Somervell And Arnold Likely To Quit Soon

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Two Texas-born men, General Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, today were named by President Truman to head the nation's military forces.

General Eisenhower, a native of Denison, was nominated to succeed General George C. Marshall as chief of staff, while Admiral Namitz, a native of Fredericksburg, was selected to succeed Admiral Ernest J. King as chief of naval operations.

The President said General Marshall would retire immediately. Admiral Nimitz will take over his new assignment shortly after Christmas at a date to be agreed upon by Nimitz and King.

McNarney Elevated

The President said General Joseph T. McNarney, one time deputy chief of staff, will succeed Eisenhower immediately as commander of United States forces in Europe, and as American representative of the Allied Control commission in Europe.

Mr. Truman said that both King and Marshall long ago expressed a desire to retire after the defeat of Japan.

The President sent Eisenhower's nomination to the Senate today and told reporters he would begin to serve at once as acting chief of staff until the Senate approved his nomination.

Spruance Succeeds Nimitz

Admiral Raymond E. Spruance, commander of the Fifth Fleet, will step up to Nimitz' place as naval commander-in-chief in the Pacific.

General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air forces, and General Brehon Somervell, chief of the Army service forces, also have asked to retire, the President said in response to a question, but their request has not been granted.

A reporter commented that in Eisenhower and Nimitz, the President had Army and Navy commanders who differed on the proposal pending in Congress to unify the armed forces. (Eisenhower strongly favors the merger. Nimitz originally favored it but testified last week that he had altered his view.)

Truman To Give Views

Mr. Truman replied that he shortly would have something to say himself on the matter and forecast with a smile that the two service chiefs would then find themselves in the same boat. It was indicated that this would be a message to Congress.

The President told newsmen he was loath to let Marshall retire because he considered him the greatest military man of this or any other country. Marshall will be 65 on Dec. 31.

Nimitz will return to the Pacific to complete the transfer of his command, there and take a vacation before replacing Admiral King.

General Carl Spaatz has been mentioned as a likely successor to Arnold.

A-Bomb Still In Production

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—President Truman disclosed today that America's great atomic factories are still producing history's most destructive bombs, but he held out to the world the possibility that later these bombs might be scrapped and their explosives devoted to peacetime uses.

The time when this can be done, the President made clear at a news conference, will depend on reaching a state of international security which he expressed confidence will be reached some time in the future.

Confident Of Future

Mr. Truman told newsmen he is not at all pessimistic on the final outcome of efforts to bring war under control and that he is certain we will have permanent peace in the world.

We are on the threshold of a great stage in the history of mankind, he said, and we must grasp the opportunities which it opens up; the only alternative road leads to complete destruction.

The President's comments on peace and atomic bombs came after a newsman had pointed out that the papers today were full of evidences that the world was not actually enjoying peace.

The President said that the conference last week, was, in his opinion, the first step in implemeting the United Nations which will be the organization through which the world can have peace. (The conference Mr. Truman referred to was his meeting with the Prime Ministers Attlee and Mackenzie King).

Must Have Confidence

It is necessary to get confidence among the nations of the world, the President said, and that takes time. At the moment, he added, every country appears to have about the same troubles as the United States. All have domestic concerns and every country is paying more attention to its domestic troubles now and less to international affairs than will be true later on.

But the President declared confidently we will have permanent peace in the world.

He was asked whether the United Nations meeting in January would be expected to set up the commission on atomic controls and he said yes. He expressed the opinion that every country in the world ought to have a hand in creating the commission.

Admiral Amazed At Roosevelt's Plan If Japs Attacked Britain

By J. W. DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Admiral J. O. Richardson testified today he heard with amazement in 1940 that President Roosevelt was considering shutting off all Japanese trade with the Americas if Japan moved against the British.

"I was amazed and I stated that the fleet was not prepared to put the proposal into effect or for the war that would result," the former commander in chief of the fleet told the joint Senate-House committee investigating Pearl Harbor.

Called For Patrol Lines

Richardson said the Roosevelt plan, as described to him by the late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, called for the establishment of patrol lines in the Pacific to bar Japanese ships from the Americas.

As the admiral was testifying, a new fight over the investigation exploded on the Senate floor.

There, Senator Tunnell (D-Del) asserted that Republicans on the inquiry committee were "apologists for Japan." He described them as "kimono boys" and contended they were trying "to smirch the memory" of Mr. Roosevelt.

The Republican senators on the committee, Ferguson (Mich) and Brewster (Me) were absent at the committee hearing then, but Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass) and Minority Leader White of Maine, jumped quickly to their colleagues' defense.

Rules Violation Charges

Angrily, White charged that Tunnell's attack was "violation of the rules of the Senate." Saltonstall expressed confidence in the integrity of committee members and said he was sure none was "trying to bring out anything of slanderous nature for his own aggrandizement."

Tunnell left the chamber about the time Ferguson and Brewster returned. Brewster took up the cudgels, calling Tunnell's remarks "personal vituperation" and contending the committee had turned up "very important information."

Earlier in the day Richardson declared that on a 1940 visit to Washington he got the impression that Washington was trying to bluff the Japanese and that a State department diplomat, Stanley K. Hornbeck, "was exercising a greater influence over the disposition of the fleet than I was."

Home For Conferences

He said he received this impression when he came to the capital for conferences with the President, Secretary of State Hull and others to find out more fully why the fleet was kept in Hawaii against his recommendations. Richardson wanted the fleet removed to the west coast of the United States to prepare it for an emergency.

Concerning Hornbeck, former head of the far eastern division of the State department, Richardson wrote in his notebook:

"He is a strong man in the Far East and the cause of our staying in Hawaii where he will hold us as long as he can."

In No Shape For War

In response to questions from Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif) Richardson said the fleet was in "absolutely" no condition for a war with Japan. He said the warships were undermanned and did not carry wartime supplies of ammunition.

However, when asked whether moving the fleet to the west coast would have made an attack on it less "attractive" to the Japanese, he said:

"In my opinion, a Japanese fleet that could cross most of the Pacific ocean and deliver an undiscovered attack on Pearl Harbor would have been very likely able to have delivered a similar attack on Puget Sound."

Other Disclosures

Richardson also told the investigating committee:

1. President Roosevelt "was rather loath to increase the number of men (in the Navy) because he felt, as he expressed to me, that men in mechanical trade in civilian life could be quickly inducted and made into adequate sailormen if their services became necessary."

2. That had not Admiral Stark, then chief of naval operations, "been influenced by other considerations, he would have agreed with me" that from the standpoint of preparedness, it was better to bring the fleet from Hawaii to the Pacific coast and there prepare it for any eventuality.

3. That Secretary of State Hull "felt that we should take a very strong position, and that retention of the fleet in Hawaii was a reflection of that strong attitude."

Subdued Nazi Bigshots Sit Meekly As War Trial Opens

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 20—Twenty top-flight Nazis, once masters of Europe, sat meekly in a small oak-paneled courtroom today and listened to a five-hour recital of war crimes for which they may answer with their lives.

The fallen leaders, stripped of both their arrogance and their gaudy military trappings, were outwardly calm — some of them even appearing bored—as the 24,000-word indictment was read at the opening session of the international war crimes tribunal.

But two of them fell ill during the long day. Rudolf Hess, former No. 2 Nazi, suffered an attack of abdominal cramps during a court recess, and later Joachim von Ribbentrop, former foreign minister, collapsed and received sedatives.

Hess was able to remain in the courtroom and doctors said von Ribbentrop would be ready for tomorrow's session when the defendants will enter pleas of innocence or guilt to charges that they waged aggressive warfare, violated the rules of war, and participated in the slaying of millions.

The first day's session, devoted entirely to the reading of the voluminous indictment, left still unsettled the question whether Hess or six foot five Ernst Kaltenrunner, former head of the dread security police, would stand trial.

Declared Amnesia Victim

The tribunal has under advisement a report of British and American psychiatrists declaring Hess is an amnesia victim and unable to conduct any real semblance of defense.

The role of Kaltenbrunner was equally obscure. Although surgeons in the American Army hospital reported he would be hospitalized at least a month longer as the result of a cranial hemorrhage, the charges against him were read in court without the tribunal's indicating whether it intended to try him in absentia.

For the 20 defendants well enough to attend the trial, which the presiding judge, Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence of Britain, described as "unique in the history of jurisprudence," this was their first reunion since the German military machine collapsed.

Little Love Is Lost

Obviously, there was little love lost among some of the prisoners as they sat facing the high bench, behind which were the eight men who will judge them.

Jew-baiter Julius Streicher, who seemingly ignored even the reading of the charges against himself, donned the earphones to hear the German translation of the indictment only once. That was when the specific charges against Hermann Goering were read, and Streicher craned his neck to sneer at the once-jaunty reichsmarshal.

Goering, in an air force marshal's uniform minus any trace of gold braid and decorations, paid no attention to him but listened attentively to the recital of charges against him.

The calmness of the fat reichsmarshal, now streamlined down to 220 pounds, was a tribute to American doctors who, last summer found him a quivering drug addict who cringed in terror during a mild thunderstorm.

In most instances the prisoners gave no sign of affirmation or denial as the Nazi crimes were read. Mention of themselves as SS (Elite Guard) generals, however, brought almost involuntary gestures of negation from Goering and Hans Frank, one-time overlord of Poland.

GEORGE E. MARRIOTT

Marriott Rites Are Set Today

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, Nov. 20.—This afternoon's 3 o'clock funeral services for George Edward Marriott, 84, will mark the passing of the dean of railroad men in this railroad center.

Services will be read by Rev. Luther Kirk, pastor, at the First Methodist church, and Rev. W. F. Fergeson, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial will be in Englewood cemetery under direction of Williams Funeral home.

Began Career At 16

It was at the age of 16 that George Marriott quit grade school in Saffordville, Kas., to begin a Santa Fe railroad career or 58 years as brakeman, conductor and manager of the Santa Fe reading rooms.

As the Santa Fe moved westward, Mr. Marriott moved with it. He was a conductor before he was 21, a position he reached after less than five years as a brakeman out of Emporia, Kas. He was conductor on the first freight train that ran into Amarillo, a member of the crew of the first train from Slaton to Sweetwater.

Reading Room Manager

It was in 1914 that "Uncle George," as he came to be known, came to Slaton as manager of the railroad reading rooms. For 21 years that hospitable club house

Walkout May Start Today

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Nov. 20 — Authoritative sources close to high ranking officers of the United Auto Workers (CIO) said tonight that a general strike of 325,000 General Motors corporation employes is to begin at 11 a. m. (EST) Wednesday.

The strategy of the union, it was learned, presumably would be to make no announcement in advance of the actual walkouts but that an official statement would be issued once the strike was "in effect."

Union Formulates Strategy

UAW President R. J. Thomas and other top officials of the union consulted into late hours tonight formulating the strategy to be used in the nation-wide walkout.

All General Motors units in 20 states, from the biggest auto plants to the smallest feeder units, are to be struck simultaneously, the usually reliable source said.

The strike call was issued late today by R. J. Thomas after a closed meeting of the strike strategy committee of the union.

Events Move Rapidly

Thomas' announcement climaxed a succession of rapidly moving events which began earlier today when General Motors said it would reply on or before Friday to a union demand that wage issues be submitted to arbitration.

The UAW had set 4 p. m. (EST) today as a deadline for company reply to the proposal.

The 200 delegates to the GM council of the UAW termed the company reply "a stall pure and simple," and spent little time in voting unanimously in favor of a strike.

Their recommendation was passed on to the union's six-man strike strategy committee, including Thomas and other top UAW officials.

Brief Conference

They conferred briefly in a closed session before Thomas emerged to announce the strike call.

Company officials said they had been "advised unofficially" of the

Scores Ill, Some Violently, After Thanksgiving Banquet

DALLAS, Nov. 20. (AP) — More than 100 employes of the Swift and Company packing plant here became violently ill today a few hours after they had eaten a turkey dinner served them at noon in the company cafeteria, plant officials announced.

The more seriously ill were rushed to hospitals in 20 ambulances which made more than 60 trips, whipping through crowded downtown streets at the height of the daily traffic jam.

Company officials ordered chemists from Swift's Fort Worth plant to work all night on analyses of food samples collected from the dinner.

99 In Four Hospitals

Ninety-nine persons were in four Dallas hospitals. Some who became ill were treated at the plant and released.

John H. Hall of Fort Worth, manager of the Fort Worth and Dallas plants of the company, estimated the number stricken at "around 100." Inspector of Police O. P. Wright, who was at the plant during the evacuation of patients, counted 116 persons removed by ambulances.

At the Swift plant, white and negro patients were stretched out on the cafeteria floor and on loading platforms. Doctors from the Southwest Clinic rendered emergency treatment at the scene. The more seriously ill then were rushed to hospitals.

Parkland hospital officials said that of their first seven patients, some were in serious condition.

Annual Thanks Dinner

John H. Hall of Fort Worth, manager of both the Dallas and Fort Worth plants of the Swift company, said it is the custom of the company to serve employes a turkey dinner with all the trimmings a few days before Thanksgiving.

About 300 employes ate such a meal today, he stated. It was the usual turkey dinner, with dressing, peas, beans, beets, apple, pumpkin and potato pie and several different kinds of drinks.

"About three hours after they had eaten," Hall continued, "people began to come into the first aid station, vomiting. We called in extra doctors and treated them."

Some Are Not Sick

Upon advice of the doctors, ambulances were called to take the worst cases to hospitals.

"It was peculiar," said Hall, "that all the people ate the same thing and only about one-third were affected by it. The man sitting right next to me ate exactly what I did. He is ill now and I haven't even felt a twinge."

The executive estimated that between 85 and 100 persons be-

Superfort Sets Distance Mark

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The United States Army Air forces took a seven-year old record from Britain today when a B-29 landed here after an 8,198 mile nonstop flight from Guam.

The Superfortress, stripped of armament and some battle instruments, flew the long haul in 35 hours and five minutes. It passed through seven storm areas and one of its four engines was intentionally stopped to conserve fuel on the run across the United States.

Record Set In 1938

The British record of 7,158 miles had remained intact since two English planes flew from Egypt to Australia non-stop in 1938.

The flight ending today, third non-stop trip by Superfortresses from far Pacific areas, had two purposes, said the AAF: To demonstrate the range and capabilities of American military aircraft; to "show the vulnerability of our country to enemy attack

Union Thanksgiving Service Set Tonight

The annual union Thanksgiving service sponsored by the Lubbock Ministerial alliance will be held at the First Christian church at 7:30 o'clock tonight with Rev. John A. Winslow, rector of St. Paul's on the Plains Episcopal church, bringing the principal message.

The A Copella choir of Lubbock senior high school will sing—an annual feature of the service—directed by Mrs. John Watson.

High school students will attend in a body. Following the service, they will have their annual Thanksgiving party, with Mrs. Anne Livingston, who is conducting a school of recreation here, as director of party activities.

Offering at the service will go to support teaching of the Bible in public schools.

Oranges Hit $1 Dozen As Ceiling Dropped

DETROIT, Nov. 20 (AP)—The price of oranges soared as high as $1 a dozen here today when the government removed controls on the price of citrus fruits.

There were corresponding increases on prices of grapefruit, tangerines and lemons.

Controls were removed from Nov. 19 to Jan. 13.

George E. Thierwechter, manager of the Detroit union produce terminal, said the price rise was confined to the better grades, and predicted that average or poorer grades will remain at the same level or decline slightly.

Population Of Nation Passes 140 Million

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP) — The census bureau announced today that the population of the United States passed the 140,000,000 mark about Oct. 1.

Census bureau Director J. C. Capp said that on this basis, the population increased by about 8,330,125 in the 5½ years after the 1940 census. This compares with an increase of 8,894,229 during the 10 years between 1930 and 1940.

Reds Turn Back Iranian Forces

TEHRAN, Nov. 20 (AP)—Russian military authorities at Kazvin today turned back an Iranian force sent from Tehran to quell Separationist uprisings in Azerbaijan province, the Iranian government announced.

The four Iranian battalions, including infantry, motorized troops and gendarmes, were ordered to return to Tehran from Kazvin, about 100 miles northeast of the capital and a third of the way to Tabriz, Azerbaijan's largest city.

Seven Reported Killed

The troops were dispatched to reinforce Iranian garrisons in Azerbaijan, where seven persons were reported killed during the weekend. They were accompanied by two Americans from Col. Norman Schwarzkopf's police advisory mission to Iran.

The official announcement that Soviet authorities had stopped them gave no details.

Schwarzkopf, former head of the New Jersey State police, reported yesterday that there was violent fighting at Mianeh, an Azerbaijan railway terminus. A later government communique said the situation was calm at three other cities where uprisings had been reported.

Reports Called Slander

(In Moscow, the newspaper Izvestia blamed the Azerbaijan disorders on "organized reactionary landowners," and described as "slanderous" reports that Russian trucks had supplied weapons to the Separationists.

(Izvestia declared the events were "artificially inflamed" in a movement by landowners against recent meetings and elections sponsored by all classes of Iranians.

(Earlier reports from Azerbaijan said weapons used by the Separationists were part of 100,000 rifles and machineguns taken from the Iranians by the Russians when Soviet troops entered Iran early in the war.)

Bond Drive Off To Good Start

As Lubbock's Victory bond campaign entered its second day Generalissimos Hop Halsey and Charles Whitacre remarked that "Lubbock county hasn't failed to meet or exceed its bond quotas yet, and we are confident that this last, and possibly most important drive of all, will go over the top also."

The workers, organized into six separate solicitation divisions, took to the field immediately after an enthusiastic meeting Tuesday morning in the ballroom of the Hilton hotel. An hour and a half later, several solicitors applied to bond headquarters in the city hall for new supplies.

Emphasis On E Bonds

Neil H. Wright, chairman of the Lubbock County War Finance committee, said it was "by far the most enthusiastic meeting" ever preceding a bond campaign here.

Special emphasis was placed on E bonds, of which the county has a quota of over $800,000. The over-all quota is $2,950,000.

Generalissimos Hop Halsey and Charles Whitacre, representing respectively World War II and I membership of the Allen Bros. post of the American Legion, sponsor of the drive, opened the meeting with statements to the effect that "it is not going to be difficult to sell the people of Lubbock county on their government."

Eva Confides To Her Diary That . . .

Adolf Crude At Love

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 20 — Eva Braun wrote in her diary that she was "mistress of Germany's and the world's greatest man," and threatened to kill herself when Hitler found a "fat-legged" substitute for her.

She confided to the diary that Hitler was rather crude in love making, never kept his promises, and sometimes gave her an envelope with money without saying a word.

Entries in the book, found in Eva's treasure chest, covered the four-month period from February to May, 1935, and were translated by U. S. intelligence officers. They gave the first intimate details of Hitler, the lover.

Eva made several references to an apparent love nest Hitler had promised, saying once that "the house is ready but I can't go to visit him. 'Love' does not seem to be on his program at present."

The occasions when he silently gave her money peeved her.

"If only he had at least added greetings or a kind word I would have been so happy but he never thinks of anything like that," the diary said.

"He is only using me for very definite purposes," she wrote. "When he loves me he takes it about as seriously as his promises which he never keeps. Why does he torture me so much instead of just putting an end to the whole thing?"

The self-styled mistress described the bleakness of her 23rd birth-

Tech Makes Plans For New High In Enrollment For 1946 Term

Dr. Wm. M. Whyburn, Texas Tech college president, has forecast a total full-time enrollment at Tech in 1946 of 5,716 students, compared to the previous peak enrollment of 4,250 in 1940.

President Whyburn made the prediction in connection with the filing of a brief with the Reconstruction Finance corporation supporting the college's request that the Pantex ordnance property near Amarillo be made available for use of Texas Tech.

The forecast includes a probable veteran enrollment of 1,466 in 1946 and a probable part-time or special short course veteran attendance next year of 1,900.

If acquired, the Pantex property would provide physical and instructional facilities for the expected influx of returned veterans.

Acute Housing Shortage

One of the chief reasons for the need of the Pantex plant as an adjunct to the regular educational facilities of the plant at Lubbock is that there is an acute housing shortage now in the neighborhood of the college. The brief points out that it is extremely doubtful that the expected increase in college enrollment could be housed near the campus. And it adds:

"The Pantex ordnance plant with its extensive farms, shops, buildings, cafeterias and housing facilities would lend itself remarkably well to use by Texas Technological college. Immediately after it became available to the college, it would provide housing, classrooms, laboratories, and all other necessary physical facilities needed to give the short term courses desired by many veterans who wish some college education but do not desire a full program leading to a degree."

Chinese Farming Is Discussed For Club

Chinese agriculture conditions were discussed by K. D. Deng, Chinese agriculture extension worker studying here in the county agent's office, at the luncheon meeting Tuesday of the Optimist club in the Lubbock hotel.

"There are three reasons for Chinese farming methods being such as they are: Small farms averaging five acres each with each family being wholly dependent on the small plot of land for its sustenance; no specialization in crops since farmers must raise every item they use, therefore can't raise money crops; and no mechanized farming.

"The climate, weather, rainfall, soil and crops of West Texas are almost identical to those of my province in China where cotton is the main crop. It is our hope that a textile industry can be introduced into my country to use our cotton to manufacture cloth for China's 450,000,000 people," Deng said.

At the meeting A. W. Young conducted an initiation service for seven new members, Ralph Bumpass, C. B. Lively, H. D. Bullock, Perry Adams, Hershell Collins, E. F. Blackburn and Robert Maker. Guests were Elmer Tarbox, Allen Hammer, Hugh Anderson, Dr. I. W. Hicks, John Wilson, H. O. Tatum, Frank Todd, Barney Stagner and Kenneth Pharr.

Announcements of committees for the "Cover Girl Review" to be sponsored here by the Optimist club were made by G. C. Stewart, chairman. Tickets for the big all-girl floorshow at the Lubbock High school auditorium and dance at the Lubbock hotel to follow, are now on sale by all club members and at Pup Thomas Custom Tailors, Hotel Lubbock, Baldridge Bakery and Sanders Tire company.

Mitscher Says Army, Navy Still Needed

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 20 (AP)—Admiral Marc A. Mitscher said today that while the atomic bomb produced in seconds the same effect our combined military might achieved over a period of years, conventional war tools should not be hastily discarded.

"Our carrier supremacy, which is the name for our team of carriers, battleships, cruisers and destroyers, must me maintained," Mitscher, leader of the famed task force 58 and now Deputy Chief of Naval operations, added in an address prepared for a luncheon meeting at the National Aviation clinic.

Private fliers had their say today at the National Aviation Clinic and seized the opportunity to complain about lack of facilities at small airports, cost and difficulties of learning to fly, and government regulations.

Discussing recently liberalized civil air rules, Wolfgang Langewische of Stanford, Conn., pilot and author, said:

"Next to the law of gravity, the civil air regulations are still the greatest hindrance to growth of private flying."

Former Tech Student And Instructor Meet

A former Texas Technological college student, Major Glenn M. Terrell, and his old ROTC instructor, Major Harry D. Weston, at Tech from 1940 to 1944, had an enjoyable gabfest when they were reunited recently at Fort Benning, Ga.

Maj. Terrell, combat veteran of the Italian campaign, was a student of Maj. Weston's from 1940 to 1942. Maj. Terrell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy D. Terrell of Vernon, is Fourth Headquarters information and education officer at Benning. Maj. Weston reported to Fourth Headquarters, First Army, with the 1131st Engineer Combat group after nine months of service in England and Germany.

Mrs. Terrell is the former Miss Lola Frances Rountree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Rountree of Hale Center star route. While attending Tech, Maj. Terrell was employed by a local drug store.

"As a student of military science," Maj. Weston says of his ex-pupil, "he was above average. He took an active interest in the ROTC and participated in all its functions."

Following his ROTC days, the Vernon man received his commission and soon afterwards wound up overseas with an engineer unit of the Fifth army in Italy, after participating in the action in North Africa and Sicily. In Italy, he was awarded the Bronze Star ribbon and later on, the Oak Leaf Cluster to the medal, for a dangerous reconnaissance mission while under fire.

M/Sgt. J. W. Guthrie, Laredo, killed in Mason county.

Peter Cortinas, Jr., killed near Taylor.

Lt. Col. Harold J. Weiler, Austin, killed in Refugio county.

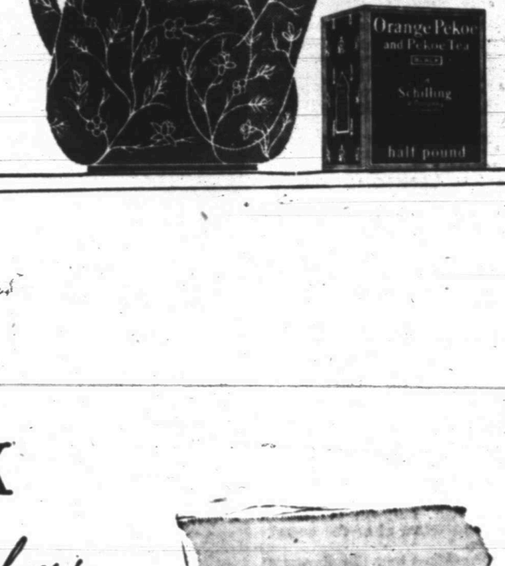

Colonel Weiler's death was the most unusual of the accidental deaths. He was in a duck and goose blind in Refugio county when an automobile crashed into the blind. Blinds in the area are dug into the ground about shoulder height and a small amount of brush spread about them.

Kenedy county, Tex., had the distinction of being the first county to be tabulated in the 1945 Census of Agriculture

Total U. S. production of farm machinery in 1944 was valued at more than $1,080,000,000, compared with $552,000,000 in 1929.

Rudolf Hess Fails In Attempt To Snub Balance Of Former Buddies

By ANN STRINGER
United Press Staff Writer

NUERNBERG, Nov. 20—Rudolf Hess tried to snub the rest of the Hitler gang today, but failed.

The gloomy Nazi mystic, who had taken orders from no one but the fuehrer, entered the war crimes courtroom with rigid aloofness. Later, however, he broke down and talked with both Hermann Goering and Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Several times he even attempted a strange, nervous laugh.

Quiet Arrogance Gone

It was plain from the first minute that Hess has changed. Gone is the quiet arrogance of other days. The yellowish, balding man entered the courtroom with a weary gait, almost like the men of Dachau and the men of Buchenwald.

Wearing a plain gray suit, he walked as if he carried some vast, invisible burden.

He faced judgment with his memory still locked within him, the victim of "amnesia." He still refused to speak up and admit, "all right, I was there. Now what can you do about it?"

Maj. Douglas Kelley, the prison psychaitrist, said, "yes, it's true hypnotic amnesia, with a large voluntary block."

Refuses Treatment

Kelley said that Hess probably could be cured in 15 days, but the stubborn prisoner still refuses all treatment.

Hess' steady eyes searched the floor, the ceiling, and sometimes the windows. It was almost as if he wished, even now at the final hour, to run away.

Hermann Goering, the No. 2 Nazi, broke the ice. Goering, wearing a light gray uniform without insignia, walked just ahead of Hess. Strangely, he looked healthier and more fit than in the days when he had bossed the luftwaffe.

Goering half-turned once, with a cynical smile, and muttered something to Hess. The former deputy fuehrer laughed bleakly and gave a short reply. Goering moistened his lips with his tongue and turned away.

Stares As Others File By.

After taking his seat, however, Hess became less tense. He stared at the others who were filing in. This was his first public appearance since he had parachuted down into Scotland on May 10, 1941, after his mysterious flight from Augsburg. Apparently, he was just beginning to enjoy the excitement of it.

Once he leaned forward and spoke to Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's foreign minister.

His conversation appeared almost animated, as if his rigid reserve might collapse completely, but there was still no suggestion of comradeship between them.

Record Prices Paid For Cattle In State

WALNUT SPRINGS, Nov. 20. (AP) — Cattle buyers paid record prices for 74 animals sold here in an auction.

The entire offering of cattle sold for an average of $1,487, and for the first time in the history of Hereford cattle auctions, a two-year-old Hereford yesterday was sould for $10,000. The buyer was C. A. Smith of Chester, W. Va.

The first animal in the auction ring, Flat Top Zento, a yearling bull, was bought by F. W. Fischer of Tyler, who paid $10,250 for him.

Army On Schedule In Effort To Bring Men Home From Overseas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Army said today that despite strikes and shorter working hours more soldiers have been brought home in six months than were in the whole of World War 1's AEF.

A war department statement said that 2,470,880 were returned from overseas from V-E day May 8 to Nov. 2 and that discharges totaled 3,114,000 up to Nov. 16. Armistice day strength in World War 1 was 3,673,888, and of these 1,929,760 were overseas. Their return was not completed until April, 1920.

The statement said the original "target dates" still will be met.

These are:

1. Jan. 31, all troops back from Europe and the Mediterranean except 370,000 occupation soldiers and 300,000 needed to dispose of surplus property. The 300,000 will trickle back and all will be in the U. S. by June 30.

2. June 30, all troops back from the Pacific and other areas except occupation and garrison complements—leaving 400,000 in the Pacific, 100,000 in the other areas.

More Aid For Vets Planned In Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (AP) — Attorney General Tom C. Clark soon will set up a special branch in the Justice department to handle veterans' re-employment and legal affairs.

Disclosing this today, a Justice department official who asked not to be quoted by name said Searcy M. Johnson of Dallas probably will head the branch.

Johnson recently was discharged from the Navy as a lieutenant commander. During the war he was one of the Navy's liaison officers with Selective Service headquarters.

MAGAZINES, BOOKS

RED CROSS canteen workers are asking for current magazines and books for the day room at South Plains Army Air field where fliers stay while awaiting orders. Tuesday morning one of the workers took her morning paper with her to the post and she said by mid-afternoon it was in shreds it had passed through so many hands. There was a current issue of "Time" magazine in the day room and that was all.

If you have magazines that would interest young men and current books to donate to the cause, you may take them to the Red Cross offices in the City hall or telephone Mrs. George Young at 7467 and she will send for them. It is stressed that the periodicals should be of a nature to appeal to young men and not the needlework or ladies' companion type.

CURING BOREDOM

ARE YOU tired of the same old foursome crowd, what they say, their views on health, meals, the condition of the world and their grievances? Do you sometimes grow so tired of one of your best friends talking about her ailments you could scream? Do you wish you knew a few different and interesting people?

Well, why don't you look around and meet different and interesting people in your own neighborhood? They are there; in fact Lubbock is growing as fast as a boom town and there are dozens and dozens of new people who would broaden your mental horizons and enlarge your human sympathies, if you just took the opportunity to meet them. You don't have to make close friends of all the different people you meet and you don't have to discard your friends, but knowing new people will add zest to your living.

WE KNOW several Lubbock women who met newcomers who soon became their friends over finding they had the same hobbies; having met at an antique shop or browsing at the second hand store. Since we have had the Army air bases here and so many new residents, we believe longtime residents are more friendly than they used to be. At least we can remember having heard time and again in former years that Lubbock was a hard town in which to get acquainted.

As much as we care for the people who have been our lifelong friends, we like to meet new people. As long as you explore new personalities, life need never really be dull.

WAUGH WINNER — "Modern" art went down for the count again in Washington D. C., when a poll was taken by the Encyclopedia Britannica at its exhibition of contemporary American painting, displayed during September and October in the capital's Corcoran Gallery of Art. Not only laymen but artists as well showed a definite preference for realism, with first honors going to "March —North Atlantic," by Frederick J. Waugh. The same painting, of the 135 in the collection, was the favorite of New Yorkers and Bostonians, who were polled during previous exhibitions.

It seems that arts students and art teachers, for once, were in substantial agreement with laymen who "don't know anything about art but know what they like."

PIONEERS

THERE is a club at Texas Technological college that is rather exclusive in that proposals to increase membership have been voted down and the initial membership of 37 remains the same. It is made up of members of the remaining original faculty when the institution opened its doors in 1925, which, as our count shows, was twenty years ago. A lot of water has run under the bridge and much sand has blown across the prairies since that first faculty came and you can imagine the experiences they have to relate when they have their gatherings each year.

The fall meeting of "The Pioneers" is set for Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Tech Social Center, which will be in the nature of a "Craddock dinner" and only those who have enjoyed one will understand what that means.

Having been a student of a number of those faculty "pioneers" and acquainted with others, we want to wish them a happy time Monday and the privilege of a reunion each year for the next twenty.

Couple Is Married In Home Ceremony

Miss Francis Compton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Compton of Lamesa, and Ike Coats, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Coats of Lamesa, were married at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. George Bolin, and Mr. Bolin, 2422 Twenty-first, at twilight Monday with Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

The fireplace was banked with gladioli, fern and small red chrysanthemums and pink carnations centered the mantle.

The bride wore a pale rose two-piece crepe dress with sweetheart neckline. She wore a blue enamel lapel watch for something old; something borrowed was a lace handkerchief and her corsage was gardenias.

At a reception that followed, the wedding cake was served with coffee to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stogner of Lamesa, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Eubanks, Mr. and Mrs. Elam and Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Codington.

After a short wedding trip to the South coast and Mexico, the couple will be at home in Lubbock where the bridegroom is employed at Bennett Motor company.

Mr. Coats recently received his Army discharge after serving four years with the famed Timberwolves division, spending eleven months overseas.

Woman's Club Meet Is Held Tuesday

Mrs. A. T. Cocanaugher presided at a meeting of Lubbock Woman's club at Hilton hotel Tuesday afternoon. A Christmas dinner was planned for the club on Dec. 17 at Tech Social center. Thirteen members were present.

Wives Of Veterans Plan Study Course

Organization meeting of a course for wives of veterans who are attending Texas Tech was held Tuesday afternoon at the St. John's Methodist church. The course, directed by Mrs. Mary Anne Duke, Home Economic Education instructor at Tech, is in Home and Family Life.

The course, which will be built to suit the interests and needs of the veteran's wives as it progresses, will include budgeting the family income, meal planning, nutrition, practical cooking demonstrations, domestic problems and children and simple entertainments.

Between now and Christmas, the making of gifts and choosing of gifts as well as cheerful wrappings will be discussed. Next meeting, which will be next Tuesday at St. John's, will be on budgeting.

Nursery facilities are available at the church for those with children, and the class is open to veteran's wives.

Save Money By Mixing Cough Syrup at Home
It's So Easy! Needs No Cooking. Gives Very Quick Relief.
Even if you're not interested in saving good money, you surely want a really effective relief for coughs due to colds. So try mixing it yourself, in your kitchen, and be ready for a surprise.
It's so easy to mix, a child could do it. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Then fill up with your syrup. This makes a pint—about four times as much for your money. It tastes good—children really like it. It lasts a family a long time, and never spoils.
But what you'll like most is the way it takes right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness. Let's you sleep. You'll say you've never seen its superior.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Try it, and if you're not really delighted your money will be refunded.

Chinese War Fast Getting Out Of Control With Compromise Unlikely

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

The undeclared civil war in China is rapidly getting out of control.

Neither the two principal Chinese factions nor the interested foreign powers seem willing or able to work out a compromise. The result could be a protracted internal war—nothing new in China's history—which might delay peace in the Orient for many years.

Internally, there is not much prospect of a settlement by force of arms between the Chungking Central government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and the Yenan Communists. They are too well-matched in popular support and in armaments.

Strength Surprising

The strength of the northern Communists is rather surprising to the outside world. It has been assumed generally that Chiang's armies, supplied with American lend-lease materials, partly American-trained and backed by American airships and surface vessels, would far over-match their rivals.

The Communist armies, however, have had years of practical military experience in fighting the Japanese, and to some extent their own compatriots. Within the last three months, they have fallen heir to large stores of Japanese weapons and material.

Possible Connivance

Whether the Yennan forces got this war potential by connivance of the Russians is a disputed point. The Japanese probably helped by surrendering their stores to the Communists wherever possible, in the hope of creating a division within China which might some day react to their advantage. In any event, the Yenan Communists are well-armed and in fighting mood.

The Communists are credited in dispatches from United Press correspondents in the Far East with controlling about one-fourth to one-third of China's area and population, with the Central government holding a large part but not all of the remainder.

Control Ten Provinces

A Chungking dispatch last week from George Wang pointed out that in addition to their base in Yennan, the Communists control the main areas of ten provinces —Suiyuan, Chahar, Jehol, Liaoning, Shanshi, Hopeh, Shantung, Kiangsu, Anwhei and Chekiang. In that vast area, he reported, they hold roughly 2,000 miles of China's coast line, six important seaports, seven mountain ranges, four rich food-producing plains and 19 airfields, most of them built by the Japanese.

Now the Communists are engaged in a bitter struggle with the Central government forces for possession of Manchuria, the richest prize of all in industry, communications and natural resources. If they win out there and in Shantung, peace in China without active foreign intervention would be a remote possibility.

Armed intervention by the United States or Russia is improbable, since it could lead to international war in the Far East. The best hope seems to lie in joint pressure by the outside powers to call off a war that might go on for a decade or two and present a grave obstacle to realizing the United Nations idea.

CLAIMS PAYMENT MADE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—Mexican Ambassador Espinosa De Los Monteros today presented to Secretary of State Byrnes a payment of $2,500,000 as the fourth annual installment due from his government on a $40,000,000 settlement of claims by citizens of the United States.

Warning Issued On Rent Rules In Area

Substantial increases in regulation violations and penalties imposed on violators are being caused by an increasing demand for rental houses and apartments in the Lubbock rent area, R. E. Key, rent director, has said.

Key explained the housing situation as "tighter than ever in the area" and the shortage is expected to become even more acute as the number of returning service men and women increases.

Failure to file OPA registration statements on units rented for the first time, collecting rents in excess of ceilings, increasing rents without permission of the OPA rent office and illegally eviction of tenants are named by Key as principal violations.

Key asked that tenants and landlords alike cooperate in keeping these violations to a minimum and asked that tenants refuse to pay more than ceiling and report violations to the rent office, 1415 Ave. Q.

Services Set Today For C. C. Enochs

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock this morning in Rix chapel for Clarence C. Enochs, 57, manager of the cotton department of the Plains Cooperative gins, with Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Enochs died of a heart attack Sunday while hunting near Morton.

He resided with his wife at 1411 Eighteenth and had been a Lubbock resident four years, moving here from Amarillo.

The body will be taken overland to Amarillo where burial will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Pallbearers will be: active—E. T. Kelly, G. I. Jackson of Abernathy, C. D. Morrow of Post, D. J. Bolch of O'Donnell, Wood Johnson of Brownfield, V. L. Gregg of Littlefield and C. W. Ratliff; honorary—Roy Riddell, C. O. Campbell, F. L. Grider, Roy B. Davis, Frank Campbell, A. L. Patton and Bill Rogers.

13 Indictments Returned Here

A 99th district grand jury of which Homer E. Hunt was foreman was discharged upon its written request Tuesday afternoon after it had reported 13 bills of indictment to Judge G. V. Pardue.

Seven of the 14 defendants named in the charges — five of them accused of desertion of wife or minor children — had not been reported arrested late Tuesday.

Other charges were three indictments alleging car theft, two forgery and passing, one theft of $50 in money, and two rape.

Rape Charge Filed

Another rape investigation did not bring a bill, but a formal charge of rape was filed in the court of D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, binding Homer D. Powell, 21, of 400-block Ave. G, over to a subsequent grand jury, which probably will be impaneled in January or February.

Powell was charged with having assaulted a 17-year-old girl who lives near Lubbock, Monday afternoon on a Lubbock county dirt road.

Briefly, here was the girl's story:

She lives across the canyon on East Broadway. She was walking toward home about 2:30 p. m. and a man and a woman in a car stopped and asked if she wanted to ride. The man stopped the car at a grocery store inside Lubbock and the woman got out. The girl started to get out, but the man said he would take her home. Instead he took her into the country, to a spot she described as a quarter-mile south of Acuff gin and assaulted her.

A farmer, she said, drove up on a red Farmall tractor and she screamed for him to help her. The farmer, she said, forced the assailant to release her. The suspect then drove away in a car she was able to describe even to license numbers subsequently found to belong to him.

The suspect's story:

He did not have a woman in his car when he "picked the girl up." He drove with her, with her permission, to a spot a mile west and a half-mile south of the gin. The girl did not resist him, he said. A man and three women drove by at the time, laughed and drove on. No man came by on a tractor. Rather than driving off without the girl, he claimed, he drove her to the Ed Moore service station in Lubbock.

It was from the station that the girl called law officers. The arrest was at 10 o'clock Monday night in 400-block Ave. G, by Chief Dep. Sheriff Raymond Land.

Burks asked that "if anybody described in either of the stories was a witness to what happened out there on the road, I wish he would communicate immediately with this department or with the sheriff's office."

Bond of $1,000 was set for Powell. The complaint naming him was prepared by Burks and was signed by Land. The man had not posted it Tuesday night.

Those Under Arrest

Indictments naming persons who wer under arrest were:

Mollie Harris, 23, a negro woman, theft Nov. 1 of $50 from Mrs. O. T. Lindsey.

Ernest H. Adams, 17, of Paris, theft Oct. 26 of an automobile from Max Brownlee.

Carson Thomas Anthony, 17, of Fort Worth, theft of an automobile Aug. 28 from R. L. Bain of Slaton.

W. H. McClure, 19, of Houston, and Marshall Parker, 19, of Texarkana, theft of an automobile Sept. 30 from Florence Bingham.

Tommy Mason, 22, of Plainview, forgery and passing of a false instrument Oct. 29—a $29 check payable to Sid Payne and signed with the name of H. G. Wilson, and passed to H. T. Stovall.

J. B. Jackson, 32, a negro who was on parole from the penitentiary, rape Nov. 17 of Ruby Lacy, a negro woman.

Jap Warlord Closes Out Stormy Career In Blaze Of Hara Kiri

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20 — What Baron General Shigeru Honjo did before he killed himself is perhaps more significant than the messy end he chose for his long military career.

He read in the morning paper that he was going to be arrested as a war criminal. As no one had come to arrest him, and as it already was nearly 24 hours after the order had gone out, he worked fast.

WHITE

First he told his son that he would go to the palace and express his belief and take full responsibility.

Instead, in his office, he committed hara kiri with a sword. He was in a hurry, so he still wore his uniform (although he has been retired since 1936) and did not don the traditional kimona.

Can't Endure Shame

In a note left behind, he admitted frankly:: "I cannot endure as a soldier of our country to appear before a court of Allied powers."

The general, who was made a baron in 1935 for the conquest of Manchuria in 1931, made it clear that both as a Japanese and as a Japanese militarist he did not propose to submit to Allied justice for what he has done—in other words he took his own life to show his conviction that everything he has done was right.

It remains to be seen what Japanese will say about his suicide, but in the relatively few such military suicides since the surrender there has been no Japanese disapproval reported except in the case of former Premier Hideki Tojo. There the criticism was merely that he bungled the job and did not follow traditional methods.

Jap Attitude Varies

It is possible that some Japanese may say of Honjo: "Good riddance to the man who did as much as anyone to start World war II in Manchuria."

But the high probability is that most Japanese will be pleased that one more high Japanese militarist has avoided making an accounting of his career and his motives—which means Japan's—before Allied justice. That is just human nature.

Town Of Truman To Be Dedicated Today

DALLAS, Nov. 20. (AP) — The newly-named town of Truman, Tex., seven miles from Dallas on U. S. Highway 80, will be formally dedicated at 5 p. m. tomorrow by County Judge Al Templeton, it was announced Tuesday.

A sign "Truman, Tex., Dallas city limits 7 miles" has been erected at the crossroads village of 200, formerly known as Mesquite Tap.

Tim O'Williams, deputy sheriff, Walter P. Hailey, and Harry S. Cohen will make up the Truman reception committee.

Dedication ceremonies will be held at the home of Mrs. E. H. Hopkins.

Postmaster J. Howard Payne, who reported that the Dallas county town is the only one in the nation named Truman, will read a message from President Harry Truman at the dedication ceremony.

County Prisoners On Way To Huntsville

Four county jail prisoners were removed this morning and taken on the first leg of the trip to the Huntsville state penitentiary by W. R. Crane, penitentiary transfer agent, according to the sheriff's department.

They were: R. C. Massingale, 41, who was sentenced to serve two years for horse theft; Ruth Wilder, 19, Monahans girl who received two years in each of two cases to be served concurrently, for armed robbery; Jack Nelson King, 20, who must serve two years for car theft; and Grant Bell, 43, of Slaton, sentenced to a year for child desertion.

Two other prisoners, charged with felony offenses elsewhere, also were removed from the jail: M. C. (Jack) Riley, 31, was taken to Eastland to face a child desertion charge, Willard E. Stevens, 38, to Edinburg for arraignment on a bigamy warrant.

HST To Get Powers To Improve Federal Setup, Is Claim

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (AP) — Senator Murdock (D-Utah) predicted today that "President Truman will get amble authority to do a real job' of streamlining the sprawling federal government.

At the same time the senator told a reporter the chief executive may have to wait "another 10 days or so" before he knows exactly what powers congress has given him to reorganize some 100-odd federal departments, commissions, bureaus, corporations and agencies.

Gets Senate Okay

By that time, Murdock said, a Senate-House conference committee should be able to iron out differences between separate reorganization bills passed by each chamber.

"On the whole the Senate bill should be very satisfactory to the President," Murdock said after battling 18 days to win Senate approval of the measure. It came yesterday on a voice vote.

In all 15 agencies were placed on the presidential "musn't touch" list by the Senate. They include the general accounting office, the District of Columbia Municipal government, the Federal Land Bank system, the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, Army engineers, three agencies dealing with railway labor and these federal commissions: Interstate commerce, communications, power, securities and exchange, trade, tariff, and maritime.

The House handled its exemptions in a different manner. It did not list the District of Columbia government or the maritime commission, but it voted to restrict action on the Veterans administration and Civil Service commission.

"Ike" Favors Letting Wives Join Husbands In Occupation Forces

BOONE, Ia., Nov. 20 (AP) — General Dwight D. Eisenhower, who spent most of two days at the hospital bedside of his wife, recovering from bronchial pneumonia, says he favors taking the wives of occupation troops to Europe "after we have gotten down to occupation forces."

General Eisenhower, in a press conference prior to leaving for the American Legion convention in Chicago, said his policy "will give the wife of the lowest GI the same right as any officer's wife, for instance."

The general explained the great problem of getting military governments established in Germany and of getting large numbers of troops home made it difficult to estimate when such a policy might be put into effect.

Three Additional Jap Towns Barely Missed A-Bombing, Is Claim

AUSTIIN, Nov .20. (AP)—Only a radio message prevented the atomic bombing of three additional Japanese cities, Capt. Gene Flewellen of Big Spring, a bomber pilot, told the Austin Kiwanis club.

Capt. Flewellen said a radio message turned back planes which were carrying the deadly missles intended for three Japanese communities including Izesaki, a suburb of Tokyo. His plane was over Tokyo at the time of the Nagasaki bombing. Hiroshima and Nagasaki were bombed by atomic missles.

You'll love, too, the tender, melt-in-your-mouth texture of bran muffins made with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. For ALL-BRAN is milled extra-fine for golden softness.

½ cup peanut butter	¾ cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN
¼ cup sugar	1 cup sifted flour
1 egg, well beaten	1 tablespoon baking powder
1 cup milk	½ teaspoon salt

Blend peanut butter and sugar thoroughly; stir in egg, milk and KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Makes 18 tender, tasty muffins.

Good Nutrition, too!

ALL-BRAN is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat—contains a concentration of the protective food elements found in the whole grain. One-half cup provides over ½ your daily minimum need for iron. Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily!

CAB Head Firmly Opposes Arnold Plan For Voice In Civil Affairs

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 20. (AP)—L. Welch Pogue, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics board, took a firm stand today against the military having "a voice in civil air matters" as proposed by Gen. Henry H. Arnold.

Pogue did not name Arnold or refer directly to his report to the secretary of war as commanding general of the Army Air forces, although he quoted the "voice" phrase from it.

"I believe that any such proposal would not be acceptable to the American people and that its adoption would defeat—not advance—the national preparedness which all of us most earnestly desire," he said.

Hopes For Understanding

The CAB chairman combined his detailed opposition to the Arnold proposal (a point which the AAF commander stressed) with an expression of hope that civil aviation "will produce on earth that understanding which will lead men to put aside the ways of war and save themselves from universal self-destruction."

In that connection Pogue said that air travel and radio communications provide the facilities "to make the world manageable from a governmental standpoint," and that from experience and knowledge it should be possible to imagine what future wars would be like.

Sensible Steps Feasible

"There remains only the acquisition of enough wisdom to lead the peoples of the world to take the sensible steps—feasible now at least—which hold the best and brightest hopes for peace ever offered to mankind," he said.

Pogue's opposition to a military voice in civil flying was based on two general points:

1—That offensive flying weapons have branched off into a new field with little direct relation to civil aircraft types and might more properly be labelled "military aeronautics."

2—That in any future conflict civil aviation's contribution will be not to any direct striking force but as transportation, and that it could best be developed under civil guidance as in the past.

Aviation In Europe

"All the aviation history of Europe when contrasted with that of the United States cries out against making civil aviation the stepchild of the military," Pogue said.

"Until the last war," he said, "there was a definite relationship between military and civil aircraft, because "an airplane was an airplane" and the same design staffs were used on both jobs. That old concept has become obsolete, he added, and "air power—the striking force of air power—will become a new type of ordnance."

Santa Fe Police On Search For Slayer Of Young Woman

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 20 (AP)—State police were continuing investigations today into the brutal slaying of Mrs. Eloise Kennedy, pretty 23-year-old wife of Leon G. Kennedy, jr., chief bookkeeper at the First National Bank of Santa Fe.

Frank Pedilla and Richard Garcia, delivery boys for a Santa Fe furniture company, have reported seeing a heavily-bearded dark man near the Kennedy apartment about the time of the slaying.

According to the youths, they were making a delivery at a nearby apartment and as they approached the apartment, a man they described as about five feet, seven inches tall, and weighing 155 pounds, rounded the corner of the apartment.

The man was hatless and wore a dark brown coat and was smoking a pipe. According to the delivery boys, he had a heavy beard and black wavy hair, and the youths said he was "foreign looking." Police are checking the story.

Discovered In Home

The young woman, mother of a month-old baby, was discovered on the floor of the bathroom of her apartment by her husband when he returned home from work yesterday evening.

Because she had been ill, the husband thought she had fainted while suffering a hemorrhage, but investigation disclosed that she had been stabbed through the heart and that her jugular vein had been severed.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon G. Kennedy, sr., parents of young Kennedy, are now in Santa Fe, having arrived when notified of the slaying. The elder Kennedy is vice president of the First National Bank in Denver, Colo.

Former Denver Resident

The slain woman was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Canning of Denver. She and young Kennedy were married in that city Feb. 26, 1942.

She and her husband moved to Santa Fe in 1944, after Kennedy received his discharge from the Air Forces.

Noted Negro Educator Of State Is Claimed

HOUSTON, Nov. 20. (AP)—Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon for Professor Samuel Walker Houston, 76, one of the Southwest's most distinguished negro educators, who died yesterday after half a century of educational work.

He died in the Houston negro hospital where he was admitted Sunday. Houston founded the first negro county training school in Texas.

Services will be held in Huntsville in the auditorium of the school which he founded some fifty years ago, Sam Houston Training school. This was a two-room building where many a negro boy and girl received school through the educator's system of accepting farm products for tuition fees.

At his death he was principal-supervisor of the present Sam Houston High school in Huntsville. Born there, he was the son of Joshua Houston, personal slave to Gen. Sam Houston.

One and one-half million more non-white persons were employed in non-agricultural industries in 1945 than in 1940, according to the Census Bureau.

Production of tractors (agricultural, industrial and military) in 1944 had a value of $657,000,000, compared with $357,000,000 in 1943, and $342,000,000 in 1941.

How much can you pay?

What would you think if the clerk at your favorite store asked to see what you had in your wallet before he decided what to charge you for a shirt?—

Or if, just because you happened to have some money saved up, you were asked to pay more than other people for a haircut, a movie ticket, or even such important items as rent, food and clothing.

That's exactly the kind of reasoning UAW-CIO leaders are using in their wage demands on General Motors—

They point to funds we have saved up over the years to expand and improve our plants and provide more jobs and more production. They say, "Give us that in higher wages."

General Motors does not go along with that kind of reasoning. People should not have to pay more just because they have a savings account—

For many years we have used our savings to expand capacity, create more jobs and provide greater values.

And we intend to keep on doing just that. We are, at present, embarked on a very important reconversion and postwar expansion program. Our objective, now as always—to produce more and better things for more people.

DEDICATED TO THE ADVANCEMENT OF PROFESSIONAL EYE CARE

When you need dental care you seek the services of a dentist. You know that the instruments and materials he uses are important, but what you want most of all is to benefit from his professional education, experience and skill.

But are you just as wise about your eyes?

When you need eye care do you make the mistake of saying: "I'd better buy some glasses"? Actually that's faulty reasoning.

Glasses, like dental instruments and materials, are important, of course, but glasses alone can never correct faulty vision.

Your eye comfort and visual efficiency depend upon professional and technical skill with which your eyes are examined and refracted; your glasses prescribed, your prescription interpreted, your glasses fitted and serviced.

And it's faulty reasoning, too, if you mistake the fee for these professional services for the price of glasses. In eye care, as in dental care, the fee you pay is "for professional services rendered." And remember that glasses alone without professional eye care are never a bargain at any price.

So go to your Ophthalmologist, Optometrist, Ophthalmic Dispenser for the professional skill and services that your priceless sight demands.

Invest in eye care — not glasses at a price.

Seek professional advice—not glasses at a price.

GM's Plans For Future Outlined

A preview of tomorrow's application of the promise of General Motors corporation to continue its policy of using its savings to expand capacity, create more jobs and provide greater values was seen in motion pictures and in a running commentary of a GM spokesman when approximately 25 persons were guests of a Tuesday night quarterly meeting of Lubbock General Motors club.

The dinner program was in the Navajo room of Hilton hotel. General Motors and its associated manufacturing enterprises were represented—from those who sells cars to those who deal in refrigerators, radios, exchange insurance and household appliances.

Honor guests was C. H. (Chick) Hunt, chairman of the General Motors club in Oklahoma City.

Newsreel reports on the architectural forum competition, by which General Motors seeks to select the most notable suggestions toward construction of the sales and service plants of individual dealers, and on the multi-million-dollar GI Technical center to be completed at Detroit were shown. L. F. Buss, a manager of General Motors Acceptance corporation, of Amarillo, made explanation supplementing the newsreel commentary, and announced that GM also will sponsor contests among boys and among war veterans so that, by expenditure of many thousands of dollars in prizes, the most ultimate suggestions of value may be gleaned to push farther back the possibilities of improving GM's provision of more jobs and continuous refinement of production.

"In 128 days, General Motors surmounted the challenging task of reconversion to the point of assembly line production of new cars and refrigerators," Buss said. "The new GM products definitely are on the way."

Approximately 25 persons attended the dinner. Those who registered were:

Walter Alderson, J. O. Kuykendall, Joe Reese, H. L. Graves, E. C. Pool, all of Kuykendall Chevrolet company; J. Ray Dickey, Bruce Ferrell, L. S. Bridge, O. P. Hankins, George W. Newman, all of Scoggin-Dickey Motor company; M. D. Fewell, E. A. Nicholas and S. C. Parnell, all of J. D. Hufstedler Truck company; M. H. Adkisson, B. B. Bayless, Sidney Claiborne, all of Household Supply company; Tom Swanson, J. A. Ramfield, M. C. Kreutz, C. D. McClain, Roy Hall, all of Western Olds; H. S. Weiss and G. G. Pratt, both of Downtown Motor company, United Motor service; Wm. J. Whitson, McWilliams Pontiac company; L. F. Buss, GMAC manager, Amarillo; C. H. Hunt, GMAC manager, Oklahoma City; L. O. Sparks, GMAC representative, Amarillo; J. M. Dozier, General Exchange Insurance corporation, Amarillo.

Heavy Merchandise Thefts Reported In New Burglary Wave

The lull in burglaries was broken Monday night and Tuesday as police and the sheriff's department received calls reporting theft of merchandise valued at more than $630, besides numerous articles for which owners did not list the value.

W. H. Cobb of Mayfield, Ky., representative of a clothing firm, said a ventilator glass was broken in the right rear door of his car parked in 1000-block Main, the door opened and approximately $450 worth of clothing stolen, including five men's suits, five men's coats, a ladies' suit, a ladies' fur coat, a pair of slacks and a laundry bundle containing eight shirts.

Mrs. Roy Autry, 2101 Thirtieth, said someone entered the house through a kitchen window and took numerous articles of jewelry, including necklaces, rings, coins, a wrist watch valued at $50, and a 23-jewel pocket watch.

Returning after an absence of two weeks, Mrs. Feazel, 3024 Twenty-first, found the back door open, the lights on, and the following articles missing: an electric iron, a black leather bag, a radio, a white bedspread and a shower curtain. She gave total value of these articles as $125.

Moody White of near Lubbock told the sheriff's department that his tractor was stripped of tools and lights, and Eldon Vaughn, living nearby, said that 20 gallons of gasoline was drained from his tractor.

Food Poisoning

came ill but said some soon recovered enough to help care for others more seriously ill.

A chemist immediately began analysis of foods served at the dinner.

"I can promise that we will not rest until we find out exactly what caused this," Hall declared.

Among those taken ill was Dr. T. E. Wilson, government inspector in charge of all inspections of federally - inspected slaughters in Dallas.

Dr. Wilson said he ate the regular dinner served but that the only peculiarity he noticed was a smell "like sour milk" in the lunch room. Wilson said he notified city authorities to take food samples from the lunch room.

Grand Jury To Hear Lynn Hijacking Case

TAHOKA, Nov. 20 (Special) — Sheriff Sam Floyd of Lynn county aid tonight that evidence against three men and a woman, held in connection with an alleged hijacking near Slide Saturday night, would be presented to the district court grand jury here Wednesday. No charges have been filed, Floyd said.

Two of the men and the woman were arrested by Lubbock police and the other man by Floyd. All were held in county jail in Lubbock until Floyd brought two here Monday, and the other two Tuesday.

by Mr. Truman as having performed "the greatest military task in the history of the world." President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill leaned heavily on him as a military adviser.

Marshall was acting chief of staff and stepped into the full title Sept. 1, 1939, the day Germany invaded Poland.

Talk of his possible retirement first was heard early last summer.

Marshall has been a vigorous advocate of military preparedness since the close of the war. He has urged compulsory peacetime military training and a merger of the Army and Navy.

Eisenhower, 55-year-old Kansan, leaped into his greatest prominence as leader of the Normandy invasion that was a final chapter in defeating the Axis powers.

After the peace he stayed in Germany to carry on the job of administration.

Strike Is Called

UAW's action, but said they would have no comment until official notification from the union.

The company, in saying it would reply to the union demand for arbitration, did not give any indication whether the proposal had been received favorably or unfavorably.

The union's proposals, however, contained two stipulations previously rejected by the corporation —that a proposed board of arbitration have access to the company's books and that any wage increase that might result should not be tied with increased prices for General Motors products.

Great Potential Effect

Although directed only against General Motors, a strike would have potentialities for an enormous effect on not only the automobile industry but on American commerce and business in general.

General Motors is America's largest operating corporation. Its nation-wide factory system turns out a huge flow of products in addition to automobiles, and an extended walkout doubtless would make itself felt in every city of the nation.

From regularly producing plants in nearly a score of states come, besides automobiles, such products as refrigerators, stoves, radios, diesel engines, and electric motors.

Feeds Other Producers

GM, biggest of the "big three" in the automobile industry, also feeds other car producing companies, and an industry authority has said that all but one producer would be out of action within a week if General Motors were shut down.

The statement came from George W. Romney, manager of the Automobile Manufacturers association. He did not name the "one" producer but he ostensibly meant the Ford Motor company. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are the industry's big three.

was the library, gathering place and real home for not only the Santa Fe employes, but the Slaton community as well.

Mr. Marriott was born in Belleville, Canada, June 9, 1861. When he was about 4 years old his father, a railroad contractor, and family returned to London, England. After George Marriott's eighth birthday the family returned to Canada for a few months, then moved to Saffordville.

Retired In 1935

It was in 1935 that "Uncle George" retired from active duties with the railroad. He moved to his Elm Grove residence and spent the rest of his days with his wife, his dogs and a prized collection of photographs that were his hobby.

And he maintained his interest in persons he had come to value as friends over the decades, through correspondence.

He was known as one of the "youngest old men" — he was nearly 85 when he died Monday noon at his Slaton home — ever known in the populous ranks of the far-flung Santa Fe lines, and never lost interest in persons he grew fond of so easily.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Carrie Hise Marriott; a son, Charles D. Marriott of Slaton; three granddaughters, Mrs. Wade Thompson, Mrs. Vaskar Browning and Miss Ura John Skelton, all of Slaton; a grandson, Charles E. Marriott of Sherman; two great grandchildren, Freddie and Dickie Marriott of Sherman; two step-children, Mrs. D. I. Skelton and G. E. Taylor, both of Slaton, and a sister Mrs. Caroline Summers of Maitland, Mo.

Mrs. Summers survived her brother only one hour, Slaton relatives have been informed.

day on Feb. 6, 1935, when she pined for a dachshund but never got it.

"He was just here but no dog and no cupboard," the diary read. "He didn't even ask me whether I had a birthday wish. So now I brought myself some jewelry—a necklace with earrings and ring to match. Everything very pretty. I hope he likes it. If not he may buy me something himself."

Once when Hitler left without saying goodbye, after Eva said they had "spent a few wonderful hours" together, she wrote:

"I ony wish I were seriously ill for at least eight days and to hear nothing of him. Why doesn't something happen to me? Why do I have to suffer like this? I wish I had never seen him. I am desperate and I'm now going to buy some more sleeping tablets and at least then I'll be half-dazed and won't think about him so much.

Two Persons Injured In Car-Truck Wreck

Two persons were injured, one critically, as result of an automobile-truck collision at the intersection of Ave. K and Seventh late Tuesday.

Mrs. Mariana Segura, who was riding in a truck with her husband and 13-months old baby, suffered a possible skull fracture and lacerations of the scalp and late last night had not regained consciousness. At West Texas hospital where the victims were rushed in a Sanders funeral home ambulance, Mrs. Segura later gave birth to a baby, which was born dead, hospital attendants said.

J. W. Calvert of 306 Vernon, who was in the car, received a broken shoulder as result of the collision, and was still in the hospital late last night.

Segura and the child were treated for bruises.

Police investigation of the accident was incomplete.

from vast distances."

Despite head winds in the hours immediately after take-off and the seven weather fronts that built up high-piling clouds with turbulence and ice, the Superfortress had 300 gallons of fuel left when it landed. That would have been enough to have kept it in the air for another hour and a half with the same favoring tail winds which sped the last hours of the flight.

The crew husbanded their 11,110 gallons of gasoline from the moment of take-off. The big bomber never climbed above 50 feet for the first five hours in order to conserve the fuel required to lift the 141,000 pounds of plane and gasoline to higher altitudes. Although the flight plan had contemplated altitudes above 15,000 feet, the B-29 never went above 12,000 even coming across the Rocky mountains.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, AAF commander of air forces in the Pacific, radioed commendation for "another world's record to the credit of the United States."

ning the peace" and urged the workers to "forget self for a while in the interest of making this Victory loan a success." He said that money put into Victory bonds is an "excellent investment at this time."

John Vickers, discharged recently from service, commented: "Every returning veteran is well convinced that the home front during the war has endeavored in the past to do everything possible in sharing its part of the war job." And he expressed belief that the people will not fail in the latest bond undertaking.

Vickers reminded that the money the government realizes from the current campaign will be used to supply necessities to the millions of service men not yet returned to civilian life and for proper care of the wounded.

M. D. Fanning of the chamber of commerce staff outlined details of the campaign and advised workers that they suggest to bond investors to exercise patience in regard to the processing of bonds by financial institutions. He pointed out the campaign would entail a flood of work for banks and other issuing agencies, and that they might find it difficult to keep pace with the drive.

The Lubbock Real Estate board, through its officials, has offered its services in behalf of the campaign, and a large part of its membership was present at today's rally.

Tom Miller, club president, presided. Other speakers were Dean Emertius A. H. Leidigh, Dean W. L. Stangel, Dr. A. W. Young and L. G. Harmon, all of the Department of Agriculture.

Mexican Youth Dies In Fall From Truck

Jessie Villareal, about 12, of 118 Ave. M, was killed about 5 p. m. Tuesday four miles north of Lubbock when he fell off a truck and the rear wheels rolled over him.

A report by the sheriff's department said the youth had been pulling bolls and caught a ride on the truck, driven by Lupe Rabago, 109 Ave. L.

Peacetime Military Training Is OK'd By War Vets By 4-1 Vote

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Veterans of this war are overwhelmingly in favor of universal military training in peacetime.

Eight in every ten in a cross-section survey of the men who have been discharged from the service so far think all able-bodied young men should be required in the future to have a year's military or naval training.

This vote on the part of the men who have had first-hand experience with military life is actually more in favor of universal peacetime training than the vote of the civilian population.

The results:

"In the future do you think every able-bodied young man should be required to take military or naval training for one year?"

WORLD WAR II VETS

Yes	80%
No	18
No opinion	2

The vote for the nation as a whole is 75 per cent in favor, 21 per cent opposed and 4 per cent no opinion, as reported earlier this week

In the House Military Affairs committee the peacetime training bill has taken on a partisan aspect, a group of Republican members having last week moved unsuccessfully to delay consideration of the measure.

Among the rank and file of the country's voters, however, post-war military training is overwhelmingly supported by the voters of both parties, judging by the following poll results:

	Yes	No	No Op.
Republicans	70%	27%	3%
Democrats	79	18	3

A test of sentiment by age groups in the adult population, by sex, and by occupation has likewise been made by the Institute, with the following results:

	Yes	No	No Op.
By age
21-29	78%	19%	3%
30-49	75	21	4
50 and over	73	23	4

Trial Of Top-Ranking Nazis To Be Talked In Berlin's Schools

BERLIN, Nov. 20. (AP) — The Nuernberg war crimes trial was made the top-ranking subject in all Berlin schools today, as teachers sought to impress the former "Hitler's children" with Germany's war guilt and Allied justice.

Daily discussion periods will be held throughout the course of the trial for all children between the ages of 12 and 18, under a plan supervised by Karl Schulte, deputy mayor and educational commissioner.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The independent school district of El Paso, Tex., asked communications commission authority today to operate a non-commercial educational station.

New Methods Talked On Harvesting Grain

Conservation of time, labor and grain are expected results of new work methods, of baling and storing grain and sweet sorghum fodder, employed this year by Texas Tech's division of agriculture, W. L. Stangel, dean, announced.

It has been customary for the division to cut and stack the feed in bundles, leave it in the fields and thereby lose much grain. "Because of late feed crops and labor shortages, officials of the division felt we must employ new harvesting methods," Dean Stangel said.

Agriculture experts at the college said they believe this will be their future method of harvesting feed crops, even in good years. Advantages of this method are it avoids waste, simplifies and accelerates hauling feed from fields, and bales are easier to feed than bundles, the dean explained.

The total intercity movement of commerce of all kinds in the United States this year will be more than a trillion ton-miles, it is estimated.

Westerners Set Defense To Use Against Amarillo Club

The last hard session at Chapman field was unreeled Tuesday afternoon, and the Lubbock Westerners turned their attention to a defense to stop Harland Collins and company the Amarillo Sandies, Thursday afternoon in Amarillo's Butler field.

The Westerners will enter the game a decided underdog, but hope to have a few surprises to spring on the mighty Sandies, while local fans look forward to seeing an offensive duel between Lubbock's George Brewer, the best backfield man in the district, and Amarillo's Collins, sure to be named one of the four top backs.

E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director of Lubbock schools, said Tuesday night that every ticket sent here for the game has been sold, but warned that several reservations have not been picked up. He warned that unless these tickets were claimed by 10 a. m. today, they would be resold.

Tradition will be deeply rooted in Amarillo's Butler field Thursday afternoon when Coaches Dixie White and George Philbrick take their Lubbock Westerners into town for the season's finale for the Westerners.

Amarillo will be shooting the works, trying to keep the season's record intact and go into the final game at Pampa on Dec. 1 with an unblemished record.

It was Nov. 30, 1939, that the Sandies were beaten 9 to 7 by the Cinderella Kids from Lubbock, and since that time, the Sandies have trampled over 42 straight foes, and are still seeking to equal the old record of 54 straight that was shattered in 1935 when an unknown Norman club came down out of Oklahoma's sandhills and blasted the Sandies, 26 to 7. That was the first loss since Butler field was built in 1928.

The record on Butler field is 124 wins, four losses and one tie. The other wins were both 7-6 affairs to Classen High of Oklahoma City in 1938 and to Austin High of El Paso in 1939.

War Department Raps Charges Of Favorites

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP) — The War Department said today it doubted if "preferential treatment" is being accorded big-name athletes for demobilization in the Pacific, but it added that the matter will be "run down."

The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes yesterday said editorially that demobilization of baseball, football and other athletic stars with low point scores is undermining morale of service men.

STANDING ROOM ONLY

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20 (AP)—The New Orleans mid-winter sports association has hung out the "standing room only" sign and closed the box office for its 12th annual Sugar Bowl grid meeting here New Year's day.

Red Raiders Get Defensive Drill

A defense against well known spreads and triple wing offenses of the once beaten New Mexico Lobos took up most of the afternoon session Tuesday afternoon at Tech stadium, as Coach Dell Morgan started shaping up his team for the clash with the Lobos Saturday afternoon at Albuquerque.

The Red Raiders were without the services of R. W. Moyers, starting left end, Tuesday afternoon, and it was reported that Moyers had reinjured his knee in the Oklahoma Aggie game last week, and may not be able to play Saturday against the Lobos.

BOWL BOSS TO GAME

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 20 (AP)—Sun Bowl officials today said they were awaiting the outcome of the Texas Tech-New Mexico game Saturday in Albuquerque before deciding on teams to be invited to appear in the New Year's day classic.

Bus Gillett, chairman of the selection committee, announced he would fly to Albuquerque to see the game. He planned to confer afterward with coaches and officials of the two Border Conference chools.

Gillett said a 46-6 loss to Oklahoma A. and M. did not eliminate Texas Tech from consideration. "I do think, however, that New Mexico has a better record to date," he observed.

The knee was injured two years ago in playing with the Lubbock Westerners, and had handicapped Moyers since that time.

At the same time, the club welcomed back Arthur Shahan, letterman halfback, who has been out of the last few games with a shoulder injury, but hopes to get back into action for the final game.

The once beaten Lobos are being talked for a Sun Bowl bid, if they can get by the Red Raiders Saturday, but some talk of the Red Raiders being tendered the bid, if they upset the Lobos. Tech officials didn't show too much interest in the Sun Bowl offer, however.

CLASS A CO-CHAMPS

HOUSTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—Aldine and Webster were declared co-champions of District 27-A by the loop executive committee.

The committee, meeting here yesterday also voted Webster as their representative in the Class A playoffs. Webster will meet Pasadena, District 28-A champion in a bi-district game, date and site of which will be determined later.

GEORGE HALAS BACK

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (U.P.)—Cmdr. George Halas, just returned from extended service in the Pacific, was scheduled to arrive home today to resume his dtuies as owner-coach of the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Class B Playoff Set At Haskell

HASKELL, Nov. 20. (Special)—Bounding back afer two early season losses, the Rochester Steers, winner of District 2-B, will tangle with the Meadow Bronchos, winners of District 1-B, here Friday night at 7:30 o'clock.

It will be the second time in as many years that the Meadow club has rolled into the bi-district finals, the peak for Class B schools to attain, losing last year to Leuders in the finals.

Rochester lost the season's opener to Class A Munday Moguls 26 to 0, then after a pair of impressive wins, Rochester fell before the Class A Archer City Wildcats, 14-0.

The Steers then launched a five game winning streak that landed them in the playoff game. Beating Leuders, defending champions, 6-0, rolling over Woodson, 45-0, walloping Trent 25-7, nosing out Rule 18-12, and then closing with a 32 to 6 win over Weinert last week.

The Steers have scored 172 points, allowing the opponents 71. The record for the Meadow club shows 229 points, while allowing the opponents 68 points.

The Steers feature a small, fast team. The club is sparked by Billy McGuire, a versatile fullback, and a little scatback, 120 pound Jack Gauntt.

Weadow won the title last week with a 14-13 thriller over the Hale Center Owls in Tech stadium at Lubbock.

Seagraves, Seminole Close Season Today

SEMINOLE, Nov. 20. (Special)—All chances at the flag are gone, but the largest crowd in Seminole football history is expected to turn out here tomorrow night at 7 o'clock to see the Seminole Indians and Seagraves Eagles close the season.

As well as being the last game of the season, this is the last game for seven of the Indians' 24 lettermen. Three of these, Howard Metcalf, Donald Patton and Fred Blair are regular starters. Others are Floyd Mock, C. D. Wickson, Melmer Zimmerman and Bobby Walker.

Between halves, Miss Vernoise Littrell will be crowned football queen of Seminole High school by Patton, who with Fred Blair, is honorary co-captain for 1945.

Before the game last week with Sundown, the Rotary club of Seminole promised to sponsor a trip for the lettermen to the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas New Year's day, if the club won the two remaining games, and a victory over Seagraves Wednesday would win this trip.

The game is sponsored by the Seminole Lions club, and as an added attraction they will give away a shetland pony and saddle at the game.

Dogies, Wranglers Play Scoreless Tie

Playing a great defensive battle, the Wilson Wranglers toppled the undefeated, untied Dupre Dogies from the select circle with a scoreless tie Tuesday afternoon in the Dupre bowl game.

The great kicking of Billy Pressley kept the Dogies in the hole most of the afternoon, and was the outstanding feats of the game. However, it was a backfire on one of Presley's kicks that gave the Dogies the only scoring chance of the game.

The kick was blocked, and the Dogies took over on the Wilson 10 yard line, but couldn't punch over the score.

The game had no bearing on the Dupre title, and was played at the request of Wilson officials, who wanted another chance after losing to the Dogies 6-0 in the season's opener.

DiMaggio Confident He'll Be Set To Go

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP) — Although he has played only a shade out one month of service baseball in the past two years and is crowding his 31st birthday, Joe DiMaggio, greatest of present day players, expressed confidence today that he would be able to whip himself back into top form next spring.

Putting a biscuit dough or corn meal mush lid on a meat pie will help stretch it.

Army, Oklahoma Ags Set Offensive Pace

DALLAS, Nov. 20. (AP)—Army and Oklahoma A. and M.—the nation's top offensive teams—are grinding out yardage in greater abundance than any previous college gridiron elevens in modern times.

The mighty Cadet powerhouse, with 488.2 yards average per game, led past the half-way mark—through contests of Nov. 3—according to statistics announced today by Homer F. Cooke, Jr., director of the National Collegiate Athletic bureau.

Both Show Power

The Army eleven rolled up 2295 yards rushing and 633 passing in 350 offensive plays. The Aggies, in five games, showed 1663 rushing and 645 passing in 321 plays—an average of 461.6 per game.

Swinging along in third place came Alabama with an average of 429.2 in five games with St. Mary's fourth with 398 in six.

In rushing it's Army with an average of 382.7 per game, while the Aggies are second with 332.6. Louisiana State is just 1.3 yards behind Oklahoma A. and M. with its 331.3 average in six contests.

St. Mary's Pass Leader

St. Mary's tops the passing teams with an average of 169.8 per game. The Gaels have thrown 114 passes and completed 56 56 for 1u19 yards. Ranking second is Cornell with 138 passes attempted with 68 connections for an average of 156.2 in six engagements.

In punting Miami (Fla) university, as the result of the work of its great kicker, Harry Ghaul, is in front with an average of 40.17 on 48 boots. St. Mary's comes along second with an average of 39.57 on 21 kicks.

A year ago Army set a scoring mark of 504 points but was outgained by Tulsa's Golden Hurricane which average an all-time high of 434.7 to Army's 430.8 yards per game by combined rushing and passing. The current Cadet edition is less prolific in scoring but is bowling along at a terrific clip between the goal stripes.

Southern Methodist ranks seventh in the nation in pass offense with 131.7 average per game in seven games. Texas Christian is tenth with 120.3 in six contests.

Team Wrestling To Make Debut Tonight

Team wrestling will make its debut in Lubbock tonight with the main event of the regular weekly Wednesday night card at the Lubbock Horse and Mule auction arena a 90 minute time limit scrap between two-man teams.

The Hood, the masked grappler, will team with Gorilla Poggi, a well know matster returning to Lubbock fo rthe first time in several years. Against this team will be two boys familiar with the fans here since the return of wrestling to Lubbock, Tony Ross and Milt Olsen.

Team wrestling has been popular in many places of late, and the rules were explained this week by Promoter Pete Hallas.

Only one wrestler of a team is allowed in the ring at a time, while his partner is outside the ring, holding to a short section of rope tied to the ringpost. The wrestler inside the ring must touch his partner outside before the partner can come inside, and take over for him.

The only other match on the card, a one hour time limit match, will pair Ivan Jones with Jose Manuel.

Rice Owls Lose Star Back By Call To Navy

HOUSTON, Nov. 20 (U.P.)—Rice Institute football team, the outfit that never quits, today was without its brainy halfback, Bob Nemir, as it worked out for Saturday's game with Texas Christian at Fort Worth.

Nemir, winner of the Texas game, was ordered to San Francisco Saturday and departed immediately after the Texas A. and M. game. A Navy man, he was ommissioned three weeks ago but remained at Rice pending travel orders.

Football Boom Here, Slippery Rock Back

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Nov. 20 Down through the years of sport "Old Slippery Rock" has become as legendary as "Old Siwash."

How often have you heard on a Saturday night as the football results poured in: "Yeah, I know about Yale, but what did Old Slippery Rock do?"

Slippery Rock Is Real

It became a by-word; the name intrigued. Today, many persons think it's a mythical school—that it's like that "I would die for dear old Siwash" line.

But Slippery Rock is real. It's a state teachers college, a small school in western Pennsylvania—and it's bac kin the football schedules after a three-year wartime lapse.

The college, which takes its name from this picturesque town of 1200, is located about 50 miles from Pittsburgh. Legend says the town got its name when a white settler, fleeing from hostile Indians, explained his subsequent surrender with a laconic "Slippery Rock."

Known As Rockets

Slippery Rocks' athletic men are known as "The Rocket." Their teams were hit hard by the war, since the school specializes in physical education.

Their basketball teams got going again last fall with a 24-game schedule and just nine boys—the entire male enrollment at that time. The cagers gathered steam and three additional boys who registered for winter classes and won almost all their games. Now that the war's over, the enrollment is growing.

Slippery Rock always has produced good football, basketball, baseball and track teams. It plays college teams in its class in the tri-state area of western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia, among them Westminster, Allegeny, Thiel, Grove City, Waynesburg, Bethany (W. Va.) and Fairmont (W. Va.) State Teachers college.

They Play For Fun

The head coach is quiet, soft-spoken N. Kerr Thompson who has held the job for 33 years. He and the school step along hand in hand: both are 57 years old.

The Rockets play for the fun of the game, says Thompson, who takes his material as it comes and makes the best of it.

In 1913, his first year at Slippery Rock, Thompson produced a football team that swept aside all opposition, including the Edinboro (Pa.) Teachers—a traditional rival—by a 102 to 0 score.

The Rockets repeated with unbeaten seasons in 1923, 1934 and 1939. In four other seasons they lost only a single game.

The school enrollment in normal times showed about 275 men and 400 women. Right now the males are outnumbered by the girls, 230 to 55. It is one of 14 state teachers colleges in Pennsylvania. Established as a normal school in 1889, it was taken over by the state in 1925.

Sugar Bowl Has Eyes To West

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20 (AP)—For the first time in its 12-year history, the Sugar Bowl may look westward for both its New Year's day football choices—specifically to St. Mary's of California and to Oklahoma A. and M.

Each has been scouted by Sugar Bowl members. Army and Alabama are the only bowl possibilities ranking above them in the Associated Press' weekly poll of outstanding college teams; and it is quite possible that Army will spurn all offers, and that Alabama will take its sixth trip to the Rose Bowl.

Three times the Sugar Bowl has paired two clubs from east of the Mississippi, but never have both contestants come from the west—although four times a Western team has met Tulane or Louisiana State university, whose players could get to the sunset side of Ole Man River with a short walk and a nickel ferry fare.

Louisiana State, incidentally, might well get into the Sugar Bowl again. The Bayou Tigers, beaten by Alabama and Mississippi State, have only a so-so Tulane team yet to meet.

An Alabama victory over Mississippi State would leave LSU as the Southeast's second club by virtue of seven major conquests—counting Tulane a victim.

There is strong neighborhood pressure on the Sugar Bowlers to invite the State Tigers, who play a daring, open, sudden-death game that always thrills the crowd. The argument is brought forth also that LSU, beaten twice in a season that included only big-time opponents, is more desirable than St. Mary's with one spot of tarnish on a less impressive schedule.

Of course, if Mississippi State upsets Alabama—but the Sugar Bowlers don't like to think of such a confusing situation.

HOUSING SHORTAGE

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 20 (AP) Marchie Schwartz, Stanford football coach, in desperation today offered two tickets on the 50-yard line for next year's Stanford-California "big game" to anyone who would find him a two or three room house in this vicinity.

In 1944, U. S. railroads did a passenger job equivalent to carrying almost one billion passengers for an average journey of 100 miles.

Clipping Japan's Wings

New MacArthur Ban Is Wise One

ANYONE who says we're not picking the Jap chicken clean needs a new head.

General MacArthur's supply of hard-hitting directives seems boundless, and every day the Japs are rendered more helpless.

It may be that all the bowing and scraping the Japs are doing now is just simulated courtesy. It's possible they're just ducking the general's fast ball!

One of the latest and most important decrees was that ordering Japan's civil aviation industry wiped out. The directive forbade private-flying, pilot training of any sort, ownership of flying planes and any aerial research. Ownership or manufacture of working models of planes or balloons is prohibited, as is teaching or research in aeronautics, aerodynamics and allied fields.

By this act, the United States stripped away a possible nucleus for a future enemy military air force. Japan otherwise might have followed the example of this country, which built up the greatest air force in the world largely upon the research knowledge and know-how developed through years of civil aviation progress. And Germany trained pilots for her Luftwaffe by making a national "sport" of glider flying.

We commend our authorities for placing emphasis on removing Japan's air arm. For a nation may have a strong army and navy, yet not be fully capable of effective defense or attack without strong air power.

"Uncle George" Marriott

DEATH has removed from the scenes he loved so well one of the outstanding personalities of Slaton and the Panhandle & Santa Fe lines—"Uncle George" Marriott. For more years than most of us can remember, Mr. Marriott has been part and parcel of railroading over a broad territory of the Southwest. Even since his retirement from active duty, 10 years ago, Mr. Marriott still has been, at heart, "one of the railroad boys," as well as the recipient of widespread love and respect from his neighbors.

"Uncle George" lived nearly 85 years, but he never became querulous.

His life span covered an American era in which the frontier all but disappeared, the machine took the place of hands and men conquered the air. Yet down to the very last, "Uncle George" kept step with things; continued to be a part of the life which ebbed and flowed about his quiet home; never lost interest in living, or in the welfare of his fellows of all ages.

If any man's life ever proved the sometimes forgotten fact that tremendous wealth and power aren't essential to success in this country, the life of "Uncle George" Marriott did. Never wealthy; a working man throughout his active years; never aspiring to high places in politics, "Uncle George," by the simple expedient of windness and responsibility to duty, left a mark not only upon the lives of his Slaton neighbors, but also a record for good among literally hundreds of railroaders with whom he came into contact over nearly six decades of service in that mighty industry.

"Uncle George" had a full life; an interesting one—and, what is infinitely more, a serviceable one. Tributes by the hundreds have been his these last few days, yet, even so, The Morning Avalanche cannot forego the opportunity to add its own.

We salute him for exactly what he was—for being what no man can surpass—a fine gentleman, a valuable citizen, a good man in the exact sense of the word.

"Uncle George" has earned the highest of accolades by living up to the trust which all men have but few can keep—that of leaving the world a better place than they found it.

Cheering To Cotton Men

THE South Plains and all other cotton producing regions of the South should feel heartened at the report of the Pace Research committee in the national House of Representatives that synthetic cords and fabrics in automobile and truck tires are not superior to those made of cotton.

In an impartial test, cotton cord tires were found to be in excellent condition after high speed under Army tests for 68,000 miles. And, what is especially gratifying to growers, ginners and other cotton men is the prediction that even better cotton cord tires can be made in the near future because of research findings during the last several years.

The test was made by the Army under sponsorship of the National Cotton council, Rubber Reserve company and by experts of the Bureau of Agriculture and Industrial Chemistry.

The use of rayon cord for tires has increased by leaps and bounds during the war, posing a serious threat to cotton, which, before the war, was the main source of cord for tire manufacturers. One pound of cotton out of every eleven consumed in pre-war American markets went into tires.

The Pace report should result in a comeback of cotton in the tire field, and so should mean millions of dollars for cotton farmers.

Today's cheerful couplet: A moment brief we sing our song; then Death steps up, gives us the gong.

A NEW LIFE
XXXII

Among my old Russian acquaintances in Paris had been the Ourasoff princesses and a very intelligent, charming woman, Madame Loury. They were making quite a good thing out of the Manioulieff perfume formulas, which they had come by through his widow. Manioulieff had been one of the greatest perfumers the last century had known in Europe.

Neither of the partners in the business had any idea of putting the perfumes on the market in a commercial way, but when I met them I began studying their methods and formulas, spending hours watching Madame Loury blend her fragrances. I mentally registered an intention to take it up seriously on a commercial basis at some future date.

Now after a summer of fair dates in 1939, I was quite ill for some weeks and had to undergo an operation for complications resulting from my last fall. While recuperating I began thinking again of perfumes and the possibility of putting into practice in the United States my plans about them. Curiously, the same week I was giving serious study to the idea, a letter arrived from my Russian friends, saying they were leaving for Switzerland and had an opportunity to send me the formulas through friends coming to New York. There was, Madame Loury wrote, a marvelous opportunity to make money in America now that the European perfumes were rapidly becoming a thing of the past.

I promptly took advice on the subject of such a venture from perfume experts and essential oil houses and found the information of Monsieur de la Vigné, of Maison Roure - Dupont et Cie of France, of the greatest assistance in deciding the first steps necessary to the formation of my project. Through his practical guildance and kind interest, I was able to obtain a reserve of necessary oils and fixatives required for the formulas when they arrived. Chemists and expert blenders went through long tests and research, growing more enthusiastic daily after translating some of the old formulas with solidified ingredients into the more modern liquid preparations.

With these we chose some of the more exquisite fragrances and timidly launched them on the New York market. Their success was astonishing, especially since at that time, 1940, French scents were still procurable, many of them being manufactured in America. Of we made the usual mistake, having no idea how to start a business, plunging into too many perfumes and too many expensive packages at the same time—but we learned, and a year later were on our way toward making a go of a delightful and absorbing business. I never attempted handling anything but the artistic side of the affair (in its way just another branch of show business), such as the creating of titles, packaging for the perfumes, advertising, promotion, and all the mise en scene indispensable to presenting them.

Perhaps some of my happiest perfume titles of recent months have been thought up during long hours spent driving for the American Women's Voluntary Services' Motor Transport Corps—the group of volunteer women who give their time and cars to the services of the Armed Forces.

The financial details of our project were left entirely in the hands of my husband, whose business sense developed with surprising rapidity and whose personality has done much to build our clientele. As our little venture grew, we gradually built an office in the penthouse we found on a hotel rooftop, then a showroom, and then we rented a plant and warehouse downtown, with salesmen and employes. We also bought five dogs—three Bostons and two toy poodles.

When our real good fortune began to establish itself firmly (although it had cost much hard work and sacrifice), it sometimes frightened me. I had become so accustomed to earning my living by intense physical effort and the domination of all self-pity or fear that the compartive ease with which our business grew did not seem real at times. I would wonder if it were only a dream and would suddenly end one morning when once more I would rise to take my rigging to some high tent or theater and look my old friend Death in the face again for eight long minutes.

I still practice nearly every day, for the feeling of the free air rushing against my body and the thrill of a high swing, would be too hard to give up. So I keep my rigging on the roof garden, and often on summer evenings I steal out and climb high above the lights of the city to dream a while.

High above the city it is very quiet, and the roar of traffic is alomst inaudable. Here it is easier to think and reminisce for the throbbling life of the streets seems very far away.

There are fat gray pigeons that come from Central Park, looking for the rice they know I will give them—to the great annoyance of my dogs. They strut and preen themselves, perching on the rigging of my trapeze, which hangs between two slender white poles with dangling ropes against the sky. And that reminds me of a ship and a voyage through summer seas. For there is a feeling of expectancy about this place, and perhaps a promise, just enough to set gypsy wits a-wandering, that when the waiting is at an end, there will once more be ships and travelers and the old familiar places that beckon like a shrine.

COMPLAINTS PROBED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (AP) — Navy Secretary James V. Forrestal has ordered investigation of complaints that a group of Navy pilots at Okinawa were punished for refusal to fly to another island in the face of a typhoon, Rep. Ploeser (R-Mo) said today.

Looking At Life------By Erich Brandeis

A FIELD mouse in Briarcliff Manor, a suburban community near New York, was building a nest. It saw an electric wire which would come in very handy and started to gnaw.

Bing, came a flash and 4000 consumers of electricity were without light and power for almost two hours.

(The mouse, by the way, couldn't quite digest the 13,000 - volt switch with which the wire was loaded and passed out into another and probably better world.)

BRANDEIS

This is really not a very exciting piece of news, and yet, it made me think of other mice who bit off so much more than they could chew.

Take Hitler, for instance. Somenow, even in his palmiest days, he always reminded me — well, not exactly of a mouse, but of a rat — who, just like the little Briarcliff mouse, tried to get stuff for his nest — and look what happened to him.

And there was Emperor Hirohito, that mousy little Jap who had great dreams of an Asiatic co-prosperity sphere — what a shock he got when he found the wire was loaded!

But you don't have to go as far as Germany or Japan to find little mice making a lot of people, and very often getting it in the neck just like that Briarcliff mouse.

You may have a mouse like that in your own community.

It may be an ordinary gossip or a rumor-monger.

A tale is told about some person and the tale is repeated and every time it is repeated it becomes more exaggerated and uglier until the whole community is inflamed. But then it isn't the mouse which loses out but the girl or the boy or the man or the woman about whom the tale is told.

PERSECUTION is often the work of some little field mouse; strikes start that way and riots and wars.

The only difference is that the little Briarcliff mouse really didn't mean an harm, while the inciters of gossip and riots and wars only masquerade as little mice, while in reality they are destructive and evil rats.

According to the rules, every story should have a moral, but unfortunately I don't know the moral fo this one — because you can set traps for mice and rats with four legs, but not for the so-called human kind about which I have been talking.

The only remedy I know is to keep your house clean, so that the rats can't get in.

Navy Changes Coming

Service Will Be "Democratized"

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

ANY ABLE and qualified gob swabbing the decks or toiling down below on a warship of the postwar Navy can become a future King or Leahy or Nimitz or Halsey if he has the stuff it takes to make a top-flight seaman. The future fleet will be a distinctly democratic organization in which a man's merit rather this his social, financial or academic status will be his test.

The long and sometimes irksome reign of a small clique of Annapolis-trained graduates over the U. S. Navy has been broken by the program formed by the House Naval Affairs committee under the leadership of Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia. Thus Mr. Vinson, who has headed this body since December of 1931, caps his career as the recognized "father of the modern fleet" by transforming it into a really American institution.

TUCKER

This far-reaching reform of the officers' corps is embodied in House Bill 4421, which has been reported favorably and is almost certain of passage in the House and Senate. It provides that opportunities for promotion and advancement in grade shall be open to all newcomers and not restricted to alumni of the exclusive academy on the Severn river.

Indeed, under its provisions an enlisted man can become an ensign and then move upward to topside (1) after four years of active service (2) on the recommendation of his commanding officer and (3) on condition that he can pass the necessary examinations.

LIMIT: The proposed fleet, which will consist of 1082 combat units, 5002 auxiliary vessels and 12,000 planes, cannot be manned with sufficient officers under the narrow, prewar system of training. A large proportion of the estimated 58,000 stripers required for the this force must come from fresh sources.

Before Pearl Harbor only a handful of the total of 11,000 naval officers had not attended Annapolis. When the Japs surrendered on the deck of the USS Missouri, academy men constituted only a small porportion of the officer corps. Missouri, academy men constituted only a small proportion of the officer corps.

More than 300,000 Reservists saw duty during the recent conflict, and many want to remain. Under existing law they cannot continue as commanders of the permanent, postwar Navy unless they are graduates of an ROTC or of an aviation cadet school. That provision limits the number to far below the total that will be needed for the contemplated fleet, air arm and the 40-odd offshore bases.

To correct this situation, House Bill 4421 contains this significant and novel preamble, which might be described as the Magna Charta for youngsters ambitious for a career on the waves.

SOURCE: "Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

"That in order to remove any apprehension on the part of Naval Reserve officers regarding their opportunities in event of their transfer to the Regular Navy, it is hereby declared to be the policy of the Congress that in all matters relating to commissioned officers in the Regular Navy, there shall be no discrimination whatsoever against officers because of the source from which they entered the Regular Navy, and that no preference shall be given officers by reason of the fact that they entered the Regular Navy from any particular source."

PROPORTIONATE: The same measure also insures that no Annapolis or other clique can hand out promotional favors to their friends, as has happened in the past. It provides that the selection boards which pass on a man's qualifications for advancement shall have a membership proportionate to the percentage of officers who have joined the Service by different routes.

Thus, if the officers' corps consists of 20 per cent from Annapolis, 20 per cent from ROTC and aviation cadet schools, and 60 per cent from the Reserve, the selection boards shall be organized on the same proportionate basis. The cards cannot be stacked or dealt from the topside deck.

MISSION: "Big Navy" believers, including top-flight admirals and their Congressional sidekicks in House and Senate, secretly worry over the effect of the atomic bomb will have on the composition of the postwar fleet. Pending a test of the cosmic weapon on warships at sea, however, they maintain that the new missile reinforces their arguments for an even larger establishment and more offshore bases.

They point out that the Navy's mission is to control the seas essential to our national security by whatever weapons are most effective. As yet, they insist, there has been offered no proof that control of the seas can be effected with atomic and rocket bombs — to the exclusion of a Navy.

The atomic bomb, as of today and perhaps for many years, in their opinion, will require land or carrier-based planes to deliver it over the target, whetner it be Hiroshima or New York City. In indignant answer to "Jimmie" Doolittle's demand for merger of the services, they note that it was the aircarrier Hornet which brought him within range of Tokyo for the first memorable bombing of Japan.

ANSWER: The gold-braiders argue that the best known offensive — or defensive — against the atomic bomb is intercepting air power. They contend that scuttling of the Navy and a lack of far-flung bases would mean the loss of control over those advance intercepting areas.

Hinting at new laboratory discoveries, the "Big Navy" spokesmen reply that the science of warfare has always discovered a countermeasure for every new weapon of destruction. It is believed that atomic bombs and rocket planes can be exploded far short of their objectives without the necessity of locating their exact positions.

With radar and electronic devices — and a screen of ships far out to sea — they insist that the world's most powerful armada, for the moment at least, is the answer to the atom.

GI COLLEGE WRINKLE
By Rowland Evans, Jr.

THERE'S a peculiar wrinkle in the GI Bill of Rights of which a smart veteran might want to take advantage.

As the law is now written, a high school graduate veteran who can lay claim to the full amount of free education can get through four years of college and to within one year or less of a law degree, all within the allowed time limit.

Here's why and how:

Four years is the maximum time any veteran may get free schooling under the GI bill.

Four years is four years . . . or is it? A school year is only eight or nine months. A calendar year is 12. But the four years allowed under the law are calendar years.

Now then—for each "ordinary school year" the government will pay up to $500 for tuition and other essential fees. That raises the question: How long is an "ordinary school year?"

Veterans administration has decreed that an ordinary school year is from 30 to 38 weeks.

BEFORE the war few colleges or universities allowed students to complete more than one school year in one calendar year.

But wartime lack of doctors, engineers and other specialists forced many schools to give year-around training.

Some schools which tried the heavy duty curriculum may retain it.

So, instead of using up his four allowance calendar years, the veteran can zoom through a four-year course in about two and a half years by cramming "normal school years" into that time. That leaves him a year and a half to get a start, and almost a finish, on a post graduate course. Of course he won't get any vacations to speak of.

A Californian spent his vacation trying to find his wife, thereby reversing the usual procedure.

Scientists Chart Path For Future Peace
Science Gains Place In World

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—It's about time somebody gave credit to the scientists for their effective campaign for international control of the atomic bomb and freedom of information in developing the atomic discovery for the good of mankind.

STOKES

They created the terrible weapon and, at the same time, opened the way for utilization of the discovery to make life better for all of us. Scientists have created many things before, with potentialities both dangerous and beneficial.

But this time they have boldly accepted their responsibility, even though it took them into the unfamiliar field of politics. The fearfulness of their handiwork shook them into a realization of their social and political obligation. They organized for action and have been most helpful.

Urge Russian Aid

They began to agitate for international control as the only way to save the world from destroying itself. The results are now seen in the agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Canada, which is a starter, even though delayed. Finally the scientists stirred usually slow-moving politicians to act. It took time. But they persisted.

Now they are urging the next step which is to enlist Russia through a conference with the United States and Great Britain.

The scientists have won their right to share in political decisions. Some alert political leaders are aware of the necessity that they do. For one, Senator Ball (R., Minn.) suggested recently that scientists make up half the delegates, politicians the other half, in a conference he proposed to revise and strengthen the United Nations organization so that it can better perform its work.

MUCH of the world's trouble has been diagnosed as due to the inability of man to keep up with science in his political attitudes and political institutions. There were inequities in distribution of the benefits of science because of human selfishness that expressed itself through monopolies, both domestic monopolies and those international monopolies we call cartels.

This has helpel to promote wars and, once war started, scientific knowledge succeeded in making it more and more devastating and horrible until we now have come to release of the ultimate and most distructive force to kill one another.

Scientists Can Help

This has done one thing, which is a blessing. That is to give the scientists, at long last, his rightful place alongside the politician. Hereafter, it is hoped, he will contribute his ideas to the adjustment that must come in political thinking and changes in political institutions ,both national and international.

It is his responsibility. He has accepted it. Politicians now must accept him.

The scientists also have contributed to another advance.

This is the pooling of all scientific knowledge internationally, with freedom of access to all. This can do more to dissolve national barriers than anything yet proposed, for it will help improve the condition of man everywhere and remove the jealousies and frictions that produce wars.

THIS, of itself, should help break down international cartels, those aggregations of wealth and power that were above political governments and often dictated to political governments. For it was the exclusive knowledge protected by exclusive agreements that gave these their financial and economic strength. This was what made it possible for Germany to re-arm herself so effectively. It was this, too, that hampered other nations, among them our own, in trying to defend themselves and to combat the rule of Nazism.

The scientists have much to contribute in dealing with the problems that confront us.

City To Seek Honors In Safety Contest

The City of Lubbock has been entered in the National Pedestrian Protection contest, sponsored by the American Automobile association, in accordance with approval by Mayor O. W. Ribble. The Junior Chamber of Commerce, currently sponsoring a safety campaign here, requested and received permission to enter this city.

In 1944 there were 1,159 cities entered from all 48 states. Local police officials say that there have been no pedestrian fatalities due to automobile accidents during the year.

Lubbock has for 11 consecutive years won the national honor of "the cleanest city" and for three consecutive years, 1941, 1942 and 1943 has won the Texas Traffic Safety contest from the Texas Safety association.

James J Steele, director of the Jaycee drive here, commended the city on its records and urged observance of safe walking rules as requested by the city police department.

Steele pointed out that in cities with over 10,000 population one-third of the pedestrians killed were crossing between intersections and more than one-fourth were killed crossing at intersections which had no traffic lights.

Green vegetables should be used while fresh and before they wilt to get the most Vitamin C.

Comanche Couple Are Parents Of Triplets In Unusual Operation

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 20. (AP) — Married 15 years, Irwin Norwood, 36, and Eunice Faulkner Norwood, 37, have triplet girls their first born today.

The babies were born at a hospital in which may have been the first successful triplet caesarean delivery in medical history. The daughters weighed slightly over three pounds each—10 pounds 9 ounces aggregate.

They are in incubators and as yet unnanmed.

Dr. Homer B. Allen, who with Paul Wheelic, made delivery, could recall no similar surgical case. They said the mother was "doing nicely."

Father Irvin, farmer living 3½ miles northeast of Comanche, said he was "very excited but I wish there was a boy in the bunch. I need farm help badly."

The tiniest Norwood weighs three pounds and five ounces; the huskiest three pounds and thirteen ounces.

Both parents are natives of Comanche county.

STOCKS SHOW NEW STRENGTH

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—Strength of specialties today spread to other sections of the stock market in the final hour and gains of fractions to more than two points for rails, steels, coppers, sugars, amusements and assorted industrials helped put the over-all average at a 14-year peak.

Of 2,180,000 shares for the day, 850,000 changed hands in the last 60 minutes. The total compared with 2,020,000 Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .5 of a point at 75.8. At the best level since April 14, 1931. The rails touched a high since March 17, 1937 and the industrials a top since Aug. 16, 1937.

Prominent on the upswing, many in the "new high" class, were Southern Pacific, St. Paul common and preferred, Anaconda, Kennecott, Warner Bros., West Indies Sugar, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Loew's, Fajardo Sugar, Douglas Aircraft and Texas Co.

On the offside were American Telephone, North American, General Electric, Du Pont, Johns-Manville and Woolworth. Carrier bonds recovered.

Report On the War

By General George C. Marshall

Biennial Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army 1943 to 1945, to the Secretary of War

Published by NEA Service, Inc., in co-operation with the War Department of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham. Vice Admiral Harry K. Hewitt was the senior U. S. Naval officer.

A wind which had sprung up the night preceding D-day attained near gale proportions as our convoys approached their rendezvous. The wind subsided somewhat before H-hour, but conditions continued quite unfavorable for landing. In compensation, the storm had put the beach defenders off their guard.

General Eisenhower wrote me 17 July:

". . . All the initial invasion moves were carried out smoothly, and an astonishing lack of resistance was encountered on the shoreline. Captured Italian generals say we secured complete surprise. The airborne operations, which were executed about three hours ahead of the landing, were apparently the first real notice the defenders had of what was coming. Our parachutists and the British glider troops got fairly well into their positions in spite of very high winds and bad navigating conditions. The landings on the east coast were not greatly troubled by the weather, but the 45th and 1st Divisions had an extremely bad suft. Admiral Cunningham told me that he considered the United States Navy landing operations, under Admiral Kirk (with the 45th Division), to be one of the finest examples of seamanship he had ever witnessed. . . . "

Casualties From Own Fire

The wind also disrupted our airborne landings which were scheduled to be made inland from Gela a few hours before H-hour. Although scattered over a wide area and suffering heavy casualties from our own fire directed at transport formations which were off the prescribed course, the paratroops had a decisive effect on the successful landings.

General Eisendower described these tragic difficulties as follows:

". . . The most difficult thing we have to solve is to work out methods whereby friendly aircraft can work over our troops and vessels with safety. Take for example one operation: We were quite anxious to assemble all the fighting elements of the 82d Division in the rear of Patton's line as a general reserve, since all the evidence showed that he might receive some rather serious counterattacks. Two nights after the original landing, we laid on a very carefully coordinated plan for bringing in the remainder of the 82nd Division. Sea lanes were established with the Navy and all troops were carefully warned as to what to expect. In spite of this, the troop-carrying planes encountered some fire before they got over the shore and from then on we had a very unfortunate experience. Some German night bombers came in at the same moment that our troop-carrying planes did and the dropping of bombs and flares made all the ground troops open up a maximum fire. In addition to this, a local counterattack, which took place at too late an hour to warn the airborne troops, apparently allowed the enemy to establish a fire zone near the selected landing ground. The combination of all these things resulted in quite serious losses. My present reports are that we lost 23 planes, while personnel losses as yet are unestimated.

"A later operation on the British front brought out the lesson that when we land airborne troops in hostile territory, we should not do so in successive waves, but should do it all at once. In the first wave, where we had surprise, losses were negligible, but in the two succeeding waves they were very large.

"Even in the daytime we have great trouble in preventing our own naval and land forces from firing on friendly planes. This seems particularly odd in this operation, where we have such great air superiority that the presumption is that any plane flying in a straight and level course is friendly. Spaatz has written Arnold at considerable length on this subject, and he is convinced, as I am that we are going to have to do some very earnest basic training in both ground and naval forces. Otherwise, we will finally get our air forces to the point where they will simply refuse to come over when we want them. . . ."

Success of Landings

By sunrise, three hours after the assault, beachheads had been established along 100 miles of coast, from just south of Syracuse to west of Licata. Our troops were moving inland, northeast of Gela, and D + 1, when the Germans directed a heavy armored counterattack against the 1st division. It was beaten off largely through expert use of artillery and naval gun fire. This action provided the most critical moment of the invasion.

The problems of supply over the beaches were especially acute during the first two days. The needs of the combat troops were urgent but adverse weather and occasional enemy air attacks made unloading of ships difficult and hazardous. The beach-supply operation first proved the excellence of our 2½-ton amphibious truck, the "DUKW," an official designation which quickly became popularized as "DUCK."

General Eisenhower advised me:

". . . Last Monday morning I made a quick tour along the American beaches, in order to get a visual picture of unloading operations and also to have a personal visit with Hewitt and Patton. I must say that the sight of hundreds of vessels, with landing craft everywhere, operating along the shoreline from Licata on the eastward, was unforgettable. Everybody I saw was in good heart and anxious to get ahead . . ."

Former Evangelist In Court To Name Father Of Her Baby Daughter

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Nov. 20 (UP)—Gladys Beard, 38, one-time banjo-playing evangelist, was in court today in an attempt to name Lawrence I. Goodrich, 55, the father of her baby daughter.

In a hall outside the courtroom, an eight month old brown-haired girl, dressed in an imitation white fur coat, rocked in the arms of a nurse.

Miss Beard referred to the child in court as "Edwena"—that's the only name she has.

Although her mother referred to her simply as "Edwena," a birth certificate was introduced calling the child "Edwena Beard."

Throughout the swearing of the jury, Goodrich, a former minister, and his wife, a rather sternlooking woman, sat quietly at the counsel table.

Paul Thomas, special prosecutor, said he would show how Goodrich picked up the former evangelist in 1941 as she ran for a street car, how that ride ripened into love and how Edwena came along.

The civil action was brought in an attempt to determine the paternity and to fix costs for rearing and education of the child.

Inmates of American prisons voluntarily gave 100,695 pints of blood to the armed forces during the war.

Bond Election Set Dec. 11 For Vote On Big Expansion Program

December 11 was set as the date for the vote on Lubbock's $5,894,000 five-year expansion program bonds by the City commissioners in a special Tuesday morning meeting in the City hall.

Taxpayers will be given the opportunity to vote on the bonds in fourteen different propositions. All bonds will be tax bonds, it was decided after members of the commission had voted to refuse to issue trust indentures and a mortgage against the city water system in order to make the water and sewer bonds revenue bonds.

Propositions On Ballot

The election ballot will carry the following propositions:

Proposition Number One: for the issuance of the City hall building bonds and levying of taxes in payment thereof; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Two: for the issuance of the fire station building bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Three: for the issuance of the police station building bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Four: for the issuance of equipment storage and garage building bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Five: for the issuance of the fire equipment bonds, etc.; and against issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Six: for the issuance of the park bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Seven: for the issuance of the municipal airport improvement bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Eight: for the issuance of public building auditorium-coliseum bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Nine: for the issuance of storm sewer extension bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Ten: for the issuance of street improvement bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Eleven: for the issuance of street lighting bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Twelve: for the issuance of the sewer extension bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Thirteen: for the issuance of the water system extension bonds, etc.; and against the issuance, etc.

Proposition Number Fourteen: for the issuance of water treating and softening bonds, etc.; and aginst issuance, etc.

Previously, commissioners had tentatively decided to group various projects of the program under a smaller number of headings but after consideration of the matter decided to give the voters an opportunity to express their sentiment on each project separately.

The election will be conducted at the Central Fire station at the corner of Tenth and Ave. J. Glen Hess was named presiding judge and R. Bush Smith, W. E. Ballew J. L. Murfee and K. T. Thomas, clerks.

Mayor O. W. Ribble presided at the session and Commissioners W. B. Price and J. Ray Dickey were present, with Commissioners Hub Jones and F. H. Childress absent, but both having given assent to calling of the election.

The election ordinance set out qualifications of voters as "all persons who are legally qualified resident property taxpaying voters of the City of Lubbock, Texas, who own property in said City subject to taxation and who have duly rendered the same for taxation, shall be entitled to vote at the said election."

Red Cross In County Sets Record On Cases

The Lubbock County chapter of the American Red Cross is carrying an unprecedented case load even though the war is over.

The chapter handled more cases in October than in any month in its history, according to a report by Mrs. J. H. Stiles, chapter secretary. Even more cases are expected to be handled this month.

Work of the chapter ranges from assistance to war veterans in filing of claims and arrangement of financial aid to providing medical attention and helping solve family problems.

New Cases Reported

During October, 566 new cases came to the attention of the home service unit, while 354 cases were carried over from the previous month.

Fourteen home service workers gave 475 hours of their time; made home calls and held 698 office interviews, besides handling innumerable telephone calls and telegraphic reports. The home service unit is headed by Mrs. Roy Autry, chairman.

The motor corps, with Miss Kathryn Weaver as chairman, operated during the month with 17 drivers who drove a total of 680 miles and spent more than 177 hours on 115 assignments. Mrs. Ernest Pope's staff assistants corps had 14 workers who gave 210 hours as receptionists and typists. They interviewed more than 700 people at the chapter's headquarters in the City hall and routed mail, telegrams and telephone calls funneled through the office. Under supervision of Mrs. R. E. Garlin, the production corps spent 1,000 hours knitting garments and 75 hours on pattern cutting of garments. Sewing hours totaled 500.

Sons Of Lions Club Members Honored

Honor guests of the Lubbock Lions club at their luncheon meeting in Hilton hotel Tuesday were 61 sons of club members.

The program was featured by an appeal for support of the work of the Lubbock County Tuberculosis association by Geo. Young, program chairman. Young cited the following facts about the association's work since Jan. 1:

Held 40 clinics; examined 347 new patients, re-examined 94 old patients; 564 visits to the clinic; 307 tests in the clinic; 217 positive reactions; made 142 home visits; sent 27 patients to the State Sanitorium; made 444 chest X-rays, 26 sputum tests; 1668 pupils given patch tests, eight per cent or 130 positive; six active cases out of 33 children X-rayed.

Young said the association's goal of $9,000 in the Christmas Seals sale should be easily subscribed, pointing out that there were 161 active cases of the disease in the county at the present time and funds are needed to stamp out the disease.

Mrs. Ruby Wilson, clerk and

The camp and hospital corps wrapped and packed 60 Christmas packages for service men on the high seas.

Mrs. Dennis Sanford, nurse, was introduced.

Dr. C. B. Batson and C. W Ratliff tied for first prize, having three sons each at the luncheon; C. I. Hallmark and Geo. Lemon were second with two sons each.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills. Adv.
