Laura Hamner Built Frio Foundation

By ANN BROWN
Feature Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article contains information obtained from a letter from Laura V. Hamner, noted Panhandle writer, written to Mrs. Owen Andrews of the Frio Community. The letter was written Sept. 3, 1953. In it, Miss Hamner recalls her early teaching career when she was living in the H. H. Stanley home and walking to and from the school.

Six miles south of Hereford, on Farm Road 1055, sits a trim little white brick building, which houses the Frio Baptist Church. The church serves as a nucleus for this thriving, prosperous community.

The farms, like the church building are neat, well-kept, and modern as tomorrow. There is no overt evidence anywhere of the sentiment, service, and sacrifice, as well as the pioneer ingenuity that has gone into the structure of this charming little community.

In 1902, the school, which was the first nucleus of the community, was organized. It convened in a dugout in the yard of the H. H. Stanleys, who lived on the banks of the Frio Draw. Miss Lenna Greer (now Mrs. Percy Estes of Dimmitt) was the first teacher.

The next year, the W. B. Greens donated a building site for the school. The one-room school house was built by the neighborhood by public subscription. When the four walls were roofed there was no money left. There were no desks, no benches — except one or two long ones — no blackboard, and no chalk.

Eventually, desks were made of boxes, turned on one side and set up on four legs. Every child brought his own chair from home. The teacher, Miss Laura V. Hamner suggested they get black building paper for blackboards. All they could find was terracotta-red! Miss Hamner furnished the chalk.

The school had no maps, no globe, no dictionary, and no library of any kind. Yet under the able and inspiring instruction of Miss Hamner, the children learned. Joe Green wrote such interesting themes in serial form for the special Friday afternoon programs that the other children could hardly wait from one week to the next for Joe to read his story.

There were no discipline problems among the sixteen boys and five girls in the school. Miss Hamner found the youngsters pleasant, cooperative, and anxious to learn.

The school teacher was determined that the neighborhood have a Sunday School. She persuaded the local citizens to gather at the school house on a Sunday afternoon. After much pleading and prodding by Miss Hamner, Mr. Green consented to serve as superintendent — provided the teacher would sit up in front with him. The two divided the group into classes, and secured teachers for them. With one week's experience behind him, Mr. Green bravely took charge the next Sunday without his "assistant."

But no one would consent to lead the singing. The ability to sing was not included among Miss Hamner's many talents. But she,

Two Hereford Girls Get Junior Rodeo Honors

Two Hereford girls, becoming well-known in rodeo circles for their top-notch accomplishments, were honored at the National Finals of the American Junior Rodeo Association staged last week in Odessa.

Crowned "Miss American Junior Rodeo Association 1966" was Deborah Thomas, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Thomas Jr. of Westway.

Jo Poarch, whose impressive trophies already command an eye-catching view in her parents' home south of Hereford, again took first place in general horsemanship, receiving three leathertooled saddles, along with a trophy and several belt buckles for her rodeo skills. Jo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Poarch. She is a senior at Hereford High School and Deborah is a junior.

Jo's most impressive award is "All Around Cowgirl," an award she has taken three times in three consecutive years. Her traveling trophy will have to be won by her for another year before it becomes hers for keeps.

A saddle was awarded to her for the all around award, as well as saddles for taking the "World Champion Barrel Racer" and "World Champion Optional Racing" (pole bending and flag racing) first places.

The summer has been a traveling one for Jo, who has appeared in rodeos at San Angelo, Sweetwater, McCamey, Hereford, Las Cruces, N. M., Sonora, Ozona, Artesia, N. M., Marfa and Midland.

Jo gives much of the credit to her horse Cuero Joe, who has had a special place in Jo's heart since 1962. "I would like to finish out junior rodeo events on Cuero Joe," she says, explaining that she will be eligible for competition in the junior event for two more years. Her horse has three or four more peak years, she believes.

Awards that she has racked up include 14 saddles, eight of them for World Championships, not to mention numerous trophies and ribbons.

Also competing in rodeos and play days have been her two sisters, Lynne, her older sister, and Candy, younger.

Scholarships for a $1,000 have been put away for her in rodeo awards. She has tentative plans to attend Tarleton State College at Stephenville, where she would be able to continue her rodeo competition.

Christmas Lighting Discussed

The Chamber of Commerce Community Christmas Decorations Committee met Friday in the conference room of the C of C building. The committee, having met last May and voted to install Christmas deocrations Nov. 4, 5, 6 and have them turned on Nov. 12, was asked to reconsider its decision and recommended to consider the weekend following Thanksgiving by the board of directors.

The committee discussed the pros and cons of the issue, arriving at no definite agreement. One committee member expressed his belief that the decision should be left to the retailers who, he felt, were the ones who payed for the decorations. Others, however, stated that many of the contributors were not retailers, but persons or firms

Debbs Knox

Knox Heads UF Drive

Debbs Knox will spearhead this year's United Fund Drive. Goal is slightly above last year's mark; beneficiary agencies are the same.

Melvin Jayroe, president of Hereford's United Fund for this year, made the announcements at an appreciation dutch dinner held Monday night at the Country Club.

Knox and Jayroe said that announcement of chairmen would be made later along with the amounts needed by the member agencies.

Dale Young is serving as chairman of the budget and admissions committee.

Honored at the meeting were officers who served on the highly successful campaign last year. Ed Skypala, who held the reins last fall as drive chairman, was given a plaque in recognition of his work. Skypala said that it was quite a surprise to him last year when he was asked to work on the campaign. He claims that he had breakfast with Clint Formby, president of the community fund raising drive last year and that it was a good three hours later before he realized that he had agreed to such a task. Knox said the import of the job had the same effect on him.

Clint Formby, president of the first completely successful drive in several years was also honored by the group with a plaque.

Baugous Insures Music Pleasure

Once again hands are playing a great part in creative arts. Don Baugous, 228 Ave. B. has extremely talented hands, which are often acclaimed for their powers at the organ. Baugous does, however, play other instruments and sings in addition. He plays all woodwind instruments.

Baugous considers music a challenge, yet finds it a very satisfying hobby. He majored in music education in college, taught one year on a teaching certificate, practice taught his senior year, did his stint in the service, and then entered the insurance business.

Baugous has the perfect personality for his type of a vocation, for he has a keen interest in people. He says they are "kind of a hobby" with him. He enjoys working with small boys, in Sunday School, yet he likes to associate with adults throughout the week in his business office.

When in the fifth grade he began to take clarinet lessons. Later he taught himself to play the piano from his older brother's music books. After learning on his own, how to play the music in his brother's books, various hymns and popular music, Baugous took lessons for two and one half years.

Graduating from a high school in Moville, Iowa, he attended Morningside College at Sioux City one year. He later attended Nebraska State Teacher's College in Wayne, Nebraska, where he received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

Though most of Baugous' talent is used in the activities of the First Methodist Church of Hereford, he has played in dance orchestras and combos occasionally. Both he and his wife, Wilma, were active in Little

AREA FOUNDATION

Industrial Committee Contemplates Revival

Land and buildings suitable for potential industries would be assets for this area in attracting businesses in the million-dollar levels to the Hereford and Deaf Smith County area, it was said in a meeting of the chamber of commerce industrial committee meeting Wednesday.

Land and buildings for lease would be attractive to a large company, one member said, particularly because of the tight money situation. A lease would not tie up large amounts of capital.

The land issue would probably not be the deciding factor for the industry, however, one member said, citing land prices as not being prohibitive in this area.

Outlines were beginning to form in the meeting as members discussed ways of raising funds to have them available for land and building purchases. Entering into the discussion was the Hereford Area Foundation, Inc., dormant for several years. The foundation was formed several years ago and took King's Manor as its first project in fund-raising. Since that first project, however, no active work has been done by the foundation.

Several other cities in the Panhandle area have been able to make tempting offers to different industries, it was pointed out, with members wanting something to keep Hereford ahead in the field of attracting new industry in the area.

Chairman Dean House suggested use of the foundation as an agency for promotion of industry in the Hereford area. It was listed as a function of the agency the buying of land for attracting potential Hereford payrolls. Building and land leases, along with sales of land to prospects, would be a means of offering tracts to industries without their having to search for land on their own.

One Day For Absentees!

Tuesday will be the last day for absentee voting in the upcoming school bond election, The Brand reminds school taxpayers.

The two issues — the bonds for the elementary and bonds for the vocational school — will be decided in formal vote Saturday.

All absentee ballots must be completed at the schools' tax offices, Union and Ave. F, before closing time at 5 p.m. Tuesday. The offices will be closed for Labor Day.

Government Affairs Talks School Bonds

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's government affairs, working in a discussion meeting this week over the issue of proposed bond elections for Hereford schools, said "no" to voting bonds for another elementary building at the present time and "yes" to proceeding with plans for a vocational school to be incorporated into the present high school system.

Neither decision made by the committee was near unanimous, with discussion pulling on both sides of the two issues. Action of the committee, however, is not official until the chamber's board of directors give approval to the government affairs' group action.

Jerry Fowler, spearheading discussion on the elementary school, made a motion "that the committee not recommend passage of the bond issue for the elementary school." His motion was seconded by attorney Bruce Miller.

"It's getting rough," he told the committee members as he spoke of increased taxes in the Hereford district which have "almost made owning property prohibitive."

He pointed out that the school board had said a new elementary school was not immediately needed, and asked "Why not vote the elementary bonds later after the need is definitely seen."

"This is one way to which the voters could keep more direct control over what goes on in the school building program," he exclaimed.

Dissent with the opinion was voiced by Earnest Langley, who said he thought it would be better for the committee to take no action rather than show retrenchment or slowing down in the chamber of commerce in its optimistic growth reports.

A move to table the motion so that action would not be taken at the meeting was made, and soundly defeated, members expressing that they would like to reach a decision so they could make a recommendation to school officials.

Final vote, following pro and con discussion on the local controversy, indicated four favoring the motion to "not recommend passage" with two casting votes in the opposite direction.

Ideas were changed, however, as committee members looked at the proposed vocational school, planned for immediate construction if bonds are passed by voters in the election scheduled Sept. 10.

Five votes were for, three against, when considering the vocational school bonds. Final resolution read "to recommend passage and support" of the area vocational school.

Leo Forrest, who is a former member of the Hereford school board, exclaimed, "Experience has shown that we have too many dropouts.

"I believe we have a responsibility in our school system to do our best to train people according to their abilities," he continued, saying that a liberal arts education was just "not for everyone."

Forrest made the motion to recommend approval of bonds for the vocational school, and was seconded by Frank Ford

LAST CHANCE FOR PRACTICE — Hereford Whiteface varsity men will be using this last week before the football season officially opens, to get in some last minute practice. The Herd is shaping up after two pre-season scrimmages, and is now preparing to meet Floydada on September 9, for the season opener. The game will be played in Floydada. (Staff Photo)

as a last resort, with tongue in cheek, volunteered. She insists that capable leader offered his services before the first song was ended.

Miss Hamner recalls another unique experience, in her long and useful career, that took place at Frio. The grandmother of some of her students died. She, with the aid of Mr. Green, was called upon to prepare the body for burial. She retained her composure quite well until the task was finished. Then she rushed outside for a breath of fresh air. Mr. Green caught her just as she fell to the ground. The hardy school marm was terribly ashamed of her weakness. She still insists it was the "nearest" she ever came to fainting.

The little school expanded eventually to three rooms. The three teachers taught pupils through the ninth grade. But the Depression and the Drouth forced the school back to the original one-teacher status. Many families abandoned the area. But in 1932, two brothers, who lived two and three miles east of Frio, made a last-ditch effort to save their farms.

W. A. and J. E. Springer drilled irrigation wells into the shallow water strata beneath their land. At that time it was believed that the deep wells, which are currently prevalent in most of Hereford's irrigated area, were not practical.

In 1947, the little school became a part of the Hereford Independent School District. But the school house continued to serve as a place of worship until 1957.

The second week of August in 1930, Herman Coe, a ministerial student at Wayland Baptist College, preached a series of revival services in the school house. At the close of the revival, August 17, the Frio Baptist Church was organized.

The six charter members were: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Harlin, and J. B. Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Dixon; and Mrs. Leo Williams. Sixteen new members were added by baptism that day The church called L. T. Fields, also a student at Wayland, as the first pastor. W. S. Dixon was elected church clerk.

The late Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Andrews donated land for the construction of a new church building and parsonage. One of the members, D. C. Miller, put up the buildings. Miller is a building contractor in Hereford now, but the Millers are still active members of the Frio Church.

Frio has an unusually strong rural church. It has a membership of around 200, and an average attendance of about 125. The present pastor, Sam B. Ogan, his wife, Mary, and their three children, Anna Ruth, Debbie, and Sammie came to the church from Denver, Colorado, in July of 1965. Coming from a big city, the Ogans were amazed to find such a wealth of talent, consecration, and individual initiative in a country church. Miss Hamner's little congregation has come a long way since 1903.

The church is fully organized and adequately staffed.

Jack Rogers is the current Sunday School Superintendent; Joe Autry is the Training Union Director. The music director is Weldon Stephans; the organist is Jana Cole; and the pianist is Mrs. Jack Rogers.

Frank Robbins is chairman of the deacons. Homer West is president of the brotherhood.

The church has a strong Women's Missionary Union under the direction of Mrs. Frank Robbins. Mrs. Earl Harkins is circle chairman.

The Young Woman's Auxiliary is led by Mrs. Clark Andrews. Girls' Auxiliary leader is Mrs. Charles Self. The Royal Ambassadors are led by the pastor.

Mrs. Earl Harkins directs the Sunbeam Band. The youth organizations sent six boys and nine girls to the District Encampment at Floydada. The pastor and Clark Andrews accompanied the boys; Nettie Autry and Carlita Harkins went with the girls. The church is affiliated with the Llanos Altos Association.

There are no paid workers in the three church nurseries. Mrs. Bill Struve is the nursery superintendent. She and Mrs. Doc Miller serve in the nurseries regularly; other volunteer workers rotate.

The Frio Church always sponsors a Vacation Bible School. This summer they enrolled 99 children, and had an average attendance of 89. Mrs. Clark Andrews was the hard-working principal.

The Frio Baptist Church is a country church in spirit, but not entirely in truth. Many sons of the pioneers have moved into Hereford, but they return to Frio to worship. A large part of the membership comes from the Easter Community, a few miles from the Dimmitt area. The Marrie Young People's Department is about the largest in the church. This probably accounts for the unusual vigor and zeal of the congregation.

The Frio ladies have a Homemaker's Club that meets twice a month. Mrs. Owen Andrews is the president. The programs cover a wide variety of subjects, most of them on practical helps for homemakers. According to Mrs. Andrews, the purpose of the club is to serve the needs of the busy farm wives — not to drive them.

There are two 4-H clubs in Frio; one for boys and one for girls. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Adams are the sponsors.

Few descendants of the pioneers still live in the community. But among the early settlers who are still recalled with gratitude are the W. B. Greens, J. B. Harlins, J. O. Lindseys, W. S. Dixons, Dollars, and the F. J. Axe family. Andy Axe still lives on the family homestead about four miles east of Frio.

Mrs. Jinks Lindsey and two of their children live in Hereford. Mrs. Lindsey is the former Maude Dollar. Joe, Nettie, and Maydolin Green also made their homes in Hereford. Joe passed away August 23, at the Golden Spread Convalescent Home in Dimmitt. Mrs. Walter Easter is the former Maydolin Green.

There are no commercial interprises in Frio. The proximity to Hereford and Easter makes them unnecessary. The unity of this rural neighborhood is living proof that it is not economic necessity that welds individuals into a community, but the old-fasnioned virtues of love, concern, and neighborliness.

nominees in the finals. Runner-up was Carla McAshan, of Hope, N. M.; other moninees included Joan Fisher, Utopia; Kathy Greenwood, Carlsbad, N. M.; Kathy Bruton, San Angelo, and Carold Miller, El Paso.

Adult directors of the AJRA choose candidates for the queen honor, and ballots are sent to members of the association in California, Montanta, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas. Ballots were counted in Odessa by an accounting frim.

Dave Hopper of Hereford, well known rodeo judge, acted as one of the judges in the final events.

Organized as King's Manor plans were being laid, the Hereford Area Foundation, Inc., took as its first project that senior citizens home.

In order to maintain status as a tax-exempt, non-profit organization, Langley suggested that those participating in the foundation be known as contributors rather than members.

Committee members stressed that the work of the foundation, already organized and only needing to be activated, would need to be in cooperation with the chamber of commerce. Langley, who is current president of the foundation, told the committee that nothing would have to be changed in the organization since most directors in the foundation were at least indirectly associated with the chamber of commerce. The foundation has a maximum of 30 directors.

Annual meeting of the Hereford Area Foundation had been set for Sept. 13, but could be delayed if need be Langley said. Wheeler Sears moved that the group make recommendations to the foundation at that time.

Jr.

Question on this issue was brought up by Bruce Miller, who pointed out high rate of turnover for teachers in the Hereford school system. "If the vocational school would add an extra financial burden on the school system, I feel we should turn it down and devote our money to improving teachers' salaries," he asserted. "We need to look at the quality of our school system and need to bring it up," he told the committee.

Retort was given by Forrest, who told members that addition of the vocational school to the system would improve teaching quality by removing the slower pupils from classes filled with brighter students.

Fowler voiced concern again over the taxing situation, asking how much burden the school would be carrying for students coming from outside the taxing district. Langley pointed out that few, if any, students from outside the school's taxing district are anticipated to enroll.

Ford voiced opinion when he said that the vocational school has "long been needed. There is less and less opportunity for workers in unskilled jobs as time goes on. Money spent in the vocational school would be an investment of the finest type." Langley backed him up with, "We're behind the times in the area of vocational training. We need to get started." Comparisons were made with schools in more industrialized areas, which were turning out highly skilled workmen over 20 years ago, members said.

A relatively new effort for Hereford, United Fund was begun in April, 1957.

A brief history of the organization was related by Dale Young first vice president, and serving in his second year on the board of directors. Facts were supplied by Mrs. Corrine Neely, executive secretary.

Drawn up in an effort to limit solicitations in the community to one big effort, the idea of United Fund in Hereford was promoted by the Chamber of Commerce under the direction of the manager in 1957, Bill Linderman.

Officers that first year were Ben Childers, Ed Loerwald, Charles Hoover, Bert Boomer and Dyalthia Benson.

First drive was set for September. Since that time, the October drive has become standard, complying with dates in neighboring communities.

Goal was $23,066 and Woody Wilson was drive chairman.

Jimmy Allred pushed the 1958 drive.

Two slow years for United Fund followed but J. W. Robinson, and Henry Sears pulled it over the top in 1961.

Dark days followed until the fall of 1965 when Formby and Skypala joined ranks and pulled the drive back into the black. Even years when the town failed to reach goals, the drives have been within a few thousand dollars of their marks.

The up-coming drive, the 10th annual one, will be only a few hundred dollars over last year, even though the community and the beneficiary agencies have grown.

Member agencies who have been approved for this year's drive are the same as last year; Little League, Salvation Army, Camp Fire Council, Council on Alcoholism, Pony League, Boy Scouts, Red Cross, USO and Cerebral Palsy.

Goal has been upped from $30,160.62 to $30,400. Last year, citizens topped the budget figures by $1100.

Considered of prime importance in the success of the drive is the control of member agencies and elimination duplicate fund drives, even small efforts on the part of these agencies to secure funds on their own.

Knox said that he had no doubts about making the goal this year. Plans call for a fast moving drive.

New board members are: Mrs O. G. Hill Sr., Mrs. Glenn Watts Rex Lee, Elmo Rains, Wayne Haney and Jim Arney.

Also present at the meeting were other directors and their wives and husbands.

Directors whose terms will expire in 1967 include: Clint Formby, Wheeler Sears, Mrs. James E. Higgins, Mrs. John D. Pitman, Melvin Jayroe, Frank Ford, Melvin Young and Dub Hair.

Those serving through 1968 are: Dale Young, Earnest Langley, Roy Hartman, Jack Nunley, Alex Schroeter, Mrs. Walter London Jr. and J. F. Martin.

Associate members are: Mrs. Phil Barkley, Mrs. H. H. Miller and Louis Machuca.

Jockey Bobby Ussery won the first two runnings of the Jersey Derby at Garden State Park. He scored with Bally Ache in 1960 and with Ambiopoise in 1961.

Many a person who considers himself witty, is only half right.

—HB—

With the end of a long, hot summer in sight, marked by the Labor Day holiday, we are looking forward now to a long winter of work, sprinkled generously with football games, an occasional good book and an end to the summer reruns on television.

It's always good to see the beginning of the school year. Then, and only then does the mobile American public, with vacation trips behind, settle down and really go to work.

This we've found, is necessary in order to save enough money to go on vacation again next summer.

But regardless of the motivation, it is good to see people move a little faster and to really enjoy their work.

—HB—

Remember Mrs. Mary Martin of Westway? She's the lady who, with the help of her Bible class, composed and mailed a letter to the President of the United States: a copy of which was published in the BRAND.

Response to Mrs. Martin's letter has been overwhelming both by telephone and by mail, and she wants to acknowledge each and every one. But the logistics of trying to send "Thank You" notes to all these people is in itself, overwhelming, even if she could remember all the people who called. Therefore she has written a letter to all. The letter follows:

"I want to use this means of expressing my appreciation to the many citizens of this area who took time to call or write, in response to the letter which my class of young adults mailed to the president. (He's the only one who didn't.) I feel as long as there are those who are still thinking for themselves, our country has a chance to once again become the great democracy of which we all dream.

"There was an overwhelming response by telephone and by mail. There were only two, who told me where to go with my opinions. (I'm still waiting for explicit directions as to how to get there.)

"I really don't know whether to wave a white flag and 'deny everything 'or run for office.

Thank you again for allowing us to express or views. we must keep thinking and acting on our convictions, although 'the woods are lovely, dark and deep — but we have miles to go before we sleep. God Bless America. — Mary Martin, Westway"

Thank you Mrs. Martin for both the original letter from the Bible class and this one. We do appreciate your views and we appreciate you for taking the time and effort to express the same. We think perhaps that too many people do not "bother," and it is perhaps due to this that so many politicians do not really represent the true view of the people they serve.

—HB—

And speaking of politicians, we do want to take this opportunity to remind you that the fall elections are only a couple of months away. It's time to start looking over your candidate, listening to what he has to say, and to try to determine just "where he stands." That,sometimes, is a major feat. You have only two months left in which to decide.

—HB—

Ever seen a 22 pound cantaloupe? That's the weight of the KING SIZE cantaloupe that V. P. (Virgil) Walker gave to the folks out at KINGS MANOR last Thursday for a KING SIZE meal. And confidentially, he left a smaller one here which the Young family found to be quite delicious. We didn't bother to weigh it, but would estimate that it weighed around 8 lbs. And that's a pretty big cantalope.

Virgil, like others around Hereford, is interested in the folks at Kings Manor, and it's not too uncommon to see his pickup drive up to the Manor with a load of home grown goodies. Virgil farms approximately 5 miles south of Hereford. We'll not bother to give directions to that 'melon patch' — it might be too tempting.

Virgil, of course, was quite proud of the size of the cantaloupes, and was telling everyone about them. And that's as it should be. After all, the hen that lays a good egg has a perfect right to cackel.

Christmas . . .

It was mentioned that the reason the early date had been set in the previous meeting was to allow Hereford to compete with nearby towns — Plainview, Tulia, Amarillo — who turn their lights on quite early. Businessmen seem to believe that Christmas decorations have a psychological effect on shoppers, therefore, if they can get the decorations lighted, they will have a successful selling season.

It seemed to be the general belief of the committee that the retailers would desire Hereford decorations to be installed and lighted as soon as possible. Public opinion as sampled by this reporter however, seems to be quite opposite to that of the merchants. Many families seem to still like the idea of celebrating one holiday at a time rather than "running them all together over an indistinguishable and unmeaningful couple of months.'

In a poll taken at three service clubs — over 150 people — only one person voted to display Hereford's Christmas decorations before Thanksgiving. The remainder voted against it and several wrote negative comments in the space provided. These people are only 150 out a town of thousands, but they are a fairly representative group.

The committee finally agreed to use telephone contact to get in touch with all of last year's contributors to community decorations, to question them about their preference of dates to install and light the decorations, and then to meet once again with a better idea of what the public wants. By the end of the week the committee will probably have decided on what recommendation they will make to the board of directors, who will make the final decision.

At the May meeting it was voted to buy no new decorations this year, letting all receipts over the actual costs of hardware and repair be applied to retiring the note. It was also agreed upon that half of the decorations hung on U. S. 60 last year be placed on U. S. 385, this year. These actions of last spring were neigher changed nor amended and remain as is.

Representatives of businesses in Sugarland Mall have recommended that no new decorations for U. S. 385, fronting the mall be bought, as the mall cannot afford to buy outside decorations this year. Their efforts will be concentrated on the inside of the mall.

Baugous . . .

Theatre groups before moving to Hereford. Each of them has participated in several such productions.

Upon first coming to Hereford, Baugous became music director of the First Methodist Church. Though he knew how to play the piano, his knowledge of the organ was very limited. When the church's organist moved to another town, Baugous says he was the only person who "could or would" attempt to take her place. He struggled to learn the organ techniques and has been playing since.

Now playing for the church and frequently at friend's weddings, Baugous says the touch of an organ is entirely different from that of a piano. He says there are quite a few similarities between the two instruments, but the organ is more difficult to play due to the difference in touch and foot pedals. Organ music has to be read as only one. This in itself causes greater difficulty than the piano. But Don answers all challenges and he finds the organ an intriguing one.

Baugous was once hired as vocalist and music director of the First Church of Christ Scientist in Scott's Bluff. In this type of church the vocalist takes the place of a choir. Baugous feels that their church services are impressive and quite unusual.

Baugous definitely supports the plan for furthering fine arts in Hereford. He believes it is a challenge to the people of the town to show their desire for progress in cultural facets by contributing and participating in it. He considers it everyone's moral obligation to use the talents God bestowed upon them.

The entire Baugous family enjoys and appreciates good music. Of the three boys — Alan, 11, Craig, 9½, and David, 8½ —Craig is actively engaged in music. He takes piano lessons.

Mrs. Baugous directs a kindergarten and she and her husband are both active in church work and the patterning program in Hereford.

TODAY

'Demolition' Event Set At Local Raceway

Two special events are on the agenda for Hereford Raceway this Sunday at 2 p. m., in addition to the regular racing events scheduled for the Labor Day Weekend.

The nation's highways are not the only place where car will be demolished during the weekend because Hereford Raceway has set this Sunday as the date for a special "Demolition Derby." Cars will be hit, scraped and ramed and eventually put out of commission completely, as the last car running will be declared the winner. Stock for the race will be old junk cars that barely run, and have the glass removed. Seat belts are the only safety devides on the cars.

Another merchants race is also scheduled for the afternoon, as once again Hereford merchants will take to the tract to compete with fellow salesmen.

Spectators have a chance to cash in at Sunday's races, with tickets for a bicycle donated by Hereford merchants. The bicycle will be given away this Sunday to a lucky ticket holder.

If you are preparing a frozen dessert and haven't a below-zero frozen-food section in your refrigerator, set the refrigerator cold control at the coldest point for a least half an hour before making the dessert.

SEASON STARTERS — First of the city's study clubs to begin meetings after the summer recess, L'Allegra members met on the first day of September for a program and business session. Mrs. John Smith, standing right, was hostess and Mrs. J. T. Lyons, seated left, gave the program on Club Devotion. Mrs. Dennis Lomas, standing left, is chairman and Mrs. Cameron Gault a member of the yearbook committee, which presented books outlining programs for a new season.

Service Activity Plans Feature Club Opening

Picking up project aims which have not been allowed to lapse entirely during the summer months, L'Allegra Club members launched another season with a strictly-business meeting Thursday afternoon in the First National Community Room the first Hereford study club to resume regular meetings.

Committee sessions and informal meetings this summer kept interest alive in the club's continuing project of aid to Girlstown and other service activities.

These were discussed Thursday, with plans for a sampling lunch to be held Nov. 3 to raise funds for financing them. Tickets will go on sale soon for the lunch, which will have Four Seasons as its theme.

Food typical of a holiday in each season will be served and a diner may sample as many of the dishes as he desires. Recipes for each dish will be given.

The program Thursday was given by Mrs. J. T. Lyons, discussing Club Devotion. She spoke of the loyalty of members as a club asset, and of the value of teamwork in accomplishing goals. She also explained the use of parliamentary rules in smoothing club procedure and gave a number of rules which should be observed in all business sessions.

Yearbooks for the coming season were distributed by the yearbook committee, Mrs. Dennis Lomas, Mrs. Gene Cope and Mrs. Cameron Gault. Mrs. Alex Schroeter conducted business.

Committees for the sampling lunch were appointed. Mrs. David Gibson is chairman for the July 4 table which will typify summer, with Mmes. Jim Carnahan, Bob Viegel, Dwaine Walker and Tommy Carnahan as committee members.

For the Thanksgiving table of the fall season, Mrs. Howard Johnson is chairman and Mmes. Ronald Zimmerman, John Smith Bob Sims and W. C. Russell members.

Mrs. Noble Ballard, aided by Mmes. Lomas, Lyons, Cope, Pat Robbins and Jimmy Conkwright, are in charge of the winter lunch in Christmas theme.

Spring will have an Easter theme, with Mrs. Hazen Woods as chairman, Mmes. J. H. McCrary, Richard Pickens, Bill Warrick and Schroeter on the committee.

Mrs. Smith was hostess Thursday, and served refreshments to the 19 members present.

Holiday Deaths Happen At Home

The average motorist who stays in his hometown area during a holiday weekend is apparently less cautious than the person who takes a trip, and consequently is more likely to be killed — or kill someone else.

What's more — and this is in line with previously held concepts — the death-car driver is usually speeding and had been drinking, and two-to-one he crashes at night.

These findings are the results of a test analysis — the first of its kind in Massachusetts — of traffic death record at the Registry of Motor vehicles conducted by Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies' traffic safety experts.

According to registry records, 11 of the fatal accidents were considered "local," meaning the drivers were in or near their hometown, only two were "en route" to a vacation spot, and the remaining four were "resort area" traffic deaths.

This shows a near two-to-one ratio in the number of traffic deaths occurring in the hometown area compared to the en route and resort area fatals.

Why?

The motorist taking a trip is more safety-conscious than the "local" driver.

Registrar McLaughlin agrees and says, "This is probably due to the wide publicity given by the nation's press to predictions by the National Safety Council of the impending holiday death toll, and to the saturation supervision by police and registry officials who forego their own holiday pleasures to patrol the major routes leading to resort areas."

A breakdown of the figures shows that 12 of the accidents involved speeding or driving after drinking. Many involved both.

Only three of the accidents involved out-of-state cars and the persons were from border states with the accidents happening short distances from their states.

Of the cars equipped with seatbelts, 80 per cent of the persons involved were not wearing them at the time of impact. In four of the cases, when seatbelts were not used, those killed were thrown from the vehicles while companions wearing seatbelts in the same car survived. More than half of the cars were not reported to have been equipped with seatbelts.

Six of the accidents were in daylight hours while the remaining 11 occurred from 6 in the evening to 6 the following morning.

Newlyweds Are At Home In Dimmitt

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Leinen Jr. are at home in Dimmitt after a Colorado trip following their marriage August 26 in Park Avenue Church of Christ here. Mrs. Leinen is the former Miss Effie Lou Estep of Hereford.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny W. Estep. The bridegroom's parents live in Dimmitt.

Garland Lipe, Clovis minister, officiated for the evening ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. White mums decorated the church.

Miss Barbara Sue Estep was maid of honor and Chick Durham of Dimmitt served as best man.

The bride wore a street-length white lace dress with the skirt fully pleated. Ruffles of the lace finished bracelet sleeves and a portrait collar framed her face. Her short veil, lace edged, was held by a pearl tiara and she carried a bridal Bible.

Her attendant's dress was fashioned on similar lines, in forget-me-not blue.

The blue and white wedding cake, its tiers held by columns and topped with bride-and-groom figurines, centered the table for a reception in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Richard Sims made and decorated the cake.

Mrs. Leinen attended Hereford schools and Leinen, now employed in Dimmitt, attended school there.

Services Held For Jason Luck, Ex-Resident

Graveside services were conducted Saturday afternoon at Rest Lawn Cemetery for Jason Luck, 56, of Roswell, N. M., former Hereford resident who died Thursday morning in an Amarillo hospital.

A service in a Roswell funeral chapel had been held earlier in the day.

Born in 1910 near Hollis, Okla., he came with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Luck, to Deaf Smith County in 1923. He married Miss Nell Hill here.

He survives him, with three children, Mary Virginia, Jerry and Bill, all of Roswell; four sisters, Mrs. Roy Boyd of Hereford, Mrs. B. O. Vaughn of Roswell, Mrs. J. W. Martin of Eagle Point, Ore., and Mrs. Ruby Hyepock of Huntington Beach, Calif.; and three brothers, the Rev. Jack Luck of House, N. M.; Grady Luck of Forth Worth and B. D. Luck of Huntington Park, Calif.

King's Manor Prepares For Founders' Day!

DID YOU READ OUR ANNOUNCEMENT Last Week?

Four coffee groups met this week to prepare for King's Manor Founders' Day Dinner to be held on Monday night, September 19, at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall at First Methodist Church. We rejoice to report that more than 42% of the goal of $20,000 in new capital money to sustain The Home is recorded!

Tickets will be on sale at King's Manor after September 5 at $10 a gift to the Home.

Some have insisted on buying a ticket who could not attend. The cash goal is not the MOST IMPORTANT part of the Founders' Day Program. Certinly $10 gifts are pleasant and helpful features. But we want a hundred happy people of many church faith groups from Hereford and from over the Conference to attend. Our gifts already come from Andrews to Amarillo and Shamrock.

The Founders' Association is a permanent organization of friends whose purpose is to educate the public as to the values of life in King's Manor. We need people who THINK, and who keep up with our world.

SIX other coffee groups meet this week in Ralls, Abernathy, Lubbock, Levelland, White Deer, and Munday. We will report again next week.

NO PUBLIC SUBSCRITION will be taken at the Dinner or program on Monday, September 19th. Gifts may be turned privately at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood Vaughn
. . . to celebrate Golden Wedding
(Bradly photo)

Golden Wedding Party Planned

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wood Vaughn, who were married here Sept. 10, 1916, are invited to an open house next Sunday celebrating their Golden Wedding anniversary. The party will be in the home of a neighbor, Mrs. J. D. Gilbert, 1209 Park Ave., from 3 to 5 p. m.

Sisters of Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Earl Lance and Mrs. Edgar Moseley; a sister and brother of Mr. Vaughn, Mrs. Claud Higgins and Dick Vaughn of Amarillo, and nieces and nephews of the couple will assist with host duties to honor the longtime Hereford residents.

Mrs. Vaughn, the former Minnie Carl, was born here, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Carl, pioneer residents. Mr. Vaughn came to Hereford as a boy in 1906; his birthplace is Sanger.

The marriage was conducted by the Rev. W. M. Baker, Presbyterian minister, in the home of the bride's parents. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Vaughn was a Presbyterian, but both considered the well-liked Rev. Baker a friend and wished him to perform the ceremony.

They have been Hereford residents during their married life, and presently live at 101 Ave. K.

Relatives and friends from other cities are expected for the open house next Sunday. Individual invitations are not being sent locally, but the Vaughns wish their friends in this area to consider the announcement of the date an invitation to call during the afternoon.

A Diary of Interest

The Diary of a Nightmare by Ursula Von Kardoff reminded us of the well-read Diary of Ann Franks but only in that we got the other side of the picture. While the Franks diary told of being on the receiving end of the German persecution, this diary tells of the many friends of the Jews and among the German people.

Miss Von Kardoff was a Prussian of the upper class and she and her family, as well as many of her friends, were sickened by the unjust persecution under Hitler. They had Jewish ancestors and were intermarried with them. Therefore they helped many of these displaced persons, with food, clothing, medicine, places to hide and even to escape.

As members of the aristocacy, the author and her friends felt they were placed in the same position of the White Russians, in Russia, and feared they would soon be displaced in Germany.

Miss Von Kardoff, being a newspaper woman, kept a daily diary record-as near as possible -from the beginning of the war until the invasion of the allies on the west and the Russians on the east.

In her position on a newspaper and her place in society, she knew and called many of the nobility by their first names. For this reason she was always a suspect for investigation and arrest by the Gestapo. She seemed to have lived a charmed life, as from day to day she avoided imprisonment, the constant threat of falling bombs, debris and fire.

She and some of her family and friends were closely associated with people who set up the plot to assassinate Hitler. She evaded the investigators in proving this, but many of her friends paid with their lives, guilty or not.

The class of people with whom she lived and worked hated Hitler more than their enemies. They prayed for rescue from them before Hitler and the hated Gestapo or the Russians took them. They longed to be free from Hitler and his hated regime even at the cost of being captured by the enemy.

The book does not dwell on battles and the war itself, but more of how if affected her and the people whom she knew. She describes the ruin and desolation, the moving from place to place in order to exist. Their gay parties, dances, singing and gayiety were carried on to hide their fear, to save their sanity and to help keep their willingness to live, she wrote.

Though not converts to a religion at the time, the only place that she and others could find spiritual peace, was in the chapels and churches. These were often partially in ruins.

At the end of hostilities she and many more were caught between the Allies on one side and the Russians on the other. They had several narrow escapes in trying to reach places of safety.

As might be expected from the pen of a newspaper woman, the story gives a clear and graphic picture of the times. One of our friends, a discriminating reader, could not put it down until she had finished reading it. This is the kind of story it is!

Visitor From Germany Complimented At Coffee

An informal coffee which made Miss Uta Heigl, a German girl who spent the past week here as part of a tour to study American Agriculture, feel right at home, was given Thursday afternoon by a group of German-speaking Hereford residents.

Mrs. Douglas Kelley was hostess in her home and the other guest, like herself, were natives of Germany who are now wives of Americans.

Miss Heigl's home is in Regensburg, a city about 80 miles from Mrs. Kelly's home town, Sulzbach-Rosenberg. The Hereford woman has visited in Regensburg and is familiar enough with the town to exchange reminiscenses of it with the visitor.

Since the German-born Hereford matrons meet for occasional visits in which they speak their native language, they were able to talk fluently with the traveler. Miss Heigl said she had met a number of Germans on her trip who had all but fotgotten the tongue, so she especially enjoyed an opportunity for the hour of relaxed conversation.

German prune-plum cake was served with coffee to the honor guest and Mmes. George Brashear, Raymond Hill, Elov Valdez, Bill Kester and Thomas Christ.

Legion Meets To Decide Current Building Issue

American Legion flag service will be operating again for Monday, Labor Day, according to Grant Hanna.

Legionnaires will meet September 6 at the Legion Hall. Business on the agenda includes a report from the building committee, voting on the building and disposal of present American Legion Hall and three other barracks.

Members of the building committee are Hanna, C. O. Wilkins, Benny Womble, Cecil Parker, Jim Young, Lowell Sharp and Ira Ott.

Bids were opened August 25th, placing estimated costs for the building at $40,000.

Commander Milton Adams urges all American Legion members to be present for the meeting since this will be one of the more important decisions for this year.

DPS Officers Start 5-Day Work Week

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Public Safety announced today that all of its uniformed patrol personnel are going on a five-day week, effective immediately, in an effort to attract and retain adequate personnel, thus providing better law enforcement coverage and service over the state.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director, announced at the same time that there are some 125 vacancies in the patrol services, including Highway Patrol, License and Weight, Motor Vehicle Inspection and Driver Licensing.

"Applications for these career positions are now being accepted, with an October 17 deadline for the next statewide examination on October 22," Garrison said. The next training school will begin January 3.

"The five-day week will apply during the training period also, and the training period has been extended from 16 to 18 weeks to cover the shorter school week."

Garrison said cadets at the DPS Law Enforcement Academy in Austin will receive $400 per month while in training, and will be off Saturdays and Sundays. Upon graduation, they will be assigned to the field with salaries ranging from $468 to $484, depending on branch of service.

Garrison said implementation of the five-day week was imperative because of the manpower shortage in the patrol ranks. He said it is believed that the six-day week, inconsistent with work periods in almost all competitive businesses and industries, was a major deterrent to young men, particularly those with families, who would othewise apply for jobs in the uniformed services.

"Men of good character who are physically fit and between 21 and 35 are invited to obtain additional information if they are interested in becoming a DPS patrolman," Garrison said.

Tex-Ann Tryouts Set At South Plains College

LEVELLAND — Mrs. Myrtle Lucke, director, has announced try-outs for Tex-Anns at South Plains College Sept. 13, 14, and 15. Try-outs are for single girls who are planning to enroll at SPC this fall.

Sessions will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 12 p. m. and from 1:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and on Thursday from 9 a. m. to 12 p. m.

The first hour on Tuesday will be spent in developing social graces. The remainder of the time will be spent in learning the routines. A partial selection will be made at the close of the Wednesday session and the final selection will be made after the Thursday session.

Thirty girls will be chosen from the group with four of the number serving as alternates.

Mrs. Lucke announced that shorts, blouses and tennis shoes are the proper attire for the try-outs. She requests that each girl bring a pair of heels for the Tuesday morning session.

Tex-Anns who will reside in the dormitories this fall will be allowed to move in the dorm at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 13. Other dormitory residents will not be allowed to establish residence until Sept. 15 when the dorms will be open to all dorm students.

Area's History Depicted In Wax Museum Figures

Tourists hankerin' for the Wild Old West and its fast-draw artists like Wyatt Earp, Billy the Kid and Jesse James, hit the jackpot at the Southwestern Historical Wax Museum in State Fair Park at Dallas.

Notorious gunslingers, famous lawmen and Indian chiefs-forty-nine authentic, life-size wax figures-are in the Old West section of the museum, devoted to the colorful and turbulent Southwestern history.

These figures in fourteen scenes include recreations of the famous gun fight at the O. K. Corral; Billy the Kid breaking out of the Lincoln County, New Mexico, jail; Wild Bill Hickok's last poker game; Judge Roy Bean, self-styled "The Law West of the Pecos," holding court; Geronimo and his braves; and the death of John Ringo.

In another area there are scenes recalling Texas' fight for independence from Mexico-Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie at the Alamo and General Sam Houston accepting the surrender of Mexican General Santa Anna.

Modern day happenings depicted include President and Mrs. Kennedy and Governor and Mrs. Connally arrivig at Dallas' Love Field on November 22, 1963, and the swearing-in ceremony for President Johnson that same day.

In all there are ninety wax figures of the famous and infamous in thirty-two tablewax, presenting the Southwest's historical highlights of the last two centuries.

THE CHURCH I LOVE . . .
. . . SUBMITS TO THE WILL OF GOD

Christ taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven, Hallowed' be thy name. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, O nearth as it is in ehaven." (Matthew 6:9-10). So, as the will of God is done in heaven, we who accept God's grace, while alive on earth, are also to do his will.

If we follow Christ, we shall do the will of God; for it is for this very purpose that Christ came to earth. "Lo, I have come to do thy will, O God, as it is written of me in the roll of the book." (Hebrews 10:7). Jesus once said, "My food is to do the will of him who sent me, and to accomplish his work." (John 4:34). Also, "If I am not doing the works of my Father, then do not believe me." (John 10:37).

"Not every one who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. On that day many will say, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and cast out demons in your name, and do many mighty works in your name?' And then will I declare to them, 'I never knew you; depart from me, you evildoers!" (Matthew 7:20-23).

"And his (Jesus') mother and his brothers came; and standing outside they sent to him and called him. And a crowd was sitting about him; and they said to him, 'Your mother and your brothers?' And looking around on those who sat about him, he said, 'Here are my mother and my brothers! Whoever does the will of God is my brother ,and sister, and mother." (Mark 3:31-35).

YEARBOOKS PRESENTED — When Bud to Blossom Garden Club began a new year of meetings Friday morning, this committee presented the program outline it prepared in recent weeks, incorporated with other club data in attractive yearbooks. From left are Mrs. W. H. Gentry, chairman, Mrs. Fran Battenfield, Mrs. Calvin Edwards and Mrs. Bruce Brown.

Guests Present At Club Brunch

Half a dozen guests enjoyed with Bud to Blossom Garden Club members a Friday morning brunch in the home of Mrs. W. H. Gentry, beginning a new series of program with the general theme, Garden Beauties.

The program is outlined in 1966-67 yearbooks which were distributed by the committee which prepared them this summer, Mmes. Gentry, Bruce Brown, Fran Battenfield and Calvin Edwards. This group was hostess for the brunch.

Mrs. Gentry was spokesman for the committee in presenting the year's plans. Comprehensive study will be of bulbs, corms and tubers for garden beauty. Other program topics include Flower Arranging for Today, Herbs and Their Uses, Flowering Beauties in Italy, and Conservation Begins at Home.

Work days at Community Center and King's Manor are included, as well as a garden tour in December, when the club will participate in the district garden club governor's project of landscaping Girlstown. Climax of the year will be the spring flower show, slated for May 19.

Guest speakers will be Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr., governor of District I, Texas Garden Clubs Inc., and the foreign students attending Hereford High School. A group of Campfire Girls will present a litterbug skit in January.

Mrs. Sam Long presided for a brief business session and welcomed the guests, Mmes. J. L. Marcum, Walter Lemons, Johnny Clark, Sam Self and Hill, also Mrs. Lloyd Manjeot, who with her husband, an Army officer, is visiting here while he is in transit from Ft. Lee, Va., to his next post on Okinawa.

An arrangement of roses decorated the table where frosted fruits, coffee cake, tea and coffee were served.

Deadline Nears In ASC Voting

September 7 is the deadline for county farmers to mail ballots to the ASCS office in Hereford in the election of community committeemen, says Frank J. Bezner, chairman of the ASC committee.

Three community committeemen and two alternates will be selected by eligible farm voters.

County committeemen will be chosen at the county convention to be held soon after the September election.

Certifications on the back of ballots must be signed, remind officials, giving the date of signing.

Jelly-makers should remember to pour jelly into hot sterilized glasses to within ½ inch from the top. The added layer of melted paraffin should be 1/8 inch thick. When the jelly is cold, another layer of paraffin may be added to insure a perfect seal.

Fair To Display Missiles From Army Defense

LUBBOCK — Nike Hercules and Hawk missiles from the U. S. Army Air Defense Center at Fort Bliss will be featured displays in the military exhibition at the 49th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair here Sept. 26-Oct. 1.

Weapons from the Air Force and Navy also will be sharing the spotlight, along with Mercury and Gemini capsules from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, fair officials said.

The dart-shped Nike-Hercules missile alone is 27 feet long, the booster 14.5 feet in length. After the first few seconds of flight, the booster separates from the missile, igniting the missile motor. Guidance commands in the form of steering orders are sent from the tracking radar to steer the missile to the predicted intercept point. At the optimum time, warhead detonation occurs. The Hercules can be armed with either an atomic or conventional warhead.

The military display has been scheduled as one of many interesting features of the fair. The Tennessee Ernie Ford show is the headline attraction.

Ford and company will appear at 3 and 7:30 p.m. daily in Fair Park Coliseum with tickets priced at $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50. Children 12 years and under are admitted for one-half price at all matinees. Tickets may be secured at Hester's, 14th and Texas, Dunlap's in Caprock Center, Pioneer Hotel, or by writing to the fair association at PO Box 208, Lubbock.

Dr. Murray Inaugurated As Tech President This Fall

LUBBOCK — "Academic Success and Educational Failure" will be the topic of Dr. Carey Croneis, Chancellor of Rice University, at the Nov. 1 inaugural ceremonies of Dr. Grover E. Murray as Texas Tech's eighth president.

Dr. Marray, who assumed his duties at Tech Sept. 1, received his Ph.D from Louisiana State University in 1942. He received his Master of Science from the same school in 1939, and earned his Bachelor of Science from the University of North Carolina in 1937.

He formerly was Vice President of Academic Affairs for the Louisiana State University System. A recognized authority in the field of geology with an international reputation, Dr. Murray is chairman of the U. S. National Committee on Geology and is a member of the Board of Directors of the American Society for Oceanography. He is the only man to serve as president of both the American Association of Petroleum Geologists (1964-65) and the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists (1963-64).

Dr. Murray's professional background includes: Teaching Fellow, Louisiana State University, 1937-38; Louisiana Geological Survey, Research Fellow 1938-1941; Magnolia Petroleum Co., 1941-1948; Louisiana Geological Survey, Director of Research, 1948-1949; Professor Stratigraphic Geology, Louisiana State University, 1950-53;

Consulting Geologist, part time, 1949-1966; summer professor, University of Texas, 1949 1951; technical adviser, Arkansas Fuel Oil Corporation, 1951-1960; consultant, Houston Oil Company of Texas, 1953-1954; Boyd Professor of Geology, Louisiana State University and A&M College, 1955-1966; Vice President and Dean of Academic Affairs, Louisiana State University and A&M College, 1963-1965;

Vice President for Academic Affairs, Louisiana State University System, 1965-1966; consultant, Venezuelan Ministry of Mines and Hydrocarbons; Advisory committee, International Center for Medical Research and Training, Costa Rica.

Married to the former Nancy Beatrice Setzer, Dr. Muarry has two daughters, Martha (Mrs. Wiley Poag) and Barbara Elizabeth.

He is listed i nWorld Who's Who in Science; American Men Of Science; Who's Who In America; Who's Who In The South And Southwest; Directory of Certified Petroleum Gerologists of the AAPG; Presidents and Deans of American Colleges andUniversity; Leaders in American Science and Contemporary Authors.

Tech Academic Vice President Dr. W. M. Pearce will preside at the two-hour inaugural beginning at 9 a. m. Tuesday (Nov. 1) in the Lubbock Municipal Colisuem. Dr. John Gray of Beaumont, Chairman of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, will introduce Dr. Croneis.

Student Body President Bill Bueck of Midland, Ex-Students Association President Don Anderson of Crosbyton and a Tech faculty representative will present greetings.

Dr. Pearce will present Dr. Murray for induction and Tech Board Chairman Roy Furr of Lubbock will perform the installation.

Dr. Murray assumed his duties at Tech on Sept. 1. His inauguaration will be preceded by a symposium Oct. 31 on "Arid and Semi-Arid Lands — A Preview."

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall and John W. Gardner, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will be among participants in the symposium which will focus attention on the special mission relating to arid and semi-arid lands that Dr. Murray has proposed for Tech.

Dr. Croneis was appointed Chancellor at Rice in 1961 after serving one year as acting president. He joined the Rice faculty in 1954 as Provost and Harry C. Wiess Professor of Geology after serving as president of Beloit College for 10 years.

The educator-geologist graduated from Denison University in 1922 with Phi Beta Kappa honors. He took his doctorate in geology at Harvard in 1928.

Mrs. Everitt New Chamber Manager

Mary Kay Everitt, formerly secretary to Leo Forrest at the Deaf Smith County Electric Cooperative, will begin duties as manager of the Friona Chamber ov Commerce, October 1.

The Friona Chamber had been inactive for several years and the board of directors are looking for suitable office space, Mrs. Everitt said.

In the beginning, she said that she will be doing most of the work herself with only part-time secretarial help.

Mrs. Everitt said that she is particularly interested in working with people and even though she has not had any special training for this work, believes that she will enjoy it.

She graduated from Plainview High School and attended Amarillo College and West Texas State University, majoring in speech and dramatics. Before coming to the REC in Hereford, she worked for Channel 10 TV, having the Morning Show and writing commercials the rest of the day.

Credit is given to Leo Forrest, local REC manager, for help in public relations work. She said that besides secretarial work while employed there, that she had many opportunities to assist in public relations.

The Everitts now live in Friona, having only recently moved. Her husband, Charles, has been operating his business, Panciera Tire Company, there since April. He is manager and co-owner of the Friona company.

The Everitts have one son Tod, aged 3.

President of the Friona Chamber of Commerce is George Taylor and secretary is Flake Barber.

Police Report Slight Damage

Thursday saw two wrecks in Hereford. One occured at 10:30 on 13th Street and involved Crescencio Velasquez, 64, 441 Barrett, and Archie Dobbins, 78, King's Manor. The two vehicles collided as Velasquez, driving a 1962 sedan, traveled west on 13th and Dobbins, who was going east in his 1958 sedan, attempted a left turn.

Velasquez's vehicle incurred damages amounting $225 and Dobbins' vehicle suffered $300 damages.

The second accident occurred on Park about 30 feet from the intersection of Park Ave. and Ave. K. Armando Batello, in her 1964 pickup was stopped for a red light when Mary Smith Phillips, coming up behind her in a 1959 sedan, applied her brakes, skidded about nine feet and then slid into the Vehicle.

The Phillips car incurred appoximately $50 damage while the pickup owned by Oswald Industrial Co. received only $15 damages.

Building Trades Has Noisy Start

The first of its kind at Hereford High School, the new building trades course is running full swing. The goal of this class is far different from that of most, for the class must build an entire house during the school term. The house will be a spacious one with two large bedrooms, a kitchen, dining, and living area, and a bath. The house, which will measure 28 feet by 32 feet, will be situated on the corner of Ave. H. and Whiteface Ave.

Several of the tools and equipment necessary to the construction of a house were issued to the classes last week with actual construction expected to begin next Tuesday. J. G. Weekley, class instructor, says that almost all of the equipment has been delivered and that it is all new and grade A merchandise. He stated that he was highly pleased with the progress the students have made in their first week.

Building trades has only two classes per day, however, each class period is three hours in length. Every student is accredited with 3 credits just as he would if he were taking three separate courses.

Weekley said the boys would spend most of their time in actual construction work. He plans to save his lectures and class work for those days when the weather does not permit outside work. Weekly invited all interested persons to visit the building site.

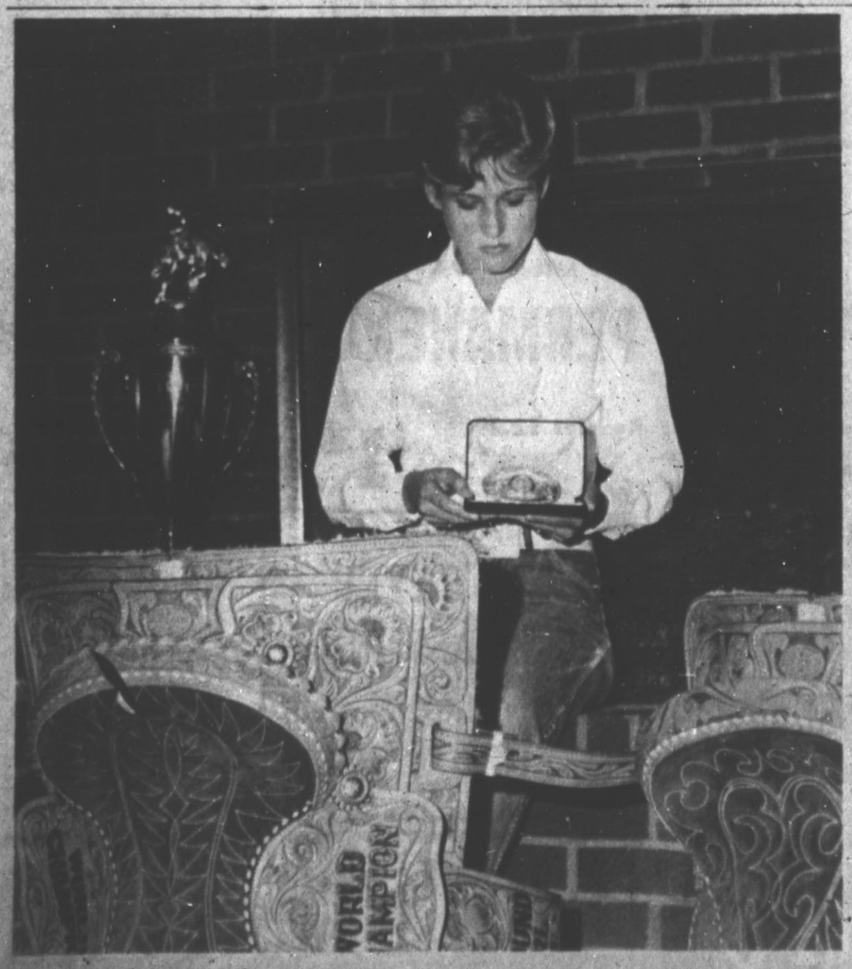
GIFT OF CONVENIENCE — Use of the in-hospital physicians' call system recently installed in Deaf Smith County Hospital, a gift of Hereford Medical Auxiliary through its annual Project Christmas Card, is being demonstrated by Dr. J. H. McCrary for Mrs. A. T. Mims, a former president of the Auxiliary. This panel, at the hospital entrance, has a series of push-buttons used by the doctors to register their presence in the hospital. Signal lights on similar panels in offices and nurses' stations over the hospital show personnel at a glance which physicians are in the hospital at any time, to help locate a doctor quickly when necessary. The Medical Auxiliary each year raises funds through its Christmas project to give needed equipment to the hospital and also to finance a scholarship for a student nurse.

FIRST MILO IS EARLY — George Heard, farming about 10 miles southeast of Hereford, delivered the first load of milo last week to Hereford Grain Corp. His yield of 6,000 pounds had a moisture content of 15½ per cent. Joe Artho, elevator manager, said he does not expect any other milo for at least three weeks. (Staff Photo)



ALL AROUND COWGIRL — Jo Poarch displays buckles, saddles, and trophy that she was awarded for first places in events in rodeos throughout the state this summer. Her top number of points won for her the title, and one more year's award may mean she can keep the "traveling trophy" for her own. The top award, from the American Junior Rodeo Association, was presented to Jo after the whole summer's competition, staged at numerous junior rodeos throughout the state. (Staff Photo)

4-H Citizen Awards For August Are Made To Two Active Members

Winners of 4-H Citizen of the Month awards for August, given by the Deaf Smith-Oldham County Farm Bureau, are Pam Winget, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Winget, and Kenneth Justice of Happy Hustlers 4-H Club, son of the D. C. Justices.

Pam has been a 4- H Club member eight years, has held almost every club office and received a number of awards. An outstanding one was for a Share-the-Fun skit which won in its district and went into state competition.

During her junior year in Hereford High, she was a member of Future Teachers, the Girls Choir and a singing group, the Windjammers, also of Future Nurses Club and the Pink Angels. She was chairman of a decoration committee for the junior-senior banquet.

A member of First Methodist Church, she attends Sunday School regularly. She is active in the Horizon Club, Camp Fire Girls organization for high school students, and assists with a Bluebird group of younger girls.

Kenneth was recommended for the award by his club as "Courteous, dependable and cooperative with other members. He works well with others and in various subject matter groups He is always present at the meetings unless he is ill or school activities conflict."

An eighth-grader in school, he is active in athletics and band. During 4-H sales programs, he has always been among the leading salesmen.

He attends church regularly and is a member of his church youth group. His assistance in home chores is also cited, as he assumed his share of household taks during an illness of his mother.

FINGER ACTION — It takes an exceptional amount of coordination of the limbs to play the organ — or piano, or any one of the many instruments he plays—as beautifully as Don Baugous. Baugous, who lives on Ave. B with his wife and their three children, became church organist for the First Methodist Church in quite an unexpected way. (Staff Photo)

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Commitee Arguments Prove Good Medicine For Chair

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stormy sessions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities may help the re-election bid this year of the acting chairman, Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex.

At least that's the way it looks to one of Pool's Texas colleagues, Rep. Earle Cabell, also a Dallas Democrat.

"How lucky can a guy be," Cabell mused. "Joe couldn't have bought all this good publicity."

Pool presided at the committee's hearing into activities of Pro-North Viet Nam groups that brand the United States an aggressor. The sessions were punctuated with heckling, shouting and the physical ejection of spectators and one lawyer for a witness.

The lawyer, one Arthus Kinoy of New York, was ordered by Pool to discontinue a colloquy with the committee and sit down.

When Kinoy did not do so he was forcibly ousted by police who charged him with disorderly conduct.

Kinoy subsequently asserted he intends to sue Pool for all I can."

As a result of the hearings, Pool has been receiving a large volume of mail. He said 90 per cent approved the way in which he gavelled down the witnesses and their lawyers from using the hearing as a forum to make statements.

The mail from Texas is even more favorable — "about 99 per cent," Pool said.

One of the letters from Texas said:

"If you go to jail, I'll go your bail."

The reference was to Pool's having said he would resist until hell froze over the order which a federal judge issued to block the committee from conducting the hearings.

Another letter said:

"May God be with you in your gallant stand to preserve America for Americans. Texas heroes include Crockett, Austin, Houston, Bowie and now Joe Pool."

Oddly, the letter came from California.

Pool now is congressman-at-large. In November, he will be a candidate for one of the Dallas districts after the state was reapportioned.

A tribute to the Alliance for Progress on its 5th anniversary, and especially for the Partners of the Alliance which is set up under the Alliance, has come from Rep. Olin Teague, D., Bryan.

"The partners is the private sector aspect of the alliance with Latin American countries," Teague told the House.

"It is the partners program to which I direct my attention because its focus is on the people, the factor on which I think, rests ultimately the success or failure of all foreign assistance programs.

"The program has served, and is serving as a channel through which private interests in our states can work directly with similar groups in Latin America who have demonstrated by self help, their determination to achieve a better way of life."

After noting that there are now partnership arrangements between 30 states and 30 areas in 15 Latin American nations, resulting in the exchange of about $3 million in money and materials, he added:

"The partners concept is not primarily one of 'dollars and cents, however. If the Texas partners raise funds for a block-making machine and a group of Andean villagers supplies the labor to construct the schoolhouse, the significance of the project defies measuremnt solely in balance-sheet terms.

"In the process, the self-help ambitions of the villagers have been encouraged, not smothered by handout, while the dignity of the people participating has been preserved."

Missionary Pair At Conference

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson, 108 Ave. H., are attending a state missionary conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in San Antonio this weekend. Elder Johnson is serving as president of the Hereford congregation on a missionary assignment.

The conference, with Sanfred W. Elieson, president of the LDS Texas Mission, presiding, is being attended by 33 missionary couples, husbands and wives who are serving the church on a self-sustaining basis. They are primarily retired persons who are giving two years of work in mission fields.

One couple, Elder and Mrs. George Linford, who are working in Rio Grande City, will celebrate their golden wedding wedding anniversary during the meeting and will be honored with a dinner.

The Johnsons are residents of Provo, Utah, and have spent the past 10 months here in the second year of their volunteer missionary duty.

'Teaching Taxes' School Course

During the next nine months more than 200,000 school youngsters will learn how to fill out their income tax returns. The Internal Revenue Service cooperates with some 2000 Texas high schools and colleges in furnishing the material for a short course on how to prepare income tax return. The "Teaching Taxes" course is popular with most students, especially those due a refund.

NEW APPLIANCE STORE — Bob Bingham, manager of the new Holbert appliance store in the shopping center in north Hereford stands at the entrance to their building. He invites everyone to attend the grand opening September 8, 9 and 10.

Appliance Store Has Mall Opening

Among the several new stores in Sugarland Mall shopping center is Holbert's Appliance Store, which will have its grand opening next week, September 8, 9, and 10. The manager, Bob Bingham, comes from the Holbert store in Plainview. Both stores are co-owned by Chick Holbert and Rex Ramsower.

The new store handles everything from record player needles to large appliances. They carry a complete line of Philco appliances and television sets, Curtis Mathis televisions and stereos, Voice of Music stereos and tape recorders, Norge ranges, and Sylvania products. Guarantees on these items range from one year to five.

Bingham said he has a complete service department for all his products, with free delivery to any place a customer wants it. Appliances, television sets, etc. can be bought on any of several purchase plans. One might buy with nothing down and 36 months to pay or he might choose a 30 to 90 day charge account. Holbert's also offers a revolving charge account and for farmers there is a farm plan. The farm plan allows the farmer to wait until he harvests his crops before paying.

Bingham, his wife, Mary, and their 2-month-old son are now living in Hereford. Mary is bookkeeper for the store.

In addition to Bingham and his wife there are three employees at Holbert's. They are George Pierce — service department, Raymond Escobal — sales and delivery and Freddy Moreno — sales and delivery.

RESPONSIBLE — The boys who take on the roles of clowns during the 22nd annual rodeo at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, September 4th and 5th, will be the most valuable Ranchers in the arena. Much of their time will be spent trying to direct the wrath of Brahma bulls and broncs towards themselves, to insure the safety of the rider.

Clowns Work Hard At Ranch Rodeo

Clowning-around is serious business at a Boys Ranch rodeo, if you happen to be one of the four boys who will play the biggest part in making the 22nd annual Labor Day rodeo safe for the young participants.

Nearly 100 boys will be riding professional rodeo livestock, Brahma bulls and broncs, and the clowns will be in the arena to protect them from injury.

Several boys try out for the clown positions each year, just as with the other competitive events. The Ranchers who are chosen have thoroughly demonstrated their skill, agility and speed in practice sessions which are now being held.

One of the most difficult things for a Boys Ranch clown to learn is not to run instinctively to the fallen rider and help him to his feet. Their job is to run between an angry bull or bronc and the boy; divert the animal and hold his attention until the rider is safely clear.

Besides their important functions for safety, the clowns will be riding at different times themselves.

Between acts and during the special "stick-horse" race for the four to six-year-old Ranchers the clowns will unveil their dual personalities and perform light-hearted antics to add to the entertainment.

The rodeo will be held at 2:30 p. m., today and Monday, Sept. 5th Tickets can be bought in advance from the Boys Ranch office, Box 1890, Amarillo, or at the arena. Reserved box seats are $2.50, general admission is $1.50, and childrens and servicemens' tickets are 75 cents.

The Pittsburgh Pirates call pitsburg Pirates set a National League record last season. It was the sixth time he led second basemen in double plays. He missed 31 games.

The United States Amateur Public Links championship is the largest event conducted by the USGA. A total of 2,677 entries was received in 1965. Entry fee is $5.

West Virginia's football team will have white helmets, white pants, striped in gold and blue, and blue jersyes for home games. On the road the Mountaineers will use gold jersyes.

Walt Witowski of St. John's in New York led the nation's major college pitchers this year with an earned run record of 0.37 for 48 innings.

'Short Course' For Lawyers Set At SMU Campus

A short course on antiturst law, and institutes on eminet domain, oil and gas accounting and government contracts will be conducted by the Southwestern Legal Foundation, Southern Methodist University Campus, Dallas, in September according to John D. Aikin, Hereford attorney.

Aiken, Resident Representative for the Foundation, announced that the short course on antitrust law is scheduled for September 12-17, the Institute on eminent domain, September 15 16, the institute on oil and gas accounting, September 22-23, and the institute on government contracts, September 29-30.

The short course on antitrust law is a noncredit course designed to provide an understanding of the Sherman, Clayton, Robinson-Patman, and Federal Trade Commission Acts, and to furnish guidelines for counseling on antitrust problems of corporate compliance, avoidance of costly antitrust litigation, and current problems in relationships with competitors, suppliers, dealers, and customers.

Subjects to be reviewed during the institute on eminent domain are: effect of zoning on market value; relocation: the quest for uniformity; effective use of a real estate appraiser; effective trial tactics; compensable and non-compensable items in condemnation; the appariser is an advocate for his report; current trends and new decisions in eminent domain; and jury selection and argument in condemnation cases.

Subjects selected for the institute on oil and gas accounting are long-range planning in the oil industry; managing funds for short-term investment; top management views the accounting function; shareholder reporting of foreign oil operations; use of gas producer costs in Federal power commission rate proceedings; and a report on the AICPA survey of accounting practices in the extractive industries.

Also, accounting for exploration costs; accounting for oil and gas joint ventures; and let's look at accounting through a natural gas company pipeline.

Subjects for the institute on government contracts are: an appraisal of trends and recent developments in contract appeals boards decisions; recent developments in procurement at NASA; contract management systems and controls; contact pricing conflict between defense audit objectives and ASPR provisions.

Also, the uniform commercial code and formation of contracts; inspections and warranties under the uniform commercial code relating to prime contracts and subcontracts; team bidding on major contracts; and the air force-industry relationship.

Weld To Defend Super Mod Title

AMARILLO — Kenny Weld, the daring young man from Kansas City who won the 1964 and 1965 national super-modified racing championships and also the 1965 Southwestern title here, will be back to defend the latter in the eighth annual running of this showy event over the Labor Day weekend, Saturday and Sunday nights and Monday afternoon, Sept. 3-4-5.

Weld and the rest of the anticipated field of 70 outstanding super-modified drivers from so far away as San Diego, Calif., will be running for a record purse of $10,500 spread over the three days. This includes a new Chevrolet Impala sports coupe which will go to the top money winner.

Among his challengers will be Bobby Ward of Conway, Ark., the 1963-64 Southwestern champ, who ran an heroic third in last year's spectacular despite the fact that he had to change engines after having blowm his power-plant in the day's preliminary race. Ward is bringing a spare engine to Amarillo this time.

Saturday's feature event will be for 25 laps, Sunday's for 30 laps and Monday's for 35 times around the high-banked quarter-mile oval at N. Grand and Hastings. Time trials will start at 7 and racing at 8 p. m. Saturday and Sunday. The Monday races will start at 2 p. m.

Advertising's third dimension

In addition to length and width, a newspaper advertisement has a third dimension—thickness. Thickness is represented by circulation, the number of advertisements printed and actually delivered.

You pay for an advertisement on the basis of length and width, but what you really buy is the opportunity to talk about your merchandise or service to a specified number of readers. Laid one upon another, a one inch stack of your advertisements in this newspaper equals 300 homes reached.

Thickness . . . or circulation . . . is the dimension that gives promise to your sales message, that it will reach potential customers.

It is important for you to know whether circulation is a promise or a fact.

The ABC insigne assures you that our circulation is measured by the highest standards in the advertising and publishing industry. It is the symbol of our membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

ABC is an independent auditing organization whose sole purpose is to give accurate and factual circulation reports. ABC audits are trusted by national advertisers and advertising agencies. They can be trusted by you.

Our tell-all ABC report shows how much circulation we actually deliver, where these copies are distributed, how much readers pay, and other information you should know about the thickness of your advertising here — facts, without opinions, compiled from a physical audit of circulation records by traveling ABC auditors.

When buying advertising, be sure to measure all three dimensions — length, width, and thickness.

Insist on facts. Be ABC sure!

Miss Davis Weds Gayle Singleton

At home in Canyon after a trip to Fort Worth and Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Lynwood Singleton were married last Sunday afternoon in St. Thomas' Episcopal Church here. The bride was Miss Helen Ann Davis.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Davis, 615 Union, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Fillingim of Briscoe.

The Rev. Staley Hackley read the double ring marriage ceremony at an altar decorated with pink roses. Miss Jo Ann Boudlin, organist, played traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Beverly Barrett as maid of honor and her sister, Miss Ruth Davis, as bridesmaid. Jay Michael Meek acted as best man, Danny Singleton, brother of the bridegroom, and Oren Davis, brother of the bride, as ushers.

Renee Inman was the flower girl, who scattered red rose petals from a pink satin basket, and James Collier carried the rings.

A gold bracelet which Miss Davis' mother and grandmother had worn at their weddings added a sentimental note to her costume. She was gowned in crystal peau de soie, with long sleeved fitted bodice and ankle-length A-line skirt. Embroidery motifs were scattered over the skirt and formed a band above the hemline.

Her veil swept floor length from a satin and pearl headpiece. She carried a nosegay of pink roses on a white prayer book.

The bridesmaids wore pink floor-length dresses and each had a nosegay of flowers in the same color. The small flower girl's short, lacy frock was also pink.

Parents of the bride were hosts in their home for the reception after the wedding. Miss Fanelda Williams, Mrs. James Collier and Mrs. Don Ed Middleton served refreshments.

The bridal bouquet was laid on the center of the beige linen cloth, flanked by the crystal bowl of pink punch and the flowery wedding cake, which were served with mints and nuts.

For travel Mrs. Singleton changed to a beige silk dress. The trip included visits with relatives of the bridegroom in the Fort Worth area and a stop at Six Flags.

At home at 2302 Sixth Ave. in Canyon, the couple will enroll in West Texas State University for the fall term. Singleton, who completed high school study at Briscoe, is a senior due to graduate in January. Mrs. Singleton is a Hereford High School graduate.

A pre-nuptial party in her honor was a shower in the home of Mrs. Jess Carter, 407 Union, with Mmes. Gene Parsley, Herbert Bruns, Mary Stapp, Alton Fraser, L. C. Hewitt, Rudy Metz and Jesse Geron as other hostesses.

The bride-elect and her mother received guests, who were served cake and punch by Misses Barrett and Ruth Davis. Pink Roses graced the table, which was covered with a white cutwork cloth.

News About Area Men On Duty

Frank Dutton, serving in Viet Nam with the U. S. Marines since February of 1965, expects to be sent back to the United States in October and plans a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dutton, Route 5.

In a letter received recently by his parents, he told of being made a corporal in July. He joined the Marine Corps Nov. 26, 1963.

Hereford Study Club Year Opens

A patio supper in the home of Mrs. R. N. Yarbro, yearbook chairman, opened a new year for Hereford Study Club Thursday evening, when Mrs. Henry Sears was guest speaker to tell of developing plans for a county historical museum.

Other yearbook committee members, Mmes. N. D. Bartlett Jr., Don Robinson and Dillie Kelley, were hostesses with Mrs. Yarbro, and presented the books with 1966-67 programs to members as a part of the program.

Mrs. Sears outlined work already done toward establishing a museum here, and told of plans for arranging it to present a graphic story of the people who pioneered Deaf Smith County and this area.

She and another member of the board of directors of the County Historical Society, Mrs. George Turrentine, answered questions of the club members concerning the project which has been discussed here for several years, and has become a reality in recent months.

In a business period with Mrs. Labry Ballard presiding, Mrs. Marvin Knox was elected recording secretary to succeed Mrs. A. L. Odom, who is moving from Hereford. Plans were completed for a rummage sale held Friday evening in the County Bull Barn to raise funds for club projects.

Others present for the program and salad supper were Mmes. T. E. Braddy, Johnny Clark, S. L. Garrison, W. H. Gentry, Noble Howard, Merlin Kaul, Garland Solomon, Art Stoy, Maurice Tannahill, C. R. Winget; Miss Gladys Setliff and the club's honorary member, Mrs. R. P. Coneway.

The new yearbooks announce a varied program which begins with the topic, Women in India, and will include such diverse subjects as home decoration and psychology, fashions and music appreciation.

Guest night is set for Oct. 20, when Mrs. Bartlett will show films and talk of her trip to Australia earlier this year; members will entertain their husbands in February and have a Christmas party in December. Program guests will include foreign students in Hereford High School at the Jan. 5 meeting.

The Quaker City Handicap, run annually at Garden State Park, has been won by jockey Sam Boulmetis eight times. He won the race four straight times between 1961 and 1964.

Mrs. R. E. Lance Jr.

MADAM PRESIDENT . . .

Clubwoman Assigned To District Duties

At mid-point of her two-year term as president of Summerfield Study Club, Mrs. R. E. Lance Jr. is also a board member in the Top of Texas District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, serving as chairman of the communications division.

MRS. LANCE is the wife of a farmer in the Summerfield community, although the family moved a few years ago to a home in Hereford. The club, formed in the community for which it is named, has several members who now live in this city.

Considering building a home in town, the Lances were looking at new houses when they saw the one at 343 Stadium Drive.

"It had everything I wanted my house to have," Mrs. Lance says, "So we just bought it and moved in. If it had been made to order it couldn't have suited us better."

THE LANCE FAMILY includes two sons, Ronnie, 17, and Larry, 14, both in school here. They are members of First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Lance came to Hereford from her native Young County, where she attended school at Woodson. She was visiting relatives here when she had an opportunity for employment with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, and worked for that firm until her marriage.

She has been a member of Summerfield Study Club five years and was its treasurer before election to the presidency.

SHE IS especially interested in its contributions to such regional causes as Boys Ranch and the Opportunity Plan to aid students at West Texas State University, as well as in cooperation with Federation projects.

Her only other club membership, in Hereford Garden Club, reflects her liking for flowers, to grow or arrange in her home

Music Study Member On State Board

Mrs. Alex Thompson, member of Music Study Club, has been appointed chairman of Music Service in the Community for Texas Federation of Music Clubs, she has been notified by Mrs. Dellon Bumgardner of Carthage, state president.

This is one of a series of committee chairmanships in the state Federation which Mrs. Thompson has held during her membership in the Hereford club, which dates back to the 1920's. She has also served as state auditor.

A past president of Music Study Club, she has filled various district offices and was chairman of Special Memberships last year.

She plans to attend the state board meeting Sept. 19 and 20. Mrs. Carl Wimberley of Dawn Music Club, as the current district president, will also go to that meeting.

Shots Still Needed; Polio Not Whipped

Have you kept up your immunity against polio?

The Texas Medical Association cautions: Don't take a chance on polio — take polio vaccine. Many have been lulled into a false sense of security in controlling this paralyzing disease because of the overwhelming success of Salk and Sabin vaccine. Thee vaccines, however, have not eradicated the viruses which cause polio. Rather, like all vaccines, they trigger the body's defenses to build up antibodies which can combat the viruses if they should gain entry into the body.

Texas has reported 40 cases of paralytic polio thus far this year. None of the cases reported had been completely immunized. All are infants and preschoolers.

All persons who have not been properly immunized against polio are still vulnerable to attack. This includes the majority of pre-school children, who have not received full protection.

Three viruses which cause polio have been identified. The newest vaccine is in an oral form and of the "trivalent" type. That is, it protects against all three types of polio. It is given in two doeses, at least eight weeks apart, either as a liquid or adsorbed on bread, cake or on a cube of sugar.

The vaccine may be given to infants at a very early age. All expectant mothers should be vaccinated, as they are particularly susceptible to polio. Although polio is primarily a childhood disease it also can strike adults. Even persons who have had polio from one type of virus remain susceptible to additional attacks from the other two viruses.

Massive polio immunization programs conducted by county medical societies several years ago immunized the majority of Texas residents. Many persons, however, took only the first dose, and do not have full protection from the dread disease. It is especially important that pre-school children receive the oral polio vaccine.

County medical societies in affected areas, primarily in South Texas, are taking the lead in stepped up immunization programs. The vaccine may, of course, be administered on an individual basis in a physicians office.

Deaf Children Receive State Committee Study

A state legislative study committee studying facilities and services for the deaf in Texas will hold a one-day meeting in Midland, Tuesday, Sept. 6.

The five legislators and five citizen advisory committee members will visit public school facilities Tuesday morning and will conduct a public hearing beginning at 2 p. m. at the Midland City Hall, 300 N. Lorraine.

The committee, having visited schools, and rehabilitation centers in Austin, Dallas, and Houston is examining similar facilities in the West Texas area.

Created by the 59th Legislature, the Study Committee will submit their recommendations to the 60th Legislature convening next January in Austin.

"As Texas' population grows, unfortunately, so grow the number of deaf children. I think our recommendations will enable Texas to adequately take care of these deaf children," said Chairman Paul Floyd of Houston.

Other legislative members serving on the Committee are Senator Murray Watson, Jr., Waco; Senator Neveille Colson, Navasota; Representative R. G. (Randy) Pendleton, Andrews; and Representative Ralph Wyane, Plainview.

Citizens appointed to serve as advisors include Dr. W. P. Anthony, Fort Worth; Louis Orrill, Dallas, Mrs. Gladys Drake, Denton; L. T. Johnson, Austin; and Don Pettingill, Dallas.

Letter To The Editor

To The Editor:

These are exciting times for education and educators. In brief, we face more pupils, more services, more problems, and more opportunities than ever before. Every facet of the job of school administrators is different and will become even more so. Undoubtedly, some are going to be overwhelmed by the additional burdens which are being thrust upon us. Undoubtedly also, many will find it necessary to change patterns of action and education routines which have existed for years. In spite of all these things, I predict that schools will go on into the future with confidence and with competence.

Our children, our citizens, and our country must be served in challenging new ways if we are to achieve the promise of tomorrow. They will be served! We are going to get out of the narrow lines of traditional education and open doors that will meet the needs of all youngsters. People with unmet needs are a danger to themselves and a threat to all of us. The young person who is not educated to live in this kind of world as a person equipped with a skill that somebody is willing to buy constitutes a hazard to the society. This could explain the recent mass murders that have headlined our newspapers. The only guarantee of our future is in the quality of minds we develop.

To meet the needs of young people in Hereford and this area, the local school board of trustees has been granted approval by the Texas Education Agency to operate an area vocational school. New course offerings are unlimited with the Texas Education Agency bearing most of the expense. Initial courses will be Auto Mechanics, Industrial Cooperative Training, Vocational Agriculture and Homemaking Cooperative Training, Cosmetology, and Building Trades. Courses such as electricity, plumbing, drafting, blueprint reading, data processing, adult courses, and other offerings will be added when feasible and a need is evident.

An area vocational building can not be satisfactorily operated without an expansion of facilities. The initial cost of this expansion will approximate $300,000 with the local district required to supply 50%, or $150,000 of this amount, and the Texas Education Agency funding the balance.

On September 10th taxpayers of this district will go to the polls to approve or reject this expanded program designed to meet unmet needs of our young people. This will be a $150,000 bond authorization.

Rather than risk having to call another election within a year or so, taxpayers will also be asked to favor or reject the authorization of an additional $250,000 in bonds to supplement available funds that are to be used in the construction of another elementary building when it is needed.

This letter is being sent to several in our community because of past interest in education or because of the position one might hold in an affiliation. Regardless of the why, it is recognized that you are in a position to do something for education in Hereford. Can we depend on your influence and support? Read this letter at organizational or club meetings, tell the school story, and encourage all to vote. "Talk it up" for us.

It should be clearly pointed out that should both issues in favor of education pass, no bonds will be sold until it is apparent that another elementary school building is a must. This will be at least one year away and, in all probability, much longer. These bonds are not being authorized because the district is in immediate need of funds since the district has on time deposit in excess of $300,000. A portion of these funds legally could have been spent for an area vocational school without regard to public opinion. However, the Board was of the opinion that true democracy would be exercised only if taxpayers were provided the opportunity of expressing themselves — thus, the calling of this election.

If both issues are passed by voters, the Board will proceed with the construction of the area vocational school from funds now on time deposit. At such time when a new elementary building is needed, the Board will have a balance of $150,000 on time deposit and the authorization for selling $400,000 in bonds which will give the $550,000 that is estimated for such a plant. If both issues are passed the tax rate will not be affected since bonds will not be sold. In all probability when time for selling the bonds arrives, increased valuations along with the usual decrease of bonded indebtedness will prevent a tax raise being necessary.

Should the $150,000 issue for the vocational building fail, the new vocational courses initiated this year will be discontinued since they will no longer be funded by the Texas Education Agency.

Should the $250,000 issue to be used as additional funds for an elementary building fail, the expense of another election will be necessary when new building is needed. Delayed construction and other problems could be an educational penalty.

For all of us, the education of our country's youngsters is a deep and abiding personal concern. It is vital to our community's best interests that all of Hereford's boys and girls secure a sound and functional education. This can be achieved only if all are on education's team.

Sincerely,
Labry Ballard, President
Board of Trustees

Three-time National League batting champion Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates has batted .314 or better the last six seasons. He began with the Pirates in 1955 after having been drafted from the Dodgers' Montreal farm team.

Relief pitcher Elroy Face appeared in 42 games or more a season for the Pittsburgh Pirates between 1955 and 1964. Last year he appeared in only 18 games because of a torn ligament in his knee.

Horses, Riders Featured At State Fair Of Texas

Nationally famous horsemen riding and showing for $26,400 in prize money will offer peak entertainment to visitors at the 1966 State Fair of Texas Horse Show in Dallas Oct. 8 through 23.

"The 1966 horse shows will bring to State Fair Coliseum the most complete performance program ever presented in Dallas," announced Joseph B. Rucker Jr., executive vice president and general manager of the State Fair.

"Featured during the 16 days will be the performances of American Saddle, Standardbred and Tennessee Walking horses, Shetland ponies, Arabians, Golden Pleasure, Appaloosa, Cutting and American Quarter horses."

The shows will present nine beautiful senoritas from Mexico in a colorful and spectacular carousel during twelve of the performances October 8 through 16. Expert equestriennes, the senoritas will represent the Republic of Mexico's National Federation of Charros at the State Fair of Texas. Dr. Jose Ystas Salazar, Federation President, has arranged the Dallas visit.

The senoritas from Mexico will ride during the following performances: 2 p. m., Oct. 8-9 and Oct. 14, 15 and 16; at 8 p. m., Oct. 8, 10 and 11, and 2, and at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 13, 14 and 15.

The show program Oct. 8 through 11 will present five and three gaited saddle horses, fine harness, walking and roadster horses and Shetland ponies. Arabians and Golden Pleasure horses will monopolize arena spotlights Oct. 13 through 16. The Appaloosa Show is Oct. 17 and 18.

The annual Open Cutting Horse Contest is set for Oct. 19 and 20, with first go-round the first day, and second go-round and finals the second day. American Quarter horses will perform the last four days of State Fair, Oct. 20-23.

Former Resident Pays Visit Here

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fullwood and children have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fullwood, on their way from Los Alamos, N. M., where he has worked this summer with the Atomic Energy Commission, to their home in Troy, N. Y., where he is on the faculty of Rensaeller Polytechnic Institute.

Fullwood, who grew up in Hereford, has accepted permanent employment with the AEC at Los Alamos, and will begin regular duties there at close of the Fall semester of Rensaeller Institute.

The visitors left the last of this week and will visit Fullwood's brother, Edward Fullwood, and family at Madison, Wisc. on their way home.

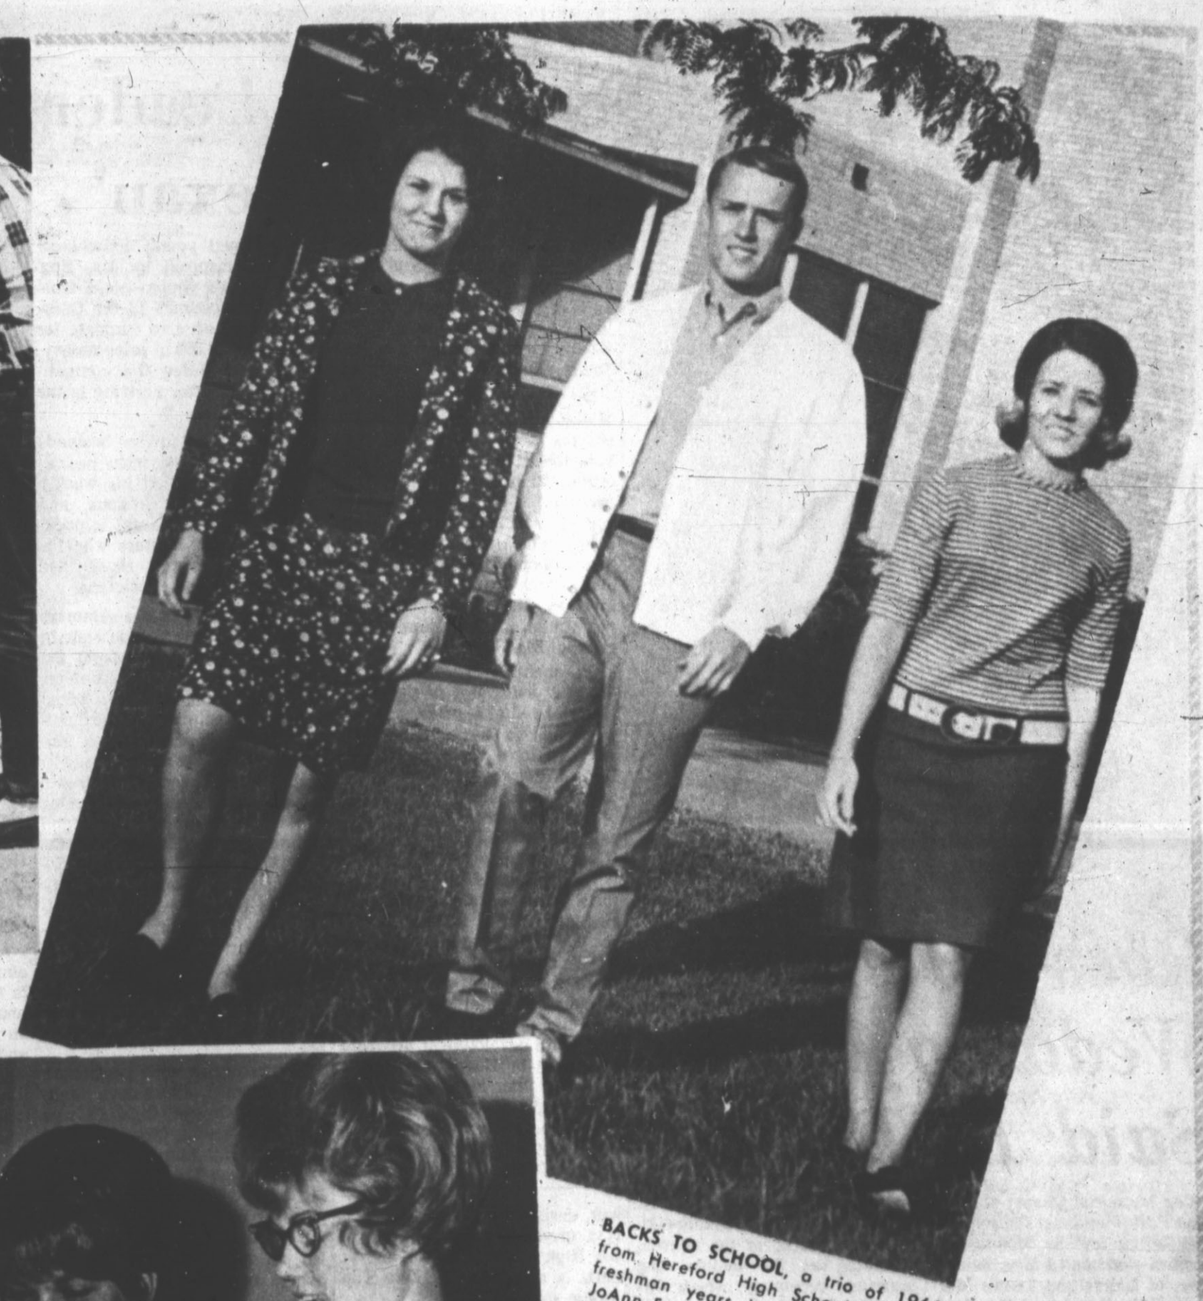
PERHAPS OVERCROWDED, students who will return to the University of Texas juggle luggage around a Volkswagen under the amused eyes of Linda Loerwald, left, who is going back to West Texas State University as a sophomore. Miss Parsons and Fuhrmann will be sophomores at the University, Mims a freshman.

Fall Points To College

The Sunday Brand

SECTION TWO

HEREFORD, TEXAS 79045, SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1966



BACKS TO SCHOOL, a trio of 1966 graduates walks away from Hereford High School, across the campus headed for freshman years in three different colleges. From left are JoAnn Ferguson, who will enroll at South Plains Junior College at Levelland, Brent Knox, who will attend Texas Tech at Lubbock, and Gayle Newell, to enter Oklahoma State University at Stillwater.

MAJOR INTEREST of coeds on any campus, fall clothes get atfention from a group at the home of Lou Ann Witkowski, trying on some of the sweaters she will take back to Texas Tech for her junior year. Debbie Beene is helping Myrrla Botkin into a gaily-colored jacket while the hostess inspects another. The two guests will be sophomores at Tech this fall, Debbie as a transfer from Southern Methodist University.

PRETTY GIRLS who will soon decorate the campus of Texas Tech, Lubbock, pose on a green Hereford lawn in final vacation days. Royce Ann Gilliland, foreground, is a junior; Sharon Tinnin, left, and Penny Johnson, sophomores. The latter spent her freshman year in Eastern New Mexico University.

SUMMER LEISURE which is ending for the collegians is suggested by Merle Carmichael, Don Henslee and Charlotte Williams as they meet in the shade of a big tree in Dameron Park. Miss Carmichael will be a sophomore at West Texas State University and Miss Williams at Southwestern State in Weatherford, Okla. Henslee, who moved to Hereford after graduation from Odessa High School, is a junior at WTSU.

Ross-Gillentine Wedding Vows Said In Dallas

Cox Memorial Chapel of Highland Park Methodist Church was the setting for the Monday afternoon wedding of Miss Sandra Ross of Dallas and James Moriarty Gillentine Jr. of Hereford.

After a wedding trip to Central Texas the couple is residing at 5105 Northway Drive, Dallas, where both are students in Southern Methodist University.

The Rev. Gilbert Zyzniewski, associate pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring marriage ceremony, which was attended by only the immediate families.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Graham Ross of Dallas, wore a sky blue knit suit, designed on slim lines. She is a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School, Dallas, and at SMU is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Mr. Gillentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Gillentine of Hereford, was graduated from Hereford High School and is a pre-law student at SMU.

Symphony Leader Is 'West Texan'

ABILENE, — One of the men who has done much to promote cultural activities in West Texas is Dr. Lara Hoggard of Midland, named West Texan of the Month for August by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Hoggard is director of the Midland-Odessa Symphony Orchestra and Chorale. He has built the Permian Basin musical organization to a fourth-ranking spot in the state in total number of performances, ranking only behind Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. This season's schedule, which opens September 12, involves the orchestra in 19 performances in Midland, Odessa and Big Spring.

One member of Hoggard's orchestra said the symphony's musicians "take pride in their work and in their conductor." Several drive from as far as 100 miles away for weekly rehearsal sessions.

One member of the former said the success of the Midland-Odessa group is almost entirely the result of Hoggard's efforts. The Chorale, created by Hoggard, adds further polish to the symphony group and boosts the total membership to more than 100.

Adding even more cultural potential to the Permian Basin is a youth development program sponsored by Hoggard. He says he feels, "the hope of this nation lies in education."

"We've got to train people to use their imaginations and be creative," Dr. Hoggard said.

An annual young artist competition, inspired by Dr. Hoggard, draws young talent from across the country to the Odessa-Midland area to compete for a share of $3,000 in prize money. Hoggard initiated the competition shortly after arriving in the area in 1962.

Hoggard also invites busloads of school children from nearby schools to sit in on his weekly evening practice sessions, and almost every rehearsal is packed with young visitors who listen to the concert music and stay to quiz the musicians.

Hoggard devotes his summers after the concert season ends in April to obligations around the country. He conducts summer workshops and has been guest professor, lecturer and conductor at more than 80 colleges, universities and conservatories.

He is well known in music circles, having been conductor of the NBC Navy Symphony and Chorus in Washington, D. C., for 12 broadcasts; having conducted Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians for seven years on radio and television; having authored three music textbooks and composed more than 30 published works; and having led the University of Oklahoma men's glee club to national honors.

He graduated with top honors at 19 from Southwestern State College at Durant, Okla. He was born in Kingston, Okla. and won a countrywide piano competition when he was 11. After graduating from college he became supervisor of music in the Durant (Oklahoma) Public Schools and led an orchestra there to top honors in national competition.

MORE GILBERT & SULLIVAN LESSER-KNOWN SHOWS

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Savoyards company is reorganizing in order to expand its Gilbert & Sullivan repertory.

The troupe which Dorothy Raedler established in 1952 has just completed its longest and most successful season here doing such favorites as "The Mikado" and "The Gondoliers." But they have found it too expensive to do works of more limited audience appeal such as "Princess Ida" and "Utopia, Ltd."

Under the new set-up, the group will seek foundation and subscription support to enable such productions and to operate on a year-round basis.

AT TECH

Udall, Gardner Will Be In Texas

LUBBOCK, — Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall and John W. Gardner, Secretary of Health Education and Welfare, were announced today as two of the distinguished speakers due here for the inauguration Nov. 1 of Dr. Grover E. Murray as President of Texas Technological College.

A spokesman for Tech's Inauguration Steering Committee, in announcing Secretaries Udall and Gardner as participants in an Oct. 31 Symposium on Arid and Semi-Arid Lands preceding the inauguration, said they were among "a host of prominent national and international figures who have consented to come here to talk on aridity and semi-aridity — one of the most vital issues confronting the world today."

Names of other outstanding speakers will be made available "as soon as firm and final commitments are received." The Steering Committee, headed by Agriculture Dean Gerald W. Thomas, consists of Tech Board Member Roy Furr of Lubbock and faculty members Elo J. Urbanovsky, Dr. Lawrence L. Graves and Dr. Robert L. Rouse.

Udall, the 37th Secretary of the Interior and an internationally known conservationist, will discuss "The Arid Lands — Conservation is Always the Key." Dr. Gardner, president of the Carnegie Corporation and the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching at the time of his 1965 appointment by President Johnson, is expected to discuss the challenge and role of educational resources.

Dr. Murray, 49, a distinguished educator with an international reputation in geology, assumed his duties as Tech's eighth President on Sept. 1. He succeeded Dr. R. C. Goodwin, who served Tech since 1930 in a variety of capacities ranging from Professor of Chemistry to President.

Formerly Vice President for Academic Affairs for the Louisiana State University System, President Murray was challenged at the time of his appointment to discover a unique educational mission for the 41-year-old state-supported Lubbock institution.

He responded with a proposal calling for creation and establishment at Tech of an International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies devoted to exploring ways and means of attacking problems posed by these climatic conditions prevailing over one-half to two-thirds of the world's land surface.

Dr. Murray, in receiving enthusiastic support from Tech's Board of Directors, declared that lack of water is one of man's greatest challenges. "The world's rapidly exploding population," he pointed out, "coupled with the increasingly certain invasion of these arid and semi-arid regions in man's struggle for survival and fulfillment, makes study of this problem absolutely imperative.

President Murray, in requesting that the proposal be forwarded for approval to the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, said he hoped it would "become automatic for people everywhere to think of Texas Tech anytime they think of aridity. If they have a problem related to arid or semi-arid regions, I hope they will come to us to solve it."

Udall, a native of Arizona and from that state, is a lawyer by profession and is the son of a former Chief Justice of the Arizona State Supreme Court. He was an Air Corps gunner during World War II and is a graduate of the University of Arizona.

Through his writings and speeches, he has undertaken the task of updating the conservation philosophy and programs of the past to meet the challenges of the Sixties. Udall has described science as the "modern midwife" of conservation.

Dr. Gardner, a native Californian, is an Honorary Fellow of Stanford University where he received the bachelor's and master's degrees. He holds the PhD from the University of California, and has received honorary degrees from numerous colleges and universities through the United States and Canada.

A former psychology professor at Connecticut College for Women and Mount Holyoke College, he served with the Marine Corps and the Office of Strategic Services during World War II.

Dr. Gardner has served as educational consultant to a variety of national organizations and commissions and is widely published. He was chief draftsman of the report, The Pursuit of Excellence, and is author of the books Excellence: Can We Be Equal and Excellent Too? and Self-Renewal: The Individual and the Innovative Society.

ROAD SHOWS ROLLING

NEW YORK (AP) — Road companies of Broadway shows report flourishing business.

The Theater Guild-American Theater Society said subscriptions increased this season in 12 of the 16 cities where it presents programs. There were 115,661 subscribers, up 6,702 from the 1964-'65 season.

Julian Olney, head of the National Performing Arts, noted that his organization booked visits to 145 cities, compared with 131 the previous year.

FOUND A STEADY SPORT

IOWA CITY (AP) — Otto Vogel, who came off the University of Illinois campus in 1923 to win a job with the Chicago Cubs and then had to retire in 1925 because of arm trouble, is retiring again. Vogel, 68, is retiring this year after coaching baseball at Iwa for 38 years.

Amendment Gets Interest Of Gov't Employes

HOUSTON — Formation of a committee to whip up statewide support for Consitutional Amendment No. 5 to be voted on in the November 8 general election was announced Saturday by members of the Texas Federation of District, County and Precinct Officials.

Carl S. Smith, Assessor- Collector of Harris County, was named chaiman of the committee, composed of members of the federation from many sections of Texas.

W. B. Gurley, county treasurer of Tarrant, is the federation treasurer.

Amendment No. 5 (Senate Joint Resolution No. 4) would authorize the Legislature to provide retirement, disability and death compensation benefits for officers and employees of the counties and other political subdivisions of the state and of the political subdivisions of any county.

Smith said his committee feels adequate pension and retirement programs are available today to firemen, police, teachers and many other governmencial groups and should be available to county officers and employees.

"It is the hope of the committee that voters throughout Texas will recognize the propriety and fairness of Amendment No. 5 and will give us the support needed to authorize the Legislature to take action in this matter," Smith stated.

The proposed amendment provides that "such System shall be operated at the expense of the county or other political subdivision of the state or political subdivision of the county electing to participate therein and the officers and employees covered by the System; and providing that the Legislature of the State of Texas shall never make an appropriation to pay the costs of this retirement, disability and death compensation system."

The amendment authorizing the Legislature to provide such a program for county, district and precinct officers and employees was placed on the ballot for the November 8 general election as a result of passage of Senate Joint Resolution No. 4 in the last session of the Legislature.

Music Literature Given For Blind

HOUSTON — A new pamphlet, "A Suggested Guide to Piano Literature for the Partially Seeing" has been published by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. It is specially designed to help those with reduced vision to enjoy a wide range of musical literature printed in large type.

This guide was written for parents, teachers and others interested in partially seeing children and adults. It recommends the suitable sized note-heads for individual needs since all partially seeing do not require the largest print available. There is an extensive listing of graded, sample music selections tested by persons with severe visual impairments. In addition, the pamphlet includes suggestions for appropriate lighting conditions.

Its sixteen pages, compiles by Gilbert Stoesz, a member of the National Guild of Piano Teachers, incorporates materials supplied by leading music publishers. Copies are 25 cents and are available by writing the Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness, P. O. Box 8025., Houston, Texas 77004.

The Texas Society, organized in 1955 is an affiliate of the National Society, the oldest voluntary agency nationally engaged in the prevention of blindness through a comprehensive program of community services, public and professional education and research.

PLAYWRIGHTS CONFERENCE

WATERFORD, Con., (AP) — The Eugene O'Neill Memorial Theater Foundation is planning a national playwrights conference July 18-Aug. 7.

Several plays by new arthors will be presented during the three-week seminar which is to include discussions by producers, directors, designers, writers, critics and agents.

The foundation was established last year as a permanent memorial to O'Neill, who for many years lived in nearby New London.

—Small Talk—

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

College-bound girls and boys are dusting off their traveling bags these days, getting them packed, and day by day leaving for campuses near and farther. Some of them we tracked down for pictures on a page in this paper.

BUT IT ISN'T easy to find them, considering the number who (1) have already left for college towns with one reason or another for being early, (2) are still at work on summer jobs, (3) have gone on last-minute vacations or (4) are rushing to do some final shopping. And there are a few who (5) are getting in the last fling of vacation fun and can't be stopped long enough for pictures

In addition to these we photographed, here's a list we have accumulated of students and their destinations: Jimmy Cooper, Judy Summers, Mike Harvey, John Perrin, Cynthia Leasure, Sid Bayne and David Grubbs, Texas Tech; Jimmy Young, Oklahoma State University; Wynn Buck and Roger Owen, SMU.

Bob Reinauer, University of Texas; Gene Drummond, John Lesly, Keith Henderson, Sammy Curtsinger, Barbara Zinser, Sherian Selver, Barbara Willis, Randy Hopson, West Texas State University; Robby Lemons Howard County Junior College.

Karen Blackwell, South Plains Junior College; Steve Hodges University of Houston; Gregg Richards, San Angelo State. Dan McWhorter, Missouri Military Institute; Greg Johnson, Oklahoma Military Acadamy.

Of course that's a very incomplete list, and we hope we can add to it as the trek collegeward continues. One big thing it lacks names of the numerous married couples who will be students — both or either the husband or wife.

Most of them, even the newest-weds, are already living in college cities, and a good many will keep right on living in Hereford and commute to WTSU or Amarillo College.

• • • •

AMONG LATE vacationers is Sherry Carmichael, who will return to Texas U but after a trip to the West Coast. She visited in San Francisco. And Ruth Ann Allison, who has been a receptionist at First National Bank this summer, left Thursday afternoon for Colorado before she resumes study in WTSU

• • • •

GUESTS RECENTLY in the Pete Carmichael home have been their son; Kenneth Carmichael, his wife and three sons, who have returned to their home in Winifred, Mont. They spent several days here, and also visited Mrs. Carmichael's parents at Clayton, N. M. on their tour south.

• • • •

AFTER A VISIT in the Leo Witkowski home, Mrs. Witkowski's nephew, Pat Granger, is enroute to his home in Granger, Ia., with stops in other Texas cities to see other relatives. He will be a sophomore student in Notre Dame University this year.

Pat drove Mrs. Witkowski's father, Frank Weil of Plainview, home from a visit with Iowa relatives. Mr. Weil and others of the family, including the Witkowskis, had gone to Des Moines for a family reunion Aug. 7 and he had stayed to visit longer in Des Moines and nearby Granger.

Youngsters usually think carrots are extra-special when they are teamed with pineapple. Use the combination in a salad or as a hot dish. For the latter, cook the carrots and add the pineapple and butter; then reheat.

Tennessee Ernie

Tickets On Sale For Tennessee Ernie Exhibition

LUBBOCK — Tennessee Ernie Ford Show tickets officially went on sale here Sept. 1.

Tickets will be available from 10 a. m. until 6 p. m. daily except Sunday at Pioneer Hotel, Dunlap's in Caprock Center and Hester's at 14th St. and Texas Ave. in Lubbock.

Ford and Company will highlight the 49th annual renewal of the Panhandle South Plains Fair here. Opening of the booths is expected to touch off a heavy demand for tickets, according to Charles Adams Jr., fair association president.

Mail order reservations have surpassed all expectations, with the first requests coming more than two months ago, even before tickets were printed.

Fair officials said capacity of Fair Park Coliseum, where the "in-the-round" show will be presented, is 5,270 for each performance.

So far, over $5,000 worth of tickets have been sold and additional requests pour in daily to the fair association offices.

Mail order applications for tickets will still be accepted from West Texas area residents, who may write to the fair association at PO Box 208, Lubbock.

Tickets are priced at $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50 with children 12 years and under admitted for one-half price at all matinees. The show, also featuring the Young American Singers, is scheduled at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. daily throughout the six-day fair run, Sept. 26-Oct. 1. Those purchased prior to Sept. 26 will be accompanied by free gate admission passes.

Tennessee Ernie and his troupe are but one of many features of the 1966 fair and officials feel attendance will surge past the quarter-million mark for the first time in the fair's colorful history.

CARE Aids Victims Of Turkish Quake

DALLAS — CARE's Southwest Division announced today that a team of seven men is providing emergency relief in the form of food and equipment for thousands of homeless victims of the disastrous earthquake that shook Turkey last Friday. Many have been sleeping in open fields, fearful of new quakes. Even now it is difficult to estimate the total damage in lives and property. Over 3,000 perished in Mus Province alone and another 2,000 in Varto. Hundreds of communities laid in the path of this devastating catastrophe. Many are still buried in the rubble.

The Turkish Army, U. S. Military Forces under North Atlantic Treaty Organization, CARE and others are extending maximum effort to these victims of the most damaging earthquake disaster in 20 years. CARE is providing 3,300 pounds of milk powder, 26,700 pounds of wheat and 41,700 pounds of flour for distribution by Kizilay Red Crescent (Turkish Red Cross) in 19 provinces where hundreds of villages were wrecked by the temblor.

A shipment of 7,460,000 pounds of flour is now on its way to Turkey to supplement CARE's stock of more than 400,000 pounds of food. There are about 5,000 blankets in the Care warehouse in Philadelphia ready to be sent to Turkey if they are needed. Anyone wishing to lend support to victims of this tragedy, may do so by sending donations to CARE ("Turkey Quake Victims"), 216 Empire Bank Bldg., Dallas, Texas 75201.

Army TV Series Returns In Color For 66-67 Season

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The U. S. Army's weekly thirty-minute television show, The Big Picture, goes full color for the '66-67 season. Presently shown on over 300 stations in the United States, the coming season will mark the 16th year the Army's, motion picture series has been telecast.

Produced for the Office of the Chief of Information by The Army Pictorial Center, full coverage of U. S. Army activities around the world is on tab for the coming season. Included in the new series are:

"Missions Unlimited," a report on the state of readiness of The United States Army. From national disaster to international conflict, the Army is prepared to help any nation of the free world in need of assistance.

"The Unique War" graphically explains the relationship between the American serviceman and the Vietnamese civilian.

"The Army in Taiwan" shows U. S. Army advisors assisting the Nationalist Chinese forces in perfecting military skills.

"Not For Conquest" is a pictorial report by Secretary of Defense, Robert McNamara, on the current status of our armed forces.

WOULD GROW ROSES

Tyler Girl Makes Name As Dancer

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — I could never be one of the 'starving young actresses' — I'd rather come home and grow roses," said blonde Sandy Duncan.

But there doesn't seem to be much likelihood the vivacious Sandy will return soon to Tyler, her hometown which calls itself the nation's rose growing center.

Her stage career is zooming.

The 20-year-old, 5 foot 4 inch Sandy has been dancing since she was 7 and working in Tyler and Dallas musical productions since she was 12.

"I could be happy doing almost anything — it just happens to be this I enjoy the most," the young actress said in an interview.

A year and a half ago she braved New York and soon signed a contract with an acting agency — in an ice cream shop.

"They said, 'Why don't we go out and have a drink and sign the contract,' and I don't drink so I said, 'Well, how about an ice cream?' "

'I've always wanted to be in this business," Sandy said. "I think it was in my subconscious all the time, before I can remember."

When she entered high school, her mother asked her to seriously consider whether she wanted to continue the expensive time-consuming dance lessons.

"You know, this is the age when kids quit dancing and piano lessons and devote full time to their social life," she said.

Sandy didn't hesitate long in answering.

Reviewing her actions in continuing her lessons, she said she still doesn't regret her choice. The interview took place while she was in Dallas for a summer theater role in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Her first stage appearance in Dallas summer musicals was in "The King and I" when she was 12. Since then, she has played engenue roles in "Million Dollar Baby," "The Sound of Music," "The Music Man," "Gypsy" and "Little Me.'

She won plaudits for her portrayal of Kim in "Bye Bye Birdie" in Chicago last year, was featured in "Brigadoon" in Pittsburgh and played one of the top roles in "The Sound of Music" in Kansas City and at New York's City Center.

Before returning to Dallas for her summer role, she toured as Wendy in "Peter Pan" with Betsy Palmer as the star.

But Sandy talks most now about discovering that she loves serious acting after grinning and belting out songs in musicals.

"Singing and dancing may be my forte — but I enjoy drama very much. You learn so much about yourself, calling on your past to create a character."

She doesn't expect to graduate soon from engenue roles and the last characteristic she wants to acquire is "a big city sophistication."

After all, she said, "What's making my career appealing right now is me. Why change?"

Sandy's blue eyes communicate her enthusiasm for the theater life: The singing and acting lessons, the quick supper before going on stage and the discotheque dates with many interesting New Yorkers afterwards.

Her philosophy boils down to one of working hard with the specific goal of a successful Broadway career in mind — but now despairing at setbacks.

Such setbacks as the time when her hair fell out last year after prolonged bleaching for various stage roles. She was able to get by with a wig until it fully grew back.

"My hairdresser told me, 'Sandy, you'd better stand up and look at yourself in the mirror.'

"I could pull my hair out by the handsful. My head was as bald and shiny as a table top.

"Well, who cares? If that's the worst thing that happens to me in life. "

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Plans for an October wedding for Miss Nancy Tyler and Gary Victor are announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Tyler, 108 Emma. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Victor, 1612 Ave. K. Day of the wedding is yet to be decided by the couple, who will reside in Hereford. Both are graduates of Hereford High School and Victor will be employed by Holly Sugar Co. and also attend West Texas State University.

TEXAS RANGERS

DPS Searches For Museum Articles

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Public Safety is interested in securing authentic objects used by former Texas Rangers at any period in history to be permanently placed in a public museum being developed at Department Headquarters in Austin.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS Director and Chief of the Texas Rangers, asked anyone interested in contributing such items as guns, knives, belts, badges, spurs or any other authentic Ranger items not completely deteriorated, to write him at Box 4087, NAS, Austin, Texas 78751.

"We are attempting to preserve for posterity in this museum a top-flight collection of Ranger mementos to symbolize the glorious tradition of the oldest police force on the North American continent with statewide jurisdiction," Garrison said.

"We feel that this museum can provide an invaluable service for the State of Texas by commemorating for present and future generations the historic bravery of the Texas Rangers in preserving law and order and protecting the people of Texas from frontier days through the space age."

Garrison said the museum is to be established at a central location in the Department of Public Safety Headquarters and will be opened for public viewing upon its completion, the date of which has not yet been determined.

"We hope we will be able to obtain from public-spirited Texans a collection of Ranger paraphernalia that will become one of the most outstanding historical tourist attractions in the state," said Garrison.

NSBA Opposed Packaging Laws

Proposed legislation such as the "Fair Packaging and Labeling Act" has considerable political appeal because it purports to protect the consumer and, after all, everyone is a consumer.

Extensive hearings over many years have been held on the bill. Although the printed record of these hearings consists of thousands of pages, it does not disclose any evidence of fraud or deception, nor does it show the bill to be in the public interest. In fact, the record confirms that the consumer does get value in his purchases.

This Labeling Bill, according to its sponsors, is to provide "adequate protection of the public against deception." Laws already enacted by Congress can halt any deceptive practices that exist.

For example the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Food and Drug Act are effective deterrents against fraud or deceptive acts or practices in commerce. Both agencies have not been reluctant to use their power in cases where they have any real evidence. But now they want authority to pass on business ethics in advance.

Some thirty federal departments and agencies now perform activities affecting consumer interests. Congress itself has reported that 64,714 federal employees and nearly a billion dollars annually are used in programs of direct consumer protection and advancement.

It is the competitive effect of private enterprise, not regulation by government, that has given our Nation's citizens the highest standard of living at the lowest cost ever enjoyed by any civilization. Enactment of the labeling bill means government regulation of the ethics of marketing even through the hearings have failed to prove any fraud or deception.

Nothing is free. If the labeling bill is enacted by Congress regardless of whether it is justified by the facts, then someone along the line must pay the high cost of bureaucratic meddling with management decisions. That "someone" will be the consumer. Furthermore such a law will mean sacrifice of private rights, weakening of competition, restriction of the consumer freedom of choice, and a higher tax bill, says Carl A. Beck, president of the National Small Business Association.

TICKETS SOLD IN DEPARTMENT STORES

NEW YORK (AP) — Sale of Broadway show tickets in department stores, begun as an experiment two years ago, is proving a popular service.

One retail chain (Macy's) reported the second year selling jumped $750,000 to $1,564,950 for 64 attractions. Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, which has established box offices in other stores, sold $268,000 worth of tickets and plans to open more similar outlets.

A rotary beater (hand or electric), a whisk or a spoon may all be used for beating a mixture; choose the tool that is most appropriate for use in a particular recipe.

GET NEW BOWL IT RICH CARDS WEEKLY

Extra Bonus Each Week

A 21 in Color T.V. Given Away.

Here's How To Play "BOWL IT RICH"

1. Color of "BOWL IT RICH" on front of card changes each week. Cards are only eligible to win during designated weeks.
2. Each week a number combination will bowl 10 frames or bonus, not for score, but rather to see how many plus ohs you knock down in each frame with 2 balls, with a maximum of 10 plus counting. She may total only 3, 5 or 10 in each frame. IF SHE KNOCKS DOWN LESS THAN 6 PINS IN ANY FRAME, THE NUMBER IN THAT FRAME WILL STILL BE 6. These numbers will be the winning combination for the week.
3. Compare playing numbers on your BOWL IT RICH cards with winning combination hosted each week which you will find posted in our store.
4. You are a winner if 7 or more numbers on your card match the numbers in the corresponding frames or bonus bowled.

Pick up additional card every time you visit one of our stores. The more you have, the better are your chances of winning. One card per person per visit.

OCTOBER WEDDING SET — Miss Carolyn Ann Dearing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anson A. Dearing, 216 Western, will exchange wedding vows with Robert J. Kubacak, son of Mrs. Theresa Kubacak of Grand-E Trailer Park, at 7 p.m. October 7. The marriage is to be solemnized in the home of the bride's parents.

Friends To Open House Former Residents Ask

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert J. Oglesby, former residents of Deaf Smith County who were married Sept. 6, 1916 at Wildorado, are observing their Golden Wedding Anniversary with open house today in their home, 1601 Lockney Street, Amarillo.

Children of the couple, who include Cecil Oglesby and J. R. Oglesby of Hereford, with their husbands and wives will be hosts. Reception hours are 2 to 5 p. m. and friends in this area are invited to call.

Other children of Mr. and Mrs. Oglesby are Mrs. Lee Norman, Mrs. A. L. Jones, Mrs. William Wright and Wilborn Oglesby of Amarillo and Mrs. Fred Jackson of Denver. They have 19 children and four great-grandchildren, most of whom are expected to be in Amarillo today.

The entire family plans to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Oglesby to services of First Baptist Church at Amarillo this morning, then assist at the open house. Granddaughters will be at the refreshment table and the guest book.

Mrs. Jackson has decorated the anniversary cake in gold and white, to be placed on the serving table with an arrangement of gold flowes.

Mrs. Oglesby was Miss Annie Myrtle Burns before her marriage. The couple lived on a farm near Wildorado, then farmed at other places in this county before his retirement in 1952, when they moved to Amarillo.

STATEWIDE WATCH

Jaycees Working On Safety Patrol

AUSTIN — Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety reported that DPS estimates indicate that 41 persons will die in traffic accidents during the three-day Labor Day weekend.

"The current traffic trend indicates that Texas is headed for its third straight record high in terms of fatal accidents," Garrison said. "At the present time we are approximately 15 per cent ahead of the same time in 1965, . and we are still faced with the four months of the year which generally produce the most deaths."

"More people are killed in Texas each year in traffic than are killed in all the United States by murder and homicide," Garrison continued, "and the deaths are just as senseless, as needless and a tragic, but not nearly as well publicized.

"Psychologists say that one reason the general public fails to take positive action in matters of traffic safety is due to a lack of personal identification with the problem. It might behoove each driver in our state to stop and consider that he has less than a 50-50 chance to go through his driving career without being involved in a traffic mishap, or without incurring injury to himself or one of his family. The 41 persons expected to die in traffic during the Labor Day holiday have no idea that they will be involved in an accident, either."

Sergeant W. E. Wells of the Texas Highway Patrol for this area declared that there were 7 traffic deaths in Deaf Smith County in 1965 as compared to the past three year average of 5.

The Sergeant stated that 115 counties had more deaths in 1965 than the previous three year average. One hundred nineteen counties had less deaths in 1965 than the previous three year average. Twenty counties had the same number of deaths in 1965 as the previous three year average.

The largest increase in the number of deaths in 1965 over the previous three year average was 66 in Dallas County. The largest decrease in the number of deaths in 1965 from the previous three year average was 12 in McLennan County.

The 1965 death total for the state was 3,028, an increase of 22 deaths over the 1964 all time high of 3,006 deaths. The Sergeant added, "with this increase in traffic deaths, it is a challenge which every responsible citizen must accept to do his best to reduce the traffic deaths on our streets and highways."

In an attempt to offset dangers caused by the increased traffic on the highways during the holiday period, the Department of Public Safety will conduct "Operation Motorcide." Approximately 150 uniformed officers from other DPS services will be on the road to supplement the Highway Patrol enforcement action. Also, to call public attention to highway dangers, each traffic death will be tabulated and the totals will be announced three times daily from DPS headquarters in Austin.

Several other state agencies and organizations interested in traffic safety are cooperating with the DPS in calling attention to safe driving practices during the Labor Day weekend:

The Texas Highway Department is advising the public on proper freeway driving habits and the need for caution in and around construction areas.

The Texas Safety Association is carrying on a program stressing the need for courtesy and caution on the highway and is coordinating the efforts of the Texas Jaycees in sponsoring rest stops with free coffee for fatigued drivers.

Chairman of the Hereford Jaycees, Don Haynes, has announced that they will be serving free coffee to motorists on Labor Day. They will be situated at Sugarland Mall shopping center throughout the day.

And the Texas Council of Safety Supervisors and the Texas Motor Transportation Association is sponsoring a "Holiday Road Patrol" to assist stranded motorists, thereby relieving high way patrolmen for enforcement work.

"This fine attitude of cooperation among these people indicates that Texans do realize the need for adequate safety on our highways," Garrison stated. "If it could carry over into the thinking and action of every driver, the death toll would drop considerably under that expected for the weekend.

"In the final analysis, traffic safety must rest on the shoulders of every person who gets behind the steering wheel of a car. With the proper attitude of alertness and with the acceptance of responsibility we can see positive results in our attempts to halt the increases in the number of traffic mishaps."

H.D. Club Adds New Member, Hears Program

A new member, Mrs. Bob Kendricks, and a guest, Miss Roberta Campbell, met with North Hereford Home Demonstration Club as it reconvened after the summer vacation Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Clinton Ward.

Mrs. A. E. Hodges discussed the program topic, Children's Diseases. She urged the value of regular medical examinations and immunizations as safeguards against common diseases which may impair a child's health seriously.

Mrs. O. L. Williams conducted the business session. Other members present were Mmes. Roger Williams, W. J. Lueb, C. L. Whitehead and Otto Massie.

REALLY REVISED

LONDON (AP) — Tennessee Williams has completed an elaborate revision of "Summer and Smoke" for scheduled production here.

The new version, entitled "Eccentricities of a Nightingale," retains six lines of the play's previous dialogue. An operatic version of the drama, using the original "Summer and Smoke" script, is being prepared by Lee Hoiby, composer of incidental music for Williams' recent "Slapstick Tragedy."

Connally Will Be Guest Speaker At Huntsville Rodeo

HUNTSVILLE — Governor John Connally will be the honored guest at the second performance of the 1966 Texas Prison Rodeo series on Sunday, October 9, it was announced by Chairman of the Texas Board of Corrections and chairman of the Board's Rodeo Committee.

In accepting the invitation to speak at the rodeo, Governor Connally said: "It will give me an opportunity to express my personal gratitude to the staff of the Texas Department of Corrections for developing this unusual entertainment feature for the benefit of the inmates of our penal system."

Sharing the spotlight with Governor Connally will be Justin Wilson, the popular Cajun humorist, Norma Zimmer and Joann Castle of the Lawrence Welk TV Show.

For the rodeo part of the fast-moving two-hour show, the toughest convict riders will try to tame spirited stock in such events as the Mad Scramble, Saddle and Bareback Bronc Riding, Bull Riding, Hard Money, Calf Tussle and the famous Chariot Race.

As has been the custom in the past, the Rodeo will also highlight the best inmate entertainment groups selected from all units of the state's penal system.

The Texas Prison Rodeo is held here in the 30,000 —seat prison stadium each Sunday in October, beginning at 2 p. m. Reserved seat tickets are $2.40, $3.75, $4.40, and $4.95. They may be obtained by writing Rodeo Ticket Office, Huntsville, Texas 77340, enclosing check or money order.

ON THE CORNER — Brightening the corner at 710 Miles, Margaret Janssen finds time from a busy schedule to have flowers blooming all season. The tall plants in the picture are cannas. The fluffy blossoms in the foreground are bachelor buttons in pastel shades. The feather foliage of the bachelor buttons makes a nice contrast to the large polished foliage of the cannas. (Staff Photo)

All-Season Blooms Make Beauty Spot

Margaret Janssen, 710 Miles, started last fall to make a garden that would begin blooming in the early spring and continue with fresh blossoms into the fall.

Keeping house for her husband, Duane, and their five children is almost a full time job, but she said that she likes flowers and wanted to have a flower bed that had flowers blooming continuously. Their children are Sherry, 12, Susan, 11, Laura, 8, Jeffrey, 5, and Jay, 3.

She started the spring with early iris. Lilies were her taller early blooming flowers and daises grown from seed filled in.

Hot middle summer months were bright on the corner with tall regal cannas softened with pastel bachelor buttons. Guarding the entire bed are tall, huge sunflowers.

Violets and Jack-bean hug the elm tree and seem to be doing well in the shade.

For fall color, Margaret has planted several varieties of crysanthemums.

All of these flowers are growing in a small bed between the sidewalk and the street. With careful planning, Mrs. Janssen has kept the entire bed ablaze with color all spring and summer and prospects for fall are good.

Athletic Rally Held For Youth

Walther Leaguers from over the Panhandle met in Hereford this past week-end at the Little Bull Barn. Hosts were the youth of Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Meeting for the Athletic Rally were 106 Lutheran young people. Recreation included relay races, volleyball, and softball.

A short devotional was given by Reverend Remmert, vacancy pastor for Immanue Lutheran Church.

Officers for the local Walther Leaguers are: Mark Tiefel, Cherry Tiefel and John Yocum.

The group meets regularly at the Immanuel Lutheran Church on the first and third Sunday of each month.

Typewriter Ribbons
THE INK SPOT

More Than Booty by Jane and Barney Crile, is an unusual combination of travel, nature and philosophy and is written by an experienced, educated and well adapted couple as co-authors. Its title is derived from The Koran and reads "We had traveled far and wide in the lands under the sun until coming home satisfied us more than booty."

Barny Crile is a physician but at heart a philosopher. He believed as did his wife, that beyond a certain point, life can not be prolonged. Because of their mutual interest and study of the past eras and history, they were rich in experiences of present day living. In fact, they believed in the present and did not have too much concern about what the future of life might hold for them.

Of their many travels in many lands, he writes that near the end of a vacation their thoughts always returned home before they did.

They both loved nature intensely and studied it constantly, in connection with their work and as a pastime or hobby. More than once he referred to some incident in nature which eased the pressure of their daily living.

In writing of their many and varied contacts with the peoples of the world, from their home in Cleveland to Corsica, France, Palestine, Crete, Bangkok, Matela and other far away places, they felt a part of the world. He quoted Tennyson: "we are a part of all we meet."

Both the doctor and his wife were among those fortunate people who are able to feel all this because of their desire to do so, their broad education and adatability.

Their courage in accepting Jane's great test is an inspiration. But this part of the story in no way intrudes on the attention-holding narrative made up of episodes in the authors' lives. Because of its content and well written form, it is one of our favorite books of the year.

The Deaf Smith County Library has had an unusually good year in fine non-fiction and this one is to be found on the current shelf. There are many others of worth placed on the regular shelves. So if you do not find one you want on the current shelf, try the stacks.

So Everything's Just Dandy

In most stock market drops of recent years it has been possible to single out an event — a sudden foreign crisis, the illness or death of Presidents, a sharp downturn in business — to serve as explanation, or at least, excuse.

Not so this time. Only a few months ago the Dow Jones Indutrial Average was flirting with the thousand mark. Since then there has been no great dramatic event to give easy explanation for the vanishing optimism of early spring.

On the contrary. A vigorous President is in good health, his Administration has firm control in Congress and he has not been laggard in proposing measures for the public weal. There has been no Cuban-type confrontation with its heart-stopping fright. The earnings reports of the nation's business have, by and large, been better than they were a year ago.

All the same, the stock market mirrors a change in mood. The market has suffered no cataclysm, not even a day of violent tremor. Instead it has just sunk slowly and persistently, less like something pushed than like something caught in quicksand.

A good many people, so we judge by the public statements published in the newspapers, find all this puzzling.

There is, to be sure, that war in Vietnam. But it has not as yet placed an intolerable strain on the economy. Almost everybody in the Administration assures us that its burdens, economic and otherwise, need not cause us to forego other spending, other programs. Besides, isn't it accepted doctrine that increased military spending, if it comes, makes business hum?

There is also, of course, inflation. Just this week the Government reported another rise of 0.4 point in the consumer price index. But while this adds up to a total increase of 2.8% in consumer prices over a year ago, why should that suddenly cause alarm?

We have been told repeatedly by the Government's economic advisers that a little inflation, something along this order, is a good thing for the country, an opinion shared by many of the more famous academic economists. A little inflation, so runs the doctrine, makes for full employment, busy factories and happy profits.

Certainly a threat of inflation is an unexpected explanation for a drop in the stock market. For years we've all been taught that the stock market was the best hedge against inflation; is it not so? You would think, if you believe the fashionable economic theories, that the country would be cheered, not worried, by inflation's prospects.

It's true, right enough, that all this has been accompanied by a sharp rise in interest rates. Everybody has been on such a cheerful borrowing spree that the banks have just about run out of money. Thus yields on savings accounts, bonds and mortgages have soared.

Yet, it's unusual, to say the least, to see this advanced as a reason for a decline in stock prices. Bond yields have exceeded stock yields for some time, but that is supposed to have long since been made an outmoded yardstick. Stocks, after all, have growth, do they not? And as for the banks running out of money, why worry about that when the Government can always create more money to supply the banks.

So it goes. Almost every explanation you can think of for this new mood of uncertainty in the economy, with its reflection in the stock market, is countered by some doctrine that has prevailed for a generation or more.

The international money market, for example, is under intense strain; it's nip and tuck whether the pound sterling will be devalued and set in train other upheavals. Once that would have been a warning signal. But under the new economic orthodoxy aren't the British confident that the U.S. "won't let this happen"? As for our own balance-of-payments problem, isn't that about to be solved any minute? A clutch of Secretaries of the Treasury has assured that it would be.

Everything, then, is just dandy. And yet. . . .

The stock market is simply a place where people's doubts can focus for all to see. The stock market is not suffering a debacle. It is reflecting a disillusionment with the economic notions of the new era. In the market place people are saying they don't believe that big military spending is a magic boon, that inflation is a guarantee of greater economic well-being or that the Government can simply legislate us into the Great Society. In short, in that market place traditional(horrid word, that) economic principles are reasserting themselves.

That could be healthy, and even healthier if some of the prophets of the new economics would profit by the example. Anyway, the thing that's always unhealthy, in the stock market as elsewhere, is to persist in the delusion that things are just dandy when they aren't.

Farm News

On several occasions in recent months Secretary of Agriculture Freeman has undertaken to criticize "certain big city newspapers" for what he terms "misleading reports" of news pertaining to agriculture. The secretary's complaint seems to be that the newspapers play up news of controversies between the administration and the farmers or between farmers and consumers, and neglect what he terms the "real and meaningful" news of this country's food abundance.

The American farmer's contribution in producing an abundance of food certainly merits space in the news columns, and from our observation has and continues to receive ample coverage. We submit however, that when the President talks about high food prices being one of the strains on the economy, or when farmers become angry with Mr. Freeman when he is quoted as being "pleased to report" that certain farm prices are going down, this, too, is "real and meaningful" news that merits publication.

About three years ago the department of agriculture went into the news business itself when it started a market news service. It was predicted the service would be able to obtain 5,000 subscribers who would receive their news direct from the department. Stanford Smith, general manage of the American Newspaper Publishers association has pointed out, however, that the service has never had more than 65 subscribers, which indicates it lacks something for those who seek news of agriculture.

We will readily concede that Mr. Freeman is a sharp political operator. As such, he should have a fairly good idea of what makes news — particularly that which involves politics, as does much of the news flowing from his department.

So when the secretary criticizes newspapers for the way they handle farm news, either his news judgment is faulty or he is being less than candid.

Family Planning Progress

Not many years ago then-President Dwight D. Eisenhower was saying that family planning was none of government's business. He reflected a general attitude at the time, though some brave souls long had been advocating birth control and opening clinics.

Gen. Eisenhower later admitted he had changed his mind, and so have a lot of other people. The evidence is contained in a publication that resulted from a survey by a congressional subcommittee headed by Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska. The subcommittee found that 21 states operate family planning programs. Another nine have some local government programs but no state programs. Seven states are studying the subject and some anticipate programs soon. Four states only refer patients to private physicians. Nine states have no state or local governmental programs and no study under way.

Overpopulation may well be the world's No. 1 problem and the attack on it seems all too slow. Yet this report shows surprising progress in a few years. Sen. Gruening would step up the pace with his bill directing the federal government to coordinate and disseminate birth control information upon request in this country and abroad. He also would authorize a White House Conference on Population next year.

Cards Stacked In Favor Of Militant Labor Unions

By BERT MILLS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congress and the President of the United States have ducked for too long their mutual responsibility to find a permanent solution to the problem of major labor disputes in which the public interest is paramount.

Fumbling at the White House and at the Capitol in the recent airline strike demonstrated all too clearly that makeshift handling of emergency strikes broadly affecting the public interest simply will not suffice. A searching look at the overall labor-management problem is mandatory.

The cards are now stacked in favor of militant unions who disregard the public welfare in pursuit of their own goals. Too often the unspoken attitude of union leaders is the public-be-damned. How much longer will the public and their elected representatives stand for such arrogance?

The problem is not new. It dates back at least 20 years. The last Republican Congress tried to even the scales by enacting the Taft-Hartley Act in 1949. It has been a useful law but its emergency strike provisions are not adequate to 1966 needs, and it does not apply to the transportation industries Airlines disputes fall under the Railway Labor Act.

Every time there is a major strike crisis, the President and Congress are forced to step in on an ad hoc basis. This may or may not get the nation over an immediate hump but no long-term solution is provided. In 1963, Congress intervened in a railroad crisis, forcing compulsory arbitration of the dispute. The law applied only to the emergency then at hand.

Political Cowardice Blocks Action

History proves that when rain pours through a hole in the roof, Congress will apply a patch. But when it is not raining, nothing is done to prepare for the next storm, even though everybody knows there will be more rain and the prudent thing to do is get ready. Political cowardice-the fear of reprisals by union politicians — is the only possible explanation.

As Sen. Robert P. Griffin (R., Mich.) said early in the airline strike: "Long ago Congress should have undertaken, in an orderly fashion, a serious review of our labor laws and the broad policy problems associated with industry-wide bargaining and strikes."

Last January, in his State of the Union message, President Johnson declared: "I also intend to ask the Congress to consider measures which, without improperly invading state and local authority, will enable us effectively to deal with strikes which threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

The President never followed through on that promise, possibly because of bitter opposition from union leaders to whom he is beholden for political support. When asked about the unfulfilled promise, LBJ has explained that his advisors have not been able to agree on what to propose. It could be that the ad-

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Bindweed farm apparently knows as much about astronomy as he does farming, his letter this week indicates. We don't have time to straighten him out.

Dear editar:

I was sitting on my front porch out here on this bindweed farm enjoying a moonlit summer night last week, to be exact it was Thursday night, and I remembered reading earlier in the day in a newspaper I'd found the day before that the U.S. satellite in the latest moon shot was having a little trouble with its cameras, plus the fact that the orbit around the moon wasn't at exactly the level the scientists wanted. Sometimes it was too close, other times too far away.

Then I glanced up at the moon. No wonder they're having trouble. It was just half a moon.

You'd think, with all the brains they've got and all the money, somebody would have thought to look at a calendar and say, "Whoa, we can't make a perfect orbit around half a moon. Wait till it's completely round."

It's simple. Cut an apple in half, then try to draw a circle around it. Anybody can tell you one edge of the circle will be closer to the round side that the flat side. You mean to say those scientists have gotten so bogged down in figures and calculations and formulas and paper work they haven't looked up and noticed what shape the moon gets into occasionally?

Moreover, have they thought about the problem they'll have when they actually try to land a man on it? What do they think will happen if they land him there during a quarter-moon? If he lands on the inside of the curve, you know he's going to slide.

If I was an astronaut, the first thing I'd do is get me a calendar and explain to the scientists that it's printed right there: on such and such a date, the moon will be a quarter-moon; a little later, a half-moon; and finally it'll be round. Then's the time to send me up.

If the space scientists don't subscribe to The Hereford Brand, I suggest you clip this letter out and send it to them, before they make any more busts.

Yours faihfully,
J. A.

L B J THINKS DOMESTIC ISSUES OUTWEIGH VIET

HE PUTS INTEGRATION, INFLATION AT THE TOP

By HENRY CATHCART
Central Press Washington Writer

WASHINGTON—There are increasing signs that President Johnson believes domestic issues, particularly integration and inflation, will play a more decisive role in the November congressional elections than Viet Nam.

This is not to say the President is downgrading public concern over American policy in the Asian war, but rather that voter opinion is so diffused and so unrelated to political party alignments that differing opinions will tend to cancel each other out in the voting. Doves and hawks among the electorate are generally indistinguishable between Democrats and Republicans. Also, while public concern over Viet Nam is general, there appears to be a political liability attached to candidates who urge either further escalation or withdrawal.

President Johnson
Thinks domestic issues decisive

This situation does not apply to the principal domestic issues in question. In the first place, the strong moves toward integration are identified firmly in the public mind with the Democratic Party. In election districts where demonstrations and disturbances have aroused white resentment, the anti-Democratic voting can be expected to be general. This will particularly hurt some Democratic candidates in the larger cities whose districts have been marginal.

Federal economic policies are tied firmly to the Democratic administration and specifically to President Johnson. Inflation, tight money and high interest rates lie directly at the White House door. Voters who bear resentments against these developments can be expected to support Republican candidates in preference to Democratic incumbents or challengers.

● THE SWINGING MAYOR—When the City of New York recently opened a Washington office, there was a gathering of the Republican elite to toast the event. Mayor John Lindsay came down for the house-warming and top GOP legislators were invited to the event.

At the unusually early hour of 9:30 a.m., the time scheduled for the reception, Rep. Seymour Halpern, R-N.Y., drove up to the address given him and was shocked to see that it was a little theater that specialized in screening those "exotic" type films that feature scantily-clad lasses.

But realizing that Lindsay is building a reputation as a "swinging" mayor, Halpern stoically tried to gain entree into the theater. Fortunately, it was locked.

Halpern then phoned his office, drove an additional ten blocks down the same street, and got to the right address, a conventional office building.

● THE MEANING OF AVERAGES—Government agencies are great compilers of statistical information from which they draw all kinds of conclusions. The other day Labor Secretary Williard Wirtz used some of these statistics in testimony before the Senate Labor Committee. But as he gave them, he obviously sensed the limitations of their usefulness, for he commented:

Wirtz Tells Why Averages Can Mislead

"I distrust averages. It reminds me of the stoy of a man with one foot in the refrigerator and one foot on the stove. On the average, he was uncomfortable."

"Being burned on one foot and frozen on the other isn't very comfortable," replied Sen. Wayne Morse.

"I agree," said Wirtz. "It is the story of my life."

Annual THDA Meet Slated

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

As the agents will be in College Station during the week of August 29, here are current news releases from Extension specialists.

THE TEXAS HOME Demonstration Association, statewide homemakers' organization will hold its annual meeting in Corpus Christi September 21-22.

Mrs. C. H. Berkley of Odessa, president, announces that lectures, workshops, an election of officers, committee reports and tour are planned. "The meeting is the 40th for the organization and a special recognition ceremony is planned for 40-year club members," Mrs. Berkley says.

Officers will be elected on September 22 and installed at a dinner that evening. Mrs. George Hackney of Greenville, past president of the extension homemakers group will serve as installing officer. Current officers, besides Mrs. Berkley and Mrs. Hackney, are Mrs. Maynard Gaines, Coleman, vice president and public relations chair man; Mrs. L. P. Chapman, Paris, secretary; and Mrs. Sam Speir, Manchaca, treasurer.

MRS. A. E. Hodges of Hereford is district director for this area, and a candidate for state treasurer.

Key speaker at the opening convention session will be Ben Barnes, Texas' speaker of the House of Representatives.

Scheduled to extend greetings to THDA delegates are H. C. Heldenfels of Corpus Christi, chairman of the Board of Directors of Texas A&M University; Nueces County Judge Noah Kennedy, Jr. of Corpus Christi, and Dr. McIver Furman, mayor of the host city.

OTHER SPEAKERS will include Mrs. Eugene Survant of Trinchera, Colorado, president of the National Extension Homemakers' Council; Dr. Virginia Apgar, the National Foundation, New York City; and Miss Bonnie Cox, former Extension Service organization specialist now retired and living in College Station.

Between 800 and 1,000 delegates and members of the 36,500 member homemakers' organization are expected to participate in the meeting, officials have announced.

Home demonstration work, generally called home economics extension work in other states, is an adult education program in better homemaking, Mrs. Berkley explains.

Delegates from Deaf Smith County are Mrs. Paul Hoff, Mrs. S. N. Thweatt and Mrs. Jimmie Bradley. They will go by bus from Amarillo.

MAKE YOUR OWN family financial spending plan based on a simple set of fundamental principles. This is the recommendation of today's money management experts regardless of the total family income, says Mrs. Wanda Meyer of Texas A&M University.

Gain a better idea of where your money goes by keeping a record of your expenditures for a month or so. Then record all the fixed major items of expense you must meet.

This would include rent or mortgage payments, heat and utility costs, insurance, car payments, contributions, real estate taxes and installment payments. You must provide for these obligations first.

PLAN YOUR DAILY expenses, such as food, clothing and clothing care, car expenses other than monthly payments and medical and dental expenses. You'll find this area of your budget is flexible.

Day-to-day expenses are adjustable. For exar ple, your family's tastes, size, number of times you eat out, and your cooking and shopping skills have a bearing on the amount of daily expenditures.

Next, establish an emergency fund to take care of the unexpected. A frequent recommendation is an amount equal to your income for 3 to 6 months.

Do you believe that the idea of setting up a family spending and saving plan may seem to limit your spending options? Actually, says Mrs. Meyer, many families find that financial planning helps them reach their desired goals and still be financially independent.

EASY-TO-MAKE outdoor cooking equipment can serve several purposes for today's busy families. This type of outdoor cooking can be extremely handy during a disaster when no power is available, says Miss Sherilyn Bailey, extension rural civil defense specialist.

An inexpensive "hobo stove" for summer fun and possible emergency uses can be fashioned quickly and easily, she adds. A small stove can be made with a number 10 can with one end open. This open end becomes the bottom of the stove.

Cut a three-inch doorway in the bottom edge, and a hole for chimney purposes near the top of the opposite side.

YOU NOW HAVE a stove on which you can fry or scramble eggs, make toast, prepare one-dish meals or boil coffee. For fuel, use dried twigs or a "buddy burner."

To make the "buddy burner" use a flat can such as a tuna fish or sliced pineapple can. Cut corrugated paper about one-fourth inch wider than the depth of the can.

Start in the center of the can and wind corrugated paper into the can as snugly as possible. Then pour melted paraffin or candle wax into corrugated paper until can is filled.

To use the "buddy burner," light it with a match or small piece of wood. Set it in the tin can "hobo stove." Later, to extinguish the fire, invert a slightly larger can over the "buddy burner."

visors did not have their heart in their work.

The machinists have demonstrated the need for the type of legislation proposed by the President last January. They have proved that by saying "no" to an emergency board recommendation, and then saying "no" again to the President's own heralded settlement, they can up the ante at each round in the game. Meanwhile the pub lic suffered.

More Crises Loom

A wave of major strikes has been forecast in the next year or so, as many labor contracts will expire in major industreis in 1967. Possible emergencies are foreseen in the telephone, electric, trucking, railroad, steel, and auto industries. Prosperity and inflation are combining to make the unions even more demanding than usual.

Congress would do well to lay its plans now. Legislation can hardly be expected this year but plans should be made now to make strike legislation a top priority in 1967. A convenient vehicle is available in a study resolution backed by a dozen Senators and pending since July in the Senate Labor Committee.

It is S. J. Res 174, by Sen. Griffin, to create a Joint Committee on Industry-wide Bargaining, composed of eight Senators and eight Representatives half from each party. This would be a study group charged with assessing the problem and recommending a solution.

It may be unrealistic to expect that a Democratic Congress will embrace a resolution fathered by a freshman Republican, albeit one experienced in labor matters during prior House service. Nevertheless something along the lines of the Griffin resolution is needed now.
