Dawes Opening Speech Made To Experts

BRIGADIER GENERAL PUTS CHARACTERISTIC PUNCH IN ADDRESS AT PARIS MEET

Is For Stabilization of German Currency and Budget Balancing

EFFECT IS FAVORABLE

No Offense Taken Except In Extreme Nationalistic Quarters

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, U. S. A. chairman of the first committee of experts appointed by the reparation committee to consider the resources and capacity of Germany looking to a solution of the reparations problem, delivered a straight-forward hard-hitting speech at the opening of that body today. He declared he could speak neither for the government of the United States nor the American people, but as an individual. After reviewing the situation from the standpoint of an American business man, he made an earnest plea for common sense and practical co-operation among the nations, so that Germany's productiveness could be restored to her that she might meet her obligations.

With characteristic forcefulness General Dawnes denounced "the incessant misrepresentations and intolerable interjections of those foul and carrion-loving vultures—the nationalistic demagogues of all countries—who would exploit their pitiful personalities out of a common misfortune."

The American plan, as briefly outlined by the chairman, consists of stabilization of German currency and balancing the German budget, and, he declared "as to the economic processes of Germany under a stable currency and with a balanced budget are recieved there will be demonstrated the capacity of Germany to pay. Let us first help Germany to get well."

A member of the British delegation of the reparation commission, commenting on the opening of the conference, said:

"Breezy Start."

"The experts got off to a breezy start." This expresses the general sentiment in reparations and diplomatic circles of the beginning of the work of the experts.

"Can he keep them up to it?" was a question repeatedly asked around the buildings when it became known that General Dawes would propose that his collegues work night and day until they got somewhere with the inquiry. Other members of the delegations are heartily with General Dawes in the desire to make as short work as possible of their task, but some of them are rather frightened at the idea of three sessions daily. The general has conceded a point by agreeing that the night meetings should be merely informal personal exchanges of views between the members.

Was Favorable

The impression made by General Dawes' speech was in every way favorable, inside and o side of reparation circles, excepting in extreme nationalist quarters, where his reference to "nationalistic demagogues" caused some slight emotion.

In his speech General Dawes asked: "What is the question of today? Upon what does the success of this committee depend?

"It depends chiefly upon whether in the public mind and conscience of the allies and of the world there is an adequate conception of the great disaster which faces each ally in Europe unless common sense is crowned king."

This was the part of his speech most commented upon. A French delegate compared this pronouncement with the epigram voiced at th signing of the American declaration of independence —"If we don't hang together, we shall all hang separately."

The committee adopted a resolution confines be kept absolutely confidential. The secretary also is authorized to give out statements, when approved by the members. The experts themselves have been pledged to give no providing that the records of the pro interviews.

ELECTRA C. OF C. YEARLY MEETING GREAT SUCCESS

140 Members and Many Visitors Present At Banquet In Church

YEAR VERY BUSY ONE

Retiring President, Scheurer, Shows 1923 Was a Banner Year

BY HERSCHIEL L. HUNT.
Of the Record News Staff.

ELECTRA, Jan. 14.—The annual chamber of commerce banquet held here tonight at the First Methodist church resulted in a recapitulation of the activities of that body for 1923 and the summarizing of plans which will be fostered this year.

With 140 members and a number of visitors present the annual event was a success from every standpoint. The reports of officials and committee chairmen, the excellent program, the musical selections by the orchestra, the appetizing and abundant menu and the general spirit of the occasion vouchsafed the reputation of this city, which is that it is one of the most modern and progressive in Texas.

The annual report of the retiring president of the chamber of commerce, R. E. Scheurer, showed that 1923 had been good to Electra or inversely and more probably correct, Electra had been good to 1923. To briefly summarize what has been accomplished under the leadership of Secretary Johnson and the personnel of the directorate, shows the chamber of commerce has been very busy the past year.

President Scheurer in his report pointed out that the chamber of commerce the past year had concentrated on the idea of giving the utmost service to home industry and the upholding of business in the Electra section. To accomplish this the chamber has sponsored a strenuous "Trade in Electra" campaign the past 12 months. Mailing lists have been provided for merchants and more than 30,000 letters have gone out with a trade message to the world from the secretary's office the past year.

The chamber of commerce is one of agriculture also and has not confined its activities to the corporate limits of Electra alone but has organized the farmers and ranchmen in this section for cooperation and better trading conditions.

Agriculture.

As an example of the agricultural end of the chamber's business, the past year saw the spreading of the dairy movement in the Electra territory. The result is that about $80,000 worth of cream and $50,000 worth of the finished product is now being produced around and in Electra. A good portion of this is consumed by the city of Electra itself. Poultry shows have been sponsored during the year with the result that scrub poultry stock has been supplanted with high grade varieties of poultry and the

DYING WOMAN BIDS FAREWELL

By The Associated Press.

TEMPLE, Texas, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Cleb Honnell, 30, of Eddy, 20 miles north of here, died at her farm home today of injuries received this morning when her clothing caught fire while she was bathing her six-weeks old baby.

Mrs. Honnell, aware that her injuries were fatal, called her family about the bedside, told them she was going to die and calmly bade them farewell. She is survived by her husband and five children.

When her clothing caught fire she endeavored to smother the flames with a quilt. Failing in this she ran into the yard and screamed to her husband, who jerked the burning clothes from her body but only after she had received mortal wounds.

DENTISTS HOLD YEARLY MEETING

Resume of Past Year By Committees Followed By Dinner

The annual banquet of the Wichita County Dental society at the Kemp last night was a well ordered affair, with reports of different committees in a resume of the past year and a clinic by Dr. J. M. McMinn of Dallas making up the program following dinner. Dr. M. R. Garrison acted as toastmaster, starting off the round of "dental side-play" between courses and presiding at the short business session following.

Dr. McMinn, well known specialist, spoke on the subject requested by the society, "Partial Denture," taking as a particular phase of that subject, "Location of the Clasp upon the Tooth." Introducing this phase of dentistry, the speaker of the evening explained that he had "stumbled upon" what he thought to be some interesting discoveries in the work of placing a clasp on a tooth, which he offered for what they were worth.

In conducting his short clinic, Dr. McMinn used all the instruments of the work which he had found of most aid and best results. He first explained by casts and description how the work was done, after which he went through the actual process.

Three main steps are taken in locating the clasp upon the tooth, explained the speaker. First, position of clasp, relative to the abuttment teeth, was found by the aid of a small device equipped with horizontal base, perpendicular arm, and mount for the case in hand. This primary step included finding a common perpendicular from the lines marked on the two teeth circumferences by the carbon in the perpendicular arm, so that the clasp might fit tightly against both abuttment teeth.

Step number two consisted, as explained by Dr. McMinn, in getting the size of the clasp by the previous measurements. Forms, clay and lead, were used to get this exact size.

Concluding the work, construction of the "rest" was explained. Discussion by the speaker and results of his findings in using the different kinds and brands of materials was included in a conclusion of the object at hand.

PLANE ARRIVALS IS SIGNAL FOR ARMY ADVANCE

Obregon Troops Await U. S. Planes to Begin General Advance

RIFLES DISTRIBUTED

Obregon Reported to Be In High Spirits and Confident

By The Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—The arrival at Irapuato of the airplanes brought from the United States will be the signal for a general advance by the federal troops upon Guadalajara, according to special dispatches to El Democrata, which quotes President Obregon as expressing a desire that once hostilities are resumed they shall not cease until the campaign against the Jalisco rebels is ended.

Eight bombarding and six exploring airplanes were expected to be used day and night against the rebel forces of General Estrada. Four thousand rifles which arrived at Irapuato were immediately distributed among the federal soldiers in exchange for their Mausers. President Obregon is described as being in high spirits, and as saying to the war correspondents: "Keep your notes ready, young men. We will start soon."

The president visited Penjamo Sunday and conferred with the generals commanding the advance guard. Later he returned to Irapuato. The federal front extends four miles west of Penjamo. The advanced positions of the rebels are at La Piedad, twenty-five miles distant on the eastern bank of the river Lorama. The federals have nine thousand men concentrated at Penjamo, while four thousand others are at Irapuato ready to be moved to the front line when necessary.

OSAGES WANT LAW REPEALED

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Repeal of laws governing the apportionment of money derived from the sale of oil and gas lands on the Osage reservation on the ground that they are prejudicial to the restricted Indians, was urged by a group of the Oklahoma tribe appearing today before Secretary Work.

Spokesmen for the Indians opposed also the tying up of proceeds from lands sale in bonds, saying the funds could be better used to purchase modern machinery for their farms.

UPHOLDS GAS SALE TAX LAW

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Jan. 14.—Validity of the gasoline sales tax law in its original and first amended form passed in 1923 was upheld by District Judge George Calhoun today in the test instituted by the Pioneer Oil and Refining company of San Antonio. If his decision is sustained through the appelate courts, funds amounting to over $200,000 collected under the original law and now held by Comptroller Lon A. Smith pending outcome of the litigation will be deposited in the state treasury. The law was amended a second time and alleged defects corrected.

MAYFIELD PROBE RECEIVES DELAY

Failure of Sergeant-at-Arms of Senate to Arrive Is Cause

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Jan. 14.—Formal instructions to the deputy sergeants-at-arms of the United States senate, appointed to collect the ballots, election returns and other matter involved in the senate election contest between George E. B. Peddy and Earle B. Mayfield, were delayed by the failure of Edwin P. Thayer, assistant sergeant-at-arms of the senate, to arrive here today from Washington with the orders from the committee on elections. He was expected tonight to arrive tomorrow afternoon.

Ed Elliott of Fort Worth was elected chairman at a joint meeting of the two groups of ballot collectors today. Ben Ford of Temple was chosen secretary and R. R. Ogden Austin, sergeant-at-arms. Preliminary arrangements for the collection will have been made when Mr. Thayer, arrives, permitting the work to be launched simultaneously in each section of the state immediately after the instructions are received, it was announced.

BRITISH SHIP TO PROTECT SUBJECTS

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—A British cruiser arrived at Puerto, Mexico, south of Vera Cruz, to protect British interests, according to E. S. Reynolds, one of 12 Americans who arrived here today from Puerto, Mexico, aboard the steamer Yamuri. Puerto-Mexico is held by the revolutionists.

Reynolds said that the cruiser arrived shortly before the departure of the Yamuri and that a British merchant marine also put into port with a cargo of "agricultural implements" which generally were believed to be war materials for the rebels.

FEDERALS TAKE CAR OF SUPPLIES

By The Associated Press

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 14.—Accompanied by thirty-five regular soldiers of the Mexican army, a carload of ammunition and rifles sent across the border by American [illegible] authorities was shipped south to Chihuahua for use by federal troops of the Mexican army.

Immediately after the car was shunted to the Mexican side of the river it was taken over by the detachment of regular soldiers and started south.

The car is the third to be delivered to Mexican authorities by army officers.

TAX REDUCTION IN THIS SESSION IS JEOPARDIZED

Green Believes Repealing Underwood Rule Further Hindrance

AMENDMENT FLOOD

Democrats Continue Bombardment of Mellon's Tax Proposals

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Passage of tax legislation at this session of congress has been jeopardized in the opinion of Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, by the action of the house today in repealing the Underwood rule which sought to restrict amendments from the floor to revenue bills, and to curb debate.

After the house had revoked the rule, Mr. Green expressed the opinion that such a flood of amendments might be offered to the revenue bill, once it reached the house, that action might be indefinitely delayed.

"If the tax bill," Mr. Green said, "goes before the house controlled only by the rules as amended today a situation would prevail under which it would be practically impossible to pass it, even though a majority of the house was in favor of it."

The ways and means committee during the day began public hearings on changes sought in the present revenue law, a number of business representatives appearing to argue for repeal of various taxes. Other drafting of the bill by the committee will be suspended pending completion of the hearing which the committee chairman hopes will be accomplished by the close of the week. Three weeks remain then before the bill is scheduled to be reported as directed by the house republican caucus.

Democrats continued today to bombard the Mellon tax revision plan, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, charging in the senate that the banks and railroads have joined with the motion picture industry and certain newspapers in a campaign of propaganda for the Mellon tax plan. The democratic national committee also issued a statement attacking the surtax feature of the Mellon approval.

Senator Harrison in his discussion of the Mellon plan exhibited a Pennsylvania railroad menu card and a form letter from a New Jersey bank to its customers in both of which he readers were urged to write to their senators and representatives to support the Mellon bill.

"Millions of letters are coming here urging us to vote for the Mellon plan" he declared, "and they are coming from people who never have read the Mellon plan."

Senator Harrison said the substitute proposal made by Representative Garner, democrat, Texas, would give relief to 6,500,000 more tax payers of the country than would the Mellon plan but it would not relieve the other 12,000 to the extent that the Mellon bill would.

The Mississippi senator declared that if the administration was sincere in its effort to relieve the people it would not seek to reduce the maximum surtax rate from 50 per cent to 25 per cent, but would "get busy and take off some of these high rates on sugar, meats and other necessities."

NEGROES FLEEING CATCHER DISTRICT

By The Associated Press

FORT SMITH, Ark., Jan. 14.—A wholesale exodus of negroes from the Catcher farming settlement, near Van Buren, Ark., was reported today as a result of the posting of signs, which appeared near the homes of negroes, warning them to leave the community within five days.

George Gaut, a deputy sheriff, reported today that with two or three exceptions, all of the negro families had left the communities and those still there were making preparations to leave. Officers were sent to Catcher to endeavor to identify and arrest those responsible for the posting of signs. Conditions there are reported quiet this afternoon.

Today's developments came as an aftermath of the recent slaying of Mrs Effie Latimer.

TWO ARE MISSING

Two of Those In Hospital Not Expected to Live, Is Report

By The Associated Press.

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, Jan. 14.—Six dead, two missing, five seriously injured, and 22 slightly wounded is the toll exacted at the Texas company's gigantic refinery here this afternoon in an explosion of 10, high pressure stills. The property loss is estimated at from $600,000 to $800,000.

The dead are:
Chas. Bell.
W. C. Moye of Beaumont.
R. C. Rawlinson of Port Arthur.
Bernard Crenche of Port Arthur.
T. A. Carter of Port Arthur.
J. W. Sroaf of Weatherford, Okla.

Two more are momentarily expected to die, it was said at the hospital tonight. Twenty-two received first aid treatment and were sent to their homes from the plant.

Every doctor and every ambulance in the city were called to the refinery to administer to the injured.

According to survivors, a crew of men were working on still No. 25 when still No. 28 exploded and the flames set off still No. 24. The two spread the flaming oil over the workmen. The two men in the morgue were literally roasted to death. It is believed that the two missing are still in the ruins.

The time keeping department is now checking the list of missing to ascertain the names of the two missing. The names of those in the hospital are George Babrine, C. B. Yale, Antonio Cotano, Juan Rodrigues and Enoch Landry.

The Texas company plant is on the western edge of the city. The force of the explosion was felt into the city. There was a great rush of relatives and friends to the plant when the disaster became known over the city.

BACHELORS, HERE IS A CHANCE

She's Blonde, 20, And Perfect 36

Hear ye, all shieks, bachelors, widowers and those pining for the love of a pretty woman and the alleged happiness of a happy home.

A 20-year-old maiden of Portland, Oregon has beseeched Mayor Frank Collier in a letter received yesterday to help her to get a husband. The Portland beauty broke down and modestly confessed to her qualifications as a home maker being "golden haired, blue-eyed, a perfect 36 in size and winner of a beauty contest."

The modest maid only requires for her husband that he be "a great big lovable, strong, big hearted, sunny natured fellow, able to provide lots of love and affection."

The letter with the qualifications and requirements for lover and lovee follows in full:

Dear Mr. Mayor:

You will be surprised to receive this unusual letter. I am advertising for a husband.

I am entirely alone in the world having lost my parents recently. I am most [illegible] I am 20 years old, golden haired and have blue eyes. Am a perfect 36 in size and heighth and won a beauty contest last year. I have a good education and a splendid disposition. I enjoy good books, music and art.

I play the piano quite well, having studied seriously for several years. I also enjoy keeping house very much indeed. I am fond of the great out of doors camping trips, etc., enjoy pets too, especially horses and dogs.

My future husband doesn't have to be rich or "handsome" or too young either. Just a big lovable fellow, strong and big hearted and sunny natured. He must provide a home and lots of love and affection, and be firmly convinced that he is the luckiest man in the world to get me!

I will be most grateful Mr. Mayor, if you will allow my little letter to be published in the newspapers.

Most sincerely yours,
(Miss) Mary Louise Dean,
Box 531 Portland, Oregon

The lands between Tomioka and Tokio, it was said, had been interrupted although communication was expected to be restored shortly.

HOUSE REPEALS UNDERWOOD RULE

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—House democrats and republican insurgents, forming a coalition for the first time this session, routed the republican organization today and repealed the Underwood rule which practically made amendments to revenue and tariff bills.

On motion of Representative Garrett, the democratic leader, the rule, adopted in 1911, when the democrats controlled the house, was repealed by a vote of 208 to 177. The democrats, voting solidly for repeal, had the support of 24 republicans, among them the insurgents and three others, while Representative Longworth, the republican leader, and Chairman Snell of the rules committee, urged retention of the rule.

After this show down—the first to develop in the rules fight which will continue tomorrow—the house became involved in a bitter debate over proposals for the discharge of committees from consideration of legislation, but took no action.

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

Victor Murdock of Kansas resigned from the federal trade commission.

The house ways and means committee began hearings on the tax bill. Democrats and insurgents in the house combined and overthrew the Underwood rule limiting amendments to tariff and revenue bills.

A senate committee began an investigation of "diploma mills."

Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, delivered a democratic pronouncement on railroad legislation.

Senator Bursum, republican, New Mexico, threw another bonus bill into the legislative hopper.

"Foreign control" was charged against the Alabama Power company by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, in opposing the bid of southern power interests, for Muscle Shoals.

The Tea Pot Dome oil investigation was debated in the senate with Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, charging the case constituted the "worst scandal ever perpetrated against the government."

Presidential prospects and choice of a convention city were discussed by democratic national committeemen preliminary to the committee meeting tomorrow.

OIL NEWS

Pennsylvania Oil Advanced

NEW SCHEDULES POSTED MONDAY

National and New York Transit Companies Boost Market 10 Cents

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 14.—An increase of 10 cents a barrel in the price of three grades of crude oil was announced today. The new prices are: Pennsylvania grade in New York Transit company lines and Bradford district grade in National Transit company lines, $3.75; Corning grade in Buckeye Pipe Line company lines, $1.65.

Other grades were unchanged.

HUMBLE ANNOUNCES NEW SCHEDULE FOR CORSICANA-MEXIA

By The Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Jan. 14.—The Humble Oil company advanced Powell and Mexia to $1.40 a barrel, effective at 7 a. m. today, placing the fields on a par with midcontinental crudes.

Texhoma Expects Producer South Electra District

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company's Waggoner No. 27 'A' lease, south Electra pool, is expected to be drilled in at once. The sand was encountered at 1,953 feet. Reports are to the effect the well will probably be a producer.

CORNING CRUDE OIL ADVANCED 10 CENTS

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 14.—Corning grade oil in Buckeye Pipe Line company lines was increased 10 cents a barrel to $1.65 today. Other grades which were advanced last Thursday were unchanged.

GASOLINE ADVANCES IN EASTERN MARKET

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—An advance of 2 cents a gallon in the tank wagon price of gasoline was made today by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey throughout its domestic territory. The new price is 17 1-2 cents a gallon. The Texas company immediately met the increase. The revision of prices follows recent advances in crude oil quotations.

RIGGING UP

By SUMMERS

The New York and National Transit companies have again advanced the price of Pennsylvania crude. Another advance in the midcontinent district will probably soon be made by the Prairie Oil and Gas company, which is the chief carrier of the district.

The Standard, Texas and Atlantic companies post a new gasoline schedule f. tank wagon serving service stations in their eastern territory. A revision of gasoline prices will likely be made throughout the nation.

Corsicana, Powell and Mexia operators can now sell their crude for $1.40 per barrel. The fields are now on a par with other midcontinent districts

Independent purchasing agencies are paying premiums in the Tonkawa and the Osage and in some areas in southern Oklahoma. Bounties are being paid for Hewitt and Graham crudes, as well as the Bristow district.

The starting up of the Roxana Petroleum corporation's refinery at Arkansas City already has had a wholesome effect in Kansas and Oklahoma districts.

A check recently completed by a purchasing agency in the midcontinent district accredits the Magnolia with running 60,000 barrels daily in that district, the Gulf and Gypsy approximately 40,000 barrels, the Texas company about 22,500 barrels, and the Empire between 18,000 and 20,000 barrels a day.

It is said the Osage Indians want another sale of part of their lands. They claim to need the additional cash such as the auction would bring in and if they have their way the secretary of the interior department will order the sale.

The Archer and Wichita county fee owner does not have to wait on an auction sale before leasing his acreage. He is not a ward of the government.

The applications for permits to drill in Archer and Wichita counties last week were approximately half the number requested in the state and shows the amount of activity in the Wichita Falls district compared with the rest of Texas.

TEXHOMA STARTING WICHITA CO. TEST

The Texhoma Refining company has made location for deep test on the Mrs. M. J. Powell land in the C. Winter survey, Wichita county. Derrick is to be erected at once.

PANHANDLE'S TEST ENCOUNTERS SAND ON PARRISH LAND

The Panhandle Refining company's Parrish No. 1 has encountered an oil sand at 1,506 feet. The sand has been penetrated two feet. Approximately 1,000 feet of fluid is said to be standing in the hole. Preparations are being made to complete.

An offset location has been made by McGregor, Laning and Monninger. The test to be spudded as quickly as possible.

UNITED PRODUCTION OPENS OFFICE HERE

A branch office of the United Production company has been opened in the Texan hotel with M. L. Stevens of Houston as manager. The executive office of the company is located in Buffalo, New York. There are two branch offices in Texas, the one located here, and the other at Houston.

Mr. Stevens reports the company has purchased several leases in Archer county, near Electra and in the Sunshine Hill district, and a drilling campaign is to be launched soon.

WHITE TEST READY FOR COMPLETION

The White Oil corporation's Wilson No. 1, section 86, block 3, American Tribune New Colony lands survey expects to bail tonight, according to reports from the field. The sand is said to have been encountered at 1,528 and penetrated seven feet. Other reports are to the effect the sand penetrated six feet. Casing has been set and cemented.

GULF WILDCAT ON MILLER HAS SAND

The Gulf Production company's Miller No. 1, J. F. Miller survey, north of the Kemp-Munger-Allen field, and near the lease of the Ryan Petroleum company, has drilled into an oil sand at depth of 1,600 feet. Preparations are being made to test the sand.

The company's T. Benton No. 1, one mile east of Nocona, Montague county, is drilling at 3,300 feet.

The company's C. W. Worsham No. 3, Worsham ranch, Clay county, is drilling at 1,500 feet.

The company has made location in lot 108 American Tribune New Colony lands, Archer county; and its Witcher No. 2, Saunders estate, Wichita county.

PARKER EXPECTS TO TEST SHALLOW SAND

Carl Parker's test on the J. L. Jackson lease between Holliday and Murphy's corner has encountered an oil sand at 1,118 feet. Test is to be made today.

Fain-Murchinson Complete Wilson For 600 Barrels

By The Associated Press.

Fain and Murchinson's L. F. Wilson No. 2, block 700, Geraldine townsite, Archer county is swabbing and flowing at the rate of between 600 and 700 barrels every 24 hours, according to company reports. Depth is said to be 1,593 feet.

Additional storage is being erected as all available tankage has been filled. The well is one of the best to be completed in that part of the Geraldine townsite.

The Lone Star State and Coming Election

(Below is the fifth of a series of letters on the political situation as it applies to Texas, by Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, former editor of The Record News, and well known throughout the state of Texas for his knowledge of Texas politics.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Practical politicians know the value of organization. Practical politicians begin the work at the bottom and climb upward. That is, they begin their work in the precinct by organizing the voters who look with favor on their candidates and their policies and thus they control on primary election day the delegations to the county convention. Then they see to it that their delegates control the county convention which sends delegates to the state convention where the delegates to the national convention are elected and two members of the national committee, a man and a woman, are named by the convention to represent the state machine, or machinery, in the national organization.

Well, the work of precinct organization is on in Texas. In November last in the City of New York National Committeeman Thomas B. Love informed a reporter of the New York Times that McAdoo would be given an instructed delegation by the democrats of Texas. The Times carried the story. The leading newspapers of Washington, the national capital, carried the story. Ever since the fiasco at San Francisco Love has been working for an instructed McAdoo delegation.

Before the adjournment of the final session of the legislation Marshall Hicks and a few others launched the state organization of McAdoo-for-president democrats. Larry Mills, a clerk in one of the state departments, was elected secretary. Now Hon. Cato Sells is functioning as state manager with Mills in charge of state headquarters at Dallas. Senatorial chairmen have been named. County chairmen have been named and the work of precinct organization will be pushed most vigorously.

Former Mayor W. A. Lee of Orange is the state manager for the Underwood democrats with headquarters at Dallas. He has an advisory committee to assist him, he has senatorial chairmen, county chairmen and precinct chairmen will be appointed as rapidly as possible. Some men say it is McAdoo against the field. McAdoo men say they are fighting for instruction for McAdoo and that without convention instruction all would be lost.

Underwood leaders say that they are going to fight to the finish for an instructed delegation but they do not admit that if they fail to obtain instructions all will be lost. Governor Neff and his friends say they are going to fight for a delegation not controlled by any political boss, ready at all times to take advantage of conditions once the national convention has been organized and to place in the platform of the party ringing resolutions demanding legislation that shall make America as dry as a bat's cave, the Panama Canal zone dry, all American ships of the sea dry and all foreign vessels that touch ports of America dry within the pale of American waters. There is to be no modification of the Volstead act on their part.

Neff's friends are busy. Neff has a personal machine of his own and the faithful the state over are said to be responding with alacrity to his call. This is the way the presidential play is staged today. Love and Hicks and Sells are doing the fine work for the McAdoo cause. Former Governor Oscar B. Colquitt is one of a coterie of prominent democrats who constitute an advisory committee and sit in behind Manager Lea of the Underwood forces.

There are four living ex-governors of Texas—Joseph D. Sayers, Oscar B. Colquitt, James E. Ferguson and William P. Hobby. Sayers is said to be for Underwood for president. Sayers is a democrat who clings to the old land marks of constitutional liberty and for frugality in public expenditures and taxes cut to the bone. Governor Hobby was a delegate to the San Francisco convention but the McAdoo organization, contrary to established usage, elected Cone Johnson chairman of the delegation and when some of Hobby's friends asked for a complimentary vote for the Texan for vice-president the honor was denied to him by the organization leaders.

Ferguson organized the Ford forces in Texas, made many speeches the state over and gave his friends assurances that the followers of the Michigan billionaire were certain to sweep the state. Then, like a bolt out of a clear sky, the industrial king of the world landed on the Coolidge band wagon and advised the voters of America to continue the successor of Harding at the helm of the ship of state.

Now where is Ferguson going? Those who are close to him say that he will never go to McAdoo, that he holds McAdoo responsible for the deflation policy of the Wilson administration which he asserts cost the farmers billions of dollars, that he sees little incentive to become a republican and but a little more to remain a democrat. There are politicians who say that Ferguson will go to Underwood, there are others who say that the delegates friendly to him will go anywhere and to any man to put the Love-Hicks-Sells combination out of business.

There are others who say that through all Ferguson's political ups and downs in his remarkable career, from the day of his triumph to the hour of his political crucifixion, Neff has never uttered an unkindly word in speaking of Ferguson or attempted to kick him when he was down. But back to Colquitt, flushed with victory in 1912 the forty immortals returned from Baltimore and denied Colquitt a second term in the office of governor.

Fighting with his back to the wall, Colquitt overwhelmed the forty immortals and was re-elected by a majority of fifty thousand over the late W. F. Ramsey. Seven years ago he became a candidate for United States senator. He led all the others in the first balloting. In the run-off all the immortals and all the radical prodefeated Colquitt, the high man and re-elected to the senate Charles A. Culberson, a life-long anti-prohibitionist and a statesman who has never concealed his conviction.

Politics makes strange bed-fellows. Colquitt is at the political bat again. Unless all the signs are misleading the coming state convention at Waco, on May 27, will be as spectacular as any convention held in recent years. At Houston in 1912 the forty immortals steamed rolled and bludgeoned all opposition in sight. It was the roller and the gag from start to finish.

Four years later in the city of San Antonio the forty immortals were rolled and gagged to a fare-ye-well and the shrill voice of opposition to the Bailey-Ferguson combination was silenced and Thomas B. Love was carried out on a stretcher.

In 1920 the followers of Woodrow Wilson had an overwhelming majority at Dallas where the convention was held and there was no need for the application of the rag, the juggernaut crushing process of the steam roller or the club of might.

Then came a state convention at San Antonio in 1922 where the state machine, operated by invisible engineers, gave the most complete exhibition of machinery and boss control ever witnessed under the skies of Texas. Politics may make strange bed-fellows at Waco in the coming month of May and there may be an exhibition of the steam roller never before witnessed or equalled in any free democratic state since Thomas Jefferson founded the democratic party and passed it on to those who came after him.

FALLING MORTAR BLOWS UP PLAN

Falling mortar from the second story of the county jail kept one of the prisoners from escaping Sunday night. Deputy Sheriff Jack Miller had been working late Sunday evening, and at 11 o'clock when he had started for home, he heard a strange noise.

Miller at first believed the noise was made by a growling dog, but on inspection, he found that small bits of mortar were falling to the ground. Together with the jailer, Miller proceeded cautiously to the second story of the jail to find a prisoner digging his way through the double brick wall. The inside bricks had been removed and the mortar had been broken out between the bricks and the outside wall.

It is thought that the prisoner got out of the cells Saturday afternoon while scrubbing was going on, and concealed himself on top of the large cells until Sunday night.

GIRLS' GYM CLASS OPENS WITH 100

Gymnasium classes for girls, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's clubs of the Y. W. C. A. opened Monday afternoon at the American Legion hall with an enrollment of over 100 girls and women.

The classes which meet once a week were organized primarily for the benefit of the members of the Business and Professional Women's club who pay no tuition, but outsiders are admitted upon an entrance fee of $2.00 for the course. Other members include mainly Camp Fire Girls, Girl Reserves and members of the Girls club at high school, and of the Junior Business Girls club.

Scout Executive Creighton is in charge of calisthenics and marching while Miss Glenore Fisk, executive of the Camp Fire Girls teaches organized games, folk dances and drills. At the close of the last class period in the afternoon, Scout Executive Creighton conducts group games of volley ball, basket ball, and indoor base ball, and teams are under organization for future conflict.

The movement is one that has long been needed in the city, according to Y. W. C. A. officials and Wichita Falls mothers are sending their daughters to the classes for supervised exercises and recreation that will prove highly beneficial to them, those who are in a position to know say.

Girls of grammar school and junior high school are classified in one group, business girls in another, and older women in still a third, and the work is carefully regulated to meet the needs of the especial group to which it is being taught.

The piano accompaniment work for the classes is in the capable hands of Mrs. Carrie E. Wilcox, who is donating her services as are the two instructors.

LOUISIANA GAS UP TWO CENTS

By The Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 14.—The first change in gasoline prices since summer of 1923 was posted today by the Standard Oil company of Louisiana when an increase of two cents to seventeen and one-half cents per gallon was announced at all Standard filling stations in this territory, other companies following. Tank wagon prices advanced 2 cents to 14½ cents per gallon.

Henrietta

NEWS AND PERSONALS

C. of C. Banquet.

The annual membership banquet of the Henrietta chamber of commerce will be held on Friday night, the 8th of February, at the First Methodist church. This announcement was made at the regular monthly meeting held Friday night at which a large number of citizens were present, not only from Henrietta but Bellevue, Halsell and Petrolia as well. Covers will be laid at the banquet for 400 people. The list of speakers will be announced later.

At the meeting the board of directors speaking through J. S. Dickey outlined their program for this year. It included improved telephone service, graveling of streets in the city, increased number of street lights, parks at the two depots, improved marketing facilities, but most of all, a strong, systematic program of advertising the lands of Clay county, the cutting up of its ranches, the sale to farmers and the encouragement of new citizenship in this county.

Reports were made of the condition of the chamber of commerce and the members were deeply gratified to know that the budget for the coming year is fully provided for, a bank balance and the largest number of active and sustaining members in the history of the organization.

The present officers are as follows: W. H. Chilson, president; Brad Staggs, vice-president; O. T. Liles, secretary and treasurer; R. J. Brown, R. C. Green, Mug Keethe, L. C. Kelley, J. S. Dickey, L. R. Hamlin, Jim Alcorn, Glenn Younger, W. C. Edwards, A. V. Slagle, Brad Staggs and M. B. Powell, directors.

A poultry show will be held in this city on the 7th of February under the auspices of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad and the A. & M. college. Special cars will be parked here at the station for the entire day and addresses will be made at the court house in the morning. Dr. J. H. Farris is in charge of local arrangements.

Messrs. R. T. Gowan, R. S. Gowan, Luther Wright, J. M. Gault and Dr. Crook composed a party of prominent Bellevue citizens who were in the city Friday night.

"Scaramouche" Story Of French Revolution

Fiery Tale to Be Unfolded in the Masterly Style of Rex Ingram At Palace For Week of Jan. 21.

"Scaramouche," appearing at the Palace the week of Jan. 21, is a story of the French Revolution. It tells the romance of Andre-Louis Moreau (Ramon Novarro and Aline de Kercadiou (Alice Terry). Andre-Louis has been brought up as the ward of Aline's uncle. The Marquis de la Tour d'Azyr (Lewis Stone,) a haughty aristocrat and man of fashion, killed Andre-Louis' friend, Phillippe, because of his revolutionary sentiments, and on the Marquis, Andre-Louis has sworn eternal vengeance. To make matters worse the Marquis is courting Aline.

ALICE TERRY

Andre's seditious speches cause him to be sought for the gallows, and in escaping from the pursuing gendarmerie, he joins a strolling band of players and becomes Scaramouche, the clown. Bitterness against Aline leads him into an affair with the leading lady of the troupe, but he ends this when the girl accepts attentions from the Marquis.

Skilled in fencing, Andre-Louis Moreau is persuaded to become substitute deputy in the National Assembly of France for a deputy who was killed in the series of duels brought by the aristocrats against the people's representatives. In a duel with La Tour d' Azyr, that is the culmination of his activities in the Assembly, Andre Louis wounds the Marquis, and Andre's misunderstanding of Aline's actions after the duel, further widens the breach between them.

The fires of rebellion among the lower and middle classes of Paris are finally fanned into open revolt. The patriot Danton (George Siegmann) leads the mob to the Tuileries, where the monarchy is overthrown. The Marquis escapes from the massacre at the Tuileries, and seeks shelter at the house where also is Aline, who has been unable to escape from the city. Andre-Louis comes to save her, and finds the Marquis there. The two men are on the point of killing each other when revelations are made that disclose Andre's real identity.

The thirty principal characters in "Scaramouche" include, beside Ramon Novarro, Lewis Stone and Alice Terry who were the triumvirate that appeared in Ingram's "Prisoner of Zenda," Lloyd Ingraham, Julia Swayne Gordon and Edith Allen.

Willis Goldbeck adapted the story to the screen, the photography was by John F. Seitz, Curt Rehfield was production manager, and Grant Whytock editor. Costumes were designed by O'Kane Cornwell and Evamay Roth and executed by Van Horn.

"A WOMAN OF PARIS"
featuring Edna Purviance
Written and Directed by Charles Chaplin

Chaplin's Play a Masterpiece.

The small things in life are generally the elements which mould and control the destinies of human mortals. The seemingly trivial incident of an uncompleted telephone conversation was the means used by director Charles Chaplin whereby the life of Marie St. Clair was entirely diverted from becoming the wife of her village sweetheart, and embarked her upon the career of "A Woman of Paris," where she became the plaything of the richest man of the gayest city in the world.

Edna Purviance as Marie St. Clair in Charles Chaplin's, "A Woman of Paris," rises to great heights in her histrionic career.

Miss Purviance's portrayal of the difficult role of a demi-monde, whereby she spreads sorrow and anguish to others, yet retains the sympathies of her audiences is a revelation. Her characterization and the technique of Chaplin's direction are masterful strokes portraying the art of life's paintings in the photoplay.

Chaplin has established his mastery as a great director.

Mission Has Good Comedy.

The New York stage success, "Blow Your Own Horn," that is playing at the Mission theatre, is a good example of what a first-class director can do with a corking good comedy. From the moment the first reel of this hilarious comedy begins to unwind with its amusing tag scene between the tenderly-raised city boy and the rough-neck farmer child, James W. Horne, the director, gives us a continuous succession of chortles, giggles, and downright laughter. Then, of course, there are big moments of drama, and the contrast of splendid emotional acting against the rollicking background of comedy brings ready response from the audience.

The virile yet whimsical impersonation of the penniless deacon by Warner Baxter, the marvelously human characterization of the girl's father by Ralph Lewis, and the dainty appeal of the newly discovered star, Dorothy Perdue, are outstanding features of this delicious comedy. The rest of the cast, however, is so excellent that it hardly seems fair to single out any one for special eulogy.

"Galloping Fish" Brilliant Comedy

A little professional jealousy, in the hands of a tactful general, can become a most effective spur to brilliant work so Thomas H. Ince discovered during the filming of "The Galloping Fish," his new comedy special for First National release.

Ince set out with the determination to excell his own record made with "The Hottentot" unanimously awarded the ribbon as the comedy success of the past year. When the script for the picture was handed to him after months of preparation to which four of Hollywood's cleverest "gag" men had contributed gems of humor, the producer scratched his head thoughtfully. It was the funniest script he had ever read but he saw a chance to make it funnier. So he engaged the four veteran comedians of the screen for the leading roles—Louise Fazenda, Syd Chaplin, Ford Sterling and Chester Conklin. Another producer might have hesitated to tackle the job of handling four such glittering celebrities. Ince proved his generalship by promising each one unlimited opportunity to "do their stuff"—provided they did not overstep their characterizations or the bounds of the story and furthermore soothed the feelings of all of them by handing the title role to a trained seal!

No one could take offense at having a dumb animal in the headline role so Miss Fazenda, Syd, Ford and Chester promptly set to work figuring out the best possible gags that would make their roles a little "fatter." Every suggestion they could offer was eagerly listened to by Ince and worked into the story wherever feasible. The result is the most remarkable comedy offering ever screened.

Miss Fazenda is known in the darkest corners of two continents as a sure-fire laugh producer. Syd Chaplin has been a comedy director and producer for years in addition to his appearances on the screen which have made him almost as popular a comedian as his brother Charlie. Ford Sterling, a veteran of the Universal and Sennett lots, learned how to get laughs from behind the footlights of the vaudeville circuits before the picture magnates discovered that he was worth his weight in gold to them. Sterling, too, is an expert comedy director while Chester Conklin and his walrus mustache have been collecting laughs since the movies began. Del Andrews is directing under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince.

The Three Graces.

Sweet, Love and Joy!

The three graces have found temporary abiding place on the lot of the Thomas H. Ince studios where Blanche Sweet, Bessie Love and Leatrice Joy are now at work in new Ince productions. Sweet and Love are appearing in "Those Who Dance," billed as the "surprise story" of the year which is being directed by Lambert Hillyer behind closed doors. The theme of the picture has not yet been revealed beyond the fact that it is based on George Kibbe Turner's story from which the title is taken. To that story has been added a novel twist which Ince believes will furnish the picture-goers with a new thrill.

Leatrice Joy with Percy Marmount and Adolph Menjou is working under the direction of John Griffith Wray in "Against the Rules," the temporary title of a screen story by C. Gardner Sullivan adapted from Frank R. Adams' magazine story of the same name. The background for the drama is a forgotten isle of the south Pacific and for weeks the Ince lot has been haunted by dark-skinned natives and beautiful "hula" girls wreathed in leis and clothed only in grass skirts.

Movies Produce Artists.

Motion pictures are creating their own talent, and with each succeeding year there come to the fore young men and women who have had no training on the speaking stage but have worked their way from "extra" to stardom.

Agnes Ayres, who plays one of the leading roles in William deMille's latest Paramount production, "Don't Call It Love," coming Wednesday to the Olympic, is a brilliant example of an artist developed by motion pictures. She began her career as an "extra" at the old Essanay studio in Chicago, and was selected by Vitagraph to appear in twenty-five short-film productions of O. Henry stories. She became known everywhere as "the O. Henry Girl."

Following the "O. Henry" engagement, she joined Paramount and played leading roles in many successful productions.

In the newest William deMille production, "Don't Call It Love," she has one of her most appealing roles, that of a refined young woman who loves a bachelor but is too sensitive deliberately to intrigue him. Her friend, a worldly-wise young woman, suggests that she exert "lure" upon the rich youth; but she declines the advice. When the young man discovers that a singer who had fascinated him considered him merely as a fitting subject for her emotional preying, he turns to the girl he had previously failed to appreciate.

"Don't Call It Love" was adapted by Clara Beranger from Julian Streets novel, "Rita Coventry." The cast of players includes, besides Miss Ayres, Nita Naldi as the fascinating singer, Jack Holt as the bachelor, Theodore Kosloff as the conductor at the opera whose name has been coupled with that of the opera diva, Rod LaRocque as the "flame" who followed the bachelor in the singer's collection, Robert Edeson as the opera manager and Julia Faye as the worldly-wise friend of the refined girl.

McMordie, Carey Hunter and Miss Margaret Blackburn.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held with Mrs. Mack Thomas on February 10.

Mrs. Murrell Hostess To Circle Five

Mrs. F. E. Murrell, 1647 Huff, was hostess to members of Circle Five of the First Baptist Woman's Auxiliary at her home Monday afternoon when the program was opened with prayer by Mrs. W. W. Brown.

During a brief business session presided over by Mrs. Murrell, the constitution and by-laws were read by Mrs. A. F. Kimmell and 70 cents was contributed to the flower fund and $10 to the free will offering.

In the absence of the teacher, Mrs. J. F. Riggs, a splendid Bible lesson was conducted by Mrs. Ralph Hines.

The program was concluded with prayer by Mrs. W. J. Webb. Those present were Mesdames A. F. Kimmell, W. A. Freear, W. W. Brown, E. D. Trevathan, J. F. Riggs, W. J. Webb, J. F. Detlefs, G. C. Wood, Dave Shepherd, Ralph Hines and Barrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Naylor Hosts At Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Naylor were hosts at dinner Friday night celebrating the birthday of Miss Ages Naylor when three courses were served.

The house was attractively decorated for the occasion in cut flowers and the hours were pleasantly spent in dancing.

Covers were laid for Messrs. and Mesdames John Barker, Richard Van Naylor and Misses Eunice Jane Goodman, Eunice Stalcup and Harold Naylor.

Woman's Choral Club Gives Initial Concert

Appearing in their initial concert, members of the Woman's Choral club entertained a large audience at the First Baptist church Monday evening when an exceptionally well balanced program consisting of compositions featuring American composers was given.

Mrs. O. B. Kiel as pianist, did splendid work also Mrs. E. H. Gipson, Mrs. F. R. Collier at the organ and Mrs. Ray Eyssen on the violin. The group furnishing the accompaniments throughout the evening.

Soloists for the evening included the chorus director, Mrs. Louella B. Thompson, contralto, and Rev. Leslie Miller, baritone. Both artists were received with ovations.

Miss Margaret Blackburn, talented reader and the Shrine Chanters, composed of Messrs. Vaughn Ray, first tenor, Ivan Murchinson, second tenor, Paul von Allman, baritone, and Grover Bullington, bass, accompanied at the piano assisted the chorus, their numbers proving altogether delightful.

Mrs. Kiel's piano number, Paderewski's "Theme Varie" was well received as were the numbers given by the chorus.

RIBBONS NOW IN THE ART CLASS

Ribbon Studios Now Cropping Out In the East and Elsewhere

Did you ever notice the entrancing ribbon creations in the shops these days, rosebuds and small flowers in every desired shade fashioned beautifully and realistically of satin ribbon in every imaginable hue, with other shades blended in with a paint brush? Then there are boudoir sets of powder puff and mirror mounted on a stick with ribbon backs, clever vanities and party bags, lovely corsages, lingerie sets, lamp shades, cushions, baby things, and even hats artistically made of ribbon.

The myriads of flowers and ribbon novelties are used extensively in decoration and designing of lingerie, dresses, wraps, children's and babies' clothes; in fact, ribbon plays a vital part in modern dress.

And it all happened through the ingenuity and cleverness of a little lady who sold ribbon seven years ago behind the counter of a big New Yor department store.

One day the little lady, revolting at the idea of "rosettes" which were the universal form of ribbon decoration at that time, set to work to make real rosebuds to some ribbon remnants to adorn some of her Christmas gifts. A passing shopper seeing her work put in an order, which the little lady immediately accepted. After filling the order and receiving a good price for her cleverness, with the consent of the floorwalker, she placed some ribbon novelties in her show case to help sell her wares.

The next season found the little lady with three assistants in a cozy well-lighted workshop in the top of the big store devoting all her time to the creation of the novelties. As her experience grew, the paint brush, crinoline forms, and methods for rapid duplication came into use and her small field rapidly grew, her art spreading qickly over the country.

Other clever people soon found that they had the technique and the required knack for making the ribbon creations beautifully and artistically.

At the present time New York boasts of several "ribbon studios" where these bewitching creations of art, color and design are displayed in salons quite as rich and beautiful as those devoted to painting and sculptering. The results achieved by masters of the needle and the satin strip are quite as rare and remarkable as the tapestry work of France or the lace work of Norway.

DOROTHY DIX'S LETTER BOX

Why Not Tell Husbands How to Hold Their Wives' Love for a Change?—The Young Wife Whose Husband Forces Her to Be Entirely Idle. How to Tell When a Man Is in Love.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Why do you write so much about wives trying to hold their husbands' love? Doesn't it ever occur to people that a wife gets just as bored with her husband as he does with her? Sometimes, she is even more bored, because most wives are home all day, and evening, too, whereas their husbands have diversions at the office and elsewhere, and a few hours at home in the evening are really restful to them. It seems to be the general opinion that a woman remains in love with her husband, regardless of his habits and disposition—whether he is tidy around the house, whether he is entertaining or stupid, grouchy or pleasant. Also that a wife should be attractive, vivacious and ready to humor her husband in order to hold him while he doesn't need to do anything to hold her.

So far as I am concerned, if my husband doesn't stay in love with me when I bet my natural self, and the way I feel, he can just look our for somebody else. I have often been bored with him, and disgusted with him. So are other wives with their husbands at times. So why not tell husbands how to make their wives contented and give them a little of the romance they crave? E. H. B.

Answer—Yes, verily, sister; you have said a true thing. Wives to get just as fed up with their husbands as husbands do with their wives, and many a husband would get the jolt of his li if he knew his wife's real opinion of him. A slouchy man with a two day's stubble of beard on his face and spots on his clothes is as illusioning and as unkissable an object to a woman as any lady with cold cream on her face and a soiled kimono and curl papers is to a man. It is just as much a man's business to keep his wife fascinated as it is a wife's to keep her husband enthralled.

Why, then, is the loud pedal put on the wife's part in making a happy home and keeping marriage a going concern? Simply because, in the words of President Cleveland, "it is a condition, and not a theory, that confronts us." There are certain amenities of domesticity that must be practiced to make it a success, and men won't take the trouble and make the effort, or even realize the necessity of practicing them, so there is always a hope that women will. Also, it is more important to a woman to protect her home than it is to a man, for the home means not only the love nest, it means her meal ticket as well. It means not only her happiness, but her comfort.

For a woman to say she will not make an effort to make herself attractive to her husband is to take a dishonest advantage of her situation. She would have to make a mighty strenuous effort to be agreeable if she got along with her boss. She daily does things she doesn't feel like doing in order to get along in society. So it seems to me that it is an obligation of honor to try to please the one man who is legally bound to stand you.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—What do you think of a man who does not allow his wife, who is not yet 21 years old, and who is healthy and strong and vivacious, to make any acquaintances, or to go to parties, nor even to occupy herself at home or outside, but just to sit up at home with nothing to do and wait for his return?

My husband knew when we were engaged that I was used to a very active life, and to having my time well occupied. Now I have nothing to do and I feel as if I would go crazy. Do you not think it is dangerous for a woman to be absolutely idle, with nothing to do but to think and think, and build air castles during the lonesome hours of a lonesome day?

VERY TROUBLED.

Answer—I do, indeed, Troubled. It is true that Satan finds work for idle hands to do, and he invariably gets on the job when a woman has nothing to do. You have only read the newspapers to have this proved to you. The women who figure in the scandals are the idle rich or the well-to-do women who live in boarding houses, and who, having nothing with which to occupy their time, go out and hunt for trouble --and find it.

It is the idle women who are the victims of lounge lizards and tea hounds, not the hustling business woman nor the busy housewife, who find the day all too short to do all the work that is piled up.

It is the women with nothing to do but think and think and think about themselves who are the neurotic invalids who enrich doctors and fill sanitariums. It is the idle women who have the leisure in which to vivisect themselves, who discover that their husbands do not understand them, and are not their soul mates. You never hear of the woman who has to cook and sew and patch, and scrub for half a dozen children, wondering if her husband is her real affinity or not.

Work is the salvation of women just as much as it is of men. And any husband who doesn't see that his wife has plenty of real constructive work to do—work that counts and that she is responsible for doing; work that keeps her hands and her mind fully occupied—is not only doing her a deadly wrong, but he is steering his matrimonial boat straight for the rocks.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Please give a rule of thumb for telling when a man is in love. QUABRE.

Answer—There is just one infallible rule, and that is when a man pops the question and names the wedding day.

All other signs are worthless. Put no faith in words, in oaths of devotion that are not backed up by a bona fide marriage license. A man may come to see you for seven years and mean nothing more than that he finds you good company, and your house a comfortable place to spend his evenings.

He may look sentiment and talk sentiment that always stops just short of popping the question. Pay no heed to any such manifestations. If he really loves you and wants you, he will ask you to be his—and that is all there is to that.

HAPPINESS AT LAST; SAYS HE

Wealthy Indian Rancher Takes Bride; Judge Gwinn Is Medium

Happiness has at last come to Frank Moetah, wealthy Indian rancher who came to Wichita Falls Sunday afternoon in his car with his bride-to-be, Mrs. Yona Corney, and who returned home Monday with his wife to hit the long and happy trail of married life for the second time.

Moetah and his bride, who are both over 50 years of age, were married Monday morning at the courthouse by Justice R. V. Gwinn. The bride, who has also been wedded before, wore a dress of resplendent blue calico and a gorgeous Indian shawl of brilliantly colored wool, finely woven, and beautifully designed. She was very quiet and talked but little, content only to take part in the ceremony and leave the talking up to her new husband, who conversed, not unwillingly, in very good English.

The groom, who was dressed in "United States clothes," had braided his long black hair with brightly colored ribbons in honor of the great event. According to Justice Gwinn, he seemed quite elated over the wedding and during the ceremony his face was wreathed in smiles. "He must have felt good over getting married," Judge Gwinn said, "from the size of the bill he slipped me after the ceremony."

Following a precedent not unusual in newly wedded husbands, Mr. Moetah told Justice Gwinn some of the unsurpassable qualities of his bride. The one of which he seemed proudest was her extraordinary ability to keep house and cook good meals.

"My first wife," said Moetah, according to Justice Gwinn, "was a graduate of Carlisle Indian school. She was too high a flier for me, and said I was too common for her kind. She told me that if I would give her five head of horses she would get a divorce and I could go and find another squaw and marry again." This was the happy explanation he gave of his latest wedding, and from his evident pride in his new wife and her accomplishments, the trail of matrimony will be long, and filled with peace and content.

ARMY GETTING MANY AID CALLS

Many calls have been made to the Salvation Army for relief the last few days, according to Theodore Hamilton, relief worker of the Army. He says that the calls are from local people and not so many calls from transients going through the city.

Men seeking work have also asked aid of the Salvation Army. Places for employment seem to be filled, and the Army has been unable to secure work for many of those asking it.

COLOR CUT-OUTS

A Skating Relay.

"How are we going to manage this skating race?" asked the boy from the fourth grade when Billy Cut-Out's team arrived at the pond.

"Well, why couldn't we have a relay? There are four of you and four of us," suggested Billy.

All agreed that it was a fine suggestion, so the boys took places around the pond at "first, second and third bases," just like a ball game. A big boy, who didn't care which side won, acted as referee. When he blew the whistle, off started the contestants on the first lap. They touched the outstretched hands of the second pair at the same moment, Billy Cut-Out was on the third lap, and as soon as his man tagged him, he skated off like a whirlwind.

"Good boy!" called the referee as Billy crossed the finishing line just ahead of the fourth grader. "Second grade wins!"

Billy's "Daniel Boone" cap is brown and black coonskin. His shoes, hose, trousers and sweater are brown, his mittens blue, and the checks on his outfit orange.

Any Music Taste Satisfied By 8 Victor Artists

Melody - Mirth - Harmony - Jazz! They're all combined in the concert and entertainment of the Eight Popular Victor Artists to be given at the Palace on Thursday, January 17.

It was a happy idea indeed to gather together these celebrated lighteners of care and annihilators of grouch. Each one of them for years, through Victrola records, has endeared himself to multitudes in every land.

And now they are coming to Wichita Falls—themselves—in person — and the bonds of affection woven by their voices, their sentiment, their good cheer as imparted through that familiar marvel, the Victrola, will be woven firmer than ever by their actual appearance and spirited performance.

The artists are Henry Burr and Albert Campbell, tenors; Billy Murray, tenor-cunedian; Rudy Wiedoft, saxophonist; Frank Croxton, basso; Monroe Silver, monologist; John Meyer, baritone; Frank Banta, pianist and accompanist; the Sterling Trio and the Peerless Quartet, famous ensemble organizations.

Long after they are gone, the memory of this unique event will linger in the minds and the hearts of those who hear them.

NOW GIRLS, GET ON THE WAGON

They're Wearing Pink Spats, B'gosh

Shades of red flannel underwear! The final touch has come. The relegation of that ancient standby of granddad's day is complete. What do you suppose the girls are wearing now?

Flesh colored jersey spats! They fit without a wrinkle and are worn under the gauzy chiffon hose that the dainty maiden of today wears.

So when you see Marylinn tripping lightly down the street on a nipping cold afternoon swathed in furs but with a dainty pink sheen visible through the gossamer weave of her hosiery don't pull any stuff about the follies of woman's dress. She's probably much warmer than you are in your salt and pepper silk and wools.

These new spats, which are knee length and come well down over the foot are certainly the oyster's eyebrow, the girls all say. Galoshes may do for the old fashioned miss of last year but if you want to be up to the minute—spats it is.

FOOD HANDLERS PERMITS DUE

All store keepers, restaurant proprietors, fruit stand owners and all others who handle food products are warned by Drs. Douglass and Lucey of the city health department to secure their 1924 permits to do business and get the necessary health certificates.

Each person who sells food products and those working in such an establishment must take a physical examination, the physicians explain. "The 1924 permits and health certificates are now due and many persons have not secured them yet Those who do not attend to this the next few days will be subjected to the penalties of the law," Dr. Douglass said.

RHEUMATISM Leaves You Forever

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conquerer of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Either the Palace or the Central Drug Store can supply you. Mail orders accepted.—Adv.

MANY SCHOOLS TO SERVE HOT LUNCH

The new year finds the work of Miss Georgia Lansford, county demonstration agent, beginning auspiciously with all women's and school clubs of Wichita county in the midst of much activity.

This week a number of schools in Wichita county will serve hot lunches. Miss Lansford went to Cashion school Monday and assisted in the preparation and serving of the hot lunch there.

Interest in the kitchen contest being put on by a farm newspaper which offers a prize to the women who fix up their kitchens the best on the least amount of money is being shown by women over the county. The contest is for women who fix up their kitchen for $25 or less and the other is for those who make the most kitchen improvements for more than that amount.

In the Bowie addition near the city where Miss Lansford recently organized a woman's club, the work is showing great growth. At the first meeting held there were but 11 women present. The second meeting saw the number doubled with 22 present. Miss Lansford expects the mebership to double again at the meeting to be held next Jan. 24.

Miss Lansford states the rural women are taking great interest in the making of cheese. Next Wednesday the women of the Pleasant Valley community will meet for this purpose.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF MOVIES

Rev. Dr. Charles Scanlon of New York is in the limelight. He is secretary of the Moral Welfare department of one of the powerful religious combinations in America. He says a congress of churches and welfare organizations will be held at Washington February 13 and 14 at which it is expected a bill for federal control of motion pictures will be drafted for presentation to congress.

Is this another invasion of the rights of the state? Is it another invasion of the Bill of Rights. Why federal censorship of moving pictures? If it is constitutional the next step will be federal censorship of the press. If the welfare workers are wise they will tie themselves to the old landmarks created by the fathers of the republic, to the constitution and constitutional liberty, to freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom of thought and freedom or action.

If a moving picture producer screens a picture that is indecent or an insult to morality or a menace to the youth of the country, he should be handled by the local authorities. There isn't a producer in America with the nerve to flaunt an indecent picture in the face of outraged public opinion.

LINCOLN NOT TO BLAME.

Almost everyone has some relative of which he is ashamed; or, to turn it the other way round, some relative who is ashamed of him.

A lawyer in Illinois who confessed that he had killed his wife, is described as being a "distant relative of Abraham Lincoln." That's pretty rough on the name of Lincoln, and the fact that he is a distant relative of the great Lincoln should not have been mentioned in the dispatches.

What if he was? Lincoln doubtless had a number of worthless relatives. Almost every man has. That he had a relative who turned murderer is nothing against Lincoln's worthy name. It just so happened. But there is a taint carried by the suggestion that does not set well with the general run of folks.

Just what has this man's crime to do with the fact that he was accidentally and distantly related to Abe Lincoln? Nothing at all. He just was, assuming that the statement was correct, and the less said about it the better. As a killer he is nothing more than a common criminal and should be treated as such.

Ashton Harvey, a multimillionaire of New York while playing a game of golf with John D. Rockefeller dropped dead on the Ormond golf links. John D. is 87. His playing gave the multi-millionaire heart failure.

AND W. J. B. IS THERE.

Democratic leaders gathering in Washington give indications at this early date of a spirited contest for the presidential nomination. The names of McAdoo and Underwood loom, and talk of candidates was far outstripping the consideration of a place for holding the convention.

It might also be mentioned that William Jennings Bryan was there "as in interested observer." W. J. B. would make a lot of folks happy if he would content himself with playing that role to the finish. But it is a safe guess that Mr. Bryan will be something more than "an interested observer" before the last inning. He's long since given up the race for himself, but—he always has a candidate.

MONEY TALKS

Brizalan men of affairs, backed by their government, hope to induce a million Europeans to migrate to the South American republic this year. There are millions of Europeans ready to migrate to Brazil or any other prosperous country if furnished free the transportation facilities. Money talks. Brazilian builders should be aware of this fact.

The Reason For That Sad, Moaning Sound From Washington

Tarzan and the Golden Lion

CHAPTER I.
The Golden Lion

Sabor the lioness, suckled her young—a single fuzzy ball. Numa, the lion, was away. Two nights before he had made a kill and dragged it to their lair and last night he had fared forth again, but he had not returned. Sabor was thinking as she half dosed, of Wappi, the plump antelope, that her splendid mate might this very minute be dragging through the tangled jungle to her. Sabor's mouth watered.

Ah, what was that. The shadow of a sound had come to those keen ears. Her nose sniffed the air.

Presently the breeze brought to her nostrils the scent-spoor of something that moved toward her through the jungle. Instantly the troubled motherface was metamorphosed into a barefanged glittering-eyed mask of savage rage, for the odor that had come up to her through the jungle was the hated man-scent.

She rose to her feet, her head flattened, her sinuous tail twitching nervously and moved rapidly and silently to meet the intruder. The first intimation that the man, a native warrior, had that there was a lion within 20 miles of him, was the terrifying apparition of this devil-faced cat charging across the clearing toward him with the speed of an arrow.

The man bore a heavy spear. He carried it far back with his right hand and hurled it at the very instant that Sabor rose to seize him. The spear passed through the savage beast and almost simultaneously the giant jaws closed upon the face and skull of the warrior. The momentum of the lioness carried the two heavily to the ground, man and beast both dead.

The orphaned cub stopped 20 feet away and surveyed the first great catastrophe of his life. Gradually he crept closer to his mother and whined to her, but she did not answer.

It dawned on him at last that his great, beautiful mother was not as she had been—yet still he clung to her, crying much until at last he fell asleep, cuddled close to her dead body.

It was thus that Tarzan found him—Tarzan and Jane, his wife, and their son, Korah the killer. At the sound of their approach the cub opened his eyes and snarled at them. At sight of him the ape-man smiled.

"Plucky little devil," he commented, taking in the story of the tragedy at a single glance.

"What a brave little fellow," cried Jane. "Poor little orphan. Too bad the rascal has to die."

"He doesn't have to die," returned Tarzan.

"You're going to adopt him?"

Tarzan nodded. Reaching out suddenly he caught the little lion by the scruff of its neck and then stroking it gently he talked to it in a low, crooning tone. I do not know what he said; but perhaps the cub did, for presently it ceased its struggles and no longer sought to scratch or bite the caressing hand.

"How do you do it?" exclaimed Jane Clayton.

Tarzan shrugged his broad shoulders. "Your kind are not afraid of you—these are really my kind, try to civilize me as you will."

They named the lion Jad-bal-ja, which in the language of the pithecanthropi of Pal-ul-don, means the Golden Lion, because of his color.

From a native village Tarzan procured a mother dog whose pups had been stolen by a snake. She nursed the little cub and accepted him as flesh of her flesh. They called her Za, meaning girl. She followed them willingly through the jungle, nor ever after did she seek to leave them, nor was happy unless she was near one of the three.

As the days passed and the golden lion grew, Tarzan taught it many tricks—to fetch and carry, to lie motionless in hiding at his almost inaudible word of command, to hunt for hidden things and to retrive them. When meat was added to its diet he fed it always in a way that brought grim smiles to the savage lips of the Waziri warriors, for Tarzan had built a dummy in the semblance of a man and the meat that the lion was to eat was fastened always at the throat of the dummy.

Never did the manner of feeding vary. At a word from the ape-man the golden lion would crouch, belly to the ground, and then Tarzan would point at the dummy and whisper the single word "kill." However, hungry he might be, the lion learned never to move toward his meat until that single word had been uttered by its master; and then with a rush and a savage growl it drove straight for the flesh. A single leap would carry it to its goal and down would go the dummy upon its back with the young lion tearing at its throat. At the word "fetch" the lion was taught to find any indicated object and return with it to his master, even the dummy with raw meat tied at its throat, and that he must not touch the meat nor harm the dummy nor any other article that he was fetching, but place them carefully at the ape-man's feet.

Afterward he learned always to be sure of his reward, which usually consisted in a double portion of the meat that he loved best.

CHAPTER II.
A Meeting of Mystery.

A rather attractive-looking, though overdressed, young woman was dining in a second-rate chop-house in London.

She was noticeable, not so much for her fine figure and beautiful face as for the size and appearance of her companion, a large, well-proportioned man in the mid-twenties, with such a tremendous beard that it gave him the appearance of hiding in ambush. He stood fully three inches over six feet. His physique his carriage, everything about him, suggested indubitably the trained athlete.

The two were in close conversation that gave evidence of bordering upon heated argument.

"I tell you," said the man, "that I do not see what we need of the others."

"It takes money to carry the plan through," replied They have it and they will back us with it—me for my Flora Hawkes, "and neither you or I have any money knowledge and you for your appearance" and your strength. They searched for you, Esteban, for two years and, now that they have found you, I should not care to be in your shoes if you betrayed them."

"But I tell you, Flora, we ought to get more out of it than they want to give. You furnish all the knowledge and I take all the risk—why shouldn't we have more than a sixth apiece?"

"Talk to them yourself, then, Esteban," said the girl with a shrug, "but I can assure you that if you do not muddle the thing, one-sixth of what you bring out will be enough for any one of us for the rest of his natural life."

Constant dreaming of the fabulous wealth of the treasure vaults of Opar, concerning which she had heard much while in the employ of the Greystokes, had aroused within Flora's crafty and unscrupulous mind a desire for possession, and in consequence thereof she had slowly visualized a scheme whereby she might loot the treasure vaults. She had searched for a type of man who might successfully impersonate Tarzan in his own jungle. Him she had found in Esteben Miranda, a handsome, powerful and unscrupulous Spaniard, whose histrionic ability aided by the art of make-up, of which he was a past master, permitted him to impersonate Tarzan.

Having found Esteban, she drew four other men into the conspiracy, and it was they for whom she and the Spaniard were awaiting.

"You can make me do anything you want, Flora," he said now, "for when I am with you I forget the gold, and think only of that other reward which you continually deny me, but which one day I shall win."

"Love and business do not mix well," replied the girl. "Wait until you have succeeded in this work, Esteban, and then we may talk of love."

"You do not love me," he whispered hoarsely. "I know—I have seen—that each of the others loves you. That is why I should hate them. And if I thought that you loved one of them, I would cut his heart out."

"Hush," she cautioned, "here they come."

The two watched the approach of four men who had just entered the chophouse. Two of them, Throck and Peebles, were Englishmen, who looked what they really were, former pugilists, the third, Adolph Bluber, was a short, fat German; the other had the figure of a Greek god and the grace of a Russian dancer, which, in truth, was what Carl Kraski was, when he chose to be other than a rogue. They drank to Flora, a long-standing custom.

"Now," cried Peebles, as he set down his glass, "'ere we are, and that's that! We 'ave everything, Flora—the plans, the money, Senor Miranda—and are jolly well ready, old dear, for your part of it."

"How much money have you," asked Flora. "It is going to take two thousand pounds."

"Bluber has the money, Flora," he said; "each of us has contributed his share. We'll make Blubber treasurer. It is our plan now to set out from London in pairs."

He spread a map out before them. With his finger he indicated a point marked X. "Here we will meet and here we will equip our expedition. Bluber and Miranda will go first; then Peebles and Throck. By the time that you and I arrive everything will be in shape for moving immediately into the interior. I understand that Miranda is well schooled in the character to perfection."

"Do I understand," asked Miranda "that you and Miss Hawkes travel alone to X."

"You do, unless your understanding is poor," replied the Russian.

The Spaniard half-rose from the table and leaned across it menacingly toward Kraski. The girl, who was sitting next to him, seized his coat.

To Be Continued.

So Goes It

By BURNS HEGLER

When William James Sidis was a child he startled Harvard professors by reading an erudite paper on the fourth dimension before the mathematical faculty of the university. He was hailed as an "infant prodigy," and, of course, got his due share of publicity.

Now he is a clerk at the age of 26 years, lives in a garret room, and is cut off from his friends and family. It looks like a case of too much brains.

For, as the average man knows, and most of us are just averages men, brains do not mean much if you have no practical use for them. Being an infant prodigy attracts considerable attention at the time, but a man can not be an infant always, and there are not enough prodigies rambling around to make it an attractive business.

This young man doubtless has a wonderful brain, but at the age of 26 he feels terribly abused and downtrodden, merely because he got the wrong estimate of himself in the beginning. And the pity is, that it was not his fault at all.

This does not apply alone in the highbrow type. In Chicago there is a man known as Charles Femoud. He was a dishwasher. As a dishwasher he was a success, but he wasn't satisfied with washing dishes. He aspired to greater things and he thirsted for romance. So he went into the business of burglary.

He made quite a reputation, became known as an elusive burglar, and created a lot of comment in the newspapers and among the police. Then they caught him. Now he is just a comman thief, shorn of romance and all the attending thrills.

Funny world, isn't it. Folks just won't be satisfied. Here's one fellow who starts out as prodigy and winds up in a garret. And another that starts out as a good dish washer and winds up in jail.

If the first had never been a prodigy he would have made a good clerk and if the second had never been a robber he would have made a first class dishwasher. Funny, funny old world.

MOTHERS
AND THEIR CHILDREN

On the Magazine Stand

One Mother Says:

I started taking children's magazines for my youngsters just as soon as they could read and always saw to it that books they like were also on the library table along with my own. Many children are not interested in reading unless they have at hand books or magazines of their own which they can pick up and dip into just as grownups.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

BY MARY BLAKE

CAPRICORN

The only good period of the day is between the hours of one and three. The dominant influences quicken the mind and perception, giving desire for change and excitement. It is an unfortunate day for women.

A child born today may be sensitive in disposition but is preeminently an intellectual personality.

You are intellectual if today is your birthday. You experience things as mental rather than sensory reactions. This is partly because your mind is unusually alert and inquisitive and partly because you fear your senses and distrust them.

You are inclined to be more of a moralist than a realist but deep within you there is the same impulsive love of life that one finds in the true artist and sooner or later you are fated to obey it. You may go on for years in the narrow paths of righteousness but sooner or later you will yield to the temptation to live life naturally and freely and beautifully, and when you do you will make up for the years of suppression in a very brief period.

You are gifted with unusual powers of perception and analysis. All things interest you not only for their own intrinsic qualities but in their relations to each other and to mankind as a whole. You are essentially idealistic and find it hard to do anything which is not inherently worth doing, no matter what the material inducements. But at the same time you seldom go unpaid for anything that you do that is worth while.

But you are inclined to be conventional in your idealism because you distrust new theories. You have the historical sense of time in a superlative degree, and unless a theory has stood the test of time you avoid even considering it.

You are not emotional but you are sentimental. Your feelings are always poetic and rhapsodic but never truly profound. You only feel things deeply when it is obviously good taste to do so.

Successful people born on this date are:

More Truth Than Poetry

A NOTE OF REJECTION

(A lady in London has advertised for a husband who will also act as cook and maid.)

In Merry England, we're afraid
The average Yankee wouldn't do,
A man can't be a cook and maid
And come home with the bacon, too.
We haven't any leisure class
With always overflowing tills;
We have to toil to pay the gas
And grocery bills.

The Englishman who affluent dad
Considerately, when he died,
Left all the money that he had
The family larder to provide,
Can wash the dishes, cook and sweep
Although the duties take all day,
But here we can't do that and keep
The wolf away.

In England, cooks and maids are rare
And always quoted over par,
They're far more difficult to spare
Than any mere male spouses are.
Theirs is a rather desperate case
Beyond the North Atlantic's foam,
Where, we admit, a husband's place
Is in the home.

But lady, I can never wed
Upon the terms that you set down.
I could not earn your daily bread
Unless I spent all day down town.
You must, though both of us may sigh
At being kept apart for life,
Secure another cook—and I
Another wife!

NOT SO GOOD

A good many plumbers got Connecticut medical licenses. The danger of this is that in the middle of operations they probably send their assistants back to their offices after tools.

SOIL AND SOIL PHYSICS
The Limits of Capillary Action

If we took a number of small glass tubes of varying sizes and stood them up in a basin of water, we would find that the liquid rose in the tubes and stood at a higher level than in the basin. We would find that the water stood highest in the smallest tube.

This would indicate that a fine grained soil with only minute spaces between the soil particles would have the power to pull water from a greater depth through capillary action than a coarse grained one. This is true within limits.

Whenever the soil particles become very fine they consolidate into masses impervious to water, which breaks up into larger grains and the capillary action in these soils is not so great.

All of this would show that there is a limit beyond which capillary action will not move water against the force of gravity. This is correct, there is a limit.

For loam soils five feet is ordinarily about the limit of capillary action. That is, if the soil were saturated at a depth of five feet below the surface, capillarity would not lift this water to the surface where it could be evaporated by the wind and the sun.

Understand that the limit varies greatly in different soils. We have seen water lifted over 16 feet vertically in a fine grained wind-blown soil. This is an unusual distance, but no doubt it has been exceeded in certain cases.

To the irrigation farmer all this means is that whatever water percolates to a depth beyond a point where capillary action will bring it back to the plant roots is lost.

This lost water does no good to anyone, but simply accumulates until that bane of every irrigation project appears—the land has become waterlogged.

COUNTY HOSTELRY GETS POPULAR

The county jail is becoming a regular health resort.

So much do some of those who have tried the conveniences of the county hostelry run by Jailer W. P. Belcher think of it they long to get back into the cells and enter their name on the ledger.

Assistant County Attorney Wayne Somerville was given a new surprise yesterday when a man came to his office, waited his turn and said he had a very important matter to discuss with the official.

The assistant county attorney asked the man what he could do for him. "Why I want to go to jail about 30 days, if you don't mind," the customer said.

"No, I don't mind, but why do you want to go to jail?" Somerville then asked.

"Well, I am acquiring the 'dope' habit. I was in the county jail here awhile back and almost got off the stuff while in there. I figure if I stayed in jail about 30 days maybe I could get to feeling better and be able to quit altogether."

The request was granted and the man locked up. Somerville said that was the third instance in the last two weeks where persons or their friends had asked they be put in jail because of the dope habit.

FUNERAL HELD FOR CATTLEMAN

Funeral services for J. M. "Uncle Tom" Roberts, 75, pioneer resident of this community, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Ebner, 1614 Fourteenth street, were held from the residence at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, with the Rev. A. J. Holt officiating. Burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Mr. Roberts had lived in the community for 40 years, coming here from Comanche, Bosque county. He was one of the best known cattlemen in this part of the state. He has made his home in Wichita Falls with his daughter for the past several years.

Surviving Mr. Roberts are his three sons, Guy, Ed and Charlie Roberts all of this city; five daughters, Mrs. R. C. Cato, Mrs. Fred Ebner, Mrs. Oscar Dyson and Mrs. A. H. Hodges of Wichita Falls and Mrs. J. S. Koeger of Tipton, Oklahoma; a brother, A. C. Roberts of Comanche, Texas, and several grandchildren.

Buy It In Wichita Falls

With all that the merchants of Wichita Falls are offering the trade of Wichita Falls and immediate territory there is little need for anyone to look elsewhere for seasonable and dependable merchandise. Every man who spends a dollar in Wichita Falls and who lives in this community is sure to share in the benefits which that dollar will bring. It pays to buy in Wichita Falls.

The present well-established business of Richardson Brothers, owned in partnership by W. H. and C. M. Richardson, originated in a basement at Tenth street and Indiana avenue, being then known as Richardson's Bargain Basement and owned by E. E. and C. M. Richardson. This business began operation in October, 1919. At this time the business was confined strictly to Ladies' and Children's ready-to-wear and piece goods.

In 1920 this store, though small, established the record of having sold 2,500 dresses during that year.

In July 1921, the firm moved to the basement of the building that is now known as the Staley building. The firm operated there until the partnership of the concern, C. M. Richardson and E. E. Richardson was dissolved to enable the formation of the present firm, known as Richardson Brothers.

These two men bought the stock and fixtures of the I. A. Fine Dry Goods Company, and now sell ladies' and children's ready-to-wear, shoes and piece goods.

W. H. Richardson formerly lived in Wichita Falls, having been engaged in the oil business during the boom days here. Later he moved to Plainview, where he bought a ranch. He remained there, engaged in the real estate business and conducting his ranch, until he returned to Wichita Falls in May, 1923, to become associated with his brother.

C. M. Richardson has been in the mercantile business for the past 11 years, and has had experience in all branches of retail merchandising. The slogan of Richardson Brothers is "The Store of Bigger Values," which the management is emphatic in declaring: "Mean's all that it implies." The Richardson brothers are very optimistic over the outlook for business in 1924 and expect to double the business of the eight months previous to the first of this year.

Buyers for Richardson Brothers are now in eastern markets where they are purchasing goods with the idea of further popularizing this already popular store. The stock which is now being secured includes high grade lines of ladies' ready-to-wear, millinery, footwear and piece goods.

Young Stribling Disqualified By Referee

WARNED TWICE NOT TO HIT IN BREAKS; "PA" ATTACKS AND STRIKES THE REFEREE

By The Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 14.—In the sixth round of the bout between Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., and Norman Genet, of Akron, Ohio, here tonight, Referee Phil Pritchard disqualified Stribling for hitting in the breaks after warning him twice to break clean. Immediately afterward, "Pa" Stribling, father of the pugilist, attacked and struck the referee.

Negotiate With Bobby Waugh To Meet Duke

Bobby Waugh, long time headliner of Fort Worth as a boxer of much ability and promise, may appear here on the American Legion boxing card Saturday night, it was stated by Doc Waufford last night. Negotiations are under way to match Waugh with Duke Trammel also of Fort Worth, in the final main go.

Waugh is a fighter who some years ago was given a go at send-off by fans and critics as a man who would get far into the big-time stuff of his class. His fighting recently has not attracted so much attention, for the probable reason that he is not pursuing it with his former zest. Bobby is just back from the balmy land of Florida, and reported ready to get in the ring. His weight is around 140 pounds.

Trammel is a young glove artist, having done much of his career in the local ring. He first won notice from a powerful wallop carried in his right mitt, putting the k-o on several aspirants. More recently, however, the youngster has given more attention to using his left and other boxing tricks, which has improved his general showing but taken some from his primarily important right.

It will be age and experience with lots of ringcraft matched against youth, its accompanying attributes, and a hard punch. Waugh will have the chance to show fans around here that he is still in there, while Trammel will have a chance to go further on his prosperous looking way.

For the semi-final, Wildcat Monte and Kid Snyder are under consideration to meet once more. Snyder has shown much improvement lately, following Monte's rapid stride to a prominent place on the cards here. These two once battled an practically even terms, and this test would clear up lots of interesting speculation.

Chief Koren will be matched with Anderson "Soldier" Martin if the latter is willing. Martin has picked up lots of ring stuff since his early appearances, and may be induced that his next meeting with the Indian fighter will be more evenly matched than their last encounter.

Making out the bill pending for the next exhibition, it is stated that Rudolph "the shiek" Merrill may be matched with Rattling Jennings of Henrietta or some other in his class. Merrill, who states that he has done boxing in the east and during service in the navy, has not appeared before local fans since coming here some months ago. However, he stated last night that he was getting ready to show his stuff, and wanted to take on Jennings or Jimmie Carroll of Fort Worth.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—Sailor Tom Mixsted of Brooklyn decisively whipped Joe White of Alabama, claimant of the heavyweight championship of the south here tonight in an 8-round bout, in the opinion of sports writers at the ringside. Mixted knocked down White twice in the sixth round for counts of seven and nine, respectively.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—At the end of a slow 15-round bout here tonight, Red Hill of New Orleans was given the referee's decision over Mickey Forkins of Chicago. Forkins weighed 157 3-4 pounds and Hill 156 3-4.

PREDICTS CATTLE SHORTAGE IN S. W.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—A decided shortage in cattle throughout the stock raising districts of the west and southwest was predicted in a report today by M. F. Hordine, statistician for the union stock yards.

Breeding stock is fully 30 per cent below normal in the southwest and only slightly more abundant in the west, spelling a deficiency of cattle for market, the report said.

FORT BLISS AND AUSTIN WINNERS

By The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 14 Fort Bliss downed the Twelfth cavalry 15 to 4 and Austin won over the Twelfth Field artillery, 6 to 4, in the first game of the flat event in the mid-winter polo tournament here today. The flat event is the last lap of the big tourney. Fort Bliss had little trouble with the cavalry team, while the artillery four gave the Austin stars a hard fight. The artillery men came from behind in the fourth period and scored three goals, but the driving offense was checked in the remaining periods by the Austin men.

Sport Snap Shots

The spectacular ice performances of Harry Kaskey of Chicago cannot be overlooked when the talk turns to skating activities of the winter. Kaskey was practically an unknown a year ago and now he has gone to Chamonix, France, as one of the members of the team which will represent America in the skating events of the Olympic games.

He first drew notice last February when he won the national championship at Endicott, N. Y. Three days before that, however, he had won the Canadian National championship at Montreal. In winning the gold cut races at Saranac Lake, N. Y., that same season he captured five out of six events skated and in one of them, the 440-yard dash, he set a new track record.

He is the proud possessor of a world's record, also. His time of two minutes and 45 seconds for the mile over an eight lap track, set at Binghampton, N. Y., has been accepted as official by the International Skating union.

Kaskey, a Chicago boy, signalled the start of his climb to fame when he won the annual silver skates derby in Chicago in the winter of 1922-23, an event open only to amateurs. He followed this by winning the Illinois state title.

Chicago may well be proud of its representatives on the Olympic squad as William Steinmetz is another Windy City star.

Sandy Herd, in his book, "My Golfing Life," chronicles the fact that he made no less than 17 holes in one. Which is some record for the jolly followers of the elusive pill to shoot at.

Herd is known generally by many American golfers as he accompanied J. H. Taylor to the U. S. a year or so ago when the five-time winner of the British open championship visited us.

INCORPORATED PACER PAYS 50 PER CENT DIVIDEND

John R. Braden, 2:02¾, the incorporated pacer of Presque Isle, Me., paid a dividend of 50 per cent to each of his 200 stockholders on New Year day. According to the American Horse Breeder of Boston, the stockholders have now received 400 per cent on their investment four years ago. The pacer's earnings last season left a substantial surplus after dividend disbursements, so the stockholders voted to deposit $500 of the amount in a special fund to be used only as an old age pension for the horse himself when his racing days are past.

Bill Johnson, world's tennis champ, will not be a member of the team which will represent the U. S. in the Olympic games. Bill says it can't be done. He's selling real estate on the Pacific coast and is busier than any opponent who ever chased Bill's placement shots. He intends to confine his early season tennis to a few important matches. He wants to be set for the Davis cup events.

Slump Suffered By Golf Stars

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 14.—Heavy slumping on the part of international stars and consistent shooting by McDonald Smith of San Francisco who hung up a card of 68, marked the opening day of the California open golf tournament on the Los Angeles country club here today.

John Black, the former Claremount veteran, but now of Wichita, Kansas, who ran Gene Sarazen a close race for the open championship two years ago, could do no better than an 82 on the north course. Sarazen had to be satisfied with 75 on the same course.

Arthur Havers, English champion, another victim of erratic putting, turned in a card of 82.

Sports of 1924

By FEG MURRAY

Ski Jumping.

Skiing has grown rapidly in popularity in the United States during the last ten years, and skis are now common sights wherever the snow flies, instead of being curiosities in museums. Skiing (you pronounce it "sheeing"), was originated in Norway. It is the national sport of that country, where it is the usual thing for children three years old, as well as grandmothers and grandfathers, to go sliding around the skis. In about two weeks the United States ski team will be competing in the Olympic contests at Shamonix in the French Alps. Due to the mild winter, our contestants have had a hard time finding snow to train in and so were considerably handicapped. Last year Andres Haugen of Indianapolis won the National Ski championship with 277 points. His longest jump was 122 feet. He has been the national champion six times. Other prominent ski jumpers of the 1923 season, some of whom should figure in the Olympic contests, are Harry Llen, Carl Neilsen, and "Alf" Jensen of the Norge Ski club of Chicago, and Nels Nelsen of Revelstoke, B. C. Nelsen holds the amateur record of 201 feet.

Every February Darmouth holds a winter carnival with Intercollegiate championships in skiing and snow shoeing. T. D. Frost (appropriate name) was last year's champion.

The world's record for ski jumping professional, according to some authorities is 220 feet, made in 1921 by Harry Hall of Detroit.

Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, 21 years old, is an enthusiastic participant in the sport, and has been invited to compete in the Northwest Ski tournament at Minneapolis on February 3. Ski kjoring, or racing on skis behind horses, is an exciting winter sport, as is sailing on skis before the wind.

Cline Tells Of Resolutions Of Shrine Meeting

Recommending its recognition as a Texas institution and its support by all Texas temples of the Shrine, resolutions formally endorsing the Crippled Children's Hospital of Hella Temple, Dallas, were adopted at the called meeting of the Texas Shrine council at Austin, Saturday, according to W. D. Cline, president, who returned from the meeting Monday morning.

That the Texas temples, through methods to be determined by each individual temple, endorse the Harding memorial fund and raise funds equivalent to $1 per member, was recommended by the council. This matter was presented by the imperial potentate, Conrad V. Dykeman, of Brooklyn, New York, and the resolution was offered by Frank C. Jones of Houston, imperial oriental guide.

Recommendation to all Texas temples that the Shrine initiation be increased from $75 to $100 effective June 1 was made by the council. The proposed change provides that all candidates who have filed their applications shall be given the opportunity the initiations at a spring ceremonial before June 1. The suggestion to the various temples is that the $25 additional fee should be divided half and half between the individual temple and the fund to build a Masonic and De Molay clubroom at the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas.

TAKE FUGITIVE DOOMED TO DEATH

TYLER, Tex., Jan. 14.—Tom Moore, who was reported to have been identified by Sheriff W. A. Strange of Smith county in Kansas City today as Tom Tate, was under death sentence for the alleged killing here of Ines Hardigree, farmer, and Mrs. Gus Martin when he escaped from the Tarrant county jail at Fort Worth.

Hardigree and Mrs. Martin were shot and killed and the latter's husband and 18 year old son were seriously injured at the Hardigree home, six miles east of Tyler, January 18, 1912. Tate was arrested and placed in jail here. A trial was held shortly afterward and he was given the death sentence. He was removed to the Tarrant county jail for safe keep and made a sensational escape through a sky-light. His wife died since the slayings.

PARKING ZONES ARE EXTENDED

Passage of an ordinance extending the parking limit zone on Ohio and Indiana avenues was one of the most important measures enacted by the board of city aldermen last night.

On Ohio and Indiana avenues, the parking zone with a two-hour limit will be extended to include the block between Eighth and Ninth streets on Ohio and the block between Sixth and Seventh on Indiana.

This measure follows the passage of previous ordinances setting the parking limit on designated sections of the business district. The extension of the zone on Indiana and Ohio avenues comes after the report that such was needed in those sections as well as in those first marked off now catching the overflow from the old zones.

FRENCH FRANCS FLOODED MARKET

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Millions of French francs were thrown into the London, Paris, Amsterdam and New York markets today by European speculators, causing the demand rate to break 28 points to 4.27 cents, the lowest price ever recorded. Subsequent short covering carried the rate to 4.40 again in the late afternoon.

Sharp breaks also occurred in sterling, guilder and yen exchanges. Demand sterling dropped nearly four cents to $4.22¼. Dutch guilders broke 60 points to 38.80 and Japanese yen slumped more than one cent to 43.30 cents. All made partial recoveries later.

Selling of French francs was based on the unfavorable publicity given French finance and measures adopted by the French government with the announced intention of checking the decline, and general Dawes' admonition to forget politics at the opening meeting of the reparations conference. The threatened labor disturbance in Great Britain also was a factor.

Hamilton Elected

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 14.—The board of directors of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen meeting here today elected Walter V. Hamilton of Knoxville, Tenn., vice president to succeed M. J. Murphy, resigned. Mr. Hamilton has been general chairman of the trainmen on the Southern railway for 20 years.

A gain of 6,000 members was made in 1923, bringing the total membership of the organization to 180,000, President W. G. Lee announced.

Reardon Dead

DALLAS, Jan. 14.—Edwin Morris Reardon, 73 years old, president of the American Exchange National bank of Dallas, and widely known in the southwest, died at his home here today. He had been in ill health for some time.

Irvin Cobb, accused by a game warden down in Texas, says he is innocent. Anyhow, he's innocent looking.

BOXING DEATHS CAUSING PROBE

"Bud" Taylor Summoned to Appear In Homicide Bureau of N. Y.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. — District Attorney Banton tonight summoned "Bud" Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., to appear in the homicide bureau of his office tomorrow at the investigation into the death of Frankie Jerome, New York bantamweight boxer, who collapsed after a bout with Taylor at Madison Square Garden, Friday night.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The death of Frankie Jerome, New York contender for bantamweight boxing championship honors, who died last night from the effects of his knockout by Bud Taylor, of Terre Haute, Ind., at Madison Square Garden, last Friday, was accidental, and will result in no criminal charge against Taylor or others connected with the fight.

This was made clear today when Chief Medical Examiner Norris, after performing an autopsy, rendered a verdict of accidental death. The autopsy revealed that Jerome died from the effects of a blow on the right side of the head which ruptured a blood vessel and caused a hemorrhage between the skull and the base of the brain.

Visibly moved by the tragic turn to one of the most important victories of his career, Taylor visited the state athletic commission's offices, but was told that no blame was attached to him.

Jerome, who was 24 years old, had engaged in close to 100 fights in five years of professional experience.

Bowie News

Banks in Good Condition.

Statements of the four banks of Bowie made at the close of business, December 31st show them with a deposit of over a million and a half dollars with an outlook of improved conditions for all business in this section. All officers and directors of the banks were re-elected at meetings of the stockholders of the institutions held last week.

The City National bank wiped out an obligation of over two year's standing, while the Security State bank paid a six per cent dividend and the First State bank, the youngest bank in Bowie, showed a remarkable growth in the past few months. The First National bank voted a fifty per cent dividend.

Since September the 12th individual checking accounts have increased nearly $200,000. Collections have been reported good due to the splendid cotton crops this past year, and banking conditions are better than they have been in the past several years. A big boost for Bowie.

Install Officers.

Officers of Bowie Commandery No. 79, Knights Templar, were installed last Friday night by Harry McMillan, past commander. Past Commander G. O. Slaughter acted as marshal during the evening at which time five candidates received the degrees. Four members of the Wichita degree team came down to assist in the initiation ceremonies.

The new commandery officers are: Sam Young, eminent commander; P. E. Martin, generalissimo; W. S. Cox, captain general; R. G. Stephenson, senior warden; F. C. Graf, prelate; R. L. Burgess, junior warden; E. M. Cotton, treasurer; C. O. Ross, recorder; J. M. Elliott, standard bearer; S. L. Greenwood, warden; T. H. McCright, sentinel; J. F. Robicheaux, 1st guard; W. B. Brice, 2nd guard; J. E. Cobb, 3rd guard.

M. and M. Club.

Mrs. Homer R. Latham was hostess to Maids and Matrons club Wednesday afternoon, at her home on North Hulme street. The club enjoyed a very interesting lesson from the Literary Digest. Mrs. David Warren favored the club with a very beautiful solo. Among those taking part on the afternoon's program were Mesdames Paul Donald, Chilton Ayres and Miss Lura Moore.

Dinner Party.

Miss Gladys Rowsey was hostess at a six o'clock dinner party last Sunday honoring Fred Moore on his birthday. It was a great surprise to Mr. Moore when he arrived at the Rowsey home and found a number of his friends there to celebrate his birthday. The table was beautifully decorated with a basket of fruit in the center and glowing candles at each end of the table. As the beautiful birthday cake aglow with beautiful blue candles was brought in the guests rose and quad the birthday wish found on the place cards and each in turn helped to blow out the candles on the cake with a wish for the honored one. Covers were laid for Misses Marie Box, Maude Chapman, Edrye Raines, Hazel Wales, Messrs. Ernest Brown, Marvin McNutt, Ed Phillips, Rufus Brown, Fred Moore and the hostess.

Miss Susie Gardner was a visitor to Fort Worth last week.

Miss Edwina Presley was a visitor to Stoneburg last week as the guest of Miss Ruth Ellis.

Mrs. George Lee had as her guest last week, Miss Ruby Smith of Stoneburg.

Miss Lois Mayo is at home after spending the Christmas holidays with her cousin, Miss Ottie Shields of Rexrate, Okla.

Miss Merle McPherson of Solons was the guest of Mesdames Lee and Garrett last week.

News has been received here of the marriage of Mis Una Mae Coleman and Amos Howard, which took place at Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, December 30th. Mrs. Howard was a former English teacher in the Bowie schools and has many friends here to wish her much happiness.

Misses Gracie Davis and Vera Vivian Clark motored to Wichita Falls last Sunday.

Circle 3.

Circle 3 of the Woman's auxiliary of the First Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Walter Evans with 11 members present. The circle was very glad to welcome Mrs. Blough, the auxiliary president, as a visitor to the circle during the afternoon. Mrs. Blough explained her plans for the work of the coming year and asked the co-operation of all the members. The devotional was led by Mrs. W. T. Coffield and Mrs. Bettis offered the prayer. After a short business session, an interesting lesson on "Mexico" was conducted by Mrs. Sam Coffman, with most of the members taking part. After the study hour the hostess served the members of the circle and guests delicious chicken sandwiches, coconut cake and hot chocolate.

BASKET BALL

How can teamwork be developed between the two guards?

Answered by
W. L. LUSH

Coach at Naval Academy for several years and now athletic director at St. John's College, Annapolis, Md.

Teamwork between the guards may be developed by a mutual understanding relative to the duties each is to perform.

Some teams play a four man offense and a defensive guard in his usual position, to protect the basket. The defensive guard is responsible primarily for his own opponent, but he should be able to take care of any offensive player who comes into his territory. When both guards co-operate in the offense one must stay back while the other goes "down the court." Teamwork in this particular can be adjusted as follows: if the right guard intercepts the ball he enters into the offense, this is the cue for the left guard to assume a defensive position. If one guard advances beyond the center of the floor, the other guard must stay back to protect the goal.

Freeman And Fincher Get Re-Instatements

Official announcement of the reinstatement of Pitcher Buck Freeman into organized baseball was received Monday by Spudder officials, from Secretary Farrell of the National association, it was announced by Manager Buddy Tanner. General knowledge that this player would come to Wichita Falls this season was had at the national meeting at Chicago last December, when the required steps were taken by the Wichita Falls club toward securing it.

Of little less interest was the announcement that Bill Fincher had also been taken back into the fold. Fincher, another pitcher, was released by the Spudders to the Three-Eye league early last season, and refused to report there.

Freeman went from Beaumont to the Cubs three years ago, from which club he was about a season later sold to the Spudders. Failure to report to the local club caused his suspension.

Manager Tanner was considerably pepped up Monday, declaring that things look good for a great club here this season. In regard to the open date in the exhibition games, March 29, 30 and 31, Tanner stated that so far efforts to obtain a major league team had failed, and that within the next few days a West Texas club might be secured. Teams of the West Texas league have asked to be included on this playing program, he stated.

NEWS AND PERSONALS

Mid-Term Exams.

The mid-term examinations of the local high school will be given next week to the kiddies of this place. All children who have made an average of 90 per cent on their work and averaged 90 per cent in department will be excused from the finals or mid-terms.

The officials expect to move the children of the high school to the W. F. George high school Monday, January 28. The carpenters and workmen of different trades are fast bringing their work to a close and the new building will be completed soon after the 15th of the month. The shack that has been used for primary work will be used or sold as a home and the pupils of this building will be moved to the grammar school.

Church of Christ Has Pastor.

The congregation of the local Church of Christ has employed Rev. Coffman as pastor of the Church of Christ of Iowa Park for the coming year. Rev. Coffman preached his first sermon here two weeks ago but his family only moved in last week.

All churches of Iowa Park again have pastors and much good work is expected to be done during the year in church circles of this place.

Irrigation Work.

The irrigation work of this place has been progressing nicely since the recent rains. Much material is being unloaded at Iowa Park, such as sand, gravel, lumber, iron, cement and other materials for irrigation work. The large flume over Beaver creek is most complete. This flume is built of concrete with concrete piers holding the flume above high water mark and letting all flood waters pour under the flume. This is considered to be the largest piece of work of this nature on the job except the piece of work that has been done in carrying the water under the Big Wichita river.

Sunday was blue Sunday in Iowa Park from 9:30 until after 12 on account of an agreement signed by the merchants of this place, which is as follows: "We the undersigned agree to close our business from 9:30 each Sunday morning for the purpose of attending church service."

This resolution was carried out and nothing could be bought during the above hours, and it is hoped much good will be derived from the above action.

Football Boys Elect 1924 Leader.

The football boys of the local team met Wednesday afternoon and elected a man to lead them through the 1924 season. The boy that was most efficient to lead them was Arthur Jones, most commonly known as Cherry Jones. With this leadership the local grid should produce a good football team next year, and it is hoped that Iowa Park boys can have as good success as they did this year.

Why we want Every Man in Wichita Falls to try Lucky Strike

To men who have not yet tried Lucky Strike

This is not philanthropy, just business. You are introduced to a cigarette today which sooner or later you're bound to try. This merely hastens that happy time. Tear off the coupon now.

We have found that 88% of the men who try Lucky Strike immediately adopt them. So to introduce you to Lucky Strike we can well afford to make this special offer of paying the 6c Government tax today ourselves.

No words can do justice to the Toasted Process in Lucky Strike. It takes us an extra 45 minutes to toast the flavor in, but it takes you only a moment to try the flavor out—the test of the toasting is the tasting.

Smoke this package tax free—you'll get acquainted with a cigarette so balanced in the blend, so mild in the flavor, so smooth in the smoking and so fragrant with the sealed-in-virtues of the toasted process, that you'll change to this brand that never changes—and you'll never change again.

To men who already smoke Lucky Strike

We want you, too, to get this tax free package, maybe to pass it on to a friend who doesn't yet know the pleasure you know.

Let him enjoy Lucky Strike as you do. Tell him to try one package and then see if he agrees with you and millions of others that there's no cigarette with such characteristic superiority.

Tell him why you prefer Lucky Strike. Tell him that the extra 45 minutes of toasting insures a flavor that never varies. He'll find, as you have, that this is a cigarette which can be continuously enjoyed. The flavor never varies.

Some one introduced you to your first Lucky Strike and you recall it as a lucky discovery. So pass the good word along. Give some friend the same opportunity. Tear out the coupon now.

The aviators who will jump off from Washington about the middle of March on the greatest adventure ever sponsored by a department of the United States government, the army's aerial race around the world, have been chosen.

Major Frederick L. Martin will be in command of all the planes. One of the pilots will be Lieut. Erik H. Nelson, who acted as engineer officer in the army air service flight to Alaska in 1920. Lieut. Nelson, a native of Sweden is an authority of aeronautical motors. Another pilot will be Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, one of the two men who accomplished the non-stop flight from Canada to Mexico in which refueling was done in the air.

The route for the flight was laid out some time ago.

NEW YORK STILL DAZED OVER MILLICENT ROGERS' WEDDING

The Countess Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, formerly Mary Rogers, and her husband.

New York society hasn't quite recovered from the shock administered to it when Mary Millicent Rogers, heiress to the $40,000,000 estate of her grandfather, the late H. H. Rogers, one of the organizers of the Standard Oil company, quietly married Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, a member of the Belgian branch of the ancient Austrian princely house of Salm-Salm. Not even the newspapers knew of the ceremony until two days after it took place and the parents of the countess were as surprised as everybody else. She is 20 years old and the count is 40.

Citizens have taken up arms in what they explain is a battle to wipe out bootleggers and vicious resorts in the section, and the trouble has become so serious that state militia under Colonel A. L. Culbertson has been called in.

Front Street Is Again Question In Council Meet

Clearing up old business and general routine work occupied much of the time last night of the city council in regular session.

A delegation from Front street, representing three different factions, presented their claims and convictions to the city council last night. One group announced that they would move out of that street recently ordered opened by the council, another stated that they could not move out, while a third took the stand that they would not vacate.

In reply to these various positions taken by the residents of Front street, the council gave only reply, namely, that the city attorney was instructed to file suit against those still in the street by January 15, the date set in the first ordinance for vacation. In announcing this maintenance for their former position, the council reiterated the reasons for the first action, and stated that this must be followed out as the policy of the city and plainly the correct step.

MAKE THIRD TRY TO UNTIE KNOT

For the third time in the history of the court, the divorce case of Mittie Doherty against C. F. Doherty is being tried before Judge P. A. Martin and a jury in the 30th district court. In each of the former instances of the contested suit, an agreement was reached outside of court.

The plaintiff seeks a decree of divorce on the grounds of cruel treatment, and while on the witness stand Monday afternoon related several instances in which she said her husband was cruel to her. She also testified that on one occasion her husband accused her of improper conduct.

The plaintiff said that when the cases filed formerly were dismissed an agreement had been made for her and her husband to return to a rooming house in Electra and attempt to live together again as man and wife. The plaintiff and the contestant own and operate a rooming house in Electra.

MANY ATTEND SAFETY MEETING

The "greater safety" meeting held under the auspices of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad at Labor hall last night was well attended. This campaign for education of the public for fewer preventable accidents is receiving national attention, first session of the year being held last night.

A screen lesson-picture, "Ask Daddy", featured the program, which was introduced with the object of the meeting and short talks on general topics of safety.

"Ask Daddy" was a story of several children and their experiences with accidents, accompanied by scenes from accidents and ways of preventing them pointed out. The program was productive of interest and lessons for the children as well as reminders for the grown-ups.

RESCUE WOMAN FROM BANDITS

By The Associated Press

PEKING, Jan. 14. — Mrs. Julian Killen, American missionary kidnapped by bandits who raided Tasoyang, Hupeh province, about two weeks ago, has been rescued, according to advices received here from Major Magruder, military attache of the American legation. Major Magruder recently went to the bandit-infested province to impress upon the Chinese officials the necessity of taking action against the kidnappers.

ELECTRA

poultry industry has seen a large growth.

Many farm, cattle, and poultry exhibits went out from Electra the past year to win awards at the Texas-Oklahoma and State fairs. The agricultural end of the chamber of commerce showed remarkable growth and it is evident Electra has seen the value of developing its surrounding territory to react upon a greater growth for the city itself. Community fairs with Electra sponsoring them has been one of the greatest factors in accomplishing this.

Short Course.

The farmers short course which the agricultural end of the chamber has developed is now an institution and plans this year are for even greater concentration on this line of the work. One result of the work of which the chamber is proud is the fact that John Wilde, wheat farmer living near Electra, this year produced the best wheat raised in Texas and won many awards at fairs the last exhibition season.

Getting to the work of the city's development the past year the president's report showed the beautification of Electra was one of the main features of the work. Civic activeness by the putting in of new parks and beauty spots, the planting of trees and flower culture has been stressed with great results. The chamber this next year will sponsor the planting of trees in every part of the city. To do this a specialist in tree planting has been secured who will assist citizens in selection and taking care of trees that will grow there.

Publicity Dept.

The publicity department of the chamber had a great year. More than 3,000 statistical survey copies of Electra's oil industry were mailed out during the year. Business information was furnished to those interested in the Electra section and news stories of the city's development were sent out all over the country. Agricultural exhibits placed at fairs over the state was other good work of the committee.

Oil.

Electra did not neglect its "ace in the hole," the oil interests of the section. Through the activities of the chamber an office was provided making it possible to have at Electra all time a local representative of the oil and gas division of the rail commission.

The building of good roads leading into the city and the development of city streets has been very successful. Commissioner Harry Haynes is given credit by the chamber by the manner in which he represented the interests of the Electra precinct before the county commission the past year.

The plans for the next year include everything had the past year but on a larger and improved scale. Activities against fake advertising schemes and unworthy charities will be featured this year. An open forum with the public and civic clubs will be held during the year. Four speakers of national repute will be on hand to make addresses at the forum gatherings.

Budget

Electra has one of the largest budgets, $12,000 per year, of any chamber of commerce in the state its size. This year's budget will be confined to $11,485 for all purposes. A membership drive begins early Tuesday morning under the leadership of E. V. Haltom. Many new members will be added as a result and old members will be assigned new tasks.

The climax of the 1923 events and the commencement of 1924 activities which were merged into the banquet tonight were fitting. Judge C. P. Engleking as toastmaster was very considerate and the worst he did was to call on several speakers for impromptu addresses. With this exception he kept his promise made at the beginning of the program to "be good to everybody."

Orchestra

The overture and other selections by the Electra orchestra were excellent and a program of this feature alone would have been a great success. The invocatio was led by the Rev. G. A. Isboff, a local pastor. The vocal solo of Miss Letrice Wofford who was accompanied by the orchestra was greatly appreciated. Miss Wofford disappointed the audience however by failing to respond to a continued encore.

The Electra orchestra is under the direction of Paul Smith and is a great boost to the city. The chamber of commerce is behind it with not only moral but financial support and the result is an institution which the city is growing to appreciate more each time they hear its offerings.

The speaker of the evening was William Z. Hayes, Dallas banker, who chose as his subject "The Law of Success." Mr. Hayes delivered logical, masterful addresses and handled his more or less abstract subject in a manner that was pleasing and instructive and very appropriate for such an occasion.

Addresses

Secretaries of the chamber of commerce of Buskburnett, Vernon and Iowa Park, Messrs. Spence, Fielder and Arnold, respectively, made impromptu addresses as did Judge Guy Roger of Wichita Falls, all of which were fine and appreciated.

The following directors were elected for another three year term of office: E. M. Friend, J. ——, Brown, R. E. Scheurer. Two new directors elected to serve for three years were C. D. Coffee and R. R. R. Cook.

Electra has now had its official send-off for the new year and feels good about it. If the annual banquet is a criterion, and it should be, of what will happen to Electra in the way of prosperity this year, there is no doubt but that this city will be bigger, better and greater when 1925 arrives.

No doubt, now that the weather has moderated, some of the banks which recently were closed on account of frozen credits will re-open.

Words by Ring Lardner

Friend Al:

Well Al here is a funny one. I guest I told you about getting a mash note from a little gal name Alice Cooper who was crazy to meet me and says she would wait for me at State and Monroe at 7 P.M last night and at 1st. I was not going to pay no tension but finely I thought to myself it would be a dirty trick to leave her wait there for nothing so I will just meet her and shake hands and tell her I am a marred man and that will end it. Well Al when I got to the place they was a gal standing there and I spoke to her and she spoke back and then I found out it was not this here Cooper gal but just a gal that wanted to be friends so I give her the air. But what has got me worred is what become of the little Cooper gal and I bet that poor little gal waited and waited and cried her eyes out when I did not show up and I only hope she will write again and give me her address so as I can exclaim things to her.

STOCK MARKET SUFFERS BREAK

Heavy Speculative Selling Results In List Going Off

Market Features.

Total stock sales 1,114,000 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 95.72; net loss 1.51.

High 1923, 105.38; low 85.76.

Twenty railroads averaged 84.97; net loss .88.

High 1923, 90.51; low 79.52.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The first sharp break in the stock market since the current upswing started October 31 took place today when heavy speculative selling, based on the belief that many stocks had been "over-bought", resulted in recessions of 1 to nearly eight points in most active issues. The collapse of French exchange and reports of bitter opposition to the Mellon tax bill provided excuses for an assault on the general list.

Speculative pools, which have been active in many issues, particularly among the specialties, showed little disposition to actively support their favorites. This led to considerable short selling on the part of the professional traders.

French francs broke 38 points to 4.27 cents, the lowest rate ever recorded in the local market, on heavy European speculative selling, but they bounced back to 4.40 cents on short covering in the afternoon. Demand sterling dropped more than 3 cents to $4.23 and Belgian francs dropped more than 20 points below 4.00, but both made partial recovery later. For the first time on record, Italian lire were quoted higher than French francs, which was attributed here to the heavy selling of francs to purchase lire.

The sharpest fluctuation in the stock market took place in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe which broke 9 points to 68 1-2 and then rallied to 69 3-4.

Some support was forthcoming for the steel shares on reports that the United States Steel corporation would maintain, and possibly increase its extra dividend rate at the directors meeting next week. United States Steel touched par and then eased to 98 7-8, off 7-8. Republic, Bethlehem and Crucible sold off 1 to 2 1-4 points. Penn Seaboard touched a new high on the movement at 40 1-8 and then eased slightly.

Baldwin closed more than 3 points lower at 123 1-8. Losses of 2 to nearly four points were recorded by Studebaker, American Can, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Corn Products, U. S. Industrial alcohol, Hayes Wheel, Mack Truck, Stewart-Warner, U. S. Rubber and many others.

Oils showed resistance during the greater part of the session on reports of higher gasoline prices and a further advance in Pennsylvania crude, but with the exception of two or three issues which were influenced by special buying, notably Maracaibo, they yielded with the rest in the final hour.

Union Pacific, Reading, Atlantic Coast line, Canadian Pacific and Missouri Pacific preferred off 1 1-2 to 2 points, were the heavy spots in the railroad list.

New Orleans Cotton

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—Unfavorable reports concerning labor conditions in England, wide breaks in the rate of English and French exchange and weakness in the foreign exchange market generally put the cotton market lower today. Liquidations of the old long interest continued and new selling for short account was on a rather liberal scale. In the afternoon the market was at its lowest, net declines of 29 to 59 points, with March off to 33.30 and October off to 27.16. The close was at net losses on the day of 15 to 25 points, the last sale of March being at 33.54 and of October at 27.29.

At the start of the session enough buying was stimulated by the good showing of Liverpool to put prices six to 10 points over the close Saturday, March trading up to 34.05 and October up to 27.50. When it was realized that much of the strength of Liverpool was based on the weakness of the pound sterling offerings increased and from then on, the market had no real strength.

Partial recoveries happened at several stages and there were times when the market was 20 points or so up from the lowest for which reports of a continued good spot demand was mainly responsible.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

GRAIN MARKET HAS A SETBACK

Although Prices Bulged In Corn and Oats, Hay Followed

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14. — Although prices bulged in the grain markets today with corn and oats reaching the topmost values yet this season, heavy profit taking brought about a setback. Simultaneous with the reaction, estimates were current that the amount of livestock on farms is smaller than was the case a year ago and that actual consumption of corn is slightly below normal. Wheat closed weak at half cent to 3-4@7-8 cent net decline, corn unchanged to 1-2@5-8 cent lower, oats varying from 1-4 cent off to a shade advance, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents down.

Bearish estimates regarding corn consumption and the amount of livestock on farms had a leading statistician as authority and the effect of the estimates was emphasized by increased weakness of New York stock market quotations and of foreign exchange. On the other hand, the farm consumption of oats this season was estimated to have increased nearly five per cent.

Provisions went lower in sympathy with the hog market and foreign exchange.

Fort Worth Livestock.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 14.—Increased receipts in the cattle yards brought mostly inferior to fair grade stuff. Market conditions were not altogether favorable to the selling interests, and the general trade dragged to a large extent. Cows averaged 10 to 15 cents lower, and there was a decline of 25 to 50 cents on calves. Steers heifers, yearlings and bulls were disposed of at prices that were steady. Receipts amounted to approximately 4,300 head of cattle and 2,000 calves. Fairly good to moderately desirable cattle were taken at a range of 5.50 to 6.25. Better grades made 6.75@7.10.

Comparatively liberal hog receipts arrived. Including 850 head that came direct to a packer, the supply amounted to at least 4,500 head. Striking an average price, were 10 to 15 cents down. Six head of strictly choice hogs sold to a packer at 7.40 most of the run clearing at a spread of 7.00 to 7.20.

The pig trade was uneven, but averaged mostly 25 cents lower. A few heavy pigs sold on order at 5.60 and a sale or two was reported at 5.50, but most of the crop had to go at a range of 5.00@5.25; common pigs went at 3.00@3.50.

Sheep house receipts were estimated at 300 head. Some feeder yearlings brought $11.00. Some wethers arrived here but they were not very desirable.

Chicago Livestock.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14—Cattle 33,000; 25 to 50 cents lower; medium grade fat stock and beef steers 8.00@9.50; best yearlings 11.50; matured steers 11.25; fed steers 7.75@10.00; canners 2.00@2.75; bulls for bologna 5.00@5.25; western grass bulls 4.50@4.75; vealers 10.00@10.50; stockers and feeders 6.25@7.00.

Hogs 80,000; active, heavy butchers 7.30@7.40; top 7.40; medium 7.15@7.30; packing sows 6.60@6.80; slaughter pigs 6.50@7.00; estimated holdover 11,000.

Sheep 25,000; 15 to 25 cents lower; fat wooled lambs 13.50@13.65; top 13.70; shorn lambs 11.75; best handyweight wethers 10.00; fat ewes 7.00@8.00; choice feeding lambs 13.00.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Between the unsettling influence of weakness in foreign exchange rates and continued complaints of difficulty in selling cotton goods at remunerative prices, the cotton market was under considerable pressure during today's trading. There was further liquidation of old long accounts combined with Liverpool, New Orleans and local selling which sent the price of March contracts off to 33.55, or 49 points below Saturday's closing quotations and nearly two cents per pound under the high price reached on the rally of early last week. March closed at 33.50 with the general market closing easy at net declines of 25 to 40 points.

The opening was steady at advances of 2 to 14 points on rallies from an opening break in Liverpool and bullish overnight spot advices from the south. Prices weakened shortly after the call. After showing net losses of about 40 to 55 points, the market steadied up during the middle of the day on covering and bullish reports from the southern spot markets.

The close was several points up from the lowest on covering of shorts.

Exports today were 46,033 bales, making 3,564,054 so far this season. Port receipts 57,743. U. S. port stocks 1,006,654.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Buying stocks on margin is usually a good example of "biting off more than you can chew."

If a person wanted $500 worth of stock and could pay only $100 down, he would have to borrow $400, and give the stock as security for the loan.

The buyer's ownership in the stock is called his margin. It is determined by subtracting the amount of the loan from the market price of the stock. In this case it would be $100.

If the market price falls more than $100, the customer will have no margin at all, and the loaner or broker would not be able to sell the stock for enough to recover his $400. To guard against this, more money must be brought in as the price declines, or the broker may sell at the market price, pay himself the $400, and turn over the balance, if any, to the customer.

In buying on margin, the customer usually gets more stock than he can conveniently handle. Consequently a small dip in the market wipes out his ownership, and he loses money because he tried to make big profits too speedily.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Looking Ahead

LAST Spring a total of 350,000 people were disappointed in not being able to obtain deliveries of Ford Cars and Trucks, as orders were placed faster than cars could be produced.

The demand for Ford Cars and Trucks this Spring, will according to all indications, be far greater than last Spring.

Winter buying has been increasing at a greater rate than ever before.

Actual retail deliveries the past 60 days totaled 308,170 Ford Cars and Trucks, an increase of 1,961 a day over a year ago.

Over 200,000 people have already ordered Ford products on our purchase plan, the majority of whom will take delivery in the Spring.

The above facts are given with the suggestion that you list your order promptly with a Ford dealer if you contemplate the purchase of a Ford Car or Truck for use this Spring or Summer and wish to avoid delay in delivery.

Ford Motor Company
Detroit, Michigan

You need not pay cash for your car. You can arrange to make a small deposit down, taking care of the balance in easy payments. Or, you can buy on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan. This puts you on the preferred order list and insures delivery of your car at a time to be determined by yourself.

ADVISES DOCTOR ON BIRTHDAYS

Go to see your physician on your birthday.

This is a movement being launched by the government public health service and which Dr. A. L. Douglass of the city health department hopes to see put in practice here.

The idea is to get every adult to make it a point to go to a physician on his or her birthday and check up with him and see how the physical condition is. It is pointed out that if this were done many persons would find out how near they are to sickness or just how healthy they are.

"Insurance statistics show that of 100 men 25 years old, only 44 per cent live to be 65 years old. This shows people can not check up closely on their health. The birthday idea of seeing the doctor for careful physical examinations once a year would mean much to Wichita Falls health," Dr. Douglass said.

TEXAN TO OPEN "COFFEE SHOP"

G. M. Holt, manager of the Texan hotel, announced yesterday that within the next ten days he would reopen the Texan Coffee Shop which has been closed for the past two years. "Regular meals will be served there will be a la carte service, and special tables will be reserved for parties." The coffee shop joins the main hotel on the west, facing Seventh street.

Mr. Holt expressed his intention of opening up the dining room of the main hotel soon.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says glass of Salts helps to overcome Rheumatism acid.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kinds.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to neutralize the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Adv.

A little newsie seemed to be having a good thing yesterday morning standing in front of Arthur's White Kitchen. He was vainly trying to "get a rise" out of a huge red lobster lying in the window on the ice. He tapped the glass with his fingers, made faces and terrifying noises. Failing however, to get any response from the creature and peering attentively through the glass he gave the lobster an interested "once over" and trudged on down the street crying his "Morning Record News.

The request of Constable Frank Morgan for five deputies for 1924 was granted by the county commissioners' court in regular session Monday.

SOUSA'S MUSIC IS "VISIBLE"

March King Tells of His Effort to Enchain Both Eye and Ear

Patrons of Sousa and his band throughout the world have found in his concerts an appeal lacking, in whole or in part, in the concerts of other organizations of like aim and design. What is that quality? That is, what is it apart from the personality of John Philip Sousa, which is unique? Sousa says it is that because more than any other conductor, he seeks to make his music "visible." Let him tell it; thus:

"Why is two hours the outside limit of a symphony concert? Why will an audience sit four hours, or even five, for a performance of opera? Well, in the former case, only the ear is held; the entire receptive quality of the human mind, no matter how devoted the owner of that mind may be to music, is concentrated in the ear. In the opera house, the eye is enchained, also; therefore, with two avenues of absorption, there is greater receptivity, and a correspondingly smaller tax on the faculties.

"Well, in the concerts with my band, I go as far as possible to make my music 'visible.' I mean by that, I seek by action, and by devices of deportment to have my men carry out in a sort of human picture the idea behind or suggested by the music. My trombone corps in 'The Stars and Stripes Forever' does not strike the casual observer as a device with any purpose, perhaps, except that of exhibiting the cleverness of the players; yet, subconsciously, the spectator falls for the notion of a triumphant march of tribal appeal being poured out by the classic figures of the traditional trumpeter. The 'picture' we create is historic—Biblical, in fact."

Sousa, his band, his trumpeters, and "The Stars and Stripes Forever" will all be features of the concert to be given here on January 29 at the Palace.

CHURCH MEMBERS SHOW INCREASE

Churches of Wichita Falls are being attended with the usual mid-winter enthusiasm and regularity on the part of members. Church folk, however, are making unusual efforts to increase permanently the membership of both the church and the Sunday school and to boost attendance records for permanent results.

All the churches in the city are growing steadily, and the figures on Sunday school and church attendance for the next few months promises to surpass those of previous years.

The attendance at various Sunday schools, Sunday, January 13, was as follows:

First Methodist, W. B. Hamilton, superintendent, 881.

First Baptist, Le Roy Moore, superintendent, 1,071.

First Christian, R. E. Shepherd, superintendent, 400.

First Presbyterian, J. C. Hunt, superintendent, 310.

Floral Heights Baptist, C. H. Smoot, superintendent, 185.

Floral Heights Methodist, W. B. Chauncey, superintendent, 515.

First Methodist, Seventh and Lamar, J. T. Bentley, superintendent, 194.

Church of the Good Shepherd, J. M. Allison, superintendent, 137.

SMALL BLAZES CALL FIREMEN

The fire department was called out three times Monday on calls to put out small blazes in different portions of the city.

Early Monday morning the call was made to the Wichita Falls Cotton Oil company but the fire had been extinguished when the apparatus arrived. Another call was turned in a few minutes later across the river but the fire had already been put out.

The third call was shortly after noon when a grass fire at 2608 Tenth street resulted in the alarms being turned in but in no damage.

BODY OF DRILLER IS SENT HOME

The body of R. W. Warden 32, driller, who died in the Wichita hospital early Sunday morning, was sent to his home in Vivian, Louisiana, Monday by the Merkle Undertaking company, accompanied by his widow and a brother, Clint Warden of Electra. The death of Mr. Warden was the result of an accident Saturday in the Jetter oil field.

Surviving him are his widow, his brother and three small children.

ROAD BUILDING SCHEDULE MADE

Commissioners' Court Launches Program; 3 Bids Accepted

The beginning of an intensive road building and repair program was launched by the Wichita county commissioners' court Monday when bids for the building of three new roads were accepted and preparations made for the work to begin at once.

The Iowa Park-Jonesville road which is to be graveled, will have the work done by the B. O. Graham construction company of Iowa Park. The Graham company's bid of $26,301 was accepted because it was specified the company stood ready to go to work at once. A bid by a Dallas company was lower but work by it could not commence until next May. The commission being anxious for the work to start immediately allowed the bid of the Iowa Park concern.

The Iowa Park-Clara road will be built by the G. D. Burgess company also of Iowa Park. The Burgess bid of $17,022.04 being the lowest and accepted. Work will commence in the near future.

In Precinct 2, the Burkburnett-Clara road job was let to J. A. Ward and company of Dallas for $41,867.80. The Dallas company bid included more items than any of those presented and was considered the best offered.

In addition to the road contracts let, the commission began its first work on the improvement of the Petrolia road by authorizing the county auditor to advertise for bids for the placing of concrete culverts the first three miles of the road. The commission has many plans leading to the complete improvement of the road.

QUESTION STILL IS UNANSWERED

She hasn't talked yet.

Miss Nona Richardson who last Friday refused to answer a question propounded by the grand jury and who was fined $100 by Judge H. C. Wilson of the 30th district court and sentenced to jail to stay until she did answer the question, was still in jail Monday.

Miss Richardson was placed in the county jail Friday afternoon. After spending 24 hours in jail, she was asked by the grand jury Saturday before it adjourned if she was ready to answer the question. The woman said she was not.

The grand jurors went home to be gone over Sunday. Monday the grand jury did not re-convene. When asked Monday by jail officials if she was ready to talk, the woman said she was not. She is also reported to have told officers she would stay in jail the rest of her life rather than answer the question.

The grand jury is due to resume its activities this morning.

Will the woman talk?

Will the court take pity on her and let her out of jail because she does not answer the question?

What will the grand jury do about the case?

These are questions being asked at the court house today.

BAPTIST NORMAL LOOKS PROMISING

The First Baptist church normal course which was organized Sunday afternoon with a large crowd of local Baptists present promises to be a splendid success, according to Le Roy Moore, who with Mesdames J. M. Kelly, Homer McGregor and W. R. Coates assisting, is teaching Baptist workers along lines that will receive accredited recognition and lead to diplomas which will be awarded at a regular commencement next fall.

The classes Monday evening were well attended and the course is under way in splendid shape. All Baptists of Wichita county are eligible.

STUDENTS TAKE UP GRIND TODAY

Students in the Wichita Falls High school will report for classes this morning at 8:45 to begin their first regular school day since mid-term examinations, which closed Thursday. Monday was spent in registering for high school and junior college courses, making out schedules, receiving books and assignments of lessons for Tuesday morning. After this preliminary arrangement the school day was run through with shortened periods to try out the new schedules and to see that classes were balanced and that matters were working smoothly for the beginning of the new term Tuesday morning, according to S. H. Rider, principal of the high school.

Re-organization of classes and clubs will begin the latter part of the week, and the usual adjustments of changed membership that promotion brings about in school activities will feature the plans of the clubs. Now that the rush of exams is over, the doings of school folk and school society will go forward with the usual mid-winter enthusiasm, according to reports from students.

ORPHAN WORKER VISITING HERE

M. J. McPhelie of New York was in Wichita Falls yesterday visiting the children that have been placed by the Orphan and Foundling Home under the supervision of the order of the Sisters of Charity, New York City. Several children have been placed in this community by the organization.

"I am hunting good Catholic homes for Catholic children," he stated. "It is a law in New York prohibiting the placing of Catholic children in Protestant homes or the placing of Protestant children in Catholic homes."

In speaking of his visit to Texas, Mr. McPhelie said, "I am always glad to be in Texas because of the hospitality extended there. And for that reason I like to be in Wichita Falls. New York City lacks hospitality. It is only a place to stay, not a place to live."

Mr. McPhelie left Monday afternoon for Amarillo to visit children placed there by the Sisters of Charity.

"GINGHAM GIRL" MUSICAL TREAT

Reports of Other Cities Declare Music Is Decided Hit

The musical comedy "The Gingham Girl" the book of which is by Daniel Kusell, with lyrics by Neville Fleeson and music by Albert von Tilzer which will be the attraction at the Palace, Wednesday, January 16, will no doubt prove to be one of the musical treats of the season here, if we are to judge from the reports of other cities, where the play has been presented.

"Just As Long As You Have Me," "Love and Kisses," "Libby," "The Twinkle In Your Eye," and "The 42nd Street Strut," are among the big song hits of the play, and no doubt will make as great an impression on local music lovers as they have everywhere, for the melodies are of the kind one cannot easily forget. The attraction comes here with an excellent cast and an augmented orchestra.
