OVERFLOWING CROWD AT CHAMBER BANQUET

Over 800 persons jammed the high school gymnasium Friday night to hear Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker speak and hear Phil Regan sing at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet. Shown above at the tables are those who ate in the "second sitting." Early arrivals had to move into the bleachers, background, to make room for others. Food didn't run out, however, and everyone was fed. (Lee Watson Photograph).

Pope Says Pressure Is On To Save Rosenbergs

Second Note Sent To Ike On Subject

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — President Eisenhower received word from the Vatican today that Pope Pius is getting "many new demands" to request clemency for condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

The second papal communication was sent to the White House by the Rt. Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to Washington. Like the first, it did not urge clemency nor enter into the merits of the case.

Receipt of the letter, dated Feb. 13 was announced by Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty. He declined repeatedly to say whether Eisenhower might reconsider his refusal last Wednesday to block the Rosenbergs' execution.

Hagerty said only that Eisenhower's statement then "speaks for itself."

In rejecting clemency, the President said the Rosenbergs' crime involves betrayal of the nation and could cause the deaths of thousands of innocent citizens. He said they had received full benefit of the law and no new evidence was produced on which to reverse the verdict.

Meanwhile, a mystery of what happened to the first papal communication was cleared up by James P. McGranery, who was former President Truman's last attorney general.

In Palm Beach, Fla., McGranery disclosed that the communication was oral and involved no papers or records. He said the apostolic delegation had conferred with him in December and told him the Pope had received numerous appeals on behalf of the Rosenbergs.

Hagerty had said Friday there was no official record of papal intervention. The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano had said Friday, without elaboration, that the Pope "had not omitted to intervene."

McGranery said he told the delegation he would "consider only the facts relating to the merits of the case—the matter ended there as far as I was concerned."

McGranery said the Pope, moved by motives of charity, had a perfect right to make known the appeals made to the Vatican.

The apostolic delegate's White House letter of Feb. 13 repeated his earlier statement that, without entering into the merits, Pope Pius XII wanted U. S. authorities to know he had received appeals for intervention.

The latter added that "many new demands are being received at the Vatican urging the holy father to intervene for clemency . . . . and that leftist newspapers insist that his holiness has done nothing."

Hagerty said Eisenhower was notified of the letter and acknowledged it with "thanks for this courtesy."

Amid this turn of events a delegation of 700 New Yorkers arrived in Washington to re-establish round the-clock picket lines at the White House.

The Rosenbergs' execution date had originally been set for Jan. 14 but was postponed pending action on their presidential appeal.

They were sentenced April 5, 1951, after Mrs. Rosenberg's brother, David Greenglass, testified they persuaded him to turn over wartime atomic secrets to a Russian agent. Greenglass and another man, Morton Sobell, were sentenced to prison in the case. The Rosenbergs have maintained their innocence.

Korea Is Not Legally War, Court Rules

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled today that the fighting in Korea—legally or constitutionally—is not war.

In a disputed 4-2 decision the court ordered the Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance Company to pay beneficiaries of two soldiers killed while in the uniform of the U. S. Army. One died in Korea, the other in a train crash.

The decision affected two separate cases but the underlying question was whether America was at war in Korea, in the legal sense.

Chief Justice Horace Stern wrote the majority opinion in both cases—one involving Andrew Beley of Allegheny County, killed in Korea, and the other Clyde P. Harding, Luzerne County, killed in a railroad accident while en route to Camp Atterbury, Ind., with the 28th Division, Pennsylvania National Guard.

Stern reviewed the background of the Korean conflict, pointed out that Congress, which has exclusive rights, never declared war and declared "it is clear that the action being waged in Korea is not a 'war' within what may be termed the constitutional or legal sense of the term."

Justice Michael Musmanno, in a concurring opinion, said "if we were to denominate as war all foreign action in which United States military forces have engaged we would have to conclude that U. S. has practically never been at peace in its entire history." He added:

"Beley was killed by an act of war but not in a state of war."

Now Government Wants Its Cut Of Pat Ward's Call Girl Take

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Washington Star said today federal tax collectors have their eye on the $15,000 to $20,000 Pat Ward is reported to have earned as a New York call girl.

An Internal Revenue Bureau spokesman said only, "we never discuss individual tax returns."

The Star added: "But other sources say the tax collectors are interested in Miss Ward's figures. They add that Internal Revenue is always interested in the return of anyone who like Miss Ward, can earn $50 to $100 per day, or night."

The girl is the now-famous prosecution witness in the trial at New York of oleo heir Minot (Mickey) Jelke who is accused of forcing her into prostitution and living off her earnings.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony J. Liebler told the trial court that she received between $15,000 and $20,000 while working as a call girl for 20 weeks in 1951-52.

The Star noted this would split her income between two tax years and reduce her tax liability.

It said tax agents were reported checking their files to see if Miss Ward had listed her earnings and added:

"The tax on her 1952 earnings will not be due until March 15 but the word is out that the tax collectors will be watching for her return."

Court Fight Looming Over Iranian Oil

VENICE, Italy, Feb. 14 (AP)—The little Italian tanker Miriella, 24 days out of Abadan with 5,000 tons of disputed Iranian oil below deck, ran into a lawsuit when she docked here today.

On petition of the British owned Anglo - Iranian Oil Company, a Venice court ordered the cargo impounded by the Italian customs service for 15 days as the first step in legally determining ownership of the oil.

The AIOC claims the oil, as it does other products from the Abadan refinery which Premier Mossadegh's government seized from the company under his oil nationalization program of 1951.

The president of the Venice court, Enrico Mastrobuono, directed the AIOC and the Super Company of Rome, charterers of the 3,457-ton Miriella, to present their opposing claims by next Thursday. Mastrobuono said he would rule on the case before the end of the 15 day period of impoundment.

Approval For Oil Importing

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—Frank Porter, president of the American Petroleum Institute, announced today the executive committee of the nation's largest oil trade association had formally endorsed the foreign oil and imports principles of the National Petroleum Council's oil policy for the United States.

He said this places the institute squarely behind these principles:

"That participation by U. S. oil men in the development of the world's oil resources is in the interest of all nations and is essential to this country's security; that U. S. oil men should be encouraged to develop global oil resources on equal terms with other nationals and to work out stable agreements with foreign governments on a basis which will promote development by free enterprise methods.

"That the U. S. government should use its diplomatic prestige and channels to reduce the political risks involved in such foreign operations, and permit U. S. oil men to operate abroad in conformity with the laws and customs of other countries.

"That the nation's economic welfare and security require a policy on petroleum imports which will encourage exploration and development efforts in the United States, and which will make available a maximum supply of domestic oil to meet the needs of the nation."

Multi-Million Dollar Waste Report Finally Is Released

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — A blistering Senate report today charged needless waste of hundreds of millions of dollars and time and efforts of thousands of Americans in constructing overseas military bases.

The much - censored document was released by Senators Long (D-La) and Morse (Ind-Ore), former members of the armed services committee which investigated the multibillion - dollar overseas defense planning program.

The two senators called for a complete overhaul of the project and questioned whether even then it would enable this country and its allies to retaliate against a surprise enemy attack.

Challenging the "adequacy and wisdom of this nation's high-level planning," the two - man report aimed most of its criticism at Air Force leaders.

It dealt equally harshly with some European allies, who were said to be gouging this nation and its servicemen on supplies and necessities.

The desire of other allies to cooperate or even to fight to defend themselves was questioned with these words:

"It is our feeling that the United States has made a fundamental mistake in departing from the sound principle that the only people who deserve freedom are those willing to fight for it."

This was in a section assailing agreements with Allied nations on locations for U. S. military bases.

"In many of the agreements consummated up to this time, our government has been asked to contribute altogether too much and our allies too little," the report said.

A section dealing with agreements with France was deleted because of objections by the State and Defense Departments. The senators said they left it out with great reluctance declaring that "some of the facts under this heading should be made known to the American people."

Until its release in censored form, the report had been classified as secret, but it already has produced some results.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), new armed services chairman, announced early this year that the committee was withholding its approval of the start of 146 million dollars in overseas projects, chiefly air bases.

The committee called in Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, and other top military and civilian heads for closed-door conferences before the report was released.

In general the report questioned the need for building scores or hundreds of American bases throughout the non - Communist world and manning them with thousands of U. S. servicemen.

"We can not understand," the senators said, "a program which has 100 or even 200 groups of men in units of 2,000 to 5,000 sitting idly in the muck and mire of Europe, Africa, Asia, and the Arctic Circle, waiting for a war which we hope to avoid."

"It was our feeling," the report said, "that the taxpayers were being unsuspectingly led into a program that would require the virtual building of small modern American cities, running into an investment of over 100 million dollars each, at many points throughout the world, and the stationing of perhaps three-quarters of a million servicemen at remote points of the earth for the next generation."

The report suggested that thousands of U. S. servicemen now stationed overseas could and should be returned to this country without endangering defenses.

It said that this country had more than twice as many men in Europe as believed necessary, although the exact number was censored out.

A. J. Swenson, 89, Succumbs In Stamford

STAMFORD, Feb. 14 (AP)—A. J. Swenson, 89, one of West Texas' most prominent pioneers and for many years head of the vast Swenson Land and Cattle Company, died today.

He had been ill for several years. He had passed active managership of the big ranching and oil interests to a son, W. G. Swenson.

Services will be held Monday at 4 p. m. in the Bethel Lutheran church of the Ericksdahl community near Stamford.

Survivors include three sons, W. G., vice president and manager of the company and president of the Texas Cowboy Reunion; J. E. (Eric), manager of the Emory ranches at Spur; and A. M. G. (Swede), assistant manager of the Swenson Land and Cattle company and a regent on the University of Texas.

Swenson helped form one of the big cattle empire of Texas. In recent years the discovery of oil on some of the ranch land added another phase to his experience.

Born in Sweden, he came to America at 18 to work for his uncle, S. M. Swenson, founder of the Swenson Land and Cattle Company. Young Swenson first settled in a Swedish settlement in Williamson County between Round Rock and Georgetown.

Four-Year Sentence Given Crip Tucker

A jury in criminal district court yesterday returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Luther (Crip) Tucker, Negro bootlegger, on a charge of forgery and sentenced him to four years in prison.

Tucker was not represented by legal counsel.

Tucker, now serving a one-year sentence in county jail for bootlegging, was convicted of forgery in the making of a check for $100 drawn on C. V. Robertson of Snyder. Robertson testified that he was a prisoner in the jail on a charge of intoxication when he gave a check to Tucker under the latter's pretense of obtaining cigarettes with it for Robertson. The check was writen for only one dollar, according to Robertson and Anderson Davis, Jr., Snyder Negro, who testified he witnessed the transaction. State's testimony was that the check had been increased to $100.

Other witnesses for the state were Jessie Mae Davis, wife of Davis, who said she cashed the check for Tucker; Riley Foster of West Texas State Bank, who identified the endorsement as Tucker's signature; Erich Arnold, also of the bank, who testified of cashing the check; Buddy Norris, deputy sheriff, and Bill Zimmerman, highway patrolman, who testified of Robertson's intoxication at the time he was imprisoned; and Horace Eddleman, on whom a check was alleged to have been forged for $335.

The only defense witness to take the stand was John Willie Baker tried Feb. 6 on forgery of the same check. He and Tucker were each indicted on the same four alleged forgeries of checks totaling $1,260. Garland Armstrong, attorney for Baker, and Renal B. Rosson, district attorney, both said the day after the trial that a motion for instructed verdict of acquittal in the Baker trial was being held by the court pending decision and that the judge, Sterling Williams, was withholding judgment in the Baker case until the trial of Tucker. Rosson said yesterday, however, that the court accepted a plea of guilty in the Baker case the day after the trial but was withholding sentence. Rosson said Baker would probably be sentenced this week.

The Baker case was taken from the hands of the jury after the trial.

The jury deliberated in the trial of Tucker, however. Jurors were Leonard Spence, Gerald Walton, Nolan von Roeder, Kenneth Wilson, Hollis Fields, J. W. Coffee, Herman Richburg, Amon F. Weaver, M. H. Hanson, T. D. Leach, Homer Gannaway, and Leslie Grant.

In the opening argument, Wayland Holt, county attorney assisting Rosson, asked the jury not to assess minimum sentence in the case. He did not ask a definite sentence but requested the jury assess a sentence great enough to deter him in the future from making false instruments.

Tucker was then given opportunity to make an argument to the jury, but he declined, saying, "All I can say is I am not guilty."

Rosson made the closing argument.

North Dakotans Pass Law Against Sale Of Candy Cigarettes

BISMARCK, N. D., Feb. 14 (AP)—The North Dakota Senate Friday passed one bill prohibiting sale of candy cigarettes and another outlawing dancing in the dark.

Sen. E. C. Stucke, one of the sponsors of the candy cigarette bill, said "if we can help eliminate things which tend to encourage young folks from starting to smoke we will be doing a good thing."

In support of his dancing in the dark ban, Sen. Duncan Frazer said, "some of these dance halls are so dark you can't see who is dancing next to you and it enables people to drink on the floors without being seen."

Swift Air Blows Made By UN; Another Double Ace Is Made

SEOUL, Sunday, Feb. 14 (AP) — Furious air battles between 17 Sabres and 27 Communist MIGs Saturday ended a six-day nonscoring streak against the swift Red jets and produced the Korean War's third double ace.

The Fifth Air Force announced one MIG shot down and one damaged in the fierce encounters near the Manchurian border and credited the kill to Col. Royal Baker of McKinney, Tex., commander of the 4th Fighter Wing.

It brought Baker's record to nine MIGs and one propeller - driven Red fighter destroyed and one MIG damaged. The 10 planes are twice the requirement for ace.

Allied air blows stepped up all across Korea as skies cleared after several days of heavy clouds and poor visibility. Fighter bombers flattened 36 buildings, destroyed five Red gun positions, sealed three railroad tunnels, cut rails in 15 places, cratered roads and dumped tons of bombs on a rail bridge and two Red supply centers, headquarters said.

On the ground Allied infantrymen tossed back five Communist probing attacks before dawn. In the largest action, Eighth Army troops defending an advance position near Old Baldy on the Western Front killed or wounded 20 Reds of some 175 attacking Chinese, headquarters announced.

The Reds were beaten off in five hours after cutting off the defenders and temporarily blocking Allied attempts to reinforce the position.

The Chinese also struck lightly at three Central Front positions and one other point on the western sector on the first day of the Chinese New Year — the "Year of the Sanke." All of the attacks were repulsed.

Baker, a veteran of more than 100 combat missions, closed to within 800 feet of his victim and sent the Red jet into a tight spin, spewing fire and clouds of smoke.

"I followed him down and saw him crash and explode with a big ball of fire," he said.

"I didn't think I was ever going to get my 10th plane," he added. "I got my last on Jan. 21 and that's a long time between MIGs."

Baker thus stepped into the elite circle of double aces who have shot down 10 or more planes.

Darling Notes On Valentine

DARLING, Pa., Feb. 14 (AP)—This village of 170, which all the rest of the year is so quiet you can hear a stamp drop, bloomed as a highly important dateline today.

The reason, of course, is that St. Valentine's Day has come 'round again, and for Darling, little neighbor of big Philadelphia, that means a sentimental splurge.

The postmaster naturally is a woman, and it is no mere coincidence that her name is Martha Darlington.

As in other years, thousands of cards and love letters flooded the tiny post office. The volume seemed heavier than ever this time, said Miss Darlington, standing on tiptoe and poking her head above a stack of mail awaiting the romantic postmark.

Miss Darlington gazed with satisfaction at a whopping Valentine on the post office door, and said: "We feel a lot like a world capital today—a lovers' capital.

Lobbying Is Not Costly To Individual At State Capitol

AUSTIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—Any poor-boy citizen who wants to can come to Austin to talk for or against a bill before a committee in the Legislature but most folks don't know how to go about it.

You know what the bill is: horse race betting, auto inspection, or You're riled up about it and want to speak your mind.

Here's the ABC of it:

The cheapest way is a two-penny post card addressed to your representative or senator. For three cents you can write him a letter.

That's a pretty good way, but not enough for you. You want to attend one of those red-hot hearings coming up next week and speak your mind in person.

LOTS OF CONFUSION

If you live 225 miles from Austin, it will cost you $19.81 at rock bottom rates.

You must know the date and hour of the hearing, and which committee it is. You live in Tyler or some other place a middle distance from Austin and a round-trip bus ticket will cost $10.81.

Check in at a hotel for a $3.50 room and come up to the Capitol, where the hearing is set in the House Chamber at 2:30 p.m.

You'll run into a lot of confusion, but it is fairly orderly confusion. Your representative can help you make sense out of it but if you insist on being a lone wolf, keep your ears open.

The committee may be seated around the press table in the center of the House Chamber. Pretty soon, usually about 15 minutes late, the chairman will call on leaders of both sides to organize their forces.

SEEK RAMROD

"Anyone who wishes to appear for or against this bill please register with the committee clerk," the chairman will say.

Near the head of the table, you'll spot the legislator who is ramrodding the "again" side of the bill. That's your size. You tell him who you are. He sizes you up and may encourage or discourage you from appearing.

But if you demand it, you can be heard anyway.

Usually you don't have to demand it because the Legislature is very generous with its time in committee hearings. Even if the leader of your side has advised you not to speak, generally the committee chairman will let you.

HERE'S THAT FORM

There is one other necessary formality.

You have to fill out a form. Who ever heard of government without forms?

You get this form in the House from the calendar clerk at the left of the speaker's rostrum. You tell who you are and who you represent. If it's just yourself, you say so. If it's some organization, you must name it and swear to it before the clerk. She is a notary.

After the form is completed, you hand it to the clerk and sit down and wait until you're called. Maybe an hour, two hours.

Then you get up before the microphone and blurt out your mind. Committee members may or may not heckle and badger you. If you're obviously an amateur lobbyist, you'll probably get off light.

NO STEAK DINNERS

The highly - trained specialists who get big salaries or fees for lobbying are questioned sharply and searchingly. More so than the poor-boy one-man lobbyist that you are. But you both have to fill out the same forms and follow channels to get before the committee.

They have know-how and get paid for it.

In addition to youur transportation and hotel, you've spent $5 for meals and 50 cents for tips: total cash outlay to you $19.81 if you can get by without any frills. No steak dinners for you or your representative or anybody on the committee.

You've lost maybe one night's sleep and a day on the job.

Whether it affected the bill is a question. It's possible you changed some committee votes, or even some floor votes. Maybe not. Anyhow, you had your say.

Stevenson Pledges Support To Business Administration

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—Former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois pledged support tonight to President Eisenhower's "business administration"—provided that the New Deal successor did not become "the big deal."

"But history warns us, I think, that government by a single group, no matter how high-minded and patriotic it may be, exposes government to genuine dangers," he said in a prepared address.

The unsuccessful Democratic presidential candidate addressed the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner here in his first major speech since last November's election.

Stevenson opened his address with some of the quips for which he is noted—"to the victor belongs the toil"—and spoke out hear the end against any "big stick" attitude by the United States toward its allies.

He said the United States must be the good friend, neighbor and partner of its allies—"never the big bully."

But he gave a lengthy review of the domestic scene, with particular attention to what he called "single group" government.

"There is always the tendency," he said, "to mistake the particular interest for the general interest—to suppose, in the immortal thought recently uttered before a committee of Congress, that what is good for General Motors is good for the country.

(This was an obvious reference to a statement by Charles E. Wilson, who resigned as General Motors president and sold his stock before becoming secretary of defense.)

"There is always the possibility," Stevenson continued, "that the successor of the New Deal will turn out—after the fine words have faded away—to be the big deal, while the New Dealers have all left Washington to make way for the car dealers. I hasten to say that I do not believe the story that the general welfare has become a subsidiary of General Motors."

Stevenson declared "this most recent experiment in the management of our public affairs demands our support and sympathy, if only because of the erises we all face together in the world."

He declared the United States needed its allies the same as the allies need the United States to cope with the Communist threat.

"The fact that we have been in a position to contribute most to this collective defense in the way of arms and money does not entitle us to preach or threaten," Stevenson said.

Ike Said Favoring Policy Of Benson On Supports Of Crops

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP) —A highly placed source said today the administration backs Secretary of Agriculture Benson's stand on farm price supports and is prepared to make an issue of it.

At the same time, the source suggested that the new government, less than a month in office, may underestimate the political pressures engendered by falling farm prices and similar "pocketbook problems."

The source, outside the Cabinet but with policy responsibilities, asked not to be named.

He said it has fallen to Benson's lot to take the first politically risky stand under the new administration. But, he added, Eisenhower and his chief advisers see the farm price problem as the first of many "political bumps" that must be ridden out if they are to put across a program they believe necessary to the nation's well being.

He said Eisenhower "meant it" when he told Congress, in his State of the Union message that, outside emergencies, the nation should rely on general monetary controls and the natural working of economic laws.

The source said a bump had been passed 10 days ago without arousing much, if any, political heat. He was referring to the stock break of Feb. 4 to 6 when stocks wound up in the heaviest decline for months.

The break was ascribed in the market at the time, in part at least to "anti-inflation measures being taken in Washington," that is, tightening of the money supply by the Federal Reserve as the government moves from direct economic controls to indirect monetary controls.

About the same time grain prices took the worst dive of a long decline which began last summer, and livestock prices also broke. The farm price breaks brought immediate calls from farm congressmen for protective measures.

Secretary Benson answered in a speech last Wednesday to the Central Livestock Association, at St. Paul, Minn. He said farmers were going to have to depend more upon themselves in the future. Price supports which "encourage uneconomic production and result in continuing heavy surpluses and subsidies should be avoided," he said although he promised to carry out the present law which provides for supporting basic crops at 90 per cent of parity through 1954.

Benson said the Agriculture Department was trying to stabilize cattle prices and counseled against rushing cattle to markets. His speech brought more outcries from farm congressmen. But by the end of the trading week, stocks, grain prices and cattle prices had moved up from their lows and the markets were more cheerful.

"There has been a shakeout in farm prices and in the stock market," the highly placed source said today. "There will be others. Prices have been too high all along the line. In some places, high prices are being protected by extending longer and longer credit for less and less down. There has to be a halt somewhere, and it will probably come in a rising rate of repossessions, and debt delinquencies. Then you will get a shakeout in consumer goods prices. That probably means some loss of profits. It might mean some unemployment here and there.

"The important thing is how it comes about. If price drops come too quickly and go too far too fast, they could build up fear which would force the government to intervene. But if it is a drift downward, prices can find new levels without causing panic."

HELD IN WIFE'S DEATH

W. T. Humphrey, 79, (right), held in connection with the fatal shooting of his 81-year-old wife at Shreveport, La., talks to Detective Cecil Payne outside the Humphrey home following the shooting. Payen said Humphrey told him he didn't intend to shoot his wife and that he wouldn't have slain her for anything in the world. Police quoted Humphrey as saying his wife threatened him with a metal walking stick because she was jealous of him and her sister, who is in her 70's.

Statistics On Shipments To Reds Back Blockade Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red China received 200 million dollars worth of goods from non-Communist nations in the first nine months of 1952. It received several times that much from the Soviet bloc.

Statistics like that lie behind the demands for a blockade of Red China's coast. The free world figures have been furnished to the U. S. government by the nations involved.

Some Congress leaders demand a blockade. The administration, however, has indicated that it is planning no blockade at this time. There have been reports it is considering proposing to Allied nations that all shipments to China be embargoed—that is, forbidden by law.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) plans to have the investigating subcommittee which he heads study this West-Far East trade. He says he has reports that "important materials are continuing to be exported to Soviet-dominated countries, including Red China, from Europe and Far Eastern countries."

The NATO nations and practically all other non-Communist powers long ago embargoed the shipment to China of arms, ammunition, atomic energy materials and other strategic supplies.

Yet most Western powers have continued to maintain some kind of commerce with China. In the first 10 months of 1952 there were more than 600 ship arrivals from the free world at Chinese ports—compared to 250 from the Soviet bloc.

What proportion of the Soviet cargoes constituted war materials is not known—or, at least, is not revealed. But there are reasons to believe that Russia logically would choose to send the bulk of her war supplies to China by railroad rather than by water.

For one thing, British sources estimate that 75 per cent of China's imports come by land, and large-scale shipments could come by land only from the Soviet Union.

More than half the 200 million dollars worth of goods that the free world sent into China between January and September of last year was cotton. Pakistan sent almost 95 million dollars worth of it, and Egypt sent about nine million dollars worth.

Fifteen million dollars worth of rubber came from Ceylon. Eight million dollars worth of jute for gunny sacks came mostly from India. Fifteen million dollars worth was fertilizer, chiefly ammonium sulphate. Five million dollars worth of chemicals and 15 million dollars worth of medical supplies were received.

Large quantities of textile mill machinery were included in the remainder of the cargoes. Other major items included rayon and wool yarn from Italy, dry salted herring from Canada, chemicals from Britain, watches from Switzerland and paper products from Hong Kong.

The bulk of China's free world imports comes from the Far East and Near East. The proportion from those sections of the globe has increased as the proportion from the Western World has declined since 1948.

Exports to China from Italy amounted to two million dollars in the first six months to 1952; from Canada, $730,000; from the United Kingdom, $1-876,000; from France, $900,000; from Germany, $50,000, from Belgium-Luxembourg, $304,000, and from Finland, $841,000.

Goofball Gang Not Reported Active Here

Snyder druggists have had no trouble with addicts or persons desiring narcotics attempting to secure it here without a prescription or under false circumstances.

Under present laws, druggists must keep on file all invoices of restricted drugs bought and all prescriptions of those sold so they will match an inventory of drugs.

Druggists in some cities have had trouble keeping up with their drugs. In Dallas several days ago, a group of 19 youths was arrested after they had stolen prescription slips from physicians, forged them, and used them to secure dexedrine. The dexedrine pills, called "goof balls" by teenagers, were used in parties and gatherings. One physician in Dallas said the drug stimulates sexual desire in some persons and also gives a sense of well-being and false security.

Druggists here say they have never had any loss of drugs by improper means. They added that while occasionally an adult addict attempts to talk one of them into letting him have drugs without a prescription, they have never had any such trouble with youths here.

Many druggists here said they had never known of dexedrine, which is mostly used by prescription as an aid to reducing, being used as "goof balls." Dexedrine is a stimulating drug, they said, adding that it is used by many to curb appetites or to keep them awake.

Some persons could get "woozy" on dexedrine, just as on benzedrine, one druggist said, but he and others added that they had always heard "goof balls" referred to as "yellow jackets," or sodium seconal.

WAY TO DUCK PAYING BETS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 14 (AP)—Commercial Appeal columnist Lydel Sims reported today an "otherwise sterling" Memphis citizen had informed him of a way to beat election bets—if you make them with the right people.

"He made one with a clergyman, and lost and paid by check—with a notation, "gambling debt," in the lower left hand corner. That was last November, and the check hasn't showed up in his bank statements yet."

Mrs. McCaleb Named Vice-Chairman Of Local Republicans

Mrs. Charles G. McCaleb Jr., was elected county vice-chairman of the Republican Party here in a meeting of the executive committee Friday afternoon. Mrs. McCaleb's husband is associated with Basin Wax Products Co.

She is the first to fill the office here which was created in a recent Austin meeting of state Republican officials. Each county is electing a woman to such a position.

Presiding at the meeting here was John A. Stavely, county chairman. Secretary of the committee is Mrs. S. L. Surratt.

Bus Operator Would Serve Strike Area

EDINBURG, Feb. 14 (AP)—Joe Amberson, retired South Texas bus operator, said today he will seek emergency permission to go back into business to serve Rio Grande Valley towns cut off by a drivers' strike.

Amberson, who lives in San Antonio, made the announcement through Attorney Sid Hardin.

He said the application probably will be filed with the Railroad Commission next Wednesday. Amberson wants permission to operate over routes served by Union Bus Lines until Jan. 1, when drivers struck in a contract dispute. The contract expired on that date.

Comment from union spokesmen was not available.

Amberson said he decided to file the application after representatives from the towns of Robstown, Alice, Hebbronville and Benavides talked the situation over with him several days ago.

He said he could start service within 24 hours if the Railroad Commission granted his application.

Amberson operated South Texas bus lines for 30 years prior to his retirement in 1945. He was one of the founders of Union Bus Lines.

His proposed service would include these schedules:

Three round trips daily from Brownsville through McAllen to San Antonio; two trips daily between McAllen and Laredo; two daily from Laredo to Corpus Christi; two daily from San Antonio to Hamilton, and trips from Brownsville to Corpus Christi via Raymondville and Kingsville.

Hardin said Amberson's application will say that an emergency exists because the Zapata and Alice areas now are served by neither bus nor rail transportation; South Texas draft boards are severely handicapped in moving draftees to induction stations, and various South Texas communities lack inter-community transportation.

Chiang's Son Visiting US For Schooling

TAIPEH, Formosa, Feb. 14 (AP)—President Chiang Kai - shek's younger son Wego, who is visiting the United States this month for a special orientation course, is a tough professional soldier who was once a buck private in the German Army.

Maj. Gen. Chiang Wego—to give him his rank and full name—rose the hard way to his present post as commanding general of the Chinese Nationalist Armored Force Command.

He speaks Chinese, German and English. He is a skilled horseman, an experienced hunter, knows how to fly a plane is fond of music and is an accomplished dancer.

A man of tremendous vitality, he is a hard worker and a good mixer. Friends vouch for his sincerity when he says, "I love people."

Young Chiang is tremendously proud of his armored force. He points out that not one ever defected to the Reds on the mainland. Some fought to the last drop of gasoline and the last round of ammunition; then the crews dismounted and fought with tommy guns and pistols.

Many officers and men, cut off, disguised themselves and made their way to Formosa to rejoin their old units.

Wego's units fought their last battle on the mainland at Shanghai, in 1949, then were withdrawn to Formosa for reorganization. Wego said their spirit never sagged; they knew they would fight the Reds again.

Wego said their spirit never further "the skill and will to kill, especially the will." Today that's the unofficial motto of the armored force.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

Mrs. Estelle Wylie is pictured with some examples of her ceramic work. In the foreground is a pink clock behind which are standing three of her dolls. The one at the extreme right is a copy of a doll 150 years old. She is dressed in a bonnet and frock fashioned after those worn in that period. The porportioned bodies are made of cloth. (Dolores Ketchersid photograph.)

Local Woman Develops Highly Specialized Art With Ceramics

A Snyderite who is getting well established in an art she started after her children reached adulthood is Mrs. Estelle Wylie of 1308 Thirtieth Street.

Mrs. Wylie previously taught school at Hermleigh and reared five sons, but "now I have time to play," she laughed. "Playing" consists of spending about a week making approximately two feet high ceramic dolls or planters, ash trays, or candy dishes.

Snyder residents may not have to travel to Washington to the Smithsonian Institute to see dresses like those the first ladies wore. Mrs. Wylie plans to make a collection of ceramic dolls and dress them in detail like presidents' wives. She also intends to paint the features to resemble the women.

Exhibition is nothing new to Mrs. Wylie. Three years ago she had a doll on display at the Texas State Fair and has been invited to exhibit each time since. Her planters are displayed at a local flower shop, and occasionally she sells one of her antique dolls. But she considers her masterpiece a pale pink ceremic clock trimmed in flowers and gilt paint. Each rose and forget-me-not had to be cut out of clay and hurriedly placed on the unfinished clock before it dried.

When making a clock Mrs. Wylie pours "slip" or chemically treated thin clay into a plaster of Paris mold. After firing the piece in a kiln for about five hours it is known as "greenware" and is dipped in clear glaze. If the object is not to be china painted a colored glaze is used. For each color used in the clock it has to be fired again. This is the fourth clock Mrs. Wylie has made. Other articles include a chocolate set, tea service salt and pepper shakers and vases.

She said she has done some copper tooling and crocheting but is soon back to ceramics. "I just love any creative art. And once you get into it you just can't quit," she said. "But I wouldn't advise anyone to start in without some basic training," she added. Mrs. Wylie learned ceramic work in a school in California. Later in Dallas she acquired the art of china painting.

Scholarships For Musicians

Texas high school string and band performers may apply for 100 scholarships for work conferences scheduled at the University of Texas June 7-27.

Scholarship winners will form the scholarship orchestra and the scholarship band. They will read new music with high school band and orchestra directors attending the conferences.

The University's music department is the official selection center this year for the Interscholastic League orchestral and band concert music to be used by public schools next season.

High school students interested in scholarships may request application forms from the Texas Scholarship Clinic, Music Building, University of Texas, Austin 12.

FRIDAY 13TH IS LUCKY FOR CABBY

DENVER, Feb. 14 (AP)—Friday the 13th was anything but unlucky for cab driver John Peterson. He got $101.90 for a $1.90 trip.

Peterson discovered the $100 overpayment while counting his receipts last night.

Peterson picked up a passenger in Denver and took him to Stapleton Airport in time to catch a plane.

"The man was in a hurry at the airport because he had only a few minutes to catch his plane," Peterson explained.

"When we got there, this fellow thrust two bills in my hand for the $1.90 trip and then gave me a tip for getting him there on time."

"It was dark out and the man was in a hurry so I didn't look closely at the bills, assuming they were ones. When I got back to the office to check in, I found this $100 bill among my receipts."

Clean Entertainment Is The Best Kind, Ed Wynn Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—From 50 years in show business—stage, movies, radio and television—comedian Ed Wynn has these observations:

"Jokes have not changed a bit."

"It pays to keep entertainment clean—there are more clean people than dirty people."

If jokes haven't changed, why are some comedians much more successful than others?

A joke, says Wynn, is like a song. It's as much who sings a song as the tune itself, and with a joke it's "who do you like to hear tell it."

Wynn, who came east recently from Hollywood for a couple of guest star appearances on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town," observes that some of the jokes he told early in his career are as popular now as then.

"In the old New York Hippodrome over 30 years ago I first told the one that the best way to start a fire was to rub two Boy Scouts together," he recalls.

That one has been retold thousands of times in original form and with endless variations. During campaign years, he says, the version is that the best way to start a fire is to rub a Democrat and a Republican together.

Wynn, one of the first major stars to go into TV, says he believes jokes not only should be clean, but should be one of the type that don't offend anyone.

"I don't like insult comedy," he says. "I claim that caustic comedy is the easiest to write. You can be funny without offending or hurting anybody. Will Rogers was a master of harmless humor."

The veteran entertainer, who billed himself as "The Perfect Fool" and was famous for years on radio as "The Fire Chief," says there are two basic types of comedians—the "gag comedian" who depends on the point of the joke for laughs, and the "method comedian" who makes heavy use of props and mannerisms to embellish his story. He puts himself in the latter class.

Wynn, who has had several regular TV shows, is working on a new half-hour series he hopes to have ready in a few weeks. Although he usually played in book shows on the stage, he has been seen only in revue-type programs on TV so the new show will be a departure in that it will have a story line.

Ghost Of Hank Williams Hangs Over Local Record Counters

Hillbilly music crept into the record list of favorites bought by Snyder fans last week.

Leading the western parade were songs by or about Hank Williams. "Kaw-Liga," one of the latest compositions recorded by the star before his death, is making a play for the popular spotlight. The catchy lyrics tell of a tabacco store wooden Indian who futilely loved an Indian maid in a museum.

On the opposite side of the MGM recording is "Your Cheating Heart" which is typical of most Williams products with the usual number of arrangement of guitars and fiddles.

"The Death of Hank Williams" is being requested by local hillbilly fans, too. It is a King record made by Jack Cardwell. The words are even bluer than the Kathy Fiscus dirge which came out about four years ago. Music rendered by the vocalist takes on a slight nasal quality. The opposite side, "Two Arms," is an almost peppy love song done in a more melodious voice by Cardwell.

Records at the head of the Snyder hit parade are:

"Till I Waltz Again With You," Teresa Brewer.

"Kaw-Liga," Hank Williams.

"Oh, Happy Day," The Four Knights.

"My Baby's Coming Home," Les Paul and Mary Ford.

"Don't Let the Stars Get In Your Eyes," Perry Como.

"I Could Never Be Asamed of You," Hank Williams.

"No Help Wanted," the Carlisles.

"I'll Go On Alone," Marty Robbins.

"Midnight," Red Foley.

"The Death of Hank Williams," Jack Cardwell.

Tugboat Hand Reported Drowned By Skipper

GALVESTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Deckhand Jimmy Earl Hadley, 19, Pasadena, tumbled into the stormchoppy Houston Ship Channel today and his skipper reported he drowned.

Galveston coast guardsmen dispatched a 40-foot patrol boat to the channel to search the rough water. The W. D. Haden Co., for which Hadley worked, sent a speed boat to help.

Hadley was a deckhand on the company's tug, W. P. Hamblen. He fell into the channel near Red Fish Reef about 9:05 a. m.

French Life Depicted In Book of Poetry

(ONE TOUCH OF FRANCE, by A. Hamilton Gibbs, Doubleday and Co., Garden City, $2.50)

A Hamilton Gibbs has written a book of poetry specially for those who have been to France or at least are familiar with the country.

His 188 pages have been devoted to a multitude of descr ons of different phases of French life. In "One Touch of France" Biggs begins with French life through the eyes of a small school boy and travels through the years to adulthood and war.

True to his French background Gibbs inserts a few sentences aimed solely at his French audience and written in their language. However, regardless of his flair and immense capacity for words he falls into the pit of cliches such as "of wagons hitched already to stars." The reader also wonders if his title were cribbed from "One Touch of Venus."

Gibbs tucks in warmth and shy humor among his description of the land where he lived for some years. One example is "We learned to time each priest and bet rare sous on which would gallop fastest through his mass."

The author brings out parts of French society that has been misconceived by the average American. In one chapter written to the Casino Municipal Gibbs says "Hence your spectacle can be watched unblinkingly, without a skipped heartbeat, without disturbing blush, by father, mother, daughter, son, over their sirops, their orangeades glacees, their cafe cognac..."

A good background of mythology and ancient French history as well as a geographical acquaintance with the country would prove to be an aid to the reader in understanding Gibb's reminiscences.

Snyder Knocked Off Perch In First Place By Sweetwater

Friday the Thirteenth turned out to be an unlucky day for the Snyder Tigers, and they made no mistake about feeling their unluckiness.

The Sweetwater Mustangs, one of the third place teams in District 1-AAA, knocked the Tigers' for a loop and brought them down from first to second place.

Sweetwater ended the game ahead 52-45 with a threat to tear up all previous standings in their coming two games, and Plainview, formerly in second place, grabbed the lead by downing Big Spring 65-54. Vernon which had been almost out of the running with four losses, dragged Lamesa into their boat by defeating that team 65-54.

Playing before a full house of about 900 persons, the majority of them from Snyder, the two teams kept in nip-and-tuck for a half, then Sweetwater took good advantage of Snyder's being "off" and moved far into the lead.

After the lead exchanged seven times and the game was tied up four times, the Mustangs emerged from the first period ahead 13-10. The Tigers quickly tied it up again, twice in the second period, but Sweetwater was ahead 27-21 at the half. By the end of the third quarter, Sweetwater led 41-30.

Midway through the last period, the Mustangs led by 15 points. The Tigers began to close up the gap but by the time they had taken care of half Sweetwater's lead the clock ran out on them.

The Mustangs, who had few fouls called on them and could afford more, did not spare the fouls to keep the Tigers from scoring in the last three minutes. Six of the Tigers' last 10 points were made on free throws.

Carl Anderson, 6-6 Mustang center, was again held below his scoring average by the Tigers. He scored 18, while his average is about 25 per game. Ned Underwood, who led the Tigers with 14 points, was also held far under his average.

The Tigers, whose percentage of field goals hit lacked much being up to the par they had set throughout the season, had a hard time getting through the Mustangs' iron-clad defense. Many times during the game the Mustangs stole the ball during Tiger passes.

The loss did not completely destroy the Tigers' title hopes. The Tigers must play one more game at Vernon, a team they defeated by one point in the first round. Plainview, which has lost only two games, could take the title without dispute, but that team must still meet Sweetwater and Lamesa. Other than its game with Plainview, Sweetwater must play Vernon to finish district play. A loss by Lamesa could throw the district race into still more confusion than is prevailing now, and two or three teams may be forced into playoff for the title.

Sweetwater also took the B game, 43-35. Dickie Lawrence tallied 13 to lead Sweetwater, and Alan Snead and Jack Spikes each scored eight for Snyder.

In that game, which Snyder led half the time or more, Sweetwater leaped ahead early in the fourth period. Snyder tied it up near the last then Sweetwater made another spurt for eight points in the final minutes and held the Snyder B to no scoring.

Interest Grows As Majors Start Training Sessions

NEW YORK (AP)—Spring training for major league baseball clubs gets off to a fast start next week and the first order of business at many camps probably will be a "get acquainted" session.

Thirty-nine players who figured in the winter's spasmodic trading bursts—28 in the American League and 11 in the National—will be trying on new uniforms for size, changes in locker mates will be particularly noticeable in the quarters of the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns.

The constantly revamping White Sox have made deals since the 1952 campaign involving 15 players. They've got five men coming from other team and 10 going. The Browns have done almost as much shuffling with eight new faces to replace five bartered to other teams.

BROWNS IN TRAINING

The Browns, incidentally, were the first to get spring rehearsals under way, opening camp last Thursday at San Bernardino, Calif. And first on hand to greet Manager Marty Marion was Virgil (Fire) Trucks, veteran right-handed pitcher who figured in one of the off-season's biggest deal with the Detroit Tigers.

Trucks, pitcher Hal White and outfielder Johnny Groth went to the Browns for a trio of Tigers—outfielder Bob Nelman, second baseman Owen Friend and catcher J. W. Porter.

The White Sox, dizzy from 154 player transactions in four years by General Manager Frank Lane, get started tomorrow at El Centro, Calif. The Philadelphia Athletics open warmups Tuesday at West Palm Beach, Fla.; the St. Louis Cardinals get going Wednesday at St. Petersburg as do the Brooklyn Dodgers at Vero Beach, Fla.; and three clubs begin work Thursday—the Chicago Cubs at Meza, Ariz., the Philadelphia Phillies at Clearwater, Fla., and the Washington Senators at Orlando, Fla.

SOME START NEXT WEEK

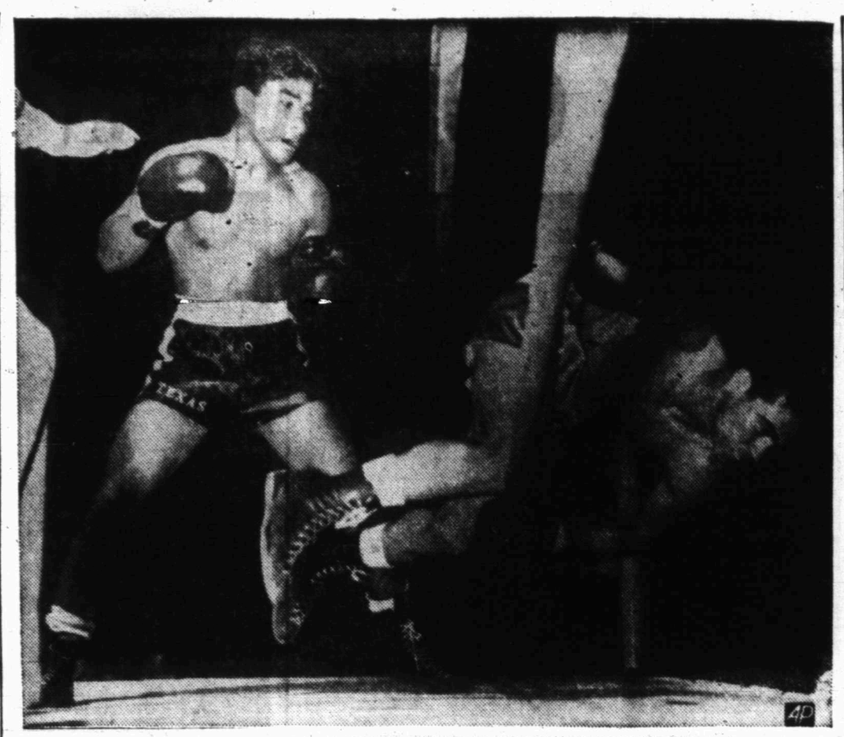

Pittsburgh's bottom drawer Pirates, also active on the winter market, start loosening muscles Friday at Havana, Cuba, while the other major league outfits wait until the following week to get busy. Latest starters are the Cleveland Indians Feb. 25 at Tucson, Ariz., and the Cincinnati Reds Feb. 26 at Tampa.

While the new season finds numerous changes in player personnel, the pilots' ranks managed to avoid any drastic upheaval. There was only one change after the 1952 season—Fred Haney replacing Billy Meyer at the Pittsburgh helm.

Four other teams, however, open with skippers who weren't at present locations at the beginning of last year—Fred Hutchinson, replacing Red Rolfe at Detroit; Marty Marion, succeeding Rogers Hornsby with the Browns; Steve O'Neill, taking over for Eddie Sawyer with the Philadelphia Phillies, and Hornsby, succeeding Luke Sewell at Cincinnati. These were summer changes.

SOX WATCHED

The restless White Sox will be watched with special interest because of their continued overhauling. They figured in the winter's most interesting deal—a five-player swap that sent first baseman Eddie Robinson to the Philadelphia Athletics for first baseman Ferris Fain.

Brumbelow Says He Is Out Of Running For Southern Methodist

EL PASO, Feb. 14 (AP)—Mike Brumbelow, head football coach at Texas Western College, today declared himself out of the running for the coaching job at Southern Methodist.

Brumbelow has been considered the No. 1 choice for the job vacated by the resignation of Rusty Russell. He has never applied for the position, he said, but was the first man interviewed by SMU as a possible successor to Russell.

Brumbelow sent a telegram today to Matty Bell, SMU athletic director, saying he was not leaving his job as coach and athletic director of Texas Western of the Border Conference.

Kiner Is For Sale, But No Deal Made Yet

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 14 (AP)—Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, flew to Pittsburgh today to renew trade talks on Ralph Kiner but Branch Rickey of the Pirates said there "definitely will be no deal made at this time."

The shrewd, close-lipped Pittsburgh general manager met Paul at the airport.

Rickey had flown in shortly before from Hollywood where he had an hour-long contract talk yesterday with Kiner, major league home run king, who drew $90,000 last year.

"I'm willing to listen to anyone who has an offer, but I don't think anything will come of this today," Rickey said.

A reporter asked Rickey if it's true he wants more in a trade than what he considers Kiner's value.

"Of course," he replied.

"Doesn't that make it kind of rough on teams trying to make a deal?" the newsman continued.

"Naturally," said Rickey. "But you must remember Kiner is a great gate attraction, a fine ballplayer and a terrific batsman. There's no sense in anybody coming to me unless I get the best of the deal."

Paul said he did not plan to increase his original offer of five players valued at close to $300,000. The offer was made recently in several talks between Paul and Rickey in New York.

One of the players Paul has on the block is outfielder-first baseman Joe Adcock. Apparently he is the key to the whole proposed trade. Paul has declined to name the others.

"Kiner looks like he's in perfect condition. I'm sure he will sign his contract before the date he is due to report. That'll be about March 15," Rickey said.

It is believed the Pirates want to slash the big slugger's pay 25 per cent or $22,500—the maximum permitted by baseball law.

Kiner, 30, is willing to play for less than $90,000 this season but he is balking at the full cut. Although he batted a puny .244 in 1952 he banged out 37 homers.

Moffett Named To Head Little League Again

Speedy Moffett, head school athletic coach, was re-elected president of the Little Baseball League for 1953 in a meeting of league officers and directors last week.

Moffett was president of the group last year, the first year of the league in Snyder.

Harold Grant was chosen vice-president of the group, succeeding Forrest Beavers. As vice-president, Grant will also be player agent of the league.

Elected directors were Clyde Godwin, Carl Herod, Ronald Hubbard, and Charles Duran.

Five team managers were elected for the coming year. They are Hardy Scarborough, Skipper Joyce, Rex Miller, Leland Herod, and Buck Logan. The league is to choose another team manager in the near future.

Moffett told the group at the meeting that Whiteway Grocery, one of the team sponsors last year, had dropped its sponsorship and that several organizations had been interested in sponsoring a team. He appointed a committee to contact the interested sponsors. Sponsors retaining their teams this year are the Optimist Club, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Quarterback Club, and Holder Construction Co.

H. W. Cargile, league treasurer, reported that the league now has a cash balance of $625.82 in the bank. He said that of the league's income of $2,943.78 last year, $2,317.96 was used for expenditures. Expenses for the year were the purchase of uniforms and equipment for the six teams, insurance on players, equipment for the playing field, cost of franchise from the national league, and visual instruction.

Application is being made by the league for the 1953 franchise.

Chicago White Sox Are First Again To Sign Up All Men For Season

CHICAGO, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox today claimed their fourth straight first in the annual American League player signing derby as Vern Stephens, ex-Boston Red Sox third sacker, came to terms.

For the past three years, the White Sox were the first club in either the American or National League to get all its players on the dotted line. But this year, the Brooklyn Dodgers beat them.

In rounding out the Sox roster at 37, Stephens agreed in a telephone conversation with General Manager Frank Lane to have his 1953 salary pegged on the number of games he plays.

Holguin Is 1st In Texas Open Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 14 (AP)—Tony Holguin, who grew up close to the Brackenridge Park golf course, slammed out a five-under-par 66 over that layout today to pass Walter Burkemo and take first place in the $10,000 Texas Open with 196 for 54 holes.

The handsome, black-haired young man made his greatest bid for glory along the links trail as he staged his dramatic drive to overhaul Burkemo, who had started the third round today with 127 and a three-stroke lead over Holguin.

Burkemo, who had been taking Brackenridge Park's 6,400 yards apart in the first two rounds, had a one-under-par 70 today and was a stroke back of the flying Holguin.

Holguin, 26, who never has finished higher than a tie for third in a United States tournament, was handling Brackenridge like he owned it today. His great stretch run saw him birdie four holes in a row but he finished on 18 by missing a six-foot putt after being off the green on his tee shot or he would have held a longer margin over Burkemo.

Holguin twice has been Mexican National Open champion. He played on Brackenridge Park for 14 years as a youngster.

Moving into third place, a stroke behind Burkemo's 197 was Doug Ford, who had the best round of the day with a glittering 63 over the damp course.

At 199 were Lionel Hebert, who shot a 67 and Julius Boros, the National Open champion, who had a 65.

Tied at 200 were Lloyd Mangrum and Lew Worsham. Worsham's score was helped by an eagle on No. 9 where he rammed down a 20-footer.

Amateur Joe Conrad of San Antonio, shooting a 66, moved into eighth place at 201.

Next in line was the veteran Dutch Harrison, who shot a 65 for 202.

Holguin was putting fine today, sinking them up to 35 feet, getting that distance at No. 1.

He dropped a 20-footer at No. 4 and two-putted for a birdie on 9. Holguin birdied 13 with a two-footer, 14 with a three-footer, 15 with an eight-footer and 16 with a 15-footer.

Burkemo said it wasn't the pressure—he never has won a tournament—that got him. He was just pushing his tee shots, missing three greens. His downfall started at No. 7 where, while he was two under par, he pushed his drive and then in getting out hit behind some trees. He wound up with one over par on the hole—his first over par hole in the 43 played to that time. He then proceeded to three-putt No. 8 and was even par at nine while Holguin was three under.

Amateur Billy Erfurth of Lubbock got into the final 36 holes when it was found that Dave Marr of Houston had been listed as an amateur but was, in fact, a professional, and did not qualify. Erfurth, who had 147 for the first 36 holes, shot a 70 today to make his 54-hole total 217.

Veeck Squable Is Discussed

CHICAGO, Feb. 14 (AP)—President Will Harridge of the American League stepped today into the controversy between the St. Louis Browns and the New York, Boston and Cleveland baseball clubs.

Harridge called a meeting of league club members in New York April 21 "to hear and determine the controversy. . .dealing with the question of the exclusion of the Browns from the home night game schedules of the New York, Boston and Cleveland clubs."

Harridge called the meeting at the request of the Browns.

Bill Veeck, Brownie chief, has charged that the Yanks, Red Sox and Indians have barred his team from night games in their parks. Veeck asked baseball commissioner Ford Frick on Jan. 31 to intercede in his television squabble with the three clubs. He asked for a uniform baseball rule that would guarantee all clubs an equality in night dates.

X-rays were discovered in Germany in 1895.

Texas Crude Being Cut As Imports Of Oil Increase

HOUSTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — There was plenty of gasoline and crude oil in storage when price controls were lifted this week.

The decontrol order was announced as the oil industry faced prospects of another cut in crude production rates.

The nation's crude output has declined 146,000 barrels daily since the end of November.

Crude in storage climbed 4,018,000 barrels the last week in January. Gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil storage last week exceeded year earlier totals by 25,848,000 barrels.

Texas has cut its crude flow by 155,694 barrels a day since November. Another cutback is expected for March.

IMPORTS CLIMB

There also are new reports that crude and products imports this year will exceed 1952's record of approximately 948,000 barrels daily.

Twelve of the importing companies this year advised the Texas Railroad Commission they plan to import this year at a rate of 869,412 barrels a day. The Bureau of Mines previously had estimated that all petroleum imports in 1953 will average 1,038,000 barrels daily or 8.8 per cent above 1952.

The Texas commission meets Wednesday to determine the March allowable. Major purchasers of the state's crude have indicated they will want 53,217 barrels a day less in March than in February.

SECOND SURVEY

The importers made their 1953 estimates at the request of the commission, which made a similar survey in 1949, another year during which it was feared storage stocks were climbing too rapidly.

Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas regulatory body, said an apparent "supplanting" of Texas crude with foreign oil works a hardship on Texas producers.

He added:

"It does not seem fair after Texas has built up a reserve daily producing ability in Texas of 600,000 barrels of oil per day for defense."

Texas allowables have dropped from a record 3,387,245 barrels daily Nov. 29 to a current 3,231,552. Purchasers have indicated they will want 3,104,349 barrels per day in March.

TESTIMONY INVITED

Thompson also pointed out that the state's crude stocks Jan. 31 totaled 134,000,000 barrels 894,000 above the previous week.

He then summarized the factors on which the commission must base new allowables: purchasers' estimates of anticipated need for Texas crude and Texas' crude storage levels.

Texas slashed its allowables by 66,975 barrels a day in December and 89,426 in January, a small increase of 10,396 followed in February.

The importing companies have been invited to send representatives to the commission's Wednesday meeting at Austin to explain their 1953 estimates.

Thompson said part of the blame for the current situation can be placed on a mild winter, with decreased demand for heating oils.

But he turned back to imports and added:

"This commission has no legal control of imports but we can point out how much oil is being imported and by whom."

Tidelands Up In Congress During Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—Next week will be "Oil Week" on Capitol Hill. The congressional calendar calls for:

1. Opening of a hearing Monday before the Senate Interior Committee on a bill to vest in the states clear title to offshore oil lands.

2 Opening of a similar hearing Tuesday before the House Judiciary Committee, with Atty. Gen. Brownell as first witness.

3. A session of the House Commerce Committee Tuesday to hear reports from officials of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, the Interior Department's Oil and Gas Division, and the Mutual Security Agency.

4. A similar meeting of the same committee Wednesday to get a briefing on the natural gas situation from officials of the Federal Power Commission.

Dr. Andrew Stevenson, of this committee's staff, explained the purpose of the two sessions is simply to bring the committee up to date on administration of laws relating to oil or gas.

In another development this week, Reps. Van Zandt (R-Pa), Bail (D-W. Va) and others from coal producing areas introduced bills designed to limit residual fuel oil imports and aid the coal industry.

The proposed legislation would establish a quota limitation on imports of residual fuel oil, amounting for any three-month period to 5 per cent of the domestic demand for the product for the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

Van Zandt said the imports of left-over oil of foreign refineries had climbed from 44 million barrels in 1946 to 128 million in 1952. Last year's imports, he asserted, meant displacement of 31 million tons of coal and cost the coal industry 150 million dollars in revenue and the coal miners 75 million dollars in wages. In addition, he said railroads lost 85 million dollards in freight revenue because they didn't get to haul this quantity of coal.

Benson Says Farmer Should Stand On His Own Two Feet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Ezra Taft Benson would like to see more rugged individualism in American farming.

The new secretary of agriculture has a simplified definition for individualism.

It is that a man should stand on his own two feet and live by "the sweat of his face," with the help of his creator.

To apply this to the government's far-flung dealings with the farmer is going to be a complex job. Benson readily admits. Already, however, he has given some hints on how he plans to proceed. His methods will differ widely from those of the New Deal and "Fair Deal" under Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

Benson says he's of the opinion that most farmers feel the nation has headed toward socialism and want to get back on what he calls "the path to freedom."

He is especially critical of some of the policies of former Secretary Charles Brannan in handling price supports. Brannan said his was a policy of abundance. To get abundant production he believed the farmer had to be assured of a ready market at a profit. He advocated price supports as a guarantee of farm profit.

Benson said in an interview he looks upon price supports as a device to be used only in an emergency—such as a war emergency—to boost production of specific crops vitally needed for a limited period. He said he doesn't believe supports have a widespread, permanent place in agriculture. He believes they tend to produce troublesome surpluses.

As for abundance, Benson said the word is relative. He said he, too, is for abundance but in the sense that there will be enough food to meet the public demand "at a reasonable price."

"The less government interfers the better," he said. "Manipulation of one product, especially through price control causes a chain reaction through many products, and government just can't regulate every detail of marketing. It is best to let the law of supply and demand regulate things."

Benson said he believes advance government reports on the size of crops that may be needed can help take the place of support prices in regulating size of harvests.

Benson says his ancestry, training and religious principles lead him to stand for individualism.

He is a great-grandson of Mormon apostle Ezra Taft Benson, who came to the Salt Lake Valley with Brigham Young in 1847. His parents were pioneer settlers of Southern Idaho, where he grew up on a farm. He was one of 11 children.

Benson is proud of the fact that as a boy he performed hard farm labor—including the back-breakingest job of all, hoeing sugar beets.

He attended a Mormon school Oneida State Academy at Preston, Idaho, and Utah State Agriculture College at Logan, Utah.

After receiving his Iowa State master's degree, Benson served as county agricultural agent in his home county in Idaho and then became extension economist and marketing specialist for the University of Idaho. He helped make the Idaho spud famous and was invited to head a new department of agricultural economics and marketing at the university.

He helped organize the Idaho Cooperative Council and then, as his fame as a marketing specialist spread, was appointed executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives, a federation of 4,600 co-operative groups. His offices were in Washington.

After holding this post four years he resigned to become a member of the Council of Twelve of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon), a full-time job. Council members are the general authorities of the church, conducting its world-wide affairs.

At 53 Benson is a ruddy-faced blond and appears in excellent health. He's tall and weighs around 200 pounds. He doesn't drink, smoke or swear, for religious and other reasons, and he isn't known as a "partying" man.

He could drive a team of horses when he was 4 years old and still likes to ride a good saddle horse when he has the time.

He operated the family farm for several years as a young man and gained a grass-roots knowledge of livestock raising and the growing of a wide variety of crops.

Benson explained some of his philosophy about government aid in a statement he handed out at his first press conference.

"It is doubtful if any man can be politically free who depends upon the state for sustenance," he said. "A completely planned and subsidized economy weakens initative, discourages industry, destroys character and demoralizes the people."

He explained in this interview that he believes, as does his church that it is a man's responsibility to care for his own needs. He quoted the Bible:

"In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." (Genesis II, 19)

If for reasons beyond his control a man can't fulfill his needs, it is the duty of his family to aid him, Benson said, and if the family fails it is the duty of the church to help.

"But he should be helped to help himself, rather than be given outright charity," he added. "Work is a virtue, and everyone should work to the best of his ability."

Screenings, Investigations Causing UN Staff Troubles

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP) — The United Nations has a hot staff war on its hands atop its cold war problems.

Some of the trouble stems from the international cold war. The new U. S. hunt for American Communists or foreign subversives on the staff generated the latest heat. The McCarran Act's new provisions for aliens in the U. S. has posed problems for both staff members and the U. N. administration.

More sparks are expected when the U. N. Assembly, which returns late in February, takes up the whole question of staff screenings.

The fact the staff has 3,500 people of 61 different nationalities accounts for some administrative problems. Just the plain fact that somebody has to give orders, somebody has to take them, and the staff has to be reviewed for efficiency makes for personnel problems.

But to all the routine add two things: Many a U. N. employe is a human being who joined the staff with a feeling he was helping work for world harmony and peace; and he has waked up to a realization that idealism and dedication are far short of their goal.

That provides a recipe for discontent. But stir in also the brutal truth that the employe is a cog in the machine not an exalted supercivil servant, and the idealism suffers a few more bruises.

The staff reacted unfavorably to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie's speedup order directing American employes to fill out in short time an intricate State Department questionnaire on where they have lived, the jobs they've held the friends they've had and the organizations they've joined.

Through its elected council, the staff indicated unmistakably its feeling that Lie had put into bold relief the staff's sense of disappointment in the gap between idealism and accomplishment.

It said Lie ought to have consulted first with the staff on the machinery for getting American staff members fingerprinted—in short, some sign of recognition of the importance of the staff itself.

It protested specifically the U. N.'s Norwegian boss didn't provide enough time for American employes to give careful consideration to questions the FBI may have to check.

This came after the staff council had protested somewhat mildly about the way efficiency ratings were being given the staff by a Lie-appointed committee to clear out what the U. N. administration considers deadwood, but also with the announced purpose of increasing a sense of job security by boosting the proportion of "permanent" personnel. This was pressed by U. N. member nations who urged that after six or seven years Lie ought to be able to put his staff on a more stable basis.

Lie complied generally with recommendations of the committee after it sifted about 400 persons in the top-ranking categories here, calling for handing out 246 permanent appointments, 60 short-term contracts and 62 firings.

The committee moved on to Geneva to process 1,100 employes in the European headquarters. It comes back here in March to examine about 3,000 general service workers.

The loyalty check of American employes has brought another complaint:

"This may make it easy for someone who doesn't like you to smear you."

Some American employes said that foreigners in the staff have begun to shy away from luncheon contacts or social engagements. They want to make sure of escaping any tar-brush themselves.

Stock Market Halts Its February Reaction And Goes Upward Now

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—The stock market called a halt this week—at least temporarily—to its February reaction and managed to point upward at the end of the week.

That doesn't mean the reaction is ended and many Wall Street commentators pointed to signs they interpreted as meaning the reaction could extend further before wearing itself out.

Most bearishness appeared to be of a short-term nature, however, with nobody talking of boom-and-bust developments.

The market's action this week wasn't of conclusive character. The interruption for the Lincoln's Birthday holiday broke the tempo, for one thing, and it was felt the market could better show what it intended doing over a full week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended the week unchanged at $112.80 with the industrial and utility components showing a slight dip and the railroads displaying modest strength.

Monday's market continued the steep slide started the previous week but ended higher. Tuesday's market ended lower — the fifth straight fall, an usually long string. Wednesday, the market ended higher on average with the railroads contributing almost all of the strength. After the Lincoln holiday, the market Friday moved ahead in a quiet but well defined advance.

Sardinians Swear To Give Up 'Eye For Eye' Vengeance

ORGOSOLO, Sardinia, Feb. 14 (AP) — The hard-bitten men of this town have sworn on the cross to give up vengeance after generations of following their island code of an "eye for an eye."

Their oath may mean a radical change here where 'vendetta" is a deep - rooted tradition. Vendetta" is the primitive law of avenging by blood a wrong done to a member of the family. Honor is handed down from father to son, like family wealth.

It wasn't easy to convince Sardinians to give up what they considered sacred obligation.

The task was undertaken by smooth - talking, well - loved Dr. Leonardi Monni, the town physician.

The doctor talked to each family in the town. He reminded these proud people that 16 persons were assassinated in the last few months of 1952. Unless the chain of vengeance was broken, he said, 33 more citizens of Orgosolo would wind up in their graves this year.

In April 1950 a "death list" of 40 names was smeared on the walls of the town's church. Each name was "labeled spy" or traitor." Several days after the secretary of the commune ordered the list whitewashed, he was killed.

Since then seven of those marked for death on the church wall have been murdered.

Dr. Monni knew many of the outlaws were members of families he approached.

There was the widow Maddalena Masuri, whose husband was killed in September 1950. There were Mr. and Mrs. Taras, whose three sons were killed a year ago.

When these showed a willingness to follow the doctor's suggestion for peace, others followed. Dr. Monni persuaded the heads of 50 of Orgosolo's most influential families to lead the movement to abolish banditry and revenge.

Heads of families formed a peace committee. The older men sported long mustaches and carried stilettos in their belts in keeping with an old tradition that no man should be caught without a weapon to defend his honor.

On Jan. 3, these Sardinians who milk and eat sheep and wear their pelts as jackets and in wooly pants like cowboys' chaps marched in a body to the main square of the town.

The committee announced the outlaws had promised to set aside personal feuds and would seek vengeance no longer.

After a special mass, celebrated by Msgr. Giuseppe Melas, archbishop of Nuoro, the heads of Orgosolo's leading families took the oath.

African Chief Wants French To Divvy Up

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—Blitta tribesmen in French African Togoland have asked the U. N. Trusteeship Council to make the French divvy up on elephant tusks.

In a complicated recital of local high finance and low dealing, Chief Lodonou of the Agnanan Village of Blitta charged French colonial officials not only confiscated both tusks on elephants shot by natives in his area but also took the huge single tusk found on a one-tusk elephant shot by Chief Lodonou's own hunter.

A French law in Togoland bars killing elephants without prior authorization. The regulation was adopted to keep ivory hunters from slaughtering elephants wholesale for their valuable tusks.

Chief Lodonou—his letter attested by a fingerprint as signature—said his people have tried for years to explain that elephants cross the Anie River from British Togoland and trample down gardens and plantations.

He said the French finally agreed his people could shoot one elephant in each herd in order to scare away the rest but this resulted is the people running around to friends to borrow money to buy enough gunpowder to do the job.

"Confident that once one of the animals is killed, the value of the tusks will serve to repay the loans, his friends willingly agree to lend him the money," the chief wrote.

"As soon as one of these animals is slain, however, the (French) commandant mercilessly confiscates the tusks and leaves the hunter who killed the elephant burdened with debt which will take all his life to repay.

"Many of our people, who will never be able to pay back what they owe, leave the country.

"Since the young people say that the Trusteeship Council could make France stop the large - scale abuses to which its colonists brazenly subject us, I as chief of the local inhabitants of Blitta, request you to inform the commandants that, since it is customary for the French to do just as they please, I ask them in future to confiscate only one tusk and leave the other for the victim whose fields have been devastated."

His complaint was referred to the Trusteeship Council's Committee on Petitions.

Take Off From Dark Field Is Fatal For Two

MISSION, Feb. 14 (AP)—Two Valley men were killed instantly yesterday when the plane in which they were attempting to fly off unlighted Moore Field crashed and burned shortly before midnight.

Killed were Thomas E. Hurst, 43, printer employed by the Mission Times and a licensed pilot, and Joe Cano, 27, radio service man at Pharr.

John Arden, airport manager, told Chief Deputy Sheriff Thomas Wingert of Hidalgo County that about 11:30 p.m. he heard a plane taking off from the unlighted field. He said the field was in complete darkness at the time.

A few minutes later, he said, he heard a crash, followed by an explosion. Arden said he drove to the crash site, about a half a mile away.

Hurst's body had been thrown about 60 feet from the plane by the impact. He was dead when Arden arrived.

Cano was trapped in the flaming wreckage of the plane and his body burned beyond recognition. He was not identified until noon today.

Arden said the two-place light plane was owned by Harvey Anderson, Mission. Hurst had been using the plane to give Anderson and Cano lessons.

Arden said he had no idea why the flight was attempted.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority this afternoon took over the investigation.

Hurst is survived by his mother, Mrs. D. Reese, Corpus Christi; a sister, also of Corpus Christi and a son.

Cano is survived by his wife and three children.

VOL. 3, No. 249 · SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1953 SECTION TWO

Mr. and Mrs. John DeFord of Abilene enjoy a chat with Capt. Rickenback at a small supper given for the honored guests at the Diamond M Ranch Thursday night by the C. T. McLaughlins. DeFord, an independent oil operator, is the McLaughlin's son-in-law. (Lee Watson Photograph).

Representing San Antonio at the chamber banquet Friday night, from left, were Tom Goad, automobile dealer, Mrs. Merton Minter, Mrs. Goad and Dr. Minter. The two couples accompanied Capt. and Mrs. Eddie Rickenbacker here and were house guests of the C. T. McLaughlins at the Diamond M Ranch.

Distinguished visitors descended on Snyder from every direction Friday. Shown here in conversation with Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Roeder of Snyder is J. Evetts Haley, West Texas historian and head of the Institute of Americanism at Texas Tech College in Lubbock. Von Roeder recently resigned as a chamber director here so that there would be no conflicts with the political office, city councilman, that he holds.

Rickenbacker Makes Chamber Of Commerce Banquet Fete Of Year

A man who was once 'completely dehydrated', but lived when it would have been easier to die, said that the same faith which kept him alive through 24 days floundering on the Pacific Ocean must be returned to by America if it is to fulfill her responsibilities in this world.

He is Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet here Friday night.

The ace of aces in World War I and who was further immortalized by being adrift in the Pacific during World War II while on an important civilian defense assignment, said, "dollars and bullets are not enough.

"We must have spirtual rearmament as well."

Capt. Rickenbacker's talk, "Why I became a Texan," interpreted the subject to mean that to be a good Texan, was to first be a good American, and he devoted only a brief explanation at the beginning of his talk to why he is now an adopted Texan.

Well in keeping with what the capacity audience wished were the songs of Phil Regan, star of stage, television, and radio. Regan, born in Brooklyn, is part Texan too, because in 1949 he invested in oil holdings in Scurry County and "no longer has to work for a living."

"It is difficult to persuade the world to have confidence in us," Rickenbacker said, "because we have shown little confidence in ourselves," Rickenbacker said.

"We stand bewildered, hesitant and to a great degree ineffectual. We don't know how to lead the world out of its strife because we don't know how to free ourselves out of our own difficulties."

He said that "Freedom is more than a bill of rights."

"Freedom, if it is to remain alive, must be apparent in the daily lives of our citizens. It dies when it becomes inconvenient for a person to exercise it," the ace of aces said.

He said that every "true American" should live their lives so that "when the candle of life burns low they can thank God they contributed something to the land that contributed so much to them."

"Unless we can anchor our knowledge to moral principles, science may turn out not to be the guide, but the betrayer of humanity."

"There is no greater weapon in the world than the moral force that lies with the strength and spirit of Christianity," he said.

"Probably the simplest and sweetest sensation you will ever enjoy is dying," he said. "The difficult thing for an individual or a nation to do is to summon the strength to survive. In order for America to maintain its way of life, it must return to simple Christianity," he stated.

Almost 1,000 persons saw Herbert Feather, publisher of the Snyder Daily News, installed as president of the chamber for 1953 to succeed G. Edward Bolger, owner of Bolger Funeral Home.

Other officers installed were: Clyde Willbern, first vice president, J. T. Hughes, second vice president, and Russell Yorgensen, treasurer.

In his welcome address to the guests and speakers, Harry T. Holbrook, mayor, also welcomed Captain Rickenbacker to consider bringing his Eastern Air Lines here. Graciously the air lines president said the invitation honored the air lines.

Many men who have distinguished themselves and their West Texas homeland were among the throng of out of town persons in Snyder for the reception at the Country Club Friday afternoon, and the banquet that night.

J. Evetts Haley, professor at Texas Technological College, and author of Texas history books, was one of more than a dozen persons here from Lubbock.

Harley Sadler, state senator from Abilene, and Pat Bullock Sadler's predecessor, from Colorado City, were present.

Frank Kent, automobile dealer, and many others from Fort Worth were present. Practically all West Texas towns were represented by large delegations at the banquet including San Angelo, Abilene, Lubbock, Midland, Big Spring, Odessa, Colorado City, Roby, Rotan, Lamesa, Sweetwater, Stamford, and San Antonio.

Rickenbacker explained that he became a Texan in 1950 "because he found no other place in America which to him presented a picture of American life as it should be."

Rickenbacker explained earlier that he has held a warm spot for Texas in his heart since he was the 19-year-old factory representative for the Columbus Buggy Company in West Texas in 1909, '10, and '11. During that time he said he and an Abilene dealer for the gasoline buggies pulled a good advertising stunt when they offered one of their carriages to carry William Jennings Bryan in a parade through downtown Abilene.

"Mr. Bryan was in the back seat of the touring car with John Hall. I was up front sitting straight up with a stiff straw hat square on my head." he said.

A chain of speaking invitations have been accepted in Texas cities since Rickenbacker's acceptance of the offer of C. T. McLaughlin to speak in Snyder. Last night he spoke at Carswell AFB. Fort Worth, and to Convair Company meeting.

Tomorrow night he will address the Austin Chamber of Commerce, and will speak to a joint session of the Texas legislature.

Mr. and Mrs. Regan flew here from Dallas and Florida Thursday as guests of McLaughlin, Eddie Jacobs, Regan's accompanist, flew here Friday from New York.

Captain and Mrs. Rickenbacker, and the Regans were guests of honor at the reception preceeding the banquet.

At the banquet new directors of the chamber for 1953 were introduced. They are: Stanley Noah, Bolger, Leighton Griffin, Malven Stevenson, George Frazier, H. W. Cargile, and Claude McCormick. C. N. von Roeder, listed as a director in the banquet program, was replaced by Noah. Von Roeder resigned to avoid conflicting duties as a city commissioner and chamber director.

McLaughlin introduced Regan and Rickenbacker. Ralph Geisenhoner was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. James Rosser played organ music while guests ate and for two songs by the audience led by her husband.

Distinguished visitors descended on Snyder from every direction Friday. Shown here in conversation with Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Roeder of Snyder is J. Evetts Haley, West Texas historian and head of the Institute of Americanism at Texas Tech College in Lubbock. Von Roeder recently resigned as a chamber director here so that there would be no conflicts with the political office, city councilman, that he holds.

Noted guests from Colorado City honored Snyder Friday by attending the chamber banquet. Shown here at a reception for out-of-town guests before the banquet, from left, are Lee T. Stinson, Snyder druggist, Frank Kelly of the Magnolia Oil Co. and former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Phil Regan, Anheuser Busch official and guest tenor at the banquet, and Pat Bullock, former state senator from this district of Colorado City.

In the receiving line at the reception for out-of-town visitors Friday afternoon was Mrs. J. D. Lynch, right, of Lubbock, shown here meeting Mr. and Mrs. Phil Regan of New York. Mrs. Lynch is wife of the trust officer of the Citizens National Bank in Lubbock. Regan was guest tenor at the banquet.

The powerful features of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker are shown above as he came to the rostrum to address the guests in the overflowing gymnasium at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet here Friday night. Introducing Capt. Rickenbacker was C. T. McLaughlin, local oilman and host to the honored guests during their stay in Scurry County.

La Luce As Ambassador Draws Comment Locally

By SUE HOLMES

The prospect of ambassador to Italy being a woman would meet with the approval of seven of eight local women questioned, although all of them are not convinced what the outcome will be should the Senate confirm Eisenhower's nomination of Clare Boothe Luce for the post.

Mrs. H. J. Brice said she thought it was a good idea to have women with time and talent in high offices. As for Clare Boothe Luce, Mrs. Brice said she had been capable at any job she had undertaken. Women have more tender sympathy than men, Mrs. Brice added. She commented, also, that the report that Eisenhower plans to name Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, as ambassador to The Netherlands would be appropriate since that country is ruled by a woman—queen Juliana.

Mrs. A. J. C. Sieker said she was glad to see another woman proposed for a high office, although she had no comment about Mrs. Luce. An Associated Press story has reported the disappointment of women Republican leaders who expected to see more important positions given women by Eisenhower. If Mrs. Luce, former congresswoman, is appointed, she will be America's second woman ambassador and the first to a major power. Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, federal security administrator, and Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, appointed treasurer of the United States, are the only two women in higher governmental circles so far.

Mrs. Don Wolfe also expressed approval of another woman's securing a high office and said she had always admired Clare Boothe Luce.

Mrs. R. W. Webb, who had no comment about Mrs. Luce, said there would have been more women in higher offices had the Democrats stayed in power.

Mrs. J. M. Milam said she had no prejudice against women in diplomatic circles when the job is not or purely political nature, but she said Clare Luce was not one of her favorite persons. It had been mentioned that the author has been better known for her pungency than her punch pulling.

Mrs. R. G. Wilson said she was glad to see women playing a more prominent part in government and believed Eisenhower's choice of Mrs. Luce as an ambassadress would be good.

Mrs. David Harlin mentioned that men of Italy have been reported to feel dishonored that the greatest country in the would would send them a woman ambassador. Fashion designers are enthusiastic about the prospect of Mrs. Luce, who has been noted for her style, Mrs. Harlin said, and added the wife of Time and Life editor Henry Luce seems to be a briliant woman.

Mrs. C. R. Martin said she was inclined to agree with her husband that a man would be better for the Italian post. She said she was not against giving qualified women important jobs, but she was "kind of old-fashioned about favoring a man for the job." She mentioned, also, that the Italian people did not seem too favorable about the appointment. Mrs. Luce has never been one of her favorite persons, she added.

Espionage Found In Haute Couture Industry of Paris

PARIS (AP) — A four-year - old charge of spying in the super-secret cutting and sewing rooms of the Paris fashion houses comes to trial here this month.

Sixteen persons are accused of looting designs and patterns of new models and selling them to outsiders.

The case has been called "one of the biggest—if not the biggest—case of espionage" in the history of the hautecouture industry.

Since it first came to light in August, 1948, hundreds of persons have been questioned. An expert spent a whole year comparing sketches found in possession of the accused against the original designs.

The trial will be heard Feb. 27-28.

According to those who have closely followed the investigation, this is how the scheme worked:

Employes of big fashion houses were approached and offered bribes to sneak out sketches of exclusive models. Sometimes sketches or photos were made surreptitiously during the first presentations.

These designs then were sold to dressmakers all over the world, including the United States, with the assurance they could be made and sold as exact copies of a robe by Dior or Fath or some other famous designer. In some cases, gowns even were sold as Dior originals.

It has been estimated that the scheme made "tens of billions of francs" (one billion francs is about $2,666,000), but it is recognized that many of those connected with it profited very little.

The prosecution is under a French law protecting fashion designs from counterfeiting. Some of the defendants are accused of stealing the designs. Others are charged with receiving them, and still others with selling them for profit to the financial detriment of the original designers.

The law under which the defendants are being prosecuted provides only fines. However, some of those on trial may be asked to pay damages to the fashion houses. The expert who waded through all the evidence estimated Dior should be entitled to at least 300,000 francs for each design stolen. Dior's attorneys think the amount should be much higher. Sketches of at least 24 of his models were found in possession of one or another of the defendants.

WHY STARVE TO TAKE OFF FAT?

Barcentrate is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your druggist and get four ounces of the new improved Barcentrate. Pour into a pint bottle or jar and add grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves — if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. No starvation diet the Barcentrate way.

THIS LADY LOST 42 POUNDS

"Before taking Barcentrate I weighed 168 pounds. I now weigh 126, a loss of 42 pounds. Instead of wearing size 20 dresses, I now wear 14 and 16. I am so glad and feel so good. Words cannot express my sincere thanks." Signed, Mrs. P. H. Wunderlich, 1310 Thirteenth St., Galveston, Texas.

AND THIS LADY LOST 21 POUNDS

"Thanks to Barcentrate. What a wonderful way to lose weight," writes Mrs. A. F. Huelster, 211 W. 24th St., San Angelo, Texas. "No dieting and not a single hungry moment. I have lost 21 pounds and am now down to my required weight. Feel good and full of pep."

Jimmy Mack Glenn, Bride To Reside In San Antonio

Miss Mary Naomi Knight and Jimmy Mack Glenn were married at 8 o'clock last night in San Antonio and will make their home there.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Milton Knight of San Antonio and Mr. and Mrs. James Herman Glenn, Post Highway.

Wedding music was presented by Edwin Rock, soloist, who was accompanied by Mrs. Duane Spencer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of satin and rose point lace. The fitted tunic-style bodice of lace over satin was fashioned with a "V" neckline and cap sleeves. Her long mitts of lace were styled to a petal point over her wrists. The satin skirt swirled to an aisle - length train. A coronet of matching lace edged with pearls held her fingertip veil of sheer illusion, and her bouquet was of feathered carnations centered with a white orchid.

$50.00 IN CASH PRIZES!

WHO IS YOUR "GOOD NEIGHBOR?"

NOMINATE YOUR CANDIDATE

$50.00 IN PRIZES

Most people get a warm glow of satisfaction when they think of their good neighbors and the many good acts their neighbors perform in the name of friendship.

All too often, kind deeds never become public knowledge.

It is with this in mind, as an added event of the "Let's Get Acquainted" feature which will be sponsored by The Snyder Daily News, that a "Good Neighbor" Contest will be conducted.

The Snyder Daily News will give $50 in cash prizes. Readers will have an opportunity to see that their good neighbor receives the recognition he or she deserves.

Here are the rules:

1. Anyone is eligible to enter the contest except employes of the Snyder Daily News and their families.
2. To nominate your candidate for Snyder's "Good Neighbor", simply write a letter of 300 words or less to the editor of The Snyder Daily News. In the letter, explain why you think your candidate should be named the best "Good Neighbor." Letters should be postmarked no later than March 2.
3. A committee of local people will be selected to study the letters and judge on the basis of accomplishments of the candidates as good neighbors.
4. The person who nominates the winning candidate will receive a $25 cash prize. Second prize will be $15 and third prize $10. Prizes will go to the persons writing the letters and not to the winning candidates.

Entries Should Be Postmarked No Later Than March 2

Have You Sent In Your Nomination?

Zsa Zsa Gabor Has Her Own Ideas About Men And Mink

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Zsa Zsa Gabor curled or coiled, up in a big chair and began firing opinions on life, liberty and the pursuit of men, diamonds and mink.

"Marriage," she said, fluffing her straw blond hair, "will be abolished in 100 years as a useless institution."

The international beauty and actress wore a low-cut black sweater. Her ring finger and ear lobes reflected a blinding light. As she talked, she swung a leg out occasionally as though to examine the tips of her gold shoes.

"Marriage," said the belle of Budapest, Broadway and Beverly Hills, "does something to love. I think George (Sanders) and I were happier before we were married.

"Our marriage won't end in divorce. It'll end in murder. We fight all the time. You fight with someone you love because you want them to be perfect.

"You see, we're both terrible spoiled, but I think he likes me. Anyway he's going to a psychoanalyst every day to find out why he likes me."

But about marriages, the institution, Miss Gabor?

"Well," she said "there are too many laws against the man in this country. California, for example. Half of a man's money belongs to his wife. This helps poison his mind against her. In Europe, a woman knows that if her husband leaves her, she's got nothing left. So she works harder at the marriage.

"There's also this. A man may want to mary, say, Marilyn Monroe, in the worst way. So he marries her and figures she's in the bag. Then he starts looking at other women. If he weren't married to her, he's still be concentrating on Marilyn."

Miss Gabor, who has been married three times, was asked about housework.

"Dishes? I've never washed dishes. I think I'd hate it. Cooking, I love. When I was courting George — he was too lazy to court me — I cooked for him all the time. I catched him with my cooking. Moment I catch him I stopped cooking.

"I love to go marketing. I go with my friend, Kathryn Grayson, who makes $12,500 a week. I wear mink and beautiful French gloves to the markets. She wears her simplest coat. It's so funny to hear Kathryn getting excited about eggs going down two cents.

"Me, I don't know the price of eggs or butter but I always know the price of diamonds and mink."

Mink, Miss Gabor added, is a phrase every woman has to go through.

"It's like a sickness, " she explained. "You have to have it to get over it. I'm over it, although I still have three mink coats. I think tailored velvet or tweed is much more elegant."

Zsa Zsa Gabor

As the interview drew to a close, Miss Gabor suddenly clouded up. "But, darling," she said, "we haven't said a word about my new picture, 'Moulin Rouge.' You know I'm studying very hard to become a good actress. Darling, write down that I am a very serious actress now. Please don't make me a screwball, darling."
