

Albert Manby, Pioneer Rancher, Dies Friday

Albert Manby, who fifty years ago left County Suffolk, England, and came to the vast, unsettled ranching country that was Collingsworth County, died Friday morning, May 30, at 1:15 o'clock.

He was one of the few remaining pioneer ranchers who did so much toward the building this county during the early years of its organization. He was one of that group of men who helped to give to this county and others near it a background as Anglo-Saxon as any spot in the United States.

Mr. Manby was 67 years of age. Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Michael and All Angel's Episcopal Church in Shamrock, which he helped to found, and of which he was a member. Rev. Edgar Henshaw, rector of the Clarendon church, conducted the services. Burial services at the Shamrock Cemetery were conducted by the Masonic Lodge.

Pall bearers were F. A. F. Page, R. F. Douglas, Roger O'Gorman, J. H. Caperton, A. J. Laycock, and Fred Holmes. Flower bearers were Miss Dorothy Page, Mrs. E. H. Kromer, Mrs. Hubert Tindall, Mrs. Clarence Lister, Mrs. J. H. Caperton, and Mrs. R. M. Barkley.

Mr. Manby was born March 13, 1874, at Ipswich, one of the principal towns of County Suffolk, England. He was the son of Tom and Ann Manby. Here Mr. Manby spent his childhood, and attended school, but in 1891, when he was 17 years of age, he left England and came direct to Collingsworth County. He stayed for a time with the man who was later to become his brother-in-law, Herbert Aldous, one of this county's earliest settlers.

In 1901 Mr. Manby acquired ranching interests of his own, and since then he has lived on his ranch on Elm Creek, in the northern part of this county.

On March 9, 1902, he was married to Miss Constance Fanny Aldous, also a native of Ipswich, who had come out to Collingsworth County the year before. Mrs. Manby, one daughter, Mrs. Allen I. Smith, and a small granddaughter, Peggy Marie Smith, survive him. Another daughter died in infancy. Mr. Manby came from a family which had been landowners and farmers in County Suffolk, one of the richest farming areas in the British Isles. Of them, Mr. Manby once said:

"Their pride was in the home, and the fine culture and upkeep of the land and in all improvements, especially the breeding of good shorthorn cattle, fine horses, and Suffolk sheep," and his own voice reflected his pride in their accomplishments, and his efforts to keep up this tradition.

County Singers To Elect Sunday

New officers of the county singing convention will be chosen at the regular election meeting when the Shinnery community is host to singers Sunday, June 8.

E. L. Hively of Shinnery is president of the group this year, while W. S. Brewer is vice president.

In addition to the election of officers, the regular second Sunday singing will be held.

The meeting will begin at 2:30 o'clock, and all singers of the county are urged to be present.

Black Cats Open Home Schedule Against Red Sox

The Wellington Black Cats, colored baseball team, will play their first home game Sunday, June 8, when they meet the Quana Red Sox. This game will be played at the Fair Park diamond, and will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

"This will be a real game and good order will be kept at all times," those in charge of the game have assured. "All white fans are invited to attend."

Black Worms Kill Army Worms; Hoppers Appear

Black worms that destroy the army worms that are eating wheat fields in Collingsworth County made their appearance last week, and along with a tiny, wasp-like fly, are aiding wheat growers in ridding themselves of one of the most serious grain pests here in recent years.

But even as the army worm appeared fairly well under control, another crop pest appeared—grasshoppers. And all efforts of the county agent's office, and many farmers throughout the county are bent toward hopper control.

Both the black worms, which are the larvae of the well known ground beetle; and the wasp are natural enemies of the army worm, W. K. Cottingham, county agent, said. Both are known as harmless insects, since they do little if any damage to crops.

The black worms will feed for approximately a week longer before they go into a dormant stage, from which they will emerge as beetles. The wasp is in its adult stage, and attacks the army worm by means of its sting, then lays its eggs under the skin of the worm. The tiny maggots which hatch feed on the army worm and thereby cause its death, Mr. Cottingham said.

Both the black worms and the wasp flies are here in large numbers, Mr. Cottingham said, and along with poisoning under way, it is believed that the army worm is no longer a serious menace here.

Most of the worm damage has been confined to the southeastern part of the county, although fields in all parts of the county have been reported as infested to a lesser degree.

"Right now, we've got to get busy fighting the grasshoppers," Mr. Cottingham said Wednesday morning.

"The type of grasshopper infesting the county this year is different from those of previous years—and he is more destructive," the agent said.

"This year's hopper isn't more than an inch and a quarter or an

A head-on collision of two cars west of Shamrock Sunday night took the lives of six persons, and left six others in hospitals with injuries of varying degrees. Included among the dead were Mrs. Duke Morgan, 30, a former Wellington resident; Mrs. Helen Wall, 25, the niece of Mrs. Howard Riggs and Mrs. Hugh Longino of Wellington; and Lewis Prestidge, 24, the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gully of Wellington. All three victims lived at Shamrock.

Among the injured were Tank Swafford, about 45, of Dalhart, a brother of Mrs. Morgan, and also a former Wellington resident. They were the son and daughter of A. F. Swafford, a pioneer sheriff of this county, and Mrs. Swafford.

Here's Where County Draftees Are Training

At Fort Monmouth, near the Atlantic Ocean—at Fort Knox, where the government's vast store of gold is buried among rolling Kentucky hills—at Fort Francis E. Warren in the Rockies—at Fort Bliss and Fort Brown on the Mexican border—at these military centers and at others, 40 Collingsworth County boys are serving their year's selective service training in the United States Army.

Most of them like army life. They've told members of their families, their friends, or The Wellington Leader that they do. And despite the hard work which they must do each day, they show a willingness—even eagerness—to do this work for their country.

Of these forty men, by far a majority have gone as volunteers.

While Collingsworth boys have been widely scattered, most of them are stationed at Fort Bliss, El Paso, and Camp Bowie at Brownwood.

Given below are the names of

School Census Lists 2,752 County Students

A loss of almost 200 school students for this county during the last year was discovered last week when the census rolls for all county schools, the Wellington Independent District and the Dodson Independent District were completed.

This year's number is 2,752, while last year's census stood at 2,985. Both this year's figure and that of last year are the ones completed in the office of Logan Cummings, county superintendent, before the census rolls are sent to the state department of education.

It is the second time in recent years that the scholastic count has fallen below the 3,000 mark, and the sixth consecutive year that a decrease has been shown in the number of children between the ages of 6 and 18 living in Collingsworth County.

Eight schools showed an increase in scholastic population.

These included Dodson, Elm Valley, Houselog, Hackberry, Wilnuler, Needwood, Swearingen and Seale. One school, Lone Mound, listed the same number this year as last.

Of the 2,752 students, 117 were colored children.

Scholastics for the various districts of the county, both in 1941 and 1940 include:

Sheriff Warns Of Fake Solicitors

Sheriff Paul Bell this week warned local business men of persons who pose as collectors for charitable organizations, but some of whom have been exposed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as grafters and others as working for agencies of foreign governments.

"We are in no way aiming this at the Salvation Army, which sends young women into Wellington at regular intervals to take donations from the business men of the town. That organization has only the highest respect of all law-enforcement bodies. But there are others who come to town from time to time whose representatives wear uniforms so nearly like those of the Salvation Army women, and who collect their funds in the same manner, that the difference is not to be detected by a casual glance," Mr. Bell explained.

"Those persons representing reputable charities are always

Surfacing of Highway 52 from Wellington east to the Oklahoma line has been assured by the State Highway Commission with approval of an expenditure of $66,000 for this road. Notice of this approval reached The Wellington Leader Tuesday morning from P. S. Bailey, acting district engineer of Childress. The date for beginning of construction has not been set.

This move brings this section one step nearer to a through hard-surfaced highway to care for traffic from Amarillo to Oklahoma City, and to provide a market outlet for products from this section into Oklahoma. On this entire stretch only the strip of road from Wellington west to the Donley County line remains unpaved, or as yet unpaved for.

This also culminates several years of intense effort on the part of the Commissioners Court of Collingsworth County and business and civic leaders of the county to secure the surfaced road. Wellington delegations have appeared before the Commission three times in behalf of surfacing of the road across the county.

At the same time the announcement of the approval was made, Mr. Bailey stated that the Highway Department plans to sponsor a WPA Project, as $66,000 is not enough to complete the 12.2 miles. WPA assistance will permit the construction of the entire length.

The pavement will be asphalt on either a gravel or stabilized soil base.

"The construction will provide employment for local labor, in quantities not yet estimated," Mr. Bailey continued. "Judge C. C. Bishop has advised that the county is glad to have the state sponsor a WPA project to help the county in taking care of the WPA labor."

"The farms and ranches of eastern Collingsworth County will have all-weather roads to Wellington, and the road will be a convenience to travelers between Wellington and southwestern Oklahoma

Mr. Hill will act as manager of the store. Mrs. Hill will also work in the establishment.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hill have a wide circle of friends through this area.

Rain Doesn't Halt Building And Remodeling Over County

New homes, remodeled homes, repairing and new farm buildings make one prosperity note for Collingworth County. A few major improvement jobs have involved business property, but most of the work now under way or completed in recent weeks has been to improve residential property, or to add to farmsteads.

Through the cooperation of the four lumber yards in Wellington, J. C. Woodriddle Co., Shamburger Lumber Co., Lewis Lumber Co., and Cicero Smith Lumber Co., the Leader has secured the following items of improvement to Collingsworth County property. These do not include a number of repapering jobs which are now under way, or have been recently completed by local people.

H. M. Clubb, who lives near Wellington, has not only improved his home, but he has erected a new chicken house, a new windmill tower and storage tank. His house has been sheet-rocked on the inside and painted, and other general repair work has been done about the place.

Mrs. J. O. Wood of Wellington has painted two houses here, both on the inside and outside, while Dewey Ellis has also painted rental property.

R. H. (Bob) Goodnight and E. L. Hammon recently completed plank garages, while Doc Janes built a large chicken house and Bill Leggett has completed six small chicken houses at his home in the Cocke Addition.

New corrals have been installed on the B. P. Smith Land and Cattle Company south of Wellington, in Childress County.

One of the largest pieces of construction work to be completed here during recent months was the Wellington Livestock Commission Co., owned by Jess Deger and Ray Peeples. This building, one of the most modern stock barns in this part of the Panhandle, was completed at a cost of approximately $2,000. It is located at the northeast corner of the town section.

One of Wellington's landmarks, the old White Hotel, was torn down recently to make room for a modern four-room house. This property on West 8th St. is owned by M. Little of Laredo. Construction on the house will begin in the near future. The building is to be of frame construction and bungalow style. Mr. Little is building this as rental property.

The hotel formerly on this lot was originally located at the northwest corner of the square, where Austin's Ice Cream Parlor is now located, according to old-timers of Wellington. It was built about 1910 or 1911, and was used as the Masonic Hall. When the present building was started, the frame structure was moved farther west on 8th Street, an addition built, and it was converted into a hotel.

J. M. Wells and J. W. Wells of Wells & Wells Insurance Co., this week completed the remodeling of the building purchased by them on West Avenue. General remodeling converted this building into a modern insurance office.

A new roof of asphalt and felt was put on the county jail recently.

Preparing for the expected rising market in poultry products, Drury Lacy recently completed a large size chicken house and yard, while Isom Sparlin has completed a new brooder house and storm cellar. Other new cellars have been completed on the farms of Dr. E. W. Jones, H. E. Lindsey, and at the home of Jap Smith.

Dr. E. W. Jones and Dr. Chas. B. Jones expect to complete the remodeling of their new office building by June 15. This building, located just south of the Southwestern Telephone Co., is being completely remodeled on the inside and repainted and repaired on the outside. A complete air-conditioning unit has been installed.

Rock has been utilized by Tom Campbell to build a double garage 18x24 feet at his ranch south of Wellington. He is also completing a chicken house 10x14 feet of lumber and rock at the ranch.

Paul Brewer is another who has utilized rock in construction work, using it to build a storm cellar.

O. C. Chapman of Lillie recently completed a $300 chicken house of lumber and iron. One of the largest in that area, the house will accommodate between 600 and 1,000 chickens.

James Doneghy has arranged for general repair work on the farms owned by him and by the J. C. Doneghy estate.

V. H. Lindsey, Wellington, is completing a chicken house with all modern features.

E. W. Blain is doing general remodeling and repair work on a farm house north of Wellington.

Clyde Martin, who lives in the north part of Wellington, is repairing his house which was damaged recently by fire. In addition to restoring the damaged portion of the house, he is adding another room, and doing other general repair work.

Another new chicken house, 10x18 feet, is being completed on the A. W. Atkinson farm at Quail. This building is of lumber, and will have a capacity of from 200 to 300 chickens.

Mrs. Noel Cudd has added one room to her house located in the east section of town.

Charlie Graves of the Aberdeen community is redecorating his house, and repairing recent storm damage to the premises.

B. W. Baird is remodeling his 6-room modern house in the Midway community, adding hardwood floors, repapering, and painting inside and outside.

A complete redecorating job has been completed on the Church of Christ in Wellington. Other repair work has been done, and members of the church plan to install new carpets in the near future.

A new room has been added to the Lawrence Gillespie home, and the entire structure will be repainted on the outside.

Byron Duncan of Lillie is re-roofing his house, which was damaged by a storm earlier in the spring, and he is also repapering and repainting the interior woodwork.

J. T. Ogletree is remodeling a house which he recently moved to Dallas street.

Ross Wilkerson is doing general repair work, while Dr. W. R. Orr is re-roofing the house on his farm

LETTERS From the PEOPLE

(Editor's Note: The Leader will gladly publish any acceptable article which is submitted by readers, provided the articles are signed by the readers and are free from libelous or malicious contents. The opinions expressed here, however, do not necessarily reflect the opinions of this newspaper.)

May 25, 1941

Squadron V. P. 12
U. S. Naval Air Station
San Diego, Calif.

Dear Mr. Wells:

I guess you are wondering why I am writing to you. Well, it's like this: I was sitting in the cabin of the plane I fly and you happened to come to my mind. So when I got back to the air station, I decided to write you a letter and send you a poem I composed. You may put it in your paper if you like. It might give people another outlook toward the "sailors."

I like the navy very much. In fact I wouldn't take anything for it. I believe if the government offered me an honorable discharge and a thousand dollars, I wouldn't take it if I couldn't re-enlist.

I am stationed on the Naval Air Station at San Diego, Calif. I am in Squadron V. P. 12, which is the big flying boats. The make of the planes is P. B. Y's. I like my work very much. I work on the airplane motors more than anything else.

As you probably know, I am the son of R. L. Hunt, who lives about sixteen miles east of Wellington. I enlisted in the Navy the 21st day of December, 1940. I get out February 11, 1944.

Oh, yes, I would like to know how much you would charge me to send your paper to me?

Well, I will shove off and let you rest in peace for a while.

Your friend,
Robert A. Hunt.

THE BOYS IN NAVY BLUE
Say, fellow, I saw you sneer just now,

Am I not good enough for you? I am not in your class, I know, Because I wear the Navy Blue. You think I'm not refined enough For such a guy as you— Well, better men than you, my friend,

Have worn the Navy Blue. You bar us from your dance halls, And your theaters, too— There's room enough to spare for all,

But not for the boys in Blue. We're only common sailors, Until war's hell begins to brew, And then, my friend, you're the first to call

On the boys in Navy Blue. I'm proud to wear the uniform, My granddad wore it too, And did his bit with Farragut Way back in Sixty-two. I know I'm not a fashion plate, That's not my line 'tis true. But listen pal, it takes a man To wear the Navy Blue.

And say, when we're all passed and gone, And life's long cruise is through, We'll not be barred from heaven Because we wore the Blue. So when you meet a sailor I'd mind if I were you, That God doesn't make any better men Than the lads in Navy Blue.

SWEARINGEN

By W. A. ANTHONY

Swearingen school closed last Friday with a picnic following a Junior play on Wednesday night and a Senior play on Thursday night. Both were enjoyed by nice crowds.

Good crowds were reported at church services Sunday despite the muddy roads which were almost impassable.

Almost all of the crops in this community will have to be replanted. Since the big rains of the past week very little cotton is up to a stand, and will not come up since the hard rain and wind Saturday night.

There are lots of complaints of grasshoppers being so numerous in the pastures. Some say they are in the fields as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bowman, who live on the L. G. Yarbrough farm, are gone to Harrell's Chapel in Childress to make comforts under the surplus commodity program.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Sustaire of Salisbury brought Mrs. Annie Morgan home Sunday and got their daughter, Billie Gene Prince, who has been staying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Anthony, and attending school at Swearingen the past term.

Carl Bowman leased his pasture on the L. G. Yarbrough place to A. W. Howard of Memphis last week. Mr. Howard will use it for a horse ranch.

Democracy Based On Homes, Communities, Says Myers

That the homes, churches, schools, and communities are the important things of American life, and the determining factors in the preservation of any democracy was stressed by Dr. A. M. Myers, head of the department of education of West Texas State College, when he delivered the commencement address before Wellington graduates Wednesday night, May 21, at the Methodist Church.

Sixty-eight members of the senior class received diplomas at this time, 39 girls and 29 boys. These diplomas were presented to the students by L. A. Manzer, president of the Wellington school board. Music was furnished by the Junior High School Chorus.

Hoyt Short, salutatorian of the class, gave his address in the form of a welcome, while Fred Pepper, valedictorian, gave the farewell and best wishes of the class.

"The responsibility of this generation for the future of democracy is greater than it has been at any period in the history of the country," Dr. Myers told the young men and women before him. "The test and strength of our democracy is on the inside, more than on the outside," he continued, "and it depends on the community life and the religious life more than casual thinkers ever observe."

He returned to the theme of the importance of strength in the homes, churches and schools. He stressed that they are in the main responsible for the way of life in this nation today, that democracy has not been overrun as it has in other countries.

Dr. Myers recommended that his listeners not become filled with hysteria, but go ahead and build consecrated homes, better churches, schools, communities and assume the responsibilities around each person now, rather than wait until military conflict should begin.

Kirby Addresses Clarendon Seniors

"Making A Life" was the theme of his talk when Rev. J. Edmund Kirby gave the commencement address before members of the Clarendon graduating class Friday night, May 23.

Four qualities were named by Rev. Kirby as necessary to make up a successful life—a sense of responsibility, imagination, common sense, and courage.

"We will find existence, but we will have to make a life," he told the young group. Warning them that they must take their obligations seriously, he pointed out that this means mental, physical, and spiritual obligations.

"You must get in mind what you want to do and hold to that. It keeps you from being blown about by circumstances," he continued with his second quality, imagination. Turning to common sense, he stressed to the boys and girls the necessity of knowing one's capacity and illustrated this with stories from the lives of James McNeill Whistler and Phillips Brooks.

He again gave illustrations from the lives of great men in describing courage, and in stressing the importance of this quality in their lives.

In addition to the commencement address at Clarendon, Rev. Kirby also spoke before the seventh grade graduates at Ralls Thursday night, where he served as pastor of the Methodist Church before coming here.

Son Of Former Resident Drowns

By MRS. C. W. FRITTS Friends in this county of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Landers of Hale Center will regret to hear of the tragic drowning of their 16-year-old son, Wayne Landers, and his 17-year-old friend, Herbert Sweat, the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Sweat on Sunday afternoon, May 25.

The two boys were drowned in a 35-acre lake on the farm of Landers' uncle, Guy Landers, three miles from the farm home of the boys. It was believed the accident occurred about 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Landers, the mother of Wayne Landers, will be remembered by old-timers at Salt Fork and Plymouth as Miss Clara Shirley. She lived in the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, early settlers of Salt Fork. She is a niece of Mrs. Sewell Gragg of Wellington. Young Landers is also a nephew of Roy Shirley of Canyon and Jess Shirley of Sudan, both former residents of this county. The boy who drowned recently visited at Samnorwood with Quentin Fritts.

Guy Landers, the uncle, passed by the lake at 2 o'clock and saw a horse struggling toward the shore of the lake, while his nephew's horse and dog were on the lake shore. Mr. Landers went for help and the Landers youth's saddle was soon found in the lake, under 12 feet of water. Motor boats and grabbing hooks were brought, and the body of the Landers youth was recovered at 11:30 Sunday night. The Sweat youth's body was found at 8:30 Monday morning. Hundreds of persons lined the lake shore to help with the recoveries.

Mr. and Mrs. Landers were visiting relatives at Sudan and did not learn of the tragedy until they reached a country store late Sunday afternoon.

Double funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, May 27, at 2:30 at Hale Center. Schoolmates of the Hale Center football team and FFA chapter were pallbearers.

Mrs. Roy Shirley, Mrs. Jodie Miester, and Miss Mae Jean Fritts of Canyon attended the funeral services.

Mexico Indians Join White Army

MESCALERO APACHE RESERVATION, New Mexico.—Sons of famous Apache warriors are among the more than a score of inductees who have been mustered into the great White Father's fighting forces from this southern New Mexico reservation.

Young, trimly-built Indian braves numbering at least 25 have left the reservation during the last few weeks for the induction station at Santa Fe, N. M., and many have been sent on to Fort Bliss, near El Paso.

Among the selectees was Homer Yahnozha, youngest son of Edwin Yahnozha, now past 80, who fought against U. S. Cavalry in the 19th Century as one of the aides of Chief Geronimo, famous Indian chieftain who rose up against white rule. The elder Yahnozha was with Geronimo during his entire campaign and fought at his side when he made his last stand. He now is chairman of the Mescalero Tribal Council, governing body of the Mescalero Apaches.

Another young brave among the selectees was Chester Sundayman, member of an outstanding reservation family, whose father was one of the Indian scouts who served the government in the campaign against Geronimo.

Soil Erosion Costs U. S. $3,800,000 Each Year

AMARILLO.—Soil erosion is costing the United States more than $3,800,000,000 annually, and already has damaged half of the land of the country, according to the annual report of H. H. Bennett, Chief of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

The conservationist visualizes erosion as a definite threat to the Nation's long-time defense program and expresses the fear that it may become a major fifth column unless it is checked in the near future.

"Erosion is a threat to the productive capacity of the Nation; a drain on the country's agricultural resources; a cause of rural impoverishment; and a dangerous fissure in the preparedness dam we are building against unfriendly tides from other continents," Bennett stated in his report.

"On this continent we now have what a large part of the rest of the world is fighting for. We have land, liberty, a decent standard of living, and freedom to move, think, write, speak and worship, without restraint. This country is ready to defend our institutions and our shores, without reservation. But defense of our actual boundaries as a nation is not enough," the soil conservation chief stated.

"The defense of our national resources, and especially our soil and water resources, is as important to the American people and their future welfare as tanks and machine guns," he continued.

Three billion tons of soil are eroded from the farm and grazing lands of the nation each year. Valued at one dollar per ton this means a loss of $3,000,000,000. The damage to highways, railroads, reservoirs, streams and other structures and the loss in crop yields accounts for an additional $800,000,000, according to surveys of the Soil Conservation Service.

In his annual report for 1940, Bennett stated that soil conservationists of the Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural colleges have knowledge necessary to enable farmers and landowners to conserve the soil. He emphasized, however, that unless such knowledge is applied to the land, this nation may in the future face a shortage of productive land. This might place the country in a situation similar to that existing in many foreign countries that are attempting to live on inadequate resources.

He sees hopeful signs, however, in the fact that farmers and landowners are becoming increasingly active in promoting soil conservation work. During the past three years 440 soil conservation districts have been organized in 40 states. These districts are legally constituted local agencies, with power to carry on all types of soil and water conservation work within their respective boundaries.

"By 1950, from all present indications, soil conservation districts will cover the greater part of the eroding land of the nation," Bennett stated. "If these districts are properly administered and if they receive sufficient help from the Government, there is a distinct likelihood that during the next ten years the forces of conservation will balance the forces of land waste in this country."

"We can conserve our soil. We know how to do it. We can, if we will, make it produce abundantly, and without waste, for any and every production need that may face us. Soil conservation does not mean land idleness, but the use of the land in the wisest possible way. It is up to the people of this great country to organize themselves in such a way that they can attack this problem before the other half of our land is impoverished and it is too late," he stated.

Paris Tradesmen Make Fun Of Nazi Rationing System

PARIS.—Paris shopkeepers continue their funmaking at the expense of German food and clothing ration regulations. Here is the latest.

A prominent store on the boulevard Des Italiens put two manikins in the window clad only in odds and ends.

One was adorned in collar, tie, waiter's dicky suspenders and other inconsequential items.

The other was completely wrapped in lace in lieu of other male attire.

A placard said: "This is all we can sell you without permits."

Later the authorities covered the window and marked it "ensored."

Suggestions Made For Keeping Meat

While there are thousands of Texas farm and ranch families with access to cold storage and freezer lockers, there still remain thousands more who must wait until cold weather sets in before they have home-killed meat for the table.

Variety in preparation, even of the same food, keeps appetites keen, so farm and ranch families should plan for all possible ways of preserving their meat, says Grace I. Neely, specialist in food preservation for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

She suggests curing hams and bacon and storing them in cotton seed oil; making a generous supply of sausage—canning some, curing some, freezing some—according to the family's preference; making pickled pigs feet and head cheese; and canning or freezing pork roasts.

The loin, sometimes called the choice cut of any animal can be cured and made into Canadian bacon. Or it can be canned for roasts or frozen for pork chops, the specialist says.

Beef can be preserved in as many different and interesting ways as pork. Just now, chili seems to be one of the most popular canned beef products in Texas. Chili made from goat meat is also winning favor, as evidenced by orders for over 2,000 cans of chevon chili to be shipped to eastern states this year by home demonstration club women in Menard County.

TEXTILE TERMS

Every trade has a language all its own, and the textile industry is no exception. Such terms as "yarn count," "two-by-two-ply," "reprocessed wool," and "lisle" are textile terms.

"If a woman knows the meaning of the words on the fabrics and clothing she buys, she can make her own money go further, and she'll be helping her country too," according to Miss Ruth O'Brien, textile and clothing specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"True definitions have not been agreed upon for all textile terms. But the trend is for standards, for names and terms that let women know what they are buying."

"Yarn count, sometimes, called thread count, simply means the number of warp yarns (the lengthwise ones) per inch of fabric and the number of filling yarns (the crosswise ones) per inch of fabric. Usually written, the warp count comes first. Sometimes if both counts are the same, the count is stated as square, for example, '80 square percale' means 80 yarns per inch in each direction. A higher count fabric has yarns closer together and, other things being equal, it will be stronger and more durable."

"Manufacturers often fill the air space of low count fabrics with a mixture of starch and other materials. Such a mixture, called 'filler,' 'sizing,' or 'loading,' often washes out in the first or second laundering, explained Miss O'Brien.

"Wool—as 'new wool,' 'reprocessed wool,' or 'reused wool'—has caused plenty of grief in buying practices, but it is soon going to be easier for consumers to distinguish these fibers. A new act of Congress, provides that labels on every wool product—fabric or garment—will have to state the exact percentages of each kind of wool. The labels also will have to tell of any other fiber used, such as cotton, rayon or silk."

"For the new law to have its best effect, consumers need to know the meanings of the names of the different kinds of wool. 'Reprocessed wool,' according to this act, means fiber made from wool that has been previously woven or felted into a wool product, but never used by a consumer. 'Reused wool' is fiber made from wool or reprocessed wool which has been spun, woven, knitted or felted into a wool product and used by a consumer. New wool, of course, is not necessarily the best, for there are both good and inferior grades of new wool."

"On the shrinkage question—use of such terms as 'Full Shrink,' 'Pre-shrink,' 'Will not shrink,' are prohibited unless the cotton fabric so labeled has no residual shrinkage. 'Residual Shrinkage' simply means that the cloth will shrink more when laundered. Look for the labels that state the exact amount of residual shrinkage to expect. If the percent is higher than three, think twice and usually don't buy," suggested the specialist. "Three percent means more than an inch of shrinkage for each yard."

"Lisle" will be heard more frequently if cotton stockings are generally accepted with a war cut in the quantity of silk hose. 'Lisle' originally was a fine hard linen thread made in France. Now it means a smooth cotton yarn made of high grade long staple cotton, tightly twisted and treated to remove the fuzzy fibers seen on many other cottons. Lisle is also 'mercerized,' which means that it is chemically treated, as many cotton yarns and fabrics are, for more gloss, to be smoother, stronger, and to take the dye better. Lisle stockings, by comparison with other cotton ones, cost more but are more attractive and better wearing."

Trainees Warned Not To Be Hasty On Draft Call

Texas' Selective Service local boards today were urged by Gen. J. Watt Page, State Director, to warn every registrant ordered to report for induction under the Selective Service System to arrange his affairs so as to prevent undue personal hardship in the event he is rejected later at the Army induction station.

General Page said that there are instances when men sent to induction stations by local boards are rejected on physical or other grounds by Army examiners, and that State Headquarters is extremely anxious that any injustices suffered by registrants in such cases be reduced to a minimum.

"Probably more often than not," the Director said, "when a registrant is ordered to report for induction, he disposes of his automobile at a sacrifice since he has been instructed that he cannot take it with him. He either sells or gives away his civilian clothes and gives up his lodging accommodations."

"But, more serious is the possibility of inequity to rejected registrants centering on the fact that they have severed their employment connections when ordered to report for induction. When a registrant is notified by his local board to report for induction, he should point out to his employer the possibility that he will not be accepted at the Army induction station. The employer can then be prepared to replace the man if he is accepted," General Page said, "or to continue his employment if he is rejected."

"It is difficult to find an immediate cure-all for this problem, but it is hoped that through a closer coordination between the employer and the prospective inductee much of the hardship and suffering in these cases may be alleviated. Employers should feel a 'moral obligation' to hold a registrant's job for him until he has actually been accepted at the Army induction station. Even though he is rejected, surely he has fulfilled his duty to his country by responding to the call for service."

"Of course, registrants should be cautioned to notify their employers immediately whether they have been accepted or rejected by the Army examiners," General Page said.

Demand For Farm Products Grow

WASHINGTON.—The bureau of agricultural economics of the agriculture department said recently that additional improvement in demand for farm products is indicated for the next few months.

In a monthly analysis of the demand and price situation, the bureau said rapid increases in defense spending are leading to growing industrial activity, employment and consumer income. They rose from a daily average of $7,000,000 last September to $21,000,000 in February, the bureau said.

How To Do Much On Little Is Shown Local Women

Much has been written of low income families of the nation, but right here in Wellington a demonstration is being carried on of how men and women whose income is too small for them to buy little luxuries—or even many necessities—can make the best of what they have, and almost make something from nothing.

This is being done on the Housekeeping Aid project, sponsored by the city and the WPA, on which nineteen women are working under the direction of Mrs. Charlie Jones.

While these women spend much of their time learning to do simple nursing, and in nursing the sick in homes of families unable to hire a professional nurse, they also learn to do many things around the home—their own and those of other families—to make them more comfortable.

In the Housekeeping Aid center, located just across the street from the First Christian Church, these women do practical study while they are not working in outside homes.

"We stress cleanliness first. Even a one-room house can be kept clean," Mrs. Jones says.

One room of the center is devoted to showing how such a one-room house can be arranged—how a screen made of ducking can cut off the cooking section of the room—how a clothes closet complete with shelves can be made from orange crates—how old furniture, considered by many as beyond repair, can be repaired and made sturdy. Curtains from cheese cloth and a home-made mattress completed the room.

"Every bit of the furniture with the exception of the stove was picked up after it had been discarded, or it was given to us," Mrs. Jones explained. "And every bit of the repair work was done by the women."

Other rooms show other phases of activity, while one room is devoted to a reception room.

In the kitchen women busily learn to prepare meals and to can fruits and vegetables. "Some of the canned products will be used to demonstrate how meals are prepared. The rest will be turned over to the school lunch room," it was pointed out.

"This spring we've canned a number of vegetables already, including lamb's quarter."

In one room, the repairing is done, and simple household articles of wood are made.

Outside the house, however, is the pride of the project—their garden. Vegetables grow at the back of the house where weeds once grew; near the alley on what was formerly the ash pile; at the side of the house, where grass was plowed up; and even in the front yard.

"We have enough to feed the ordinary family growing right here in the yard, and in places where you wouldn't think a thing could grow," Mrs. Jones said enthusiastically, "but we haven't forgotten the flowers either," she added, pointing to rows of flowers growing at the edge of the front garden space and along the side of the house.

New ideas have been tried on this garden, and as a result, cucumber vines grow in a barrel at the back door, where rinse water from the kitchen may be thrown on it.

"We are proud of our work here, of course, but there's not one thing that has been done that every woman in Collingsworth County couldn't do in her own home," Mrs. Jones stated.

Mrs. Ivor Carney, Caroline Ann Carney, Neal Carney, all of Frederick, Okla., and Mrs. O. T. Warlick of Vernon arrived Tuesday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Beam and family. Mrs. Carney and Mrs. Warlick are sisters of Mrs. Beam.

Mrs. L. B. Miller is visiting with her son, Tom Miller, in Hollis this week.

Mrs. Dow Tells Of NYA For Rotary

Mrs. Lwood Dow, supervisor of girl's NYA project here, was guest speaker last week. Mrs. Dow's talk dealt with questions which people had asked about NYA, and her answers summarized the whole youth program.

She said that this program was divided into two classes: that aiding out-of-school youth, and the school aid program. In giving history of NYA, Mrs. Dow told of its beginning in 1933, telling of effect of depression upon lives of youth. She outlined the local arts and handicraft project which is sponsored locally, and discussed progress made by these girls, who use materials at hand to manufacture things.

"NYA has caused the discovery of new talent in these girls," Mrs. Dow said. "And after this discovery, we try to develop these talents to the fullest extent." An invitation was extended to Rotarians to visit the local project, and find out for themselves what the NYA program means to this county.

the ROAD AHEAD

Old Man Texas is today looking ahead and planning.

Beside the great farming and ranching country which Texans have built, he sees a new industrial empire here.

Already the start has been made. Some industries, such as petroleum, are now showing what can be done to utilize Texas' vast natural resources. Today this industry refines with Texas labor over four-fifths as much oil as the State produces. Its products make up nearly one-half of all Texas manufacturing. Altogether petroleum provides the living for almost one-sixth of our people.

But this is only a beginning.

Texas has many other raw materials, unexceeded by any other State. Texas has in oil and gas the cheap and dependable fuel supply essential to industry. Texas is the gateway to Latin America, our new foreign market.

Each new industry means more jobs. It makes added tax values for our State and local governments, bigger payrolls for our workers, and greater prosperity for you and every other Texan.

HE is the greatest "GENERAL" there is—He never loses a campaign in the long run—His presence is found in almost every endeavor indulged in.

He never fails to DISAPPOINT the one who trusts to luck and chance—and to REWARD the thrifty if given time enough.

Most banks follow closely the ROAD MAP the OLD GENERAL points out. In CAREFUL ATTENTION to business; in CAUTION at every step; in PERSONAL INTEREST in the affairs of its customers a well managed bank enjoys assurance in the ROAD IT TRAVELS.

OLD "GENERAL AVERAGE" may not have intended it so, but this road and its meanderings, when chartered, presents a fair picture of a bank's PAST RECORD OF DEALINGS WITH THE PUBLIC and usually provides a PROPHECY of its future business policies—It's a pleasure to us to refer you to this ROAD as applied to THIS BANK and as we have TRAVELED IT, and because we can do this without reservations or apologies, in soliciting your account, we think a bank like ours is the one best place for you to—

Editorial

Beginning with the occupation of Austria under threat of force in 1938, Hitler now dominates 14 countries which enjoyed independence prior to his setting out to conquer the world. To these 14 nations we may as well add Italy, for her course is now being dictated from Berlin. This is the record:

Austria—Absorbed March 13, 1938.

Czechoslovakia—Partitioned and dominated after Munich pact of September 29, 1938.

Poland—Conquered and partitioned, after a month of fighting, October 1, 1939.

Denmark—Occupied April 9, 1940

Norway—Occupied after fighting one month, June 9, 1940.

The Netherlands—Occupied after four days of fighting, May 14, 1940.

Belgium—Occupied after 18 days of fighting, May 28, 1940.

Luxembourg—Occupied May 10, 1940.

France—Fell in 53 days after invasion began, and surrendered June 22, 1940.

Hungary—Joined Axis November 20, 1940.

Rumania—Joined Axis March 1, 1941.

Yukoslavia—Conquered after 12 days fighting, April 18, 1941.

Greece—Athens, the capital, occupied April 27, 1941.

In their efforts to find an explanation for the increasing prevalence of crime, many thoughtful persons have concluded that the tendency to burden the public with a multiplicity of laws may account for much of the lawlessness which now prevails.

Speaking before an international convention of police chiefs, Dr. Carlton Simon said: "We can limit and harness human freedom to such an extent that even the normally balanced individual feels that he is oppressed and will seek unlawful means of expressing his personality."

Through the operation of innumerable laws and the activities of government agencies employed thereunder we are restricted, inspected, spied upon, investigated and caused many unnecessary annoyances which are resented by a people who love freedom.

• Top Soil Goes To Town

For people who want to know if soil erodes we cite Town Branch. For the second time in less than two years, immense amounts of rich top soil have been dredged out of the town branch here in Madisonville. The soil came from farm land up the creek. If we had a farm, it certainly would make us mad to see the town folks hauling our rich top soil onto their lawns. But we would figure it was our fault.—H. B. Fox, The Madisonville Meteor.

• A Tax Cushion

Texas is going to collect some 23 million dollars in taxes in the next 12 months that were not collected in the past twelve. This means several kinds of taxes that you did not anticipate. Better have some kind of reserve if you can for these unexpected tax bills. And remember the end is not in sight. If you hit the jackpot in wheat or something this year hold back a lot. The government, federal or state, is sure to make it hard on you if you don't. It can't be helped.—The Floyd County Hesperian.

• Left Or Right

Not that it's important . . . but if you want to know whether a guy is right, or left-handed, ask him to let you see his package of paper matches. Maybe you call them "Gopher Matches." If he's right handed, there'll be matches missing from the right side of the packet. If he's left-handed, the chances are he pulls the matches from the left side first. You'll find this to be the case nine times out of ten.—W. H. Cooke in The Rockdale Reporter.

• One-Eighth Of A Draftee

The latest draft call is only for negroes and since according to the proportion of negro population of Childress county, this county would only be required to supply approximately one-eighth of a negro man, draft authorities thought it might be better to allow the counties with a higher proportion of negro population to fill this call.—Kenneth Fink in The Childress County News.

That Reminds Me . . .

By RALPH HERBERT

Will Rogers used to say that all he knew was what he read in the newspapers. These little bits, selected at random, would have interested him:

A machine-gunner at Fort Benning, Ga., said: "The geeter was slipping his clutch about the way I played the devil's piano. I couldn't hold the chatterbox on the bull because the cowboy kept letting her eat." Translated, he meant: "My lieutenant was talking about the way I fired the machine-gun. I couldn't hold the gun on the target because the tank driver was running too fast."

Domingo Flores of Lubbock, Texas, wanted to "kees" Dolores Anzolo. After persisting in his attentions for 20 minutes he accented his ardor by shooting a pistol. He did not get the "kees." He shot himself in the leg. Police held him on a charge of assault, and he required medical attention.

An Ohio State University student left a small mirror on the rear seat of her car while she went into a drug store. Afternoon sun rays set fire to the upholstery. Firemen were about to smash the windows of the car when the student arrived with the keys, thus limiting damage to $50.

A 3-week-old calf on the farm of Thomas Tweed, at Mars Hill, N. C., has only three legs. He has tried to put the calf in a pen, but hasn't been able to do so because she outruns anything in the pasture.

Want ad in Texas paper: Anyone wanting a boarding house near Tech, see me. I have a 11-room house . . . will make sacrifice price on my equity. See me at Tech Barber Shop. H. L. Bobo. I'll cut your hair, too.

"I was tired, judge, and hurrying to get my family home," explained a San Francisco motorist in Traffic Court. His little daughter, 4 years old, piped up: "Daddy was trying to see how fast the car would go." It cost Daddy a $2.50 fine.

GROVER CLEVELAND JONES

June 28 Final Day To File On Okla. Strip Land

Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office, said this week that June 28, 1941, will be the last day that persons may exercise their preferential right to purchase land in the disputed Oklahoma strip along the hundredth meridian and urged those who desire to exercise their right to make applications to purchase at once.

The hundredth meridian boundary dispute, dating back to a treaty in 1819 between the United States and Spain over the Louisiana Purchase, was settled in 1930, by the Supreme Court of the United States declaring the approximately 30,000 acres to be in Texas. The Forty-Second Legislature of Texas passed an act creating the Special Land Board which in turn set provisions for the purchase of the disputed lands by the bona fide claimants who owned the land under Oklahoma law.

Commissioner Giles said that under the law all the land that is not purchased will become surveyed school land and then can be disposed of only at public sale.

The following instructions to prospective purchasers have been prepared and announced by Commissioner Giles:

Application forms may be secured from the General Land Office and should be made out in triplicate for each tract. The original application should be mailed to the General Land Office; the duplicate, together with the abstract, should be mailed to the examining attorney; and the triplicate should be retained by the applicant. If field notes are not obtainable at the time of making the application, this should be stated and the acreage estimated.

Clayton Heare, Shamrock, is examining attorney for Wheeler, Hemphill, and Lipscomb counties; and R. H. Cocke, Wellington, is the examining attorney for Childress and Collingsworth counties. A. B. Smith, Wellington, is the surveyor and will furnish field notes upon the payment by applicant of surveying and recording fees.

One dollar regular filing fee should accompany application; ten cents per acre penalty filing fee should be included for all applications received after October 28, 1940; and fifteen cents per acre examination fee should be included with the application.

Awards will be issued as soon as practical upon approved applications which have met the above requirements, and the applicant will be notified immediately after the award. Payment of $1 per acre for the land must be made within sixty days after the award has been made.

After the above requirements have been met, patents will issue in the name of the owners as of March 17, 1930, and inure to the benefit of the present record owner. Patent fee is $3 for the first 80 acres and $1 for each additional 80 acres. Patent recording fee is $1.04.

Farm Bulletins Are Popular

That Collingsworth County farmers are seeking assistance of the extension service bulletins in solving their farm problems, and to help in saving time and labor has been indicated by the number of bulletins they have taken from the racks in the county agent's office.

To date this year, 1,577 bulletins have been taken by farmers and 4-H Club boys, W. K. Cottingham, county agent, said Monday.

"The farm men and boys here seem to be most interested in poultry, soil conservation, dairying, hogs, gardens and cotton," the county agent said. "But other interests range from goats to beef cattle, and orchards to field crops."

"There is more interest in these bulletins than at any time since I've been here. They are free, and put in this office for the purpose of helping any person who needs some additional help or information along this line," Mr. Cottingham added.

When a Child Needs a Laxative!

SYRUP OF BLACK-DRAUGHT is a tasty liquid that most children will welcome whenever they need a laxative. What's more important, it has the same main ingredient as BLACK-DRAUGHT, its older companion. Perhaps that's why it usually gives a child such refreshing relief from the familiar symptoms which show a laxative is needed. Comes in two sizes: 25c-50c.

Former Teacher Of City Conducts Survey At Tech

LUBBOCK.—Freshman "morality" in the Texas Tech home economics division for a five-year period is about 40 per cent, data collected by Miss Lila Allred, instructor in clothing and textiles, shows. Results of the survey were presented recently before the social science division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting on Tech campus.

Checking on approximately 500 students who entered the home economics division from 1933 to 1938, the figure includes those who left college as freshmen, those who transferred to another division of the college, and those who transferred to another school.

Immediate causes of mortality were illness, financial difficulties, marriage, leaving college to take jobs, and failure to remove scholarship probation. Social and academic maladjustment were factors of considerable importance.

Scholarship and age at entrance were shown as possible factors, while previous training in home economics, engagement in part-time work, and parental occupations were not found to be factors.

WHAT'S YOUR SCORE ON THIS QUIZ ?

Like to know more about Your Electric Servant? Run through this quiz... it's full of facts and explains why Electric Service is GOOD... and CHEAP... in West Texas.

Q. How much more light do you get for your money now than you got 10 years ago?

A. You get, for about the same money, two or three times as much Electric Service as you did then. And bulbs today give about twice as much light with the same amount of electricity. Twice as much service for twice-as-good bulbs means four times as much light for your money!

Q. How much per day do most families spend for electric service?

A. The majority of our customers pay us less than 10 cents a day (the cost of a shoe shine or a good cigar), using, say, lights, vacuum cleaner, radio, toaster, and refrigerator.

Q. What do you say to a husband (or wife) who fusses at you for letting a 100-watt light burn all night?

A. "Don't get excited, dear. Believe it or not, it costs only about a nickel—and maybe it scared a burglar away!"

Q. Who owns Your Electric Servant?

A. You do. Every family who has a bank account or a life insurance policy is part owner. The money you put in the bank, or pay to an insurance company, is invested in various businesses, including electric utilities. This makes you one of the millions who have a stake in the American system of private initiative and enterprise.

Q. Just how dependable is electric service in West Texas?

A. Equally as good as any in the nation! And better than in any foreign country!

Yes, electric service has constantly improved and rates have steadily gone down. Remember that this BETTER SERVICE at LOWER COST to you has been brought about by our trained and experienced organization of over 1,000 men and women, working under a system of private initiative and enterprise... the only kind of system ever to bring better living conditions to ALL the people.

West Texas Utilities Company

Meredith Tells Of WPA Work During Year

AMARILLO.—Panhandle cities and counties have used WPA assistance in a vast and diversified program of public improvements during the past five and one-half years, according to a report issued this week by A. A. Meredith, who has served as Amarillo district manager for the Work Projects Administration since the inception of the Federal program of work-relief in July, 1935.

A network of 1,088 miles of new and improved roads in the 26 counties of the Amarillo district is one of the most impressive products of WPA labor in this area, Meredith stated. The majority of WPA's road building has been over farm-to-market roads, he said, pointing to the 978-mile total of rural roads included in the program of completed work. Elimination of traffic hazards, including the construction and rehabilitation of 124 bridges, was contained in the list of WPA accomplishments.

New and improved public buildings stand in 59 localities as a result of WPA activities in the Amarillo area, Meredith reported. WPA workers have built and reconstructed fifteen stadiums, grandstands, and bleachers, eight parks and public playgrounds and two swimming pools in this section.

Two public utility plants also are credited to the WPA program of public improvement.

Improvements secured in Collingsworth and nearby counties during the last year through the Work Projects Administration include the following:

County Farmers Urged To Plan For Shelterbelts

Land owners of Collingsworth County who intend to plant shelterbelts in 1942 should apply for them within the next 30 days, W. J. Grigg, Department of Agriculture's Forest Officer for the Wellington subdistrict, said here today.

"Early ground preparation has an important bearing on the successful establishment of shelterbelts," the official stated. "By deciding now on the location of future shelterbelts, land owners can accomplish a great deal of preliminary ground preparation thus insuring a much higher survival and rate of growth after the trees have been planted."

Soil erosion on this area intended for shelterbelts can be greatly reduced by planting cover crops of either sudan or sorghum. By leaving every third row fallow a reserve supply of soil moisture can be accumulated as moisture conditions next year may not be as favorable as they are at present.

Old fence rows can be leveled down and cultivated to prevent weed growth from spreading to the shelterbelt areas.

Future rodent damage can be avoided by the use of poison grain which the Forest Service will provide as long as supplies are available.

"Where several land owners in the same area apply for shelterbelts early in the season," the forester continued, "a community shelterbelt pattern such as that formed by the B. D. Burden, J. C. Emmert, C. Z. Ratliff, J. Doneghy, L. W. Harrison and W. M. Williams, shelterbelts can be developed to the mutual advantage of all concerned. A well developed pattern of shelterbelts will provide more soil and crop protection than an equal acreage of scattered shelterbelts."

Applications for shelterbelts can be made at the local Forest Service office or the county agent's office, Grigg stated in conclusion.

ready to answer your questions concerning their work, and to identify themselves and their organization," he continued.

Mr. Bell stated that information given recently by FBI men shows that funds collected in certain sections has been turned over to organizations representing foreign governments whose interests were opposed to those of the United States.

"You can identify the Salvation Army women by the name band on their bonnets, and by the Salvation Army emblem which they wear."

"If, however, you suspect that any of these other collectors is operating for a selfish motive, or is a fake, you are asked to notify the sheriff's department, and we will investigate the case to determine whether the party in question represents some reputable organization," Mr. Bell advised.

inch and a half long. He's gray with black spots, and he is a migratory hopper, supposed to have come into this section last fall from Kansas," he continued.

To combat this hopper menace, the government poisoning station is now open every day, and will remain open as long as there is a need. The station is located at the Farmers Co-op Gin, and is under the direction of Jim Cook, who had charge last year.

Poisoning in the same way as in former years is advised.

At present, farmers getting the poison are to furnish their own syrup and one-half the filler. At a latter date, when additional filler has been received, the entire amount will be furnished by the government.

"It is absolutely necessary that we get these hoppers killed out now," Mr. Cottingham stressed. "This year's type of hopper will raise another generation of hoppers that will hatch in the fall, and they in turn will lay eggs that will hatch next spring."

"They're mighty thick around here now—thicker than they have been in the last few years. We need to get busy mighty fast," he concluded.

Lunch Room To Remain Open

Undernourished children of Wellington will be fed through the summer months, just as they have been during the school year, it was learned as the cafeteria at the Junior High School building opened Monday morning, June 2.

Mrs. A. C. Boverie, who has been in charge of the lunch room during the winter, will again have charge this summer.

For these children, a story hour has been planned for each day from 11 until 12 o'clock, with Mrs. Doyal Aaron in charge.

The lunch room will be operated just as it was during the winter months. All needy children will be fed without cost, or any other child caring to eat there for one day, or for a period of time, may do so at the cost of 10 cents per lunch, according to Mrs. Boverie. This project is sponsored by the WPA.

It was also requested at this time that any persons having surplus vegetables or fruits in their orchards or gardens that they wish to give the lunch room to be canned for winter use call Mrs. Boverie, and the articles will be called for.

This training is divided into two five-weeks' sessions. Rev. Kirby will attend both, beginning June 23, and completing his work Aug. 26.

Concerning the young man who is coming here as his substitute during the summer, Rev. Kirby said, "Reverend Ragle is a young man with much ability and common sense. He has had experience in supplying during the summer, having served the Shamrock church last summer in the absence of Bro. Webb."

During the time Rev. Kirby is attending these sessions, he and his family will live in Newton Center, a suburb of Boston.
