PEDDY HAS INJUNCTION

Clem Gray Sentenced to Death For Ballard Murder

JURY THE SECOND TO GIVE DEATH IN THE COUNTY

Burl Kemp, Negro Charged With Murder, Goes to Trial Monday

APPEAL THREATENED

Gray Declares He Is Willing to Accept Verdict Without Fight

By The Associated Press.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas, Oct. 19.—Death sentence was imposed on Clem Gray by the jury that heard the testimony at his trial on a charge of murder for the killing of Otis Ballard here on the night of September 24. The verdict, returned by the jury at 10:30 o'clock this morning reads as follows:

"We, the jury, find the defendant guilty as charged in the indictment and assess his punishment at death."

The verdict was signed by R. E. Lee, foreman.

This is the second time in the history of Titus county that a verdict inflicting the death penalty has been returned, the former case being that of a man named Roland, convicted more than ten years ago.

Burl Kemp, negro, whom Gray, in his testimony, accused of killing Ballard, will be placed on trial Monday on a murder charge in connection with Ballard's death. A special venire of 100 men has been summoned for the Kemp trial.

After the verdict of the jury had been announced and Gray had been returned to his cell in the Titus county jail Gray told Deputy Sheriff Elmo Cate, that he was willing to accept the verdict and pay the full penalty without making any further legal fight to prevent his execution. Counsel for the defense, however, notified Judge Wilkinson that they would file a motion for a new trial and in case that it is overruled that they would carry the case to the higher courts on appeal.

PREDICTS COOLIDGE IS NOT TO HAVE AN EASY NOMINATION

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—President Coolidge will have opposition in the republican national convention next year, Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the republican senate campaign committee, said today upon his return from a swing through 12 states, west and east.

The senator, who conferred with the president during the day on the political situation, added, however, that everywhere he had been he had found a favorable spirit toward Mr. Coolidge, with scarcely any leading republicans who did not take his nomination for granted.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, former Governor Lowden of Illinois, and Senator Johnson of California, were among those mentioned by Senator Moses in connection with the presidential nomination contest.

Senator Moses declared that there are today more men "affirmatively for Henry Ford for president than for any other one man."

"They are not all of one party," he said, "nor are they organized. If Ford accepts the nomination of the farmer-labor party, as he seems inclined now to do, the situation will be somewhat unhappy for the republicans, as I would think that every electoral vote Ford will get will be at the expense of the republican party."

ARMED DEPUTIES HALT KLANSMEN

By The Associated Press.

EMPORIA, Kas., Oct. 19.—Armed deputies headed by sheriff C. H. Jacobs of Chase county, tonight prevented ku klux klansmen from holding a meeting in the Strong City, Kas., city auditorium. Use of the hall had been banned by H. W. Weibracht, mayor of Strong City.

Sheriff Jacobs established a guard at the hall following reports that the klansmen intended to defy the mayor.

Shortly after 8 o'clock this evening, the hour scheduled for the meeting, the klansmen went to the auditorium and sought admission. The sheriff refused to let them in and they departed quietly.

A large crowd gathered in Strong City tonight but there were no disturbances.

Denied use of the auditorium, it was reported the klansmen would meet at a baseball field outside the city.

GEORGE REBUKES DUMONT SPEECH

Regret Attache Used Phrase Cites 900,000 British Dead

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—Because of the record of the British empire in the world war when it went to the help of France against Germany, "we have a right to give advice," David Lloyd George, the war-time premier of Great Britain, declared in an address here today on the German reparation situation.

Speaking at a luncheon given under the auspices of the chamber of commerce he said that we "have a right to give advice; we have a right to say we have friends, but we've a right to claim that the sacrifice which we made was not made to perpetuate strife and anger and wrong."

The statement was made in referring to a report of a speech on the subject of reparations made in this city yesterday by Col. G. A. L. Dumont, military attache of the French embassy at Washington, in which, according to newspaper reports, he said:

"Pray may the Lord protect us against our friends."

Declaring that the speech "was obviously addressed to me" Mr. Lloyd expressed regret that the phrase had been used, adding: "I never heard that prayer between 1914 and 1918. There are 900,000 throughout the British empire as the proof of our friendship. The evidence of our friendship is scattered over the extensive graveyards in France and in Flanders. 'Protect us against our friends?' No, I would ask him not to repeat that. Not to repeat that—900,000 dead. Why at the present moment there are 1,300,000 of our best workmen eating the bread of charity because we went to the help of France in 1914 to 1918."

Pointing to his friendship for France as evidenced in his public life, the traditional position of his political party and the record of Great Britain in the war and declaring that he was not an apologist for the German government, he declared that Germay should be made to pay reparations "up to the limit of the capacity of the country to pay, reasonably interpreted."

GOVERNORS IN A SQUABBLE VOTE DRY RESOLUTION

Fiery Debates and Snags Precede Pledge to Enforce Law

PARKER RESIGNS

State Chiefs Are Now Off to Capital to Confer With Collidge

By The Associated Press.

WEST BADEN, Ind., Oct. 19.—Scrapping a conference tradition of 15 years standing, a majority of America's 52 state and territorial governors took their first record vote of history today in unanimously passing a resolution endorsing national prohibition and pledging President Coolidge, "our fullest co-operation" in the enforcement of the Volstead Act. The action came as the climax of a three hour session of fiery debate, parliamentary tangles, and persistent maneuvering in which three governors fought throughout to block the vote.

Tonight the executives were enroute to Washington lay their statement before President Coolidge at luncheon conference Saturday.

On a viva voc vote in which no opposing voice reached the chairman of official reporters, the resolution was formally reported as "unanimously adopted."

With this ruling by Governor Percival P. Baxter of Maine, presiding, the prohibition question, which was thrust into the conference, at the opening session Wednesday, by Governor C. A. Hardee of Florida, in his response to the address of welcome, was disposed of at the final session of the conference.

The adoption of the resolution was followed by the formal resignation of Governor John M. Parker of Louisiana from the conference. The Louisiana chief declared at the opening of debate that a vote on the resolution would call for his immediate resignation and as the din of yeas greeted the session, he walked from the room. He was a member of the Washington party, however, when the train began its journey. He would attend the president's conference Saturday, he declared.

After much stormy debate joined in by Governor J. J. Blaine of Wisconsin, and Pat M Neff of Texas, Governor George S. Sisler of New Jersey, introduced a resolution declaring the federal enforcement organization ineffective in its operation and "that we believe there can be no real enforcement" as long as present conditions exist.

Governor Neff immediately moved it be tabled, seconded by Governor Walker of Georgia. The motion to table was put to a roll call, and passed 26 to 2. Louisiana and New Jersey voted no.

The text of the prohibition resolution, which is in the form of a memorial to President Coolidge follows:

"Observance of law is the fundamental basis of American citizenship, and enforcement of law is primary duty of every official.

"National prohibition is now, by constitutional amendment, the law of our land. An overwhelmingly majority of the citizenship of the United States are law abiding and desirous of the enforcement of law.

"The national government alone has control of the manufacture of intoxicants and has a very special obligation to perform in prohibiting the importation into this country of wines and spiritous liuors contrary to the laws of the United States. The individual states are powerless to act in these respects, therefore, the na-

WILL PROSECUTE BY PROCEEDINGS

Oklahoma House to Institute Against Any Election Interference

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 19. Attorney General George Short was instructed today by the lower house of the state legislature to institute criminal proceedings against all public officials and private individuals who attempted to prevent the special election October 2.

The house acted by adopting by a vote of 88 to 2 a resolution to prosecute all those accused of violating state laws which provide penalties for interferring with an election.

Despite Governor J. C. Walton's action in postponing the election and his threat to prevent the balloting by force of arms if necessary, the people went to the polls in every part of the state and voted overwhelmingly for a constitutional amendment empowering the legislature to convene at its own call to investigate the conduct of state officers. Five other constitutional amendments were submitted.

On the calendar for consideration when the house meets again Monday afternoon is a resolution which would prohibit ku klux klan members of the house from using code language on the floor.

The measure, introduced unexpectedly this afternoon by Representative White of Bryan, charged that klan members of the body are using signs, passwords and other "code" and demanded that such action be prohibited in house chamber.

The executive had decreed the election October 2 illegal on grounds that proper publication had not been made of the issue. In a few instances the voting was barred by local authorities acting under agents of the governor, who were reported to state authorities.

As the special house committee neared completion tonight of its investigation into impeachment charges against Governor Walton, rumors were heard in political quarters that the executive is planing an eleventh hour counter offensive to combat the proceedings. What form this latest move would take was in doubt. Some said the executive intended laying his resignation before the legislature before the house has time to make a report of its impeachment investigation; but this was emphatically denied by the governor.

AUGUST B. BUSCH SENDS PROTEST

Letter Proposes Willingness for System Restoring Law Respect

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—A plea for justice to a industry that has been made the football for practical politics, has been made to President Coolidge by August A. Busch, former brewer, it was announced here tonight by officials of Anheuser Busch, Inc.

The plea, it was expained, "was in a letter to the president of the United States on prohibition enforcement and its effects."

The letter was timed to coincide with the meeting of governors in Washington, to consider prohibition enforcement, it was stated.

"Owing to unfortunate political conditions with which we are surrounded," the letter said, "and the demands made upon us through legislation and taxation, there were some evils that crept into the retail distributing system of our business. We stand ready, and we think the entire industry stands ready, to correct all those evils, and to lend hearty and effective co-operation to the government in the administration of any remedial law that will preclude the possibility of a reversion to those evils against which public resentment had been directed in the past."

The letter did not make any specific proposals, but mentioned a readiness of the writer to co-operate in perfecting a system "that will reduce intemperance to an irreducible minimum, and at the same time restore respect for law and order and purge the government of the corruption that now threatens to undermine the republic."

SUICIDE LEAVES STARTLING NOTE

By The Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 19.—A letter found today in the effects of Jean Basil Clendenning, who committed suicide here last Tuesday in the presence of an operative for a local detective agency, refers to Clendenning having "killed five men" and to have spent "about $3,000 to keep out of the penitentiary." Clendenning is said to be the lessee of the J. K. Bar ranch at Aqua Dulce, Texas. Friends of Clendenning believe he was mentally deranged when he wrote the letter, and that he was laboring under a delusion when he swallowed poison in the presence of the detective.

INTER-GERMANY RELATIONS GET A SEVERE JOLT

Bavarian Dictator Orders Bavaria to Stop Relations With Saxony

TROOPS INTO SAXONY

Ruhr and Rhineland Constitutes Real Source of Apprehension

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Diplomatic relations between the Berlin, Munich, and Dresden governments, which local official quarters represented today as having assumed a "more tranquil aspect, during the past 24 hours," late tonight were given an unexpected jolt by Dr. Von Kahr, the Bavarian dictator.

Dr. Von Kaar informed the central government that Bavaria hereafter must decline to enter into formal or official relations with Dr. Otto Gessler, the federal minister of defense, who is military dictator for all Germany under the provisions of President Ebert's recent proclamation.

Reports that Dr. Gessler had ordered a score or more of battalions to Saxony have been dismissed as grossly exaggerating the gravity of the situation, although the minister of defense, who now is military dictator, has ordered additional contingents to Saxony industrial sectors which are being terrorized by communists mobs. The Reichwehr will be used with discretion in connection with pacifying the situation in Saxony. President Ebert is desirous of avoiding too rigorous procedure there, despite the insistence by the Munich government that the central authorities forthwith proceed to bring Saxony's red regime to time and that a condition of public safety be established there like that obtaining in Bavaria.

The immediate fate of the Ruhr and the Rhineland constitutes an outstanding source for apprehension in cabinet circles, especially as Chancellor

GERMANY STALLS FOR NEW ELECTION?

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—There is a growing conviction in diplomatic and political circles here that the German government is maneuvering in an attempt to hold off any definite agreement regarding the payment of reparation until after the French general elections next spring. Berlin is declared in these circles to have political agents in France, in touch with the leaders of the opposition parties which are forming coalition to fight the government majority in the chamber of deputies.

This new combination, comprising the radicals, republican-socialists and socialists, hopes to regain control of parliament, in which case Germany might count on less vigorous if not more generous treatment from France. A victory for this coalition would mean the immediate departure of Poincare, to be succeeded by Herriott or Painleve, neither of whom is credited with the vigor and tenacity of the present premier.

Huge Diploma "Ring" Discovered By Confesssion in St. Louis—Price of Diplomas Ranges From $5 to $1,000.

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—The belief that approximately 15,000 physicians are practicing in the United States under bogus licenses obtained through the fraudulent issuance of high school and medical school diplomas by "rings" in various parts of the country, was expressed here today by William F. Sachs, former examiner for the Missouri school department, in a confession to Howard Sidener, circuit attorney.

Sachs, who was sought by police since Monday in connection with the expose here of a "diploma ring" which was selling diplomas to unqualified persons, voluntarily appeared at Circuit Attorney Sidener's office and in a long conference admitted his part in the "mill."

Explaining his part in the "mill" Sachs told Sidener that he had sold principally the high school certificates, although admitted having sold a few medical school diplomas. He said during the last 10 years he had sold approximately 1,000 high school diplomas for sums ranging from $5 to $100.

FEDERAL ORDER PRESERVES ALL ELECTION VOTES

Want to Preserve Records to Contest Mayfield Senate Seat

ASK FOR RECEIVER

Ballot Box Clause Hearing to Determine Receivership October 30

By The Associated Press.

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 19.—A restraining order enjoining election officials of Texas from destroying or interferring with, in any way, ballots of the general election of last November, in which the Mayfield-Peddy senate race figures, was granted late today by Judge James C. Wilson in federal court here.

The petition, sweeping in its scope, names all county clerks of Texas and several hundred presiding judges in election precincts as defendants, and asks that the restraining order be issued to preserve the ballots and election records for use as evidence in the contest of Mayfield's seat in the senate, it recites the contest petition was filed by Peddy on February 12, 1923, and according to a Texas election law may be burned on or after November 8, 1923. This date is before congress assembles in its next session, or before a hearing on the contest could be held, it further recites.

The order was granted on petition filed in behalf of George E. B. Peddy by his attorney, Luther Nickels of Dallas.

Peddy's petition also asked the court to appoint receivers in all counties of the state to take possession of the ballot boxes and all election records and a hearing on this clause of the petition was ordered set for Amarillo at 10 o'clock October 30.

WICHITA COUNTY BALLOTS SAVED

The Wichita county ballots for the general election last November are still on hand and have not been destroyed Mrs. Alma Y. Miller, county clerk and J. W. Meadors, deputy clerk, said last night.

Meadors was of the opinion the ballots must be held for one year following a state election. This opinion is in line with the Peddy injunction granted yesterday which says ballots could be destroyed after next November, 8, had not the injunction been granted.

Californian Named New Legion Leader

Owsley Hands Over Commandership to Man of Typical Western Cowboy Type—Vigorous Bonus Fight to Continue.

By The Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Oct. 19.—A tired hand yielded the executive management of the American Legion to a newly elected national commander Alvin Owsley, retiring commander, turned over to John R. Quinn, of California, the responsibility of guiding the destinies of the legion for 1923-24, at the close of the fifth annual convention of the organization here tonight.

Owsley, weary from his year's strife his 63,000 miles of traveling during his administration on behalf of the legion, and showing a loss of 25 pounds, smiled a wan smile as he took Commander Quinn by the hand and said, "I turn you over to the mercies of the newspaper men, the photographers and the public."

A far different type of man took up Owsley's burden. Quinn, cowboy and a typical westerner of the open plains, immediately announced he would dedicate his administration to conducting a vigorous campaign to obtain immediate passing of the ex-service mens' adjusted compensation act, and a close and human contact between the disabled vets and the government agencies in charge of rehabilitation and hospitalization.

Quinn was elected on the eleventh ballot. His total vote was 502, compared with 342 for James Adrian of Washington, D. C., 80 for Clarence R. Edwards of Boston, and 54 for Wilder S. Metcalf of Kansas, with 15 absent or not voting.

The following national vice-commanders were elected:

Ryan Duffy, Fond Du Lac, Wis. Thurman Mann, High Point, N. C.; Wm. B. Healy, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; C. M. Stoddard, Arizona, and Lester Albert, Idaho.

The only other elective offices in the legion that of national chaplain was filled by Earn C. Clemans of Minnesota, who was elected by acclamation.

While the convention was officially closed late today until next October, when it will convene in St. Paul, a grand ball was held here tonight, a part of the official program. Four bands were on hand to furnish mu-

EJECT WITNESS IN STOKES SUIT

Woman Tells of Seeing Mrs. Stokes in "Compromising" Situations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Injury to a juror's leg this afternoon caused adjournment until Monday of the Stokes divorce re-trial after Hattie Johnson, negress active in procuring witnesses for W. E. D. Stokes in his suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, had been ejected from the court room on suspicion of coaching witnesses with a huge gold crucifix and Mrs. Stokes had been accused in a sworn statement read to the jury of "trickery" in inducing a witness to sign an affidavit.

Juror number 12, J. E. Grogan, sent word to Supreme Court Justice Mahoney shortly before 3 o'clock that his leg had been hurt and he would like to be excused. Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes was cross-examining a minor witness. He raised no objection to immediate recess until next week.

Mr. Untermyer was questioning Jane Carter, negress witness for the wealthy hotel owner, when Isadore Sapiro, an associate attorney, interrupted him in an undertone and Mr. Untermyer moved rejection of Hattie Johnson, announcing, next season. Justice Mahoney ordered a court attendant to lead her from the court room without asking an explanation. Charles E. Erstein, also of Mrs. Stokes' counsel, said personally he and court room had called his attention to Hattie Johnson's nods and peculiar movements with a cross she wore around her neck.

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes, objected that jurors "must have overheard" Mr. Shapiro's whispered statement, but Justice Mahoney declined to recall Hattie Johnson, who was removed from the court room at the previous trial on the same charges.

Two affidavits of Mrs. Charles Williams of Bethel, Conn., were read to the jury. The first, read by Mr. Steur, told of seeing a red-haired woman, whom she afterward identified in Mr. Stokes' office as Mrs. Stokes, in compromising situations on the lawn and in a bedroom of the Bethel house of W. L. Pepperman, near her home. The jury was told Mrs. Williams had sworn to seeing Mrs. Stokes there with Edgar T. Wallace, chief correspondent, and a former roommate of Pepperman, who she said was at the house with Miss Daisy Hay.

sic for the dancers and 2,000 San Francisco girls were on hand to see that no legionnaire was partnerless.

"Quinn made this statement after his election:

"As national commander of the American Legion, I shall endeavor always to interpret the ideals and achieve the aims of my comrades in service. I shall carry on the fight the legion has always waged for the disabled men and women, who gave so much for their country. I shall seek to secure a close and human and correct between them and the governmental agencies dealing with their welfare.

"I shall conduct an active and vigorous campaign to secure the immediate passage of the adjusted compensation act, urged by the fifth national convention of the legion.

"With the help of the thousands of men who have dedicated their lives to the principles set forth in the preamble of the American Legion constitution and who now constitute the membership of the American Legion, I expect to see the accomplishment of greater deeds to the benefit or our glorious republic."

The first communication received by the newly elected commander was a letter signed by M. E. Saville, formerly colonel in the 91st division, in which Commander Quinn was urged to drop his plan to fight for the bonus. Saville said in part:

"The hope of the legion is demanding a bonus from the federal treasury is a forlorn and hopeless one, because it is not sound. Drop the federal bonus idea. It is a state proposition. As I understand it, the legion could once show a couple million names on its roll, and now it has dropped to something like 400,000 paid up.

"Drop all committee teachers and let everything be in open meetings, so that the whole world will see the cards on the table and come to know just what you and I know, namely, that the defenders of the country are its best assets. Then your membership will not wane, and many who are holding aloof will join the legion. Otherwise, the spirit of Americanism in the country is bound to crush the legion."

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Oct. 19.—John R. Quinn, new national commander of the American Legion, is a native Californian, born in Portersville, July 13, 1880. He was graduated from the University of California in 1912.

Quinn's candidacy was advanced first by Delano and Bakersfield posts and he obtained the endorsement of the state convention last month.

Quinn was elected commander of the department of California, American Legion, at the state convention held in Yosemite in August, 1921. He had been a member of the state executive committee before that time.

During the world war Quinn was a captain in the 34th Field Artillery, a unit of the 91st division. He made an enviable record in France and was cited for bravery in action.

After graduating from college he aided his father, Harry Quinn, a pioneer of Rich Grove, near Delano, on the latter's farm, and engaged in raising cattle and wheat. He is married and has three children.

Quinn, since the expiration of his term as state commander, has been engaged in veterans bureau work in San Francisco.

Inset, Margaret Herrick, who waited for the bus as it started across the track and who saw the accident.

The coronor's verdict as to the cause of the tragedy at Rootstown grade crossing, near Ravenna, O., which snuffed out the lives of eight school children and injured three others, will not be known until the driver of the school bus, injured in the wreck, is able to testify. In the meantime inspectors for the state public utilities commission who investigated the wreck and conditions at the crossing intimate that they will report the crossing as dangerous and suggest elimination of such types of crossings. The bus was struck by a fast Pensylvania train as the horse-drawn vehicle was on its way to a central school with its morning load of children. Three of the dead belonged in one family. Another mother saw four of her children climb into the bus, to find one of them dead a few minutes later, another injured and two unable to tell how they escaped. The bus usually crossed at train time and had had narrow escapes.

EXPERIMENT ON COTTON IS PLAN

Propose Company to Demonstrate Advantages of Irrigation

A promised development of the irrigation project was discussed yesterday before the business council of the chamber of commerce, at its noonday luncheon at the Kemp, when it was suggested that a company be formed to promote the planting of several hundred acres in cotton in the Wichita valley to demonstrate that irrigated cotton will pay. The intent is to encourage colonization by demonstrating to the farmers that irrigated cotton will greatly increase the revenue per acre.

C. H. Clark, giving credit for the idea to Clint Wood, outlined the plan as suggested in an informal discussion, 1,000 acres being talked of for the project. It was later suggested however, that from three to five hundred acres would be sufficient. The idea was advanced that the land could be obtained for a nominal rental, and perhaps some of it free. A corporation with something like $25,000 capital would be organized, stock being sold to landowners and citizens interested in the experiment.

Mr. Wood, Mr. Clark, Reese Allen and Judge A. H. Britain all viewed the proposition favorably. Judge Britain suggesting that it should be handled entirely outside the association of landowners recently formed or the chamber of commerce. This met with unanimous approval. It would be solely a private corporation, but it is believed much favorable publicity would result from such a demonstration, and the men interested realize on their investment.

Definite plans probably will be made in the near future.

GOVERNOR'S

tional government should exercise its full power and authority in dealing with these questions.

"We believe that chief executives of every state should be zealous in the enforcement of the prohibition law and should urge upon every state official a strict observance and enforcement of the same.

"We believe that the state and federal officers should co-operate fully in preventing the violation of our prohibition law and in making effective the will of our people in regard to its enforcement. New conditions impose new responsibilities. People who violate one law will the more readily be guilty of violating other laws.

"Therefore the individual states should share with the federal government the duty and responsibility of enforcing the 18th amendment.

"We pledge you, as governors, our fullest co-operation and effort."

Hard-up Collectors Sell Art Treasures to America

By The Associated Press.

LONDON.—Art collectors from America have sent more treasures to America since the war than were purchased by Americans during the 20 years previous to 1914.

English collectors explain that this is the result of the need for cash which is being actually felt in England. Many formerly wealthy art collectors are forced to sell their possessions in order to meet high taxation and living costs. There seems to be no such condition among the American collectors, for their English agents are everywhere and always ready to seize upon any treasures that are for sale. In fact, so anxious are some of the agents to buy that they have adopted the method of calling on well known collectors and making them offers for various objects.

INTER-GERMANY

Stresemann is without the slightest inkling as to the intentions of M. Poincare, the French premier since Poincare dismissed Herr Von Hoesch the German charge in the affairs, with a wholly negative reply to Von Hoesch's recent proposals.

By The Associated Press.

ESSEN, Germany, Oct. 19.—The situation in the Ruhr, so far as the workmen are concerned, took a turn for the worse today because complications have arisen between the employers and the trade unionists, the entire difficulty growing out of the troubles of the industrialists in getting affairs back on a paying basis.

Beginning next week, it was announced, Berlin would discontinue sending funds into the Ruhr, which for months have been the sole support of hundreds of workmen's families. The employers asserted that strenuous measures must be taken to prevent the wholesale shutting down of industry which would result in many thousands being added to the unemployed lists, now larger than at any time since the occupation began.

Full restoration of the Ruhr and Rhineland railroad properties, including all rolling stock as it was on January 10, is demanded by the French, it was announced today, the cost to be borne by the reich. According to notification received by German officials, under the new arrangements, operations will be carried on with German trainmen, all high posts resting in the hands of the French officials, who will have absolute command of the entire lines, with the exception of the Cologne-British zone.

WORKS CHOSEN TO HEAD SURVEY

Cornell Man Is to Direct State Educational Inspection

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 19.—The state educational survey commission today selected Dr. G. A. Works, of Cornell University, to direct the survey of all tax supported schools in Texas, as provided for in an act of the last legislature.

Details of the contract are to be arranged by a committee composed of Dr. P. W. Horn, president of Southwestern University, Georgetown; Dr. T. D. Brooks, chairman school of education, Baylor University, Waco, and Tom Finty, Jr., of Dallas. Representative R. M. Chitwood of Sweetwater, who already had an engagement to visit Cornell about the last of this month, was commissioned to consult with Dr. Works as to these details if necessary.

Dr. Works directed a rural school survey of the state of New York in 1921, and also conducted a rural school survey in Manitoba; he is professor of rural education in the state school of agriculture in Cornell. Last spring he visited the Texas state capital and while there addressed the legislature. He is on the program for the convention of the Texas State Teachers' association, to be held in Fort Worth on November 28-30. Dr. Brooks and Dr. T. H. Shelby, now director of the extension department of the University of Texas, assisted Dr. Works in the New York survey. At that time they were in the graduate school of the University of Chicago.

All members of the survey commission attended today's session, save the president, Governor Neff, who is enroute to Washington to attend the convention of governors called by President Coolidge. The commission adjourned subject to call, but with the understanding it probably will meet in Fort Worth a day or two in advance of the teachers convention.

GERMANS ARE BACK TO FRENCH WINES

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN.—There is reason to believe that "passive resistance," unless constantly fed with new fuel to keep it alive, will, in the course of time, die a natural death.

Such seems to be the case in Berlin.

French wines, which were boycotted after the occupation of the Ruhr last January, now are offered in whispers to known patrons at some of the first class Berlin hotels, and are displayed in show windows of down town wine stores. Even French cognac is served, provided it is asked for quietly, at many of the bars patronized by foreigners.

The sign "No French or Belgians served here," which appeared like magic over all Berlin almost as soon as the French troops set foot in Essen, have disappeared from most first class cafes and restaurants. They are, however, still displayed prominently at many of the shops in the suburbs and in the beer halls where the patrons are chiefly Germans.

CHARGE AGENCIES MULCT TEACHERS

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 19.—Investigation by the state labor department has revealed several cases where teacher employment agencies have charged teachers 10 per cent of the first year's salary for placing the teachers in positions, despite the new Texas law limiting the fee to 2½ per cent of the first month's salary, Labor Commissioner Joseph B. Myers Wednesday asked the attorney general's department for a ruling on what steps can be taken to stop overcharges, where agencies are operating without the required license, injunctions to prevent their doing business in Texas, it was announced.

The attorney general's department was also asked to rule on steps which may be taken against out-of-state agencies which overcharge teacher clients.

Instances were reported where a teacher in A. & M. college was placed in his position by a New Orleans labor agency on a fee of five per cent of the annual salary, and of another instance where a position was secured for a teacher in the East Texas State Teacher college, under a similar contract.

Empress—Wesley Barry in "The Printer's Devil."

Gem—Bill Hart. in "The Shooting Gambler." Also Buster Keaton comedy.

Edith York Plays "Mother."

A problem confronted the casting director who chose the players for "Mothers-in-Law," the Preferred Picture, opening next week at the Olympic Theater. To find an actress of advancing years sufficiently capable to hold the center of the story in this drama of domestic life was no easy task. After giving screen tests to dozens of applicants he finally awarded the part of Edith Yorke, who has long been loved for her interpretation of "mother" roles in such pictures as "Homespun Folks," "Souls for Sale" and "Merry-Go-Round."

Talking Pictures.

The National Press club was entertained at Washington, D. C., last Saturday with the first local showing of the 1923 model of talking pictures.

On the program were a humorous talk by Irvin S. Cobb, a tenor solo by Earnest Davis of the Metropolitan Opera company, addresses by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Walter Damrosch and D. W. Griffith.

Gloria Can Weep.

Who said "Tears, Idle Tears?"

While the thermometer in New York was breaking heat records of thirty years' standing, Gloria Swanson set a record for sustained emotionalism in a scene for "Zaza" during the filming of that superb production at the Paramount Long Island studio. Miss Swanson remained in tears constantly during five hours for one of the most dramatic scenes in the picture. So far as is known she established a record for sustained emotion that has never been equalled by any screen star.

Miss Swanson's remarkable work was done in Zaza's love nest when Zaza learns that her sweetheart, Dufresne, has a wife and that he is leaving France for America. She runs the gamut of emotions in the scene, passing rapidly from hate to frenzy, mockery to jealousy and then to bitter contrition.

Tears roll from Miss Swanson's eyes throughout the sequence. When the electricians were changing the lights for new photographic angles of the action, she sat in a corner and cried softly for herself, keeping in character from the time Director Dwan started the scene until he finished it four hours later, without a break except for necessary technical delays.

"She is the most remarkable actress I ever saw on stage or screen," declared Mr. Dwan. "Her work in this picture has been amazing. She spaces perfecly and there seems to be no limit to the depths of her emotion." "Zaza" comes to the Olympic Theater for a 4 days' run next week.

Watch a Skyscraper Grow.

Motion pictures will show for the first time the growth of an American skyscraper, when the film, now being taken of the thirty-two story Straus building, Michigan avenue's highest office building, is released in December. When finished the pictures will have made it possible for theater audiences to see within twenty minutes the growth of a skyscraper from the digging of the caissons to the completed building.

In order to carry this out, a special motion picture cage has been constructed in Grant Park, Chicago, where every morning for the next three months, a film operator will take twenty to thirty feet of film. Close-ups will also be taken of the placing of the tile arch flooring, the setting of the steel columns, the riveting gangs, and numerous human interest features.

When completed the pictures will be loaned to engineering schools for the purpose of illustrating building construction methods.

Danes Like U. S. Movies.

Adam Poulsen, Denmark's foremost tragedian, paid his first visit to an American motion picture studio this week when he saw the making of scenes for "Yolanda," Marion Davies next big picture, at the Cosmopolitan studio.

He evinced particular enthusiasm in the work of Miss Davies, Lyn Harding, Holbrook Blinn and other members of the cast and stated American pictures are becoming more popular in Denmark every year.

Sees Brother in Film.

Commotion was caused in the Woodlawn theater, Chicago, this week when Mrs. A. W. Ruff, of Marquette Road, recognized her brother, A. A. Earle, in the Pathe News picture, showing the Japanses earthquake scenes. She had not heard from him in ten years.

Mr. Earle is a Pathe cameraman and was promptly on the job during and after the earthquake and appeared for a few minutes in one of the pictures. Through local Pathe officials Mrs. Ruff was able to get his address and has taken steps to communicate with him.

Claire Windsor,

regarded by artists as America's most beautiful woman, is in New York working in "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model". She will be seen soon in the leading role of "The Eternal Three" a Marshall Neilan production for Goldwyn-Cosmopolitan release.

"America" Being Filmed.

Riding with a thousand horsemen along the hills and through the valleys of Putnam county, New York, D. W. Griffith has begun the big outdoor scenes for his forthcoming Revolutionary War picture for which "America" has been chosen as the title.

Secretary of War Weeks has instructed the War Department to lend every reasonable assistance to the production of this patriotic film which was undertaken at the suggestion of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

At the little town of Somers Mr. Griffith has established an encampment for several thousand players and soldiers, with complete water supply, commissary, electric and sanitation installment. Three farms have been surrendered by their owners as a site for the encampment which covers a hillside for the space of a mile.

Holubar Plan Costumes.

Allen Holubar has about completed preparation before beginning actual production of "The Human Mill"—the picturization of John Trotwood Moore's novel, "The Bishop of Cottontown," which forms one of the big units of the Metro 1923-1924 program.

Mr. Holubar is now supervising the designing of the various costumes which the players will wear and also the construction of several important sets. The story of Mr. Holubar's production is laid in the South during the turbulent days of the reconstruction period.

Eve Unsell is preparing the screen adaptation for Mr. Holubar.

LONGSHOREMAN TAKE U. S. BOARD OFFER

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19.—Striking union longshoremen and screwmen here today voted to accept tentatively the offer of the United States shipping board of 80 cents an hour and return to work Monday under a gentlemen's agreement while their officials were negotiating several points as regards working rules.

This action settles the situation here only in part, shipping operators said, for only those concerns operating shipping board vessels are compelled to accept the terms. Independent concerns and foreign shipping companies expect to continue operating with non-union labor with a wage scale of 65 cents an hour, the prevailing pay when the union men quit to enforce a demand for 80 cents and a change in the working rules.

Twenty per cent of the tonnage of the ports has been handled for several years with non-union labor while the other 80 per cent worked union men.

MOS ELECT NEXT MARCH

ational Delegates from 17 States Chosen for That Time

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Democrats in 17 states will select their delegates to the national convention this year by direct vote in a series of primaries beginning in March.

A tabulation of the dates of these primaries has been made public by the democratic national committee. In many cases they coincide with the date on which the voters will express their preference among presidential candidates, although in some states selecting delegates directly there will be no preferential vote for president, the delegations being either instructed by state convention or left uninstructed.

In many states, too, democratic and republican voters will go to the polls to select their delegates on the same day. The list of republican primaries, however, has not been completed at headquarters of the republican national committee.

The democratic list follows:

Alabama	May 13
California	May 6
Florida	June 3
Illinois (district delegates only)	April 8
Massachusetts	April 29
Montana	May 27
Nebraska	April 15
New Hampshire	March 11
New Jersey	April 22
New York	April 1
North Dakota	March 18
Ohio	April 29
Oregon	May 16
Pennsylvania	May 20
South Dakota (meeting Dec. 4, 1923, to propose delegates)	March 18
West Virginia	May 27
Wisconsin	April 1

In Louisiana the method of selecting delegates chosen in district convention is left to the state committee; the usual custom is to call a state convention for the purpose. Other states in which selection of delegates is left to state committees are Arizona, Arkansas and Washington.

In practically all states in which conventions are called to select delegates, the convention dates are set by the state committees. At the Illinois, New York and North Carolina conventions delegates-at-large only are selected; in Maryland the convention follows the presidential preferential primary of May 5; in Michigan the date is usually about May 15; in Nevada the platform convention is held June 24; district delegates are chosen in district conventions in North Carolina; the South Carolina convention is usually some time in May. In only one state is the convention date fixed, Wyoming, where convention day will be May 12.

There will be 1,094 delegates at the 1924 democratic national convention, and 729 1-2 votes will be required to nominate.

HOCK SHOPS TO DIGNIFY BUSINESS

By The Associated Press.

LONDON.—London pawnbrokers are going up in the world. The latest example of this is the erection of an eighteenth century guild building among the many other famous guilds of London.

The pawnbrokers will moreover in the future co-operate on a plan similar to the old guilds and will live up to the reputation of the guilds, by having elaborate annual dinners in observance of all the holidays peculiar to their trade.

The trade in London has an ancient record going back to the thirteenth century when the Lombard merchants were great money-lenders and played the chief part in the exchanges and money brokerage shops of those days. They kept up connection with the wealthy Italian republics.

The pre-eminence of the Medici family at Florence in commercial and financial matters caused the London merchants to adopt part of the arms of this house as a trade sign, from which comes the familiar three golden balls.

CORFU BOOTBLACK VIE WITH THE U. S.

By The Associated Press.

CORFU.—The American shoe shine parlor manned by Greeks is the transplanting of a timeworn profession from their old country. Corfu is a city of 30,000 people but it has a shoe shiner for about every 300 inhabitants or about 100 shoe shiners. There are so many of them that a prospective customer is beseiged with offers of "the best shine in town," and often, the competition is so keen that the successful polisher is dealt a stealthy blow as he kneels to perform his function.

All Corfu gets its shoes shined by the 100 professionals. Lines of them occupy the main squares of the city and men, women and children from every walk in life are lined up for the morning shine. The variety of shoes too is perplexing, but the Greek polisher goes ahead and gives the best that is in him. It is strange that here at the very begining of the Near East the best shine in Europe may be secured. In England and France, there is nothing like the brilliant American shine. But here, there is the perfect reproduction of the glittering American brand and one is forced to wonder if America imported it from the Greeks or the Greeks from America.

More Witnesses Testify Against Cook Operation

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 19.—Testifying that he knew the oil business was a gamble, and that he purchased stock in the Petroleum Producers association after he had lost on investments of approximately 15 other companies, C. L. McCoy, lumberman, of Edna, Kans., took the witness stand for the government this afternoon in the trial in federal court here of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, artic explorer and oil operator, and his 13 co-defendants, charged with using the United States mails to defraud.

Through McCoy the government continued its presentation of the huge mass of literature alleged to have been sent through the mails by Dr. Cooks' association to prospective stock buyers.

McCoy testified that he purchased 35 shares of stock in the Amalgamated Petroleum association and said that he had stock in a number of other companies which were later merged with the Petroleum Producers' association. He also testified that as each of the companies were absorbed he sent in a cash payment representing 25 per cent of the face value of the stock to care for the merger requirements.

The witness identified a sheaf of stock certificates and cancelled checks, introduced as evidence. The checks were given, he said, by him in payment for the stock certificates.

On cross examination McCoy declared that he purchased the stock in the various companies on the strength of newspaper advertisements.

William Harrington, Monongohela, Pa., went on the stand shortly before court adjourned. He testified he owned 1,750 shares of stock in the Cox Realization company for which he paid 50 and 60 cents a share. He said he transferred the holdings into the Petroleum Producers' association and paid $438 to that company at the time.

PHILIPPINO SOLONS WANT BACK BARONG

By The Associated Press.

MANILA.—Restoration of the colorful native "barong" as the attire of Filipino legislators, is proposed in a resolution submitted by Representative Rafael Villaneuva in the house of representatives. Heretofore native lawmakers have sported the approved American dress, but many believe it would be more partiotic to return to the original fashion of the Philippines.

The "barong" is a shirt-like garment, with a narrow neck-band and takes the place of both shirt and coat. Worn outside the belt of the trousers, it gives Americans the impression that the wearer had dressed hastily and neglected to tuck his shirt into his trousers.

Representative Villaneuva's resolution, recommending a boycott of foreign apparel, affects women's dress as well, and bans all evening gowns made of imported materials.

GLAD TO BE OF ASSISTANCE

Wichita Falls feels complimeted that her counsel was sought by the men of southern Oklahoma who are looking toward the development of irrigation in that state. Hubert M. Harrison of the chamber of commerce recently visited Ardmore and, upon the invitation of Oklahoma men back of the movement, presented to the embryo irrigation congress, facts and figures which were developed in the Wichita valley irrigation project.

The information was gratefully received and cheerfully given. Wichita Falls is glad to be of whatever assistance it may to the Oklahomans. They are beginning to realize the advantages of irrigation, and while they have much ahead of them, it can be accomplished there as well as elsewhere.

Wichita Falls stands ready at all times to assist in their plans.

FOLKS ARE JUST FOLKS.

O. O. McIntyre is a newspaper writer of reputation. His hobby is matters of human interest. And he makes a very respectable living out of his hobby. McIntyre lives in New York, and probably is the only resident of that city who sees its faults through clear eyes and isn't for the wonder city one hundred per cent. He is as quick to pick flaws as to praise.

In a recent article he comments at some length on the sociable—not social—side of New York. He says that New York's apparent aloofness is all on the surface. That "humanity in New York, as well as in the small town, has a fashion of striking its average. People from New York and people from the small town have a way at times of meeting one another with a chip on the shoulder. Remove the chip and they swing into a waltz."

Isn't it so? Did you ever happen to remark to a friend that you rather liked So-And-So, and have him reply that So-And-So was a scoundrel of the worst sort, unlikable and altogether not to be considered?

And yet you liked the man. Why this vast difference of opinion? Merely that the two of you knew the same man differently. The man in question doubtless was neither a scoundrel nor a faultless man. One saw his best side; the other his worst.

The circumstances under which we meet people have a lot to do with it. And if a person can be forgiving and take these things into consideration, they will increase their list of friends thereby.

As far as the small town man and the big town man are concerned, McIntyre is right. A man in Wichita Falls can be a big man in every sense of the word, or a New Yorker can be so small and narrow that he could crawl between the palings of an old-fashioned picket fence with ease.

As was once remarked by the late John M. Siddall, keen student of human nature, your post office address is the least important thing about you. It is what you are—not where you are that counts in the matter of personality.

After all, folks are just folks.

CASEY IS THE IDOL NOW

Babe Ruth came back and was the idol of the hour. The very next day after the comeback 65,000 fans payed fabulous prices for tickets to see Babe score a second comeback and make the Yanks the victors.

Babe didn't come back a second time and Casey Stengel became the idol of the fans and the pride of the Giants. Fame at best is a fleeting thing. But money is easy in New York, particularly in the sporting world.

WHERE WINE FLOWS

Canada is four parts wet and one part dry. That is, there are four provinces which are moist and one province, Ontario, which prohibits the manufacturer of wine, with this restriction, the farmer who turns his grapes into wine is privileged to sell it, but he musn't advertise the business.

There are thousands of grape growers in Ontario. They are wine makers, they sell their product but they musn't advertise. It is against the law.

NOT SURE HE WANTS IT.

Eugene V. Debs may or may not be the socialist standard bearer again in 1924. Debs has been a candidate for president five times, has been in jail five times and is telling his friends that, he is not so anxious to be a presidential candidate a sixth time. This is peace time. Debs, should he accept the nomination, may break the hoodoo and avoid the jail term.

What You Trying to Do, Governor, Upset the Band Wagon?

Black Money

BY J. S. FLETCHER AUTHOR OF "SCARHAVEN KEEP" "THE BOROUGH TREASURER" ETC.

Hannaford, former superintendent of police in Sellithwaite, dies suddenly from poison, on a London tube train while in company with

Granett, a chemist apparently in rather hard circumstances. Hannaford and he had been discussing a newspaper portrait of a handsome woman, later identified as

The Hon. Mrs. Whittingham, who ten years before had given a Sellithwaite jeweler a check in payment for a valuable necklace, which later was dishonored. She had been arrested, escaped from Hannaford and disappeared. Later the jeweller received a draft, covering the amount of his loss and interest, from any anonymous sender. His being reimbursed, of course, did not legally absolve Mrs. Whittinham.

Hetherwick, a young well-to-do barrister, witnesses the death of Hannaford and being interested in criminal practice undertakes to find a solution of the mystery.

Matherfield, a police inspector, is the official investigator and he and Hetherwick work on friendly terms. Granett is found dead, apparently from the same mysterious poison that killed Hannaford. A new five-pound note and the torn label of a bottle furnish a clue.

Rhona Hannaford, granddaughter of Hannaford, tells Hetherwick that the former superintendent had dabbled in chemistry and had invented something which, he had said, would make him exeremely rich. This invention it was learned, was probably a superior ink. It is Matherfield's theory that a certain well-dressed man seen with Hannaford on the night of his death is involved. A sealed packet containing the ink formula—which Rhona says Hannaford always carried—was missing.

Lady Riversreade, a wealthy widow, is said by a photographer to be the original of the newspaper portrait. She has founded a home for wounded officers and Hetherwick, puzzled over her apparently identity with the strange Mrs. Whittingham arranges for Rhona to accept a place there as a secretary in order to find out whether there is connection between her and Hannaford's death. For a time Rhona finds nothing to report, but at length tells of the visit of one.

Dr. Baseverie, a very dapper physician, who calls on Lady Riversreade at the Home in Dorking, and remains closeted with her an hour.

"Now his face," continued Rhona. "A face the color of old ivory, eyes black as sloes, and the pallor of the face heightened by a rather heavy black mustache and equally black, slightly crinkled hair, thick enough above the ears but becoming sparse and thin on the crown. Imagine, too, a pair of full red lips above a round but determined chin, and a decidedly hooked nose, and you have—the man Im describing!"

"Um!" reflected Hetherwick. "A foreigner, I'd judge from your description."

"That's just what I thought myself,' 'agreed Rhona. "But the creature's manner and speech were English enough—very English. His explanation of his presence was reasonable commonplace enough—he was deeply interested in the sort of cases we had in the Home, and desired to acquaint himself with our methods and arrangements and so I carried in his card to Lady Riversreade. She is always accessible when there's a doctor in the case, and in two minutes Dr. Baseverie was closeted with her."

"Now although Dr. Baseverie had said to me that he desired to see the Home—which, of course meant his being taken round, he was not taken round. He never left that room from the moment he entered it until the moment in which he left it. And he remained in it an entire hour!"

"With Lady Riversreade?"

"With Lady Riversreade! She never left it, either. At the end of the hour the door suddenly opened, and Dr. Baseverie appeared, hat, gloves and umbrella in hand. He half turned as he came out and said a few words to Lady Riversreade. I heard them. He said: 'Well, then next Friday morning at the same time?' Then he nodded stepped into my room, closed the door behind him, made me a very polite smiling bow as he passed my desk, and, went out."

The Night Club.

Lady Riversreade was much disturbed by Baseveries visit, Rhona went on.

"In fact, I didn't see her again that day, and at 5 o'clock her maid told me she had gone up to town," she said.

"Next morning," suggested Hetherwick.

"Next morning she was just as usual, and things went on in the usual way."

Rhona said she had looked in the medical directory, but could not find Baseverie's name. He was coming back next Friday, she told Hetherwick.

"The thing to do, is to watch and follow him when he goes away!" said Hetherwick.

"Im afraid I'm no use for that! He'd know me."

"But I've got the very man—my clerk, one Mapperly."

Next day Hetherwick told Matherfield the story that he had heard from Rhona. Matherfield grew thoughtful.

"Well, Mr. Hetherwick," he said after a pause, "if this Lady Riversreade is mixed up in it, the thing to do is to go back home and get her history. In the meantime I'm hard at work on my own clues."

"Any luck?" asked Hetherwick.

"Scarcely that. The five-pound note is a difficult matter. It was given in change at Vivian's Night club—but they've no recollection whatever about that particular note or night. Still, the fact remains—that note came through Vivian's and, through one of its frequenters, to Granett."

"And the medicine bottle?" suggested Hetherwick.

"Ah, there is more chance!" responded Matherfield. "That's only a question of time I've got a man going round all the chemists in the West Central district."

"I suppose there's no doubt that there was poison in that bottle?" inquired Hetherwick.

"According to the specialists, none," replied Matherfield. "And in the glass too! Let me know what you find out about Baseverie, Mr. Hetherwick."

Hetherwick duly coached Mapperley in the part he wanted him to play; and as Hetherwick was breakfasting Saturday morning Mapperley walked into his room.

"Spotted him at once at Victoria," he reported. "Followed him down there. He was at Riversreade an hour. Then he went back to Dorking—had lunch at Red Lion. He stopped there till 4 o'clock, lunching and idling. Went back to town by the four-twenty-nine, arriving six-five. I followed him then to the Cafe de Paris. He dined there and hung about till past ten. And then he went to Vivian's Night Club."

Hetherwick pricked up his ears at that. Vivian's Night Club!

Here, at any rate, seemed to be a link in the chain. The five-pound note found on Granett and been traced Vivian's Night Club; now Mapperley had tracked Lady Riversreade's mysterious visitor the same resort.

"To Vivian's Night club, eh, Mapperley?" he said "Let's see—where is that?"

"Entrance is in Chandlestick Passage, off St. Martin's Lane," replied Mapperley. "You didn't give me any further orders than to see where he went, finally, after returning to town. So when I'd run him to earth at Vivian's, I went home. I argued that if he was wanted, further, Vivian's would find him.

For the second time in the course of his investigations, Hetherwick's thoughts turned to his friend Boxley. Boxley's love of intimate acquaintance with all sides of London life had doubtless led him to look in at Vivians; he looked up Boxley.

Boxley knew Vivian's well enough—innocent and innocuous now, said he, what with all these new regulations and so on; degenerated, indeed, or improved, which ever way you regarded it, into a supper club and that sort of thing. Dancing? Oh, yes, there was dancing, and so on—but things had altered, altered.

"Well, I don't want to dance there," said Hetherwick. "What I want to know is something about a man, who I believe frequents the place—a somewhat notable man."

Hetherwick retailed Rhona's description of Baseverie; Boxley nodded.

"I know that man—by sight," he said. "Seen him there. I believe he's something to do with the proprietorship; that place is owned by a small syndicate. But I don't know his name."

Hetherwick, meeting Rhona at the station next day, found his arm immediately grasped in Rhonas right hand and himself twisted round.

"If you want to see Lady Riversreade in the flesh, there she is!" whispered Rhona. "Came up by the same train—there, going toward the bookstall, a tall man with her!"

A fine, handsome, capable-looking woman Hetherwick said to himself.

"Who's the man?" he asked, looking from Lady Riversreade to her companion, a tall, bronzed man of military appearance.

"Major Peteney," replied Rhona. "He's a friend of hers. I believe he's in love with her."

"Anything happen on Friday?"

"Nothing—except that Dr. Baseverie called, and was with her an hour."

"Any signs on her part of being further upset?" asked Hetherwick.

"No—on the contrary, she seemed quite cool after he'd gone," said Rhona. "She made no reference to his visit.

So Goes It

By S. B.

It occurs to us, viewing the situation from the sidelines, that those who are concerned in the prohibition enforcement argument now being waged, are indulging freely in the great American game of passing the buck.

And now they are making an appeal for the anti-cigarette law in Kansas, urging its enforcement. We are surprised and chagrined to learn that the W. C. T. U. of that state puts its o. k. on the pipe and cigar for the grown man, while pleading for him to abandon the cigarette.

What Kansas needs to do is to substitute the word "repeal" for its "appeals" regarding its cigarette law, which, as everyone in that state knows, is a joke, and makes "bootleggers" out of perfectly substantial business men. Law falls into disrepute when no one respects it.

Lloyd George's physicians have ordered him to take a rest. Which reminds us that there are certain persons in England who would be delighted if Lloyd George would give them a rest.

When they got him out of the premier's job they gave him too much spare time for his activities. As the cannibal remarked after he had devoured the missionary, "You just can't keep a good man down."

Every cloud has its silver lining. If the number of motor cars continues to increase in the United States, it will at least lessen the number of pedestrians who might be run down by them.

We are informed that Japanese lanterns are to be higher in price since the earthquake. Oh, well, the lawn fete season is over for the time being anyhow. No one needs a wider supply of Jap lanterns.

The suggestion is made that if farmers produced coal it would be plenty cheap enough.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Leading Reins

One Mother Says:

My two children are close together in age, and I found it hard to give the older one proper exercise while the baby still rode in a coach. Finally I bought a pair of leading reins and attached longer straps to them, then, placing the older child in harness so he could not wander too far, I can take them both in the park at the same time.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

LIBRA

Bad variations rule until 3 p. m. which are rather exciting and tend to haste, change of plans and unexpected difficulties. If you can remain cool and collected the Uranian influences will quicken your intuition and you will be able to solve your present difficulties. The evening is very good for joviality.

A child born today will be affectionate, dutiful and ambitious.

You are rather over-serious if today is your birthday, and although there are times when you can see a joke there is never a time when you can see a joke on yourself quite as readily as when it is on somebody else. You take yourself as a weighty, responsibility and consider yourself the guardian of a truly important soul. Just remember that there are others like you who are in the habit of thinking that the heavens revolve in the benignity of their virtues.

Your mind is not brilliant but it is extremely thorough and logical and in most questions just as righteous concerning your own conduct as in the case of others. You are generous and sympathetic but your charity is not an overflowing well to people whom you disapprove of, and they are not few in number.

Your manner as well as your speech is always direct and frank and once you have uttered your opinions on any topic no argument will change them. If the topic itself perish, you will still feel that you were right about it.

You are in constant need of things you like least, such as violent exercise, people unlike yourself, and revelry and excitement. You are always trying to simplify your life into a regular routine, and just as you do so your personality will solidify for life. Do not let yourself freeze. Live more in the sun and seek the people who treat life as a dance and death as a welcome rest between diversions.

You have great natural force of character and magnetism, but you trammel it with all sorts of doubts and suspicions and you limit your power over others. In the same way you are really ashamed of the vital warmth and affection in you, and you will have no real love life until you learn to abandon yourself to your emotions.

More Truth Than Poetry

TOO RISKY

(A raid on the cobra cage in the Bronx zoo seems to show that the latest thing in burglary is snake stealing.)

As long as burglars were content
With safe and simple pranks,
Like earning money for their rent
By robbing savings banks,
I often envied them their lot
And means of making pelf.
And many a time I used to plot
To try their game myself.

To get a jimmy and a torch
And on the street to lurk,
To watch one's chance to climb a porch
Seemed easier than work.
"Some day," said I, "when I have time
With some good burglar's aid,
I'll study up on modern crime
And play it as a trade."

But now that burglar's seek the zoo,
Select the rattler's lair,
And drill and saw an hour or two
To steal the cobras there,
I'm not so keen to learn their art,
For though the trade is brisk,
It chills me to the very heart
To think about the risk.

I do not mind the blackest nights
Or even thought of jail,
But when I think of cobra's bites
My spirits rather quail.
Most any sacrifice for wealth,
I willingly would make
But I won't jeopardize my health
By stealing any snake.

TIMELY VIEWS on WORLD TOPICS

Bad Conditions In Europe Due to Hatred and Covetousness, Says Senator.

That abnormal conditions in Europe would soon be righted if the nations would give up hatred and covetousness, is the opinion of Kenneth McKellar, U. S. senator from Tennessee, who recently returned from abroad. Says Mr. Kellar:

"The economic situation in Europe is anomalous—splendid crops, trade and commerce good, cost of living and transportation low, industries running. Yet if the various nations were resolved on peace, if they did not covet one another's territory, if they wanted to do right by one another, if they did not hate one another, if they were not bent on war, normal conditions soon would be restored.

"The German industrialists are exploiting the German people, while the French are at the same time occupying German territory, without authority other than force. Of course this leaves Germany in a bad state.

"In Russia the government is chained to communistic fallacies, thus retarding the restoration of that great country.

"Poland is exceedingly prosperous, has abundant crops and her factories are everywhere running, but fears the Russians on one side and the Germans on the other, and so its condition is one of doubt and uncertainty.

"Austria also is prosperous, Vienna especially so, and but for political conditions her economic position would soon be destroyed.

"In France the people are more prosperous perhaps than they have ever been in their history. They have abundant crops and everybody is at work; they have no unemployed and wages are high, but their trouble is an insane desire to acquire more territory and to take imperial Germany's place and become the supreme military power of the world.

"It is doubtful whether France wants Germany to pay reparations. From what I say over there I am rather inclined to believe she much prefers to hold the German territory she now has and to secure other German territory which she covets. The German people are under the domination of the criminal industrialists and the greatest confusion exists in that country. Italy has gone mad over Mussolini, and he, drunk with power, wants to acquire the territory of his neighbors; and, so, with this kind of a leader, Italy is likely to be thrown into war at any time.

"Great Britain, conservative always is having the hardest time getting along. She has more than a million unemployed, and conditions are not good, but she has a conservative government, and such a conservative people that it is only a question of time when she will work out her troubles.

"Spain has had a revolution but the King seems to have joined the revolutionists and no serious harm was done.

THE COLONIZATION QUESTIONNAIRE

Can a Farmer Pay Out at the Price Asked?

It will be remembered that the average price of land was found to be about $170 per acre with a range of from $75 to $1,500 per acre. However after deducting the land that was priced on the basis of acreage tracts for residence purposes along the paved highways it was found that the average price was about $100 per acre.

The prices given for the land is as it stands now and of course with out taking into account the $25 that must be paid for water.

As for the terms offered to the purchaser of the surplus lands one-fourth to one-half down was generally asked and most land owners wanted the balance of their money in three to five years.

The property owners were asked "Do you think a farmer who bought you land at the price and terms you ask could pay out raising the crops you advise?"

As might be expected most of the owners passed the question up without comment, but 11 said "Yes."

One said "No."

Three said "It all depends upon the man, if he works hard and is industrious he can pay out."

Two said they "didn't know."

It would naturally be expected that every man would answer "Yes" to such a question, so it is somewhat of a surprise to find about one-third of them in doubt.

Ice Cream Industry Flourishes in America

By The Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—While it is generally accepted that ice cream was first made in Italy, perhaps at about the time America was discovered, it was left to the United States to develop the industry on a great scale, Professor Martin Mortensen, head of the department of dairying in the Iowa state college, said today before the world's dairy congress.

It is thought that ice cream was introduced into France about 1550, and the earliest printed record of it in England was found in a housekeeping magazine published in 1786. But it was not until 1851 that the first wholesale ice cream business was started by Jacob Russell in Baltimore.

The ice cream business in the United States increased from 80,000,000 gallons in 1909 to 263,529,000 gallons in 1922. The ice cream cone, invented in 1904, was a great factor in making ice cream popular.

Professor Mortensen attributed the great success of the industry to the sound business principles employed by the men who entered it. He said the rapid development of machinery, trade journals and instruction in colleges in the art of ice cream making had done much to increase the business.

Opera in Buenos Aires Lacks Public Support

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES. — This city possesses one of the finest opera houses in the world, the Colon. Of recent years the attendance has decreased steadily until today the management is confronted with serious financial difficulties.

Various arguments have been advanced to account for this condition—the local business depression and a change in the public taste since the war—but the most popular answer is that the United States is making opera too expensive for the rest of the world.

America attracts the best artists with high salaries, and even in the summer time, it is alleged, famous singers make more money from concert tours and working for phonograph companies. Hence they have no inclination to come to South America.

ZONA GALE In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On

LOVE'S DOUBLE HEART-BEAT

Is there a new love abroad in the world? Ellen Key says so in a book called "The Evolution of Love."

"The new love," she writes, "is still the natural attraction of man and woman to each other for the continuance of the race. It is still the desire of the active human being to relieve through comradeship the hardships of another and of himself at the same time.

"But above this eternal nature of love, beyond this primeval cause of marriage, another longing has grown with increasing strength. This is not directed toward the continuance of the race. It has sprung from man's sense of loneliness within his race, a loneliness which is ever greater as his soul is exceptional.

"It is the pining for that human soul which is to release our own from this torment of solitude; a torment which was formerly allayed by repose in God, but which now seeks its rest with an equal, with a soul empowered by love to the miracle of redeeming our soul—as itself by ours is redeemed—from the sense of being stranger upon earth; a soul before whose warmth our own lets fall the covering that the world's coldness has imposed upon it and shows its secrets and its glories without shame. * * *

"What is new about it is that this sentiment has become diffused and has taken its shape in the consciousness of the many; that it is beginning to set its stamp upon the whole spirit of the age."

One would not suspect it in reading the sex novels, seeing the sex movies of the day. But perhaps this apparent absorption in sex, in its scientific as well as its aesthetic phases, represents an attempt to surmount sex, to transcend the limitations which the world so long has accepted as inevitable.

"Of love's double heart beat—the finding one's self and the forgetting one's self inanother—the first is now considerably more advanced than the second," writes this same author.

Movies, most novels, most plays are preoccupied with the first of the double heart beat. But if the great Scandinavian woman is right there is a race growing up which will demand pictures, literature, drama, more concerned with the other heart beat—the forgetting of these self hich lifts love to something akin to religion. Then, perhaps, "the torment which was formerly allowed by reposes in God," will return to its old place of rest. For when love shall be, then it will be at home with the eternal forces ruling the universe. Forces for which the briefer name is God.

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a married woman, thirty-three years old. I have a good husband and four children, the oldest being seven and the baby sixteen months. My husband makes a fair salary and is as generous as he can be, but with so many to provide for he cannot do all for his family that he would like to do. I do all my own work and the sewing for the children and myself. You can see that I do not have a lot of time to waste, and really I am so busy most of the time that it is ten o'clock at night before I can put away my mending and go to bed.

Two weeks ago an aunt of mine, my mother's sister came to visit me. I have no relatives living in this town and so I looked forward to her visit with my whole heart. I have enjoyed having her with me, but she is more of a guest than I expected her to be. She does not help with the work in any way. Even when I am in the kitchen doing dishes she stands and talks with me, but does not offer to wipe.

Yesterday morning something happened which made me rebellous about having a guest who demands so much. One of the children was sick and I had her to wait on just at the time I was getting my little boy off to school. I was not able to get my aunt's breakfast then because I was too busy. It was an hour after she got up before I could serve her coffee, rolls, eggs and bacon. She seemed irritable and after the meal told me that she would have to her her breakfast as soon as she got up because she got faint.

My aunt says nothing about leaving and I don't know how long I will have her with me. My child is still sick and it seems to me I cannot have a guest around any longer. What would you advise me to do?

MRS. D. W. B.

Tell your aunt that because of your sick child you can no longer treat her as a guest. Say that she can help you a great deal if she will get her own breakfasts and make herself one of the family, expecting to do for herself. She may not take kindly to the suggestion and therefore leave after a day or two. I really believe when you no longer do so much for her she will shorten her visit.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl seventeen years old and just enrolled in high school this year. In one of my classes there is a very handsome boy who is very popular. He looks and looks at me as if he would like to know me. How can I give him a chance to know me and take me out? All the other girls have dates and I never do. AMY MAY.

You are mistaken when you say all the other girls have dates, because many girls of your age have never had any attention from a young man. It is not your place to make advances to the boy in your class. If he is interested in you as you think he is, he will find a way to know you better.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am twenty-one years old and have been going with a boy who is twenty for almost four years. I love this boy with my whole heart, but I am not sure that he still loves me, because I haven't treated him exactly fair. He really did love me once—we were engaged and planning to have a happy future together as soon as he finished college, but I have acted a fool and broke the engagement five months ago.

After I became engaged to him I met another boy who lived nearer to me and I soon thought I loved him more. Then I found fault over almost nothing and in a fit of anger broke the engagement, later becoming engaged to the other boy. I did not go with this boy long and so were soon "all off."

Not long afterward I received a letter from the first boy and I answered it, but we didn't write love letters as we once did. Since we have begun writing again he waits a long time to write and says he doesn't have time. Do you think this is true? It has been two weeks since I wrote him and I have not heard from him yet. Why do you suppose he waits so long to answer my letters? Can it be because he does not care for me at all? I shall never love another boy as I do this one, and I would give anything in the world if I could win him back again. Do you think he has lost all faith in me and does not trust me anymore? Please tell me what you think about the way I have acted.

This boy is now in college. Would it be all right to send him a box of home-made candy?

I have not told him that I still love him.

HEART-BROKEN GIRL.

I am not endowed with psychic powers and therefore it is impossible for me to answer most of your questions. I presume the young man still cares for you, or he would not correspond. Doubtless he is busy as he says he is and finds little time to write. Time helps to soften wounds and so it may be that the young man still cares for you, but you are not his big interest. He thinks of you, but does not feel the urge to write that he formerly did.

I can see no harm in sending him a box of home-made candy. It also seems to me that it would be advisable to ask him to come to see you again the next time you write. You certainly were a foolish girl to let an infatuation interfere with real love, but you were at least trying to do the honest thing and therefore cannot be blamed.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: A young couple is engaged to be married as soon as their plans can be worked out. The young man, coming from a family with poor financial management, has about five hundred dollars. The girl insists on much more than this to be married, in spite of the fact that she has about five times as much saved for herself. She doesn't let him know about this, thinking that it would not help him to work out his problems.

Should she allow him to have her money after marriage, or does a girl keep her money for some future emergency? If so, how does she explain this to the man?

If a girl inherits money after marriage from her family, how does she handle it in respect to her husband's rights and the happiness of both?

In the first case the girl has made a proposition to help the man by laying aside an equal amount to his each month to be used jointly to build a home. The girl loses out here in law because if the man dies she only gets one-third of the house and two-thirds goes to his estate. This doesn't seem quite fair in this case where the partnership arrangement exists. It the girl helping enough? If she owned the house entirely, would he be as interested a partner? Wouldn't this tend to make him feel slighted?

BLUE EYES.

Does love really exist where there is so much mercenary consideration. It seems to me that the girl places too much importance on her financial independence and makes too much effort to protect her futnre rights to show a really loving spirit.

It would seem to me advisable for the girl to tell her fiance of her money and say that she intends to keep it after marriage as a protection for both if needed later in life. If she is a man of pride and independence he will want her to keep it and would not dream of taking in from her. Of course I realize that there are only too many men willing to spend their wife's money, but that is far from an ideal condition.

In case money is inherited after marriage, the wife should keep the principal which was left to her. If she chooses she might add the income from the money to her husband's income in order to have better living conditions and more luxuries. The right kind of a man would be only too glad to have a good sum of money put away as a protection to his wife in case of disaster.

It means a great deal to a bride and groom to go into their own home when married. Therefore it is quite reasonable that the house should be built by both.

A girl who is so weighted down with money cares and is so fearful that she will be taken advantage of, should be very careful not to let money take a place of so much importance that harmony in the home is lost and love and sacrifice is forgotten. It is very easy to think of things as "mine" instead of "ours." Where there is love everything should be "ours" regardless of who actually paid for them.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: My daughter is thirteen years old and so disobedient that I can do nothing with her. I tell her to do something and she says that she will not do it. For about a year I tried to make her obedient by being kind to her, but instead of getting better she got worse. Then I tried to break her by the deprivation method and I have not used a whip or anything to punish her. I haven't even slapped her. Since I tried this method she has grown worse. Now I have decided not to spare the rod. What should I whip her with, a stick, cane, hair brush or strap?

WORRIED ANNIE.

Your letter shows a lack of understanding and sympathy for your daughter. The wise parent has no desire to break the child's spirit and will but aims to direct along the right channels. Nine times out of ten when a parent fails to get obedience it is because she is inconsistent, showing too much leniency at one time and too much discipline at another. Another failing is to threaten and not carry out the threat, or nag and punish because of the least offense.

Personally I think very few children need to be whipped into obedience. The deprivation method is just as much of a punishment and is apt to be more distasteful to the child because its effect stretches over a greater length of time.

One method of whipping seems to me just as bad as another, and therefore, I would advise you to choose your own weapon if you resort to that methodist of nuisment. I believe you will get further with your child, however, if you try to understand her better and show more sympathy in her activities. She has some reason for her actions, and it would be advisable for you to question her and find why she did such a thing. Also ask her to tell you why she fails to obey you and how she feels after she has been punished. You may learn that she feels great antagonism toward you and believes you do not love her.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I have a growth of hair on my upper lip. Would it be advisable to use a hair remover? Would the hair grow back again in time. What would be good?

THANK YOU.

It would not be advisable to use a hair remover on your upper lip. The only safe way to get rid of the superfluous growth is by means of the electric needle. If you use any other method the hair will grow back thicker and coarser.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: Is it all right to sit on a fellow's lap when in a crowded machine, the fellow being respectable? BILL.

It is not correct to sit on a man's lap. There are times, however, when the correctness of the thing should be forgotten. Very often young people crowd into a machine and find it necessary to disregard propriety. Always use your best judgment and don't take part in any wild and noisy rides.

FATAL TO A REUNION

A woman whose husband had left her after 14 years of married life, said to me the other day:

"He is so conceited, I should like to tell him what the other people think about him. I'll bet that would take some wind out of his sails."

"Do you love him, and want him back?" I asked her, and to her reply of "yes," I offered her this advice.

"Perhaps you and your husband will be back together some day and it would be foolish to tell him the unkind things your friends have said about him, it would cut you away from your friends and be unfair to them, as they said the things they did because he had been unkind to you.

"Never try to take the conceit out of a man unless you want him to dislike you thoroughly. It may do him a little good to know what other people think of him, but it will do the person who tells him far more harm. The satisfaction to be gained from a thing of this kind isn't worth the humiliation that follows (the telling.

Today Is Big Day In Local Football Season

COYOTES AND TIGERS WILL GRAPPLE FOR SUPREMACY ON ANNUAL SECTIONAL BATTLE

Coyotes vs. Tigers!

To day is a big day in high school football, and no doubt the largest crowd yet in attendance at such a contest will be on hand to witness the most important game in north Texas, Wichita Falls vs. Electra. It means more than simply a play-off of a tie in this section, for when Coyote and Tiger meet a battle is always assured.

This season proves no exception to the standing rule of some years that these teams should run through preliminary try-outs and come at last to a playoff for the sectional honors. Time was when other towns in this part of the country were the leaders on the gridiron, but those days have passed for some time. Not that any one or two of the larger towns have gained a lease on football, here or elsewhere over the state, for the general run of football playing is better all over the country. Now and then some smaller high school pops up with a dangerous team, but this has not proven true in north Texas for the past two or three seasons.

Little is known of the comparative strength of the two teams to meet here today, for each has been able to stand the gaff so far and win on straight football. Wichita Falls boasts a veteran team, should all men be able to go into action this afternoon. Electra has no new team, but it is a known fact that that squad lost several star men last year. Accordingly, it is all in the dark as to any guiding dope, a true barometer being that no odds are being offered either way.

That Electra is coming over with avowed intention of bringing their Tigers back home with a Coyote scalp strapped to each warrior is indicated. The entire citizenship of Electra has always been back of its high school and athletic teams. Yell practices have been held the past week almost nightly and the Electra gridsters will go on the field today with the assurance that the old home town is with them win or lose.

Should Wichita Falls business interests and high school patrons turn out this afternoon and give the Coyotes the support the Electrans are apt to bestow on the Tigers, a mammoth crowd will see today's game. Whichever team wins or is eliminated, the winner will have no set-up and the loser will have the satisfaction of knowing the affair was a football game and not a track meet.

Indications were Friday that ideal football weather will be furnished and should it not rain or get extremely cold, the baseball park grandstand is apt to be well filled.

The probable line-up of both teams for the game which is scheduled to begin at 5:30 is as follows:

ELECTRA.	Pos.	WICHITA.
Rouse	Quarterback	Deems
Moore	Right Half Pack	Stringer
Walker	Left Half Back	Powell or Chewning
Hammond	Full Back	Baldwin
Turner	Center	West
Gilger	Right Guard	Copeland, Wainscott or McGehee
Martin	Left Guard	Doke
Hayes	Right Tackle	Coffey
Coolidge	Left Tackle	Smith
Olin Sanderlin	Right End	Cameron

Substitutes: Electra—Green, Aven, Bell, Ray, Rickeley, Thomas and Johnson.

High school officials here stated last night 2,000 seats were being installed at the ball park and will be ready to accommodate the crowds expected at the game.

Coach McCallum said last night the following officials have been chosen for the game: Ettlinger, Washington, referee; Henfsell, Texas, head linesman and Penn, Texas, umpire.

Sport Snap Shots

A major league scout who is as good a judge of a ball player as they make them, but who has a habit of murdering the language and has a dialect that is all his own, was down in Oklahoma making the rounds. Talking to a club president he remarked, his mind being on the main topic of the day in Oklahoma:

"You're having a lot of trouble with the Clams, ain't you?"

"Clams?" asked the club owner, "I don't know; any of our boys been sick from eating them?"

"No, no," said the scout, "I don't mean dem kind you eat; I mean these K. K. Clams."

Harry Heilman was recently asked why he did not go after a large total of home runs. Suggesting the matter to Heilmann, a friend said:

"When you go to bat take a full swing at the first one and maybe the second one. If you hit the ball you are certain to get a home run."

To this Heilmann replied:

"There is only one man in baseball who is paid for hitting home runs. What good would it do me unless I could hit sixty in one year, which I could not. If I took a full swing at the first good one or at the second, I would kill my batting form, throw myself out of stride and then I could not hit at all. There is only one thing for me to do and that is to get hits. That is the best policy. Too many of the boys are trying to get home runs."

Miller Huggins can rest easy this winter and care little about what is said about him. For despite lack of health, much criticism and lack of complete co-operation from his employers, he has risen to managerial heights reached by only four other leaders in modern baseball, namely, Chance, Mack, McGraw and Jennings. He made the Yankees over from a warlike tribe, fighting among themselves, to a team of pennant winners, through supreme leadership and fairness and it was gratifying to read Colonel Ruppert's announcement that "Huggins can manage the Yankees as long as he wants to." Recognition of Huggins was withheld too long.

The popular, but erroneous impression, among followers of the fistic game is that Jimmy Wilde, the former fly weight title holder, was the smallest champion of all times, his minimum weight being 105 pounds. However the honor does not belong to Jimmy but unquestionably to another Jimmy, Jimmy Barry, of Chicago, who held the bantamweight title in the early nineties. Fighting against still another Jimmy, Jimmy Gorman in 1894, Barry weighed exactly 98 pounds and he stopped Gorman in eleven rounds.

Speaking of pioneers and "charter" members in the major leagues, guess we have to hand the palm to John Quinn, who has toiled at various times for the Yankees, Braves and the two colored Sox. In point of service Jawn is the oldest player in fast company. He began his career with Connellsville in the Pennsylvania State league in 1903, hence has just finished his twenty-first season. A record to be proud of.

A reminder of the great Carlisle Indian football team in days of yore, is the Haskell Indian team of Lawrence, Kansas. The westerners have seven games scheduled for the 1923 session and will travel in the neighborhood of six thousand miles to complete same. Among other teams they tackle will me the Quantico Virginia Marines at the Yankee stadium on November 17.

VANDERBILT AT DALLAS FOR CLASH

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 19.—The Vanderbilt's Commodore's, twice conquerors of the Texas university Longhorns, arrived here this afternoon fit for their annual football clash with the Texans tomorrow.

The Longhorn squad reached this city about the same time as their opponents, Coach Stewart having accepted a offer of the Dallas university of its dormitories and grounds, instead of stopping at Waxahachie, to bring his team to the battle center Saturday morning.

The Commodores, with their well nigh perfect regular team, were announced to be in prime condition, but their reserve strength is admitted to be lacking.

A number of the Texas' first string men or injured probably will not start but Coach Stewart brought with him all his reserve strength and the only comment forthcoming was that "we are in to fight."

Vanderbilt's squad went through a light workout before retiring for the night, but the Texas team did not practice work, and went to bed early, preparatory to their hard clash tomorrow.

COLORFUL GAME EXPECTED TODAY

"Hail! Hail! The Gang's All Here."

That will probably be one of the pieces the two bands will play at this afternoon's football game between Wichita Falls and Electra.

Pep and the local high school is at high tide and two big pep meetings have been held here this week.

Word comes from Electra that they have the best organized rooting section in the history of their school.

With both teams having a brass band each and a number of loyal students and citizens from Electra and Wichita Falls encouraging them, today's game should be one of the most colorful in the history of local school athletics, officials say.

BAYLOR LOOKS FOR A HEAVY STRUGGLE

By The Associated Press.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 19.—Baylor University, last year's champions of the southwestern conference, will meet a formidable rival for gridiron honors tomorrow in the game with the University of Arkansas "Razorbacks." Neither team has been scored against this season. While the Texans apparently are favored to win, the Arkansas machine is in excellent shape for the struggle.

The West Virginia Reel

Above is shown the snappy new formation that was sprung on the football world this season by the enterprising young ladies of the West Virginia seminary. When interviewed, Coach "Ma" Gossip gave out the following statement. "Yes, I'll let you take my picture if you'll promise not to publish it in the papers" (see illustration).

"We girls figured out that we could pull some new stunt like this and get our opponents dizzy. It worked swell, except when we played Yale, for those horrid boys would insist on holding Capt. Flapper. Our plan is this—at the signal "Change position, girls" the backs stand in a square formation. Then the opposite corners come to the center and bow, etc., just as they do in a real Virginia reel. In the meantime, the linewomen clap their hands in time.

"When it comes to the part where the two backs link arms and go around in a circle, the centeress passes the ball, and one back runs around right end and the other around the left, with half the line following behind each runner like a Virginia reel again. Our opponents as a rule, never can decide which one has the ball, and by the time they do find out, one of us is across the line and powdering her nose."

"If you'll excuse me now, I'll run and put some pretty flowers and ribbons on the goal posts to make the cross bar less cross."

France Proud of Her Tennis Development

By The Associated Press.

PARIS.—There were 18,720 players entered and 14,123 actually took part in the popular tennis tournaments organized throughout France by the French Tennis Federation during the season just closed. Several promising youngsters were uncovered who, with a few years more practice, may develop into Davis Cup timber.

The French are very proud of the development of tennis in France of recent years. It is pointed out that for the Davis Cup matches, in 1921, 1922 and 1923, they have put on the courts an entirely different team each year.

It is a common saying in France that if the Davis Cup matches were played six men to a side, French tennis would have a chance.

Goldstein Wins.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Abe Goldstein of New York, won the judge's decision over Joe Burman of Chicago, in their 12-round match at Madison Square Garden tonight. Goldstein substituted for Joe Lynch, bantam weight champion, although Burman was recognized as the title holder in New York state. Lynch dislocated his shoulder yesterday, his manager announced. Burman weighed 118 pounds and Goldstein 117 1-2.

Rooters Leave.

By The Associated Press.

VERNON NEARER CHAMPIONSHIP

Overwhelms Paducah Eleven With a 70-to-6-Score-at-Will Game

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 19.—Vernon high school Friday stepped a unit nearer the district championship and made its fifth game without defeat when the Paducah eleven was defeated here overwhelmingly to the score of 70 to 6.

Paducar made its only counter early in the first quarter when Russell intercepted a forward pass and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Vernon then began scoring at will and before the first half was over Coach Gailbraith was sending in his second and third string men to finish the game.

Walker of Vernon was the outstanding star of the contest. Playing the fullback position Walker ploughed through the line, around the ends, went down on passes and could not be stopped by the opposition. Key, Hollar and Bourland showed up exceptionally well, Bourland making two 40 yard runs for touchdowns.

The defeat of Paducah puts Vernon in the front rank for district champions. Quanah is yet to be disposed of. The locals a week ago played Quanah to a scoreless tie. Quanah defeated Paducah 26 to 0. This compared to Vernon's victory over Paducah by 70 to 6 score is taken as an indication of the relative strengths of the two teams.

Some dispute as to whether Vernon should meet Quanah at Vernon next week or at Chillicothe has arisen. Word was received here last night from Austin to the effect that Quanah must play Vernon here. Great interest is centering the coming Quanah Vernon contest. The elimination of one of the teams means the winner will play the victor of the Wichita Falls-Vernon contest for district championship.

TRADITIONAL FRAY IS HEADLINER

By The Associated Press.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 19.—The traditional battle between the University of Kansas and the University of Nebraska, which will be decided at Lincoln this year, will headline the football program in the Missouri Valley conference this week with two other conference games, and two games in which conference teams face non-conference opponents, attracting great interest. Ames will meet the Kansas Aggies; eleven at Ames, and Washington University of St. Louis, will meet the University of Oklahoma at Norman. Grinnell plays Cornell college and the University of Missouri plays St. Louis University in the non-conference of the day. Drake is idle.

THREE BIG GAMES ON TODAY'S LIST

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Three of the most important games bearing on the western conference football championship will be decided tomorrow.

Michigan and Ohio state, acknowledged as two of the strongest teams in the "big ten" will collide at Ann Arbor, with the losers' championship hopes gone glimmering, while Illinois and Wisconsin will base their championship hopes on the showing against Iowa and Indiana, respectively.

Zev Is Now Reported Fit to Enter Against Papyrus in Big Race Classic

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Zev, the Rancocas stable's brown son of the Finn-Miss Kearsey, will match strides with Papyrus, English derby winner, for international 3-year-old supremacy and stakes of $100,000 at Belmont Park tomorrow in a race that promises to take rank among the greatest classics of all time.

Zev will go to the post despite the eleventh hour development of a skin malady which it seemed today would force the withdrawal of the colt and the substitution of Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own, which was shipped to Belmont Park, prepared to race, if called upon. But the race committee of the Jockey club, after examining Zev and receiving the report of a veterinarian, decided that the Rancocas star was fit and ended a day of sensational speculation in turf circles by announcing America's original entry would oppose the English champion.

Through the Jockey club committee's decision, made public by Major August Belmont, it had the effect of restoring to some extent the waning confidence in this country's representative, general belief prevailed that regardless of the seriousness of his malady, Zev would go to the barrier under a handicap.

And as a result, betting odds which had declined at even money yesterday, after a spectacular final workout by Papyrus, swung sharply tonight toward the English horse, which was expected to go to the barrier tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock a favorite, probably at odds of 6 to 5.

The exact condition of Zev remained somewhat of a mystery tonight, there have been reports for some time that the Kentucky derby winner was not in the best of condition, but the first intimation that anything was seriously amiss came yesterday afternoon, according to Major Belmont's statement, when Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire owner of the horse, advised the Jockey club's committee that Zev had developed a skin malady which threatened the fitness of the colt.

Zev's condition and the sensational turn it had given to developments were the chief topics on the eve of the international classic, which is expected to attract a notable throng of close to 100,000 turf followers to the picturesque scene of the match. The gate receipts, it was indicated may reach $500,000, thus setting a new record in American thoroughbred racing annals.

Although time and change have greatly reduced their numbers it is to be hoped that when the whites try to turn Oklahoma back to the Indians there will be enough of the latter to successfully resist them.

MY OWN READY FOR PAPYRUS

Has Arrived at Belmont Park and Is Declared to Be Fit

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own, which arrived late today at Belmont Park in response to an emergency call from Jockey club, is fit and prepared to run against Papyrus, acording to the bay colt's trainer, W. P. Burch.

My Own has been Zev's outstanding rival for three year old honors this year and was chosen as first alternate to the Rancocas colt when America's candidate for international honors was named. Many, in fact, believe My Own a more formidable contender because the Grayson colt has shown marked ability at longer distances.

My Own has won all six of his starts this season, his last victory coming in the $10,000 Maryland handicap last Saturday, when the son of King James won handily over a strong field and covered the mile and a quarter in 2:02 3-5.

N. D.-PRINCETON TO BE FEATURE

Notre Dame Is Favorite Because of Last Week's West Point Win

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Football comes into its own tomorrow. Athletic fandom, its attention no longer claimed by the world's series, now turns to the colleges for its thrills and finds awaiting it a most promising list of gridiron engagements. The list includes several battles involving powerful intersectional foes. Others bringing together eastern football rivals of equal size and strength, and still others sending brilliant and determined small college elevens against larger but possibly less well prepared university teams.

The big intersectional game and probably the most largely attended of the day will be that at the Palmer Memorial stadium, Princeton, N. J., where the Princeton Tigers, which went unconquered last season, meets Knute Rockne's brilliant Notre Dame eleven recent victor over West Point. Notre Dame is reported the favorite by reason of its triumph last Saturday and also because of the fact that Coach Roper of the Tigers has been forced to make several shifts in his line-up owing to injuries, ills, or inefficiency.

D'Annunzio To Publish His Autobiography

By The Associated Press.

ROME.—Gabriele d'Annunzio, poet, statesman and soldier, has leased from the Italian government the Villa Falconieri, and will relinquish his present residence on Lake Garda. He promises to publish shortly two or three books, one of which, "About Me and Myself," is said to be autobiographical, audacious and outspoken, even for these unreticent days. Another is called "The Adventurer Without Adventures" and yet another "The Archangel of Asia," gives d'Annunzio's impressions of the east.

The Villa Falconieri is one of the oldest and most romantic of the lovely 17th century villas which were laid out with so much taste and charm by the luxury-loving prices of the church as their summer residences near Rome. It was acquired twelve years ago by the then emperor of Germany, who had it fitted up as a resting place for German artists, literary men and officers wishing to winter in Rome. During the war it was confiscated by the Italian authorities.

Like all these country houses of the Renaissance, the grounds of the Villa Falconieri are full of statuary, beautiful trees, and formal, exquisite fountains and waterfalls. There is also a romantic lake, which is said to be haunted by the wrath of a water-nymph, or perhaps by that of a young girl of more modern days whose body, like that of another Ophelia, was found floating there, crowned and covered with flowers.

ROCKEFELLER IS TO HELP BULGARIA

By The Associated Press.

SOFIA, Bulgaria—The Rockefeller foundation is about to embark on a campaign to develop sanitation and preventive medicine in Bulgaria. The first step has been the selection of two Bulgarian physicians for a year of study and hospital practice in America; other selections will be made later.

Miss Elizabeth Crowell, of the foundation, has outlined a project for the establishment of a nurses' training school here which is to be submitted to the officers of the foundation in New York.

Dr. Edwin R. Embree, general secretary of the foundation, has inspected the hospitals of Sofia, and conferred with the minister of health and a number of local physicians.

West Coast Expects Big Year on Grid; Stars Are in Form

Three western stars. Capt. "Scotch" Campbell of Stanford, left; Arthur Quinlan, Colorado captain, center, and Capt. Don Nichols of the U. of California.

By Central Press.

BERKLEY, Calif., Oct. 16.—The Pacific coast grid fans, accustomed to good football for years, are tucking their napkins under their chins prepared for another good grid meal.

Interest centers, of course, on the University of California team thick crushed the coast opposition like a juggernaut last season, winding up the season by trampling over Stanford, its greatest rival, 28 to 0. The "Golden Bears" appear to have as strong a ten... this season. And that's that.

Stanford is hopeful, however, of wiping out the stain of last year's defeat. John D. "Scotch" Campbell, captain and quarter of the team, is expected to be the main spring of this "revenge" aggregation. His generalship, running and defensive work to date has been little short of marvelous.

California's hardest game last year was with Southern California U. The "Golden Bears" won, 12 to 0, however, and hope to better that this year. Stanford lost to the Southern team, 6 to 0.

California is laying great hopes on Don Nichols this year. Nichols is without a doubt one of the greatest halfbacks the coast has developed in years. And judging by the early games the "Bears" have the material to build around Nichols a powerful aggregation.

While the two California teams are drawing the lion's share of attention due to the bitter rivalry existing, the far west is watching several other teams closely. Colorado is one of these. Usually possessed of a powerful team, especially on offense, the Colorado outfit appears set to do large business another season. Their recent 34 to 7 victory over Wyoming give some indication of their power.

Art Quinlan, leader of the Colorado eleven, is one of its outstanding stars. He is a particularly brilliant defense man and death to open field runners.

FRENCH REFUSE FROZEN POISON

By The Associated Press.

PARIS.—The French government, anxious to popularize the eating of fish, has been conducting an extensive educational campaign to this end. Much money already has been spent, but the whole thing bids fair to end in failure because of the reluctance of the people to change their ways. They are not heavy fish eaters, and the argument is now advanced that if the government recognizes this and stops its efforts it will save the unexpended portion of the propaganda allowance something like 80,000,000 francs.

The campaign included "Fish Weeks" at Boulogne and elsewhere; exhibitions of deep sea fishing methods and the showing of films illustrating various aspects of the industry. Smart, new and efficient fishing boats were provided in place of the old picturesque craft, and extensive refrigeration plants were established to care for the catch.

The main trouble seems to be in the popular aversion to fish that has been frozen. The people are not used to them, and apparently they cannot be induced to change their point of view.

MONUMENT TO LINCOLN'S PARENTS

JANESVILLE, Ill.—After years of neglect the graves of Thomas and Nancy Lincoln, father and stepmother of Abraham Lincoln, are to be given attention.

These unkept mounds, in a nearby desolate graveyard, are marked only by unchiseled stones made rough by tourists who have chipped souvenirs from them.

The Illinois district of the Lions International has undertaken to raise funds among its members to erect a fitting monument at the graves.

QUANAH WINNER FROM CROWELL

Chances for Championship Strengthened by 48-0 Victory

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Oct. 19.—Quanah's hope for a championship team and an undefeated season soared Friday when the locals defeated Crowell high school here with a 48 to 0 score.

The local machine which mowed down the Crowell boys was in better running order and worked more consistently than in any game of the season. Using straight football for the most part the plunging Quanah backfield ripped great holes in the opposition line for healthy gains. Stars of the game for Quanah were Williams, Davis and Chesser.

Quanah is getting ready for the contest with Vernon next Friday. Local high school authorities are of the opinion that the Vernon game should be played on neutral territory at Childicothe. A communication has been received here from Roy Henderson, head of the state interscholastic league saying it was optional as to whether Quanah meet Vernon at the latter place or not. The matter will probably be taken up with the district officials and the dispute settled the first of the week.

Neither Quanah nor Vernon has met defeat and in the first contest the teams played this year, a scoreless tie resulted.

HAITI CONTROLS DRUG TRAFFIC

By The Associated Press.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti—The Haitian council of state has passed a law to regulate and control the exportation, importation, possession, use or sale of narcotics, poisons and habit forming drugs in Haiti.

The specific purpose of this legislation is to prevent the possible use of Haiti by German firms as a base for the distribution of narcotics. Previously there was no law of any description bearing on the narcotic problem and Germany, not being a signatory to the opium convention, was steadily increasing its imports of such substances. The passage of the act has made Haiti eligible as a signatory to this convention.

The new law is based on that which controls the use of narcotics in the United States, with certain modifications to fit local conditions.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

FOOTBALL

What is the best offensive charging position for a line player?

Answered by
BILL ROPER
Coach of football, Princeton University. In 1922 his undefeated team won victor over Yale, Harvard and Chicago.

A close line is the first and fundamental point of offensive football. It is impossible to start an attack with the defense sifting through and attacking the runner before plays start. This will happen unless the offensive line plays close. The offensive lineman should assume a position so that his weight is well distributed and he should not play high, nor should he bury his head in the ground so as not to be able to see where he is going. Quick starting is the secret of a successful offensive line, as the defense can use their hands, the offensive line must be in a position to get the jump by starting a trifle quicker and harder.

Minor League Championship Now 3 to 1 in Favor of K. C. Blues

By The Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19.—With the series between Baltimore of the International league, and Kansas City of the American association for the minor league championship standing three games to one in favor of the latter team, the fifth game will be played in Baltimore tomorrow, weather permitting.

The first four games were played in Kansas City, the final one being played in a sea of mud, caused by incessant rains.

A steady downpour drenched Oriole field here nearly all day but the weather man promised clearing weather tomorrow.

Both teams are speeding towards Baltimore and are expected here tomorrow morning.

SAND PILE STARTED PLAY

National Movement Begun in Boston in 1885

By The Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 19.—A heap of yellow sand a pile of "sand pies" in the yard of a little chapel in Boston in the summer of 1885, was the starting point for a movement which has made America the greatest playing nation of the globe, according to the leaders of the Playground and Recreation association of America.

The association, bringing some 800 delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada, will meet here in annual convention October 8 to 12. Some of the leaders who will attend the convention have been leaders in the play movement from its infancy. From that little sand pile in the yard of the Parmenter Street Chapel they have seen this movement grow to the 4,601 supervised playgrounds of America.

Mabel Travis Wood, of the playground association, compares this growth to Shakespeare's typical man who passed through seven ages. The seven ages of the playground movement, she said, are sand gardens, model playgrounds, small parks, recreation centers, civic art and welfare, neighborhood organization and community service.

From the sand garden developed the model playground which added to the sand box for small children apparatus for physical activity such as swings, ladders and horizontal bars, with their appeal to older boys and girls.

The year-round playground soon developed into the small park, and gymnasium apparatus, baseball diamonds, tennis courts and public baths came into evidence. The next period of the movement saw the building of field houses to add indoor activities to those of the open air.

Public recreation by 1912 was sufficiently advanced to branch out into the field of civic art and welfare, and six years later community councils and neighborhood associations began to appear.

As a result of the world war there has come the final and present stage of the play movement, the age of community service. During the war, the Playground and Recreation association proposed to the government that it mobilize its play leaders and play facilities to give the soldiers proper recreation. War camp community service was the result, and when peace came community service became the successor of the war camp community service.

Now, more than 250 communities have organized their spare time for the common good. Some of the things community service, which is a branch of the playground association, has accomplished are training volunteer leaders, organizing neighborhoods, decreasing juvenile delinquency, transforming cluttered lots into playgrounds and supplying community music and drama.

The home of Lincoln was chosen for the recreation congress in October, because the association, according to Joseph Lee, its president, "is striving for the development of the kind of communities Lincoln wanted the country to have."

GOVERNORS INVITED TO LOUISIANA MEET

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 19.—Invitations were being sent out by Governor Parker of Louisiana today to the governors of the various states inviting them to attend and participate in the forestry, reclamation and homemaking conference to be held in New Orleans, November, 19-22 under auspices of the Southern Pine association, Mississippi and Florida Development boards and New Orleans Association of Comerce.

The governors of the various states, U. S. Senators and congressmen are to be guests of the conference while attending the gathering in New Orleans and a special program of entertainment will be provided for these distinguished visitors.

In his letter of invitation, Governor Parker called attention to the importance of the subjects to be discussed at the New Orleans conference and urged the governors to attend and also to appoint delegates. Governor Parker's invitation to the southern governors reads in part as follows:

"Your attention is invited to the conference which is to be held in New Orleans November 19-22, 1923, as described in the accompanying program which will be devoted to the very important topics of forestry, reclamation, and home-making. It is unnecessary to call your attention to the importance of these in the maintenance of our form of government and its peace and prosperity since all ultimately rest on the rural home more than upon any other one factor.

"In this matter the western states have perhaps been more alive to conditions than have we of the south and east. It is beginning to be appreciated that if we are to continue to advance or even to hold our own we must study what the others have done and improve upon our methods of land reclamation, settlement and other essentials to the development of small self-supporting farm homes. It is my sincere hope that you will find it possible to be present at the conference in New Orleans and in any event I hope that you will send at least five citizens interested in this subject to meet with us and discuss the measures which should be taken in the future."

REPORT TEXAS LOSSES BY FIRE

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 19.—Fire losses of insured property amounting to $211,930 in Texas cities were reported during the month of September, according to records of the fire insurance department. This represents, it was pointed out, only a small portion of the actual fire loss, not covering fires in several cities, most of the small towns, and all of the rural sections of the state.

Of the losses reported, $106,857 came from 34 fires of unknown origin. A total of 111 fires were reported, twelve from fine sparks causing minor losses, while 2 spontaneous combustion fires caused loss of $13,426 in property, and 10 fires from oil stoves or lamps destroyed $13,250 worth of property. Two fires caused by motion picture films becoming ignited, resulted in $6,035 losses, it was shown. Reported losses from September were $137,000 less than the losses on which reports were filed during Au

NEWS AND PERSONALS

Lady Agent Retained.

One of the most enthusiastic club meetings of the season was held Wednesday afternoon in the court house, while commissioners' court was in session. For the want of sufficient funds to carry on the extra amount of work being done in the county at this time the commissioners decided to economize in every way possible until the first of the year, and to begin this economy by eliminating the work of the lady demonstration agent, until that time.

The news spread among the women very rapidly, and by 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the court room was crowded with women eager to tell of the wonderful work accomplished by our rural club women and their daughters, outlined and presided over by the lady agent, and stressing the point that we could afford to economize in other ways in order to carry this work on. Some very interesting talks were made concerning the work of our rural neighbors, some having canned 1,000 cans of meats and vegetables this year, by means of the steam pressure cooker. The social feature of the clubs was discussed, also the assistance they are giving in making the county fair a success.

The commissioners, amid applause, agreed to continue the work of the rural club, and retain the agent.

School of Missions.

The first meeting of the "School of Missions" was held on Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church. This work was begun by the Woman's Missionary society of the church so that their study, "The Child and America's Future" could be given to the entire church body. They were very much gratified by the large attendance and interest shown.

The families gathered at the church and supper was served in the basement at 6:30, after which a social half hour was enjoyed by all. A lively sing-song was then led by the leader, Mr. J. A. Ballew, followed by devotional and outline of the work by Pastor E. C. Cargill. The different classes then repaired to their respective class rooms for the lesson. The primary class will be instructed by Mrs. H. L. Albright and Mrs. E. C. Cargill; junior boys by Mr. Sparks Burnett; intermediate department by Mr. O. P. Caldwell. "The Child and America's Future" is very interesting and instructive and it is hoped much good thought will be derived from the study.

The school closes promptly at 9 o'clock and will be continued for the two following Wednesday evenings.

Death of E. D. Avery.

The numerous friends of Mr. E. D. Avery were surprised and saddened when it was learned that he had suffered a stroke of paralysis last Tuesday which caused his death. He was stricken about 4:30 in the morning and died at 9:25. He had not been in good health for several months, yet his family were unprepared for the shock. Mr. and Mrs. Avery moved to Seymour from Haskell several years ago, and purchased a pretty home in the west part of town, where they have lived ever since.

They have made many friends since moving here who deeply sympathize with the bereaved family. Mr. Avery was considered one of our most substantial business men, having had charge of the Seymour steam laundry for some time, as well as other business interests. He was 68 years of age and up until a year ago had lived an active life. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Methodist church, by Rev. W. C. Hinds, assisted by Rev. I. R. Balch.

A large concourse of friends gathered to pay their last respects, and a beautiful floral offering expressed love and sympathy. The out of town relatives and friends attending the funeral, were his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Avery of Meadows, Texas, his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown of Tularose, New Mexico; nephews Mr. Sam Avery of Childress, and Mr. Wilson Avery of Alma, Colorado; nieces, Mesdames Willie and Alma Cheatem, Mrs. Alice Grooclose of Childress, and Mrs. McIlen and family of Bonham; his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Morrison of Bonham, Texas, with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin of Haskell. The children living in Seymour to mourn his death are Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Bridges, Mr. Otis Avery and Miss Nina Avery. Mr. Avery is also survived by his wife and other relatives.

An airtight tin used to be a bother—it took a knife or can-opener to open it. Fresh Snowdrift was worth the extra trouble, but it was a bother nevertheless. Take Enough ICE Saturday to Last Until Monday

With the coming of cool weather we have discontinued the Sunday delivery of ice. If you will allow our men to fill your refrigerator to capacity Saturday you will have ample ice to last until Monday and our men will secure a well earned day of rest.

Remember, however, that for complete health protection you need ice now as much as you did during the summer months, but owing to the cool weather it lasts much longer, and your ice bill consequently will be much smaller.

NEW SLUMP IN WHEAT MARKET

Talk of Russian and Canadian Imports Weakens Structure

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Influenced to a considerable extent by talk of Russian competition and of probable increased imports of Canadian wheat into the United States, the wheat market had a downward swing the greater part of the time today. Prices closed heavy, 1-2 to 1 1-8 cents net lower, with December 104 1-2@1.04 5-8 and May 1.09 5-8@1.09 3-4. Corn lost 3-4 to 1 1-4 cents and oats 1-4 to 5-8 cents. In provisions, the outcome ranged from 10 cents decline to a like advance.

Big receipts of hogs here pointing to decreased demand for corn made sentiment in the corn pit veer to the bear side. Oats followed corn.

Packers' buying gave comparative steadiness to provisions.

WIDE DOORS SOLVE CAR PROBLEM

By The Associated Press.

HAVANA, Oct. 17.—There are many strange sights for the tourist to see in Havana, but perhaps one of the most surprising comes when he visits a Cuban home and sees the family automobile sitting in the front hallway.

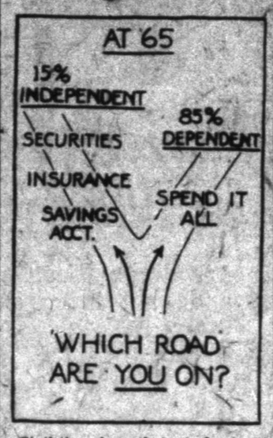

In all of downtown Havana, with its population of some 400,000, space is at a premium. Streets are narrow and houses are joined together and are flush with the sidewalk. When the automobile came along many families who could afford one did not feel able to pay garage rent, or did not care to have their machine kept blocks or even miles away. Practically all of the front entrances have wide double doors, and so the cars found parking space indoors, usually near the staircase. They can be seen in scores of homes, but the oil cans, extra tires and greasy cloths usually found in an American garage are tucked away out of sight.

Not Considerate.

Flapper—Look here, Father, I wish that you wouldn't leave my millinery bills lying around on the table just when Arthur is on the verge of proposing!—Judge.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Statistics show that at least 85 men out of a hundred are dependent on others for support by the time they are 65. There is one big cause for this unfortunate fact.

Old men die poor because they could not save money when they were young. The office boy who cannot save on $10 a week probably will not save on $5,000 a year if he gets it later on.

Even if a man loses all when he reaches middle age, he cannot lose the habit of saving. If this habit is injured in his nature, he will start saving again and perhaps get back all he has lost.

It doesn't matter so much how you keep your money working safely. It may be insurance, a savings account or good securities. The important point is to save something regularly and keep money working, so you won't be among the penniless 85 per cent.

TEDDY R. HOME HAS RELICS

Recall Memories of Teddy's Noted Hunting Days

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A huge stuffed lion, bagged in one of his hunting expeditions, a frying pan, a cartoon by Tom Nast, are only three diversified articles of the hundreds of manuscripts, pictures and mementoes of all sorts which have gravitated to Roosevelt House, the restored birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt at No. 28 East 20th Street, Manhattan. The house is to be dedicated October 27.

A set of scrapbooks giving the career of Mr. Roosevelt, as told from day to day in the press, is one of the notable additions to be received by the Roosevelt association during the last year. This set of books was started by the president's father, continued by himself, and concluded by members of his family. In it are some passages in Roosevelt's own handwriting, as well as a number of letters he wrote while at Harvard.

Supplementing the original cartoon of Theodore Roosevelt drawn by Nast for Harper's Weekly in 1882 and later presented by the famous exposer of the "Tweed Ring" to the president, are many other cartoons from foreign and American pens graphically recording Roosevelt's colorful career.

Dwight Franklin's miniature plastic group of Roosevelt, his son Kermit, and gun bearers hunting in South Africa is a unique addition to the collection. The figures in this group are six inches high and have been colored and set in a miniature stage. The group is strikingly realistic.

The cradle in which one of the outstanding figure of history was rocked and his last public message also have been incorporated in the collection. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., wife of the present assistant secretary of the navy, presented the cradle. The message, a letter to Richard M. Hurd, was donated by its recipient.

Six hundred bound volumes of back numbers of the New York Herald, Times and World covering an important stage of Mr. Roosevelt's life, were presented by Frank A. Munsey, publisher of the Herald. A costly riding outfit, the gift of the Brazilian government at the time of the colonel's River of Doubt expedition is there.

And reposing with manuscripts of articles which appeared in the Outlook is the frying pan the man with the "Big Stick" used 40 years ago when he and W. W. (Bill) Sewall, guide, hunted in Maine.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Eggs—The egg recipes in one cook book are headed by a quotation which reads, "Such and so various are the tastes of men." It is a very appropriate heading as one seldom finds two people who like eggs cooked the same way. Experts agree that the most easily digested eggs is the soft boiled or coddled. Three minutes gentle boiling makes them about right for soft boiled. For coddling put them in the boiling water and then remove from the fire and let the egg stay in the hot water, covered, from six to eight minutes. If your family insist that they cannot eat soft boiled eggs (the grown-up members, of course), cook them long enough so that the yolks will be mealy-fifteen minutes anyway.

Macaroni—Cook spaghetti or macaroni in salted water until tender. Cut up eight slices of bacon in small pieces add two onions cut fine. Fry until brown. Add one can of tomatoes, green pepper may also be added and cook one-half hour. Mix thoroughly with macaroni, put in baking dish and grate cheese on top. Bake for 15 minutes. For a strictly vegetarian dish butter could be substituted for the bacon and more cheese could be added.

Cookies—Hermits—One and one-half cups brown sugar, one-half cup shortening, two eggs, three tablespoons sour milk, three cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one cup currants one cup raisins, three-fourth cup nuts meats, one tablespoon of cinnamon and a little nutmeg. Drop in pans.

SUGGESTIONS.

Shears for Cutting Lettuce—Instead of chopping or using a knife when preparing lettuce to mix in salad a pair of clean sharp shears may be used to greater advantage, while the lettuce will retain its crispness and flavor.

Saving Egg Yolks—Often in cooking, the yolks of eggs are of no immediate use, but by putting them in a cup and covering with cold water and setting on ice they will keep 24 hours in perfect condition without a crust forming.

Keeping Honey—Honey absorbs moisture from the atmosphere, and if put in a damp cellar will become thin or turn sour. If honey, granulates or candies in glass, put the containers in a large vessel of water as hot as your hand can stand. If too hot, the flavor of the honey will be spoiled.

Cheese—Instead of grating cheese, try this way, which is much easier and more economical: Pare the cheese off, using a vegetable or apple peeler; the kind with a slot in the curved surface. It comes off in thin flakes which can be crumbled smaller with the hand if desired.

Stuffed Eggplant—One good sized eggplant, one small onion, four fresh mushrooms, four tablespoons cold chopped meat, four tablespoons dried bread crumbs, two tablespoons butter, stale coarse bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon minced parsley. Cut eggplant in halves lengthwise without paring. Blanch and cold-dip halves of vegetable. Then put in briskly boiling salted water and cook until tender but not mushy or broken. Drain well and scoop out the inside leaving as thin and firm a shell as possible. Chop the pulp quite fine. Melt butter. Add onion cut in thin slices and fry a pale straw color. Shred mushrooms and fry with onion. Add chopped eggplant and mix well. Cook just a minute and remove from fire. Add meat, dried bread crumbs, parsley, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly and put in eggplant shells. Put in a shallow pan to bake. Cover the stuffing with coarse bread crumbs dot thickly with tiny bits of butter and take twenty minutes in a moderate oven. The crumbs should be brown. Serve at once. Small eggplants can be used, each half being served individually.

GARDEN PRODUCTS TO VIENNA

By The Associated Press.

VIENNA, Oct. 17.—Farmers carts again are to be seen in the market squares of Vienna, a circumstance which means that the farmer today is perceiving the necessity of bestirring himself if he wants to dispose of his products. With this will come competition, and a plentiful supply of fruits and vegetables for the city dwellers at lower prices.

Gone are the days when Vienna housewives, rain or shine, had to troop out to the farms laden with city finery for the farmers' wives which they turned over for the privilege of digging a few pounds of potatoes, while the farmer stood aloof, smoked city sigars and made sarcastic remarks.

EXPLORERS WILL FIND NEW LAND

No White Man Has Ever Completed the Trip

By The Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Oct. 17.—A breath of romance—limpid lagoons—boiling through the ocean, with all sail set, at the speed of an average steamer—life among the natives in a far-off South Sea isle—of the beginning of a 600-mile trip up a river on which many white men have set out, but none returned—is contained in a letter received from Myrry N. Fray, commander of the "Narwhal Expedition," an adventurous group of men, who sailed their own small vessel out of San Francisco bay almost a year ago to cruise among the South Seas, drifting from port to port with whatever cargo might be picked up.

The miscellaneous cargo including a large shipment of dynamite, that the Narwhal carried from San Francisco was delivered safely at its South Sea destination, according to the letter, which was received by A. P. Taylor, Honolulu newspaper man and author.

The letter was dated "Latitude 15: 54, longitude 180, July 27, 1923" and spent more than seven weeks reaching its destination.

"The 'Narwhal Expedition' is still on the map, or rather moving around on the map," it said, "Right now we are passing through the channel between the island of Thikombia and Vanua Levu of the Fiji group. We also are crossing the 180th meridian, where we jump a day.

"We had a wonderful time in the Samoan islands. I think I saw as much of them as any white man has ever seen. While at Upolo, I went on a trip with the New Zealand governor and visited native villages along the shores. We were feted in each village. We lived in their grass huts and I was able to get pictures of some of their celebrations that have never been protographed before. I stayed in Apia several weeks and went to Pago Pago where I made two trips—one to the Manua group where we lived with the natives for a week. The Samoans on these islands appear to be far ahead of the others, because the white man very rarely gets to Manua.

"Our next stop will be Noumea. We will spend a week or two there getting the final touches for the real adventure. For we intend to go from there to New Guinea where we hope to ascend the Fly river for about 600 miles. We realize that we are taking a long chance, as five expeditions have gone up this river, and not a man has returned from them. We hope to benefit by their mistakes. We have a very fast whale boat and we are guarding ourselves against the diseases that play havoc with the white man in these countries and we will always be careful. About the time this letter reaches you we will be starting up the river and I feel sure, with the precautions that we are taking, that we will get through safely.

"These South seas are surely the place for a fellow to get romance under his skin. It seems to be a sort of disease that every one gets down here. This old sailing vessel of ours only adds to that romantic feeling that steals over us. Right now we are boiling along as fast as the average steamer goes, all sail is set and every time a gust of wind hits us, the old ship gives a graceful swoop that just of reminds me of a racehorse.

"The enthusiasm that prompted us to go on this trip has only been intensified by the wonderful experiences we are getting."

Fay said that the Narwhal expected to be in Honolulu on its return trip to the mainland in seven or eight months.

BIBLE READING IS ON INCREASE

People Reported to Be Reading It More Than Ever

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—People are reading the Bible today more than ever before, says the Daily Telegraph, which quotes figures of the British and Foreign Bible society to support its assertion.

There was an increase in the number of Bibles published in the English and Welsh languages during the war, followed by a decrease after the close of hostilities. The year 1922 again showed an increase, however, which points to a "revival of Bible reading in the homeland."

Significant of the world-wide influence of the Bible are the society's figures of their issues in all languages for the past century and a quarter. The figures are summaries of totals at intervals of 25 years, and include Bibles, Testaments, and portions of the scriptures:

1808	81,157	1883	2,964,636
1823	536,841	1908	5,688,381
1858	1,002,187	1922-23	8,670,384

Take, too, the test of translations. Homer has been rendered into more than a score of foreign languages, and Shakespeare into nearly 40. Both together fall far short of the translations of the Bible, for the Gospel has been actually printed in more than 700 different forms of human speech, and the Bible society, as their share of this work, has helped to spread the message in 558 languages and dialects.

The Sunday school teacher had been telling a story of spring and the miracle of the growth of the Easter lily, says Judge.

"Now, children," she said, "who can tell me what it is that makes the lily spring from this little bulb?"

PRESIDENT JOB HAS CHANGED

Old-Time Presidents Had Much Work to Do Also

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Modern presidents may have a large amount of routine work devolving upon them, but there are some to be attended to regularly by their early predecessors, that are hardly considered important enough nowadays to refer to the White House.

Among these, according to Charles Kolsen, Washington philatelist and document collector, was the trifling detail of signing ships' clearance papers. Among a number of ancient documents Mr. Kolsen recently picked up were two such clearances for an old vessels, one signed "G. Washington," the other bearing the large, scrawly signature of John Adams.

The paper signed by Washington in September 1794 attested to the fact that the 82-ton schooner "Eliza" of New York was owned by citizens of the new nation and was duly allowed to set sail for the West Indies with a cargo of flour, hoops, onions, staves, shingles and scantlings. The form was made out in English, French and Dutch.

The document signed by President Adams bore also as a countersign the signature of Timothy Pickering, secretary of state, was dated August 1798; showed the proper nationality of the small sloop "Endeavour," and gave leave to depart from Portland, Maine, to Demerara, with a cargo of boards, oars, butter, fish, flour, tar, pitch and beef.

The most interesting section of these clearance papers was an article at the bottom of the sheet praying that "Most Serene, Serene, Most Puissant, Puisant, High, Illustrious, Noble, Honorable, Venerable, Wise and Prudent, Lords, Emperors, Kings, Republics, Princes, Dukes, Earls, Barons, Seigneurs, Judges, Councellors and a long list of other officers of all the good cities and places who shall see these presents or hear them read" to recognize the American register.

ENVOY JOBS NOT FOR POOR

Childs' and Harvey's Successors Must Have Plenty of Money

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The administration is scanning the field of the independently wealthy in its hunt for ambassadors to succeed Col. George Harvey at London and Richard Washburn Child at Rome. It is doing so because it has to. No poor man could accept either post, no matter how brilliantly qualified he might be to serve his country in such important places.

This country doesn't pay its diplomats enough to live on. That's the reason. So when they cast about to choose men to represent them abroad, privately the first question asked is not, "Has he the brains or ability?" but rather, "Has he any money?" Then they inquire into the brains of the question.

Costs $100,000 or More a Year

The search for two ambassadors at one time has drawn attention anew to this condition existing in American diplomacy. It long has been a matter deplored and often criticized. But never is anything done about it. Occasionally men of modest means take the big places for a few years for the glory of serving and the honor attached to it. But they do it, knowing they will come home "broke" if they can't resign soon enough. And unless they are "modestly" well off, they can't even start. For it is a matter of common repute that it costs anywhere from $100,000 to $200,000 annually to do the ambassador's job up right, without any particular social crank at London, Paris, Berlin or Rome. Of course, at the smaller capitals the demands are much lighter.

The United States pays its ambassadors $18,000 a year. Deducted from this is the income tax, for no money is sent abroad on which the tax is not paid in advance, so the check is only a little more than $15,000 a year. This may seem like a lot of money to the average tax payer. It would be to anybody else except in a diplomatic post. There it hardly represents "pin money."

Must Keep Government Informed

Diplomacy is built largely around the social equation. The ambassadors are sent to a foreign capital, not only to speak for their country, but to keep their home government informed. To learn what is going on, they have to talk to persons who know. And the social affairs, dinners, etc., are the medium of knowledge. The diplomats are in a continuous round of them. To the outsider, it may seem as if that is all they do, but it's just a business side of their work, as important as the official calls on cabinet members to discuss this or that question. The diplomats entertain back and forth; government heads are invited in and ambassadors in turn are invited by the government members. The American ambassadors might simply accept and never entertain in return, even modestly. But they would get nowhere. Nor would many Americans desire them to occupy such a poor position.

Formerly ambassadorships were sold—that is, auctioned off, so to speak, for political contributions. It wasn't done openly, but that was what it amounted to. Wealthy men would put up so many thousands for the campaign fund and in turn get them promise of their pick of certain posts. Public sentiment has sat hard on such appointments. It is not unusual even now for ambassadors to have made campaign contributions, but it is not an essential for the important places. The government needs the biggest and best men it can get to use their eyes for it abroad and so greater care is exercised now than even a decade ago, but still the poor men are barred because they can't afford to take the places.

Both Have Splendid Records

Here in Washington they say both Colonel Harvey and Mr. Childs are coming home because they couldn't stand the financial "gaff" any longer. Both had made splendid records, especially Harvey. It is said that John W. Davis, the last Wilson ambassador in London, who was comparatively well off, was delighted at a chance to plunge into lucrative law practice to recoup his sacrifices. Walter H. Page, the war ambassador at London, told in his letters frequently of the tremendous expense he was under.

The story is told of one brilliant ambassador of moderate circumstances who had it all figured out how he would get by, planning only the smallest of functions. His first dinner to leaders of the government to which he was accredited cost him half his year's salary, and it was a small dinner. He hadn't learned the lesson that abroad all American ambassadors are supposed to be wealthy and are regarded as fair marks for the tradesmen. The motto of the tradesmen is "soak them."

Ambassadors Were Well Paid

What the foreign diplomatic representatives in Washington receive is not made public. But it is said the representatives of the larger European governments all have in salaries and expense accounts larger incomes to draw on than the President of the United States. Germany, which couldn't afford the pace, sent one of her wealthiest citizens. The Italian ambassador likewise is wealthy. The foreign governments all own large embassies here. Even Mexico and Cuba have larger places here than Washington furnishes for its diplomats abroad. Most of them have to rent their own quarters.

Much is made of the gift of the Morgan home in London as an American embassy. It will be fine when the alterations are completed. But those acquainted with even this embassy say the ambassador's total salary will not pay the bill for the servants to run it properly, once it is used.

Poor Man Can't Afford It

The same situation as to ambassadors exists in the foreign service—the permanent diplomatic staff that does not change with administrations. Advancement is supposed to be on merit. But a poor man couldn't afford to take assignments in some of the larger capitals. In a lesser way, it is true of military and naval attaches.

Every now and then congress proposes to do something about it, to make ability, not wealth, the first essential in its foreign representatives. But then somebody asks, "Gosh! Don't the ambassadors get $18,000 a year? I'd like to swap with them." And the members think of the folks at home and how that argument might sound. And that is the end of it.

RELIEF WORK IN SWEDEN LARGE

STOCKHOLM—The balancing of accounts at the end of the worst period of unemployment which Sweden has ever weathered shows the following debit and credit: a total public outlay of $30,000,000 to provide work for the jobless, about 1,500 miles of new and improved roads, many new bridges, new telephone lines, 46 new athletic fields, new aviation fields, new barracks, extensive forest improvements, and restoration and opening up of large new tracts of arable land.

This information is the result of researches made by two leading Stockholm newspapers on the occasion of reporting the lowest amount of unemployment during two and a half years, the figures now being only 20,000 as against 163,000 in February 1922. Practically all of the large funds expended have been for constructive relief work, while steadily decreasing sums have been set aside for direct subvention. At present only about 150 persons are receiving unemployment doles.

Cheap Travel on Continent Arouses British Competition

By The Associated Press.

LONDON—Cheap travelling on the continent has temporarily superceded non-stop dancing and long distance cricket scoring as the summer craze of England. The honors of the cheap travelling contest, it appears, will go to the person who travels the farthest and the longest on the least money. The daily papers are being swamped with letters from claimants.

A London vicar requests the blue ribbon for the feat having travelled from London to Switzerland, and gone on a 15-day walking tour through that country, and then returned to London with a net expenditure of eight pounds 16 shillings, equal to $40.50.

Two London school teachers have completed a 40-day hike through Germany and Austria and their pocketbook was set back only $175.00.

LOVE

"What is love?" I asked the maiden,
And she answered, soft and low,
"Rays of light that warm the spirit,
Causing it to gleam and glow."

"What is love?" I asked the old wife,
And she answered, stern-lipped, white,
"Rays of light that scorch the spirit,
Tarnishing its surface bright."

U. S. AND CANADA LEAD IN AUTOS

Industry in Two Countries Is Now Astounding

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The automobile industry of North America is not a mushroom growth, but a logical development of the American carriage industry, says the Commerce Monthly, published by the National Bank of New York, dealing with "The motor car in relation to the economic life of the United States and Canada."

"The simple facts as to the production and use of the automotive vehicles in the United States and Canada," says the article, "are so astounding that the attention not only of the business world but the general public as well has been focused on them and speculations as to the future of the automotive industry are a fruitful theme of discussion."

From the standpoint of the value of product, the industry now is third in the United States, and there are more than 400,000 workers directly dependent upon it for a livelihood, while the number indirectly is much greater.

"The relationship of this vast industry to the general well-being of the country is obviously very close," the article continues, "and a correct understanding of the problems connected with it is of vital importance in judging business trends in the two leading countries of North America."

It is pointed out that at the beginning of 1923 there were approximately 14,500,00 registered motor vehicles in the world and the United States and Canada possessed 88 per cent of them, and the proportion of the annual world output is probably even higher, for the United States and Canada together dominate the markets of most importing countries. The argument that the industry is dependent upon road improvement is refuted by the fact that France with a population of 39,000,000 and famed for its good roads has only 200,000 passenger cars and 95,000 trucks; Great Britain with 47,000,000 population has 353,000 passenger cars and 145,000 trucks, while Canada with a population of only 9,000,000 has 462,000 passenger cars and 38,000 trucks. It is also pointed out that in the relatively newer portions of the United States such as Montana, Idaho, South Dakota and Nebraska, the ratio of motor vehicles to population is much higher than New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania with their admirable highways.

The total wholesale value of 2,659,000 motor vehicles produced in the United States and in American controlled plants in Canada in 1922 was $1,780,638,000, passenger vehicles constituting 90 per cent of the total number. During the first seven months of 1923 there were produced 2,127,000 passenger cars and 227,000 trucks. Registration of motor vehicles in the United States on July 1, 1923, was 13,002,000, of which 11,571,000 were private passenger cars. Of the passenger car registration of 10,800,000 at the end of 1922, it is estimated that 3,200,00 were owned by farmers.

In relation to the economic life the article declares that not until the expenditures on motor cars begin to cut into the savings of the people can they be criticised. That this point has not been reached is shown by the fact that savings deposits in 886 institutions increased from $5,712,000,000 on November 1, 1921, to $6,657,000,000 on July 1, 1923.

It is the judgment of the trade that more than 3,000,000 cars will be produced in the current year.

"While somewhere there is a point beyond which further growth of the industry would be unsound," the article concludes, "there is no method by which that point can as yet even approximately be determined. The reasonable expectation is that the leaders of the industry by means of careful study of their markets and by the exertion of ordinary business foresight will gradually adjust output to changing conditions as they may arise."

Chinese Greatly Outnumber Other Philippine Immigrants

By The Associated Press.

MANILA.—The Philippine Islands will not be disturbed with an immigration problem for some years to come if the present rate of immigration is continued.

A total of less than 4,000 immigrants came to the islands during the first six months of the present year, according to reports obtained from the customs service.

Chinese comprised the bulk of immigrants, 3,361 out of a total of 3,820 of those seeking permanent residence in the islands being Chinese. Of these 1,185 were minors under 14 years of age.

Japanese subjects made a poor second with a total of 248, English 60, Spanish 57, Indians 22, Germans 20; all other nationalities made up only 52.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Yesterday's declines were followed by a renewal of active general heavy buying and a very sharp advance in the cotton market today. December contracts sold up to 29.48, or even with the high level of last Monday and 65 points above yesterday's closing quotations. That month closed at 29.45 or within 3 points of the best with the general market closing firm at net advances of 44 to 68 points.

The opening was rather irregular owing to the issuance of a few October notices. These represented only 1,000 bales, but their circulation caused some near month liquidation and October was 21 points lower at the start. Near months showed declines of about one to eight points in sympathy, but the general list soon firmed up on very steady Liverpool cables, and reports of unfavorable weather in the southwest. The outlook was for lower temperatures in the southwest. Rumors were circulating that private returns indicated a running of less than 6,000,000 bales to October 18th. Traders were inclined to expect that the official returns would be heavier, notwithstanding the recent bad weather, but these features combined with the announcement that the government would issue a supplemental report on November 1, giving the condition of as of October 25, made a strong bullish impression on sentiment. There were flurries of realizing, but otherwise little selling was in evidence and the advance extended to 29.70 for October and 28.98 for January in the late trading, or about 47 to 66 points net higher on these positions.

Port receipts today 36,853. U. S. port stocks 622,354. Exports 12,898, making 1,376,061 so far this season.

New Orleans Cotton.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19.—Renewed strength was acquired by cotton today and the market rose to the new high level for the season on October at 29.35. Other months threatened to break into new high ground. Much better mill reports were the outstanding influence of the session. Highest prices came in the closing range of transactions when gains at the outside prices, amounted to 67 to 81 points. Taking the inside prices on the close, the net changes for the day were advances of 63 to 81 points, last sales of the December position ranging from 29.98 to 29.00.

On the opening the market hesitated and mainly owing to poor cables, lost 15 to 18 points. Weather over the belt was less unfavorable than expected. December fell off to 28.18. The trade was soon almost wholly concerned with reports out of New England that large mills there would resume work Monday and with cablegrams from Liverpool to brokers here claiming that 90 per cent of the mills in the Lancashire district would next week resume full time. In the late trading strength was retained on accounts of a better demand for spot cotton from Europe and Galveston

Fort Worth Livestock.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH Oct. 19.—Comparatively small receipts arrived in the cattle division Friday. The estimate called for a 2,700 head of cattle and 1,000 calves, but some of those were not on the open market. The run consisted mostly of mixed stuff and the good grades were scarce. Buyers were out at a seasonable hour. The trade was spotted with a tendency toward strength on all classes of killers. Calves were selling early to a broad demand and the market was well in line with the close of the previous day's session. On stockers and feeders the deal was unchanged, good feeders and desirable stockers meeting with a ready call.

Sales of beef steers were strong to higher, and buyers contended the trade is 15 to 25 cents better than at last week's close. The best cattle here went at a range of $6 to 6.50. Fat cows were scarce. A range of 1.75 to 2.75 caught most of the day's business. A few cars were disposed of at a range of $3 to 3.35. Sales of heifers and yearlings made a general range of 3.50 to 6.50. Bulls sold around 2.75 to 3.75. Bulk sales ranged from 4.50 to 6.25.

Some lambs selling at 10.50, were called steady, but a deck of wethers, having to go at 6.50, looked around 50 cents lower. Receipts for the day were estimated at 1,500 head, but most of the run was back.

Hog receipts displayed a good increase, around 2,200 head making up the supply. Buyers were bidding lower from the outset through sympathy with big declines elsewhere, and sales averaged 25 cents down. One car sold to a shippers at 7.40, but the packer top was 7.25, and most of the run had to go at a spread of $7 to 7.25. Pigs were in line with Thursday's decline, the best here selling at 6.75 and bulk sales ranging from $6 to 6.75.

Cottonseed Oil.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Except for a temporary dip in October at the start, due to selling by refiners, cottonseed oil ruled firm on covering and buying by cotton houses on the light offerings of crude and unfavorable crop advices. Closing prices showed net gains of 15 to 20 points. Sales 19,800 barrels. Prime crude 9.37½ bid; prime summer yellow spot 11.90@12.50; October 12.00; December 10.65; March 10.79; May 10.95; all bid.

STOCK MARKET MAINLY UPWARD

But Fluctuations Fail to Furnish Definite Trend

Market Features.

Total sales 620,000 shares of stock.

Industrials averaged 87.51, net gain .05.

High this year 105.38; low 86.92.

Twenty railroads averaged 81.38; net gain .22.

High 1923, 90.51; low 79.53.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Price readjustments in today's stock market were mainly upward but the fluctuations in leading stocks failed to furnish any conclusive evidence of a definite trend.

When the market opened there was a fairly large accumulation of selling orders, particularly in the rubber stocks which sagged to new low records for the year and in the Pan-American issues which were sold on persistent rumors of new financing. Bear selling of these issues, however, failed to unsettle the general list.

Another bullish demonstration was staged in the merchandising Woolworth being pushed up 5 points to 264, a new high for the year.

Northwestern rails made partial recovery from recent heaviness in a more favorable interpretation by railroad executives of President Coolidge's recent recommendation of a reduction in the freight rates on grain for export.

U. S. Steel, Baldwin, and American Can, the gains of which raun up to a point or more in the early trading, closed only fractionally higher.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported continued irregularity in trade and industry.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 and then advanced to 4 1-2. Time money continues at 5 1-4 for the shorter maturities and 5 1-2 for the longer dates, with business on a reduced scale owing to the reluctuance of workers to pay over five per cent. Western banks are the principal takers of commercial paper, prime names moving at 5 1-4 per cent.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was steady with few important changes in rates. German marks sold at a new low of less than one cent a hundred million.

A Welcome Visitor?

"I trust, Mr. Borunam," said Miss Cutting, as the young man was about to depart, "that you will spend one more evening with us before we move into our new house."

"Delighted, I assure you, Miss Cutting," replied Borum. "By the way, when do you expect to move?"

"I'm not positive as to the exact date," she answered, "but the workmen began excavating for the cellar yesterday, and papa expects the house to be finished in about 18 months."

IRRIGATION AID IS APPRECIATED

Harrison Reports Gratitude for C. of C. Effort in Oklahoma

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, as represented by Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the chamber was able to be of considerable assistance to Oklahoma in forming an irrigation association recently. Mr. Harrison told the business men's council "at its meeting yesterday of the trip to Ardmore and the forming of the congress, and read a letter thanking the Wichita Falls organization for its interest in helping the Oklahomans to perfect an organization.

Mr. Harrison explained that Oklahoma now has no irrigation laws of any kind, and is starting in where Wichita Falls began twenty-five years ago. "You have no idea," said Mr. Harrison, in concluding his remarks, "of the friendly feeling those people up there have for Wichita Falls. And they expressed deep appreciation for our interest in their irrigation plans. I believe any assistance we can give them will only tend to strengthen the bond between Oklahoma and Texas."

Mr. Harrison also told the council of the prospect of the building of a railroad line from Waurika to Ringling, which is being pushed by a number of Oklahoma and Texas towns. He said, however, that there is nothing of a definite nature to report on this project just now, although developments are expected in the immediate future.

WOMEN QUICKLY TAKE TO MILLINERY

Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist from A. and M. college is in the city assisting Miss Georgia Lansford, county demonstration agent, in her rural work among Women's Home Demonstration clubs in the surrounding communities.

Mrs. Barnes, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, is one of 26 such specialists in the entire United States, and has held the position in the state of Texas for the past three years. She is teaching the club women to renovate, clean and retrim old hats as well as make new ones. Methods of trimming, making flowers, recurling plumes, making and fitting linings, and covering hats are all demonstrated and taught, and the women do the actual work during the lectures.

Thursday was spent with the club at Pleasant Valley, near Iowa Park. The women brought hat frames, silk, velvet, satin, wire, flowers and trimmings of all sorts and learned the fundamentals of millinery.

Friday, the same sort of a workshop was conducted for the ladies of the County Line club with splendid results. The women, with the pointers they pick up at such a class, are able to return to their homes, and with materials they have at hand, old or new, make attractive, inexpensive, serviceable hats for themselves and their children.

Mrs. Barnes will be in Miss Lansford's office in the basement of the courthouse today to hold conference, answer questions and give advice to any women wishing to meet her. She returns to College Station this evening.

REEVES SUIT NOT A DIVORCE ACTION

Because of a clerical error in court house records, The Record News recently published an item which contained the information that W. C. Reeves was the defendant in a divorce suit. This was entirely incorrect, as Mrs. Reeves is not suing for divorce and the mistake was due entirely to an error on the records in the district clerk's office.

While the records show that a divorce action was brought investigation proves that the suit in question was not a divorce action at all, nor was it brought by Mr. Reeves' wife. The Records News, while entirely blameless in the matter, willingly corrects the error because of the embarrassment which it might bring to Mr. and Mrs. Reeves, who are well known in Wichita Falls, and of high standing in the community.

Tarleton Morrow leaves today for Dublin on a business trip.

J. T. Montgomery, who has been very ill at his home is reported doing as well as can be expected.

Have you seen the alligator hide oxfords in Sanderford's windows? They are the newest fall patterns, we understand, and there are some nifty looking plaid silk sport hose in blues, grays, and browns to go with them.

The two hour parking law must certainly be decrepit in this town. Town Stuff saw a Ford coupe and an Essex parked side by side in front of P. E. M. Co. this morning and two big shining cobwebs connected them.

It now appears the cripple astrologer who "influenced Hollywood" is thought insane. The question is, was he that way naturally or did he lose his mind after reviewing a few of the results of his work?

It is rumored among the ladies that short skirts are "coming back." Welcome! Perhaps they will enliven some of this drab fall scenery.

CRITICS PRAISE STRAND PICTURE

Pre-Release Showing Commended by Every Film Reviewer

Beginning next Sunday, 21st at the Strand theatre will show the William Fox screen version of A. S. M. Hutchinson's famous novel, "If Winter Comes." The picture, directed by Harry Millarde, has won the approval of every critic at pre-release showings. Equal care was spent on obtaining the correct English atmosphere and the exact counterparts of the characters drawn by Hutchinson.

One of the last members of the cast to be engaged was Margaret Fielding who plays Mabel, the wife of Mark Sabre.

Applicant after applicant was rejected until Margaret Fielding was considered for the part. She passed all the tests to the satisfaction of both the producer and director and has proved the wisdom of their choice. The best of training as an actress of serious roles has made it easy for Miss Fielding to score in this difficult part.

BOLL WEEVIL IS THREATENING U. S.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 19.—Declaring the United States favorable trade balance is jeopardized by the ravages of the boll weevil and that the time has arrived for action to check the pest which threatens the south's "money" crop, United States Senator Ransdell has sent invitations to newspaper editors throughout the country, urging them to attend the boll weevil convention here next week.

"It is necessary to arouse the nation to the extremity of our danger," the senator declared.

FATHERS-SONS HOLD BANQUET

Both Are Given Advice by Speakers—Mose Is Commended

"Boys, I want to talk to you," said Judge R. A. Martin in his address at the fathers and sons banquet, given by the Lions club at the Kemp last night. "It is within your power to be a joy and comfort to your parents, also it is within your power to be a discomfort to them. There ought to be between the boy and his father a feeling of confidence. The father can tell what you have to contend with."

Continuing his talk, Judge Martin spoke to the fathers saying, "And, fathers, when you get out of patience with the boy and feel just like whipping him with the slipper, if you will just take time to think what you did at his age, you will apply the shingle more lightly. The boy is a chip off the old block, and maybe an improvement."

In speaking of the father and son banquets which are becoming popular in this country and are annual affairs, Judge Martin said, "This is a move in the right direction to bring fathers and sons together and to establish a relation of confidence between them. Many of the boys, nine-tenths of them who get into trouble, are boys who have not fathers or are those who do not confide in their fathers. Youthful carelessness and avoiding parental authority lead him into trouble. A close confidence between a man and his boy will save these boys."

Vocal and violin solos and duets were given by Mrs. Lambreth Hancock and Mrs. Joseph Crouch. H. E. Shepherd accompanied by Mrs. Shepherd, led the assembly with the "Barnyard Brawl," singing "Old McDonald Had a Farm" and "Noodle Soup Rag."

"Toast to Our Sons" was given by J. B. Hatchitt, who said that no stronger tie existed. That was shown by the fact that the greatest gift was made by a father who gave up his son. "That tie is the strongest that nature has ever forged. The generations that come after us can only be handed down by father and son."

Dr. A. D. Patillo was in charge of the meeting. The regular meeting of the Lions club was announced for Wednesday of next week.

NEWS AND PERSONALS

Many Roofs Damaged.

The constant downpour which lasted for more than seventy-two hours the latter part of last week and fore part of this week damaged the roof of the old school building several hundred dollars worth, the Hines Mercantile company and many other business houses.

Probably the greatest damage in any one building was done to the W. F. George high school. The building did not have the roof on, therefore all of the water that fell went to the low floor and the west wall, where the plumber had been working. Water seeped under the wall, causing the ground to soften, thus the walls sinking, breaking through into two places.

Collecting City Taxes.

The city tax collector of Iowa Park is now mailing out notices of city taxes due. The city collected nearly $10,000 last year and fully that amount will be collected this year.

School Boy Sick.

Chester Van Horn, who has been in the General Hospital of Wichita Falls, suffering from blood poisoning is reported doing very well but far from being able to come home. Chester was attending school at the time he took sick and was carried to the hospital October 1.

Jack Chandler has been out of school for more than two weeks on account of what is reported typhoid fever.

Home Destroyed by Fire.

The home of Dr. Waller was destroyed by fire Monday morning about 9 o'clock. The home was located about three miles northwest of Iowa Park on what use to be the Monday place.

Dr. Waller and his daughter, Elizabeth had left the home about eight o'clock when Dr. Waller does his practicing and Elizabeth attends school.

No one was at home at the time the home burned, as Mrs. Waller was out of the county. There is no reason set forth for the fire. The loss was $7,000 partly covered by insurance.

Oilfield Work at Standstill.

The oil field work of Iowa Park has been at a standstill this week. All rigs shut down on account of the roads leading to the oil fields after leaving the highways. They are impassable in places preventing the hauling of fuel oil and other things needed for the running of the rigs. If the sun continues to shine as it has today and yesterday the oil field work will be back to normal by the first of the week.

CHICAGO BABY CROP IS SHORT

Steadily Declining Birth Rate Shows Drop Of 6,647

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO.—With a steadily declining birth rate, Chicago is "short" 6,647 babies since 1916, according to statistics issued by the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago.

In 1916, when the population of the city was only 2,517,172, 56,417 babies were born. In 1922, when the population figure was placed at 2,830,000, only 50,724 babies were born. The rate during those years had fallen from 22.4 a thousand to 20.02. Using these figures as a basis, Orlo F. King, Extension Secretary of the Infant Welfare Society declared that Chicago is short 6,647 babies.

"The falling of the birth rate," said Mr. King, "is forcibly driving home to the public spirited citizens of Chicago the increasing necessity of guarding the human life that is given us each year even more zealously than in the past. It is all the more important that we exert every possible means to preserve the infant lives in this community when we believe, and with good reason, that the birth rate will continue to drop as it has since 1808."

Statistics of the Society show that last year, when it cared for approximately 12,000 babies, an actual saving of 480 lives was credited to the society because the death rate among babies under 2 years of age cared for at these stations was only 14 a thousand, while throughout the city generally it was four times as great.
