TESTIMONY OPENS ON LESTER PLEA

THREE PRISON SITES ARE TO BE DISPLAYED

LEGISLATURE TO HEAR PROPOSALS BEARING ON CENTRAL PLANT

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Nov. 5.—At least three sites for the proposed centralized penitentiary system will be recommended to the Legislature by the Prison Centralization commission, it developed today.

After a conference here the four members of the minority group virtually agreed to suggest two sites. Senator Nat Patton, of Crockett, and Representative H. N. Graves, of Georgetown, favor Huntsville, while Representatives A. H. King, of Throckmorton and E. T. Murphy, of Livingston, favor the Imperial farm.

The minority members returned here today after inspecting the plant at Huntsville and the Wynne farm properties yesterday. Accompanied by T. A. Munson, A. and M. college engineer, they set out today to look over the Imperial farm.

The majority faction will insist that the new plant be located within 30 miles of Austin.

Architect Secured
Senator Patton said services of an A. and M. college architect had been obtained to prepare estimates on the cost of extending the walls of the Huntsville penitentiary over an adjoining tract owned by the state and establishing the present plant.

Taking in of the adjoining tract would give the Huntsville plant an area of something over 20 acres. On that area it is proposed to incorporate industries recommended by the commission.

The minority report also contemplates rehabilitation of farm buildings, but expressions on just which ones would be so treated were indefinite. Representative Graves favors concentrating the farm on the Walker-Houston-Madison county farms.

TEXAS PEN CHIEF QUILTS HIS POST

HOUSTON, Nov. 5.—W. L. Mead, general manager of the Texas Prison system, resigned today. The State Prison board, in session here, accepted the resignation.

AUTO STOLEN FROM DEALER

RAGLAND MOTOR FIRM LOSES NEW CAR TO THIEVES HERE

Forcing an entrance, robbers early Sunday morning entered the Ragland Motor company, 1009 Avenue J, and escaped with a new single six Nash coupe. Officials of the company discovered the open door to the building and upon investigation found the car missing. No other loss was said to have been taken.

Reward Offered
A substantial reward has been offered for either recovery of the car or arrest of the thieves. Officers throughout this section have been notified of the theft and an extensive search has been instituted. At noon today, however, no trace had been found.

Warnings issued state that the thieves probably will discard dealer's license plates and replace with Lubbock county license plates which range in numbers from 708-351 to 1-164-006. Motor number of the car is 226322.

Wales To Go Back To Africa On Hunt

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The most eligible bachelor, Edward Albert, Prince of Wales, will go hunting with the new year for big game.

London papers today said he was planning to return to Africa in January to complete the tour interrupted last year when his father, King George, became seriously ill.

At St. James Palace today it was announced that with the approval of King George and Queen Mary it was planned provisionally for him to sail for Capetown January 3.

JUST A LITTLE FAMILY AFFAIR

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Both Senora Adriana Beltran De Figueroa and her husband, Senor Paul Figueroa, carried guns yesterday they quarreled. Servants in their Mexico City suburban home said in the midst of the argument Senora de Figueroa drew her gun and shot her husband in the leg.

He thereupon drew his own revolver and shot her in the heart, killing her. He is in a hospital.

MCCULLOUGH SUCCEEDS TO SENATE POST

FORMER CONGRESSMAN TO FILL BURTON'S SEAT FOR OHIO

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Former Congressman Roscoe C. McCulloch, Canton, today was appointed United States Senator from Ohio by Governor Cooper, filling a vacancy caused a week ago by the death of Senator Theodore E. Burton. McCulloch had served a year as chairman of the State Public Utilities commission.

McCulloch was born on a farm in Holmes county, Ohio, November 27, 1880. He was educated in the Millersburg, Ohio, public schools, later attended Ohio State university and was graduated from the Western Reserve law school. He was admitted to the bar from Canton, Dec. 5, 1903.

Starts in Politics
The following year McCulloch began his political career with appointment as assistant prosecutor of Stark county. Later he was prosecuting attorney and served as chairman of the Stark county Republican committee.

In his first race for Congress in 1912 he lost to John Whiteacre, democrat, by 500 votes. Despite the re-districting of the 18th district, McCulloch again ran in 1914 and won enough support in apparently democratic counties to be elected. He was re-elected in 1916 and 1918.

McCulloch was appointed a member of the Congressional committee which in 1919 investigated war expenditures. Two years later he was selected by the United States Attorney General as special prosecutor in connection with war frauds in camps and cantonments and collected approximately $14,000,000.

McCulloch aspired for the governorship in 1920 but lost the nomination.

Planes Are Used In Search For Hunter

CORPUS CHRISTI, Nov. 5.—Four airplanes, a fleet of power boats and skiffs and land parties started at daylight today on a systematic search for the body of J. C. Brim, of San Antonio, drowned when thrown into the water with two others Saturday as his boat capsized. Lt. James B. Flannery, of San Antonio, swam ashore, but Brim and Clifford H. West were drowned. West's body was recovered yesterday.

Grandjury Turns To Prisoners In Burger

STINETT, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Sam Jones and Jim Hodges, under charges of murder in connection with the assassination of last September of District Attorney John A. Holmes, faced a grand jury investigation today. No move had been made to obtain bonds for the prisoners, and District Attorney Clem Calhoun announced he would oppose any such attempt.

LAW BLACKLISTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Oklahoma supreme court today held unconstitutional a law which for the last four years has enabled public utility companies to operate under indefinite term permits upon surrender of their municipal franchises to the state corporation commission.

BULLETS FROM CAR KILL ONE, WURT ANOTHER

YOUTH IS HELD AFTER FIGHT IS ENDED BY FATAL SHOOTING

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Nov. 5.—Ferry Moses, 33, and I. J. Watkins, brothers-in-law, fell last night under pistol bullets fired from a parked automobile here. Moses died early today, and Watkins, superintendent of the city dog pound, was taken to a hospital with a shoulder wound. Michael La Tonia, 22, who said his address was "anywhere," was charged with murder.

Watkins told police he and Moses had set out to report to police that "nine men had jumped on" Moses earlier in the evening and had beaten him severely.

Moses Approaches Car
Meanwhile, police were told in a statement by Ross Zinanti, truck farmer, that the beating Moses had said he took was at the hands of a fellow card player in a game at a grocery store.

Got in Argument
Zinanti said Moses "got in an argument with a man and that the latter hit him on the jaw and knocked him down." Moses, Zinanti added, said "all right boss," got up and left.

"We got in my truck and drove to Heiner and Andrew streets. Moses saw a sedan car parked at the curb and jumped off the truck and approached the car," Watkins said.

Two Shots Fired
"I heard Moses say 'here they are,' and two shots were fired. The first shot struck me in the shoulder. The second shot struck Moses. I saw him reel and fall. I jumped from my truck and ran home."

When Watkins reached home Mrs. Watkins called an ambulance. Moses came here from Corpus Christi about three months ago and has been living with his sister, Mrs. Watkins. He was employed as a waiter in a cafe.

"Rights of Citizenship" served subject of discussion at the Lions club luncheon today noon, at Our Cafeteria, talks being made by W. H. Evans and E. L. Pitts, Dr. S. S. McKay was in charge of the program, about 50 were present and President C. F. Drexel presided.

Harry LeMaire, bandmaster of Texas Tech, with his saxophone quartet, offered several musical numbers which were well received.

C. E. Gough, chairman of the club's major activities committee, reported that work on securing a suitable location for a Lions park here was progressing in fine shape.

The park will probably be located upon the 123 acres belonging to the city, adjoining the present city park on the canyon, east of town.

Largest Bank Will Result From Merge

DALLAS, Nov. 5.—Texas will boast the largest bank in the southwest when the merger of the American Exchange National bank and the City National bank, plans for which were announced here last night, are carried out. The new institution, to use the plant of the American Exchange bank, will have total resources of $110,000,000 and deposits of approximately $85,000,000.

Search Is Started For Missing Youth

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—Police of Detroit and Windsor, Ont., have started a search for William J. Strippis, publisher of the Detroit News, who has been missing since Oct. 23.

Strippis was last seen in Windsor, where he had gone to confer with Oscar Kuhn on business. Police of Detroit and Windsor, Ont., have started a search for William J. Strippis, publisher of the Detroit News, who has been missing since Oct. 23.

ERROR OF JURY ROBS TEXAS MEXICAN OF HEALTH AND FOUR YEARS' FREEDOM

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Although it took four years of Anastasio Vargas' life, the State of Texas has not recompensed him for the time he spent in jail away from his wife and two children as their chief support.

Convicted of the murder of Louisa Garcia, Vargas was first given life imprisonment and, after his first trial was reversed and remanded by the Court of Criminal Appeals on a second hearing the jury directed that he be put to death in the electric chair.

Four hours before the death penalty was to have been executed Gov. Dan Moody granted a reprieve and later commuted the sentence of life imprisonment. A few days ago acting Gov. Barry Miller gave him an unconditional pardon.

Hamilton Defense Shaken By Hand Writing Expert

LETTERS TELLING OF WALTON THREATS ARE TESTIMONY'S BASIS

(By Associated Press)
WEATHERFORD, Nov. 5.—A handwriting expert, whose statements were not shaken despite a lengthy and grueling cross-examination, testified today as to variations in letters telling R. H. Hamilton of purported threats against his life by his son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., for whose slaying Hamilton is on trial.

The witness, W. A. Weaver, of Dallas, said letters written to Hamilton by his wife were not written in some instances with the same pen used to address the envelopes. Again he said there was a difference in inks used on some of the envelopes and letters.

Same Writer Admitted
Weaver did not deny the letters and envelopes were written and addressed by the same person, but insisted a different pen or a different ink was used, adding that he detected to him they were inscribed at different times.

On the lengthy cross-examination by R. E. Underwood, of defense counsel, the state's rebuttal witness stuck to his original theories. He said he had been an "examiner of personal documents" for nine years and prior to that time had been a penmanship teacher, once at the McKinney Business college.

The letters in question purportedly were written by Mrs. Hamilton before Walton was slain in Hamilton's Amarillo office last May 4 and while Mrs. Hamilton was in Austin with Walton's wife, Theresa Hamilton, then 17. Theresa was recovering from an appendicitis operation. Weaver did not discuss letters from Walton to Theresa which had been enclosed with Mrs. Hamilton's letters.

END OF TRIAL SEEN AT WEATHERFORD
WEATHERFORD, Nov. 5.—The state today continued its assault on the self-defense plea R. H. Hamilton has attempted to establish in his trial for murder in the slaying of his son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr.

EIGHT JURORS IN CASE ARE CHOSEN

EASTLAND, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Two more jurors, bringing the total to eight, were selected here this morning in the Clyde Thompson murder trial.

Conscientious scruples against the death penalty and "fixed" opinions as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant were offered as excuses why they should not be chosen for jury service by a number of veniremen examined.

When a recess was ordered this morning, the state had exercised six of its peremptory challenges and the defense four.

Slaton Pickers Go Back To The Field

Slaton, Nov. 5.—(Special)—With clear weather favoring them, farmers of this section of the South Plains returned Monday to their fields to resume cotton picking after more than a week's delay due to wet weather.

Estimates say that the cotton crop is now about 70 to 75 per cent harvested through this area. If good weather should continue, the crop could be gathered in two or three weeks.

Trial Date Is Set For Mix Tax Case

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Tom Mix, film cowboy, must go to trial in Federal court here February 18 to defend himself against charges of defrauding the government of more than $100,000 in connection with preparation of his income tax returns for 1923, 1926 and 1927.

He entered pleas of not guilty yesterday to an indictment charging him with making false returns to evade payment of taxes and was ordered to trial by Federal Judge William James. Mix's income, according to declarations by the government, was $346,091 in 1923; $405,020 in 1926, and $412,640 in 1927.

NEWSPAPER STORIES BROUGHT TO COURT AS DEFENSE URGES CHANGE OF VENUE FOR TRIAL

'FAIR TRIAL' IMPOSSIBLE IN LUBBOCK, CLAIM OF ATTORNEYS REPRESENTING MAN CHARGED AS WIFE-SLAYER; WITNESSES TESTIFY

BY SUTTON CHRISTIAN
Of The Journal Staff

Introducing copies of the Lubbock Daily Journal and the Lubbock Morning Avalanche as evidence, Charles C. Triplett, of the defense counsel of Schenck & Triplett, gave prominence this morning in his questioning of witnesses in 99th District court at the change of venue hearing for Clay Lester, charged with murder of his wife, to District Attorney Durwood Bradley's reported statement in an interview appearing in both newspapers.

In the statement, which Mr. Triplett read, the prosecutor was quoted shortly after the shooting as having said: "In my opinion this case is not bailable. I will fight every effort for bail through all courts if necessary. It represents the most heartless case I have investigated in years."

Editor On Stand
When asked by Mr. Triplett or the witness stand if he thought the readers of the newspapers had been influenced in forming conclusions after reading Mr. Bradley's statement, Charles A. Guy, editor of the Avalanche-Journal publications, answered: "I believe that the statement would have less credence in the minds of readers than would a statement from a disinterested party. Such would also apply to statements from the defense." He said, however, that the statement would have some influence on the average reader.

Revell Pearce Testify
Two witnesses, W. F. Revell, Lubbock insurance man, and Fred C. Pearce, local attorney, testified that prominence of discussion and publicity of the shooting has prejudiced their minds in the case. Each of the two testified that their opinions have been based on discussion heard mainly in Lubbock and Slaton. Mr. Bradley obtained negative answers when he asked each if he has heard general discussion in small communities in Lubbock county, outside of Lubbock and Slaton.

Mr. Revell stated that he did not believe, judging from discussion heard, that a fair and impartial

CHEST DRIVE LEADER HERE

WILL MAKE ANALYSIS OF CONDITION IN CITY SOON

Analysis of Lubbock's needs and shaping of campaign plans will occupy attention this week of John L. Irwin, campaign director of the American City Bureau, he announced this morning, after arriving in this city last night to direct the community chest plan here.

Mr. Irwin will be in this city five weeks.

"At this time I am unable to announce what plans will be and how they will be executed," said Mr. Irwin. "I hope to be able to meet with the board of directors of the organization within a short time and at the time we will plan for the immediate future. A permanent headquarters must be selected, together with working committees."

"The second week will be devoted to selection of leadership, while education and instruction will follow in the third and fourth weeks, respectively, with the campaign being conducted the fifth week."

AID IS GIVEN TO VOLCANO VICTIMS

GUATEMALA CITY, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The government and the Red Cross has redoubled efforts to give relief to the 300 victims of the violent eruption of the Volcano Santa Maria, 70 miles northwest of here. The official death list today stood at 20.

The volcano suddenly began violent eruption of sand and lava Sunday which continued Monday, although with somewhat diminished force. A stream of lava ran down the course of the Samalea river causing suffocating heat in the district around Quetzaltenango, Retalhuleu, and Macalangenango. Property damage in the El Palmar area was estimated at $1,000,000.

SOCIETY ON HAND FOR OPENING NIGHT OF CHICAGO'S FINE NEW OPERA HOME

BY CHARLES E. HONCE

Associated Press News Editor
CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (AP)—The shining dream of Chicago music lovers became triumphant reality last night in the gala opening of the Civic opera in its monumental $20,000,000 skyscraper home in Wacker drive.

On a site where less than a century ago wolves layed at the moon on the marshy flats along a lonely little stream cutting windswept prairie, has appeared this 45 story tower of marble, gold steel and bronze to provide the vocal city with the most luxurious and sophisticated home of song.

"Aida" Is Opus
Every tradition and tie with the past was broken tonight, save one—the selection of Verdi's melodious and gorgeous operatic masterpiece, "Aida," as the premiere offering. The opera, which was the first permanent opera company to 1910 again it was the first offering of the present Civic opera company in 1929, and the most brilliant first night audience that ever assembled in Chicago's Civic Opera House.

IN PAIN, WEAK, NERVOUS, CROSS

But After Taking Cardui, Lady Says She Feels "Better Than In Years."

Huntville, N. C.—"Since I took Cardui, I am no longer bothered with weak, nervous spells," says Mrs. Sam Langhron, of this place. "For about fifteen years, I suffered from weakness. Sometimes it grew so bad I had to go to bed. I did not have strength enough to walk around the house. I was constantly complaining, and was as nervous and cross as I could be. My back and sides ached, and I was very low-spirited. I tried two or three things that were suggested to me, but they did not seem to help. "Someone said 'Try Cardui' and told me how other women had been helped by it. I consented to 'take it for a while. Shortly I began to feel stronger. I was hungry at mealtime, and much less nervous. "This pleased me so much that I continued taking Cardui for several months, and at the end of that time I felt better than I had in years. I slept well and had a good appetite. Cardui may help you, too."

tonight read like the social register and included the Samuel Insull, Mrs. Rockefeller, McCormick, the Arthur Meekers, Mrs. Edward Hines, the John F. Jelks junior and senior, Mrs. Jacob Bauer, the Martin A. Meyersons and the Cyrus Hall McCormicks. Not only was Chicago society represented, however, for many points in the east and middle west came representatives of the social order.

For society likewise there was a new setting in the old rose and gold interior of the opera auditorium. Gone was the golden horseshoe of the old auditorium theatre, which was silent tonight after forty years of opera openings. The new posture of the elite already has been termed the golden crescent, as it reaches only across the back of the main floor and not around the sides. In fact there are no side boxes whatever in this modern operatic master, each of the 3,000 seats of the first floor, dress circle and balcony facing the full stage.

Whichever drive, Chicago's spacious boulevard skirting the Chicago river and on which the huge Corinthian columns of the opera building give, bustling with activity as the world of society, business and music was discharged at the operatic center.

ABILENE RAILWAY GRANTED CHARTER

AUSTIN, Nov. 5 (AP)—The Abilene and Eastern Railway company, with a capital stock of $400,000 and headquarters at Abilene, was granted a charter yesterday for the purpose of constructing a line of railroad 45 miles long, extending from Abilene to Cross Plains. It would connect with a branch of the main line of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railway company at Cross Plains.

Officers of the company are Frank Kell, of Wichita Falls, president; C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, vice-president; C. M. Bacon, Abilene, secretary; and W. G. Swenson, Abilene, treasurer. Other stockholders are J. M. Radford, George L. Paxton, J. M. Alexander, W. J. Fulwiler, Will A. Munier, Jr. and Geo. S. Anderson, all of Abilene.

The line would extend in a southeasterly direction from Abilene in Taylor county to Cross Plains in Tarrant county.

Dallas Cotton Men Silent On Charges

DALLAS, Nov. 5 (AP)—Directors of the Dallas cotton exchange committee yesterday refused to comment on the charges of Congressman Wright Patterson, of Texas, that the exchange by its methods of listing cottonseed prices was keeping the price a secret.

Patterson said that the system of the exchange in listing the price as "average" was an attempt to keep the price secret and advocated that the newspapers in various parts of the state print the actual prices paid the producers there.

STORY OF RESCUE IN FROZEN NORTH TOLD BY SURVIVORS

EXPLORES GUIDED TO TRADING POST BY ESKIMOS AFTER LONG SEARCH

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 5.—Radio messages from the isolated Arctic trading post of Cambridge bay on Victoria island today told of the battle against the frozen north waged for two months by eight aerial prospectors before their discovery by wandering Eskimos.

The party, headed by Colonel G. D. H. McAlpine, president of Dominion Explorers, Ltd., had been missing since Sept. 8, when they took off from Baker Lake, Manitoba, in two airplanes on a prospecting trip. News of their rescue, tersely told by Jack McKinnon, amateur operator at Cambridge Bay, brought to an end the greatest man hunt ever conducted in the north. A half dozen planes, a supply ship and land parties were engaged in a search which covered more than 12,000 miles.

McAlpine in a message to headquarters of Dominion explorers here, said they had become lost in the Arctic fog and had landed in the sea. After taking off from Baker Lake on Sept. 8, they landed safely that night at Beverly Lake, the halfway point on their projected 500-mile flight to Bathurst inlet. They waited a day for the weather to clear and then took off again on the 10th, but soon realized they were lost in a fog.

Gas Runs Out
After flights for hours over open waters of the Arctic in search of landmarks, the gas supply of the two planes became exhausted as dusk was falling and a successful landing was made in the water.

With the greatest difficulty they pulled their heavy pontoon-equipped planes ashore on a sandy beach and erected a rude shelter about their planes and built a fire. The next day they set about finding their way back to civilization, but despite a more widespread search each day they were unable to find any sign of human habitation.

Eskimos Help
As they were almost abandoning hope, three wandering Eskimos arrived at their camp, attracted by the fire which they had kept burning night and day. They acquainted the Eskimos of their plight.

and the latter agreed to lead them to the nearest settlement. Taking only such food from their planes as they would absolutely need, the prospectors set out on their overland journey. Footsore and exhausted they reached the Hudson's Bay company trading post on Victoria island last Sunday.

TRAIN IMPROVED

Church Groups Hold Regular Sessions On Tuesday Afternoon

Methodists Hold Initial Program of Prayer Week; Other Societies Meet

Members of local church societies held their regular meetings here Monday afternoon. Some were strictly business sessions, some were "seasoned by devotional programs, and still others were concluded with social hours.

The Methodists, Baptists, Christians and Presbyterians gathered in their respective churches, while the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church held their meeting in the home of Mrs. T. W. Thomas, and the St. Anne's Altar society of the Catholic church joined in a business session at the home of Mrs. F. J. Quinlan.

Programs for Week of Prayer were initiated at the First Methodist church and will continue each afternoon during the week.

The program was in charge of Mrs. J. C. Orr and centered around the subject, "Through Revelation of God's Goodness."

Mrs. R. E. Dunn led the devotion and Mrs. D. B. Deak spoke on "Meditation on the Goodness of God." Other topics discussed were "Acts of Piousness," by Mrs. Pink Parrish and Mrs. C. D. Powell, and "An Answered Prayer" by Mrs. J. D. Peen. Mrs. R. T. Campbell gave the story of Mariah Long.

A vocal selection, "The Old Rugged Cross," was rendered by Mrs. O. B. Trinkle, with Mrs. W. C. Rylander, at the piano.

Saint Anne's Altar Society Meets

Plans were made for a benefit bridge party to be given at the home of Mrs. D. Z. Dobyns, 1105 18th street, when Saint Anne's Altar society met with Mrs. P. J. Quinlan, 1917 Dixie Drive. The party will be given the latter part of next week.

Business Meeting Is Held In Home

The Auxiliary of Saint Paul on the Plains Episcopal church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. W. Thomas, 1508 Avenue N. There were twelve present.

After routine business matters had been attended to, plans were made, concerning the coming of Mrs. T. K. Wade who is secretary of the Boy Scout department of Home Missions with national headquarters in New York city. She will be in Lubbock from November 13 to 15.

Mrs. J. C. Warner Is Teacher

Mrs. C. J. Warner brought the latest for members of the Bible study class of the First Presbyterian church. The first ten chapters of Jeremiah were discussed.

A telephone play entitled "Buffy You're Been Troubled," was produced recently in London.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

I smile and sigh when I read the ardent letters of my young correspondents of 16 and 17 with their confidences of love affairs. They are so sure that THEIRS is no puppy love, but the genuine article which will last all through life, and which they can not possibly wait until they are what their elders call "a suitable age" to marry.

In such cases their parents seem like hard-hearted tyrants trying to separate two fond young hearts.

They are scandalized if you suggest that this love that consumes them is a physical attraction rather than a more spiritual emotion. But marriage soon decides that for them, and then they are SO unhappy. They are too young and some one should have prevented them from marrying, they wail.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I know the question I am about to ask has been asked and answered over and over again, but, of course, everyone thinks their case is different.

"I am a young married woman of 20. I've been married two years, but, Virginia Lee, I realized that my husband and I were not suited soon after we were married. He is very disagreeable, doesn't like to take me out, and he leaves me at night without letting me know where he is going, and expects me to stay at home waiting for him.

"I met a man in the last three months that I know I would be happy with. He wants me to leave with him. I have no children. Should I leave?"

KITTY.

Two years ago, Kitty, you thought you could be perfectly happy with the man who is now your husband, didn't you? And no one could tell you that you were not congenial and that your love would not last. How can you tell that this other man will be a husband to you? Maybe he will be no more satisfactory as a husband than the man you are now married to.

And, besides, didn't you promise when you were married that you would cherish your husband through sickness and health, and, leaving all others, cleave only unto him? Is this your idea of keeping that promise? Or did you only promise because it was part of the ceremony you had to go through with, and without meaning it at all?

I think that you should make every effort to make your marriage successful. Failing that, you should divorce him, if you have any grounds, and then, after thinking things over carefully, think about a second marriage.

If you just leave with this man you say you love, your reputation will be ruined and your husband can get the divorce.

PAL: If the boy likes you and wants to meet you he will get the girl to introduce him to you, and when you know him you will probably know what to talk to him about.

DOLLY DIMPLES: Keep right on leaving mother to let you go to the party with the others until she weakens. That usually works. If she doesn't, you'll have to be patient until she thinks you are old enough to go out.

LONELY WILLOW: I think you would be very foolish to leave home because your parents do not approve of the boy friend. If he is all you think he is time will prove it. If you leave I am sure you will deeply regret it. Yes, a girl has to be 18 to be married without her parent's consent. They could have it annulled if she was not that age.

UNHAPPY BLUE EYES: If the man really loves you he will get a legal separation from his wife and marry you, as he has not lived with her for so long. If he cannot or will not do this, he is not the man for you.

STRIKE DEATH ARRESTS MADE

GASTONIA MURDER HAS NEW ANGLE; WOMAN'S SLAYER IS KNOWN

GASTONIA, N. C., Nov. 5.—Promises of sheriff's officers they will produce witnesses to identify the man who shot Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, Bessemer City, N. C., cotton mill striker, held attention today in the investigation of the slaying during mob disorders here last September.

One of the sixteen men arrested on bench warrants yesterday as Judge P. A. McElroy of the superior court bench began an inquiry into the killing was named by officers as the man they had been told fired the shot which struck Mrs. Wiggins.

Specifically charging them with conspiracy to murder, the warrants asserts the 16 were members of a mob which on September 14 attacked a group of National Textile Workers union members who were en route here from Bessemer City to attend a union meeting. Mrs. Wiggins was killed by a shot fired from the mob.

Those arrested were Horace Wheeler, L. H. Thompson, E. F. Haney, W. Holbrooks, Roy Carver, Howard West, George Fowler, Theodor Simms, Troy Jones, O. H. Lundford, Lowrey Davis, W. M. Borders, Jack Carver, L. M. Scosson, Fred Morrow and Yates Gamble. All are employees of the Manville-Jencks company's Lory mill here at which the National Textile Workers union called an unsuccessful strike last spring. Bond for all was furnished by the bond.

DYNAMITE IS FOUND

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5 (P.)—Attempts to blow up street cars were the centers of attention today in the carmen's strike situation. While the state courts barred operations of jitneys and federal court investigated a group of National Textile Workers union members who were en route here from Bessemer City to attend a union meeting. Mrs. Wiggins was killed by a shot fired from the mob.

After hanging for nearly 450 years in the tower of the Heytesbury church, near Westminster, England, a one-ton bell has just been taken down to be recast.

EXPLANATION FROM NAVAL OFFICER IS EXPECTED TO CLEAR "DISAPPEARANCE"

(By Associated Press)

BREMERTON, Wash., Nov. 5.—Rear Admiral H. J. Ziegmeier, commandant of the Puget Sound yard, today awaited an explanation from Lieut. Harold W. Northcutt that would clear up mystery veiling his disappearance from Norfolk, Va., two weeks ago.

A request for an explanation was made yesterday by Rear Admiral Ziegmeier at the instance of the navy department, after Lieut. Northcutt had been detained for several hours at the navy yard here without volunteering any explanation of his disappearance from Norfolk and his reappearance Sunday in Vancouver, B. C.

No Charges Filed

Norcutt came voluntarily to Bremerton from Vancouver and has been detained at the navy yard here on orders from Washington. So far as is known no formal charges have been filed against him.

The lieutenant steadfastly refused to accept counsel from fellow naval officers who offered their assistance. He would not discuss his case with them.

Dispatches from Vancouver quoted Mrs. Sarah Gibson, apartment house proprietor, as having advised authorities that Northcutt came to her place a week ago with a young woman and rented an apartment. Two cards, bearing the name of Miss Laura Clements and showing she was a nurse in good standing at the University of New York, were found among personal effects in the apartment.

Reports from naval officers at Norfolk indicated a medical examining board would be appointed to observe Lieutenant Northcutt.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 5 (P.)—Approximately 1,700 sheep were killed in a fire of undetermined origin, which destroyed sheep pens at the stock yards in South St. Joseph yesterday. Damage to pens was estimated at between $20,000 and $50,000 and loss to owners of the sheep, a commission firm, was placed at $20,000.

Chairman W. A. Padcock said no successor would be chosen at this meeting, but Lee Simmons of Sherman, it was learned unofficially, had been under consideration to fill Mead's place.

HAND-WRITING EXPERT TAKES WITNESS STAND IN ATTORNEY'S MURDER TRIAL

At last May 4. Through a handwriting expert, the prosecution attacked the authenticity of letters purporting to have been written to Hamilton by his wife, then at Austin, during several weeks preceding the homicide.

The first witness, W. A. Weaver, of Dallas, said he had been an "Examiner of personal documents" for nine years.

Stamped On Pencil
District Attorney Edward Thompson handed the witness a letter. Mrs. Hamilton had written to her husband in pencil, asking whether the letter had been inscribed with the same pencil used for addressing the envelope. Weaver said, since the writing was done in pencil, he could not determine.

A second letter, also from Mrs. Hamilton to her husband, dated April 8, then was handed to the witness, and he said the letter had been written and the envelope addressed with different pens.

Weaver said the letter had been written with a stub pen, the lines about one-fiftieth of an inch in width, while the width of lines on the envelope, about one-hundredth of an inch, indicated it had been addressed with a fine pointed pen.

Pens Do Not Match
Weaver examined a letter dated April 12 from Mrs. Hamilton to her husband. That letter, he said, was written with a stub pen, and the envelope addressed with a fine point pen.

The fourth, he said, was written with a stub pen while the envelope was addressed with a "small, round-pointed pen."

Tests showed different inks were used on the envelope and in the fifth letter, the witness declared, while the envelope and the sixth letter were written with different pens as was the case with the seventh letter and envelope.

Knows His Pens
Thompson had Weaver compare the writing on six envelopes, all of which the witness said had been written with the same pen, while a different pen was used for the seventh. One letter differed from the six. Weaver declared, in that it had been written with a fine pointed pen while the others were written by a stub.

An eighth letter was written with the same pen as its envelope but with "different ink; or the same ink in a different condition," Weaver declared.

The witness told how he used chemicals to restore the original color of ink and the letters were exposed to a cardboard and passed to the jury for examination.

TELEPHONE GIRL ON STAND FOR STATE

WEATHERFORD, Nov. 5 (AP)—About "three or four days" before Tom Walton, Jr., 21, was shot to death in his father-in-law's Amarillo law office, R. H. Hamilton had a telephone conversation with his brother, Dexter, about a "divorce," a telephone operator said here today in Hamilton's murder trial.

The operator, Mary Wright, said she was working in the Amarillo long distance office when R. H. Hamilton placed a call to his brother in Dallas. The call completed, she declared she listened in for a moment to see whether the line was all right and heard "some mention either Tom or Theresa."

Testimony Attacked
Theresa was Hamilton's 17-year-old daughter whom Walton married Feb. 10 while both were students at the University of Texas. Hamilton as a witness had testified he did not know Theresa and Tom were married and that he killed Walton May 4 to protect himself.

The witness declared: "The Hamilton in Amarillo said: 'What shall we do about the divorce?' The Hamilton in Dallas said: 'I wouldn't do anything about the divorce. Just keep it quiet for a while.'"

She Listened In
Latter, Miss Wright testified, she listened in just as the call was about to be completed and heard the Hamilton in Dallas say:

"You had better watch your step, or you'll get into something it won't be so easy to get out of."

The state at the noon recess had presented 24 rebuttal witnesses. It was expected arguments would begin tomorrow.

Brookhart related that when he arrived at the hotel meeting place the first person he saw was Otto Kahn.

"It didn't occur to me that he was much of a friend of Norris and LaPointe," he continued, "but I went on."

The Iowa picked up the program of the dinner with the list of guests, but he did not read it. He remarked there were a number of "Wall Streeters" there.

Senator Thomas of Idaho later reached over to Brookhart's desk to take a look at the program and Brookhart halted his speech to declare "get away from there." Both he and Thomas laughed.

DAWES COMES HOME TO TALK

AMBASSADOR TO GIVE PRESIDENT 'INSIDE' ON ARMS PARLEY

(The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Visiting Washington for the first time since he assumed his duties as ambassador to Great Britain, Charles G. Dawes brought to President Hoover today an intimate account of the recent naval arms limitation negotiations with the London government.

With Mrs. Dawes, the ambassador is to be a White House guest for the next three days, and before his departure on Thursday night, it is confidently expected he and Mr. Hoover will go thoroughly into all phases of the naval conference to be held at London in January, at which Dawes will be one of the American delegates.

Other Talks Scheduled
There will be conferences, too, with Secretary Stimson, who will head the American delegation, and possibly with Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, who will hold places on the American tariff commission.

In the light of the naval limitation situation, considerable interest is being manifested in the address which the president will deliver on Armistice day at a gathering sponsored by the American legion. It is expected the speech will deal largely with foreign affairs, with particular attention to naval armaments.

At the conclusion of his stay here Mr. Dawes will proceed to New York and sail shortly for London.

MacDonald Reports On American Trip
LONDON, Nov. 5 (AP)—Reporting on his American mission to discuss naval limitation, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today told the House of Commons the success of the London five-power conference in January was the next objective of England and America. He declared "the desire to make it clear to everyone that in our mutual relations the Paris pact of peace is a reality" was the supreme pact in the Anglo-American naval negotiations.

Texas Constable Is Charged With Death
SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 5 (AP)—Duke Carver, constable of Bexar county, was taken to Laredo today by Deputy Sheriffs S. C. Speer and K. A. N. Flores to answer to a murder indictment returned there in connection with the kidnapping and slaying on June 7, 1922, at Laredo of General Lucio Blanco, Carrancista follower.

Dallas Burglaries Solved By Arrest
DALLAS, Nov. 5 (AP)—Police today believed they had solved at least 50 burglaries here during the past four weeks with the arrest of a man, and recovery of a number of stolen articles, in possession of his relatives. Officers estimated his operations had netted him approximately $3,000 in money and jewelry. He was living in an elaborate apartment.

Huntsville, Nov. 5 (AP)—An inspection of the main prison plant here with a view to recommending it as the nucleus of the proposed centralized system was conducted here yesterday by the four members of the State Prison Centralization commission.

RAPS D. A. R. FROM BOSTON PULPIT

Rev. Dr. William L. Slidger, pastor of the Copley Methodist Episcopal church of Boston, who, from his pulpit, has attacked the Daughters of the American Revolution as "one of the greatest organized menaces to world harmony and peace," is shown above. Threats of the D. A. R. to sue him for slander failed to stop his attacks.

PACIFIC'S LARGEST LINER AGROUND

The largest liner plying the Pacific Ocean—the Empress of Canada—is shown in this striking photo after it had piled on the rocks at Homer Bay, near Albert Head, British Columbia, during a dense fog. One hundred passengers were removed in safety, but the vessel was damaged to the extent of about $1,000,000. The steamer had just returned to Pacific service after being overhauled in England.

PERMIT IS ISSUED
One small permit was issued this morning at the city hall to bring Lubbock's building total valuations for the month of November to $1,165, for 3 permits. The total for the year stands at $3,071,649, representing 545 permits.

Today's permit went to J. C. Thompson for the moving of a residence from the corner of Avenue 10 and 10th street to 508 Avenue O at a cost of $115.

NEWSPAPER STORIES USED BY LESTER DEFENSE IN CHANGE OF VENUE PLEAS

jury could be had for the trial in this city. When questioned by the prosecuting attorney, Revell said that he had heard no opinions expressed in Estacado, Grovesville, County Line, New Hope, Carlisle and other rural communities in the county.

Mr. Pearce testified that no part of discussion he had heard expressed anything favorable to Lester. "I do not believe that he could receive a fair and impartial trial in Lubbock, Slaton or any of surrounding towns or communities where newspapers have given publicity to the case."

Brewer Gives Testimony
J. H. Brewer, Slaton banker, testified that he had heard very little discussion of the case, as did P. V. Williams, Lubbock tire dealer. "Some of those whom I've heard discussing the case have said that it looks like Lester is guilty, while others have said they didn't know much about the case," said Williams.

Sutton Christian, of the Lubbock Daily Journal staff, testified that discussion he has heard has been limited to new sources in his daily contacts. He said that he did not know the general sentiment in the county.

State Witnesses Called
The court recessed from 12 o'clock until 1:30 p. m. and then resumed the hearing. After R. W. Walker, local contractor, had testified that he had heard five or six persons discuss the case and all had been unfavorable toward the defendant, the defense rested and the state began calling its witnesses.

As The Journal went to press Mrs. Flora Green Atchison, district court clerk, Sheriff Wade Hardy and R. T. Williams, Slaton, had been summoned by the state. All three said they had heard little discussion of the case and Mrs. Atchison, in response to a question propounded by Special Prosecutor George Dimmett, said she knew of no reason why Lester could not secure a fair trial in Lubbock county.

Indications were that the hearing might be completed this afternoon.

NORTH-SOUTH, EAST-WEST CLASHES HOLD SPOTLIGHT

HOLIDAY TILT WITH CATS IS NEXT ON CARD

BROTHERS, CRITES AND VINZANT UNABLE TO PRACTICE MONDAY

A letter comes to this department from "A Bunch of Matador Fans" who appear to have plenty to say about the very important detail of signing names. It is left to the columns here always being willing to reprint letters of public interest and importance, but since the announcement was made that all communications must be signed, the numbers have dropped off considerably.

We can never appreciate a fan letter, no matter what the subject, unless it is signed. The fan who signs his name is the one who is really interested in the game. If the name, or names, accompany the letter, it can be taken as a sure sign that the author means business. Such a letter deserves to be printed. The letter signed "A Bunch of Matador Fans" will be printed immediately after we receive the names of these ardent fans who have such high hopes for local football. Send in your names and the letter will appear.

The week's schedule in the Southwestern Conference centers around the Texas-Baylor clash at Austin. The game, which is the first of the conference, is being played at the home of the Longhorns. The possibility of winning their second consecutive conference crown and an expected crowd of 20,000 give the Longhorns everything to fight for. The powerful team made a fine showing in the game against the Bears.

On paper, Baylor holds a slight edge over Texas. The Bears have won the last two years of the series. The Longhorns, however, have won the last three years of the series. The game is expected to be a close one. The Bears have a strong offensive, while the Longhorns have a strong defense.

The S. M. U. Mustangs, triumphant in the Texas-Baylor game, are expected to be a strong team. The Mustangs have won the last two years of the series. The game is expected to be a close one. The Mustangs have a strong offensive, while the Longhorns have a strong defense.

Following their second consecutive Southern Conference triumph, the Mustangs are expected to be a strong team. The Mustangs have won the last two years of the series. The game is expected to be a close one. The Mustangs have a strong offensive, while the Longhorns have a strong defense.

Matador fans had tough sailing Saturday with two losses and a pair of backs leading every play around the wing or outside tackle. But in spite of this, Vincent still showed through on several occasions to appear the ball loose.

Amarillo football fans who are howling that the Eagles were "off" Saturday in the fringe with the Westerners are right insofar as the expression itself is concerned. The Eagles were "off" any number of times at the game. They were "off" when they were off their feet most of the time and on no occasion was this caused by stumbling. They were "off" when they were "off" and "off" when they were "off".

Lubbock is facing a tough customer in its next conference battle with the Wichita Coyotes. The Coyotes are expected to be a strong team. The game is expected to be a close one. The Coyotes have a strong offensive, while the Longhorns have a strong defense.

A cold north wind greeted the Matadors Monday afternoon as they came back to their home field to resume training activities for the engagement here next Monday with the Abilene Christian College Wildcats.

Three regulars were missing from practice yesterday as the Crimson crew started preparations for the "Wildcat" invasion. Although none were seriously injured in the Baylor fray, Dennis Vinzant, stellar Matador end, is suffering from the renewal of an old knee injury that may keep him out of the lineup for some time.

Woodridge Breaks Nose
Harold Crites, with a bad ankle, turned in the Bruin combat Saturday. Woodridge is also nursing a sprained ankle, but was able to get out on the field Monday, although not in uniform. Charlie Woodridge, received a broken nose, but continued to work with the club.

The November 13 encounter on Tech field will bring together two grid rivals of long standing. Last year the Bears caught the Matadors napping and made away with a 7 to 0 victory. Coach Buzz Morris' expectation will find a determined Tech eleven out to avenge the 1928 defeat and gain some prestige lost in previous years.

Weather Aids Pep
Monday afternoon's session found the Matadors down to serious work in "perfecting an offense for the coming T. A. A. game. A long signal drill occupied the greater part of the two-hour workout. The cold wind which blows across the field gave impetus to the practice.

Westerners Take Second Day Of Well-Earned Rest

NO INJURIES RECEIVED IN SANDIE MIX, IS COACH'S REPORT

Lubbock High school gridiron stars are due for their second successive day of rest today before they start back Wednesday afternoon on the training grid for the remaining three games of the season. Former mentors announced full rehearsals for Monday and Tuesday, following the hard tussle with Amarillo last Saturday, but will start work tomorrow to prepare for the visit of the Wichita Falls Coyotes here Nov. 16.

No Serious Injuries
The local high school gridiron stars emerged from their tussle with the Sandie team with no serious injuries, but the squad was in sore need of rest, following the extended grind in preparation for the crucial District One battle and the hard game itself.

Head Coach Henry E. Friska had no comment to make on the game Saturday other than the statement: "I suppose that we just weren't supposed to win that game." May Change Date
Negotiations are under way to move up the date for the Lubbock-Wichita fray to Friday, Oct. 15, from Saturday. This will allow more business men of the city to witness the game. Local school authorities believe change in the date is pending an answer from Coach Barry Holton of Wichita Falls, who has been queried on the matter.

Wichita's triumph over the Vernon Lions last week stamps the Coyote eleven as one of the most dangerous in the district. Lubbock coaches are facing the problem of preventing a let-down, following the hard scrap with Amarillo. Practically eliminated from the race for district championship, the Westerners are gunning now for another second place in the district struggle. Three teams, Wichita, Vernon and Pleasant, must be hurdled before the performance of 1928 can be repeated.

Rees Looked Good
Whatever his lapses in judgment, however, Rees proved himself much of a football player otherwise. His 50 yard run on the opening kickoff was a thing of beauty. He is destined any time he gets hold of the ball and a deadly interferer.

BAYLOR SCOUTS THERE
Coach Morley Jennings of Baylor and one of his assistants, Carey Deich, saw the battle and took down copious notes in preparation for this week's fray with the Longhorns at Austin. The Bruin mentor was not at all downcast because his team lost to Centenary the previous Saturday. "It was what they needed. We will be ready for Texas."

ELEVEN FROM FAR OFF WILL MIX SATURDAY

TEN INTERSECTIONAL GAMES CARDED FOR THIS WEEK

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Ten intersectional games mark the east's football card on Saturday, but only four can be classed as of any importance to other than the combatants.

The two most important contests will be played in the middle west where Army tangles with Illinois and Harvard plays Michigan. In the west, West Virginia takes on Detroit, and New York university attempts to check Georgia's Bulldogs.

Should Be Close
All these battles should be close. Army, despite a tie with Harvard and a defeat by Yale, will be primed for the Illinois, whose hopes of a third Big Ten title went a-glittering last week against Northwestern Michigan. In the midst of a bad season, may find Harvard too tough but Harvard will know it has been in a fight. Georgia appears to pack too much power for New York university, which has been absorbing beatings with great frequency. West Virginia may take too much pounding in the Fordham game today to withstand the charges of Lloyd Brasil and other Detroit stars on Saturday.

The other intersectional games full and will attract fans from every section of the state.

WEEK ON PASSING
Statistics on the Baylor-Texas Tech game indicate the Bears will have to depend on their running attack against Texas this week. Fourteen carries were attempted against the Matadors and only three completed. Neither did the Longhorns' overhead game look overly strong against S. M. U. The ends were able to get in the clear repeatedly, but Shelly and Rees were passing too far.

BROWNSVILLE PRAISED
The big noise in state high school circles right now is the Brownsville Eagles. By overwhelming Brackenridge of San Antonio, 64 to 0, the Valley eleven ran its record to 183 points to opponents' none in three district games. Honors in the eighth district practically have been conceded to the Eagles. Amarillo, by defeating Lubbock, virtually sewed up the district 1 title. None of the other six districts are that far progressed.

JIMMY McLARNIN ADMINISTERS SWEET LACING TO CHAMPION SAMMY MANDELL

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Jimmy McLarnin may not become the next world welterweight champion but he has accomplished something. The present holder of the title, Jackie Fields, found too difficult a task. McLarnin enhanced his standing as the foremost contender for the welterweight crown last night at the Chicago stadium where he gave Sammy Mandell, ruler of the world's lightweights, a thorough beating, winning a decision at the end of 10 rounds.

JIMMY McLARNIN

Fields attempted to conquer Mandell about a year ago, and received a fine boxing lesson. Sammy's First Loss
Mandell gave McLarnin a lacing a year ago last summer when the Baby Face from Vancouver, B. C. attempted to lift the lightweight title, but last night found that at 143 3-4 pounds McLarnin was too tough for even his marvelous boxing ability. It was the first decisive Mandell has ever lost, and was his first real defeat since he was knocked out by Joey Sangor, in 1928, when he was just getting started as a major performer.

Mandell gave away six pounds to the slugger from Vancouver, B. C. and the handicap was too great. McLarnin who was too strong, and too aggressive was credited with six rounds, while Mandell who entered the ring the favorite, was given but two.

Newark Club Takes Pittsburgh Rookie

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 5 (AP)—The Newark Baseball club of the International league has announced the outright purchase from Pittsburgh of the National league of Willis B. Windle, first baseman. The purchase price was not announced. Windle was farmed out by the Pirates last year to Omaha of the Western league.

Tech Riflemen To Enter Big Tourney

Two Texas Technological college rifle teams will be entered next February in the Hearst trophy pistol match, one of the outstanding intercollegiate competitive exhibitions in the United States, it was announced here last night. Schools in the match are divided into three groups, while the entire country is divided into four sections. The winning team in each division will be given a trophy cup with five medals, also a trip to Washington. Every school is allowed to enter as many teams as desired.

SLATON, Nov. 5.—According to William A. Wilson, secretary of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, Lamesa is planning to bring 500 football fans to Slaton for the annual football game between the Slaton Tigers and the Lamesa Tornadoes.

An agreement has been signed by the executive committee of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce that, if Lamesa sends a special train here for Monday's game, Slaton will send a special to Lamesa for the annual tilt there next year. This was announced by T. A. Worley, Jr., chairman of the committee.

Dare to Live In Vain

A Poet's Advice to Girls

By HELEN WELSHIMER

"DARE to live in vain!" Emily Dickinson, a poetess who lived a long time ago, once wrote these words to a little child. Those who read them gasped that the poetess should give such advice to anyone. Life was real, life was earnest and a few other sombre adjectives, they reflected, and Emily didn't know what she was talking about!

But it was because they didn't understand. Emily Dickinson merely meant that the child should seek a life which would count more than the three score years and ten of those who knew only common, humdrum ways. Life, as she was trying to say, consists of more than chairs to dust and beds to make and dishes to wash. Those who dare to live in vain do not fret continually because the living room carpet has a worn spot or the neighbors have a new radio.

Women who really live have heard the call of a purple road when dusk blows across the hills, have found secrets in sleepy pansy faces and the hollows where early violets blossom, and have come to realize the beauty of bare trees in silhouette against the snowy skies and the call of the drums of spring when winter is passed. They have learned that it is better to have a song chasing itself around in one's mind and a rose on the dining room table than a priceless rug and food as sumptuous as Daniel's palace back in Babylon.

THOSE who have taken the advice of the poetess, literally, instead of making it over to suit their own inclinations, know that sometimes it is better to buy a gay hat than new tea towels, for the old towels will wipe the plates and platters dry, but a new hat adds wonderfully to the zest of living. They know that it is better to have lamp light and hearth glow and an hour or two for dreaming than a kitchen floor that is scrubbed immaculately and furniture made according to the latest—or oldest—style.

Most women and girls take themselves and life too seriously and wonder why they lead brown-flannel, out-meat existences. Every girl is given the same shining coin with which to make her purchases when life opens her market place—but oh, what a variety in the things different girls carry home in the brown paper packages, once they have made those purchases and become women!

Maybe the child who received Miss Dickinson's card tore it up right away, as her mother said a good little girl should do, but it is to be hoped that she remembered the words anyway.

But it's quite likely that she didn't. She probably had six children, 20 grandchildren, and found a keen delight in hanging her washing on the line on Monday morning before the neighbors were out of bed.

Dining a la Mode in Provencal

TOO often are American women misled in their conceptions of French furniture. They are misled by those gorgeous creations used by the last of the Kings Louis in French history. One look at their elaborate curves and sumptuous covers and most women are convinced that such is not the thing they want for their simple American homes.

But it should be remembered that bourgeois France and those people outside of the gay capital could not afford to live and have their being in this kind of atmosphere either, and as a result rural France developed a delightful type of furniture which is now known as French Provincial.

In a way, there exists a kind of bond between this furniture and that of the early American colonists because both are of humble origin and the consequent stress on simplicity leads to some slight similarities in form. For grace and softness of curve, however, the French quite outshone the austere early American styles, as can be seen in the illustration of the dining room done in the Provincial spirit.

Here is a group of authentic reproductions of original Provincial pieces that should interest those planning a drastic change in their dining rooms. Every piece has character and individuality and the ensemble itself is anything but stereotyped. Floor covering, curtains, wall fixtures, sideboard arrangement and the six chairs and table combine harmoniously in the production of a gay and refreshing room suitable for all dining purposes in either the small house or apartment.

IF you wish to follow the dictates of the mode to the letter, the floor should be tiled in large square tiles. Dark red are used in the present instance. With the new tiled linoleum now in vogue, this effect is easily imitated by choosing one of the large linoleum patterns. This terra cotta tone will also help to establish the color key of the room.

Cream color painted walls are next suggested, for they are more cheerful than stone color as a background to walnut, although this, too, is a color quite natural to French rural dwellings. Perhaps the most fascinating detail connected with the walls is the pair of wall sconces shaped like lyres and painted the same color as the floor with gilt leaf decoration. Plain tin shades are placed on top of the electric candles.

Over the sideboard hangs an interesting picture of water fowl quite in keeping with the purpose of the room, and a pewter pitcher and pottery vase containing field flowers and some old plates further enliven the decorative scheme.

With their sideboards the French at times took many liberties in design in order to create

Without the fancy work of the Kings Louis. . . . These French provincial dining room pieces have all the charm and simplicity of American colonial styles. (Sketch courtesy R. H. Macy & Co.)

By ALIDA VREELAND

something that was "different." Yet utility never was sacrificed in the cause of novelty. Here you have a long narrow sideboard excellently adapted to a narrow room, with small drawers at either end and rectangular doors below with spacious cupboards behind them. Another wide central drawer is built in just below the ornamental carving providing at the same time a generous shelf for trays.

FOLDED up, the table is small enough to fit in almost any room, but with its extension top pressed into service it can seat twice as many people. The curved legs reflect the Louis XV inclination, minus, of course, the ornate carving and delicate coloring. The chairs are polished maple with seats in a light yellow denim, adding more sunshine rays to the room. The setting in which one eats has a great deal to do with one's appetite, and even more to do with one's digestion. Gloom and depression make eating a hurried duty instead of a leisurely privilege, as the French knew.

At the windows hang flamboyantly flowered cretonne curtains repeating the yellows, reds and browns of the room against a cream background. A red binding adds emphasis to these. It is doubtful if even blue Monday could cast a shadow over a meal in such radiant surroundings.

Another style of chair much favored by the provincial French has a rush seat and slat back similar to the American ladder back. These, however, were submitted to more graceful curving than was attempted as a rule by the colonists, a bow shape being the line usually followed. Sometimes the legs were straight and round, at other times they showed several modern curves.

Sideboards, too, very often had tall racks back of them, supporting several plates with little bannister rails to keep the plates from falling down. Whatever carving the French indulged in among these pieces for the known as "petitot." Gay calicoes in red or yellow with very tiny flowers of contrasting shade are frequently selected. The best of these are hand quilted exactly as the French petticoat worn by the peasants. Chintzes with pastoral prints against plum-colored backgrounds are among the other interesting covers seen on these chairs.

Those having limited experiences with period furniture are often hesitant about furnishing a whole room without a "set" to build around. Nowadays, however, the stores priding themselves on their reproductions are staffed with people whose knowledge of furniture is thorough and who are in a position to assemble a room in any style without the result being in the hackneyed mood of the ordinary dealer. Magazines, too, have experts who will aid their readers in assembling a charming room.

The time has passed when furniture is merely a useful article. Today it must be comfortable and beautiful as well. Moreover, it should be original, or different.

The French people realized the attractiveness of color and the part it plays in establishing a cheerful atmosphere. The court used silken tapestries in its rooms, intricately woven with glamorous threads, while the peasants chose calicoes which matched the gaiety of their customs. Probably some of the lightness and laughter and color which have always been attributed to this nation came as a result of the background which it made for itself.

Harmony is always essential in creating a lovely room, and unless one is sure that the various pieces which have been collected are going to live together peacefully, it is well to consult someone who knows.

A little time and study are as essential as the expenditure of money in furnishing a room.

The Beauty School

Give Your Skin a Chance

ATTENDING a beauty school which trains operators teaches you how to treat blemishes as well as how to care for the clear, soft skin you may possess.

You can better understand the part the oil glands play in creating the simple abnormal conditions of the skin if you remember the action of bacon grease, in the frying pan and in the ice box.

When bacon grease is warm in the pan it is a clear liquid oil; if it is cooled, it becomes a solid white fat. When the oil in your oil glands is functioning properly it is a clear liquid oil called sebum. If some disturbance occurs the oil gland becomes clogged and the sebum turns to a fatty white plug that stays in the gland instead of flowing out on the skin.

The conditions that arise from skin allowed to get in such a state are called at the beauty school, lesions. The simplest lesions are blackheads, milia, red spots, pimples and postules. The beauty student learns that no skin that shows any pus condition should be either massaged or manipulated. But she learns how to treat simple lesions, as well as to recognize them.

She knows that if the sebum in the clogged pores turns to a fatty white plug, and the epidermis closes over the opening of the pore, the resulting white lumps are called milia. These lumps are not always tiny for they vary from the size of a pinhead to the size of a pea.

The blackhead or comedone is the result of a clogged oil gland wherein the fat oxidizes to a dark color. These are seen most often around the nose and mouth and in these days of sunbaths between the shoulder blades. It is a common trouble that should be taken care of.

THE remedy taught the aspiring beautician is simple enough for home use—

Thoroughly cleanse the face with a good toilet soap and water, using a face brush which stimulates the action of the lymph. Be sure that the soap is thoroughly rinsed off. Then make three applications of hot towels. When the pores are well opened remove the blackheads by puncturing them with a sterilized needle, and pressing out of the skin. Then apply a good nourishing cream and massage the face upward and outward. Remove the cream with facial tissue.

At the beauty school six small pads of gauze saturated with some astringent like witch hazel are then prepared. These pads are placed on the face after the cold cream is removed, and gently patted until the astringent has dried, and the pores are closed. The beauty operator places one pad on each cheek, one across the forehead, one over the nose, and one on the upper lip, and a shoe tree has been known to be used as a pater since it is flat and has a slight spring.

This is one of a series of beauty chats based on the actual instruction given in a school which trains operatives for the beauty shops.

Planning a Party Luncheon

By MISSIS PHYLLIS

THERE are a great many women who would like to entertain at luncheon but who, if they do, have to get every bit of work done the evening before.

This bit is for such women. Because herein you will find how one woman did it. Her husband worked from noon until 10 p. m., which meant that she had to get his luncheon and get him off to work only a little while before her guests arrived. Moreover, she had a baby a year old who had to be bathed and fed and put to bed at about 11 o'clock. If the woman had luncheon guests, she wanted to have them early enough so that the baby was still asleep, and late enough so that her husband was on his way to work. So she planned luncheon for 12:30.

THE baby usually woke up a little before two.

Her husband usually left a little before 12. And so she got most of her luncheon the evening before she served it. This was her menu:

Salmon Loaf Potatoes au Gratin
Gelatin Salad Hot Biscuits
Apple Dumpling with Ice Cream
Coffee

The evening before the party, after her baby was in bed and before her husband came home from work, she boiled the potatoes, made the sauce and put them in the casserole. She made the salmon loaf and put it in the pan. Then these two dishes were set in the ice chest. The next day she had only to take them out, dot them with butter and put them into a moderate oven.

She made the gelatin salad and washed the lettuce and put it in a bag. She made the apple dumplings, put them in a baking dish and set them in the refrigerator to be put in the oven in the morning when she put the other things in. She had no last-minute preparations.

Doesn't that sound simple? It was—after she had thought it all out. Here are her recipes:

POTATOES AU GRATIN

4 large potatoes
1 package of grated yellow cheese
2 cups thin white sauce

She boiled the potatoes with their skins on. Then she diced them and put them in the baking dish with a sprinkling of cheese between each layer and cheese on top. She poured the white sauce over all and set it in the refrigerator. She allowed an hour for the potatoes to cook the next day.

SALMON LOAF

1 tall can salmon 1/2 cup bread crumbs
Salt 1 egg
Pepper 1/2 cup celery
Sage 1/4 cup milk

Take all bits of skin or bone out of the salmon and flake. Mix all ingredients, using the seasonings to taste. The celery should be diced quite small. Pack in a loaf tin or pan and bake 45 minutes.

APRICOT GELATIN

1 package lemon gelatin

Drain the apricots of juice. Pour two cups boiling water over the gelatin. Add to the gelatin which has partly cooled and allow to set until firm. Use individual molds or one large bowl. Serve on a lettuce leaf with a little mayonnaise.

APPLE DUMPLING

Roll out pie dough quite thin and spread with apples sliced thin and raisins. Sprinkle plentifully with sugar and dust with cinnamon. Roll up and pinch the ends together firmly. Put in baking dish and set in ice chest. Allow one hour for baking. Serve with whipped cream, ice cream, or plain cream.

If you have to prepare most of your meal the evening before, it is well to use gelatin somewhere on your menu always—in dessert or in salad or in a jellied meat course. It is one of the easiest ways to get a dish ready ahead of time and is always welcome on your menu.

And if you are going to have potatoes, have them in this way or creamed or perhaps plain baked. You won't want to fuss with mashed, French fried or hash browned when every minute counts.

This sort of a meat course is ideal for a hostess in a hurry. She can do her hurrying the evening before her party. Any sort of loaf is good.

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"SEE here, young man, what does this mean?"

"What, Dad?" asked Jimmy innocently.

But his tone and look didn't fool his father. As he'd said just a day or two ago on the train to his friend Chilton, "That kid of mine can act the part of a new-born lamb better than anybody I ever knew. But he can't pull the wool over my eyes. The minute he gets that big-eyed buttery look I lift my nose. There's trouble right around the corner every time."

There was trouble now; on an oblong piece of cardboard with Jimmy's name at the top and the teacher's name at the bottom. The numbers

Kitchen Corner

HAVE you a convenient kitchen rack or bookcase for your recipe books and kitchen hints? No kitchen should be without a space meant for these things. If there is no floor space, you may have one of the hanging book shelves which may be purchased unpainted and decorated to match your kitchen color scheme. Or a corner case does very nicely. But have the recipes some place that is easily accessible. You'll never try new recipes if you can't even find them.

WHEN you are baking little cakes in the small paper cake cups, be careful not to fill them too full. The cake runs over and down the sides of the paper container and they lose all the daintiness you meant them to show. Half full is plenty.

ALWAYS have salad ingredients very cold. There is all the difference in the world between a stuffed tomato and a thoroughly chilled stuffed tomato. The colder the salad the more refreshing it is.

Helping Bad Report Cards

in the small squares were a little below par—on a fairly smooth 18-hole course—hovering in the neighborhood of 63. The figures opposite "Spelling" were still worse, reversing the six and the five.

"WHAT, Dad? Did you want me?"

"I never wanted you less in my life. I'm ashamed to own you. What does this mean?"

Jimmy couldn't hedge any longer. He just stood and looked down at the report card on his father's knee. He swallowed and shifted his weight and swallowed again.

"Isn't that a disgrace?" Jimmy knew his mother would have to finish the dishes at that very minute and pop in out of the kitchen. Things weren't so bad if he could talk to his father alone, or to be alone, but when the two of them got together they seemed to try to outdo each other in awful things to say.

"See, I told you there would be trouble, Jim," he nodded at her son. "Just what do you think of a smart boy like our Jim getting a report card like that, Dad?"

"He doesn't study. That's what."

"WELL, yes he does," she said thoughtfully. "I've made that child study every blessed night and I've helped him with his night work and everything."

"Don't help him any more. I'll bet that's the trouble."

"No, he surprises me the way he catches on. Jim's a smart boy. I know he's smart. He's smarter than Bob or Francy ever were. Mr. Bruce says so. What is the matter, Jimmy? Is it the new teacher?"

"I guess that's it, Mom. She doesn't mark fair. Dixy and Mack and I all got the same answers on arithmetic test and they got swell marks."

"Are you sure?"

"Sure! Yes, that's right, Mom, honest. You can ask her."

"That's just what I'll do," declared that lady suddenly. "I don't like to poke my nose into school affairs or bother the teachers, but if it's true about the arithmetic paper, I'll investigate."

"Suits me—good idea," assented her husband, who was glad to shift the responsibility

THE next evening, when he'd hung up his hat and opened the swinging door into the kitchen, the matter of the report card popped into his head again.

"Well, how about the report card, young man? Did you go to see the teacher, Mary?" Mrs. Smith at the stove rolled significant eyes in the direction of her husband. "Did I?" She turned the hamburger cakes, set back the coffee, and faced the culprit.

"Jimmy Smith, I saw every test paper you wrote last week and I can hardly hold my head up yet. Dirty!" She made a grimace. "Half the it's not crossed—scarcely an i dotted—not a j dotted either. That was in spelling. And in arithmetic you either left out half the decimal points or put them in the wrong place, any place at all that suited you—oh, I can't remember half of it. I just said to Miss Hardy, 'Well, I haven't a word to say. It's disgraceful. I'm surprised you marked him as high as you did.' He could lead his class if he watched his work, but he doesn't bother."

"Carelessness, hey!"

"That's it! He's smart but careless. If I had to mark those papers I'd give him zero in everything."

"I'll try and remember," offered Jimmy meekly. "I didn't think little things would be your marks off like that."

"Say, young fellow, when you get to be a man, you'll find that it's little things that take the jobs off. You can't get away with careless work in this world; you bet you can't. Carelessness doesn't go."

THERE are thousands of Jimmys, worrying teachers from the first grade to the senior year in college. It isn't the stupid ones so much as the lazy ones and the careless ones that are the heartbreakers.

Parents can help a great deal by using a little moral suasion at home.

Thought For Today

For the needy shall not always be forgotten, the expectations of the poor shall not perish forever.—Psalms 9:18.

We may cover a multitude of sin with the white robe of charity.—Beecher.

Melodrama

The story of the "liquor empire" uncovered in the east by federal prohibition agents reads like the scenario for a melodramatic movie. For several years the prohibitionists and the movie makers have been spinning tall yarns about vast rum-running operations in which millions of dollars were involved; organizations that had palatial headquarters, private armies of thugs, fleets of ships, extensive legal and sales departments and amazingly full treasuries.

We always enjoyed these stories, but we never quite believed them. They were too much like detective story thrillers in which some "international crook" directs a crime ring with branches in all the principal cities.

But now—behold! It's all true. The gaudent dreams of the romancers are outcome of sober fact. We have caught up with our melodrama.

Listen again to some of the details of this outfit which the federal men finally managed to smash into. A string of warehouses running all the way from Highlands, N. J., to Atlantic City, furnished almost where the rats could reach, attack by the enemies, a private radio station, branch offices in England and Canada, a whole fleet of ships; many of them heavily armed; a board of directors whose response system kept it informed of the government's movements; a private hotel for the use of employees; a financial hook-up with banks; a private army ready to fight off "wrecks or government officers; and, of course, a "water mind" of great mystery and cunning who directed operations from a distant hide-out. This sort of stuff sounds like fancy fiction and it happens to be fact. The thrillers have been outcome of reality.

How many other similar organizations there may be is a matter for conjecture. Probably there are quite a few. We have a long coastline, and the liquor-smuggling business offers enormous profits.

It's highly interesting—but it's really, anything to laugh at. This smuggling outfit was an empire within an empire; a group of men who lived by their own laws and were answerable only to themselves.

The situation is extremely serious. The existence of such groups brings us a lot closer to actual chaos and breakdown than it is comfortable to think about.

Unless we can find some way to smash such outfits and make the law supreme we are going to run into a very nasty catastrophe. We have traveled a whole lot farther along the road that leads to it than we imagine.

Exciting?

It is a little bit hard to follow Prof. Raymond Schutz in his attack on short skirts and bare legs. Prof. Schutz begins by declaring that "the average man" is "not just, that no one is beautiful enough to be exposed to the public gaze." Now, this, while more or less a matter of individual taste, may be true enough. But his next remark—"besides, such exposure has a highly exciting effect"—hardly seems to follow.

If it isn't beautiful, how can it be exciting? The learned professor's remarks hardly seem to hang together.

BUSINESS IS SOLD
DALLAS, Nov. 5.—The Interstate Amusement Co., an independent organization operating theaters in Dallas, Fort Worth, Little Rock, Houston, San Antonio and Birmingham, has been sold to the William Fox organization, Karl Hobbittelle of Dallas, president of the Interstate company, announced today.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says

That Girl on Broadway says men who mind their own business are rarely hoisted to the shoulders of a cheering multitude.

The Plainsman has intended to mention the new sign atop Hotel Lubbock for the past ten days or two weeks—ever since it's been there, in fact—but for some reason just has never gotten around to it. The addition of the sign to the eleven story building is a feather in Lubbock's cap and no foolin'.

Not quite six years ago—it lacks about a month and a half—when The Plainsman first came to Lubbock, there was only one light sign in town and that was nothing to write about. It was one of these tin box affairs with holes cut in the tin and the light globes inside the box. The writer can't for the life of him remember whose sign it was, but it was here, at any rate. Today Lubbock is all broken out with electric signs of all forms and descriptions and there are probably as many of them here as there are in any city in West Texas. Understand, The Plainsman has never made an actual count of the light signs in West Texas so the foregoing statement must be accepted in good faith and in good faith alone.

To get back to the subject, electric lights and signs equipped with electricity and other forms of light, have an attraction for The Plainsman. A town with a lot of snappy, moving lights just naturally looks bigger, better and more wide-awake and the casual visitor feels it in his bones that he's in a real city when the lights are dancing. At least, that's the way it has always struck us.

Take the new Hotel Lubbock sign for instance. It doesn't move, but it stands out like the Amicable building in Waco—and it's more, ever been to Waco you'll appreciate the comparison. The sign can be seen for a distance of thirty miles to the east and west and from the north and south it casts a red glow perceptible for almost that far. Of course you can't read it for thirty miles but you can see that there's a town ahead and that's a welcome sign for many weary motorists.

This column would like to see more light signs in Lubbock. We don't get any commission for selling 'em but they sure look good in town.

City Manager Gus McCleary requests that The Plainsman make a few remarks about the condition of the alley at the rear of the Avalanche-Journal building. "If you run out of soap," says Gus, "just rump it up just because they're in a hurry to get it out of the alley."

Well, after carefully inspecting the alley this column has reached the conclusion that the city manager is right and something should be done about improving the looks and cleanliness of that alley. These newspapers guys don't need to live in the alley up just because they have a lot of extra paper to do it with and they oughtn't to throw their lanky legs out the back door, either. If The Plainsman were city manager he'd make it so hot for them that they'd have to cut it out, and that's that.

And now since we've complied with Mr. McCleary's request and are on the subject of alleys, The Plainsman is of the opinion that chicken feeders and entrails are more obnoxious in down town alleys than scraps of waste paper and dirty rags. It goes against the grain, but there is some way that restaurants can be restrained from using the alleys for butcher shops and garbage disposal plants. If you're not acquainted with this situation stroll around in some of the alleys sometime.

You have marvelled at The Plainsman's acquaintance with alleys of Lubbock. If you owed as many bills as he does you wouldn't be surprised at all.

That Man on Avenue Q says philosophy, as a general thing, is the smug complacency of a man who has feathered his nest.

We don't know whether this really happened or not but it seems that a history teacher in one of the local schools was drilling his class on current events the other day and asked the question:

"Who are the President and Vice President of the United States?"

And some youngster who is smarter than the teacher gave him credit for being replied: "Herbert Hoover and the brother of Mrs. Gann!"

Bigamy is having one wife too many. Monogamy is a painful case amounts to the same thing.

There are more opportunities in a big city but you've got to lick more men to get them.

Today's health hint: Never make a woman mad enough to tell the truth.

Want A Shot?

NEW YORK—Among possibilities of the wonder world of the future, in the opinion of Professor Alexander Silverman of the University of Pittsburgh, are huge transparent rods running from China to the United States, bringing light and converting our night into day; also such rods running north and south conveying heat from the tropics to frigid zones.

What Of It?

TAIYUN, Shensi, China.—General Feng Yu-hsiang, "The Christian general," is living in a house on the top of a hill surrounded by an eight-foot wall. He wears a red robe and eats coiled food.

Good Business

NEW YORK—John J. Dunne has paid Uncle Sam $164,700 for making beer on Staten Island. His profits in three years were $1,807,868.55; his income tax plus penalties totaled $498,737.11. The income tax matter was compromised by payment of $100,000. He was fined $2,000 for failure to report his earnings and $1,700 for illegal possession and he paid $1,000 as a tax on five truckloads of confiscated beer, a sentence of a year in prison was suspended.

Any Prospects?

NEW YORK—If and when he gets married Joseph McFarland will receive $5,000 from the estate of his father. Meanwhile the will directs that the money be held in trust by other children.

Serves Her Right

MILWAUKEE—Mrs. Rebecca Finkler must pay her husband $1 a week alimony. He testified the nagged till he placed all his property in her name. He is seeking a divorce.

every senator with a pretense of progressiveness aware by Uncle George.

Fought Hoover's Policies
Lately he has become almost Nemesis for Mr. Hoover. As the leader of the Progressives he flared up the tariff bill amendment which deprived the president of the right to fix tariff rates, as provided by the flexible clause. As the most important figure in the farm bloc, he put over his own Norris amendment putting his own revised version of the export debenture plan into the tariff measure. Each time he led the two worst stories which Mr. Hoover has suffered in Congress.

And if Mr. Hoover sees red when he thinks of Norris, who can blame him? Heaven knows he sent a long enough procession of emissaries to Norris long before the republican national convention, assuring Mr. Norris that Mr. Hoover was a progressive of his own stripe and would shortly be coming out boldly for the things for which Mr. Norris stood. It wasn't Mr. Hoover's fault that Mr. Norris had to be chosen before he would support Mr. Hoover's candidacy.

Mr. Norris is the most important figure in the Senate today and he doesn't agree with Mr. Hoover on the points concerning which Mr. Hoover seems most interested. So it is easy to believe the stories which would have Mr. Hoover planning to throw the administration influence behind anyone whom Mr. Hoover believes able to defeat Mr. Norris.

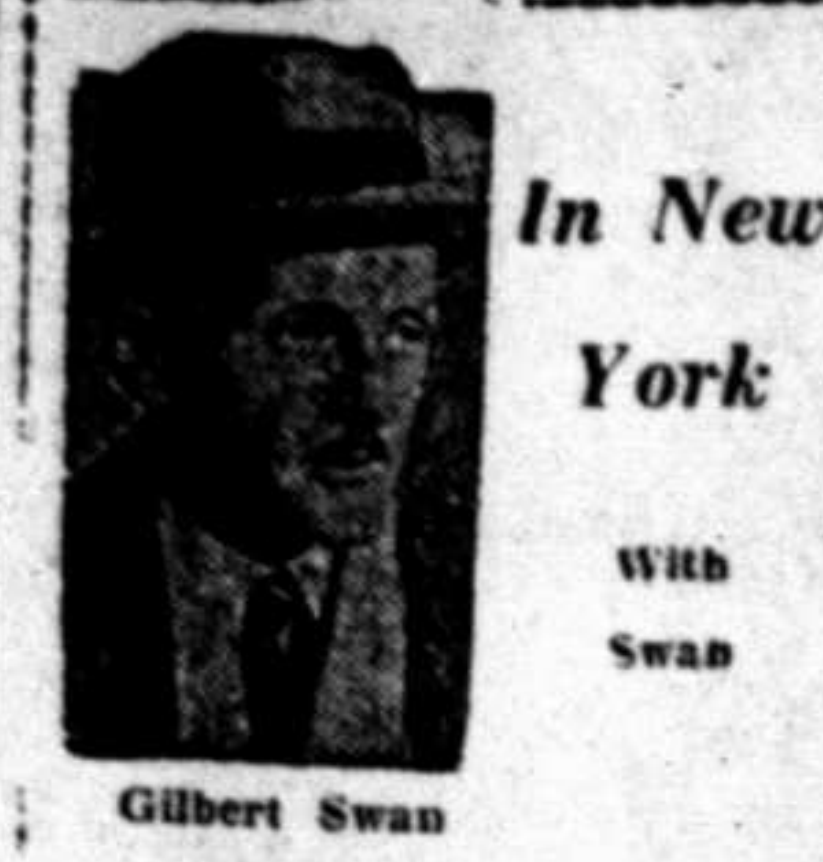

The only subject of speculation here is why Mr. Hoover isn't willing to let Mr. Norris retire without baiting him into another fight. Stories have been coming from the general direction of the White House to the effect that Mr. Hoover and the republican organization would start a major offensive against all insurgents in 1930, but Mr. Norris had promised to step out even before Mr. Hoover was elected.

Few doubt that Mr. McKelvie is Mr. Hoover's fair-haired boy in Nebraska. Mr. McKelvie played Mr. Harding and Mr. Coolidge for a federal job and everyone knew he wanted one. Mr. McKelvie, claiming to represent the farmers, shouted against the McNary-Haugen bill when the farmer groups and the Senate and House farm bloc were unanimous for it. Mr. McKelvie when the Nebraska delegation at Kansas City was supposed to vote for Mr. Norris, undertook to get everyone to vote for Mr. Hoover and made a second speech for Mr. Hoover. Mr. McKelvie got himself appointed as the wheat representative on Mr. Hoover's Federal Farm Board—the only obviously political appointment to the board. Mr. McKelvie said he would only serve about a year. When the year is up it will be time to think of the Nebraska primary.

He Hasn't Much Chance
Mr. McKelvie, having at some time in the past been elected governor of Nebraska, is the sort of man Mr. Hoover might think could lead Mr. Norris for the Senate. Mr. Hoover knows that the Anti-Saloon League became very sour on Mr. Norris because the Anti-Saloon League was fighting Mr. Smith, whom Mr. Norris preferred.

Nevertheless, Mr. Norris has a very dry record and so have many of the progressives who will invade Nebraska to take up his cause. It is too early to suggest that the Anti-Saloon League will definitely identify itself with Mr. McKelvie's candidacy as against that of Mr. Norris. And it is a long time since Mr. McKelvie was nominated or elected to anything by the farmers of Nebraska.

In fact, the betting in Washington

Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Wall street is brightest: when things are at their darkest.

Paradoxical though this may sound, the fact remains that the lights of "cash canyon" burn through the night only when there is grievous trouble in the world outside.

Under ordinary circumstances, the narrow lanes are soon enveloped in deep purple. As night creeps on, a dense blackness envelops the entire district. A few night watchmen, a scrub woman and a policeman are the only people abroad. Desolation is almost completely accomplished long before midnight.

But when the skyline sparkles brightly after nightfall—look out! It bodes no good to investors and speculators. Clerks and bosses, and stenographers and bookkeepers are not burning the midnight oil for nothing.

It means, of course, that the market has been overflooded and that all through the night tired clerks must toil. It means that restaurants and lunch counters, ordinarily abandoned about the dinner hour, now operate until dawn while nervous troubled workers dash in and out for coffee.

It has been estimated that something like a half million cups of black coffee are drunk to stave off the inroads of sleep. It means that hot soup and sandwiches will be served that workers will fall asleep over desks. It means that, just across the bridge in Brooklyn there will be hurried demands for hotel rooms and that a rush business will be done.

Or again—what brings woe to many, brings happiness to the hearts of newspaper circulation departments.

With panic in the air, speculators buy many copies of the daily papers, watching grimly for the next quotation. At the end of the day, the streets resemble those occasions when a Lindbergh has ridden by. They are strewn with tape and papers and the "white wings" have a busy night ahead of them.

Not the least interesting phase of such tense moments in the "Tower Manhattan" belt is the activity of those sprightly marionettes—the office boys. Boys being boys, they care excitement and here they have an opportunity to stage a game which is all their own. The worried brokers and the more worried investors may wonder at the sudden bursting of the play spirit.

The fact is that some three or four thousand youngsters have had their play instinct stifled by the work-a-day tasks. Unlike other boys they can find only moments for a game of hand ball or a game of "catch" in some alley.

Now they can romp and caper for all they are worth. They can tape in the air and they can shoot at the top of their lungs. To be sure, a few mounted police will ride up in an effort to put them in their places—but it avails little.

This boy-world of the financial realm is one of the little known aspects of New York life.

It is one of the city's many responsibilities, and athletic workers go through the offices laboring to put some exercise into the lives of youngsters who are tied to their messenger routine.

There is scarce a lad in all the thousands who does not expect to become a captain of finance, for the "street" is full of tales of millionaires who rose from messengers.

New York now has an anti-noise commission. Chicago ought to consider this move, too, and at least provide Maxim silencers for the machine gun.

It's strange how many children become deaf when the leaves begin to fall.

ton is that if Mr. Hoover puts Mr. McKelvie into the race, Mr. Norris will not have much trouble in licking Mr. McKelvie. And this in spite of the fact that Mr. McKelvie, on the Federal Farm Board, has been given a beautiful opportunity to set up shop as a warm-hearted friend of the farmer.

Diet and Health

NOISY JOINTS MAY BE DUE TO POOR DIET
Cracking Joints
Mrs. L. joints pop at every movement. It is most embarrassing. Is it serious?

This cracking of the joints probably indicates some degree of chronic inflammation, perhaps coupled with a looseness of the ligaments. No, it is not serious, if you mean by serious anything that is going to imperil your life.

The cause of joint inflammation is a baffling thing in many cases. It may be due to infection, or from decayed teeth or abscesses at the roots of apparently healthy teeth, or from chronically diseased spots elsewhere in the body. It may be due to absorption from putrefaction in the intestinal tract, caused by wrong diet; from acidosis, which may be due to wrong diet, and excess sugar in the blood (also due to wrong diet).

We have an article on Joint Inflammations which you may have; also an article on Balanced Diet. See column rules for obtaining them.

"Dear Doctor: The purpose of my letter is to ask your advice about losing weight. No doubt you will say, 'Why doesn't she diet?' I wish you only knew how hard I have tried, but it seems to be of no use. I have given up eating butter, white bread, potatoes and cake, drinking milk—in fact, all sweets and starchy foods. Don't you think I should lose at least a few pounds? It is so tiresome. I do housework, but no extra exercise. I am five feet seven inches tall, 18 years old, and weigh 160 pounds. Last night, most of my weight is in my trunk and shoulders, as my legs are well formed. Am in perfect health except that my periods are not regular. Has that any effect on my overweight? Is fat inherited, and isn't it natural for some to be stout?"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. If she considers your questions of general interest, they will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for article on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents. If you wish for the pamphlets on "Reducing and Gaining," "The Kidney and Its Excretions" and "The Hygiene of Women," 10 cents in coin (for each) and fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. I wish you only knew how hard I have tried, but it seems to be of no use. I have given up eating butter, white bread, potatoes and cake, drinking milk—in fact, all sweets and starchy foods. Don't you think I should lose at least a few pounds? It is so tiresome. I do housework, but no extra exercise. I am five feet seven inches tall, 18 years old, and weigh 160 pounds. Last night, most of my weight is in my trunk and shoulders, as my legs are well formed. Am in perfect health except that my periods are not regular. Has that any effect on my overweight? Is fat inherited, and isn't it natural for some to be stout?"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. If she considers your questions of general interest, they will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for article on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents. If you wish for the pamphlets on "Reducing and Gaining," "The Kidney and Its Excretions" and "The Hygiene of Women," 10 cents in coin (for each) and fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. (These charges are to cover the cost of printing and handling.) Address: Dr. Peters, in care of this paper.

Dear Doctor: The purpose of my letter is to ask your advice about losing weight. No doubt you will say, 'Why doesn't she diet?' I wish you only knew how hard I have tried, but it seems to be of no use. I have given up eating butter, white bread, potatoes and cake, drinking milk—in fact, all sweets and starchy foods. WALL STREET SILENT TODAY

ELECTION HALTS WORK OF TRADERS ON EXCHANGE

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The stock market closed today because of the election after an isolated session in which prices showed a net decline of 2 1/2 points on a turnover of 6,202,930 shares.

The rally which was expected when the market opened yesterday after a two-day selling holiday failed to develop and in its place appeared selling pressure which was the dominant note throughout an orderly session.

Volume Is Normal

Volume of trade and range of prices was regarded by operators as normal contrasted with behavior of the market last week, when after a wild selling stampede on Tuesday in which 16,140,000 shares were dumped, the market came back sharply in a three-hour session Thursday with gains up to 26 points and a total of 7,149,390 shares.

For the first day since October 24, the beginning of the big slump, the ticker was able to keep close to the market. It closed 30 minutes after the last sale.

Sessions Curtailed

Curtailed session from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., tomorrow, Thursday and Friday with complete suspension of business Saturday has been ordered by the Board of Governors of the stock exchange and officials of the curb exchange in a further effort to permit brokerage houses to catch up with the tremendous volume of trade last week. It was found the two-day holiday over the week-end had not afforded sufficient time for over-worked staffs to complete their tasks.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON EASY

LIVERPOOL IS SCARCELY AS STRONG AS DUE AT OPENING

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—The cotton market, had a quiet and slightly easier opening as Liverpool came in hardly as good as due and first trades showed losses of 2 to 3 points. A sharp break in Liverpool, said to be due to hedge selling, began liquidation and a generally unfavorable view of the situation, caused the market here to ease. December trading down to 17.46, January to 17.57 and March to 17.87, or 14 to 16 points down from yesterday's close. At the end of the first hour the market was nervous and unsettled.

The market continued to decline under liquidation. Considerable stop loss orders were uncovered on the decline which carried December down to 17.25, January to 17.37 and March to 17.68, or 33 to 35 points below yesterday's close. At noon the market was quiet and somewhat steadier but the undertone continued unsettled.

CRASH FATAL FOR QUARTET

WO EX-TEXANS AMONG VICTIMS; MEXICAN
GOVERNOR DIES

TOUCA, Mexico, Nov. 5.—Bodies of four men were here today awaiting claimants after crash of the plane.

SOUR STOMACHS MADE SWEET

Antiseptic Remedy Corrects
Fermented Condition

If you can not eat what you like, if you have to avoid certain foods because they disagree with you, your trouble is no doubt due to fermentation of food—a condition that can be quickly corrected if proper methods are used. The use of soda, magnesia, dyspepsia tablets, laxatives and common patent medicines, require continual dosing and at best can furnish only temporary relief. GORDON'S, a stomach and bowel antiseptic, gives lasting benefit. It stops fermentation promptly, sweetens the stomach, drives out the acids and poisons, soothes and heals the membrane lining. The very first dose will relieve sour stomach, indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, dissolve the excess acid. If you have stomach trouble now, or when food disagrees, don't take chances with temporary measures. Get GORDON'S from drugist at once. It costs no more than ordinary remedies—a large 8-ounce bottle for $1.50—less than three cents a dose.

Mexico City-Juarez mail plane yesterday. The four men were: Manuel Carpio, governor of the State of Aguascalientes; De Valera, his secretary; John Carmichael, pilot of the plane.

Robert G. Lowry, 40, traffic superintendent of the airline, the corporation Aeronautica de Transportes, formerly of Dallas.

Crash On Ranch
The four men left Valbuena Aerodrome, Mexico City, at 6:30 a. m. yesterday apparently crashing a half hour or so later at Pena Del Monte ranch, near Villa Carbon, in the mountainous country on the rim of the valley of Mexico.

The plane was destroyed. Position of the bodies indicated all died instantly. Cause of the crash was undetermined, but airways officials said exceptionally bad flying weather prevailed.

Burial Refused
Persons discovering the wrecked airplane learned the identity of the four men through papers found in their clothes. In view of the condition of the bodies the Mayor of Toluca, capital of the State of Mexico, asked permission to arrange interment here, but officials of the C. A. T. refused and said they would come for them.

Lowry was said here to have married recently before coming to Mexico from the United States. Little known of the pilot, Carmichael.

DALLAS, Nov. 5 (P)—Two former Texans were killed in an airplane crash in Mexico which took four lives yesterday.

John Carmichael, former All-Southwest football player from Trinity university, and Robert G. Lowry, formerly of Dallas and Mission, were killed in the crash which also killed Governor Manuel Carpio of the Mexican State of Aguascalientes and his secretary.

Carmichael after graduation was in advertising work in Wichita Falls for about four years and then took

SCOTT MAY IS DEATH VICTIM

FORMER LUBBOCK MAN WILL BE LAID TO REST IN CITY

Scott May, 40, former resident of Lubbock, died suddenly at his home in Springdale, Ark., Sunday, according to a message received here by Mrs. C. E. Hunt, a sister of Mrs. May.

The body is scheduled to arrive in this city tomorrow morning at 7:15 o'clock for funeral services and burial here, but no definite arrangements have yet been made. Mrs. Hunt, her son, Howard, Mrs. W. K. Dickinson Jr. and Mrs. Bill Burleson, the latter of Tanoka, left today for Dallas, where they will meet Mrs. May.

In Oil Business Here
Mr. May, who moved with his family to Arkansas two years ago, was formerly local agent for the Magnolia oil company.

Survivors are the widow, five children, Marie, Cora, Annie, Robert, Dora and Graham; four brothers, Dr. Jno. R. May, Roland May, Mayville, Okla.; Tom May Brownfield; five sisters, Mrs. I. C. Burgess, of Russellville, Ark.; Mrs. W. W. Royalty, Lubbock; Mrs. B. Downing, Brownfield; Mrs. J. B. Cardwell, Plainview, and Mrs. E. D. Wright, Dumas, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. May, Roland, Ark.

a flying course and went into commercial aviation. Lowry had engaged in advertising work in Dallas for about ten years, but had moved to Mission and later to Torreon, Mexico.

WHAT CONGRESS IS DOING

(By Associated Press)
TUESDAY
Senate continues tariff debate. Senate lobby committee resumes its investigation.

MONDAY
Senate adopted resolution of condemnation of Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut.

Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, promised more revelations about prohibition enforcement.

Senate approved increases and decreases in five tariff rates. House met and adjourned.

VOTERS TO BE BUSY TUESDAY

SPOTLIGHT SHINES ON
NEW YORK, VIRGINIA
POLITICAL BEES

While election contests drew voters of a dozen states to the polls today, the eyes of the nation were fixed primarily upon Virginia, watchful for any indication of what might be expected of the Old Dominion in future national campaigns.

Majority elections in New York, Boston and other cities attracted attention, but today's balloting in Virginia was considered a crucial test for the democratic organization there and efforts of the republican party to solidify its gains of last year's presidential election under leadership of Herbert Hoover.

Brown Is Strong
With a coalition candidate, William Moseley Brown, sponsored by the republicans and those elements of the democratic party which supported President Hoover, opposing the candidate of the regular democratic machine, John Garland Pollard, it was inevitable results of the balloting should be compared with the Hoover majority of 25,000, and interpreted as indicating Virginia had definitely joined the column of "doubtful" states or had returned to the "solid" democratic South.

Both candidates made election-day speeches, Brown addressing an audience in the mountain section of the state and Pollard in the Tidewater. Each faction claimed a victory, estimating its majorities at from 10,000 to 20,000.

Four Gotham Candidates
In New York City, Mayor James Walker's candidacy for re-election in the democratic ticket, was opposed by Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia, republican, Norman Thomas, socialist, and Richard E. Smith, former police commissioner, running under sponsorship of the Square Deal party.

In addition to this and the Boston contest there were majority elections in elections of Michigan, Indiana, Kansas, and Ohio.

In Kentucky, the republican party sought to gain control of the legislature.

State-wide elections also were on in Ohio, Illinois, and Pennsylvania, having to do with a tax limitation amendment in the Buckeye state, and with the election of state judges in the two others.

In addition to the gubernatorial election, the Virginia voters were called upon to select a lieutenant governor, attorney general, and the entire membership of the house of delegates.

RAILWAY ASKS TEXAS RIGHTS

ICC REQUESTED TO OK
SAN ANGELO-SAN ANTONIO LINE

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The West Texas Railway today asked the Interstate Commerce commission to approve its proposed new road in Texas from Fredericksburg to Brady and from Eden to San Angelo, providing a direct route to San Antonio.

In its supporting brief, the railway contends that the territory northwest of San Antonio, is nearer that city than any other in Texas, but lack of railroad facilities prevent it from reaching there except by circuitous routes. This, it is maintained, prevents people of that territory from availing themselves of the San Antonio market in distribution of agricultural products and livestock and likewise "deprives the people in that territory of benefits which would accrue to them by reason of competition between buyers in San Antonio and more distant cities."

Port Opening Talked
Development of a deepwater port at Corpus Christi also is said to have brought closer "to this vast territory of West and Northwest Texas port facilities whose benefits are denied to people of that territory by reason of present long and circuitous routes." Construction of the proposed line, it is added, would give that territory direct rail line to that port, making available to them port facilities and attendant benefits of adequate and direct transportation facilities and reduced transportation rates.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (P)—Senator Harrison, democrat, Miss., had read in the Senate today a letter from John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, replying to the recent stock gambling and speculation charges made against him in the Senate by Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana. The letter asserted that "I do not gamble in the stock market."

POLES AGREE
WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 5 (P)—Leaders of parties in the Diet, except the government bloc, today accepted a secret session decided to accept the reopening of the Diet tomorrow as agreed upon yesterday between Speaker Darzynski and President Moscicki.

STOCKS IN DROP
NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (P)—A deluge of selling orders greeted the reopening of the stock market after the three-day holiday today. Prices broke sharply, with most of the leaders losing $1 to $3 a share.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 4 (P)—Operations of the Leakesville Women Mills were suspended at least temporarily today as employees struck at the call of the National Text Workers union. The mill employs 162 persons.
