On The BEAM

By A. W. King, Sr.

Farmers are all busy this week most of them planting, following the good showers of last Friday morning. But Tuesday were stopped by more welcome showers.

Let's keep the wheels of progress turning. We have the base for some street paving. I think we ought to go ahead and finish the job. Evidently most people do not want the job finished or they would have paid in their money. The City Council does not have the money for this project. The money will have to come from individual property owners.

The project was started originally by the volunteer firemen, but they dropped it before the base was completed.

A few people have paid in their money and would like to see the project finished.

William Martin, the genial barber, keeps a flock of white leghorn hens at his home to furnish fresh eggs for his table. Tuesday morning Mrs. Martin found two extra large eggs. One of them measured six and one half inches in circumference and seven and one half inches in length. The other measured six and seven eighths inches in circumference and seven and three fourths in length.

Cotton Improvement Groups Are Urged

It's time to join a cotton improvement group.

This reminder comes to farmers today from H. J. Matejowsky of Production and Marketing Administration's cotton classing office, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Abilene, Texas.

"If you belonged to an improvement group last year, get your neighbors and bring yours up to date," Mr. Matejowsky said adding, "if you don't belong to one, join one."

He explained an application form could be obtained from the county PMA office, county agent, or local ginners.

Farmers who organize into improvement groups get two special benefits from USDA — free classification and market news service.

Both are provided for under the Smith-Doxey Act, which encourages farmers to grow improved varieties of cotton particularly adapted to their soil.

Mr. Matejowsky said that as soon as all farmers in the group have planted their cotton the application for classing and marketing news should be mailed to address: P. O. Box 2001, Abilene, Texas.

GOES TO MARKET

Dallas, Texas, May 26, 1952.—H. R. Preston of Lorraine, Texas attended the Fall and Back to School Fashion Market of the American Fashion Association in Dallas during the week of May 25 to 30.

More than five thousand buyers from seventeen states filled the Dallas Hotel to capacity during the five day event.

The highlight of the week was the presentation of "The Seven Keys to Fashion" by the Dallas Fashion Arts, Inc. Two breakfast clinics were staged in the Grand Ballroom of the Adolphus Hotel on Tuesday May 27 and Wednesday, May 28. More than 1000 lines of women's and children's wear were displayed in the Adolphus Baker and Blue Bonnet Hotels.

In search of new homes came a group of early Christians who entered while the chorus sang "Onward Christian Soldier" and "I'm Bound For the Promised Land". Arriving from the East were Southern plantation owners with their negro slaves. The negro spirituals were a contribution as Swing Low Sweet Chariot was sung. The Virginia Reel depicted the gaiety of the southern dances as done by a fourth grade group.

The Texas cowboy, a prominent figure in our state history, made life gay with cowboy songs and the famous square dances.

In conclusion, with each group sitting within the outline of Texas as made by colorful blue bonnets, a Boy Scout bearing the Texas flag entered as a reader paid tribute to Texas in giving a salute to Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hall and children returned Friday night from Wyoming where they had visited relatives. Mrs. W. H. Hall made the trip with them and remained and is visiting in the home of her son, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Watson.

FORMER LORLAINE TEACHER WRITES TEXAS STORY

Mrs. Whit Hines, Speech and History teacher in Lorraine High School for six years before going to Coahoma to teach two years ago, recently completed a "Panorama of Texas", which was presented by 350 Coahoma grade school pupils in two performances recently.

The story, depicting scenes of Texas from its beginning, was given by two readers who introduced the groups of different phases of Texas history while a massed chorus furnished songs of background music. "Texas Our Texas," our state song, and "I'm Coming Back to You My Texas" were sung while the outline of Texas was formed by part of the cast. Entering into the outline Texas were the peaceful types of Indian tribes represented by eight squaws planting their corn as a ceremonial offering to the Great White Father. The unfriendly Indians appeared as a group of warring braves in an Indian war dance. Neighbors South of the Border were represented by a group of colorfully dressed Latin American children who danced to the rapid steps of Chaparrones.

In search of new homes came a group of early Christians who entered while the chorus sang "Onward Christian Soldier" and "I'm Bound For the Promised Land". Arriving from the East were Southern plantation owners with their negro slaves. The negro spirituals were a contribution as Swing Low Sweet Chariot was sung. The Virginia Reel depicted the gaiety of the southern dances as done by a fourth grade group.

The Texas cowboy, a prominent figure in our state history, made life gay with cowboy songs and the famous square dances.

Health of Youth and Aged Neglected

AUSTIN—In the past medicine and public health have concerned themselves with the health and disease problems of youth and middle age said Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer. We have neglected our aged population and have waited upon the devastations of time before extending aid to the old.

Our population each year includes an increasing number of older people. In 1950 in the United States, it is estimated that there are 11,000,000 persons over sixty five years of age, as compared to 3,000,000 in 1900. In absolute numbers, aged persons among us have almost quadrupled in the last fifty years, whereas, the portion of elderly persons to the remainder of the population has merely doubled.

Dr. Cox stated that preventive medicine, private medical care and social service have assisted in extending the life span. As encouraging as this fact may be, there is an accompanying tribulation: the aged are subject to the chronic diseases which, because of destroyed tissue structure, are especially weakened. Heart disease, cancer, diabetes, and other long-term illnesses resist the physician's most skillful attack and are notably disabling and lethal.

To insure health and peace of mind to our old people, prevention and curative medicine and social service can contribute techniques of prevention and care. These techniques should properly include the early discovery of beginning disease processes through periodic examinations that begin in early life and continue for one's remaining years. By such means many cases of chronic disease, with all their agony and sure fatality, might either be prevented or, through the substitution of different living regimens, be rendered tolerable.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Massingill and daughters and his mother, Mrs. Elliott, have moved to Colorado City where he will be employed at Gary Grocery and Market. Mr. Massingill has been the manager of the locker plant the past several months.

More Rain Falls Enough For Planting

Last Friday morning rain gain visited this section of the country in generous amounts in some places and rather sparingly in others. Light hail was included in some spots.

Here in town the Government gauge at the J. W. King residence recorded 1.10 inch. Some farmers in the territory reported the fall as much lighter at their place while other received up to 2 1/4 inches.

This moisture, with the previous light rains, brought the moisture content of the ground enough for planting in most areas. Some say they will have to plant in furrow in order to have enough moisture but in some other spots the moisture is sufficient for planting.

Many farmers had planted their crops and in some instances they were up to a fair stand; others will have to plant over.

More showers fell Tuesday afternoon which left .25 inch in town. The fall was about the same south of town as it was here but west, north and east of town the fall was some heavier.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dudley, Martha and James of Sudan spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Davis as they were enroute to San Antonio to visit their son and family.

Farm Program News

To date, during 1952, seven farmers and ranchers of Mitchell County have dug 3,796 acres of pear and cactus on range and pasture land.

On the Ellwood and Towle ranch managed by Pete Ainsworth, 307 acres of cedar has been eradicated.

This means more and better production of grass to produce more and better cattle and sheep which will in turn be more and better food and fiber for the ever increasing need.

Other work completed and approved during this year includes 118 miles of terrace on 40 farms, eight new tanks and six enlargements for a total of 58,214 cu. yards on eleven farms and ranches. On 38 farms 2440 acres of sandy crop land has been plowed to prevent wind erosion. 15,954 acres on 145 farms were sub-soiled to shatter hardpan and permit better penetration of water.

No castor bean seed will be allocated to Mitchell County this year because of the continued drought and limited seed supply.

Cotton farmers will have an additional means of price support on their 1952 crop. Under a purchase agreement, the farmer files an application to cover a specified portion of his crop. A small fee is charged for this service. Then the producer himself has control of his crop throughout the season and may sell it at any time on the open market. Or, if the market price is not as favorable as the loan rate, the owner may hold his cotton and sell it to the Government.

THE PUBLIC WAREHOUSE

The public warehouse is like the pearl in the pig's mouth—most of us are not conscious of its value in our farm economy.

Our farmers would be economic slaves to the buyers if they had to sell at harvest time on a glutted market. Or they would lose millions of dollars in a single crop year from "country damage" if they had to hold back their products by using the open yard storage place.

Instead, they can store their products in a public warehouse and release them into consumer channels at a fair price as they are needed under the law of supply and demand. In the meantime they borrow money from the bank to pay their merchants and finance their farm program. Negotiable warehouse receipts are collateral.

The warehouse means the difference between profit and no profit for the farmer. If it were not for that simply constructed, barn-like structure, the farmer would have to sell at a loss, the bank could not make many of its loans, and the economy of the entire community would be affected.

The warehouse, therefore, is the key to the orderly and profitable marketing of our agricultural products.

There are about 3,300 warehouse units in Texas. Ninety-ninety percent of the State's 1,300 warehousemen are reliable business men worthy of the public trust they hold and of the vital role they play in our economy. But there is the one percent of unscrupulous operators who cause the kind of scandals we had this year when a few warehouse converted millions of dollars worth of stored grain to their own use.

A set of antiquated laws change the Texas Department of Agriculture with inspecting and licensing the warehouses of the state for the protection of depositors. The law have no teeth. Only two inspectors can be employed to cover the entire state. They cannot make more than superficial inspections. The amount of the bond required for a so-called bonded warehouse would not cover a fraction of the commodities in it. There are no adequate provisions for enforcement of regulations, and no penalties for violations—such as illegal removal of grain or other commodities from storage.

The farmers do not have effective protection for the products they store in our public warehouses. Texas needs a new warehouse law.

Broilers Good Source of Protein

COLLEGE STATION — Right now the supplies of broilers and fryers are such as to make this source of valuable meat a top buy for the homemaker. Jimmie Nell Harris, foods and nutrition specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says the family shopper can save money on the food budget by taking advantage of the situation, and at the same time will be giving the producers a helping hand.

Eat them fresh and store a supply in the home freezer or locker box for later use advises the specialist. Poultry meat is an excellent source of protein which is needed in the diet to build muscles. In addition, poultry meat also supplies important vitamins and minerals and is one of the best sources of the pelagial preventing factor. Miss Harris adds that proteins are made up of the amino acids which are commonly referred to as body building stones because they are so necessary for growth and maintenance of life. Poultry meat contains all of the essential amino acids and thus is listed as a "complete" protein.

The rules of modern poultry cookery are few and easy to follow. Miss Harris says cook at moderate heat so the meat will be juicy tender and evenly done to the bone and she points out that the young tender birds are mighty tasty when broiled. Serve the broiled chicken hot off the grid, with the pan drippings or melted fat poured over it. Garnish with test pints and a sprig of green mint or parsley.

Poultry used for freezing should be of a high quality and prepared ready to cook before freezing. The needs of the family should determine the form in which the product is packaged and the size of the package.

Broilers may be cut into pieces ready to fry or may be cut into halves ready to broil. Giblets may be wrapped separately to prevent discoloration of the other pieces of chicken.

Miss Harris says for more information on using poultry, contact the local county home demonstration agent and ask her for bulletins B-88 POULTRY, Dressing - Marketing - Canning, Cooking, and B-177 Freezing poultry. For Home Use.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q I am planning to switch schools under the GI Bill, without changing my course. My new school is located in another part of the country and I'll have to take time off in order to transfer. Will this interruption be permitted, under VA regulations?

A Yes, provided you file an application for a change of school with VA. You must, however, start your course in the new school within a reasonable period of time.

Q May I use a GI loan to buy residential property containing more than one family unit? I plan to live in one of the apartments.

A Yes, but the total number of separate units cannot be more than four, if you are buying it alone.

Q I am a World War II veteran, back on active duty. I expect to get out sometime in 1952. Will I still be able to take advantage of my GI loan privilege based on my World War II service?

A Yes. You'll have plenty of time to obtain a GI loan, for the deadline for most veterans does not come until July 25, 1957. Q I want to change the beneficiary of my National Service Life Insurance policy. How do I go about it?

A You must notify the VA district Office that handles your insurance account, preferably on a form that may be obtained at any VA office. If you don't have such a form, any written notice will do, so long as you sign it and include enough information so that VA can identify your account.

RELIGIOUS LIES: "But in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men... Every plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up. Let them alone; they be blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch." (Matt. 15:7-14) Paul declares that if any man should preach any gospel other than that which had been preached by the apostles "let him be accursed." (Gal. 1:8,9) He also says that those who believe a lie shall be damned." (2 Thess. 2:10-12.)

A FEW LIES TAUGHT TODAY

Once in Grace Always in Grace—Paul says "Wherefore, let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." (1 Cor. 10:12) Peter further warns "beware lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked fall from your own steadfastness." (2 Peter 3:17). Notice Paul again "And bring it unto subjection: lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway." (1 Cor. 9:27) The idea taught that a man cannot fall is a lie.

Baptism not essential to salvation—What did Peter say "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." (Acts 2:38). What was Paul told to do for remission of his sins. (Acts 22:16) What did Peter say saved us? (1 Peter 3:21). Again those who say baptism is not essential LIE. (more to follow)

MENU MAGIC

MEXICAN FRUIT PUDDING

They call this unusual dessert "Mexican fruit pudding"—but it tastes equally good in Iowa or North Carolina. Combining a variety of delicious spices with luscious fruits, this dish from south of the border makes a dessert that will be greeted with enthusiasm by your family.

Mexican Fruit Pudding

3 cups water
1 cup brown sugar
2 inches stick cinnamon
2 whole cloves
8 slices toast
2 tablespoons margarine
1 banana, sliced
1 tart apple, sliced
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped peanuts
1 three-ounce package cream cheese, cubed
1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Place water, brown sugar, cinnamon, and cloves in a sauce pan and cook until syrupy. Spread toast with margarine and cut into half-inch cubes. Mix together bananas, apple, raisins, peanuts, cream cheese, and cubed toast. Margarine a two-quart casserole generously. Fill with fruit mixture. Remove stick cinnamon and cloves from syrup. Add almond extract and pour syrup over pudding. Cover and bake in a 350 degree oven 30-35 minutes. Serve hot or cold with thick cream, or top with whipped cream. This recipe makes six servings.
