Thieu Frowns On Proposal

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu declared tonight no one has the right to impose a peace settlement on South Vietnam, but added that a cease-fire may be declared soon.

Thieu said his country will accept the cease-fire only if it covers all Indochina under international supervision. He rejected the idea of a tripartite or coalition government.

"If a cease-fire occurs before or after the U.S. elections, we will stand pat on our firm position," Thieu said.

By declaring his opposition to an imposed peace agreement, Thieu indicated sharp disagreement in discussions with the United States on an Indochina settlement.

In a television and radio address, Thieu condemned Communist peace proposals as "dark schemes aimed at taking over Vietnam."

Thieu spoke out after five days of talks with Henry A. Kissinger, who is now back in Washington.

Kissinger and the U.S. Embassy had said the talks "made progress."

"If a cease-fire occurs, we will always respect it, but the Communists will not," Thieu said. "We respect peace, a cease-fire."

He coupled this with an appeal to all political and religious groups to participate with the Saigon government in case a cease-fire should occur.

His speech was essentially a reiteration of South Vietnam's long-standing position on an Indochina peace settlement. Thieu said he would not be forced into an agreement he did not want.

"No one has the right to sign any agreement, any cease-fire pact or peace pact for the South Vietnamese. Only the South Vietnamese can do it for themselves," he said.

The remark appeared aimed at the United States but Thieu said his discussions with Kissinger had been "very useful and clear discussions."

Hunting Dog Shoots Man

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. (AP) — In a near fatal variation on the old dog-bites-man, man-bites-dog theme, an elderly hunter has been hospitalized in good condition after being shot by a hunting dog.

Saratoga County sheriff's deputies said Charles R. Brown, 69, of Westminster, Md., was nearing the end of a day in the field with some companions when one of the hunters laid his shotgun on the ground to retrieve a bird.

As the man went to pick up the bird, his excited dog jumped on the gun, discharging it. Brown was hit in the lower right leg.

He was brought to Schenectady's Ellis Hospital after the mishap Saturday and was listed in good condition Monday night.

Bartending Caper Not Worth Effort

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If the burglars who broke into the International School of Bartending were expecting a high time, they were disappointed.

The place was full of liquor bottles — containing colored water — and money — "play" money used in training.

The disgruntled burglars smashed about 60 bottles and scattered the money over the floor before leaving, investigators reported Monday. Officers said the burglars did escape with about $2,000 worth of office and movie equipment.

Topless Dancers Fight Ordinance

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Fifty topless dancers performed Monday night to raise money for a lawsuit against a city ordinance banning such dancing. The ordinance goes into effect Nov. 1.

They performed singly and in groups at one of the 14 topless nightclubs in town. A standing room-only crowd of 600 paid $3 apiece. A second such Topless Review is planned next Monday.

The ordinance passed last week will make topless entertainment in Charlotte a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of up to $50 and 30 days in jail. Owners of clubs say they plan to file suit against the ordinance this week.

ITT Controvery Caused Move?

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — An assistant to columnist Jack Anderson says Republicans have told him the party moved its national convention from here to Miami Beach because of the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. controversy.

Brit Hume told students at the University of San Deigo Monday that a number of unidentified Republicans in Washington, D.C., told him embarrassment over a campaign contribution by ITT was the reason for the move, which was attributed publicly to disagreements over facilities and rent.

Court Refuses To Hear Texas Felons' Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided Supreme Court today refused to hear the appeal of three prison inmates who said solitary confinement as administered in Texas represents cruel and unusual punishment.

A class action suit-represent all Texas prisoners—said feeding inmates bread and water for up to 15 days in a pitch black cell violates the 8th amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

Three liberal justices, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall, voted to hear the case.

DISSENT

A strongly-worded dissent written by Douglas said Texas prison conditions were considered inhumane when Charles Dickens lived in England.

"If we are to believe the facts as stated by petitioner . . . the prisoner placed in solitary confinement finds himself in a shockingly primitive condition."

The suit, turned down by a 6-3 vote, also cites Texas prison officials for not providing adequate clothing or bedding for prisoners in solitary confinement.

Some of the prisoners, the suit said, were placed in solitary confinement for minor violations of prison rules like laziness or using vulgar language.

Lawyers for three inmates Ronald Novak, Fred Cruz and Calvin Sellars, filed the suit on behalf of all 16,000 prisoners in the Texas prison system. Novak has since died, Cruz has been released and Sellars is still imprisoned.

Texas prison officials claim they had begun feeding solitary confinement prisoners three hot meals a day and let a little light into their cells while the case was winding its way through lower federal courts.

The reforms make it unnecessary for the high court to hear the case, they argued.

The U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans ruled that solitary confinement in Texas prisons was not cruel and unusual when compared with some other prison systems. It said they are given generally adequate treatment, including the opportunity to keep clean.

Marches, Boycotts Talked By Blacks

DALLAS (AP) — Further demonstrations and a citywide boycott were threatened today by Dallas blacks after the third recent police shooting of a black man.

About 150 Negroes massed on the city hall steps Monday night, hours after Claude Williams, 23, was wounded seriously during what police said was an attempt to serve a search warrant on suspected drug dealers.

Williams was wounded in the head and was taken to Parkland Hospital. His condition was listed as serious.

This followed the fatal shooting by police Oct. 13 of James Charles Brown, 23 authorities said he grabbed a policeman's gun and aimed it at the officer during an arrest attempt.

Earlier, Napoleon Vinson was killed under similar circumstances, according to police.

SQUARED OFF

The Vinson and Brown deaths prompted a mass demonstration by blacks Saturday who squared off with police in a tense two-hour drama in downtown Dallas. Led by the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the marchers had attempted to parade Brown's body through downtown Dallas on a muledrawn wagon.

After taut discussions between Abernathy and other SCLC leaders and police hierarchy, the demonstrators were permitted to continue to city hall minus Brown's body. The body was taken by ambulance to a funeral home.

Monday night's march developed from a rally of about 300 blacks at Mt. Olivet Lutheran Church during which time Williams was shot near the scene of the Brown killing.

Led by George Holland, local director of the SCLC, and the Rev. James Owens of Atlanta, national representative of the SCLC, the marchers sang "We Shall Overcome," and chanted "black power" and raised clenched fists as they tropped toward downtown Dallas and city hall.

Men and women and children gathered at the city hall steps while dozens of riot-equipped police stood by a few blocks away.

An ambulance was parked at a discreet distance while a police helicopter hovered overhead. There was no violence, however.

BRUTALITY

"We're sick and tired of racist police brutally killing blacks in the black community," the Rev. Mr. Owens asserted.

He said marches will continue on city hall "until justice is done, hell freezes over and these walls come tumbling down like Jericho."

Oil Properties 44 Pct. Of Roll

Oil properties will pay 44 per cent of 1972 county property taxes and real estate another 39 per cent, a summary submitted to the County Commissioners Court Monday afternoon shows.

The summary was signed for mailing to the state comptroller.

The Court plans for 59 per cent of all receipts to come from property taxes during the coming budget year.

County taxes are assessed at 25 per cent of true market value. The new tax roll indicates the following true market (100 per cent) values:

—Oil and gas mineral rights and oil company personal property together given a $146,897,760 true market value. Mineral rights in Howard County are valued at $110,483,280, and this personal property at $36,414,480 at true value.

—Real estate appraised at $129,504,700 true value.

—Personal property, excluding that owned by oil companies, listed for $21,084,600, about six per cent of the total roll. Included in this figure are merchandise, mobile homes and some individually owned trucks.

—Utility companies, telephone and telegraph lines, pipelines and related items valued at $30,632,520, roughly nine per cent.

—Trucks, railroads and other property with an estimated $2,972,360 value, accounting for less than one per cent.

—And shares of bank stock listed at $3,562,960 making up about one per cent of the roll.

AS END OF CAMPAIGN NEARS

Committees In Red

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Finance Committee to Re-elect the President has spent more than $22.5 million since April and is slightly in the red going into the final two weeks of the presidential campaign, reports filed today show.

The campaign of the Democratic presidential candidate, George McGovern, also is running in the red but by a much heftier margin of about $2.85 million.

The campaign balances are reflected in reports to the General Accounting Office, required under a new federal elections law that went into effect last April 7.

Although due Monday, covering the period Sept. 1 through Oct. 16, some reports apparently were delayed by the Veterans Day holiday and not all are in.

However, the flagship committees for President Nixon — The Finance Committee to Re-elect the President and McGovern for President, Inc. were received on time although only balances and not contributors were available early today for McGovern.

Nixon's Finance Committee reported contributions, loans and transfers from its numerous satellite committees of $20.2 million since April 7. The Nixon people raised more than $10 million in the pre-April 7 period but, saying they would abide by the letter of the law, have declined to disclose where they got it or how they spent it.

The Nixon report lists expenditures since April 7 of $22.5 million. The committee said it had $514,985 in cash on hand as of Oct. 16; it was owed an even $1 million as of that date, and had debts of $1.6 million.

In the period between Sept. 1 and Oct. 16, the report of the committee said, it collected about $9 million and had spent some $9.5 million.

This compares with $8.9 million that the McGovern committee reports raising — and $9.05 million it reports spending in the Sept. 1-Oct. 16 period.

McGovern's top committee reports having raised $13.4 million; says it is short $107,204 cash on hand; it owed $125,027, and has debts of $2.85 million.

Dean Receives 'Dad' Honors

Robert M. Dean did a repeat Saturday on his Tech father title.

Two weeks ago at the Texas Tech University homecoming, his 25th anniversary class awarded him a binocular set for having the most children — three — in Tech.

Saturday, at Dad's Day, he was tied with four others for the honor, but he was named to represent the five Dads in receiving a placque on the field at halftime during the Arizona-Tech game. Other dads with three children currently in Tech were C. L. Osborn, Houston, Mack Saida Jr., Wellington, Jim Sammons, Waxahachie, and Walter L. Schneider, Midland.

Dean is a 1947 graduate of Texas Tech. He is married to the former Betty Nebrig, who was at the time a second-year student in Tech.

Their children, in Tech, are Bobby Dean, a graduate student two months away from his masters in business administration; Nancy Dean, a senior education major in special education; and Susie Dean, a sophomore elementary education major.

STUDYING BLUEPRINTS — Leon Taylor, for whom the high school students building trades class constructed a home last school year, explains the blueprints to Roy Watkins, board president, with Jerry Woods and E. Y. Buckner, building and electrical instructors, looking on.

Board Views House Project

School board members toured the Leon Taylor home at 2807 Navajo Monday afternoon as a part of its regular board meeting time.

The home was constructed last school year by the building trades students at Big Spring High School as a class project. Some 22 boys worked on the three-bedroom brick home.

The 21 students in this year's class have just poured the foundation on the Bruce Griffith home, which they are constructing.

This is the 10th year of the program here and the Taylor home was the fifth built under the guidance of Jerry Woods, instructor. The home owners pay all the materials costs.

E. Y. Buckner heads the electric classes and since this home was all electric, it also required the help of his students. The home even includes a central vacuum system with outlets in the various rooms to which a vacumn cleaner hose can be attached.

Taylor is the metal crafts teacher at the high school and the home reflects his skills. The front windows feature handmade grillwork, and just inside the entranceway is a grillwork table made by Taylor. Similarly, a rough hewn board with grillwork legs is the buffet and the dinette table has grillwork legs and a marble top.

The fireplace also features a grillwork front. Spanish decor is used to accent the theme throughout the home.

Roy Watkins, speaking for the board, commended the instructors on the work done by the students on the Taylor home. "It's amazing that high school students can turn out this kind of product," he stated.

School Board Approves Trip For Meistersingers

The Big Spring Independent school board voted to approve the Meistersingers trip to Europe this summer and limited the school financial assistance to the registration fee only, which totals $2,920.

This was following an appeal by the high school choir director, Jack Bowers and a room filled with choir boosters.

The total cost for sending their choir on the trip to Vienna, Austria; Prague, Czechoslovakia and Budapest, Hungary will be over $51,000.

The parents have met and agreed to contribute all they can to their respective children. This will total close to $20,600. The choir will attempt to raise the balance in the community.

The choir was one of 19 in the United States to be invited to the festival to represent America. Big Spring was the 10th choir to be accepted of the 19. They were selected from 146 tapes from choirs invited to submit examples because of outstanding records.

Bowers said he was told by the director that they considered the tape from the Big Spring group one of the top three.

An equal number of choirs will be entered from Europe for the worldwide competition.

During the trip, which will be from June 28-July 12, the choir will make one concert appearance in each of the itinerary cities. Vienna is considered the birthplace of classical music.

The Clear Lake choir at Houston and the Carlsbad, N.M. choir, two of the groups selected, may share a plane over with the Big Spring choir. Plans are being made in this direction, according to Bowers.

Board members present included Roy Watkins, Jim Bill Little, Ralph McLaughlin, Dan Wilkins, and Jerry Jenkins. Thomas Fetters and Delnor Poss were out of town.

Deceptive Policy Ads Studied By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wave of criticism against mail-order hospital insurance has led to a proposed nationwide crackdown on alleged deceptive advertising of policies.

The National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) has ordered the drafting of new advertising regulations for adoption by state regulators. They are designed to meet complaints that many persons, the poor and elderly in particular, have been misled in buying the policies designed to supplement basic hospital insurance with extra cash.

The insurance companies involved deny any intention to deceive in their advertising.

Insurance departments in 19 states already have instituted or proposed curbs of varying degree on companies selling supplemental health insurance through the mail. Sanctions range from individual suspensions and fines to across-the-board advertising restrictions affecting all companies.

WARNING

Joe B. Hunt, the Oklahoma insurance commissioner, told state citizens recently to "beware of buying two-bit mail-order insurance."

Karl Herrmann, the Washington commissioner, halted the advertising of three leading companies for a time this year, saying: "There is too much false, misleading and deceptive advertising to purchase 'Mickey Mouse' policies in this state.

"There ought to be a basic threshold to prevent the sale of policies with benefits so low and so remote they are of no value," he said.

The three companies said they resolved their Washington difficulties within a few days or weeks and are again doing business in the state.

They are Union Fidelity Life Insurance of Philadelphia, Bankers Life and Casualty of Chicago, and National Liberty Corp. of Valley Forge, Pa., which sells its National Home health plans through two subsidiaries.

The hospitalization policies under fire typically offer benefits of $15 to $40 a day at a cost of between $50 and $100 a year. By comparison, hospitalization charges are approaching $100 a day.

Court Declines Penalty Waiver

County Commissioners Court said "no" Monday to a request that it erase penalty and interest charged against the homestead of an elderly woman.

Claiming hardship, Wayne Allen, a retired man asked the court to take this action so he and his siblings could pay his mother's future funeral expenses.

The court contended it did not have the power to take such action. Obviously upset, Allen asked why the court would not do this for his family when Cosden had been given a tax break.

The Big Spring Independent School District adjusted Cosden's current tax assessment, not the county, members of the court replied.

"If the county attorney tells me I can't do it (for Allen), I sure ain't gonna do it," Judge Mitchell said. Penalty and interest may not be waived, County Attorney Bill Eyssen said.

Other business included:

—Discussing a $1,123 insurance premium from Stripling-Mancill Insurance Agency, Big Spring. Mitchell said neither he nor Mrs. Virginia Black county auditor, had authorized coverage on additional equipment.

—Signing a document authorizing the Texas District and County Retirement System to increase the deposit rate from five to seven per cent as approved earlier.

—Hearing Mitchell appoint Jack Buchanan and Bill Bennett, with Sheriff A. N. Standard and W. D. Berry, civil defense director, to investigate purchasing a vehicle for cross-country driving. Driving over rough terrain, like in the Silver Heel area, has damaged cars in the past, Standard said. Through the Texas Surplus Property Agency, Standard believed a vehicle could be obtained for minimal costs.

—Voted to take the lowest of three bids on a desk and chair for the county clerk's Vocational Office Education student deputy. Stafford-Lowden of Fort Worth bid $258.53; West Texas Office Supply of Midland, $326.46; and McMillan Printing and Office Supply of Big Spring, $279.75. Whether freight was included in the Fort Worth firm's bid couldnot be determined immediately.

No special occasion brought the posse members together for the ride and a 6 p.m. feed, just fellowship, food and dominoes, Cherry said.

Guests at the barbecued turkey table included four persons from Stanton and four from Knott.

Sees No Current Savings In Roll Consolidation

Contracting to have the city to prepare the county tax roll would result in no county savings, Mrs. Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector told the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday afternoon.

Instead, Howard County would need to rent a key punch machine for $1,770 yearly should it contract for city computer service. She said no personnel reduction could result.

Commissioner William B. Crooker Jr. said it was hard for him to understand why "no labor saving was involved" in consolidation.

Howard County has a $30,000 computer, purchased seven years ago for tax roll preparation. When this and other equipment needs to be replaced, then savings might result from such city-county consolidation, Mrs. Bednar said.

"In future years, when we have to replace all this equipment — yes," Mrs. Bednar said of contracting the city to prepare the roll.

Presently, yearly maintenance contracts plus $340 for a new addressograph lister totals approximately the same amount ($2 500) that the city wants annually for tax roll preparation, Mrs. Bednar said.

If the state legislature keeps responsibility for voter registration in the county tax office, Mrs. Bednar indicated she would not oppose having the city contracted for voter registration computer service.

Speaking on the subject of consolidation, Mrs. Bednar suggested the City and Big Spring school system allow her office to mail their tax statements along with county, junior college and state statements. Tax payers could mail three separate checks to the county for distribution.

Postage for mailing statements runs about $1,000 yearly for the county, she said.

The county's addressograph is "just great", Mrs. Bednar reported, but there have been "some complaints about the noise." So the court discussed the possibility of obtaining the city addressograph.

WINNER AT STATE FAIR — Gary Webb, 13, poses here with his father, Wayne Webb, when Gary's polled Hereford won the reserve championship of its division at the State Fair of Texas. This was the first year for Gary to feed a steer as part of his work with the Flower Grove 4-H Club in Martin County, which he heads. He also feeds sheep and pigs. His champion steer brought him 75 cents a pound on auction. Gary plans to keep going with his feeding projects.

Rev. Price Will Speak

Lewis C. Price, 42, who had his conversion experience while reading a Gideon Bible in a hotel room here nearly 20 years ago, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Baptist Temple.

The Rev. James Puckett, pastor, invited others as well as the church membership to hear his testimony.

The Rev. Price is a graduate of Odessa High, worked five years as a derrick man and roughneck in the oilfields until 1949, then spent five years as a lineman and cable splicer for Southwestern Bell Telephone.

He served two years in the U. S. Army in the guided missile division, 1951-53, and it was after his seperation from service that he surrendered his life to Christ here, then was licensed July 28, 1954 by Westside Baptist Church. He graduated from Hardin-Simmons University and Southwestern Baptist Seminary, pastored churches in Chicota, Elbert, Aspermont and Wichita Falls, and in Lansing, Ill. and Leedey, Okla. Crops May Face Problems From Prolonged Rain

Howard County last week soaked up rain totals ranging from two and one-half to six inches leaving ranchers "tickled" and cotton farmers not too happy.

Slowing down cotton maturation is bad in the shank of the autumn with so much late cotton, Bruce Griffith, county agent, said.

As soon as fields dry, grain sorghum cutting will begin. Griffith said the maize harvest may continue until the first of 1973. An estimated 12,000 acres of sorghum was planted. Excessive moisture may be a problem.

Because of the rains' slowness, stock ponds did not rise as much as they had with September showers, but Griffith did not know any ponds that were dry.

Newest Thing Out West; Do-It-Yourself Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians apparently are turning in increasing numbers to a new do-it-yourself project: divorce.

While statewide figures are not available, San Diego County officials estimate that 15 per cent of the approximately 1,000 divorce filings each month are made without a lawyer.

In Los Angeles County, about 7.8 per cent of the filings this year have been "pro per" — without a lawyer. Four years ago only four persons in a thousand filed without legal representation.

The attraction apparently is money. Lawyers may charge $350 or more for handling a simple divorce. Without an attorney the cost is just filing fees — $44 in Los Angeles, for example.

Do-it-yourselfism was made possible by the Family Law Act of 1970, which changed "divorce" to "dissolution" and eliminated the need to prove fault. If one partner says irreconcilable differences exist, dissolution is simply pro forma.

A woman who said her husband deserted her after 26 days of marriage recently recalled her first steps toward dissolution: "I picked up legal papers from the county clerk for 56 cents, and they recommended I read what to do next in the law library."

Some law librarians report that the most thumbed book in the house is "How to Do Your Own Divorce in California," by Berkeley lawyer Charles Sherman. He advises, "This book is not written to replace an attorney but to help you decide whether you need one."

Vicky Williams, a Los Angeles-area housewife who is divorcing her husband pro per after more than 20 years, says, "I would recommend do-it-yourself divorces only to couples who have no small children and who can settle community property in a friendly manner." Some lawyers and judges are more wary.

"Pro per divorces are like a pain in the side," says William P. Hogoboom, presiding judge of the Los Angeles County family law court. "Only an expert can tell whether it can be treated with an aspirin or by surgery . . . ."

Aaron Moss, chairman of the San Fernando Valley Law Association, says that without help laymen may make costly errors in property division.

In addition to various books on filing for dissolution, there are complete kits selling for about $75.

One person who sells them says the kits may even have a use the makers don't intend:

"(Spouses) either want to figure out how they can stop a divorce action started by their spouse, or they buy the kit to scare their husband or wife into thinking a divorce is contemplated."

New-Born Will Be Named For Strom

GREENWOOD, S.C. (AP) — Nancy Thurmond says she and her husband, Sen. J. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., are naming their new-born son J. Strom Thurmond Jr.

"While he is little," Mrs. Thurmond said recently at the Self Memorial Hospital, "We will call him J. Strom, and then when he grows up, he can drop the J."

The boy, born Wednesday, is the second child for the Thurmonds. Their first, now 1½, is Nancy Moore Thurmond.

Career In Opera Looms For Edie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What started as a lark might turn into an opera career for Edie Adams, more widely known as a portrayer of sexy dames and seller of cigars.

Earlier this month, the blonde actress completed four performances in the lead role of Offenbach's "La Perichole" in a fully staged production by the Seattle Opera Company. She astonished audiences and critics alike with her full, rich soprano.

Back at her home in the Beverly Hills, Calif., Miss Adams seemed pleased with the experience — and with the offers that are beginning to come for appearances with symphony orchestras across the country.

"Are they ready for me?" she mused. "I know that I am ready, musically. But it might be too much of a shock for people to hear an operatic voice coming out of my face."

The Seattle engagement happened by accident, she said. Two years ago, she appeared on a television talk show in Seattle with Glynn Ross, "an amazing man who runs opera in Seattle and makes it pay off; the company has no deficit."

Edie mentioned that she sang opera as well as popular songs. Rose heard her sing at a gay 90s night at the Hollywood Bowl and signed her up for "La Perichole."

"It was a noncancellable contract, and I figured I could block out the time for it," she said. "Wouldn't you know — when the date finally arrived, I had an offer to play Las Vegas for the biggest money I ever got!"

It was worth it, she remarked to "revive a voice that had been in mothballs for 15 years."

As a youngster in New York, she had studied classical singing at the Juilliard School of Music and took private lessons from such divas as Helen Jepson, Dusolina Gianinni and Maria Kurenko. But a Broadway role as the sister Eileen in "Wonderful Town" started her career of playing "Sexy, dumb-smart blondes."

Governments May Dictate Family Sizes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A family planning expert from Bombay, India, predicts future governments will tell people how many children they can have if man does not learn to control his worst enemy—the population explosion.

Dr. Datta N. Pai says the relentless increase in the world's population is the most serious problem facing humanity.

"It's a world for survival—nothing less, nothing more," he said in an interview Monday.

Dr. Pai is so convinced of the impending crisis that he has sought out Bombay's masses in the railway stations to distribute birth control information, and he has sent mobile vasectomy clinics to that city's neighborhoods.

He said he himself has undergone a vasectomy and that under his program, about 200 of the male sterilization operations are performed daily in Bombay.

The world's population is now four billion, Dr. Pai said, and if no significant steps are taken, it will double in just 28 years. "I don't know how we will support it," he said.

If man loses his battle against the population explosion, the day will come when governments will set quotas on the number of children a couple can have, he said.

The handsome, energetic physician said there is still time to try alternative measures — as inventives.

In Bombay, he said, his government-financed program offers the equivalent of $3 to a man who volunteers to have a vasectomy. "Promoters," who round up vasectomy patients, receive the equivalent of $1.50 per man, he said.

Here to address the annual meeting of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Dr. Pai said "disincentives" could be introduced if an incentive program fails.

TEEN FORUM

LOVE ON A TRACTOR?

(Q.) When this boy goes by on his tractor he stares at my house. Does that mean he loves me, or not?

I love him, but I guess he doesn't love me. I am quite tall and sort of chubby. I sort of followed him around until his sister began to notice it and made fun of me.

I am only a year younger than he is, but am five grades behind him (I failed three times). He graduated last spring and I am only in the seventh grade. He has never asked me out or anything, but he has always seemed friendly to me. — Wondering in Oklahoma.

(A.) Anyone who passes a farmhouse at low speed — either walking or riding a bike or driving a farm machine — is likely to look at it. I think you have more important things to concentrate on than this young man who has never been anything other than friendly to you.

You should concentrate on keeping your weight under control and on catching up in school. Talk to your counselor or your school principal about the possibility of tutoring or summer school or concentrated courses.

And at school look around you for boys you see close up every day — not riding past your house on a tractor.

NO KISS: (Q.) I have been going with Pat for three months. A week ago I tried to kiss her but she wouldn't let me.

I talked to her friends about this and they said she liked me. But I am not so sure. This week she is acting like she doesn't like me. — Doubtful in Delaware.

(A.) You talked to the wrong people about why Pat didn't want to kiss you. You should have talked to Pat herself about it.

Those "friends" no doubt told her what you had said and it made her angry. A girl has a right to be angry when a boy talks in public about something personal between them.

Tell her you made a mistake. Ask her to forgive you. Then ask her why she refused to kiss you.

Havoc Is Created By Charging Bull

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — A California highway patrolman brought to the scene by calls from frightened motorists ended up chasing an 800-pound black bull off Interstate 5 last week.

The bull had made his way onto the freeway in the Siskiyou Mountains in Northern California and scattered oncoming cars and trucks by charging northward down the southbound lanes.

The California Highway Patrol said one motorist claimed the bull tried to "crunch" him and a truck driver said the bull attempted to butt his truck off the highway.

URGES VOTE FOR AMENDMENT 7

'Happiness Is Equality' Says AAUW Speaker

"Amendment 7 applies to you," said Mrs. William C. Pool, state division president of American Association of University Women, when she spoke here Saturday during an AAUW orientation coffee at Holiday Inn.

"Happiness is equality, whether black, white, brown, Protestant, Catholic or Jew," she continued. "If you're a Texan — man, woman, boy or girl, in kindergarten, at college, employed or on Social Security, Amendment 7 is your only constitutional guarantee of full legal equality.

"Amendment 7 is your insurance that all present discriminatory laws will be repealed, and at no time in the future will any law be passed that discriminates against any citizen in this state."

Mrs. Pool, who briefly traced the history of AAUW, said its programs consist of four areas of interest: education, international relations, the community and cultural interests.

"Among our continuing interests are early childhood and continuing education, assistance for the aging, mental health, support of the United Nations, liberalization of foreign trade, participation in the arts and support for community and state arts councils and museums," she said.

LEGISLATION

The AAUW also has a federal legislation program. Major areas in the 1971-73 program relate to individual rights, educational and foreign policy, community policy on social and economic issues and cultural policy.

Mrs. Pool said special "focus" for this biennium is the institutional crisis represented by "the breakdown in public confidence in all our institutions." Among measures which AAUW has supported are the broadening of equal pay for equal work, legislation to include professional and educational personnel, consumer protection laws, environmental improvement and enforcement measures, civil rights guarantees, welfare reform, liberal foreign trade laws, international technical assistance, education at all levels (including vocational education), support of public housing, voting rights, Clean Water Act, HEW appropriations and the poverty program.

RESOLUTIONS

The speaker noted that many of the AAUW convention-adopted resolutions center on issues that have provoked national debate in recent years. They include peace and war, population stabilization, women's rights and the plight of migrant workers. Also, admission of the People's Republic of China to the United Nations, establishing a permanent peace-keeping force, and exclusive use of the seabed for peaceful purposes, along with an international ban on underwater testing of nuclear weapons. These are among the 17 resolutions adopted in 1971 by AAUW.

Mrs. Pool noted that AAUW had its beginning in 1882 as the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, merging with the Southern Association of College Women in 1921. There are now 1,672 branches. The total membership is 170,334. Its international grant program and education fund has enabled many women in the United States and foreign countries to continue their education.

Locally, the day study group will meet Nov. 6 for the program "I'm OK — You're OK!"

The night study group will meet Nov. 6 at the home of Mrs. James R. Cave, 1517 Vines, to study the coming elections.

Spring Styles Shown Before Winter Snow

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The soft spring dress is the best thing on the ticket at the Geoffrey Beene boutique collection.

For evening, weed through some old-looking cygaline ruffles, stiff organzas and the neck ruffles of a red and white polka dot creation.

Don't stop until you come to a group of short chiffons. Some are pastel, with dropped waists and shoulders. Others are printed with pleated skirts. If the short evening dress is indeed coming back, this is a good solution.

These look better than some dressy pants suits offered. They are newer than the long swirling print dresses shown.

They even outshine a couple of very pretty white shirt waists, shown full length, at the Monday presenatation.

For day, riffle through the typical famous Beene styles: the crisp princess line dress and the useful dark blue with white collar.

Push on to a series of pastel jerseys, cut straight and narrow, often with matching turbans. Try pink or yellow or beige. They look great — neat, grown up and put-together.

These two groups of dresses, for day and evening are top choice at Beene. However, there are plenty of good chemise styles and some spanking fresh, checked daytime suits.

The sashed look predominates in coats and jackets, bringing more softness to the tailored trend — which is loosening up a bit for spring.

For women who worry about their cleaning bills, there are enough dark blue outfits and with white touches to go around.

This is the only drawback to the popular pale tones for spring.

The cleaning bills can be monstrous. One speck of spaghetti sauce is all it takes.

Prices of the collection run from $110 to $350. And the dress is the more effective offering from Beene.

Miss Gayle Coleman Is Honored With Shower

Miss Gayle Coleman, future bride of Howard Butts, was the honoree Sunday at a bridal shower held in Abilene at the home of Miss Vicki Lale.

Cohostesses were Miss Tricia Owens, Miss Judie Yates, Miss Jan Levy, Mrs. David Ballard, Mrs. Ron Lauderback and Miss Marja Shahan. Assisting was Miss Lale's mother, Mrs. Sammye Lale.

Receiving guests with her was her mother. Mrs. Carl Coleman of Big Spring, the honoree was attired in a floor-length dress of pink, green and navy print with empire styling and a ruffle accenting the V-neckline. The honoree's sister, Mrs. Gene Wilson and Mrs. Kenneth Lane, attended from Big Spring, and another out-of-town guest was Miss Carol Leece of Lubbock.

The refreshment table was laid with a lace-edged linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of fall flowers in which was based a large gold candle. The flowers were later presented to Miss Coleman. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

The couple plans to be married Nov. 11 at the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ. She is a student at Abilene Christian College where he is currently doing graduate work.

Bride-Elect Honored In Ackerly

Miss Shara Dee Hambrick, bride-elect of Larry Cohorn of Lamesa, was honored with a lingerie shower Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. C. Ingram, Ackerly. Mrs. Randy Hambrick of Lubbock assisted her mother as cohostess.

The serving table was covered with a blue linen cloth and overlaid with white lace. Centering the table was a black wrought-iron candelabra holding blue tapers interspersed with sweet peas and grapes. Crystal and silver appointments were used, and the cake was shaped like a wedding bell.

The honoree greeted guests with her mother, Mrs. Bill Hambrick, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. A. B. Cohorn of Lamesa. Guests attended from Lubbock, Seminole, Big Spring, Lamesa, and Ackerly.

Miss Hambrick and Cohorn will be married Dec. 29 at the First Baptist Church, Ackerly.

A LOVELIER YOU

Soft Words Help In Friendly Persuasion

By MARY SUE MILLER

As the campaigns wax hot, so do the living room discussions. Voices rise to a shout, fists thump tables.

Yet no one was ever won oever by an angry diatribe — on any subject. This goes double when the speaker is a woman. Even a militant Ms. Lib. knows she is not at her winning best when she's mad.

The feminine persuaders of this world work on a low wavelength. When tackling a supercharged subject like politics, it is impossible to get ideas across with heated words. Anger destroys your ability to judge what anybody says, including yourself. Befuddled, you lose the debate to females as well as males.

Of course, one must be informed to win through. It is better to keep quiet than spout a lot of misinformation. In a country where the majority wins, all of us had best understand the issues.

Be careful reading and sifting of your newspaper's editorials, by listening to both sides on TV and radio you gather ammunition to back up your ideas. You may not sway a vote, but your hook will not lack bait.

When the going gets rough, bear up. Remember the candidate, thinking he had lost, went to bed and alseep only to wake up in the morning as Mr. President. There's many a slip. Lady, keep your cool!

The event is sponsored by the PTA.

You're looking at one of the nice things about an electric dryer.

Drying a wet teddy bear, or other stuffed toys labeled "washable," is just one of many things you can do with a flameless electric dryer.

There are plenty of others.

Like dusting draperies.

Airing bed covers.

Fluffing pillows.

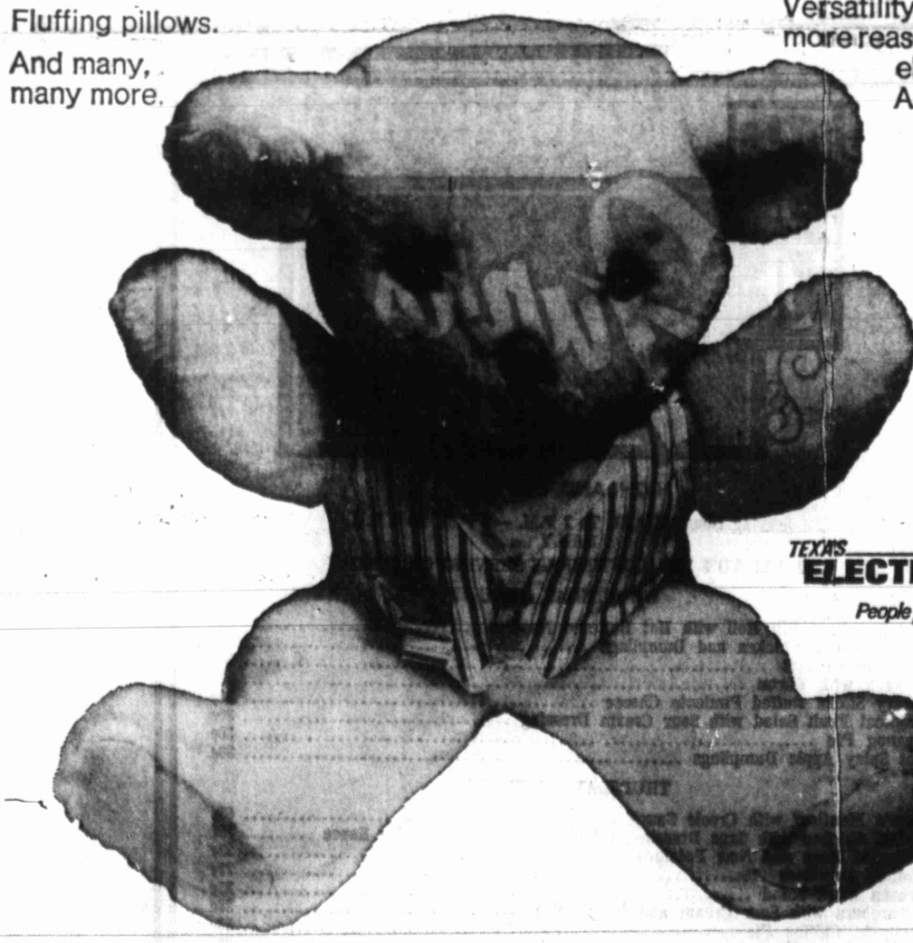

And many, many more.

Your instruction booklet is your best guide to the many unique capabilities of your electric dryer. Read it carefully and file for ready reference.

One of the big advantages of electric dryers is that you can get control features which automatically determine the temperature and drying time needed for various fabrics.

This fabric selector is particularly helpful in this modern age of care-free polyesters and other permanent press fabrics.

Versatility is just one more reason why flameless electric dryers are America's favorite.

Hair Puller

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What could cause a child of 9 to pull hair out of her head in bunches until she is completely bald? This started after a death in the family (grandmother).

Could this be handled by punishing the girl, which is happening or should help be some other way? What could be the reasons? — E. F.

This is an emotional reaction, and it would appear that the death of the grandmother was the shock that started it.

It may not be loss of the grandmother that is the sole motive. The child may really fear that the loss of someone closer — a parent — may be coming next.

So, of course, punishment is not the way to help her stop the hair-pulling habit. It only makes the little girl's problems that much more difficult for her.

Some hyperactive youngsters also resort to this hair-pulling. Can it be that this child is, to some degree, hyperactive? If so, that means she requires even more help.

If the parents of the girl will talk to their family doctor, maybe with some cooperation they can find out what is motivating her. It's worth a try. If it doesn't help, a child psychologist or psychiatrist ought to be consulted.

She isn't pulling her hair out because of wickedness or meanness. She does it because something is bothering and worrying her.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you have any booklets on bladder infection, burning of the bladder, etc.? I have had these attacks off and on for years but lately every month or two.

What can I do to prevent them? Is it brought on by diet? I've had antibiotics from the doctor, and have been advised to take lemon juice, also soda water. — Mrs. E. R.

Yes, a booklet, "Your Kidneys: Facts You Need to Know." For obvious reasons, I included urinary bladder problems in the same booklet. Kidney and bladder complaints often, although not necessarily always, are related. Send 25 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy.

In your case, you evidently have a chronic infection that flares up. I doubt that diet has anything to do with it, but the fact that the flare-ups are becoming more frequent indicates the need of more vigorous treatment, and quite likely by means of antibiotics. Laboratory tests of the type of infection may be very helpful in choosing the appropriate medications.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain what "Gram-negative" is. What does it come from? How is it treated? Does it cause any permanent incapacitation? Is it a diet deficiency? — J.H.R.

Been peeking at a lab report, haven't you?

Gram-negative is a technical term meaning that certain bacteria and white blood cells do not retain a stain used when examining them under the microscope, in a technique called "Gram's method of staining."

It can give the doctor some guidance as to what types of organism he is dealing with, but whether a germ is Gram positive or Gram negative has nothing to do with diet.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dawson Entries Among Winners

LAMESA (SC) — Gayle Griffin, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monte Griffin of Punkin Center, won first in the 'at-home-wear" category in the District "Sew-It-With-Cotton" contest in Lubbock Saturday.

Mrs. J. W. Dennis of Dawson County won first in the "sports" category and third in the "fashion-time" category.

The Singer Co. gave first-place winners a sewing machine in a walnut cabinet. Mrs. Dennis was presented a $50 gift certificate also for the third place ranking.

Investigators Wouldn't Act On Jackson Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., says federal investigators failed to act on his report that bogus campaign letters accused him of illicit sexual affairs.

The letters, according to Jackson and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, made the same accusations against Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

The letters reportedly were circulated during the Democratic presidential primary in Florida and were on stationery under a "Citizens for Muskie" letterhead.

Muskie, who has disclaimed the letters, said they were an example of a Republican-inspired effort to sabotage his campaign. He said they damaged his fellow senators and, because they were represented as coming from him, damaged him as well.

Muskie, Humphrey and Jackson were candidates for the Democratic nomination for president.

"Obviously it was a spurious letter," said Jackson's press secretary, Bryan Corcoran.

Jackson said a complaint about the letters had been hand-delivered to the U.S. attorney's office in Tampa, Fla., on March 13—the day before the Florida primary.

U.S. Atty. John Briggs of Jacksonville, Fla., said Monday he knew nothing about the campaign letter until he read of it in a newspaper account.

He confirmed that an assistant U.S. attorney had been given the campaign material.

One-Way Thrill

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I'm foolish, but I have a problem that is driving me up a wall.

Last summer I sold kisses at a carnival kissing booth to raise money for a local charity.

It was all in fun, and I was doing real well until suddenly I was kissed like I have never been kissed before! Bells rang, birds sang and all the rest of it. I never experienced anything like it in my life. (I should have paid HIM!)

He wasn't much to look at, but wow, could that man kiss! I found out his name and address from a fellow worker at the fair, and wouldn't you know, he's a married man with a family.

I know nothing can ever come of it, but, Abby, is it possible for a man to thrill a woman that much without getting some kind of thrill out of it himself? I mean, do you think HE felt anything? THOROUGHLY KISSED

DEAR KISSED: I hate to destroy your illusions, but it's possible for a thrill to be a one-way proposition. (P.S. Next year, I suggest you sell hot dogs.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Two months ago, my nephews, Bill and Tony (fictitious names), came to me asking me to buy them each a 10-speed bicycle.

I agreed to buy them each a bike if they would agree to cut their hair and keep it short for one year. They agreed, and so did their mother. (They have no father.)

The day the boys cut their hair I bought them the bikes. For three weeks everything was fine. Then Bill (age 13) brought his bike back, saying he wanted to let his hair grow long again because the kids at school laughed at him when he showed up with a short haircut, and he didn't want to go through that again.

I accepted the bike, and thanked him for his honesty. Then his mother called grumbling because I accepted the bike, knowing how much the boy loved it. She said I should have let him keep it because he was honest. (I don't see the boys very often, and I might not have known how he was wearing his hair, had he not told me.)

Tony, the 11-year-old, is sticking to his deal.

Now, other members of the family have said I am hard-hearted and unfeeling for having made such a deal in the first place. I think it was a fair deal, and the boys didn't have to accept it if they didn't want to.

Abby, was I wrong for not rewarding Bill for his honesty — and letting him keep the bike anyway?

WILLING TO LISTEN

DEAR WILLING: Not in my book. A deal is a deal. But I would wonder at the kind of generosity that prompts one to give a gift — with strings attached.

LIMA (AP) — Santa Claus will be absent from TV and radio commercials here this year, replaced by figures more in keeping with "Peruvian reality," the government announced. Peru, being a southern hemisphere nation, has summer in December, making sleighs and North Pole garb seem out of place.

Advisory Commissions

President Nixon is not the first chief executive to make frequent use of the "advisory commission" device, nor will he be the last. But by now, the President must be a bit discouraged at the results he's getting.

The advisory commission is a convenient way for presidents to give the appearance of doing something while in fact doing little. Troublesome problems can be placed in the hands of a special blue-ribbon group for study and recommendations. Then usually when the recommendations are made, the furor which caused appointment of the commission has died away, and the president can either take the advice given or leave it alone in relative comfort.

In recent Washington years, the special commission approach has been taken to study urban violence and riots, the problem of drug abuse, pornography. In the first instance, President Johnson was the recipient of the Kerner Commission report, about which little has been done. The others belong to President Nixon — and in each instance the President has seen fit not merely to ignore the advice obtained, but to publicly espouse a course in opposition to it.

The group examining drug abuse recommended consideration of legalizing the use of marijuana; President Nixon has repudiated the idea. Pornography, said the commission studying it, has not been proven harmful. The President has divorced himself emphatically from that finding.

Now comes the report of the presidential advisory commission to study coastal-zone management, including whether it should be placed in the hands of the Interior Department or another agency. And its conclusions are especially embarrassing.

The report says Interior should not have the job, that it should go instead to the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Agency. Apparently the commission believes interests of fisheries and other ocean industries would be better protected with overview by that agency than by the Interior Department, where offshore oil production is the main concern.

What makes this embarrassing is that bills are presently before Congress to do one or the other — put the bee on Interior or the Oceanographic Agency. And the Nixon administration is on record as strongly favoring the Interior Department approach, now contrary to the recommendation of the President's own special commission.

So the administration is going about burying the report, naturally enough.

One might wonder that there are still experts to be found to man special commissions, but then a lot of people make pretty fair livings out of making surveys and reports which are destined to gather dust, it's part of the game.

No Warranty

A few days ago, George McGovern's campaign workers dispatched a fund-seeking mailing which promised that donors would be considered for addition to the inaugural festivities invitation list, specifically to a sort of poor man's or at least middle-American's version of an inaugural ball.

Then comes a money-pleading from President Nixon's finance committee. It offers a bronze "Official 1972 Presidential Campaign Medal" for all those who make a contribution of $15 or more. The medal, showing the President in profile, looking curly-headed and well-nosed, will make "a family heirloom" the committee suggests.

No doubt both appeals will find their share of takers. Spectacular success, however, awaits the first candidate willing to offer, instead of prizes, a money-back guarantee.

Equal Rights

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

"What is ELR?"

Regrettably, many women (especially married ones who should) do not know.

THE ANSWER is "Equal Legal Rights." And it is vitally important that women of voting age learn the meaning of those words within the next two weeks. Men and women who are well-versed on the subject should share their knowledge with others so that everyone will understand how and why they are voting.

The Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is one of many organizations providing free and accurate information on Equal Legal Rights.

AN EQUAL LEGAL Rights Amendment to the Texas Constitution will appear as NUMBER 7 on the ballot the General Election, Nov. 7, 1972. It will read as follows:

"The Constitutional Amendment to provide the EQUALITY UNDER THE LAW SHALL NOT BE DENIED OR ABRIDGED BECAUSE OF SEX, RACE, COLOR, CREED OR NATIONAL ORIGIN."

THE AMENDMENT will repeal all laws which:

1. Permit the husband alone to designate and declare the homestead;
2. Permit the husband alone to abandon the Homestead, even over the wife's protest;
3. Declare that the wife's domicile is the same as her husband's, even if she does not actually live there;
4. Reduce the penalty of a married woman who violates a criminal law to one-half the usual penalty if her husband persuades her to commit the crime;
5. LIMIT the hours of work for women only and which limit the premium pay they might receive, thereby placing them at a disadvantage in the competitive market;
6. Make the father alone the guardian of minor children as long as the marriage continues (Section 109 (a) Probate Code);
7. Require physically and morally healthful, conditions for working women only, or require legislation extending the same "protection" to men;
8. Deprive the married woman who is not gainfully employed outside the home of control of her half of the community property;
9. PROVIDE that it is justifiable homicide if a man kills his wife's paramour when she is taken in adultry, but it is MURDER if the wife kills under the same circumstances.

The Amendment will prevent the passage in the future of any laws which discriminate against men or women or which discriminate because of race, creed or national orgin.

Equal legal rights is a matter of simple justice. The words, "equality under the law" means just that. The legal privileges men enjoy will be granted to their wives, and both will be bound by the same restrictions.

THE GRANTING of equal legal rights for women is long overdue.

But when it comes, lady, be enough of a woman to accept its responsibilities as well as its rewards.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

Please explain the importance of the Ten Commandments to Christianity. F.D.

The Ten Commandments give a concise statement of God's moral laws and they have never been set aside. They embody man's responsibility to God and his relationship with his fellowmen. God still demands that He alone shall be worshiped; that we worship Him in spirit and not through idols or images; that we honor His name and not profane it; that we remember His day and keep it holy or separated from other days; that we honor our parents; that we do not commit murder or adultery; that we do not steal, bear false witness, nor covet things not belonging to us. Jesus Christ summarized the Ten Commandments thus: loving God with all our beings, and our neighbors as ourselves. We cannot keep these commandments in our own strength, but only through faith in Jesus Christ, trusting in His help to overcome temptations and to live in a way that is pleasing to Him.

The Negotiations

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Although the negotiations for a peace agreement in Vietnam are by no means simple and are being conducted in the utmost secrecy, it is evident that an effort is being made to convince the leaders of South Vietnam that the time has come for very serious consideration of an arrangement which North Vietnam might be ready to accept in order to get a settlement. There are signs of a more flexible attitude on the part of the Communists.

PRESIDENTIAL adviser Henry A. Kissinger and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam have been conferring at length. Mr. Kissinger had engaged in private talks in Paris with North Vietnamese representatives prior to going to Saigon to discuss the whole situation. At the conferences there, he had at his side top military and diplomatic figures.

PRESIDENT THIEU had important South Vietnamese officials present, including the vice president, the premier and foreign minister, and the ambassadors to Washington and Paris. The whole problem was thoroughly analyzed, and it is doubtful that any such extensive talks have been carried on at Saigon before. No public announcement was made of any decision, but the South Vietnamese information ministry said that, in the days before the meeting began, President Thieu had held "wide consultation with legislators, justices of the Supreme Court, and politicians."

IT IS APPARENT that the Saigon leaders are against committing themselves to a "coalition" regime and want to leave the question of the form of government to be decided by the people of South Vietnam. The theory is that, once the fighting is stopped after a cease-fire is arranged, there would be a period during which American prisoners would be released and at the same time the South Vietnamese would have an opportunity to conduct an election in which all factions, including the Communists, could participate.

UP TO NOW, Saigon has consistently opposed any system whereby the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese would be able to exercise control over the South Vietnamese people.

THE UNITED States maintains that its own participation in the war has been simply to assist a nation which wishes to protect its right to an independent government and to be free from aggression.

Irony Of Kerry

William F. Buckley Jr.

Looking around at the local races, one wonders, how contagious is the McGovernite virus? It is true that many Democrats are running for political office without any stated reference to the gentleman who is heading their ticket, but even those who are afraid of the formal association are, some of them, infected by the radical chic of Mr. McGovern. There is no better example than John Kerry, who is running in Massachusetts for the congressional seat vacated by a liberal Republican, Brad Morse.

JOHN KERRY will be remembered as the young aristocrat, veteran of Vietnam, who delivered probably the most irresponsible speech in recent congressional history, wherein he charged people up and down the line, including the President, with war crimes, warmongering, sadism, constitutional espionage, you name it. The speech was given great publicity by Sen. Fulbright, before whose committee it was theatrically delivered, and young Mr. Kerry became an instant lion in the anti-war set. Indeed he brought out a book called The New Soldier, wherein hangs a tale.

The jacket of the book pictures soldiers more or less imitating the posture of the American Marines who raised the flag over Iwo Jima in the famous World War II picture: with this difference, namely that the flag is, in the jacket of Kerry's book, upside down — the universal symbol of disdain for American patriotism.

KERRY'S MOST vigorous opponent for the congressional seat is not the Republican, who is a so-what Republican who served as administrative assistant for the incumbent, but a young Independent, Roger Durkin, who thought it appropriate to advertise the jacket of Kerry's book as indicative of his attitude towards patriotism as conventionally understood. Mr. Durkin had no trouble in getting permission of the publisher, but suddenly that permission was withdrawn, on the grounds — transparently phoney — that Kerry himself had to grant permission. Mr. Durkin, a young, self-made businessman, did not choose to let the matter lie, and printed an ad in the local newspaper with CENSORED blazoned over the area designed to reproduce the jacket.

THE FIGHT goes on. Kerry, a modish Irish Catholic, who favors abortion on demand, is the obvious favorite, though the report is that he is slipping in the polls, and one wonders not why. Mr. Kerry has views on political and related matters, which by contrast, make the positions of George McGovern a geometric triumph.

ON VIETNAM Kerry favors, as one would expect, instant, unilateral, enthusiastic surrender, and amnesty for draft evaders. His economic platform if fed into even the most resilient computer, would bring it to a frazzled end. To begin with, the federal government more or less takes over everything, including unemployment in Kerry's local district.

It is so even with civil liberties — I mean the intellectual chaos. What does Kerry think about the various anti-crime measures passed by the recent Congress? "I am dissatisfied that the present administration and Supreme Court have chosen to dilute established constitutional guarantees."

AND SO ON. Sure, the voters can vote for Roger Durkin, and gently return John Kerry to speech-making about Richard Nixon, War Criminal; or, better still, to school. But they may just go ahead and vote for him. The fashionable people are pulling for him like mad. Otto Preminger sent him a check, and Leonard Bernstein, and of course George Plimpton gave a party for him. Politics can be beautiful.

A Whistling 'Hello'

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might not know if he didn't open his mail:

Before the white man made the handshake the popular method of greeting in America, members of some Indian tribes said hello by blowing in each other's ears.

The U.S. recordholder for making the most handshakes in one day, according to the National Geographic Society, is still President Theodore Roosevelt, who once palmed the palms of 8,513 people at a White House New Year's reception early in this century.

Who, in your opinion, was the greatest man in history? In an international poll of students made a number of years ago, the winner was a surprise — Louis Pasteur. If you were asked this question today, whom would you choose? I'd say the honor probably belongs to some unknown someone fame never touched and history never knew. And, as the old saying suggests, if he was that good, he probably died young.

Quotable notables: "Middle age is that time of life when you are sitting at home on Saturday night and the phone rings, and you hope it isn't for you." — Ring Lardner.

You won't drink to this statistis: One of three suicides is an alcoholic.

A poor investor: The average squirrel is more of an example of successful energy than unerring intelligence. Like the absent-minded professor, it is likely to forget what it has done. It usually doesn't find by spring, even during a hard winter, anywhere near half of the up to 20 bushels of nuts it has hidden in the earth.

It was Washington Irving who observed: "Great minds have purposes while others have wishes. Little minds are tamed and subdued by misfortunes but great minds rise above them"

Success Hard To Handle

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Japan, whose economy continues to grow at the fastest rate of any major industrial nation, is finding that success sometimes is hard to handle.

With its gross national product expanding at more than 10 per cent a year since the mid-1950s, compared with 3 to 6 per cent for most other nations, the Japanese are achieving domestic prosperity but creating antagonisms abroad.

The expansion has been enhanced by the enthusiasm with which the Japanese send their goods to the far corners of the earth, outselling and underbidding foreigners in markets they had thought to be theirs.

But that propensity for exporting has not been matched by a comparable interest in the products and investments of foreigners. It is considerably more difficult to sell to the Japanese than it is to buy from them.

The result is an enormous trade surplus, and an export momentum that the Japanese seem unable to stop. And if the situation isn't corrected, the marketplace itself might act to force a yen revaluation.

It could occur this way: So long as the trade surpluses continue, the yen remains strong and desirable. You don't have to take Japan's word for it: those surpluses testify to it. They amount to IOUs.

Other nations become upset at the situation. They insist that Japan open its markets to their goods in order to help redress the imbalance. And they insist that Japan artificially restrict exports.

Otherwise, they say they will insist that Japan recognize what the market is telling the world, that the yen is really worth more than its face value. They might insist that a greater value be declared for it.

A revaluation would make Japanese goods more expensive abroad and, depending upon the method in which the revaluation is carried out, tend to make foreign goods less expensive in Japan. Thus, the imbalance would tend to diminish.

One proposal now being considered is to seek a 20 per cent reduction in certain tariffs, thus permitting freer access of other countries to Japan's domestic markets. Quotas on imports also may be enlarged.

Some critics also suggest that now is the time for Japan to improve its domestic social services—to spend more time, money and effort toward improving living conditions and less in making goods for exports.

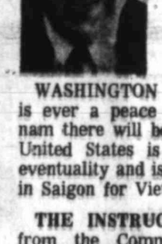

No matter how the trade surplus is brought down, it is going to be painful. Despite last year's revaluation, exports through September of this year still continued to exceed imports. They rose 17 per cent, imports 16 per cent.

Japan's surplus during this period climbed $1 billion to more than $6 billion. Compare this with a United States trade deficit during the same period of $4.3 billion and you understand some of today's international frictions.

Crater Unsafe For Cats, Dogs

HALEAKALA, Hawaii (AP) — Rangers at Haleakala National Park have been instructed to shoot on sight any dogs or cats found loose in the 19-square-mile creater of extinct Haleakala Volcano.

Park Superintendent Russ Cahill said the pets interfere with normal breeding cycles of ground-nesting birds and particularly pose a threat to the nene, a rare Hawaiian goose.

How To Do It

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — If and when there is ever a peace agreement on Vietnam there will be new elections. The United States is preparing for this eventuality and is now holding classes in Saigon for Vietnamese politicians.

THE INSTRUCTORS are on loan from the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

"Now, gentlemen , these are the materials absolutely essential for an open and free election. This is the Mark IV Bugging Device which can be placed in your opponent's office so you know what he is up to."

"Ah so, Instructor, but we have no money to buy such expensive equipment."

"Then you must find the money before the election."

"IT IS VERY difficult to get money in South Vietnam."

"It depends on how you go about it, Col. Tho. The first thing you do is set up committees with innocent names like the 'Viet Cong for Thieu,' or the 'Committee to Eliminate the Opposition.' Then you go to manufacturing groups, dairymen, importers, exporters, bankers and landowners and make them contribute $10 million to your party."

"THAT IS GOOD. Then we take the money and spend it on the election?"

"No, General, you do not take the money and spend it on the election. You have to protect the people who gave the money. So you send your Minister of Commerce with a black satchel to pick up the money by hand. He takes the satchel by jeep to Da Nang where it is flown to Hue. In Hue it is taken by water buffalo to the Mekong Delta. There it is packed in bags of rice and shipped to Mexico. The money is put in a secret Mexican bank account and withdrawn a week later.

"HONORABLE instructor, what do we spend the money on?"

"Bugging equipment, tape machines, miniature cameras, disappearing ink, forged letterheads, pistols — the usual paraphernalia that anyone needs for a free and open election. Now once you have the equipment, you need volunteers to get your candidate elected.

"WILL THESE men go out and make speeches for the candidate?"

"No, dammit! They will remain undercover. You will use them to infiltrate the opposition. Their job will be to cause chaos in the enemy camp."

A Devotion For Today..

Thus speaks the high and exalted one, whose name is holy, who lives for ever: I dwell in a high and holy place with him who is broken and humble in spirit. (Isaiah 57:15, NEB)

PRAYER: Lord, may we be so sensitive to Your spirit that we may understand Your message, and then obey Your will as shown in it. In Christ's name. Amen.

TO VALLEY'S CROP PROBLEMS

Proper Drainage Is Only Solution

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The purest water won't help the crop problem in the Mexicali Valley of Baja California without adequate drainage, says the manager of the Wellton-Mohawk Project.

C. C. Tabor released a detailed study Monday of the U.S.-Mexico salinity problem which he prepared to counter Mexican charges that the United States was poisoning its land with salty drainage from the project.

He also praised the appointment of former U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell by Nixon and an interagency task force to seek a solution to the problem.

"Much of the land that has gone out of production since 1955 in the Mexicali Valley would not produce even if there were excellent quality water to put on it," said Tabor, "because there are no facilities to take the water away."

Tabor said Mexico suffered from a series of misfortunes at the time the Wellton-Mohawk drainage system became operational in 1961.

In addition to increased salinity from drainage water, he said, there was a drastic reduction in water supply, an inadequate drainage system for lands which had been receiving large amounts of water and an infestation of pink bollworm.

Tabor said the Wellton-Mohawk drainage system is being blamed for causing all the trouble, even to reduced cotton production resulting from losses to the pink bollworm.

Mexico does not complain about the 135,000 acre-feet of drainage water it pays $8,000 a year to get from the Yuma Valley at San Luis, said Tabor, noting that this water which averages 1,700 parts per million of dissolved salts is applied on loose, naturally well drained soils below San Luis.

Tabor said studies show that Mexico's charge that U.S. Water delivered to Mexico bears 4,000 ppm of salts is not true.

At no time has the 4,000 ppm figure been reached, said Tabor, adding that total dissolved salts topped 3,000 ppm on 10 days and went over 2,000 ppm only 219 times under the higher U.S. method of computing salts.

"And there has been none that high since Nov. 15, 1965," he said.

That was when the U.S.-built channel to bypass the Wellton-Mohawk drainage water around Mexico's diversion dam during periods of low river flow went into use.

A suit preference signal on defense is not always a command It suggests how partner may be put in again but if appearances indicate that immediate access is not available, a player may use his own judgment on how best to proceed. Today's hand where South was declarer at four spades provides an interesting illustration of this principle.

West opened the eight of hearts, East put up the ace and when South followed with the four, it became clear that West had a singleton for only the king and jack were missing. In giving partner a ruff, East decided to transmit a suit preference signal in order to suggest how he could be put in again.

At trick two, East led the three of hearts, his lowest card in the suit—to request a club return. If he wanted a diamond, he would have played an unnecessarily high heart. South put up the king of hearts, West ruffed with the four of spades and dutifully shifted to the deuce of clubs. The ace was played from dummy and a small club was trumped in the closed hand. A spade to the ten put dummy in to ruff a third club and another trump to the jack permitted South to establish the long club with another ruff.

A heart was led to the queen to cash the ten of clubs, on which South discarded a diamond. In all, he lost three tricks—one diamond, the ace of hearts, and a heart ruff.

East could have defeated the contract by shifting to the queen of diamonds at trick two. If South covers with the king, West plays the ace and puts partner in with the jack to obtain a heart ruff. If declarer ducks the queen of diamonds, East can give West a heart ruff next and then the ace of diamonds scores the setting trick.

We cannot find it in our heart to criticize East for his defense inasmuch as the diamond play was by no means indicated on the deal. West could have brought about declarer's defeat however by simply returning a trump when he is in at trick three instead of a club. This deprives South of a vital entry to dummy before he begins establishment of the clubs and he now has no way to reach North's long card in that suit once it is set up. Declarer must lead diamonds himself and when the ace shows up in West's hand, there is no way to avoid losing two diamond tricks.

Since East obviously lacks an immediate entry to give West another ruff and the club suit is well under control, the latter should direct his efforts toward preventing the establishment of dummy's suit.

Permian On Top

By DON COOPER
Herald Sports Editor

Permian stands alone at the top of the heap in District 5-AAAA. The other top contenders for the league title have suffered losses. Two weeks ago, it was Abilene Cooper. Friday night, the other front-runner, Midland Lee, was handed a defeat. Permian is the only team remaining undefeated in district competition.

In handing the Big Spring Steers a 24-0 loss Saturday night, Permian was methodical. Using nothing fancy, the Panthers just over-powered the Steers. The main weapon in the Permian arsenal was David Shipman. Shipman carried 32 times for 162 yards and three touchdowns.

Permian had everything that a coach could desire. The Panthers were big, strong and quick.

The Steers' defensive unit, which was on the field most of the game as the offense could never really get established, put on two magnificent goalline stands. Early in the first quarter Permian drove to the Steer five where on second down, Shipman was stacked up and lost the ball. It was recovered by Vicky Woodruff at the three.

Later in the initial period, Permian again drove deep inside Big Spring territory. With a fourth down at the Steer seven, a Tommy Campbell pass was incomplete and the Steers had denied Permian another score.

One of the astonishing things to the Permian fans had to be the scene of the Big Spring Steers holding the Panthers scoreless in the first quarter of the ball game. Yet, the Steers held off the Panthers until 2:14 was left in the second quarter when Shipman scored from one-yard out. Shipman's touchdown capped an 88-yard march.

Permian took a 10-0 lead into half time when Joe Bizzell booted a 23-yard field goal with no time showing on the clock.

Permian scored twice in the second half. Both times Shipman got the call.

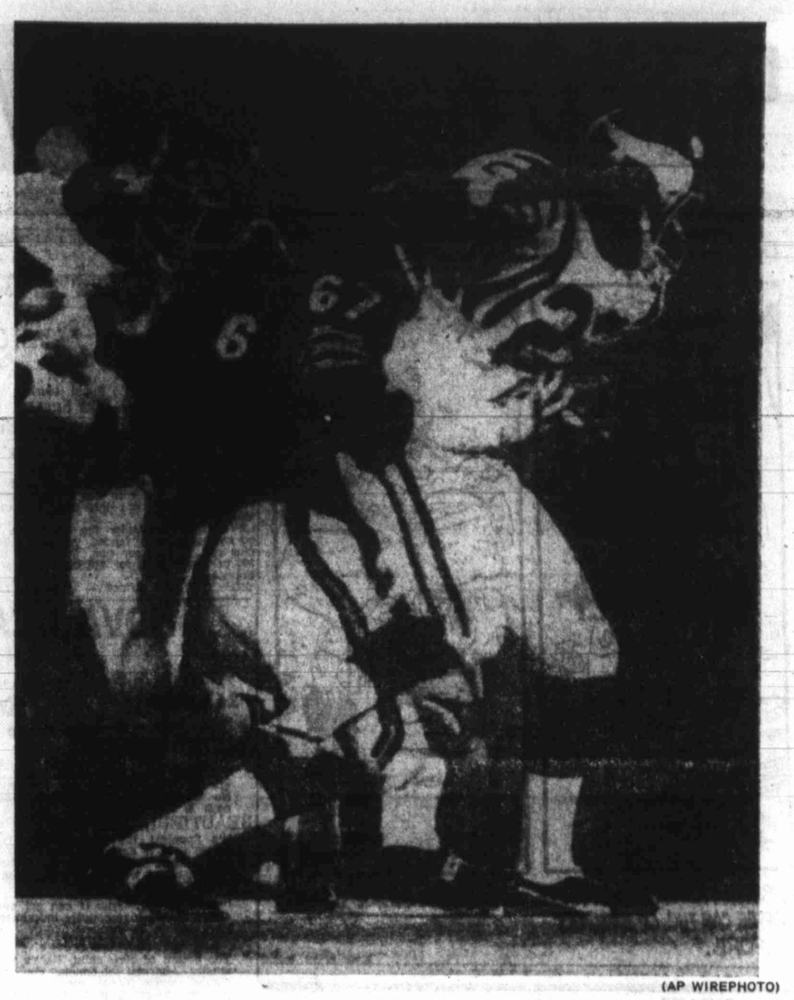

The Steers were completely ineffective on the ground and were forced to go to the air. Junior quarterback Tom Sorley came in and put the ball in the air 19 times, completing nine for 107 yards.

The key to the Steer loss had to be the inability of the offensive line to provide any running room for the Steer backs. Although Sorley had a respectable night passing, he rarely had enough time to find his receivers and had to hurry his passes. As a result, he had several incompletions which he normally would not have.

Looking optimistically, the Steers did something no other team has been able to do. The Steers held Permian to less than 35 points. No other team in the district could say that.

However the road to the district crown is extremely tough. Friday night, Permian must play Abilene Cooper. Then the next week, the Panthers meet the Midland Lee Rebels. I seriously doubt that Permian will get through these two games unscathed.

Big Spring will have to shake off Saturday night's loss and get down to business this week in preparation for Midland Lee.

LEMME AT HIM — Jim Osborne (68) Chicago Bears defensive tackle, charges toward Clint Jones (26), Minnesota Vikings running back, as teammate Bill Line (67) grabs Jones in third quarter Monday night at Chicago. Osborne tackled Jones for two-yard loss. Bears won, 13-10.

Penalty Saves 13-10 Win For Bears

CHICAGO (AP) — "I don't care who says how lucky we were or how close it was," said Abe Gibron Monday night after his rejuvenated Chicago Bears edged the Minnesota Vikings 13-10, "We won and that's all that counts."

The Bears didn't clinch their second straight victory until a Minnesota touchdown pass from Fran Tarkenton to John Beasley had been called back because of an ineligible receiver downfield and Fred Cox missed a 27-yard field goal attempt with seven seconds remaining.

Minnesota Coach Bud Grant, angry but calm, said "It's too bad the big play had to be made by the officials. There wasn't a flag for some time after the play had been consummated.

"Ask the officials," said Grant when asked who the ineligible receiver was. It was guard Ed White who apparently strayed too far while Tarkenton was scrambling before he spotted Beasley.

The loss dropped the Vikings, preseason favorites, into last place in the Central Division of the National Football Conference while the Bears climbed within 1½ games of Green Bay and Detroit who are tied for the division lead.

The Vikings had the ball for only nine plays in the first half but one of them was a 44-yard touchdown pass from Tarkenton to John Gilliam on a third down situation in Minnesota's first series of play.

Chicago then dominated the first half, running off 41 plays while taking a 10-7 lead on a 21-yard field goal by Mac Percival and a four-yard touchdown pass from Bobby Douglass to Jim Harrison who carried the ball 31 times and gained 103 yards rushing.

Dick Butkus launched the touchdown drive by recovering an Oscar Reed fumble and later called a fake field goal and a fake punt which helped the Bears immensely.

The fake field goal call came on the touchdown drive with the holder Douglass rolling out for six yards and a first down.

The fake punt came in the third quarter when Bobby Joe Green passed to Cecil Turner for 23 yards and a first down. Two plays later, Cyril Pinder fumbled the ball to Minnesota. After the Vikings moved to the Chicago 40, Butkus intercepted a Tarkenton pass which eventually resulted in a 20-yard field goal by Percival for the Bear win.

Cox had connected on a 21-yarder with 1:38 left in the third quarter to tie the score at 10-10 and set the stage for the pulsating fourth quarter.

Douglass rushed 11 times for 66 yards, getting 56 of them in the first half and he completed only three of five pass attempts for 33 yards in a typical Douglass performance.

In the first five minutes of the game, Tarkenton hit Gilliam on a 44-yard scoring toss. Then the Bears put together their first sustained drive behind the running of Jim Harrison, who totaled 103 yards on 31 carries for the game.

Thousands Of Fans Pack Streets To Welcome A's Home

OAKLAND (AP) — Women fainted but did not fall. The press of the crowd kept them upright until they revived as 150,000 estatic Oaklanders lined the streets to welcome home the triumphant A's with their World Series championship.

It was a warm day, and for all the rejoicing and near-hysteria that accompanied the 15-block parade from Lake Merrit to the civic center, Monday's crowd was orderly except when it surged into the street to touch the passing heroes.

"The crowd is so dense the parade just can't get through," radioed police officers. "We tried to budge them, but they just won't move."

But the jams lasted only moments, and the parade made its way through storms of rising balloons and falling papers serpentine and confetti.

Cheers went up for everybody on the team, from bat boy Ron Pieraldi to owner Charles O. Finley.

"This is a happy day for Oakland," understated Mayor John Reading as he handed over a plaque to Finley inscribed "To the Swinging Owner of the A's." Manager Dick Williams got one dedicated to "The Genius Manager of the A's." Each player got an engraved pewter plate, the bat boy got a trophy, and the mascot mule, Charley O, was decked with balloons and presented with a bag of victory oats.

Balloons also decorated the motorcycles of the good natured police officers who handled the record crowd, swollen because of the Veterans Day holiday and called "the best crowd Oakland has ever seen," by Deputy Police Chief George T. Hart.

The parade followed a delirious Sunday night welcome home at Oakland International Airport by an estimated 25,000 fans who so congested the airport and its approaches that all motor traffic was sealed off for hours.

Quarterback Club Meets Tonight

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will meet tonight in the High School cafeteria. The meeting will get underway at 8 p.m.

Head Coach Clovis Hale will show the films of the Steers-Permian game. A scouting report on the Steers' next District 5-AAAA opponent will be presented.

Club Co-Sponsor Al Valdes urged all Steer fans to attend the meeting and support the players as they prepare for Friday night's game.

The Steers host Midland Lee Friday night.

ALABAMA TAKES SECOND

Trojans Hold Top Spot

By The Associated Press

Alabama, runner-up at the end of the 1971 regular season, moved into second place once again today in The Associated Press college football ratings but well in arrears of front-running Southern California.

The top-ranked Trojans trimmed Washington 34-7 for their seventh consecutive victory and received 44 first-place votes and 986 of a possible 1,000 points—highest score of the season—from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama's come-from-behind 17-10 triumph over Tennessee earned the Crimson Tide two first-place votes and 805 points and moved them up from third place to second. Nebraska's defending two-time national champions blasted Kansas 56-0 for their third straight shutout and continued their climb, rising from fifth to third with two first-place ballots and 718 points.

Ohio State and Michigan remained in the fourth and fifth spots. The Buckeyes trounced Indiana 44-7 and received one first-place vote and 681 points while the Wolverines downed Illinois 31-7 and picked up the remaining No. 1 vote and 629 points.

Louisiana State rose from seventh to sixth with a 10-0 triumph over Kentucky. Colorado upset Oklahoma, last week's runner-up, 20-14 and went from ninth to seventh while dropping the Sooners from second to eighth.

Rounding out the Top Ten were UCLA, up from 11th to ninth after a 49-13 rout of California, and Texas, which climbed from 14th to 10th by trimming Arkansas 35-15.

Notre Dame and Tennessee fell out of the Top Ten, dropping from eighth and 10th, respectively, last week to 13th and 14th. The Fighting Irish bowed to Missouri 30-26 while Tennessee's late collapse against Alabama cost the Vols their spot among the elite.

The Second Ten consisted of Penn State, Auburn, Notre Dame, Tennessee, Iowa State, Arizona State and Florida State, with Arkansas, Southern Methodist and West Virginia all tied for 18th.

Injuries To Nag Horned Frogs In Clash With Irish

By The Associated Press

Texas Christian must feel Notre Dame's wrath this Saturday at less than top strength.

Coach Billy Tohill of the Horned Frogs ticked off his injuries Monday and said "We had several nagging hurts that will keep some of the players out of workouts but they should be ready for Notre Dame.

"They'd better be ... We're going to need everyone we can get."

Notre Dame was stunned by Missouri last Saturday and South Bend, Ind., should be a warm spot for the Horned Frogs.

Tohill said strong linebacker Gary Whitman of Baytown suffered a broken hand in TCU's 13-10 victory over Texas A&M but should play against the Fighting Irish. Sophomore Gene Moser is ready to spell Whitman.

Tohill said "Physically, we had more aches and bruises than after any game this season. The Aggies really get after you."

In Austin, Texas Coach Darrell Royal said his offense line played its best game of the season in the 35-15 victory over Arkansas.

"Last week you worry about whether your team can get ready to play after a crushing defeat (Oklahoma 27, Texas 0) and this week you wonder if they're overconfident—what a difference a week makes."

Texas plays Rice in Houston Saturday night.

"We have never gone to Rice Stadium and had anything but a rude bouncing around," Royal said. "I don't think we've ever performed there like we've been predicted to, and I don't think we've had a game there that was decided before the fourth quarter."

BROKE BASEBALL'S COLOR BARRIER IN 1947

Hall Of Famer Robinson Dies

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—Jackie Robinson, who broke major league baseball's color barrier in 1947 and went on to stardom and a place in the Hall of Fame, died today, apparently of a heart attack.

The 53-year-old Robinson, who had suffered a mild heart attack in 1968, was stricken early this morning at his 14-room home in this New York City commuter community. Police, summoned by his wife, used oxygen in an attempt to revive him and then rushed him to Stamford Hospital. He was dead on arrival.

Robinson had been scheduled to appear in Washington today as one of several main speakers at a symposium on drug abuse. Sponsors of the event said Robinson had called Monday night to report that he was hemorrhaging from the eyes and that his doctors said he should not travel.

Robinson's baseball career was filled with controversy and it did not stop when he retired in 1957 to take an executive post with a restaurant chain. He later became caught up in political disputes with more militant sections of the black community who assailed his Republican party affiliations.

But Robinson was first of all an athlete and that is how he wrote his way into history.

Amid scorn and criticism from some following the announcement that he would be the first black in the major leagues, Robinson did his talking on the playing field.

He joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 after spending a year with Montreal and leading the International League in hitting.

He made his first appearance in the National league as Brooklyn's first baseman in a game against the Boston Braves. He played most of his career at second base.

Robinson was a sensation in his first year, earning Rookie of the Year honors. Two years later, his .342 batting average earned him the league's Most Valuable Player award.

Branch Rickey, the man who brought Robinson into the major league, told the rookie:

"I need more than a great ball player. I need a man who can fly the flag for his race, who can turn the other cheek. If I get a firebrand who blows his top and comes up swinging after a collision at second base, it could set the cause back 20 years."

Robinson was the man. He endured verbal abuse and a loosely organized attempt to keep him out of the game.

Robinson was born in Cairo, Ga., in 1919 and moved to California with his family a year later. The young Robinson began making his mark as an athlete at Pasadena Junior College, becoming the first man to win letters in baseball, basketball, football and track. He then went on to the University of California at Los Angeles, where he received national attention as a track and football star.

He spent three years in the Army, rising to the rank of lieutenant, and then began coaching baseball at Samuel Houston College, a Texas Negro school, while playing shortstop with the Kansas City Monarchs of the old Negro American League.

From there he got his first tryout with a major league club, the Boston Red Sox. Boston didn't invite him to join the club, but Brooklyn did and he moved to Montreal.

After watching Robinson in action during the 1946 spring training, Clay Hopper, a Mississippian who would manage Robinson the first year, asked Rickey, "Mr. Rickey, do you think he is human?"

Robinson got a $3,500 bonus and a $600 monthly salary to play with Montreal.

In his 10 years with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Robinson earned a top annual salary of $42,000 and shared six World Series purses.

He made his mark as a base-stealing second baseman with the Dodgers and later shifted to third at the end of his career.

ROBINSON AS 'BEST ALL-AROUND ATHLETE' — Jackie Robinson, who died today in Stamford, Conn., at the age of 53, is shown in two of the three roles that earned him the distinction of "Best All-Around Athlete" from President Nixon in a bylined article written in 1972 for the Associated Press. At left, Robinson is shown in 1954 as a third baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers and right, as All-Conference tailback for the 1940 UCLA football team. He was also an All-Conference basketball player for UCLA in 1939.

CARROL RIGHTER

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You feel very much tied down to whatever jobs are facing you and would like to get out from under them, but an interesting associate makes things easier by what he does that surprises and delights you. Take the time to do a good job at whatever happens to be some long-range plan or ambition.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You can rely on an associate now to be of tremendous help to you in some matter that has you really puzzled. Accept with alacrity. Taking risks with others could prove to be most harmful.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Being forceful where matters of property and finances are concerned could get you nowhere fast, but the gentle approach brings fine benefits. Consult with those who cooperated in a modern way. Read informative brochures tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The day can be a very pleasurable one, but guard against possible bad conditions in the p.m. Don't try to handle tasks that irk you, but wait a better day for this. Have greater regard for your health.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Not a good day to force your aims on others or you meet with stiff resistance, so be patient and then kin give immediate encouragement. Keep promises you have made to family. Complaining only makes matters worse.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Unexpected benefits come through casual pals now, but a longtime friend is in a bad humor and should be avoided. Take time to relax at home. You have to be very alert in the outside world, though.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't rely on higher-ups where all those monetary affairs are concerned, but depend on your own good judgment, which is fine now. Use that talent for neat touch and fine finish for which you are noted. ADVANCE.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Attending to personal affairs is fine now, but out-of-town matters are best relegated to a better day. Take the treatments that improve your appearance considerably. Evening is ideal for artistic endeavors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Being more willing to accept private backing for pet projects is wise, but make sure you do not use it for run in a wild moment. You may get an annoying letter. Do not let it bother you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An associate could be rather annoying now, but close friends are more helpful to you in your endeavors. Follow through on personal aims, but don't confide in partners who are jealous. Open a new bank account.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you follow through on all regulations that apply to you and keep busy with outside activities. Forget that dull routine work for now. You started a new involvement recently and can now go on with it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't procrastinate in getting a new start at that fascinating new project and forget all that desire for silly type of recreation. Get advice from one who has a different backlog of experience from yours. Follow it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can complete many duties you have scarcely started now, of whatever nature, but forget new financial ventures you are not sure about. Make important payments. Take it easy in the evening.

Ground-Breaking Rites Are Held

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the new building of Sacred Heart Catholic Church were held at noon Sunday in the old building at 6th and North Aylford.

Officiating at the ceremonies was Rev. J. P. Delaney, OMI, pastor of Sacred Heart.

The new building is expected to be ready for occupancy in less than six months.

The church's annual Halloween Festival was postponed due to rain. Scheduled for last weekend, the festival features booths, games and food, including hot tamales and Mexican dishes.

Festivities have been set again for this coming weekend, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Schedule Lined Up

FRANKFURT (AP) — An estimated 10,000 West Germans are expected to visit East Germany every month after tourist arrangements for inter-German travel are completed next year, authorities announced.

Most Ex-GIs Pay Little Attention To Vets' Day

Monday, according to Presidential decree, was Veterans Day. As of four years ago, Veterans Day was changed from the original Armistice Day holiday to one of the three-day federal weekends.

To the old World War I Veterans they still like Armistice Day as a special day. But, whatever the occasion, most veterans pay very little attention to the event.

But to the veteran who is hospitalized, any break in the monotony is welcome.

Many local patients braved the cold winds Monday morning to have their wheelchairs taken outside to hear the special ceremonies that surrounded the dedication of a Medal of Honor display at the VA Hospital.

They listened closely to the words of commendation for all veterans, words about courage and bravery and sacrifice.

They covered up as best they could in the wind and some of them got tears in their eyes when the flag was raised and the Star Spangled Banner played in the background.

Their days in the hospital have turned into years for some of them and they appreciate attention on any day — whether it is Veterans Day or not.

Wars have been close together during this generation and those who had parents serve in World War I, contemporaries in World War II, closely followed by the Korean conflict and the lengthy Vietnam War, know many veterans.

Veterans have become a rather common thing in number, but without them America would not be what it is, or might not be . . .

Those who share the long hours with the veteran patients as hospital auxiliary members or in other capacities know how important any attention is to the patients.

The veterans who protected us when we needed them are with us every day. Lest we forget.

BRAVING THE WIND — This patient at the Veterans Hospital was among those who bundled up and came outside Monday morning to attend special ceremonies dedicating a Medal of Honor display on Veterans Day. The public is invited to view the display at the hospital.

Orange Land Not Sinking As It Is Near Houston

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — While the water table under Orange County is dropping at a raise of 2.8 feet per year, the area does not have the serious land-sinking problem experienced near Houston.

These are the conclusions of a report issued by the Texas Water Development Board on ground-water resources in the Orange County area in 1963-71.

The report covers Orange County, parts of Jasper, Newton, Jefferson and Hardin counties in Texas and parts of Cameron and Calcasieu parishes in Louisiana.

The amount of ground water pumped to the surface during the eight years covered by the study increased about 12 per cent, or 2.4 million gallons per day, while the water table declined between 10 and 20 feet.

But the board says that land sinking has been less than six inches since 1918 in the Orange County area, compared to that much or more each year in some areas around Houston.

The board estimated that the water table could drop an additional 75 feet before significant sinking would occur in the area.

The U.S. Geological Survey prepared the report in cooperation with the Water Development Board and the Sabine River Authority.

Galleon, Still Not Finished, Is Seaworthy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A glistening new Spanish galleon plies the approaches to San Diego Harbor, looking for all the world like a ship that crossed the Pacific in 1565.

Lynn Merkle, who built it, said, "A lot of strangers come up and ask for a ride."

The job took 17 years, starting in 1955 when Merkle got the idea that the huge, ship-long cargo holds would provide room for his growing family. He has sailed it now on five weekends, reaching 20 miles out to sea.

"We're still working on the insides," said Robert Sproule, a young sailor who has helped the Merkles in their hobby. "It still needs the chart room finished and small things."

With his wife Beulah, Merkle spent two years in research, mainly in libraries. They built a two-foot model for ballast tests.

Work began in the Merkles' backyard on the final 50-foot ship, scaled down from the 105-foot model which once carried goods from the Orient to Mexico.

The volunteers included the Merkles' son Danny, now 27, who built most of the rigging, and their daughter Sandra, a year older, whose main job was to tighten thousands of bolts imbedded four inches apart in the hull of maple and plywood stripping, covered with asphalt and then fiber-glassed. A son-in-law, Donald Caskey, worked with Mrs. Merkle on the four sails which cover 1,200 square feet.

There are eight tons of steel ballast in the ship, which is called the Santana. It grosses 20.5 tons.

To supplement the sails, a 25-horsepower diesel engine was installed.

Next summer their first long cruise is planned to Catalina Island, a trip involving 200 miles. A microwave oven, a refrigerator and color television set will make it homelike.

A 52-year-old city mechanic, Merkle declined to estimate how much his hobby has cost so far. But he smiles back at the bench riders along the harbor who have predicted for years that the top heavy craft isn't safe.

Cat Saves Self; Tree Boy Aided

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Firemen hear it all the time — a call to come rescue a cat from a tree.

The call they got recently was slightly different.

A cat ran up a tree, all right, and meowed for help. Then came the switch.

A teen-age boy climbed the tree in a rescue attempt. And he couldn't get down.

Firemen rescued the boy. The cat apparently made it to the ground without help.

"He was really embarrassed," firemen B. W. Pickett said of the boy. "We didn't ask him his name."
