEFITS

Famous breakfast cereal extra rich in protective food elements

IT'S wise these days, when many favorite foods are short, to be sure your family gets enough of the protective food elements it needs. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, economical and plentiful, helps provide these 5 food features:

1. IRON — to help maintain your blood's "iron level." One ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides over ½ of your daily minimum iron needs.

2. OTHER MINERALS—to help build bone and teeth. Weight for weight, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides 4 times as much phosphorus, nearly 3 times as much calcium, as whole wheat.

3. VITAMINS—to help guard against deficiencies. ALL-BRAN gives twice as much B_1, 4 times as much niacin, and just as much B_2, as whole wheat!

4. PROTEIN — to help build body tissues. Quality in protein is of great importance. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides you with protein of high quality.

5. GENTLE REGULATION. ALL-BRAN is a famous regulating cereal—helps prevent constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. Satisfactory laxation usually results from eating one ounce of ALL-BRAN daily and drinking plenty of water.

You get so many nutritive features in ALL-BRAN because—

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat

Nature makes a habit of concentrating important protective food elements in the outer layers—the skin—of many fruits, vegetables, and grains. Wheat's vital outer layers (from which KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is made) contain a concentration of protective food elements found in the whole, ripe grain.

While many foods are short, give your family the 5 great features of ALL-BRAN. Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

"ALL-BRAN Is Appetizing Many Ways!"

Toasty, nut-brown KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN tastes downright good as a cereal by itself. Every shred is carefully toasted to heighten its grand flavor, and it's triple-milled for golden softness. Grand, sprinkled over other cereals. Makes delightful muffins. Recipe on the package. Give your family variety by serving ALL-BRAN many different ways.

Eisenhower Assures 40,000 Men Of Efforts To Get Them Home

By CHARLES F. KILEY
Stars And Stripes Staff Writer

ST. VALERY EN CAUS, France, May 23. (U.P.) — More than 40,000 repatriated American prisoners of war had direct assurance today from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that he is making every effort to get them home as soon as possible.

The supreme commander, addressing he group over a public address system from a truck, said he had ordered American-bound ships, carrying prisoners of war, to be loaded to capacity even to the extent of asking men to share beds and sleep in shifts.

Was With Senators

Gen. Eisenhower was accompanied here yesterday by Sens. Burton K. Wheeler, D.-Mont., Albert W. Hawkes, R.-N. J., E. W. McFarland, D.-Ariz., and Homer Capehart, R.-Ind., Maj. Gen. F. E. Stoner, war department representative with the Federal Communications commission, and Paul Porter, chairman of the FCC.

The congressional group, in Europe to study the communications system, had called at the general's headquarters and was invited to accompany him on the flying trip here.

The repatriates—about 40,000 enlisted men and 4,500 officers—were captured from two months to two years ago in Sicily, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. Some have been awaiting shipment home for only a few days.

[illegible] Ovation

The rep[illegible]ates gave the general a big ovation as he mounted the truck to speak. Another roar went up after he motioned for quiet and said, "Say, I'm just a GI, not a movie star."

(A Rome broadcast reported by the CBS in New York said today that the German passenger ship Europa would be brought to a British port for repairs and then used to transport American troops home.)

Among score sof men with whom Gen. Eisenhower talked were:

1st Lt. Herbert A. Jordan, Houston, Tex., pilot who had been liberated from Stalagluft no. 1 at Barth, Germany.

1st Lt. D. Westheimer, Houston, Tex.

S/Sgt. J. F. Bonner, Killeen, Tex.

Lubbock Soldier Has Part In Capturing Strategic Bridge

WITH THE 40TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN THE PHILLIPINES —A captured bridge, a shattered enemy defense plan and a three-day step-up in a 40th division time table is the record of a reinforced platoon of the 185th Infantry regiment.

Participating in the surprise landing and assault were: Pfc. Delbert D. Lawrence, Route 5, Lubbock, Tex.,; Pfc. Frank V. Orozco, Winslow, Ariz.; and Pfc. Ruben Quintero, Route 1, Gilbert, Ariz.

These three with 60 of their 185th buddies captured the strategic Bago river bridge of steel on Negros island.

The bridge, 650 feet long and suspended more than 40 feet above the river, is the key linking southern Negros with the capitol city of Bacolod. Loss of the bridge to enemy demolitions would have severely crippled 40th Division supply lines and would have cost American lives and precious time.

Landing in a surprise move at Pitak, under cover of darkness at 5:30 a. m., March 29, this handful of men preceeded assault troops by more than four hours and stood alone on a Jap-held island.

As the group moved through rice fields to their objective they observed Japs driving Carabao carts toward the bridge. The men broke into a dog-trot which they maintained for three miles, outflanking the plodding convoy.

These Japs were not engaged for fear the firing would cause sentries to demolish the bridge. Avoiding observation the platoon moved into open country west of the main highway to short-cut Japs there.

As the Nips approached the southwest end of the bridge the platoon deployed. When the Japs left the carts, carrying additional weapons, ammunition and explosives to the bridge, the concealed Yanks opened fire killing ten.

Closing with the enemy in the face of heavy machinegun and mortar fire they killed the bridge guards. So complete was the surprise that Japs stretched within a few feet of the electric cotrol points, designed to blast the bridge, were annihilated. Aerial bombs had been strung the entire length of the bridge.

After cutting wires and disarming mines the platoon posted security to eliminate possible recapture of the bridge by counterattacking forces. Here they withstood severe enemy fire until assault troops arrived.

Sympathetic and joyous Filipinos said the Japs planned a complex network of defenses beginning with the north bank of the Bago. In the short space of a week they were cornered in a small area of northern Negros. Civilians added they would have been killed or confined as Yank sympathizers had troops been delayed two days in reaching Bacolod.

Lubbock Citizens Asked To 'Vote' On Type Of Civic Center Project They Desire; Ballot Furnished So That Preferences May Be Given

Faced with the decision of whether or not Lubbock shall have a civic center or similar project and then deciding on its nature, size, location, cost and other matters, members of the Lubbock Civic Center committee are asking for ideas and information from citizens on the problem.

Accompanying this article is a questionnaire which the committee would like for every citizen to fill out and mail to Lubbock Civic Center committee, Box 488, Lubbock, Texas.

First thing the committee would like to know is the type of project the people want, civic center, coliseum or city auditorium and in the questionnaire you will find places for checking your wishes as to the most-desired project. The committee hopes, when all data on the questionnaires is assembled, to be able to determine what type of project on which to center its studies.

A civic center involves one or more buildings and generally includes city offices and various other community organization headquarters and an auditorium for large meetings, conventions and musical or stage productions, according to the committee members' ideas.

A coliseum usually is a single building of such a flexible type that it can be used for various functions, ranging from grand opera, conventions, stage productions and the like to rodeos, boxing matches, ice shows and events of a similar nature.

A city auditorium, the committee believes, is constructed so that it is merely used for large gatherings, conventions, stage productions and strictly indoor affairs.

In the accompanying questionnaire, spaces are provided for a number of uses to which your desired project can be put to and you are requested to check these various listings.

Space is also provided for your informing the committee where a similar project which you prefer is located so that when actual on-the-ground studies are started by the committee, these projects may be visited and investigated.

Location preference is also requested from citizens by the committee. In furnishing this data, you are to state whether you desire a downtown location, residential location or any other feasible site for the project.

Sign Name, Address

You are asked to sign your name and address to each questionnaire. This requirement is being placed on the ballot so that a group of people, concentrating on one particular project won't be able to "stuff the ballot box" without being detected.

All information and data received in the questionnaire will be kept in strict confidence by the committee and at no time will it be divulged until a final decision has been made one way or another on the project, and then only in a general nature.

The committee hopes to have as many of the questionnaires mailed to it as soon as possible so that studies of the project may be started at once.

STORING WOOLENS

AS A FORCIBLE reminder that winter woolens should be laundered as soon as the need for them has passed we'd point out that moth life encounters greater difficulties in existing in freshly laundered garments. In using moth repellents, use enough and store in a tightly sealed place so that fumes which are given off will be heavy enough to do a proper killing job.

"GANGPLANK WEDDINGS"

WITH the country still debating whether or not wartime marriages are going to prove workable, now comes a leading educator, Dr. Robert G. Foster of Detroit, warning that the highest mortality rate really is among "gang plank weddings." He defines them as "the kind that take place too soon after a veteran comes home."

Dr. Foster is head of the Family Life Division of Detroit's Merrill-Palmer private school and we suppose he sets himself up as an expert on marriage problems similar to the experts in the school run by Dr. Paul Popenoe in California.

Statistics show, Dr. Foster says, that more broken homes resulted from marriages during 1919, when soldiers were returning from the last war, than from those involving doughboys who married before they went across in 1917.

"A gangplank marriage faces additional hazards because of several factors," Dr. Foster explains. "For one thing, a veteran who has long been deprived of the companionship of women may mistake a perfectly natural need for love and make the jump from ship to altar a little too soon."

If you doubt that you might talk to veterans returning from either war, One New Mexico boy related to a friend of ours that several of his shipmates married girls in San Francisco the first day they arrived. A number of the men had been in prison camps; others had been in combat. While some of them married girls to whom they had been engaged for several years, others married girls they had met just that day.

DR. FOSTER has a four-point program to test probable success in marriage. It is designed especially for veterans considering matrimony, but is useful for any couple. He says:

"Any marriage, before a soldier leaves, after he comes home, or under peacetime conditions, has certain requirements for success. War simply adds extra difficulties and restrictions."

Here are his four points:

1.) A genuine desire for marriage. Marriage as an institution has become "a lot more popular in recent years," he believes. People who get married had better be sure that it is what they want to do, he adds.

2.) An element he calls "good mating," still little understood despite physical and emotional tests designed for couples considering marriage. To be well acquainted there must be at least 100 hours dating during at least three months.

3.) An adequate preparation for marriage. Here he suggests reading some of the books that have been written on the subject.

4.) Willingness to "work at the job." He points out that couples wedded during war years seem to have more determination "to make their marriages succeed than ever before.

DESPITE these warnings and the statistics, the Woman's Angle believes that marriages are up to individuals.

BRITISH BRIDES

SPEAKING of marriages, British brides of American service men are learning to "talk American," to calculate in dollars and cents and contend with our strange customs. The "School for GI Brides" was started by the Red Cross on the third floor of London's famed Rainbow Corner club and here hundreds of the estimated 24,000 British brides of Yanks meet the first Sunday evening of each month to learn about life in America, minus the gingerbread that Hollywood pictures give it.

Sometimes it takes a bit of persuading to convince these young women that actually there are people in America who make only $20 a week, and that there are still thousands of homes without telephones and plumbing.

A demonstration of the American way of applying makeup is probably the most popular part of the course. Their next interest is culinary, with most of their questions centering around pumpkin pie, southern fried chicken and the secret of making good American coffee.

They are given booklets which explain American customs and translates British expressions into their American equivalents.

Survey Shows Sharp Drop In Pig Crop Expected For Fall, Winter

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 23. — A new government survey of farmers' 1945 production plans disclosed today that improvement in the nation's meat supply situation next fall and winter may be far short of hopes expressed by food officials.

The survey, made by the Agriculture Adjustment agency on May 1, indicated that this year's pi gcrop may fall, 300,000 head short of the goal set by the War Food administration.

Plantings of such important food and feed crops as corn, potatoes, dry beans, sweet potatoes, domestic sugar beet and cane crops, peanuts and flaxseed will fall below WFA goals, the survey also indicated.

Down Sharply In Month

The pig crop prospect declined materially between mid-April and mid-May. A similar survey made on April 16 indicated that the pig crop would fall more than 2,000,000 head short of the goal.

The goal is 92,500,000 head. The latest survey indicates a crop of about 87,200,000 head, or about 500,000 head more than last year's small wartime crop. The biggest crop of the war was that of 1943, when about 123,000,000 head were produced.

The prospective deficit in the hog goal would reduce pork supplies more than 1,000,000,000 pounds below that sought by the government. This deficit is equivalent to about 8 pounds of pork per capita per year.

Support Increase Asked

The disclosure of the possibility of a short pig crop came after Senate and House food investigating committees had urged that the War Food administration's price support or guarantee be increased above the figure of $13 per hundred pounds, Chicago basis, being offered until Sept. 1, 1946. The House committee recommended a price of $13.50. The support price was $13.75 in 1943, when the war's large pig crop was produced.

The AAA survey is expected to lead the government to reconsider the support price. Some officials expect it to be increased to at least $13.25, a figure recommended several months ago by AAA leader.

Too Many Conditions

Another factor believed to be influencing hog farmers is the fact that the present price support program is a conditional or limited one. The WFA has explained that it cannot support prices beyond the capacity of packing plants to handle hogs. Thus in the event of a plant closedown by reason of a strike or other difficulties, or a reduced capacity because of labor shortages or machinery breakdown, the farmer would have no price support.

For statistical and other reasons, the government breaks yearly pig production into two groups—the spring crop and the fall crop. This spring crop is composed of pigs born between Dec. 1 and the following June 1. This crop is marketed during the fall and early winter.

Over 3,000,000 Short

The AAA survey indicated that this year's spring crop would total about 52,900,000 head compared with the goal of 55,500,000. This deficit, if actually borne out, would be felt largely between next October and March, 1946.

The fall crop is made up of pigs born between June 1 and Dec 1.

The AAA survey indicated the fall crop would total about 34,267,000 head compared with the goal of 37,000,000. The fall pigs are marketed largely between March and September of the following year. Thus the indicated shortage in the fall crop would be felt during the summer of 1946.

Indicated Crop Acreages

The indicated acreages of other crops compared with the goals included:

Corn 96,617,000 and 99,098,000 acres; soybeans for processing for vegetable oils and other foods 11,492,000 and 10,757,000 acres; flaxseed for vegetable oils for food and industrial products 4,816,300 and 5,000,000 acres; dry beans, large quantities of which are needed for foreign relief, 2,179,000 and 2,277,000 acres; dry peas 520,700 and 457,000 acres; peanuts for vegetable oil and other foods; 3,060,000 and 3,230,000 acres; potatoes, 2,945,400 and 3,137,400 acres; sweet potatoes, 723,000 and 841,000 acres; sugar beets, 838,900 and 951,000 acres; sugar cane, 310,000 and 337,000 acres; wheat, 68,576,000 and 67,731,000 acres.

Sharp Cut Seen In Draft Calls

It is possible that indefinite deferment of registrants 30 through 37, if they are in jobs contributing to national health, safety or interest, will mean a sharp reduction in the number of men actually called for induction here in May and June, Mrs. Viola Younger, chief clerk of Lubbock County Selective Service Board No. 1, said Wednesday.

Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, said in a directive to both Lubbock county boards, No. 1 and No. 2, Wednesday that he realized it would be difficult, if not next to impssible, to fill May and June quotas in view of the indefinite deferment of the above age group.

Review Certain Cases

The directive further stated that the boards should review the cases of men classified as 1-A (conscientious objectors to combatant service only) and 4-E (conscientious objectors to combatant and noncombatant service) even if they have already been ordered for induction. The order became effective Wednesday.

All men in Lubbock county, who have been ordered for induction today, are requested by the boards to report as instructed regardless of whether they are 30 or over. Those 30 through 37, who are regularly engaged in activity in support of national health, safety or interest, war production or agriculture occupation or endeavor essential to the war effort, will be eliminated after reporting to the local boards Thursday.

All men classified as 1-A, 1-AO and 4-E, who fall in the 30 or over age group, will be reclassified if they meet the above requirements. Boards have been instructed to give particular consideration to fathers. Actual age of the registrant at the time his case is reviewed will be considered.

The new order was applied by Board No. 2 Wednesday in sending a group of men to Fort Bliss for induction, Miss Minnie L. Jackson, chief clerk, said.

Those forwarded for induction were: Kenneth T. Harrington, William Perry Allen, Edward Jackson Pope, jr., Jack Massey, Alton Monroe McNeeley, Carl Rudolph Caperton, Junior L. Privitt, Roy Edward Brown, Frank Andrew Pinkert, Henry Puryear Thompson, Jack Leon Beard, Stevens D. Pate, jr., Dwayne Doyle Walters, Ben Frank Matthews, Ralph Carlisle Tucker, R. W. Thomas, John Wm. Henry, III, Thomas Milton Pharr, Thomas Edward McGuffey.

Eighty-Five Boys Attend Opening Of Baseball School

Approximately 85 boys were present for the opening of the second annual Lubbock junior baseball school yesterday morning at Chapman field, coaches reported Wednesday night.

A major portion of the program was devoted to "lining up" the players and in making last minute changes in the schedule, but the boys received instruction in the fundamentals of batting.

Schedule Is Changed

Among changes made in the schedule was that players in the older age group, about 15, who can not be present for the regular afternoon workouts, may come out to the field about 6 or 6:30 every afternoon and coaches will be available to give them instruction. The younger boys, in the under 15 class, will hold their workouts each morning as planned.

Practice Slated

The program for today will be featured by fundamentals of batting and fielding, as well as general "pointers," Stoney Wall said.

Coaches present at the opening session were Del Morgan, Shorty Hayhurst, H. J. McCabe, Stoney Wall and Phil Ragland of Amarillo Army Air field, who played in the Lubbock league last year.

PITTSBURGH, May 23. (AP) — Al Gionfrido singled in the 13th inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 9-8 win over the Boston Braves tonight in a last-minute slugfest that kept 10,106 fans glued to their seats. The Braves' five-run blitz in their half of the ninth tied the game 7-7.

Higher Draft Prices Proposed By Minors

NEW YORK, May 23. (AP) — Territorial restrictions and higher draft prices occupied the attention of the six-man minor league committee today in the opening session of a three-day meeting to draw up a rough draft of a new major-minor baseball pact.

Unless a new agreement is approved by both the minors and majors before next Jan. 14, there will be no link between the two organizations. The little fellows will not be bound to recognize Commissioner A. H. (Happy) Chandler after that date unless a compromise is reached.

Recommendations made at a February meeting in Chicago were incorporated into the proposed agreement, assuring the lower class leagues of financial protection against any "invasion" of their circuits by the big timers.

The new draft scale, double the existing price level, would call for a $15,000 payment for any player selected from the International, American association or Pacific Coast leagues. There would be proportionate increases down through the Class D circuits.

Similar proposals have been made in the past at winter meetings of the national association, but they have been rejected or tabled by the majors.

Now that the pact, already extended several times, actually is expiring, the minors are ready to demand more consideration from the higher ups.

When the committee finishes its work, probably Friday, an invitation will be extended to the major league advisory council to arrange a joint meeting.

LEAD LEATHERNECKS—Chief specialist Pee Wee Reese, left, former Brooklyn shortstop, and Lt. Angelo Bertelli, who threw those passes for Notre Dame, are co-coaches of the Third Marine Division baseball team in the South Pacific.

Chicago Cubs, White Sox And Brownies Benefit Most By New Draft Regulation

CHICAGO, May 23. (U.P.)—The decision to "indefinitely defer" from Selective Service men 30 years old or over will serve as a boon to all major league baseball teams, particularly the St. Louis Browns, the Chicago Cubs and White Sox.

A United Press survey showed today that the order will affect some 160 players in the major leagues, including key men on most teams. This is based on the assumption that big league baseball is "work contributing to the national welfare."

The Selective Service move gave the Cubs the biggest boost, releasing three of their top players. Chief beneficiary will be Bill Nicholson, who has been the National league's home run and runs-batted-in champion the past two seasons. The big Maryland farmer was 30 years old last December and the Cub office feared he would be drafted before the season's end.

Frenchy Bordagaray and Otho Nitcholas of the Brooklyn Dodgers were teammates in 1934. They played for Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League.

Pitcher Mort Cooper Sold To Boston Club

ST. LOUIS, May 23 (AP)—Owner Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals announced today the sale of pitcher Morton Cooper to the Boston Braves.

Breadon declined to say whether it was a strictly cash transaction, the amount, or whether other players are involved.

Cooper, who was present at the conference, said "everybody is happy," and that he will join his new team in Pittsburgh on Friday

BOUT ENDS QUEERLY

HARTFORD, Conn., May 23 (AP) —Tommy Keene, 158, New London welterweight, had an unusual experience last night. He gained Referee Johnny Cluney's decision over Joe Rossi, 150, New York, although he was flat on his back and being counted out as the bell ended the sixth and last round. Keene had floored Rossi in the first stanza.

League Leading White Sox Bow To Yankees

NEW YORK, May 23. (AP)—Five runs in the first inning gave the New York Yankees a 5-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox today behind the seven-hit pitching of Floyd Bevens in a game played in one hour and 34 minutes.

George Sirnweiss opened the big frame with a single to left and after Bud Metheny tripled him home, Hershel Martin blasted his first homer of the season into the lower right field stands. Johnny Lindell walked, Nick Etten powered him around with a double to left and four runs were in before Joe Haynes had retired a batter. Etten was sacrificed to third by Oscar Grimes and scored when Cass Michaels fumbled Herb Crompton's bouncer.

Haynes then settled down and allowed only two hits the rest of the way.

Fisherman Upset By Fish With Bombsight

McALLEN, May 21. (AP) — A garfish equipped with a pinpoint bombsight — or something—upset Jack Tomlin's lake-bank fishing near Elsa, not far from here.

Tomlin was sitting on the bank fishing for gaspergou (fresh water drum) with his supply of bait minnows in a glass jar beside him. He kept changing the water frequently to keep the bait alive. He noted the fins of several gars cutting the surface nearby.

Suddenly a three-footer cut the water close to Tomlin, leaped out, knocked over the bottle of bait, smashed it, and then lay writhing on the bank, Tomlin, disgusted, kicked the gar back in the water rather than take advantage of it and stick a knife in its belly fuselage.

Regional Group Plan Advances

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23 (AP) Committee approval of a formula for letting regional groups of nations band together to resist attack dissolved tonight what had been one of the biggest issues of the United Nations conference.

Another of equally grave proportions moved into its place. It centers around a tug of war between great and small powers over big-nation control of peace-enforcement machinery in a world organization. The results may determine the effectiveness of the mechanism and the organization.

Mutual Defense

Accepted in a committee on regional arrangements was a proposal which says that up to the time the world organization takes

TRUMAN TO SPEAK

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—President Truman will address the final session of the world conference in San Francisco early in June.

Secretary of State Stettinius, conference co-chairman announced this today at the White House. He had just reported to the chief executive on the progress of the United Nations meeting and other diplomatic problems not concerned with it.

Stettinius said he had full confidence in the conference's "successful conclusion sometime early in June." He could not give the exact date Truman would speak.

necessary steps to maintain peace, groups of nations may use mutual defense measures if any of their number is attacked.

Latin states had approved this formula as granting adequate recognition to their Pan-American defense system, which was one of the things they wanted most at this conference.

A treaty for permanent mutual defense, to replace a wartime arrangement set up by the Act of Chapultepec at Mexico City last March, still must be negotiated by the United States and the 20 other American republics. That may be done this fall.

A committee handling another hot problem—trusteeship for dependent and strategic areas of the world—was making progress toward reaching complete agreement by the end of the week.

One big question to be decided is whether peoples of trusteeship areas should be assured independence or self government.

New Cruiser Houston Is Severely Damaged

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—Rep. Albert F. Thomas (D-Tex) said tonight the Cruiser Houston was damaged severely by torpedoes off Borneo and is being repaired at the Brooklyn Navy yard.

Thomas said the warship launched less than two years ago was hit by two torpedoes, presumably aerial.

Both struck below the water line, tearing off 50 feet of the stern, including engines, turbines and rudder gear, crippling the big vessel so severely she had to be towed to dry dock, the congressman said.

"It was a miracle she wasn't sunk," said Thomas who estimated the cost of renewing the ship would be $6,000,000.

The Houston has been in the Brooklyn yard since April 1, said Thomas who returned today from there.

The Navy department declined to comment.

Strike Halts With Seizure Imminent

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—The War Labor board announced tonight it was advised that a strike of 6,500 Chicago truck drivers would be terminated as a result of assurance that the WLB would review the industry's wage policy.

In a wire to the union the board promised to hear the wage problems as soon as work was resumed and movement of foodstuffs and war materials begins again.

A short time earlier, the Office of Defense Transportation, armed with a seizure order from President Truman, announced that it would seize Chicago's trucking system at midnight tonight.

But the War Labor board said it had assurances from the union that work would be resumed at once.

Man Sought As Draft Dodger Is Arrested

EL PASO, May 23. (AP)—R. C. Suran, special agent in charge of the FBI field office here, announced today the arrest of Luther Alvin Goodwin, 29, who since 1941 has allegedly been hiding in the secluded areas in the mountains of New Mexico and Nevada in an effort to avoid serving in the armed forces.

Goodwin was arrested near Secret Springs, Nev., by FBI agents and Nevada police officers yesterday. He said that for the past few years he has been hiding in the secluded mountain areas to avoid apprehension as a Selective Service violator.

Goodwin was originally ordered to report to his local draft board at Las Cruces, N. M., on March 18, 1941, and since that date the FBI and police officers have sought him.

The chapter banner hung over the mantle. Miss Lillian Chapman, vice president and social chairman, was in charge of decorations, assisted by Misses Maxine McMillan and Billie Knutson. She introduced the guests who were Mesdames Ruth Seveland, Lottie Hilton, Gladys Heaton, Misses Louise Chance and Dorothy Levey.

STOCK PRICES SLIP

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Stock market prices slipped fractions to more than two points today after a wave of profit-taking left only a handful of favorites above water.

Selling became general in less than an hour after an irregular and moderately active opening. Several recovery attempts failed but a few leaders tacked on plus signs.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite dropped .5 of a point to 64.6. Transfers aggregated 1,310,000 shares compared with 1,050,000 Tuesday.

One big loser was Du Pont, finishing down 4¾. Others ending lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Hudson Motors, Goodrich, Caterpillar, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, American Smelting, General Electric, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio and Standard Oil (NJ).

Gainers included Sears Roebuck, Glenn Martin, Consolidated Edison, American Can, Owens-Illinois glass and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Bonds were mixed.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—An extremely late start for the new cotton crop and covering operations by mills against a heavy blacklog of military orders provided the basis for a continuation of Tuesday's upturn in the futures market today.

Gains of as much as 50 cents a bale were reached, aided by commission house buying in the distant months, although the best levels were pared by increased hedging and profit taking. Final prices were unchanged to 35 cents a bale higher. There were recessions of 20 cents a bale in early dealings as the market displayed a hesitant tone, which was partly due to expectations of hedging pressure in futures when the Commodity Credit corporation announces acceptances against trade offers to buy its 1944 crop holdings.

Futures closed up to 35 cents a bale higher.

Texas U. Program

Lubbock who asserted it limited advantages to two state schools which have only 3 per cent of Texas college students. Smith contended that the constitution contemplates that all state-suppored colleges share in the permanent fund income.

Reps. Homer Leonard of McAllen and Je Ed Winfree of Houston argued for adoption of the resolution on grounds it would provide two really first class higher institutions of learning in Texas.

They maintained that if the permanent fund income was spread among all state supported schools none could hope to become really great.

Under the proposed plan, the University of Texas would receive $6,000,000 and A. and M. $3,000,000 for postwar building. The legislature is now forbidden by the constitution to appropriate money from the state's general revenue fund for buildings at these schools, and proponents of the bond issue plan told the House that it was the only method available for financing such improvements.

The Senate rejected a conference committee report on a bill designed to make the ballot more secret, and sent the measure back to the committee for further study. The hitch came over the proposed method of marking the ballot. As passed in the Senate, the bill provided that the name of the preferred candidate could be checked, and the House version restored the present method of scratching. The conference committee followed the House version.

Sen. James Stanford of Austin, author of the bill, objected that sending the measure back to the committee might have the effect of killing the bill.

Still up in the air was the question of adjournment. The Senate granted the request of the House for a free conference committee to bring a plan for final adjournment or recess back to both branches.

The Senate also refused to bring up out on regular order a House-passed bill creating a state aeronautics commission, and adjourned until tomorrow.

Soviet Lend-Lease To Expire In May

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—President Truman told his news conference today that lend-lease to Russia will continue during May when the last lend-lease protocol with Russia expires.

Asked whether lend-lease would continue to the Soviets after expiration of the protocol, Mr. Truman suggested that we wait to see what the situation is then.

Gasoline Rations

A ration.

"I must make it very clear, however, that the increase in the B ceiling will not mean more gasoline for all B users. Both B and C rations are based on the individual needs of the car owner. Many B ration holders now have all the gasoline they need. Unfortunately there is not enough gasoline to give these people more than the increase in their A rations. They will not receive any more gasoline as a result of the increase in the B ration ceiling. But those who do need more gasoline will be able to get it by applying to their local war price and rationing board after June 11 and showing their need for it up to a ceiling of 650 miles a month."

Davis Is Cautious

The deputy petroleum administrator, Ralph K. Davies, also issued a statement saying:

"It will take at least the next 20 days to effect the rearrangement in manufacturing, transportation, and distribution facilities that are required to make this additional gasoline available.

"The additional quantities are not guaranteed for any certain period of time but must always remain dependent upon changes in the military demand."

were published, but he added that the reports would help solve agriculural problems.

The resignaion of Marvin Jones as WFA administrator, to become effective not later than June 30, the President said, paves the way for the merger of that post with that of Agriculture secretary.

This was a course Jones recommended to the President when he asked to be relieved of his job in order to return to the United States court of claims from which he had had a leave of absence.

Jones wrote that while there was logic in having an independent War Food administration during the two-front war, the defeat of Germany makes possible the merger of the two posts and probably will result in expenditure of less money.

Differences Not Reflected

Though there have been some differences in the past between Mr. Truman and Biddle over federal appointments in Missouri, they were not reflected in the exchange of letters between the two.

Biddle, who has served as attorney general nearly four years, and prior to that time as solicitor general, wrote the President that the relation of the holder of his post to the President is "a particularly personal one and I think the time has come when you will wish to choose your own attorney general."

Biddle closed by pledging his support and expressing "admiration and praise for the courageous and wise manner" in which the President had undertaken his great responsibilities.

The President replied by expressing appreciation for Biddle's services during the war and during the preparation of war and adding:

"I shall always look back with pleasure upon my association with you while I was in the Senate as well as during the past months."

Effective June 30

The President added that he wanted to consult Biddle in the future whenever the occasion arose. The resignation, like those of Miss Perkins and Judge Jones, is effective June 30.

Miss Perkins, one of the original members of the Roosevelt cabinet, wrote that during her more than 12 years as Labor secretary, a large part "of the programs I have long hoped to see inaugurated have been established."

She added that when one party has been in office for a long time she thought it was desirable "that a variety of talents be brought into the service of he government."

The President replied that during her administration "unsurpassed progress in position, influence and prestige, has been made by American organized labor."

Far Reaching Legislation

"During this period," he wrote her, "such far reaching legislation as the fair labor standards act, the national labor relations act and the social security act have been enacted—carrying out the social philosophy you have so often expressed."

The President also wrote Wickard that under his administration as Agriculture secretary the nation's farmers had performed "miracles of production" and thanked him for consenting to remain as rural electrification administrator.

Legislation to divorce the REA from the department of agriculture is now pending in Congress. The President has never expressed himself on this legislation.

The President indicated that today's cabinet changes may be the last for some time. They leave Secretary of Interior Ickes as the only remaining member of the original Roosevelt cabinet of 12 years ago.

No More From Morgenthau

Mr. Truman flatly stated that he had not received any new offer of resignation from Henry Morgenthau, jr., secretary of the treasury, and added that he would not have accepted it if the latter had made the offer.

He also said he did not plan any changes in the State department, presided over by Secretary Edward R. Stettinius, jr.

Schwellenbach long had been rumored as the president's likely choice for labor secretary. He and the president are old friends and he recently visited Mr. Truman at the Blair house when the president made his temporary living quarters there. The two were sworn in as senators on the same day.

Mr. Truman had opportunity for close association with Clark, assistant to the attorney general in charge of the criminal division, during his chairmanship of the senate war investigating committee. The committee was in frequent consultation with Clark over cases referred to the criminal division growing out of committee inquiries.

Martin's 31st division moved 10 miles north from captured Malaybalay to seize Dalwangan. The northern spearhead, composed of the 40th and Americal divisions, advanced several miles south of Maluko.

To the southeast, meantime, Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's 24th division pushed along the Davao gulf shore one mile to secure Tambungon, and was closing in on the Lincanan airdrome, the last in that sector still in enemy hands.

On Luzon island the reduction of enemy strongpoints in the mountainous Maleto pass proceeded under close air support. Planes dropped more than 300 tons of explosives in covering the ground operations.

Churchill Resigns

lieved that the tragedy after the last war was the failure to invite Russia to Versailles.

Attlee, joining Bevin in outlining the Labor party's policy, declared the problems of peace could be solved only by "building upon international organization." The convention overwhelmingly adopted a resolution charging that:

"British government policy, now and for the future of certain liberated countries in Europe, particularly Belgium, Greece, Italy and Poland, was more concerned with the preservation of vested interests than for the welfare, liberty and equality of social security of these peoples."

Ministers Must Quit

The Labor party has given its cabinet ministers a clear-cut mandate against participating in Churchill's "caretaker government" or taking any part in the administration until after the election.

Churchill, whose suggestion that the coalition government function until the Japanese war ended was rejected by the Laborites, turned in his resignation initially at noon. Four hours later he returned to Buckingham palace through a violent electrical storm to accept the task of forming a stop-gap government. An announcement from the premier's residence said:

"The Right Honorable Winston Churchill, CH, MP, was received in audience by the king at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when His Majesty was graciously pleased to accept his resignation as prime minister, first lord of the treasury and minister of defense.

Accepted Invitation

"His Majesty invited Mr. Churchill to form a new administration. Mr. Churchill accepted His Majesty's offer of the post of prime minister and kissed hands upon his appointment."

The resignation had been expected. Yesterday the man who had led Britain since May 10, 1940, wrote Attlee it would be impossible for the coalition to carry on until autumn if the present "electioneering" atmosphere prevailed; that Britain would suffer both in administrative efficiency and in the eyes of the world.

panese capital, third largest city in the world, was the heaviest since the big assaults of April. Those attacks, aimed at industrial areas including the great Tokyo arsenal, left huge fires burning that were visible more than 100 miles at sea.

The Superforts then started hammering Japanese air bases on Kyushu and Shikoku, joining American carrier aircraft in the campaign to neutralize enemy airfields mounting aerial attacks on Yank invasion forces on and around Okinawa, 325 miles south of Kyushu.

In this campaign nearly a score of airfields were hit on Kyushu and others on nearby Shikoku. The B-29s made as many as four strikes in five days, and also carried out attacks on other target areas on Honshu.

the German compound and took over the remnants of the wehrmacht.

British ships, commanded by an officer who served as piermaster during the evacuation at Dunkerque, rode in Flensburg harbor, their guns trained on the German shore and on surrendered U-boats and E-boats that floated near by, their white ensigns fluttering in the damp air.

Doenitz looked tired and worn as he trudged up the Patria's gangplank, just 23 days after he assumed Hitler's role as head of the German state. Jodl, who had been named commander of the wehrmacht, after Keitel was arrested May 15, was accompanied by his aide, Maj. Wilhelm Oxenius.

Rooks Reads Instructions

In the brightly painted bar of the Patria, the Germans faced a long table covered with a white cloth at which were seated Rooks, Gen. Nicolai Trussov, representing the Soviet high command; and British Naval Capt. Guy Maund, commander of the Allied ships in the harbor.

"Gentlemen, I am in receipt of instructions from supreme headquarters AEF and from the supreme commander, General Eisenhower, to call you before me this morning and tell you that he has decided, in concert with the Soviet high command, that today the acting German government and German high command is to be taken into custody and several of its members made prisoners of war," Rooks said.

"Thereby the acting German government is dissolved. This is now going on. Troops of the 21st Army group are now taking the several members of the civilian and military and certain records into custody.

Prisoners Of War

"In confirmity with the instructions, each of you is to consider yourself a prisoner of war from this moment. When you leave this room an Allied officer will attach himself to you and escort you to your quarters where you will pack, have lunch and complete your affairs. After that they will escort you to the airfield at 1:30 p. m., emplaning. You may take the baggage you require."

Gen. Rooks added "that is all I have to say," and then turning to the Russian representative asked, "Does General Trussov have anything to say?" A moment later the American officer asked the Germans if they desired to comment.

"Any word now would be superfluous," Doenitz said as Jodl slumped in his chair.

They Remain Cool

Doenitz and Jodl had been cool throughout the interview, the grand admiral walking up and down the room at first and commenting: "It is now quite clear what is going to happen."

Later, when faced by a group of correspondents in the compound at brigade headquarters, the two Germans refused to talk.

"We are prisoners of war and will give nothing more than our names and ranks," he said.

The Nazi guards at Doenitz' headquarters offered no resistance when Lt. Allan Thorp of West London and his Cheshire platoon descended on the old naval school building at 10 a. m. Officials said about 400 officers, 2,300 enlisted men and an unspecified number of civilians were arrested.

Doenitz Was "The Goat"

It was disclosed that when the SHAEF control of party arrived here Doenitz informed Rooks that he had been willed the succession to Hitler on April 21 and took over when informed of the fuehrer's death on May 1. He presented three separate cables which he said gave him the right to surrender Germany and the wehrmacht.

The first message, dated April 26, said:

"Doenitz appointed by Hitler as successor."

It was signed by Martin Bormann, one of Hitler's closest aides.

The second message, dated two days later and also signed by Bormann, stipulated that Hitler's ministers would have to serve with Doenitz and the third message, dated May 1, read:

"Hitler died 3:30 p. m. Take over any action you deem necessary under circumstances." It was signed "Goebbels."

Refinery Workers Denied Wage Hikes

DALLAS, May 23 (UP)—In a decision announced today, the eighth regional War Labor board denied wage increases, severance pay and guaranteed annual wages to employes of the Phelps-Dodge Refining Corp., El Paso.

The union, members of the El Paso Refinery Workers local (CIO), had requested that base wage in the plant be increased from $.6125 to $.9375 per hour; rates for mechanics to be set at $1.125 per hour, and all other rates be increased in proportion.

The union also asked for four weeks' severance pay for employes having from one to three years service, and eight weeks for three or more years service.

Pvt. Ashburn Back, Sold On K-Rations

LONG BEACH, Calif., May 23. (AP) — From now on, K-rations, which he always abhorred, are going to look pretty good to Pvt. Gerald B. Ashburn.

They saved the life of the 23-year old Lubbock soldier at famed Bloody pass on Luzon.

"When a Jap shell exploded five feet from me on April 23," said the veteran of Guadalcanal and New Guinet campaigns, "a large pack of those K-rations on my back partially broke the force of shell fragments. I got out with a temporarily paralized leg."

Ashburn was one of 19 men, many suffering from severe wounds, who were flown here today in a hospital plane from Pacific bases.

Others in the group were: S/Sgt. Warren A. Denefield, 30, Negro, Galveston; Sgt. William N. Thomas, 23, Beckville, Tex.; Pfc. Frederick M. Berry, 39, Streetman, Tex.; and Pvts. Alfred O. Nitsch, 19, Houston.

Okinawa Advances

counterattack, killing 150 of the foe.

Near the center of the line, 77th division troops attacked hills fronting fortress Shuri.

First Repulses Attack

In the same general sector, the First Marine division repulsed a Japanese counterattack.

In support of the Okinawa fighting, escort carrier planes of the Pacific fleet pounded airfields and installations in the Sakishima group, southern Ryukyus Tuesday and Wednesday. One enemy plane was set afire and five strafed on the ground.

Search planes ranged north to Japan itself. Privateers and Liberators of Fleet Air Wing 18 sank three small craft south of Tokyo and strafed radar equipment on the homeland island of Shikoku Tuesday. The next day Venturas hit barracks and shipping on and around Honshu. A search plane sank a net tender and small cargo ship off the Honshu coast and shot down a Japanese plane.

Jap Front Lengthened

Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold, commander of the 7th, told Al Dopking, Associated Press war correspondent in the field, that one key achievement of the division's dramatic thrust along Okinawa's east coast was to lengthen by 4,000 yards the front which the Japanese must defend with a rapidly dwindling garrison.

While doughboys of the 7th slogged through knee-deep mud along the coast the 96th Infantry division entered Yonabaru to find it deserted. It was the largest Okinawa city to fall into American hands. The 184th regiment of the 7th cut the main Naha-Yonabaru highway.

By driving forward to a 400-foot hill belond Yonabaru, the 7th almost doubled the length of the front and confronted the Japanese with a north-south elbow joining the previous east-west front line west of Yonabaru.

Complete Surprise

Although doughboys of the 7th, veterans of furious fighting at Attu, Kwajalein and Leyte, achieved complete surprise with their maneuver, they encountered trouble scaling the hillside in the slippery mud.

Shoving off at 2:30 a. m. the forward attacking elements reached their high ground objectives in four hours. Japanese resistance was negligible until late in the day when the Nipponese opened up with machine gun and 47 mm anti-tank gun fire from a 500-foot escarpment about 1,000 yards directly south of the American-held height.

HST Strengthens The Cabinet

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S acceptance of the resignations of three cabinet members and the head of the War Food administration; his appointments of successors and the merger of the war food bureau with the Department of Agriculture, climaxed weeks of speculation regarding changes in high places in Washington as the result of the death of former President Roosevelt and the succession of President Truman.

Although the Southwest loses one position of major importance in yesterday's resignations, it gains two others. The far Northwest, too, gained a cabinet position—a recognition what that area deserved.

Tom Clark, of Dallas, who succeeds Francis Biddle as Attorney General, has had a meteoric career in the capital in recent years. Amiable, but thorough and fearless, the former law partner of onetime Texas Attorney General William McCraw will be generally described by Texans who know him as "a first class choice" for the nation's No. 1 legal post. Popular and a sensible liberal, the Dallasite will strengthen the cabinet in the post relinquished by the aesthetic dreamer, Francis Biddle of Pennsylvania, sometimes described as "a Henry Wallace with a law license."

Clinton Anderson, of Albuquerque, who is well known in West Texas and Lubbock as a onetime Rotary leader of the Southwest and a successful, feet-on-the-ground individual, is another sane liberal, as is former Sen. Lewis B. Schwellenbach, of Washington. Anderson succeeds Claude Wickard as Secretary of Agriculture, who moves over to run the Rural Electrification administration, a lighter job for which Wickard, an Indiana farmer, should fill more easily than the position in which he has served since Henry Wallace left the Roosevelt second term cabinet to become third term Vice President. Schwellenbach, more recently a federal district judge, cannot help but prove more effective and efficient than his predecessor, Mrs. Paul Wilson who, better known by the sobriquet of "Miss Frances Perkins," is the only woman in history to hold a cabinet position. A former New York social worker, Mrs. Wilson has been a figurehead for a dozen years largely because no successor could be found who would meet the unanimous approval of labor's warring factions.

Marvin Jones, of Amarillo, who represented the South Plains in the House of Representatives for many years prior to the formation of the 19th Congressional district, steps out as War Food administrator because recent events have found it essential to place all food problems under one head—Agriculture. Mr. Jones goes back to the U. S. Court of Claims in Washington, a life appointment given him by the late President Roosevelt. Able, sincere Judge Jones took the War Food job as a temporary matter; has been on leave from the Court of Claims and is known here to be glad to go back to his regular post after answering the call of Mr. Roosevelt and former "Assistant President" James F. Byrnes to administer to an emergency task directly connected with the nation's war effort.

ALTHOUGH the extreme leftist element—highly vocal but small in numbers—may be unhappy over the dropping of Mr. Biddle, the nation as a whole, we think, will applaud President Truman's actions of yesterday. To be sure, none of his new appointees may be described as "all-out" New Dealers, neither can any be charged with Tory leanings. Every one of them is intelligent, forward looking. Not one is "hide-bound." In making his selections, the President gives the strongest testimony yet to earlier prognostications that he will be a firm "middle-of-the-roader," and not a representative of either extreme faction in his party.

Most Americans, too, will agree that the changes in the cabinet will result in better administration and clearer thinking all around. Mr. Truman has certainly strengthened his advisory board in the addition of Messrs. Clark and Schwellenbach, each of whom has proven his outstanding ability over a long number of years. In the case of Mr. Anderson, all indications are that the cabinet will be stronger there, too. Relatively a newcomer to the Washington scene, Mr. Anderson is highly respected in every way by his fellow New Mexicans and by the hundreds of West Texans of this immediate area who know him, and his record in private life, as well.

Since his assumption of the Presidency, Mr. Truman has been known to be interested in rescuing the Rural Electrification administration from the political football players in whose hands it has been juggled during the years Mr. Roosevelt's attention was necessarily riveted upon world problems. Mr. Wickard will be worth his salt if he makes REA—as Mr. Truman expects him to do—the real service organization it originally was and should be. The Indianan has a great field for service there—one which we in this area know has wonderful prospects for expansion.

Mr. Truman did "a good job of work" for the American people yesterday. He deserves applause for it—as well as a continuation of the national unity which has been his since Fate placed him behind the desk at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue.

The Story: Brenda points out to Nick that motor trouble needn't have kept her father at The Ledges the previous evening unless he had really wanted to stay. The garage was full of cars, any one of which he might have borrowed.

THE FOOTPRINTS
XV

Pat, Charley and Eric, bless his ubiquitous little heart, were in the kitchen when we came in.

"Well," Eric said, "the early risers."

Charley went over and put some coal on the fire. Pat stood over the stove frying some eggs and doing a bad job of it. I could tell by her earnest air of preoccupation that she was a little angry. But when she turned, there was a faint smile on her lips.

"Have a fried egg, Nick?" she asked me.

"No thanks, Pat. We've eaten."

There was a plate of doughnuts on the table. Eric reached out and took one. As he bit into it, he said:

"Where is your father, Miss Temple?"

"I haven't the faintest idea," she replied.

"His car is gone," said Eric.

I pricked up my ears at that, and Brenda glanced at me briefly.

"Father is a curious soul," she said. "He must have his newspaper the moment he's awake. He's probably gone to town for The Times."

"The furnace fire's out," Pat called over her shoulder. "Run down and build a new one, will you Nick?"

I was glad to get out of that atmosphere of bottled-up animosity. While I was waiting for the wood to catch, I stood staring at the cellar floor. There was a thick film of dust that must have been weeks in settling during the long days when the house had been unoccupied. I saw the tracks where Mr. Hudson and I had mingled before this hungry engine the night before. They mingled aimlessly and converged at the firebox door.

Then I saw something else. With a curious feeling of expectancy I went over for a closer look. When I leaned down, I felt something as Crusoe must have felt when he saw footprints on his desert isle. It was a very big foot, bigger than either mine or Mr. Hudson's, and the prints were quite clear. They ran straight across the cellar to the door that led to the bulkhead.

I had started to follow them when there was the sound of movement behind me. A swift rush of air that made me duck and whirl just in time to receive a soul-jolting blow on the shoulder with something hard and heavy. I struck out viciously with my right, felt a thrust of flesh and bone on my fist. Then from nowhere came a second blow. It exploded with myriad lights in the dead center of my brain and I dropped as if struck by a mallet.

"Easy, old man."

It was Charley. A strained smile was on his lips and just beyond him I saw Pat's face, pale and anxious.

"The fire," I said. "Put some coal on it."

"Never mind the fire," answered Charley. "What hit you?"

I sat up.

"Where's Eric?" I said.

Pat and Charley exchanged glances. Then Charley said:

"Can you stand up, Nick?" He took me by the arm.

As we went back through the kitchen, Eric came in by the back entry.

"It is not there," he said.

"What?" asked Pat.

"The axe," he went on suavely. "I saw it by the carriage-shed this morning, but now it is gone."

"What did you want with the axe?" demanded Charley.

"But to help our friend Nicholas with the wood for the fire." Woolf looked at me round-eyed. "What has happened? You look pale."

"Somebody slugged me," I said, "in the cellar."

"Slugged?" He lifted his hands and a mystified expression came into his eyes. "Just now, you mean? Then we must have a look around."

"You look," I said. Eric was not very convincing but by now I was sure of nothing. I went into the library and lay on the big divan in front of the fireplace.

Pat followed me in with a basin of warm water and some gauze.

"Let's have a look at your head, darling."

"I'm all right."

"No doubt," she said cheerfully, "but you're getting blood all over the divan."

Then Phineas Hudson arrived. He removed his cigar from his lips and peered at me closely.

"What's wrong?"

"Somebody in the cellar hit him over the head," Brenda Temple said. She looked at Mr. Hudson steadily.

"I should have attended to the furnace, myself," said Mr. Hudson.

"But then you would have been hit, father," said Pat, "and—"

She stopped. A dead silence followed in which everyone must have thought the same thing: that Phineas Hudson's words and tone seemed to imply that he was in no danger from the attacker in the cellar.

At that moment I caught sight of Bruce Temple's figure as it passed the tall French windows in the library. He had The Times under his arm and he stopped to light a cigaret. There was no reason whatever for his being on that side of the house. If he was just coming from Minot with the paper, he would have had to walk halfway around The Ledges on either side to reach the library windows. And he would have passed both the front and rear entrances of the house to do it.

Floydada Pilot Gets Oak Leaf Cluster To The Air Medal

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England.—First Lt. Lonnie A. Doyle, jr., 21, of Floydada, Tex., pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress, recently won the first Oak Leaf cluster to the Air Medal for participation in the Eighth Air force bombing of German airdromes before the breakthrough on the Rhine. He described one bombing—that of the Luiftwaffe field at Steenwijk, Holland, as "a beautiful job."

DOYLE

"A perfect setup. We came over the field without a cloud in the sky and it was as safe as flying back in the States. We saw our bombs kick up a lot of dirt from the runways and smother a big part of the target."

The bombing of Stenwijk airdrome was part of the plan to knock out the German air force as a factor in the impending bridging of the Rhine river—and on following days, before the big "push" Lt. Doyle and his squadron took part in the bombing of other airfields and railroad yards.

Lt. Doyle, who won the Cluster in recognition of "exceptionally meritorious achievement" during nearly a score of missions, also has participated in bombing of objectives at Chemnitz, Berlin, Dresden, Hannover, Hamburg, Munster, Swinemunde, Weimar, and other points in the Reich. On one mission he was forced to land in Belgium.

The Floydada pilot was a student at Hardin-Simmons university before entering the Army Air forces. His wife is Mrs. Freda J. Doyle of Anson and his father is L. A. Doyle of Floydada.

Cpl. J. T. Lokey Missing In Action

The War department has informed Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Lokey of 3314 Twenty-second that their son, Cpl. J. T. (Tom) Lokey, has been missing in action in the Pacific theater since May 15.

Stationed in the Aleutian islands, Cpl. Lokey had been over seas approximately six months, serving as a turret gunner aboard a B-24 Liberator bomber. He had completed 10 missions and was eligible for the Air Medal with one Oak Leaf cluster, he wrote his mother in a letter dated May 11.

A graduate of Lubbock High school, Cpl. Lokey was a member of the Westerner team during 1942-43. He entered the AAF in February of 1944 and received his gunnery training at Laredo Army Air field.

Mr. and Mrs. Lokey are temporarily residing in Brownsville.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

AN 84-year-old lady whose name or whereabouts I shall not divulge, feels that her mission in life is now fulfilled because she had just acquired her one hundredth grandchild.

Or, to be more precise, there are 34 grandchildren, 48-great-grandchildren, and including the latest arrival, 18-great-great-grandchildren.

BRANDEIS

The lady is to be congratulated, of course, and she has all my wishes for much happiness and a long healthy life.

But nevertheless may I remark that quantity alone does not make life worth the living.

A hundred grandchildren!

A hundred mouths to feed, a hundred sets of clothes to wash, a hundred children to be nursed and educated and reared to citizenship.

A hundred colds and measles and whooping coughs, a hundred youngsters to be kept out of trouble and to be worried over.

And soon the hundred will get married and then there will be two hundred and three hundred—and if the offspring follow in the footsteps of the old lady there will be a hundred times a hundred — ten thousand descendants of that one little old lady!

Biologically a stupendous achievement.

But what will all these human beings mean to the world? What will be their contribution to the welfare and the progress of society?

How many of them will have repaid for the physical and spiritual cost of their living?

NO, it isn't quantity that counts but quality.

How many of us know how many brothers and sisters Thomas Edison had or Pasteur or Madame Curie or Michelangelo or Shakespeare?

I don't know and I don't care.

And you don't know nor do you care.

Maybe Edison's grandmother had a hundred descendants, maybe five—maybe only one.

Maybe there were fifty bambinos and grand-bambinos in the Verdi family.

What difference does it make?

There may be twelve of you in your family and you may still add up to zero, while an only child may bring blessings to millions.

Achievement is measured not by how many you have produced but by what you have produced to help the many.

Veteran Re-Education Discussed

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

FEDERAL experts have reached the conclusion that local communities' preparations to implement the GI Bill's provisions affecting the re-education of returned veteraps are extremely "spotty and limited." The inadequacy of the national program in this respect becomes more obvious as the Army makes ready to discharge hundreds of thousands of men.

The measure, as Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt complained just before she left the White House, should have been written by educators instead of by vote-seeking politicians. It is loosely drawn, indefinite and as full of as many holes as of promises. It provides tuition and a monthly subsistence allowance, and then leaves the prospective beneficiary on his own.

It set up no funds or plans for an expanded physical plant in the states, cities and towns which must actually give firsthand advice to beginners and resumers, provide buildings, teachers, books and modernized courses. The whole burden of this phase of the re-education process is thrown on large and small municipalities.

TUCKER

Some have tackled the problem promptly and efficiently with the funds and facilities available. State education boards have furnished assistance. But the numerous complexities attending satisfactory reschooling of grown men, especially at the grammar and high school levels, have baffled many communities.

Ex-Servicemen returning to universities, high schools or even vocational centers will present a comparatively simple problem. In such institutions they will mingle with fellow students of their own age and mental stature, and should feel no embarrassment.

But there are many thousands who have had only a few years of schooling, according to a War department survey. Should they wish to take advantage of the GI Bill's educational features, they will have to be accommodated on a different basis.

Fliers, foxhole fighters and members of sub crews cannot be put in classrooms with teeners without imposing strains on discipline, teaching facilities and the instructors themselves. Because of their war background and more mature outlook, they will have to be segregated for the best results.

A new kind of teaching staff may be required, especially in the fields of economics, history, geography. Instruction must be related to the sort of life the men have lived if it is to arouse and hold the interest of the wearers of the DSC. Most important, it must be closely related to the prospect of earning a livelihood.

SEGREGATION: Larger cities have tackled separate housing and teaching conditions in many different ways. Some will assign the veterans to night schools; many boys have expressed a preference to work by day while getting their education in odd hours.

Other localities are taking over unused buildings and remodeling them; there may be numerous vacancies as the federal government starts reducing its force. Junior colleges will afford space for thousands. Supplying sufficient vocational facilities may be a difficult task; especially as the largest percentage want to qualify in the shortest possible time.

In the smaller towns segregation of the older troopers may prove troublesome, for there may not be enough students in any one place to warrant special or separate schools. In such instances the states or a combination of school districts will have to pool their interests and erect buildings at central points.

COUNSEL: The types of counselors chosen to steer the veterans is exceedingly important. Too many communities, according to the belief in Washington, depend on faculties, principals and professional welfarers with only limited experience outside their academic circles.

It is believed that more businessmen and industrialists, especially those who served in World War I and II, should be a part of these advisory groups.

Luckily, this venture in re-educating a generation of war-wise youngsters has not proceeded beyond the experimental stage, as too few have returned to establish a real test. Since many now home or en route prefer to take temporary jobs, the home folks still have time to intensify their readiness. What experts urge now is a fuller consciousness of the importance of training the nation's future workers and leaders.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

HOUSEWIVES will not find immediately many of the things they have been promised, because setbacks to speedy production have developed in the past few days.

New York corporation executives maintain that unless Chester Bowles modifies his new pricing program, many firms cannot make a profit and therefore will not reconvert until they can, regardless of customer demands.

They also accuse New Dealers of planning to use the regulations to introduce economic reforms which create a conflict that will further delay manufacturing.

LEMAN

The OPA hopes to tie new prices for returning peacetime goods to the 1942 levels. Ceiling adjustments will be granted only for increases in basic wage rates and in the costs of materials and parts since 1941. Rises in overhead, selling and other expenses will not be recognized.

Businessmen strongly object to the industry-wide application of the curb. They contend that individual cost increases vary sharply because factories use different materials for like products.

The OPA meets this statement by announcing that its district offices will grant relief to every concern that can prove it has suffered hardships. But so many petitions may be filed that decisions will be postponed. Until each company knows where it stands, it cannot proceed.

Industrialists also complain that they must absorb white collar salary boosts and that they have no way of knowing what the price of a vital raw material, such as steel, will be six months or a year hence.

BOOM: Manhattan executives detect in the whole control setup a shrewd move by the New Deal brain trust to put over its economic philosophy.

The new-school economists are now praising management for its war achievements. "Since business did so well in turning out guns," they say, "why can't it keep up the same pace of employment and production in regular goods? Why not project the war boom technique beyond V-J day?"

War production is based on large orders, like those for aircraft from a steady customer, the government. Companies can operate on a narrow margin of profit per unit because their total sales to Uncle Sam are so great.

Carried over into peacetime this arrangement would be the "making of a record volume of high quality goods at low prices and high wages."

DISTRIBUTION: Many orthodox economists have the same objective but quarrel with their liberal confreres about methods.

The New Dealers believe that the road block to the program is the cost of distribution; that sales promotion, packaging, display etc. are wasteful; that every change in design for competitive purposes raises the price for the customer; that middlemen should be squeezed.

They would simplify everything. Shoes for European rehabilitation, for example, will be standardized to one or two models and turned out in quantity. The same procedure, they contend, should be followed for goods to be disposed of in this country. More volume with slimmer profits per unit means cheaper articles which more people will buy. But wages must be kept up to assure mass purchasing power.

Freight Rate Victory Will Be Far-Reaching

ICC Ruling Ushers In New Era

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Many far-reaching economic changes should develop eventually from the Interstate Commerce commission's decision removing freight rate differentials against the South and the West and bringing those sections into equality with the East.

It was, in effect, an economic revolution and not altogether a mild one.

It may not be polite, but lots of folks in the South will remark that the Civil war is over at last. That section suffered for years for an inferiority complex, as well as in many practical ways, because of this discrimination. And the West, which has thought, too, that the East has been protected too much by the federal government, will feel it has been admitted into the Union as an equal partner.

STOKES

Easterners Given Protection

It was years ago that Horace Greeley made his remark about "Go West, Young Man" and come years after that some booster organizations in the South paraphrased it "Go South, Young Man."

The theory in both cases was that both sections would develop industrially, as had the East. Both did so, to some extent.

But they have been handicapped by the freight rates. A man who put up a factory in either the South or West discovered that the freight charge was higher for shipping comparable distances than for factories in the East. Thus Eastern manufacturers could put their products into supposedly competitive markets at a lower price than he could.

THERE were some strange results of this extra freight charge, where the East could send stuff almost to the South's front door at lower prices. Any Southerner or Westerner could string out these examples by the yard, as they have done in the last few years in the fight for justice.

This freight rate differential was a deterrent to widespread industrial development such as the South is well qualified to handle because of many other favorable circumstances.

There was another result which has not been helpful to the South. Industries which did move to the South, or developed locally, established low wage scales, using the freight rate differential as one excuse. There is good evidence that they exploited it.

The South consequently used its low wage scales as an inducement. Local chambers of commerce advertised this fact broadly, as did some local governments. This contributed, too, to resistance to minimum wage laws, to protective statutes for labor, and unionization. Until recent years state labor laws in the South were miserably inadequate.

Will Aid Labor

As a result, the cheaper and less desirable type of industry often was attracted to the South, much of it seeking to escape decent labor laws in East and Middle West and to find a haven in the South. There was quite a migration of this sort about 10 years ago.

Equalizing of the freight rates which will take a couple of years to work out, should help the South and the West, industrially. At the same time it should help labor by removing another of the excuses against maintaining good wage scales, though unionization in the South in recent years already has achieved much in this direction.

THE groundwork for the ICC decision was laid in a measure enacted in Congress four years ago, sponsored by Rep. Ramspeck (D., Ga.) and Senator Hill (D., Ala.), which required "local" and "regional" consideration of the effect of freight rates and, at the same time, directed the commission to make the investigation which resulted in its decision.

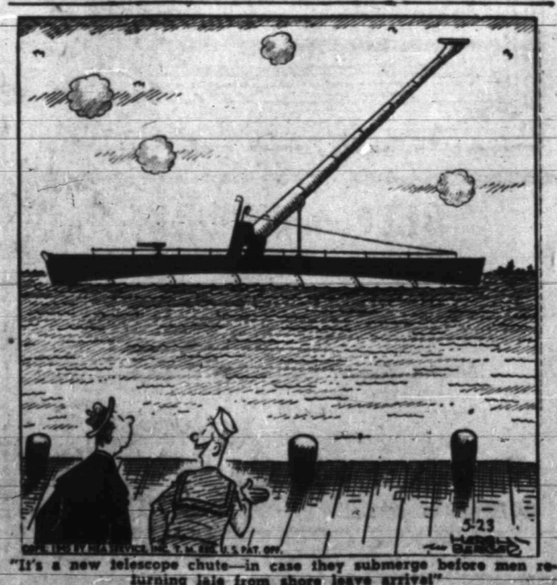

Some time ago the West also became active. State governors, both South and West, created a special organization to get the rate structure changed. Dramatizing the issue particularly among the governors was young Gov. Ellis G. Arnall of Georgia, who took to the Supreme court a few months back a case charging discrimination by the railroads. The court announced recently it would take jurisdiction.

Increase May Be Due In Living Standard

DALLAS, May 23 (U.P.)—Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding college and an outspoken foe of government-managed economy, predicted today the possibility of a 50 per cent increase in the American standard of living.

The college president spoke before a group of Dallas business leaders, telling them that at the close of the war, America will stand at the crossroads with productive capacity 50 per cent greater than in the years before the war. Benson added that if we can preserve the "two institutions responsible for past prosperity," which he indentified as free enterprise and representative constitutional government, a 50 per cent higher living standard is entirely possible.

Churchill's Plan Seen As Evidence Of His Belief He'll Win Election

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

Prime Minister Churchill's resignation, only to succeed himself immediately as head of an interim London ministry, has precipitated a political redeployment across the Atlantic but it offers Japan no glimmer of hope of evading total defeat.

SIMPSON

No voice has been raised in Britain questioning Churchill's repeated pledge that every resource of the commonwealth would go into prosecution of the war beyond the Pacific.

That is the phase of the situation in Britain of first consequence to American officialdom.

Into Churchill's action in rejecting proposals of the Labor wing of his coalition war cabinet for a continued truce until October can be read his belief that the July parliamentary elections will in effect give him a national vote of confidence in his leadership.

He doubtless reasons his return to power under such circumstances could only enhance his prestige internationally and make his voice all the more weighty in future meetings with United Nations leaders to thresh out war and post-war problems.

At this distance it seems some such thought must have prompted Churchill to force the issue with his Labor party opponents once the question of political divorce proceedings within the cabinet was raised.

Big Three Meeting

The immediate effect of the Churchill move to expedite the election, nevertheless, must tend to defer until after the vote the "Big Three" meetings to round out work of the San Francisco conference for which both Churchill and President Truman have expressed urgent desire.

Churchill can hardly be expected to absent himself from England with the election so close. He is his own best campaigner and in the course of that national debate, questions of major international policy are certain to arise.

So it seems logical that nothing short of an extreme military emergency of some sort could call Churchill out of England before the elections in July.

REFRESHING FRANKNESS

DALLAS, May 23 (U.P.)—Ad in the classified section of this morning's Dallas News: "New 5-room furnished house, 20-minute ride to town if bus doesn't break down. Grass and shrubbery planted, but weeds growing faster. I didn't buy this for a reasonable price, so can't rent it very reasonably. Do you want to occupy my house while my husband occupies Germany?"

Trees Topped Near Jail, Postoffice

Nineteen trees on county property in vicinity of the jail and the federal building are being topped—in efforts to inject new vigor into mature growth.

Three trees, locusts, will be cut down and new trees of better selection set to replace them after the summer is over.

The decade-old American and Chinese elms began showing defective signs when an increasing number of limbs began drying and dying in upper spreads.

County commissioners authorized County Judge Walter Davies to have severe remedial pruning done. Judge Davies said he had been assured by tree surgeons the trees would "take new lease" and would shape up again in a year or two.

House Leaders Halt Congressmen Jaunts

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP) House leaders called a halt today to proposed overseas inspection jaunts of several congressmen.

The crackdown was reported by members of a group scheduled to leave this week for Europe. Some had made all preparations, including required immunization "shots."

They told a reporter Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) had asked them "politely, but firmly" to call off their tour "while important business is before the House."

In addition, House majority whip Ramspeck (Ga)—whose duty it is to round up members for important votes—issued a statement criticizing the touring legislators.

"There are about 15 House members now in Europe who ought to be here for important votes," he declared. "They were not elected to Congress for the purpose of touring Europe."

A group of senators was reporter still planning to leave this week, despite the House move.
