'ALICE WHERE ART THOU?' HAS BECOME A JINX TO AL JOLSON

Wife Won't Speak to Him Since Rhinelander's Wife Named Him in Note

HE TELLS THE COURT

Every Time He Leaves His Dressing Room the Orchestra Plays It

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Comedy and pathos chased each other across the stage of the Rhinelander annulment suit today, interspersed with moments when the crowded court room gasped at frank testimony on the art of love-making.

It was a day of mental torture for Leonard Kip Rhinelander, the younger son of an aristocratic family, who seeks to win freedom from his wife, Alice Beatrice Jones, a negro maid servant and daughter of a hack driver.

Subjected to a merciless cross examination young, Rhinelander admitted swearing to five falsehoods, admitted that he had been infatuated with his wife and that he had taken the initiative in love-making.

Wants Suit to Win.

Stammering and hesitating he waded through a series of intimate questions concerning his relations with her and his own love life. Yet, when the day had ended almost his last statement was that he wanted to go on with the suit.

The comedy note was struck this morning when Al Jolson, black face comedian, took the stand in the midst of Leonard's cross examination to deny that he had ever met Alice as she had intimated in one of her letters and read several days ago.

Jolson protested that he had never met her, that his life had been made miserable since her letter was published and that his wife does not talk to him because of it. "I'm glad this is straight now," he said. "Maybe I can eat breakfast at home tomorrow. Every time I walk from my dressing room the orchestra plays 'Alice, Where Art Thou'?"

Admits Falsehoods.

It was in the bill of particulars that Rhinelander admitted to five falsehoods, all of them concerned with the time when he first began to suspect Alice had negro blood. At first he said he suspected it in 1922, long before the marriage, then he said it was in March, 1923, when he was shown her birth certificate. The latter time he finally admitted was correct. The bill of particulars, he admitted, was signed and sworn to by him, although he knew it was false in several paragraphs.

Today marked the beginning of the introduction of Leonard's letters to Alice. Only nine of them were read and none contained anything comparable to the erotic passages in her letters. There are about 300 of his letters which still may be introduced. Some of them, the defense has said, are quite as erotic as Alice's.

"I Love You," He Wrote.

One letter contained protestations of love for Alice with the flat statement, "I love you."

Later in the letter he said: "Remember what I said about getting an apartment in New York." While again he added: "Suppose we take a trip to New York on Friday and see what we can find."

"Were you in love when you suggested the apartment?"

"I was falling in love."

"When did you first intend to make this girl your wife?"

"In 1923, about March, I believe."

Rhinelander was asked about a star sapphire ring he had given Alice and took it off his finger to display it. Alice had given it back to him, he said.

One of the letters said: "Honey bunch, you are not going to leave me and go all the way to Hartford, are you?"

To Sister's Home.

Rhinelander admitted that at first he had contemplated marrying Alice. Later he said the question of her color came up, chiefly because of her sister, Emily, having married Robert Brooks, a negro butler. Alice told him she was white, he testified, and he believed her. He had accepted Robert and Emily because they were Alice's relatives, he said, admitting that he had played cards in the Brooks home and had sent affectionate postal cards to the couple.

Rhinelander will go on the stand again for cross examination tomorrow.

Comes Now Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald On "Wichita Falls"

This Is the First of a Series of Five Articles on the Old Home Town by the Dean of Texas Newspaper Men.

BY HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Written Excclusively for the Record News

This is more than the dawning of the irrigation age in Texas. It is not a new invention or a modern innovation. Indeed, the ancients knew all about it thousands of years ago and the mission fathers built their diversion channels and irrigation ditches in and around the Alamo City ages and ages ago. Chinese knew all about it before Confucius built the acqueducts and made irrigation a success before Cortez and his conquisdatores invaded the land of Monte Zuma and exploited the Aztec of its wealth which had accrued to those who had created a very advanced civilization among the Indians of Mexico. Regardless of this, the people of Wichita Falls and Wichita county voted upon themselves a bond issue of $5,000,000 to show the southwesterners what could be done in the way of making a fertile valley blossom like a rose garden even in drouthy seasons of the year. All this has been told in foregoing articles. Fanciful pictures have been painted of the men of vision and a dream which came true. All the citizens and tax payers of this section shared the cost of this vast enterprise.

There are leaders and their are followers. But leader and follower voted to be taxed to make this irrigation project a success and in the fullness of time to obtain a supply of water which would irrigate more than 250,000 acres of land. The writer has known Wichita Falls for twenty years and he has watched its growth from a hamlet of a few hundred to a city of approximately 60,000. He has a certain pride in the city that faith built and in the long ago, he predicted for it a glorious future. It was not a dream. It was a hope, and the hope has been realized.

Wichita Falls is one of the best built cities in the south or the west. It is one of the most modern. It is one of the fastest growing. It has a magnificent trade territory to the north, to the west, to the east and the south. There are men among its builders who have predicted for it a population of 100,000. It is certain to reach that high mark. It is possible that it will go on to a hundred and fifty thousand in the next ten years.

Irrigation will play a great part in its growth. Manufacturing will play a

DAN MOODY IN TRIUMPH DAY BEFORE COURT

All Attorney General's Contentions in Road Suit Upheld by Calhoun

THE FERGUSONS LOSE

Hearing Against American Road Company Begins Tuesday at Austin

AUSTIN, Nov. 17.—(AP)—To permit intervention of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson and the highway commissioners for the state in the American Road company suit would be defeating any claims the state may have against that company, Judge George Calhoun said today ni denying them right to intervene.

The judge also virtually disposed of the claims made in pleas of abatement when he said that, since it was conceded the attorney general had right to bring suit for forfeiture of permit to do business; it followed he had the right to revoke contracts and to recover any amount of money illegally held. The day was clearly one of triumph for Attorney General Dan Moody.

Judge Calhoun declared that where the public interest was involved, the attorney general needed no specific statute to bring suit.

Hearing was started on application for permanent injunction brought by Moody against the American Road company. Charges against the company were read by Ernest May, assistant attorney general. Joe Worsham of Dallas; attorney for the road company, read a formal answer constituting a general denial.

Testimony in the suit, which asks an order restraining the company from disposing of any of its assets, and from collecting more money from the highway commission, will start Wednesday.

Frank Lanham, chairman of the highway commission, asked to comment on denial of intervention, said "it seems the commission has not been given a fair opportunity to defend itself against charges that have been brought against it."

This is the second time in history of the United States that a governor has been ousted from court in an attempt to intervene.

CREDITS ABOVE NEEDS WARNS RESERVE HEAD

A. C. Miller Says it Is Time To Apply Conservatism To Business

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—America's healthy business condition stands in danger of being transformed into one of speculation and inflation, A. C. Miller, federal reserve board member and widely known economist, declared here tonight with a warning that the time has come to apply conservatism to business plans.

Speaking before New England's banking and industrial leaders at the Commerce club, he asserted that never before had such a surplus of floating credit been available in excess of the requirements of commerce, agriculture and industry. In this situation he saw potential difficulties and declared that the federal reserve banks now should hold true to the course plotted for them and refuse to stand as life preservers for speculators.

Asserting that a considerable volume of credit had been absorbed in land speculation in some parts of the country and speculative building operations in others, he described these as some of the dangerous spots in the present situation.

"There is evidence," he continued, "that a section of the public is losing its bearings and being drawn into the arena of thoughtless speculation. Cheaper and more abundant credit than the country has ever known on so extensive scale are giving them aid and encouragement. It is time for a halt lest a speculative frame of mind should be engendered which might in time invade the field of legitimate trade and industry."

R. BLACKBURN PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE OF $14,000 THEFT

Quick Disposition Made Of One of Bank's Former Managers

RECEIVES SENTENCE

Indictment Against Him Returned by Grand Jury On Friday

Robert Blackburn, formerly an employe in the First National bank here, was sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. after he entered a plea of guilty Tuesday to a charge of embezzlement.

Judge William H. Atwell pronounced sentence late Tuesday afternoon and it was indicated Blackburn would be taken to prison at once.

It was charged in a federal grand jury indictment returned Tuesday morning that he had embezzled $14,870.70 of the bank's funds while serving as manager of one of the departments of the institution.

Atwell In Rebuke Of Liquor Defendant

Stiff penalties were meted out Tuesday by Federal Judge William H. Atwell to three liquor law violators when they entered pleas of guilty in federal court.

E. A. Ketchum, up for the second time, drew one year and one day. His wife got 30 days in the county jail.

Mark Davis drew five months in jail. G. C. Kearns and James W. Walker, were found not guilty.

In pronouncing sentence against Davis, Judge Atwell rebuked him for "not being fair with the case."

Said the judge, "you know, Davis and I know—I can't prove it, of course, but I'm pretty sure just the same, that Kearns built that still for you and you and he were in on it together."

AGE OLD GHOST OF TRAGEDY IS FOUND IN CAMP

Human Bones Dug up By Workmen Near River Scotland Addition

The river bank grave of a human being who died, perhaps a generation ago and whose decaying bones were found Monday near the Montgomery tourist camp in Scotland addition, will be left alone.

The finding of the portions of a human skeleton will bring no legal action, but they do present some interesting theories as to how the bones of a leg, the breast bones, some ribs and a few other pieces came to be.

Workmen moving some rubbish in the tourist camp Monday noon unearthed the relics. The bones were plainly those of a human. Not a particle of skin or clothing could be found and there was no trace of the skull.

Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn recommended the bones be covered up again and left alone.

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
The People First.

The statesman weeps, and wipes his weary brow,
The statesman buried under bills and acts,
Unhappily the statesman wonders how
A statesman is to ascertain the facts.
Which bills to vote for, and which bills oppose,
So centuries of men have been perplexed:
But here's a rule, the best man ever knows;
The people first, and other people next.
When lobbies of our Washington hotels
Are filled with other lobbies, good and bad,
Or when our legislature someone tells
The newest movement or the latest fad,
When someone full of something comes around
And wants us Russianized, or maybe Mexed,
Make this the rule, and freedom will abound:
The people first, and other people next.
A right respect for all the people's rights,
The rights of property, the rights of men,
Will bring us safely through the hardest fights,
The loudest propaganda now and then.
Whatever any mortal may demand,
Whatever any party make its text,
Remember, you who rule our state and land,
The people first, and other people next!

BRITISH LAW STANDS

LONDON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The house of commons without division today defeated a labor proposal to remove the British war time restrictions on immigration.

Not Before Judge Atwel Tells Bootlegger He's Disgrace to City

"You're a disgrace to the city, that's the truth of the matter. You ought to be in the penitentiary, Hill, and I'm sorry—I'm judicially sorry I can't send you there. You've been in this whiskey business all along. I don't know whether you've ever made a statement to me about your going to quit. You and Collins there wouldn't take the stand here and say anything. That little fellow at your side is just a tool in your hands; you're running things and I say you are a disgrace to this city. You've gotten off light so far, but it's going to get you yet."

Thus did Federal Judge William H. Atwell denounce Jack Hill, local auto supply agent, garage man and tailor, who was found guilty yesterday of possession of whiskey and who was saved from a limit-stretch in the federal penitentiary only by a legal technicality raised by John Davenport and James V. Allred, his attorneys, after the prosecution had overlooked a point. Two previous convictions of Hill in the federal court here were not certified to by the prosecution, although they were alleged in the information against him. This lapse the government prosecutors sought to correct after the case was closed by asking Judge Atwell, before whom Hill was tried on both occasions, to bear them in mind in assessing punishment.

Judge Refuses Plea.

Judge Atwell said, however, that as a matter of law he would have to ignore the two former cases because of the lack of official certification. A $500 fine was accordingly the heaviest penalty.

A fine of $500 was also assessed against E. J. Collins, found guilty with Hill on the same charge. P. E. Carpenter, also charged in the information, was found not guilty.

The whole case yesterday grew out of a raid April 22 by Detective Jimmy Allen of the city police department

Four Army Deserters From Cheyenne Receive Sentence Before Atwell

A trail that started from a military camp near Cheyenne, Wyo., last summer and wound southward through Colorado and into Texas turned north again Tuesday toward federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.

Four youths who trod it must serve a year and a day in Leavenworth. After that they are wanted for auto theft and jail breaking in Wellington, Colo., and perhaps for desertion from the army.

The four, Francis D. Mort of Pennsylvania, Robert Dupoy of St. Louis, Henry E. Harper of Massachusetts and Simon J. Jedowsik of Minnesota, entered pleas of guilty yesterday before Federal Judge William H. Atwell for interstate transportation of stolen automobile.

They deserted from the Wyoming army, stole a car in Cheyenne and drove to Wellington where they were captured. They knocked out one side of the jail, got away, stole another car and drove to Childress. Near there they held up a filling station and were captured by the Childress sheriff.

Joe Art and Committeemen Spread Clover Luck

Posters In Profusion Herald The Coming Of Wichita Falls Fifth Community Chest Drive

The emerald green of the clover has blossomed out in startling profusion in Wichita Falls.

It is all occasioned by the fifth annual community chest drive which will be started here next Monday and in support of which the business district is being placarded with posters telling the what, when and why of the chest. Practically all the stores in town having window display space have placed a part of them at the disposal of the publicity committee of the chest campaign.

The posters have been worked up by this same committee which is headed by Joe Art as chairman and have been distributed by the members. They have a huge four leaf clover as the central design, in each leaf of which is a photographic copy of some one or something that has been benefitted in the past by the ministrations of organized relief work.

Miss Ross L. Harkins, Red Cross nurse, and Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, secretary of the municipal welfare board, two indefatiguable social welfare workers here, making a call at a humble hovel where welfare work is needed, and where community chest funds, among other places, are spent.

This year's campaign slogan "bring us good luck," and that of last year "one campaign instead of nine" appear on the posters. The campaign dates, also, are given at the bottom.

Five-minte addresses on the value of the chest are now being made under the direction of the speaking committee headed by J. N. Sherill. All theatres are being visited every evening and an address made before the audiences; speakers are appearing at luncheon clubs and the larger women's meetings. These will be continued on through the present week and until the campaaign for $55,000 has been successfully wound up next week.

ARCHER GIVES COURT JOB TO WICHITA FIRM

Fixtures for All Jury Rooms Bought From School Supply Company

ARCHER CITY, Nov. 17.—The contract for furniture and fixtures for the district court, grand jury, petit jury and commissioners court rooms was let to the Wichita Falls School Supply company by the commissioner's court. Smith, representing the Wichita Falls firm, consumated the deal.

The court house has been remodeled at a cost of $80,000 and is modern in every respect. A basement has been built and steam heat installed. The court house was built in 1892 at the then enormous sum of $30,000. But its builders built wisely and well as today it is in a splendid condition, not a crack in its walls anywhere. Its rooms are large and commodious and well lighted, making the remodeling of it a possibility as not many buildings built 35 years ago have these qualities.

Two Are Injured In Electra Smash

ELECTRA, Nov. 17.—Two men were badly injured when a Ford coupe driven by Wayne Belcher and a companion, going south on Waggoner street crashed into a Ford roadster, going west on Harrison avenue, driven by A. N. Jones. Jones received a cut between four and five inches in length extending from the back of his ear to the front of his throat, just missing the carotid artery. Belcher sustained a dislocated right shoulder, which is probably broken and other bruises about the body. The coupe turned oover while the victim of the roadster was thrown through the wind shield. The other occupants of the cars were injured. Both men were rushed to the Electra hospital. Although neither is in a critical condition, both are painfully injured and will be away from their work for several days.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

DOES every day find you miserable with backache? Do you suffer sharp, stabbing pains? Are you lame and stiff—always tired, nervous and dispirited?

Then you should be looking to your kidneys? Your kidneys are the blood filters. Perhaps they have lagged—have failed to properly rid the blood of body poisons.

Naturally, then, you suffer the injurious effects of this slow poisoning.

Don't risk neglect! If your kidneys need help use Doan's Pills. No other kidney diuretic is so well recommended nor so universally successful. Ask your neighbor!

Here Is Wichita Falls Proof

MRS. A. W. ROBBINS, Austin St., says: "My kidneys got in bad shape and the small of my back was lame and sore and I could hardly move. When I stooped, a sharp twinging pain caught me in my back making it hard for me to straighten. There was a continual pain in my back and headaches and dizzy spells added to my misery. I purchased one box of Doan's Pills from the Rexall Drug Store and they cured me."

CHILDRESS HAS BUILDING BOOM OF LARGE SIZE

Each Day Sees Some Structure Started or Completed There

CHILDRESS, Nov. 17.—The building boom is still on and each day sees something finished and something started. The $65,000 Palace theatre, being built by Phipps and Layton, is nearing completion; the $30,000 auditorium, being built at the Pair park, is well under way and should be completed within the next 60 days.

The new high school to cost $140,000 has been started, the contractor, Geo. Parr of Amarillo, has a force of workmen making the excavation for the foundation.

The Methodist church is rushing the work on their new $65,000 church, which they hope to have completed by Christmas.

John R. Scott has let the contract for a large brick warehouse and office building for Mrs. C. A. Washburn, who runs a transfer and storage business. An extension of 25x50 feet will be made by Scott to the building occupied by the Dodge agency.

FITZGERALD

great part. Milling will play a great part. Railway activities will play a great part for mind you, Wichita Falls has the great trunk lines running east and west and the great feeder lines running north and south. It has the great Burlington system, which is one of the most important in America, and the Santa Fe looks on with longing eyes to this city that Faith built backed by men and their money and their courage.

It's business organizations, its civic organizations, its fraternal organizations, its social organizations and clubs are dominated and directed by successful and ambitious and virgle young men. Its municipal government is directed and dominated by young men. Wichita Falls is not a one man or a two man town. It is not a six or a ten man town. It is a town where team work has been developed to a high degree and where the co-operative spirit is displayed by all individuals on all occasions.

There are builders and there are helpers, and the last is as important in a building sense as the first. Wichita Falls has a public school system the pride of the people. There is a record attendance, a school year that may close with approximately 10,000 pupils enrolled. Wichita Falls has a Junior high school, one of the most advanced in the southwest. Wichita Falls has built three new schools this year. A bond issue of $500,000.00 cared for the work of construction and equipment. Strong for education of all the children of all the people are the property owners and tax payers of this city of the plains.

Wichita Falls is a city of churches as well as a city of schools, all the denominations are represented. There are many church edifices that are modern as well as beautiful. Catholics and Jewish people have their temples of worship, and the former a convent school, which ranks high in the church and educational activities of that faith. Wichita Falls has a golf and country club with a $100,000 club house that is modern and the last word in architecture. There are many private clubs for fishing and hunting and swimming, which are largely patronized.

Lake Kemp in coming years is certain to become one of the picturesque spots of the southwest with its hundreds of summer camps and boating and fishing clubs. These people in the city that faith built believe in recreation and outdoor sports just as strongly as they believe in the rugged activities of business life in all the fields of human endeavor.

It is well to remember these things as we walk along in the middle of the road, take a look backward, and then another look forward, and are amazed with the transformation that has taken place in a very brief period as men count time and what was once a veritable wilderness is today a picture of the rewards that have come to those who labored to make a beautiful city and a populated country out of vast ranges where the cattle grazed in what writers call, yesteryear.

All this has taken place in the memory of men not yet in their prime, and the possibilities of the future are more dazzleing than the wildest dreams of those who planned before faith had been planted in the human breast and money was as scarce for productive or developing enterprises as the visits of angels.

who unearthed 330 gallons of whiskey in a garage at the rear of 904 Kemp. Carpenter, who lived in the place, Hill, who had moved away from it about ten days before, and Collins, who was working for Hill in the latter's auto supply shop in the 800 block Ninth Street, were all arrested.

Blame Collins.

The defense shifted the entire blame to Collins and admitted in its argument that Collins was guilty. It developed that no previous convictions have been lodged against him. The defense contended, however, that the only thing introduced in the case tending to show Hill's implication it it was the fact that he bad once lived in the house and that Allen had charged him with having said after his arrest that "I'd take this jolt myself but it will be my third offense." Attorneys Allred and Davenport roundly assailed Allen for making this statement and openly charged it wasn't based on fact.

When Judge Atwell wound up with the warning, "it will get you yet," Hill simply said, "I don't think it will, your honor."

WHO IS AIDED BY THE COMMUNITY CHEST

Psychologists and sociologists agree that there is no more important period in the life of a boy than at that time when, from 10 to 18 years of age, he is acquiring those traits of character that will stay with him through life. As a youngster in the formative period he develops at that age the habits, the customs and the methods he will carry with him in after years; he selects his ideals and either consciously or unconsciously lays the patterns of life by which he will be governed later on.

It is to guide and direct the boy through this critical stage that the Boy Scout organization was created. It is designed to provide for boys the well-rounded, well-regulated programs that will give them the proper divergions, proper occupations and proper outlook. The scout work plan includes, as most every one knows, the tenets of honesty, integrity, industry, sympathy, kindness, truthfulness and other virtues. The scout obligations impose a task of doing a good turn daily for some one; scout studies broaden and enlarge a boy's education; while the scout physical programs aid his health and bodily development.

The remarkable growth of the scout organization in America in the last decade has been proof of its value. Everywhere it has been accepted as something needed, something worth while; it has been encouraged and supported by men of prominence; and it bids fair to increase its hold on the youth of the land as succeeding years bring further demonstrations of its value.

In Wichita Falls the scout organization is a live and active participant in the community chest. It is supported in large measure by a cut in the fund and with these proceeds it is building the boys of the community into a more healthful, a more resourceful, a more reliable group.

That the local troops have been busy the past year is shown by the attached activities report compiled by Frank B. Creighton, scout executive for Wichita Falls, and submitted by I. H. Roberts, chairman of the scout work here. A financial statement for the year is also presented.

The boys who went on this trip had the pleasure of visiting the following cities: Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Galveston, Beaumont, Orange, Jacksonville, Tyler, Rusk and Dallas and at each place were the guests of local scouts and were shown a wonderful time. The trip cost the boys $16 each, which covered the expenses of the trip.

THE ONLY LAWS THAT ARE ENFORCED

How puny are man's laws alongside those of Nature!

And of how little consequence!

Yet the whole code of her laws may be written on a postage stamp.

Motion is the first secret of Nature.

The whirling bubble on the surface of a brook, admits to us the secret of the mechanics of the sky.

Every shell on the beach is a key to it.

A little water made to rotate in a cup explains the formation of the simpler shells; the addition of matter from year to year, causes them to arrive at last at the most complex form.

And yet, as Emerson exclaims, "So poor is nature with all her craft, that, from the beginning to the end of the universe, she has but one stuff—but one puff with its two ends, to serve up her dream-like variety. Compound it how she will, star, sand, fire, water, tree, man, it is still one stuff, and betrays the same properties."

There is constant life in her, motion and development; yet she remains where she was.

She is eternally changing, and never stands still; yet she is steadfast; her step is measured, her exceptions rare, her laws immutable.

The meaning of the whole she keeps to herself, and no one can learn it from her; yet man carries the world in his head; the whole of astronomy and chemistry suspended in a thought.

Because the history of nature is characterized in his brain, he is the prophet and discoverer of her secrets.

Every known fact in natural science was divided the presentment of somebody, before it was actually verified. Truly, there is nothing new under the sun.

A man does not tie his shoe without recognizing laws which bind the farthest regions of nature.

Man is never able to enforce his laws; Nature always does. Yet man in all his infinite wisdom, continues to make laws contrary to those of nature.

Uncommon Sense

"WHERE DOES THE MONEY GO?"

Few married people budget their household expenses.

As a rule the "Lord and Master" handles the finances, and makes his wife ask him for such sums of money as she needs to pay the household expenses and dress the children.

When he gives her an allowance, he insists that she keep within it.

If it happens that she cannot do this he inquires peevishly "Where on earth does the money go? What can you do with it?"

And yet seldom sociologists wonder why there are so many unhappy marriages.

If marriages were a real business partnership, as it ought to be, there would be no quarrels about financial matters.

It is as much to the interest of the wife as to the husband to save money, so that something will be left over at the end of the year.

And as a general thing, her mother's instinct will make her more anxious to save than he is.

If you go into the savings institutions you will perhaps be surprised at the number of women who are making deposits.

They are thinking about their children, their education, and their future.

They cannot help thinking about them, and worrying about them, and wondering how they can be given the chance in the world that every child ought to have.

If it is not the wives—save those of the very rich—who gamble, or play the races, or squander money in order to impress other people.

Let them be equal partners in the institution of the home and they will be dependable partners, for in them, with their children was born a responsibility that few men can understand.

If the money "goes" it usually goes out of the pockets of the husband, and a great deal of it goes so rapidly that he is quite at a loss to account for it when it had gone.

He has of course the cares and anxieties of parenthood. But so has his wife.

He has his duties at his place of employment. But his wife has just as important duties at home—and there are no fixed hours of work and rest there. She must rest when she can.

A careful budgeting of expenses will usually show that the money that is spent foolishly and unnecessarily by the wife does not amount to half that spent in the same way by the husband.

To the man a home is some place to go when he is tired.

To a woman it is a place where the children must be fed and put to bed, and nursed when they are sick, and where the husband must be made comfortable and coddled when he comes in complaining of little business troubles that his wife ought never to be worried about.

Even if a wife is a bad manager, and sometimes spends more than she ought, she never or rarely spends more than half the income over the rent and expenses of the house, and she is certainly entitled to spend that much if she wants to. To make her beholden to her husband for every cent she has is an injustice which the law cannot reach, but which is nevertheless, a crying injustice.

FOOL'S GOLD

What Cicero practised as the means of forensic success, needs to be imitated by all who study any subject in order to arrive at the truth.

It is observed that "He who knows only his own side of the case, knows, little of that."

His reasons may be good, and no one may be able to refute them;

But if he is equally unable to refute the reasons on the opposite side;

If he does not know so much as what they are,

He has no ground for perferring either opinion.

In such a case the rational position for him would be suspension of judgment.

Yet it is the type of person whose opinions are founded upon superstition, or hearsay, and who is unable to defend either one side or the other, who never suspends judgment.

He is forever dealing out destinies.

To know another person's ideas, we must get them from him, or from persons who believe in them.

It is not enough that we should hear them ideas from our own teachers, presented as they often are, and accompanied by what they offer as refutations.

This is not the way to do justice to the arguments, or bring them into real contact with our mind.

We must know them in their most plausible and persuasive form; and we can only obtain this form from persons who defend them in earnest and do their utmost for them.

Hordes of these "radical" theories that are floating about, forbidden unreserved public hearing by narrow-minded officials and patriots, would be quickly disposed of as nonsensical and humorous if they were spread in the open by their long-haired advocates.

Few men ever throw themselves into the mental position of those who think differently from them, and consider what such persons have to say;

And consequently they do not, in the proper sense of the word, know the doctrines they profess.

Your beliefs are worthless unless you can defend them. They are like that bright substance known as "fool's gold."

NATURE BLOCKS THE GAME.

Never did a year of athletics reach such an anticlimax as faced 1925 football last Saturday afternoon. A year of startling reverses and superb victories, a year that brought out the largest crowds that ever walled the gridirons of the nation, a year that administered the hemlock to the proudest institutions in America and made "Red" Grange second to Calvin Coolidge alone in public estimation, degenerated into an inglorious dud when Old Man Weather got into the game.

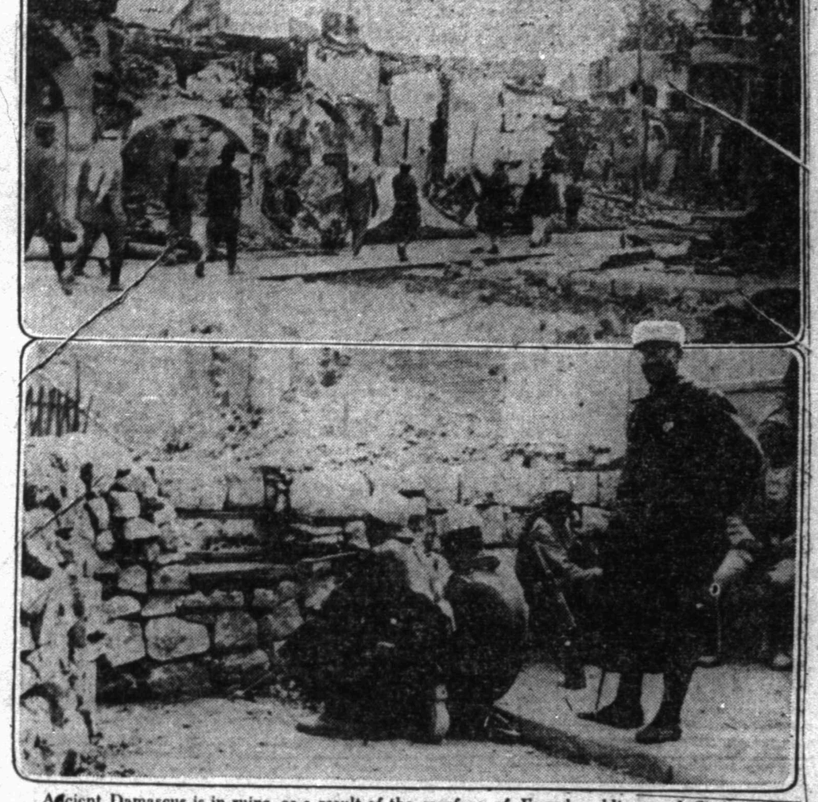

"What is man that thou are mindful of him?" sang the psalmist in the long ago, and that seemed to be the favorite selection of the weather department Saturday. The power that holds wind and rain and snow in his fists let loose upon the country a mixture of weather that stretched mud and slush from sea to sea and made of every surrounded gridiron a fit abode for ducks and other web-footed gentry. The greatest year in football history crashed into its closing hour only to flatten out like a punctured tire.

A county attorney who violates a judge's temporary restraining order should not be surprised if the rest of the populace has little respect for law.

If "Red" Grange ever does get to congress he'll find political mud harder to run in than the gridiron variety.

Standard oil has hiked the price of gas 2 cents. John D. will be able to give away another dime now

Views Of Damascus And Horror of Syrian Massacres

Ancient Damascus is in ruins, as a result of the warfare of French soldiers and Syrian rebels. Photo at top shows condition of city after bombardment of French guns in which 1,000 natives were killed; at bottom is a view of one of the many street barricades set up by the French to prevent retaliations.

High feeling among Mohammedans as a result of French methods in subduing Syrian rebels is causing worry among European nations with interests in the east. Graphic photos, taken following massacres in Damascus shown (top) angry natives talking of retaliations, while French soldiers stroll watchfully about; and (bottom) a few of the thousand Syrians killed in bombardment of the city.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Today's planetary aspects are distinctly adverse until noon, when they change and become favorable, increasing in auspicious intensity for the remainder of the day. In the morning, there will be sensed an air of unrest and disquietude, which will not bode well for any new enterprise or undertaking. Routine work only should occupy your attention. Later on, and especially after 3 p. m., new and original work can be taken up. It is also a good opportunity for travel, or change. The promptings of affection will be felt in the evening, and full advantage should be taken of these conditions by those in love, as an engagement entered into today will be full of happiness and contentment.

Children born today will, according to their sex, vary very much in their physical condition. The girl, whose appearance will demand admiration, will, in her infancy, be subject to continual ailments, and only very correct alimentation will enable her to attain, later on, physical normalcy. The boy, although his appearance during infancy, will give rise to many misgivings, will havev that "wiryness" of constitution that rises superior to all attacks. In disposition, they will be similar. They will both be temperamentally attractive, and have delightful personalities. They will be addicted to study, while not neglecting the pastimes of childhood, and will be more than ordinarily ambitious.

If today is your birthday, you are accurate, just, and conscientious. You have a very high sense of the responsibilities of life, and in your own unaffected way, try your utmost to live up to the standard you have set for yourself. Notwithstanding this, you never preach to, or criticize, others, but are breezy and entertaining, with a genial wit, and are a general favorite.

You never act on impulse, but deliberate carefully before saying or doing anything, and are steady and reliable. Steady persistency is one of your characteristics, and you generally accomplish that which you set out to do. Your ambitions, however, are more along the lines of happiness than those of materialistic victories.

Your tastes are cultured and refined, while your ideals are high and worthy of emulation, and, in addition to this, the signs denote that you have decided leanings towards music and art.

SUNSHINE PELLETS

And so it seems ye men of note
Will take a bit to wet the throat.

Beans for the blood is blood for the bean,

Used as a rub, alcohol may be indicated in pneumonia.

They really live—
I mean the folks
Who pitch their quoits
And crack their jokes.

Well, anyway, surgical clinics seldom suspend operations.

Too often the school of hard knocks is just a school of scandal.

With the house shut tight
And the stove red hot,
That's a mighty bad place
For a delicate tot.

When the feet and ankles start to swell keep your eye on the heart.

Isn't there a probability that, in the future, clothing may be abolished? Well, there's a bare possibility.

The fattest man in seven states

HOW IT STARTED

A "Mountain in Labor."

This is an expression that is frequently used today in writing and rhetorical speech to express the phenomenon of great power straining and struggling, usually with disproportionately slight results.

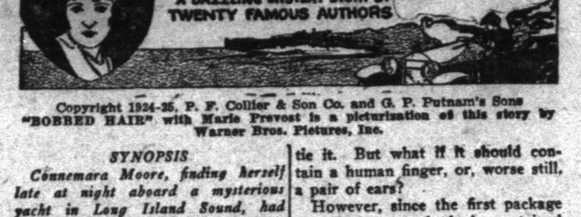

The authorship of the expression is credited to the Latin poet, Horace, (properly Quintus Horatius Flaccus) who was so delightfully adept at poking fun at the whims and weaknesses of human nature. It was in satirical reference to certain orators of the day we learn, who spoke much and said little, in other words who used up steam, to little avail that he drew the analogy of a mountain in labor bringing forth a mouse!

The expression was more recently popularized by its use by that great French critic and satirist, Boileau-Despreaux, sometimes called the seventeenth century disciple of Horace, who originally broke into fame through his satire on the vices of Paris, published in 1660, in which he proved himself a worthy follower of the great classical satirist.

POEMS THAT LIVE

ONE WORD TOO OFTEN PROFANED

One word is too often profaned
For me to profane it,
One feeling too falsely disdained
For thee to disdain it.
One hope is too like despair
For prudence to smother,
And pity from thee more dear
Than that from another.
I can give not what men call love;
But wilt thou accept not
The worship the heart lifts above
And the heavens reject not;
The desire of the moth for the star,
Of the night for the morrow,
The devotion of something afar
From the sphere of our sorrow?
—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore, finding herself late at night aboard a mysterious yacht in Long Island Sound, had plunged overboard and swam to shore. In the water she was joined by the faithful dog, Bugle. The two lay on the beach and while Connie slept Bugle disappeared, to return with a man's oilskin coat—for her. It has been a night of strange adventures, which started when Connemara stole away from Aunt Celimena's Connecticut home rather than announce her engagement.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

A pair of leather gloves. Worn, but very swanky. "Two pounds in Jarvis Street," computed Connemara, who knew her London—"that would be something like ten dollars before the exchange went down." He must be rich. Or frightfully extravagant. "We'd be very congenial," she thought.

Reaching into another pocket, her hand felt something hard, cylindrical, and smooth. She started to pull it out, then started back nervously. Perhaps it would hurt her. Dynamite was shaped like that. . . . And if it were dynamite it would explode as easily in the pocket as in her hand. She might as well get it over with. Gingerly she pulled it out.

"Milk Chocolate!"

Oh, what a man, what a man! Someway, somehow she'd find him. And she knew she'd adore him. And if she adored him, he'd just have to adore her. She opened the chocolate.

"But, oh, maybe, he's married!" she thought as she bit into one of the beautiful, brown, round, life-

Turning, she looked into a man's eyes.

sustaining slices. "And if he is—"

She didn't decide what she's do then, for Bugle came crashing through the sage.

"Morning, old dear!" sang out Connemara, honestly delighted to see him again. At that thought she laughed out loud, for she had never seen him until that moment. And what an extraordinary-looking beast he was. Tall, and broad and big like a mastiff, but with short, curly hair, piebald black and white.

As he leaped toward her, she saw that he was bringing something more in his useful mouth. To her vague disappointment, it was not the morning paper, which he laid at her feet, but a huge and rather dirty bone.

And in spite of its slightly repulsive appearance, Connemara appreciated the tribute he had paid her. She stooped to pet him, to look into his fond hazel eyes and thank him properly.

"You are probably the nicest dog that ever was," she estimated, "and undoubtedly the funniest looking. You look like—let me see—the biggest of all the Christmas tree dogs at Wanasak's department store, the kind that costs sixty-three dollars and nobody ever buys."

He must have understood her, for by the sad drooping of his head she knew that he was hurt. She leaned to take him in her arms and speak to him, heart to heart.

"Dear Bugle," she began, and stopped short. Tied neatly around his neck in a scrap of oilskin was a small package of surprisingly mysterious appearance.

"Shall I, Bugle?" she asked, all a-flutter with this new and sudden development in the plot. "Shall I open it?"

Bugle made it very plain that she should and smiled benevolently when she untied it from his neck. Kneeling before him, she turned the mysterious package aimlessly in her hands. The simple thing, the natural thing, would have been to untie it. But what if it should contain a human finger, or, worse still, a pair of ears?

However, since the first package she had opened had contained nothing more terrible than chocolate, she took heart. It might be breakfast bacon.

Bugle kept his experienced eyes on her as she unwrapped it. Inside was an envelope, carefully folded over; and inside that lay the fifty grand!

It couldn't be; she was dreaming; she was drunk. But she was neither. There it was. The fifty crisp one-thousand-dollar bills which that frightful creature had given her on the ferry one exciting evening, long, long ago! And there was no doubt, when she compared them closely, that the square scrap of oilskin exactly fitted the ragged gap in the coat she was wearing.

Connemara thought very fast, which she always did when she thought at all.

"We must bury this, Bugle," she said, and she knew she was right by the way he smiled and wagged his tail.

"Dig, Bugle! Dig deep, old dear!" cried she. But for an instant he failed to understand; then she scooped up a handful of earth and he caught her idea immediately. Taking over the job, he started digging a fine, deep trench.

"Perhaps his vocabulary isn't very large," mused Connemara, "and that's no doubt because he doesn't know the right sort of people. But he's intelligent without being pedantic. And that counts for a lot in a situation like this."

As she refolded the banknotes in their envelope and tied the last knot around the fateful package Bugle stepped aside to indicate that the hole was ready. She dropped the parcel in its little grave and together she and Bugle covered it with sand. Tamping it down with her little silver slipper—now, alas, so sadly soiled—she wondered when she could come safely back and get the money, and what she would do with it when she got it. Then. . .

What was that? A twig crackled behind her. A branch rustled. A masculine throat, delicately barytone in its timbre, cleared itself tentatively.

Turning, she looked into a man's eyes—the nicest, clearest, cleanest, sweetest, manliest, bluest eyes she'd ever seen. She hadn't realized they were so blue last night.

"How—did you get here?" she asked faintly.

CHAPTER XIV

Frank Craven.

By Frank Craven

Lacy stood at the edge of the beach, looking at Connemara, who lay peeping out from under the much-too-large yellow oilskin.

"Where's McTish?" called Lacy.

"I don't know," replied Connemara weakly. "I lost him last night in the swim."

"I hope he's all right." Lacy frowned. "I have been up and down the shore for quite a stretch, and there isn't a sign of him."

"Is that all that interests you? You men certainly do stick together. Here you find me washed up on the beach with nothing to wear but a cold stiff, clammy raincoat. You could hardly call it a usual situation, and yet your first concern is McTish. I suppose my plight means nothing to you."

"Of course it does, but really the natural question was——"

"The natural question," interrupted Connemara, who suddenly realized she was getting a certain amount of warmth from this burst of indignation, "was to ask if I was comfortable, and if there wasn't something you could do for me." As a matter of fact, thio was the first time it had occurred to her. Had Lacy been too solicitous of Connemara, the chances are she would herself have been concerned about McTish, even sent Lacy looking for him. The man who can guess them right can beat the races.

"Well, since you have shown me the right thing to do, is there?"

"Is there what, Mr. Gallant?"

"Anything I can do to assist you?"

"Well, you might tell me where I could get some clothes—dry ones."

"I have a small farm about five miles down the shore. If you think you have the strength, I can promise you not only clothes but food and drink."

SOCIETY

One of the most entertaining and instructive programs of the season was that at the Wichita club yesterday afternoon when the music department of the Wichita Falls Woman's Forum sponsored a program of national airs and folk songs given by the Choral club, and arranged by Mrs. Bennie H. Donald.

The meeting was opened with the singing of the French national hymn, "Lo Marsellaise," sung by Mrs. Luella B. Thompson, director of the Choral club. She gave a brief history of the incidents surrounding the writing of the song, and of the life of its author, Rouget de Lille. Mrs. Lucile Brooks-Huff, accompanist for the afternoon, played for her.

Mrs. E. L. Fulton gave two Russian songs, "God Protect Our Czar," and "The Laborer's Marcellaise." The influence of Russia on dancing, music and art was discussed. She mentioned a few of the leading artists of that country, Stanislaski, the actor, and Chaliapin, the opera star. "Russia abounds in bass voices," she said, and in illustration, the first song she sang followed out the statement. "Russia has few noted composers, but it is the home of the ballet.

"The peasants outnumber the other classes of people, but when they become enlightened, the national hymns will change."

Illustrating the songs of Spain, Alva Willgus sang the Toreador song from "Carmen" with Mrs. Willgus at the piano.

"Italians love music so much, and there are so many operas that the people sing, that in a way, any of their songs might be called their national airs," Mrs. Bruce Greenwood said before she played "O Solo Mio" on the violin in giving an example of music from that country.

As an illustration o fthe Austrian music, she played "God Save Our Emperor."

Germany's national hymn, "The Watch on the Rhine," was sung by Mrs. George Thorburn who told of the deep love of country and patriotic feeling embodied in the words.

The "Battle Hymn of England," was sung by Mrs. C. Y. Tully. She gave the criticism that is found on the second verse of the hymn, and the verse as has been changed to take away the undesirable features.

The program closed with assembly singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. A. R. Bleakley announced the lecture by George Creel which will be given at the Junior college auditorium Thursday evening, and urged the forum members to attend, to assist the Teachers association which is bringing the noted lecturer here.

The music department will give another musical in January with the assistance of the Music Study club, it was announced.

WICHITA FALLS WOMAN WINS FEDERATION PRIZE.

Wichita Falls has won another feather for her cap of accomplishments made yesterday by Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, chairman of dramatic art of District One of the State Federation of Women's clubs that a woman of this city has written the prize winning one-act play in the state-wide contest of the federation. That woman is Mrs. M. E. Johnson, author of "Echoes," the play that won over the others submitted from writers in the districts of the State Federation.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Also Take a Little Salts If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your trouble and backache.—Adv.

DOROTHY DIX ADVICE

Instead of Gunning for a Faithless Husband, Try This Western Woman's Scheme of Hunting Up the Siren in the Case and Trading Him in for Cash—Whatever You Get for Him Is More Than He Is Worth

In these days, when you can hardly pick up a newspaper without reading an account of some wife who has murdered a faithless husband or some woman who has killed the lover who has betrayed her, it is a comfort to hear of one woman who has settled her heart troubles with good, hard horse sense instead of a pistol.

This admirable female—who is a shining example to her entire sex—lives out in the West, where women are women and have backbones like telephone posts and bushels of gumption and the courage of their convictions. All of which virtures, however, do not always save them from matrimonial shipwreck.

The heroine of our story, it seems, married a man who wearied of her and forsook her for another, after the prevailing fashion among wobbly husbands.

But instead of going gunning for the siren who had wrecked her home, this intelligent lady hunted the vamp up and effected a trade with her. She sold out her entire interest in her husband, lock, stock and barrel, and gave the other woman a quit-claim deed to him for $300 spot cash and retired from the field with her pocket jingling with money instead of with her hands dripping with blood.

Of course, this transaction may be objected to on the ethical grounds that the wife out-traded the other woman and got more for the man than he was worth. But we may well pass over this phase of the subject: Firstly, because every woman herself writes the price tag that she ties on a man, and he is worth to her just what she thinks he is worth; secondly, because the woman who robs another woman of her husband is a thief who deserves no consideration or pity from us. So our sympathy and congratulations can go freely to the lady who applied the commercial law instead of the unwritten law to the solution of her troubles.

The advantages of selling a faithless husband instead of killing him are too obvious to need pointing out. To begin with, a roaming husband is the most worthless of all created things. He merely upsets the routine of the house and aggravates a woman's temper by his comings and goings.

He keeps his wife on the ragged edge of suspense. She wears herself to skin and bones trying to hold him, when he is as slippery as an eel, and she can get no more grasp on him than she can on a snake. Any woman possessing one of these domestic pests would be lucky if she could give him away or lose him, or get rid of him in any manner that wouldn't arouse the suspicions of the police.

To find that such an incumbrance has a cash value is like picking up money in the street or having one pay you an outlawed debt. It is ascertaining that the ticket that you drew in the matrimonial lottery, and that you had thought for years was a blank, is an approximate prize, after all.

This shows how foolish and short-sighted, nay, how absolutely wasteful, it is for a wife to assassinate her philandering husband until she has at least offered the other woman a bargain in him. Under the stimulus of rivalry women often pay fancy prices for poor stuff, and it is quite probable that, had not they let their tempers get the better of their business sense, several of the ladies who have recently murdered their husbands and lovers because the men had deserted them for other women might now be reveling in the mid-winter marked-down bargain sales instead of languishing in dungeon cells.

Of the advantages of getting cash in hand instead of revenege for a husband you have to watch it is needless to speak. That sort of husband is practically of no value whatever to a woman, but money is always legal tender for most of the things she wants, and with the price of a no-account spouse many a woman could get more happiness than she has ever had out of her married life.

Of course, there is no fixed price on husbands. They are like antiques. What you get for them depends altogether on how much they have taken the fancy of the party of the second part and how eager she is for that particular piece of bric-a-brac. But even if the betrayed wife took the minimum rate of $300 set by the Western lady upon her claim, she doesn't make such a bad bargain.

With $300 she can go to the movies 600 times, whereas that sort of a husband never takes her to any place of amusement at all. With $300 she can buy approximately a box of candy for every day in the year, whereas that kind of a husband has not brought her a nickel bag of gum drops in five years.

With $300 she can buy her a love of a dress and a duck of a hat and a dream of a cloak out of which she can get the peace that passes all understanding, whereas the likelihood is that she hasn't had a real good new frock for ages nor a minute's solid satisfaction for years.

Perhaps to romantic and high-strung ladies, who are quick on the trigger, this may seem a sordid view to take of the situation, but before they are done with it they find that murder is a messy thing to be mixed up in. One's jealousy has a chance to cool off in a stone cell, and one has time to reflect that it would be a good deal better to be out and free, with a neat little check in one's handbag, than to be facing the electric chair. To say nothing of haunting ghosts and accusing consciences, which are uncheerful company.

Therefore, it seems timely to call the attention of the women with wrongs who are contemplating a dark and bloody revenge to this Western woman's method of getting good and even with an unfaithful husband and the enchantress who lured him away, and at the same time reaping a neat financial profit by the transaction.

Sell him instead of killing him. Make the best barrain you can with the other woman, and remember that whatever you get for an unfaithful husband is more than he is worth.

DAY NURSERY FEEDS 35-40 ON EACH DAY

Feed Bill Runs up, Too, Aver Community Chest Workers

One three-year old youngster may not eat a great deal at a single meal, but take 35 or 40 kids ranging in age from 10 years down to two months, give them each a meal a day for an entire year and it runs up the feed bill.

Down at the Day Nursery in the 500 block Lamar avenue between 25 and 40 little tots are given a dinner and a light lunch, perhaps of crackers and milk, every day. They are brought "there, principally from the eastern and northern sections of the city, to be cared for and watched over from 7 in the morning until 6 at night while their mothers, most of them widowed, make a living of some sort by long hours of work in homes and offices.

The nursery has been in operation for about five years and in that time the service it has rendered to unfortunate mothers has a value that cannot be reckoned in dollars and cents. The heartaches it has saved; the complete disruptions of families it has prevented; these cannot be numbered; and in enabling this semblance of domestic life to continue it is doing a thing no other agency attempts.

A report of the finances of the nursery is attached to this story and shows where the funds contributed for its support are expended. They are expenditures that yield a return of 100 per cent on every dollar, for they mean health, happiness, even life, perhaps for a youngster who in years to come will have a hard enough row to hoe.

The Day Nursery obtains most of its support each year from the community chest which this year is asking for a fund of $55,000 to be raised in a three-day drive November 23, 24 and 25.

Through a Woman's Eyes

A THOUGHT RECEIVING RADIO

An Italian scientist claims to have captured on the radio the commotions of the brain. In other words, he has a thought receiving set, and if experiments with it prove successful we may soon be tuning in on each other's unexpressed ideas!

It was said some time ago that "if the world knew our thoughts, God help us!" And it is intriguing to imagine what would be the result if we should have placed within our hands an instrument with which we cold capture each other's innermost sentiments and read each other's most private thoughts if, in spite of anything that we might express or suppress, our mental gymnastics and motivating impulses were plain so that all who run (or own a radio) may read them!

It would be simply devasting to liars and hypocrites, that goes without saying. And a good thing that would be. But what would become of good manners, politeness, tact and diplomacy that we have been taught to regard as among the cardinal virtues? Would it not be rather awkward to say "She is charming" when your broadcasted thoughts say "I don't like her at all." How embarrasing, too, when assuring your hostess that you had "a most delightful evening" to have the radio shriek "I was never so bored in my life!"

It requires little imagination to put one's finger on several occasions in the lives of the best of us when the radio would simply have to be put out of order. Among them are birthdays and Christmas time when presents are being unwrapped, times when a women is being discussed whom one's husband admires; also when people's children are brought on to be appreciated—or their poems or prose compositions!

But every cloud has its silver lining, and the tapping of thought waves would not be without its advantages. Aside from making unnecessary use of third degree methods on criminals, it would be beneficial in gaining appreciation for those who through timidity or some other reason cannot express themselves. W have all met people who would enrich the world with the most beautiful poetry, the most moving novel, the most thrilling drama, "if I could only put it into words." For these potential authors and thwarted geniuses a thought radio would do wonders. And those who mean well but are never able to manifest it, those who spend their whole lives thinking of the welfare of others, but always seem to act as thought they were thinking only of themselves, a thought radio might get proper credit for them.

Among the countless others who would be benefitted by thought receiving apparatus, we must not omit the young man who wants to but is too bashful to propose. If he could simply let her tune in on his thoughts, two minds might be put out of misery and two hearts beat as one!

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggist Not to Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Allenrhu Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRHU, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed all drug stores and druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRHU with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.—adv.

News of the Fields

Wilbarger County

Clark-Harbon-Baldridge No. 1, Waggoner, in section 1, SPRRCO survey, abstract 534, about seven or eight miles south of Harrold, Wilbarger county, was down 700 feet yesterday and drilling.

Throckmorton County

Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 3, Reynolds Land and Cattle company, in lot 57, Comanche Indian reserve, southern Throckmorton county, is underreaming the 6.5-8 inc hcasing with the bottom of the hole at a depth of 2,380 feet in a water sand.

Sigler Area

Atlantic Oil Producing company No. 2, Sigler-Waggoner, in the southwest corner of the northeast forty acres of the northwest quarter of section 51, block 2, H. & T. C. R. R. Co. survey, flowed 60 barrels Monday night, sandy lime at 2,454-63 feet. Tubing was being run yesterday.

South of Harmel

W. J. Greene et al. are equipping their No. 1, Wilbur, in the northwest corner of block 1597, T. E. & L. Co. survey, south of the Harmel pool, for the pump with the expectation of making about 50 barrels of oil from sand topped at 1,340 feet, southwest Archer county.

SE Baylor County

Petroleum Producers and Cranfill No. 4, Mills, in the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of block 2427, T. E. & L. Co. survey, north of their No. 1, on the northeast edge of the southeast Baylor county production had the sand yesterday at a depth of 1,406 feet and was setting casing to test.

Montague County

Texhoma Oil and Refining company No. 5, Howard, north of the four wells, Finis Robertson survey, north Nocona, Montague county, is dry and abandoned at a depth of 2,238 feet. Four sands are apparently all that Texhoma will find production in on this lease, at least down to that depth. No. 6 is a location 75 feet north of the No. 5.

East of Onley

Clark-Harbin-Baldridge No. 2, Leath in the southeast corner of their Leath tract in block 40, offsetting the Texas Unity's No. 1, Sloan to the northwest, is a 35 barrel well, apparently, from sand at a depth of 1,005,007 feet. It is going on the pump. To east offset, Texas Unity No. 1, West, is dry, and a well on the West farm north of that is also dry, the latter operation being by Murchison and Fain.

SE Litchfield

Texhoma Oil and Refining company and Camp Oil and Gas company No. 6, Campbell, on the north side of their lease, in block 1483, T. E. & L. Co. survey, is dry and abandoned at a depth of 975 feet in sticky shale.

No. 7 is equipping to pump from the usual sand.

No. 8 is drilling in sandy lime at a depth of 902 feet.

No. 9 is down 650 feet in gumbo.

No. 10 is down 362 feet in lime.

No. 11 is rigging up.

No. 12 is a location.

Central Archer

Consolidated Oil company is starting up on its No. 2 Turbeville, 50 feet north of the No. 1, completed last week as a dry hole at 1,500 feet. The second test will try to make a well from twenty feet of sand encountered at a depth of 1,252 feet in the first hole and passed up. The No. 1 had sand at a depth below 1,400 feet.

Elsewhere in central Archer information is rather sparse. Especially is this true of Kentucky's No. 1 Jackson, in the southwest corner of the Aldridge survey, school house lot, known be testing a sand at a depth about 1,425 feet, but with little other information available.

Oldham Area

Consolidated Oil company had an oil sand yesterday and were setting casing to test at a depth of 1,331 feet in their No. 1, Oldham, in the northwest corner of their ten acres in the Eliza Hubble survey, southeast of the Texhoma discovery well, southwest Archer county. Atlantic owns the east offset to this ten acres.

Texhoma's west offset, No. 1, Oldham, was down 1,138 feet and drilling, same survey. Texhoma's No. 1, Abercrombie and Taylor, in the southwest corner of the SPRRCA survey, east of the discovery well was down 761 feet yesterday and drilling.

West of the discovery well Petroleum Producers had spudded yesterday and were drilling on their No. 1, Wolfe, in the SPRRRCO survey, abstract 415.

Jefferson County

The Oscar shallow district of Jefferson county continued to hold the center of attraction in southern Oklahoma development during the past week, says the Daily Oklahoman in its last Sunday issue, by completion of a gusher by Gypsy Oil company at No. 2 Seay, southeast of northeast of 33-6s-5w.

Prarie Oil and Gas company's No. 2 Seay, northwest of southwest of 34-6s-5w, is on a shell at 1,515 feet and was lowering pipe preparatory to drilling ahead. This disappointment does not dampen the spirit of operators who have hopes of getting pay at deeper depth.

Gypsy No. 2 Seay made a good showing of oil in lime at 1,453 feet, but was drilled to 1534 feet into sand when it came in early Friday for 600 barrels an hour. It is a west offset to No. 1 Seay which came in as a gusher about three weeks ago and is now making 700 barrels a day.

The dozen new tests started in the district since the bringing in of the big producer are getting well under way, while several others deepening are nearing the depth of the lower sand. Gypsy No. 7 Seay, southeast of northeast of 33-6s-5w, which discovered the gusher horizon at 1,458 feet, is now flowing twenty barrels per hour, with 3 percent water and 1 percent basic sediment.

"Bugs" Live In Oil, Too

Belief that petroleum, however far below the surface of the earth it may be, contains bacteria, or "germs" as they are more often called, is expressed by "Science," a weekly publication devoted to science and research. An article in a recent issue quotes an eminent professor in a Chicago university, with reference to analyses made of 25 samples of oil taken from following wells of from 500 to 1,500 feet in depth.

Of the cultures obtained 23 of the 25 show large numbers of bacteria, in form very similar to those found by other scientists on the bottom of the sea. The greatest care was taken in obtaining the petroleum samples and the chances of contamination were minimized. It is believed that the "bugs" obtained their food from the sulphides in the ground at that, and that possibility they with their chemical action upon sulphides may account for the peculiar sulphurous odor attached to petroleum from certain sections and from certain kinds of strata. It is noted that the odor is very similar to that of the black deep sea mud where similar bacteria exist.

How did they get there? Another proof of the organic origin of petroleum, proponents of that theory will tell you, indicating that the bacteria's ancestors thrived in the bodies of the prehistoric fishes and animals which are generally conceded to be the basis of our petroleum supply.

J. V. Howell, Marland Oil company of Texas, offered the suggestion, in this connection at Saturday night's meeting of the North Texas Geological Society that, since the oil was still "alive" it might possibly in the ages to come evolve into still another commodity. "The factory hasn't really closed its doors yet," he said.

SUB ROSA BY MIMI

Oh, How She Lies.

"Yes, I know J——— the famous violinist," Doris told Billy carelessly; "I've danced with him often, and we're quite good friends."

Billy had often heard of Doris' acquaintance with the great so he was not at all startled by this news.

Instead he remarked innocently enough: "That's good, because he's here tonight and by Jove, here he comes now. See if you can persuade him to play for us, will you. I'd love to hear him at close range."

The great man was approaching and Doris bit her lip furiously. Finally, flushing a little, she whispered to her companion: "I don't really know him very well, Bill, I was only kidding."

Billy looked rather taken aback for a moment, but he recovered quickly and grinned in a friendly fashion: "Gosh, but you are a little fibber, Doro."

He forgave her then and she forgot the incident. He forgot it too, but not forever.

The next time Doris told him lightly of some sensational exploit in her life, he listened politely enough, uttered the customary ejaculations—but he wondered.

After a lengthy period of time in which she had managed to avoid being caught in any of her numerous fibs, Billy was almost ready to take her word as law again.

And then one evening she lied badly—so badly that even Billy saw through it.

Instantly his old doubts and suspicions of her returned—this time stronger and more bitter than before.

He went on, trying to persuade himself that her little prevarications did no one any harm but he couldn't get it out of his mind that if she lied about these petty things so glibly, she'd be capable of deceivnig him about something big.

He got into the habit of not listening when she told him stories about herself—about the people she knew—about the complimentary things other men had said to her.

Suddenly one day when she was in the midst of a rambling tale about what R——— the movie star had said when he met her at the great movie ball, Billy interrupted rather brusquely: "Oh, I say Doris, isn't that a bit too much? You don't honestly think I believe all that?"

Doris looked at him in utter astonishment. She, you see, hadn't realized how many little slips had betrayed her—how each fib in which she'd been caught had been added up in Billy's mind against her.

So she didn't grasp immediately why her old stand-by was looking at her with a new strange hostile expression in his eyes—an expression of mingled pity and contempt. And it took her a long time to realize that Billy was hers no longer.

Don't think that your little fibs go unpunished girls, just because your men forgive you for them when you're caught.

In the long run you lose your sweetheart's entire confidence—and his trust—and his love—and him.

Too many little fibs make a black ugly lie.

How Often Do You Use Your Telephone?

Do you use your residence telephone often enough to warrant the expense of a "one-party-line?" Consider the number of hours that your line is not in use and you will probably conclude that a "selective-ringing" telephone would handle your traffic just as well—and at three-fourths the expense.

By sharing your line with another subscriber you not only save money, but you enable the Telephone Company to add more telephones to the exchange—and thus make your telephone more valuable. For the value of your telephone increases in proportion to the number of other telephones you can be connected with.

In other cities where "selective-ringing" service is offered, as many as one out of two residence subscribers finds that this service satisfactorily meets their needs.

EASTWARD TURNS THE BANDIT

Poor Jesse James but little knew
The real rewards of crime,
He did the best that one can do
Who lives before his time.
The bands he robbed were few and far,
The roads were wet and rough,
He should have had a motor car
To help him do his stuff.

The bandits of the wild, wild West
Amassed a little fame
And did their poor and feeble best,
To play a daring game.
But not a one of them would dare
To ply, by light of day,
Their trade along the thoroughfare
Called little old Broadway.

The robber earned a scanty wage
And ran great risk of jail
Who stopped by night a passing stage
For money in the mail.
It's easier, before the cops
Can rally and pursue,
To hire a car and loot the shops
Along Fifth Avenue.

No bandits lately roam the West—
Which West is wild no more,
The gunmen find that crime pays best
On street and shop and store.
And so a gun and mask they don
And bid folks stand and fork
Their money and their jewels on
The sidewalks of New York.

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE PUMPKIN PRINCESS—III — By W. J. ENRIGHT

THE STORY UP TO NOW

THERE WAS ONCE A TINY GIRL WHO LIVED ALL ALONE IN A BIG PUMPKIN ON THE EDGE OF THE WORLD. ONE NIGHT THE MISCHIEVOUS WIND ROCKED HER HOUSE UNTIL IT TIPPED OFF THE EDGE OF THE WORLD AND FELL. DOWN, DOWN, DOWN. FINALLY IT LANDED WITH A THUD THAT MADE A GREAT CRACK DOWN THROUGH THE WALLS AND CEILING. THE LITTLE GIRL PUT ON HER CLOTHES AND RUSHED TO THE DOOR. THERE SHE LOOKED OUT ON A GREAT SILVERY, SHINY SURFACE, AS FAR AS SHE COULD SEE.

THE STRANGE COUNTRY WAS SO DIFFERENT FROM THE BEAUTIFUL EDGE OF THE WORLD THAT THE LITTLE GIRL SAT DOWN ON THE DOOR STEP, BURIED HER FACE IN HER HANDS, AND WEPT.

SUDDENLY A GRUFF VOICE SAID, "WELL, WHERE DID YOU COME FROM?" SHE LOOKED UP AND THERE IN FRONT OF HER A TRAP DOOR HAD OPENED AND LOOKING AT HER WAS THE QUEEREST MAN SHE HAD EVER SEEN. HIS HEAD WAS ENORMOUS AND QUITE AS BALD AS HER PUMPKIN.

HE HAD NO EYE BROWS AND HIS BEARD WAS LONG AND SNOWY WHITE. HIS EYES TWINKLED LIKE SHINY BLACK BEADS IN HIS WRINKLED, WEATHER-BEATEN FACE. COCKED ON THE SIDE OF HIS SMOOTH HEAD WAS A GOLD CROWN HELD THERE BY A BLACK RIBBON TIED UNDER HIS CHIN.

THE LITTLE GIRL FORGOT INSTANTLY THAT SHE HAD BEEN CRYING, BUT THE KING OF THE MOON, FOR IT WAS HE, SAW THE TEARS IN HER EYES AND SAID, IN A MUCH GENTLER VOICE, "WHERE DID YOU COME FROM, LITTLE GIRL?"

BUD DOPED IT RIGHT.

As afterthought comment on that sensational Wichita Falls victory over Vernon Monday it may be in order to mention an episode which happened between halves. The Coyotes were holding down the short end of a 7-0 score. During the intermission, Coach Bud McCallum backed his squad over into a corner and landed on the lads with all four feet, so to speak, declaring they were "not in there fighting," and harranguing them to come out of it, winding up with: "You've got a two touchdown better team, and yet the score's 7 to 0 against you. Now get out there and win that game!" Whereupon, the Coyotes romped right back and showed themselves as you know, in truth a two-touchdown better club, winning by that margin.

POST MORTEM ON RYAN.

However, in all respect to Wichita Falls' grid prowess one must hand it to Benton Ryan, Lion quarter, who was able to perform in but a short portion of the contest because of illness. Had this athlete been in good condition, the going would have proved exceedingly rough, for during the short period Ryan participated he proved a veritable cyclone on end runs and off-tackle plays. And this boy, certainly can have the eyal.

* * *

Speaking of passing, the Pack secondary defense displayed a wonderful improvement in smashing the Vernon aerial attack from that of the game in the Wilbarger metropolis two weeks back.

DON'T FORGET BROWN.

Credit, a huge portion of it, goes to Brown McCallum who aided his brother Bud in prepping the Wichita Falls eleven for this tilt by working with the linemen. The Coyote first line detachment was far and away better than in that other Vernon contest. Every man from tackle to tackle waged a sterling game both offensively and on defense.

BUD'S ENDS WERE SPRY.

Little credit has been given the ends, Tack Horton, Harley Herndon and Jewell Sisk. All three are little fellows, but they equalized their lack of weight by a heated display of fighting spirit and speed. The three of them broke about even in performance. Herndon possibly got down faster on punts to turn to runner in.

PENNEY AT CENTER.

Walter Penney, at center, waged the greatest game of his life. This lanky youngster rarely was sucked away from the play on defense, and it was he who smeared Vernon's last line plunge for a goal early in that second quarter when four attempts to cover three yards failed, and when the final smash was started with the ball a scant ten inches or so from the last line.

MOORE INJURED.

Dempsey Moore, fullback, was not able to play his usual brand of ball. Entering the contest hampered both by a shoulder and knee injury it was nothing but sheer grit which kept him in the mill as long as he stuid. Moore yesterday failed to show for practice because of these injuries, but if given a rest the remaining days of this week prior to the week-end titular combat with Amarillo he should prove an offensive power. With Powell carrying the bulk of offense work Monday, Moore was overshadowed. But let both swing into action Saturday in good shape and the outcome of that Amarillo encounter should prove very pleasing to Wichita Falls deherents.

McCallum has a great fight on hand now that of killing any over-confidence which may crop up in camp. If the club meets Plainview expecting a runaway, it's liable to be just that with the western club doing the scampering. But if the Pack enters the affray with the same determined fighting spirit displayed against Vernon nothing in North Texas, Panhandle included, can hold 'em.

Sully Takes Pen in Hand.

Our old friend Sully Montgomery, the heavyweight mittster, dropped us a line yesterday. Outside of asking the writer why he quit the fight game, the biggest point of interest in his missive as far as yours truly is concerned was announcement he is coming to Fort Worth to visit his family during the Christmas holidays and would like to stage a bout in Wichita Falls during that period.

SHOULD DRAW WELL.

Montgomery, the former Centre college football luminary back there during the days the Praying Colonels were at their football zenith, Sully, the heavy weight of any class turned out by Texas, wants to come back and perform before the home folks. If such an arrangement can be made by the legion here it appears they wouldn't have to look far for a heavy turnout of fans.

* * *

Sully declared he had "been getting a few breaks the last summer. Have had about a dozen fights called off and all that sort of thing." The average run of heavies don't care to meet the big Texan.

Not What It's Cracked Up to Be.

An interesting angle to Montgomery's letter—and it holds true with 95 out of 100 fighters, is he doesn't seem to appreciate the game. This old stuff put out by press agents about the pugs liking to fight and being vicious man-eaters, et eeters, is a lot of bunk. They fight because it is a fairly lucrative business and because they can make more money in the roped arena than possibly at any other pursuit they may follow.

The Real Viewpoint.

Sully's viewpoint on fighting was aptly put as follows: "What was the matter with the fight business, Old Scout? I can't get mad at you for quitting and getting into something good. Any one who says they like this fight racket is crazy. I think you will back me up in that statement, won't you?" To which we answer, righto!

* * *

Roy Montgomery, brother of the fighter and, by the way, the original "sully" is located at Vernon these days in the insurance business.

WICHITA FALLS R EDSKINS NOT OUT OF TITLE R UNNING BEFORE GAME WITH D ECATUR ELEVEN

Tribe, In Fair Condition, Preps For Bout With Cordell College at Spud Park Saturday

That Mosley's Junior college Indians will meet a tough opponent Saturday at Spudder park in non-conference play with Cordell college, seems assured. Comparative performances, figuring on paper, give the Oklahoma eleven an edge over the sturdy Wichita Falls outfit. However, the Indians with one exception the past several weeks have developed a habit of kicking over the dope.

The Indians, contrary to report, are not absolutely out of the running for the Texas Junior college conference, the Tarleton defeat of the Tribe notwithstanding. The game billed with Decatur Thanksgiving day will have a bearing on the final conference standing, and it's possible that in the meantime the Plowboys may be upset. North Texas Aggies, defeated by the margin of one point by Wichita Falls, plays Tarleton in what stacks up as an annual grudge affair. Should the Arlington school down the Plowboys and the Tribe beat the Baptists the race will end in a tie.

The Indians were slightly crippled in the game Saturday with Weatherford college. Paul Karns, lineman, has a bad knee, but Mosley expects this athlete back in the game with a vim very soon.

The Cordell clash, being a non-conference affair takes the form more or less of a conditioning contest for the Mosley crew. With this in view, it is quite likely the Wichita Falls coach will give several of his reserves a chance to see action.

The Indians worked lightly Tuesday, but scrimmage is on the card for this afternoon and possibly Thursday.

COYOTE FULL OUT OF DRILL WITH INJURIES

Squad Works Lightly After Hard Victory Over Vernon

The Coyotes went through only a short and light workout Tuesday following their hard-earned victory of the day before over Vernon. Several of the lads were stiffened up, so the practice session was devoted to limbering out.

The squad came away from the lLon encounter with but one serious injury. Dempsey Moore, smashing fullback, was in such sore plight he failed to attend his classes much less the workout. He entered the game in bad shape, a knee and shoulder are hurt.

The club took a few sprints and jogs around the field. Coach McCallum said they will see a bit of heavy action this afternoon and Thursday.

Ed Powell, the outstanding performer in the Vernon struggle failed to show for practice, but it was announced that he is in perfect condition and rearing for more competition.

Wymore Downing was given a drill at kicking off yesterday. He displayed a well educated toe. Wainscott has done most of this type of booting so far this season.

Carter May Not Play In Pup Tiff With Archer City

During the absence of Coach Montgomery, who was out of town Tuesday afternoon, Coach Golden gave the Coyote Pups a hard work out. The club is whipping into shape for the Archer City game here Friday. The team came out of the game with the Burkburnett second string last week with loss of Dale Carter, plucky little halfback. Carter injured an ankle, and may be back for the Friday tiff.

With all three Wichita Falls schools winners over the past week end and Monday they will all again see action this week-end. The Pups hope to keep up the standard of a perfect Wichita Falls week.

O. L. Beach worked at Carter's half during the signal practice, and may be in the Archer City game if Carter is not in shape by then. Beach has been showing fair form for sometime, and conducted himself well on the field in all the games he has played.

Giles and Goff worked at ends with the first string team, and may take these positions Friday. Pete Powell was out of the practice, but is expected back in the line-up this afternoon.

The operation of turning the pug nose of Jack Dempsey into more classic lines is said to have cost $5,000.

Miss Lillian Harrison, the youthful Argentine swimmer, will again try to swim the English Channel in 1927.

MUNN INJURED, MAY NOT TAKE ON PAT M'GILL

Santell Probably Wrestles Gus Pappas Here Tuesday

Wayne (Big) Munn probably won't be able to keep that Wichita Falls date with Pat McGill Nov. 24, it was learned late Tuesday night. Subsequently, Matchmaker Alec Ross plans a shift in his card, bringing Ad Santell, undisputed world's light heavyweight champion, here to meet Gus Pappas, the Greek light mat king.

That the Munn-McGill affair is absolutely off, has not been decided yet. Munn was injured in a bout at Houston by Strangler Lewis, and it is feared he will be in no condition to wrestle here next week.

While awaiting decision as to whether or not Munn will be able to wrestle, Ross got in touch with Santell. The Dutchman agreed to substitute for the Nebraskan, but McGill refused to meet him. So effort is being made, said Ross, to bring Pappas to Wichita Falls in finish match with the champion.

It may be in order to remark here that shortly after Munn won the heavyweight championship last year from Lewis and during the period he retained the title before Zbysko pinned him, Santell, lighter by 30 or 40 pounds, offered $10,000 to any person who could get Munn into the ring with him, so it was said.

Mighty few of the big fellows are willing to lock with the Dutchman.

Texas High School Grids to Be Clean

AUSTIN, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Texas University interscholastic league is determined to "clean-up" league high school football regardless o fthe cost, Roy Bedichek, director of the league, told "The Associated Press" today. Close to twenty schools have been ruled ineligible this fall, because it was proved they had used one or more ineligible players. More than 300 schools started in the state high school championship race.

WANT POST-SEASON GAME

St. Edwards Seeks Dec. 11 Battle With Howard Payne Eleven

AUSTIN, Nov. 17.—(AP)—St. Edwards University here is negotiating with Howard Payne for a post-season game to be played December 11, at Temple, Coach Jack Meagher of the St. Edwards' Saints said today. Meagher's team is improving daily and he believes will be able to gibe the powerful Yellow Jacket plenty of oppositions.

Martin and Lee, Heavies Billed In Legion Final Thursday, Step Through Workouts At Fast Clip

Buster Martin and George Lee, the heavyweights carded in the American Legion ten-round main event Thursday night, both put in a hard workout session Tuesday afternoon in the legion ring at 812 1-2 Scott.

Martin stepped about in lively fashion with Sailor Shearer and displayed more speed and quite a bit of improvement in his work over that displayed here in bouts nearly a year ago.

That there will be action aplenty when these big fellows clash seemed to be opinion of all ringsiders who witnessed the workouts. Both are heavy hitters, and each is surprisingly fast considering his weight.

Martin and Lee have never met before, but each is well known in Wichita Falls fandom. In their bouts staged at the old open air arena and in the Majestic theatre they won the approval of fandom as two boys who are willing to stay in there and pitch from gong to gong.

Martin in his last appearance here put up a game fight with Moco Carpenter. A month or so before that Lee waged and equally game if not more so mill with this same Moco.

Yee has improved as much as has Martin. It's an even guess, if you ask those who saw the workouts, as to who should come away the victor.

Martin has won every bout engaged in over the past six or seven months via the knockout route.

Buckshot Peoples and Wildcat Monte are billed for a semi-final bout.

Eddie Murdock takes on Redcap Martin. All four of these featherweights have performed here on various occasions.

Zollie Combs and Sam Mitchell, negro heavies, are slated for a four-rounder.

YOU KNOW ME AL —By Ring Lardner

The PASSING HOUR
~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

NO CHANGE

They are running Mr. Harold Grange for congress—
They urge him on the proletariat's vote:
All the old time ward heel bosses will be thrown for many losses
If they can not get a gridiron star of note:
The gents who run for sheriff in the future
Must first contrive to run some hostile line—
The cop who nabs you speeding and the judge whose talk you're heeding
As a pair of nifty half-backs used to shine.

The candidates will talk of rules and changes—
If the forward pass is really here to stay—
You will hear no ruminations on the well known league of nations
But some dope on Mr. Rockne's style of play;
They will know not much of problems of the country
As they graduate from fullbacks breaking through—
But the changes they are founding may not prove to be astounding—
For the folks we now elect don't know much, too.

BASKET BALL officials have made quite a few changes in the rules—they have monkeyed a bit here and there with the free throw. But they have never done what should be done to this feature of the court game—cut down on its scoring value.

The further you go in any given basketball season, the more evident it becomes that it is ridiculous to count a free throw one against the field goal's two. The ratio at worst should be 3 to 1.

It is certainly more than twice as difficult to hit a stationary target from a moving stance than to ring in when both the objectives and the firing line are fixed and there is time to aim.

The new rule which gives two free throws when a foul occurs anywhere on the court that a shot is being attempted is going to prove this more fully this year.

Nothing has been done either to eliminate the college yell on an indoor basketball court.

They Don't Make 'Em.

INVESTIGATORS of the Houston district attorney's office spent some time proving to their satisfaction that gambling machines operate heavily against any chance of the casual player winning. They could have saved their time—no gaming device is manufactured that favors the sucker. For there would be no sale for it.

Yet most of the folk who play the machines are aware of this fact. They do not care—the gambler's instinct is to play for the big return on a small investment.

Amusing that a roulette wheel is run "straight," the fairest even gamble known is that of whether the color will win—red or black. The chance is one in two. And probably the highest odds against the player are the wheel's numbers—36 to 1. Yet the open gambling house has repeatedly shown that the player prefers to take his chance with the numbers rather than the colors.

The man who sits into a private poker game—no percentage for the house—or any given deal has as much chance of winning as anybody else, but the percentage is 1 to 4 or 1 to 8, whatever number of players are engaged. After the deal, the percentage runs far higher, according to the possibilities of the cards held. Let most gamblers tell you that in a straight game of poker between friends, the player, assuming ability equal, has his best even chance.

The odds against a dice shooter are enormous, depending not only on the mechanical percentage but on the play he gets for his money.

It's a sucker game at best—gambling. That is why we gamble.

Mexico City is mad because Dempsey won't fight, and Shelby, Montana, wishes it had been made irate the same way.

The chief evidence that Red Grange has not been offered $40,000 to play three pro football games is that he has not accepted it.

Bull.

THE Associated Press is authority for the fact that the middlewest section is full of rumors of lucrative jobs awaiting the Illinois football star when he leaves college. Not all of them are grid places, and the most lurierous is the aim of his frenzied friends to have him named for congress.

Doubtless ability as a super-halfback is fully as good a qualification for a congressional job as those possessed by some who have actually won nominations and carried through elections. But it offers a ripe opportunity for the cynical critics who think now that the country has gone football mad.

What the situation really seems to have sired up as today is that intercollegiate football has borrowed an idea from the stage and hired a press agent.

Here's another little test for the undying fame of the gridiron: Ask anybody you know to name the best backfield he saw in action—and he can voice his opinion. Ask same gent to name the best line he saw play together—and he can seldom remember more than five out of the seven.

Olney Has Two Games On Slate

Olney high school played its second game of the past week Saturday afternoon when it beat the Bellevue gridsters by a 52 to 3 count. This game brings out no merit to the two teams as the Bellevue club drove 84 miles in the cold wind on a truck and was in no condition to play. They put up a game fight, however.

The Hillbillies played Archer City on Wednesday of last week and lost by a 7 to 0 count. Olney has but two more games this season, the first of these will be here Friday with Jacksboro, and Archer City in Olney Thanksgiving. These games are very much dreaded by both coaches and players. Olney played Henrietta in the second game of the season to a 6 to 6 tie. Jacksboro defeated Henrietta recently by a score of 29 to 0. This does not show up well for Olney, and Coach Hill says he will be lucky to win if he wins at all. The players are feeling shaky over the game with Archer City Thanksgiving after the Archer team beat them 7 to 0 on Armistice Day. Archer City has a good team and will be hard to beat.

CARDINAL AND BLACK MACHINE BATTLES AMARILLO SATURDAY HERE FOR DISTRICT GONFALON

Plainview Ruled Out of Race by League On Ineligibility Charge—Golden Sandstorm Back In

Wichita Falls high school, champion eleven of the eastern half of district one, plays Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm, champion of the western half, Saturday at Spudder park in contest for the district title.

This announcement was made late Tuesday night by Wichita Falls Coach Bud McCallum after a long distance telephone conference with interscholastic league officials at Austin and Amarillo high school officials up in the Panhandle city.

The interscholastic league eligibility committee Tuesday ruled Plainview, champion of the western half, out of the race and awarded the championship to Amarillo because of the ineligibility of McCowan, Plainview player. The committee held that McCowan violated the league regulations because he was attending school in a district in which his parents or guardians do not live.

Plainview sought to show that for some time, T. P. Hays, teacher of mathematics and football coach at Plainview high, has been the guardian of McCowan. The rules of the league provide that a student is not eligible until he has attended a high school for a year unless his parents or legal guardian have recently moved to town. The committee held hat Hays was not McCowan's "legal guardian."

It was ruled by the league that the Amarillo-Wichita Falls game must be played in Wichita Falls Saturday. The Wichita Falls Junior college Indians have a game with Cordell here Saturday, also, and it is quite possible a double header will be staged. Coach Bube Mosley of the Indians could not be reached at a late hour last night.

The league ruling was a severe blow to McCallum who declared that his team, coming along speedily, was ready for Plainview but was not in sufficient condition to tackle Amarillo. McCallum declared belief that the Golden Sandstorm outfit is a 30-point better team than Plainview. Plainview defeated Amarillo early in the season, but since then, said McCallum, the Amarillo crew has improved more than 100 per cent. Comparative scores of recent games would give Amarillo a great margin of strength over Plainview who has not been performing exceptionally well the past few weeks against teams far weaker than Amarillo.

McCallum agreed on officials for the game last night with Amarillo. Richenstein will referee, Boswell umpire, and Eckhardt handle the duties of head linesman.

Community Chest Is Detailed Realtors

Important subjects are to be discussed this winter by the Wichita Falls Real Estate Board, it was announced at weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday by W. S. Curlee, president. They include "selling homes," and "knowing property values" and other kindred matters, dealing with the real estate business.

A unique real estate advertising idea was outlined to the realtors by L. I. Booth of the Golden Gate Investment company. S. A. L. Morgan, attorney, and Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce and director of the campaign, both spoke of the forthcoming community chest drive.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The cotton market was a decidedly quiet and prosaic affair today except for a brief spurt of active trading right at the close. The trend of prices was downward, but at the lowest prices were only 12 to 14 points under the close of yesterday. There was a spurt the middle of the morning, owing to a small estimate of ginnings which carried prices up 18 to 26 points from the lows, but the market later settled back almost to the low levels. In the final 15 minutes, however, the market turned firm and became active under short covering, fearing a return of bad weather. Prices were run up 26 to 41 points from the lows and the close which was practically at the top, showed net gains for the day of 23 to 24 points on near months and 5 to 11 points on more distant positions.

The start was easier on fair weather and lower cables than due, first trades showing net losses of 8 to 11 points. Prices continued to ease off 13 to 14 points below yesterday's close. There was a good rally on a rumor that a prominent authority made total ginnings to November 14, only 11,995,000 bales, which carried December prices 18 to 26 points above the early lows, but most of this gain was later lost on fair weather and another ginnings of 12,371,000 bales.

In the late trading the sharp spurt carried prices 26 to 41 points above the lows. The close was practically at the best. Two crop estimates were issued, one of 14,960,000 bales and the other of 14,-912,000. Exports for the day totaled 47,641 bales, of which New Orleans contributed 41,042 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NE WYORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Early declines in the cotton market today were followed today by rallies on reports of comparatively light private ginnings. January sold up from 19.63 to 19.92 and closed at 19.88, the general market closing steady at net advances of 9 to 18 points.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 6 to 13 points in sympathy with relatively easy Liverpool cables, while there may have been some selling also on reports that, with better weather conditions, picking and ginning were making more rapid progress in the south. December sold off to 20.32 and March to 19.77, about 13 to 16 points net lower, but these early offerings were soon absorbed and the market turned steadier on rumors of bullish private ginning figures.

It was reported that one of the private authorities made the ginning to November 14, 12,371,000 bales. This was considered disappointing from the bearish standpoint and later a report was circulated that one of the southern authorities estimated the ginning at only 11,978,000 bales and the indicated crop at 14,962,000, or about 400,000 bales below the last government forecast. These authorities seemed largely responsible for a flurry of covering or a little fresh buying late in the afternoon, when December sold up to 20.60 and March to 20.07 or 11 to 18 points net higher.

Last prices were only 3 or 4 points off from the best under realizing.

General business was quiet for the entire day. Uncertainty as to the showing of Saturday's government report seemed to be holding fresh trades in check and the bulk of the day's transactions were attributed to a reduction in old accounts.

Private cables reported a quiet market in Liverpool, but with enough trade buying or covering to absorb offerings at the decline.

A private crop report issued here during the day estimated that 14,812,000 bales would be harvested.

Exports today 49,141, making 3,131,861 so far this season. Port receipts 68,263. U. S. port stocks 1,360,515 bales.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Price movements in today's stock market lacked uniformity. Selling orders predominated at the opening wit hthe result that quotations ran off 1 to 5 points during the morning, but a rally set in during the afternoon and continued until the last hour when selling pressure was renewed against a number of recent favorites.

Final quotations disclosed a large number of gains ranging from 1 to 10 points and a somewhat small number of losses running from 1 to 5 points. The market had neither the breadth nor activity of recent sessions, although total sales ran over 2,000,000 shares for the 25th consecutive session.

Early selling apparently was based on the announcement of an increase in the Cleveland Federal Reserve bank rediscount rate and the marking up of the renewal rate on call money to 5 per cent. Speculative confidence on the long side was revived, in part by the announcement of higher gasoline prices in the Mid-Continent field and the declaration of a stock dividend of 20 per cent on International Business Machines.

Another vigorous drive was launched against the motors during the first hour, but better buying support was forthcoming and several of them showed substantial gains on the day. Chrysler closed nearly 10 points higher at 212¼ after sinking as low as 201 in early trading, and Hudson, Jordan, Mack Truck and Fisher Body closed 1 to nearly 5 points higher, General Motors showed a small fractional loss at 129⅝ and Studebaker closed unchanged at 56¼.

Revival of rumors of an early and favorable decision on the "Nickel Plate" merger by the interestate commerce commission stimulated the buying of the Van Sweringen issues. Chesapeake and Ohio duplicated the year's high of 115½ and then eased to 114⅝ for a net gain of 1⅝. "Nickel Plate" common soared 6 points to a new record top at 166 and the preferred duplicated the high of 98½. Heavy buying of the St. Paul issues in reflection of the progress being made wit hthe Kuhn, Loeb-National City reorganization plan was another feature o fthe rail group.

Standard industrials were mixed. U. S. Steel common closed nearly a point lower at 131½, after having sold above 133 in the early trading and American Can showed a net loss of 2⅜ at 251⅝. Baldwin advanced nearly a point to 125⅝.

There were several strong spots in the industrial list. Foundation company advanced nearly 7 points to a new peak at 183⅜ and the foreign subsidiary "rights" touched a new top at 26½ as against the initial quotation of 15 yesterday. International Nickel was heavily bought and advanced over 3 points to a new top at 45⅝.

Call money held firm at 5 per cent all day. Time money was relatively steady with 4½ per cent the ruling rate for all maturities and prime commercial paper continued unchanged at 4¼ per cent.

With the exception of Norwegian kroner, which rallied about 8 points to 20.48 cents, most of the principal European exchange rates were slightly reactionary. Demand sterling ruled around $4.84⅝ and French francs fluctuated within a few points of 4.00 cents.

LIVESTOCK REVIEW.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 17.—Receipts at the Fort Worth market fell far short of Monday's arrivals and a trifle short of the supply on Tuesday last week. Arrivals also fell short some 3,000 in cattle from the supply of Tuesday a year ago. The calf supply was about the same as a year ago but 1,000 short of the run a week ago. Supplies ran generally to she stosk.

Four cars of fed steers were offered to the trade and went to the scales at the drop of the hat for beginnings to start. Two cars made $6.50 and two cars cleared at $6.75, both sales steady. These steers were short fed.

Butcher cows were rather slow in getting a start, but made up for the early delay by a better movement later. The early rounds brought to the scales carlots at $3.65 and a better grade at $4.60. Canners and cutters appeared to regain the Monday loss selling in the usual groove.

Bulls were infrequent in the pens and the trade was quiet at the Monday decline. Calves furnished few good lights and heavies were slow in moving. Trade was easy with Monday's advance.

Five cars of hogs arrived—400 head—all from Oklahoma. Outsiders were again eager for hog and corraled two cars at $12 and $12.10, packers paying around $11.75 for the rest. Market steady to 10c higher. Pigs and packing sows unchanged.

Lambs made the unusual prices of $14.75, fed stuff. A deck of feeder lambs was unsold at the noon close.

IRRIGATION

THE SHAPE OF ROOT ROT SPOTS.

One of the things that have led so many farmers to believe that it was alkali which was affecting their crops rather than root rot was the shape of the spots affected. These spots are either circular thus resembling what is popularly supposed to be the shape of an alkali spot.

As a matter of fact neither root rot spots or alkali spots are necessarily circular in form. They may be of any shape.

In a field of cotton or other plants where there is a luxuriant growth of roots it will be found that the roots of one plant overlap and come in contact with the roots of other plants.

Root rot as far as we know definitely is propogated only through root contact. It must be the contact of live roots. The disease does not live on a dead root long.

A plant is affected. Its roots extend in every direction and come in contact with the roots of plants on all sides. Naturally all these other plants are infected with the disease and they in turn infect plants still further away.

If the roots of the plants overlap then the disease will spread uniformly in every direction and the affected spot will be in the form of a circle.

If the rows are too wide apart for the plants to touch except in the row then the disease will just affect the one row.

Root rot spots may be of any shape. It all depends on root systems of the plants and whether these systems touch or not. A farmer can not tell whether or not his field is afflicted with root rot or alkali by the shape of the spots. They are not a good indicator of this disease.

Produce

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Poultry, alive, steady; receipts 14 cars; fowls 16@23c; springs 23c; turkeys 35c; roosters 15c; ducks 20@23c; geese 18@19c.

Butter unchanged, receipts 10,558 tubs.

Eggs, higher; receipts 3,573 cases; firsts 52@55c; ordinary firsts 42@50c; refrigerator firsts 36@36½c; firsts 35@35½c.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 17.—There was little change in poultry today at Texas markets, but turkeys were firm and eggs stronger. Butter was featureless. Receipts of most items but hens were light and in the case of turkeys at South Texas markets hardly sufficient quantities were forthcoming to keep dressers even reasonably busy.

San Antonio: Hens 12@15c; fryers 20@25c; roosters 10c; turkeys 28@29c; some 30c pound liveweight basis.

Eggs, per case of 30 dozen No. 1 candled $12.

Fort Worth: Hens, large 13@15c, 12@13c for small; large springs 22@24c; small 18@20c; old roosters 9c; turkeys, No. 1's, 25@28c; No. 2's, 15@17c; old toms 21@24c pound liveweight basis; ducks 50@75c; geese 75c@$1; guineas 30@35c each.

Eggs, fresh gathered firsts $12@13 per case to producers; storage No. 1 candled $10.50@11.00 to retailers.

Butter, packing stock country 20@30c; creamery A 50c; B 48c pound.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Probably not a third of the Thanksgiving movement of a year ago has been rolled from Texas to date this season and receipts at dressing plants even yet are extremely light. Turkey markets are extremely light. Today at south Texas markets 27, 28, 29 and 30 cents pound liveweight were bid for and the attention to grading was very light. It was purely a producers market. Generally in the state, however, 28@29c was the top of the market for No. 1 stock, but some of the biggest factors were refusing to buy higher than 25c not particularly caring whether they took any supplies or not now until the opening of the Christmas dressing period.

Trading between carlot factors is a little more active. Sales are reported in a 37½@39c price range for good dressed stock Texas points and there is considerable firmness in the situation because of the rushing middle western temperatures which it is thought will hold back farm dressed offerings on the big markets and almost insure high Thanksgiving prices in the terminal trade especially if two or three more days of such weather prevails. For the closing of this week however, when everything but closing market will be shut out in Texas, 38c at dressed points is freely predicted although with a 29c live market and an 8 cent dressing, shrinkage and cooler charges, such a price grane would mean considerable ides on such turkeys as were carried through from the present Thanksgiving market to the Christmas deal. It is with this chiefly in mind that the desire for a 25c market prevails among the trade and they are forced to the higher level only by virtue of the light receipts and the fact that the producer holds the whip hand this season, particularly in south Texas.

VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 17.—Sweet potatoes were slightly stronger today, peppers and eggplant mostly steady and strong beans steady to slightly weaker under moderate receipts and a fair demand. Jobbing sales and receipts of the 24-hour period follow:

SWEET POTATOES:

Fort Worth, one Texas, one Louisiana arrived, four track. Steady, bushels Porto Ricans $1.25@1.40.

Dallas, two Texas, one arrived, five track; stronger. Bushels, Porto Ricans, $1.25@1.40.

Chicago, no Texas, 11 other arrivals, 19 track, steady. Nancy Halls $2.

Market Gossip

B. E. Flowerree and Co., brokers, Staley Bldg., today received the following market comment from Fenner and Beane of New York, New Orleans and Chicago:

COTTON.

Cotton started the day with a reactionary trend owing to predictions of better weather but a forecast of small ginnings soon changed the trend. It ended the day with a substantial gain with December showing the greatest advance.

There was considerable liquidation in evidence during the early trading. This encouraged short sales and pressure on market was active for a time.

Forecast of ginnings of only 11,980,000 by one of the private bureaus, which is only 782,000 for the period against 1,446,000 last year and the lightness of December upset short sellers and later in the day brought on a considerable covering movement. The covering became more urgent when it became evident that there was very little hedging.

Sentiment is somewhat mixed at the moment and a trading market between now and the bureau is generally looked for. The small ginnings forecast, however, are tending to reduce crop ideas.

GRAIN.

The market was quite weak in the first hour, with the same character of liquidation that featured yesterday's session again in evidence. The surprising feature was the offerings were readily absorbed and when closing cables came in showing an advance, accompanied by unfavorable crop news from the Argentine, prices advanced rapidly with little more opposition. Exports were for the day estimated at upwards of 2,000,000 bushels. The only argument that bears have had in their favor was that the northwest might flood our market with a large supply of wheat, but that idea has now been dissipated by the relative strength of Minneapolis, their December gaining more than 1 cent on Chicago today. We continue of the opinion that purchases made on the setbacks will bring good results.

The corn market was weak due to lack of speculative interest on the buying side while cash interests were moderate sellers, presumed to be against purchases to arrive. There is quite a difference of opinion as to the immediate outlook for corn prices, due to uncertainty over the possible attitude of the farmer. One thing certain, the price of the grain is not conducive to excessive marketing, especially with the hog level so favorable for feeders, and this, in our opinion, is likely to be the determining feature, hence we suggest purchases during weak spells.

STOCKS.

Forced selling, due to impaired margins followed in the wake of yesterday's setback took place during the early trading today. Apprehension was felt over the action of the Cleveland federal reserve bank in advancing its rediscount rate to 4 per cent from 3½.

Selling was again most noticeable in Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Mack Trucks and Studebaker. This situation was offset by some rather strong features, like Foundation company, which advanced several points to a high.

Saw a woman today who weighed three hundred pounds—forty per cent of which represented good appetite and power will power.

THIMBLE THEATRE — BY SEGAR

This Story of a Babe On The Doorstep Shows Spirit Of Charity In This City

This might well be a Christmas story for it started at a time when Christmas cheer was in the air, and it has terminated in a happy fashion thoroughly in keeping with a Christmas spirit. As it happens, though it is a true story of one little thing the Texas Children's Home and Aid society found just a year ago in the course of its regular work in Wichita Falls.

The story started one bleak night late in December. In a comfortable home out in the western edge of the city a lady was awakened about midnight. A plaintive cry came from the back steps; it came again and still again; not loud but sufficiently clear to be heard above the howling of the wind and the creaking of straining timbers in the house.

It didn't go away, however, and finally the woman got up, went to the back porch and investigated.

It Was a Baby Girl

Instead of a whining kitten she found a small paste board carton from which the cries were coming. Inside, wrapped in none-too heavy covering, was a baby girl. It was perfectly formed, well developed and was crying lustily.

The next day Miss Katherine Henriche of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society was summoned. She took charge of the tiny mite and because it was only a few days old and had been exposed to bitter cold she took it straight to the general hospital for care.

Out there through the holiday season it waxed fat and healthy. It got to be a prime favorite and the nurses, their imaginations stimulated by the spirit of the days, went to Christmas hostory for a name for the little lady. They considered many and then decided on a combination of two of the names in what is perhaps the greatest story of all time—the story of Mary, Joseph and the birth of Christ. Mary Joe she became, and finally when a surname was needed for the hospital records some one just tacked on "General."

That was how Mary Jo General came to be named.

Many Sought to Adopt

Her subsequent history has a happier theme than those of a lot of youngsters who are abandoned on back door steps—but her happiness was made possible through the work of the Texas Childrens Home and Aid society.

Mary Joe was perfect physically, and her mentality was found to be above that of the average youngster.

Miss Henriche in whose charge she was given was beseiged with pleas from men and women who would have adopted her; and finally when an out-of-town man and his wife who gave proof that they could and would provide a suitable home and suitable care put in their appeal, adoption papers were drawn and the baby turned over to them.

Mary Joe now has another name, of course—that of her foster Dad and mother. They don't know yet and never will know where she came from nor the Christmas title she was given at the hospital. Although Mary Joe General still appears as her official name on the records of the hospital and the Aid society, to her name they have given her.

Does Not Know Parents

Mary Joe will never know but that the man and woman now giving her every advantage a home can offer are her real father and mother. She was less than a year old when she took shelter under their roof and as time goes on her "parents" will be to her all that any real parents could ever be.

Neither will Mary Joe ever dream that such an organization as the Texas Childrens' Home and Aid society or that such a thing as a community chest and the bounty of a generous public ever played such a part in her life. That is one of the rock-ribbed principles of the aid society. Those it aids usually don't know or realize what it is doing for them. But it goes ahead and does it just the same and Mary Joe today, had the society not been functioned when her frosty cradle was rescued last December, might be situated much differently than she is.

In order that the Texas Children's Home and Aid society may continue the work it is doing, a part of the Wichita Falls community chest has been alloted to it. Part of the $55,000 fund to be raised here November 23, 24 and 25 will go to aid in its upkeep—to aid it, perhaps, in finding, caring for and starting another Mary Joe General on the road to happiness.

Ad Men To Seek Convention For W. F.

Three representatives from the Advertising club will go to the annual meeting of the Tenth District in Fort Worth, November 19-20, to get the 1926 convention for Wichita Falls. J. H. Allison and D. M. Bernard will represent the local organization.

Burton Stayton made a talk for the community chest. Hubert M. Harrison compared the community chest welfare work with that of Wichita, Kansas, which includes 30 organizations; with Dallas which 29; and Fort Worth which has 19.

"Today's profits and tomorrow's good will is the basis of department-store advertising," W. A. Bradley, advertising director of Perkins-Timbrake department store said in his address on "Department Store Advertising."

The Advertising club will meet in a joint session with the Wichita Falls Real Estate Board next week, Mr. Allison announced.
