Draws Praise As Model Service

Ambulance Service Begins New Phase Of Operations

Starting Monday, Mitchell County Ambulance Service will have drivers from the city police department and will be manned by two drivers in emergency calls.

For transfers and sick calls, only one driver will be needed.

Anyone making a call to the police department for ambulance service should explain to the dispatcher if it is an emergency or not so that two men can make the call if needed.

The ambulance service number, 728-2624, is answered by the police dispatcher under a new phone network.

Charges are higher for emergency calls, $35 for emergencies and only $25 for transfers or other calls and Police Chief Jesse Browning said that the $35 charge would be made to a calling party if the nature of the call is not specified when phoned in. In other words, if a calling party does not spell out the nature of the call, the police department will assume it is an emergency and respond as they would for an emergency.

When the ambulance service was first organized about a year ago, the city, county and hospital district each supplied drivers for the ambulance and each supplied money to get the service going. The three agencies will still be in charge of operating the service, but only the police department will supply drivers.

The change is meant to be a change for the better to speed up service as the police department has been handling the phone calls for the service for some time, the ambulance itself is parked in a garage behind the police station and city patrolmen have indicated that they like to make the ambulance runs because of the extra money they can earn.

The local ambulance service has gained some recognition statewide as a model way of organizing an ambulance service.

Bob Gallagher, director of West Central Texas Council of Governments, gave the service high praise during a recent governor's conference in San Antonio when the topic of re-organizing ambulance service in rural areas came up.

Gallagher said there was an ambulance service in a small West Texas city which had met the problems of re-organizing to meet state requirements and to serve the needs of the county and community. He later told Mitchell County Judge Bill Carter that he did not specifically name the service but that Carter should be ready to answer inquiries.

That mention by Gallagher was probably the reason that Judge Carter has been asked to be a speaker and serve on panel for the annual meeting at Texas A&M in February of the County Judges and Commissioners Courts.

Judge Carter said that it is unusual for a rural county to be included on the program but he will speak on the organization of the ambulance service here along with two other judges from throughout the state and also be a member of a panel that will answer questions posed by the attendance of between 800 and 1,200 people at the conference.

Mitchell County Ambulance Service was organized through the efforts of Paul Hunter from the county commissioners court, Eddie Piland from the city council and Wayne Shawn from the hospital board. Piland did not seek re-election to the city council and the council recently appointed Dr. Elton Berkman as the city's representative on the ambulance committee when Piland resigned, saying that he thought the city needed someone from the council on the board.

The idea they used as their basic guideline was to have the service operated by people already employed by the city, county and hospital district. Since the average number of calls would be about 12 per month, they envisioned the ambulance service as only a sideline for qualified employees and the employees were called from their regular duties at the city, county and hospital through the use of pocket pagers.

The system worked fairly well but the new way of letting all calls and driving be done by the police department is thought to be a speedier way of getting the ambulance into operation.

Financing is still to be split three ways among the city, county and hospital district and a new ambulance will soon be purchased through a government grant which will pay half the cost.

The new ambulance will have an extensive set of equipment and a new radio communications system which will give direct communication to the hospital for use during emergencies.

Cost of the ambulance, half the total cost, will be $13,685 and will be split as follows: $3,750 each to the city, county and hospital district and $2,435 to be paid by the ambulance service itself.

Hunter explained that $200 is banked each month by the service as a contingency fund to replace equipment from time to time so the service can pay the remaining $2,435 for the new ambulance.

He also said that arrangements for a 200-hour training school are currently being worked out by the Texas Department of Health Resources, the agency which made the federal grant for the new ambulance available. Each of the drivers must be certified as EMTs (Emergency Medical Technician) but the details of arranging a school have not yet been formulated. Hunter, as well as all the policemen drivers, are hoping that the course can be taught by Western Texas College in its Wallace Center campus here in Colorado City.

A meeting of the ambulance committee will be called as soon as a lease agreement is forwarded by the Dept. of Health Resources, Hunter said. If it is agreeable, then the contract for the new ambulance will be signed but it will be over six months before delivery can be made, he said.

All bookkeeping for the ambulance service is handled by dispatcher Gloria Erwin, who has attended two conferences in Lubbock and Midland which have been helpful in showing ways the Medicare and Medicaid paperwork should be submitted for payment. Her training has aided the service in that she has been able to collect on accounts which were thought to be a write off to be borne by the service.

Town Talk

By MAC McKINNON

It looks like this is going to be another busy holiday season in Mitchell County.

Anyone who complains there isn't anything to do must not be looking for something to do. That is one complaint that is often voiced by residents of small towns.

However, it is seldom if ever true in Colorado City.

Many nights there is too much to do. Consider this past Tuesday night when there was a city council meeting, a hospital board meeting, a free microwave demonstration at the Civic Center sponsored by Ramage Appliance, a county-wide Thanksgiving service at First Baptist Church and basketball games at Wolf Gym.

Consider Thur day night, Nov. 20, when the Chamber of Commerce's Cultural Committee was presenting a program, there was a stock show meeting, basketball games at Wolf Gym and the sport booster club was having a dinner honoring Colorado City's coaches at the Civic Center.

The dinner honoring coaches was well attended with speeches given by Schools Superintendent Lloyd McKee, High School Principal Bill Everett and ex-coach Bob Reily.

The coaching staff is to be commended for the fine athletic records thus far in this school year as the girls volleyball team won district and the football team won their last three ball games to end up with a 5-5 season, the best since 1970. Prospects are good in basketball, track, tennis and golf for the rest of the school year.

In addition to that the Wolves are looking forward to a fine year in football next year as the team is losing only five seniors this year. Those five seniors will be sorely missed and will be hard to replace but in other positions the Wolves are exceptionally strong.

The police department got slightly upset with the Record when we reported last week that the sheriff's department now has an answering service at night. What I failed to explain was that telephone calls to the sheriff's department at night are answered by the police department, so it is not simply an answering service.

Incidentally, Mrs. Marvin Hale's name is Bessie and not Pansy. The Record muffed the identification in a mix-up of names under a picture about the opening of Hale's Westbrook Grocery. We apologize for that mistake.

And to all the people on Route 2. No, your route number hasn't changed and Bob Motley hasn't started carrying another route. He is still on Route 2, although the caption under a picture about the patriotic paint job on his pickup said that he was the carrier for Route 3. Bob said we also gave him some credit he didn't deserve as he didn't make the cover for the bed of the pickup. Those were some more of our mistakes.

The downtown business scene is rapidly changing with Town & Country Furniture scheduled to open Dec. 8 and Western Auto may possibly re-open as early as mid-January.

In addition, Security Corner is planning a move early next year from the 1000 block of Hickory to the building across the alley from the Palace Theatre. Speaking of the Palace, have you seen all the changes Ed

Details Of Cemetery Care To Be Studied

The city council, at its next meeting, December 9, will appoint members to a Cemetery Committee which will work out details for forming a cemetery fund, plans for cemetery care and maintenance and perhaps form a cemetery association.

All of these ideas were discussed during the last council session with a number of interested citizens on hand to present their views.

Colorado City Mayor Larry Hamner and city manager James Campbell both gave details of problems the city has had in maintaining the cemetery in the past and both expressed hope that the cemetery committee can come up with ways to meet these problems.

The cemetery is a large one and an old one, dating back to the early 1900's. Some of the land is privately owned. There aren't enough water lines. The lots are uneven, some have fences or shrubs which cause problems in keeping them mowed. There are too many roads for proper maintenance, and, most noticeable to a passing observer, there are too many weeds like grassburrs throughout the cemetery.

All of the above problems were outlined during the council session, including another one--money.

"The city just cannot pay for all of the improvements needed at the cemetery with its present budget," that thought was expressed by most of the council members as well as Hamner and Campbell.

The cemetery committee will probably list two city council members and eight non-public members in its ranks, according to a suggestion made by councilman Dr. Elton Berkman.

In leading off the discussion, Campbell said the city lacks the equipment and work force to care for the cemetery properly, pointing out that it is large and has some special problems of maintenace -- fences, shrubs, uneven lots, etc.

"All of the land is not owned by the city," Campbell said. "The IOOF section is privately owned and I understand that there are some restrictions on that as to what can be done."

The city does own the two new sections of the cemetery but Hamner said even then, there are problems with water lines, curbs and drifted dirt.

Recommendations were made by some of those present as to how funds could be raised for cemetery maintenance.

Bill Seale, partner in Kiker-Seale Funeral Home here, told about the small cemetery where his parents are buried. A cemetery association was formed and each lot owner assessed $125 per space, he said. The money was used to put in new curbs and level the area for easy maintenance and it is now a beautiful cemetery, Seale said.

Huron Dorn expressed his idea of forming a Memorial fund so that people could

Harkins Says Voters Still Registered

Although some confusion still exists about voter registration, Mitchell County tax assessor-collector C. G. (Skeet) Harkins says that Mitchell County voters need not worry about being registered until March 1.

That's when all the old registrations will be thrown out and re-registration will be made.

A statewide mailout of new voter registration forms was supposed to be underway at the present time but that has been delayed pending results of a suit brought by three Central Texas residents who are contesting the constitutionality of the mailout form of registration.

Until Harkins gets communication from State Secretary of State Mark White's office, he says the forms will not be mailed out here and those persons currently registered to vote will still be registered.

"We have the rolls ready to purge but we're holding them as they are until we hear from the Secretary of State," Harkins said.

Scouts Need New Roof

Local Boys Scouts, Cub Scouts and others who use the Scout Hut in Ruddick Park are needing donations of money and roofing materials to put new shingles on the roof.

Scoutmaster Larry Hearn said the roof is leaking and needs to be replaced and the Scouting organization is without funds to do so. Hearn said if he is able to get enough money and materials donated, those involved in the local scouting organizations will be able to put the new roof on.

Items needed include about eight to nine squares of shingles, nails and a small number of boards to replace some wood in the roof of the Scout Hut.

Anyone interested in making contributions may do so by contacting Hearn at 728-5047.

Traveling Seminar Offered At WTC

Western Texas College will be offering its second Traveling Seminar June 7-27, Richard Lancaster, Seminar coordinator, has announced.

The seminar will take partiicpants to seven states in the southwestern and western portions of the United States and give them the opportunity to earn six hours of college credit. States to be visited outside Texas are Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah.

"We are planning the seminar to take the student from the fixed environment of the classroom and place him in the actual locations of historical, cultural and archeological interests in the American West," Lancaster said. "We would particularly like to invite adults into the seminar whether they are seeking college credit or personal enrichment."

Working with Lancaster in arranging the seminar is Dr. James Palmer, Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences and professor of history and geography at WTC. Lancaster, assistant professor of English, also arranged the first WTC seminar which toured eight states in the south and southweast last summer.

Registration is to open Dec. 12 and continue through May 26. The size of the class will be limited and filled on a first-come basis. Tuition and required fees will total about $665 and a deposit will be required to hold reservations in the seminar.

MR. FARMER & RANCHER:

This year, don't put the money from crops in a checking account! Put that money to work for you on a short or long term savings account at Colorado City Savings & Loan. Try our Short Term Savings for a day, a week or a month, where your money earns 5% from the day deposited to the day withdrawn. (For instance, if you deposit $10,000 for 30 days, your money would earn $41. However, there is no minimum or maximum). This is a tremendous plan for those who have some spare cash that will be needed in the near future. If you won't be needing that extra money in the near future, put it to work on a long term investment through our Certificates of Deposit or a regular savings account. Money deposited on long term by the 10th of the month earns from the first of the month. AND, Money deposited at Colorado City Savings & Loan on a long term, earns as much or more than anywhere in Texas.

MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK AS HARD AS YOU DO.

St. Luke Methodist Church

Colorado City

Then in the audience of all the people he said unto his disciples, "Beware of the Scribes, which desire to walk in long robes, and love greetings in the market, and the highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms of feasts; which devour widows houses, and for a show make long prayers; the same shall receive greater damnation."

St. Luke 20:45-47 (KJV)

The honors which the Scribes and Rabbis expected to receive, and did receive were quite extraordinary. During this period of time there were rules of precedence all carefully drawn up. Examples of these precedents would be; In the College, the most learned Rabbi took precedence; at a banquet, the oldest. It is in records that two Rabbis came in, after walking on the street, grieved and bewildered because not more than one person had greeted them with the term "My Master." So we see that Jesus was quite right every time He denounced the Scribes and Rabbis. It was after the Saducees had asked Jesus a question that they were addressed by question from Jesus. Then in the presence of all the people, denounced the type of religion that they were wearing. Jesus told his disciples to beware of these Scribes and Rabbis for they had the wrong kind of religion.

The mission of Jesus was to let people know of the individual and his role in the plan of God. God has a plan for each individual and each individual is created in the image of God. It is not a matter for religion to elevate one person to the place of people bowing to him and the rest of the people to have no function at all in the love of God.

It was not the purpose of Jesus to just denounce a group of leaders who were missing the mark of their day. It was to let people see the error that is so prominent in all ages. We have a very bad habit of wanting to elevate the person of self instead of the LOVE OF JESUS CHRIST. This is why people all around the world have developed a plan for the worship in some form. It may be anything from the true worship of God to a worship of satanic powers, or all the stages in between. This is because man has a spiritual nature within him and it demands of people that it be recognized as a part of their makeup. Jesus was talking about a problem that we have today the same as it was a problem in that day.

Can you worship God without any "crutches" to hold you up? Are you dependent of a particular form before you can worship? Are you always trying to defend yourself when people differ with you in the way of getting into an argument? Do you give the same freedom of thought and practice that you want yourself? In your thinking, do you always try to persuade yourself that you are not like other people? Do you believe that God favors you above other people? Do you think that God will answer your prayers and pass up other people who are praying? These are important questions for each of us to ponder. They will tell us if we are gradually growing toward becoming a full-fledged Scribe or Rabbi. This is why we need to make our learning about God and life and our actions and reactions a lifetime process. Think of these things as you re-evaluate your life in the way of true-christianity.

Social Security Numbers A Must

Some employers won't hire people unless they have a social security number so students and others planning to get holiday jobs should apply for a number without delay if they don't already have one, according to Don Minyard, Social Security Branch Manager in Big Spring.

"Delaying your application might prevent your employment or cause you to lose time and wages in a job requiring a social security number," Minyard said. "When you don't recall having had a social security number before, your application is screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure a second number isn't issued to you--and screening takes time."

"You should apply for your social security number at least several weeks before you need it for a job," he said. "You can get information about applying by calling or writing any social security office."

A worker builds disability, survivors, retirement and Medicare protection by work and earnings credited to his social security number. He gets credit if he's paid $50 or more in a 3-month calendar quarter for work covered by social security.

"Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life," Minyard said. "When you get a job covered by social security, be sure your employer copies your name and number correctly from your social security card to his record."

The Big Spring Social Security office is located at 501 Main. The phone number is 267-5226.

Walls has made there in recent months?

Two other businesses have opened during recent weeks, Joe Brown Carpets on Hickory and the Silver Horseshoe which is open during the day for breakfast and lunch and on Thursday nights plus they have started staying open on Saturday nights this week.

In addition to all this, a number of people have been in town recently and are considering opening small craft shops.

A number of people have been actively working on improving the appearance of the downtown area, including Ed Newton and City Manager James Campbell, as well as seeking new and varied types of businesses for Colorado City. Their efforts are greatly appreciated.

I would also like to voice my appreciation to everyone, especially State Rep. Elmer Martin of Colorado City, who worked to get the approval from the state for $1.19 million in improvements at Lake Colorado City State Park.

Those approvements received approval Tuesday from the Texas Parks And Wildlife Department commissioners. Bids could be let as early as this next spring and as late as next fall with completion of the improvements coming as early as next fall and as late as May 1977.

donate money to the cemetery in lieu of flowers.

"I've spent over $150 this past year for flowers that was wasted and could have been given to the cemetery," Dorn told the council. He said he got the idea after he attended the funeral of his grandson who was killed in a car wreck earlier this year and was buried in the Comanche cemetery. "It was a beautiful cemetery," Dorn said, "and the money for its maintenance was raised entirely through donations. I'd like to see us start something like that here and I've gone to some people and they've told me they would be glad to start things off by contributing $100 each and I would give $100."

Mrs. Charles C. Thompson, chair person of the Mitchell County Bicentennial Commission, told the council that she has heard many people say that they would like to see some type of lasting improvement to the cemetery as part of the county's observance of the Bicentennial.

"People have told me 'It's a disgrace' and I think your idea of a committee is good. The time is right to do something permanent and we should remember that it should be a beautiful as well as a restful place."

Councilwoman Jody Neff and Hamner both said they have had contacts by phone and mail from people concerned with care of the cemetery.

Tom Goss spoke up to tell the council that the county's historical society is concerned that the historical nature of the older part of the cemetery be preserved.

All council members gave this thought credence and said that could be done.

Councilwoman Marion Bassham expressed the thought that if a committee were formed, then people with cemetery lots would have someone to consult in making decisions over what type of plantings to make on the plots.

Seale said that a management group could have the function of clearing plantings.

Councilman J. O. Dockrey pointed out that the city would have to retain responsibility in case an association folded or became inactive and also asked about what to do in case permission as to what to do about a plot was unattainable.

"The city could pass an ordinance to take care of that," Campbell said, "and money raised would be used for immediate care, the rest going into a trust fund. That money can't be touched."

Campbell then explained that the city can pass an ordinance assuming responsibility for the cemetery but he also pointed out that such care is a subsidiary function of the city government and not part of the governmental function.

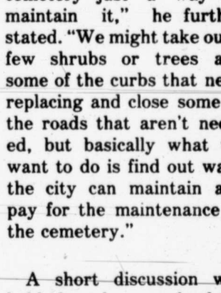

"We need to stay away from perpetual care and consider maintenance that would be more of a permanent care nature. The city could establish a permanent trust fund, with the city and individuals making contributions and a board of trustees to govern it. The city would also always be left to oversee it in case an association folded or quit," he said.

"We aren't contemplating any drastic change in the cemetery--just a way to maintain it," he further stated. "We might take out a few shrubs or trees and some of the curbs that need replacing and close some of the roads that aren't needed, but basically what we want to do is find out ways the city can maintain and pay for the maintenance of the cemetery."

A short discussion was held about how much of the cemetery improvement plans to include on a bond issue package the council is currently working on with Hamner making the recommendation that water line and taps, paving roads and installing some lights be part of the proposed package.

Councilman Rick Perkin also spoke up for including some improvements for the cemetery in the bond issue.

Final item discussed was when to appoint a committee and the decision was made to make the appointments during the next regular council meeting, which is Dec. 9.

The top plaque pictured here is a State Award for Low Cholesterol of Food Seminar given in October of 1974. The three smaller plaques are Heart and Torch Awards. Mitchell County has received one of these for three consecutive years. These plaques have been placed in the Root Memorial Hospital so the citizens can be recognized for their contributions.

SUCCESSFUL HUNTERS pictured here are Ross Shamburger, Jeff Shamburger and Kelley Welch, from left above. Ross and Kelley each bagged an 8-point and Jeff got a 7-point. The Shamburger boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Shamburger and Kelley and John Welch, below, are sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Welch. John is posing with the 10-point buck Bob Shamburger shot and the 8-point deer his father came home with.
