Cabot Completes UF Contacts

Paul Russell, firm chairman for Cabot Carbon Company, made a complete report to D. M. McKinney of the United Fund campaign Monday. Fifty-four workers of the company pledged an aggregate of $811.32. Several other firms were complete. Texas Electric Service Company was in 100 per cent as was Coker's Restaurant. Gandy's had 20 of 22 pledging with the only two missed being out of town. Complete were the workers at Montgomery Ward, Jones Motor and Safeway Store.

County Ruled Epidemic Area By Commission

A state of emergency arising out of wildlife infection by rabies was declared by the Howard County Commissioners Court here Monday morning.

Acting on presentations made to it by local civic groups and on information for veterinarians, the court moved swiftly to open the way to remedial action.

Thus far, 16 heads of animals suspected of rabies have been found to have positive reaction in state laboratory checks. Most of the animals were skunks.

Noting the epidemic proportions of the wildlife infection, the court said that "Such epidemic and the many uncontrolled dogs running at large with an unabated wildlife populations infected with rabies constitutes a menace to the health and safety of the people of the county."

Dr. C. E. Johnson, health unit director, was designated as the health officer for purposes of follow up action.

He is authorized to promulgate and establish the necessary rules and regulations for control of dogs and of wildlife within Howard County outside boundaries of incorporated cities in the county.

It was understood that the Texas Game and Fish Commission, has authority to send in teams to attempt eradication of wildlife which might be susceptible to rabies. Information is being forwarded to E. G. Pope, Lubbock. One of the first steps will be to advise the public of the situation, and then possibly a 30-day quarantine for all pets in the county could follow.

Houston Tanker Fire Claims Its 8th Victim

Tanker Fire Threatens Industrial Area

The tanker Amoco Virginia burns fiercely at its berth on the Houston, Tex., ship channel following a series of explosions. The storage tanks at upper left are among three-hundred giant tanks filled with oil or gasoline that dot the area and are in danger of being exploded by the heat and flames from the burning ship. A lone fireboat keeps its spray on the forward section of the tanker where high test gasoline is stored. More than a score were feared dead as a result of the explosions and fire. (AP Wirephoto)

25 Others Are Injured As Big Ship Is Burned

By JIM BOWMAN

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The tanker Amoco Virginia, its plates buckled and ripped by fire and explosion Sunday, claimed an eighth victim today when city fireman D. H. Chandler drowned aboard the ship. Twenty-five persons suffered injury.

The fire aboard the 12,000-ton tanker threatened the heart of the nation's largest oil refining and petrochemical center for 19 hours Sunday.

The vessel's captain, R. R. Combs, and six of the 40 crew members perished.

Chandler, 28, apparently stepped into a hole in a submerged portion of the ship.

Investigators climbed over the buckled plates in search of clues as to the cause of the fire. Groups probing the destroyed hulk were the FBI, Coast Guard, the American Oil Co., and Hess Terminal, where the ship is tied up.

The fire broke out less than four hours before the American Oil Co.'s 12,000-ton tanker was to sail for Albany, N.Y.

DANGEROUS FUEL

The flames, feeding on 135,000 barrels of high test gasoline and fuel oil in the vessel's bunkers, threatened the heart of the nation's biggest oil refining and petrochemical center for 19 hours before firemen brought it under control.

"It spread like a prairie fire," said seaman Joseph R. Daley, 37, Seattle. "As it spread, a solid wall of flames 100 feet high swept the ship."

More than 300 firemen who came from as far away as Lake Charles, La., battled the blaze. A blizzard of foamite finally smothered a main fire in the tanker's forward bunkers—which had held 90,000 barrels of aviation gasoline.

Small fires continued to flicker on the vessel's superstructure and a pier alongside. The blackened hulk's deck plates buckled and its seams ripped.

Firemen found the body of Captain R. R. Combs of Kill Devil Hill, N.C., at the foot of a ladder leading to his quarters. The bodies of four crewmen were found in their quarters. Two others were found on deck.

Memories of the 1947 Texas City disaster that killed more than 500 persons prompted civil defense officials to alert the Texas State Guard and order evacuation of the immediate area.

Fire fighters ashore and aboard a lone fire boat applied water in early stages before chemical extinguishers arrived. There would have been no hope for them if the ship had exploded with force enough to touch off dozens of big oil storage tanks lining the north shore scant yards away.

Five explosions did rock the 540-foot tanker docked at the Hess Terminal in suburban Galena Park. The first came about 12:30 a.m., only minutes after the fire broke out.

Flames towered more than 200 feet high. Black, oily smoke mushroomed over the vessel and cast a

Steel Readies Long Idle Mills To Resume Work

By JOHN MOODY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Major producers edged the first small shipments of finished steel into delivery pipelines today—two days after an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction halted the longest strike in steel industry history.

The early shipments—gatherings of what was left behind when the 116-day strike began—meant little to customers already hurt by shortages. It still will be weeks before newly produced steel moves in significant amounts.

Thousands of the half-million strikers were called back to work over the weekend. Thousands more expected recalls early this week. Steel firms were reluctant to state figures—changes occurred too fast.

FURNACES FEED

Most big companies began heating ironmaking blast furnaces and steelmaking open hearths 24-hours after mill gates swung open. Some expected to get iron from blast furnaces yet today.

Throughout the industry there was a gigantic effort to get all facilities producing as quickly as possible. Customers—many closed because of steel shortages — pressed for speedy deliveries.

Producers could count on only 80-days of operations. If the labor dispute is unsettled when the injunction expires Jan. 26, workers could renew the strike.

The U.S. Supreme Court figuratively struck the match that rekindled mill furances. The court by an 8-1 vote Saturday upheld the injunction that had been stayed more than two weeks by United Steelworkers appeals.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, in a television appearance, Sunday said it will be up to Congress to keep the mills operating beyond Jan. 26 if a labor agreement still is beyond reach.

Mitchell said President Eisenhower would be ready promptly with recommendations to the lawmakers if the strike is resumed. He refused to hint what the recommendations might be.

There was no indication that ether the industry or the union was in a mood to make major concessions. No negotiations were scheduled.

FIGHT GOES ON

The union continued to press for wages and fringe benefits that steel executives said would be inflationary. Workers were earning an average of $3.11 an hour when the strike started.

The companies held on to demands for contract changes that would give management more say over working conditions in the mills. The union has fought this proposal since it was first made.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service, said he soon would contact both sides regarding new negotiations. The injunction specifies collective bargaining must be continued.

Probably the biggest delay in getting mills back to peak production would be damaged equipment. Brick linings in some furnaces easily could have cracked during the long shutdown. It would take time to make repairs.

Most steel companies expect to be at least six weeks getting mills up to pre-strike production levels.

For the miners and railroaders among the 350,000 furloughed workers in allied industries, the work resumption was good news. They almost all are assured of being recalled quickly. Many already have returned.

But for thousands of others—in the auto and appliance industries and others—the wait for recalls will be a long one. Many may not get back to their jobs during the 80-day period.

The steel shortage, in fact, is expected to get worse before new production gets rolling. That would mean idleness for some who have been fortunate enough to stay on the payroll throughout the strike.

Alamo Murder Trial Opens

BRACKETTVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Selection of a jury started today to try a movie actor in the slaying of a blonde actress in a case officers say stemmed from a waning romance and professional jealousy.

Chester M. Smith, 32, went on trial on a murder charge in the stabbing of Miss LeJean Ethridge, 26. She died at 2 a.m. on the floor of a house she shared with four male extras, including Smith.

The five were extras in the movie, "The Alamo," being produced near this Southwest Texas town.

Then Miss Ethridge was given a bit part in the film and was moving out of the house she shared with the actors.

County Atty. John J. Tobin has said that Smith was jealous of the opportunity that was afforded Miss Ethridge when she was given additional parts in "The Alamo" because of her acting ability.

Sheriff John Sheedy said the woman was slain because "She was moving out on Smith and the others. He thought he was going to lose her."

Minneapolis Hit By Strike

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A bus drivers' strike today left the Minneapolis-St. Paul metropolitan area of a million persons without public transportation for the first time in 25 years.

Negotiations between the Twin City Rapid Transit Co. and Transit Employes Division 1005, representing the firm's 1,260 drivers, mechanics and clerks, ended shortly after midnight. The workers struck at 4 a.m.

Thousands of persons joined car pools reminiscent of war days. Thousands of others walked to work or took their chances of locating taxicabs.

A company offer of three-cent hourly raises each year of a two-year contract was rejected by employes Sunday.

The union reportedly has been seeking a basic wage increase of 16 cents an hour plus fringe benefits. Current average wage is $2.41 an hour.

DEEDS OF HEROISM

Heroic Ambulance Driver Saves Lives Of Three Men

By WHITNEY SAWYER

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—"They were in the water, screaming for help, the flames were drifting down on them. No one would go to help them. So I thought, 'What the hell,' and dived in."

Phil Olivier, a South Houston ambulance driver, said he pulled three men from the water at the stern of the tanker Amoco Virginia, which blew up Sunday and killed seven men.

Still shivering in his damp clothes, Phil, a student mortician and former junior Olympic swimmer from Lafayette, La., pointed to the stern of the blackened tanker.

"I was the second ambulance driver here. They were jumping off the stern right there into the water. One man was screaming he couldn't swim.

"There were a whole bunch of people here but they couldn't do anything. So I drove in and swam to them. The water was icy. Brrr, it was cold," he shivered.

"There were flames on the water up there," he said, pointing amidships, "and they were drifting down here. I swam around them and yanked them in, one at a time.

"One man was burned over a terrible amount of his body. Another had a head injury and one had his left side burned.

"They were all in their underclothes. They had been asleep when the fire broke out. They all said 'thank you' for saving them."

Olivier said flames were spurting from the ship and everyone "kept saying 'she's going to blow any minute.' But no one would do anything. They wouldn't even try to save the men in the water."

Sheriff's investigator Hugh Irby was another who braved the icy water. Arriving at the scene, he spotted a crewman in the water who appeared injured and near drowning. Irby stripped off his trousers, grabbed a life jacket and dived into the ship channel. He swam about 120 feet, handed the man the jacket and helped him put it on.

The deputy was winded by the heavy smoke, but finally made it back to the docks.

"This is no hero thing," he said after being treated for chemical burns on his lungs from inhaling fumes and smoke. "Somebody had to do it; a man needed help."

Open house will be observed at the hospital on Tuesday until 4 p.m. and the staff extends a cordial invitation to all residents of the city to visit the big institution and familiarize themselves with its facilities.

JAP MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS SAFE AFTER ORDEAL

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP — A Japanese mountain climbing expedition missing in the Himalayas is safe, the Nepalese Foreign Office announced today.

A statement said the 32-member party will return to Katmandu soon.

A five-man search party had left only Sunday to look for the climbers, feared lost in an avalanche.

The party disappeared five weeks ago on 23,400-foot Mt. Gauri Sankar, which is named after the Hindu god of destruction. Gauri Sankar is 35 miles west of Mt. Everest, the highest peak in the world.

An aerial search of the area Saturday failed to find any trace of the missing men.

Mountaineering experts say the entire expedition may have been wiped out by avalanches in what would be one of the worst mountain climbing tragedies on record.

Soccer Fans Take Mexican Game Seriously

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Imperio soccer team was leading 1-0 Sunday with only ten minutes left to play, largely because of the fine blocking of its goalkeeper, Yanez Castillo.

Then a fan of the opposing Zacatecano squad ran out and jumped on Castillo, stabbed him several times.

A general melee broke out among the players and rooters for both sides in the neighborhood contest.

A Red Cross ambulance hauled off Castillo, reported to be in a serious condition, and three spectators needing first aid but not hurt badly. Imperio backers carried the fan who inflicted the stab wounds to a police station.

Former Sheriff Is Placed On Trial

LAMESA — The trial of J. T. "Slime" Herington, former Crosby County Sheriff, for alleged misapplication of funds while in that office, got under way at 10 a.m. today in 106th District Court here.

The trial was originally set in Crosbyton for Sept. 14, but a change of venue was granted and trial established here. Trial began Monday, Oct. 12 in Lamesa, but defense attorney Carroll Cobb of Lubbock contended he did not have ample opportunity to view the public records upon which the case was based and won a two-day delay.

Judge Truett Smith then reset the trial for the November term since the trial promised to be a lengthy session and indicated it would last through a weekend if begun in mid-week.

Herington resigned early this year as Crosby County sheriff after an audit of county funds was ordered. He is specifically charged with theft of $133.05, money he allegedly received from fines. The audit, however, showed several thousand dollars in funds handled by his office unaccounted for at the time.

After his resignation, Herington was employed as town marshal in Lorenzo.

George Gilkerson of Lubbock, 72nd District attorney is serving as prosecutor, and Judge Truett Smith of Tahoka is presiding. Forty-five jurors of the original 91 member venire have been summoned for possible duty Monday.

Lamesa Has Topped Its Chest Quota

LAMESA — The nine agencies depending on the Dawson County Community Chest campaign for funds to operate during the coming year will receive the full amount of their approved budgets as the drive surged past the 100 per cent mark Saturday.

Mrs. Lincoln Stockton, secretary at chest headquarters, indicated in a report Saturday afternoon that $24,646.65 has been raised and more workers are expected to turn in their reports early next week.

The chest headquarters have been closed, but donations may be made at the banks of the city, at the Stockton home, or mailed to the Community Chest, Box 337, Lamesa.

Chest president Bill David and C. T. Beckham, drive chairman, issued a joint statement of appreciation to the workers and contributors who brought the drive to a successful close a week ahead of the original termination date.

Gunman Able To Evade Cops

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Police surrounded the Lakewood Country Club today during an attempted holdup but a lone gunman escaped through the lines on foot, taking the building caretaker as hostage.

A few blocks from the club, the caretaker, Thomas McDonald, 58, was released unharmed. Officers searched a swampy area in which the holdup man was believed cornered.

McDonald's wife, Mattie, 52, had called police and reported that her husband had been held up by "several men in Halloween masks."

She had sneaked into an office and locked the door before making the call.

After the robber left, police searched the building and found no others.

Ackerly Child Dies Of Burns

LAMESA — Burns suffered in the explosion of a gas stove in an Ackerly farm house claimed the life of Louis Esquival late Saturday night.

The baby boy, who would have been two years old on Dec. 21, died at 11 p.m. Saturday in the Medical Arts Hospital in Lamesa.

A brother, Reyes, 4, was resting satisfactorily at the hospital after being treated for burns. A 5-year-old sister was treated for burns on the side of her face and hands and arms and released. Two other children were given emergency treatment but were not hospitalized.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Joe F. Esquival were in the small structure on the Bill Hambrick home when a draft presumably partially blew out the gas heater flames.

Then an accumulation of gas exploded, burning the children.

They were rushed to Lamesa by Cartis White.

The parents were in the field at the time of the explosion, about 5 p.m. Saturday. The house is located about a mile northeast of Ackerly.

Rites for Louis were to be observed at 2:30 p.m. Monday at Ackerly.

Oil Worker Is Killed On Rig

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—A falling safety device killed a San Angelo oil driller, Bill C. Steward, 28, early today at a rig in Schleicher County.

The 15-pound device designed to prevent escape of gas from a drill pipe fell 90 feet and struck Steward in the face. He died instantly. The accident was at the Fortune Drilling Corp. Rig No. 2, about 15 miles northeast of San Angelo.

He is survived by a wife and four children.

Mulhall Has New Type Job In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After 55 years as an actor, former star Jack Mulhall is getting into a new kind of work.

"But I'm still dealing with actors, still working on movie sets and still having a wonderful time," said Jack, as jaunty and cheerful as when he played the young go-getters in silents and early talkies.

His new role is field representative for the Screen Actors Guild.

"I had been doing pretty well as an actor," he said, "working as much as I wanted to. In fact, I had just played in a pilot film for a TV series. Then the SAG came along with this offer. It sounded like a new adventure, so I took it.

"This means I can't take acting jobs now, but strangely enough, I don't miss acting. I've had my share of it for a while."

His career goes 'way back to 1904, when he started with a mud show in Passaic, N.J. A mud show was a traveling outfit, and Jack was a boy Irish tenor in the troupe headed by an English escape artist.

Jack, now 65, graduated to films in 1912, working for the Thomas A. Edison company in New York. He came west in 1914 to play in the flickers at $25 a week, plus expenses. He had nowhere to go but up, and he made it right to the top.

"I made a million dollars from 1917 to 1930," he recalled with no trace of regret, "and at one time I owned a million dollars in property. I was in the milk business, the oil business, the haberdashery business — I was spread all over the map.

"Where did it all go? My earning power was suddenly cut off, and I couldn't keep up the payments."

"I knew it was all over when they started saying, 'This part calls for a young Jack Mulhall.' They started bringing new breezy young actors in like Robert Montgomery, James Dunn and Chester Morris, and I was out in the cold."

No Hair On Chest? Get New 'Falsie'

By HAL McCLURE

NEW YORK (AP) — Men, do you envy those hairy-chested hemen who stalk the beaches and pools?

Worry no more, hairless Joe. Toss away your turtle-neck beach sweater — they've come up with chest hair falsies for men.

The latest in chest tapestries was unveiled Sunday at the opening session of the National Barber Show.

Who wears chest rugs?

"Usually, little scrawny fellows," answers pretty Diana Tessler, president of a hair-making firm. "I never ask my clients why they want them. I figure it's their own business."

The preferred shade: brown.

"The people at the barber show came to me and suggested we make up a chest falsie as a stunt," Miss Tessler said. "But I said, 'stunt? I have many customers using them already.' They seemed surprised."

Miss Tessler, whose main business is toupees — or toppers, as they say in the trade—uses real imported hair for the chest rugs.

TV Producer Defends Self

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert Freedman, indicted for perjury because he denied that the TV quiz show "Twenty-One" was rigged, says he wanted to "protect the private lives of the many wonderful people who were contestants on the show."

"I felt that I had the same relationship to them as the doctor to his patient, as the newspaperman to his news source or the lawyer to his client," Freedman said in a statement given the New York Times in Mexico City, where he is now working as a TV producer.

Freedman defended "Twenty-One" and quiz shows in general as "a breath of fresh air" compared with the murder and violence that saturated television.

"There were times when a certain amount of control was necessary to sustain interest and suspense," he said.

"The quiz shows have been accused of perpetrating a fraud and deception of the public. I do not agree with that accusation. The entertainment field, from time immemorial, has been based on showmanship, spectacle and illusion. The only function of entertainment is to entertain.

"Everyone knows that the magician doesn't saw the lady in half —that movies supposedly filmed in Egypt are actually shot in Hollywood studios.

"Is it any surprise to the movie audience that the stunt men usually do the risky scenes for the Hollywood glamour men?

"Is it any great shock to learn that important national figures generally hire ghost writers to write their speeches, and in many instances even to write their books?

"In this context, it is quite obvious why I denied certain conditions of quiz show production. I did it, not only because I spent many years in the field of entertainment, but mainly to protect the private lives of the many wonderful people who were contestants on the show."

Red 'Culture' Exchange Is Poisonous Hoax, Report Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Internal Security subcommittee said Saturday the Kremlin's leaders are promoting Soviet-American cultural exchanges as part of a poisonous propaganda offensive.

"Soviet hoaxsters are playing us, individually and nationally, for suckers," the subcommittee said in a report on its 1958 investigations.

The report, although not published until now, was written prior to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent visit to this country.

In a section on Soviet-American cultural exchanges, the report said that from ballet dancers to scientists, every Soviet is thoroughly screened by Soviet authorities for political reliability before being allowed to come to this country.

"If the individual has shown any traces of pro-Western sympathies, that fact is sufficient to blackball him regardless of any scientific or artistic merit," the report said.

It also said that every member of a Soviet cultural mission is an observer for Soviet military intelligence and is duty bound to use every contact with the American public to acquire information useful to the Soviet government.

Furthermore, the report said, each such mission includes at least one official representative of Soviet intelligence.

It added that the stepped-up drive for cultural exchanges "comes at a time when the Kremlin is particularly anxious to mislead the American people into the belief in the currently pacific aims and desires of the Soviet leaders, with a view of promoting American unpreparedness and disarmament."

"This is a poisonous propaganda offensive, which, if successful, could well be a prelude to a sudden military attack," the report said.

Lisa Bugs The Cameraman

The cameraman offers a far better side show for 3-month-old Lisa Meshell as 1st Lt. Roger T. Rhodes discusses the finer technical points of an F-105 with his wife, Phyllis. The chrome-finished model of the Thunderchief was won by the lieutenant for scoring the highest mark in the aircraft recognition contest held in the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Webb AFB. The monthly contest calls for a half-second identification of military and commercial aircraft of the world. Lt. Rhodes was winner for October.

Some Jet Base Personnel Will Stick With Horses

Webb AFB may be given over to the jet age, but several people at the base have concluded that the horse is here to stay.

Accordingly, they have formed the Webb Mounted Patrol, a riding club to represent the base at local rodeos and parades. The colors will be blue and gold, and members will be clad in Western regalia—hats, shirts, chaps and ties. First appearance for the posse of both men and women will be at Odessa on Jan. 6, 1960.

With the help of Mr. Ed Cherry and Ed Owens of the Big Spring, Mounted Patrol, the new club has seen rapid growth since Service Club organizers launched the idea a few weeks ago. Membership now stands at 20 men and women.

Officials of the Webb Mounted Patrol are: S.Sgt. Dusty Randall, president; A. 2. C. Luther Teague, vice president; Mrs. Charles A. Just, secretary-treasurer; and A. 2. C. Dick Bennett, parade captain. The board of directors consists of T. Sgt. Billie Babb, S. Sgt. C. O. McNew, A. 1. C. Haskell Dunn, A. 2. C. Dick Bennett and Floyd Davenport.

Persons 18 years of age and over, who are interested in joining the club, may call Mrs. Just at AM 3-3488. Members are required to buy their own uniforms and to furnish theor own mounts. Horses may be rented at the Big Spring Stables.

Finds That Critic Misses The Mark On College Play

To the Editor:

After reading the article by Bob Smith concerning the College Players and "Manana Is Another Day," had I been a stranger in town, I would have avoided the play like a plague. However, as I somewhat enjoy forming my own opinions, I went, and to my surprise and delight, found Mr. Smith's pseudo - intelligence had carried him astray.

Evidently Mr. Smith is completely, if not blissfully, unaware that the College Players profess no aspirations of professionals, but are a group, however amateur, giving their all in a sincere effort to entertain, and while purists and critics offer much argument as to what is entertainment, I feel the so-called critic, Mr. Smith, was viewing the play from the wrong end of the telescope in his harsh and hasty review. Al tho Iimagine his myopic statements were somewhat due to his eagerness to getting it over and done so he could sojourn to El Paso and its jazz delights.

Our College and Civic Theater groups probably would have much greater incentive for better plays and players if we would be less minutely critical and more supportive of their fine efforts. The newspaper should judge overall these efforts for what they are and the sincere spirit in which they are presented, but such biased interest by Mr. Smith does not garner public support, something these groups need to grow and improve. I am certain Big Spring would be happy to see these find people who are trying rewarded rather than blasted with so little true thought.

Sincerely,
Anne Rainbolt Kay

To The Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation for your Around the Rim article in the Nov. 5 edition of the Herald and to join you in offering a prayer of thankfulness for having been born without a bellyache. I remember having once read somewhere: "Nothing is easier than fault finding; No talent, no self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business."

To those who are always belittling Big Spring, I'd like to say that certainly we all know that it isn't perfect. But it comes as near to it as any place I've ever been (and a lot more than some). I think one of the nicest things about Big Spring is that it doesn't have fences around it to keep anyone in or out. And if I held such a lowly opinion of the place as some, I'd never let sundown catch me here.

Tech Plans Homecoming

LUBBOCK — Costumes and settings of the "Roaring Twenties" will form the backdrop for Texas Tech's 30th annual homecoming Friday and Saturday.

The theme will call attention to Tech's early years. The institution opened in 1925 with 1,043 students. The late twenties produced the first graduating class, the first athletic teams and many Tech traditions.

Exes from all parts of the state and many surrounding states will return for reunions and a homecoming queen coronation Friday night, and a parade, Tech-Houston football game, and homecoming dances Saturday.

The Ex-Students Assn. Council will hold its annual meeting Friday afternoon. Assn. officers for 1959-60 will be elected and activities for that period planned.

Greeting visitors will be the largest student body in Texas Tech history — 8,866 students who make the institution the second largest state-supported college or university in Texas.

A neuro-surgeon was flown here from Lubbock to perform surgery.

DEAR ABBY

YOU NEED A HEAD

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for all the girls in our high school because we all feel the same way about it. One of our 16-year-old juniors ran away and married a 17-year-old senior boy. They had to announce it because she is having a baby pretty soon.

Both the boy and the girl are still going to school here. We think the boy should be allowed to go to school. But not the girl. She brags about what she fixes Gary for breakfast and talks about things that only married women should talk about. We think married women don't fit into high school. Are we wrong in wanting to have her expelled?

Please answer in the paper as we'd like the opinions of other teen-agers on this subject. Thank you.

GIRLS OF SOUTH HIGH

DEAR GIRLS: A student who is an unwholesome influence on other students does not belong in a public school. But to expel a girl simply because she is married is unfair and unlawful. Tell your parents how you feel and why. And ask them to take it up with the Board of Education. I welcome the opinions of teen-agers, parents and educators.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am no silly kid. I am 32 years old and am old enough to know better than to be in a fix like this, but here's my problem:

Henry got me in a family way. I told him about it and he said he would marry me. He was unemployed at the time so I bought myself a set of rings on contract because I wanted everything first-class. I paid $20 down and made three payments of $2 each. Then I had a miscarriage. Henry says there is no sense in marrying me now. I am stuck with no husband and no baby and a set of rings I can't use. Can you tell me what to do? VIOLET

DEAR VIOLET: You are well rid of a man who would marry you only if he had to. Ask the jeweler if he will take the rings back. (You will have to stand some loss.) Under the circumstances I think you came out ahead. And by the way, you need one.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend (he is 17) is going on a weekend hunting trip with his parents and he has asked me to go along. My mother said I couldn't go unless HIS mother called her up and told her what it was all about. I am dying to go, but I feel foolish asking my boyfriend to have HIS mother call MY mother. What should I do? JANET

DEAR JANET: If your mother feels that the invitation should come through HIS mother, then trust her judgment and tell your boyfriend that these are the only conditions under which you can accept. If he's the right kind of boy, he'll understand. If he isn't, YOU can go hunting, too — for another boyfriend.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO KENNETH: For goodness sake, a 30-year-old man should be "dating."

Hurry up. By the time you learn the game you'll be too old to make the team.

* * *

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Alana Dee is in Room 347 at the Texas Children's Hospital in Houston. She may be returned home the latter part of the week.

Quality Merchandise And Good Service Ward's Aim

Quality merchandise at reasonable prices has been the cornerstone on which Montgomery Ward has built itself into the far flung and popular merchandising operation it is.

Customers know that at Ward's they can find nearly anything that they may need — clothing, furnishings, tools, automobile parts, floor coverings, bathroom fixtures. The list is endless.

The Ward store in Big Spring at 221 W. 3rd is one of the city's most popular trading centers. Howard County residents have long since learned that Ward's is the place to look first for nearly anything that is needed around the home or the farm.

And further, if it so happens that Ward's doesn't have what you need in stock, all you have to do is step over to the Mail Order department desk. Look through the big catalogue and tell the attendant your need. The article will be on hand in a matter of hours.

Next time you are down town, visit Ward's. Even though you may not think you are in the market for any thing, the odds are that a visit to this big modern store will result in you finding something that you want.

And you will have opportunity to familiarize yourself with the fine stock and high quality merchandise that Ward's always features.

If it's from Ward's it's the best that can be had.

Bond of Morris Fowler, charged with theft, was ordered forfeited by the court.

District Attorney Gil Jones was calling up a bevy of cases in which defendants were asking the court to pass sentence.

Pleas of guilty heard during the early part of the morning's session included:

Alex Menchoca, DWI second offense, 1-year probated sentence; $250 fine.

Nose Cone Is Not Recovered From Satellite

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., (AP) — For the sixth time, something has gone wrong in the Air Force plan to make a flying catch of a space package over the Pacific.

The Discoverer VII satellite, launched here Saturday, was supposed to eject a heavily instrumented capsule Sunday after circling the earth 17 times. Planes equipped with trapeze-like catching devices were set to take off from Hawaii and try to snatch the 300-pound capsule as it came down after it was released from the VII satellite which had achieved orbit, but the Air Force said power failure occurred in the electrical supply system that was to eject the capsule.

The Air Force also said the satellite was tumbling through space instead of following an even course. It is expected to remain in orbit only about two weeks.

Lost Girl Is Sought

A Nashville minister and his wife today pleaded for any information as to the whereabouts of their 17-year-old daughter missing now for more than two weeks.

LINDA

Linda Lou Coolidge, attractive senior at Goodlettsville High, left Nashville two weeks ago with a woman she had met only a few hours earlier while en route home on a bus.

Her parents, the Rev. R. M. Coolidge, pastor of North Edgefield Baptist Church, and Mrs. Coolidge, a teacher at Rosebank School, are sorely puzzled over the disappearance, for Linda was apparently a happy girl, meticulous in her dress, yet she left without any warning and without any extra clothing or personal effects.

She is believed to be in the company of a 24-year-old woman, Mrs. Nevada Brockway, who may be using the name of McMurtry or Creverly, and her 23-months-old blonde baby girl, Susan McMurty. Mrs. Brockway sent a postcard from Little Rock to a friend, and that is the last information. They are believed headed for Long Beach, Calif.

Linda is 5-7 tall, weighs about 135, was 17 Sunday, but could easily pass for 20. Her hair could be short or long due to a false "pony tail" which she used; it was in a bun when she was last seen. She was wearing a black sweater with turnover collar, black skirt and black shoes.

Anyone with information is asked to notify the Nashville Police Department, or the Rev. Mr. Coolidge, 115 Donald Street, telephone CONGRESS 2-1900.

SHIP FIRE

pall over this Gulf Coast city of more than 900,000.

The final blast almost 12 hours later shot flames skyward just as firemen appeared to have it under control. It pushed heat waves around the storage tanks on shore containing more than a million gallons of highly explosive fuels.

The night watch when the fire broke out included seamen Daley; Robert E. Dippel, 40, Brooklyn, N.Y., and Edward John Wells, 37, Houston.

Daley said he first noticed the fire on the surface of the channel. He reported it to Chief Mate George Davis and ran toward a hatchway to sound the alarm.

Then came the first explosion.

"I went over the rail between the deck and the dock," Daley said. Then came another explosion.

"That's when the steel began bombarding. Steel was flying all around me," Daley said.

He got away with only minor burns but left his life savings of $3,400 in a locker aboard ship.

"I don't think I'll be sailing tankers again," Daley said. "I'm going back to freighters."

The first thunderous explosions hurled some crewmen into the oil-covered, chilly waters. Others slid down lines or leaped overboard.

FORCED TO SWIM

A 72-year-old crewmen said he was forced to swim for the first time in his life.

Boatswain Rudolph Ozol, West Lebanon, Maine, escaped death by jumping into the channel and swimming 50 yards to shore.

"That's a long way for a man of my age but a man will do many things under pressure," Ozol said.

It was the first major disaster in the history of the 44-year-old Houston ship channel that extends 50 miles inland from the Gulf of Mexico.

Hess Terminal is five miles east of Houston's downtown port facilities. It faces sprawling oil refineries and chemical plants across the channel.

At least four agencies launched investigations. The FBI, Coast Guard, Hess Terminal and American Oil Co., owners of the vessel, each sought to find the cause.

Tanker Engulfed By Flames

Back From Fishing Trip

The Big Spring group pictured above returned recently from a fishing trip 14 miles out of Eagle Pass, on the Rio Grande River. They caught 28 blue and yellow catfish, the biggest of which weighed 40 pounds. Average weight of the fish was between 15 and 18 pounds. The smallest was six pounds. Left to right, they are Robert Burchett, John Robinson, Grover Griffice, Curtis Hale, Floyd Smart, Grover Wiley, Jim Brunson and Albert Mason. Robert Smart also made the trip and it was he who took the above picture.

BALTIMORE STUMBLES IN PRO GRID WARS

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco's 49ers are the surprise club of the National Football League and no doubt about it. But the most surprised bunch has to be Baltimore's world champion Colts, who now have dropped two in a row.

A 46-yard field goal by Sam Baker with 12 seconds left gave the Washington Redskins a 27-24 upset over the chilled champs Sunday, sinking the Colts two games behind the 49ers in the race for the Western Conference title.

San Francisco swept to its fourth straight success, nixing a jinx as Abe Woodson took off on a 105-yard kickoff return in a 24-16 decision over the Rams at Los Angeles. The game at the Coliseum, usually a tough spot for the 49ers, drew the day's largest crowd—94,376.

In the Eastern Conference, three field goals by Pat Summerall carried New York (6-1) to its fifth straight victory. It was a 9-3 job on the Chicago Cardinals that retained the Giants' one-game edge over Cleveland. The Browns (5-2) broke a tie with Philadelphia for second place by whipping the Eagles, 28-7.

The Chicago Bears tied Green Bay for third in the West by handing the Packers their fourth straight defeat, 28-17. Pittsburgh tied Detroit 10-10 on Bobby Layne's touchdown pass in the final 3½ minutes. It was the first deadlock of the season in the NFL.

Baker's winning field goal against the Colts, set up by Tom Bratta' interception of a Johnny Unitas pass, was his second of the game and was held by Eddie LeBaron—the little guy who had a finger in all of the Skins' scoring.

Little Eddie, a gutty 5-7, kept the Skins ahead of the ever-rallying Colts, completing 16 of 32 passes for 208 yards and matching his season TD-pass total by pitching for two. He also caught the Colts cold with a pitchout to Ed Sutton, who then threw 22 yards to Joe Walton for a fourth-period touchdown that snapped a 10-10 tie.

Unitas, who passed for all four Baltimore TDs in last week's 38-31 loss to Cleveland tossed for two of the Colts' three at Washington and completed 15 of 35 for 264 yards. He now has 19 scoring passes for the season and has run his record scoring streak to 32 games.

The 49ers, now 6-1 to Baltimore's 4-3, got the crusher when Woodson whizzed after Los Angeles had cut San Francisco's edge to 17-10 in the third period. The only longer kickoff return in NFL records is a 106-yarder by Green Bay's Al Carmichael in 1956.

The other 49er TDs came on Y. A. Tittle's 57-yard pass to Billy Wilson and J. D. Smith's yard plunge.

Summerall, who booted a pair of 49-yard field goals in last week's 20-3 victory over Green Bay, scored on 37, 49 and 20-yard kicks against the Cards. The Giants, who haven't allowed a touchdown in two games, three times halted the Cardinals inside the New York 20. John Crow twice galloped 73 yards for the Cards, who were held to Bobby Conrad's 25-yard field goal in the second period.

Quite a few esteemed coaches turned up their noses at the suggestion that they take the SMU coaching job, when the skids were greased for Woodard, because they knew that Bell wasn't about to be jarred loose from the job.

Bell, they say, never interfers with Meek's operation afield, which is as it should be. He may be inclined to remind Meek that the alumni is becoming impatient for a winner, however, if the team doesn't firm up and start winning the big ones.

Those familiar with the situation recall that Bell had to promise Meek everything but the gold in his teeth in order to get the former Tennessean to give up the helm at the University of Houston and move to Dallas.

There are those unhappy individuals in Dallas who reason that SMU's problem is never going to be resolved until the jobs of athletic director and head coach can be tied into one package and offered to one mortal.

Johnson Fights Ray Wednesday

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Harold Johnson keeps plugging along on his mission to get another title fight with light heavyweight champion Archie Moore.

Unbeaten in three years, the 31-year-old top-ranking contender from Philadelphia moves into the television spotlight—ABC 10 p.m., Eastern Standard Time—Wednesday night when he faces Sonny Ray of Chicago. They clash in a 10-rounder at the Chicago Stadium.

Johnson is in position to put the heat on Ole Archie if he can score an eye-catching victory. Only a cleancut knockout would do the job.

Ray, fifth-ranked, was stopped in his last start by Von Clay of Philadelphia. It took Clay five rounds to do that last Aug. 4. Ray, 23, has a 20-8-5 record. Johnson's record is 61-8, including 28 kayos.

In his one title fight with Moore five years ago, Johnson had the title in his grasp until he ran into a haymaker in the 14th round and was kayoed.

Undefeated Doug Jones, one of the outstanding young light heavyweight prospects, is favored to make his record 11-0 tonight at Juan Pomare's expense. They clash in a non-TV 10-rounder at New York's Academy of Music Theater. Both are New Yorkers.

Jones, 22, has won seven of his ten fights by kayos. Pomare has an 11-6 record.

Former lightweight champion Jimmy Carter of New York takes on Kildo Nunez of San Diego at Richmond, Calif., Tuesday. Carter edged Nunez in a previous meeting last August.

Pete Rademacher, the 1956 Olympic heavyweight champion, aims for his fourth straight victory on Thursday night. He meets Johnny York at Columbus, Ga.

Mrs. Marchant Is Winner In Shoot

Mrs. Gordon Marchant, who with her husband represented Big Spring's Nock and Feather Archery Club, won a turkey and a trophy in the Permian Basin Archery Contest conducted in Odessa Sunday.

Mrs. Marchant carried off the ticket entitling her to a turkey by winning the animal round in the shoot. In addition, she earned the trophy in field competition.

An estimated 60 bowmen took part in the matches. Cities represented included Roswell, N. M., Roscoe, Snyder, Pecos, Monahans, San Angelo and Midland, as well as Big Spring.

Trophies and medals were given in all classes both men, women and intermediates.

Three turkeys were awarded in the handicap shoot, one in each class.

The range and the weather were reported as perfect.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (SC)—Jack Connolly, a six-foot Texan from Dallas will drive one of the smallest cars entered for the SCCA national championship sports car races at Daytona International Speedway Sunday.

ENMU Wins, 7-6

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (SC)—Eastern New Mexico University of Portales, N. M., nosed out Central Oklahoma College, 7-6, in a football game played here Saturday night.

Games On Tuesday

The Center Point basketball teams will host representatives from Courtney in games tomorrow night. The first contest gets under way at 6:30 p.m.

Tourney Set For April

Martha Coffee, Shirley Starnes, Lee Duncan and Mary McConkey have been elected local delegates to the state convention of the Texas Women's Bowling Association, which will be held in connection with the state tournament.

The state meet takes place early next year in Fort Worth.

The election was held during a meeting of the Women's City Association conducted Saturday at the Settles Hotel.

Alternate delegates, chosen in the appointed order, were Jo Ann O'Daniel, Lue Best, Jean Cauble and Linda McDaniel. The delegates must have their team reservations on record by Dec. 28, it was announced.

In other business, the president, Veronica Bachstadt, selected a nominating committee for the panel of officers to serve next year.

Members of the committee are Lee Duncan, chairman; Frances Glenn, Wanda Warren, Martha Coffee and Virginia Pickett.

It was decided that the City Association Tournament will be held April 23-24 and April 30-May 1 next year. The entry deadline will be April 12.

It was also decided to use the facilities of both local bowling centers. Doubles and singles play will be conducted at Clover Bowl while team play will take place at Bobby Layne's Bowl-A-Rama.

The City meet will be conducted on a handicap basis, in which players' handicaps will be determined by using 75 per cent of the difference between their scores and 180.

Worley On The Move

Bill Worley (21) of Midland, who scored three touchdowns against Big Spring last weekend, is shown making one of his many long gains in the above picture. That's Benny Edwards (23) of Big Spring on the ground, after trying vainly to arrest Worley's flight. Midland won, 42-6.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

By TOMMY HART

Although Abe Martin is telling intimates he could have another championship contender in football at TCU next year (much depends on a boy who is ineligible this year, Graham's Guy Gibbs), Darrell Royal is building a football machine at the University of Texas that may dominate the Southwest Conference for years to come.

Before this season got under way, Royal was quoted as saying he might field a salty ball club but that it stood a chance of faring no better in this year's race than did the 1957 outfit, implying the competition was going to be much stronger.

Royal hadn't foreseen the debacle which occurred at SMU, nor the player resignation at A&M and had no way of knowing that Marvin Lasater would wait until after the Arkansas game to come onto his own and lend Jack Spikes the needed help at TCU.

Texas is responding to Royal's artful and purposeful conducting like Oklahoma did to Bud Wilkinson's masterful touch, a few years ago.

Perhaps it's just as well that Texas rise to the top of the heap and thereby send the other teams in the Southwest Conference into decline. The league has been a dog-eat-dog family too many years now, wherein a little shaver would grow muscles overnight and slap down a big brother without warning.

Such a pogrom was good for attendance, perhaps, but it did little to help any one club gain any serious backing when it came time for the nation's press to vote for a national champion.

What has happened to the SMU in the football wars this fall is enough to make a Gloomy Gil Dobie out of the most self-assured coaches. And Bill Meek doesn't lack for confidence in himself, it is told.

In the wake of the Mustangs' failures emerges the report that the ardor between Meek and his players cooled to frigidity, if it ever existed at all. There were days on end, the story goes, that the coaches spoke to their boys and received no verbal response whatsoever, that during such periods the players performed like robots — grim, and close-mouthed.

If that be true, then Meek may be in trouble — even though he is in the early years of a 10-year contract and has a life-time arrangements of sorts with the Dallas school.

The Dallas people are willing to burn a candle at the feet of a winner but they have the reputation for boycotting a team which can't fulfill promises made for it. SMU has won occasionally this year but the Mustangs were supposed to gobble up all opposition.

That is the big reason Don Meredith and Company have been twice the gate attraction on the road that they have been in Dallas.

Meek's status, now that he has one foot in the doghouse and another on roller skates, perhaps doesn't do anything for Athletic Director Matty Bell's digestion.

Texas Faces A Huge Hurdle This Week

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten, untied Texas meets Texas Christian and Arkansas tackles embattled Southern Methodist this week with the future of the Cotton Bowl riding on the results. It is also possible that the Southwest Conference championship may be determied.

Texas faces the last great barrier in its way to the bowl clash and first title in seven years.

The Longhorns and Horned Frogs clash at Austin on the same field where Texas overcome the Baylor jinx Saturday. The Longhorns beat the Bears 13-12 for their eighth straight triumph and a 4-0 conference record.

Arkansas, within a whisper of the top, closes out its conference campaign against SMU at Dallas,. If Arkansas wins it might wind up in a tie for the title or might take all the marbles in the event TCU beats Texas then lost a game itself.

Should Texas win, however, the Cotton Bowl will be clinched because it could only wind up in a tie for the title with Arkansas should the Longhorns lose to Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day. Then, too, SMU would be eliminated even though it beat Arkansas because of a tie game with Rice that would give the Methodists 1½ games lost.

Should Texas, TCU and Arkansas end up in a tie for the championship, Texas still would get the bowl spot because both TCU and Arkansas have been in the cotton Bowl since Texas.

Arkansas, TCU and SMU still have an incentive to win because each might have a good enough record to be invited to some other bowl.

SMU clung barely to a chance at the title by whipping Texas A&M 14-11 with a great second half comeback last week. Arkansas beat Rice 14-10.

TCU was idle but Texas Tech, the other conference member, playing Arizona and lost the intersectinal clash 30-26. It made the league's record against outside opposition 15-9-1 for the year.

Only one more intersectional game is on the schedule. Baylor plays undefeated, untied Southern California at Los Angeles Saturday.

There are three conference games on the schedule but one of them — Texas A&M vs. Rice at Houston — doesn't mean anything since both teams have already been eliminated from contention.

Texas Tech plays Houston of the Missouri Valley Conference at Lubbock.

IN SOME AREAS

Football Picture Is Still Clouded

By The Associated Press

None of the high championship favorites can make it but at least 13 district titlists may be known this week in the upper divisions of Texas schoolboy football. That would leave 19 districts to decide crowns next week.

Two already have been determined—Texas City in Class AAAA and Carrollton in Class AAA.

Wichita Falls, defending champion of AAAA, will have to wait a week to bag its title. Breckenridge, 1958 kingpin of AAA, has the same situation.

Abilene, one of the top rated teams of AAAA, is likely to win its way into the state playoffs Friday. The Eagles can make it if they beat Midland.

Corpus Christi Ray, picked as the finalist from the South, has a chance to win its zone championship this week, playing Corpus Christi Miller. Brownsville and Harlingen clash in the other zone of Dist. 14 and Brownsville can win it.

Nederland, the southern favorite in Class AAA, has to wait until next week to win its district crown.

Here's the situation in the other districts of the two classes:

Class AAA

1. Ysleta can win it by beating El Paso.
3. Amarillo, Amarillo Tascosa and Lubbock Monterey in virtual tie for lead.
5. Fort Worth Carter-Riverside can win it by beating Fort Worth Tech.
6. Dallas Samuell represents North Zone, Dallas Sunset and South Oak Cliff clash for South Zone title.
7. Highland Park and Garland meet Nov. 20 for title.
8. Tyler can win it be beating Longview.
9. Houston Reagan and Houston Milby play Nov. 19.
10. Houston Bellaire can win it by beating Houston Austin.
11. Port Neches and Port Arthur meet Nov. 20.
13. Temple and Waco lead but Temple plays Bryan this week and can fall out of tie for first by losing.
15. San Antonio Edison leads but still has deciding games to play.
16. San Antonio Burbank can win it by beating San Antonio Lanier.

Class AAA

1. Littlefield leads but has deciding games to play.
2. Andrews vs. Brownfield for title.
3. Four teams still in race.
6. Mt. Pleasant can win it by beating McKinney Friday.
7. Kilgore and Henderson play for title Friday.
8. Athens can win it by beating Palestine.
9. Cleburne leads but deciding games yet to play.
10. Brenham leads but deciding games to play.
11. Nederland and Beaumont French play Nov. 20.
12. Lamarque leads but has deciding games to play.
13. San Marcos can win it by beating San Antonio MacArthur.
14. Eagle Pass and San Antonio Sam Houston play Nov. 20.
15. Kingsville leads but has deciding games to play.
16. San Benito leads but has deciding games to play.

Big Job Is Facing Tulsa Hurricane

By The Associated Press

The University of Tulsa Hurricane, little more than a breeze early in the season, is in a position to spoil North Texas State's bid for a second straight undisputed Missouri Valley Conference football championship.

The Hurricane will have to make a king-sized effort, however, as the North Texas Eagles have won all eight of their games this season. The Eagles walloped Louisville 39-7 Saturday as Abner Haynes led the scoring with two touchdowns.

Chamberlain Is Displeased With Early Performances

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seven National Basketball Assn. coaches are not going to be overjoyed to hear this.

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, who is averaging 36.4 points and 33 rebounds a game, feels his performance leaves a lot to be desired. He has helped the Philadelphia Warriors to four victories in five games and second place in the league's Eastern Division.

The 7-foot-1-16th of an inch (in his stocking feet) Chamberlain says he's been off on his foul shooting. He's also not satisfied with some of his moves.

The fabulous rookie made these other observations as he looked back over his first five games in the NBA:

1. The game is rougher than he expected.
2. Boston has the best team in the league, man for man, but the Warriors have the stuff to beat them.
3. Boston's 6-10 Bill Russell is the best player he's ever faced, and definitely had the edge in last Saturday night's first league meeting between the two giants.

On the subject of roughness, Chamberlain agreed with an observation that he was being worked over.

Victor McLaglen Rites Tuesday In Hollywood

VICTOR McLAGLEN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Victor McLaglen's funeral will be held Tuesday.

The big, bull-voiced actor died Saturday of congestive heart failure—ending a long and colorful career which was almost as adventurous off-screen as on.

He was 72 when he died and a veteran of more than 35 years on stage, silent screen and modern films. Before that he was a soldier in the Boer War and World War I and was a prizefighter in Canada.

His films included "The Informer," for which he won an Academy Award; "What Price Glory," and the more recent "The Quiet Man," for which he received an Academy Award nomination.

Blind Couple Held Guilty Of Murder

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France (AP)—A blind woman and her blind lover were convicted Saturday of murdering her blind husband and sentenced to eight years' imprisonment. The prosecutor had waived the death penalty in advance, saying "the world is difficult enough for those who see."

Anna Barbini, 45, and Maximilien Levesque, 24, were found guilty of the slaying of Albert Barbini, 50, on Aug. 13, 1957. The court heard witnesses tell how the victim was killed in a savage battle of the blind, how he was found in a pool of blood with a bullet in his chest and his skull crushed by a hammer.

Anna's attorney painted a tragic picture of her life in darkness, describing how, when she was 17, she met Barbini "hoping to come out of her night."

"She believed that he would be her support," the attorney said. "Instead he led her to prostitution."

The prosecutor told the jury: "The pity shown for these two white canes should not make you forget the other white cane that Barbini no longer carries."

The jury returned its verdict after 50 minutes. Anna and Maximilien heard the sentence without any visible emotion.

The state charged the couple plotted to kill the husband and that Levesque was the actual killer. Levesque said he did it to save Anna when her husband tried to strangle her after a reconciliation attempt failed.

During his testimony, Levesque's face broke into a smile only once. That was when he said: "I entered a school for the blind in 1955. I had the pleasure of meeting Anna there and she became my friend."

Anna testified that her husband beat her for years but she was afraid to leave him because she was blind and had nowhere to go. When she met Levesque, he became her "reason for living."

Cancer Drug Yarn Gets Toning Down

WASHINGTON (AP) —A government doctor has toned down a somewhat optimistic statement he made earlier about a new antibiotic drug that may be useful against cancer.

Dr. Henry Welch of the Food and Drug Administration Friday modified a statement he made Wednesday at a symposium on antibiotics. At that time he said the drug streptonigrin looks more promising than other antibiotics as a possible agent against cancer.

Vet Admits Jap Slaying

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A former service man is in jail here today after telling police he killed his Japanese girl friend in Japan three years ago as she knelt before an altar.

Det. Bob Perdue said John Robert Moller, 25, Dallas, made the admission suddenly and tearfully during a routine questioning.

Perdue said Moller told him he jabbed a knife into the stomach of Midori Takaru, 20, after kissing her on the neck. Then, he was quoted, he wiped the knife and placed it in her hands.

He said he and the girl argued after he told her he was returning to the United States. Moller said he did not tell her that he was going home because he had tuberculosis.

Moller said the slaying occurred in the girl's home at Ishimato, a small town on the island of Honshu and near the U.S. Matshima Air Force Base, on Sept. 18, 1956.

Perdue said Moller and a companion were arrested after a service station attendant overheard them talking about a shooting.

WAYS TO MAKE MONEY

Many Amazing And Weird Enterprises

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Would you like to share the risks, and possible profits, of a Spanish treasure hunt? Or have a stake in the search for oil in the jungles of the Philippines?

These and other armchair thrills —and potential disappointments— are available to anyone who has the cash to indulge in new issues of speculative common stocks.

Such issues are being processed by the Securities and Exchange Commission at a record rate this year. The agency is forever amazed by the variety of propositions put to American investors.

Take the proposed treasure hunt. In this case, you could even be whisked to the far-away spot where a fleet of Spanish galleons was sunk by British guns 257 years ago.

Treasure Hunters, Inc., a new Washington firm, is going to select one of its stockholders by lot to go on this planned expedition. All expenses will be paid and, if treasure is found, the lucky stockholder will share in the 25 per cent cut that goes to the salvage crew and company officials.

Many people believe extremely speculative stocks no longer are sold because of the policing of the SEC. The fact is, the SEC can't block a speculative offering so long as the promoters make a full disclosure of the facts about their enterprise.

Treasure Hunters, Inc., which is trying to sell 1,900,000 shares at $1 each, tells prospective investors: "No person should invest in this enterprise more than he can afford to lose."

The prospectus adds that even if all shares are sold, "The amount received by the company may very well prove to be insufficient to locate any vessel or cargo sought."

Treasure Hunters plans to send its first expedition to Vigo Bay, in Spain, to search for gold, silver and jewels that sank with a treasure fleet in 1702. It will work there with a British salvage firm.

Actually, the company isn't sure this treasure still exists. Other salvagers operated in the same waters over the past 200 years and they may have picked the bones pretty clean.

Redeco, a Philippine oil exploration firm, is a less spectacular enterprise. However, it already has sold or booked orders for more than 800 million shares of common stock. It is trying to sell an additional 250 million at one cent each, which would bring the total to more than one billion.

There are darn few billion-share corporations.

If Redeco finds a big pool of oil, its penny shares could become a valuable holding. However, you might have to take your profits in Philippine pesos. Currency restrictions now prevent most people from converting pesos into dollars.

That's another chance you take, and the prospectus plainly says so.

A Devotional For Today

The King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me. (Matthew 25:40.)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee because Thou lovest us. Help us as we confidently seek to carry out Thy will for our lives. Grant Thy blessings to all who labor for Thee, and touch the hearts of those who know Thee not. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Help The Small College

On Oct. 11 this year a whole section of 16 pages in the form of an advertisement appeared in the New York Times, and many thousands of copies of it were sent to individuals and corporations in all parts of the country.

It was drawn up and sponsored by CASC — Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges. Cost of the production was defrayed by ten nationally known firms and foundations.

The burden of its argument: That there are hundreds of small colleges and universities in this country devoted to the liberal arts which are doing a great job but could do a better one and reach more of our young people if alumni, business and industry, private donors and foundations would make more and bigger donations for their support and encouragement.

Of the colleges making up CASC membership, 52 are coeducational, six for men, five for women, 10 nonsectarian, 17 Catholic, 36 Protestant church-related. The entire group numbers 63 in 29 states.

As a dramatic presentation of a vital need in our machinery of higher education this advertisement is unique. That need is for increased private support for the small colleges of the country which could help solve the growing pressure on all colleges if they were given the means and the encouragement to carry on their work.

This is one of several similar group efforts in behalf of non-tax supported colleges. Any results? Well, in the last five years money contributed by alumni has increased from $32 million to $143 million.

Private money is playing an increasing role in higher education. Its opportunities are innumerable, and beckoning.

Even in tax-supported institutions such as HCJC, private aid can reap great wonders.

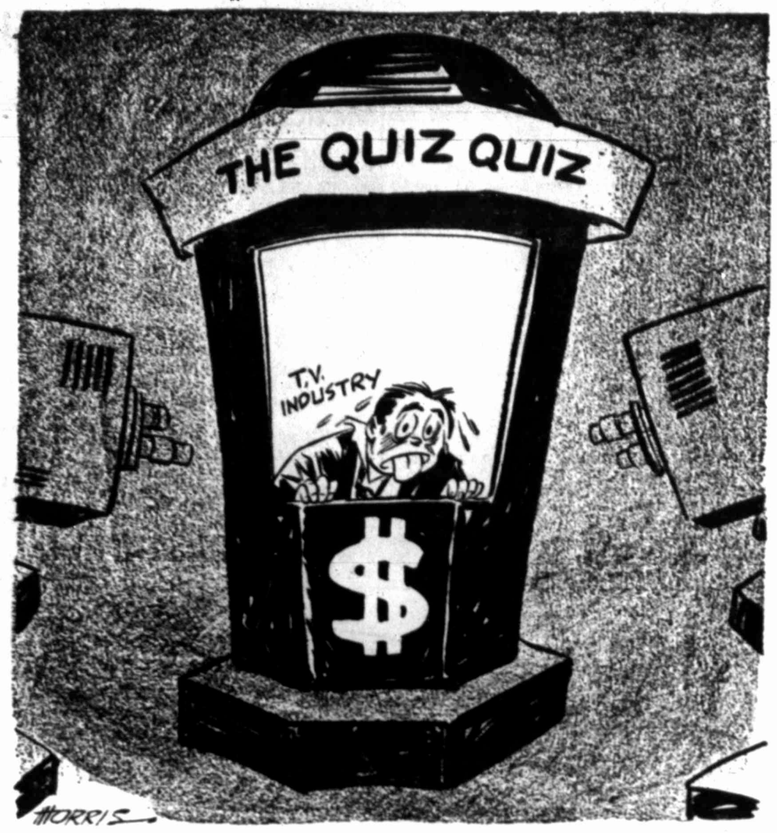

Business Spawned This One

Not so many weeks ago a hue and cry was raised against the disclosures of the Senate committee delving into abuses by certain union officials.

Just to keep the record straight, the disclosures of the past week ought to be charged to the other side of the fence. The rigging of TV shows, admitted freely if reluctantly by Charles Van Doren and others, cannot be shrugged off sorrowfully as a moral lapse by individuals. It should be remembered that a segment of business spawned the deal. It was born with a group of individuals who held the fast buck in higher regard than ethics and honesty.

So business can't assume a sanctimonious attitude about moral lapses, either. Apparently this rot is in the national body, and alas all are endangered by it.

Perhaps the time has come that we need to stop pointing the finger at others and point it squarely at ourselves.

TV Cowboy Was A Thirsty Soul

If they ever have a TV western in which the hero doesn't belly up to the bar and guzzle the hard stuff, while keeping an eye peeled in the big mirror for the fugitive or defamer, I want to be there when it happens.

Did they transact all their business in the saloon in those days? Judging from the amount of liquids one sees lining the walls of the drinking clubs in the TV sagas these days, I'd say the Kentucky distilleries did a far bigger business in the immediate post-Civil War days than they do now.

The morticians in that era weren't very smart. The wise thing to have done, as I see it, would have been to locate immediately next to the saloon, with maybe a secret door between the two establishments—to pick up the bodies between the shooting scrapes.

Times have changed since I was a boy. I used to save my dimes for the Saturday afternoon session with Hoot Gibson, Tom Mix and Buck Jones.

As I recall, those fellows didn't live in saloons like the modern TV cowboys do now. They might go in occasionally to clean out the joint, during which time the hired guns of the head crook would come flying through the windows or under the doors, rubbing their bruised spots.

The Western heroes in my era obviously lived with the credo, "lips that touch liquor will never touch mine." Fact is, they did very little smooching with anything but their big, white horses, which they loved and which dearly loved them.

It was easy to tell the good guys from the bad ones. The good ones invariably had on gloves, petted their horses between the eyes and wore big white hats. The villains were shifty-eyed, wore suspicious-looking mustaches and sported black fedoras. It was as simple as that.

The movie hero in those days let everyone push him around for a while. The girl would scold him for being a cream puff but it wasn't hard to sit there and enjoy your popcorn. You knew he wasn't a coward. Just the fastest gun in the West. It's simply that he'd told his mother he'd never wear them again.

Situations dictated otherwise, however. Evil threatened to get the upper hand. There was nothing to do but strap on the old hardware and dispatch the varmints.

You knew he was coming down the street, without ever having occasion to look his way. The stragglers would duck for the alleys, yelling, "It's Randy Randall. I seen him in Abilene oncst. I remember the way he looked when he cleaned out the Lipscomb gang!"

Those were the days. The issues were clearly drawn. Nowadays, I'm inclined to think they're all bending an elbow together and the net result is a drunken brawl.

The Ghastly Nadir

"Do you think the teevee scandal will make the American people realize that it is only a symptom of our own moral decay?" the elder statesman asked anxiously.

"Do you think the public's revulsion to such wholesale dishonesty will lead to a reassessment of the nation's easy moral standards?" he continued. "Or will it require some awful cataclysm when, perhaps, it is too late?

"In the pursuit of the fast buck, have we sold our wonderful birthright? If I thought the public would see — understand — that it created the atmosphere in which this teevee mess could happen, I would feel reassured about the future."

* * *

So, in my small way, would I. For I believe that the revelations of the widespread teevee fix, as revealed in Washington before the House Special Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, are far more damning and far more revelatory of the nation's moral standards than the disclosures of union fraud, violence and larceny before the same committee.

STENCH OF DECAY

There is the stench of moral decay about the teevee revelations. It should be a scalding humilitation to us Americans to realize that the moral atmosphere is such that the groves of Academe, the ministry of God, the United States Army and men and women of the most-privileged background no less than Madison Avenue, big business, flesh peddlers, and the world of entertainment conspired to lie, cheat and steal.

But the most appalling symptom of moral atrophy is that children should be suborned in the name of entertainment and profits. Ever since Charles Dickens wrote "Oliver Twist" there has been a universal and repugnant name for men or women who teach children to be dishonest, and that name is Fagin.

I cannot see that there is an iota of moral difference between Dickens' Fagin, who taught children to steal, and the Fagins of the advertising, entertainment and the teevee world who, for the sake of a fast buck, taught children to take — steal is the right word, really — money they dishonestly earned in rigged quiz shows.

That is the ghastly nadir, the most shocking aspect of the television investigation so far. That is moral squalor in spades. To debauch children in the realm of honor and honesty is to descend to a level at which ethics do not even operate.

NON MEA CULPA

It is also inconceivable that the lofty powers who own and operate networks can now wash their hands in public and cry, "Non mea culpa." In this matter, I have ceased to believe in Santa Claus. Are the big-wigs, because they have power, to be saved from the lions to which they eagerly tossed the shabby people who couldn't resist their share of the profits toward which the networks drove so gaudily while the going was good?

Now that NBC has so ostentatiously fired Charles Van Doren, who asked for it, what will it, CBS and ABC do with bandleader Xavier Cugat? Cugat's crime is every bit as reprehensible as Van Doren's.

But now let us see if what is sauce for Van Doren is sauce for Cugat! Will the networks continue to employ Cugat and to play his recordings? Or will he be banished as was Van Doren by NBC? This is an interesting moral problem, and I am eager to see how the networks handle it.

The wide ramifications of the television scandal are not a reflection solely on the networks. It is an indictment of us Americans as a people that the climate in our nation allows such a situation to take root and grow. We ought to be deeply ashamed of ourselves.

The Reds Are Still At It

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower, in discussing at his press conference this week the riots and demonstrations against the United States embassy in Panama, spoke of extremists, and, in referring to Cuba, said that Communists like to "fish in troubled waters, and there are certainly troubled waters there."

Mr. Eisenhower did not go into details but reaffirmed a recent statement by the American government with reference to the Communist menace in Latin American countries. He said it was "a little bit puzzling" to him why this should occur in the face of the record of friendship of the United States for Panama. He might have added a reference also to the way the United States helped that country to gain independence.

Mr. Eisenhower probably didn't mean that he is in doubt about how such episodes arise, but that he is puzzled as to why governments let such things happen within their borders. The Communist technique is to seize upon any controversial question, no matter how long it has been dormant, in order to play upon the nationalistic feelings of the people.

THEY GET AWAY WITH IT

What is puzzling is that the Communists get away with their infiltration tactics. Even the Communist party in the United States, protected as it is by various decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, now boldly reveals its part in helping to stir up trouble inside this country not only in the ranks of labor but wherever the school integration problem and other questions affecting Negroes are raised.

The latest revelation comes from Herbert Apteker, an American citizen, who has just written for the Communist party organ in Moscow a long article boasting about what the American Communist party has done to further the objectives of communism. Mr. Apteker testified before the subversive activities control board in 1949 as an expert on Marxism-Leninism and acknowledged at that time membership in the American Communist party. In his article published in Moscow on Oct. 17, Mr. Apteker gives a glowing description of how the Communist party has recently gained new strength in the United States. He says this occurred after the defeat of what he calls McCarthyism—the party's biggest opposition. He adds:

REVITALIZED

"After the 16th Congress (1957), the party began nursing its wounds and restoring its strength. The national committee plenum which took place in February 1958 was symptomatic in this respect. It insured the further rallying of the party on the basis of the principles of Marxism-Leninism. This permitted the overcoming of the paralysis which in the course of a number of months had been inhibiting the activities of the party.

"Organizational activities revived, the loss in the number of party members was made up, and a certain number of new members, particularly among the youth, was acquired. The party tackled educational work and the dissemination of Marxist literature.

"The most important thing was that the party resumed participation in mass work. This refers to the inter-trade union struggle, to a demonstration of jobless people that took place recently, to certain aspects of the struggle of the Negroes, particularly to the movement for integrated children's education in schools.

"The party plays a considerable role in the struggle against military preparations and the foreign policy of cold war. It extends assistance to various mass anti-militaristic organizations and has begun developing a struggle for peace directly among the masses. In recent times, it has organized street meetings and demonstrations in some very large cities."

SAME TECHNIQUES

This disclosure from the pen of a prominent American communist may come as a surprise to those in this country who constantly pooh-pooh the threat of communism and call communism merely another political belief. But it doesn't surprise those in our government who have been watching the activities of the Communist apparatus at close range. Organizing street demonstrations, whether in Little Rock or Chicago, or creating a flag incident in Panama City or West Berlin isn't anything unusual for the Communists to do, and they have a technique of infiltrating existing organizations to stir them to outbursts of various kinds.

Incidentally, Herbert Apteker, who wrote the article for the communist organ in Moscow, was born in the United States of Russian-born parents and was educated at Columbia University, where he received a Ph.D. degree in 1943. He has testified that he joined the Communist party in about 1939. He became a captain in the counter-intelligence corps of the U. S. Army in 1944 and was relieved of active duty in 1946 with the rank of major. He has been connected with many Communist and left-wing periodicals and organizations and has written many articles and books on communist issues.

Court Decision Not Last Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has ended the steel strike for 80 days but has left unanswered a basic question: Should a union-industry dispute in the form of a strike be permitted to endanger the national welfare?

Proposals for toughening the law against such a strike are piling up. Congress is apt to ignore them in the 1960 election year unless the strike resumes at the end of 80 days. If that happens, watch out.

The 1947 Taft-Hartley labor act opens with a policy statement which says its purpose is to protect the "rights of the public in connection with labor disputes" which "affect commerce" and endanger the "general welfare."

That sounds broad. But later, in the section authorizing the government to get an injunction against an industry-wide strike, the law says this should be granted only if the strike imperils "national health and safety."

Note that it doesn't say anything about a strike that imperils the general welfare, which would include the economic well-being of the country. The economy already has been hit by the steel strike.

PROTECT PUBLIC

In asking a federal court for an injunction in the steel strike, the government argued it was needed to protect "national health and safety." To show what it meant by "safety," the government pointed out how steel shortages injure missile and space programs and nuclear submarine building.

As for that vague word — "health"—the government said it meant economic well-being.

The union argued that national safety wasn't really in danger since only one per cent of all steel production is needed for defense. As for "health," the union argued this word strictly meant physical health, not economic health.

The court said it wouldn't—because in this case it didn't have to — give a ruling on the meaning of "national health." The court said it was satisfied "safety" was endangered and therefore the injunction was necessary.

So this case did not settle the question: has the government a right to an injunction to protect the general welfare or economic well-being of the country from a strike.

Perhaps — unless Congress acts in the meantime—that point will have to wait months or years for a decision in a big strike which doesn't actually affect defense. For instance, a big auto strike would hurt the economy but hardly defense.

Under the Taft-Hartley provisions, unless the union and industry meantime reach a settlement, the workers will be free to strike again when the 80-day back-to-work order has ended.

So early in 1960—which is after Congress returns — the nation faces the possibility of another steel strike. At that time there may also be strikes on the railroads and in shipping.

Then, election year or not, Congress may act to tighten Taft-Hartley or go further, in preventing big strikes, than it ever was willing to go before.

One method, of course, is a flat ban on industry-wide strikes or any others that would hurt the general welfare. That would require setting up a government agency of some kind to give a decision on wages which both sides would have to accept. That is called compulsory arbitration.

That is a dirty word with management and unions. Once the government began dictating wages, it almost certainly would have to fix prices, too. President Eisenhower and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell both oppose compulsory arbitration. Yet, in time, some remedy must be found.

BOARD PROPOSED

Mitchell suggests setting up a board to hear both sides and make its findings public. But he is against letting such a board even make recommendations. That is a long way from actually preventing a strike.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), who protests his friendship for labor, says we "can no longer afford the luxury of prolonged disputes."

He suggests a bill which would: (1) let the President seize and operate struck plants or (2) let him name an emergency board that would hold hearings and, unlike Mitchell's board, issue an order binding on both sides.

Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla) would set up a five-man federal labor court to do the same thing. Neither Morse nor Smathers said they were talking of compulsory arbitration. But that's what their proposals amount to.

Let The Elderly Keep Earning

PRINCETON, N. J. — The American public favors the idea of letting its senior citizens work to the full limit of their earning power without losing any of the Social Security benefits which have accrued to them.

Current limitations, as the public sees it, just do not provide the average retired person with adequate income in today's high cost of living conditions.

Under present law, any person between the ages of 65 and 72 who earns more than $1,200 a year loses at least some of his Social Security payments. If his earnings are in excess of $2,080 a year, he may get no monthly benefits at all.

The question as to whether or not existing laws should be changed has raised much controversy and undoubtedly will be injected into the political campaign in 1960.

A nationwide survey by the Gallup Poll on retirement benefits finds these are the highlights of the public's thinking on the issue:

OUST RESTRICTIONS

A substantial majority of the public (two out of three) believes that the present restrictions on earning should be changed. Chiefly, people believe that the current limits are not realistic in today's economy.

A slightly smaller majority, in fact, would permit persons on Social Security to earn as much as they wish at a job and still be eligible for all payments.

This is the first question put to a representative cross-section of American adults of all ages by Gallup Poll reporters:

"A person over 65 who works full time and earns more than $1,200 a year cannot receive social security payments. Do you think this law should or should not be changed?"

Here is the vote:

PRESENT LAW CHANGED?

	Per Cent
Should be	67
Should not	23
No opinion	10

"Do you think persons over 65 should be permitted to earn as much as they can and still get their full social security payments, or not?"

EARN AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE?

	Per Cent
Should be able	62
Should not	31
No opinion	7

(Under a law, effective this year, a retired person may actually earn more than $2,080 a year and still get some benefits if the work is not of a full-time nature. For any month in which a person between 65 and 72 does not earn $100, he may qualify for a Social Security check. Theoretically, therefore, a retired person could earn the full $2,080 or even more in any one month and nothing the remaining months of the year and still get eleven Social Security payments.)

LONG TERM SUPPORT

The American public has supported the general principle of old-age benefits from the very beginning of the plan nearly a quarter of a century ago.

In January, 1936, for example, as the program was just getting started, nine out of ten Americans in a Gallup Poll favored the idea of a government old-age pensions. At the end of that year, seven out of ten favored the plan as it now works — that is, a joint tax on employers and employees for old-age pensions.

During World War II, when, in 1943, the question of expanding Social Security benefits to include sickness, disability, doctors and hospital bills arose, a substantial majority of the public backed such a move.

Private Cable Car

WALKERTON, Va. (AP) —John Peatross has never seen San Francisco but he understands about her cable cars and the need for them.

Peatross just got tired of walking up and down hill from his cottate to the beach, and carrying the stuff he said was needed on his baots.

He built his own cable car which operates on two rails laid on two by four boards.

He Went To Work

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Urban C. Berthauer Jr. and F. Carl Burt tied in an election to fill a vacancy for second ward alderman of suburban Glendale. The vote of 113-113 spurred Burt into action.

A month later in a special election, the vote was Burt 235, Berghauer 137. How did he do it?

"Twice as much work," Burt says, "and plenty of doorbell ringing by friends and neighbors."

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

A Texas newspaper on this day in 1886 recorded a contribution of $1,850 by the Union Stockyards of Chicago for the drought-stricken regions of Texas.

The donation was only one of many. Texas has known many droughts, but nothing like that one. No sort of Federal aid was forthcoming; that was the 19th century. But Midwest and even Eastern enterprises sent help to the desolate state.

The Merchants Exchange of St. Louis dispatched 10 carloads of food and supplies to the parched areas.

So intense was the suffering that all sorts of relief proposals were voiced in the Texas Legislature. Cattlemen particularly suffered. The drought began at the height of the boom in British investments. The giddy profits of early stock growers had excited interest in London and Edinburg financial circles, and by 1887 no less than 13 big cattle spreads were owned partially or completely by European interests. Most of them went broke in the drought.

Cattle died by the thousands in 1886-87. Railroads hauled brackish drinking water to suffering populations. So great was the suffering that the State suspended payments on homestead grants.

One such weary pioneer abandoned his headright with this choice contribution to the Texas story:

"Sixty miles to wood — a hundred miles to water — four inches to hell — Gone to live with wife's folks."

Make Diets Easy

Joan Blackman feels that parents can help a girl when she is dieting by not emphasizing the importance of losing weight. Joan will appear in "Career" for Paramount.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Tips For Easy Diet Given By Actress

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—It has been said that producer Hal Wallis is extra-perceptive, when it comes to discovering talent. For he is responsible for launching such stars as Burt Lancaster, Jerry Lewis, Dean Martin and Shirley MacLaine. Now he has a new contract list and has trusted the romantic lead in "Visit to a Small Planet" to Joan Blackman.

If Joan is an overnight success, it will be because she was prepared, having started dancing at the age of four and singing at the age of 11. When we met recently for lunch at Paramount studios, I found her with the poise that comes from an early theatrical background.

When I saw the beautiful illustration of fresh fruit and cottage cheese on the menu, I quickly ordered some.

"I had so much cottage cheese when I was dieting that I can't stand it now," Joan said. "I think we still have a lot to learn about what makes people fat. I was a plump little girl, but I don't believe I ate any more than a friend of mine who was almost skinny. I ate different foods.

"I am fortunate that my parents are so intelligent," Joan commented, "for so much depends on the attitude of those around you. My mother helped me by not making an issue of reducing. She left it up to me to stop eating candy bars and too much bread and butter.

"You have to want to reduce. No one can want it for you. If people would only remember this, there would be fewer frustrated fatsos," Joan declared.

"My big struggle was to give up sweets, but I discovered when I ate healthful foods and had balanced meals, I lost my craving for sweets."

"What pointers can you give on reducing?" I asked, since Joan seemed to have licked her problem.

"The first thing to do is get a calorie chart," she said. "I limited myself to 1,000 calories a day and had three meals, but I planned them carefully.

"I keep low-calorie snacks in the ice box so I can have raw vegetables, apples or a can of jellied consomme. And," Joan concluded, "I set out to give up my bad habits and did. If you don't try to get rid of a sweet tooth or a habit of snacking while watching TV, you can't expect to be thin."

COUNT YOUR CALORIES

To lose weight effectively you need to know how much of everything you are allowed to eat. M-70, "Calorie Chart," is an invaluable aid to any woman who wants to be slim. Hollywood Beauty readers may obtain a copy of this important leaflet by sending 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, care of the Big Spring Herald. Be sure to ask for Leaflet M-70.

Bo Bowen, president, was assisted in the ritual by Mrs. Roy McMullen, vice president.

By candlelight, a white floral arrangement with white tapers was used for the ceremony and later decorated the table at the top of a T-shape. Blue satin runners, scattered with golden chrysanthemums, emphasized the colors, blue and gold, of the group.

Receiving the jewelled pin were Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Mrs. Kenneth Smith, Mrs. B. E. Pettitt, Mrs. Charles Utley. The pledge service was given for Mrs. T. W. Hammond and Mrs. M. S. Kelso.

Eighteen were present for the affair. The next meeting will be held Thursday evening in the home of Miss Bowen, 1110 E. 13th.

Gandhi, Religion Studied By 1930 Hyperion Club

Mahatma Gandhi as a product of two religions was the topic of study for the 1930 Hyperion Club Saturday afternoon when members met in the home of Mrs. H. V. Spence. Mrs. Tom Helton was cohostess.

Mrs. Marie Carter reviewed characteristics of the Hindu and the Mohammedan religions, telling of the origin and beliefs of the two. Hinduism, the oldest of religions, Mrs. Carter stated, is a league of several creeds. It is highlighted with myths and symbols, members were told.

Mrs. Carter told her listeners that there are about 250 million members of the Mohammedan religion at the present time, following a belief that is a combination of idolatry, Judaism and Christianity. She explained the three main tenets of the religion, fasting, the giving of alms and a pilgrimage to Mecca.

Clara Secrest discussed the life of Gandhi, telling of his childhood and his idea of leading an austere existence. He spent years in England when he was a law student, probably laid the basis for his passive resistance to British rule with its mistreatment of the natives of his land, Miss Secrest said.

His great influence in the politics of India was described, as was his work to improve living conditions.

Resumes were given by Mrs. Ova Mae Edwards, Mrs. H. C. Stipp and Mrs. Roscoe Cowper of the preceding program, which had dealt with Shintoism, Buddhism and Confucianism.

Announcement was made of the luncheon to be given Nov. 16 at the Desert Sands when Mrs. Ben W. Boyd of Denton, TFWC president, and Mrs. Mrs. B. F. Seay of Andrews, district president, are honored.

Mrs. Maurice Koger was named to the office of Texas Federation counselor. The group voted to assist with the Christmas party at the Big Spring State Hospital. Mrs. Stipp gave a report on the recent meeting of the local federation of clubs.

Mrs. Leroy Tidwell presided at the tea table, which was laid with a white madeira cloth and held an arrangement of chrysanthemums in shades of orchid. This was backed by a three-pronged candelabrum holding white tapers.

Egyptian Linen Lasts On Mummy 2000 Years

CAIRO (AP) — While modern Egypt has the best cotton, ancient Egypt had the best linen, or at least the toughest linen.

Recently an official of the Egyptian Department of Antiquities in Luxor came across children playing tug-of-war with an old cloth for rope. The cloth on examination was found to be 2,000 years old and had been used to wrap a mummy. It had withstood the pulling of the youngsters.

An Egyptologist recalled when the tomb of Tutankhamen was discovered 30 years ago, it was difficult to tear the cloth containing his mummy.

Linen making is one of the oldest arts practiced in Egypt. The Cairo Museum has samples belonging to the Neolithic Age dating from the Fifth Millenium B.C. — that is 7,000 years ago.

By the time of the First Dynasty (3100) B.C.) there was little in the realm of plain weaving that is known today that was not practiced in Egypt.

The yarn was spun by hand, mostly by women using a small spindle. The earliest looms were horizontal, but by 2000 B.C. the upright loom was introduced.

The reigns of Thuthmosis and Tutankhamen apparently saw the full development of linen manufacturing. From this period we have remarkable accordion pleatings at right angles to each other, colored linen tapestry as well as elaborate applied needlework of the utmost refinement.

Many drawings in ancient Egyptian tombs show the methods used in treating flax and making linen. The Cairo museum contains models of looms and methods of making thread. The finest materials were the product of temple looms and were known to the classical world as byssos. These were used in mummification, for dressing god statues and garments of priests.

While linens were popular, ancient Egyptians considered wool unclean and rarely used it. It was sacrilegious to wrap mummies in wool.

Average Cuban Seasoned To Life Amidst Turmoil

HAVANA (AP)—Weaned on political turmoil over the last half century, the average Cuban appears to be taking the present unrest in stride.

Jails are filled with "counter-revolutionaries" awaiting trial or investigation.

The atmosphere is thick as pro-government radio commentators spew anti-Americanism and hate for vested interests, for imperialist exploiters, for the large landholder.

Military tribunals and their firing squads have been restored.

But like a cork at sea, the average Cuban seems to sail well through storm and calm.

Movie houses are filled. Dance halls do a brisk business. The seawall drive is crowded every night by Cubans seeking respite from heat. Attending them is any army of peddlers of coffee and refreshments.

The casino belt and luxury hotels are hurting, but Joe Cuban doesn't go there anyway. He can be found in the East Havana bistros, dark, gay and jumpy. The city's two biggest department stores report "business slightly better than last year."

By official estimate, some 700,000 Cubans are unemployed, nearly half of them chronically jobless. Private capital investment is virtually nonexistent. A decline in dollar and gold reserves has resulted in sharp restrictions on imports.

But today, when he isn't cheering Fidel Castro at some public demonstration or looking at him on television, the average Cuban is cheering his favorite baseball club. An overflow crowd at the 30,000-seat Gran Stadium cheered the Havana Sugar Kings' triumph over Minneapolis in the Little World Series.

With hardly a break at the end of the International League season, the winter baseball league went into action. League officials report increased attendance.

Although not heavy bettors, Cubans love horse racing. The local plant is undergoing a face lifting. A vastly improved program outlined by a Florida racing syndicate headed by lawyer Dan Chappello of Miami, Fla., has been launched.

Challenging Castro for top video ratings are two boxing heroes: welterweights Luis Manuel Rodriquez and Florentino Fernandez.

A bond selling scheme on a lottery basis which replaced the national lottery after Castro came to power is gaining momentum. It is operated by the National Institute of Housing and Savings. The lottery director, Pastorita Nunez, says the institute has under construction 3,591 apartments and 522 houses in lowcost projects in Havana. An applicant pays what he can afford over a 20-year period at a declining rate of interest. He pays nothing down.

The average Cuban seems to be for Fidel Castro. He makes $85 a month, his wife works for somewhat less. They have a one or two-bredroom apartment costing, unfurnished, $35-50 amonth.

He sums it up this way: the rent reduction law, which is blamed for paralyzing the private construction business, gave him what amounted to a healthy wage boost. Cuts in gas and electricity rates added to his savings.

Does this "average man" think there is any justification for Castro's attacks on the United States?

"There was a basis for complaint," one said. "However, I think the matter could have been handled quietly, at the diplomatic level."

How about communism in Cuba?

"There are some and they are agitativ. But they were never a success even at their peak 20 years ago. They'll get out of hand one of these days and Fidel will slap them down."

That, at least, is one point of view.

Cops As 'Beatniks' Grab Dope Peddlers

NEW YORK (AP) — A month-long masquerade by five detectives posing as bearded beatniks has set off a chain of dope raids from Harlem to Greenwich Village.

More than 100 persons have been arrested. Narcotics valued at one million dollars have been confiscated.

The beret - clad cops took such cool names as "Gorgeous George," "The Sailor" and "Jamie the Queer" to shuffle their way into beat circles.

They walloped bongo drums. They donned sandals and attended poetry-reading parties. One of them even wrote a poem, "Junkie's Woe."

They climaxed the plot by inviting a few of their new pals to a big party. The astonished guests learned on arriving early Sunday that the address they had been given was a Greenwich Village police station. Their arrest set off a chain of raids that involved 140 narcotics squad police.

Some of the beatniks couldn't have cared less. One upended a wastebasket and beat out a rhythm. One sketched the cop who arrested him with horns above his ears. The others chanted and stomped their feet.

Bill Bailey, Negro tap dancing brother of singer-actress Pearl Bailey, was nabbed in a Harlem hotel room, where police said they found a deck of cocaine.

Others arrested included an assortment of village characters, an engineering student at New York University, a symphonic kettle drummer, a homeless artist, and James (Foots) Stewart, tabbed by police as the chief Harlem dope wholesaler. Stewart, a meek-appearing little man with size 13 feet, feeds pigeons in a park between dope sales, police said.

One detective said he made an arrest while driving a car with a beatnik. The cop said he told the man he was afraid he might be arrested because he had a large quantity of dope in the trunk.

"Man, you don't have to be worried about the fuzzniks (beat talk for cops," the passenger assured him. "Why, I've got a whole pocketful of pot (dope), and you don't see me worrying, do you?"

"Start worrying, cat," said the detective. "Like you're arrested."

"But this can't be, man," the beatnik protested. "I mean, like you're one of us. We've been making the scene together."

The detective flashed his badge.

"Crazy, man, crazy," sighed the beatnik.

Peron Plot Found Out By Officials

TUCUMAN, Argentina (AP)—A raid on an armed camp in the mountains, police say, has uncovered a plot by followers of Juan D. Peron for a Castro-type guerrilla campaign to restore the exiled dictator to power.

Three youths were captured in the raid Saturday on the completely outfitted, well-armed camp 6,000 feet up in the mountains near this trading center 665 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

The youths said they were recruited by a newly organized "National Peronista Recuperation Movement" which has plans to wage guerrilla warfare against the government of President Arturo Frondizi.

The police believe the youths were only guards, and that most of the conspirators escaped. They arrested several well-known admirers of Peron in Tucuman Sunday.

Peron's followers have been blamed for terrorist activity, but this was the first sign they might be preparing for guerrilla warfare. Peron was overthrown in September 1955. Now in exile in the Dominican Republic, he has proclaimed he will eventually come back.

As described by police, this latest conspiracy indicates the Peronists are marshaling in the mountains for a guerrilla campaign patterned after the revolt Fidel Castro launched in Cuba to overthrow President Fulgencio Batista.

The captured youths said their chief was known as "The Tiger" and that they were awaiting word from him to begin guerrilla operations.

Reports of suspicious activity high in the nearby Andes reached police after a series of arms thefts from police outposts, stores and houses in this northern Argentine province.

A force of 30 policemen made their way into the mountains Saturday and sighted the camp with eight persons in it. Five escaped in the heavy vegetation.

The three captives indicated there were several other camps in the immediate area and others in more isolated mountain sections.

Bill Langer Dies In Sleep

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William (Wild Bill) Langer (R-ND), a colorful political maverick both as governor and as senator, is dead at 73.

He spent 45 turbulent years in politics, the last 19 of them in the Senate.

Langer died in his sleep of heart failure Sunday at his home. He had been ailing since his wife, Lydia, died of cancer Aug. 4. He recently spent three weeks in a hospital with pneumonia.

Langer steered a safe course through many a political whirlwind. In 1934 he easily won nomination for re-election as governor of North Dakota although he was under a federal indictment for conspiracy. Eventually he was acquitted.

Only last year he won re-election —without making a single campaign speech—in spite of the opposition of his own state Republican organization.

In the Senate Langer voted against the Eisenhower administration more often than with it. He opposed Eisenhower's foreign policy. Anything proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was almost sure to bring Langer's opposition.

Langer was an orator of the old school, who emphasizel his words with windmill gestures and much banging on the desk. His trademark was a cigar forever clamped in his mouth. He never lit one.

His sense of humor could be disconcerting. Once, while Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind) was making a Senate speech, Langer lounged in a chair in front of him. He began plucking cigars from Capehart's breast pocket.

The struggle was inequal. Capehart faltered, lost the thread of his speech and finally just sat down.

Typical of Langer's often lonely political stands was one of his last Senate votes. He and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) were the only senators to vote against the labor reform bill at the last session.

Another key party vote was on the confirmation of Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce earlier in the year. Two Republicans voted against Strauss—Langer and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. Strauss's confirmation was defeated 49-46.

Langer was the fourth member of Congress to die within a week. The others were House members.

Since Republican Gov. John Davis of North Dakota is sure to appoint a Republican to serve the rest of Langer's term, the Senate lineup of 65 Democrats to 35 Republicans will remain unchanged.

Nikita Says We Are Making Gain

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev says Americans are beginning to understand Russians and this is easing the cold war.

"Some Americans say the only competition between us in the future will be economic, and I agree," he told reporters at a Kremlin party Saturday night celebrating the 42nd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Gleason's Ad Libs Are Tough On Guest Stars

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—At one point during Sunday evening's four-way "Small World" talk, Brendan Behan, in Dublin, shouted to Jackie Gleason in New York "How am I coming through?"

"You're coming through 100 proof," replied Gleason.

"We're being killed by an Irish mob," complained critic and lecturer John Mason Brown, bitterly.

Behan, the Irish playboy and playwright, was hardly in any condition for an exchange of ideas on the art of conversation. In fact he could hardly converse at all. Behan was, to put it frankly, stoned, and when he wasn't breaking with rambling, pointless stories, he was bursting into unintelligible song.

After the middle commercial, however, he was seen no more. But while he was part of "Small World," he certainly stole the show. By contrast, things were pretty dull after he disappeared.

It is interesting that the show was permitted air time by CBS. Behan obviously was loaded when the show was recorded and filmed almost a month ago—a date which host Ed Murrow gave us in conformity with CBS' new "nothing up our sleeves" policy.

In the Behan-less portion of the show, Gleason was asked how he felt about canned laughter on the sound tracks of pre-recorded television shows.

"I have such an ego that if I had a laugh on my show that Fred Allen had gotten 10 years ago, I would lie," he replied vehemently.

Sunday Showcase, NBC's weekly hour-long special, may not always ring a bell with its effort to provide something different, but it is just about the only prime time network program which dares stray from the beaten path. Sunday night it tried a science-fiction whodunit.

It was a wild one, called "Murder and the Android," set far in the future when human beings are able to travel around to 27 planets and when all their work and thinking is done by synthetic slave creatures called androids. Androids look so much like men that they are identified by the letter "A" carved on their foreheads. I'm not much of a one for science fiction, so I don't have any standards to go by, I kept thinking they ought to have called this one "Frankenstein Among the Planets," even though Rip Torn, who played the android, makes a very decorative monster. Besides, this plot had a switch: at the end, the bad human is dead and the good android—who had complained that "my father was a chemist; my mother was a pyrex beaker" — was discovering love.

Anyway, it was different and I found it amusing although I'm not sure that was the desired reaction.

The Ryder Cup golf competition, live on NBC Saturday, was pretty slow going even for golf fans. The cameras kept moving from match to match trying to avoid long dull stretches when the players were walking down fairways, but the announcers still had to chatter a lot to kill time. The coverage was particularly irritating a couple of times when a player was about to make a difficult or crucial putt and we missed it because of a station break plus a long commercial. At least they could have done the commercials during those long walks.

Jack Benny had a special CBS show early Saturday night, preempting "Perry Mason." It wasn't much of a show, but at least it gave the kiddies a chance to see a delightful monkey act.
