MICHAEL COLLINS SHOULD have the sympathy as well as the admiration of men and women of the Celtic race the wide world over.

He represents the best thought and noblest ideals of his people who longed for peace and prosperity as well as Irish freedom which carries with it absolute home rule for Ireland. More than three-fifths of the members of parliament of the Irish free state elected by the people at a recent election are for treaty ratification and the end of lawlessness in their native land.

They won the right of self-determination. Now Michael Collins and the Irish people who love law and order should crush the diehards or rebels against the free state and stamp out lawlessness in every county where the Irish free flag floats.

THERE CAN BE NO GOVERNment without law enforcement. The majority must rule. The minority must bow to the will of the majority. This is not all. There are diehards in Ulster. They are as wild and as revolutionary and as full of religious hatred as men can be found elsewhere under any flag or in any clime.

Michael Collins must rule or he must go down. He must strike and he must strike with an iron hand. For it goes without saying that if Michael Collins and the Irish free staters cannot put their house in order the English government will act and in thus acting will begin a reconquest of Ireland and the Irish. In his warning to the red radicals, Collins said: "It is the duty of the government to which the people have entrusted their defense and the conduct of their affairs to protect and to secure all law respecting citizens, without distinction and that duty the government will resolutely perform."

BRAVE WORDS, SPOKEN BY A man who was a heroic soldier and the head of an army before he became a champion of conciliatory measures and wrested from Lloyd George and the British parliament the boon of a dominion form of government for Ireland and the Irish.

Hundreds of men may die before order has been restored and the radicals have been exterminated, but there are times when bloodshed is necessary to preserve liberty from the hands of madmen and to give a people relief from the ravages of those who resort to physical force to remove their opponents and to terrorize liberty and law loving people with rifle and torch.

CELTIC BLOOD COURSES through the veins of this writer and his daily prayer is that Michael Collins will have the courage to put his house in order, to retain for the Irish what their forefathers have won and to show to the world that the Irish people are not only capable of making most statesmen have won and to show to the world that the Irish people are not only capable of self-government, but capable of making their island as prosperous and as happy and as free from religious and racial hatreds as to be found in any spot on the map of the world.

It requires machine gunners publicity to do it it should, while rifle bearers to do it should, he we and that ya with out delay. Electi has sound wthe slogan in correspondin with state papers.

CHANGEK the country no New management held up in the by week or most life and that of outside rooms institutions. It calls cold water all citizens to co-operwithout ay in the measure it is service TO SECURE PUBLIC and ERTY AND TO SECURE AND FOR THE IRISH OPLE."

Michael Collins should strike and he should strike hard at the misguided radicals who are murdering liberty and this too in the sacred name of liberty.

British Oil Camp And Yank Workers Siezed by Rebels

Mexican Insurgents Release Americans Held for Ransom, But Make Threats to Return Later; State Department Takes a Hand in Interest of the United States

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Overnight advices to the state department from Tampico served to change materially the situation in the Mexican oil region resulting from the holding for ransom by a rebel band of 40 American employes at the Agua Aba camp of the Cortez Oil company, an American owned concern.

Consul Shaw reported that the rebel chief, Gorozave, and his men left the camp Monday morning after a 24-hour stay. The message, dated yesterday, seemed to have cleared the air, but on its heels came another dispatch filed last night by the consul saying that the rebels had seized the Ueeera camp of the British owned Lacorona company and that about half a dozen Americans were among the 85 men held there.

No further advices came during the day. In demanding 9,000 pesos for the surrender of the Peera property and the employes, the rebels fixed July 2 as the date by which payment must be made. Whether the 15,000 pesos demanded at the camp as paid was not stated in any of the messages received.

The state department promptly instructed Charge Summerlin at Mexico City to make representations in regard to adequate protection for any American held in connection with the new raid on the British owned company.

Mr. Summerlin also was directed to press Mexican federal authorities to capture and punish bandits who captured A. Bruce Bielaski. Details of Mr. Bielaski's escape had not come in official reports.

Beyond these new representations to the Obregon government there was no indication the state department intended to move at present. It was pointed out that the department was not in possession of any information tending to show that the raids in the oil region were more than they appeared to be on the face of Consul Shaw's reports, the operations of bandits levying or seeking to levy tribute on the oil companies. If President Obregon or his officials have any data tending to show that his political enemies are responsible for the outbreak in the Tampico region, they have not seen fit to communicate that information to Washington as yet.

In any case, both official and unofficial advices showed that the Obregon government was moving additional troops into the Tampico district for the evident purpose of suppressing rebel or bandit activities.

It is generally assumed here that sufficient troops will be distributed about the district to prevent such raids as those of Gorozave as quickly as possible.

GORDON FREED IN ONE HOUR

Only Two Ballots Required

By Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Okla., June 29.—"My conscience never hurt me a bit" declared Earl Gordon, disabled veteran, following his acquittal here today by a district court grand jury on a charge of murdering Beckham Cobb of Birmingham, Ala., his ex-soldier classmate at Oklahoma A. and M. college here on May 9.

"I thought all along that I would be cleared," Gordon said, "but if they had convicted me they couldn't have convinced me that I was guilty. I did only what any other man would have done."

Gordon hesitated a moment, then added:

"Of course, I'm sorry I had to do it."

Gordon shot Cobb to death on a street bordering the college campus while, it was alleged, Cobb was forcing him to go to the Cobb home to apologize to pretty 18-year-old Mrs. Cobb for an alleged insult.

The jury took two ballots, a juror said. The first was understood to be 9 to 3 for acquittal.

Gordon appeared to be the coolest one in the court room, both mentally and physically during his trial. He wore a coat while others about him coaless prespired profusely.

Dempsey-Wills Bout Now Seems Likely

By Associated Press.

This acceptance was announced by the New York state boxing commission. This body officially acknowledged receipts of the challenge and deposit of $2,500 and later issued a proclamation, that, unless Dempsey, before July 10, accepted under reasonable conditions, his title would be declared forfeited as far as New York state boxing territory was involved.

It is understood the managers of the two heavyweights will meet and arrange the necessary preliminary deals within the next week or 10 days.

FRAZIER CUTS M'CUMBER LEAD

Ex-Governor Behind By 3,500 Votes

By Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., June 29.—Menacing the early lead established by Senator Porter J. McCumber in his Frazier, non-partisan, had cut the senator's lead to 3,500 in returns available early tonight from yesterday's state-wide primary in North Dakota.

Approximately five-eights of the total estimated republican ballots have been counted. At that time Gov. R. A. Nestos, independent, had a lead of 21,000 over R. F. Baker, non-partisan, for the republican gubernatorial nomination.

For the republican senatorial nomination, 1,901 out of 2,064 precincts gave McCumber 54,125, Frazier 49,053.

For republican gubernatorial nomination, 1,907 precincts, Nestos 65,208, Baker 43,671.

Ormsby McHarg, for senator, and H. L. Stegner, for governor, were entirely out of the running with only a few hundred votes each. Non-partisan leaders were claiming Frazier's nomination, declaring the rural precincts still unreported, would give him a plurality of several thousand. Meanwhile, independent forces claimed the renomination of Governor Nestos and the rest of the state ticket they had indorsed.

Only bare intimations were given out from the white house concerning the gathering in advance of its assemblage but there were assurances that full and complete discussions of the advocated policy would be invited.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—With acceptances received from all the principals in the bituminous and anthracite coal strikes, both on the operators and the miners' union side, official Washington tonight began preparation for the Saturday conference President Harding has called to consider a possible basis for resuming work in the mine fields.

Both sides having accepted, questions remained on only two points, first, as to the identity of the individuals who would represent the employes of the unionized bituminous field, and second, what would be the administration's plan for procedure after the meeting assembled.

IRISH BATTLE GROWS FIERCER

Government Troops Take Fortress

By Associated Press.

LONDON, June 30.—A dispatch to the Times from Dublin timed 2:30 o'clock this (Friday) morning says the free staters attacking the four courts are commanded and being personally led by Brigadier General Daley.

After brisk artillery and machine gun fire General Daley led his men from the south side of the Liffey across Grafton street and the bridges. The gun fire had broken down the gate, and so briskly did the free state soldiers make the ascent that they did not suffer any serious casualties.

As they crossed the court yard rifle butts and rams broke down the inner door, and as they fell the defenders poured a withering fire upon the attacking force.

The rebel soldiers were killed outright by gun fire and 10 others were wounded in hand-to-hand fighting which ensued.

Twenty-two of the irregulares threw up their hands and surrendered, while Rory O'Connor, with Brigadier

UNION CHIEFS AND RAILMEN MEET FRIDAY

Federal Probe Of Situation Starts In Chicago

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Intervention by the federal government under the authority of the transportation act created to maintain the orderly course of the nation's transportation arteries, loomed tonight as the final hope of averting the threatened rail strike of 400,000 shopmen and possibly half a million more railroad workers.

Then ultimatum to the railway executives rejected, chief executives of the six shop craft unions, which have called a strike for 10 o'clock saturday morning and the leaders of four other unions now polling a strike vote prepared tonight to answer the summons of the United States railroad labor board to appear in a federal investigation tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rail Heads Summoned

With the union heads were summoned the executives of 25 railroads charged by the employes with illegally contracting shop work in violation of the board's orders, one of the three questions on which the shopmen have been casting strike ballots for the last two weeks. Other railway executives of the 201 class one roads in the country were also asked by the board to be present.

Developments of the strike situation came in rapid sequence today. International presidents of the six shop unions announced telegrams authorizing their memberamis to walk out Saturday morning. The labor board immediately realized a threatened tieup of railroad traffic and acting under authority of the transportation act issued a citation to the strike leaders to come before it for official inquiry.

Twice Rejected

The association of railway executives, meeting here on the other matters considered and rejected the union proposal of a truce pending new negotiations over wages and working conditions. The executives declares that a strike would be against the orders of the labor board and against the United States government and thus absolved themselves from further responsibility to the present situation.

NO STRIKE UNTIL CONFERENCE IS OVER

DETROIT, Mich., June 29.—Although members of the International Brotherhood of Maintenance employes and railway shop laborers have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, no strike order will be issued until after the meeting railway executives and union officials with the United States labor board that begins at Chicago tomorrow afternoon. This was announced late today by E. F. Grable, Detroit, president of the brotherhood.

Mr. Grable made the announcement after he had received a telegram from the labor board citing him to appear before that body in common with the heads of nine other railroad unions and railroad executives. He declared he "interpreted the board's order to mean that the railroads are ordered to maintain the present wage rate in effect until after the completion of this meeting as well as ordering the chief executives of the various organizations to hold their members at work."

Parson Healer Doesn't Want To Hatch Up New Fangled Ideas But to Back Bible

They're Still Being Cured, According to Their Own Claims in Open Meeting Here

"We're not here to hatch up something new—it's just the old-time gospel that we're preaching.

"Numbers of ministers have indorsed this meeting, and they've all been here once," Raymond T. Richey, faith-healing evangelist, said last night during the evening service of his revival meeting, "but they have ceased to come again. I wonder why?

"I want them here. God needs them, and they need more of God. But whether they come or whether they do not, my meeting will go on, for men don't drive me. I'm run by God."

His assertions came in the midst of the best sermon he has delivered since the faith-meeting revival began Sunday afternoon. The evangelist was speaking of the churches, their need of salvation, and the men who represented "the Almighty, as His messengers."

"I don't want your money for praying for you," he said. "You couldn't buy one of those healing cards for a million dollars.

"I pray that I might stay behind the cross, and God forbid that I ever get from behind it, for when I set my eyes on money, my work here on earth, I feel, will have been finished."

The minister announced his sermon as "Have Times Changed?" He took his text from the thirteenth chapter of Hebrews, eighth verse: "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever."

"And I would add to that," Richey said, "He who forgiveth all our sins, who healeth our diseases."

"I expect everyone attending these meetin... gelist began, "has ... say that it is im... through faith; I expect all of you have heard someone say during this meeting that the day of miracles is past. But, brother, sister—that miracle day is the day we are living in.

"Times have changed in some respects. I can remember when people laughed about airships; now they fly over our heads constantly and we rarely ever notice them. Why, it has gotten to be a common thing for someone to drop out of one and be killed, but that is rarely noticed.

"A few years ago we used candles for light; now we have these wonderful electric lights to replace them. And if someone had have suggested then that we would some day have electric lights, people of that day would have laughed and scoffed and said, impossible.

"But there are some things that haven't changed. I'll just ask every skeptic in this city: Has God changed?

"I can't understand how anyone could try to stop people from coming to these meetings, where they want to meet God and be healed. What we need tonight is more knee-ology and less theology. I haven't much of an education—I wish I had more; but I do know that I have God in my heart.

"If I may ask you—has the human heart changed? Answer. Isn't there love, isn't there hatred, isn't there sorrow just the same as yesterday? Have the awful effects of sin changed? Answer. Have the awful effects of death changed? Answer. Have the awful effects of hell changed? Answer me, friends.

"Has the utter hopelessness of man away from God changed? Has God's willingness to save a soul changed? If God has not changed, if the Book has not changed—if time have not changed in their respect to the salvation of souls, then what is it is Christianity that has changed?

Churches Forget.

Moguls Rule On Protested Games

At a meeting Tuesday night of executives of the Twilight league decisions were handed down regarding two protested games.

The Pond laundry dispute with the Shriners was thrown out since the latter club has withdrawn from the circuit. The protest of the Legion against the University club which arose over an umpire's decision was not allowed inasmuch as the league rules state that an arbiter's rulings on the field are final.

Claims made by the Baptists against the University club, arising over the scholastic refusal to continue a game on account of darkness, was passed on favorably and the game must be played out at some future date. The University club left the diamond when dusk rendered vision difficult but the Churchmen contended, successfully, that the game could have been finished. The outcome of this battle will have a decided bearing on the final standing of the two teams.

LITTLE BABE'S DYING FOR MILK—DO YOU CARE?

Read Saddest Story Ever Written by Reporter in Wichita

Sag at heart, weak from physical and mental suffering a little mother sat beside the bed of her sick child in a hovel on the outskirts of Wichita Falls.

The father was away looking for work but had spent his last cent for groceries and they were all gone. The mother fanned the little one who had a high fever and as she fanned she uttered silent prayers to a merciful God.

The hot sun was beating on the low roof, the heat in the room was intense, the child lay suffering, yet there was no ice to cool the water and no money with which to buy ice.

This is just one case that the reporter ran into. There are others—plenty of them. They're all right here in Wichita Falls, too.

With the many instances of poor children suffering for want of ice and milk in Wichita Falls, the directors of the United Charities met and requested the Record News to launch a free milk and ice campaign.

Mrs. E. R. Gorsline Jr., secretary of the United Charities will co-operate in every way possible and the Salvation Army will handle the money to buy the ice tickets and distribute the milk to the poor.

To many people who live in modern homes and have some, if not all, the conveniences of a modern home, it is hard to realize that in Wichita Falls there are many families who are without funds for buying milk or ever ice and that scores of helpless children are going under nourished because they have no milk and can not get even cool water to drink on the scorching hot days.

They are the children of misfortune but the Salvation Army and the United Charities know where they are and want the big-hearted people of this city to contribute to the fund to give these kiddies a chance to live and grow in health.

There is many an aching-hearted mother in Wichita Falls who sees other people's children pass in automobiles and living lives of comfort and yet her own child is back there in a dingy little room suffering because of the bent, and undernourished because the parents can not buy milk.

It is hard for mothers' hearts when mothers sit by and see their children suffer, but they can not help it. Misfortune has often turned on those who in other days enjoyed the necessities or even luxuries of life and misfortunes children are brothers and sisters to all.

The Record News knows there are hundreds of people in this city who are willing and glad to help the unfortunates. There are hundreds of good people in Wichita Falls who believe in the teachings of the Master and want to help the helpless, and for this reason the milk and ice fund is open to contributions.

All contributions will be acknowledged in the Record News and the money turned over to the milk and ice fund. Address all contributions to the Milk and Ice Fund, Record News, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Names of persons who are in need of the milk and ice and who are not now known to the United Charities or Salvation Army will be ... Mrs. E. R. Gorsline ... Charities.

Popular Nat Plans Big Day On July 4

Swimmin's still fine and gettin' better.

R. L. Walker, manager of the Lake pool says that the hot weather is driving people to the pool just as soon as the sun gets low enough to permit them to venture in.

Today is the last day on which the ladies will be admitted free. This custom has been in vogue for the past two weeks and has proven popular with the fairer sex.

The Lake pool is clean, both in water and crowds, according to the manager. The water is drained regularly and the entire concrete structure scrubbed with a disinfectant weekly which assures bathers of a clean place.

The capacity of the circular nat is more than 500,000 gallons and with this much water replaced regularly, the management, feels that patrons need not fear stale water.

As an added attraction, July 4, will be a big day at the Lake. A free exhibition diving contest will be staged at 3 o'clock and at 9 p. m. the big fireworks demonstration.

The owners of the pool will be prepared to take care of the crowd anticipated on that date and assure courtesy and entertainment.

COTTON CROP IN GOOD SHAPE

27,000 Acres Planted In This County

The corn crop in Wichita county which looked so good until the hot winds of the past two weeks struck it, is practically ruined, but the cotton corn has been burned up, in most instances and that the yield will be very limited.

Agent Guy R. Jones told Wichita Falls business men Thursday.

Mr. Jones has just completed an inspection of the crops and finds the corn has been burned up, in most instances and that the yield will be very limited.

"When it comes to cotton," said Mr. Jones, "we have better prospects than for many years. The hot weather is helping keep the boll weevil away and so far there has been no indication of the pest. The acreage this year is about 27,000 acres as compared with 18,000 last year and present prospects are for a good yield of cotton."

Indications are, it is said, that with the destruction of cotton in many sections of the south by floods the prices will be away up and Wichita county farmers are expected to get good returns from the fleecy staple they raise.

Although the corn crop has suffered severely, maize, hafir and feterita are holding their own and a good crop in all three of these small grains is expected, Mr. Jones said.

Jail Delivery Thwarted Again

A lock that had been tampered with on a door to the negro compartment of the county jail, attracted the attention of Jailer Allen Wednesday night, and resulted in the thwarting of another attempted negro delivery.

Although the chain to the door seemed not to have been moved, Jailer Allen grew suspicious and watched. When nightfall came, he saw a negro open the cell door and walk to the rear of the cage, where he started to remove bricks from the same place where an attempted delivery was made some time ago.

The negro was at once put back in the cell and the door locked harder than before the lock was spread.

Negro Burglar Gags Small Boy

An unknown negro entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Abels, 1609 Broad street, Wednesday night at a late hour and bound and gagged their youthful son, who was at home alone.

Screams from the youth who managed to remove the gag after a few seconds, brought neighbors rusing to is rescue. The negro escaped unidentified.

No valuables were missing, when a search of the house was made, it was reported at police headquarters Thursday morning. It is believed the officers have a clue leading to the arrest of the negro marauder.

Equalization Board Adjourns Thursday

Following their work Thursday, the county board of equalization adjourned subject to recall at any necessary time.

The board spent Thursday adjusting bank and railroad property valuations.

Before the board adjourned, it was said that no indication as to the total valuation for the county can be made at this time, several matters remaining to be completed.

running in order; I believe in your committees; I believe in your programs—but I don't believe in the way some churches are run today. I wonder how many churches in the city of Wichita Falls are Christian churches today?

"Have times changed? No, they have not, as far as the Bible is concerned; and I believe that God loves us here in Wichita Falls just as much today as he did the children of Galilee when Jesus was on earth.

"We may not all be able to pray and bring the miraculous to happen, but there's one thing we can all do, and that's preach Jesus Christ.

Calls For Sinners.

"I hope the churches will take up this work where we leave off Sunday night. I hope they'll take these cards and pray for these who have knelt with us asking God for the remission of their sins; I hope they'll pray for the sick just as we have."

Almost a hundred persons stepped out into the aisles of the crowded theater when Richey called for sinners to repent of their sins. The evangelist came from the rostrum and walked up and down the aisle, urging men and women to "come to Christ," while his brother, A. J. Richey, sang.

When he called for persons who had been completely healed during the meeting, hands were seen to go up in all sections of the large building and a Salvation army worker arose and said she had been "wonderfully healed through faith in Jesus Christ." She said she had been ill for a long while and that six physicians who had called to see her had said she must be operated upon.

"I came to the revival meeting today," she said, "and I'm wonderfully healed."

60 Asked Prayers

About 60 persons flocked to the rostrum asking prayers for healings during the services. Among the conspicuous cases was Ray Pierce, 1309 Kemp Boulevard, who limped upon the stage with the aid of a walking cane and left it there, as he went away shouting his praises.

Mrs. J. C. Douglas of Denison, Texas, came to be prayed for. She walked on crutches, but left them on the rostrum as she departed, "healed," she said.

Mrs. Emma Noble of 1410 Eleventh who said her limb had withered away and that she had been unable to use it for a long period, left saying she was healed, when Richey prayed for her.

A young man who had been blind 20 years—J. H. Fair of 1204 Austin—told the audience he could see a handkerchief moving in front of his eyes.

Lucille Gray, 1318 Eleventh, raised arms that she said she had not raised in several years, above her head, when she shouted that she had faith and that "God has healed me."

A similar sight was exhibited by S. A. Stephens of 1304 Fourth, when he raised arms which he said had been paralyzed for two years.

Mrs. R. R. Carey of 1323 Brittain walked down an aisle of the theater, after Richey had prayed for her. She said she had not walked in 18 months.

Feels Like New Man

W. K. Wakefild of 612 Travis, who was prayed for Monday night, said during the meeting that he had had Bright's disease for 15 months and that hardly a week had passed during that time that he had not been confined to his bed. "I feel perfectly well now," he said. "I feel like a new man. I'm not suffering, and haven't been since I received my healing."

W. W. Shuler, attorney at law and a well-known Wichitan, urged the large congregation to give "liberally of your money for the support of this work," preceding Richey's sermon. The attorney said his wife had been healed of deafness that had bothered her for years and that "there's power in prayer and faith.

"I'm here as a representative of Wichita Falls urging you to contribute to this worthy cause," Mr. Shuler said. "Wichita Falls—the city that faith built—should give."

EVANGELIST HURLS CHALLENGE TO RICHEY

Charles F. Reese, evangelist, has written the Record News that he accepts the challenge uttered Tuesday night by Rev. Raymond T. Richey, faith healer, to show that the day of miracles is passed. Rev. Mr. Richey, in his sermon said he challenged the world to show that the day of miracles is passed.

GUARDS ON BRIDGE.

By Associated Press.

CAIRO, Ill., June 29.—More than a score of guards are patroling the Illinois Central bridge here. Officials of the road refused to say why the guards were detailed at the bridge.

The railroad has been carrying about 600 carloads of coal over the bridge daily from non-union coal fields in Kentucky.

WILBARGER HAS 240 PRODUCERS

Major Concerns Own Most of Wells

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 29.—According to figures compiled by the Record News correspondent, Wilbarger county now has over 240 producing wells, most of which are owned by the major companies. The principal production from the county is in the extreme eastern edge and comprises a portion of the Electra field. The best producing leases in the county are those of the Magnolia on the Piper, Sumner and H. & T. C., while the Texas company's production comes from the Tate-Waggoner and Waggoner leases.

Drilling activities are spreading to all parts of Wilbarger county, the greatest number of drilling wells being on the Waggoner ranch. The Bankers Petroleum company has three wildcat wells drilling in various sections, while the Planet and Griswold companies each have one. The Texas company has been confining their drilling to offsets and at the present time have not a single wild cat well in operation.

Wilbarger county has been the scene of much wildcatting for many years. The same conditions now prevail in Wilbarger county as prevailed in the country where the south Electra pool is now located, two years ago. At one time the south of Electra was avoided as oil men, but the dauntless spirits stuck until the pool was opened. Many showings of oil have been encountered in the county and local oil operators believe that the day will come when other pool will be tapped.

IOWA PARK BRANCH NEARLY COMPLETED

The branch house of the Ice company at Iowa Park is nearly complete, according to officials of the company. The ice house is being erected at an approximate cost of $5,000 and will furnish the supply of ice for that city, it was said.

TAYLOR AFTER 1900 FT. SAND

Field Completions Fall Off

By H. A. STROUD.

ELECTRA, June 29.—The Sanders Taylor Oil company on the extreme north end of the Douglass east Electra is preparing to make an experiment that will be of great interest to the fraternity. The company's No. 5 which has been a producer for years from the 1,800 foot sand was shot without results and the company has decided to drill deeper. No. 6, which has also been producing for years from a lime at 1,900 feet leads to this action. The well was completed in the lime before it was learned that an oil sand was beneath and in No. 5 it is understood the company will go through the lime to see if the structure continues this for north. The wells are about a mile and a half north of the Jennings least, where the 1,900-foot lime and sand were both discovered.

Completions in the Electra field this week have fallen off to some extent over those of last week but numerous wells are near completions and are at interesting depths. There are some 10 or 15 wells with cement set on the 1,900-foot sand in several different districts that will be completed within a short time.

An extension of over a mile to the 900-foot sand was made this week when the Wakefield Oil company on the south part of the Gibson survey on the Waggoner got a good sand at 717-25, which is showing up for around 25 barrels production. This well is almost a mile south of the Planet lease and the south pool proper.

The Middle States Oil company had a completion the past week in their No. 62 Burnett, which is estimated good for around 350 barrels. No. 6 Eureka lease on the Waggoner has wet casing over the 1,000-foot sand.

Around the Jennings

After abandoning several wells in the district other tests are more successful and are serving to revive interest to a certain extent. The Black Cat Oil company's well on the Waggoner just across the road from the discovery well is making considerable gas from the 1,900-foot sand and is showing lots of oil. The well has been caving badly but it is estimated by various ones that the well is good for from 75 to 125 barrels.

Dale and Green, drilling on the site of the Beaver Electra Refining company are reported drilling in rock at 1,915, one foot deeper than where the Gulf well offsetting it set their casing. The Dale well has been showing much rock, according to reliable information almost twice as much as that found in its closest neighbor. Just what this means remains to be seen as the drill goes on deeper.

On the Douglass

The Gulf Production well No. 1 which was completed in the 900-foot sand on the Douglass is reported to still be making around 12 barrels. The Humble Oil company No. 1 is drilling at 650 feet. A new location has been made by the Camp Oil company for their first well which will be drilled on the south 40 acres in block 11.

Oil Conferences Continued by Huerta

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Adolfo De La Huerta, Mexican minister of finance, conferred again today with representatives of six American oil companies. It is expected the conference will end tomorrow, when a plan reported to have been agreed upon probably will be announced.

At the offices of the Mexican financial agency, it was stated that President Obregon's ratification of the finance plan minister De La Huerta reached with the American bankers was expected momentarily.

Electra Oil Paper Makes Showing

The Northwest Texas Oil Journal made its appearance this week and, under original editorial and business management, Harry A. Stroud and James W. Stroud, will appear semi-monthly from the Electra office. The revival of activity in the Electra field and the general revival of interest in oil operatons makes the resumption of publication of this journal very timely.

Every part of the Northwest Texas fields, adjacent territory in Oklahoma and the Panhandle, which is growing daily in interest, is to be covered by the Northwest Texas Oil Journal, it is announced.

H. A. Stroud, the editor, is thoroughly familiar with every phase of oil developments at Electra, where he has been connected with the Star and the News for several years' period. In addition to the publication of his magazine, in which he is assisted by his brother, he will continue as oil editor of the Electra News and will keep up his correspondence with a number of state papers.

Electra Experiencing Stable Trade That's Not Due to Any Line, Official Of Chamber Says While in Wichita

Electra is enjoying a stable prosperity which is not due to any one line of business, according to an official of the chamber of commerce of that city who was in Wichita Falls on business Thursday.

"Our wheat crop is not going to be more than 50 per cent of what was reported because the rust set in late and cut down the yield," said the official, "but the farmers this year have diversified more than usual although they still have a long ways to go toward diversification. Many of them are raising hogs and producing some other products on a small scale which will help them out.

"Electra's growth is substantial. The average daily oil output since the first of the year has been about 2,000 barrels better than the average daily output for the past three year. and just now the average is something like 4,500 barrels better than the average for the past three years. This of course helps.

"Business in Electra is much better than it was for the same period last year but not as good as would appear from the crowds on the streets. This, I think, is due to the fact that so many persons have come to Electra from other fields looking for work and we have a large floating population. While employment conditions are improving I would warn persons against seeking work in Electra unless they have work promised before they go there as there are entirely too many persons out of work to justify more coming in."

Jim Bell of Crowell Makes Marvelous Harvest Record of 56 Bushels Wheat To Acre on His Tract Near Wichita

What is said to be one of the most marvelous wheat yields in this section of the country is reported from the farm of Jim Bell at Crowell.

County Farm Agent Guy R. Jones said he had talked to the thresher who has charge of threshing Mr. Bell's wheat and that an average of 44½ bushels of wheat per acre already have been threshed off of a 25-acre field with enough shocks yet left to make the wheat yield an average of about 56 bushels per acre.

"This is such a miraculous crop, especially considering the yield of other fields, that it is hard to believe," said Mr. Jones, "but the facts reported by the thresher have not been disputed. The same land last year made a bumper crop of wheat."

Buchanan Street Residence Burns

An early morning fire Wednesday destroyed the residence of B. F. Ellis, 1914 Buchanan, together with all household effects.

Mr. Ellis, an evangelist singer, was away from home at the time of the fire, and neighbors discovered the blaze, awakened Mrs. Ellis and two small children who were asleep, barely in time to escape.

Though the building destroyed was only two blocks from the Buchanan street station, the fire had gained such headway before an alarm was sounded, that the entire building was burned to the ground.

WILDCAT ON MEDLEY

Drilling on the Silk-Bullington wildcat test on the Medley ranch in Gray county, southwest of the Gulf's producer in Carson county, started at 11 o'clock Thusday morning, according to word received Thursday by W. W. Silk from Dick Delaney, drilling contractor.

The new test, which has from the time of its location attracted interest of Panhandle operators, is scheduled to be drilling to a depth of 3,500 feet. Considerable acreage in the vicinity of the test has already changed hands on the strength of the location, according to reports here.

CLINE WELL FLOWS

The Cline Oil company's No. 1 Waggoner, Gibson survey, is now flowing, according to reports from the field, while tubing is being run, to put the well on the pump. The well, reported earlier in the week as good for from 50 to 75 barrels in the 1,500-foot sand, is rather expected to make a better producer than at first estimated.

Troops Marching On Mexican Bandits

By Associated Press

VERA CRUZ, June 29.—General Guadalupe Sanchez, in command of the military operations in the Tampico oil region, started from his headquarters here five days ago on a march to Tampico with one regiment of troops. He is in the oil region but as yet no communication has been received from him by the commander of the garrison here, nor is anything known regarding the reported kidnaping of 40 Americans connected with the Cortez Oil company. It is believed that the lack of all communication from Tampico is due to the order of General Sanchez.

BRIDWELL WELL IS SHOWING 100 BARRELS

The No. 11 Waggoner of Bridwell & Heydrick is completing in the 1,800-foot sand and is showing up for around 100 barrels production, according to Thursday reports from the field. This well is an inside location and promises to be an average good well for the 1,800-foot sand.

The estimated daily average gross production of the Wyoming and Montana field showed an increase of 700 barrels.

According to figures collected by the institute, the imports of petroleum (crude and refined oils) at the principal United States ports for the week ended June 24, totalled 1,932,370 barrels, compared with 2,505,100 barrels for the week ended June 17.

Receipts at Atlantic coast ports were 797,000 barrels, against 1,662,100 barrels for the week ended June 17. Receipts at Gulf coast ports were 1,135,370 barrels against 843,000 barrels for the week ending June 17.

SILK DRILLING AT 2975 IN HARD LIME

Silk-Bullington-Clark are drilling at 2975 in a hard lime in their test south of the Gulf's Burk Burnett ranch producer in Carson county, according to reports to the local operators Thursday.

The sand in the Gulf test was encountered around 2952, but the local operators expect to have to go deeper as their test is some 20 or more feet higher than the Gulf well.

A CLEVER WOMAN

WOMEN are clever politicians. Mrs. Lydia Adams Williams of Nevada is a candidate for the republican senatorial nomination. There are three or four male brutes in the race who are seeking the same job. Mrs. Williams has taught them a new political trick. She is following the circus companies across the state and in this way finds opportunities to address large audiences.

This trick would have been clever for Cyclone Davis, the political clown evangelist who is doing his best to defeat Congressman Eugene Black in the first Texas district. There are several political peewees in the Texas delegation but Eugene Black isn't one of them. Regardless of this Cyclone's campaign managers say he has an even break in the district and he may put it over. If so there will be a real argument to advance against the direct primary. Cyclone would make an ideal justice of the peace in one of the rural districts of Hopkins county.

HON. Cornelius Cole of California is a sensation at the national capital. He is only a hundred and was rounding out a long career of public service when Uncle Joe Cannon of Illinois, was in his legislative swaddling clothes.

Dressed in an up-to-date tropical suit and wearing a modish Panama hat the Californian is a popular idol and makes the social rounds daily. He was born in New York in 1822, he went to California in 1849, he was first elected to congress in 1863, and he was elected to the United States senate and served from 1867 to 1873.

He voted for the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson and played an active part in many other stirring scenes of the reconstruction days. He has been a smoker of cigars for 84 years and there wasn't any Volstead act when Cornelius was in his prime. Uncle Joe has been relegated to the rear. He is only 86 and a mere piker.

ON LODGE'S TRAIL

SPEAKER Joseph Walker of the lower house of the Massachusetts legislature has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for United States senator from Massachusetts. He will oppose Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Newberryism is one of the issues that Walker will seek to press to the front.

Massachusetts politicians believe in the use of money. Massachusetts women have the ballot now. Senator Lodge fought them to a finish. He fought the eighteenth amendment to a finish. They may punish him this year, but the gamblers have picked Lodge as a winner and gamblers are cold blooded propositions. Gambling is their trade and they never permit sentiment to interfere with the business.

STRONG'S GUN

"AFTER mature deliberation I have conscientiously arrived at the conclusion that Robert L. Henry of Waco is better equipped to handle the great problem that will have to be disposed of than either of the other candidates for senator. As I see it Mr. Henry is the candidate for those who want clean government and righteousness to prevail. He has not gone backward for a single day, but has been steadily gaining in prestige and standing as a candidate."—S... P. Strong. Mr. Strong used a sawed... shotgun which must have scattered in the vicinity of Mayfield and Thomas.

WHY NOT ALL?

VINCENT St. John is on the road again. He has been a ward and guest of the federal government at Leavenworth penitentary and was convicted during the Chicago I. W. W. prosecutions and sentenced to ten years imprisonment.

President Harding ordered commutation of sentence. St. John was nationally known as an organizer and secretary treasurer of the I. W. W. Eugene V. Debs is free. Why not all the other political prisoners? Why should mercy be shown to the chief and the underlings be kept in prison?

William Jennings Bryan is a very busy man. His latest is that science would kill religion with evolution poison. If religion is the true gospel of the Lord how would it be possible for evolution to kill the truth? It is impossible to assassinate an ideal or to bludgeon that which is immortal.

DR. CRANE'S EDITORIAL

EVOLUTION BY FUMBLING

WHAT is the matter with the world?

That is a big question, but sometimes the biggest questions may be satisfied with the simplest answers.

You might say that nothing is the matter with the world except what has always been the matter with it and always will be. And in one word that is—evolution.

What makes all the trouble in the world is that it is always growing.

Perhaps the most valuable contribution to human thought is the idea of evolution, which was practically brought out in the nineteenth century. It affected every realm of human thinking.

Theologically it converted the intelligent world to the view that God grew mankind like a tree and did not carpenter mankind like a house.

Philosophically, it eventuated in pragmatism and the conception of truth as a fluid and progressive thing, and not as a fixity.

Politically its logical result is democracy, which implies a condition of freedom in which peoples grow, and develop governments instead of having theorists saddle governments on them.

Now, it is an essential corollary of evolution that something should be always wrong, in the sense of being always imperfect. For there can be no constant growth without a constant betterment.

There must always be weakness to become strength, buds to become flowers, callow youth to become manhood. There must always be outworn shells to be discarded by the growing animal, bracts to be cast by the unfolding flower, and the house of life is not without its garbage can, whither go old clothes and outworn creeds.

What we call progress is entirely due to man's curosity and his disposition to make experiments. As a recent scientific writer said, "A creature which lacked curiosity and had no tendency to fumble could never have developed civilization and human intelligence." Mankind does not get on as the result of reason and deliberate planning; it just muddles ahead

All permanent success is built on the rubble stone foundation of multitudinous failures.

The difference between the optimist and the pessimist is that the optimist thinks the world is still green and unripe; the pessimist thinks the world is over ripe and rotten.

As this is a free country, I chose optimism.

FORDNEY IS THROUGH

JOSEPH W. Fordney of Michigan is chairman of the important house ways and means committee. He will not be a candidate for reelection, after twenty-four years of continuous service in congress. He is tired, he is sixty-nine, he want... to rest and be with his family. Joseph W. Fordney is a millionaire.

He defeated a democrat twenty-four years ago and he has defeated every democrat who ran against him since his first election. This is his last political job. He is through. He expects to put over the tariff, the revenue and the bonus bill by the time his term ends. It is said that there has never been an idle hour in the life of Joseph W. Fordney since he was fifteen. He is entitled to a rest and to be with his family. All the old guarders are going. Why not Fordney?

BACK TO THE BRUSH

ARKANSAS and Texas are neighbors. Miller county is in Arkansas just across the border line from Bowie county. All further republican county conventions in Miller county will be white through and through. Negro delegates were told that they were not wanted at committee meetings or conventions.

They were told to go way back and sit down in the brush until election day, and then if they behaved themselves they would be permitted to cast their ballots for an official slate made by their white brothers. This may be all right in Arkansas but what will happen in ten northern states to the republican party if the brother in black is told to go and hide himself until election day?

There are thousands of well to do negro republicans in Texas who would cast democratic ballots if permitted to participate in the democratic primary election.

Rippling Rhymes

THE WRONG TIME

I laid me down to sleep and snore, for I was tired and worn; then came a vagrant to me door from some forgotten bourne. He hammered till he woke me up from my well earned repose, and, savage as a poisoned pup, from my soft couch I rose. "What would you?" said I to the bum, whose nose suggested booze; "why do you to my portal come, and rouse me from my snooze?" "I've wandered many a weary verst," the tattered vagrant said, "since last I had some wiener-wurst, or e'en a crust of bread. O'er wide and windy wastes I've toiled, beneath a sodden sky, so let me have some eggs hard boiled, und eke a chunk of pie." "Go to," I cried, "I have no pie, no eggs, however cheap, for any soiled, bedraggled guy who interrupts my sleep. No man who has a lick of sense would spoil a voter's nap, to hold him up for pounds or pence, or other gifts, you sap. Just after I have had a meal a beggar man might come, and I would hand him out a wheel or other princely sum. And I can see you are poor, can see with half an eye, why you go hoofing o'er the moor your sol athirst for pie. You haven't learned that there's a time for everything we'd do, and deeds untimely are a crime—so trip the tra-la-loo."

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

By GEORGE BINGHAM

That strange noise which some mistook for a hound dog howling and which issued from the stable Tuesday afternoon, turned out to be none other than our highly esteemed vocalist, Sidney Hocks, who is trying to learn to sing.

This morning Washington Hocks recalled the contest when a prize was given at the school house to the person who could keep a feather in the air the longest by blowing at it. Poke Easley says a feather accidentally got directly over one of his wife's conversations once and didn't light for an hour.

The Once Over

LIQUOR ON AMERICAN SHIPS

Once aboard an American liner, should a passenger automatically become non-refillable?

o o o

Should a trip abroad under United States auspices be a guarantee that a person can go six days without drinking.?

o o o

These are questions now agitating the country as a result of the expose ure by one of the Busch boys that liquor is being sold aboard shipping board vessels.

o o o

Unwilling to be accused of beating around the Busch, the shipping board admits, it, insists there is no violation of the prohibition law to satisfy tourists' throats outside the three-mile limit, and declares that American ships competing with foreign-owned lines must sell liquor or sail without passengers.

o o o

Very few people, statistics show, go to sea for the purpose of getting red lemonade.

o o o

A passenger taking a drink off the African coast violates the American prohibition act if he is on an American ship at the time, according to the prohibitionists.

o o o

By the same process of reasoning a man on horseback drinking out of a flask in Egypt is a lawbreaker if it's an American horse! Very intricate, what?

o o o

Meanwhile, however, American liners are sailing with what might be called decided wine-lists to starboard. And with all the thirst-cabins filled.

What the Ships Say

"Somewhere off the Azores—Ship encountering much heavy weather; very wet voyage; shipping much water, but not enough to hurt the whiskey; strong easterly winds prevailing; vessel is rolling badly and so are the passengers; unable to get bearings, due to combination of fog and Scotch highballs; doing best to maintain souse by souse-west courses; a good time is being had by all.

"S. S. DEMIJOHN."

"Longitude uncertain, latitude very intricate. Beg to report serious battle between passengers and crew this morning. Passengers tried to take down the ship's ensign and hoist a bar-towel instead. Crew tried to stop them. Fight still in progress. Ship now proceeding at bout 24 quarts per hour.

"S. S. CARAFFE."

"Off the Canary Islands: Hit bar at eight bells. Great panic followed. Passengers rushed for the life boats, but we had to drive them back so we could rescue the bottled goods first. Ladies very indignant. Well known drinker rushed from ship's saloon crying 'Women and children thirst!' but we ignored him.

"After removing all case goods safely we gave passengers the signal to board lifeboats. First boat they rushed, however, was full of broken bottles and many were badly cut. Removed all but four male passengers and abandoned ship. Offered to take them off but they had found a case of Scotch still aboard and decided to go down with the ship.

"S. S. PHOSPHATE."

"Lattitude, $3.08; longitude, awful; —Disregard call for help sent earlier today. Cause of violent trembling that shook ship from stem to stern last night has been ascertained. Bartenders were teaching new crew how to shake cocktails.

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

As he rose there came, faintly, but distinct, the unmistakable scream of a frightened woman. From the direction of the farmhouse it came—from the farmhouse at which Billy had purchased their breakfast.

Without waiting for a repetition of the cry Billy wheeled and broke into a rapid run in the direction of the little cluster of buildings. Bridge leaped to his feet and followed him, dropping behind though, for he had not had the road work that Billy recently had been through in his training for the battle in which he had defeated the "white hope" that time in New York when Professor Cassidy had wagered his entire pile upon, nor in vain.

Dink searched about the summer kitchen for an ax or hatchet; but failing to find either rummaged through a table drawer until he came upon a large carving knife. This would do the job nicely. He thumped the edge as he carried it back into the parlor to Crumb.

The poor woman, lying upon the floor, was quite conscious. Her eyes were wide and rolling in horror. She struggled with her bonds, and tried to force the gag from her mouth with her tongue; but her every effort was useless. She had heard every word that had passed between the two men. She knew that they would carry out the plan they had formulated and that there was no chance that they would be interrupted in their gruesome work, for her husband had driven over to a farm beyond Holliday, leaving before sunrise, and there was little prospect that he would return before milking time in the evening. The detectives from Kansas City could not possibly reach the farm until far too late to save her.

She saw Dink return from the summer kitchen with the long knife. she recalled the day she had bought that knife, and the various uses to which she had put it. That very morning she had sliced some bacon with it. How distinctly such little things recurred to her at this frightful moment. And now the hideous creature standing beside her was going to use it to cut her throat.

She saw Crumb take the knife and feel the blade, running his thumb along it. She saw him stoop, his eyes turned down upon hers. He grasped her chin and forced it upward and back, the better to expose her throat.

Oh, why could she not faint? Why must she suffer all these hideous preliminaries? Why could she not even close her eyes?

Crumb raised the knife and held the blade close above her bared nack. A shudder ran through her, and then the door crashed open and a man sprang into the room. It was Billy Byrne. Through the window he had seen what was passing in the interior.

His hand fell upon Crumb's collar and jerked him backward from his prey. Dink seized the shotgun and turned it upon the intruder; but he was too close. Billy grasped the barrel of the weapon and threw the muzzle up toward the ceiling as the tramp pulled the trigger. Then he wrenched it from the man's hands, swung it once above his head and crashed the stock down upon Dink's skull.

Dink went down and out for the count—for several counts, in fact. Crumb stumbled to his feet and made a break for the door. In the doorway he ran full into Bridge, winded, but ready. The latter realizing that the matted one was attempting to escape, seized a handful of his tangled beard, and, as he had done upon another occasion, held the tramp's head in rigid position while he planted a series of blows in the fellow's face—blows that left Crumb as completely out of battle as was his mildewed comrade.

"Watch 'em," said Billy, handing Bridge the shotgun. Then he turned his attention to the woman. With the carving knife tht was to have ended her life he cut her bonds. Removing the gag from her mouth he lifted her in his strong arms and carried her to the little horsehair sofa that stood in one corner of the parlor, laying her upon it very gently.

He was thinking of "Maw" Watson. This woman resembled her just a little—particularly in her comfortable, motherly expensiveness, and she had had a kind word and a cheery good-bye for him that morning as he had departed.

The woman lay upon the sofa, breathing hard, and moaning just a little. The shock had been almost too much even for her stolid nerves. Presently she turned her eyes toward Billy.

"You are a good boy," she said, "and you come just in the nick o' time. They got all my money. It's in their clothes," and then a look of terror overspread her face. For the moment she had forgotten what she had heard about this man—that he was an escaped convict—a convicted murderer. Was she any better off now that she had let him know about the money than she was with the others after they discovered it?

At her words Bridge kneeled and searched the two tramps. He counted the bills as he removed them from their pockets.

"Eleven hundred?" he asked, and handed the money to Billy.

"Eleven hundred, yes," breathed the woman, faintly, her eyes horror-filled and fearful as she gazed upon Billy's face. She didn't care for the money any more—they could have it all if they would only let her live.

Billy turned toward her and held the crumpled green mass out.

"Here," he said; "but that's an awful lot o' coin for a woman to have about da house—an' her all alone. You ought not to a-done it."

She took the money in trembling fingers. It seemed incredible that the man was returning it to her.

"But I knew it," she said finally.

"Knew what?" asked Billy.

"I knew you was a good boy. They said you was a murderer."

Billy's brows contracted, and an expression of pain crossed his face.

"How did they come to say that?" he asked.

"I heard them telephonin' to Kansas City to the police," she replied, and then she sat bolt upright. "The detectives are on their way here now," she almost screamed, "and even if you are a murderer, I don't care. I won't stand by and see 'em get you after what you have done for me. I don't believe you're a murderer anyhow. You're a good boy. My boy would be about as old and as big as you by now—if he lives. He ran away a long time ago—maybe you've met him. His name's Eddie—Eddie Shorter. I ain't heard from him for years.

"No," she went on, "I don't believe what they said—you got too good a face; but if you are a murderer you get out now before they come an' I'll send 'em on a wild-goose chase in the wrong direction."

"But these," said Billy. "We can't leave these here."

"Tie 'em up and give me the shotgun," she said. "I'll bet they don't come any more funny business on me." She had regained both her composure and her nerve by this time.

Together Billy and Bridge trussed up the two tramps. An elephant couldn't have forced the bonds they placed upon them. Then they carried them down cellar and when they had come up again, Mrs. Shorter barred the cellar door.

"I reckon they won't get out of there very fast," she said. "And now you two boys run along. Got any money?" and without waiting for a reply, she counted twenty-five dollars from the roll she had tucked in the front of her waist and handed them to Billy.

"Nothin' doin'," said he; "but t'anks just the same."

"You got to take it," she insited. "Let me make believe I'm givin' it to my boy, Eddie—please," and the tears that came to her eyes proved far more effective than her generous words.

"Aw, all right," said Billy. "I'll take it an' pass it along to Eddie if I ever meet him, eh?"

"Now please hurry," she urged. "I don't want you to be caught—even if you are a murderer. I wish you weren't though."

"I'm not," said Billy; "but de law says I am an' what de law says, goes."

He turned toward the doorway with Bridge, calling a good-bbye to the woman, but as he stepped out upon the veranda the dust of a fast-moving automobile appeared about a bend in the road a half-mile from the house.

"Too late," he said, turning to Bridge. "Here they comee!"

The woman brushed by them and peered up the road.

"Yes," she said, "it must be them. Lordy! what'll we do?"

"I'll duck out the back way, that's what I'll do," said Billy.

"It wouldn't do a mite of good," said Mrs. Shorter, with a shake of her head. "They'll telephone every farmer within 20 miles of here in every direction, an' they'll get you sure. Wait! I got a scheme. Come with me," and she turned and bustled through the little parlor, out of a doorway into something that was half hall and half storeroom. There were a flight of stairs leading to the upper story and she waddled up them as fast as her legs would carry her, motioning the two men to follow her.

In a rear room was a trapdoor in the ceiling.

"Drag that commode under this," she told them. "Then climb into the attic, and close the trapdoor. They won't never find you there."

Billy pulled the ancient article of furniture beneath the opening, and in another moment the two men were in the stuffy atmosphere of the unventilated loft. Beneath them they heard Mrs. Shorter dragging the commode back to its accustomed place and then the sound of her footsteps descending the stair.

Presently there came to them the rattling of a motor without, followed by the voices of men in the house. For an hour, half asphyxiated by the closeness of the attic, they waited, and then again they heard the sound of the running engine, diminishing as the machine drew away.

Shortly after, Mrs. Shorter's voice rose to them from below:

"You ken come down now," she said, "they've gone."

When they had descended she led them to the kitchen.

"I got a bit to eat ready for you while they was here," she explained. "When you've done you ken hide in the barn till dark, an' after that I'll have my ol' man take you 'cross to Dodson, that's a junction, an' you'd oughter be able to git away easy enough from there. I told 'em you started for Olathe—there's where they've gone with the two tramps.

"My, but I did have a time of it! I ain't much good at story-tellin' but I reckon I told more stories this afternoon than I ever told before in all my life. I told 'em that they was two of you, an' that the biggest one had red hair, an' the little one was all rock-marked. Then they said you prob'ly wasn't the man at all, an' my, how they did swear at them two tramps for gettin' 'em way out here on a wildgoose chase; but they're goin' to look for you jes' the same in Olathe, only they won't find you there," and she laughed a bit nervously though.

It was dusk when Mr. Shorter returned from Holliday, but after he had heard his wife's story he said he'd drive "them two boys" all way to Mexico, if there wasn't a better plan.

"Dodson's far enough," Bridge assured him, and late that night a grateful farmer set them down their destination.

An hour later they were speeding south on the Missouri Pacific.

Bridge lay back, luxuriously, on the red plush of the smoker seat.

"Some class to us, eh, bo?" said Billy.

Bridge stretched.

TODAY'S POEM

THE CRY OF THE DREAMER.

I am tired of planning and toiling
In the crowded hives of men;
Heart weary of building and spoiling,
And spoiling and building again.
And I long for the dear old river,
Where I dreamed my youth away
For a dreamer lives forever,
And a toiler dies in a day.

I am sick of the showy seeming,
Of a life that is half a lie;
Of the faces lined with scheming
In the throng that hurries by.
From the sleepless nights' endeavor
I would go where the children play;
For a dreamer lives forever,
And a thinker dies in a day.

I can feel no pride, but pity,
For the burdens the rich endure;
There is nothing sweet in the city
But the patient lives of the poor.
Oh, the little hand too skillful,
And the child mind choked with weeds!
The daughter's heart grown willful
And the father's heart that bleeds.

No, no! from the street's rud[illegible]
From trophies of mart and [illegible]
I would fly to the wood's [illegible]
And the meadow's kind[illegible]
Let me [illegible] as a yore
And be loved for the [illegible]

A CLEVER WOMAN

WOMEN are clever politicians. Mrs. Lydia Adams Williams of Nevada is a candidate for the republican senatorial nomination. There are three or four male brutes in the race who are seeking the same job. Mrs. Williams has taught them a new political trick. She is following the circus companies across the state and in this way finds opportunities to address large audiences.

This trick would have been clever for Cyclone Davis, the political clown evangelist who is doing his best to defeat Congressman Eugene Black in the first Texas district. There are several political peewees in the Texas delegation but Eugene Black isn't one of them. Regardless of this Cyclone's campaign managers say he has an even break in the district and he may put it over. If so there will be a real argument to advance against the direct primary. Cyclone would make an ideal justice of the peace in one of the rural districts of Hopkins county.

HON. Cornelius Cole of California is a sensation at the national capital. He is only a hundred and was rounding out a long career of public service when Uncle Joe Cannon of Illinois, was in his legislative swaddling clothes.

Dressed in an up-to-date tropical suit and wearing a modish Panama hat the Californian is a popular idol and makes the social rounds daily. He was born in New York in 1822, he went to California in 1849, he was first elected to congress in 1863, and he was elected to the United States senate and served from 1867 to 1873.

He voted for the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson and played an active part in many other stirring scenes of the reconstruction days. He has been a smoker of cigars for 84 years and there wasn't any Volstead act when Cornelius was in his prime. Uncle Joe has been relegated to the rear. He is only 86 and a mere piker.

ON LODGE'S TRAIL

SPEAKER Joseph Walker of the lower house of the Massachusetts legislature has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for United States senator from Massachusetts. He will oppose Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Newberryism is one of the issues that Walker will seek to press to the front.

Massachusetts politicians believe in the use of money. Massachusetts women have the ballot now. Senator Lodge fought them to a finish. He fought the eighteenth amendment to a finish. They may punish him this year, but the gamblers have picked Lodge as a winner and gamblers are cold blooded propositions. Gambling is their trade and they never permit sentiment to interfere with the business.

STRONG'S GUN

"AFTER mature deliberation I have conscientiously arrived at the conclusion that Robert L. Henry of Waco is better equipped to handle the great problem that will have to be disposed of than either of the other candidates for senator. As I see it Mr. Henry is the candidate for those who want clean government and righteousness to prevail. He has not gone backward for a single day, but has been steadily gaining in prestige and standing as a candidate."—S... P. Strong. Mr. Strong used a sawed-... shotgun which must have scattered in the vicinity of Mayfield and Thomas.

WHY NOT ALL?

VINCENT St. John is on the road again. He has been a ward and guest of the federal government at Leavenworth penitentary and was convicted during the Chicago I. W. W. prosecutions and sentenced to ten years imprisonment.

President Harding ordered commutation of sentence. St. John was nationally known as an organizer and secretary treasurer of the I. W. W. Eugene V. Debs is free. Why not all the other political prisoners? Why should mercy be shown to the chief and the underlings be kept in prison?

William Jennings Bryan is a very busy man. His latest is that science would kill religion with evolution poison. If religion is the true gospel of the Lord how would it be possible for evolution to kill the truth? It is impossible to assassinate an ideal or to bludgeon that which is immortal

EVOLUTION BY FUMBLING

WHAT is the matter with the world?

That is a big question, but sometimes the biggest questions may be satisfied with the simplest answers.

You might say that nothing is the matter with the world except what has always been the matter with it and always will be. And in one word that is—evolution.

What makes all the trouble in the world is that it is always growing.

Perhaps the most valuable contribution to human thought is the idea of evolution, which was practically brought out in the nineteenth century. It affected every realm of human thinking.

Theologically it converted the intelligent world to the view that God grew mankind like a tree and did not carpenter mankind like a house.

Philosophically, it eventuated in pragmatism and the conception of truth as a fluid and progressive thing, and not as a fixity.

Politically its logical result is democracy, which implies a condition of freedom in which peoples grow, and develop governments instead of having theorists saddle governments on them.

Now, it is an essential corollary of evolution that something should be always wrong, in the sense of being always imperfect. For there can be no constant growth without a constant betterment.

There must always be weakness to become strength, buds to become flowers, callow youth to become manhood. There must always be outworn shells to be discarded by the growing animal, bracts to be cast by the unfolding flower, and the house of life is not without its garbage can, whither go old clothes and outworn creeds.

What we call progress is entirely due to man's curosity and his disposition to make experiments. As a recent scientific writer said, "A creature which lacked curiosity and had no tendency to fumble could never have developed civilization and human intelligence." Mankind does not get on as the result of reason and deliberate planning; it just muddles ahead

All permanent success is built on the rubble stone foundation of multitudinous failures.

The difference between the optimist and the pessimist is that the optimist thinks the world is still green and unripe; the pessimist thinks the world is over ripe and rotten.

As this is a free country, I chose optimism.

FORDNEY IS THROUGH

JOSEPH W. Fordney of Michigan is chairman of the important house ways and means committee. He will not be a candidate for reelection, after twenty-four years of continuous service in congress. He is tired, he is sixty-nine, he want... to rest and be with his family. Joseph W. Fordney is a millionaire.

He defeated a democrat twenty-four years ago and he has defeated every democrat who ran against him since his first election. This is his last political job. He is through. He expects to put over the tariff, the revenue and the bonus bill by the time his term ends. It is said that there has never been an idle hour in the life of Joseph W. Fordney since he was fifteen. He is entitled to a rest and to be with his family. All the old guarders are going. Why not Fordney?

BACK TO THE BRUSH

ARKANSAS and Texas are neighbors. Miller county is in Arkansas just across the border line from Bowie county. All further republican county conventions in Miller county will be white through and through. Negro delegates were told that they were not wanted at committee meetings or conventions.

They were told to go way back and sit down in the brush until election day, and then if they behaved themselves they would be permitted to cast their ballots for an official slate made by their white brothers. This may be all right in Arkansas but what will happen in ten northern states to the republican party if the brother in black is told to go and hide himself until election day?

There are thousands of well to do negro republicans in Texas who would cast democratic ballots if permitted to participate in the democratic primary election.

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason.

THE WRONG TIME

I laid me down to sleep and snore, for I was tired and worn; then came a vagrant to the door from some forgotten bourne. He hammered till he woke me up from my well earned repose, and, savage as a poisoned pup, from my soft couch I rose. "What would you?" said I to the bum, whose nose suggested booze; "why do you to my portal come, and rouse me from my snooze?" "I've wandered many a weary verst," the tattered vagrant said, "since last I had some wiener-wurst, or e'en a crust of bread. O'er wide and windy wastes I've toiled, beneath a sodden sky, so let me have some eggs hard boiled, and eke a chunk of pie." "Go to," I cried, "I have no pie, no eggs, however cheap, for any soiled, bedraggled guy who interrupts my sleep. No man who has a lick of sense would spoil a voter's nap, to hold him up for pounds or pence, or other gifts, you sap. Just after I have had a meal a beggar man might come, and I would hand him out a wheel or other princely sum. And I can see you are poor, can see with half an eye, why you go hoofing o'er the moor your sol athirst for pie. You haven't learned that there's a time for everything we'd do, and deeds untimely are a crime—so trip the tra-la-loo."

Crumb raised the knife and held the blade close above her bared nack. A shudder ran through her, and then the door crashed open and a man sprang into the room. It was Billy Byrne. Through the window he had seen what was passing in the interior.

His hand fell upon Crumb's collar and jerked him backward from his prey. Dink seized the shotgun and turned it upon the intruder; but he was too close. Billy grasped the barrel of the weapon and threw the muzzle up toward the ceiling as the tramp pulled the trigger. Then he wrenched it from the man's hands, swung it once above his head and crashed the stock down upon Dink's skull.

Dink went down and out for the count—for several counts, in fact. Crumb stumbled to his feet and made a break for the door. In the doorway he ran full into Bridge, winded, but ready. The latter realizing that the matted one was attempting to escape, seized a handful of his tangled beard, and, as he had done upon another occasion, held the tramp's head in rigid position while he planted a series of blows in the fellow's face—blows that left Crumb as completely out of battle as was his mildewed comrade.

"Watch 'em," said Billy, handing Bridge the shotgun. Then he turned his attention to the woman. With the carving knife tht was to have ended her life he cut her bonds. Removing the gag from her mouth he lifted her in his strong arms and carried her to the little horsehair sofa that stood in one corner of the parlor, laying her upon it very gently.

He was thinking of "Maw" Watson. This woman resembled her just a little—particularly in her comfortable, motherly expensiveness, and she had had a kind word and a cheery good-bye for him that morning as he had departed.

The woman lay upon the sofa, breathing hard, and moaning just a little. The shock had been almost too much even for her stolid nerves. Presently she turned her eyes toward Billy.

"You are a good boy," she said, "and you come just in the nick o' time. They got all my money. It's in their clothes," and then a look of terror overspread her face. For the moment she had forgotten what she had heard about this man—that he was an escaped contict—a convicted murdered. Was she any better off now that she had let him know about the money than she was with the others after they discovered it?

At her words Bridge kneeled and searched the two tramps. He counted the bills as he removed them from their pockets.

"Eleven hundred?" he asked, and handed the money to Billy.

"Eleven hundred, yes," breathed the woman, faintly, her eyes horror-filled and fearful as she gazed upon Billy's face. She didn't care for the

ADAMS BRINGS $20,000 AND 3 MEN

Contract to Be Let Out to Scribes Wednesday

Three players immediately and $20,000 cash—that's the price the Chicago Cubs paid for Shorty Adams, and a price which sets a new record for the Texas league for all time, according to a report emanating from Beaumont and attributed to Skiper Salm. Skipper Salm is not present to deny, having authorized the report, so his denial can be conceded, and Spudder fans yet declare that the greatest little infielder who has performed in the Texas league since the days of Art Fletcher was worth every nickle of the price.

President Hadvey was present to deny it, but he went even further. He refused to discuss it at all.

"Kitchens triples to left, scoring White and Biscaoff," he translated from the clicking instrument in the club office in reply to a question on the unrevealed angles of the deal.

"The whole contract can be known next Wednesday," he finally said, "but not until then because Cub pitchers which will figure in coming double headers would be involved and the Cub management wishes the other details withheld until after this time."

Outfielder and Pitcher Weiss and Pitcher Keene, who are due to report to Salm Saturday at Houston, are known to be two of the three players involved, while the Beaumont report agrees with the gossip of Spudder fans to the effect that Alex Freeman, right handed pitcher, is the third man involved.

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

By GEORGE BINGHAM

That strange noise which some mistook for a hound dog howling and which issued from the stable Tuesday afternoon, turned out to be none other than our highly esteemed vocalist, Sidney Hocks, who is trying to learn to sing.

This morning Washington Hocks recalled the contest when a prize was given at the school house to the person who could keep a feather in the air the longest by blowing at it. Poke Easley says a feather accidentally got directly over one of his wife's conversations once and didn't light for an hour.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—President Harding today sent to the senate the nomination of Robert A. Jackson to be postmaster at Chillicothe, Texas.

The Once Over

LIQUOR ON AMERICAN SHIPS

Once aboard an American liner, should a passenger automatically become non-refillable?

o o o

Should a trip abroad under United States auspices be a guarantee that a person can go six days without drinking.?

o o o

These are questions now agitating the country as a result of the exposure by one of the Busch boys that liquor is being sold aboard shipping board vessels.

o o o

Unwilling to be accused of beating around the Busch, the shipping board admits, it, insists there is no violation of the prohibition law to satisfy tourists' throats outside the three-mile limit, and declares that American ships competing with foreign-owned lines must sell liquor or sail without passengers.

o o o

Very few people, statistics show, go to sea for the purpose of getting red lemonade.

o o o

A passenger taking a drink off the African coast violates the American prohibition act if he is on an American ship at the time, according to the prohibitionists.

o o o

By the same process of reasoning a man on horseback drinking out of a flask in Egypt is a lawbreaker if it's an American horse! Very intricate, what?

o o o

Meanwhile, however, American liners are sailing with what might be called decided wine-lists to starboard. And with all the thirst-cabins filled.

o o o

What the Ships Say

"Somewhere off the Azores—Ship encountering much heavy weather; very wet voyage; shipping much water, but not enough to hurt the whiskey; strong easterly winds prevailing; vessel is rolling badly and so are the passengers; unable to get bearings, due to combination of fog and Scotch highballs; doing best to maintain souse by souse-west courses; a good time is being had by all.

"S. S. DEMIJOHN."

"Longitude uncertain, latitude very intricate. Beg to report serious battle between passengers and crew this morning. Passengers tried to take down the ship's ensign and hoist a bar-towel instead. Crew tried to stop them. Fight still in progress. Ship now proceeding at bout 24 quarts per hour.

"S. S. CARAFFE."

"Off the Canary Islands: Hit bar at eight bells. Great panic followed. Passengers rushed for the life boats, but we had to drive them back so we could rescue the bottled goods first. Ladies very indignant. Well known drinker rushed from ship's saloon crying 'Women and children thirst!' but we ignored him.

"After removing all case goods safely we gave passengers the signal to board lifeboats. First boat they rushed, however, was full of broken bottles and many were badly cut. Removed all but four male passengers and abandoned ship. Offered to take them off but they had found a case of Scotch still aboard and decided to go down with the ship.

"S. S. PHOSPHATE."

"Lattitude, $3.08; longitude, awful; —Disregard call for help sent earlier today. Cause of violent trembling that shook ship from stem to stern last night has been ascertained. Bartenders were teaching new crew how to shake cocktails.

"S. S. LEMONADEO."

SHUPEE TELLS OF GAME ACT

Few Violations Of Measure Here

If a bill now pending in congress is passed, there will be little use for private hunting clubs, in the estimation of United States Game Warden George C. Shupee, whose territory covers the state of Texas.

Mr. Shupee, who was in Wichita Falls yesterday investigating alleged violations of the migratory bird laws in the Panhandle sections, declared that the conditions here are good.

The measure pending in congress, to which the visitor referred, would establish public shooting grounds all over the country, over which designated game wardens would have supervision. The bill itself, fostered by the game warden department of the government, would create a federal license, Mr. Shupee said.

This would mean that every person would violate the United States statutes if he hunted and had no license. The license, Mr. Shupee believed, would cost about $1.

The visitor said that all the good hunting spots in this country now are taken up by private clubs, the private sportsmen who would hunt big game thus being eliminated. If the government established public hunting grounds, as proposed in the bill, the spots would be filled with all kinds of game, that would be allowed to multiply out of season.

EVOLUTION BY FUMBLING

WHAT is the matter with the world?

That is a big question, but sometimes the biggest questions may be satisfied with the simplest answers.

You might say that nothing is the matter with the world except what has always been the matter with it and always will be. And in one word that is—evolution.

What makes all the trouble in the world is that it is always growing.

Perhaps the most valuable contribution to human thought is the idea of evolution, which was practically brought out in the nineteenth century. It affected every realm of human thinking.

Theologically it converted the intelligent world to the view that God grew mankind like a tree and did not carpenter mankind like a house.

Philosophically, it eventuated in pragmatism and the conception of truth as a fluid and progressive thing, and not as a fixity.

Politically its logical result is democracy, which implies a condition of freedom in which peoples grow, and develop governments instead of having theorists saddle governments on them.

Now, it is an essential corollary of evolution that something should be always wrong, in the sense of being always imperfect. For there can be no constant growth without a constant betterment.

There must always be weakness to become strength, buds to become flowers, callow youth to become manhood. There must always be outworn shells to be discarded by the growing animal, bracts to be cast by the unfolding flower, and the house of life is not without its garbage can, whither go old clothes and outworn creeds.

What we call progress is entirely due to man's curosity and his disposition to make experiments. As a recent scientific writer said, "A creature which lacked curiosity and had no tendency to fumble could never have developed civilization and human intelligence." Mankind does not get on as the result of reason and deliberate planning; it just muddles ahead

All permanent success is built on the rubble stone foundation of multitudinous failures.

The difference between the optimist and the pessimist is that the optimist thinks the world is still green and unripe; the pessimist thinks the world is over ripe and rotten.

As this is a free country, I chose optimism.

FORDNEY IS THROUGH

JOSEPH W. Fordney of Michigan is chairman of the important house ways and means committee. He will not be a candidate for reelection, after twenty-four years of continuous service in congress. He is tired, he is sixty-nine, he wants to rest and be with his family. Joseph W. Fordney is a millionaire.

He defeated a democrat twenty-four years ago and he has defeated every democrat who ran against him since his first election. This is his last political job. He is through. He expects to put over the tariff, the revenue and the bonus bill by the time his term ends. It is said that there has never been an idle hour in the life of Joseph W. Fordney since he was fifteen. He is entitled to a rest and to be with his family. All the old guarders are going. Why not Fordney?

BACK TO THE BRUSH

ARKANSAS and Texas are neighbors. Miller county is in Arkansas just across the border line from Bowie county. All further republican county conventions in Miller county will be white through and through. Negro delegates were told that they were not wanted at committee meetings or conventions.

They were told to go way back and sit down in the brush until election day, and then if they behaved themselves they would be permitted to cast their ballots for an official slate made by their white brothers. This may be all right in Arkansas but what will happen in ten northern states to the republican party if the brother in black is told to go and hide himself until election day?

There are thousands of well to do negro republicans in Texas who would cast democratic ballots if permitted to participate in the democratic primary election.

Rippling Rhymes

THE WRONG TIME

I laid me down to sleep and snore, for I was tired and worn; then came a vagrant to the door from some forgotten bourne. He hammered till he woke me up from my well earned repose, and, savage as a poisoned pup, from my soft couch I rose. "What would you?" said I to the bum, whose nose suggested booze; "why do you to my portal come, and rouse me from my snooze?" "I've wandered many a weary verst," the tattered vagrant said, "since last I had some wiener-wurst, or e'en a crust of bread. O'er wide and windy wastes I've toiled, beneath a sodden sky, so let me have some eggs hard boiled, and eke a chunk of pie." "Go to," I cried, "I have no pie, no eggs, however cheap, for any soiled, bedraggled guy who interrupts my sleep. No man who has a lick of sense would spoil a voter's nap, to hold him up for pounds or pence, or other gifts, you sap. Just after I have had a meal a beggar man might come, and I would hand him out a wheel or other princely sum. And I can see you are poor, can see with half an eye, why you go hoofing o'er the moor your sol athirst for pie. You haven't learned that there's a time for everything we'd do, and deeds untimely are a crime—so trip the tra-la-loo."

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

By GEORGE BINGHAM

That strange noise which some mistook for a hound dog howling and which issued from the stable Tuesday afternoon, turned out to be none other than our highly esteemed vocalist, Sidney Hocks, who is trying to learn to sing.

This morning Washington Hocks recalled the contest when a prize was given at the school house to the person who could keep a feather in the air the longest by blowing at it. "Oke Easley says a feather accidentally got directly over one of his wife's conversations once and didn't light for an hour.

POSTMASTER NOMINATED

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—President Harding today sent to the senate the nomination of Robert A. Jackson to be postmaster at Chillicothe, Texas.

The Once Over

LIQUOR ON AMERICAN SHIPS

Once aboard an American liner, should a passenger automatically become non-refillable?

o o o

Should a trip abroad under United States auspices be a guarantee that a person can go six days without drinking?

o o o

These are questions now agitating the country as a result of the exposure by one of the Busch boys that liquor is being sold aboard shipping board vessels.

o o o

Unwilling to be accused of beating around the Busch, the shipping board admits, it, insists there is no violation of the prohibition law to satisfy tourists' throats outside the three-mile limit, and declares that American ships competing with foreign-owned lines must sell liquor or sail without passengers.

o o o

Very few people, statistics show, go to sea for the purpose of getting red lemonade.

o o o

A passenger taking a drink off the African coast violates the American prohibition act if he is on an American ship at the time, according to the prohibitionists.

o o o

By the same process of reasoning a man on horseback drinking out of a flask in Egypt is a lawbreaker if it's an American horse! Very intricate, what?

o o o

Meanwhile, however, American liners are sailing with what might be called decided wine-lists to starboard. And with all the thirst-cabins filled.

o o o

What the Ships Say

"Somewhere off the Azores—Ship encountering much heavy weather; very wet voyage; shipping much water, but not enough to hurt the whiskey; strong easterly winds prevailing; vessel is rolling badly and so are the passengers; unable to get bearings, due to combination of fog and Scotch highballs; doing best to maintain course by souse-west courses; a good time is being had by all.

"S. S. DEMIJOHN."

"Longitude uncertain, latitude very intricate. Beg to report serious battle between passengers and crew this morning. Passengers tried to take down the ship's ensign and bolst a bar-towel instead. Crew tried to stop them. Fight still in progress. Ship now proceeding at bout 24 quarts per hour.

"S. S. CARAFFE."

"Off the Canary Islands: Hit bar at eight bells. Great panic followed. Passengers rushed for the life boats, but we had to drive them back so we could rescue the bottled goods first. Ladies very indignant. Well known drinker rushed from ship's saloon crying 'Women and children thirst!' but we ignored him.

"After removing all case goods safely we gave passengers the signal to board lifeboats. First boat they rushed, however, was full of broken bottles and many were badly cut. Removed all but four male passengers and abandoned ship. Offered to take them off but they had found a case of Scotch still aboard and decided to go down with the ship.

"S. S. PHOSPHATE."

"Lattitude, $3.08; longitude, awful; —Disregard call for help sent earlier today. Cause of violent trembling that shook ship from stem to stern last night has been ascertained. Bartenders were teaching new crew how to shake cocktails.

"S. S. LEMONADEO."

GRAND JURY PROBE REVEALS NOTHING

Oh, why could she not faint? Why must she suffer all these hideous preliminaries? Why could she not even close her eyes?

Crumb raised the knife and held the blade close above her bared nack. A shudder ran through her, and then the door crashed open and a man sprang into the room. It was Billy Byrne. Through the window he had seen what was passing in the interior.

His hand fell upon Crumb's collar and jerked him backward from his prey. Dink seized the shotgun and turned it upon the intruder; but he was too close. Billy grasped the barrel of the weapon and threw the muzzle up toward the ceiling as the tramp pulled the trigger. Then he wrenched it from the man's hands, swung it once above his head and crashed the stock down upon Dink's skull.

Dink went down and out for the count—for several counts, in fact. Crumb stumbled to his feet and made a break for the door. In the doorway he ran full into Bridge, winded, but ready. The latter realizing that the matted one was attempting to escape, seized a handful of his tangled beard, and, as he had done upon another occasion, held the tramp's head in rigid position while he planted a series of blows in the fellow's face—blows that left Crumb as completely out of battle as was his mildewed comrade.

"Watch 'em," said Billy, handing Bridge the shotgun. Then he turned his attention to the woman. With the carving knife tht was to have ended her life he cut her bonds. Removing the gag from her mouth he lifted her in his strong arms and carried her to the little horsehair sofa that stood in one corner of the parlor, laying her upon it very gently.

He was thinking of "Maw" Watson. This woman resembled her just a little—particularly in her comfortable, motherly expensiveness, and she had had a kind word and a cheery good-bye for him that morning as he had departed.

The woman lay upon the sofa, breathing hard, and moaning just a little. The shock had been almost too much even for her stolid nerves. Presently she turned her eyes toward Billy.

"You are a good boy," she said, "and you come just in the nick o' time. They got all my money. It's in their clothes," and then a look of terror overspread her face. For the moment she had forgotten what she had heard about this man—that he was an escaped convict—a convicted murderer. Was she any better off now that she had let him know about the money than she was with the others after they recovered it?

At her words Bridge kneeled and searched the two tramps. He counted the bills as he removed them from their pockets.

"Eleven hundred!" he asked, and handed the money to Billy.

"Eleven hundred, yes," breathed the woman, faintly, her eyes horror-filled and fearful as she gazed upon Billy's face. She didn't care for the

ADAMS BRINGS $20,000 AND 3 MEN

Contract to Be Let Out to Scribes Wednesday

Three players immediately and $20,000 cash—that's the price the Chicago Cubs paid for Shorty Adams, and a price which sets a new record for the Texas league for all time, according to a report emanating from Beaumont and attributed to Skiper Salm. Skipper Salm is not present to deny, having authorized the report, so his denial can be conceded, and Spudder fans yet declare that the greatest little infielder who has performed in the Texas league since the days of Art Fletcher was worth every nickle of the price.

President Hadvey was present to deny it, but he went even further. He refused to discuss it at all.

"Kitchens triples to left, scoring White and Bisecoff," he translated from the clicking instrument in the club office in reply to a question on the unrevealed angles of the deal.

"The whole contract can be known next Wednesday," he finally said, "but not until then because Cub pitchers which will figure in coming double headers would be involved and the Cub management wishes the other details withheld until after this time."

Outfielder and Pitcher Weiss and Pitcher Keene, who are due to report to Salm Saturday at Houston, are known to be two of the three players involved, while the Beaumont report agrees with the gossip of Spudder fans to the effect that Alex Freeman, right handed pitcher, is the third man involved.

Freeman, who was with Beaumont two years ago, was then mixed up in a title row between Oklahoma City, Beaumont, and finally was grabbed by the Cubs, had a record of 9 ... won and 8 lost last season—"No club which finished seventh don't ... league standing. COTTON MAKES MORE ADVANCES

Market Irregular and Unstable

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The cotton market was irregular and unsettled today, early advances on the old private condition figures being followed by reactions under a renewal of scattered liquidation. After selling up from 21.64 to 21.82, October broke to 21.50 and closed at 21.65 compared with 21.57 at the close yesterday. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 3 to 10 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 12 to 16 points. Prices eased off several points right after the call but rallied quite sharply on a private crop report making the condition only 69.7, compared with 69 a month ago. For a time that the market showed considerable strength with July selling up to 21.82 and December to 21.61 or 19 to 23 points net higher but prices turned easier under scattered selling which seemed to come partly from the south. Numerous reports concerning the seriousness of the boll weevil outlook and probable activity of the insect caused rallies from time to time but the tendency was downward until July sold at 21.48 and December 21.30, or 7 to 34 points net lower. The close was 14 or 20 points up from the lowest on covering.

Exports today 10,670 bales, making 5,661,908 so far this season. Port receipts 861; U. S. port stock 748,807.

WHEAT PRICES GAINING GROUND

Crop Reports Favor Sellers

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Predictions of bullish crop estimates tomorrow, black rust reports from South Dakota and uncertainty over railroad strike talked to higher prices today for wheat. The market closed unsettled, 3-8c to 1 1-8c up, July 1.14 5-8 to 1.14 7-8 and September 1.15 3-4 to 1.15 7-8. Corn gained 1-8c to 3-4c. Oats lost 1-4 to 5-8, and provisions finished at a range varying from 5s decline to 15c advance.

At first, the wheat market showed a tendency to seek a lower level of values, considerable selling having been induced by optimistic advices relative to the spring crop outlook and by weakness of foreign exchange. Sentiment soon reversed itself, however, a fresh flood of disappointing threshing returns coming from all sections and being followed by gossip that crop experts would issue comprehensive statements tomorrow indicating a decided reduction in the estimated yields of winter wheat.

Liberal export business helped give strength to the corn market. Oats were depressed by slowness of cash and by sales to go to store here. Provisions avcraged higher in line with the hog market.

LABOR TROUBLES QUIET STOCKS

Oils Weakest Feature Of Trading

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Today's stock market manifested pronounced unsettlement despite predictions in financial circles that federal action would soon be taken to terminate existing and prospective labor disturbances.

The foreign situation also occasioned further uneasiness, developments in Ireland and Germany finding clearer reflection in the increased heaviness of exchanges. The German rate fell to an unprecedented level and Central and Eastern European remittances were acutely weak.

Despite the grave respects of the railway industrial situation, transportation were the most stable of the issues, but extreme gains of 1 to almost 3 points in some of the dividend paying shares were much impaired in the later operations.

Oils were the weakest features throughout, their prolonged advance making them most susceptible to pressure. Conditions in that industry continued favorable, however, indications pointing to yet another advance in crude and refined products.

Mexican petroleum tapered into relative quiet, although again moving in range of 8 points and closing at 178, a loss of four points. Pan Americans averaged 1 point decline.

BURGLARS GET 50C AT ELECTRA

Many Concerns Are Entered

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 29.—Entering a bank, two dry goods stores and one grocery Wednesday night, thieves were only successful in making away with the insignificant sum of 50 cents. The places entered were the Security National bank, I. K. Williams Clothing company, McDavid Bros. Dry Goods and Joe Novits grocery. Reports that the would-be robbers had also entered the store of McNeeley grocery and the office of Smith & McDannaid, drilling contractor were without foundation.

Entrance was gained to the Security bank through the front door with some kind of a prize. The desk of John Brownlee, president of the bank was gone through but nothing is missing. The robbers also looted the safe of Prince Bros., drilling contractors, which was unlocked, but nothing of value was missed. I. K. Williams was the "heavy" loser. After forcing their entrance to the back door the intruders took 50 cents from the cash register. Nothing else is missing. At McDavid's entrance was made through a rear window after the iron bars had been pried apart. Nothing of value was missed. After forcing their way into Joe Novit's grocery the burglars must have been frightened away as some $10 or $15 that had been left in the register as change was not molested.

Officers were busy Thursday morning trying to pick up some clew that would lead to the arrest of the guilty parties, but apparently were having but little success.

Senate Authorizes Canal Purchases

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Purchase by the federal government of the Cape Cod and dismal Swamp canals privately owned and operated, is authorized under a senate amendment to the rivers and harbors development bill adopted late today by the senate commerce committee. With the acceptance by the committee of the two important amendments the bill was made complete and its favorable report to the senate was ordered.

Under the terms of the amendments the government agrees to pay $5,000,000 cash and to assume bonds aggregating $6,000,000 face value for the Cape Cod waterway. The Dismal Swamp canal which runs from Chesapeake bay to Beaufort, N. C., would be purchased for $500,000 under the amendments.

CIRCUS GATES OPEN SATURDAY

Heap Big Parade First Feature

Stirring sounds of military march music, the blabla of circus noise and hullaboo of whatnots will announce the opening of the famous, unprecedented and stupendous Shrine circus promptly at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon when the big parade will start marching west on Tenth street from Scott to Burnett. From Tenth street the joy makers will go north on Burnett to Eighth thence east on Eighth to Indiana thence south on Indiana to Ninth thence east on Ninth to Ohio thence north on Ohio to Seventh thence east on Seventh to the entrance of the show grounds.

Immediately upon the entrance of the parade into the show grounds the big circus will be on in full swing. There will be pink lemonade, peanuts and pop corn in abundance to lend the proper circus atmosphere. One of the joys for kiddom will be the 50 clowns that will make fun in the big parade. Besides there are aerial acts, the vaudeville entertainers and numbers of other features that will go to make the circus one of the most interesting events of its kind Texas has ever known.

A little flattery now and then will get the goats of the sanest men.

Dieting to reduce is another example of the triumph of mind over matter.

A one-round fight isn't remarkable: but it is remarkable to find one square.

SAND SHORTAGE ON ROAD JOB

Both Mixers Forced To Stop

Unless more sand arrives at once, workmen employed on the Burkburnett paved highway project will have a short rest.

The mixers, both north and south, ran out of sand Thursday at 1 o'clock. Consequently, both quit work.

For the first time in the history of the Potts-Prentice Construction company, possibly, the two mixers stopped simultaneously, although both were numbers of miles apart.

Both mixers had run a total of 243 feet for the day, both had delivered 140 batches of concrete. It wasn't phenomenal, according to the road contractors, but it was considered unusual that both should stop at the same hour and after both had done the same amount of work.

Sand is said to be en route from Ambrose, but it is not known when it will arrive.

DAMAGES FROM CRASH

Judgment for the defendant in the case of Frank Carpenter vs. Continental Supply company suit for damages was the verdict rendered in the county court at law Thursday afternoon by Judge Guy Rogers.

The suit was brought following an automobile collision the plaintiff claiming that the defendant company's driver was negligent because he was not watching where he was driving thereby causing the wreck.

The defense contended that side curtains were up over the Continental car and that the plaintiff had admitted he saw the approaching vehicle, but gave no warning of his own approach.

$8 VERDICT HERE

Judgment for $8 for the defendant, in a cross action suit held before Judge R. V. Guinn, in justice's court Thursday, was the verdict rendered in the case of Bankers Used Car Exchange vs. Morris Molenski. The suit was brought for alleged commissions due on the sale of an automobile.

$3,780 SUIT FILED

Suit for $3,780 damages was begun in the 78th district court before Judge Ed Napier Thursday afternoon. The suit is styled Roscoe Staton et al, vs W. M Frank.

The plaintiffs allege that they invested money in stock in the American National Bank of Wichita Falls believing that they would reap large profits. This belief, they contend was brought about through alleged representations made by the defendant who they claim persuaded the plaintiffs to invest in the bank's stock.

BANK VALUATION SET

Following a meeting with representatives of the various banking interests of Wichita county, the county equalization board placed a valuation of $2,400,000 on the banks, Thursday afternoon.

The figure, according to the tax rolls, is slightly increased over the 1921 valuation, which was between $2,000,000 and $2,400,000.

During the day, railroad property was also considered by the board, its valuation being left unchanged.

Only the family and a few close friends were in attendance and the bridal couple left at once for their home in Crossplains, where the froom is engaged in the oil field industry.

Miss Goist was one of the Burkburnett high school graduates, class of 1922.

G.R. Arrington of Dallas is among the new members of the Western Union office force in this city this week.

A fishing party from Burkburnett spent a very enjoyable day on the W. M. Priddy farm near Charley, Texas, last Sunday.

An unusually good chicken dinner was served by the members of the North Side Civic league and Mrs. A. F. Gullat, president of the league, expressed appreciation that the Rotarians had given the league an opportunity of entertaining them.

Horrace Robbins and Charles Reid both reported on the Los Angeles convention and both were enthusiastic over the result of the convention.

Late Wheat Near Electra Is Poor

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 29.—The late wheat all over this particular section of Wichita county was a failure, according to J. T. Gibson of the Pioneer Implement company, who has been in conversation with the leading wheat farmers from all parts of the agricultural district. According to Mr. Gibson, the farmers said that their crops were apparently in good condition and they did not know that they had made a failure until they had started to cut the grain.

IRRIGATION WORK IS UP TO SCHEDULE

Work on the Wichita irrigation project is keeping right up with the schedule, despite some minor problems such as a deficit in laborers, E. S. Heyser, vice president of the Callahan Construction company, said Thursday.

Mr. Heyser said that 100 more laborers are needed at the various points where work is going on, but that due to the harvest season labor is hard to get.

POSTPONE FAIR MEET

Because many of the directors of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association were out of the city Thursday the meeting which was scheduled for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock was postponed until next Monday morning at the same hour.

Work on plans for the fair is going right ahead and thought there was no director's meeting Thursday there was informal discussion of several details which are important to the success of the fair.

SHUPEE TELLS OF GAME ACT

Few Violations Of Measure Here

If a bill now pending in congress is passed, there will be little use for private hunting clubs, in the estimation of United States Game Warden George C. Shupee, whose territory covers the state of Texas.

Mr. Shupee, who was in Wichita Falls yesterday investigating alleged violations of the migratory bird laws in the Panhandle sections, declared that the conditions here are good.

The measure pending in congress, to which the visitor referred, would establish public shooting grounds all over the country, over which designated game wardens would have supervision. The bill itself, fostered by the game warden department of the government, would create a federal license, Mr. Shupee said.

This would mean that every person would violate the United States statutes if he hunted and had no license. The license, Mr. Shupee believed, would cost about $1.

The visitor said that all the good hunting spots in this country now are taken up by private clubs, the private sportsmen who would hunt big game thus being elliminated. If the government established public hunting grounds, as proposed in the bill, the spots would be filled with all kinds of game, that would be allowed to multiply out of season.
