If you like hot weather you have had no reason to complain the past few days for it has really been hot-fine growing weather for crops.

Those flying discs that have been floating around the country are causing some speculation as to what they are and where they come from. Nobody seems to know, or at least they won't tell if they do.

Some are guessing all sorts of things, even that Russia is sending over some experimental instruments, but our guess is that none of them are right. If there really are such discs floating about we'll hazard a guess that our War Department knows all about them and in time will reveal the secret which more than likely will be some experiment of our own Army or Navy.

FALL GARDEN PLANNING.

It isn't too early to start thinking about planting that fall garden, say horticulturists of E. Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

Now, while supply and selection of garden materials are good, the smart gardener will begin to plan and lay in supplies of seeds, inoculating dust, seed testing materials, insecticides and fertilizers. Planning what to plant, when and how much is just another wise step in modern vegetable raising, the horticulturists say.

Here are a few things to do in the future fall garden site that will start things off right. "Shave" the plot where the garden will go. Add well-rotted barnyard fertilizer, applied broadcast, and plow or spade it in near the top of the ground. Keep the site well pulverized, and watered if it needs moisture. Start now controlling weeds and grasses, to get a headstart on the pests.

The McQueen and Clevenger Drilling Company of Ft. Worth has moved a rotary rig on the Abb Pratt place 4 1/2 miles northwest of Loraine and will be ready to spud in an 8500 foot test well within a week, according to Mr. H. H. Kinsey who is in charge of the crew. The well will be located near the west line and about the same distance from the north line of the Pratt place.

The well will be drilled on a lease owned by the Humble Oil Company, and according to the crew boss should be completed within ninety days.

Speculation has been rife around these parts for a long time as to when a test well would be sunk on this lease which has been held for nearly ten years. Since the discovery well in Coke County practically all the unleased land in this section has been placed under lease by various companies and individuals.

The quality of the equipment being put on the ground looks as if the drilling company will be able to sink a test that will settle for all time whether or not there is oil in that section of the county.

Weekly Swing of Southwest Farm Markets

Cotton and some grains dropped sharply last week, and easy spots appeared in livestock and vegetables, according to the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Other southwest products sold steady to strong.

Volume movement of the new crop punctured recently ballooning sorghum markets, and prices collapsed to levels 70 to 80 cents per hundred pounds lower last week. Quotation at Fort Worth and Galveston Thursday stood at $2.61 for No. 2 milo. White corn gained 22 cents, to reach $2.93 per bushel, and yellow corn dropped six cents, to sell at $2.29. Other grains changed very little from a week earlier.

Spot cotton markets quoted $2.50 to $7.25 per bale lower prices last week. A little more activity left trading still on a small scale. High and medium grade cotton continued in demand. Most cotton areas enjoyed favorable growing conditions.

Eggs held firm last week, and even advanced slightly in some areas. Better qualities found especially good demand. High quality graded eggs sold quite a bit higher. Poultry held steady. Most cattle sold about steady last week. Common to medium cows bulked at around $12 to $15 at most places, and canner to cutter grades $8 to $12.

Texas hog markets held about steady for the week, but other southwest terminals dropped around 50 cents, more or less. Closing bulk of good and choice butcher hogs brought $24.75 to $25 at Fort Worth.

Most sheep and lamb markets held fully steady, and some classes galed up to 50 cents, but slaughter and feeder yearlings dropped $1 or more at Ft. Worth.

Hobby Pays Off . . . Two Atlanta school children examine a new school design, built in miniature by R. F. Snyder, Atlanta business man. Snyder's model-building avocation resulted in this revolutionary school design which has been converted to full-scale construction of rural schools in the South.

NO MORE 'HOOKEY'

Inventive Salesman Perfects Revolutionary School Design

ATLANTA, GA.—An inventive salesman who is neither parent nor educator paradoxically has devised a rural school from which even the most recalcitrant children may be less loathe to play "hookey" in the future.

He is R. F. (Russ) Snyder, Atlanta businessman, who teamed up his business with a hobby to produce a school design in miniature that has since been translated into full-scale construction. The feature calculated to hold the interest of pupils is that classrooms are almost as "outdoors" as the play-yard.

Several months ago Snyder attended the southeastern school conference in the interests of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company and came home with an idea buzzing in his head.

"Most kids don't like to stay indoors," he reasoned, "especially when the weather is nice outdoors. So why not bring the outdoors in to them?"

He sat up nights for two months, he says, building in his workshop a two-room school model.

"I opened up the walls to all outdoors with the biggest windows possible. And I found that twice or three times more daylight could be supplied to some of the desks than in traditional school design. Daylight has an important bearing on children's eyesight.

"The sun, you know, also can be used to help heat the school during cold months. And the large windows dispel that cooped-up feeling and give spaciousness to rooms."

Snyder set up his completed model in the company's display rooms and invited Atlanta architects and educational officials to inspect it. Enthused with his idea, he began addressing architects' meetings throughout the state and explaining his plan to parents' organizations and child welfare groups.

His school model featured a whole wall of glass to the south, with the roof extended to shield the big window against the sun in the extremely hot school months. Opposite, without sacrificing blackboard space, he placed a clerestory window high up under the roof to admit north light.

In the north room, he reversed the window arrangement and glazed the south clerestory window with heat-absorbing and glare-reducing glass to assure balanced lighting.

Today, rural schools patterned after Snyder's design to "engineer" the greatest possible amount of daylight into classrooms are actually under construction in the South.

Snyder has a quotation, too, from one of the world's authorities on lighting to bolster his theory:

"If from the age of five years," it says, "children did their reading and performed their other tasks of near vision in the abundant light of a window in daytime, there would be fewer wearing or needing eye-glasses when they finished school."

He figures he may have a hand in putting a good many of the nation's children in that "abundant" light in the years to come.

Personality Course Offered in School

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Personality courses, designed to teach students how to acquire a "pleasant manner," are being offered in 27 vocational high schools here.

The program was started on recommendation of employers who said that "a far greater percentage of persons lose their jobs because of personality difficulties than because of inefficiency." George F. Pigott Jr., assistant superintendent, explained.

Even Faces Are Red At This Fire Alarm

ANGELS CAMP, CALIF. — Although the whole volunteer fire department, 20 men strong, rushed out to Charles Kendall's blazing house trailer, the vehicle was a total loss. The boys forgot to bring the fire trucks. The trucks had been moved to an auxiliary building and the volunteers, seeing the old garage empty, assumed earlier comers had taken the trucks.

CED Scans Reasons for Failures

Impartial Groups Attempt Study of Business Flaws

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—The favorite game in Washington today is a new version of "button, button, who's got the button."

Only for "button" read: Depression, recession, shake-down, readjustment or what have you—if you have anything.

Sen. Robert Taft, as chairman of congress' joint committee on the economic report, had a questionnaire sent out to a long list of business men. The gist of the report seemed to be that there was going to be a business recession, but it was going to be in the other fellow's business.

Frequently it is too much faith in the other fellow's failings and too little regard for one's own that causes business failures. This is especially true of small businesses. Locating some of these "failures" and preventing them was the job recently undertaken and reported on by the Committee for Economic Development, a non-government, non-partisan group which makes studies of this nature.

Just as this organization was completing its work, another somewhat similar group was setting a task for itself in the hope of straightening out some of the other kinks in the business world. This was the National Planning association, which is out to discover how the many firms which steadfastly year-in and year-out maintain good relations with their employees do the trick. Both propositions are highly interesting.

These are graphically illustrated in the diagram.

Baukhage

financing, taxes and competitive opportunity. There are very definite ways in which the business man might be helped in solving these problems, particularly the problem of management. The CED report mentions these: Through advice and counsel from his suppliers; through guidance available from the large trade associations; by means of programs instituted by his own community; through special services which could be provided by established agencies within the means of the small enterprise; more extended research supported by business men and foundations; special courses in universities, colleges and secondary schools, and expansion of the present services offered free by the department of commerce.

Meets Needs Of Business

But the greatest problem is how to place before the highly-individualistic, hard-to-get-at small business man the facts, both as to his needs and how to satisfy them. That is up to the individuals in each community who will take enough interest to read the report (available without charge from the Committee for Economic Development, 285 Madison avenue, New York City) and bring it to the attention of the local business men's clubs, chambers of commerce and similar groups.

The other proposition which is in the making, and which likewise has a purely objective aim, is being carried on by the National Planning association, which is also a non-political, non-profit organization. The NPA states as its purpose: "Planning by Americans in agriculture, business, labor and government."

The project is under direction of two special committees composed significant. One: Like all CED reports, it represents the cooperative efforts of top men in the highly practical field of business and top men in the field of science-political economy; a cooperative effort whose sole purpose is to make America a better place in which to live. There are no axes to grind.

The second reason the report is important to all of us is that today more than ever, in a world of competing ideologies, the perpetuation of our democracy, our system, depends upon the fostering of small business.

Although small business needs assistance, that assistance is difficult to proffer, because small business isn't an "it"—it is three and a half million small business men, all highly individualistic; all as independent and hard to influence as a monkey at the top of a coconut palm.

And these disunited, sink-or-swim, cock-of-the-walks make up 98 per cent of the firms operating in this country today.

As the CED report puts it: "Small business is more vital and more durable than might be deduced from the hue and cry heard for many years as to the disadvantages under which it labors. Nonetheless, small businesses are confronted with special problems and difficulties that are very real. It is vital to all business and to all citizens that conditions unfavorable to small business be remedied wherever possible."

The report finds that the problems of the small business man fall into four categories: management, of both NPA members and non-members. One is a sponsorship committee composed of 40 business and labor leaders. The other is the research committee made up of 26 experts in the field.

The idea was explained to a group of us by Clinton Golden, who will direct the research. Golden explained that what his committee was after was a different approach to the question of labor-management relations.

RAPID GROWTH

Industry Expands in Far West

NEW YORK.—The Far West section of the United States has grown greatly in recent years in population, income, industrial stature and international importance, according to a study in the Index, a quarterly publication of the New York Trust company, just published.

"World War II," the study says, "telescoped into a few years an industrial expansion in the Far West which might have taken several decades to accomplish even at the relatively fast rate of development some parts of the area had been enjoying."

The war, it is pointed out, brought new factories and facilities to the region, accelerated development of its raw materials, expanded its power supply and increased its population, thereby adding both to its market potential and its labor

Labor Act Is Effective; Weather Hits Corn Crop

Verging on mental and political exhaustion after a bitter, two-day fight, weary senators voted 68 to 25 to override President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill.

The action, sustaining a walloping 331 to 83 house vote to pass the bill over the veto, came on the heels of a final presidential plea to Sen. Alben Barkley (Dem., Ky.) to muster all possible forces in the senate "to prevent this bill from becoming law."

Opponents of the measure needed 32 votes to uphold the veto, and they waged a desperate, last-ditch battle to attain their objective. Final result, however, was a smashing defeat for Mr. Truman at the hands of the Republican-controlled congress.

Highlights of a tooth-and-tongue position fight to delay the senate vote as long as possible in order to gain support was an all-night ses-

PROTEST STRIKES

With the Taft-Hartley act in force only a few hours, scattered protest strikes suddenly blossomed into a full-scale walk-out of 180,000 soft coal miners. At least 41 mines were closed in 10 states. The walkout appeared to be a spontaneous reaction on the part of the miners to the new labor law.

son during which Sen. Glen H. Taylor (Dem., Idaho) held the floor for eight hours and 20 minutes and Sen. Wayne Morse (Rep., Ore.) talked for 10 hours and two minutes. It was the longest filibuster in modern congressional history.

The Taft-Hartley act, which constitutes a wholesale revision of the Wagner act of 1934, was termed by President Truman in his veto message a "shocking piece of legislation." He asserted that the measure would "cause more strikes, not fewer," and would put the country on a long step on the dangerous road toward "a totally managed economy."

"This legislation would encourage distrust, suspicion and arbitrary attitudes," the President told congress.

FLOODED OUT: No Bumper Crop

Experts who recently predicted a three billion bushel corn crop this year were hastily revising their estimates in the light of continuing torrential rains and widespread floods which have transformed much of the Midwest into a soggy mass of mud.

Damage has been particularly heavy in Iowa, extending from one end of the state to the other. Flooding of river bottom lands is only part of the loss.

Thousands of acres of crops have been washed out, and the loss is considered irreparable. It is too late to replant with anything except for-cy with the approval of the President and the secretary of war. His resignation will become effective "at such time as his superiors may release him from active duty in the army."

The man who mapped the strategy which brought victory to Allied forces in Europe in World War II will retain his rank as a five-star general for life and continue to receive a compensation of about $15,000 a year.

Initial speculation on a successor to General Eisenhower as chief of staff centered on Gen. Omar N. Bradley, now Veterans' administration chief who commanded the army ground forces in Europe during the war.

Other high-ranking generals under consideration for the position were Gen. Jacob L. Devers, army ground forces chief, and Lt. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, chief of army public information.

As president of Columbia, Eisenhower will be the successor to Nicholas Murray Butler who retired in 1945 and is now Columbia's president emeritus. The general has also been elected a member of the university's board of trustees.

Milk Products Fill Many Poultry Needs

Health and Production Improved by Their Use

Dried milk products—dried skim milk, dried buttermilk and dried cheese whey—are important ingredients in practically all commercially mixed poultry mashers, and are important to farmers seeking added quality in their poultry rations.

Many supplements included in poultry feeds are added to provide one specific nutrient. But milk products provide many nutrients and perform several important jobs in a poultry mash.

All three popular milk product supplements long have been recognized as rich natural sources of riboflavin. This vitamin has been found necessary to health and growth in chicks and is helpful in maintaining high egg production and increased hatchability.

These milk products also are high in lactose or milk sugar. This is important in poultry feeds because milk sugar favors development of a "friendly bacteria" in the intestines and this helps provide good intestinal health.

Proteins found in milk products have a high biological or growth promoting value. They provide balance to the proteins in cereal feeds. The combination of lactose and high quality protein in these products helps assure more complete assimilation and utilization of other-nutrients in mixed feeds.

And of course dried skim milk, dried buttermilk or dried cheese whey contain sizeable quantities of calcium and phosphorus and the other minerals of milk.

Herds and Flocks For Greater Profit

Biggest single labor saver for poultrymen is water piped to all buildings and to the range. Use automatic floats at drinking fountains to control water flow. Sketch shows an automatic waterer made of an oil drum mounted on skids, suitable for use on range.

Pigs can be castrated any time after they are a week old. They do not suffer as much of a setback when young as they do at 50 pounds or heavier.

Clay Pipes Change

Newcastle Disease of Poultry Is Spreading

The fight against Newcastle disease of poultry has been carried into 40 states. Producers of broilers have been hard hit. Large-scale vaccination trials are in progress but results will not be determined for some time. Until preventive methods can be determined, sanitation and daily killing and disposal of all sick birds offer the best and perhaps only solution to the problem at present.

REWRITE MAN

By HILDA PHELPS HAMMOND

MARTY HENDRICKS tapped his pencil on the desk and glanced nervously at the wall clock. Only twenty minutes more before the dead line for the afternoon Star and not a story worth a rap had come in over the telephone! Not that Marty Hendricks usually worried about what kind of story came in over the wire. He had always had magic in his fingers—magic that let him take the driest bit of news from police stations or fire houses and re-write it into a regular Arabian Nights tale. But today things had been different. Today Marty Hendricks had overheard a conversation between the city editor and the Chief and his whole world had crumbled.

He remembered there was a bicycle and a boy at his house, too.

"Say," the Chief had said as Marty paused a moment outside his half-open door to sharpen a pencil. "What's wrong with Marty? He used to be the best re-write man in the whole South. Could take a story over the wire and turn it into a piece that made a sob sister out of every woman. But he's gone to pieces—hasn't written a good story for months."

This Week's Best Fiction

"I've noticed that myself," the city editor answered as Marty's heart thumped. "Guess he's gone stale. Twenty-five years at a re-write desk will do that to a man."

"Well, he'll have to spruce up or give up the job," the Chief growled.

"There's a young man asking for that job and they say he's a dandy. If Marty doesn't perk up we'd better put him back on some light work and get that young fellow."

The conversation had trailed on, but Marty had not listened to any more of it. His hands were trembling as he found his way back to his desk and there was a lump in his throat that he couldn't swallow no matter how hard he tried. He, Marty Hendricks, the best re-write man that the Star had ever had, about to be ditched!

He sat down at his desk and tried to think what it would mean to Sarah Ann if he lost this job. Sarah Ann was a good wife—a mighty good one. She could make a dollar go further than any other wife he knew, but even Sarah Ann had a hard time getting all the things the kids needed out of his salary. And if that was cut, no telling how they'd be able to manage. Six kids—they ate up a lot, six kids did! And now that Mastey Junior was heading for college they had to put a little aside every month. Yes six kids were an awful lot—TOO MANY," he thought as he glanced down at the snapshot pressed under the glass top of his desk. There they were—Sarah Ann and the six of them.

He turned his eyes away from the snapshot and glanced at the wall clock. If a story would only come—just one story that would let him show the Chief what he could do! Ah—there was the telephone now!

wheels of the bicycle were as crumpled and twisted as the body of the small boy. The police haven't reported yet who was to blame for the accident but WE know. It was the fault of all of us—the fault of modern civilization which allows cars and trucks and little lads on bicycles to ride together on the same streets. He might have been your kid—and he might have been mine. What are we going to do about it?"

Marty stopped a moment and re-read the last line. It was a funny line to end a story with, he thought—a wrong line, perhaps. The Chief might not like it. He started to change it, but he couldn't. First of all, because he couldn't think of anything else to say and then, too, because he was in a great hurry all at once. He snatched the paper from the typewriter and fairly ran to the city editor's desk.

The city editor's eyes traveled over the page. "Pretty good," he announced when he had finished reading it. "A little too much editorial flavor to it, but you've perked up Marty . . . why, where's he gone?"

For Marty Hendricks HAD gone. He had made the elevator stop and fled in the lift. He wasn't wondering how the city editor liked the story—and he wasn't caring whether the Chief liked it or not. He was remembering that there was a second-hand bicycle at his house—a bicycle that was painted red and had silvery handle bars. "Of course, there were thousands of bicycles like that in New Orleans," he told himself as the elevator stopped and let him out. But he had to be SURE . . . Sure that he and Sarah Ann still had time to take that bicycle out of circulation!

Jobs weren't important, Marty Hendricks thought as he ran along the street and hailed a passing street car. Not a bit important compared to a boy with blue eyes and rosy cheeks and a turned up nose. He could get another job—but he couldn't get another kid like Andy. Not anywhere in the whole world! And six kids weren't too many! "No, Sir," said Marty Hendricks to himself as he swung on to the car step. "Six kids are JUST EXACTLY RIGHT!"

THEY STARTED THE WHOLE AFFAIR . . . Co-authors of the much-debated labor bill which occasioned one of the hottest battles in modern congressional history are Rep. Fred A. Hartley (Rep., N. J.) OPOSSUMS FOR PLAYMATES . . . It isn't every boy who has eight opossum (or 'possum) pups for pets, possibly because it isn't every boy who would want that many. But Jimmy Harris, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris of near Geneseo, Ill., thinks it's great fun. Some of the eight are shown here as they cling to his clothing and perch on his head. They were captured, with their mother.

How to Make New Friends

We had just moved into a new house in a new neighborhood in a new town; a little Western city without any of the advantages of a more erudite community. The second day we were there she came bearing gifts, a glass of jelly she had made from wild chokecherries the autumn before.

She was just a little country woman. She had always lived there. She hadn't ever been more than fifty miles from home, had never seen a railroad train or an airplane, had been only once to the movies.

But I never met one of more cosmopolitan personality, of broader vision or of more supreme happiness. You couldn't be with her for more than an hour without catching the spirit of her infectious laugh, of her rare and rollicking good humor or some of the spirit of her amazing charm.

Yet she was a woman who had lived all her life without "advantages."

One evening as we sat on the porch I questioned her closely about her philosophy of life and the genesis of her personality. And I believe that what she told me will go with me as a source of inspiration and help as long as I live. I also believe it may likewise help you.

All her life she has merely made it a point to make a new friend of every new person who moves into the community. It was the reflection of her friendship toward others that made her eyes shine, her conversation sparkle with good fellowship and the humor that endeared her to everyone within a radius of a hundred miles. She drew you like a magnet. Her charm was irresistible.

And all she had done was to make a new friend!

I suppose in her life that some persons had taken advantage of her friendship. I suppose she had been cheated and robbed as I have, as you have. Maybe you and I have become a little bit embittered because of it. Not she. She found the new friends she won outweighed the loss of those who were faithless to her trust.

If you will assume that everyone is your friend, and try to make new social contacts every day, it will do some mysterious and very good things to your personality.

It will make your personality warm and friendly, and will draw persons to you from every walk of life.

Far better than any academic rules of psychology is the simple rule of the mountain woman which I learned as dusk fell and the rabbits came out to play. "If you want friends, you have to show folks you are a friend. I guess that is all there is to it."

From The Top of Lone Wolf Mountain

By J. W. King, Sr.

Crops all over the country are looking good, so everyone tells me. Although rain is not especially needed it would be appreciated. Most of the wheat crop has been harvested. Some yields were fairly good while others were poor, but the crop as a whole was about an average for this country. Wheat is not extensively grown here because of the nature of the land but more than 16 cars shipped from Loraine is not bad. Glen Coon and Woodrow Pratt are buying wheat and loading it with their grain loader. In previous years there was no market here for wheat because ordinarily the crop is so small. We would like to hear from those who had above an average yield this year. Cline Taylor says he would like to see a good rain. Crops are not suffering, he says, but he wants it to rain before they do suffer.

Electric fans will be working overtime for the next three months or so. The chances are they need a little oil or grease to protect their bearings and to help them through the steady grind that's coming. Take care of this lubrication job now—there's hot work ahead.

Some fans need oil—some require grease

If you are in doubt as to how to lubricate your fans—or if they need adjustments or repairs—take them to an electric appliance repair shop for oiling, greasing and a complete check-up.

Looking to the Future

We have heard thoughtless people say, "Oh, what will be the difference 100 years from now?" Well, there's another side to that question. How about 10 years from now? Or 20 years from now? Then what? Well, at that time the person who is saving, and carefully deposits and invests his money, will be on "Easy Street," that's all. We can't well look forward a hundred years, but the shorter period demands the attention of all thoughtful people.

I suppose that a lot of our citizens got some of that fishing fever out of their bones during the 4th of July and week end, and maybe even a few came back from the river, lake or swimming pool around over the country with a blistered back or a pretty good sun tan. Its nice for a holiday from work to come around although some people don't observe them or at least it looks like they don't appreciate a holiday now and then. A good days rest is really good for you, especially when you could work. That's the pleasure of a holiday is the rest you get. Holidays are few and far between with the average working people. The daily grind of the merchants is a monotonous one and for his own health's sake he should lock his doors on holidays and relax. You won't go broke for one days absence from your business. Think it over.

Seeing God in Our Present World

LESSON TEXT FOR JULY 13-JOB 38: 1-7, 16-18, 22, 26, 31, 41.

MEMORY SELECTION-The hearing ear, and the seeing eye, the Lord hath made even both of them.—Proverbs 20: 12.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By HAROLD L. LUNQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago. "THE earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein" (Ps. 24:1). The man who knows the Lord recognizes that the material and the spiritual world are both God's, and that there is in the final analysis no dividing line between the secular and the sacred.

To keep our thinking straight about the story of Job, we quote an excellent summary by Dr. B. L. Olmstead: "Our lesson today stresses the works of God as seen in nature. The longer lesson of a few chapters (Job 38-41) consists of the whole of the Lord's answer to Job out of a whirlwind after the dialogue with the three friends is completed, and after a youthful bystander, Elihu, had undertaken to give Job an answer (chs. 32-37).

"While Elihu was speaking, a storm came up and Elihu used it to portray the greatness, mystery and unsearchableness of God (ch. 37). Elihu uttered many truths, but he did not rid himself of the error that Job was suffering for his sins. When he had finished, the voice of God was heard out of the storm"-(Arnold's Commentary). We find in the selected Scriptures of our printed lesson—

I. The God of Creation (vv. 1-7). JOB'S friend Elihu had made a rather good speech, but he had missed the real point of Job's testings. So the Lord rebukes him as one who darkens counsel "by words without knowledge."

How aptly that expresses much that is going on in our day. Brilliant men, leaders in science, economics and government, but without the true knowledge which comes from a simple faith in God, are now filling this already confused world with millions of words.

Yes, words, words, words, that really darken the truth about God and his plan for the world. They flow from the radio, the press, the pulpit, from everywhere, and only add to the confusion.

God now brings Job to his feet (v. 3). He is to stand up like a man and answer God. Where was he when God laid the foundations of the world? If he is so wise, perhaps he knows how God suspended the world in space? Perchance he would like to get out his little measuring line and try to put the plans of the Almighty through the little channel of his human brain!

These are questions that the professed leaders of our day need to answer, and they need also to come (if by any chance they could humble themselves) to the place that Job did (40:4): "I will lay my hand upon my mouth."

Job is also reminded that the God of creation is also

II. The God of Life (vv. 16-18). THE God who put the springs in the bottom of the sea, and who has measured the breadth of the earth, is also the God who controls life and death.

Men have tried down through the ages to search out the secret of life, and at times they have talked as though they had discovered it. Then one discovers that they have just wrapped up their inability to fathom it in some new-scientific words, and we still have not taken that matter in our own hands.

That may well be a real blessing, for only the infinite God has the wisdom to determine the limits of man's days, and the manner of his entry into the gates of death. How good it is to leave such matters in his mighty but tender hands! That leads us to our next point. He is

III. The God of Order (vv. 22, 26, 31, 41). HE MAKES the millions of snowflakes in thousands of intricate patterns—no two alike, but all in marvelous geometric patterns. Can Job understand that—in fact, can you and I understand how he does it?

Who feeds the birds? Who keeps the stars moving in such order that man can calculate their movements down to the very minute? What about the rain, the hail, the lightning? Look at the animals and their marvelous adaptability to their surroundings.

The man who thinks all these things are the results of chance, or who talks about "the laws of nature," only reveals the utter smallness of his own mind, and his complete lack of comprehension of the Almighty God. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Curtains to be stored for a season should not be starched, for the starch may attract insects and weaken the curtain fabric.

An electric motor mounted on a stand or bench often is quite noisy, so much so that the vibrations can be felt in nearby rooms. The cure is a sound-deadening cushion of rubber or felt. Four or five rubber washers placed under the base will do the job.

In remodeling your kitchen it is a good idea to redesign it as a precautionary measure against fire. To do this be sure curtains, doors and wooden cabinets are not too close to the range.

Sprinkle cornmeal on your rugs. Let it remain for a short time and then sweep. This picks up dirt and particles imbedded in the nap.

Make your own belts. Make them in various colors to match your frocks. Put a layer of stiffening between two layers of ribbon. Sew through ribbon selvages with tiny machine stitching.

Poisons like lye, insect sprays and disinfectants should be kept on high shelves, out of children's reach.

If you'd like to preserve eggs at home by the flash heat method, proceed as follows: Dip the eggs into boiling water for five seconds, let them cool in the air, then store them carefully in cartons in a cool moist place.

If you carry stamps in your purse, fold them and slip waxed paper dividers between the gummed surface folds. Divided this way, stamps will never stick together.

Worn-out electric cords are highly dangerous. If it cannot be repaired, throw it away and get a new one at once.

You can save many steps by using a tray to carry dishes from the dining room to the kitchen.

Hallowed Sites Preserved In National Park System

WNUL Features.

National Park service has become one of the great trustees of American history and tradition. In the system of national parks today are more than 80 sites hallowed by the events that have transpired there or by deeds which have been memorialized in marble and stone.

At most of the more important sites a program of educational service to the public has been established with competent historians in charge.

Guides will be found in many of the areas as well as museums with interpretative and study collections. At other areas guide service has been supplemented or supplanted by self-explanatory maps, literature, outdoor signs and trailside exhibits.

Historic sites in the national park system fall roughly into six different groups or periods—Colonial, Revolutionary, Era of the Early Republic, War Between the States, Winning of the West and the recent Age of Industrial Expansion.

THE COLONIAL period is represented by the Castillo de San Marcos and Fort Matanzas national monuments at St. Augustine, Fla. Fort Raleigh national historic site in North Carolina, Colonial national historical park in Virginia, Fort Frederica national monument in Georgia, George Washington birthplace national monument in Virginia and Fort Mifflin national battlefield site in Pennsylvania.

The Castillo de San Marcos, moated and bastioned, was begun in the 17th century to defend the oldest settlement made by Europeans on land now included within the United States.

From the battlements of this fort today one may look across Matanzas inlet and out to sea. With a bit of imagination one may see there the proud galleons homeward bound to Spain with the treasures of Peru, or the Golden Hind, which brought Sir Francis Drake in 1586 to plunder the Spanish town, or the ships of General Oglethorpe, who in 1740 laid siege to St. Augustine.

On Roanoke island to the north, on what is now the coast of North Carolina, is the site of Sir Walter Raleigh's "lost colony." Here, each summer, is presented in pageantry the drama of the ill-fated first attempt of the English to plant a colony on the North American continent.

Still further north on Jamestown island in Virginia is the site of the first permanent English settlement. Fort Frederica national monument on St. Simon's island, Georgia, represents the English struggle with the Spanish for dominion of the South Atlantic coast.

On the banks of the Potomac river in Virginia is George Washington's birthplace national monument, and in Pennsylvania, near Farmington, a reconstructed pioneer fortification marks the site of Fort Mifflin and the scene of the opening battle of the French and Indian war.

THE GREAT Revolutionary war battlefields of Saratoga in New York and Yorktown in Virginia are included in the national park system as well as the site of Washington's winter encampments at Morristown, N. J.

Other important Revolutionary battlefield sites in the national park system are: White Plains in New York, Guilford courthouse and Moore's creek in North Carolina, Kings mountain and Cowpens in South Carolina.

LISTED AMONG the more interesting and significant sites which belong to the first 75 years of the republic are Fort McHenry national monument and historic shrine at Baltimore, Md., birthplace of the "Star Spangled Banner," the Lee mansion national memorial at Arlington, Va., which was the home of Gen. Robert E. Lee and is typical of the plantation days of the old South.

Of interest also is the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln near Hodgenville, Ky. Here at Abraham Lincoln national historical park in a magnificent memorial building is preserved what is thought to be the log cabin in which Lincoln was born.

NEARLY ALL of the great battlefields of the War Between the States are now under jurisdiction of National Park service.

By visiting them in chronological succession one may acquire a thorough understanding of the events of this vast internal struggle.

The better known battles of this war of which the sites are included in the national park system are: The first and second battles of Manassas in northern Virginia, Antietam in Maryland, Gettysburg in Pennsylvania, Shiloh in Tennessee, Vicksburg in Mississippi, Chickamauga and the Atlanta campaign in Georgia, Chattanooga in Tennessee, and Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Spotsylvania, Richmond, Petersburg and Appomattox in Virginia.

THE GREAT WESTWARD movement began long before the War Between the States and continued for many decades after. In this phase of history one finds in the national park system the Jefferson national expansion memorial at St. Louis, Mo., the Meriwether Lewis national monument in Tennessee, which contains the grave of the explorer who led the Lewis and Clark expedition through the northwest to the Pacific coast, and the Scotts Bluff national monument in Nebraska, a famous landmark on the Oregon Trail.

There are also the frontier military posts of Fort Laramie in Wyoming and Pipe Springs in Arizona, the site of the Whitman massacre in Washington and the site of Custer's last stand in Montana.

In the West also, in the Black Hills of South Dakota, is the amazing memorial carved in the granite of Mount Rushmore to the memory of the four presidents, Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt.

REPRESENTING MORE recent times are the Statue of Liberty national monument in New York harbor, the memorial at Kill Devil hill, North Carolina, marking the site of the first airplane flight by the Wright brothers, the Vanderbilt mansion and the home of Franklin D. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Representing the world of tomorrow is the proposed national monument to mark the site of the first atom bomb explosion in New Mexico.

The most recently acquired national historic site is the Adams mansion at Quincy, Mass. This mansion, a part of which dates back to 1739, has been the home of two presidents and many statesmen and writers, and its history flows continuously through the whole American scene from the earliest days of the republic to the present.

A complete list of national historic sites may be obtained by writing the Director, National Park Service, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C.

Accident Rate in Parks Soars

WASHINGTON.—Stressing the necessity for better observance by the public of safety regulations, Newton B. Drury, National Park service director, reported that the accident rate among visitors to the national park system jumped 25 per cent during the first six months of the present year.

Fatal accidents in all of the 109 areas of the national park system during 1946 totaled 28. Drury re-

Church Suppers

Although church and club activity dwindles to a minimum during these warmer months, there are still events on both calendars which require participation—and with food.

For events such as these the requirements are simple but quite important. We want a dish that is easy to make and to carry; then, too, we want something that will appeal to a number of people. We also like to bring a dish that goes pretty well with anything else that may be served.

First, there are a number of main dishes from which to choose. Any of these will put you up with the top ranking cooks of the community.

Chicken Chow Mein

(Serves 6) 2 cups cooked chicken 2 tablespoons fat or oil 2 cups thinly sliced celery 1 1/2 cups sliced peeled onions 1/2 teaspoon pepper 2 cups chicken broth 2 cups canned mixed Chinese vegetables 1/2 cup canned mushrooms 2 tablespoons cornstarch 3 tablespoons soy sauce Scallions 1 can fried noodles

Brown chicken slightly in fat; add celery, onions and pepper. Add chicken broth and cook, covered, until vegetables are tender. Add drained Chinese vegetables and mushrooms and heat to the boiling point. Mix cornstarch with soy sauce and add to hot mixture, stirring constantly. Let simmer 2 minutes or until slightly thickened. Arrange on deep platter or vegetable dish with scallions and serve with fried noodles.

Frozen Salmon Loaf

(Serves 6) 2 cups cold cooked rice 1 1/2 cups salmon, drained and flaked 1 cup cooked peas 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon paprika 1 tablespoon lemon juice 1/2 cup mayonnaise

Combine the ingredients lightly and freeze in a loaf or ring mold until firm enough to slice. Unmold on crisp greens and serve with lemon wedges.

Dutch Hot Slaw

(Serves 4) 6 cups shredded green cabbage 1 tablespoon butter 2 eggs, beaten 1/2 cup vinegar 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 1/2 tablespoons granulated sugar 1/2 teaspoon paprika 1/2 cup water 1/2 cup light cream

Cook cabbage until just barely tender. Drain, place in serving dish or casserole and keep hot. Meanwhile, melt butter in double boiler, then add eggs, vinegar, salt, sugar, paprika and water. Cook until thickened, stirring frequently. Remove from heat, add cream and beat until fluffy. Pour over hot cabbage.

LYNN SAYS: Effective Cleaning Methods Suggested

Remove brown stains from teapots by rubbing with dampened cloth to which has been added some baking soda. Wash off in warm water and dry. This prevents the shine from coming off the china.

Dishes are more sterile if you wash them in soapy suds, rinse in very hot water by pouring it over them, and let them dry on the drainboard.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

*Baked Beans with Hamburger Relishes Rolls *Dutch Hot Slaw Beverage *Frozen Fruit Salad Cookies *Recipes given.

*Baked Beans With Hamburger. (Serves 4) 2 tablespoons fat 1/2 cup sliced onions 1/2 cup diced celery 1/2 pound chuck beef, ground 2 1/2 cups canned, baked beans 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon powdered sage 1/2 cup water or tomato juice

Heat the fat in a skillet. Then add onions, celery and beef, and cook, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and heat thoroughly. Spinach, Bacon Dressing (Serves 4) 2 1/2 cups hot, cooked spinach 4 strips bacon 2 tablespoons vinegar 1 tablespoon sugar 1 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon pepper 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard

Dice bacon and saute in skillet until golden brown. Add remaining ingredients, except spinach and heat thoroughly. Then add to spinach, toss and serve at once.

Make your desserts easy but delicious by selecting one of these two:

*Frozen Fruit Salad

Meringue: 4 egg whites 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup sugar 1/2-inch baked pie shell

Blend first five ingredients. Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly until thickened, about 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Bake in a moderate (325-degree) oven until delicately browned, about 20 minutes.

A Boomerang

Balzac's profound knowledge of human nature caused the great novelist to fancy himself an expert at reading character in handwriting.

One day an old woman brought him a little boy's copybook and said, "Master, what do you think of this child's possibilities?"

Balzac studied the scrawly, untidy handwriting.

"Your child?" he asked.

"No."

"Some other relative?" he ventured.

"None at all," the woman replied.

"Well," Balzac finally pontificated, "This child is slovenly and profoundly stupid. I fear he will never amount to anything."

"But, master," the woman cried, "that copybook was your very own when you were a little boy in school."

The profound judge of human nature retired in confusion.

Benefits to Our Readers

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public.

These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.
