Convention Dividends—For Those Who Prepare—An Electra Pastor—Manager Government—

MUCH has been said of the good will value to Wichita Falls in entertaining the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, but there is a definite and tangible dividend which will be heard on the cash registers of Wichita Falls business men during two days of the meeting. Financial experts in Wichita Falls estimate that each visitor here will spend $10 during the three-day convention. This appears a rather conservative estimate for a three-day visit in any town, but accepting it as fairly accurate, the $10 average for each visitor means $500,000, a half million dollars, poured into the coffers of business houses here.

CONVENTION visitors aren't coming solely to mix and mingle with other West Texans, or to see the many attractions of the convention program. Many will go shopping, touring through the stores and shops for new merchandise, attractive prices or unusual articles. The bulk of this convention business, as usual, will go to those enterprising business men who have carefully prepared for the coming of these thousands of visitors, who have made their establishments and wares attractive to the casual observer, and who advertise and promote the things which will draw customers to their counters.

THE REV. L. D. GRAFTON, pastor of the Electra Presbyterian church, comes over to attend the Pythian convention and perhaps to invite his brother the Rev. N. F. Grafton out on a fishing trip. The Electra minister told the writer he considers co-operation beteen the church and press of inestimable value in spreading the doctrines of Christianity. "I find my Sunday notices in your paper carefully read, and valuable in drawing the attention of Electra townspeople," Dr. Grafton said. This successful minister—for he has an enviable record in every pastorate he has ever held—knows that the end obtained through the co-operation of the two mediums is of far more importance than possible differences of opinion that may occur from time to time.

A FEW years ago, while in Austin, Dr. Grafton almost sacrificed his life in his devotion to his church and to innumerable civic duties which were heaped upon him. Electra's healthful conditions and invigorating climate are fast returning him to a normal physical condition that assures Northwest Texas another builder for this section.

F. G. SWANSON, Wichita Falls attorney, is the first to take advantage of the invitation in Faith for discussion of the city manager question. Certainly this matter merits discussion and serious consideration by the citizenship of Wichita Falls. Mr. Swanson declares himself favorable to the city manager form of government, but propounds four questions which some manager advocates will probably be glad to answer. Mr. Swanson's letter:

ACCEPTING the suggestion that those interested in the city manager form of city government, and those opposed indicate the whys and wherefores in The Record News, may I suggest the following:

"1. Is it not true that in the large majority of instances where changes in form of government have been made that such change has been prompted by an unusual failure of the aldermanic or commissioner's form of givernment?

"2. Have not most changes been at times when most any change, change of officers, change of "gangs" or any change might be an improvement with but nominal chance of being worse?

"3. Would not the same amount of interest on part of public spirited citizens who become aroused for elimination of the existing governmental authorities otherwise directed, insure perhaps an equal progress and improvement under the same form of government or any form of government, perhaps?

"4. Is there not a considerable TRUTH in the old saying (of Pope I believe) "For forms of government, let fools contest; that government, best administered is best?"

"While suggesting the above I'm favorable to a city manager form, however, lacking in real logic some of the arguments for it may be, and while believing that a mayor can be a good city manager, and with similar support from disinterested citizens as given a city manager, might do as well.

"Sincerely,

"F. G. SWANSON."

THREE CITIES BID FOR '28 K P CONVENTION

TROPHY AWARDED

Shepherd and Somerville Welcome Delegates To City

Election of officers of the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias and selection of the next convention city will feature the sessions of delegates here today. Three cities, Austin, Galveston and Breckenridge are making spirited bids for the next convention.

Mrs. Jeanette Johnson of Brownwood Temple No. 110, won the Ada Belle Onion medal for efficiency in secret work, in a contest staged in the Knights of Pythias hall Tuesday night.

Mrs. Johnson was adjudged best from a score of contestants. Following this contest a degree team composed of the staff of the Burkburnett lodge No. 73 and the officers of Oak Cliff, Dallas, No. 22, staged an exemplification of ritualistic work in the drill room of the temple. Jimmie Mood, of Burkburnett, was captain of the team, and Lillie Butcher of Iowa Park musician. Molly Kelley, supreme M. R. C. of the Pythian Sisters, presented the Ada Belle Onion medal to Mrs. Johnson, and following the ceremonies, a Pythian dance was held in the lodge rooms in honor of the Pythian sisters.

Delegates to the 54th annual convention of the Knights of Pythians continued to arrive in the city at a late hour Tuesday night. Approximately 1200 Knights and more than 800 Sisters were on hand for the preliminary business meetings Tuesday afternoon, and about 150 official representatives, each from a different lodge, had registered and been granted voting privileges.

The main auditorium of the First Christian church was filled to capacity with Pythians and their friends to witness the official opening of the convention at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The exercises were opened with a song service led by Alva Willgus followed by a number of vocal and guitar selections by Geo. C. Taylor of Pioneer Lodge No. 49, Wichita Falls. Following the invocation by Dr. F. A. Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, the Girl's Mandolin orchestra and the Boys' Harmonica club from the Pythian home at Weatherford, rendered more musical selections.

Frederick Scout Proves Value of Training

FREDERICK, Okla., May 10. (Sp.)—Buck Weathers, local Boy Scout, made good use of training received with the scouts and a determined grit when he rescued Marvin Humphreys Jr., aged 5, from drowning at Burt's lake. The child had walked to the end of a pier and stepped off into the water when the cries of several girls attracted Weathers to the scene. He jumped into the water and brought the Humphreys lad out after he had submerged twice.

MAYOR PAYS OFF

Police Part Shep From $2 in Matter Of Parking

"How long? your honor."

"Three hours, your honor."

"Two dollars, your honor."

Following that long winded conversation his honor, the mayor, pulled two worn bills from his pocket and paid off in corporation court Tuesday for over time parking. City hall attaches declared he paid the required cash bond smilingly.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd joined the hundreds Tuesday who have come to grief for leaving their means of transportation in one place too long. He learned that the grim, strong arm of Wichita Falls law recognizes no station of life.

The mayor, it is believed, was one of those citizens who are under the impression that traffic officers begin marking cars in the business district at noon. Police Chief Frank Burns declared that the parking law enforcement begin at 9 o'clock each morning except Sunday.

COMEDY MARKS CHAPLIN TRIAL

Comedian Shrugs; Judge And Jury Laugh

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, making a "personal appearance" today in the $50,000 damage suit brought against him for alleged piracy of his war film, "Shoulder Arms," drew a crowded house in the United States district court and although minus his famous cane and mustache, provided as much merriment as his picture.

Chaplin said under cross examination that he had read the Loeb scenario carefully last night.

"It is the usual, one, two, three common plot," he said. "Mine is the story of the inadequacy of a poor, frail human being immersed in the war."

"But isn't it similar to 'Shoulder Arms?'" counsel for Loeb insisted.

"Yes, but—"

"Yes is all the answer we need," the lawyer cut in. "Never mind the buts."

"Wait a minute, wait a minute," Chaplin responded with a show of anger.

"Don't be in a hurry. There is a similiarity in a general way, in the back ground, but there is absolutely no similiarity in action, thought, or psychology."

The service will be extended over the entire route from New York to Dallas, a distance of 1736 miles, said to be the longest commercial air route in the world.

MOODY ASKS SOLONS TO KEEP WITHIN MEANS

Amplifies Three Subjects On Which Session Call Based

ASKS SUPPORT

Work of Highway Commission For Fostering Federal Aid Praised

AUSTIN, May 10. (AP)—Constructive highway legislation and provision for competitive efficiency tests of minor state job seekers were charged to the 40th legislature by Governor Dan Moody in a message seasoned with admonitions to keep the appropriation bills within expectant revenue.

He thus amplified the three major subjects on which the call for the session was based. In addition, the governor advised need of a corrective amendment to the new law wiping manslaughter off the statute books to take care of manslaughter cases pending when the measure goes into effect in June.

"The amount of revenue available should be ample to properly support the government," Governor Moody said. "I urge that you measure the requests by the expectant revenue for the biennium and that the bills ultimately passed be kept within such revenue."

He noted that appropriation bills in both the house and senate exceed the board of control's recommendation of some $38,000,000 for the biennium. The latter, however, he pointed out does not include provision for rural school aid and a supplement to the available school fund. This lack, he continued, should be attended to by the legislature.

The governor recommended creation of a new state board of education with broad plenary powers, and as an economy measure the consolidation of the board of water engineers and state reclamation department.

Two Departments Related.

"The work of these two departments is sufficiently related," he said, "to justify their consolidation and I believe that in other boards and bureaus of the state government eliminations can be made and savings accomplished. No employes ought to be on the public pay roll whose services are not essential to the legitimate functions of the government or who do not perform a public service commensurate with the salary paid."

The states revenue for the next two years, based on the existing rates and sources of taxation, will not exceed $41,000,000, Moody estimated.

He made a lengthy appeal for liberal support of both the elementary schools and higher institutions but called attention to suggestions that "there is a duplication of work" in some of the latter.

Regarding highways, the governor said that "appropriate legislation should be passed to aid in the building of lateral roads extending out to the farms which are now on mud roads, which bear a part of the tax to build good roads."

BOTTLING COMPANY.

CHILDRESS, May 10. (Sp.)—Organization of a bottling company is being perfected here to bottle the "Nehi" products. The company will be capitalized at $10,000. A building, 40x50 feet is to be built.

Communities Counting Dead In Country's Storm Areas

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Scores of communities were tonight counting their dead and extending aid to the injured and homeless left in the wake of the great storm that for three days raged between the Rocky mountains and the great lakes.

The list of dead stood at approximately 250 tonight, the injured at 500, the homeless 3000, and the property loss was estimated at between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000.

The storm has spent its greatest force, although reports tonight disclosed it was still being felt at points far removed from the center of its greatest destruction.

Terrific winds whipped the lower Mississippi valley, piling up great waves on the sufrace of the flooded Mississippi river. Crowns of water soaked levees, protecting the rich sugar lands of Louisiana were beginning to crumble and a fresh river disaster was feared in the vicinity of Baton Rouge.

Chicago was swept by high winds during the day. Tonight the temperature was falling. The storm here last night cost four lives and thousands of dollars property damage. Trees that had stood for a hundred years were uprooted, plate glass windows shattered and streets flooded.

The greatest loss of life was in Arkansas, Missouri and Texas. The death list in these three states alone will aggregate 200. The Arkansas dead was placed at 95; Missouri 75 and Texas 35. In Illinois 13 were killed, 10 in Kansas, 3 in Louisiana, 4 in Wyoming and 1 in Iowa.

Great damage was done in the northwest, according to word received here from the state of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. The snowfall was as much as six inches in some places and it drifted several feet deep. Four persons were frozen to death in Wyoming and Nebraska. A number of automobile parties caught in the snow have not been heard from.

Flood conditions also prevailed in the northwest. Rivers in Manitoba, Can., were running bank full, with thousands of acres inundated, according to a dispatch from Winnipeg, and in South Dakota small streams were out of their banks.

In Arkansas the property damage will probably exceed $2,000,000. Numbers of towns and villages in the northern part of the state were damaged. In Texas the property damage was estimated at $1,500,000, and hundreds of thousands of dollars' damage was done in other states in the path of the storm. Agricultural regions were hard hit. Hundreds of miles of telephone and telegraph lines were demoralized and railroads suffered heavily.

The Hand of Fate Reaches Out for Trans-Ocean Fliers

Mrs. Snyder's Hysterics Sham, Officials Claim

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—An apparently concentrated effort was launched today by Queens county officials to overtake detailed reports that Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder, facing sentence of death for murder of her husband, was in a state of hysterical collapse in her cell.

The extreme effect of such collapse might have been to send Mrs. Snyder to an asylum and to indefinitely postpone her sentence. Stories of the alleged breakdown of the "iron nerved blonde" as she has been termed, appeared in virtually every morning and afternoon paper today.

Frank F. Fox, warden of the county jail, declared Mrs. Snyder "is in as good health as she has been since she was admitted." Dr. James De Rose, who visited the prisoner last night, said he had found her in the nervous state usual to women who had undergone a severe nervous strain, and the district attorney's office asserted that, except for a brief spell of weeping, Mrs. Snyder had shown no emotion since the verdict.

Henry Judd Gray, the little East Orange, N. J., corset salesman who was found guilty with Mrs. Snyder, his paramour, of the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, magazine are editor, took his fate stoically, jail attaches reported. He ate a "good breakfast," they said, wrote letters, stretched an arm out between the bars of his cell to feel the air, and read his Bible. They described him as one resigned to fate.

Mrs. Snyder and Gray are to be sentenced Monday. Death sentence is mandatory with first degree murder verdicts. No announcement of the usual appeals was made by their counsel.

FLOOD CRESTS NEARING BAYOU

Residents Using Efforts To Check Water

NEW ORLEANS, May 10. (AP)—Two flood crests were approaching Bayou Des Glaises and the Old river tonight as hundreds of residents of the threatened district bent every effort to the task of reinforcing embankments holding back the mounting waters.

One of the crests, south of Rayville, La., with a narrow ridge separating it from the other, was that of the waters released by breaks in the Arkansas river levees. Moving southward to meet waters from the Mississippi, freed by crevasses in that system, they have moved upon Rayville and Merrouge, but at both places the water has fallen, indicating that the crest had passed.

The second crest, entering the Tensas basin through flood waters streaming from breaches in the main Mississippi levee system at Cabin Teele and Winter Quarters, still was in Madison parish and was due at the mouth of Old river between May 11 and May 15.

Already these waters had covered several Louisiana parishes. Those released by the cracks in the two levee systems had covered or threatened 9,098,840 acres in northeastern Louisiana. Tallulah, La., was under from four to six feet of water. At St. Joseph and Ferriday, below Tallulah, water still was rising at the rate of five inches in 24 hours, while at Sicily Island, in the middle of the Tensas basin, in northeastern Catahoula parish, a rise of a foot and three inches had been shown in the last 24 hours.

The New Orleans weather bureau said that the waters in the Tensas basin were deeper than when the waters entered there in former years and that they were moving at a slightly greater rate of speed.

Prosecution Testifies Woman Guilty of Slaying Husband

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 10. (AP)—County Attorney J. K. Wright of Oklahoma county, believed Mrs. Edith Bishop guilty of killing her husband, Luther, after he investigated the case last December, he testified today in Mrs. Bishop's murder trial here.

Wright, testifying as a state witness, said he told Mrs. Bishop that all evidence pointed to her and advised her to "tell the truth" when, with other officers, he completed his investigations at the Bishop home a day after the state detective was shot to death, presumably with his own guns.

Wright said he had known the Bishops for about ten years and that his relations with the family were friendly.

The county attorney went to the morgue several hours after the shooting and examined the slain detective's body. He found five bullet wounds, he said, two of which were in the back. He said the wounds in the back showed powder burns, but the others did not. He made two trips to the Bishop home later in the day, he said, but contented himself with searching the house for places in which an intruder might hide. He found a cartridge clip in a closet, he said. The clip was introduced in evidence.

FISHING CRAFT MIGHT RESCUE FRENCH ACES

Flyers Overdue in New York By Many Hours

SEND WIRELESS

Airplane Carrier Ordered To Conduct Search For Plane

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Practically all hope for the lives of Captain Charles Nungesser and Captain Francois Coli, who failed to arrive in their non-stop flight from Paris, was abandoned today.

The only possibility of their being alive, it was pointed out by experts here, is that they have been picked up by fishing craft off the Coast of Newfoundland.

These boats are without wireless and only return to shore at two or three week intervals.

If the French fliers had actually crossed the Atlantic and attempted to land they would have been killed in the crash, aviators say, as they had dropped their under-carriage. 'If they alighted on the water their frail plane could not have stayed afloat more than twenty-four hours, the experts insist.

As hope for the men faded a great air and sea search for them got under way today. All trans-Atlantic and coast wise vessels were notified to be on the lookout for them. Naval tugs went out from Boston to search the northern coast. Fliers were skirting up and down the coast hoping against hope that the men who have not been seen since they left France on Sunday morning, would be found.

The search was made difficult during the morning hours by the fog which is blamed for the loss of the daring aviators. The sun broke through during the afternoon, widening the range of vision, but the fate of the fliers was still concealed by the vast watery waste.

The picturesque French men were due in New York yesterday afternoon. All day yesterday the question was: "Will they succeed?" Today the question was: "Are they still alive?"

As the second night since they were due approached, the consensus of answers shifted to the negative. At most, flying and marine authorities say, their chances of being alive are very slim.

Three nations joined today in the search for the two airmen.

Reports from Lakehurst, N. J., say the giant dirigible Los Angeles has been ordered to be in readiness to join the search. The airplane carrier Langley with a squadron of seaplanes may also be sent on the quest it was reported from Washington.

FALSE NEWS OF NUNGESSER'S SUCCESS ANGERS FRENCH

PARIS, May 10. (AP)—The people of France spent a day of deep anxiety over the fate of the aviators Nungesser and Coli, of whom there is no news whatever tonight.

The sad realization set in upon the French today that they had made a carnival celebration over what may be a tragedy and what certainly has been a failure. Mingled with the nation-wide worry is deep bitterness and anger against the press which fanned the country's flame of pride to rejoicing with the false news that the two fliers had succeeded in their great adventure.

The nerves of the nation were subjected to all the various emotions in the past 24 hours—suspense, expectation, general delirious joy, then doubt, stupor, disappointment, disillusionment and subsequently anger and bitterness.

Accusations, denials, explanations and recriminations fill the columns of today's newspapers and no small part of the bitterness is directed against the United States from which the press insists, all erroneous news emanated. The resentment against America later was toned down a little in the press but not in the conversations heard in almost every restaurant and at every street corner. It seemed to be founded on two things: First, dispatches from America led the French to believe the White Bird had reached the New World; and, second, that the American weather bureau did not play fair with the French before the start of the flight. This, one hears everywhere, and several newspapers hint it broadly.

There were repeated assertions among Parisians that Americans had intentionally led the French to believe that the weather was good on their side of the Atlantic whereas it was bad. As a matter of fact, however, several hours before the start of the flight the Havas News Agency printed a dispatch from New York saying there were storms in mid-Atlantic and fogs off Newfoundland, and most of the Sunday morning papers printed it. Today few seemed to remember it.

From the outset the French regarded the flight as a race between France and the United States. Last night when Paris and the provinces were in joyous celebration and patroiotic fervor was uppermost, from all quarters was heard the cry: "France has done it. They have beaten the Yankees."

Disillusion came about midnight but for only a few, for most of France was abed happy. For the majority, sadness set in only today.

The evening newspapers which put Paris in a frenzy yesterday published a joint apology today declaring that they would not have published what they did but for the fact that their dispatches were confirmed successfully by "official manifestations" of the ministries of commerce, war, and the interior. M. Painleve, war minister, himself cabled congratulations to the fliers Monday and the government made ready to have parliament pay suitable tribute to Nungesser and Coli when is convened today.

The apology which put the blame on the government, was withdrawn from the late editions. Meanwhile in the chamber of deputies, General Girod, Captain Nungesser's war-time chief, demanded an official investigation of the "false news." The government departments upon which responsibility had been placed by the press issued denials that they had announced the success of the flight.

So the popular mind found it convenient to pass the responsibility to the United States.

Another Tough One For Jabez Gardner

Spudder magnates have come up overstocked with ball players and as a result a number of outright releases more than likely will be issued before midnight of May 12, the hour when all Texas league clubs must be within the 18-man, including two rookies, player limit.

Rip Wheeler after having pitched some pretty neat ball for Memphis in the Southern probably got mad at somebody, cranked up his jitney and drove home. Anyhow, the Chicks have turned Rip back on the Spudders. John Roberts has been given a return ticket by Wilson. Trexler, Kerr and Jones have been sent back, also.

Not counting these returns, the Spudders are one player over the limit.

The First Job

ATTAINS GOAL AS FAITH LOST

Texas Girl Engaged For Grand Opera

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—A romantic story of parental objection and sisterly aid lies behind the announcement last night that Miss Ethedreda Aves of Galveston, Texas, has been selected as one of seven Americans engaged for, next season's Metropolitan Opera company.

The New York Sun today states that the soprano's success came just as she was losing faith in herself.

Miss Aves is the daughter of a Galveston minister, the late Rev. Charles S. Aves, and she revealed today that her father was deeply shocked when she first broached the subject of becoming a professional singer.

"I would sooner see you dead here at my feet rather than see you behind the footlights of the stage," the Sun says her father told her.

The minister's opposition, based on his dislike for theatrical life, was so firm that Miss Aves never sang in public, except in church, up to the time she left home in defiance of her father's wishes seven years ago. She was then 18 and at this point in her life the sister became the guiding influence.

Her sister, Miss Marian Aves, was doing settlement work on New York's East Side and she gave every encouragement to the youthful aspirant for operatic fame. For four years, Etheldreda studied, and then for the first time made public appearance. That was followed by further years of study and of almost constant travelling on "the road."

"I took exquisite pleasure in my work," she said. "Until toward the last anyway, then I felt that I was beginning to lose my grip."

Then at the moment of her deepest depression, just when one hope of achieving the goal of her dreams seemed least likely of accomplishment, suddenly and entirely without warning came the summons to appear at the Metropolitan for an audition. The ordeal of the audition was successfully passed, a contract was signed, and Miss Aves as Dreda Aves , will sing at the Metropolitan next fall, the season opening October 31.

John Tobin Is Re-Elected Mayor of San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, May 10. (AP)—Mayor John W. Tobin was re-elected by an overwhelming majority and the members of his administration were swept back into office with him in the municipal election held today. With only seven boxes out of 78 missing, the administration candidates were leading the opposition ticket by approximately 6 to 1, and the ratio was changing very little as additional ballots were counted. Indications were that about 21,000 ballots were cast.

Secrets of Display Art Told Members Of Advertising Club At Luncheon

All the secrets of display art, from the temperament of the display man to the value in dollars and cents of window space, was told to members of the Advertising club Tuesday in the luncheon at a local hotel.

Harry Walker, display manager of the Hub, led off with a discussion of "Window Display As An Advertising Medium." Mr. Walker told of the value of an attractive window, stressing especially the need of better windows by small shop keepers. The show window, considered the most valuable space in a store, is often cluttered up with cards and other advertising signs, or left vacant altogether, he said. Good windows yield a sure and certain return to owners, he declared.

While Marion Smith, display manager of W. B. McClurkin company, arranged an attractive model window before members of the club, B. S. McCleary, advertising manager of McClurkan's talked on "How to Make Better Use of Window Space." Window space is valued by rental experts at from 30 to 50 per cent of the total rental of the store, Mr. McCleary said. He pointed out the loss to merchants through the use of their space for various cards, declaring the public "little realizes the value of the space it asks for these 'free' advertisements." The display should always emphasize quality, Mr. McCleary said.

T. A. Bradley was chairman of the program presented at the luncheon. The regular meeting scheduled next week has been cancelled because of the chamber of commerce convention, it was announced.

YEGGS CRACK DUNDEE SAFE

$195 Draft and $1.25 Loot From Raid

Safe crackers who Monday night entered the Wichita Valley station at Dundee, 25 miles southwest of Wichita Falls, and knocked the knob from the safe were scantly rewarded for their efforts. Railroad officials reported that a check for $1.34 and a draft for $195.09 comprised the loot.

Archer county officers found what may be a clue to the robbery Tuesday afternoon in locating a Buick coupe northeast of Dundee, containing the lock from the safe. The car had been stolen from A. P. Thornton, 2001 McGregor street, Monday night from in front of the Majestic theater.

The burglary was discovered Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock when the station agent went on duty, according to a report to Sheriff W .G. Bralley.

Westmoreland Pool To Open Saturday

Westmoreland, the southwest's most complete inland swimming pool, will throw open its gates to the public Saturday, according to announcement by Leonard Grayson, manager.

The magnificent pool, situated west of the city by the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds, has been filled with water and is ready for use.

Besides being thrown open for use of the general public, the pool is to be used for a number of aquatic contests and exhibitions during the summer, Grayson said.

Incidentally, three of Wichita Falls' most well known amateur athletes are to be employed as life guards at Westmoreland, Grayson said. Marconi Hobbs, former Coyote football star now attending Junior college, is on deck now. Curtis Beatty, Wichita Falls athlete at Texas university, will take charge of the life saving corps June 5 with Leo Baldwin, the greatest of all Wichita Falls' amateur athletes, probably joining him. Baldwin is at Varsity, also.

A large roller coaster slide has been placed in one corner of the pool, a slide of the miniature shoot-the-shoots variety, as an added swimming and play feature.

Mrs. Blanche Cooley, G. M. The program closed with a short address by Mrs. M. V. Keller of Ulrichville, O., supreme mistress of records and correspondents. Luncheon was served to the sisters in the diningroom of the First Christian church.

Harry Wade of Indianapolis, Indiana, president of the insurance department of the Pythian lodge, delivered the principal address at the afternoon session of the Knights, which began at 1 o'clock in the Kemp ball room. Mr. Wade gave a report from national headquarters of the insurance department, and imparted considerable information regarding the handling of insurance. A short business meeting followed his talk, and the lodge adjourned until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, at which time it will again convene in a business session.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Women Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.

They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Say It With the Right Adjective If You Seek Popularity, Says Dirithy

Who Wouldn't Rather Be Called 'Plump' Than 'Fat?' Or 'Slender' Than 'Scrawny?' Who Wouldn't Rather Be Described as "Thrifty' Than 'Stingy?' If, Then, You Would Be Popular, Say It With the Right Adjective.

How is your supply of adjectives this morning? Have you a sufficient working capital of them to meet all demands? Or are you so poverty stricken that you possess only half a dozen available adjectives that you are forced to conscript on every occasion, and work overtime, and make do service for which they were never intended?

The adjective is the shibboleth of culture, and thy speech betrayeth thee never so much as in the use of it. Bad grammar may be just carelessness, but the wrong adjective is sheer ignorance and lack of education.

Listen to the conversation in any crowd of strangers and you can classify them with scientific accuracy by their choice of adjectives.

The man who gazes at an awe-inspiring mountain range bathed in the purple and gold and crimson splendors of sunset and says, "It's right sightly;" the woman who thinks that the way the girl who gushes "How cute," as she beholds the Coliseum under a full moon, could not proclaim themselves lowbrows more distinctly if they shouted the fact through a megaphone.

And twins to these are those who have only a few stock adjectives that they make do duty on every occasion. They impartially describe a beefsteak and Westminster Abbey as being "perfectly grand." They think that a candy mouse and the man or woman they are marrying are "just adorable." They tell you that a volcano in action, or a chocolate sundae is "the most wonderful thing in the world," and just now everything they see from a gruesome old master to a baseball game, or a laviathan steamship, is either "a lamb," or "utterly precious" or "amusing."

Conversation with these one-adjective individuals can only be likened to eating thirty quails in thirty days with the same sauce and the same side dishes. It gets monotonous beyond endurance because there is no variety, no shading, no unexpected flavors.

The only interest in what they say is the curiosity it rouses in you as to whether they are so dull and stolid as they seem, whether their eyes were so holden and blind that they only saw something pretty in one of God's miracles, and got no more thrill out of some great masterpiece that the hand of genius had wrought than they would out of an ingenious mechanical toy that was cute, or whether it was their tongues that were dumb and not their souls.

Not only is our culture judged by the adjectives we use but our popularity depends upon it. It isn't enough for us to entertain feelings of good will toward our fellow creatures, and to desire to say pleasant and agreeable things to them. We must know how to deliver the goods, as the slang phrase goes, and the secret of the subtle art of flattery lies in the judicious choice of the adjective.

For just as one adjective leaves us warm and glowing with pride and delight, so another leaves us hurt and cold and offended. And chief among those whom we cannot abide are the luckless blunderers who have never done us any wrong except to apply the wrong adjective to us.

There is Mrs. A. to whom you show your baby that you consider far more beautiful than one of Raphael's cherubs, and her comment is that it is a "nice, fat, healthy-looking child." You have put your whole soul into writing a story that you hope and believe throbs with the very pain and passion of life, and Mr. B. tells you that he read your "sweet little article" in the magazine.

You have agonized over a picture that you have almost painted in your heart's blood; and Mrs. C. calls it "pretty." You have made a success in business by years and years of hard and grueling labor, by far-flung plans that it took vision to formulate and genius to execute, and almost superhuman patience to wait for their fulfilment, and Mr. D. slaps you on the back and tells you that "you are a lucky dog." For the sake of your children, for the sake of a principle you are ready to die for, you have endured a marriage that was a martyrdom in silence, with no outcry at your sufferings; and Mrs. D. speaks of you as a "good woman."

And we are all offended past forgiveness as we smile sardonically to ourselves, thinking how charmed we would have been if these well-meaning friends had only applied the right adjective to us. If only the mother had been told that her baby was "fit for a sculptor's model" instead of "fat and healthy;" if only the writer had been commended for the stark realism of his story. If only the painter had been told what a colorist he was. If only the business man had been called a "Napoleon of finance," and the red badge of courage had been pinned on the woman's breast, how they would have cherished the discriminating user of adjectives!

For it does make a difference how you put it. Who wouldn't rather be called "plump" than "fat" or "slender' than 'scrawny?" Who wouldn't rather be described as "thrifty" than "stingy?" Who wouldn't rather have her "pug" nose described as "tip-tilted?" It isn't what you say, it's the way you say it that makes you friends or enemies. And if you want to say the thing that will bind your fellow creatures to you with heeps of steel, you must say it with the right adjective.

Since, then, adjectives are so important and valuable, why not lay up a good supply for daily use? Why try to do business on a few old, shopworn, out-of-date ones when you can replenish your stock without money and without price? They are there in the dictionary, an unlimited supply, free for the taking, and suitable for every possible occasion.

MODISH MITZI — The View Was Entrancing — By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi and Polly have come down to the ship to look at their cabin, which is a perfectly delightful affair, with looped-back curtains and two beds with cretonne covers. Polly goes poking about switching the lights on and ringing the bells to see what will happen, and Mitzi also starts exploring.

But Mitzi becomes entranced with the view when the smartest hat she has seen for a long while walks by the port. The hat is a little felt skull cap with a patch of feathers over one ear. Mitzi's own is rather like it and she wonders if a patch of feathers isn't indicated for hers, too.

Polly wants her to look at the real clothes closet with hangers and everything, but Mitzi is absorbed by the sight of a little black cloche with two bows of ribbon and a rippled brim. Mitzi's own hat is a folded felt with a flat ear ornament. (No, she wouldn't like the feathers, after all.)

"Why do you keep staring out of the window," asks Polly, "when there's nothing to see but docks anyway?" "Ah, but there are other things to see," retorts Mitzi, and even in this enthusiastic moment Polly permits a hat of forget-me-nots to lure her from the charms of the cunning dressing table.

HER DAY of WORK and PLAY by AMY ABBOTT ©EFS

The younger women of society are to be frequently classified as social butterflies in a tone that conveys the thought that all butterflies are parasites. Actually their lives are far from one prolonged social whirl. You find them constantly engaging in hard, exacting work for humanity.

At present a group of volunteer workers are transcribing modern novels and modern poetry into Braille raised print for blind girls at the New York Association for the blind. To do this they must complete a three weeks' course of daily lessons in Braille script and the use of Braille writing machine.

Approximately 25 volumes of reading matter, made up mostly of current fiction, have been produced by these willing workers, and placed on a circulating schedule for the use of blind readers. Because of the raised print each book is large and bulky and each reaquires several Braille volumns.

Modern fiction now available for blind readers includes—"Sorrell and Son," by Robert Deepin: "Helen of Troy," by John Erskine: "The Ace of Cads," by Michael Arlen. Many of O. Henry's short stories have been transcribed and several of Christopher Morley's essays.

Homebuilder.

Miss Issabella Henderson has the unique record of rising from "office boy" to secretary of a 35 million dollar corporation. She is secretary of the Railroad Cooperative Building and Loan association of New York and now celebrating her 25 years of service she has passed on thousands of loans for home building. They call her "Queen of Homes" and no other woman can even come close to her record as a home builder.

Schools in Egypt.

Shades of modern education! In Cario, Egypt, the high school girls are taught by "sheiks!" But real sheiks are not the dusky, swift-ridridinn Bedouin chieftoin with passionate, burning eyes that movies have portrayed for us. No, in Cario "sheik" is the term which designates a highbrow young schoolmaster who teaches mathematics, science and Arabic.

This is important because it means that Egyptian women, once held in mental bondage, are being taught—and being taught by the sex from which they were once so strictly cloistered. But the emancipation of the Egyptian womam is not complete. She would not go alone to the theater, dine in a restaurant, persue the independent course of the American girl be she butterfly or toiler. That is reserved for men.

And though she is taught by a "sheik" she does not giggle or flirt, but modestly swathes her head, demurely lowers her eyes, and concentrates her attention on her lessons.

Paris, Texas—"I have used several of Dr. Pierce's remedies and I always found each one of them to be exactly as represented. Mrs. Adriana Hungerford, one of the outstanding prohibition workers of Cerorado, was recently honored when General Lincoln C. Andrews, the prohibition administrator of the United States, expressed a desire to have her become a member of his staff.

He expressed his admiration for her courage and faithfulness in her work. Mrs. Hungerford has been president of the W. C. T. U. since 1904 and was a leader in the move to place Colorado in the list of dry states in the campaign of 1914. Since prohibition was voted she has been to the front constantly in opposition to moves made to modify this law.

Hear ye! Mrs. Sarah Jane Taylor of Ogden, Utah, challenges any woman in the country to show a larger number of lineal descendants than she proudly claims. She is anxious to correspond with any woman who has more than 208 living descendants.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

Mrs. Hall: "Oh, my dear! A terrible thing has happened. John just phoned and said he was bringing guests home for supper, and there's nothing in the house to eat."

Mrs. Brown: "That's easy! Let me tell you a favorite dish that can be readily put together and is a whole meal in itself."

Vegetables Baked With Liver

Two pounds beef liver, three slices bacon, one large onion, sliced, 12 small potatoes, one tablespoon drippings, one-fourth cup flour, one cup stewed tomatoes, two cups celery, diced, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half cup hot water.

Add the onions and the celery to the hot drippings. Cook slightly in a pan that has a tight cover. Sprinkle the liver with flour and lay in the pan. Arrange the bacon over the top, add the hot water and the salt and bake, covered, in a 450 degree F. oven for one-half hour.

Next put in potatoes, pared and halved. Cover and bake until potatoes are done; remove lid and brown the bacon. Dish the meat and vegetables, add to the liquid in the pan the rest of the flour, stir until smooth and add the tomatoes. Season and serve the sauce in a separate dish.

WHAT to WEAR and HOW to WEAR IT

By LUCY CLAIRE.
Favorite Fashion Adviser of the Smart Set.

winter is at an end and although we may still cling to the warm topcoat, our thoughts are constantly on spring designs and we have actually discarded winter frocks in favor of the lighter, more spirited patterns of springtime.
way to satisfy

I do not tell you that these frocks indicate permanent trends, rather, they are a forerunner of the season and comprise a group which I call "in-between-time" clothes. But you will remember that in my regular spring forecast I told you of the pronounced influence of a jacket mode. In these frocks you will see the bloused tendencies illustrated which will develop into the actual jacket patterns in a few weeks' time.

I want you to observe first, the center frock, of black crepe de chine, combined with a simple scalloped arrangement of white in collar, cuffs, kerchief and tie. Notice the straight up and down effect of the silhouette. You will see that the bloused drape has been placed low, about the hips, for we still choose to ignore the natural waistline.

For the very tall, slender woman, this arrangement I have just spoken of would not be becoming. I recommend for her type of stature the model shown at the extreme left because the close-fitting girdle-like band about her hips tends to lengthen her waistline and therefore divides her height in more pleasing proportions.

The little dress at the right is a great favorite of mine and its line and cut is so well executed that I do do not hesitate to recommend its inclusion in your wardrobe. Color is such a positive influence that I found this light, creamy biege silk particularly appealing and so effectively combined with the underblouse of floral patterned crepe in shades of blue and dull gold. The overblouse, which is opened down the center front shows a vestee effect of the printed material —an excellent means of unifying and drawing together these two fabrics of contrasting character. In selecting figured material as a trimming, I want you to always study its related effect to the whole and if it gives the appearance of something that has just been tacked on as an afterthought, then you can be sure it will have a most disfiguring effect when worn.

The two designs shown below, although effected in different materials, might well be cut from the same pattern, for they show the bolero idea—more highly developed than a blouse, and yet not quite a jacket. To be really smart —and I have seen them look so chic on some women—the waistline must not be too long, yet without impairing the general effect in any way, a wide wrap-around girdle may be twisted about the hips. You can see here, its adaptability to this mode.

THE NOISY KITCHEN

(Suggested by Mrs. George H. S.)

I'm noisy in the kitchen.
I open up my cans
With bangs and bumps and knockings,
I rattle pots and pans.

I click the kitchen china,
I thump my rolling pin,
And in my pantry cupboards
I make a fearful din.

I turn the Dover beater
With whole-souled clack and whirr.
I make a glorious racket
Of anything I stir.

My hungry family tells me
My noises do not matter.
As signs of coming food, they seem
A most delightful clatter!

Standards Growth

AWAY back, or a matter of 15 years ago, trust busting was a favorite game of the politicians of America and the leaders of advanced thought, including William Jennings Bryan and the Democrats who trained with him and so-called Republican Progressives who followed the flag of the late Robert M. LaFollette.

Standard Oil was the target. John D. Rockefeller was the big game the hunters were determined to bag. It was declared that the Standard had repeatedly violated the anti-trust law and a decision of the supreme court of the United States decreed dissolution of the Standard and its many cubs. All this took place. John D. Rockefeller, then the king of the petroleum game, bowed to the decree and dissolution followed. Now some of the cubs are more powerful than the original Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

This is what happened. Cash and stock dividends distributed by the Standard and its cubs or groups between dissolution in 1911 and March 31, 1921 are placed at $2,139,154,141 in a Wall street compilation of which $1,751,074,895 was in cash. In the year 1926 cash payments established a record of $200,327,594 against $153,506,099 in 1925. According to an Associated Press story the largest quarterly cash distribution was $62,685,548 in the last three months of 1926 and the second highest $55,774,129 in the first quarter of 1927, which compared with $40,580,317 in the first quarter of 1926.

Is there money in oil? Go ask the stockholders of the Standard and its brood or group. Where are the trust busters of 1910? Where are the men who said that John D. Rockefeller was a walking octopus and a menace to civilization? Where, oh where, are the tribunes of yesteryear? Theodore Roosevelt, not the imitation but the real thing, was something of a trust buster in these hectic days and in the year 1912, in the city of Chicago, he split the Republican organization wide open and paved the way for the election of Woodrow Wilson. Who made Woodrow Wilson president? Why Teddy and Taft when they cut tendons in the legs of the elephant and made the huge beast crawl on its belly.

Chandler Has A Vision

BUSINESS outlook for the United States was pictured in rosy colors by speakers who addressed the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce of the United States in the City of Washington, and but one shadow was cast by the agricultural situation in the middle west.

Harry A. Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, was one of the speakers. He predicted that the Pacific coast would become the front door of American commerce. He said the centuries of western mark of Aryan achievement has ushered in what for want of a better term may be called the Pacific area, and predicted the front door of America will ultimately be on the Pacific, whose eastern and western shores are formed by land just coming into the world spotlight on its onward sweep from east to west.

It is a good thing that the congress of the United States shut out the Oriental sweepers in time to save the Pacific coast from a deluge of yellow and brown brothers. That is, if Publisher Chandler's dream should be fulfilled in coming time.

Cowboy Jim of Omaha

"COWBOY JIM" DAHLMAN of Omaha has been given another term of three years as mayor. If he lives to serve it he will have been mayor of the Nebraska city for 19 consecutive years. "Texas Jim" Collins of Dallas has been corporation attorney of that city 19 consecutive years and Mayor Burt handed Collins a reappointment. There are men who cannot be displaced.

Why He Asked Wage Increase

SIXTY THOUSAND conductors and brakemen and baggage men for Eastern railways are asking a dollar a day raise from 55 roads. They are joined in the demand for wage increase by representatives of the workers of western and southwestern lines. These thousands of wage earners had a spokesman who appeared before the federal arbitration board in the city of Chicago. This was his argument: The ham and eggs they eat, the uniform they wear, even the taxes and street car fares they pay are higher now than in 1924, when the last salary raise was given the rail employes. Man must eat.

Steel Has An American Heart

STEEL has an American heart. Elbert H. Gary, speaking for the house of steel, subscribed $100,000 to the American Red Cross Mississippi flood relief fund. Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller are the first American billionaires. Are they ready to make their money talk?

Onward March of Civilization

THIS is a swift moving age. Civilization is doing its best. A mob in Arkansas lynched a negro and then incinerated the body of the departed. Man came out of the stone age. Now, in some sections, he is living in the fire age.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, (EFS)—New York is the mecca for the foreign actor, writer, singer, dancer, dressmaker, lecturer and down-at-the-heel Tired Tomtit.

The Big Town stretches forth its hands laden with vast wealth, inviting the Busted Brethern from Abroad to journey across the pond to sew, sing, yawp and ply in exchange for many gold-back treasury notes.

To to the credit of the business ability of the Busted I igade from Over There, be it said they respond right merrily. Yea, they come like grasshoppers, for multitude; and when they've corraled all the dough they can carry, they hie them back to the Homeland where they reside in ease and comfort for the remainder of their days, interrupting their placid existence, now and then to indite snappy pieces to the letter column of the der of the Raspberry, with Three der of the Rasberry, with Three Palms on those "dear, delightful New Yorkers."

Will Durant, who can do more tricks with Philosophy than Fred C. Kelly can do with a pack of cards, was one of the Big League Stylus Pushers hired by New York editors to "interpret" the Snyder-Gray murder trial. Analyzing Ruth Snyder's leading man, Willyum had this to say:

"No doubt Judd Gray needed a romance. Selling corsets is a thankless task in this corsetless age."

To which is appended the following:

One of the largest of the second-string of New York department stores advertised a "Corset Sale" in the Sunday newspapers. Seventy-five thousand of them went on sale the morning following, and at closing time Tuesday there were only four left.

Al. the big department stores in the Capital of the Commonplace have what they call "fashion advertisers."

These are women with an artistic flair combined with a knowledge of good usage, to whom, patrons lacking what is known as "clothes sense," may appeal for assistance in the selection of purchases—usually attire.

The patron states her requirements to the "fashion advertiser" who runs her trained blue eye over the "prospect.," diplomatically questioning her with respect to the quality and extent of her existing "ensemble."

When that's over, the "advertiser" adroitly ascertains the eccentricities of the customer's finances, and the final purchase consists of a balance carefully struck between what is suited to type, environment and pocketbook.

There is a sidewalk stall in 42nd street, just off Seventh avenue, where pineapple juice may be purchased at 10 cents a glass.

A few paces distant a beggar on crutches nightly installs himself, selling ancient ballads.

"Pineapple juice, 10 cents a glass," warbles the lad in the booth.

"De Face on De Barroom Floor," ff cents a copy!" sings the lad on crutches.

That's what the 18th amendment has done for 42nd street.

"Part of the price of prominence," says Montaigne, "is the absence of privacy."

To which Mazda Lane has appended the injunction: "So live that you never disappoint your press agent!"

To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven:

A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up;

A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance.—Ecclesiastes 3:1-5.

MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS—

By IDA McGLONE GIBSON

PROLOGUE

INTO the white face of Anne Huntington Tracy—which looked like a paper mask that had been burned and would at a breath dissolve into ashes, there came a flame of vivid life. She half rose from the chaise longue at a light tap on her door.

With a low groan she fell back as it opened.

"What is it Nonnie?" she asked impatiently.

"The box from the Francine Shop, Madam," answered the maid.

As quickly as it were possible the woman raised her unwieldy form and almost snatched the dress box from the hands of the servant.

Opening it quickly she fairly poured out a gorgeous negligee of peach-colored chiffon velvet and Italian lace upon the floor.

At its delicate beauty a sudden hopeful smile curled her lips.

"Has Mr. Tracy arrived home?" she asked.

"I think, Madam, that Mr. Tracy opened the hall door as I tapped on yours.

"Hurry, Nonnie, get me into this," the woman commanded, "I want Mr. Tracy to see me only when I am looking as well as possible under the circumstances. Perhaps this gown will prove the Open Sesame to my lost good looks."

With her eyes still on the door, through which Anne Tracy seemed to expect her husband would come any minute, she held out the robe with the trembling fingers of one hand, while with the other she unfastened and dropped on the floor the one she had on.

As she stepped out of it, the maid slipped the new peach velvet garment over her mistress' black, wavy hair. As she felt its softness against her shoulders and arms a tremor of physical pleasure seemed to ripple over her entire body.

"It's very becoming to Madame," said the maid obsequiously.

Eagerly the woman went to the long cheval mirror at the other side of the room.

There had been expectation in her large gray eyes. But after the first glance she pulled down the faintly bluish lids until the heavy black lashes shut out even the scintillating anger which she had turned upon her maid after her view of herself in the glass.

"Why did you lie to me? Why did you make me think I might possibly get something that would be becoming to me? You should have told me that nothing could be becoming to this ungainly body—that no tint could compliment the shallow complexion of my bloated face.

"Take it off immediately. It makes me look even worse than I really am."

The maid hurried to do her bidding, but before she even reached her mistress a gay voice called from outside the door: "Anne, my dear"—The door burst open and the man standing there, in one horrified glance took in the grotesque figure and turned away his eyes from the ones bright with tears that were pleadingly trying to find in his face a little crumb of comfort.

PHILLIP WYNNE TRACY III was surprised. He had expected his wife to be lying down at this time patiently awaiting the hour of her agony. He thought that he would go over and lightly touch her forehead with his lips, telling her that he would not be home to dinner.

"After all," he told himself, as he drove home to dress for his dinner engagement with Sabra Welford, "a woman, when she marries must expect children." He himself was very proud and happy over the coming event. He could not understand why Anne should be so unresigned to what must be. It was a part of life—the only life which nature recognized in humanity.

Naturally he was quite annoyed to find Anne in this mood. It would make it harder to tell her that he was not going to have dinner at home.

He noticed the new negligee and was fully aware that she was trying to make herself more presentable to him, and he thought that probably at this very moment she was expecting him to take her in his arms and comfort her in her disappointment.

Surely she could not expect this, for he had told her many times before and after marriage, how he hated all ugliness, especially an "ugly woman," and that peach colored negligee made her look worse than ever.

By what grim stroke of fate had the woman he had just left been wearing a peach-colored negligee?

It had enhanced Sabra's beauty a hundred times, while Anne—

"Poor Anne! I wonder if she will ever be slender and lovely again?" he said to himself and there was a good deal of pity in the question.

He had been silent a longer time than he had meant to be, but for the life of him he could not reach out and kiss the dry, feverish lips of the tortured woman standing before him after the recent touch of the dewey, rose leaf mouth of Sabra.

"Oh, baby, I do want you. I could not live without you."

The tension was snapped by Anne's eyes brimming over and a sob that she could not suppress breaking the ugly silence.

"Don't cry, Anne. Don't cry. It's almost over now. Think of how wonderful it will be to have a son. I would not want to live our lives without children."

"I would." The words issued from the woman's lips through clenched teeth.

"Of course you want children—every man does. It adds to his egotism as a masculine human being. You have none of the agony and pain. You will not have to give up your youth to minister to a baby—all that devolves upon the woman—all that is mine."

"However"—with a sigh she became, if not resigned, at least acquiscent—"I've got to go through with it, but I want you to know, Wynne, that I do not want this baby and I'll never be reconciled to the role of mother."

"You should have thought about this three years ago, when you married me, Anne."

"WELL, I did not. Why, I hardly thought of myself in the role of wife. I loved you and I wanted you. I wanted to be your sweetheart, and I only thought that to marry you would be continual love making under the eaves of the church and approbation of society.

"Now, look at me! This is what I have come to, something ugly and unlovable, some one who longs for you and yet who would hide away before your very eyes, while you, as you stand there, might be the symbol of the perpetual lover."

Phillip Wynne Tracy III felt the blood rush up to his sleek, dark brown hair. It was going to be deucedly hard to get away and yet it was almost physically impossible to stay here all the evening with Anne, especially when she was in this frame of mind. He wondered how he could tell her.

Fortunately or unfortunately, his wife seemed to notice for the first time that he had changed to his dinner coat.

"You are not going to leave me this evening are you, Wynne?" she asked, coming forward and putting her hand on his shoulder as though she would hold him even against his will.

Gently Wynne Tracy unloosened his wife's hand. "I am sorry, Anne, but I have got to go. There are some very influential bankers in town and you know they always expect to be entertained."

For the life of him he could not meet her eyes and to cover this cowardice and make his excuse seem casual, he brought Anne's hands up to his lips and kissed them, one after the other. "Anne's hands were always beautiful, even more beautiful than Sabra's," he reflected.

Violently those kissed hands pushed him away. "Go, go, before I tell you what I think of a man who leaves a woman in my condition to bear all her suffering in loneliness."

At this he lashed himself into anger. "Yes, I will go, for you must know that you are unreasonable. I hope when I come back you will be in a pleasanter mood." He started forward as if to kiss her, but Anne Tracy had turned away from her husband and she did not move as he went out and shut the door noisily.

"Call the nurse," she said to the maid, who made her appearance the minute Mr. Tracy had left.

"Give me something to make me sleep," was her curt direction to the white clad woman who instantly prepared a dose of nervine.

"Leave me, both of you," was Anne's next command.

"But Madam," remonstrated her maid.

"You heard me—go."

Both women silently left the room. Anne threw herself on the bed in a passion of sobs, all the while tearing at the velvet and lace of her negligee.

The sobs grew fainter shortly and her hands less destructive as the sedative began to take effect.

Anne Tracy sat up in bed! For a moment she could not tell where she was. A peal of thunder that had seemed to shake the foundation of the house was still reverbrating in the distance and an agonizing pain that had been convulsing her body became less torturing.

SHE was not sure whether it was the pain or the shock of the lightning that had awakened her.

Beside her bed the telephone tinkled.

Nervously she picked it up and put the receiver to her ear.

"Let me speak to Mrs. Phillip Wynne Tracy," an excited voice commanded.

"This is Mrs. Tracy speaking."

"Mrs. Tracy this is the Morning Tribune. Have you heard nothing from your husband in the last few hours?"

"No, not since he went to entertain some guests at dinner."

"Then we have some very bad news for you—" there was a slight hesitation at the other end of the wire.

"Yes, yes, what is it?"

"Your husband, Mrs. Tracy, was killed about ten minuts ago by a tree which had been struck by lightning falling on him. By strange coincidence his car was directly under it when it fell on the Pinehurst Road, just this side of the Pinehurst Roadhouse."

Queer what fantastic tricks one's brain will play upon one at such a time! Anne did not thnk for the moment of her dead husband; instead, she thought of the "visiting bankers," and asked quite calmly: "Was any one else hurt?"

Yes, Mrs. Tracy. Mrs. Sagra Welford was also killed. We have just telephoned her husband."

The hand which held the received dropped slowly to Ann Tracy's side. An agonizing pain swept out everything but physical torture as she slowly sank to the floor.

Twenty-four hours later she opened her eyes. She was lying in her silken covered bed. In a hollow of her arm there rested a little fragrant bundle of flannel and lace. About her was the ordor of anaeesthetic. But above, and over it all, there rested an atmosphere of ineffable peace. Slowly her eyes traveled over the top of the bald satiny head; tenderly she smiled: "Oh, Baby, I DO want you! I could not live without you! How could I have been so wicked—forgive me—"

The nurse, hearing a murmuring sound, came to the bed. "It's all right, Mrs. Tracy. I have never seen a finer boy."

With this she picked up the tiny body and laid it close to the heart of the woman lying there.

With an ecstatic smile Anne Huntington Tracy closed her eyes for she felt the moist nuzzling mouth of her son against her breast.

The story begins seventeen years later tomorrow.

CURING COLDS BY FASTING.

If you have been eating too much this winter, become inervated and finally caught a cold, it will be a good excuse for you to try the fasting cure which I have been telling you so much about.

You, doubtless, have had other dozens of different kinds of symptoms and ailments which I have been explaining to you can be cured by fasting. So, if you do not have a cold at the present time, the treatment which I am going to suggest for you would be beneficial in getting rid of your other troubles, and, if a cold is already starting, it is imperative that you follow these instructions. If you do not use these suggestions now, paste this article in your scrapbook for future reference.

At the start of a cold there is often the symptom of sneezing before any mucus discharge starts. The sneezing is caused by irritation of dust or bacteria which has "caught" on the mucous membrane. You can sometimes get rid of this irritation by lying on your back and filling both nostrils with plain white vaseline, then drawing the vaseline up into your nose so that it finally comes out through the mouth. This will coat all of the membrane lining the nose with the sticky vaseline and prevent the spreading of infection. If, after using this precaution, the mucus begins to flow in large quantities it is then always wise to stop the intake of food. Drink only plain water with the addition of lemon or orange juice.

An excellent treatment which you can use at this time is to drink the liquid from steeping whole grapefruit in boiling hot water. Prepare this as follows: Cut the grapefruit in small pieces, skin and all, and pour over each grapefruit a quart of boiling-hot water. Allow this to stand in an enameled pan or glass jar. After standing for at least thirty minutes, begin to drink the liquid—taking from four to eight ounces every one-half hour. This liquod contains the acid of the grapefruit and also a large amount of organic quinine which is extracted from the skin of the grapefruit. This has a similar effect to the inorganic quinine which you have often taken in the form of tablets but with no bad effects. Take a drink of water every one-half hour, either plain or with lemon, orange or the steeped grapefruit juice. Continue this for several days until the cold is entirely elliminated. During this time you should take two enemas daily, using plain warm water, and use hot sponge baths at least twice daily.

The fasting must be continued as long as any fever exists or if there is much mucus in the nose or throat. If the temperature becomes over 100 degrees, get between woolen blankets and take a good sweat once or twice a day. It is a good plan to be as quiet as possible while under this treatmeg to cure the cold. You will actually be in much better health afterwards if you take the fasting treatment for our cold, as the body will be cleansed of many accumulated toxins which have been burdening your body for a long time.

If you are well, correct your habits of eating and exercising and working so that you do not again develop the toxemia and enervation upon which colds and every other disorder is built.

QUESTION: Mrs. L. W. writes: "You do not mention Rhubarb in your book "The Fast Way to Health," and I would like to know if you consider this a good food. We have lots of it in our garden and would like to make use of it."

ANSWER: Rhubarb is truly a laxative food, but is so strong in acid that it requires a large amount of sugar to make it palatable. It is because of the need of this large amount of sugar that I do not recommend rhubarb.

QUESTION: Betty writes: "Will you please print my answer in the paper? How can I make my cheeks fill out. I am good and healthy but my face is very thin. I hope you can help me. Can you also print what to do for Phlebitis? My mother has it."

ANSWER: If you face is naturally thin, there is nothing that you can do to fill out your cheeks, except to harm yourself by stuffing with food. Facial massage is helpful in increasing circulation, but your cheeks will not actually fill out by this treatment. Do not be fooled into using expensive skin food preparations. I have written a special article on Phlebitis and will be glad to send it to your mother if you will send me her name and address.

QUESTION: Erma R. writes: "Orange juice does not agree with me, causing an itching all over the body. Please advise, doctors tell me there is too much acid."

ANSWER: The use of acid fruit often brings on a rash, if a person's blood is in an impure condition. This indicates that you need an exclusive fruit fast. If the orange juise seems to excite the rash when you are using it with ordinary food, you can get rid of this tendency by living on orange juice exclusively, until the rash disappears. The orange fast increases the alkalinity in your blood and gets rid of the systemic cause of the rash.

"I'd Give My Right Arm"

You've heard people express their feelings by saying "I'd give my right arm" to do or have something.

But did you ever hear anybody say "I'd give my right EYE"?

No, eyesight is too precious to even talk of giving away. But many people are slowly giving away perfect eyesight by neglecting their eyes—by allowing them to be strained when they should be protected with glasses.

Are you "giving your right eye?" Why not have them examined and find out?

You'll be pleased with our thorough, scientific service.

PEASE RIVER SURVEY MADE

Irrigation Project May Rank First in State

CROWELL, May 10.—Preliminary work on the Pease River project started from Crowell that week when engineers of the firm of Floyd and Lockridge of Dallas arrived here for that purpose. This work is in connection with the building of a dam on the Pease River between Crowell and Quanah.

It is expected that about two months will be required to complete this preliminary work. The survey will be the basis for the organization of the preliminary district and for the voting of short term notes to finance the detailed survey of the project. The first or outline survey will show the approximate limits of the district and the approximate route of the main canal. The second or detailed survey will include a complete topographical map of the district and the cost estimates of all construction. The dam site of the project is located on the Pease river, eight miles north of Crowell on the Crowell-Quanah highway, and the land to be included in the district comprises acreage in Foard, Hardeman, Wilbarger and Wichita counties. The plan also includes a permanent water supply for Vernon, Electra, Burkburnett, Quanah and Crowell.

FIRE AT QUITAQUE.

QUITAQUE, May 10.—The business building owned by Dellis Hooks and occupied by the Dellis Barber shop and George Driggars cafe was damaged by fire Friday. When the fire was first noticed it had gained considerable headway, a call for volunteers was made and a number of the citizens responded by using buckets, ladders and many other fire fighting apparatus the blaze was soon extinguished.

CROWELL GRADUATION.

CROWELL, May 10. — Rev. Chas. A. Powell, pastor of the First Baptist church at Abilene will preach the commencement sermon to the senior class of Crowell high school Sunday, May 15, at the Methodist church. WORK HORSE

If you'll notice the box score summary, you'll see where G. Payne wins another. That guy is going to fool around until he cops credit for more victories than any other thrower in the loop. Five so far. He has pitched in nine. At the rate we're stepping now and barring accidents to George's arm he'll participate head and shoulders in more games than any other Texas league thrower.

The crucial set-to of this crucial series awaits us this p. m. Mr. Williams announces that he will make his selection from Payne, F. Fussell and himself. "I'm not sure which one'll start, but if necessary we'll use all of us," stated the great man. Mr. Mathes hid out like most of these invading managers do, but it's generally agreed 'twould be a smart move if he sent back "Ole Dipsy-Dew" Stuart Jacobus. Our free swingers would have lots of fun trying to find Stuart's slow one, not that they wouldn't find it eventually, of course. But it really looks like Shelberg or Carlton. Stuart chunked a few the other day, and these old men need lots of relaxation.

Two of the high spots in yesterday's wrangle were the hitting of Lamb and the fielding of Jenkins, not that Jenkins didn't poke a couple too, incidentally one of which went for three cushions. The best Lambie could get away with was a couple of singles. Came near being robbed out of those. Looked like the unluckiest guy in the world. Smashed one that should have gone for a hit in the first, but Taylor pulled her in. Almost blasted Whitworth off the hill in the third with a lurid liner at the pitcher's head. Dick barely managed to throw up a defensive mitt, knocked her down, recover and toss Lucy out. Then during the seventh, Martin dashed in at full gallop, grabbed Lamb's tap to left down around his shoe laces, turned a flip and came up with the sphere clutched in his glove hand. Beautiful piece of highwayry, taking it from a Houston angle. The other two times, Lucy managed to get on although Taylor came near to robbing him again.

About Jenkins, nothing much in particular other than that he covered a world of territory. Raced all over everyhere and outguessed a trifling wind on several occasions to make startling catches look natural.

What Does He Mean TWO Strong Teams?

Victory in four of the six games played against the two strong northern teams (indicating Fort Worth and Wichita Falls) has put a lot of confidence in the Waco club, quibs Cowtown writer.

First Hand Info by D. Pratt.

Same guy gurgles good cheer to Cat fandom in passage to wit, Del Pratt THINKS Fort Worth has better team than Wichita Falls. There are a brace of outre notes in that message, one of them being the Spudders, even if they are the weaker nine, have copped six straight over fuzzy Felines. The other is, Del (take as example that last Waco game here) doesn't even know how to decide who's the winning pitcher in a contest where more than one hurler is used by each club.

They say Del has been hokuming the boys again. Supposed to have yurped something or other about holding out on a deal with the White Sox for 10 grand with Alex Metzler thrown in as payment for Wilson. Maybe so, but almost anybody knows that Metzler can play six kinds of circles around Wilson.

HARD TO TAKE.

Sad figures gleaned from Mr. Airey's mathematical library: The Spudders played to 30,000 customers over the first 17 games of 1926 with a seventh-place club. They've played to a scant 2,000 more the current scramble over the same span with a league leader and the most expensive team ever banded together in Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls, after all, isn't such a much as a baseball city. Fandom just naturally doesn't patronize. Almost makes a mogul want to get rid of the franchise.

Perhaps there was more than smoke in that rumor eased around the past winter that the Texas league believes it can do better the Wichita Falls franchise were shifted. It always has been averred that should Tulsa and Oklahoma City ever break away from the Western league they will fall heir to the Waco and Wichita Falls berths.

* * *

Some talk about matching Yaqui Joe up again with Jack Reynolds next week. The Indian, by his victory over C. Grip here several weeks ago, displayed great improvement. Should he tackle Jack again, the Indiana speedster had better be careful, very careful, lest a certain Yaqui be laying claims to the welter crown hereafter instead.

* * *

Pete Brown, the Mexican middle champ, has agreed to mingle with Grip next week, the matchmaker says. Brown is rated as an even cleverer person at the jiu jitsu art than Matty Matsuda, one of the masters.

Turgeon Triples In Ninth For 10-9 Win Over Buffs

Houston Rallies in Final Frame To Overcome Three-Run Lead, But Spudders Rally Right With 'Em in Same Round

BY BLONDY CROSS

The half a handful or so of customers at the orchard Tuesday copped a whale of a sight more than a half a handful or so of thrills when our nine came from behind twice to bust those burly Bisons smack on the beezer for what finally turned out to be a 10-9 victory.

We were sitting supposedly Jake in the ninth round with a neat little three-tally advantage when Houston bombarded Harlem Joe Kiefer, one of our aces, from the knob and scored four runs before George Payne, the other ace, could get in there and halt 'em.

But that didn't bother us any, because we came right back at 'em in our half of the ninth and knocked 'em down when they had absolutely no comeback. Peter Eugene Turgeon realized a kind of hard day of it afield. The midget Wichita Falls second sacker forgot to cover a base at a crucial point and later on got mixed up with the sun, wind or something and dropped a pop fly for a Houston run. So Pete evidently decided he needs must do something or other to redeem himself as it were. He grabbed the opportunity in the ninth without even giving it a chance to knock. Found us one run in arrears, a couple of runners on the paths and two out. One of those runners was on first base. Had to travel a long way to get home, so Pete just upped and sloughed a three-bagger against the upper part of the port palisade and lugged the old ball game away.

That's how came Wichita Falls trimmed Houston 10 to 9 in the series second Tuesday and tied the series at one-all.

Rear Back at Us

Kiefer had hurled a comparatively good game up to the ninth while the Spudders had dickered around until they knocked Dick Whitworth, diminutive Buff righthander, to the showers, albeit an error was injected in the retreat maneuver. Facing a three-run lead at the start of the ninth, Houston bristled up to the occasion and demolished the barrier rather speedily. Ken Penner, clothed as a pinch hitter, opened with a double. Hock singled. Martin walked and Orsatti lucked a dinky through the box. Taylor poked a two-cushioner to center and that tied her at 9-9. Payne took up the chunking and Pete dropped Powell's pop fly to short right, Orsatti scoring. Miller rocketed to Jenkins in left and Taylor was doubled at the plate, trying to go home after the catch. Sweet throw and sweet work the way Lapan laid the leather on him. Warwick struck out.

Then our side climbed up on its hind legs and went after 'em. Benton chased Powell away back in center to pull down his aviation. Fitzgerald worked Shelberg for a base on balls. The latter started the inning on the mound for Houston because Boyd, Whitworth's relief, had given way for a pinch hitter. Lamb laced a liner to left, sending Fitz to second. Manager Joe Mathes promptly pulled the pitcher and chased in the veteran Stuart Jacobus. Jenkins hoisted out to left and then Turgeon stepped in with his mighty money clout. The drive any other day would have cleared the port palings with margin to spare but a stiff in-blowing gale threw her back into the park and she plunged the top boards instead for those necessary three sacks, scoring Fitz from second and Lamb from first.

There isn't much else to say. The Buffs continued to hit. They tagged Joe for 15. Our gang poled 11, but punched 'em when they were needed the most.

Sharp fielding on the inner works several times saved Joe from disaster with LaFayette and Benton taking a heavy hand. A couple of miscues came near ruining us, too.

Get Away Fast.

The home gang got away in the initial round to an auspicious start. In the first place, Kiefer, Benton and LaFayette came up with a rapid double play, killing a Bison menace. LaFayette, incidently, pulled Rabbit's throw out of the dirt, giving the bugs a sensation. Then George came right back and opened the Spudder half of the chukker with a vociferous whack against the top tier of right center barrier. Couple of batters expired without George getting off second, then Lamb drew a life when Orsatti dropped Taylor's throw to first after Taylor and made a noble stop of a hard hit bounder down third base way. LaFayette went to third. And the great Jenkins followed with a surreptious blast that bounded over the first sacker's dome and down the right field foul marker for three bases. LaFayette and Lamb, of course, tabulated. Turgeon was retired on a pop to Orsatti.

That two-run advantage was spliced, so to speak, before another inning went into the books, for Taylor's single past short with Powell's double to right and a one-baser by Warwick chased a pair of Buffs over in the second.

Flossy co-operation at first base between LaFayette and Kiefer, the latter covering the bag, on Orsatti's bounder, and a sharp recovery at short by Benton on Taylor's buzzer with a runner on third thwarted these Mathesmen in the third. They scored one on us in the fourth and made out like they were going to shove a whole bunch more over, but Kiefer, Lapan and LaFayette snuffed 'em with a bullet double play. Powell, who hasn't any right to be hitting like this, opened with a punch between first and second. He was bunted to second by Miller. Warwick scored him with a single to center. Kane singled to left and Whitworth outfooted a bunt to the box when Turge forgot to cover first. LaFayette was pulled in by the play. The maneuver loaded the hassocks with one out. Hock followed with a bobble at Kiefer, who turned her loose to Lapan at the plate like she was hot, forcing Warwick. Pete then lined her to first, completing the twin erasure.

Knotted in Fifth.

Lots of things happened in that fifth frame, five of which were runs, two for the enemy, three for the home guard, tying her at 5-5. Martin and Orsatti tripled. That's one Houston run. Taylor lined out to right and Orsatti tabulated after the catch. Turgeon threw out Powell and Miller. Then we got started. Wee bit lucky, at that. Lapan hoisted one high in the atmosphere around left center. The wind gave the sphere a peculiar downward course. It finally flopped in mid-field after hanging up there awhile and went for two bases. Powell misjudged but almost snagged her. Kiefer popped to short and LaFayette pulled a pass out of Whitworth. Benton hauled back to the grandstand and swammed a double to right center, scoring both Pete and George. Fitz rolled out to first, Benton making third. Lamb busted a drive through Taylor at third, scoring Rabbit. Jenkins nearly undressed Mr. Kane at second, but Johnny recovered in time to force Lamb.

The sixth was one of those smooth, swift and scoreless affairs but the ditto can not be said for number seven, considering as how our nine rose up and rushed Richard off the hill, Boyd coming to the rescue. LaFayette, first up, drew a base on balls. Benton laid a bunt down the third base line. Taylor picked her up and tried for LaFayette at the keystone. Well, his throw was late and it was low, biting into the dirt and hopping on out to center field with result George rambled on to the next sack. LaFayette scored and Benton went to second on a passed ball. Then Fitzgerald upped after fouling 'em all over the yard and tripled against the starboard barrier around the Pencoil portion of the Boardman oil company ad. Rabbit tabulated. Martin robbed Lamb of a hit to left and Fitz checked in after the catch. That was three runs for us and that was all, for after Jenkins tagged up with a single Mathes derricked Dick and Boyd blocked further ther advance.

Everybody behaved until the ninth when the Buffs cashed in on four runs and the mighty Peter slapped back at them with his victory three-bagger.

Same nines mix it again Wednesday afternoon.

METZLER HITS FIRST HOMER

Alex Christens New Park At Chicago

CHICAGO, May 10. (AP)—Timely hitting by Tommy Thomas, coupled with his own steady pitching after a wavering start, enabled Chicago to defeat Washington, 4 to 3 today in the first game of the series. In addition to holding the Senators safe in the pinches, Thomas delivered two blows which accounted for three of Chicago's runs. Alex Metzler's home run in the first inning was the first made by a White Sox player in their remodeled park. The score:

SOX HALT INDIANS.

CLEVELAND, May 10. (AP)—Boston dashed Cleveland's hopes of entering the first division today by nosing out the Indians, 6 to 5. The Red Sox forced in five of their runs in the fifth when they bunched two doubles and two singles. Cleveland rallied in the eighth and had the tieing run on third base with only one out, but Wiltse steadied and prevented a tied score. The score:

Santone Drives Bird From Mound in Sixth

FORT WORTH, May 10. (AP)—San Antonio turned the tables on Fort Worth in the second game of the series Tuesday to square the count at one all. The final score was 11-7. Driving Bird from the mound in the sixth the Bears continued their hard drive against North. A ninth inning rally availed the Cats little. Hitting was plentiful on both sides. SHREVEPORT, May 10. (AP)—For four innings Tuesday, Dick Robertson, making his return to the Texas league after three years of important baseball made the Waco Cubs eat out of his hand but an injury caused him to lose control and in the fourth and fifth innings the visitors came from behind to win the opener of the series, 6 to 4. Benge held the locals well in check in all but the second inning when four hits scored three runs. Harris' homer in the eighth gave Shreveport its last tally. The score:

SHE'S WIDE OPEN RACE, THIS DERBY, FREE FROM FAVORITES

By WARREN BROWN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 10.—Unless a very pronounced change in popular opinion is registered within the next few days, the Kentucky derby which seems to have drawn a lot of customers to this neighborhood, will be as free from an established favorite as last year's maroons were from touchdowns.

A year ago, as I recall my derby history, the eastern wing of the customers, experts, and those who came along just for the ride, were all heated up over the chances of an animal called Pompey. And the westerners leaned out of hotel windows through all the long hours of the night, chirping, chuckling, roaring, ranting "bubbling over" this formula represented at once their derby choice and their own feelings. But there is none of that, this year.

You Pick Him.

As rapidly as any derby eligible has maneuvered into a spot calling for some attention, along comes another one to knock it down. This has happened so often, since Jan. 1, that about all one can say of the 1927 derby, is that 100,000 persons will see it, and some animal will pack off the $50,000 added, which represents the Kentucky jockey clubs contribution to the gaiety of this racing nation.

Naturally the Kentuckians will fight it out along the lines of E. R. Bradley, if it takes all summer, and one can get an argument on any corner of this city right now, by speaking lightly of the chances of Bewithus and Buddy Bauer, Boo and whatever other animals E. R. elects to start for the purpose of putting the "B" on the derby again this year, as he did last.

But even with Kentuckians there is no longer any unity. Since the Camden colt, Hydromel, flashed into form at Lexington, and held that form until as late as wash-day of the current week, complications have set in, and the disappointing performance of Buddy Bauer in the Preakness did not serve to alleviate these complications.

What's He Saying.

That dear old future book favorite, Osmand, showed plenty of run for a certain amount of the mile against Nor'easter, Rolled Stocking, and several others, last Saturday. But at the finish, the Rolled Stocking had whatever run there was, which, though it is not desirable in a stocking is quite likely to happen. However, any observer of things sartorial, will tell you that it is much easier to get a run in a rolled stocking than it is in a derby.

Some of the folks hereabouts do not pretend to be deceived by the race Osmand turned in last Saturday. They prefer to believe that the wily Earl Sande simply had Osmand out for the air. If that be true, then he lacked the strategy of the rider who was astride Kiev, Osmand's stable mate. Kiev not only took his proper share of the air, but also the wind from the rest of the field, all the way around to say nothing of the dust.

There was something of a parallel between the race of Osmand in the derby trial, and that of Scapa Flow, in the preakness. Both showed unusual agility at getting out in front and running the rest of the animals ragged for a good part of the distance, only to yield when the final test came. One way of estimating the derby chances, would be to consider Osmand and Scapa Flow setting the pace, next Saturday, with the rest of the field balloting to determine which candidate would go into the lead at the head of the stretch and scamper home for the $50,000 added.

So far, the real friends of the people have been those owners whose derby eligibles have been restricting their exercise to workouts, without the formality of starting in a race.

Texas Electrics Mix It Up With Continental

The Texas Electric Service company baseball team will take on the Conocos at Katy Park this afternoon at five bells. The Kilowatts have broken even in their first two games and hope to take a lead over the Panhandles for a brief spell and have a chance to go into a triple tie for first place should the Longhorns stop the fast going American Eagles when they clash Friday afternoon.

On the other hand, the Conocos will be trying their best to pull the Electric company nine down into a tie for the second division honors. Gabe Harris has been having lots of trouble with getting started in his first two games and is expected to give it a third trial this afternoon.

The Electric company probably will start Cecil Allison on the hill. Allison has been piling up a great record on the high school nine this year and should be a very good starter.

BAMBINO'S FAME TRAVELS AFAR

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—The sound of Babe Ruth's home runs has been heard in Germany and rebounded to St. Louis where the Yankees are playing.

A dispatch to the New York Evening World tells of a letter from Max Schmutterer of Lochen, Germany, "a little poor boy," to the home run king, congratulating him on his athletic prowess.

The letter, written naturally in German, suggested that when the boy grows up he might "go into sport and earn as much money as you, because my mother has none."

Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman and a Columbia university alumnus, pinch hit for the "Babe" by translating the letter and writing the reply, forwarded promptly by Ruth, with an autographed baseball.

Ruth told Max not to mind about lack of money when he has a mother, a form of wealth which millions of dollars can not equal. Ruth was reared in an orphanage and never knew what it was to have a mother.

The slugger was anxious to see that enough postage was affixed to the letter and the baseball going to Germany. He was not willing to have any delay for lack of stamps.

"Put a few dollars worth on," he told his volunteer assistants in mailing.

MANTELL PUTS UP REAL FIGHT

Dutch Loses, But Fools 'Em All By Clean Work

By BLONDY CROSS

Dutch Mantell is a wrestler, after all!

Defy anybody to contradict this statement.

For Dutch Mantell, Amarillo's ape human, who has kicked and batted his woy through many a hectic mat fracas in Wichita Falls and seldom displayed any tendency to wrestle or do anything similar to, came back Tuesday night at the Ross arena against Jack Reynolds of Indianapolis and waged one of the most gruelling, cleanest and yet one of the hardest-fought matches ever staged locally.

There were no submarine socks Tuesday night. There were no clouts to the chin other than a few open-handed and perfectly orthodox slaps. And the dour Dutchman bit nobody.

Trifles Once

On top of it all, Dutch, who, they said, knew little about the science of wrestling other than the lumberjack style, almost defeated Reynolds.

Dutch, after giving Jack a merry 40-minute battle for initial honors, was disqualified for holding onto the ropes after Reynolds had put him in a bad way with a headlocking sortie. That was just about Dutch's only breach of etiquette. He jabbed Jack with a quartet of jiu jitsu thumbs, but at odd intervals Jack evened matters by use of the same tactics.

Fifty minutes of bitter struggle finally saw Mantell win the second fall with a leg split, Reynolds conceding.

The rubber fall went to Reynolds in 24 minutes on a combination smother and hammer lock. Dutch had fought furiously for the greater portion of the 24 under pressure of a short arm scissors, refusing gamely to quit when Reynolds threatened to break the arm and apparently tried to do so. At one point Dutch worked into the dire split again, but Ryenolds broke away after a short struggle and hooked on the short arm scissors once more.

Mantell, as usual, declared he was gypped. You know, crooked by the referee. Said his shoulders were not pinned on the last fall. However, both blades were down, with the left arm doubled back under and up the spine, the blades pressed to the canvas and almost out of their sockets.

Gorman Wins Three Falls

Jack Gorman, San Angelo flash, and Reynolds' most ardent challenger, trimmed Sylvio Checco, nee "Dago Jim," winning three falls after Chec copped one. Sylvio took the opener in 15 minutes with a toe hold. The Italian conceded the second fall in eight minutes under pressure of a jiu jitsu hold, known locally as the "button" (they are working under New York commission rules), but after being let up, jumped Gorman again while a timid arbiter stood back and allowed them to go to it. It took Gorman just one minute longer to lick Chec with a step over toe hold. The deciding fall went to Gorman in seven minutes via the slam. Jack, supposedly groggy from a series of headlocks, grabbed a crotch, hoisted "Jim" up and flopped him on an ear, pinning him in a hurry.

A couple of mateurs, Jess Lowrence and Steve Oates, put on a ten-minute exhibition to a draw. The boys displayed quite a bit of science.

Wide To Perform In Conference Meet

HOUSTON, May 10. (AP)—Edvin Wide, world famous Swedish runner, Saturday, will run a mile and a half exhibition race here as one of the attractions of the Southwest conference track and field meet to be staged at Rice field. This announcement was made Monday by Gaylord Johnson, Rice business manager of athletics.

Wide's race will be against time as there is no unattached runner in this section capable of giving the flying Swede real competition. Wide's performance is expected to attract thousands of sport lovers to Rice field.

Notice of Wide's aceptance of Rice institute's invitation was received Monday in a telegram from Wide to Johnson. An interesting feature of Wide's visit is that Ernie Hjertberg, Rice track coach, is a former coach and trainer of Wide. Hjertberg prepared Wide for competition in one Olympiad.

GUSHER EXPECTED FROM WATCHORN TEST SOUTH OF JACKSBORO

OIL AND GAS IN FIRST LIME

Ridecker Wildcat Extends Pool Mile

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, May 10.—Another well of the gusher type for Jack county is expected within the next few days from the Watchorn No. 1 Williams Brothers which Tuesday had a showing of both oil and gas from the lime at 4457 feet.

This well, located slightly less than a quarter of a mile northeast of the Roxana Petroleum company's No. 1 Williams which has been flowing for five years, has just entered the first showing found in the Roxana well.

10 Feet to Drill.

According to the log of the Roxana well, 10 feet of gas sand separated the bit from the big pay and it had started drilling in Tuesday night.

The Roxana well encountered two pay horizons, the first of which was at 4494 feet which was good for 25 barrels daily and the second at 4557 feet when the initial flow of 405 barrels per day started. A check of the elevations of the two wells shows that the Watchorn test is now 40 feet shallower than the old producer. The location is in the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of the B. S. and F. survey, abstract 88.

An extension to the Seaboard-Buttram pool is effected in the Ridecker No. 1 Holman which is a mile and a quarter northwest of the most westerly producer in the pool. It is standing with 400 feet of oil in the open hole from 2015 Storage is being erected and casing run before this well will be brought in. It is between the Buttram production and the Shaw and Rathke well on the Bond land near Bryson.

The Schermerhorn Oil company apparently has a dry hole at its No. 1 Nash in the J. J. Rogers survey and east of the Watchorn well. It is now drilling at 2506 feet, six feet below contract depth.

East Texas Discovery Drops Off to Nothing

Although 11 seismograph crews are at work and the Humble Oil and Refining company has started two new tests there, the outlook for the Cherokee-Boggy Creek area near Jacksonville, in East Texas, is very dark just now.

The Humble's discovery well, No. 1, Elliott, is reported to be dead now after dropping off to 6 to 10 barrels an hour through a 3-16 inch choke. The well has made considerable water and cut oil.

Older Seminole Pool Is Declining Rapidly

TULSA, May 10.—Seminole production for the 24 hours ending Monday morning totaled 354,080 barrels from 407 wells. Divided by pools the production is as follows: Bowlegs, 97,072; Earlsboro, 63,097; Seminole City 160,225; Searight, 33,690. A noticeable feature is the rapid decline of Seminole City pool or the old 9-6 area.

Gas Lift Is Being Installed Near McLean

AMARILLO, May 10.—The gas lift is being installed at the M. R. Travis and associates No. 1 Beck, in the center of the northwest of the southeast of section 44, block 25, of H. & C. N. survey, in the new McLean oil pool of southwestern Gray county.

New Producer Near Eastland

M. T. C. Oil Company Gets 350-Barreller

EASTLAND, May 10.—M. T. C. Oil company has brought in a new producer, offsetting to the east, the discovery well in the pool 14 miles southwest of Eastland. The M. T. C. well is No. 1 McAlester, and it topped the formation known as the Marble Falls lime at 2970 feet, getting the pay at 3005 feet, and this has been penetrated to 3035 feet. The well is producing a little better than 350 barrels of oil per day, and making 3,750,000 feet of gas, according to owners.

The discovery well was brought in January 18, and made 15 barrels natural, and after a shot of 200 quarts, is reported to have made 600 barrels daily. It is now reported to be making 150 barrels daily, with approximately 80 feet of cavings in the hole.

The new M. T. C. well is in the nortwest corner of an 80 acre lease. It has 200 feet of open hole, in which there are 20 feet of cavings.

About six weeks ago, the north offset to the discovery well, drilled through the Marble Falls lime, which is the pay horizon above the Ranger lime, and this well is reported to have made no oil natural, but after a 200 quart shot is making around 500 barrels daily.

The northeast offset to the discovery well, drilled by Thomas and Reynolds, and the Amerada, brought in about six weeks ago, is reported to be making 200 barrels natural.

Three-fourths of a mile to the southwest of the discovery Reynolds, Crawford and Spencer, are but a few feet in the Marble Falls lime, and their well is flowing natural at the rate of around 400 barrels daily.

Kansas Men Buy Acreage Around Five Drilling Tests in King County

A series of acreage spreads around the five wildcat tests drilling in King county, southwest of Wichita Falls, have been taken by a group of Kansas men at an approximate expenditure of $25,000. A co-operative wildcat campaign is being carried on by five companies on the famous "6666" ranch of the S. B. Burnet estate.

These wildcats are being drilled on a single block of 30,000 acres, part of the ranch which was said according to tradition to have been won years ago by Burnett when he held four sixes in a poker hand. The geology is favorable at all the tests and the locations are from three to five miles apart.

Each of the operating companies took over a part of the large block from Gibson and Johnson of Fort Worth who originally blocked the acreage with the agreement that five tests be started by March 1, 1927.

The acreage taken by the Kansas men, most of whom are of Wichita and Augusta, amounts to a spread on each test and includes 29 "eighties."

The companies of drilling, their locations and depths are as follows:

Phillips Petroleum company, northwest of section 2, Schneider survey, drilling at 2385 feet; Gibson and Johnson, northeast of section 34, Sam Lazarus survey, drilling at 1205 feet; White Eagle Oil & Refining company, southeast of the Lamson survey, drilling at 1420 feet; Sinclair Oil and Gas company, southwest corner of the Elliott survey, drilling at 800 feet; Mid-West Exploration company, northeast of section 116, Patton ranch, drilling at 815 feet.

Return of Speculative Interest To Rail Stocks Acts As Tonic For Many Issues

—By BROADAN WALL—

BY BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, May 10.—Railroad stocks assumed leadership of the market simultaneously with the hearings on the new Van Sweringen merger proposal. The plan will call for the formation of a new holding company, in which the securities of these railroads will be lodged. But the actual plan is relatively unimportant, as the speculative community views the matter. The hearings are expected to develop many facts with regard to various railroads in the east and in the southwest, facts dealing with the recent heavy purchases of so-called merger roads, and other disclosures as to where control of certain railroads rests—all this having until now been closely guarded as a secret.

The effect of this re-awakening of speculative interest in the railroads was to bring about signal strength and activity in the whole market, today following a selling movement earlier in the day. Buying of railroad stocks was confident enough even to offset an advance in call money rate to 4½ per cent in the afternoon. The success with which the rails weathered the recession was further heightened by an impressive upward movement in steel common, which carried with it a number of specialties that only a few days ago were the object of short selling. Not even the report on unfilled tonnage of the steel corporation had an adverse effect on prices.

In the southwestern rail group, Missouri Pacific occupies a strategic position that is attracting the attention of bargain hunters who are combing the list for new opportunities. Missouri Pacific preferred moved up sharply in response to buying that came from sources predicting an advance of at least 30 points. The preferred has 42½ per cent back dividends which could easily be funded by a new issue of common stock. Wall street expects some such proposal to come out of the hearings at Washington, or at least expects to learn from those hearings that such a plan is in contemplation.

Another important disclosure that may come is the value of the New York Central's real estate holdings, estimated by some to be worth $100,000,000 more than has ever been shown in any official report. The reason for the buying of New York Central is chiefly on this point of hidden values, although it would be no surprise if at some time in the not distant future the road were to pay an extra dividend.

The merger rumor involving Consolidated Gas and Brooklyn has aroused interest in both stocks. Some traders, in preference to buying Brooklyn Union stock, are buying the convertible bonds because of the arbitrage which can be carried with a profit until the conversion date, which is January, 1929.

Hudson Manhattan advanced to another new high record. It is thought that the dividend may be increased from $2.50 to $3, which at the present price will yield about 5 per cent. In 1927 the company is expected to earn more than double the present dividend.

Some stock market observers profess to be worried over the prospects of a sharp decline in Steel common when the new stock becomes a regular delivery on June 1. They reason that brokers will require an additional margin on the new stock because there will be 140 shares for each 100 shares now in existence. It is pointed out, however, that no serious disturbance from this cause need be feared, because there is margin already up against the total amount of old steel outstanding and also against a large volume of the "when issued" stock. When the two are combined and become one, all selling at the same price the total margin will be available.

Mack Truck earnings showed $1.65 a share for the first quarter. This was almost exactly what had been predicted in advance. For the second quarter estimates are made that earnings will be at least $3 per share, and the action of the stock yesterday, after the earning statement came out, indicated that the buying was from inside sources and was as confident as ever.

Oil and Gas Showing On Benita Dome, N. M.

AMARILLO, May 10.—Gas and oil showings have been found on Benita dome, one of the outstanding geological features in the Tucumcari area of Quay county, east New Mexico.

The Gibson Oil corporation in its No. 1 Permit, in the northwest corner of 25-8n-32c, was straight reaming to 2576 feet, after rattailing from 2553 feet. The 12 1-2 inch casing is being carried. It had a show of gas at 2453 feet and a show of oil at 2567 feet.

Midwest Refining company in No. 1, Rhoades, in the northwest of 30-8n-31c, was drilling ahead and carrying the 8 1-4 inch at 3040 feet. The pipe was lowered to case off a cave.

Ohio Oil company in No. 1 Wells, in the southeast of 24-7n-29e, was drilling ahead at 1280 feet in a 10 1-4 inch hole.

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, May 10.—All business firms of Vernon have been asked by the Chamber of Commerce to close on Monday, May 16, in observance of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Wichita Falls. Each firm is expected to send at least one representative to the convention.

Nineteen firms gave notice Monday morning that they would close, and a canvass is being made of the city to get the remainder to close. The following firms agreed to close:

William Cameron & Son, Famous Store, King & Creemer, J. C. Penny Co., Farmers State bank, Waggoner National bank, Martin-Lane & Co., Anderson's Department Store, Perkins-Timberlake, Napier Bros., Ladd Motor Co., Herring National bank, Clarence Saunders Stores, First State bank, Dixon Dry Goods Co., Stone, Blake & Bailey.

Gasoline Consumption Equal to Production

PHILADELPHIA, May 10. (AP)—A statement showing that the consumption of gasoline in this country has caught up with production and that the end of August will find reserve stocks depleted by more than 500,000,000 gallons, was issued today by R. D. Leonard, vice-president of the Atlantic Refining company.

"Due to an unusual gain in consumption during the early months of the year, stocks on hand at the end of March were but slightly in excess of 52,000,000 barrels," said Mr. Leonard, "and continued withdrawals from these national reserves at merely the present prevailing rate will reduce the supply on hand at the end of August by approximately 543,000,000 gallons.

"Already the gasoline market is reacting upward. It is not at all unreasonable to predict that anticipated summer demands will find this market strengthened to a point slightly in excess of recent years."

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—Operators for the decline who seized upon several unfavorable developments to bring about a lowering of prices in today's stock market, met with strong resistance. Price movements on the whole were irregular. Volume of business slackened considerably as offerings increased, total sales falling to around 1,600,000 shares.

A stiffening of call money to 4½ per cent from the renewal rate of 4 per cent followed calling by banks of about $20,000,000 in loans. This stiffening of credit, however, was regarded in most quarters as only temporary and due to the desire of the clearing house banks to correct the deficit of $25,475,000 reported last Saturday. Further receipts of French gold, bringing the total amount recently imported to $18,000,000 also gave confidence that no real drain on the credit reservoir was in prospect.

Steel shares held up well in face of a decrease of 97,000 tons in the unfilled tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation.

Buying of railroad shares continued and resulted in several new highs for the year, or longer, including Hudson and Manhattan common and preferred, Reading, Union Pacific preferred, and Frisco preferred.

Although General Motors sold up to 197½, realizing developed, wiping out most of the gains. Hudson Motors also sagged. Several miscellaneous shares displayed outstanding strength on excellent earnings prospects, better dividend expectations and similar developments.

Despite the increase in the call money rates, time money was easier, quoted around 4¼ to 4⅜. Prime commercial paper showed no change.

Foreign exchanges were easy, Italian lire declining 9 points to below 5.38 and demand sterling ruling around $4.85½ and French francs just below 3.92 cents.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—The cotton market was somewhat irregular today, but made a generally steady showing. After selling off to 15.57 July advanced to 15.75, or 10 points net higher, closing at 15.68. The general market closed steady at net advances of three to seven points.

The market opened steady at an advance of four points to a decline of three points. Buying on the relatively steady showing of the Liverpool cables and reports of rains in the western and central belts, was readily supplied around the initial figures, however, and the market eased on the outlook for clearing conditions in the western belt.

May sold off to 15.36 and October to 15.84, net declines of about six to eight points on active positions, but there was some trade buying apparently and the market firmed up during the afternoon on the detailed weather reports showing heavy rains in the Little Rock district, and more or less general rains in the Memphis district. There were also reports that floods were still threatening some of the levees in northeast Louisiana, which may possibly have contributed to the afternoon advance. Offerings were comparatively light after the rather heavy realizing yesterday, and prices advanced to 15.50 for May and 16.04 for October, or about 6 to 13 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Last prices showed reactions of several points from the best under realizing.

The volume of business was smaller than recently, and at times it looked as if the market was waiting for further weather or crop developments. There appeared to be considerable cotton for sale around or slightly above the 16-cent level for October, but buying picked up somewhat on the declines. Reports that sales of cotton cloths during April exceeded production for the month, may have contributed to the steady undertone of the market.

Liverpool reported London and American buying on the rain news from the south and said there had been more sales of cotton cloths to India and China.

Exports today 27,770, making 9,942,141 so far this season. Porth receipts 19,871; U. S. port stocks 1,877,279.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 10. (AP)—Cotton was active today and prices tended upward although at times they were rather nervous. Better cables than due influenced the market upward at the opening ad first trades showed gains of two to seven points. Renewed liquidation in the first hour, however, caused prices to drop to levels nine to 11 points below the opening highs. Towards mid-session the market rallied on the outlook for unsettled and colder weather in the west, a small craft storm warning for the Louisiana coast and a rumor of a crevasse in north Louisiana. This rally advanced 12 to 14 points bove the previous close. In the afternoon the market was quiet and near the end prices eased off a little but closed at net gains for the day of seven to nine points.

The strong Liverpool cables influenced prices and after the opening July traded up to 15.65 and October 15.89. Before the offerings on the renewed liquidation were absorbed July traded down to 15.65 October to 15.78, and December to 15.91, the lows for the day.

The later rally on the weather, storm warning and flood news carried July up to 15.72, October 15.96, and December 15.90, 16 to 19 points up from the lows. Prices eased off, three to six points near the end but the close was steady.

Exports totaled 27,770 bales.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, May 10. (AP)—From start to finish, wheat showed a downward trend today. Prospects of weather that would aid the seeding of spring wheat, especially in Canada, were to a great extent responsible. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 2 to 2⅝c net lower, with corn ⅝ to 1c down, oats ⅛ to ⅝@⅝c off, and provisions showing 2 to 10c decline.

In addition to better weather northwest, the fact that Liverpool wheat prices were much lower than had been looked for had a bearish effect.

Bears in wheat made much of the fact that although the government crop forecast looked bullish if compared with last year's final figures. The reverse was the case when comparisons were made with figures issued at this season last year.

Damage reports today from the southwest, the Texas Panhandle in particular, failed to act as an offset.

Corn and oats were pulled down by wheat weakness. Cash demand here for corn remained slack.

Provisions gave way with grain, despite an upturn in hog values.

Baldridge New President Of Club

"The Real Estate board of Wichita Falls has won a powerful place in the city, and I want it to increase in membership, because expansion means influence," William Baldridge, new president of the Real Estate board said at its weekly luncheon at a local hotel Tuesday.

"In order to be a success, every club has to have an aim. Realtors are closer than anyone to the financial business of Wichita Falls, consequently they know more about those matters of the city."

In giving his aims for the coming year, Mr. Baldridge said he would present a good program every week, and wanted every member to be awake and alert to his profession in order that each would feel proud to be a member of the board. He also asked the co-operation of the club in helping to give good programs, and by being at the meetings each week.

Mr. Baldridge presented A. L. Huey, the retiring president, with a leather traveling set, bought by members of the board. Mr. Huey read a speech made by Edwin P. Morrow at the Tulsa National Realtors convention, and also thanked the club for its splendid co-operation during the past year.

Ben Dancer introduced Tom Connally, United States Congressman of Waco, who made a brief talk on the real estate profession.

"Real estate has changed the course of history in many ways," Mr. Connally stated.

"All the wars have been traced back to real estate. Every country wants more territory in which to expand, consequently the conquest for land resulted."

Other officers for the coming year are J. M. Baber, first vice-president; John Monroe, second vice-president; L. E. Junell, secretary, and A. L. Huey and Roscoe Staton, members of the board of directors.

Briscoe County Officials To Drain Lake Blocking Highway Traffic

QUITAQUE, May 10.—Highway officials are now at work on the draining of the big lake which has blocked all travel on the regular highway between Quitaque and Silverton, a distance of about two miles for the past eight months or more. This lake is just a short distance from the "cap" rock west of Quitaque, and covered more than thirty acres of land. The excessive rains last spring and fall caused the lake to fill.

A ditching machine is working along this highway between the lake and the canyons that empty into the rough of the "cap rock." It is the opinion of the men in charge of the ditching machine that it will require about 30 days to complete the work. About thirty-five wagons are used in hauling this dirt away from the machine as it digs the dirt along the road side. The wagons that are used are supplied by the farmers of Briscoe county. The dirt is being hauled to places where a fill is needed.

It is understood that the highway across the lake will be built much higher at this time, than was before and when this job is completed trouble of this nature will never occur at this place again, as the water will drain to the canyon. A detour that was made some eight months ago that led to the south thence back north to the highway has been very satisfactory but some expensive on the county.

Today { At the Theaters

Majestic: "The Yankee Clipper," starring William Boyd, also Topics of the Day, Fables and Pathe News.

Olympic: "The Sea Tiger," with Milton Sills, comedy and Fox News.

Strand: "One Increasing Purpose," with all-star cast, and comedy.

Mission: "Stranded in Paris," with Bebe Daniels; No. 7 of "Scotty of the Scouts."

Garden: Jack Perrin in "The Grey Devil," and comedy.

Gem: Milton Sills in 'As Man Desires," and Bill Grimes comedy.

Once in an age there comes to the screen a picture that can be truly classed as epochal. Such a production is "The Yankee Clipper," which opened Tuesday at the Majestic theater and scored an emphatic hit.

"The Yankee Clipper" is epochal in that it brings to the motion picture public something new, refreshing and exhilarating in the way of entertainment. For which this reviewer is duly grateful.

The something new offered by "The Yankee Clipper" is the revelation of a chapter in American history hitherto untouched by writers for any producers of the silent drama. It is that period of a quarter of a century just prior to and during the Civil war, the era of the famous clipper ship which brought glory to the American shipbuilding industry and won for this country the commercial supremacy of the sea.

The refreshing element in this fine picture is the unhackneyed plot of a drama that grips your attention in the first reel and holds it through a well-developed continuity to the final smashing climax. The exhilaration is supplied by the genuinely thrilling realism of a storm at sea, with "Clipper" battling her way through a terrific typhoon around Cape Horn, and the lusty, red-blooded battle in which handsome and rugged Bill Boyd quells a gang of villainous mutineers after a great fist fight in which no holds are barred.

Boyd is one of our favorite screen heroes. His work as the captain of the "Clipper" is probably the best he has done in his meteoric screen career. He has that rare combination of good looks and manliness that makes him a prime favorite of every devotee of the screen.

The lovely Elinor Fair is delightful as the heroine, and accentuates the fine impression she created in "The Volga Boatman." Walter Long does his "dirty" work in the most villainous manner, while Junior Coghlan, one of De Mille's latest prodgies, steals several scenes in a sympathetic role.

"The Yankee Clipper" is not only fine drama; it is splendid entertainment and worthy of rank as one of the best pictures of the season.

Elinor Fair, starred in "The Yankee Clipper," now showing at the Majestic theater.

County To Protect District Clerk Against Liability in $18,000 Tangle

The county commissioners court will endeavor to find some means of protecting Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk, from liability for $18,000 which the court instructed her Monday to distribute among road and bridge funds in the various precincts of the county, County Judge E. W. Nicholson, said Tuesday.

Miss Jackson asserted, following the court order, that she did not care to relinquish control of the money until she was assured that she was complying with the law in the distribution.

If she should relinquish control, Miss Jackson pointed out, to funds not entitled to the money she could be held liable for the entire amount.

The $18,000 is part of a fund that has accumulated in the district clerk's office during the past 15 years. The disposition of the money has been a source of contention among county officials for a number of years.
