Caste Tussle Is Evidenced At Singapore

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24 — A surrender sideshow is going on at Singapore which illustrates the traditional conflict that has gone on in the Japanese Army.

It is the rivalry between the aristocratic top layer wielding imperial authority and the peasant-born radicals who got near the top through personal ability. The story all along has been that the Army's workhorses have done most of the real jobs of conquest with the nobility moving in soon after to soak up the gravy.

Common-Man Jaw Set

At a late hour today the Singapore commander, General Seishiro Itagaki, still had his square common-man jaw set against surrendering to the British, although capitulation is a matter of time.

But he is outranked by the supreme Japanese commander in the southern regions, Field Marshal Count Juichi (also Hisaichi) Terauchi.

Terauchi is also a former war minister, and his noble rank places him decisively above the stubborn Itagaki, whose very name (which might be translated freely as "board fence") reveals his common family origin, although his immediate forbears were wealthy and well known.

Terauchi's name, on the other hand, translates austerley into "inside the temple." He looks like something out of an old samurai print, with a full oval face and eyes like luminous almond pits.

I once mentioned to him that his Army was taking all the coal north China produced and shipping it out to Japanese industry. Peiping's million people faced the sub-Siberian winter without coal if this kept up, I hinted.

Tsh, Tsh. What a Pity

"Tsh, tsh, what a pity," replied Terauchi. "Have another cocktail."

Today Terauchi, who never won a battle, was ready to surrender his vast southern forces from his comfortable headquarters in Saigon.

But Itagaki held silent in Singapore. Possibly no Japanese commander had worked harder for victory. He personifies the hard determination, the independent thought infected with idealism, which made the famous Kwantung Army in Manchuria a headache to the imperial command in Tokyo.

As commander at Singapore he has the most humiliating job any Japanese of his personal makeup could have—giving up to the British without a fight.

Some Local Issues To Spark Voting Today

Four Amendments At Stake; Hockley And Terry To Ballot On Road Bonds

SOUTH Plains voters today will mark ballots in connection with four proposals to amend the state constitution—and two of its counties, Terry and Hockley, will decide whether to authorize issuance of bonds to construct important roads.

Voting is expected to attract more interest in Terry and Hockley counties because of the added elections.

Hockley county's electorate — 2,000 to 3,000 persons are eligible — will decide whether to issue $500,000 in bonds, Terry county $375,000.

The Hockley County Herald said Thursday:

"The proposed bond issue, which will not increase the county tax rate, according to officials, will be used to hard-surface 130 miles of road in the county. These roads will be equally distributed among the four commissioners precincts.

"At present Hockley county has approximately 1,767 miles of public roads, with only 144 miles of them hard-surfaced."

It further reported that routes of the proposed roads had not been located or designated, but that they would be built so that they would be "most useful to the people."

"The State Highway commission has agreed to build 22 miles of road without cost to the county except for right-of-way. Six and a half miles are now under construction out of present road funds. With the resources each commissioner can supply in his precinct, together with the proceeds of this bond issue, additional 100 miles of road can be built."

It was reported that the bonds can be sold now for 1½ per cent interest on a 10-year maturity plan and that they can be serviced out of present tax revenues. The county tax rate is 85 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation. If the issue were approved, the bonded indebtedness of Hockley county would be "three plus per cent of the tax valuation." The county is paying off its bonded debt at the rate of $50,000 yearly.

Officials of Hockley county said the bonds, to be approved, would have to be favored by a two-thirds majority.

Terry county commissioners court outlined roads that county proposes to build, The Brownfield News said Friday.

Connect Other Routes

"The proposed roads, which will connect with routes already designated for construction by the State Highway department, total more than 40 miles. After construction they would be maintained by the state.

"The roads would come under

SOLONS OPPOSE NO. 2

Two members of the Texas Legislature, Reps. Joe C. Humphrey of Abilene and Harley Sadler of Sweetwater, oppose the proposed Constitutional amendment that would raise salaries for members of the legislature, the Abilene Reporter-News reported Friday.

The proposed amendment would provide continuous pay of $10 a day for members of the legislature.

Auto Plants Turned Loose; Youths Must Give Up Jobs

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The government told auto-makers today to go the limit as it strove to unite unions and bosses in labor peace.

And—to open jobs for veterans and fired war workers—it ordered 16 and 17 year old girls out of plants working for the government.

To them the labor department said: Go back to school.

The approval on unlimited auto production was official.

Previously the government had told the manufacturers it was going to issue this order.

Most Paper Is Freed

Meanwhile:

1. There'll be fatter books and magazines. Off went the controls on the paper publishers can use. Only limits left: On paper for newspapers.

2. OPA said: Throw away your fuel oil and gasoline coupons. Rationing won't come back.

3. The government seized a strike-threatened railroad, proving it still holds the big wartime stick.

4. Federal farm bosses buckled down to changing farming back to peace. They may ask some crop cuts in 1946.

5. The Army slashed its contracts for gasoline—and offered 250,000 badly needed surplus tires for civilian trucks.

6. Garment makers asked the government to ease up on its orders about low-priced clothes.

7. There will be ample supplies of penicillin—the "miracle drug" —for civilians. The last controls come off Aug. 31.

Half Million New Cars

The automotive council for war production said the industry might be able to make 500,000 cars this year. They're just beginning to get started. Final goal in full production later is 6,000,000 a year.

And on this tenth full peacetime day, the White House tried to see that labor strife does not block the way to its announced national goal—"a total and stable prosperity in peace."

President Truman got agreement—in his office, from the top men of industry and labor—that a labor-management conference must be held. Its date will be announced Sept. 5.

This is what he wants:

A voluntary agreement—from management and labor—to keep peace while the nation struggles to reconvert.

Replace War Pledge

It would replace the wartime "no strike" and "no lockout" agreement between both groups.

In fact, some ground work has been laid. Three of those present today signed in March the so-called "charter for labor peace"—Presidents Eric Johnston of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, William Green of AFL, and Philip Murray of CIO.

Secretary Schwellenbach wiped out the emergency wartime order which had lowered—from 18 to 16—the age limit of girls who could be employed in work on

Pappy May Ask Governor's Job

DALLAS, Aug. 24. (AP)—Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel (D., Tex.) says he has been urged to run for governor of Texas next year.

"I will say this," the senator added in an interview yesterday—"the living conditions would be better in Austin than in Washington."

Suggestions that he make the race were contained in letters expressing indignation over the proposed constitutional amendment, to be voted on Saturday, that would set a ceiling on money that could be spent in Texas on old age pensions, O'Daniel said. He stated that he had already cast an absentee ballot against the amendment.

The senator, whose present term does not expire until the end of 1948, said he had made no political plans for the future.

SWAPOUT WITH COKE SEEN BY EDITOR

NACOGDOCHES, Aug. 24. (U.P.) —Texas' junior senator and governor may swap offices, and bring about a history making and vote-getting combination in the 1946 primaries, the editor of the Nacogdoches Daily Sentinel predicted today.

Writes Editor Van Cronkhite, "We have good reason to think a political plan is afoot that will see U. S. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel become the next governor of Texas with the present Governor Coke Stevenson going to the U. S. Senate to fill out O'Daniel's unexpired term.

"Should Pappy be elected in 1946, the would immediately resign from the Senate, and as governor, appoint Coke Stevenson as senator. . . . Thus bringing about a vote-getting combination in the 1946 state elections of the only candidates in Texas history who have ever individually polled over one million votes."

BORGER NEEDS WORKERS

More Meat Stamps To Be Valid September 1

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. (AP)— These red stamps will become good Saturday, Sept. 1 for meats and fats: L1, M1, N1, P1, and Q1.

They are being validated for the usual period of four months—Sept. 1 through Dec. 31. Each stamp is worth 10 points, making a total of 50.

Invalid after Aug. 31 will be stamp Q2, R2, S2, T2 and U2.

What the OPA didn't tell—and won't until next week—is how much meat red stamps will buy in September. All indications, however, point to substantial reductions in point values.

France Seeks Long-Range Aid From U. S.

By GRAHAM HOVEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Gen. Charles de Gaulle made it clear today that the chief objective of his visit is to promote a long-range program under which the United States would assist in the complete reorganization and modernization of French industry.

For an hour, the tall French president faced a hundred news reporters and delivered prompt answers to questions ranging in geography from Germany's Ruhr basin to French Indo-China.

He was generous in his praise of American help in the solving of France's temporary relief and reconstruction problems, but he emphasized that this was "temporary" assistance.

Long-Range Problems

It was evident that his talks with President Truman and the lengthy conferences between French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and Secretary of State Byrnes were concerned with bringing into reality a blue-printed plan extending over a number of years by which France could achieve her long-range economic aspirations.

The Byrnes-Bidault conference continued today.

When asked for comment on President Truman's statement to French reporters that the French press had not given America a square deal, De Gaulle drew a round of laughs when he observed:

"I must say that during the last five years, I. also, have been struck by some articles in the United States press in regard to French policy."

Only Scattered Criticism

Although individual journalists might be critical of the United States, the French press as a whole and "all of the French people" are "most favorably disposed" to this country, he said.

In regard to western Europe, De Gaulle said France did not want to annex German territory. The French now were controlling territory though which Germany repeatedly had attacked France, however, he said, and added:

"That control must be continued."

France will propose a plan for internationalizing the coal-rich Ruhr basin of Germany at the coming meeting of the council of foreign ministers in London, he disclosed.

Occupation Revision

The French intend to hold the left bank of the Rhine indefinitely and hope for a revision of the present occupation zones which allocated to France only about half as much territory as that controlled by the United States, Russia and Britain, De Gaulle said.

So far as the Far East is concerned, the French president said:

1. The United States would have to take a leading role in the economic and political reorganization of that area and France was determined to render major cooperation in that effort.

2. France intends to maintain full sovereignty in Indo-China and New Caledonia and any arrangements for a permanent American naval base at Noumea will have to be made by the world security organization.

3. France has a detailed plan for giving Indo-China much greater measure of self-government than it had before the war.

Hess Believed Held In Welsh Village

LONDON, Aug. 24. (AP)—Rudolph Hess is believed to be a prisoner in a military hospital in the small Welch village of Abergavenny, wallowing in melancholia, while the Allies consider whether to try him as a war criminal or commit him to a mental home.

The whereabouts of Hess has been one of the war's tightest secrets.

Disarming Japs Charge Russian Invasion Plan

Atomic Toll Said Rising

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO broadcasts declared yesterday that "radioactivity" and burns from the atomic bomb at Hiroshima claimed the lives of 30,000 persons within two weeks after the bomb was dropped, and that some burn victims asked to be killed to end their pain.

The delayed deaths raised the toll of dead to 60,000, and the toll still is mounting, Tokyo said.

The broadcasts, perhaps intended to arouse sympathy, also declared that persons entering the area as much as a week later became ill, but did not say specifically that any of these persons had died.

Report Is Doubted

An American atomic bomb expert on Aug. 8, however, said there was no reason to believe there was any appreciable radioactivity on the ground at Hiroshima, or that its effects lingered.

The skin of persons near the blast turned bright red from burns, one broadcast said, and the majority of injuries came from these burns. One Tokyo reporter was quoted as saying that many patients, in pain, shouted "please kill me, quick!"

"The specter of death hangs over the remaining citizens of Hiroshima," said one broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

"Radioactivity caused by the fission of uranium used in the atomic bomb is taking a toll of mounting deaths and, moreover, is causing persons engaged in reconstruction work in Hiroshima to suffer from various sicknesses and ill health," it said.

Only Few Escape

"In an investigation made three days after the atomic bomb hit Hiroshima, it was reported there were 30,000 dead and 160,000 injured, out of a total population of 250,000.

"Two weeks afterwards the death toll had mounted to 60,000 and is continuing to rise. The majority of the injured persons received burns from powerful ultraviolet rays from the atomic bombs."

(Ultraviolet rays are given off by anything that is burning, any fire. Very intense heat gives off a lot of ultraviolet. Radioactivity includes not only the familiar X-rays from radium, and alpha particles, but neutrons which are far more penetrating than any other kind of atomic ray. Neutrons destroy white blood cells).

Rising At Nagasaki

Another broadcast, quoting a correspondent of the Tokyo "Asahi Shimbun," and recorded by the FCC, said the death toll also was rising at Nagasaki, hit by a second atomic bomb. This correspondent said the total number of dead at Hirshima "is estimated at present at 70,000 to 80,000," while at Nagasaki 13,000 were killed and more than 10,000 are missing.

The Tokyo broadcast describing radioactivity at Hiroshima said that persons "within a two kilometer radius from the centre of the bomb explosion (300 meters south of the patriotic shrine) received burns two to three times."

(This reference might mean second and third degree burns.)

"Those within three to four kilometers radius of the bomb received burns to the extent that their skin turned bright red but as these burns were caused by ultraviolet rays they hardly felt the heat at that time. Two hours later, however, blisters formed resulting in dropsy.

"Although abundant medical supplies were rushed to the scene of disaster and treatment was unsparingly given to the victims, the death list continued to grow daily.

British Shocked At End Of Lend-Lease

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 24. — Prime Minister Attlee and opposition leader Winston Churchill professed surprise and shock today over the sudden ending of lend-lease by the United States, and expressed hope that a new system of temporary aid may be found.

Attlee gravely told the House of Commons that the sudden termination of lend-lease "without consultation and prior discussions" had placed Britain in a "very serious financial position."

Churchill commented that "I cannot believe so great a nation —whose lend-lease was characterized by me as the most unsordid act in the history of the world— would proceed in such a rough and harsh manner as to hamper a faithful ally, the ally which held the fort while their own American armament were preparing."

Almost as soon as the issue was thus exploded, however, it was bottled up by mutual agreement to allow British representatives to reopen negotiations in Washington in the hope that a new system of temporary aid may be worked out in tranquility.

Attlee pleaded that the members not debate the question now, cautioning them to exercise the "utmost restraint" within and without the chamber.

The prime minister announced that Lord Halifax, the British ambassador to Washington whom the Labor government had been expected to replace, was returning to the United States along with Lord Keynes, treasury advisor, to "work things out in a manner which will best promote our mutual interests."

Neither Attlee nor his predecessor in the premiership disclosed exactly the type of aid Britain hopes to obtain to replace lend-lease by which the United States pumped $40,000,000,000 into war channels abroad — $29,000,000,000 of it going to the United Kingdom.

The prime minister did express the wish that shipping, food and other supplies still required by British and American forces overseas might be continued for a limited period under lend-lease and reciprocal aid agreements.

(In Washington Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley, explaining that lend-lease had to be terminated with the end of the war because that was the promise to Congress, disclosed that Britain had been offered the opportunity to pay for lend-lease supplies stockpiled in the United States or in the process of manufacture or shipment, over a 30-year period at 2 3-8 per cent interest. Facilities of the export-import bank also are open to Britain, he said.)

First Yanks Land Sunday

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, Saturday, Aug. 25.— Japan's vast armies were disarming at home and abroad today ahead of next week's occupation of the homeland, which General MacArthur disclosed would begin tomorrow with airbrone landings 18 miles from the heart of Tokyo.

Imperial headquarters charged in a message to MacArthur that the Russians were planning their own private and imminent occupation landing in the northernmost home island of Hokkaido, a move which it asserted would be "regretted" by the Japanese government.

Holds To Schedule

A spokesman made it clear that MacArthur intended to arrive on schedule with heavily-armed forces next Tuesday, despite the threat of a second typhoon such as the one that wrecked Tokyo's communications Wednesday and turned the main landing field near Tokyo into a morass.

This was emphasized by clock-like advance preparations and new orders from MacArthur telling Japanese airmen to keep out of the skies south of the main island of Honshu today and over a broad area around Tokyo tomorrow lest they run afoul of the Allied fleet.

No plane of Japan will be allowed to stray more than two miles from shore beginning today, and tomorrow — when the first force of airborne trained technicians land near Tokyo — none can fly in a zone of about 90 square miles centering around the ruined capital.

Alert Against Treachery

This appeared to be an alert against any act of treachery by suicide pilots up to the time the articles of surrender are signed on the Battleship Missouri Aug. 31 in Tokyo bay.

Without Allied confirmation, Tokyo said that a day after the surrender, strong Allied forces would begin landing on the southern-most island of Kyushu, with seaborne troops swarming ashore there September 2.

Dangerous Gulf Hurricane Moves Toward Coast; Shipping Warned

HOUSTON, Aug. 24. (AP)—A hurricane moving slowly northward toward the Texas coast caused the United States weather bureau to increase its emphasis on the storm's potentialities early tonight when the 9 p. m. advisory warned that the storm was dangerous and urged shipping in its path to exercise extreme caution.

Spotted some 300 miles south southeast of Brownsville the weather bureau also told small craft to seek safety in waters stretching from the mouth of the Rio Grande to Burrwood, La.

The various advisories have shown an indicated wind of 90 miles an hour in the center of the tropical disturbance with 75 mile velocities fifty miles distant from the center.

W. R. Stevens, supervising forecaster of the weather bureau in New Orleans said the observers had been watching disturbed conditions in the hurricane area for the past two days but that the strong winds developed only today.

Stevens said that hurricane reconnaissance flights were made by crack Army fliers in specially equipped planes from Miami to Brownsville both yesterday and today to report on the possibilities of a blow.

In its 9 p. m. (CWT) advisory the bureau said:

The hurricane continues to move northward about 8 miles an hour and is central near latitude 22.4 degrees, longitude 95 degrees or about 300 miles south southeast of Brownsville with winds up to 75 miles an hour extending outward about 50 miles from the center and 90 miles an hour over a small area near the center. Northward movement is expected to continue during the next 12 hours. This is a dangerous storm and all vessels in northwest gulf of Mexico are again urged to exercise extreme caution. Small craft from the mouth of the Rio Grande to Burrwood, La., should seek safe harbor.

Rodeo Plays To Packed Stadium

In a stadium packed to the brim with thrilled and howling fans, rodeo contestants staged the third successful performance of the American Business club rodeo at the South Plains Fairground arena last night.

Calf roping was the first event of the evening. This soon proved to be one of the finest displays of calf roping ever to be seen in this part of the cattle country. Winners and their roping time are as follows:

Lem Reeves, 13.4 seconds; Jack Skipworth, 13.6; Buck Stanifer, 14.

Bronc Riding

In the saddle bronc riding department Kid Fletcher of El Reno, Okla., came to the front with an excellent display of wild horse riding. The El Reno boy also walked off with top money in the brahma bull riding event. Second place went to "Wart" Baughman with Ed Curtis and Sylvester Roane placing third and fourth respectively.

When the evening rolled around to the bull-dogging contest several mishaps were encountered as the bulls left the chutes. Most common accident seemed to be too much speed on the part of the horses. The winners and their time:

Shorty McCoy, 13.9 seconds; Buff Douthitt, 14; Lem Reeves, 19.2.

Spills From Brahma

And to quote a phrase "last but certainly not the least," the bull riders. This contest got underway with several spills as the riders left the chutes. In several cases the bull came out without a man on board. The placing winners in last night's event, and men you can certainly call hardy cowboys were:

Kid Fletcher, first; Barney Folsom, second; Wart Baughman, third; Johnny Spruel and Bryon Lisenbee tied for fourth place.

Other regular events of the show were put on in their usual order and brought cheers and applause from a well satisfied crowd.

The last and main performance of the benefit rodeo will start at 8:15 tonite.

Yank Sentries Kill Berlin Musician

BERLIN, Aug. 24. (U.P.) — Leo Borchard, conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra, was shot to death by American sentries, it was announced today, when the automobile in which he was riding failed to halt at an outpost. The accident occurred yesterday.

Three American sentries shouted and waved their arms in a vain attempt to halt Borchard's car without firing. Then Sgt. Darrell Odel, Littlefield, Tex., and Pfc. John D. Jones, Dodson, La., each fired one shot. One bullet struck Borchard in the head, killing him instantly.

The sentries are members of the 504th Parachute Infantry regiment of the 32nd Airborne division.

Lifting Of Travel Priorities Sought

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. (AP)— Airline officials are discussing with the Army a proposal "almost" to eliminate the system of air travel priorities.

The proposal was made by the Air Transport association, representing 22 airlines. A spokesman for that organization said that under the plan very few priorities would be given. Thusc more people without priorities would ride.

Rumors On LAAF Closing Spiked

Officials at Lubbock Army Air Field Friday afternoon officially denied a flood of rumors that the big AAF Instructors School would close or change its mission in the immediate future as a result of the end of the war.

The flood of rumors was caused by the sudden victory over Japon and the first large number of discharges to military personnel on the field. However, the rumors were not unexpected as they were prevalent at all such installations. In reply to questions, headquarters officials said:

No Changes Planned

"The field is not closing in the immediate future, nor is the mission of the post being changed at present. We will continue to train ATC pilots for the important task of redeployment and demobilization in the Pacific.

"The mission of the field is among the most important in the AAF Training Command at present.

"The nation's top military leaders have emphasized that a big job is stil ahead and LAAF has a vital mission to play. For that reason, civilian employees are asked to remain at their posts," officials said.

Officials explained that the large number of men being discharged was in keeping with War department policy of releasing men with the longest and most arduous service and did not indicate any changes to be made at the big AAF field.

OPALS UNLUCKY?

A NEW vogue for opals is reported by jewelers, who say that the old superstition about the gems being unlucky is dying out. It was started long ago by stone cutters who found opals difficult to cut and so said they were jinxed. Rarest are black opals which are enhanced by a setting rimmed with small diamonds.

Most opals, both black and white, come from Australia today.

WOMEN AS WALKERS

A WOMAN isn't attractive unless she knows how to walk like a model. We don't care how lovely her clothes are, how perfect her face or figure, if she walks like a bent-over old woman or with a bumpy, jiggly bounce she will not seem beautiful. Those of us who are downtown have noticed few women and girls know how to get about in flat-heeled shoes. They paddle like ducks, with one hip out of balance or they walk sway-backed.

Your walk tells more than you know. You could devise for yourself no better secret slogan than "I walk like a queen." Perhaps you'd like to read advice given by Dorothy Preble, who is head of a Hollywood school for models.

Visualize yourself as suspended from a string at the top of your head with your feet barely touching the floor, she suggests. This mental image will help you to walk tall. It keeps your head and chin completely level, neither up nor down, but back on your shoulders. It raises your chest, your arms hang loosely and the tips of your shoulders come forward. Your tummy will take care of itself. Take a deep breath. Now let out that breath slowly, but maintain the same position. That's the way you should hold yourself.

THIS little poem, "Living Monuments for All Our Boys," was sent to the desk by Miss Julia Wilbanks, playground and center supervisor of the City recreation department:

In memory of me, you wouldn't erect a dreary stone that would reflect—
No thought of joy or living things,
Or hope, for which the whole world sings.

I ask that you go plant a tree to cast a shadow cool, for me.
A tree to bless the weary earth;
Or, any monument of worth.

In haunting memory, on marble cold, I want no story of valor told.
Forlorn and desolate they stand for years,
Despair they bring and lonely tears.

Instead, I beg you, plan a place—
A playground — where children race,
Where laughter rings and children sing,
And Mothers, there, their babies bring.

I want a woodland—dark and deep, where ferns, like seaweed shadows creep,
A little lake—a bathing beach—
A happy place, in easy reach.

For city children denied the joy, that I once knew as barefoot boy,
Or, (of man-made ide) a skating rink,
Are among the worthwhile things, I think.

For all the boys—on sea or land, for all the flyers—who victory planned,
From the Spirit world, we unite our pleas—
For playgrounds — pools — and glorious trees.

No futule piles of stone to mar the landscape view, both near and far.
Dead monuments are idle toys;
Give living things for our noble boys

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Morrison 1812 Speedway, Wichita Falls was the scene of simple marriage rites performed at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening which united their daughter, Doris Marie and B. J. Covington of Amarillo. Rev. Joe Z. Tower, pastor of the First Methodist church there was officiating minister.

For recitation of their marriage vows, the bride and groom stood before the fireplace in the living room which was decorated with gladioli and greenery. Other decorations in the reception and dining suites repeated the white and green color combination.

Mrs. R. A. Sanders, pianist, played the processional music from Wagner's Lohengrin as the bride and groom entered the room.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an afternoon frock of light blue crepe with which she wore black accessories. "Something old" was a bracelet and her white prayer book topped with gardenias, was borrowed.

Immediately after the wedding an informal reception was held during which the bride's cake was cut and served with other refreshments. The serving table, featured by crystal appointments and using crystal swans as containers for white flowers, had as a centerpiece the wedding cake.

The couple left after the ceremony for Amarillo where they will establish temporary residence.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Covington attended Texas Technological college last year and were enrolled in the Engineering division. Mrs. Covington attended High school in Wichita Falls and Mr. Covington was graduated from Sudan High school.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Covington of 408-A North Lincoln, Amarillo, parents of the bridegroom, and their grandson, Eddie Wayne Belt.

Eighth Case Of Polio Is Diagnosed Friday

The eighth case of poliomyelitis diagnosed in Lubbock this year has been reported to Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer.

Mrs. Elmer Godwin of 2105 Thirty-sixth, who has been in Lubbock General hospital since Aug. 17, was said by her physician to have a "very light case of polio." Her case was said to be "satisfactory" and that she will not suffer any sort of permanent paralysis.

Suiciders Fail In Minesweeper Attack

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. (AP)—Six suicide plane crashes in less than an hour failed to sink the fast minelayer Aaron Ward.

The ship, which suffered 96 casualties, including 42 killed, during the concerted attack by 10 kamikaze planes off Okinawa May 3, returned 12,000 miles to the Brooklyn Navy yard for repairs.

Work was suspended, however, after Japan's surrender.

DDT To Be Used In Local Schools

City school buildings are to be dusted with DDT, miracle insecticide developed by U.S. chemists for insect-infested jungles, to reduce the possibility of insect and rodent-borne diseases, such as typhus and polio.

Disclosure of the proposed use of the powerful killer of bugs and rodents was made Friday by Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, and James H. Harris, sanitary inspector for the typhus control unit of the United States Public Health service.

A shipment of DDT has been received from the State Department of Health at Austin. Harris, who has been working with Don Cook, head of Lubbock's current ratproofing campaign, will supervise the dusting of the city schools. A rat eradication campaign is also to be carried out at the schools prior to their opening in September.

Mobile Units Sent Out

Lubbock is one of 36 counties, which is expected to obtain DDT for dusting and spraying in the state war being conducted against flies, mosquitoes and other insects that are known to be disease carriers. Five mobile units are being sent out to several cities of the state to assist in the work.

Health officials point out that the DDT insecticide has worked wonders in reducing typhus wherever used. In Lampases, where there were 55 cases reported in 40 days, dusting with DDT ended the epidemic.

The chemical compound is not harmful to humans but is deadly to all insects, the health officials explain.

Airplanes were used recently to spray DDT over the city of Rockford, Ill., in an effort to kill insects blamed for the spread of polio there.

Ten Killed, 85 Planes Destroyed In Crash

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. (AP)—The Navy disclosed today that ten men were killed, 85 planes destroyed and 55 others damaged when a four-engine Navy bomber veered off a runway on Eniwetok atoll in the Marshalls Aug. 9, 1944.

On the take-off it plowed into planes assembled in a replacement pool for carriers.

The Navy said an investigating board found that the pilot "failed to realize that the plane was airborne and failed to keep the plane's track along the center of the runway." The pilot was Lt. Romane C. Anderson, whose widow, Florence, lived at Houston.

He and all but one of the 11-man crew were killed in the crackup or died later.

Four patrons brought the suit. Students who do not sign the pledge would not be allowed to graduate.

Brecheen Bests Borowy For Victory In Series Opener

CHICAGO, Aug. 24. (AP)—Pennant possibilities rode on almost every pitch today as St. Louis and Chicago opened an important three game series, and it wasn't pitching laxness, but a "break" of the game that gave the Cardinals a 1-0 victory.

Hank Borowy, recently acquired from the New York Yankees by the Cubs, and Harry Brecheen hooked up in one of the tightest pitching duels of the season here and kept a crowd that totaled 44,732, including 37,227 paid admissions, almost breathless.

Brecheen gave the Cubs but four hits, all singles, in winning his ninth game, and Borowy allowed only three. It was a play at first base that gave St. Louis the break that led to the victory and Borowy's second loss, against four wins, since joining the Cubs.

Whitey Kurowski hit a low bounder to Len Merullo at shortstop. In his haste to get the ball to first base, he threw high, forcing Phil Cavarretta to leap straight up into the air to stop the ball. Kurowski touched first before Cavarretta had dropped down to the bag, and was called safe by Umpire "Dusty" Boggess.

The victory was the eighth for St. Louis in 11 starts against the league-leading Cubs this season. The two teams stil have 11 more games to play, two more in this series.

Babe In Finals For Women's Golf Crown

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 24. (AP)—Incomparable Babe Didrickson Zaharias proved she was only playing 'possum, after all, in the Women's Western Amateur golf tournament as she bowled over Defending Champion Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia, 5 and 3, in today's semi-final round.

The former Olympic track star from Los Angeles, shooting for her first Western Amateur crown, enters tomorrow's title round against plump Phyllis Otto of Atlantic, Ia., 1944 runner-up, who rallied to dump Medalist Louise Suggs, Atlanta, Ga., 2 and 1.

There was some doubt whether Mrs. Zaharias, forced to extra-hole battles in two previous rounds and playing with borrowed clubs, could stop Miss Germain, winner of the past two amateur meets.

However, the slim, hard-hitting Babe led from the start and finished three under par for the 15 holes played, while Dotty once again fell under the Zaharias jinx and came apart on the second nine.

CONZELMAN RESIGNS

Feller Defeats Detroit Tigers

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24. (AP)—Rapid Robert Feller blazed his strike-out pitch past 12 Detroit Tigers tonight in his first major league appearance after nearly four years in the Navy to hurl the Cleveland Indians to a 4 to 2 victory over the American League leaders.

Feller hurled hitless ball for the last six and two-thirds innings as he limited the Tigers to four bingles to hand Detroit Ace Hal Newhouser his eighth defeat against 20 victories.

A roaring crowd of 46,477 hometown fans cheered Feller's triumph as Pat Seerey blasted his 13th home run with one aboard in the first inning to give Cleveland a 2 to 0 lead.

Club Championship Play Is Postponed

The Lubbock Country club championship tournament has been postponed, it was announced last night by Herb Schroeder, club pro.

The tournament was scheduled to start qualifying play today, but has been postponed until next week. Qualifying play will start Sept. 8, and players can qualify any time through Sept. 16. Match play will start Sept. 17.

In 1866, Pierre Lallement, a Frenchman, patented a two-wheel bike, which he introduced to the U. S. Americans nicknamed it the "bone-shaker."

Little Pitches No-Hit Victory

A blazing no-hit pitching performance, produced by the stout pitching arm of Seagraves' Little, featured Friday night's games in the Junior Chamber of Commerce South Plains invitation softball tournament as Little blanked the Jaycees 9 to 0 without a hit.

Lubbock Army Air field won the opening game of the night, beating Lamesa 7-2 with Tosheff pitching for the winners, and Bybee doing the catching. Teal pitched for the visitors, with Lane catching.

Little's no-hitter came in the second game of the night. Gentry was handling the hitless pitches from behind the bat. Little ran his string of strikeouts for the tournament to 44 victims in four games. Bumpass and Kelly made up the Jaycee battery.

South Plains Army Air field's sensational club handed O'Donnell its second loss in as many nights, after a fine start, as Hooks pitched the soldiers to a 6 to 1 victory. Jordan pitched for the losers.

SPAAF and Seagraves will tangle tonight in the first game, with the winner to battle LAAF in the second game. Post and Edwards Food will play the nightcap feature.

Dead End Kid Kayos Red Cochrane Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP)—For the second time within two months, Rocky Graziano, the Dead End kid from the East Side, flattened Welterweight Champion Freddie "Red" Cochrane of Elizabeth, N. J., in the tenth and last round of a non-title bout in Madison Square Garden.

In chalking up his fifth straight kayo in a row Graziano floored the game, but outclassed, champ seven times in the last two rounds, all for counts of nine.

On Cochrane's last trip to the canvas the count had reached four when Referee Benny Leonard waved his hands, indicating it was all over. The official time was 2:37 of the round against the 16 seconds of the tenth round in which Graziano flattened Red in their first meeting on June 29.

Bundage Says Games To Be Held In 1948

LONDON, Aug. 24. (AP)—Avery Bundage of Chicago, a member of the International Olympic Executive committee, said today the next Olympic Games will be held in 1948 and said he would guess they will be held either at Lausanne, Switzerland, or London.

The exact site of the games will be determined by a mail vote. Bundage said he expected it will be two or three months before the location is announced.

ABC Still Unbeaten, Romp Over All-Stars

American Business clubbers made it a clean sweep in the second half by coasting over the All-Star nine with an easy 8-6 count in the American league finale at the Boy's club Friday afternoon.

Lester York paced the ABC defensive and offensive attacks, limiting the All-Stars to 5 hits from the mound, and collecting three hits from four trips to the bat. Bill Wylie wore the ABC mask.

Sixteen Play

Sixteen of the All-Star team saw duty in the game. Royce Jones and Jimmy Wells replaced James Burgess and James Craig at left field and third base in the fifth inning. Johnny Tatum, Jack Keeling, Harmon Green, Jackie Martin, and Jack McCabe entered the contest in the sixth inning for Billy Presley, second baseman; Charles Galey, catcher; Don Medlock, center fielder; Jack Whitehead, right fielder; and Billy Travis, starting hurler.

Gerald Hise and Morris Turner, All-Star first baseman and short stop, were the only players to go the full seven innings for the losers. Buddy Weber, pitcher, and Jackie Cook, short stop, were not present at the game.

Presley Doubles

Billy Presley, All-Star second baseman, opened the game with a long double to left center field. After Hise had popped out to Guy at first, Presley went to third on a passed ball and was singled home by Turner.

ABC returned in their half of the first to score three tallies on three singles by Strickland, York, and Guy to take a lead which the All-Stars were never able to overcome.

The All-Star nine added another pair in the third behind another ABC tally in the second on Wylie's homer. Three consecutive walks followed by two errors were responsible.

Kent Homers

Ronnie Kent led off for ABC in the third, catching a low pitch and parking it in the street in right field one block away. Duane Peters followed with a sizzling triple and came home on Bill Bridge's infield hit.

The line score:

ALL-STARS	102 102	0	6 5 2
ABC	312 020	x	8 10 4

Travis, McCabe and Galey, Keeling; York and Wylie.

Errors—Medlock, Turner, York 2, Kent, B. Tatum. Runs batted in—Turner, Presley, Bridge. Two-base hit—Presley. Three-base hit—Peters. Home runs—Wylie, Kent. Sacrifices—Guy, Bridge, Wylie. Don Englebry Takes Top Trapshoot Prize

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 24 (AP) — Don Englebry, Vermilion, O., restaurant operator who didn't have a dime bet on himself in the optionals, today came out of nowhere to win the Grand American handicap trap-shoot with a score of 99x100, fired from the 23-yard marker.

By his victory, Englebry helped keep alive the 46-year-old tradition that no man ever wins the Grand American twice. It was worth about $2,000 to the red-haired Englebry, but his failure to bet on himself in the optionals cost him at least $1,000 in extra prize money.

S. Dale Pierce of Geneseo, Ill., who had sweated out almost seven hours as the front runner, already was being congratulated when Englebry finished with his 99. Pierce had fired 98x100 from the 20-yard line.

Nelson Four Up Over Big Field

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 24. (AP)—Byron Nelson came sloshing in with a three-under-par 69 today to take a four-stroke lead at the halfway point of the Knoxville Open golf tournament.

Grooving his shots in a downpour, the blond shotmaster bracketed his sub-par with an opening 67 for a 36-hole total of 136.

That sent him four swings ahead of his closest challenger, the lanky amateur menace from New Orleans, Freddie Haas, jr., who placed an even par 72 alongside his first round 68 for 140.

Ben Hogan, making his tournament comeback, ran into putting trouble on the soggy greens. He slipped to a four over par 76 that gave him a total of 144 — eight strokes back of Nelson.

Only two players besides Nelson were able to crack par on the tough Holston Hills course after a heavy afternoon thundershower drenched the layout. Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me., and Elmer Prieskorn, red-haired Nashville amateur, turned in 71's.

A STATE OF MIND

When the Army Air Transport Command footballers staged a scrimmage at Berry Field, Nashville, Tenn., recently Coach Dick Ermerson split his squad into "Yankees" and "Rebels." . . . Someone asked Pvt. Louis (Snort) Tolliver, who formerly performed for the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, St. Mary's Rattlers and Pittsburgh Steelers, which side he'd be on. . . . "Neither," snorted Snort. "You Rebels and Yankees play this thing off, then us guys from Texas will beat the winner for the camp championship."

History Repeats Itself

MacArthur Takes Place Of Perry

WHEN Gen. Douglas MacArthur's gigantic armada of battleships, transports and airborne troops move in and assume command of the Japanese homeland, there will be recalled another memorable day in American-Japanese relations—that morning of July 8, 1853, when Commodore Matthew C. Perry sailed his fleet into Tokyo bay.

This was the beginning of Japan's education in international etiquette. At that time, Japan was still living in a state of medieval feudalism. For 250 years her rulers, fearful of all foreign countries and contacts, had completely barred the nation to foreigners and had prevented Japanese from leaving the country.

Chinese and Dutch sailors, the only favored foreigners, were permitted to trade at only one port, the now bomb-battered Nagasaki. The Dutch were limited to one ship a year. Foreign sailors cast ashore in Japan by sea wrecks were thrown in jail and beaten.

For almost seven centuries the emperors had lived in seclusion in Kyoto, and the county was ruled by the Shoguns, or supreme war lords with headquarters at Tokyo, then known as Yedo.

The United States' whaling industry and our trade with China brought this nation into contact with these Japanese barriers, and in 1837, an American schooner, entering Toyko bay to return some runaway Japanese, was driven off with cannon shot. In 1846 Commodore Biddle entered the bay with two ships in an attempt to open trade negotiations with the Shogun. Ordered to get out at once, Biddle obeyed. This incident tended to spur the United States to firm action, since the British and the Dutch were both vying with each other for trade footholds in Japan.

• • •

COMMODORE PERRY sailed from Norfolk, Va. in 1852 with orders to get a trade treaty with Japan—to be polite and conciliatory if possible—to use pressure if necessary. The following May he assembled his fleet in the chief harbor of Okinawa, then called the Great Lu-Chu island.

On July 8, he entered Tokyo bay with four warships, their decks cleared for action, their guns loaded, their crews at their battle stations. These ships, which dropped anchor 27 miles from Tokyo, were the largest steam-propelled ships the Japs had ever seen.

The Nipponese reaction was not much different from what we have recently witnessed. First the Shogun summoned a council of the Daimyo for advice, then the emperor "appealed to Heaven" and ordered special prayers at the chief shrines. The Shogun sent word to Perry to leave the harbor. He refused. After leaving his message, sent by President Fillmore requesting the emperor to open trade relations with the United States, Perry sailed away, leaving word that he would return for an answer.

In February, 1854, he returned—this time with seven men-of-war and dropped anchor in Tokyo bay. Representatives of the emperor met him and after a delay of six weeks signed the trade treaty demanded by the United States.

Thus were the ports of Japan opened to world trade, and thus, too, were laid the seeds of the conflict that has just ended in Japan's surrender. From the United States, Japan had learned the value of armaments.

Advice To Young People

WHILE many Lubbock boys and girls are eagerly awaiting Monday, Sept. 3, when the city's school bells ring again, there are others who are seriously considering dropping out of school.

They tell themselves and their parents that they have gone to school long enough—that they can read and write, and that from now on, they intend to work and earn money.

What these young people do not realize is that completing a high school education is the most important job right now for any boy or girl under 18 years of age.

Lured by what seems to them to be "easy money," they do not realize that these "blind-alley jobs" have little or no future. Those who give up their chance to finish school to fill such jobs will find their future economic opportunities woefully limited by their lack of education. Untrained youths will be the first to be laid off when they are forced to compete for peacetime jobs with millions of veterans and skilled war workers.

Actually, jobs for the untrained are becoming scarcer right now as war contracts are being cut back and service men are returning to civilian life. We already have a million and a half unemployed.

Yet boys and girls, eager to earn money and become independent, often overlook the advantages of an education. They do not understand that education will not only pay dividends in increased earning power, but will also add to their enjoyment of life.

The best advice that can be given the majority of Lubbock's young people, who have not finished high school, or college, is: go ahead and get an education!

From an unreliable source comes the report that the players on the national league baseball teams are so decrepit they run the bases in relays.

THE STORY: Brock Kittridge, hero flyer, is coming home to Daverton. Thayer, the girl he had known for 10 days on his last leave and then married, nervously awaits his return. Brock's mother, antagonistic to Thayer, invites his childhood sweetheart, Moya, to go to the airport with them to meet him. Brock is helped off the plane. He is on crutches. One leg is gone.

• • •

IV

"We must get you home, darling," Mrs. Kittridge had assumed command, something new in her voice, her very carriage. "The car is right over here. Judson, you and Hildreth are coming up to the house, of course."

They were at the car now. "Thayer is driving," Mrs. Kittridge said. "Careful, darling, of the step." The rear door was opened and Brock assisted inside. Thayer saw the savage clamping of his teeth on his lower lip and his dark flush as a crutch caught against the door. He tried to smile. "I'm not used to these things yet." Mrs. Kittridge spoke tenderly before anyone else could find words. "We'll look after you, darling. Just take your time . . . You help, Judson. There, now . . ."

Oh, thought Thayer fiercely, why don't they leave him alone?

"I'll ride in front, Thayer," Moya said.

"Judson can drive," Hildreth interrupted crisply, "and Moya can go with me."

"No, this is fine," Mrs. Kittridge said smoothly. "We'll see you at the house. Comfortable now, son? Look, Emersons are waving. Everyone is so happy."

So they came home, with Thayer driving and Moya turned toward the two on the rear seat, talking and laughing.

• • •

It took only a few moments to reach the house. Now, Thayer thought as they pulled up and were joined by the Judson Kittridges whose car was already parked. Now she and Brock would have a chance to be alone. Then as, a slowly-moving little group, they came through the big front door panic suddenly raced through her and she knew that she was frightened.

Inside the house they all paused while Emma came from the kitchen, crying and laughing into her apron, trying to keep her eyes from the pinned-up trouser leg, the effort only calling attention to it the more. "But you're home!" The spoken end of an unuttered thought, then sobs getting the better of her laughter.

"All right now, Emma," Mrs. Kittridge taking over. "We'll want dinner early; it's been a long day for my son."

"I guess I am — tired, Mom" Brock's voice tight with strain.

Thayer slipped her hand into his, feeling it like ice, knowing her own was little warmer. "You can rest before dinner," she said.

Then, as if on cue, all eyes coming into focus on one thing—that long winding flight of polished steps leading to the second floor. A sort of horror gripping Thayer. If all of them stood there, helping, pulling at him, shaming him . . .

She said clearly, quietly, "I think you can manage best without help, Brock, just taking your own time." For an instant his eyes turned to her.

Mrs. Kittridge's voice was not raised as Thayer heard thunder in it. She looked, not at her daughter-in-law but at Judson Kittridge. "I talked to Dr. Pelham, Judson, at great length. He feels it would be an unnecessary hazard for Brock to attempt the stairs just yet. No," she continued as Brock made a move to speak, and her eyes were full of tenderness, "Mother knows best. Thayer knows I'm right, don't you, Thayer? All of us have one thought—what is good for you, Brock." She smiled serenely into the stunned silence, avoiding Hildreth's hardening face and Thayer's blank astonishment. "I had Emma dust the little room at the end of the hall which was Grandfather's. We put some things in to make it more comfortable. Darling boy, you do look tired. Now you must rest before dinner, for we're having everything you like best."

Hildreth spoke before anyone else could. "Well, we're running along. Can we drop you somewhere, Moya?"

"I have my car, thank you, but I must run," Moya said sweetly. "Im meeting Julie at the club. Grand knowing you're back, Brock."

"Well, let's not stand here," Hildreth said tartly and with briskness herded her husband and Moya out of the house before her.

• • •

It was very quiet in the big hallway. "Watch out for this small rug, Brock," said Mrs. Kittridge and the three of them moved toward the room at the end of the hall.

Thayer had to relinquish Brock's hand so he could manipulate the crutches. She walked beside him, inwardly tensing for what she felt was coming.

Mrs. Kittridge threw open the door. A shaft of sunlight fell on the coverlet of the single bed. Beside the bed a large chair and ottoman crowded a chest of drawers and a desk. Beyond the bed a door opened to a terrace and the garden. "Here we are," said Mrs. Kittridge and would have gone in, but Thayer was before her.

"I will help him," Thayer said evenly, "if he needs any help."

Like two opposing forces the girl's eyes and those of her mother-in-law met in combat. For the space of seconds only they stood thus, the will of one at grips with the will of the other, but to Thayer it seemed the clash of their struggle must be audible.

Then, moving to avoid his wife, Brock bumped awkwardly into the doorjamb and caught himself with difficulty. Dislike leaped at Thayer from his mother's eyes "Help him, then," Mrs. iKttridge said, very low, and Thayer felt her face flame as if it had been slapped.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

WE WENT to a friend's house here in Connecticut last evening and, after a delicious dinner of spaghetti with meat balls, salad, cantelope a la mode and coffee, we sat around the living room and talked.

There were seven of us — all what you would call pretty sophisticated people, sophistication meaning the cynicism you acquire by experience and disappointments.

BRANDEIS

One of the seven, an officer in Army Intelligence, told us of the extraordinary experiences he had with "table tipping."

For instance, there was a fellow out in Hollywood, he told us, who had stomach trouble.

So they had a table tipping seance and the table spelled out the name of a health food of which he had never heard. He went out and bought the health food, and, lo and behold, it cured his stomach trouble!

We laughed and told him that we didn't believe a word of it, so he offered to give us a demonstration.

• • •

He got a little table and four of the seven sat around it and laid their hands on it.

Sure enough, pretty soon the table began to tip and give signals, but it refused to answer a single question that was asked.

Our friend, the army officer, dismissed the failure with the explanation that some times spirits are in a gay mood and like to play with their questioners.

I can't explain the tipping, but I am convinced that the whole thing is a terrible fake. Yet the table tipped, and all of us were rather pensive for the rest of the evening.

Toward 11, one of the guests offered to read my fortune from a deck of cards.

Just for the fun of it, I consented, and she told me that a young fellow would soon make trouble for me. I had told a woman something very bad about him, and this woman had carried my remarks back to him and he was very angry with me.

• • •

NONSENSE, of course, and yet I kept on think and thinking and thinking to what woman I might have said something about whom. And I am still trying to remember.

We all know that fortune telling and table tipping and all that sort of thing is sheer nonsense.

And yet, there is something weird and uncanny about the whole darn thing and we wonder whether, perhaps, after all—

What is it about us that makes us so susceptible to everything that is mysterious and occult?

Could it be that we don't know whence we came and where we are going? That all of life and its beginning and end is a mystery?

"Could be," in the words of Baby Snooks

The National Whirligig

The Background Of Reconversion

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE PROMPT re-employment of discharged war workers and service people will depend on how quickly such primary industries as automobile, construction, mechanical household goods and new conditioning producers (heating and cooling) can be brought back into production. They are the pay-off units of the tightly integrated system of American economy.

It is in these fields that the bulk of the nation's 40 million basic workers earn their living directly or indirectly. Those who labor in allied or accessory branches — minerals, parts, transportation, distribution, servicing—cannot return to their old positions or obtain new ones until the major industries listed above have been given the green light by the government, and have also solved their own problems.

Others dependent on the prosperity of these groups are those who provide the raw and finished materials which feed and clothe and service this industrial army.

TUCKER

Even when Washington has loosened all controls, these great factories will face manifold difficulties of their own. They must scrap outworn and specialized machinery now cluttering their plants. They must get new machine tools and parts and a trained and skilled force.

It is estimated, for instance, that 5,000 small concerns employing less than 500 people each are needed to make and send to Detroit the various gadgets which go into the assembly of an automobile.

Federal officials estimate that every employable person released from factories and the armed forces through 1945 can be absorbed quickly if reconstruction in these heavy lines can be completed by next New Year's Day.

Unfortunately, a post-Hitler survey suggests that it may take from nine to 15 months before the large employing units will be able to meet the demands of the workers and the consumers.

• • •

GOODS: Here is an industrial time chart showing when these key factories should be looking for help on a sufficiently large scale to furnish millions of jobs. It also indicates when various classes of prospective purchasers, who have been starved since before Pearl Harbor, may be able to satisfy their wants. it represents the latest and best judgment of experts from management, labor and government.

Automobiles: This industry, which gives work to 5,000,000 people directly or indirectly, is the bellwether in the parade to recovery and prosperity. It can replace present equipment in four to six months, and obtain labor and materials for 50 per cent of capacity output in eight months. But all-out production may not be possible for at least 15 months.

Millions of workers in iron and steel, light metal, automobile glass and body lines will be adversely affected by the delay.

Construction: Skilled and unskilled workers will be available almost immediately. But shortages of lumber, copper, tin, heavy metals and electrical equipment will prevent large-scale operations — homes, factories, highways, bridges, public buildings — for at least a year. Customers for postwar houses will naturally wait until the most modern interior improvements are on the market, thus deferring actual orders for new building.

Household goods: Mechanical refrigerators, washing machines, conditioning and deep freeze plants, as well as other wartime developed appliances, will not hit peak production for a year, affecting both housewives and their working husbands. Ordinary heating and plumbing apparatus will swamp the shelves in from three to six months.

In short, it will require about the same time to shift from a war to a peace economy as it did to perform the reverse.

The United States swung into emergency gear at the time of the fall of France in June of 1940. It was not until the Spring of 1941, however, that we began to hit our stride. It was November of 1942 before the mobilization of our industrial manpower and resources was massive enough to support the Eisenhower invasion of North Africa.

• • •

UNEMPLOYED: The human side of the reconversion problem consists of finding steady and well-paid jobs for approximately 18,000,000 people who will be unemployed. Washington keeps in mind, however, that these potential jobless are not the only folks concerned. Unless they can be placed, every wage earner will suffer.

The 18,000,000 represent about 11,000,000 who will quit the uniform and 7,000,000 newcomers to industry who will want to continue at machines.

Positions that will disappear include about 1,600,000 in aircraft, 1,300,000 in shipbuilding, 1,800,000 in ordnance factories, 300,000 in war chemicals and 1,600,000 in federal emergency agencies.

It is estimated that about 40,000,000 people employed in private industry and agriculture, and about 4,400,000 working for Uncle Sam and state or local governmental units will not be affected at all.

• • •

BOOM: Seven of the 18,000,000 are expected to leave the labor market for good in the postwar period—4,500,000 women, 1,500,000 retirable men, 500,000 soldiers returning to school and 500,000 who will be entitled to pensions. So that leaves 11,000,000 to worry about.

It is thought, on the basis of surveys, that there will be room for 2,000,000 workers in the understaffed agricultural field. Perhaps another million will enter the construction industry, where employment has decreased by about that number even in wartime.

The Army and Navy, which will be kept at a fairly high level, should absorb an additional million in active service, in the supply and clerical bureaus. The remaining 7,000,000 provide the basic and residual difficulty. There may be a place for them in manufacturing, retail and service lines that have been sharply curtailed since 1941.

More women than originally estimated may go back to the home. With federal aid, thousands of GIs will probably start in business for themselves as proprietors of small selling agencies, repair shops, restaurants, laundries, groceries, barber shops etc.

Indeed, the experts look for a big boom in the field of personal service, based on the fact that war wages enabled millions to spend their money on such luxuries for the first time in their lives.

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

RESULT'S of today's special election in Texas will not be known officially until Sept. 10 — maybe not until Sept. 15.

And it may be necessary to wait on the official count to determine the result of some of the proposals.

County commissioners courts are directed by the election law to meet the Monday after the election, canvass returns tor the county and forward the results to the Secretary of State.

Secretary of State Claude Isbell, however, is not permitted to open returns from the counties until 15 days after the election, excluding the day of election. That will carry the time to Sept. 14 which is on Sunday, so the canvassing board will meet Monday, Sept. 15.

Members of the board are the Governor, the Attorney General and the Secretary of State.

Need for the official count is possible, especially on two of the proposals. When the vote was taken once before on increasing the membership of the State Supreme court, early returns indicated a victory for the proposal. The official count, however, showed the plan defeated badly.

You would seldom feel like patting yourself on the back if you knew what people were saying about you behind it.

Red Cross Chief In Europe Doing Fine Job

Kissing Tradition Is Reversed!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Thomas L. Stokes, one of The Morning Avalanche's top correspondents in Washington, is enjoying a brief vacation. During his absence, his space will be filled by Bill Cunningham, former Texan and lately a nationally known sports writer, commentator, war correspondent and magazine author; and by other outstanding writers.)

• • •

By BILL CUNNINGHAM
Special Correspondent

PARIS—This is largely to inform a Vassar freshman named Weezie Carroll that she'd better write rather firmly to her Old Man. I saw 20 pretty French girls kiss him in succession here before a large and delighted throng, and between his blushes and the lipstick, he was finally so red all north of the neck that a jocund GI in back shouted "Let him up, folks, he's all covered with blood."

You see, Your Honor, it happened like this. Fred A. Carroll, of Massachusetts in general, is doing a truly magnificent job here as commissioner of the American Red Cross for Great Britain and Western Europe. To that, I can testify, for I've been watching him do it. He got here in time to supervise personally the reception and rehabilitation of our released prisoners of war, and he's gone on from there handling the swiftly changing scene and the vastly increased problems of morale in a fashion of which his friends and his nation can really be proud.

• • •

He's Doing A Job

I've never seen a man work harder, nor lead a more Spartan existence. I've never seen one more honestly homesick either. He misses the folks and his office, his golf and his swims. He talks about Bob in the Pacific and Weezie's leaving for Vassar, and all the rest of the Carrolls, including Ma, and what she means when she occasionally says to him "Here's your hat." He's doing quite a job for these GIs still sweating it out. He's just as homesick as they are. He's strictly one with them. Therefore he understands them and can handle their problems the better.

• • •

BUT to get to the kissing business, just as we've had a lot of volunteer hostesses and helpers serving in the various canteens in the states, so have the daughters of the French families been serving in the canteens over here They really have straffed the Red Cross establishments since Paris was liberated a year ago. Our workers have been in there, too, but the feminine French volunteers have been faithful and valuable.

So, it was decided to recognize officially the service of those who had completed 1000 hours of volunteer service. It was decided that each should be decorated with an especial pin.

The plans, therefore were made, the ceremony prepared, the young ladies were assembled before their parents, friends and the ever present GIs, the commissioner appeared in his best gray suit and Homburg, the fanfare was sounded and the ceremony began. Somebody, however, had decided to frame the gentleman from Massachusetts, and all the young ladies were in on the deal.

• • •

French Are Affectionate

When the French pin a medal on somebody, even a hero of the battlefield the decorator, of course, concludes the ceremony by gravely kissing the decoratee on each cheek, whiskers and sideburns included. These effervescent mamselles, decided that since an American was doing the decorating, they'd switch it the other way just for fun. But no one told the distinguished commissioner, likewise evidently, just for fun.

So with requisite dignity at the proper moment, he stepped forward to the first young lady, giving a slight bow and smiling his Sunday smile, and he succeeded in pinning the pretty Red Cross emblem to her blue uniform with efficiency and likewise with eclat. He had barely dropped his hands and prepared to step clear however when the young lady upped and bussed him with a resounding smack on the left side of his countenance and then on the right. The same thing happened 1900 more times.

• • •

THE Red Cross is really a tremendous operation over here. The work with his GIs is only part of it. In Western Europe, alone, meaning France, Belgium and Holland, a total of $19,700,697.69 worth of relief supplies have been distributed since our troops were able to crack the continent. Of this, more than $10,500,000 has been given to French civilians.

Statistics are dull, but these have saved lives. The Red Cross has distributed, through the French Red Cross and other agencies, two and a half million garments produced by ARC chapters in the United States. It's passed out 23 million units of insulin, 27 tons of badly needed drugs, 70,000 nipples and sealing caps, 25 tons of toilet articles and comforts for the French soldiers, and so on. The same proportions hold for the smaller nations of Belgium and the Netherlands.

• • •

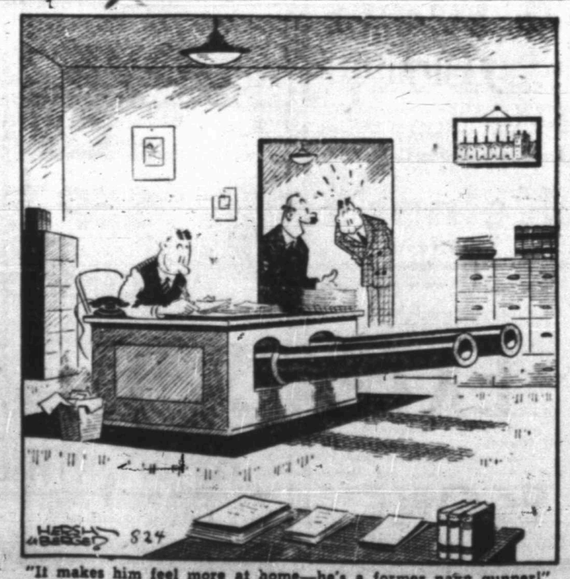

He Works For Humanity

The other day here the American Red Cross turned over 20 fully equipped 'disaster units," meaning special trucks like clubmobiles, to the French Red Cross, explaining that the French could do whatever they wished with them, taking off the bodies and converting them to trucks to help the transportation problems, for example.

It's a big job. The handling of it requires a big man. He's such a quiet gentleman that some of his friends may never have thought about it, but this Mr. Carroll is an executive of stature. He must be all right, for all his staff seems to like him. And he's hitting a powerful lick for humanity.

Catfish is the most widely used fish in Texas.

News Briefs

Fifty-one boys and girls from the Booker T. Washington park playground were taken on an inspection tour of the Lubbock downtown fire station yesterday. Mrs. Gladys Sims, director of story-telling, camping and hiking activities for the City Recreation department, was in charge of arrangements for the visit. Mrs. Marvell White, supervisor of the Washington playground, Dr. J. A. Chatman, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Mathis accompanied the children. Fire Chief W. E. Twitty explained the operations of the department and the proper way to turn in a fire alarm.

Eddie D. Nelson, 17, posted $500 bond Friday on a forgery charge filed in the court of D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, it was learned at the county jail.

Former First Lt. Murrell Busby, 26, and Mrs. Busby are in Lubbock visiting at the 1508 Thirtieth residence of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Trego. Busby was discharged recently from the AAF after four years of service, much of which was spent with the First Rescue squadron of PBYs in the Italian area. He lived at Cotton Center before his induction and had studied a year and a half in the engineering division of Texas Tech. He plans returning to Tech for study under the GI Bill of Rights.

BARS NOT TO CLOSE

AUSTIN, Aug. 24. (AP)—State law does not require the cessation of liquor, beer and wine sales during tomorrow's election of constitutional amendments, state liquor administrator Bert Ford said today.

Both CIO and AFL loosed campaigns to get boys and girls out of jobs and into classrooms.

With unexpected suddenness WPB yanked off every limit on the use of paper by the printing and publishing industry, except newspapers.

Lid Off Otherwise

But the lid is off now for magazines, books, commercial printing —even greeting cards, wall paper and post cards.

Newsprint, mostly imported, is still scarce. So the newspaper order stands. It limits publishers to a paper usage well below that of 1941.

WPB is "considering" an amendment to bring other users of newsprint under the newspaper order.

Removal of penicillin controls is less significant. They were almost gone already. But WPB said its action meant there would be "ample" supplies for the public.

Crucial Farm Problems

Like industry, farming faced crucial problems.

In the next few years it could flood the market—and ruin itself —with its own newly-developed capacity to produce food.

Agriculture Secretary Anderson may be—if possible — plagued with food surpluses before the year's end. And if industry can't maintain a high national payroll, food buying may drop off.

Then he might have to ask farmers to cut down on some of their 1946 crops.

The War department said it would cut its buying of 1945 canned vegetables 44 per cent below July estimates. Of canned fruit, 46 per cent. That means more for civilians, but it betokens trouble ahead for the farmer.

Essair Set For Passenger Runs

First official flight of Essair, second passenger airplane connecting Lubbock with the outside, is slated when one of the line's Lockheed 12s (Lodestar) takes off from Amarillo this morning for the south run to Houston.

The twin-engine plane will make 10-minute stops at Lubbock, Abilene, San Angelo and Austin, and will land at Houston at 1:36 p. m., five hours and two minutes out of Lubbock.

Welcoming Party

Mayor Overton W. Ribble will be Lubbock's official representative aboard, and officials and press members from other cities along the route will join Maj. William F. Long, Essair president, and L. H. Luckey, vice president, both of Dallas, for the flight.

At Houston there will be an informal program arranged tonight for the airline's guests, who will fly back Sunday afternoon.

Essair officials said the southbound schedule was:

Leave Amarillo, 7 a. m., Lubbock 8:34, Abilene 9:56, San Angelo 10:54, Austin 12:24 p. m., and land at Houston Municipal airport at 1:36 p. m.

The north flight:

Leave Houston at 2 p. m., Austin 3:21, San Angelo 4.51, Abilene 5:44, arrive at Lubbock at 6:49 and Amarillo at 7:50.

Ships In Readiness

Essair has two ships ready to commence its carrying of paid passengers, another plane in reserve and still another on which modifications are being made, it had been announced. Each carries the crew of two and nine passengers—one seat having been removed for installation of radio equipment which assures the utmost in safety provisions.

Plans for more formal programs along the route from Amarillo to Houston were dismissed Thursday for lack of time after the CAA had advised Essair that the line might begin its passenger service today, officials had explained.

Surrender Plans

government joint communique said that armed Japanese forces would be withdrawn from the occupation zones "to avoid complications." Those in the area around Tokyo were reported all clearing out today.

MacArthur also told the Japanese to get communications ready at once and to be prepared to hand over broadcasting stations, telephones and cables when needed.

Small Advance Landing

The first occupation party to touch down on Japan's long-inviolate soil will be the small force of expects which tomorrow will arrive at Atsugi airfield, 18 miles from the imperial palace in the heart of Tokyo and about the same distance from imperial headquarters.

There two days hence members of the imperial general staff will turn out to meet MacArthur and his heavily-armed forces and get further orders.

With the help of Japanese labor, the experts will get the cramped runways at Atsugi ready for the swarm of transports and bombers which will begin shuttling troops into Japan with MacArthur's arrival.

Tokyo said the airfield was a muddy mess after the typhoon, which howled over the Tokyo area Wednesday. It wrecked 291 homes, damaged 780 others, flooded 3,336 more and disrupted railway service as well as communications.

New Typhoon Fades Out

Yet another typhoon was roaring up from the Philippines toward Okinawa, where 300 planes were poised ready to carry 7,500 heavily-armed troops to Atsugi in the first occupation wave.

(NBC later reported from Okinawa that this second typhoon had faded out and that in the opinion of weather experts the occupation would not be hampered by any small typhoon off Iwo Jima.)

Tokyo advised MacArthur that his pre-occupation orders were being obeyed, and that all ship movements had ceased.

It also announced that Emperor Hirohito had ordered immediate cessation of all hostilities "where Japanese forces are in direct contact with the Allied armies" as in Manchuria, northern Korea, in Sakhalin island and the Kuriles, all north of the homeland.

The Japanese said disarming was "on the whole complete" in most of this area, but that their forces still were armed and forced to fight in self defense in parts of China, where they claimed disorders were spreading.

The Terry roads, it was claimed, would "provide farmers in many sections of the county with all-weather hard-surfaced roads, and would serve as a road network to a number of oilfields." They also would "comprise a part of the gigantic reconversion program planned by the government and would find county funds matched with those from the state and federal sources."

PRICES AT 5-YEAR HIGH

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—Motors and rubbers led the stock market on a relatively strong advance today and put the industrial average at its highest level in more than eight years.

Buying of automotive and tire company issues following action of he WPB in removing all quoas for new passenger car production put the list on its feet and closing gains of one to more than three points were widely distributed. Transfers totalled 1,320,000 shares compared with 1,190,000 Thursday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced .8 of a point to 65.9. The industrial composite climbed 1.2 points to 88.4, a top since Aug. 4, 1937. Rails limited their gain to .4 and the utilities to .3. Of 933 issues appearing, 655 were in the plus column, 120 in the minus and 158 unchanged.

At peaks for the year or longer were Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville and Radio Corp.

Conspicuous on the perch were General Motors, Graham-Paige, Studebaker, Hudson Motors, Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, American Telephone, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, Glenn Martin, Du Pont, Standard Oil (NJ) and Eastman Kodak.

Bonds improved in most departments.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP) — Cotton futures closed firm today with gains of 30 to 65 cents a bale as aggressive mill buying together with short covering met a scarcity of offerings.

In early dealings the market had reacted as much as 45 cents a bale on hedge selling and liquidation. Strength in outside markets, a strong technical position following a recent heavy selling pressure, and a more optimistic sentiment on the export situation accounted for the rise.

Private advices reported mill demand for spot cotton during the past week was practically absent due to the confusion over the reconversion situation.

All awards are posthumous, awarded by the government in honor of the men who distinguished themselves in combat. Two of the awards will be Silver Stars, among the highest honors in the nation.

Drowning Report Is Believed Unfounded

A report Thursday afternoon from two negro boys that a negro child, about 6, had drowned at the city disposal plant was believed by police and juvenile authorities without foundation after investigation and a fruitless search by firemen for the body.

However, the child, identified as Henry Armstrong, was still unaccounted for last night, according to police. His mother is dead and his father was reported "working somewhere in the country."

The pair had told the young daughter of Catherine Johnson, a negro woman, that the youngster had disappeared in a 24-foot square tank at the plant, where they had gone to swim.

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty said the tank had been thoroughly dredged without a trace of a body. Officers said the boys who reported the case told several "conflicting stories."

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dendy of Route 1, Petersburg, on birth of a daughter weighing 7 pounds 8 ounces at 6:45 o'clock Friday night at West Texas hospital. The father is a farmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Tidwell of Route 1, Shallowater, on birth of a daughter weighing 9 pounds at 10:55 o'clock Friday night at St. Mary's hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Jones of Abernathy on birth of a daughter weighing 4 pounds 4 ounces at 7:15 o'clock Friday night at West Texas hospital.

What Are The Seven New Things That Come After The 1,000 Year Kingdom!

SUNDAY EVENING BIBLE MESSAGE 8 O'CLOCK

Text: 'And I saw a great white throne and Him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and Heaven fled away." Revelation.

Will there be a new earth? And a new Heaven?

What is meant by the new nations?

Will these new things be literal things?

Will there be a new city? If so who will be its inhabitants?

What is the great abdication? Who is the one who will abdicate?

What are the other new things as found in Gods word?
