Locals Take Lead In First Quarter To Win Over Wayland College

Showing their supremacy early in the game, the Eastern New Mexico Junior College Greyhounds sent a badly beaten eleven Jackrabbits from Plainview, Texas, Wayland Junior College hunting for a hole here last Friday afternoon on the high school gridiron. The game ended 29-0 in favor of the locals.

The Greyhounds scored their first touchdown soon after the start, when they carried the ball from their own 20-yard line for a counter. Wood and Reed made the runs, with Wood carrying the pigskin over for the score, who failed to kick the extra point.

They scored again a few minutes later, when they carried the ball from the opponent's 45-yard line in four long runs. Russell carried the ball for the second counter. Wood kicked the extra point.

The third and last score of the game was made in the second half by Wood when he plunged through the line for six yards. Wood place wick worked.

The invaders received the ball at the opening of the game and after carrying it 12 yards they were forced to kick to the 20-yard line. Wood plunged through the line for 25 yards. Reed made 18 yards on an end run and carried the ball 11 yards on the next play. Schwarzenbach gained 20 yards when he cut back and was stopped on the five-yard line. Wood plunged the line twice and took the ball over for the first touchdown. He failed to convert.

The Jackrabbits received on their 20-yard line and immediately punted to the 45-yard line. Reed carried the pigskin to the 20-yard line and Russell gained 22 yards on a line sneak. Wood plunged for seven and Russell carried over the second counter. Wood kicked the extra point, and the score at end of first quarter was 13-0.

During the first period the locals displayed a brand of football that was unbeatable. With Wood, Reed, Russell and Schwarzenbach juggling the ball they gained a total of 140 yards during this time.

The second quarter was not so fast as the first and Wood carried over the third goal after the Jackrabbits were penalized to the one-yard line. Wood kicked the extra point. Beale made a 20-yard run for the locals near the end of the last quarter and the ball was on the invader's 15-yard line at the end of the first half.

The last half was marked by frequent substitutions by Coach Reed and almost every man who has been training regularly saw service during the last half. Penalties were also frequent and both teams received long penalties for roughness. The Jackrabbits took to the air during the last stanza and hurled 14 passes with only two completed and two intercepted. The Greyhounds little difficulty in making long runs, but were unable to carry the ball over for another tally during this period.

Conklin, Jordan and Smith were the outstanding linemen and too Reed, Wood and Russell go the honors for backfield performance. Treadway showed up well for the opposition in the backfield and Farmer was the outstanding player in the line.

The starting line-up was as follows:

Greyhounds	Jackrabbits
Smith	LE Jones
Jones	LT Borden
Jordan	LO Addison
Conklin	C Farmer
Howell	RG Evans
McCasland	RT Dennis
Butler	RE Laurimore
Schwarzenbach	Q Craig
Russell	RH Treadway
Reed	LB Johnson
Wood	P Ray

What! No More Politics, Mister?

RIFLE, Colo., Nov. 21. (UP)—Politics lost an active man when a candidate in Garfield county was defeated. His retirement from politics was made in a letter to the editor of the Rifle Telegram.

"Dear Editor: I have decided not to run for a county office any more on account of the following misfortunes. I recently had in the Garfield county campaign," the defeated candidate wrote.

"I lost 1,319 hours of sleep trying to find out some way to beat my opponent. I also lost two front teeth and a whole lot of hair in a personal encounter with one of my opponents. I donated one beef, four sheep and five shoats to a barbecue. I gave away three pairs of suspenders, four calico dresses, $5 in cash and 13 baby rattles.

"I kissed 129 babies, walked 4,979 miles, shook hands with 9,911 persons, most of whom promised to vote for me. Told 18,161 lies and talked enough to fill 1,001 volumes. Attended 16 revival meetings and was baptized four times by immersion and three times by other ways.

"I made love to nine grass widows and was engaged to seven of them. Also hugged 49 old maids, and was engaged to most of them, got dog bit 23 times and was defeated overwhelmingly.

"I would ask you for the money I paid for my advertising but I hate to do so, so I ain't going to run no more.

"A Defeated Candidate."

WASHINGTON.—Way back when the new deal was a mere youngster and Al Smith was making statements about alphabet soup, there were 15 or so bureaus with fancy names established by President Roosevelt to push his recovery program.

Since then the number has doubled and so has the length of some of the alphabetical names. The BUREAU, for instance, is one which few Washingtonians even can translate. The SAPPET is another fancy one, and so is the TVACI. In the event, here's the revised list:

AOP: Advisor on Consumer Problems.

The Dukes, International spies and beautiful ladies of E. Phillips Oppenheim's imagination are so much property, like alarm clocks, pumping engines and collar buttons, as far as the United States board of tax appeals is concerned.

The question involves $721.34 and is somewhat complicated, because Oppenheim lives in England, and because he contends that the dukes and spies and ladies are the result of some hard labor by him.

Oppenheim, it develops, is under contract with Little, Brown and Company, in Boston, to publish his works here. In 1928-29 he copyrighted his books in America and obtained as his share of the profits $29,294 in 1928 and $30,866 in 1929.

Thereupon the government sent him a tax bill for $721.34 for unearned income.

"Unearned humph," said Oppenheim, in effect. "I earned that money writing, just like a newspaper reporter does."

His answer became entangled in the red tape of the revenue department, which finally produced a reply, comparing his dukes, spies and ladies to so much machinery. The tax board held that when Oppenheim copyrighted his novels in his own name they became his property, similar to patented inventions, and that any money they brought in thereafter was not earned by him.

Another author creating something of a stir in Washington is Gaston Nerval, who has produced a book in a funeral jacket of black and white entitled "Autopsy of the Monroe Doctrine."

Gaston Nerval is the pen name of Raul Diaz de Medina, son of a former Bolivian minister to the United States. For the last two years de Medina's homeland has been engaged in a bloody war in the Chaco jungles with Paraguay.

The Monroe Doctrine is in conflict with all modern peace man in his book.

Condition of West Is Poor

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 21. (UP)—The western ranges are "probably in the poorest condition ever known," the U. S. Division of Crop and Livestock estimates reported.

The condition of livestock in the west is given as "poor to fair." The feed shortages and poor range conditions exist in all states west of the Rocky Mountain region the report said.

Government purchase of cattle has reduced the number of weanlings but the cattle are going into the winter in a thin condition and a high death rate is anticipated. The general condition of cattle is given at 69 per cent of normal, compared to a 10-year average of 87.9 per cent.

The condition of sheep was reported as "generally poor." The condition is 72 per cent of normal compared with a 10-year average of 90.3 per cent.

Government purchase has aided the sheep industry, the report said, but the ranges are short and the sheep will go into the winter thin.

Severe winter storms will take a heavy toll in Texas, New Mexico, Western Colorado, Wyoming, Eastern Montana, Western South Dakota, Nevada, and parts of Southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon.

An out-of-state movement of hay is creating a feed shortage in this state that may become critical before winter is over, the report stated. In addition the ranges are in the poorest condition in many years.

Oklahoma was a white spot in the report.

Cattle and sheep must be moved from Texas or there will be a heavy death rate during the winter, the report predicted.

New Mexico ranges are the poorest on record with feed supplies far below the needs for the livestock now on hand.

With these general conditions in evidence the monthly report of the agency carried a generally and note for the winter outlook.

Winter Rains, Snowstorms Sweep United States—Property Damage Drought May Be Broken

DENVER COLO., Nov. 21.—Early winter rain, snow and windstorms swept the United States today, bringing damage to property on land and disaster to boats on the Great Lakes. Precipitation, one kind or another falling from East Coast to the Rockies and cold wave predicted for tonight to turn rain into snow and wet streets into dangerous icy thoroughfares. Four lives lost when Lake freighter, W. C. Franz sank in Lake Huron near Alpena, Michigan.

Hopes are expressed that the drought in this part of the state has been broken.

On last Friday night Portales and vicinity received .89 inches rainfall, which was general over a good portion of the county.

On Tuesday night of this week there was .70 inches of rainfall, accompanied by snow, and followed by a high north wind on Wednesday.

Snow fall was reported heavier further south, and cars coming in from Roswell Wednesday morning were covered with snow and ice.

Weather conditions are similar to that of 1918 when a heavy snow fell on Thanksgiving, the ground remaining covered up into February and March.

Ag. Boys Construct Battery Generator

The problem is solved! The problem is solved! The ag. boys have proved that it is inexpensive to operate farm radios.

Leroy Stewart has just completed a windmill affair that will generate electricity, charging an "A" battery for radios. Several other mills will be completed in the near future.

The windmill is simple and consists of a fan, a propeller blade that turns on an old automobile hub, a short belt which turns a Ford generator, wiring, and upright poles about 10 feet high.

Heretofore, radio batteries have been expensive to charge. One charging lasts 75 to 80 days.

Mrs. Bryant Williams of Hope returned to her home Monday after a few days visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. McKewen Johnstone and her sister and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harve Walton.

Mrs. James D. Turner and son, Jimmy Hancock and Mrs. S. N. Hancock drove to Lubbock Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wright left Wednesday morning for a few weeks with Mr. Wright's mother, near Dallas.

Green and Green Hand In Hand

As we watch a football game, our attention is always called to the most spectacular plays of the day. But few of us are ever aware of the peculiarities of the men behind the players—the coaches. Or, for that matter, their names are seldom mentioned.

For instance, several years ago we knew of a certain coach who had a peculiar characteristic. He slapped the boys on the left shoulder (and with his left hand) when the player came off the field.

Still another refrained from touching a foot ball on the day of the game. Many times a ball was tossed in his direction, but he'd always manage to stay clear. His alertness would take care of that.

A certain hero in our midst, perches himself on the bench and in the "hot" part of the game, gnashes his teeth, holds his chin in his hands, and says little. Another sits (or stands) unmotional regardless of how the game is going. And at the end of the game he always says "Well, they did their best."

Still another, we all know, when the boys get into the tight places, reaches down and breaks off a blade of grass, (sometimes two or three blades), looks it over nonchalantly and tosses it to the right—never to the left. We have refrained from using names so far, but to give you an inkling of who the above character is, the first letter in his last name begins with E—e—e—e.

But that isn't all. We still have another here in our midst who comes in for his share of the characteristics. During the last few games of the local college, our assistant coach has displayed excellent skill with a marble. Yes, Green has a green marble. Not a pretty marble, just a marble. And when the local squad go into their huddles, their trying plays, the marble appears on the scene. Green looks it over from every angle, tosses it up, rolls it between his fingers and then it's gone again. But watch him. It'll be back!

RAMS FIGHT HARD TO DEFEAT ARTESIA HIGH IN FRIDAY'S TILT

Clois Eaton Makes Attempt to Saw Out of Jail

Clois Eaton, who was arrested recently, charged with theft of a suit of clothes from Mike Fryer, made two attempts to saw out of jail this week.

He made a saw out of a spoon and cut one bar, and again Tuesday night he made a saw out of a knife blade and was caught attempting to saw out. His finger prints were sent to Washington and it was learned that he had a record of stealing an automobile, petty larceny and other charges.

He is being held in the county jail under guard till he can be sentenced and sent to Santa Fe.

C. of C. to Elect Officers Dec. 4th

On December 4th the annual election of the board of directors of the Portales Chamber of Commerce will be held in the evening instead of the noon luncheon.

Every citizen is invited to attend regardless of whether or not they are a member of this organization.

Paul Wurster and Francis Shaw were among the Portales people attending the Portales-Artesia football game in Artesia last Friday. They transported a number of players.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bulberry of Lingo were in Monday having their son Junior's eyes tested. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Kidd.

Every Effort Has Been Made to Locate Mrs. Manger

JACKSON, Wyo., Nov. 21. (UP)—After more than seven weeks the strange disappearance of Mrs. Olga Manger, a bride of two weeks, continued to be a mystery.

Mrs. Manger dropped from sight in the Two-Gwo-Tee pass country where she had gone on a hunting trip with her husband, Carl Manger. The hunting trip was the honeymoon tour for the couple after their marriage in Sheridan, Wyo.

Although hundreds of experienced woodsmen, Indian trappers and CCC camp workers have been drawn into the search no trace has been found of the 21-year-old bride.

The woman has been reported seen in various parts of the country but the leads have all proved to be without foundation.

Manger, the husband, who was held under technical arrest for a few days after he reported the disappearance of his wife, was released from jail and took an active part in the search.

1935 LICENSE PLATES ARE NOW READY

Car license plates for 1935 arrived Tuesday of this week and can now be secured.

A representative from the Motor Vehicle department stated to the News that any one having a 1934 license, even though it was out of the state could buy a 1935 license without a 1934 license, with the exception of truckers working for contractors on state jobs, who would be required to take out a quarter 1934 license.

This ruling solves much controversy, as to motorists coming from other states and establishing residence here, and having 1934 license from the state from which they removed, have in the past been required to buy a New Mexico license.

RAMS FIGHT HARD TO DEFEAT ARTESIA HIGH IN FRIDAY'S TILT

The Rams downed the Artesia Bulldogs Friday at Artesia 24 to 13 in a hard fought game that was full of thrills.

Artesia scored first at the beginning of the second quarter by a pass. The Rams received the kick-off on their own 30-yard line and plunged and drove down the field for a touchdown. Burke carried the ball over.

The Rams again staged a drive down the field to have the gun stop them on the one-yard line for the half. The score stood 6-0 at the half.

Artesia received the kick-off but were forced to kick on the third down. The Rams scored shortly after with a pass from D. Briggs to B. Briggs. The kick for extra point failed.

Artesia again received the kick-off and were again stopped. The Rams plunged, ran, and passed for another touchdown. The score came as the result of a fumble. Junior Moody fell on the ball for the touchdown.

In the last quarter the Artesia eleven went on a passing spree in a desperate attempt to overcome the Rams' lead. With a minute to go, Champion of the Artesia team, received a pass for the final touchdown. The extra point was made on a pass.

Champion of the Bulldogs was outstanding for the Bulldogs. James Thigpen, who played with the Rams last year, was in the backfield for Artesia.

Burke, Whitworth, and Moody were outstanding players for the Rams.

Mrs. W. E. Daniels and Miss Edna Locker were visitors in Lubbock over the week end.

The Junior College

The eyes of New Mexico are on the Eastern New Mexico Junior College, and its success will mean much for the entire state.

This college has made a wonderful record to date, and no opportunity should be missed to keep it before the public.

Additional buildings are needed to take care of the enrollment, and this enrollment will increase greatly within the coming year.

Roosevelt county as well as every community in eastern New Mexico should consider this college from the standpoint of development of this section of the state.

Many people are being attracted here on account of this college, and those who come to a city for school advantages are of the best class of citizens.

The News has and will continue to back the college in every way possible.

Now is Time for Christmas Decorations

The time for Christmas decorations is at hand.

Portales should not wait till the last minute and then rush in with poor decorations.

Decorating the town for Christmas lends much to Christmas spirit, and will help Christmas business.

The children of the county are entitled to as much Christmas spirit as it is possible to give them.

The town that overlooks this is overlooking an important feature in building good will.

The town should decorate by the first of December.

Better Farm Roads Needed

One of the greatest need of Roosevelt county is better farm roads into every community in the county.

Farmers are entitled to good roads to get their farm products to market, and the city that helps supply these roads will reap the benefit in trade.

There are many sections of Roosevelt county that are handicapped for good roads, and unless Portales gets behind this move and aids in securing these roads, the town will lose valuable trade territory.

Neighboring towns are expanding their trade territory, and it is up to Portales to fight for her trade territory.

There is no better method than that of building good farm roads.

Let's Turn the Calendar Back 100 Years

So often you hear of those good old times.

Do you really want to return to those conditions which have such an appeal to many of us?

Then let's turn the calendar back 100 years and for two hours return to those good old times.

Let the nation select a time this winter and for two hours stop every automobile, and use only horse or ox drawn conveyances.

Let the electric lights and the gas be turned off for two hours, and the old fashioned wood stove and candles be used.

Dig out the tub for the family bath. Silence the radio.

Knit the family socks, and discard the modern shoes for the old time shoes.

Do without the daily newspapers, and telephones.

Send your messages by pony express instead of by telegraph.

Those were the good old times, and by setting aside a national day to observe them for two hours, would give the younger generation an insight to what their forefathers went through.

All in favor of this move, try it for two hours.

Do You Need A Church?

Church attendance has been on the decline. Statistics reveal that only 30 per cent of the membership attends church services. That is not a heartening disclosure in a period when morals and spiritual values are needed by a people grasping for social, economic and moral relief.

Church attendance fluctuates with economic conditions. When prosperity is on the wing, individuals feel less the need of relying on things spiritual. They gloat in their self reliance. When depression hits the nation and men are burdened with responsibilities and hardships, they turn to spiritual values for encouragement and sustenance. Such is the record of church attendance.

The world has undergone great changes. History is in the making. Political, economic, and social forces are in the throes of revision. We toppled from the heights to the depths and our civilization is floundering. Its permanency depends upon man's support of moral and spiritual values. Character, integrity and the Golden Rule are still more valuable than gold, armies and private gain.

This is not a sermon. It is a fact. The permanency of civilization depends upon man's acceptance of moral and character values. President Roosevelt recognized this truth when he invited the nation to go to church Loyalty Sunday, October 7. Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, says there is good reason for turning to the church today, for "disorder in the outer world has brought disorder to the spirit of man."

Our economic recovery is tied in with moral recovery. They will go hand in hand. When men recognize the rights of others, when they respect integrity, when they live moral lives, when they live the Golden Rule, the world will lose its troubles. The church is in the business of building character; man is in the task of building prosperity. Man needs the church, the church needs man.

The Governor of Delaware has appointed a Mosquito Control Commission. We trust that mosquitoes will be limited in their biting to a forty-hour week.

Jack Rabbit Control Needed

The range situation in Roosevelt county is in a deplorable condition. Grass, through over-grazing and the drought, has been destroyed to such an extent that the range will not supply over 50 per cent grazing of a few years back.

Jack Rabbits have multiplied until they are a serious menace to both stockmen and farmers. It is estimated that six rabbits will eat as much grass as one sheep. The destruction of crops by these pests runs into enormous figures. The Biological Survey have been conducting a campaign against the prairie dog, and at the same time could do much to exterminate the jack rabbit.

As a relief measure, many of the unemployed could be put to work under the above department to poison both prairie dogs and jack rabbits. This is a matter that the stockmen and farmers of the county should consider. There is no better time than this fall and winter for this work, and this would enable farmers to plant rye for winter pasture without facing destruction of this crop by the rabbits.

This program should be considered by the welfare board, and a project on these lines set up.

Set aside a sum at 5 per cent interest which would pay for all time to come a $1,000 yearly salary each for an army of 125,000 teachers, and in addition to this pay the same salary to each of an army of 125,000 nurses. And after having done all this we could still have enough left out of our $400,000,000,000 to buy up all France and Belgium and everything of value that France and Belgium possess—that is, every French and Belgium farm, home, factory, church, railroad, street car—in fact, everything of value in those two countries in 1914.

But what would the poor armament people do for a living?—Star-Clipper, Traer, Ia.

ODD THINGS AND NEW—By Lane Bode

SOCIAL ANNEX
By THE BOSS

Well, folks, we are here again after sleeping off the election effects.

Last Friday we attended the foot ball game between the Eastern New Mexico Junior College Greyhounds and the Plainview, Texas, Wayland College Freshmen Jackrabbits.

Yes, we enjoyed the game, and will try to give some of the high lights.

The Greyhounds got off fine the first quarter. As huddlers they had the invaders outclassed. The Greyhounds won the first quarter by seven huddles to the Wayland's nothing.

In the second quarter the Wayland boys tried to win several points by going into a huddle early in the game, but were penalized three huddles, and to this the Greyhounds romped home with three more huddles.

In the third quarter, the second team of the Greyhounds (we suppose they were the pups) attempted some complicated huddles, and were sent back to the opponent's field.

They rallied and got away with two huddles. The visitors were fixing to pull a fast huddle when the whistle sounded, ending the quarter.

In the fourth and last quarter, the old stags were again sent into the field and boy, did they huddle. They out-huddled the visitors in a fast series of huddles, and the game ended with a score of 30 huddles to the visitors 0.

Some of the high lights of the team were when the referee went down in a scrimmage. He immediately went into a huddle with the time-keeper and the umpire. Another time one of the men tackled the referee and it was a beautiful fall.

The game was not as exciting.

however, as the game several Thanksgiving ago when an attempt was made to dry the snow off the local field by burning gasoline, resulting in the game tank truck of J. G. Cox catching fire.

That broke up all huddles while the fire was being extinguished.

Coach Reed and Assistant Coach Green, deserve much credit for the whipping of this team in shape in so short a time, and presenting a team with an unbeatable record to date.

The Greyhounds invade Silver City this week end for the hardest game of the season. Portales will be impatiently awaiting the results of this game.

Farmers To Vote Soon On Cotton Control Act

Cotton producers, according to advice received from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, will be given the opportunity to vote, sometime in December, on whether the Bankhead Cotton Control Act will be continued into the 1935 season. The exact date of the referendum has not been fixed but will depend upon the completion of the task of getting the ballot forms, printed information and tally sheets into the field.

The following question will be submitted to cotton producers:

"Are you in favor of continuing the Bankhead Act for next year (June 1, 1934 to May 31, 1936)?"

In a foot note to the question as stated on the ballot is the explanation that continuance of the Bankhead Act means that a tax will continue to be levied on the ginning of cotton in excess of the allotment made to meet the probable market requirements. With each ballot, a statement from the Secretary of Agriculture will be given cotton farmers, defining and Adjustment Administrations impartial attitude in the referendum. Secretary Wallace urges cotton farmers to "examine carefully all the facts and reach a decision based upon considered judgment as to whether the Bankhead Act is needed to assure attainment of the objectives of the cotton adjustment program."

The referendum will be conducted by the machinery that is now set up in the field under the production control associations. However, a special referendum committee will be selected in each of the communities where polling places will be located.

The ballots will be secret. The returns will be compiled on tally sheets and forwarded to the office of the county agent, who will compile the county totals. The county agent will then send a certified copy of the returns to the office of the State Allotment Board and another copy to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Results within each county will be publicly announced as soon as the tabulation is completed.

War Veterans' Problems Increase

Last year American Red Cross chapters dealt with the problems of nearly 400,000 veterans and their families. The workers find that as the years go on their responsibility increases rather than decreases. Changes in legislation, the increasing age of veterans and the consequent increase in physical ills, bring new needs for sympathetic treatment by trained Red Cross workers. In addition to this service to veterans the Red Cross served as the official medium between the people and the men in military and naval service, giving aid through this service last year to 6,979 men in the army, navy and marine corps.

He was born in Edgar County, Indiana in 1866, being 68 years and 8 months old.

He was married to Fannie Binzham of Atlanta, Ill., September 18, 1893. To this union three children were born, two dying in infancy. One son, Donovan was here helping to care for him in his last illness.

Mr. Markland was converted and joined the Christian church almost 30 years ago, living a true christian life through these years.

He came to this co. in 1910, making this his home since that time. His life and influence has helped others to make this raw prairie a better place to live.

ROOSEVELT COUNTY LIBRARY

Roosevelt County Library is fulfilling a long felt need in this county, according to Mrs. Ray Hollis. Often there are a hundred books checked out on Saturday afternoon. There are over 350 books in the library, and each three months 75 books are sent in from the extension library at Santa Fe. These are returned at the end of three months and another 75 are sent.

The library is open to the public Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 4 to 5 and on Saturday mornings from 10 to 12 and from 1 to 5.

Mrs. K. J. Brough conducts a children's hour on Saturday at 11 o'clock, which is proving very interesting. All children are welcome to this.

The library is in need mostly of children's books.

Some 35 books were taken in during library week and some $25 in money, which will be used for books.

This library was begun last summer by the combined efforts of the W. C. T. U. and H. M. club.

Rev. J. Griffin Chapman and S. M. Finney attended the executive board meeting of the Portales Baptist Association in Clovis Tuesday afternoon.

Minister C. A. Buchanan of the Church of Christ, is in Lubbock this week attending his wife who is there for surgery, in the Lubbock sanitarium.

She Sees Through "Grafted" Eyes

Mrs. Daphne Muir (right), noted British novelist, is shown telling a girl reporter at Quisset, Mass., of the almost miraculous restoration of her eyesight through a delicate grafting operation performed by Dr. Tudor Thomas at Cardiff, Wales. Mrs. Muir was blinded nearly ten years ago when a doctor accidentally dropped some chloroform into her eyes during a minor operation, burning the cornea. Another woman, almost blind and incurably so, offered the healthy parts of her own eyes so Mrs. Muir might see again. Mrs. Muir appeared before the American College of Surgeons, so the members could see what may be done in the field of "eye grafting."

Surplus Funds Collected By National Cotton Pool

The national surplus cotton tax-exemption certificate pool to date has authorized the sale of surplus tax-exemption certificates equivalent to 635,020 bales of cotton and already has collected $5,338,298 which is being held in an earmarked account in the treasury for distribution to producers who surrender certificates to the pool, as announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The granting by the pool of authorization to sell certificates equivalent to 635,020 bales does not necessarily mean that this amount has been sold, as some counties which have requested surplus certificates probably have overestimated their needs. The cash on hand received from the sale of certificates represent payments for approximately 60 percent of the certificates sold. Money for the other 40 percent is in transit between the cotton growing counties and Washington.

Surplus certificates sufficient to pay the tax on 635,000 bales of cotton have been surrendered to the pool and more certificates are expected to be received before Nov. 24, the final date on which the pool will accept surrender of certificates. Sales will be made by the pool after that date, however, so long as there is sufficient demand to warrant its operation.

The money received from the sale of certificates at the standard rate of four cents a pound will be distributed after the pool's operating expenses are deducted, among owners of surplus certificates who surrender them to the pool for sale on the basis of approximately $20 a bale for certificates sold. When the pool is closed, each producer will be returned his pro rata share of any certificates the pool does not sell. These may be exchanged for 1935 tax-exemption certificates in excess of his regular allotment of such certificates in the event the Bankhead act is made effective for next year.

The Junior Play Is On The Way

"Papa" is beginning to take on a new luster as the night for the final shine nears. After one week of rehearsals, the cast of the three act farce, "Polishing Papa," which will be the Junior class big annual exploit into the field of drama, reports a fine start and fine prospects for a mirthful night of comedy for the spectator.

After lots of work and deep thought the following were selected to have Papa polished and at his very best, Dec. 7: Mrs. Stevens, housekeeper, Elizabeth Burke; Marie, a maid, Vera Cross; Sidney Smith, a rich sausage manufacturer, Bill Henderson; Samuel Harmon, an advertising solicitor, Warren Wright; Arthur Smith, Mr. Smith's son, Jack Patton; Jane Smith, Arthur's sister, Edna B. Monroe; Dick Brainerd, a young attorney, Warren Copeland; Rose Parker, Arthur's girl friend, Mildred Hollis; Reginald Dabney, an English Lord, James Case; Peggy Sampson, a friend of the Smiths, Mary Lena Hilliard.

(Warning! Seniors, if you want a real feed give us your whole-hearted cooperation Dec. 7).

Class Discusses Political Parties

Civics students got a bird's-eye view of what political parties and politics really are last week. The class was kept in hysterics most of the time by Mrs. Bonner, who in her unmatchable way, told of funny sights seen at the state political convention and funny things heard over the radio from the national political convention.

These recitations gave a clearer knowledge of political parties to each in the class we think, and we know it promoted a greater interest in them.

Extension directors, including W. L. Elser, and Field Administrators from 30 states attended the Middle Western Seed Conference in Kansas City, Friday and Saturday, November 2-3, to report the feed and livestock survey from their respective states. Six states reported a need of 1,400,000 tons of forage which will have to be brought in from other states in order to carry the livestock through the winter.

From the picture one can readily see that every bit of available forage that will make worthwhile feed should be saved. This will find a ready market according to L. W. Plager, chief of the AAA Forage Conservation Program. It is not known at this time just how much corn fodder and stover will be signed up with the government. Those farmers having a surplus should contact their county agent's office immediately. Inspectors are being especially trained for this work and government inspection at the car door will be given free of charge.

Producers should do everything in their power to care for the feed in such a way as to produce the highest quality. Those farmers who are in need to feed should send their orders to the Federal Livestock Feed and Information agency, Kansas City, Mo. Many farmers who have an excess of grain content in their fodder will bale it whole, provided they are paid for the excess marketable grain the fodder contains. Such material proves exceptionally good for drouth livestock, especially when handled through hammer mills.

Here are the healthiest boy and girl in the United States, a title which went to them in a contest between city and farm health champions at the World's Fair in Chicago. They are Clara Millsbaugh, seventeen, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, who keeps 16 milking cows a day on her father's dairy farm; and Mortimer Foxman, sixteen, of Chicago.

Funeral services were held at Ft. Sumner Tuesday afternoon.

Economic Security

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Two principles are essential to economic security. The first and perhaps the most important is thrift. Extravagance leads to ruin but thrift assures financial stability. The thrifty man saves something, however small, out of his weekly pay roll. These savings are permitted to accumulate and are never used except from grave necessity and that only as the last resort. Many homes have been built on weekly and monthly savings. Small fortunes have been built upon the principle: always spend a little less than you earn.

It would be an interesting study to determine the profits derived by the use of by-products. In the meat industry the blood of the animals was formerly thrown away, now it is profitably utilized in many ways. A dentist, known to the writer, sent his office rug to the rag men and received a check for a new rug for the gold found in the rug. A well managed business sees that there is no waste in its process of manufacturing or salesmanship. Extravagance is always waste.

We are facing a serious menace in the industrial situation by having to provide large sums of money to take care of those on relief rolls. If all the waste in foodstuffs in all the leading hotels in our cities could be gathered together it would be sufficient to feed a very large percentage of this dependent class.

Another essential principle is, to avoid debts. This was the principle upon which our fathers built their modest fortunes. They never bought anything until they had the money to pay for it. A mortgage was a nightmare. Pay as you go and do not borrow if you can possibly avoid it was the prevailing spirit of the past generation.

The present generation presents a distressing picture in contrast. Not only are we urged to spend all we earn but a little more by buying on the installment plan. If we are in debt we are urged to be in no hurry to pay it. Later it may be paid in greatly depreciated dollars. Let taxes ride. The man who owes money seems to be in a better position than the man to whom the money is due.

Measures which violate the fundamental principles of our forefathers cannot be depended upon as stabilizing forces, upon which to build the return of prosperity. Let us return to the spirit of our fathers—Save and avoid debts.

"Narcotic" To Be Shown At Local Theatre Tuesday

Respectable, normal people are apt to think that the dope evil is something remote from their comfortable lives, something that will exist in far away oriental lands, but is of little concern in our safe, sturdy America.

We see headlines about dope raids, news stories about terrible crimes committed by dope addicts, editorials about the dope menace—but after all, these are only words on a printed page. We cannot understand what dope means, what it does to the human beings merely by reading about it once in a while.

But seeing is different—when you see before your very eyes the disintegration of a human being, the torture and misery, the inevitable disgrace and death that lie at the end of the dope trail, it means something more real.

Finds New Element

A picture showing at the Portales theatre Tuesday only, Nov. 27, makes you see things. It is sponsored by the federal narcotic bureau, the white cross, by the world conference on narcotic education, and it is an important addition to the campaign against the dope evil.

In this picture you see as a preliminary some of the actual methods of dope distribution, and some of its effects, gaunt, furtive, twisted creatures that are only grotesque caricatures of human beings. These pictures are real. The main picture is made from a scenario that condenses powerfully and effectively the old familiar story of dope. It is essentially true, based on the tragedy of one man's life. But it is also the tragedy of thousands of lives here in America.

This man is shown first as a medical student, then as a doctor, a brilliantly successful. A friend persuades him that opium used in moderation is not harmful, he tries it and in the language of the addicts, "The greenhorn is hooked."

Then begins the long, losing struggle; the slide from success and achievement down to the bitter depths of failure and disgrace.

The real question is, "Is the picture true?" We have the word of government narcotic bureau officials, of those who have spent their lives in the fight against dope, that it is true. The dope evil is not remote from America. It is so close to respectable, normal people. It is very close to us. The latest estimate is that there are at least one million persons in the United States who use illicit narcotics, and approximately 175,000 confirmed addicts who spend about five dollars a day for their dope, and who get their money by any means at hand, criminal or otherwise.

The picture discussed in this article is for adults only.

"Narcotic" will be presented at the Portales theatre one day only, Tuesday, Nov. 27. A special matinee will be run starting at 2:30 p. m. with no advance in prices.

Plan now to see this special road show attraction.

Glen Herbert of Elida visited friends in Portales last Sunday afternoon and evening.

Estes Park, Colo.—Deer and elk are now grazing like cattle in the lower parks and valleys of Rocky Mountain National park. Old timers say this condition approximates pioneer days when these animals came out of the canons west of Denver to feed in the flats at the base of the mountains, sometimes wandering for miles out on the plains.

Boone, Colo.—A $40,000 domestic water supply system for Boone is likely in the near future. The town, unincorporated, is circulating petitions to form an improvement district to finance a $13,000 self-liquidating loan with which to purchase materials.

Grand Junction, Colo.—Salaries of all teachers in the Grand Junction public schools, are increased, effective this month. The increase was made possible by the improved financial condition of the school district.

Durango, Colo.—Government purchases of cattle and sheep in connection with the drought relief program have put more than $70,000 into the pockets of Mesa county stockraisers, according to figures released by County Agent E. W. Martin.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Wyoming residents again this year will decorate Christmas trees from Medicine Bow national forest. The trees will be cut under supervision of forest rangers, and will be put on the market by licensed dealers.

Alamosa, Colo.—A situation rare in court annals developed here recently when Vincenzo Miliello, convicted of arson demanded a $70,000 judgment against two insurance firms for the building he was convicted of burning. Miliello previously had won a judgment against the two companies, but subsequently was convicted of arson. The companies announced they would appeal the judgment, whereupon Miliello appealed his conviction on the arson charge. No dates have been set for either trial.

Pueblo, Colo.—Two drummers in the recent Armistice day parade here paraded without their drums—and apparently did not miss their instruments. The two drums were found after the parade had begun. They were taken to police headquarters and a frantic search failed to reveal the shamefaced owners.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Wyoming residents are going to pay more for that grain of salt, whether they take things with it or not. Rail officials finally raised freight rates on salt after prolonged discussion. The new charge is 31 cents for bulk salt and 33 1/2 cents for package salt, compared to the old rate of 29 cents for all kinds of salt.

Pueblo, Colo.—Marriage triumphed over diphtheria here recently when Irene Powell and Robert Nicholas were married at the groom's home. The head of the city health department and the supervisor of the FERA nursing service were witnesses.

Nicholas had not contracted the disease but was quarantined as a carrier of diphtheria germs. After the ceremony, the bride was quarantined with her husband.

Montrose, Colo.—Raphael Valdez, herder of goats, has little or nothing to do now that he has acquired a helper in the form of a Shepherd dog. Every morning the dog takes the herd of 100 goats out to pasture, rotating them over the available feeding ground so that they never browse in the same spot two days in succession. The dog leads the herd during the day, and when he approaches a wooded or brushy place he stops the goats and goes ahead to see that there are no coyotes lurking there, then he returns for the herd and leads them on. Valdez says he has never lost a goat to coyotes, the sole protection of the herd being under direction of the dog.

Basin, Wyo.—"You're only as old as you think you are" O. P. Manny told guests at his 63rd birthday anniversary party and then to prove what he said, he: 1. ran 300 feet in 23 seconds; 2. walked the same distance in 60 seconds. Many guests included: Mrs. Brunks, 86, Mrs. Drago, 72, William Agee, 67.

Lusk, Wyo.—Lusk's new airport will be named "Kudrna" if the tradition which dictates such things is adhered to. It is the custom to name an airport for the first person who loses his life in the air over the field. Leo Kudrna, stunt parachute jumper, was the first to die here when his parachute failed to open during an exhibition jump.

Pine Bluffs, Colo.—William Dunstan, well-known Pine Bluffs old timer, has voted at the same polling place here for the past 54 years—and every time democratic. Residents reported he was overjoyed at results of the past off-year election.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Wyoming's relief load was increased with a recent order from administration headquarters in Washington placing all destitute and needy Indians on the official SERRA relief rolls. Heretofore needy Indians have been cared for by the U. S. Indian agency.

Castle Rock, Wyo.—Ed Killard, 54, probably owes his life to his dog. While picking ferns in the mountains near here he fell and broke his leg. He tied his hat to the dog's collar and told him to go home. Three hours later the dog was back with a rescue party.

Amarillo, Texas.—A "magnetic nail picking machine" operated by the Texas Highway department recently picked up from several highways in the Panhandle section over one ton of nails and bits of wire. The machine, equipped with a huge magnet which hangs a few inches above the ground, picks up any metal on the highway.

Kemmerer, Wyo.—Cerrillo Canovi will take his politics a great deal less strenuously in the future. After a few had found their way under his belt Canovi started on a parade down main street, loudly announcing the success of his party. He halted at frequent intervals to hurl bricks through store windows in which the posters of rival candidates were displayed. Canovi was fined $50.

Pueblo, Colo.—When Foy Dunkel won a new Ford V-8 here he still lost. Dunkel was on relief but relief officials decided that since he had won the car—equivalent to $750 in cash—he no longer needed relief and promptly took him off the rolls. Now Roy has to decide whether he wants to eat or ride. Either way he figures to lose.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Pilot George Lockhart has a little section of gasoline feed line that he carries around in his pocket. That piece of feed line used to be on his place in which he makes daily altitude flights from the local airport in connection with observations of the U. S. weather bureau. Recently when he landed from a flight that took him up 19,200 feet above sea level, Lockhart discovered that the feed line on his plane had broken in two. Now he carries the small section to remind him how lucky he was it didn't happen when he was at the "ceiling."

Coyd, Wyo.—Local sportsmen indicate they plan to spend the winter around the store stove trying to figure this one out. Dave Corder shot and killed a doe which sported a pair of deformed and freakish horns. The right horn goes down along the face and the left one back along the neck. Best name suggested so far is "doebuck."

Canon City, Colo.—A dark colored suit coat, given to a transient youth more than a year ago, returned to Canon City recently in a box car. The coat, identified by a local clothiers label, was found in an empty box car by two employees of a local brick yard who were cleaning out the car preparatory to loading it.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Conducted by Dr. J. R. Eary
Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health

NOT REPORTED
Last month the doctors of New Mexico reported 87 new cases of syphilis, 91 new cases of tuberculosis. This does not mean that there were more new cases of tuberculosis than of syphilis in the state. We have good reason to believe that the reverse is true. We know that there is a greater tendency to avoid reporting syphilis. We know, from our health survey, that for every case of syphilis that is reported to us there are three cases actually under medical care and more than sixty cases who have not even consulted a doctor and so cannot possibly be reported.

If every case of active syphilis were known to the health authorities, if they were allowed to investigate both the origin of the infection and the contacts of the infected case, it would be scarcely a year before this most dangerous, widespread and expensive disease would be completely under control.

There are two thousand people in New Mexico, who, on the average, will go on living just half as long as they might have done if they had not contracted syphilis. This is the price we pay for our respectable ignorance.

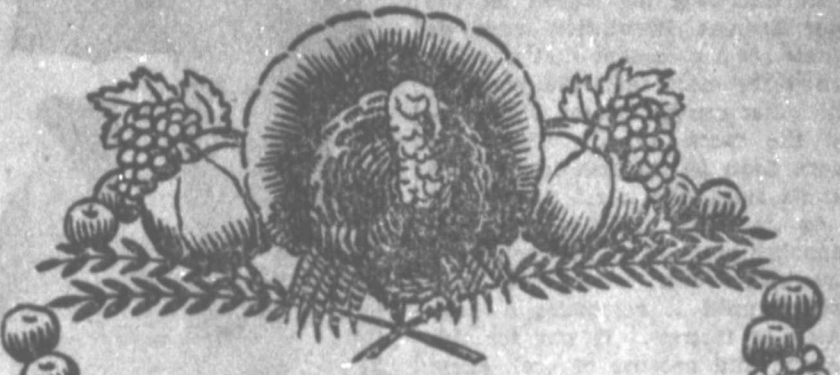

At least a thousand unborn babies are infected every year in this state with syphilis. The fortunate ones die before they are born. Practically all these babies could be saved if the people knew of the danger and all expectant mothers had their blood tested early in pregnancy. We sacrifice their lives and the virility of our race to our respectable ignorance.

That great physician, William Osler, believed syphilis to be the biggest killing disease. If we would allow common sense to triumph over convention there is no other disease which could be brought so quickly, so completely, under our control.

Onate, Spanish Actor, Traveled Through New Mexico In 1605

GALLUP, N. M., Nov. 21. (UP)—When Ellen Wilson McAdoo, 19-year-old daughter of the California senator, was married, at Albuquerque, to Rafael Lopez de Onate, it was not the first time a de Onate had visited the southwest.

Governor Juan de Onate, a collateral ancestor of the Spanish actor who married Miss McAdoo, traveled through New Mexico in 1605.

It is carved in Spanish. In English the inscription reads: "Passed by here the Adelantado (Governor) Juan de Onate from the discovery of the Sea of the South on the 16 of April of 1605."

In inscribing his legend on the now famous Inscription rock de Onate set a precedent that was followed for more than 170 years by the other conquistadores who passed the "rock album." There are more than 50 Spanish inscriptions on its sides, the latest dated 1774.

As its name signifies the great monolith bluff, rising 300 feet above the lava-strewn valley, has been eroded until it resembles a huge castle or fortress. It was for this reason, and because of cool, sweet water and firewood, that colorful caravans of captains of the Castilian army, governor general, padres and soldiers, sought its shelter from the desert and its protection against hostile Indian tribes.

While resting in its shade the explorers cut into the soft sandstone the record of their journeys. Experts said de Onate's, the first one inscribed, was carved with an Indian dagger.

De Onate, who first journeyed into New Mexico in 1598 under authority of King Phillip of Castile and Aragon, is said to be the founder of the city of Santa Fe.

His El Morro record was carved on his memorable trip to the Gulf of California, which he called the Sea of the South. He started in the fall of 1604 from San Gabriel, on the Rio Grande, with friars Escobar and San Buenaventura and his soldiers. He traveled by way of Acocoma, Zuni and Moguel, or Hopi, villages to the Little Colorado river which he followed to the Gulf of California, reaching his destination Jan. 25, 1606.
