Alcorn Hails New Improvement On Telephones But For Peculiar Reason

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, reports on a new telephone invention this week. We didn't even know he had a phone.

Dear Editor: The thing about progress is that you've got to know how to handle it, or it's more trouble than it's worth.

Take the telephone. It's all right if you need to call somebody, but it frequently becomes a nuisance when somebody wants to call you. I have observed that when I'm gone and somebody calls and leaves a message to call him, saying it's important, it's generally important to him, not to me.

This is going to be changed soon, although I don't think the telephone company intends it that way.

As I understand it, they've perfected a system where you can transfer your own calls, so in a sense your phone follows you around wherever you are. Say you're expecting a big business deal by telephone and you have to leave your office temporarily. All you do is dial a code number, then dial the number of the phone where you'll be while you're out, and if a call comes in it'll by-pass your office and ring at the other number.

Now the phone company figures this will be a great service and I'm sure it will, but it has other possibilities the company may not be aware of.

Say you're sitting down to watch a western and don't want to be interrupted. Just dial the code number, pick out somebody else's number, instruct your phone to switch to there, and let his phone ring instead of yours.

A teen-ager staying on your phone too much? Just switch your calls to the school superintendent's number and relax.

If a man is alert enough, he can always salvage something useful out of nearly any kind of progress, excepting bumper-to-bumper traffic.

Speaking of progress, the latest 8-day trip of the astronauts proves that man can survive in space, and right now another group of men are living in a capsule on the bottom of the ocean to see if man can survive underwater.

I predict he can, and then the only test left will be to see if he can survive on earth.

Yours faithfully, A. A.

Titus Co. Tax Rate Remains At 95c

Titus County Commissioners Court Friday morning approved the county's budget for 1966 and set the tax rate as the same as last year, 95c per $100 valuation.

The action came following the annual budget hearing. Only one interested person was present.

Expense of operating the county will decline for the third straight year in the budget. The 1966 budget as approved, calls for expenditures of $504,024. This compares with $517,028 in 1965 and $553,644 in 1964.

One change has been made in the tax structure. Although the 1966 county tax remains the same as 1965, an additional eight cents will go into the interest and sinking fund. This will be taken from the general operating fund. The operating fund will receive 72c instead of 80c and interest and sinking fund will get 23c instead of 15c.

The county budget calls for about $31,000 to be utilized toward retiring bonded indebtedness. Indebtedness is now $332,000.

Some savings toward the 1966 budget over last year come from less cost in firefighting and reduction in the number of justices of the peace.

Detroit Baptists To Dedicate Building

Former pastors of the church will preach in the three services during the day—the morning and evening worship and the dedication service.

Austin. — Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr came up with some interesting arguments in answer to the federal suit which attacks the Texas poll tax.

Suit filed by the U. S. Justice Department seeks to get the poll tax ruled invalid as a requirement for voting. Contention is that the poll tax discriminates against Negroes.

That isn't so, Carr argued in a pre-trial hearing before U. S. District Judge Adrian Spears. Carr claimed that a survey this spring by the Southern Regional Council showed that 57.7 per cent of the Negroes in Texas eligible to vote paid poll taxes and registered to vote, but only 53.2 per cent of the Caucasians registered in that fashion.

Carr also contended that the $1.50 State poll tax, levied in 1837 as a "head tax," was tied to the right to vote in 1902 not to keep Negroes from voting, but to assure collection of the head tax. He added that revenue from the present $1.75 poll tax goes to the Available School Fund of the state, amounting to more than $2,000,000 last year.

The federal suit citation — which centers on an all-white Austin precinct — was filed under the new federal voting rights act. Carr noted that the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights in 1961 found no discriminatory disenfranchisement.

Poll tax procedure is the only form of voter registration in Texas. So, a Federal court invalidation of the poll tax would mean a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of enacting a new voter registration law.

Carr also asked the court to order U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to clarify whether his suit is aimed at striking down requirements that only property owners may vote in bond elections.

COLLEGE SUPER-BOARD NAMED — Gov. John Connally appointed the 18 members of the new Coordinating Board, Texas

College and University System, and handed it the expected assignment to make Texas higher education second to none.

John Gray of Beaumont, who served on the Governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School which recommended the "Super-Board," was named chairman.

Other new Coordination Board members who served on that study committee are Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Lubbock; H. B. Zachry, San Antonio; Tom Sealy, Midland; and M. Harvey Weil, Corpus Christi.

Coordinating Board appointees who have been on the Texas Commission on Higher Education are Dr. Joaquin Cagarroa, Laredo; P. C. Looney, Edinburg; Dan Williams, Dallas; and Charles Prothro, Wichita Falls.

New to an all-school board are Newton Gresham, Houston, vice chairman; Sam Rayburn Bell, Paris; Dr. J. J. Seabrook, Austin; Dr. G. V. Brindley, Temple; C. G. Scruggs, Mills County; Mrs. John T. Jones, Houston; Harry Provence, Waco; Victor Brooks, Austin; and Eugene McDermott, Dallas.

MEXICAN COTTON BANNED — Texas border will be sealed to free movement of Mexican cotton beginning September 23, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced.

White said late cotton plantings in excess of 6,000 acres and "abandonment of mutual cultural practices against the destructive pink bollworm in Mexico" required the border control action. Pink bollworm has destroyed as much as $4,000,000 of Rio Grande Valley cotton in one season alone, the commissioner stated.

NEW AGENCIES MEET — At first meeting, new Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation named Dr. Horace Cromer of Austin its president and Dr. C. J. Ruilman as acting commissioner.

Tuberculosis Advisory Committee elected Arthur H. Dilly of Corpus Christi acting chairman

Loyd Graf Elected New Constable

In a tight race for constable of Precinct 3, a former deputy sheriff, Loyd Graf, was elected to the newly created post in Tuesday's special election. Returns show only five votes difference between Graf and the other candidate, E. R. Grayson. Graf received 151 votes and Grayson polled 146.

At Talco 230 votes were cast, with Graf receiving 102 and Grayson 125. At Wilkinson Graf received 48 to Grayson's 17. Grayson had 4 absentee votes and Graf one.

In the amendment election Talco voters turned down the measure with 102 against to 78 votes for increasing the senate from 31 to 39 members.

Graf was sworn into office Wednesday morning by County Judge Cecil Franklin. His term in office will run to Jan. 1, 1967. If he wishes to retain the post after that, he must seek election to a regular four-year term in the 1966 primaries.

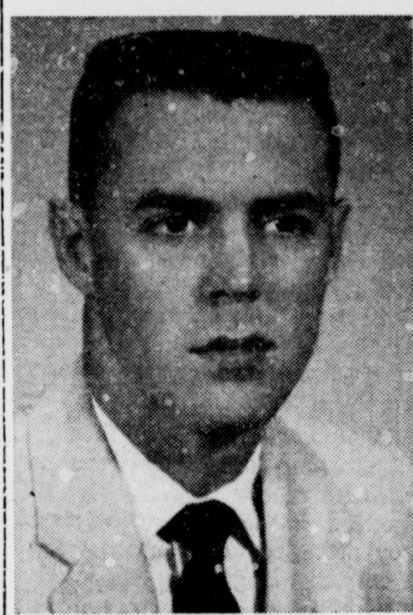

He was a deputy under Sheriff L. A. Redfearn for several years, and reigned last summer when asked to move to Mount Pleasant from Talco. The Constable's post was created by the Commissioners Court after Talcoans petitioned for additional law enforcement there.

Mrs. Martha Miller was election judge with Mmes. R. T. Fuller, James Gandy, R. G. Hood, E. W. Smith, clerks.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Beyond The Moon

By Senator CLINTON P. ANDERSON (D-N. Mex.)
 Senator Anderson is Chairman of the Senate Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences

Clinton P. Anderson

With the eight-day flight of Gemini V logged into the books as another space success for the United States, attention is focused on the scheduled rendezvous in space next month between Gemini VI and an Agena booster. These flights and the succeeding Gemini and Apollo missions will carry the Nation to the goal of landing astronauts on the Moon in this decade.

The knowledge and experience gained in this endeavor, will set the stage for more ambitious and complex space ventures. Our objective of reaching the Moon by 1970 was set by President Kennedy and the Congress four years ago. Since that time we have made great strides and President Johnson, fully realizing the importance of a space program, has continually voiced his strong support for the space effort and has seen that its momentum has been sustained.

OTHER SPACE OBJECTIVES

Besides the Moon mission there are other important aspects of the investigation of space — objectives we are now pursuing, others that may become desirable. The latter variety concerned the Senate Space Committee recently during three days of hearings to determine the thinking of the White House, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Department of Defense, and the National Academy of Sciences on possible programs after Apollo. We know that the $20 billion for Apollo is, in fact, buying space craft, ground facilities and, most importantly, experience that will be used after Apollo.

It is necessary to move in measured pace toward learning more with instruments about Mars and Venus. Only by thorough instrumented probing of these planets will the information be available to determine whether those environments are hospitable to any form of life—the question that captivates scientists. The Voyager Project hopes to plop an instrument package on Mars in 1971 to transmit data on the planetary atmosphere.

NEW SPACE VEHICLES

The United States is developing the vehicles that will enable us to choose from an array of options, including planetary travel. Nuclear-propelled rockets are one such family of craft. Witnesses before the Space Committee stated that spending on nuclear rocket propulsion is now at a reasonable level. Late next year or early in 1967 tests will be run on an experimental system resembling that needed for light. Soon after that, a decision will have to be made on actual flight on a nuclear-powered rocket.

The Space Committee was assured by NASA officials that they will stretch current and planned spacecraft for the fullest use before deciding to build new generations of vehicles. This is sound and fiscally responsible administration.

The future program objectives I have outlined are ambitious and serve to show how wide spread our exploration of space can be. With these objectives now before us, we must focus our energies on carrying out those objectives.

UPLAND GAME TIPS

"Go slowly" is the pass word of upland hunting. Birds or rabbits will remain hidden in the thick brush until the last possible minute. Check all brush piles, clumps of grass or weeds as you pass and chances are you'll flush whatever game is around.

One of the joys of upland hunting is having a well trained dog along. He can find, flush and retrieve game you might never have seen. And there will be almost no downed or crippled birds or animals left behind.

If you've sharpened your aim and maneuverability with pre-hunting trap and shoot the actual hunt should be easier. For the rapid shooting necessary to bag upland game, experienced hunters choose the lightweight Remington Model 1100 automatic shotgun with 12 gauge plastic shells.

How to save money
when the budget
says no

Buying U. S. Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan won't eliminate your monthly bout with the budget. But it will guarantee that you won't spend all your money before you save some.

Guaranteed—because the money is saved before you ever see it. Your payroll department sets it aside, as much or as little as you say, and puts it into Savings Bonds for you. No memory tests. No temptation.

The minute your Bond is bought, it goes to work for your future. It pays back $4 for every $3 invested at maturity—and even more if you hold it longer. A nice way to make your security grow.

Another nice thing: while your savings are growing, the dollars are helping our nation and our government keep strong for freedom.

Call your payroll department and sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan before next payday. See if you don't feel just a little bit better at bill-paying time.
