Nine Boys Nabbed For Three Break-Inns

Chief of Police Bob Hewes announced today that nine boys, seven under 10 years of age and two over 10, had been apprehended in connection with three recent break-ins and one attempted break-in.

Hewes was assisted in the investigation by Patrolman Joe Dominguez and A. R. Griffith, principal of Rockport Elementary School.

The first break-in involved an empty house at 823 North Austin Street. Hewes reported that some of the boys "tore wallpaper from the stairway and ceiling, dumped the couch and chairs, spread nuts all over the living room, and stopped up the commode."

At the Picton summer home at the intersection of Allen and Sabinal Streets, the boys did considerable damage by tearing a screen, knocking out windows and shooting bb's through windows and into a mirror.

The Stevenson house at the corner of Church and Mimosa Streets was the third place entered. Here, clothing and other items were strewn all over the house and the commode was stopped up.

An attempt was made to enter Ormand's Grocery Store but apparently the boys were frightened away. These cases are now pending in juvenile court.

Notaries Public Must File With County Clerk

Secretary of State John L. Hill has announced that all qualified notaries public desiring re-appointment for the new term which begins June 1, 1967 and ends June 1, 1969, must pay the required fee and file a new application, oath and bond with the County Clerk between May 1, 1967 and May 15, 1967, inclusive. Hill emphasized that notaries public should not send requests for re-appointment or for commissions directly to the Secretary of State inasmuch as the law specifically requires that the County Clerks approve Notary Bonds and forward copies of the Application to the Secretary of State.

Each person applying for a notary public must be at least 21 years of age, a citizen of the United States and of Texas and resident of the county for which he is appointed. The required application forms may be obtained from the County Clerk.

Secretary of State Hill further stated that any person not now a notary public who desires appointment for the beginning of the new term should apply to his County Clerk before May 20.

In this county, application blanks are also on hand with insurance agents, according to County Clerk W. E. Beasley.

WHOOPEES DISAPPOINT VISITORS

Bird watchers who went to the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge over the Easter holidays for a look at the rare whooping cranes were disappointed because the birds staged a migration of their own.

The Parks and Wildlife Department said most of the cranes took off about two weeks earlier than last year for their Canadian breeding grounds.

No more than four adults and one young remained behind, the department said.

Since the takeoff, only one sighting was reported to Phil Morgan, manager of the refuge. That was from Quivira National Wildlife Refuge near Great Bend Kans.

The birds in danger of extinction for years, now number 43, the department said.

This band is composed of eighth graders and seventh graders. The seventh is in its second year of playing as they were beginners in the sixth grade.

The II Division rating is considered to be for an excellent performance. It is lacking a few minor details to be rated as superior or I Division.

Unfortunately, she hit and killed the dog and ran into a tree. Mrs. Martinez suffered face lacerations, cheekbone bruises and lost several teeth. She was taken to Memorial Medical Center in Corpus Christi.

P&WD Boat Sets Pace For Study

After deliberately selecting rough spring weather for a shakedown cruise, the crew of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department new research boat proclaims the new craft "a good, stable vessel."

They found the seas were rough enough to adequate test seaworthiness of the "Western Gulf," destined to embark on an elaborate Gulf research program.

The objective of the undertaking by the Parks and Wildlife Department it to develop Gulf fisheries resources.

Henry Compton, project leader, described the sturdy, 72-footer as basically a combination all-weather trawler and floating laboratory. Designed and constructed by RYSCO, a Rockport shipyard, the "Western Gulf" has a spacious, well equipped lab below deck in the area which would otherwise be occupied by the shrimp hold. This will enable marine biologists to study and analyze their catch aboard the boat.

The vessel will normally carry a crew of four consisting of the project leader, the master, an oceanographer, and a technician. Home port will be Rockport, but with a 4,000 mile cruising range the boat will be able to work the entire Texas coast with ease.

Fish-finding sonar, radio positioning, and long range navigation equipment, and radar are some of the electronics gear used by the scientists to locate fishing areas where the studies are to be conducted.

The research program includes a three-fold effort: (1) to monitor the abundance and size of commercial shrimp

C of C Develops Good Will 'Summons'

The Chamber of Commerce has come up with another idea to win friends for the Rockport area and influence people, favorably.

This time its "summons" printed on pink paper, the color of police summonses, and in a size identical to the real thing.

The C of C Summonses, in pad form, are being distributed to policemen, service station owners and attendants, motel operators and other local people who come in contact with tourists visiting this area. The local residents then place summonses in the cars or under the windshield wipers of out-of-state and Texas-licensed autos bringing visitors.

The wording on the Chamber notice, under the heading Summonses in boldface type, is as follows:

"You are hereby notified to appear at Chamber of Commerce office, 404 North Broadway:

—To let us thank you for coming to the Rockport area.

—To let us buy a cup of coffee and have a chance to visit with you.

—To give us an opportunity to see if we can be of any service to you, such as:

Suggesting an interesting sightseeing trip.

Recommending a good place to fish or hunt.

L. D. Nuckles, information and education officer of Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, will present slides depicting the need for more recreation parks throughout Texas.

He said this program is in connection with Gov. Connally's proposals that the state spend $75 million to buy land for recreational uses.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Three players shared honors for medalist: Morris Gregory, club champion the past four years; Cobb, 1966 medalist; and Dube, 1961 club champion.

Dube also got a hole-in-one on No. 8. It was his first ace and only the fourth time a hole-in-one has been made on this hole.

In ladies competition for the George Clark Trophy which ended Sunday, Mrs. Esther Wrinkle finished in first place.

DRUM 'FIND' MIGHT MARK EPIC EVENT

Ripe black drum and fat black bass in an enclosed saline pool near here provided a rare discovery by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists.

It is highly unusual to find either of these fish in that condition in aquatic habitat containing as it did 13 parts of salt per thousand parts of water. The Gulf of Mexico itself contains 35 parts per thousand.

On a routine seining and salinity check, the technicians caught many black drum, assorted killifish, an 8 to 9 pound mullet and one choice black bass in top condition.

Black bass can tolerate saline water to a certain degree but it is unusual to find them existing in such salty water.

The black drum were extremely ripe and ready to spawn. This is the first recorded instance of salt water fish of this family ripening in enclosed waters.

Since the drum is a very close relative of the redfish which has been introduced with some limited success in saline streams and lakes in West Texas, the suddenly rated "experimental" pond is being watched with great interest.

Officers Continue Island Bone Study

Efforts are continuing to put together bones found by two boys last week on San Shell Island between Aransas Pass.

Bill Burch of the Nueces County Sheriff's Department reported the bones were several years old. He said they may have washed ashore.

Mike Chaddock, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Chaddock of Freer, and Mark Henneke, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Henneke of San Antonio found the bones in a shallow spot on the beach.

The boys had left other members of the family for an exploring trip of their own. On their return, they said they had found part of a cocoon. Henneke and Chaddock examined the boys' find and then told them it was part of a skull.

The boys took a container back to the spot and returned with a few more bones. Then the families went to the spot, verified that other bones were there and notified authorities.

Officers from Aransas and Nueces counties are taking part in the investigation.

Jack Sparks' Widow Named to Succeed Him As Co. Commissioner

Mrs. Wanda Sparks, widow of J. M. (Jack) Sparks, Jr., was appointed on Monday by County Judge John D. Wendell to succeed Sparks as county commissioner from precinct 2 until the next general election in November of 1968.

Sparks who died April 14, had served as commissioner for 18 years and started on a four-term in January 1967.

Mrs. Sparks has been bookkeeper for the Rockport Pilot for approximately 10 years and, in addition, has been society reporter for about two years.

Sea Gun Has Booth At Dallas Boat Show

The Sea Gun Sports Inn had an attractive exhibit booth at the annual Dallas Boat Show last weekend which was visited by thousands of people.

Sea Gun officials on hand for the event were Nick Bacci, executive manager, Mrs. Anne Johnson, assistant manager, and Vernon J. Kleypas, manager of the Sea Gun Marina.

One handout that made a hit with visitors at the boat show was a big shopping bag bearing the identification, Sea Gun Sports Inn, Rockport, Texas. These were in evidence throughout the entire display area.

Also participating in the show and handing out literature was Ed Harper, general manager of the Sandollar Motel.

THEY GAVE UP TEA FOR THEIR COUNTRY

England is having its economical troubles. To make a contribution toward the country's recovery 200 workers at a brass foundry at Wolverhampton agreed to give up their traditional tea break—an exceptional sacrifice in England.

The workers said they'd be willing to make the sacrifice in order to help production and save the country.

The management noted that after only two days of the no-tea-break production zoomed by two per cent.

This was a noble gesture on the part of the workers and compared to some of the things that have been happening on the North American labor front it is indeed a contrast.

We're thinking of the argument in New York over whether pressmen were to work an eight-hour shift on Saturday nights, or a seven and a half hour period, or even a six. This argument has resulted in a long, long struggle to get the New York World Journal Tribune going.

Just thirty minutes more or less brought on economic stress to the publishing business in New York. Airline mechanics tossed the nation's transportation into a turmoil because they wouldn't go along with a wage guideline designed to half inflation. The Canadian, railroad men tied up transportation because of pay demands, knowing that the railroads were having financial problems.

Throughout North America labor's demands are, without a doubt, hurting the economic life of the continent. Many of the demands are picayunish.

It's about time labor looks at the cooperation of the brass workers in England and make some constructive contributions to the welfare of this land of ours. They would be beneficial to all, including labor.

A gypsy woman in Portugal seized a girl with pretty, long hair, stuffed a handkerchief in her mouth and tied her up. Then, with a razor blade she cut off the hair. The gypsy woman apparently wanted the hair to sell.

This isn't apt to happen in this country. Not with the kind of hair-do's the girls are wearing these days. She would only be teasing when she went to sell it.

grading is being done in co-operation with the county, some at county expense, some at city expense.

MORRISON WINS OVER LITTLE

Hugh Morrison edged out Ted Little by a two-vote margin for one of three places on the Rockport Independent School Board. The vote was 43 to 41.

T. C. Kelly, president, was re-elected with 43 votes, and Algie Moss from the west side of the district was renamed with a vote of 50.

CONSTRUCTION AUTHORIZED ON MARINE LAB

Meeting in Austin, the Commission raised the ante on the building for the second time and awarded the contract for construction to the Anderson Construction Co. of Austin for $77,800.

STUDENTS ARE HONORED

The High School English department received notice of the election of John Albert Ratliff, freshman, to the High School Poetry Association. His contribution, which will appear in the forthcoming book, is entitled "Ole Man Moon."

Bert Haney again won the highest award with "Confession." He and Shirley Ratisseau received this award in the November group last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buchanan, Jr., former residents of Rockport, returned this week to make their home again.

N. H. Key and Gene Key of Nixon, father and brother of Robert Key, spent Easter here with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Key. Tommy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Key, returned to Nixon with his grandfather for a week's visit.

Mrs. Jack Sanders entertained her little son, Jackie Frost Sanders, with an Easter egg hunt Sunday for a group of his little friends.

By Vern Sanford

There's a best time and a best place for everything when it comes to fishing Texas' golden gulf coast.

Certain species of fish can be caught the year-around. However, to latch onto the others a fellow must pick specific months or seasons.

There are, primarily, four species of the year-arounders. In this group are the speckled trout, redfish, red snapper and sand trout. But even with these species, there are months when they are most plentiful.

For example—the red snapper. These fish are taken at the offshore banks. If you want consistently big snappers, confine your fishing to the cold weather months.

There are two peak seasons for speckled trout. October through December is one. May through July is the other.

Redfish runs in the surf are in the late August through November period, and then out in jetty waters in the May-July period.

Migratory fish move into

Texas waters when the warming trend begins. When a species first appears off Port Isabel at the southern tip of the state, anglers on the upper coast can expect these fish to arrive in their waters anywhere from two weeks to a month later. This waiting period varies due to late season northerners that can slow north-migrations.

Forerunner of the warm weather fish is the gafftopsail catfish. It starts showing up in March and it is closely followed by jackfish, Spanish mackerel and ling in that order.

What could be called the migratory fishing season ranges from May through September. In this period anglers will find kingfish, tarpon, sailfish, marlin, bonito, pompano, jackfish, ling, and dolphin.

Even though this migratory period covers roughly five months, the best fishing for some of the species mentioned is packed into a two or three month period.

Consider kingfish and boni-

STANDARD UNITS GUARDED

The nation's official tools of standard measurements have been removed from their long-time home in the Capitol and lodged in new quarters at Gaithersburg, Md. The carefully protected standards of measuring height and length are now in an air conditioned vault in the National Bureau of Standards' new administration building.

The national standard for weight is a squat cylinder of platinum-iridium alloy, according to the National Geographic Society. On rare occasions, the cylinder is sent to Sevres, France, for comparison with the international standard.

The metal cylinder gives the mass, or weight of a kilogram. To obtain the mass of a pound, the Kilogram is multiplied by 0.4536. Enclosed under glass, the standard is never touched by hands lest it be spoiled by the weight of a fingerprint.

Preserved in the vault also is the standard for length—a meter, defined by two fine lines etched on a bar made of the same platinum-iridium alloy.—Jackson (Miss.) Clarion Ledger.

to. Fishermen out in the June-August period will have the most consistent luck.

Fall months of each year offer fast action on several species of fish. These include golden croakers, sheepshead and flounder. Actually these species can be caught in some degree the year-around.

In the October-November period, however, flounder and golden croaker fishing hit a furious pace. In fact, the fall golden croaker run has gained national attention for the Rollover Fish Pass near Gilchrist on Bolivar Peninsula. This quarter-mile long cut on the upper coast has drawn angling crowds of almost 5,000 per day during the height of croaker runs.

Flounder during October-November usually are quite plentiful on the step-offs bordering channels and cuts. These fish are great eating and offer wonderful sport on light tackle.

Dead of winter, more often than not, is an unpleasant time of the year. But it is not bad for fishing as most people suppose. For one thing speckled trout and redfish usually can be found in protected areas that have holes of deep water. Two of the better known spots are the Boat Basin at Rockport and Off-fat's Bayou at Galveston.

Dead of winter weather seriously limits offshore fishing. But when the days are good and the boats can get out to the offshore banks, the winter months are the time for those big warsaw that range in size from 50 to 300 pounds.

on the continental shelf as a basis for management of the fishery, (2) to determine the distribution and seasonal occurrence of brown and royal red shrimp in deeper waters, and (3) to compare harvest methods and obtain data on the life history of the red snapper, a fish important to both commercial and sport fishing.

The initial cruise was devoted to the red snapper studies. According to Compton, snappers were collected on Hospital and Aransas Banks offshore from Port Aransas. Fish were tagged and released to determine growth rates and to detect any migrations or movements between banks. Food habits and spawning condition are also checked. "We hope to determine more information on this important food fish about which so little is known," Compton said.

"Our deep water trawl equipment will also enable us to determine the offshore potential of our fisheries, down to 700 fathoms," he continued. "Our fishermen for the most part are not equipped or financially able to explore this vast, productive area. We hope to give them a hand by furnishing information on our findings. Texas is not generally thought of as a seafood state, but we are among the top producers, and we have not tapped the full potential of our resource."

"The vessel was constructed and is operated under the Federal Aid to Commercial Fisheries Research and Development Program. We have obtained much valuable information from the BCF, and we will be working closely with them and with other institutions conducting oceanographic and fisheries research in the gulf.

"While our work, because of the nature of the program, is primarily directed toward the commercial fisheries, we expect to obtain considerable information to aid our sport fishermen as well, and you can be sure we will pass it along."

A Tip About Tips

Persons who receive tips as part of their pay get social security credit for those earnings. Last year was the first time that tips were included in the social security earnings record, according to H. M. Cleveland, Corpus Christi district manager of the Social Security Administration.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1966, cash tips amounting to $20 or more in a month while working for one employer were counted toward social security along with regular wages.

"Counting the income from tips along with regular wages will increase the value of a worker's social security protection," Cleveland said. "Social security payments are figured from each worker's average earnings."

"In order to get credit for these tips," he continued, "the employee must report the amount of the tips to his employer. This report must be given to the employer by the 10th of the month after the month in which the tips were received. The employer must then collect the social security tax due on the tips from the employee's regular wages, or the employee may turn over to his employer an amount sufficient to cover the taxes.

Any person that receives cash tips in his work should obtain Document No. 5635 from the Internal Revenue Service. "This includes a form on which the employee may keep a daily record of tips," Cleveland reported. Some forms for use in reporting the tips to the employer are also included.

JOHN KINSEY

Since starting this column I have written several times that my wife and I like Rockport very much and are glad we live here and hope to stick around for quite a while.

I have also stated from time to time that many local residents, including myself, believe that certain things could be done to improve Rockport.

For example, getting rid of junk autos and other trash which can be seen in the yards of some homes, spoiling the appearance of the entire neighborhood. The City Council is working on a new ordinance right now to have the right to remove junk autos which are declared a hazard to health and/or safety of local people.

I have also written enthusiastically about how Rockport would benefit from a program of action to improve the appearance of the business district.

One reason I have written such articles is that I like Rockport so much that I would like to see some conditions corrected to make our city an even nicer place to live or visit.

And speaking of visiting, I agree with many local people that the Rockport economy would benefit by an increase of tourists.

Not everyone agrees with these suggestions, I'm well aware. To cite a for-instance, here is the message of a letter I recently received from a man who used to live here but now resides in Oklahoma:

"No doubt you are a very nice chap and were delighted to 'make a place' for yourself in a small, serene, NOT overcrowded setting.

"Now, do explain why immediately you begin beating the drum to clutter up a wonderful bit of God's last frontiers with people, adding water, garbage, police problems.

"You are like a woman who marries a man presumably because she likes (loves) him as he is and then immediately begins trying to change him into a 'thing' that is nothing

"Another thing: how about people (namely from Harlingen) who can't entertain themselves or make friends on their own? If the scenery (and it is) is so delightful, who needs to be shut up in a 'Civic Center'? Let them go back to 'prepared living'.

"Let's keep Rockport as is—please." Signed, "A Real Rockport Lover."

I appreciated receiving that letter. I respect the man's opinions and agree that nothing should be done to spoil the natural beauty and charm of this area.

However, I still think a few little things could be done to improve a wonderful city, and I'll continue to work with other local people to help bring these about.

Muskies are found in every state.

Loyalty Day Theme Is For God, Flag, Country

Strong public response toward implementing the patriotic theme "For God, Flag and Country" is expected to mark May 1 Loyalty Day activities here, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and with other organizations cooperating.

Stewart-Wendell Post 3904, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be host. Post Commander Robert Hewes said today that the Loyalty Day program will represent war veterans, civic officials, schools, churches, youth and adult groups and others responding to the call for all citizens to demonstrate their patriotism.

Loyalty Day was originated by the VFW as a counter-offensive against Communist anti-American May Day demonstrations. The 1,300,000 VFW members pushed the atheistic Reds and their hammer and sickle flag into the background with public patriotic activities dramatizing positive Americanism.

"Our members have been doing that on every May 1," Commander Hewes said. "They demonstrate pride in citizenship, also undivided loyalty to the United States—and their faith in God, flag and country."

"Congress and the President have added to the patriotic fervor by officially designating each May 1 as Loyalty Day and urging all citizens to help promote appropriate programs through their schools, churches and other groups in every community."

Americans can choose from a variety of 6,000 foods in fresh, canned, frozen, concentrated, ready mixed or other forms.
