Crowder, Light and Maddox Deliver Loads Monday

Three Bales Open Cotton Season Earliest in Years

Collingsworth County's cotton harvest opened Monday, August 18, when three bales of cotton were delivered to gins. Never before in the ginning history of the county has this happened.

First to reach the gin with a load of cotton was D. W. Maddox Jr., while Frank Light, who reached town a little later, had his cotton ginned first.

The first bale was brought into Dodson by Ed Crowder Monday evening and ginned Tuesday morning.

This is approximately 10 days earlier than the first bale usually is ginned, and in all three cases the cotton was reported as dry-weather opened.

The Light cotton was ginned at the Farmers Co-op Gin, and turned out about 12:45 p.m. Dick Sweat, manager, reported. Mr. Light had 2180 pounds of seed cotton of the Western Stormproof variety and got a 474 pound bale with 840 pounds of seed cotton. It was grown on his farm a mile west of Wellington.

The cotton graded strict middling light spot 7/8 and was bought by the Farmers Co-op Gin at 40 cents per pound. Mr. Light received a total of $220.30 for the bale, including $188.80 for the cotton and $31.50 for his seed. The cotton was ginned free, as is the custom for the first bale.

Mechanical trouble developed at the Tindall Gin, where Maddox brought his cotton about 11:00 a.m., after ginning had started, and the bale was not finished until around 5:30 p.m., according to Lester Hunter, manager.

Mr. Maddox had 1850 pounds of Lockett 140 cotton and got a 440 pound bale with 810 pounds of seed. The cotton was raised on the farm which he operates for his aunt, Mrs. Mattie Maddox, east of town. He pulled over approximately 16 acres to get the bale.

The cotton was sold to the Tindall Gin at 40 cents and the seed at the rate of $75 per ton. Mr. Maddox received a total of $206.75

Move Here Unplanned

Fred LeDerer Sells After 40 Years in Business Here

When Fred LeDerer, in just a few days, walks out of the LeDerer Hardware and Furniture, turning ownership over to Oscar Killiam of Snyder, it will mark the close of 40 years in one business, in one location in Wellington.

Announcement of the sale of the business, one of the largest hardware and furniture stocks in this entire area, was made this week. Mr. LeDerer has traded it for a 23 section ranch in Kent and Scurry counties, but he and his family will continue to make their home here.

It was pure accident that brought Fred LeDerer to Wellington January 1, 1912, as one of the partners in the Hamilton Hardware and Implement Company. He had intended to live in Mangum.

Mr. LeDerer this week looked back on his 40 years in business here, but sound business man that he is, he didn't dwell too long on what he has already done, and he spoke with enthusiasm over his newly acquire ranch property, although he will not operate it himself, but will lease it for grass.

Mr. LeDerer had been an employee of C. P. Hamilton, first in his Erick, Oklahoma, store, then at the Mangum store, as bookkeeper. Mr. Hamilton was making plans with another man to open the Wellington branch. H. D. Creath, long time banker here, now of Wichita Falls, was handling much of the Wellington end of the work.

Then the prospective partner backed out at the last minute, on a Saturday. Sunday morning, Mr. Hamilton called his young bookkeeper down to the store and told him:

"I want you to go over to Wellington take charge of the store."

"I was surprised. I had never planned on that," Mr. LeDerer recalls.

A third man helped them open up: D. H. Hodges, who died about a year ago in Racine, Wisconsin, where he was a dealer for heavy road machinery.

"We put our entire stock for the Wellington store in a Katy box car at Mangum and moved it over. It cost us $25," Mr. LeDerer said. Jack Bevers, brother of John Bevers, hauled it from the depot to the new store on the west side of the square.

"We had a good stock for that time and a new store," Mr. LeDerer said, recalling that during those early years, they carried a big stock of such implements as

Schools Open September 1; Teachers Named

The Wellington schools will open Monday, September 1, with the exception of Booker T. Washington School, which begins classes Monday, August 25, Superintendent C. T. Roberts announced this week.

At the same time, Mr. Roberts announced the election of three new faculty members, and the resignation of three others.

Resigning are Aubrey Fraizer, junior high instructor and coach for the last two years, who is moving to Pampa; Miss Latona Curlee, freshman English instructor last year; and Miss Fredda McNeely, who earlier in the summer was elected to teach commercial subjects.

Mrs. Curlee's resignation was received in a telegram Monday. She added that fuller information would follow by letter. Miss McNeely resigned to accept a teaching position nearer her home town, Petrolia.

New teachers include Melvin Burk of Shepherd, Mrs. Harry Leonhardt and Mrs. Ralph Coburn of Wellington.

Mr. Burks, a graduate of Texas A & M and Sam Houston State College, has been elected to teach vocational agriculture. He replaces Bennett Goodloe, who recently became high school principal.

He received his bachelor of science degree from Texas A&M and his MA degree from Sam Houston State in 1947. After teaching at Silverton a year, he

"If at First You Don't Succeed"

BURGLARS GET SMALL RETURNS FROM CITY'S THREE LUMBER YDS.

Burglars who evidently believed the old adage of "if at first you don't succeed," never did have any luck as they burglarized Wellington's three lumber yards in a five night period, Sheriff Hubert Mauldin has revealed.

First of the firms to be entered was the McMillin Lumber and Building Supply, on Wednesday night, August 13. Entry was gained by breaking out the glass of the front door and opening it from the inside. Taken from the cash drawer was $1.93, Mr. McMillin reported.

Shamburger Lumber Company was entered Saturday night, August 16, when the burglar or burglars broke the glass of a side door, reached inside and turned the door knob. This burglary netted them 24 pennies, Manager Ed Miller told Sheriff Mauldin.

Sunday night, a window was broken out on the north side of Cicero Smith Lumber Co. office and the lid of the Coca-Cola box sprung. Ben Hurst, manager, did not know how much money was in the box, but estimated that it was the receipts from two or three cases of drinks, probably between $2.50 and $3.50.

Mr. Mauldin said that no fingerprints or other identifying clues were left in any of the three lumber yards.

Bloodmobile to Collect Blood for Korea Monday

Collingsworth County Monday, August 25, will donate blood to save the lives of men fighting in Korea.

This is the date of the visit to Wellington of the Bloodmobile unit, when county residents are asked to give 200 pints of blood for defense purposes, County Judge R. L. Templeton reminded. The bloodmobile will be at the community building from 1:00 to 7:00 p.m.

It is not too late for county residents wishing to give blood to volunteer, Miss Priscilla Chase, recruitment chairman, pointed out, since prospective donors will be accepted any time this week. She may be contacted at the Chamber of Commerce office by phoning 141M.

Part of the blood given by local residents will be sent directly to Korea for use in armed service hospitals in treating the wounded. The remainder will be sent to a processing center at Fort Worth to be made into plasma, and this also will go to Korea. It has been explained that both types are needed for treating the wounded, with plasma being used on the battlefield.

Trained technicians will bring the bloodmobile here and five Wellington doctors will alternate at being on duty at the donor center.

The bloodmobile will be in operation here for six hours, from 1:00 to 7:00 p.m. Eight donors will be handled every 15 minutes.

Immediately after the unit closes Monday evening, all blood collected here will be taken to Amarillo and from there flown to the processing center at Fort Worth.

The bloodmobile is sent out by the Red Cross, but it is pointed out by Judge Templeton, as well as Red Cross workers, that at the point of processing, it is turned over to the Defense Department, and from there passes completely out of the hands of the Red Cross.

It is flown to Korea by the Defense Department, and administered by medical corpsmen on the battlefield, or by army doctors or nurses in the hospitals.

The drive is sponsored here by the Civil Air Patrol and the Chamber of Commerce. It is under the jurisdiction of the Collingsworth County Chapter of the Red Cross and has the approval of the county medical society and health officials.

Persons from 21 to 59 years of age, weighing at least 110 pounds, will be accepted as blood donors. Those from 18 to 21 will be accepted with their parents' consent.

"Giving our blood to save the lives of men fighting for us in Korea is the least that we can do — it's not the responsibility of any one group, it's the responsibility of everyone in the community. This is the first time we of Collingsworth County have had the opportunity to give our blood for battlefield use. We cannot urge too strongly that you join this program," Judge Templeton said.

1,000 Gallons a Minute

Irrigation Well Brought In on Crawley Farm

Drilling in of a strong irrigation well on the Elvis Crawley farm one half mile south of the Fresno Gin Monday, August 18, may prove a major development in Collingsworth farming, to which keen interest has been added at this particular time by drouth conditions.

The well was drilled by Ray Hawthorn, local driller, to a depth of 212 feet and casing put down the total depth. The D&M Farm Machinery Western Land Roller Pump, powered by a Minneapolis-Moline Engine, was first set at a depth of 162 feet, when a test showed that it was pumping 700 gallons per minute. However, at this depth the pump was sucking air and was lowered 10 feet to 172 feet.

A second test has not been run, but it is believed the well is pumping at least 1,000 gallons per minute.

City Manager Bura Handley, one of the area's most experienced men relative to water production, believes there is no question but that this is coming from the same water strata, and has the same mineral content as the well which furnished the swimming pool at Marian Airpark, and also water for the developing irrigation around Hollis.

While it is high in mineral content, tests have shown that this water is completely suitable for irrigation.

In the last two days, numbers of farmers have contacted Joe Grigg of the Soil Conservation Service and County Agent J. W. Thomas relative to irrigation wells. Mr. Thomas gave one word of warning, however, as he urged farmers to have someone locate their wells with reference to the topography of the farm and also to have the water tested to see if it is suitable for irrigation use.

Quail Chorus First

Wellington Parade Winners Announced

Quail high school's Choral Club won first prize as the most original float in the long parade that marked the opening of Wellington's big celebration last week, two days of rodeo, followed by the Old Settlers Reunion, August 13 though 15.

The float featured 53 members of the chorus, in costumes of long ago, singing religious songs under a brush arbor. Mrs. Lowell Wells, instructor, accompanied them at the piano.

The prize for the oldest couple went to Mr. and Mrs. Jim White, while the most typical young cowboy was Jimmy Kromer of Vinson, Oklahoma, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kromer, and the most typical cowgirl riding alone was Sharon Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell.

The best comedy feature was entered by the J. H. Havon family, who this summer have a watermelon stand on the highway. For the parade the children, riding in a pickup in blackface, delighted the spectators and enjoyed themselves eating watermelon in pickininny fashion.

The best decorated bicycles were entered by Elaine Crawley and Robert Strong Jr.

These were only a few of the entries that included colorful and lovely floats, a buggy, ancient, new, and one hand-made automobiles, a long line of farm machinery, and riders representing clubs, from Vinson, Hollis, Memphis and Erick, plus a long string from

Ronnie O'Rear Burned by Steam

Ronnie O'Rear, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Rear, of the Rolla community, was severely burned by steam from the radiator of the tractor which he was driving recently.

The youth, plowing on his father's farm when the tractor got hot, climbed out to check the water, and as he removed the radiator cap, steam and hot water spurted out, striking him in the chest and stomach.

He was hospitalized for two days in St. Joseph's Hospital, then returned to his home at Rolla. His condition was reported by members of the family as improving as fast as possible.

BEE LINES

By JOHN THOMAS

"THE VALUE OF BEES AS POLLINATORS"

"The absence of honey bees can starve the people to death quicker than the influence of all the communist forces combined." This statement was made by an authority on bees and many people will probably think it is an overstatement. Regardless whether this is an over or understatement, the real value of bees is not in the making of honey and wax, but in their effect on seed production of various crops. For every dollar received by beekeepers for honey and wax, bees contribute to agriculture about fifteen or twenty dollars. Many of our crops are wholly dependent upon insects for pollination. Most of our clovers are self-sterile and must be cross-pollinated. Their flowers are so constructed that wind pollination is impossible.

Many experiments have been conducted to show the value of honey bees in clover seed work. All these experiments vary, but the average is just about like the one conducted on red clover. Cages that excluded all insects but gave an amply supply of light were used. Only twelve pounds of seed was produced per acre. Where field pollination existed with an average supply of bees, the clover produced 280 pounds of seed per acre. The additional 268 of seed was brought about by insects. The people who are not informed as to the value of honey bees in pollination may argue that insects other than bees may be responsible for the clover seed set. A further study was made to determine the extent to which honey bees aided pollination. For 43 hours, a study was made to determine the number of insects caught per hour. During the same 43 hours, 300 honey bees were caught per hour. This and other studies shows that 80 to 85 per cent of all pollination of clover is done by bees. When red clover and bees are mentioned, that brings to mind the old story of the bumble bee. It is a well-known fact that red clover sets very few seed, if any, on the first crop of blooms. For some time, we went along with the story that the reason for this is that the honey bee could not pollinate red clover, and only the bumblee bee could do the job. The old story goes that the bumblee comes out just in time to pollinate the second crop of blooms. Ohio State University made a study to see exactly how red clover was pollinated. They found that 28 insects worked red clover, 82 per cent of the flowers were pollinated by the honey bee, 15 per cent by the bumble bee and 3 per cent by the other 26 insects. With these facts showing that the honey bee is the main pollinator, it still remains that the first crop of blooms sets only a few seeds. This study was continued for three years and it was found that while white clover blooms are available, the honey bee will not pollinate red clover. There is a reason for this—taste preference—the same that makes most of us pass up potted meat if we can have a nice thick juicy steak.

Bees are worth more now to the South than ever before. Row crop operations are going out of the picture and being replaced by grassland farming. All grassland programs are made up of grass and legume combinations. Even if commercial seed production is not considered, bees are needed to produce enough seed for reseeding. The grassland farming program also includes rotation of row crops and pasture crops. This means more and more seed will be used by the southern farmer. In many cases everyone will produce their own seed. This only means one thing—more and more bees will be needed.

In the past, two groups of farmers in Louisiana did not need bees to pollinate their crops. They were the cane farmers and the rice farmers. Cane is propagated vegetatively and rice is self-pollinated. The change in times and methods of farming makes these groups highly dependent upon bees for carrying out their operations. The need for new sources of income and to control Johnson grass in the sugar belt in forcing the cane farmers into a livestock rotation. These to five year rotations in that cane and rice belt means that clovers must be planted often. This means more bees are needed to produce this extra amount of seed.

Many people are not aware of what a large job it is for bees to pollinate an acre of clover properly. When we eat two eggs for breakfast and stop to realize that two eggs represents a full week's work for an average chicken, we think we use up animal energy in a hurry. Let us compare this with the vast amount of energy that is required for bees to pollinate an acre of clover. An acre of clover has about 300,000,000 individual flowers. For every pound of clover seed produced, 75,000 flowers have to be visited by the bees. To produce 100 pounds of seed per acre, the bee has a real job. One bee will visit about 350 flowers to collect a load of pollen. To collect a pound of pollen, bees have to make 8 million visits and a strong colony will collect 60 pounds of pollen in a year. Thus, the old saying about the busy little bees is a really true statement.

travel makes a big difference in seed production. The results of a study on white clover show that when bees were in the field or within 1/4 mile the seed production was 244 pounds per acre. When bees were 1/2 mile away, seed production dropped to 105 lbs. per acre, while only 56 lbs were produced when the bees traveled 1 mile. This shows the real value of having bees in a clver field. Ohio State University has shown that seed production can be increased by using up to 6 colonies of bees.

The total value of bees to clover seed production is not fully realized by most clover growers. Beekeepers should not be discouraged by this, since it is just an educational job that must be put over. All forms of education are slow, so this information cannot be given to the clover grower overnight. Many people will remember the time when landowners defanded large sums of money from oil companies for the privilege of drilling an oil well on their land. Times have changed and everyone wants an oil well on his land. Someday the same situation will prevail with clover growers and beekeepers. Both parties must consider the value each gets from bees and clover and co-operate to the extent that both will benefit.

"All my life I've wanted to own a Buick"

Power Steering now available on Super as well as Roadmaster—optional at extra cost.

It seems that owning a Buick is something that a lot of folks dream about—plan for—and finally do.

We say that because, so many times, they say so in words like those above.

Those words make us happy, of course—happy to know we sell a car which means so much to those who own it.

But they make us feel just a little bit sad as well—sad to realize all the years of fun such folks have been missing for no good reason at all.

For the fact is this:
If you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick.
You can afford the thrill of bossing around that big Fireball 8 Engine that purrs forth a mighty flow of power.

You can afford the gas bills—as any owner of a 1952 Buick will tell you—because that high-compression, valve-in-head marvel gets a lot of miles from a gallon of fuel.

You can afford the extra luxury of a real million dollar ride—the silken smoothness of Dynaflow Drive* —the extra room and comfort and style that have put Buick popularity right up at the top of the list, next to the "low-priced three."

So if you want to own a Buick—there's just one thing to do:

Come in—pick the one of your choice—and let us show you how close the figure that goes on the bill of sale comes to what you'd pay elsewhere.

As we've said before, your first car can be a Buick. Why not take the Big Step right away—today?

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

People are excited about the new irrigation well that has been brought in on the Elvis Crawley farm in the Fresno community. Bura Handley is of the conviction that it is the same strata of water and the same kind of water that was found at the swimming pool and that it is also the same strata of water that runs through Arlie and into Oklahoma. The real significance will be in how wide is the strip. Barney Glenn is digging a well about half a mile distant from the Crawley well. This could provide a revolution in farming in the richest land in Collingsworth County and the one that suffers the most frequently from dry weather. It could make a tremendous difference in the stability of business in Wellington.

* * * *

Joe Griggs of the Soil Conservation Service will help you run your levels. Core testing is suggested before going to the expense of digging a well. It could save a lot of money or perhaps get a better well.

It is astonishing to see what a difference the water has made in the Crawley cotton in the short span of one day.

Congratulations to Guy Clay and everyone else who had any part in making the parade in Wellington such a success. There were more horses on the square than have ever been seen before, and this is not to mention the many beautiful floats and the exhibits of the local firms. The weather was terribly hot, but the spectators enjoyed it just the same.

Well I guess that I am about all set to go on my trip; but I can't write very much about it until I am briefed on what must be withheld from publication for security seasons.

But I can say this: I never felt so much like a quitter in my life running off with business in general facing this terrible drought.

Got a letter today inviting me to subscribe to a new magazine. It is Lifetime Living, and one question it ask us: What are you going to do with your money as you enter your new life? Well, if I keep on taking trips like I have this year, I won't have to worry about money when I get old; because I won't have any.

Junior Dukes Lost to Childress Orioles 12 to 3

The Junior Dukes lost to the Childress Orioles 12 to 3 Thursday night at Childress, their first to a junior team this season.

Childress got six hits off the Wellington pitchers, Duggie Jameson during the first two innings and Phil Handley for the remainder of the games. Handley limited the Orioles to a pair of runs on three hits the final five innings.

The Junior Dukes got two hits off Perry Morren, Childress' young pitching genius.

Wellington got two unearned runs in the top of the first before Morren got under way. They were stymied, however, until Edel Bonneau, centerfielder for the Junior Dukes, singled to left to open the ninth.

The Orioles got six hits off the Wellington pitchers.

PHONE 526 FOR APPOINTMENT

Dr. Green explaining spinal nerves and their part in the function of various organs and glands throughout the body.

Co-Ordination of Body Is God's Gift

The human body is an example of the perfect timing and co-ordination. No machine or instrument of earth is so complicated or so perfectly timed and co-ordinated as the human body. Like any great factory the human body must have a controlling center—the brain is that center.

If we eat a meal the brain immediately sets up a muscular, as well as glandular action, which secretes fluids and chemicals necessary for assimilation. The brain controls these activities over the nerve system, which is similar to a great telephone system only far more complicated. If we go out into the cold, the brain controls the heat of the body. The brain is always balancing the body chemically and in other ways, compensating for changes due to outside influences.

A body becomes sick or out of balance due to an interference with the nerve system. If there is an interference or pressure upon nerves the brain does not have complete control over the body. An organ or gland gets out of time, which results in inco-ordination all down the line. The stomach may secrete too much of one chemical and not enough of another, resulting in indigestion, gas formation causing pain, intestinal trouble and many other ailments all because of nerve iterference.

The only place this interference can occur is in the spine, where nerves make exit between spinal segments. If these segments become slightly misplaced, due to falls and strains, pressure is produced on nerves—result—bodily incoordination and varied ailments. The chiropractor scientifically locates nerve interference and corrects spinal misplacements, restoring co-ordination between brain and body.

A body free of nerve interference, or nerve pressure, is a healthy body.

Cecil B. DeMille Says Teach Pupils Freedom

One would hardly expect a motion picture director, even the most distinguished director in this country, to have down-to-earth advice for teachers at a great university. Yet Cecil B. DeMille, talking at Iowa State College, the occasion the student festival, Veishea, had just that. The talk was reported in the Des Moines Register.

Mr. DeMille spoke on "Education for Liberty." He made the point that teachers do not like the word "indoctrinate" yet that is precisely what they do—it is impossible to teach without indoctrinating the student with the teacher's principles whatever they may be. So, he reasoned, the question is not whether to indoctrinate but rather what kind of indoctrination we will have.

He continued: "I have no sympathy with any wholesale attack on American education but I think any American has the right to ask searching questions of the schools—and to demand forthright answers . . . The greatest single issue confronting our nation and the world today is the issue of freedom and the rights of man. Our schools cannot be neutral on the issue. They cannot evade their responsibility to indoctrinate their students with an attitude toward freedom and the rights of man. It is not enough to keep subversives out of our schools; people have a right to expect them to teach the highest principles of American life."

And the most potent quotation from that wonderful talk is his conclusion: "Certainly young people will question what we tell them—and they should question us and put us on our mettle to defend what we believe. Certainly young people should be taught to examine all sides of a question. But when they look to their teachers for the bread of truth, they should not be given the stone of falsehood."

His advice to students? "To preserve the traditional principles of freedom and liberty through their teaching of children and in the schools."

The thought comes—there are many lay people who can do as Mr. DeMille did; express their thoughts boldly and without equivocation to the lasting benefit of education, both teacher and student. Such expressions, not expected, have weight beyond measure with the young people—The Pella (Iowa) Chronicle.

So You Signed Your Name ? _ _ _ _ _ _

How recently have you signed a note without reading it?

All right — maybe you don't sign notes—how about that petition a friend said was for the good of the cause?

Did he say what cause? What's it all about? Who benefits? Who's hurt?

What DID you sign?

Perhaps you might have been the victim of that serious psychological test in which you're asked to sign—along with many other papers—one of which permits the chopping off of your head.

The willingness of Arizonans to sign almost anything for a friend—or any petition for a circulator with a plausible pitch, is frought with danger.

Walter Craig, retiring president of the State Bar of Arizona and president of the Constitution Protective Alliance, points out that danger:

"By the indiscriminate use of initiative," he asserts, "Arizonans may contribute to its eventual destruction."

Mr. Craig pointed out the initiative is a special privilege of Arizona. It is not existent in all states. And it was formulated to help all the people against the few o fthe controlled legislature, rather than to be used by the few against the cany.

Arizonans are faced once again with a puzzling array of initiatives. Some have merit. Some obviously are being promoted for small numbers of selfish citizens.

Professional petition - circulators, whose only interest is the cash they receive for obtaining signatures, usually take over about now. And they seldom even understand the contents of the petitions they are circulating.

What is the answer? It lies with the individual voter.

He must be wary. He should understand what it is he's asked to sign. Each petition should be studied with care and concern—The Eloy (Ariz.) Enterprise.

Proverbs Are Basis For World Peace

The dictionary defines harmony as "concord or agreement in facts, opinions, manners, interests, etc." But many of the passages of the Book of Proverbs have to do with getting on with angry and disagreeable people, with whose opinions one isn't likely to have much in common.

In general, the basic advice is that if other people act meanly toward you, don't be nasty yourself. If a man is angry with you, that's the time to control your own temper. "A soft answer turneth away wrath; but grievous words stir up anger." "Make no friendship with an angry man; and with a furious man thou shalt not go; lest thou learn his ways and get a snare to thy soul." Proverbs that recall Paul's counsel, "As much as lieth in you live peaceably with all men." There are limits even to the practice of forbearance, but one is wise to keep the boundary very wide.

In a similar spirit, the Proverbs stress the wisdom of regulating one's own life with good sense, and not according to what others are doing. Envy of others, of their power, wealth, success, or some advantage that they seem to possess, can create disharmony in one's own soul. Peace of mind is of the very essence of inward harmony, and there can be no peace of mind where envy and bitterness are harbored.

In our personal lives and relationships we can do much to avoid people who don't like us, or who are unfriendly towards us. But in the larger relationships — social and international — we are confronted with situations which we must accept as they are. They involve sharp differences, if not conflicts, in ideas and ideals, ways and manners. Yet. unless we can achieve some measure of good will, tolerance, and forbearance, dark tragedy looms again upon the nations.

The proverbs and the counsels that make for wisdom and harmonious living in individual lives ought to be watchwords in the affairs of the nation, and in the dealings of nations with one another.

AS YOU know, it is impossible for a prospective buyer to accurately judge the relative merits of various cars through a casual examination or on the basis of claims.

Therefore, smart buyers are taking advantage of the record established in stock-car racing which affords an impartial test of the important features of competitive makes—features which largely determine owner satisfaction. In this rough, tough competition between cars just like you can buy from dealers, every make of car is compared for power, durability and safety—vital qualities in your daily driving.

With 30 victories in 34 starts already this year, Hudson proves it has these great qualities in measures no other car can match!

THANKS FRIENDS

FOR YOUR FRIENDSHIP & PATRONAGE DURING THE YEARS

As most of you know I have sold the LeDerer Hardward and Furniture Company to Oscar Killian, and at this time I want to express my deep and sincere thanks to the people of this community.

In one way it does not seem so long ago since this store was founded in 1912: but when I think of the friends that have passed on and of the changes that have been made, I realize that forty years is a long time for one man to stay in one business in one town.

When I started this store in partnership with Mr. C. P. Hamilton I had in mind to provide a store that would handle everything and have on hand everything that people might need in our line. This was a genuine service in the days of dirt roads and slow railway transportation for it enabled people to drive a few miles in their wagons and get what they required. Otherwise they would have had to wait weeks to get what they needed right then. The service was appreciated and the business continued to expand and we continued to add more lines and more items.

For years and years I put back every dollar made in the business into new stock. Many times this was an investment in merchandise that was slow in moving. More money could have been made concentrating on quicker moving items, but I had made up my mind on the type of store the town needed and stayed with it through the years.

Another policy I decided upon as a comparatively young man was that I would neither buy nor sell shoddy and inferior merchandise, even though the inferior type might be sold cheaper at a higher mark-up. I tried to buy the best and by so doing I was able to stand back of the items I sold. This policy paid dividends also, and you will find that everything that is in the store that Mr. Killian bought is of the first quality.

Another service that has lost most of its significance was the credit extended by the Hardware stores. In the years gone by many a farmer has had the chance to make another crop because the hardware and implement firms carried him over into another year.

For some years I have had the idea of selling this business: for increasing government control and restrictions have made it increasingly difficult to operate just as they have made it increasingly difficult for a young man to buy a farm unless he inherited it or for a young man to set himself up in business unless he has quite a bit of money to start with or inherits the business.

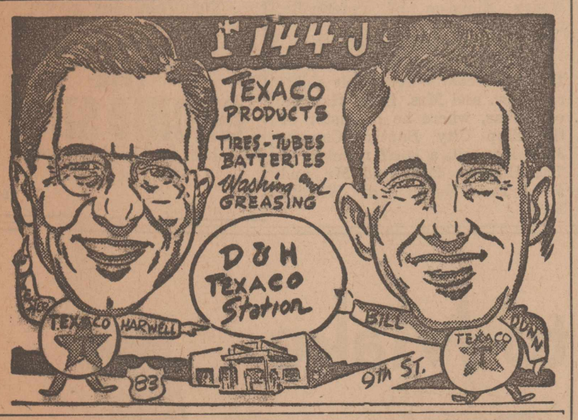

But I can't step out of this business before extending my regards and my heartfelt thanks to the many firm friends who have made this store what it is. I will continue to live among you and make my home in Wellington, and for once in my life I hope to have all the time I want to visit with my friends and fellow citizens. I have been honored and befriended by the people of Wellington and its trade territory and I hope to spend many more useful years in your midst.

FIRST IN THE TELEVISION FIELD IN THE WELLINGTON AREA

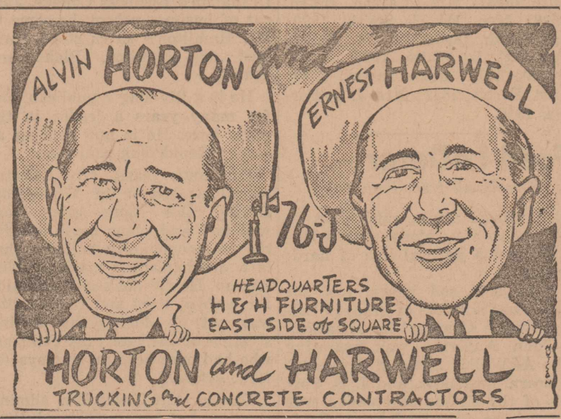

First we want to express our appreciation for the good will of our customers, who have made our business what it is today. This is the most valued asset in our firm.

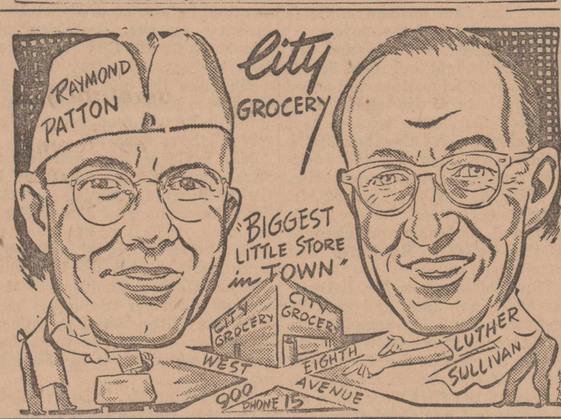

You are familiar with our electrical service. You have relied on it since 1944. Likewise, you know our stock of fine electrical appliance lines. Now we want to talk about Television. We are ready to help you enjoy it when it comes to this area. We have the technical knowledge that is essential if you are to receive the reception you should. We have the equipment for its proper installation, and we can offer you a choice of beautiful models from three of America's finest lines, Zenith, Hoffman and Admiral. Come in today and see our stock. We will be happy to demonstrate them.

Tyler Electric

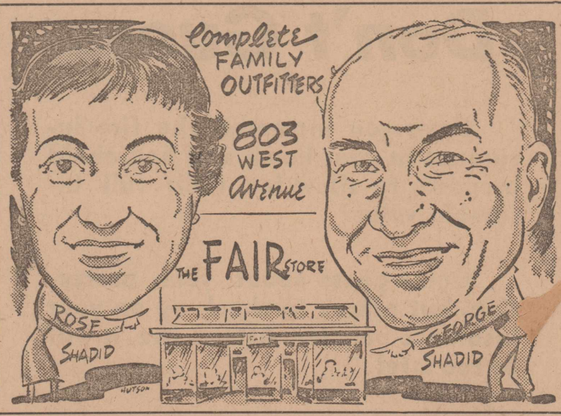

Introducing Hurshel Tyler of the Tyler Electric

Wellington's oldest established electrical shop is owned and operated by Hurshel Tyler under the name of Tyler Electric. It is also Wellington's pioneer business in the field of Television - a field which Mr. Tyler feels offers unusual opportunities.

Hurshel Tyler is a life-long resident of Collingsworth County. He was born at Dodson October 8, 1923, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tyler, who now live east of town. He attended school at Wellington, and on October 4, 1942, he was married to Miss Mildred Stafford, also of Wellington. They have three children, Billy Ross, 7, Marsha 5, and Kathy, nine months old the 8th of this month.

Tyler Electric was established here in December 1944. The scope of electrical service has expanded, and a full line of electric supplies has been added through the years. Television was first introduced by the firm two and a half years ago, and three leading lines were added, Zenith, Hoffman and Admiral.

"We are ready when television hits our area, and that is liable to happen by Christmas," Mr. Tyler commented.

Preparing to serve this area with television has envolved a great deal more than securing dealership for these fine lines. Mr. Tyler has spent a great deal of time and considerable money to secure the technical knowledge and know-how to enable him to serve this area. He also has a heavyy investment in equipment pertaining to television installation and repair. Collingsworth County will be ready for television in a big way as soon as the co-axial cable is constructed into Amarillo. Already, he has installed a number of sets in the area.

"We started with nothing, like so many other businesses have," Mr. Tyler recalls. "We feel sure the business has grown to what it is through the goodwill of our friends. Without them, it couldn't be what it is," he declares.

Tyler Electric offers some of the outstanding lines of electric appliances available. There is a full line of Hotpoint appliances. The American Kitchen units, all-metal cabinets, ready to move into your kitchen, are another popular seller. The firm is also the authorized dealer of Zenith radios. In addition to these, a full line of electrical supplies and repairs are carried.

From the standpoint of service, the owner says, "We service practically everything with a cord on the end of it." All types of electrical wiring is done by Tyler Electric, both commercial and home work, and they are proud that no job is too large or too small, and everyone merits the same careful attention.

The firm has done the electrical work on some of the area's outstanding and larger construction jobs since Mr. Tyler has been in business, and he is especially proud of those customers who have patronized his service since he has been in business.

In addition to the owner, Mr. Tyler, there are three employees, Keith Cunningham, who has been with the firm for three years; Rube McClain, an employee for two and a half years; and Mrs. Ruth Cagle, who joined the staff six months ago.

A Good Place To Trade

The Old Days Weren't This Hot

Pioneers Hold Annual Reunion Here Friday

Old timers gathered for another day of remembering Friday, August 15, with a large number of the county's true pioneers, those coming more than 50 years ago, attending.

With conversation veering to the weather, even those oldest pioneers agreed there probably never was a summer in the early days like this one has been — not even the drouth stricken year of '88.

The day was spent as other reunions have been. Friends visited throughout the day, and a big barbecue dinner was served at noon, and again in the evening. Sam Kennedy, colored barbecue king, was in charge of the meat; Floyd Hood prepared the beans and potato salad; and George Adkins was in charge of the coffee.

During the evening, the pioneers gathered again at the Community Building, and many of them danced the old-time dances of an early Collingsworth, to the music of Curtis Marchbanks and his string orchestra.

In charge of this year's arrangements were Ben Brewer, George Brewer, Bob Bowen and Tom Somerville.

Only part of those attending registered this year, but these included:

planters, go devils, cultivators — all one-row — along with windmills and a general line of hardware.

"We sold sod plows, too, for there was still lots of grass in Collingsworth County," he remarked.

John Anderson was operating the A&W Big Store, a dry goods concern, next door, and J. B. Forbis of the Fresno community, was one of the first customers. He is still a customer of the store.

In 1920, Mr. LeDerer and Mr. Hamilton bought out Bob Scott's hardware and furniture and added additional furniture stock. That business had been located next door, also. In 1924 they bought the building and took out the partition, making it the present size. In 1925, Mr. LeDerer bought Mr. Hamilton's interest in the business, and the name was changed to the LeDerer Hardware and Furniture.

Through the years, Mr. LeDerer has added new lines and new departments, until the completeness of his stock amazes many who enter the store for the first time, looking at the shelves reaching to the top of the first floor, then up to the second and third floors.

"A person gets to know where everything is," Mr. LeDerer commented, and with his retentive memory, he can in a minute put his hand on items that otherwise might take quite a hunt.

Mr. LeDerer, whose full name is Frederick Chris, was born in Wynona, Minnesota, June 19, 1885. He spent his early childhood in New York City and Philadelphia, then his parents moved to Wichita Falls, where he grew up. After finishing school there, he attended Draughan's Business College. Just out of business school, he came to Mr. Hamilton's Erick store, operated as Hamilton, Blake and Ward.

He is a life-long republican, and for many years a leader in the party here. He is now serving as county Republican chairman.

For four years, Mr. LeDerer served as mayor of Wellington. During this time groundwork was laid and plans made out for the fine community building that is a distinguishing mark in Wellington. He did not seek re-election for a third term and the building was put up during the administration of the late Pink Sullivan, who had once been an employee of Mr. LeDerer.

During Mr. LeDerer's administration, he also secured reduction in rates on gas, electricity and telephones for the City of Wellington.

He gives the late Judge R. H. Templeton credit for much of this. "If it hadn't been for him we couldn't have done it."

Mr. LeDerer was married to Miss Zena Farrell, a teacher in the Wellington schools, in 1933. They have one son, James Frederick.

Mr. LeDerer, reared a Presbyterian, now attends the Methodist Church. He is a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner and he has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce for as long as there has been an organization in Wellington.

To one thing Mr. LeDerer points with pride. During his 40 years in business, he has never had a law suit with any wholesale house with which he traded. "That's better than lots of stores do," he points out.

Three Bales -

for the bale, $176 for the cotton and $30.75 for the seed. The cotton graded middling light spot 7/8.

Mr. Crowder's cotton was brought to the Dodson Farmers Co-op Gin, which he manages, in addition to his farming interests. Since the gin was not quite ready for the cotton, mechanically, ginning was put off until Tuesday morning. The bale was finished around 8:30 a.m.

Mr. Crowder had 2030 pounds of seed cotton, which ginned out a 442 pound bale of cotton with 980 pounds of seed. The cotton graded middling 7/8, and was bought by his gin at 40 cents.

Mr. Light, in delivering his cotton, recalled to Dick Sweat Monday that ten years ago he brought in the first bale of the season, grown in the same field as the one this year. In 1942, Mr. Light made 43 bales on 45 acres. This year, he said he considers he'll make approximately three bales on the same 45 acres.

Mr. Crowder reported that cotton in the Dodson area was spotted. That on the tight land is badly burnt, while some of the cotton on the sandier soils, where considerable rain has fallen during the summer, is regarded by growers and ginners of that area as being as good as they have ever seen in that section.

Mr. Crowder said that he will gin five or six bales of his own cotton during the next two or three days.

Shortage of trained personel is listed as the No. 1 problem in operating Texas state hospitals.

returned to Sam Houston State as an instructor in animal husbandry for four years, after which he took a vocational agriculture job at Shepherd. He served four years in the Navy and held the rank of lieutenant when he was released. Mr. Shepherd is married and has two children, a son and daughter.

Mrs. Coburn of Shamrock has been elected to replace Mrs. Curlee, teaching freshman English and Journalism. She has taught at Shamrock for four and one-half years, and was in the Midland schools for six and one-half years prior to that. Mr. Coburn is an employee o fthe Lone Star Gas Company Pipe Line and recentiy was transferred from Shamrock to Wellington.

Mrs. Leonhardt, a Wellington resident was elected to teach vocational homemaking. She served as a substitute teacher in Wellington for most of the term year before last, although not in the homemaking department.

She was reared here and graduated from Wellington high school, later receiving her degree from West Texas State College. She has had five years teaching experience. Mrs. Leonhardt is the former Miss Wortha Tarter. After living away from here for a number of years, she and her two daughters returned here during the war years while Mr. Leonhardt served overseas in the armed forces. A few years later the family moved back to Wellington to make their home.

Two vacancies remain in the school, commercial work in high school and primary work in the Loco School.

Mr. Roberts announced the following registration schedule for Wednesday and Thursday, August 27 and 28:

Wednesday, August 27, 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon, seniors; from 1:00 to 4:00 p. m., juniors. Thursday, August 28, 9:00 a .m. to 12:00 noon, sophomores; 1:00 to 4:00 p. m., freshmen

Teachers will report for a general faculty meeting Friday, August 29, at 3:00 p.m. in the high school study hall. Saturday they will meet in their respective buildings at 10:00 a. m. for further announcements.

One new teacher has been elected for Booker T. Washington School this year, Mrs. Doris M. Wilhite, who replaces Dorene Darden. Mrs. Wilhite is from Houston and will teach public school music as well as classroom work. She is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama.

Two buses will operate for Washington school this year instead of one as in the past.

Other faculty members of the school includes W. F. Simpson, principal; Mrs. Lessie Phegans, Miss Jennie Ruth McClendon, Joseph Hogue and Edna Hambrick.

The school term will continue at the colored school until cotton in this area is open, when it will be dismissed for the cotton picking vacation.

were Mrs. Fred Williams, Mrs. Pip Holliman, and Mrs. Rufus Sweat.

Burial was in the Wellington cemetery under the direction of the Kelso Funeral Home.

Mrs. James was born Flora Cornelia Simpson in Georgia January 3, 1875, and at the time of her death she was 77 years, seven months and 13 days of age.

With her family she came to Collingsworth County in 1913 from Sallisaw, Oklahoma, settling in the Shinnery community, where she and Mr. James farmed until 1939, when they moved to Wellington to make their home.

Mr. James preceded her in death in September 1941.

Mrs. James had been a devoted member of the Baptist church since girlhood.

A kindly neighbor and friend, Mrs. James had the high regard of all those who knew her. Her work among the people of her community through the years revealed the kindness and consideration and neighborliness which were a part of her life.

Other survivors are nine grandchildren and nine great grandchildren, three brothers, J. H. Simpson of Hereford, Joe Simpson of Earth and Henry Simpson of Potersville, California.
