MILLION DOLLAR DAMAGE IN GEORGIA STORM

80 Soldiers Killed In Bulgarian Revolt

STREET FIGHTS IN SOFIA CAUSE OF DEATH TOLL

Hunt Begins For Capture Of Stamboulisky, Report Says

NEW CABINET FORMED

Old Ministers Still Held Captives In Jail At Capitol

Associated Press Dispatch

PARIS, June 10.—Describing the revolt at Sofia, the Belgrade correspondent of the Havas agency differs from advices diggetly from the Bulgarian capital with respect to the "bloodless revolt." He says that a regiment refused to join the movement and was disarmed after sharp fighting in the streets of Sofia, in which 80 gendarmes were killed.

The Belgrade correspondent declares that a regular hunt was organized for the capture of Stamboulisky, who is reported to be organizing a peasant corps to march on Sofia.

"SIMPLE INCIDENT IN INTERNAL LIFE"

Associated Press Dispatch

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 10.—"A simple incident in the internal life of the country," is the way in which the first official statement of the new Bulgarian government describes the coup d'etat which overthrew the Stamboulisky covernment and landed the cabinet ministers in jail. Just what effect it will have on the Bulgarian foreign policy is not yet divulged.

Justice and Democracy

The statement declares: "The new government will be guided by the inflexible principles of justice and democracy in restoring Bulgaria's internal peace and order, and will cultivate the closest relations and good neighborliness and friendship with adjoining states and good will for the great powers by the utmost execution of its internal obligations."

Cabinet Formed

The ministry as at present constituted is as follows:

Premier, minister of foreign affairs and minister of war, M. Zankoff.

Minister of interior, M. Roussseff.

Agriculture and public education, M. Moloff.

Commerce and industry, M. Bobochevski.

Public works, M. Stoentcheff.

Finance, M. Todoroff.

Railways, M. Kazassoff.

Justice, M. Smiloff.

The majority of the new ministers belong to the bourgeoise party and are also Russophile.

Lightning Starts $10,000 Fire At Temple Shops

Associated Press Dispatch

TEMPLE, Texas, June 10.—Fire started by lightning during a heavy rain destroyed the office building, car barn and repair shops of the Southwestern Traction company at Midway, near here, last night. Superintendent Haag of the company said today that property destroyed originally cost about $10,000, but that it would require something like $20,000 to replace it.

Three cars were also destroyed in the fire, but they were trailers or one-man cars and were not very valuable. Insurance on the property destroyed was less than $10,000, Superintendent Haag said.

50 CANDIDATES IN MINNEAPOLIS EECTION

Associated Press Dispatch

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 10. Fifty candidates will seek office at tomorrow's municipal election here. At the same time the voters will decide whether the city council should be directed to sell bonds with which to erect a municipal auditorium.

Heading the list of candidates is Mayor George E. Leach, who is seeking re-election. Opposing him is William A. Campbell. The campaign was marked with frequent references to the ku klux klan.

HOLLAND BOY HURT

BELTON, Texas, June 10.—LeRoy Malicoate, 11, of Holland, near here, is in a local hospital tonight with a fractured skull as the result of being hit on the head today with a baseball bat which slipped from the hands of a baseball player at Holland as he struck at the ball. Physicians say the youth's chances for recovery are slight.

Haynes Says Press and Police Unfavorable To Liquor Law Program

But Dry Commissioner Is Pleased With Work In Last Two Years.

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 10.— Reviewing the [illegible] enforcement since the [illegible] of prohibition Commissioner [illegible] office, Procianed in his annual report Haynes declared in his annual report today that the facts warranted today that satisfaction with the degree of enforcement as a whole."

Many new enforcement problems will crop up for years to come, the commissioner said, but he declared that many already had been solved. He asserted that his force was operating at a maximum efficiency under limited appropriations by congress and expressed a hope that increased co-operation in enforcement work by the authorities would leave the federal forces free to deal principally with the larger conspiracy cases. He refrained from commenting directly on the repeal of the New York enforcement law, but said:

Sectional Difficulties.

"One of the chief present difficulties may be termed sectional; where there is adverse public opinion to be combatted and it is to be found mainly on the eastern seaboard, although there are certain cities where local conditions also make the problem quite difficult. Coopertion in some of the localities referred to on the part of local authorities is not what it should be, and the press is not favorable. Prohibition sentiment will grow less rapidly in these localities because progress in enforcement will be slow. It is my observation that prohibition is most popular where it is most nearly enforced. It must be clearly understood that public opinion many times reflects the attitude of public officials quite as much, if not more, than the officials in their conduct express the public wishes."

Work Has Doubled.

The work of the prohibition unit has more than doubled, Commissioner Haynes reported, during his two years in office. There now are 3,550 employes including about 2,300 prohibition agents. Then entire unit has been reorganized with new mobile forces of agents, field supervisors and general agents.

To show concretely the results of prohibition, the commissioner presented figures showing that whiskey withdrawals which had amounted to 87,889,000 gallons in 1920, dropped to 9,243,845 in 1921, and to 1,819,888 in 1922. He added that there had been "notable improvement in control of withdrawal of liquor for medicinal purposes through the new permit system.

Whiskey Concentrated.

"Normal commercial processes in the use of industrial alcohol have not been interfered with, the report said, citing figures to show that 44,047,000 gallons were produced in the fiscal year 1921, 41,691,000 in 1922, and 48,857,000 gallons from July 1 last to March 31, this year. The number of plants qualified to produce industrial alcohol is 70, the same as two years ago. Storage of bonded whiskey is being rapidly concentrated. 80 outlying distillery warehouses having been discontinued upon removal of their contents to concentration points. The report said there were 38,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits in bond July 1, 1922. About 19,000,000 gallons have been concentrated, with 175,000 barrels moved to concentration warehouses since December 1, last, without a single theft in transit.

FIRE DESTROYS WEINERT BLOCK

Post Office and Business Buildings Burned Sunday

Special Dispatch to Record News

Weinert, Texas, June 10.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed a business block here today. The flames were discovered about 2 p. m. in the Collier & Rich grocery store and rapidly spread to nearby buildings. Lack of fire fighting equipment forced workmen and volunteers to battle the flames for more than three hours before they were under control. Among the buildings destroyed was the United States postoffice.

Besides the postoffice, a drug store, two grocery stores, a hardware store, and a barber shop were destroyed. The fire was confined to the business section of the town and no residence houses were burned. No one was injured in the fight with the flames.

Property loss is placed at about $25,000.

PULLMAN PASSENGERS ROUTED BY FLAMES

Associated Press Dispatch

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Passengers occupying sleeping cars in the train sheds at the Broad street station of the Pennsylvania railroad were routed out of their berths early toddy by a fire which started under the shed and pured dense smoke columns into all parts of the building. A few minutes after the fire was discovered the shed burst into flames in two or three places. Fire alarms were sounded summoning all the fire fighting forces in the center of the city.

NO SHORTAGE OF RAILROAD CARS

Maximum Volume Of Traffic Maintained By Systems

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Along with maximum volume of traffic now moving on railroads, an almost complete elimination of car shortage has been attained, it was announced today by the American Railway association. For the week ending May 26, a total of 1,036,029 cars of revenue freight were loaded, and on May 31, unfilled orders for freight cars showed only 16,277 cars short of the full shippers' demand. During the week of October, 1922, when traffic volume was at nearly the same height there was a shortage of 17900 cars.

Advory Board

Seeking maximum co-operation between shippers and the carriers, the association also announced that a system of regional advisory boards, composed of shippers and heads of shipping organizations, was being set up over the United States. The boards will associate and advise with the car service division of the association, cooperating in seeing the fullest utilization of railroad facilities and organizations in the price of transportation.

PRISONER SERVING TERM OR ANOTHER

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 10.—Robert Chapman, a prisoner in the DeKalb county jail, last night confessed that he was hired by Col. Nicrito to serve the latter's 60-day sentence for violating the prohibition law.

Necrito is said to be en route to Italy, while Chapman and three other men face longrison terms on federal charges of espiracy.

Chapman said he was to have been paid $100 cash and $5 a day for doubling for Nicro, but he had received nothing more than the cash payment. He has served 19 days of the sentence.

LAUSANNE CONFIDENT

Associated Press Dispatch

LAUSANNE, June 10.—"Subdued optimism," appeared to prevail among the allies today after the special meeting of Near East conference leaders to discuss the critical Ottoman debt question. The meeting was confined to Ismet Pasha for the Turks and the principal allied delegate.

Everybody was cautious in talking about what occured. All agreed the conversations were useful, but admitted no solution was found. Experts of both sides are meeting tonight and will continue in session all day tomorrow, in endeavor to find the way to compromise.

AVIATOR FINDS FIRE

NEW YORK, June 10.—An aviator flying over the Bronx discovered a tenement building aflame today and circled low over it, sounded a loud siren which attracted not only neighbors to rescue the imperiled residents but the fire department which extinguished the blaze. When he saw the firemen reach the flaming roof the aviator departed. The loss was about $100,000.

UNION PROPOSES OPERATIVE PLAN FOR COAL MINES

Managers, Public, Miners Would Share In Direction

CRITICIZE COST SYSTEM

Raise Standard Of Living, Miners Plead With Commission

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 10.—A complete plan for nationalization of Pennsylvania anthracite mines, with operation under a control equally representing the miners, mine managers and the public, has been laid before the United States coal commission by the miners union. With it was submitted some criticism of the commission's recent cost finding methods and a request for public hearing on the miners' proposal. An alternative plan for a general reduction of capital investment and capital charges in the industry also was submitted.

Reasonable Limits

Based on the miners opinion that "limitation of the investors constantly encroaching claims upon the net industry is now in order," the plan was declared to confide the claims of investors "to reasonable limits," to provide for "permitting the standard of living of miners to grow with the productive expansion of the country," and to bring about adjustment "of price to consumer to these two factors." The alternative plan proposed the elimination of present ownership of the anthracite mines, by the substitution of six per cent bonds, based on "sacrifice value" for the present stock and other securities, and the retirement of the issues in 50 years.

Sacrifice Value

"The sacrifice value," in the turnover, the plan explained, would be the original cost of the mining properties, less any profits over a reasonable return rate which the owners have obtained during development and operation, or plus any deficits under reasonable return which they have incurred.

The miners figures indicated that a total value of $400,000,000 would be found on this basis for existing anthracite deposits, and that this value could be retired by a charge of 28 cents per ton of coal mined, as compared with 78 cents, which its owners took in 1918 operations and $1.40 per ton which it was estimated they took in 192223. The valuation plan was declared to be suitable "a monopoly like anthracite," and to express the principle that "the anthracite industry should pay for capital what it has to pay and no more."

Auto Thieves At Electra Captured; Car Recovered

Special Dispatch to Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, June 10.—Two men were arrested and released on bond Saturday in connection with the theft 10 days ago of an automobile from W. C. Trainer. City police have been on the lookout for the supposed thieves ever since the pair escaped in a hail of bullets from officers who interrupted them in their flight with the machine.

They were found in a local hotel and immediately charged with the theft.

The car was recovered after a spectacular chase in which Officers Shook and Massey took part. The thieves disappeared in the darkness after one of them was thought to have been hit.

ELECTRA POLICE TO CLAMP TIGHT ON TRAFFIC VIOLATORS

Special Dispatch to Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, June 10.—Orders that reckless driving and other violations of traffic laws here must stop were issued today by Chief of Police Taylor. Officers were instructed to keep a special watch for violations of this kind and to make immediate arrests of any person disregarding the rulings.

The chief declared that motorists were, in many instances, paying scant attention to traffic regulations and that the resulting disorder was a menace to the safety of both motorists and pedestrians in the city.

A number of arrests were made Sunday for traffic violations.

City and county officers are working in complete harmony on the matter of enforcing these as well as all other laws.

10 Jailed In Electra

Special Dispatch to Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, June 10.—Ten persons were arrested by police here tonight in a series of raids on local hotels. A number of gaming charges were sworn out as a result of the capture of a poker game and vag charges were made against the others taken in custody.

U. S. Treasury Seeks 150 Million Loan For Remainder Of Year

Certificates to Pay 4 Per Cent; Mature In 6 Months Time.

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The treasury tonight announced it would seek a loan of $150,000,000 to round out its financing for the current fiscal year ending June 30. The new certificates of indebtedness will mature in six months and it is expected, will be retired largely by tax receipts in the next two quarterly payments. The interest rate will be four per cent slightly lower than previous offerings of government securities have paid.

Refund Debt.

The new issue will enable the government to conclude the refuding of its short dated debt, begun in 1921, and no further financing will be necessary, it was stated officially, until the middle of September. Proceeds of the new certificate offer, which will be dated June 15, together with the June 15 payment of income and profit taxes, expected to amount to $350,000,000 or more, will take care of certificates of indebtedness maturing on that date and provide for the running expenses of the government until September 15. Maturing certificates must be cared for then and officials expect that some new financing will have to be done at that time.

About $75,000,000 in interest on the public debt falls due June 15, but that can be met promptly through the tax receipts as can the interest payments due in July and August.

MAIL ROBBED

THIEVES BUSY SATURDAY NIGHT IN IOWA PARK P. O.; MANY LETTERS OPENED; NO CLUE FOUND

Special Dispatch to Record News

LEGISLATURE ON FINAL LAP TODAY

Third Called Session To Start On Thirty-Day Grind

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 10.—The third called session of the legislature will enter the final lap of its 30-day session tomorrow. Conference committee work will occupy both houses most of the remaining four days of the session although bills submitted last week by Governor Neff remain to be disposed of.

Bills Ready

As the legislative leaders had hoped a majority of the major appropriation bills were ready for conference committee Saturday night. These include departmental bills. Agreement already has been reached on the eleemosynary bill with a reduction of slightly less than $350,000 as passed last session and vetoed by the governor. The conference on the educational bill scheduled for today did not materialize. The departmental bill will be taken up by joint committees tomorrow.

Of primary importance this week also is disposition of the emergency and rural aid school bills. The rural bill will be before the senate tomorrow after having been reduced by the finance committee from $4,000,000 to $2,000,000 for the next two years.

SLAVS HAVE EYE ON BULGARIAN REVOLT

Associated Press Dispatch

BELGRADE, June 10.—The Jugo-Slav cabinet was called into session immediately after the news of the Bulgarian coup became known.

The government regards the revolution as an internal Bulgarian movement, but it feels that it cannot remain indifferent to the situation if the new Bulgarian government shows a disposition to disregard Bulgaria's peace obligations.

SIX INCH RAIN AT MACON CAUSE OF HUGE LOSSES

City Flooded In Hour And Half Sunday Afternoon

REPORT NO LIVES LOST

Many Rescued From House-Tops As Collapse Threatens

Associated Press Dispatch

MACON, Ga., June 10.—Damage estimated at $1,000,000 was caused to Macon property by a storm that broke over this city at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. More than six inches of water fell in less than an hour and a half.

While the storm was at its height, Curry's ball, on Giles street, was undermined and firemen had to be called to rescue nine persons on the second floor.

Panic Stricken

E. E. Horn, head of the family rescued, said that he looked across the street and saw water rising above the floor of the porches. Then he felt the hall begin to give way. His wife and three grown daughters and four grandchildren became panic stricken, he said, and he called for help. Firemen found all exits washed away and the building ready to collapse. They carried all of the persons from the building.

Autos Stalled

George S. Woodruff and a companion drove an automobile into the under pass of the Central of Georgia railway near the terminal, when the storm broke, to put up the side curtains. Before the task was completed the water was up to the bottom of the car. They tried to start the engine and couldn't. In a few minutes the water was up to the top of the car. Woodruff carried his companion out of the flood, through water up to his neck.

5 LIVES FEARED LOST IN KANSAS.

KANSAS CITY, June 10.—At least five persons are believed to have lost their lives as a result of floods over the state of Kansas. Virtually every stream in the state was out of its banks today as a result of heavy rains. The property damage could not be estimated tonight. Many cities over the state reported that the losses in their particular neighborhoods would run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Two Dead.

Two casualties were reported at Arkansas City, which suffered the worst flood in its history. The body of an unknown youth was seen floating down a swollen stream and an aged woman, marooned in her home, shot herself through fear that she would be drowned.

At Winfield, Wesley Brown, of Leon, Kans., a student at Southwestern College, was drowned when he attempted to wade across a flooded street. A prominent orchardist, Pat Taylor, and an unidentified man were also reported drowned at Winfield.

Many towns in the state were without electric light or water service, due to the floods. Train service on many roads was demoralized.

One hundred and fifty passengers aboard Santa Fe passenger train number 18, are marooned near Winfield, according to the reports reaching here. Railroad tracks are said to have been washed out in front and behind the train, leaving it stranded on the prairie.

ONE DEAD IN FLOOD AT LOVELAND, COLO.

Associated Press Dispatch

LOVELAND, Colo., June 10.—One life was lost, and roads, bridges and farm properties were damaged by flood waters late Saturday night and early Sunday morning when the Red Stone river poured a great volume of water into the Buckhorn river, seven miles west of Loveland. The floods followed one of the heaviest rains recorded in this section of Colorado in many years. The rush of water caused the Buckhorn valley spillway to give way. Residents of the valley say the entire Buckhorn valley was flooded.

Thousands Admire As Santa Rita Well Blows Oil High Over Derrick

Huge Test On Texas U Land Comes Up To All Expectations Sunday

Associated Press Dispatch

BIG LAKE, Texas, June 10.—The Santa Rita well on the Texon tract, owned by the University of Texas, made good all expectations this afternoon before a thousand persons who came by special train and automobiles from every corner of Texas. The well shot oil over the derrick for eight minutes.

Pretty, Pretty

No Spanish senorita ever looked more beautiful to her worshipful don than did the Santa Rita to the admiring throng that gazed upon her with loving eyes as she blew a steady stream of oil through the rig and out over the greasewood of the wide plateau upon which the rig stands. A strong wind carried the oil far to the west of the rig and the sun turned the stream into a rainbow of colors. Today's flow was the seventeenth which the well has made since the bit touched the sand on May 28. The intervals between the flows seem to be increasing to about 26 hours.

New York Times Starts Debate Between Pair On Prohibition Issues

Associated Press Dispatch

ALBANY, June 10.—"Laws regulating the personal conduct of the individual have only been successful when they have paralleled a divine commandment," and the "inherent dishonesty of the Volstead act tends to promote dishonesty in its enforcement," Governor Smith said tonight in a statement, answering five questions on prohibition asked by the New York Times, but answered by William Jennings Bryan in the edition of this morning, in which he criticized the governor's attitude on the liquor and state rights questions.

"The New York Times has requested me to answer William Jennings Bryan's article in its edition of Sunday, June 10, wherein Mr. Bryan undertook to reply to five questions submitted to him by that newspaper," said Governor Smith.

"The first question he is asked is 'Will prohibition be a leading issue in the next democratic convention?' Running to form, he uses a thousand

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I have been corresponding with a young man for a short while and like him very much. About two weeks ago I answered his letter and I have not received an answer yet. He seems to like me a lot and told me he wanted to correspond with me.

There is another young man who lives only a short distance from me. I am afraid he got the letter the first young man wrote me, as he is very inquisitive about my mail. Do you think the boy near me got my letter, or that the one I have been writing to has not answered?

I used to go with the boy who lives near me and he has been angry at me. Ever since we broke up he has said that if I didn't go with anyone else. He has destroyed one of my letters before and I think he has destroyed this one. What would you advise me to do? Would you write to the boy again and see if he has answered?

THANK YOU.

It is a rare thing when mail is tampered with, but of course there is a possibility that the thing you fear is true. Write to your correspondent and say that you have not had an answer to your last letter and you want to know whether or not he has written. Explain that you have already lost one letter and you are afraid that mail is taken from your box.

I can see that you are afraid if the young man has not answered your letter he will misunderstand your writing again. In a case of doubt like this, however, it pays to be sincere. You want to know the truth and have every reason to investigate.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me how to use mange cure as my hair is coming out terribly. Is it necessary to shampoo right away or leave it on all night? Does it darken the hair? My hair is light brown. Is there any shampoo I can use to give it a reddish color or make it a little lighter?

I THANK YOU.

Directions for using mange cure go with the bottle. I have known people however, who have had great success by putting it on once a week, letting it remain on over night and then shampooing the hair the next morning. It does not darken light hair.

Don't try to change the color of your hair, because the result would not be satisfactory. When rinsing in the last water and, it will help to the hair put the juice of half a lemon being out the color.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls in our teens and we are deeply in love with two fellows a few years our senior. Our mothers and fathers object to our going with fellows as we are too young, but we keep company anyway. Do you think it is right for them to make us stay away from the boys? Must we stay in the house all the time?

We have dates to go to parties, but not to the movies or dances. Please advise us what to do.

Very frequently we quarrel with our fellows, but generally make up again. Our young friends get jealous if we go with others and snub us. Do you think it right to continue their friendship?

DIMPLES AND BLUE EYES.

If you are not eighteen, your parents have every right in the world to keep you from going with boys. I don't believe they expect you to stay in the house all the time, but they know you can have many pleasures which do not include boys. Stop going with boys until you are old enough to have the consent of your parents.

Politician's Wife Sails for France To Get Divorce

Mrs. Gladys Quinn

NEW YORK, June 6.—Word has drifted back here that Alderman William F. Quinn no longer has charms to sway the beautiful Gladys Turney Hermus, whom he swept away from a millionaire rival (via auto to Jersey City) and married in 1914.

Lucille Pugh, the attorney who represented her in the sensational separation action begun long ago and never brought to trial, confirmed the report that the wife has left for Paris, where she will sue for an absolute divorce.

In her petition for alimony, filed in support of her separation suit, Mrs. Quinn charged that her husband held that "beating was the only language a woman understands." Her life, she asserted in her complaint, was one long series of humiliations, which came to a head when the alderman is said to have set forth that the alderman even beat his wife publicly if he became sufficiently displeased.

In his answer the alderman made a sweeping and bitter denial of his wife's allegations.

Roberts, Mrs. Ernest Chamberlain, Mrs. Claiborne Harver, Mrs. M. J. Whitsett, Misses Olga Terry, Opal Manley, and Cecil McGraw. The club meets each Thursday evening.

Waurika Society and Personals

WAURIKA, June 10.—Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ray motored to Bowie and Sunset, Texas, Sunday and spent the day with relatives.

A. F. Trollinger of Wichita Falls spent Sunday in Waurika, the guest of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ora Trollinger. In the afternoon they drove to Hastings and visited the family of H. C. Jamieson, the father of Mrs. Trollinger.

The boy scouts arrived home from their trip to Medicine Park Saturday night They report a wonderful week's stay, despite the rain, hail and storms of various kinds that visited that community during their stay. Fishing was fine, so the boys say. Each bore sufficient evidence, in the sunburn and tan they returned with, of a week spent in the open.

Friends in Waurika have received the announcement of the coming marriage of Miss Grace Watson, a Waurika girl, who is in college at Abilene, Texas, to Carl Etter, the wedding to be solemnized in Abilene, June 6. It will be followed by a wedding trip to Colorado, and a visit with home folk in Waurika on their return. Miss Watson is one of Waurika's most popular young ladies.

Miss LaVelle Harrel will leave Waurika Thursday night for Norman, where she will enter O. U. for the summer term. She will teach in Addington next school year.

Thomas Coogan of Waurika and Miss Florence Hogan of Kansas City were married at the latter place Monday, May 27, according to word received here by friends. The many friends of Mr. Coogan join in wishing him and his wife much future happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Eugene Larsen of McFarland, Kan., announce the arrival of a son, who has been named Lloyd Eugene Jr. Mrs. Larsen will be remembered here as Miss Grace Wiseman.

W. H. Divers went to El Reno Tuesday afternoon to visit his niece, Mrs. P. J. DeVitt, and Mr. DeVitt.

Ferris Norval of Fort Worth visited his sister, Mrs. Mack Leake Tuesday.

Mrs. J. A. Koos of Chattanooga, Okla., has been a guest in the Ed Anderson home the past week. She is an aunt of Mrs. Anderson.

James Weid and Spence Miller drove to Marlow Tuesday evening, where they spent Wednesday with Spence's parents.

Jack Jasper has bought the H. and G. filling station. He has employed Lang King to assist in running it, while Mrs. Jasper will attend to the Edison shop, the position Mr. Jasper formerly held.

R. P. Grogan of Byers and Paul Grogan of Fleetwood were in Waurika Tuesday.

Zack Isabel has gone to Empire City for the summer, where he has a position in a drug store.

Mrs. J. A. Overstreet and two daughters, Ila Mae and Fay, will go to Mexia Wednesday, where they will join Mr. Overstreet and will make their home for the future.

Mrs. L. C. and Mrs. J. M. Grayson were in Wauriks visiting relatives Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pepin, Miss Fae and Jimmie, accompanied by Leslie Contway, drove to Ardmore Saturday and remained over Sunday. The Pepin family were guests of Mr and Mrs. Josh Renfrow, while Leslie Contway visited with his parents, who reside at that place. They were accompanied home by Floyd Contway, who had been visiting in Waurika until Tuesday.

Mrs. A. D. Allen went to Barnard, Mo., Sunday for a month's visit with homefolk.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Cogdell spent the week-end in Dallas.

Miss Marie Isabel drove to Terral Sunday, where she spent the day visiting her brother and family.

Miss Coystal Koppick of Ryan is spending the week in Waurika, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Miles Murphy, and Mr. Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Murphy and daughter, Clyde, visited Sunday in Ryan with the L. R. Koppick family.

Isom Cogdell and family are in Waurika visiting relatives, after which they will go to Miami to make their home, having been transferred from Guthrie.

Misses Myrtle Wilson and Eula Mitchell, high school graduates of last week, left on Sunday for Norman, where both will enter O. U. for the summer term. Both will teach this fall.

Mrs. Herman Lyle and two children of White Deer, Texas, came in to visit the former's mother, Mrs. Bettie Burch, last week.

Mrs. Abbie Cargill went to Oklahoma City Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Largent and daughter, Thelma, and Mrs. Abbie Cargill and Mrs. L. B. Upham drove to Marlow Sunday and visited with the Leon Gardner family.

Misses Mary Louise Green, Olga Denney, Lena Mae Yoder, Marcilla Jones and Loraine Leverett, all O. C. W. students, came home Wednesday to spend the summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Hardgraves and three daughters, Vera, Ila and Loretta, spent the last week-end in Burkburnett and Wichita Falls, returning home Monday.

Earl Pruitt of Norman is spending the week in Waurika with his brother, R. R., and family.

Mrs. Hortense Koppick Stewart of Eldorado, Kan., who is spending a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Koppick of Ryan, spent last week in Waurika, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Miles Murphy, and Mr. Murphy.

Society and Personals

The Thursday Bridge club met Thursday of last week with Mrs. Jack Jasper, whose home was made especially beautiful with baskets of roses and garden flowers. In the games, Mrs. J. N. Johnston won high points and Mrs. J. L. Vertrees high honors, each of whom was remembered with the club prize. The hostess served a plate collation to the club members.

Friday night the Young Married Folk Bridge club met at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ellis, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn, assisting host and hostess. The house decorations consisted of baskets of roses and bowls and vases of sweet peas, which filled all the available spaces and perfumed the air. There were five tables to enjoy the evening's games.

The Lafallots held their regular meeting at the home of Miss Ruth Cashion on Monday night. The back yard of the Cashion home was converted into a picnic ground for the evening, and weinies were roasted and a regular picnic supper enjoyed. Very little sewing was done on account of the storm, which came up early in the evening and drove the Lafallots home.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with sweet peas and roses. There was a guessing contest, "A Summer's Sea Trip," in which Mrs. W. Y. Dilley proved herself lucky. Music was also enjoyed.

The gifts were all piled on the dining table, and the guests had the pleasure of seeing them opened and admired.

Complimentary to Miss Violet Roberts, whose marriage to Ernest J. Kisier of this city will be solemnized in June, Mesdames Ora Trollinger, Obam Jones and W. C. Bodenhammer entertained in the home of Mrs. Jones Monday night with a miscellaneous shower.

SCOUTS FAIL TO SHOW UP HERE

Long Delay Found In Return Trip From Camp In Mountains

At an early hour this morning, the much looked for boy scouts had not put in an appearance although they were scheduled to arrive on the Northwestern last night at 8 o'clock. Due to the nearly impassable roads and the small number of cars, it was the intention of scout officials to have the boys make the return trip from Crateriville Park, Oklahoma, on the train. Connections were evidently missed somewhere.

According to schedule the boys were to have left the Wichita Mountains Saturday morning but because of rainy weather the return trip was postponed a day and the latest reports from the camp were to the effect that they would break camp Sunday morning.

WINTER WHEAT CONDITION 70

Texas Crops Generally In Good Condition, Says

Special Dispatch to Record News

HOUSTON, June 0.—With the exception of areas in the South and West which need rain, crops in the state are in good condition and prospects seem favorable for satisfactory returns, it is reported by the U. S. division of crop estimates. Row crops in the main are making steady growth; wheat, oats, barley and rye are being harvested; cotton is receiving the kind of weather it needs; and if rains do not fail June will add much to the prospects for profit from the summer crops. During the past four years, June has had an excess of rainfall, but the five years preceding recorded a deficiency.

Winter Wheat Better.

The condition of winter wheat on June 1, was 70 per cent which forecasts a yield of 11 bushels per acre and a production of 18,240,000 bushels for the state. Last June 1, the condition was 65 per cent of normal and it deteriorated further during the month until the average yield amounted to but 8.2 bushels. The crop in the north and west center has done well considering the untoward early season; it is fair in the central counties; but in the northwest there are many sections where the crop has done very poorly. Harvest has begun. The U. S. condition of 76.3 per cent forecasts 580,541,000 bushels which compares with 81.9 per cent on June 1, 1922, and total production of 586,000,000 bushels.

The acreage of oats exceeds that of 1922 by 7 per cent, but is not as great as in 1921 and 1919 when almost 1,900,000 acres were harvested. The acreage last year was 1,455,000 and the preliminary estimate for 1923 is 1,557,000 acres. The condition of the crop on June 1, 1922, was 78 per cent; the average yield was 22.5 bushels and the production 33,465,000 bushels. On June 1, the condition was 84 per cent which is seven points above the 10-year average and forecasts an average yield of 31.5 per acre and a total production of 40,046,000 bushels. The crop is being harvested under favorable conditions; in portions of the North it is the largest and best in years. The U. S. condition is 85.6 per cent which forecasts 1,256,456,000 bushels comparing with 85.3 per cent on June 1, 1922, and a final production of 1,201,436,000.

A great increase in acreage has taken place in the northwest district and while the condition of the crop is somewhat above the 10-year average of 77 per cent it is as high as at this time last year when the average yield was 19 bushels.

Hay crops are very good except in portions of the Northwest, West and South, where but fairly good condition prevails due to the lack of rainfall during the month. At this time, last year the condition was 92 per cent, but it was down to 86 per cent on June 1 of this year which is also the average for the past ten years.

The condition of pastures was 91 per cent on June 1, or seven points below the average of a year ago. The condition has fallen four points since May 1, which is unusual as the 10-year average shows June 1 condition to be 5 points better than on May 1.

City of Grandfield Enters Oil Business And Drills Three Wells

Oil operations at Grandfield, Oklahoma, reveal two unusual situations. The first hindrance which the Grandfield operators are facing right now is that because the majority of the locations is in the bed of Red River the spring rains has caused considerable handicaps and hindered drilling due to the rises in the river. This is striking right at the present time because operators in this immediate section are rightly complaining because of the depth of surface water.

How Can They Drill In River.

Persons in the East and North who write in many inquiries concerning the Red River situation there, according to oil men there. It is hard for them to understand that Red River is a mile wide and does not stand practically full of water like the big rivers back East. In fact many people write just out of curiosity wanting to know how an oil well can be drilled in the bed of a river. Invariably they imagine the well being drilled from a boat or some other craft and think the bit goes down through several feet of water. They do not stop to think that such a procedure would be well night impossible as one can hardly conceive of an oil derrick perched upon 10 feet of water.

It is explained by the operators at Grandfield to those making inquiries that for a great portion of its year most of the rivers bed is as dry as the Sahara. That huge sand dunes are prevalent instead of suctions and whirlpools. This simply means that for a great portion of the year drilling can go on as on a ranch or any other place. Of course there is a small channel of water in the stream which winds about from bank to bank treacherously, but this is watched closely by the operators.

Work Suspended.

The past week heavy rains and subsequent rise of the river has greatly handicapped Grandfield operations. Work in most instances has been suspended. Another matter which drillers must consider here because of this unusual situation is that there is danger of quicksand. Possible Grandfield is the only oil field where operators have to look out for the particular contingency. The sand must be watched closely as several men have lost their lives on wells being drilled in the river.

Besides these unique interesting feature to Grandfield activities. That city has gone into the oil business. Every man in Grandfield and woman also who pays city taxes is an oil operator, broadly speaking. In other words Grandfield is this time paying for three wells that are being sunk and if they should come in, the city of course would reap the benefit. Other cities have indirectly received much money because of oil strikes but Grandfield is putting up the cash to put down the wells.

One can imagine the building of a fine city hall an excellent sewage system, street lights and every modern convenience, without the call of an election, should the city hit oil and get rich. For once the tax growlers would be at a loss for something to kick about should all these civic improvements be made without special bond elections.

Grandfield is now putting down two 7-foot wells that is estimated will cost the tax payers something near $3,600. The Kelly well company last week placed bid with Grandfield officials for $3,600 to sink two 14-inch wells and the Layne-Bolder company has bid $14,200 for two 3-foot wells.

but the duration of the flow, which at first was but six minutes, has now increased to a total of 42 minutes. The flow Saturday was for 43 minutes. Oil men who have watched the action of the well for a week believe that even if the well is not drilled any deeper it will blow in itself.

Two new locations have been selected, and the development company expects to put a test down on each side of their 72-section tract, which extends for five miles east toward Big Lake along the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railroad, and seven miles west along the same road, and three miles to the north and south. Dr. Hugh H. Tucker of Dallas, geologist, who located the Santa Rita, will be here this week and decide upon the final location of the two new rigs.

COTTON PRICES MAKE ADVANCE

Lowest Levels Reached On Trading Of Opening Session

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW ORLEANS—June 10.—The prices of cotton advanced gradually last week, lowest levels being reached on the opening session. New high levels were made on four subcessive sessions after which, during the last two sessions of the week, there were moderate reactions. From declines of 30 to 58 points under the close of the preceding week there was a rise to levels 122 to 193 points over, July trading as low as 25.78 and then rising to 28.07 cents a pound. October fell of fto 22.00 and then rose to 24.0.

Close Higher.

The close was 79 to 180 points net higher on the week, July being much stronger than the new crop months and closing at 27.94 while October closed at 23.80. In the spot department prices gained 50 paints on middling which closed at 29.00 cents against 22.25 on the close of the same week last year. The July position was at all times the strongest month and this was due to the further rapid shrinkage in supplies, the continued good spot demand, heavy trading on the spot in Liverpool and manner of rumors regarding the intentions of those who controlled the long end of July in the American markets.

ANOTHER KILL-JOY

Senator Reed Smoot of Utah is one of the wise business men in the political life of America as well as one of the remaining groups of old guard republicans in the senate. He is a kill-joy nevertheless and is telling the Jones family what to expect.

He predicts that never again will federal taxes be less than $3,000,000,000 a year and probably more. He says that in the twenty-five years to come the dominant question will be how to raise money for the government and that in less than a decade we will be paying $1,500,000,000 a year in pensions to world war veterans. Senator Smoot isn't a pessimist. Neither is he an optimist. He is a hard-headed business man, and the idol of the Mormon church.

Regardless of the complexion of the party in power, for a quarter of a century to come the people of the United States are going to be compelled to dig up at least $3,000,000,000 a year and after a quarter of a century has flown they will face a pension list that will almost touch the skies. Senator Smoot has a kind word for England. He is one of the men who voted immense loans to our European allies in the world war. Touching on the money owed to the United States, this Mormon senator said: "All honor to England. She considers it as much a sacred duty to meet her obligations as life itself. If it has been left to me I would have made a better settlement for her, for she is taxed $102 a year for every man, woman and child."

This may be true but if the European governments which were made huge advancements in war time by the United States government fail to pay their loans the men and the women and the children of the United States must pay them. If the European governments or former allies, repudiating the $11,000,000,000 advanced them the wealth producers of this country, the diggers and tillers of the soil, all men who create wealth, would be compelled to pay every dollar of these huge advances made to save European nations or peoples from becoming subjects of a kaiser.

Not a foot of territory have the American people received in exchange for what they did; not a dollar in loot, not a captured ship, not a coaling station under the skies of the far East, nothing but thanks and requests for more money, with the exception of England alone.

There were empires divided by our European allies; there were islands of the sea parceled out, there were trade routes taken by those who were numbered among the winners of the war. Now why shouldn't all the borrowers pay some day the loans advanced by this government, in the darkest hour of the history of the world.

PIGMIES IN THE RACE

Minnesota is to select a candidate to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Knute Nelson on June 18. There are a host of unknowns in the race. Nine republicans, three are farmer-labor standard bearers and two are democrats. There is a bunch of fine old Anglo-Saxon names to be found in the offering. For instance, Schall, Lundeen, Preus, Burnquist, Steenerson, Linbergh, Johnson and Fritsche.

Democrats are in a hopeless minority in the state of Minnesota. And there are two contenders for the primary nomination. James A. Carley and Francis C. Cary are the ambitious followers of Thomas Jefferson. A year ago Henrik Shipstead won a senatorial prize in Minnesota. This year the leading farmer-labor candidate is Magnus Johnson who came within a few hundred votes of being elected governor of Minnesota last year. He is a descendant of the Vikings of Norway.

Knute Nelson spent 50 years in the public service and he carried a musket in the Civil war before that in defense of the flag of his adopted country. Another descendant of the Vikings of old may be sent to Washington to share honors with Dr. Henrik Shipstead who is said to be the idol of the combination of voters known as the farmer-labor organization.

Hendrik is neither a farmer nor a laborer. He is a dentist and the voters who elected him regard him as a ripe statesman, an economist or distinction and a financier second to none.

—o—

GUARD THE BORDER

Congressman A. J. Sabath of Illinois in an open letter, says larger numbers of European immigrants are being brought to Canada, Mexico and Cuba, on the misrepresentation that they can easily leave these countries and enter the United States. He also points out that the law has recently been changed and that no immigrant can be admitted into the United States unless he or she has resided in the countries named for at least five years and then only if they comply with the immigration laws.

Congressman Sabath should direct his warnings to the agents of foreign shipping companies on the other side. There are immigrants who are smuggled from Mexico into the United States. There is only one way to keep them out. Patrol riders are needed on the American side of the Rio Grande. A limited number of immigration officers at the ports of entry cannot prevent their coming.

POLITICIANS UP IN THE AIR

There is a presidential campaign and election coming next year. Gone are the good old days. Gone are the rugged and domineering political bosses. Gone are the traditional solid south and the solid north. There is a new political world in the making. There are many disturbing political factors.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette holds Wisconsin in the palm of his hand. More than 70 per cent of the voters of the state come and go at his political beck and call. Political radicals are his followers. Political conservatives are his followers.

Wets follow him; there are drys in the LaFollette army in Wisconsin. Farmers march behind his bands; organized labor goes the limit for him. Even the socialists, and they are numerous in Wisconsin, are said to be partial to this leader of the LaFollette bloc of American statesmen and the American voters who masquerade as republicans and who are willing to follow LaFollette wherever he may go.

Now the LaFollette members of the Wisconsin legislature appear to be bent on repealing the state prohibition enforcement act. They say that prohibition is a federal measure and that it should be enforced by federal agents and prosecutors and courts. They say the state has no law against counterfeiting, that is has no law against lotteries, that there are many federal statutes created by the police power of the federal government and this through congressional enactment that are enforced by federal officials and federal courts and why not the eighteenth amendment?

They say they cannot see why Wisconsin should go mad over the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment when the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution are dead letters in a southern state, that no southern state has enforcement acts to punish violators of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and that if it is possible for one or more of the amendments to the federal constitution to become dead letters or obsolete then why not the amendment which seeks to control the thirst or appetite for strong drink of the people of Wisconsin who are not in sympathy of the prohibition idea, or prohibition legislation.

LaFollette holds Wisconsin in the palm of his hand. He is the absolute political boss of that state. He may win over or annex neighboring states. Minnesota and Illinois show signs of insurgency. Minnesota sent to the United States senate last year a man who is as rank as LaFollette in all his policies of government and is a follower of LaFollette. Minnesota may send another of the same stripe to the senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of grand old Knute Nelson.

All his life LaFollette has been reckoned as a republican. He may throw the presidential election into the house next year. His senatorial bloc holds the balance of the power in the upper house of the new congress. This bloc may dictate the successor of John Calvin Coolidge. Bloc government may succeed party government.

Henry Ford, Governor Al Smith, Senator Robert M. LaFollette and Senator William A. Borah are the major political disturbers and stormy petrols of American politics at this time. Senator Borah announces that he will never stand for the Harding world court plan.

Senator LaFollette is for a political program more radical than that of Samuel Gompers or the American Federation of Labor. He has the republican non-partisans of the middle-west and northwest in his corral. He not only denounces the Harding policies of government but it is said that he has a smiling contempt for the president as a man and leader. Lafollette is a born trouble maker and should he go the limit next year there is going to be weeping and wailing in the synagogue of the republican reactionaries.

Henry Ford remains the man of remains the man of mystery of politics in America. His attitude is sphinx-like. He refuses to declare himself a regular republican or a regular democrat. He refuses to come out in the open and say that he will be a candidate for the republican nomination or the democratic nomination or as the Moses of a new party.

There is Ford sentiment everywhere. There is Ford booming everywhere. There are politicians asking: "Is it spontaneous or is the organization that is going to be directed by a hand that is cunning and a political brain that is shrewd?"

Henry Ford has his critics. Just the other day the most powerful benevolent organization of the American Jews denounced the billionaire manufacturer as a slanderer of their race and creed and the more pronounced foeman of civil and religious liberty in the United States. Another attack came from an association of Hungarian Jews in America said to be 200,000 strong.

This convention adopted resolutions declaring Henry Ford to be unfit temperamentally and from every other point of view for the high office of president of the United States. All these side attacks failed to arouse the ire or loosen the tongue of the billionaire manufacturer.

His answer is that the Ford company would turn out more cars this year than in any year of its history, and that his company was making $10,000,000 profit every month and that every dollar of this money would be invested in new productive enterprises to furnish employment at better "living wages" to Americans who needed employment.

Henry Ford appears to be the most unique and the most potential political disturber that has ever been pushed into the arena of presidential activities in the United States. And the master minds among the politicians of America are wondering how they are going to handle this twentieth century proposition and throttle the man who is responsible for it.

UNCOMMON SENSE

BY JOHN BLAKE

HUMAN QUESTIONAIRES

The child learns by asking questions of his elders.

The scientist learns by asking questions of nature.

Without curoisity there would be no education.

The curiosity of the child and that of the scientist is intelligent.

Both are trying to get at the truth. Both learn by the answers they receive.

Observe a child talking to his parents or any other grown person and you will see that he thinks before he asks questions and that he thinks about the answers he receives.

If he is answered off-hand, he will continue to put questions until he is satisfied.

If he is answered as he should be patiently and simply his face will light up with pleasure showing that as far as that particular morsel of knowledge is concerned he is satisfied.

The same is true of the scientist. If his researches or experiments do not bring him satisfactory answers he will continue them.

If they do reveal hidden truth, he will pass on to something else.

This is the right kind of curiosity. The wrong kind is that a person sometimes called "nosey" who wants to know all about the private affairs of other people, matters in which he has no real interest.

Such human questionaires are not more nuisances. If they get the information they are after they use it as subjects of gossip. If they do not get it they ask for some other information which can be of no use to them.

Such is the curiosity that is popularly supposed to exist only among small town dwellers, but which is really prevalent in all communities.

It is no help to education or to the advance of knowledge.

It is mere impertinence, and any person who turns from the questionasker is doing the world a service, for he discourages a bad habit.

On the other hand the parent who is "pestered" by the questions of his children and refuses to answer them is standing in the way of their mental development.

Until they get to school the only way they have to find out about the world is by asking about it.

Teach them to use their curiosity wisely, and they will educate themselves in college or out of it.

Make them think that it is wrong to ask questions and they will soon begin to be indifferent to the world and lose their mental alertness.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

GEMINI

Excellent planetary vibrations prevail until four o'clock. You may enter and sign agreements of all sorts with confidence and secrity. The evening favors amusements and social affairs.

A child born today will be overhealthy in body and spirit and it should be treated with discipline as well as affection.

If today is your birthday, your life will be one continual round of excitement and pleasures. You are destined to meet notable people, travel extensively and come into contact with interesting things and events.

You have many queer notions and your mind runs to the unusual. You will study religions of all creeds and races and delve into the mysterious. There is some danger of your going too far in an attempt to solve the mysteries of life and at times you will feel completely unbalanced and unnerved.

Having a good and able mind, you can always, however, get hold on yourself before you have lost control. This is very fortunate as it enables you to enjoy the fullest extent the complexities of the Unknown without giving up your whole life to the study of them is as true in most cases.

You are tempestuous in temperament and no matter what business is at hand, will always make it exciting and important. This is not because you are belligerent or controversial, but because you insist on being the center of a dramatic and imposing situation at all times, and yet you have all the qualities of the dignified and quiet master of events.

Your mind is curious, analytical and constructive. Your imagination is powerful and vivid but must always under control of an intellect which makes visions realities.

You are fond of human society and the good things of the earth—a hale fellow well met with a host of good friends. However, there is a little of the idler in you and you prefer to associate with interesting rather than useful people. You are magnetic and intuitively a good judge of character, and with your phychic dominance over other people you should be good at any executive or managerial position.

Marriage for you would be a calamity, that is if, it were one of the usual type. Just knowing that you would have to dine at a certain hour every night would be too much for you.

Burkburnett Society Paragraphs

Special Dispatch to Record News

BURKBURNETT, June 9.—The University Study club will hold its next meeting in the home of Mrs. Earl McHenry on East Fourth street, which will be a social session.

Mrs. Bryant Durant was hostess to Mrs. J. H. Bentley's Sunday school class of the Texhoma church at the meeting this week. Following the lesson study a social hour was enjoyed, Mrs. B. R. Robinson, Miss Grace Chilton and others took part on the interesting program of the afternoon.

A sandwich treat and cream and cake was served at the close of the function and the guests were the following ladies: S. J. Estes, B. R. Robinson, Oscar, Otis, C. L. Dodd, Johnson, V. E. Smith, G. L. Sheffer, R. A. Noah, S. T. Gladden, C. E. Houx, Tom Carroll, L. S. Steadman, Fred Kukuk, Frank Chilton, T. P. Hamilton, White, Fred Cox, Bennie Cox, Ned True, J. H. Bentley, Mary Katherine Jones and Miss Grace Chilton.

Mrs. Fred Boden, who is a surgical patient in the General hospital in Wichita Falls, is reported to be recovering rapidly.

The Lotus club selected the following officers to serve during the coming six months at the meeting of the club Wednesday evening: N. L. Arbough, president; Frank B. Stevens, secretary, and A. R. Hill, treasurer.

J. M. Trigleth, who is drilling the Martha Jane well, east of Devol, Okla., was in Burkburnett Thursday, and reported the well down 1,756 feet and in good condition.

Rev. John D. White and family returned from Fort Worth where they attended the state university golden jubilee of T. C. U. All report a delightful time.

Mrs. E. B. Grennell is spending a while with her parents and other relatives in Okeen, Okla., this week.

Little Mildred Owens, daughter of Mrs. Z. P. Owens, celebrated her eighth birthday Wednesday with a jolly party, where merry games, a big birthday cake, ice cream and a good time generally were enjoyed. Her guests were: Francis Butts, Nellie Jarrell, Chester, Shelby, Donald and Wayne Robinson; Bettie Simons, Bessie Laura Parsons, Olen and Oleta Owens, Moselle Green, Bermadine Owens, J. D. Clark Jr., Juanita and Wynona Owens, Billie Cowles, Corine Lillis, Floy Ewing, Cleon Owens.

The Cato Brothers have established a home in Dr. Russel's cottage on East Second street, where their mother will join them soon for the summer.

Mrs. Bert Rexford returned this week from a visit to Altus, Okla.

Doc Goins of Wichita Falls, was in Burkburnett this week, looking after the harvesting of his wheat crop west of town.

Mrs. May Mills and Mrs. Hattie Buchanan who were called to Cleveland, Okla., on account of the illness of the latter's mother, Mrs. J. M. Coates, returned to Burkburnett on Tuesday. Their summer trip to Colorado and other western states, has been postponed indefinitely on account of Mrs. Coates' illness.

George Reed, who has served as chemist for the Chas. F. Noble plant here, has resigned and is now in Tulsa, Okla.

The Manhattan refinery has been wrecked and a shipment will be made this week to Los Angeles, Cal., where it will be re-established by its new owners.

Horace Anderson of Electra, was here Wednesday.

J. L. Alvey, who is drilling for the Staley company in Archer county, is spending a few days with his family here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Moore and daughter of Lufkin, are guests of their other daughter, Mrs. J. S. Martin and family on the Gulf lease.

The arrival of Dr. F. D. Russell and his bride Tuesday was a social item of interest to many friends in Burkburnett. His marriage to Miss Ruby Randall of Birmingham, was solemnized May 30, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. B. Wooten at Fairfield, a suburb of Birmingham, Ala.

Dr. Russell's bride came to Burkburnett about a year ago and was engaged in special nursing at the Burk hospital, where she met Dr Russell.

Dr. and Mrs. Russell have established a new home on Avenue D in the Ellis Addition, formerly occupied by the Klien family.

The ladies of the University Study club entertained with open house Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Utts, where members of the other clubs were honor guests. About 50 ladies attended the informal reception.

The pretty rooms were most attractive in baskets of choice cut flowers, both from the florist's garden and from the wild flower bed of the Red river.

The ladies of the entertaining club in pretty costumes, formed a line headed by the president, Mrs. W. R Hill, and the hostess, Mrs. Utts.

A delicious refreshing treat of fruit punch and macaroons was served from a massive block of crystal ice, the gift of Mrs. W. D. Gant one of the members, and presided over by three beautiful girls, home from school for the summer season Misses Mary Louise Davis and her house guest Miss McCanne, and Florence Urban, who later, favored the company with two splendid readings.

The program of the calling hours was chiefly musical, through graciousness of three local musicians Mrs. Glen Kincaid, piano; Mrs. Cornish and sister, Miss Louada Abbott, piano and violin.

The calling register bears names of the following: Mesdames D. S. Blue R. M. Gillchrist, J. G. Adams, R. E Fisher, D. R. Peerey, Bryan Ashlook, A. W. White, S. G. Cruse Rob Robinson, C. P. Nichols, H. C Anderson, W. M. Majors, H. B Lamb, Ross O. White, C. M. Clisbee J. C. Albright, Jesse Griffin, W. C Vann, C. A. Purcell, P. U. McCutchen and daughter, Martha Jane C. H. Wharton, E. W. Winham, Dudley Ellis, Jas. L. Boase, A. J. Kays J. H. Fairbanks, Ode Melton, Will J. Dickson, John W. Sabatone, Jas W. Hodges; Misses Lilla Majors Lorraine Russell, sister of Mrs. M. D. Gant, and Miss Margaret Robinson, sister of Mrs. Chas. Wolf.

Members of the entertaining club present were: Mesdames John E Haynes, Martin Urban, J. M. Pogue S. J. Campbell, W. R. Hill, Joe H Davis, Glen Kincaid, Robert Tevis Earl McHenry, C. D. Montgomery J. G. McKenie, E. L. Blum, W. D Gant, W. D. Utts and J. M. F. Gill

The BLOOD SHIP

By NORMAN SPRINGER

Fitzgibbon had been thrown overboard by a darky sailor and their fight started a battle on the deck. Newman, realeased, calls out to the men.

At his commond they cease fighting. With his own hands Newman kills Swope.

A Strange Scene.

It was the end, even as Newman said. The end of the mutiny, the end of hate and dissension in that ship, the end, for us, of Newman, himself, and the lady.

Peace came to the Golden Bough that night, for the first time, I suppose, in her bitter, blood-stained history.

A peace that was bought with suffering and death, as we discovered when we reckoned the cost of the night's work.

Swope was dead—for which there was a prayer of things in every man's heart. Fitzgibbon was gone, and the Nigger.

Boston was dead at my hand; his partner, Blackie, lay stark in the scuppers, as did also the stiff named Green, each with a bashed-in skull, the handiwork of Mister Lynch.

Such was the death list for that night's work. It was no heavier I think—though of much different complexion—than the list Captain Swope had planned.

The lady was not really hurt at all. Swope's bullet ploughed through her mass of hair, creasing her so lightly the skin was unbroken, thought the impact knocked her down.

I was almost the only man on the ship who bore no marks of that fight, though I was a sight from the beating, and Lynch—or perhaps it was Newman—made me bo'sun of the deck in the labor of bringing order out of chaos.

I rallied the unhurt and lightly hurt, and we carried the worse injured into the cabin, where the lady and Newman attended them.

By Lynch's order, we launched the dinghy, and, with me at the tiller and the lordly tradesmen at the oars, set out in humane but hopeless quest for the mate and the Nigger.

I cruised about for nigh an hour and came back empty-handed.

When we got back, Lynch had me muster the available hands, and we launched the long-boat. All the rest of the night, Wong and his two underservants cargoed that craft with stores of every kind.

Mister Lynch made no effort to put the ship on her course. We left the yards as they were, and dirfted all the rest of the night.

I, and the 2 wounded tradesman, kept the deck; in the cabin, the lady and Newman labored, and conferred with Lynch and Holy Joe.

Aye, Holy Joe, as well as myself was lifted to higher estate by that night's happenings. He lived aft, even as I, the rest of the voyage and was doctor of bodies as well as souls.

Near down they called me into the cabin and put dead man's shoes upon my feet, so to speak.

"Shreve, it is my duty to take the ship into port," says Lynch. "What will be the outcome of tonight's work I do not know. But I do not fear. My testimony and that of the sailmakers and carpenters, to say nothing of your story, will be more than sufficient to convince any court of justice. There will be no jailing because of tonight's trouble—you may tell the men that."

"Yes, sir." I replied. Aye, it was good news to take forward to the poor shaking wretches in the fo'cs'le.

"You understand, I am Captain for the remainder of the passage," Lynch went on. "And I have decided to appoint you chief mate. Connolly will be second mate."

"Aye, that was it, Jack Shreve, chief mate of the Golden Bough!

"I have decided," says Lynch—but I knew the decision belonged to Newman and the lady, who were smiling at me across the table.

"And you understand—they are leaving in the longboat," added Lynch.

I looked at my friend, and the lady, and my new honor was bitter and worthless in my mouth.

"Take me with you," I urged.

"To share an outlaw's career? No, lad—we must go alone," said Newman. I remembered he added to Lynch, "If this boy proves the friend to you he was to me, you will be a lucky man, Captain."

The sky was just graying with the coming day when the two left the ship.

But before they went over the side there took place in the growing light on the deck before the cabin a scene as strange and solemn as any I have seen since.

Holy Joe married them, there on the deck—and in the scuppers, behind the lady's back, covered up with a spare sail, lay the ship's dead, Yankee Swope among them.

Aye, the parson tied the knot, for this life and next, as he said, and I was best man, and Captain Lynch gave away the bride.

And then they cast off from the ship, those two who were now one. Newman stepped the mast, and drew aft the sheet, and the little craft caught the breeze and scudded away from us.

We lined the rail—lame men and well men, and cheered our farewell.

I wept.

Lynch sighed, and walked away. I heard him excalim, and turned to observe him picking up something from the deck. He held it out to me, in the palm of his hand.

It was a little wisp of hair, the lady's hair, a relic of the battle. Lynch stared at it—then he looked out over the sea, into the path of the sun. Aye, and there was that in his eyes which opened mine. I began at last to understand Bucko Lynch — "Captain" Lynch as he was to remain to the end of his days. I knew from that look in his eyes why no parson would now ever say to him, "Do you take this woman?"

Slowly, Lynch put the little wisp of hair into his waistcoat pocket. He drew a deep breath and shrugged his shoulders; then he hailed me with seamanly brusqueness.

"Lively, now, Mister—we'll put the ship on her course!"

"Yes, Captain," I answered. And the "Mister" roared his first command along those decks.

THE END.

Austrian Debt Advanced

WASHINGTON, June 10. — The United States today contributed to the rehabilitation of Austria's financial condition by extending until June 1, 1943, the time for payment of the debt incurred by that country in the purchase of flour from the United States Grain corporation. The face value of the obligation is $24,055,708 and Secretary Mellon was authorized by the last congress to take the action announced today, provided other countries holding claims pursued a similar course.

More Truth Than Poetry

GOING TOO FAR

(Locusts recently appeared in Manila and drove the golfers from their course.)

In Pharaoh's day, when the locusts swept down
To reap where the harvest had sown,
They garnered the grain till the fertilest plain
Was as bare as a surf-beaten stone.
While utterly helpless the husbandman stood
Lamenting his troubles aloud,
For no power he possessed to contend with a pest
That lay on the land like a cloud.

When civilization was spread to the north,
And the fields became yellow with wheat,
The locust came too, and laid waste as he flew,
Till the peasant had nothing to eat.
And no one could stay him or turn back the swarm
When its work of destruction began,
For the insects but laughed at the poor puny craft
And the futile devices of man.

In Kansas, Nebraska—throughout the wide west—
When the harvest is plenty and green,
The locust appears, every seventeen years,
And eats every spear of it clean.
They fight him with poison, the fight him with smoke,
The scorch him with fiery flame;
But with never a stop he eats crop after crop
That lies in his path, just the same.

But, now he has ventured to cumber the course
Where the pellets the golfers pursue,
He will find, before long, that though ten billion strong,
There are things that a locust can't do!
The farmer and peasant the creature despised,
But if he continues his flight,
Over hazard and bunker, the filmy-winged Junker
Will meet up with men who will fight!

HOW TO BUILD, FINANCE BETTER HOMES AND FURNISH A HOME

HAPPINESS

Copyright, 1923

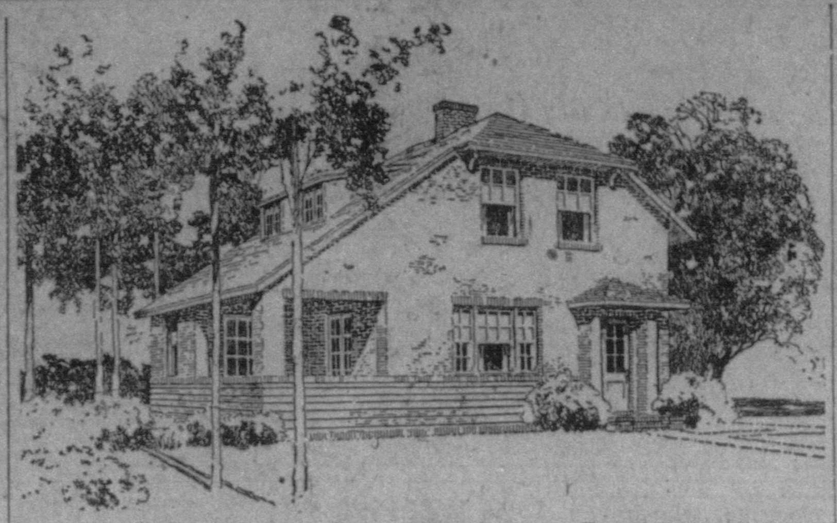

What Have You To Show For All Rent Payments

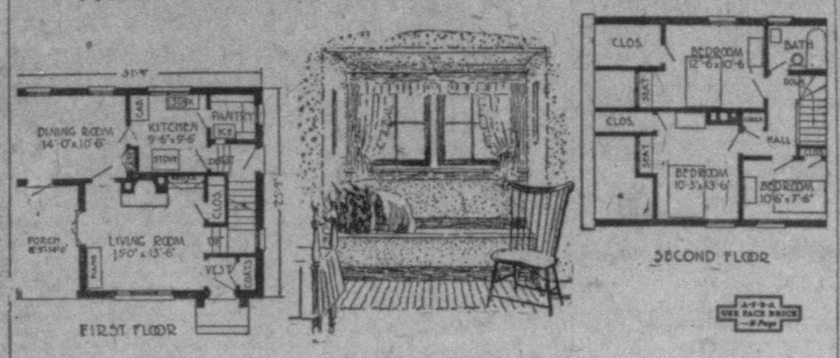

Every red-corpuscled human who loves security, comfort and independence has dreamed, thought, planned and talked about having a home of his own. Millions have cast timidity to the winds and put the dream through and reaped the tingle of happiness that comes with the "plunge."

A home is the rainbow of life, but you do not have to go to the end of it to get the contentment a self-owned home creates.

Man reaches the station of independence quicker when he puts himself profitably and legitimately in debt.

With just a little cash you can "swing" the deal to BUILD and FURNISH A HOME in the great uncrowded outdoors—at the same time freeing yourself from the strangling bonds of some rapacious landlord.

A house exactly square contains a maximum of floor space for a minimum amount of enclosing wall. In the past, builders have constructed houses on this principle with the result that too often they were just square boxes with no attempt to obtain pleasing lines.

In this western design, the plan approximtes a square, and includes the porch within the body of the house. The low, rakish slant of the roof sweeping down over the porch gives a distinctive and pleasing effect to the exterior, and serves to tie the house into the landscape. The wall surface in the upper portion would look well if the brick were laid in a three-stretcher garden wall bond.

There is a certain intimate quality in the well-designed story-and-a-half house that makes it seem to grow right out of the ground—and into the heart. This plan has the side porch which is becoming so justly popular. Sitting on this porch, you are secluded from the street, and leave the front entrance free.

The living room has a fireplace, which no living room should be without, also a wide group of front windows, double French doors, leading to the porch, a long bookcase and a large closet. The low stair landing from the living room adds charm, and the window gives light and ventilation on that side of the house.

NEW WIRED FURNITURE NO JOKE

If you do not want your home to appear too barren during the warm months, there are many interesting little touches you can give to each room that will lend charm to the atmosphere, yet add nothing to the discomfort. For instance, when you remove your winter drapes from the windows, vacuum clean them and lay them away in camphor, you will want some sheer, dainty little curtains to cheer your home. For this, finely dotted net or scrim in colonial tie-back effects is picturesque.

It is indeed a saving to take up your winter rugs from the floors and have them stored and cleaned. Valuable rugs will last for many years if given proper care. Grass rugs or those made of fibre are very inexpensive at present, and should be used to replace the heavy carpet ones.

Your furniture will be none the worse for the summer dust of you take care to vacuum-clean it and have slip covers of a durable, yet decorative, material made for the individual pieces. Heavy cretonne, linen fabrics and colored crashes are all suitable. A gay sofa cushion, a bit of bright pottery with a few flowers, and a green plant or two will bring the atmosphere of the country into your town house during the dog days.

Let me advise you to remove your silk lamp shades and replace them with linen or parchment ones for the summer. There is nothing so destructive to a silk lamp shade as dirt and dust that become imbedded in it. You will find it very practical and effective to replace the silk with the more durable parchment.

SUMMER PREPARATIONS

While jokesmiths may get their harmless laughs out of the "burglar-proof bed," the fundamental idea behind furniture wired for electricity is a serious one, worthy of consideration by the housekeeper, the architect and the interior decorator.

"Wired furniture," which was one of the novelties displayed before the inquiring eyes of the public at this year's electrical exposition, is a development of the movement to do away with unsightly and potentially dangerous electric cords strung about people's dwellings, and at the same time to make electricity still more readily available for domestic purposes.

Undoubtedly the "burglar-proof bed," with the electric light concealed under the footboard, was the greatest drawing card for curiosity seekers, but the article of furniture that appealed first to the women was the electrically wired dining room table. This has the supply cord coming up from a floor outlet placed near the central leg, and then feeding off into two dobule electric outlets placed at either hand of the hostess. With these four plugging-in places available, it seems as if a woman might cook a three-course meal right at the table without leaving her place.

Another idea in wired tables is a dining room table wired for husband and wife, of the most modern type, the husband having quiet equal to percolating the coffee and making toast, as he would in camp. In this form the wire is again brought up past the center leg, concealed among the table braces and led off to opposite sides of the table, so that the table cooking is not left entirely to the female of the species.

A Moveable Feast, Indeed

For light housekeeping the electrified tea wagon is recommended. For this the wiring is extremely simple and consists only of a double socket, introduced either at the side of the table top or partly concealed by it. Thus equipped, the tea wagon can be wheeled to the spot appointed for the tea, be it library, living room or porch. There an electric cord connects the available outlet with the tea wagon socket, and the party can proceed.

Bedroom Conveniences

Turning to the bedroom, we find the famous "burglar-proof bed" flanked by the electrically wired dressing table and wardrobe, and possibly supplemented by a sewing cabinet. While the cartoonists have seized upon that light under the bed to re-vamp one of the oldest jokes in captivity, the truth is that this light is really the smallest part of the bed equiment.

The electrically wired bedstead has double outlets at either side, sufficient to offer plugging-in space for fans, bed lamp, heating pad, vibrator, or the infant's bottle warmer. There is also the light concealed beneath the base board and controlled from the push button at the head of the bed, which, however, was probably installed fully as much to assist in house cleaning and to throw a soft light on the floor only in case of illness, as to relieve the fears of the timid householder.

The electrically equipped chiffonier, or wardrobe, has also proved useful to the humorists, who see therein another plan for circumventing the runaway collar button. Of course, no humorist would possess two collar buttons, in case one were seized with wanderlust, that would take such a reef in this humble joke. Instead of providing a searchlight for locating this missing article, the electrically wired wardrobe does suggest a concealed and specially lighted shaving mirror, and a great convenience in speedily locating garments in a densely crowded closet.

BULLY HUNTER.

"Now, are you sure this is genuine crocodile skin," she inquired critically examining a neat little satchel.

"Quite, madam," was the reply. "You see, I shot the crocodile myself."

"It looks rather dirty," remarked the customer, hoping to get a reduction in terms.

"Yes, madam," replied the shopkeeper, "that is where the animal struck the ground after it fell off the tree."—London Telegraph.

KITCHENS NEGLECTED

In the years to come that home you are planning to build must withstand all the destructive forces of nature—the hot summer sun, driving rains, strong winds, drifting snows—all the elements will do their best to tear it down. That is one of the reasons that the prospective home builder should study well the materials used in the building.

Probably every other room in the home is furnished in perfect detail, but if the kitchen is neglected the entire scheme has proven a failure. There are so many labor-saving devices for the kitchen it doesn't really seem necessary to mention them, yet we wonder how many of them you have in your own home. Take f instance, the kitchen cabinet, with its many labor-saving devices; the combination range, practical, convenient, economical; the electric washing machine, and maiy other electrical devices that are saving women's energy, and at the same time reducing household expenses. Sanitary refrigerators and the pretty patterns in linoleums add to the pleasure of housekeeping. Still there are many other articles that are employed to eliminate drudgery and promote household efficiency. For instance, the electric vacuum cleaner, the electric sewing machine, the hundreds of others, too numerous to mention.

Question Box

QUESTION—Should I have curtains on my French doors? Mrr W. H. K.

ANSWER—Yes, a door is not a door when it is transparent. Leave the upper and lower row of panes uncovered but put a curtain of pongee or net gathered very full and fastened tightly at top and bottom, over the intermediate rows.

QUESTION—Should Silk windows draperies be lined or unlined?

ANSWER — You will find the draperies will wear better and hold their shape better if lined, and the color will show to better advantage than if the light shows through. However, if the silk is heavy enough to hang nicely, they need not be lined.

QUESTION—When should net glass curtains be used instead of scrim or silk?

ANSWER — Mahogany and painted furniture shows fine texture which must be matched with curtain materials of similar weave, such as sheer silk or scrim. Oak and walnut shows a coarser grain and should have net, which is more in keeping with the texture.

Houston Manager Attacks Umpire Daley In First Game

Associated Press Dispatch

BEAUMONT, June 10.—The Buffs and Exporters divided a double-header today, the visitors taking the first 8-4, while the second was a 5-4 victory for the home team. The games covered four hours and 20 minutes.

Hectic moments throughout kept the fans in an uproar, but the most exciting of the afternoon was an attack on Umpire Daly by Manager Hunter Hill of the Houston team. Hill had obected to decisions of two different occasions, and was arguing with Daly near the plate in the seventh inning of the first game, when he suddenly swung vigorously on the umpire. Hill struck Daly twice before players interfered. He was then escorted from the field by peace officers, who were forced to keep the bleacherites from taking charge of the offending manager. Hill struck Daly while he still wore his complete umpiring equipment. The umpire freed himself of mask and protector and sought to return the attack, but was restrained.

Karl Eberhard came back to win the second game after having been driven out in the first inning of the opener. The short afterpiece was not called until the winning run was scored in the seventh, although darkness almost hid the ball from spectators. Bailey was charged with his fourth loss of the season to the Exporters. The scores:

SPUDDER HURLER MARRIED SATURDAY

Earl Feigert, left-wing twirler for the Spudders, slipped one over on his friends Saturday afternoon, when he was married to Miss Pearl Fine. The wedding ceremony was performed at the court house, in the presence of a few friends observing the blushing couple guessed the secret. Then he proudly admitted to the charge.

Feigert has been in Wichita Falls since the team left on the road trip Wednesday, having been forced from the game by injuries. He spent some time in the hospital, and was released Wednesday. Fans wondered why he remained so long behind the Spudder club, the reason not being known until he announced that he was married.

J. PLUVI US STOPS SPUD GAME; CLUB TO BEAUMONT FOR THREE

Salmites Ought to Cop But Will Have To Play Ball

Old Jupiter Pluvius went on a rampage yesterday afternoon and the Spudders were robbed of a chance to annex another ball game. The Gasser park was a sheet of water following heavy rains during the morning, and playing was impossible.

The loss of the game was also a loss of a few points in the averages for the Spudders, presuming of course, that they would have won. The Cats took the first game yesterday from the Steers in fine style, getting back the hold game that the Spuds won the day before. The second battle at Dallas was rained out.

The Spuds will go down for a three-day visit with old Pop Kitchens this afternoon, playing the Beaumont Exporters Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. They ought to be able to cop all right in Beaumont, but it must be remembered that with the addition of Kitchens to the managership of the club, a new life has been put in the team. They have been playing some good ball, and old Kitch himself has broken into the limelight several times by slamming out timely bingles. He got two two-base hits in the game Saturday, and a single.

The Spudders will have a hard time of it all right, and will have to play good ball, but they ought to bring home the bacon, for they have a much better club than the Exporters. They have been playing up to their real worth lately, and with hurling like Salm has gotten from his staff in the past week, it looks like a few more wins.

WEIGHT HELPS IN EASY WIN

Herman 30 Pounds Lighter Than S. A. Heavy And Loses

Associated Press Dispatch

HAVANA, June 10.—Luis Angel Firpo the Argentine heavyweight, this afternoon knocked out "Italian Jack" Herman in the second round of what was to have been a 15-round bout.

The right, which was a very unequal one as regards the size of the men, lasted three minutes and 19 seconds. Firpo was 30 pounds the heavier. In the first round Firpo appeared to be holding back his blows. The contest resembled somewhat that of a Terrier against a Great Dane. Nineteen seconds after the second round had started, however, the Argentine cut loose and sent his opponent to the canvas for the full count.

Railroad Commission Head Hits It Rich As Gusher Comes In

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 10.—The original "Sooner" in filing papers on Reagan county land is E. R. McLean, secretary of the Texas railroad commission. The real worth of the Santa Rita well on the Ollie Parker ranch will be known definitely next week when the well is drilled in, according to Frank T. Pickrell, vice president of the Texon oil and land company.

When first intimation was made that unusual things might be expected at Santa Rita, Secretary McLean wrote the county clerk at Stiles, Reagan county, for filing rights on four sections just as close in Santa Rita as the land office records showed he could legally get.

Today Mr. McLean received his papers.

Signs Of Cracking Seen In Errors Made By Cats In Games

A peculiar circumstance is presented in the Cats' baseball crew, which would seem to present an optimistic look for other teams in the league, for should the Fort Worth aggregation win the pennant this year it would be with a club that has been expected to crack for several seasons.

For the past four years scribes have been predicting that the Cats will crack and some other team will win the pennant, but each year the Panthers have won the pennant, and in most instances by a safe margin. The success of the Panthers is an example of a team of men who have worked together for years, until they know just what their teammate is going to make. It has been said that the Cats can win a game on four hits where it would take another team to get 10 hits to win.

Possibly the Cats will win the pennant again this year, and perhaps they won't, but one outstanding fact about the team is that it will have to be completely reorganized within the next year or so. This has been demonstrated clearly by the numerous errors the Cats have been making. Only Friday, while playing the Steers, the Panthers made six errors. It was not only this game, but many others this season where the errors have been many. Some will say that the Cats are on top and have recently taken 14 straight games, but soon will have to consider the Wonderful mound work of the four aces. Pate, Johns, Stoner and Wachtel, have been turning in this year.

At first base we find the veteran Clarence Kraft still playing a strong game, but with just a hint of cracking. The errors Kraft has been making are numerous and will hurt in team. At second we find Hoffman still playing, it is true, a nice game, but with signs of weakening. At shortstep is Rabbit Tavener, the only young player in the infield, playing a pretty defensive game, but pitifully weak at the bat. At third we see Art Phelan and Frank Haley, both well versed in the finer points of the game, and both great players in their day, but who are both weakening now. Phelan has probably been playing the best game of any on the infield but, acording to custom, his legs will begin to weaken on him in a few weeks and then it will be up to Frank Haley to carry the burden. Haley has been in ill health for the past two years, and has made a grand fight to stage a comeback, but the outcome is doubtful.

In the outfield we find Seers, Stellbauer and Calvo. All are good men, but Stellbauer and Calvo are beginning to get into the age where they will not be able to move about as fast as they have in the past.

Behind the bat we find Possum Moore and Homer Haworth. Moore is getting heavier and older each year, and it is now only a matter of time until active work for him will be over. Haworth is a good man, but could be a little stronger with the stick.

Fort Worth's best bet is on the mound. With Pate, Johns, Wachtel, Stoner, Ross and Grey, Ats has six of the best hurlers in the Texas league. All of the players are comparatively young, with the exception of Wachtel, and he has several more good years.

Looking over this array of men, one may ask how long will they be able to keep the same pace. They recently won 14 games with apparent ease. However it is the opinion of the scribes that Fort Worth's pennant-winning days will soon be over unless a complete reorganization of the infield is made.

Wheezes From The Press Coop

By Don Weldon

Jupe Pluvious got busy yesterday and gave the Spudders a holiday. They didn't take their bathing suits along, so had to let the last Gasser game slip by!

* * *

They go down to see Pop Kitchens today. Kitch will make extra efforts to drub the Stilmites, just to show his old buddies a few of the tricks that he keeps in his head. He has put some pep into the Exporters since he took over the helm, and the Spuds will do well to watch their step while in Beaumont.

* * *

However, they ought to bring home the proverbial bacon, for with the hurling they have had for the past few days, and all around baseball of the valibre that beat the Steers five out of six, the Cats wouldn't be hard, much less a few Exporters.

* * *

We wonder if Kitch will perform behind the plate in person during the stay of the Supdders in Beaumont. He played in Saturday's battle, and showed the younger Exporters a few things about receiving and slamming the old pill out. He got a couple of bingles that were good for two bases, and with a single had a good day of it. He may be getting old, but he can't get that Spudder streak out of him.

* * *

Say, folks, who would have thought Lefty Feigert would have gone and gotten married without giving us an invitation to the affair? He slipped off from the gang Saturday afternoon, and took himself a wife! His blushing bride was Miss Pearl Fine before the wedding.

* * *

The Cats took another one from the Steers yesterday. Rain stopped the second battle with the score tied. Looks like the Cats have finally beaten that old Dallas jinx. They'll lose sooner or later, though, and when they do, there is going to be a change in the standings!

* * *

Salm has worked his pitchers in rotation hince he got Stauffer, Meine, Carlson and Wheeler working O. K. and it looks like the staff is all that could be desired. If they keep up the good work the Cats are going to have to dig in and keep winning if they want to keep their lead.

* * *

Hurling was all that kept the Spuds in the lower places at the start of the season, and with Salm getting pitching that is good enough for the Texas loop hitters, the Spudders have rounded into a scoring and baseball machine that will be in the running for the pennant at the end of the season, whether the season is split or played whole. Those Cats had better get to scratching!

British Golf Title At Stake In Monday's Play

Associated Press Dispatch

TROON, Scotland, June 10.—Cold winds were blowing in from sea upon the Ayreshire coast tonight, rattling the bedroom windows of 222 golfers as they slept tonight, each with hope, faint or strong, that the play in which he will begin to participate in tomorrow morning may carry him by Friday night to the glory of owning the title of British open champion.

Today, being Sunday no one played golf at Troon; but being the eve of the first test for the championship, everyone talked golf. From the wealth of words there came one distinct impression—the impression that Walter Hagen, one of the American contingent, still stands first among the favorites to win the honor. There was a feeling that if Hagen does not win, Gene Sarzen, another man from overseas, will. There are other dreaded golf masters among the dozen American entrants, but it is these two the British feel their representatives must conquer if they are to win back the trophy for which the past two years has been taken away from them by visitors from the United States.

LAZY LIKE.

A couch-and-ready Westerner visited Paul Terry up at the studios of "Aesop's Film Fables." Terry commented upon the visitor's keen sense of observation of things in general. "What is you idea about the ethics of modern business men?" asked Terry.

"Well, they remind me of hunter friends of mine who when out deer hunting kill only fawns and does," retorted the visitor.

"How's that?" inquired the cartoonist.

"Why," chirped the hunter, "they're always passing the buck."—"Topics of the Day" Films.

WOW! WOW!

A big game hunter had just returned from the hills and was recounting some of his adventures.

"The most astonishing experience I had," he said, "was when I fired me last bullet at a bear and missed him."

"Did the bear give you a chase?" asked one of the listeners.

"No. You see he knew me by my reputation and was so surprised at my missing him that he fainted dead away."—American Legion Weekly.

Champ Tells How to Take Club Back for Full Iron Shot

(In this picture, Gene Sarazen points out the two important points to remember in making iron shots: Keep the head down throughout swing, and keep right elbow down and close to the body.)

By GENE SARAZEN
World's Champion Golfer

In playing a full iron shot, take the club back as you would for the drive—evenly, deliberately and along the inside line or arc. There are two very important points to remember in connection with iron shots: Be certain to keep the head down throughout the swing, and to keep the right elbow down and close to the body.

If the elbow flies out, you will get a wicked slice, far greater, in fact, than you would from a similar stroke with the drive. Therefore, remember to keep the right elbow close to the body, but not so close that it will prevent you from swinging the club freely.

You will notice in the accompanying photo that my hands are not higher than my right shoulder—in fact, not quite as high. That is as far back as they should go on the backswing. Don't overswing, particularly on your iron shots, which ought to be played with as compact a stroke as possible.

I have already stressed the importance of bracing the right leg on the back-swing, and of turning in the left hip and knee when the club is taken back.

The principal things to remember is the back-swing for a full iron are: Keep the head down and the eye on the ball; keep the left arm straight and the right elbow down, and don't overswing.

Poultry Expert Tells You Just How To Kill, Pick and Dress Your Birds

By AL OLSTON.
Poultry Extension Department, Mar-Cufe Coal & Feed Co., and Poultry Editor, The Record News.

There are many people who sell poultry to local markets who do not seem to understand the different classifications they are placed in when sold. There are universally seven classifications referred to in the poultry industry:

1. A broiler is a young male or female weighing two pounds or less.

2. A springer is a young soft-boned male or female weighing more than two pounds.

3. A fowl is a hen over a year old or a hard breastbone pullet.

4. Stags are cockrels that show too much comb, hardness of bone and too much development of the spurs.

5. Capons are castrated male birds.

6. Slips are birds upon which the operation of castration was not successful.

7. Cocks are male birds more than one year of age.

Dry picking is the best method to be used. All birds should be killed by the sticking method. This is done by using a sharp-edged knife in the mouth and severing the jugular vein, then quickly turning the knife and pressing the point through the roof of the mouth into the brain. This will cause the bird to loosen the feathers. Then start at once picking the larger feathers in the wing first and then go as quickly as possible over the entire body.

A little extra attention to bleeding, dressing and picking will greatly pay you in profits received. It also builds your reputation as a handler of only quality stuff.

Whether you are dressed or live fowls try always to make the first markets as the needs of the stock you are selling. Sort your birds out as to color, weight and breed.

Birds of the same size, weight and color present a much better appearance and enables you to demand a much better price.

Let us get away from the old style of tieing fowls together when bringing to market. Build always for the appearance, as this is one of the fundamental points of successful marketing.

Chicken raising today is a business and the successful poultry person is a good business manager. I find many people wondering why it is they are so unsuccessful while at the same time they will not give the poultry end of the game the due attention it demands. I know of several people who are trying to raise as high as 500 to 1,000 laying hens who at the present time are getting very few eggs because the only thought they have is to feed and water the fowls. No hen under these conditions can produce, yet the owners knock the poultry game because they are not making a success.

To make a success in the poultry game one must work and work hard.

Let us look at these figures and estimates. Suppose a hen lays 225 eggs in one year and a man owns 500 hens. If one hen lays 225 eggs in 365 days, 500 hens will lay 112,500 eggs in a year. These eggs will sell on an average of 3 cents apiece. Figuring this out one will find that 500 hens will bring $3,375 per year through the sale of eggs.

One pound of feed to five hens would cost for 500 hens $1,280 for 365 days.

Taking this from the original amount leaves us a profit of $2,095 per year.

Remember, we have not figured the returns from the sale of the baby chicks, cold-fryers, broilers, cockrels and pullets.

Also remember no listless or lazy person should invest their money in this game, as it can offer them only a poor future. Poultry raising means work well paid for when done properly and a failure when done otherwise.

48 WOMEN AT BIG INSTITUTE

Byers, Deer Creek, Henrietta And Other Towns Represented

HENRIETTA, June 9.—The woman's institute held at the Baptist church this week closed Friday. Forty-eight women registered for the course from Byers, Deer Creek, Blue Grove and Henrietta. These women attended three classes per day and completed three books, taking the examinations Friday.

At the close of the sessions Friday the institute members presented Mrs. E. L. Culpepper with a tailored dress, as she and Rev. Culpepper leave next week for Richmond, Va., to take examinations before the foreign mission board to go as missionaries to Brazil. Mr. and Mrs. Culpepper have lived at Deer Creek for some time past and he has ministered at Blue Grove and Deer Creek.

The institute also voted to send a floral offering to Mrs. E. M. Francis, the district president, who lives at Electra, as a token of appreciation and congratulation on the dedication of their new church, which takes place Sunday.

Chicken Broil.

The second annual chicken broil given as a formal opening of the Henrietta Country club was enjoyed Thursday evening. Besides the 75 members and their families there were about a score of out-of-town guests among them, being H. L. Weldon and family, W. J. Green, H. S. De Ford, Misses Shamburger, Bettie Garrison, Pauline Mount, Moore, all of Wichita Falls; Meadames and Messrs. L. B. Moore, G. S. Bass, G. E. Gault, L. S. Wright of Bellevue; Mrs. Marion Wright of Fort Worth, Mrs. T. H. Ellis of Ryan, Mrs. O. Bert Burkett of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cunningham of Bowie.

Bride Complimented.

Among the many charming affairs complimenting Henrietta's June bride, Miss Sara Dale, none proved more delightful than the luncheon-bridge given by Mrs. R. C. Green Wednesday. An exquisite decorative scheme of pink was carried out with rosebuds and sweet peas. Dainty crystal baskets of sweet peas formed the centerpieces for the five tables with miniature pink parasols as plate favors.

After a three-course lunch, mints were passed in rosebud mint cups with novelty score pencils, for which each table cut. These were later presented to the honoree.

In the games Miss Josephine Mayfield won high score—three hand some Maderia towels. Low score, three Maderia handkerchiefs, was awarded to Mrs. A. B. Staggs. These with a dainty piece of lingerie were presented to the honor guest.

Those assisting in receiving were Misses Sara Dale, Josephine Mayfield of Wichita Falls; Francis Harris of Snyder, Mattie Lee Strauss and Madeline Machechney of Wichita Falls; Mesdames T. H. Ellis of Ryan, Okla., Obert Burkett of Dallas and R. L. Perkins of Petrolia. Other guests were Misses Cora Neville, Dorothy Dale, Bennie and Lumay McGlasson; Mesdames J. O. Gilliland, R. J. Brown, Carl Barker, C. O. Taylor, T. B. Lewis, P. H. Boddy, L. A. Kelly, Alvis Fuller, A. B. Staggs and H. Myers of Jolly.

Personals.

Miss Dorothy Bear returned Friday from Gainesville.

Fitch Stine of Maxwell, N. M., was here with relatives last week-end.

Mrs. Maude Goodman and little son have returned from a visit to relatives at Quanah.

J. W. Gentry of Sweetwater is visiting his son, L. J. Gentry.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McConnell and family left Tuesday for Denton, where Miss Mamie will enter the North Texas state normal for the summer term.

Dr. T. K. Jones is reported to be improving and will be able to resume his practice shortly.

The community sing, held at the Methodist church Monday evening, was well attended. These sings are supervised by the Unity club and are enjoyed every first Monday evening.

READY FOR ACTION.

Ray, a very small boy with at very large gun, was standing in a country road. "What are you hunting, bubs?" asked a passerby.

"I dunno," little Ray replied frankly. "I ain't seen it yet."—"Topics of the Day" Films.

A Tonic for Golfers

By JOCK HUTCHISON
ONLY AMERICAN WINNER OF BRITISH OPEN

I was asked recently to give my views on the duffer vs. the star and define just where the difference comes in. To begin with I will have to explain the difference between the duffer and the beginner. They are often mistaken for each other.

The beginner is a golfer who is playing golf for the first time or practically the first year or two while the duffer may be a golfer who has played at the game all his life. He is a duffer because he never improves, but the beginner may easily jump from the novice class to the position of star without ever being rated in the duffer's field.

The duffer and the star travel different roads. They seldom mix because the golf displayed by each one is so dissimilar. The star we all know as the man who wins championships, or high class tournaments and occasionally, at least turns in scores below par. The duffer plays golf in a set groove without ever any prospect of breaking a hundred.

There are two classes of duffers. One is the player who tries hard but never seems to succeed on account of uncertain form or poor nerves, while the other variety is the man who plays for what pleasure he can derive from the game and rarely makes any attempt to score.

There have been cases where the duffer worked his way out of the rut and climbed into the wagon with the good players but it is not done often.

There is a way that it can be accomplished and this is by serious and diligent practice together with turning upside-down the mental attitude one has toward the game. Most golfers fancy that their short-comings in golf is due to a poor game when it is due in most cases to a lack of golfing nerves.

It's a Question of Nerves.

I have noticed golfers who are capable of playing a good round of golf nine times out of ten some in from the final round of a tournament and beginning to prepare a plausible looking alibi. They often come to me and engage time for lessons when as a matter of fact it is not lessons in shot that they need at all.

There are many chronic finalist and semi-finalist golfers who never win any important events. It is not that their game is lacking as much as it is that they lose their nerve in the important test. Many players can fight their way to the final round and play steady and heady golf but when they realize the importance of the final match it is a different story.

I have heard golfers say: "Well! That old cup is now within my grasp. All that I have got to do is to win the next match and it belongs to me." They have been in this position before and they begin to worry about losing before they start.

A special school should be started for the golfers of this class. Instruction in playing the various clubs is not what they need so much as a lesson in nerve control.

There have been many famous players who have fallen down when the going appeared rough. Instead of steadying themselves and arising to great heights they make it easy for an opponent who is not a match for them in skill to beat them decisively.

This is the type of player who comes in and says: "My mashie-playing was terrible today. The club went back on me completely when I needed it most. I have got to take a lesson in that pitch shot."

He should have said instead: "I was winning the match hands down as my game is vastly superior to that of my opponent, but when we neared the stretch I lost my nerve completely. I began to heel my approaches and looked up on several important mashie pitches which landed into a sand trap. I lost my concentration on the green and missed a ten-inch putt on the last hole."

The first thing that a golfer should learn in match play is to disregard his opponent's game altogether and stick strictly to his own business. This should be confined to getting the ball into the hole in the fewest number of strokes possible.

For instance, if one should glance around and observe his opponent in trouble do not regard it as a certainty that the hole is won. There is a great temptation to play safe when this happens, but, a little later on, the shoe may be on the other foot. You may find trouble yourself when your intention has been to play safe.

A safe shot means that it is spared and a spared shot is often one that is sliced. This means trouble.

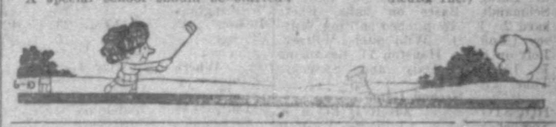

Another thing that enters into match play is the drive. Many golfers reason that the drive only is of importance and never want to be out driven. They consider it humiliating to keep playing the odd all the time.

One should never give much concern to where his opponent puts his tee shot. The golfer who can time his back on his opponent's drive will then have nothing to worry about.

The temptation to press will often get one into bad habits and it is the surest way to ruin a good game. Every golfer should know his own ability and should govern his game accordingly. It is not necessary to give the ball all that one has in him at every tee. One should always have a little reserve for occasions when heroic deeds are needed most.

A long tee shot is of course a thing to be envied and desired but it is not always the deciding factor. Ability to play well up to the pin is more advantageous.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS.
To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county: Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to summon R. B. Meadows by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return date hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the Thirtieth district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the 3rd Monday in June, A. D. 1923, the same being the 18th day of June A. D. 1923, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 31st day of January, A. D. 1923, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 12949-A wherein Cyntnia Bell Meadows is plaintiff, and R. B. Meadows is defendant, and said petition alleging that plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married in the year of 1913 and lived together until on or about the 1st of June, 1922. That defendant unmindful of his marital relation and his duty to treat plaintiff with kindness, for more than a year before their separation commenced a course of harsh and unkind treatment towards her that lasted until their said separation. That defendant would go off and leave plaintiff and her two small children and be gone as long as a month at the time, that upon two or three different occasions defendant left plaintiff and her small children, without letting plaintiff know his whereabouts. That defendant would keep company with and associate with lewd women that he would go with them, and has admitted to plaintiff that he would do so. Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer herein and upon final hearing hereof that she have judgment dissolving the bonds of matrimony as they now exist, and that she be awarded the care and custody of her two children, Verma Meadows and Harrold Meadows, ages 8 and 6, for costs of suit and for such other and further relief, that she may be entitled to, etc.
Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 16th day of May A. D. 1923.
A. F. KERR, Clerk,
District Court, Wichita County, Tex.

SHERIFF'S SALE
THE STATE OF TEXAS,
County of Wichita.
Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the Honorable Seventh-eighth District Court of Wichita county, on the 31st day of May, 1923, by A. F. Kerr, clerk of said district court, for the sum of one hundred fifty-eight thousand two hundred seventy-nine and 44-100 ($158,279.44) dollars, and costs of suit, under a certain judgment, in favor of Bankers Petroleum & Refining Company in a certain cause in said court, No. 14251-B and styled Bankers Bankers Petroleum and Refining Company vs. Associated Producing & Refining Corporation and placed in my hands for service, I, W. W. Murphy, as sheriff of Wichita county, Texas, did, on the 31st day of May, 1923, levy on certain real estate, situated in Wichita county, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: All that certain lot, tract or parcel of land, located about two miles northwest of Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas, and being 15 acres out of the John Goodwin Survey, certificate No. 1508, abstract No. 83, fronting 627 feet on the right of way of the Fort Worth & Denver Railway, on which tract of land is located a refinery, together with all pipe lines connected with said refinery, and including all machinery and equipment now installed and being used in the operation of the refinery, said property above described being generally known as the refinery of the Bankers Petroleum & Refining Company, and levied upon as the property of Associated Producing & Refining Corporation and that on the first Tuesday in July, 1923, the same being the 3rd day of said month, at the court house door, of Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said order of sale, I will sell said above described real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said Associated Producing & Refining Corporation.
And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in Wichita county.
Witness my hand, this 21st day of May, 1923.
W. W. MURPHY,
Sheriff Wichita County, Texas.

SHERIFF'S SALE
THE STATE OF TEXAS,

D. 1923, file his application in the office of the board of water engineers for the state of Texas, in which he applies for a permit to appropriate of the unappropriated waters of the state, from the Little Wichita river, a tributary of the Red river, in Archer county, Texas, sufficient water for mining purposes, to be diverted by means of a pumping plant, said pumping plant to be located at a point which bears S. 45-06 degrees east 9,333 feet from the northwest corner of Geo. C. Brunner survey, abstract 8, on the north bank of the Little Wichita river, in Archer county, Texas, and is distant in a northeasterly direction from Archer City, Texas, 15 miles.
You are hereby further notified that the said W. J. Green proposes to install a pumping plant, same to consist of a 6x6x6 pump, kind and horsepower of engine not yet determined, having a height of lift of 21 feet, and to divert therewith not to exceed forty-seven and four-tenths (47.4) acre-feet of water per annum, for the purpose of mining.
A hearing on the application of the said W. J. Green will be held by the board of water engineers for the state of Texas, in the office of the board at Austin, Texas, on Monday, June 25, A. D. 1923, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., at which time and place all parties interested may appear and be heard. Such hearing will be continued from time to time, and from place to place, if necessary, until such determination has been made relative to said application as the said board of water engineers may deem right, equitable and proper.
Given under and by virtue of an order of the board of water engineers for the state of Texas, at the office of the said board, in Austin, Texas, this the 24th day of May, A. D. 1923.
JNO. A. NORRIS,
C. S. CLARK,
A. H. DUNLAP,
Board of Water Engineers.

A. W. McDONALD, Secretary.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS,
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County—Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to summon Henry Linville by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the Eighty-ninth district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in July, A. D. 1923, the same being the 2nd day of July, A. D. 1923, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 18th day of May, A. D. 1923, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 14362-C, wherein Minnie Linville is plaintiff and Henry Linville is defendant, and said petition alleging that plaintiff married defendant about March 6, 1920, in Wichita county, Texas, and lived with him as his wife until about March 1, 1922, when she was compelled to leave him by reason of cruel treatment. That about five months prior to date of final separation defendant became enraged at plaintiff because she refused to sell her separate property and give him the money, and cursed and abused her and continued to treat her harshly up to date of final separation. That defendant during said period was continually under the influence of hair tonic, extracts, corn whisky and other intoxicants, and came home drunk two and three times per week during said period, at which times he would curse and abuse plaintiff, strike at her, and on one occasion tried to whip her children with a bed slat. That about March 1, 1922, plaintiff came home and found defendant drunk, and he was drunk again the next day and continually quarreling with plaintiff. That defendant provided nothing for the support and maintenance of plaintiff. That the marriage relation between plaintiff and defendant still exists. That plaintiff's maiden name was Minnie Capps.
Wherefore, plaintiff asks that defendant be cited to appear and answer herein, and that on trial hereof she have judgment dissolving the bonds of matrimony, for restoration of her maiden name, Minnie Capps, for costs of suit and general relief.
Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 2nd day of June, A. D. 1923.
A. F. KERR,
(SEAL) Clerk District Court.
Wichita County, Texas.

IRRIGATION

Are They Going to Irrigate Any More Land Than Is Now Included in the Two Irrigation Districts.

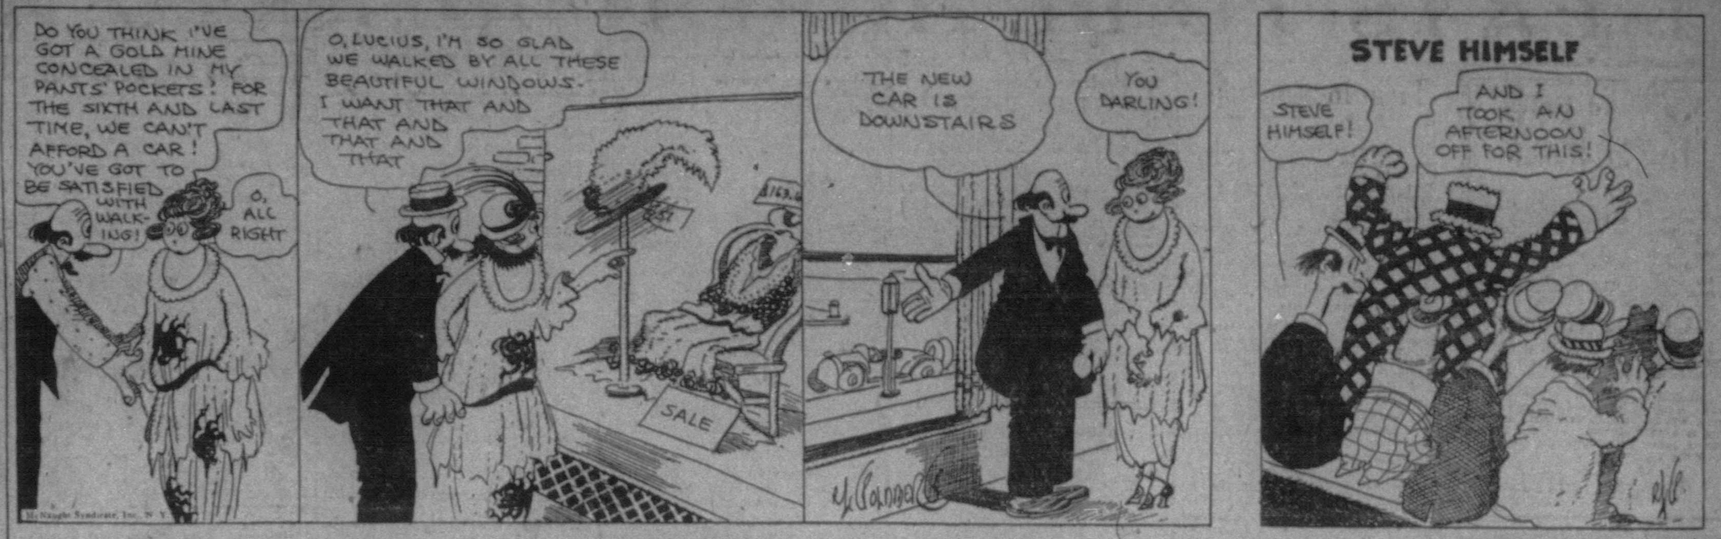

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

In previous articles we have shown that the irrigation of the Holliday creek region and Lake Creek Valley, Archer county, is feasible and we have also discussed some phases of the water supply question.
The matter of water supply was shown to be variable; some years but little water comes down the river, and in other years more than enough to fill Lake Kemp is to be expected. We also pointed out that it would be necessary to carry over a reserve from one year to another to secure adequate water each year to irrigate the land that might be under cultivation. Just how much water will have to be carried over from year to year is a question that cannot be answered exactly and is a problem that will never be solved entirely.
In wet years when the reservoir will be filled to overflowing, with plenty to spare, but little water will be needed for many crops without assistance from the canal system.
On the other hand in dry years the reverse will be true. Large amounts of water will be needed by the farmers and but little water will flow into Lake Kemp.
All of the above points to the fact that while the impounding capacity of Lake Kemp is large, over 525,000 acre feet, its real capacity; viz. the amount of water that can be used each year with safety for irrigation purposes is going to be considerably less than the impounding capacity. Just how much less will depend upon several factors, and one of the most important is: just how much water will it take on the average to mature the crops?
In tomorrow's issue we will discuss some phases of the use of water.

'REST NEEDED' GRAFTON SAYS

People Getting Tired Of Restlessness And Speed

"Restlessness," the subject of Dr. Grafton's morning sermon at the First Presbyterian church, was taken from the 28th verse of the 11th chapter of Matthew's gospel: "Come unto me all ye that are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

"This is the master's assured word of promise to a heartsick, restless and wearied world," said Dr. Grafton. "It comes as a refreshing rain on a hot, dry afternoon. He proposes to do something for man that has never been proposed before. It is startling, amazing and seemingly impossible of fulfillment. Its very simplicity is elusive. That is why it is that the world has never awakened to the cure as offered by Jesus Christ for this restlessness.

Reckless Times

"We are living in reckless times. Perhaps more so than at any other time in the history of the world. This restlessness is evidenced, first, in our very recklessness. Humanity, to some of us, seems to be stepping on the gas. Reckless disregard of every law, on every boundary line. Witness, if you please, our young people, a problem that is growing more serious. In recklessness, many of the young people have gone to the extreme doing things, to say the least, that cheapens their young lives.

Law Disregarded

"Witness, if you please, our disregard for law. We have lost all sense of the dignity of law. We have made fun of a statutatory amendment and think of it as a great joke. We talk about our cellars and about our reserve stocks, and the newspapers are filled with jokes touching one of the most important laws of our land and country.

"This restlessness and recklessness are evidenced in our play life. A large number of people are hunting for a thrill. We want something with a kick in it. We are not satisfied with anything that hasn't a thrill after thrill or a kick after kick in it.

People Awakening

"I thank God the day is dawning and people awakening. The reckless are realizing that they must pay the piper. Men and women are coming to realize that certain laws are such that they carry with them a penalty and a price. We are coming to know that the thrill we sought is a costly one, and that we must pay the price for that thrill; that peace of mind and heart are the things that satisfy after all.

"Is there a cure for this recklessness? 'Can I get my feet upon the ground?' says the individual who has been up in the air; 'Can this atmosphere in which I have been living, that has been unhealthful, morally, physically and spiritually, be beautified? Can I get back that peace of mind and heart that I have lost? Is there a salvage for me after these days of recklessness? Is there anything worth while after I have broken down the barriers and violated the laws and gone to the bad? Christ Jesus proposes to answer the questions. He offers the only remedy that can cure this restless, reckless age.

Provision Made

"It is amazing to discover that Christ, 2,000 years ago, expected just such conditions as we now have and gave a remedy over against the time when we would awaken and would ask the question what can be done to cure the situation.

"He answers all of our questions in one word. That word is rest. The word rest is a picture word. It paints a picture of a tired, wearied body in repose. Curative processes are going on within that body until bye and bye it is awakened, refreshed, strengthened and made ready for the duties of the day. It is a picture word that Jesus used to paint for us, this wonderful picture that was vastly more comprehensive than a word that had reference to the physical man only. When Jesus Christ said 'Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest' he not only meant physical rest, but mental and spiritual rest. There is a rest we need very much, a rest of mind that will cure this restlessnes of ours that has driven us into all sorts of reckless things. Rest is the cure of recklessness.

"How am I going to find rest? I am going to learn to find it in the Lord Jesus Christ, for he said 'Come unto me and ye shall find rest.' Jesus had rest through the stability of an assured conviction. There never was a moment when he doubted God; when he put a question mark over against his Father. God pity the man whose motive is loose and who is dragging his anchor.

Christ's great source of rest was in service for others."

Wesley Barry has burst into the ranks of song writers—his latest, a popular song entitled "If I Knew You Really Loved Me," will soon be published.

We wonder if the song is the result of sheer inspiration or if experience is to blame.

Lenore Ulric was the guest of honor at an informal luncheon given her by Warner Brothers, New York motion picture producers, on the eve of her transcontinental trip to Hollywood to star in "Tiger Rose."

The other day over at the Metro studios, the cast of "Rouged Lips" were working on a pown shop scene, and when it was "shot" to his satisfaction, the director, Harold Shaw, called a halt for lunch. Viola Dana was using a very valuable diamond of hers as a "prop," and at the cry "Let's eat," she ran off and forgot it.

When Viola finally recalled her loss the next day, she enlisted the entire cast of "Rouged Lips" to help her locate it.

So Tom Moore, Arline Pretty, Nola Luxford, Frances Powers, Fred Warren, and George K. Arthur all pitched in and helped. They finally found it at a jeweler's who dealt in paste stones. He didn't know he had a real diamond in his collection.

Oh Lady, Here's Your Chance

If Bull Montana isn't handsome, his bank account is. The girl who wins him may not go into Tennysonian raptures, but she can ride in a nice red roadster.

The matrimonial experts who say women favor cave men as mates must be wrong. The champion caveman of the world, Bull Montana, has been a bachelor 34 years, and there is no relief in sight.

Bull has many good qualities. He can offer practically everything but good looks. He has one of the biggest and shiniest roadsters in Hollywood. He is the star of the Hunt Stromberg comedy productions for Metro. He owns property in Los Angeles and Santa Monica and is making plans for the erection of a flat building on one of his lots here. He has a respectable bank balance. He owns a dress suit. He likes home life.

He would be a capable protector. He wears size 19 collars and shirts with a 48-inch chest measurement. He pulls up trees with his bare hands and lifts street cars from their tracks and back again for exercise every morning.

He has never been ill a day in his life. He can eat anything. He isn't afraid even of bride's biscuits. He uses ground glass for sugar and carbolic acid on tacks for breakfast food.

He says that if he ever marries he will not permit his wife to darn his socks or mend the collars of his shirts.

He denies being a woman-hater.

He yearns for a wife, someone to help "do" the dishes, chauffeur the vacuum sweeper and while away lonely evenings.

Proposals can be made by mail to Bull Montana, Metro Studios, Hollywood, California.

For the first time an American made motion picture will be shown in Europe before America. Arrangements were completed yesterday to open Marion Davies in "Little Old New York" immediately at the new Scale theatre, London—where "When Knighthood Was in Flower" was presented last fall.

Marion Davies, the star, will make a personal appearance with the opening of the picture.

After her London appearance, Miss Davies will visit England, France, and Italy where she expects to get color and atmosphere for "Yolanda" —her next picture from the story by Charles Major. Miss Davies will be accompanied by her secretary, Miss Eleanor Williams.

"Man Being God's Business Manager," Sunday Theme At Methodist Church

Taking for his text Matt. 25:14, and speaking on the subect "Man Being the Business Manager of God," Rev. Ira L. Crabtree of the First Methodist church, Seventh and Lamar, Sunday morning said in part:

"With the fact of God's ownership established, there remains the problem of administration. To acknowledge God as the real owner of all things is to place a solemn responsibility on everybody in the whole world who has anything to do with the goods of this world. The statement of the church today concerning stewardship is as follows: 'Man is a steward of God and must account to God for everything entrusted to him." All things are god's.'

God Created All

"In Genesis 1:1 we read 'In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth.' The earth is the Lord's and the fullness theteof.' 'Wise men die; likewise the fool and the brutish perish, and leave their wealth to others.'

"The same heaven and earth that God made contained, either active or potential, every force of life and of the material world now known, and any other that may yet be revealed. 'God saw that it was good.' These forces are to be discovered and administered.

"God has commissioned man as His agent to handle his goods and operate His forces in the world.

"It is interesting to study God's distribution of this responsibility among his servants, and of course this can not be done without noting that the development and use of that which has been committed to us are things for which we will be held to account.

"To one has been committed the duty of keeping watch. Sometimes we call them a guard, a teacher, a shepherd, etc. Some seem to be especially fitted for this work, and to some it seems to appeal more than it does to others. Man has for ages looked upon this as a serious trust and a solemn obligation.

Developing

"To another has been committed the work of development. This may be in the form of earthly goods for our own benefit, or it may be for the benefit of others, but we are no less accountable to God for the work, whichever it is.

"To another has been committed the great task of transportation of spiritual commodities in the kingdom of God. Call it transmission, or impartation, or whatever you will, it is the business of getting the thing across to the other fellow.

"And many workers are going from place to place now in the Master's name, carrying spiritual commodities to the spiritually needy—such things as faith, love, hope, knowledge and peace; yes, and money. We are the stewards of God in all these things. God forbid that any of us should fail, or neglect, misappropriate, or withhold any of these things from the service of God!"

BANK CLEARINGS STILL GAINING

Increase Of $507,221.35 Is Shown In Clearing House Report

Bank clearings for the week ending June 9, showed a decided increase over those of the preceding week. The totals for the last week showed $2,229,238.02 as compared to $1,722,016.67 for the week previous. This is an increase of $507,221.35.

Bank clearings for the past few weeks have been showing a consistent gain.

The table is as follows:

Monday	$ 376,048.30
Tuesday	347,791.71
Wednesday	356,160.91
Thursday	402,773.69
Friday	329,059.50
Saturday	417,403.82
Total	$2,229,238.02
Last week	1,722,016.67
Increase	$ 507,221.35

Baylor Representative Leaving Here Today

J. C. Hardy, who has been in Wichita Falls for several days in the interest of Baylor College will leave here today. Mr. Hardy has been in the city for the purpose of enlisting students for the college and announces a large number have signified their intentions of attending Baylor next year from this city. Should anyone wish to see him concerning the college, Mr. Hardy said he would be at the Kemp Hotel until this afternoon.

NO TRACE FOUND OF WAGGONER JEWELS

Although the search continued through the day Sunday, police declared last night that they were still in the dark as to a solution of the Waggoner gem robbery. The residence of Bob Waggoner, 1400 Tilden, was entered Saturday morning and diamonds valued at $15,000 stolen.

Officers are more firmly convinced than ever that the work was that of an outside professional who was brought in here by a local band of thieves. The entire absence of clues, police assert, makes the task of hunting the robber extremely difficult.

Stolen Goods Found

Police Sunday recovered a box with tobacco, snuff and other small commodities, all of which had evidently been stolen recently from some local store. Packages of cigarettes, cigars, cut plug, and small tin snuff boxes made up the larger portion of the find.

It was located by city officials in a vacant lot near the business district and was taken to the city hall to await the owner.

Indiana avenue looked a Rocky Mountain range Sunday after the sun began to warm things up. The accumulated water underneath the wood block paving started a series of eruptions that soon left the street in a sorry shape. Hill, ridges, crags, peaks, valleys, canyons, slopes and summits were all there.
