Weather variety reported in Texas

By The Associated Press

That one word best describes Texas weather over the past 24 hours.

Tornadoes, thunderstorms, high winds, freezing rain, snow, flash flooding all were reported over Texas as an Arctic cold front raced across the state. Temperatures dropped as much as 30 degrees in an hour as the front moved southward.

Sub-freezing temperatures were expected to extend from the Panhandle to the Gulf of Mexico on the upper Texas coast before warmer temperatures return early next week, the National Weather Service says.

Two tornadoes, described by the National Weather Service as "extremely rare" in December, roared down out of a stormy sky over Central Texas, injuring at least three persons and causing damage in the area around Georgetown and Round Rock.

Pennzoil jury award upheld

HOUSTON (AP) — A Texas judge upheld a landmark $10.53 billion judgment against Texaco Inc. for foiling Pennzoil Co.'s merger with Getty Oil Co., but it could be years before Pennzoil can collect a cent.

State District Judge Solomon Casseb Jr. on Tuesday approved the largest civil damage award in U.S. history after both oil companies accepted a plan designed to keep Texaco out of bankruptcy proceedings.

DAYS 'TIL CHRISTMAS

Interest already has brought the total award to $11.12 billion and will continue to accrue at an annual rate of 10 percent, beginning with Tuesday's judgement, Casseb said.

"We've waited two years for this and are very gratified at the outcome. What the judge did was a very courageous thing, in light of all the pressure that's been placed on him," Pennzoil Chairman J. Hugh Liedtke said, referring to Texaco claims that the award could bring the nation's third-largest company to its knees.

Texaco said it would ask for a new trial, and failing that would appeal the verdict, a process that attorneys said could take several years.

"We continue to believe that ultimately, this position will be vindicated," Texaco said in a statement.

To appeal, Texaco would first have to post a $12 billion bond, an amount approaching the company's $13.5 billion net worth.

Texaco purchased Getty Oil Co. last year for $10.1 billion, the second-largest merger in U.S. corporate history behind Chevron Corp.'s $13.3 billion purchase of Gulf Corp.

But a jury ruled Nov. 19 that Texaco unethically broke up a previous merger agreement between Getty Oil and Pennzoil Co.

Texaco has maintained it doesn't owe Pennzoil a penny — and certainly no more than $500 million for its thwarted merger attempt. The amount was based on the difference between the $112.50 a share price Pennzoil offered for Getty stock and the $128 a share Texaco paid.

Since the jury's verdict was returned, Texaco's stock has fallen from $39.29 to $30.50.

Ask Us

Q. — How much monies are owed to the City of Snyder and Scurry County by way of uncollected levied fines and court costs?

A. — Court officials say zero. To explain, after a suspect has gone through a hearing and is assessed a fine, he is at that time in the custody of the court. At that point, the choice is to pay the fine and court costs or to go to jail in lieu of these costs.

In Brief

Five arrested

BORGER, Texas (AP) — Five people are jailed today on an array of aggravated kidnapping and burglary charges after allegedly forcing their way into a home and demanding money, police say.

The five, one of whom police say toted a submachine gun, were arrested early Tuesday after a frantic woman phoned police for help, city Police Chief Mike Smith said.

The woman, one of two inside the house when five people pushed their way inside about 1:30 a.m., convinced the assailants she had no cash and that she would get some from a next-door neighbor, Smith said.

Stab inmate

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) — A Texas Department of Corrections inmate was hospitalized in fair condition after he was stabbed by a fellow prisoner, TDC officials said.

Richard Reyes, 20, an inmate at the TDC Coffield Unit, was stabbed once in the back and once in the chest Tuesday as two guards escorted him back to his cell from a shower.

A fund has been stablished at Snyder National Bank for Shirley Hagins who has been in the Lubbock Methodist Hospital ICU for the past three weeks. It is listed as the Shirley Hagins medical expense account.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Tuesday, 31 degrees; low, 25 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Wednesday, 25 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1985 to date, 27.45 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Cloudy and cold tonight with a 30 percent chance of freezing drizzle changing to light snow but less than 1 inch accumulation. Lows near 20. Wind north 10 to 15 mph. Cloudy and continued cold Thursday. Highs mid-30s. Wind northwest 10 to 20 mph.

Liability coverage approved

The Snyder Independent School District received one bid for its liability insurance coverage Tuesday, an estimate board members ultimately approved and administrative officials noted they felt "lucky to get."

Artie Butler, assistant superintendent for business, commented, "We paid $3,800 the last time for a three-year policy and I half expected to pay that again for one year."

The bid approved Tuesday was for $1,680 for 12 months of liability insurance — a branch of coverage all municipalities are finding it increasingly difficult to secure.

The lone bid was submitted by Texas School Services Foundation of Austin. This same group provides the district with property and casualty insurance.

The coverage is for up to $1 million with a $1,000 deductible per occurrence. The old policy was for $2 million in coverage.

The action came during the December meeting of the board. All trustees attended to include Mike Reed, board president, and trustees Charlene Light, J.M.

BLOOD DONORS — Don Jenkins and Leonard M. Broach were two of 71 potential donors who turned out Tuesday despite cold weather to participate in the last county blood drive of 1985. Only 62 pints were drawn, approximately one-half the number normally received here. Pictured signing up Jenkins and Broach to donate are Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary volunteers Dora White and June Taylor. (SDN Staff Photo)

Jobless estimate 4 percent

Snyder's unemployment figures rose again into the 4 percent range during October, according to the latest figures released by the Texas Employment Commission.

This estimates a civilian labor force of 10,566 individuals with 10,129 classified "employed." This leaves an out-of-work total of 437 for an estimate of 4.1 percent.

Freezing conditions provide local hazard

Freezing mist which coated bridges and overpasses after dark Tuesday is being blamed for several minor traffic mishaps reported in Scurry County Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning.

Department of Public Safety highway patrolmen took accident reports on five incidents involving property damage but took no reports on numerous reported mishaps where vehicles simply spun out or skidded off the roadway.

This included an incident reported in rural Scurry County Wednesday morning on U.S. 84 about 4 miles northwest of Dermott.

It involved a tractor-trailer rig pulling two trailers which jacknifed in the roadway, blocking traffic in the southbound lanes.

Two wreckers were required to straightened out the rig but no

Blood drive has 'chilly' reception

The cold front which moved into the Snyder area Tuesday morning also chilled participation in the final blood drive of 1985.

The response was approximately one-half the number which normally turn out here. Drive sponsors report 71 potential donors registered with nine of these deferred and 62 pints drawn.

Due to the poor response and the need for drive workers to return to Lubbock over icy roads, the drive was ended early at 7 p.m.

The effort did receive 10 first-time donors, however, and two long-time supporters received gallon pins. Charles Jones received his one-gallon pin and Ray Robbins received a two-gallon award.

First-time donors received a free Christmas ornament courtesy of United Blood Services of Lubbock, which sponsors all local drives in conjunction with the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

The next blood drive here is scheduled for Feb. 4.

Year's work profiled by 2 extension agents

Scurry County extension agents accounted for their hours spent in service to the community during a meeting with county commissioners Tuesday.

Marvin Ensor, extension agent for agriculture, and Kathryn Roberts, extension agent in home economics, presented their annual report to the court at 9 a.m. in the extension office.

A third report was given by County Entomologist Deanna Myers.

The reports, required by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, detail each agent's programs for 1985.

Ensor's primary work areas for the year included soil fertility and small grain production. He noted that although local farmers have grown wheat and other grains in the past, producers are planting more small grains as a supplement to cotton.

Demonstrations conducted by his department this year included a small grain forage test — testing various grains for greater forage yields — and fertility tests on small grains and cotton. He also conducted tests on wheat and oat varieties.

Ensor noted that his department experimented with cotton row patterns and plant population. Local producers hope the experiments will supply comparable yields on less acreage. He also offered tests on hay crop varieties, silage crop varieties, cotton varieties and Broom Snakeweed control on rangeland.

For the first time, the local Soil Conservation Service and the Snyder Chamber of Commerce assisted with the extension service's annual farm tour. Held

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Success is not permanent, but neither is failure."

More and more guys we know are stepping into the "retired" status. Jack Denman, former Sun Gas superintendent, is coming out of retirement to spend the next year as chamber of commerce president.

Denman has vowed to put the community first, but we suspect that he'll first get his home chores done before heading downtown.

Ask a wife with a retired husband what he's doing with his time and the composite answer of many wives with retired husbands might go like this:

He will tell you what time it is even when you don't ask.

–It is time to get up.

–It is time to remove the oil stain from the driveway before it spreads to the rest of the house.

–It is time to alphabetize your spices.

–It is time to eat.

–It is time to use the packet of yeast before it expires at noon tomorrow.

–It's time for you to clean my golf clubs.

–It's time to buy a new sack of nails, 'cause retired husbands like to drive nails anytime and anyplace.

A fellow up in north Texas had a big surprise last month. A Vernon police officer was eating lunch when he heard an explosion similar to a gunshot or sonic boom.

He looked out to see his 8-foot by 6-foot steel storm cellar rise out of the ground "like Jaws" and fall on its side. The man said the 3,500 pound cellar was covered with two feet of dirt and was apparently forced out of the ground by an accumulation of air pressure brought on by heavy rains in the area.

We read in the paper last week that a Florida town now has an X-rated bakery. For the most part, it's a typical hometown bakery with folks stopping by for doughnuts and coffee.

The real difference, with strong opposition by many in the community, are the waitresses who work topless.

That's what you call an early-morning eye-opener.

Pastor picked Baptists' chief

DALLAS (AP) — The Rev. Ernest N. Duncan, a Grand Prairie pastor, was elected executive board chairman Tuesday of the 2.3 million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The 61-year-old pastor of Fairview Baptist Church succeeds A. Edward Rogers, the head of Dumas' First Baptist Church who served the traditional two terms.

B.F. Risinger, pastor of Corsicana's First Baptist Church, was elected vice chairman of the 193-member board, which oversees operations of the BGCT between annual sessions.

Convention selects Marcos, vows to crush the revolt

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos, nominated by his party for another term in office today, chose an outspoken critic as his running mate for an election he called to blunt criticism of his 20-year-old government.

Meanwhile, Corazon Aquino, the widow of assassinated opposition leader Benigno Aquino, formally filed her candidacy to oppose Marcos in the Feb. 7 election. As hundreds of supporters cheered and showered confetti from office windows, Mrs. Aquino arrived at the Commission on Elections and told its chairman, "All I can hope for is that we all get justice."

A second opposition candidate, former Sen. Salvador H. Laurel, filed his candidacy Monday.

Marcos' nomination by a conference of his New Society Movement was guaranteed, but 74-year-old Assemblyman Arturo Tolentino only recently had surfaced as a frontrunner for the vice presidential nomination.

Marcos fired Tolentino as foreign minister earlier this year after he repeatedly criticized Marcos' law-making powers and economic policies. Tolentino originally challenged the constitutionality of Marcos' plan to hold a mid-term presidential election, but said last month that he would go along with the election with reservations.

Earlier today, Tolentino said if he were chosen to run for vice president he anticipated no problem with his stand on the election's constitutionality, but did not elaborate.

He later told the more than 8,600 party delegates inside the luxury Manila Hotel that his selection was "a pleasant surprise."

Marcos, whose current six-year term was to have expired in June 1987, was carried into the hotel ballroom on the shoulders of supports and was nominated by acclamation to be his party's candidate for president.

In a speech before the conference, Marcos did not name either Laurel or Mrs. Aquino, but accused his opponents of corruption, deceit, forgery, hypocrisy and preaching the "violence of a godless ideology."

"In the annals of our country, there is no comparable record of deceit and slander such as these would-be leaders have unleashed," he said.

Marcos also accused his opponents of trying to discredit the Philippine judiciary for having acquitted military men in the assassination of Benigno Aquino, who was gunned down as he returned home.

Jessica Tandy collapses on stage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jessica Tandy collapsed on stage during a performance of "Foxfire" and was hospitalized, but doctors said today the 76-year-old actress was in good condition and in no danger.

"She's doing fine," Good Samaritan Hospital nursing supervisor Dolores Mendez said today after talking to doctors. "There are no problems. She just fainted on stage and she will only be here overnight for observation."

Miss Tandy, who won rave reviews and a Tony award for her role as mountain woman Annie Nations, fainted at about 9:05 p.m. Tuesday. She wanted to continue, but her husband, "Foxfire" co-star Hume Cronyn, said no.

"We don't know exactly what happened," stage manager Martha Knight said at the downtown Ahmanson Theater, where the play opened Nov. 22. "She was sitting on stage and she just tumbled over."

Christmas Social Slated

Mrs. Jacky Simpson hosted the members of Beta Sigma Phi with the December meeting theme, "Living - Setting Quality of Life". The program began with Mrs. Early, mother of Simpson, reading a poem and special readings.

President Sue Sewell conducted the meeting and Jackie Buckland reported the minutes. The treasurer's report was given by Deena Ellis.

Donna Fowler reported the program committee business and an update on paper sales was given by Mickey Baird, Ways and Means Chairman.

Cyndee Gayle shared the plans for members and their husbands to attend the annual "Christmas Social". The dinner party will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bills on Dec. 14 at 6:30 p.m.

The Simpson home was toured and members enjoyed a sandwich buffet dinner. Cohosting the meeting was Mona Bryan and Early. The meeting was closed by Sewell with the Mizpah and closing ritual.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Premier Menachem Begin signed a peace treaty in Washington in 1979 to end 30 years strife between their countries.

Playhouse sets production of 'Dining Room'

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City Playhouse will slate a five-night run beginning Dec. 17 at the Opera House with the latest production, "The Dining Room".

Directed by Carl Moore and written by by A. R. Gurney Jr., the play deals with the decline of the use of the dining room in today's society.

There is a cast of six actors who each play a minimum of 10 different characters. The cast inclues Joe Sherrill, Tracy Womack, Lonnie Reynolds, Gwen Wistrand, Debbie Goforth and Karan Johns.

Performances will be nightly Dec. 17 through Dec. 21 starting at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5 each and the box office will open Monday from 1-5 p.m. Thursday is senior citizen's night and admission will be be half price.

Effective managers must have sound judgment. Making decisions and delegating responsibility is based upon their ability to interpret and react to events, according to C. J. Silas, chief executive officer of Phillips Petroleum. Experience, however, usually does not improve a manager's judgment more than 10 per cent, he estimates.

Gaelic software used

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Gaelic, the ancient Celtic language which is still spoken widely in the Scottish Highlands and in Ireland, will be passed on for posterity by using computer technology.

The Scottish Development Agency says four educators from the Highland region have designed commercial software which is programmed in Gaelic. This will be used to teach the old language to students in Scottish schools.

diamonds), North realized that it might be useful to let his partner know that he had at least the ace of spades. The bid of four spades said, "Partner, I've got at least the ace of spades, but I don't have the ace of hearts. I also have a fit in one of your long suits." That was enough encouragement for South. He jumped to six clubs, which North immediately corrected to six diamonds.

Declarer ruffed the opening lead of the king of hearts, played two rounds of diamonds and led a club. East won the ace and played another heart, trumped by declarer. South now foolishly led a club from his hand to dummy's honor. When East showed out, all he could do was trump the last heart, throw a spade from dummy on the club king and then take a spade finesse. When that lost, he was one down.

Rather than play the second club from his hand, declarer should cross to dummy with a spade and then play a club. When East discards, the club honor can be overtaken and the nine played through West. The ruffing finesse now makes the slam.

½ cup whole wheat flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon curry powder
Ground cinnamon (a pinch or up to ½ teaspoon), if desired
1 large egg
½ cup milk
¼ cup vegetable oil

Combine beef, potatoes and carrots in a large bowl. In another bowl mix together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, curry powder and cinnamon; add to beef mixture with egg and milk; mix thoroughly. In a large heavy skillet heat 2 tablespoons of the oil. Dump mixture into skillet in ½-cup portions, without crowding; slightly flatten each with the back of the ½ cup measure. Cook, covered, until browned — about 5 minutes. Flip over to cook and brown other sides — about 10 minutes. Repeat with remaining mixture, adding remaining oil as needed to prevent sticking. Woman's Past Is Painfully Present on Family Holidays

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is the time for family get-togethers that will present a problem I don't know how to handle.

I am 30 years old, with two small children, and when I go home (I live in another town), I am treated like I am still 14 years old. My brothers and sisters (all older than me) and my parents, too, keep telling the same stories about how dumb, fat, sullen and miserable I was as a child. They all laugh like it was one big joke, and, Abby, those were the most painful years of my life. I am an adult now and want to put those painful memories behind me, but how can I when they keep repeating the same stories every year? Oh, I'm a good sport, and I laugh right along with them, pretending it doesn't bother me, but it does.

My husband just hates it when they bring up stuff that hurts my feelings. He doesn't care too much for my family for this reason.

I try not to let these things get to me, but it gets harder every year, and I now dread going home for the holidays.

Is there a practical solution?

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Yes. Speak to each brother, sister and parent individually, explaining that you no longer want to be reminded of those painful memories. Your husband's support in this matter will be very helpful. State your objections firmly, and unless they are being deliberately cruel, they will respect your wishes. If they persist, it is your right as an adult to absent yourself from future family get-togethers.

DEAR ABBY: A friend recently sent me a newspaper clipping of your column in the Province—a Vancouver, B.C., newspaper. It was a special thrill to see the poem, "The Man in the Glass," written by my father, the late David Horton Elton.

Though he was born in Utah, Dad was a lifelong resident of Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, where he practiced law and served the city as its mayor.

Dad authored many such homespun poems, but for some strange reason this one has always been published as "Author Unknown."

DALT ELTON,
WEST VANCOUVER, B.C.

DEAR DALT: Read on:

DEAR ABBY: It was wonderful to see my late father's poem, "The Man in the Glass," in print again. I am happy to identify the author. He is Dale Wimbrow.

That poem was printed initially in the American Magazine in 1934 as the response to a young boy's question, "Does it pay to be honest?"

I find it hard to understand how a person could claim the work of another, especially when the theme is "honesty."

Over the years, "The Man in the Glass" has gained wide popularity. It was copyrighted in 1934, but appeared numerous times as a poem whose author was unknown.

My father has written a lot of poetry. He also founded the Indian River News in Sebastian, Fla., a weekly publication that won the first editorial award ever presented by the Florida Press Association.

SALLY WIMBROW,
SEBASTIAN, FLA.

Texas tornadoes injure three

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — At least three persons were injured after two rare December tornadoes roared from a stormy Central Texas sky as a cold front raced across Texas.

The tornadoes injured two children at a day-care center and a worker at a construction site Tuesday afternoon.

The first tornado, reported just before 2 p.m., touched down in a subdivision west of Round Rock before skipping over Interstate 35 and laying waste to a rural area between Round Rock and Georgetown.

A construction worker was injured when a storage trailer where he sought refuge was blown down an embankment.

Two children suffered minor injuries from flying glass when a second tornado damaged the Rabbit Hill School northeast of Round Rock.

About 40 students and teachers at the day-care center escaped injuries by scurrying under a stage in a gymnasium moments before a tornado demolished the building.

"God was watching over us," said David Williamson, assistant director of the school. "All the children are fine. Two of them suffered cuts, but they were treated right at the school."

Williamson said he looked out a window on the south side of the school and saw the cloud, which he said was no more than 10 yards away, moving toward him.

"I started rounding the kids up and putting them under the school stage," Williamson said. "The kids were scared, and they were screaming, but they did what they were supposed to. It hit as we were getting them under the stage. Then I heard the metal being ripped from the building.

"It was loud, but it didn't sound like a freight train," he said. "It was over quickly, but that sound of the metal being ripped away was enough to last a lifetime."

The second tornado continued northward and damaged about 12 homes in a subdivision southeast of Georgetown. Several roofs were torn off, walls on some homes were caved in, and a number of cars were damaged, according to Georgetown Police Sgt. Kevin Stofle. No one was injured, he said.

Tornadoes are "extremely rare" in December according to Jim Dugan of the National Weather Service at nearby Austin. The twisters were the first recorded in the Austin area during December, he said.

John and Jenne Reese were at their trailer home near Georgetown when it was destroyed.

"We made a beeline for the front ditch — I was in my underwear — and she got in and I fell on top of her," John Reese said.

House ok may mean bill will pass this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are confident that a rescue package for the financially troubled Farm Credit System will be completed before lawmakers recess for the year.

And investors already are taking heart.

On Tuesday, the House passed and sent to conference with the Senate a three-part bill designed to shore up the confidence of both investors and the farmers who borrow from the $70 billion system. Senate and House negotiators now have to work out the few relatively minor differences between their versions.

The House gave the measure an overwhelming 393-32 approval, and Agriculture Secretary John R. Block called the action "a big step towards stabilizing the Farm Credit System" and providing farmers with funds at reasonable interest rates.

House Agriculture Committee Chairman Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, said following a White House meeting with President Reagan on Tuesday that the president intended to sign the measure.

'Iffy' answer isn't enough

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — One doctor diagnosed my brother's urinary tract infection as possibly chlamydia. Since I never even heard of this disease, can you tell me something about it, the treatments, etc.? He has been on medication for a month and still has some symptoms.

DEAR READER — "Possibly chlamydia" isn't good enough. Tests are available to make a precise diagnosis. Chlamydia is a venereal disease that is entirely curable by a week's treatment with antibiotics. Your brother's continuing symptoms, after a month, suggest another type of inflammation. I think he should check into a clinic for sexually transmitted diseases, or see a good urologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is there any correlation between climate, altitude and sexual libido? I am 44 and have remarried after living in both hot and cold climates. The hot, humid weather depleted my energy, strength and libido. My husband is a loving, tender man, but there is a fair amount of stress in the home, as our family is a "blended" one. I have much anxiety, hurt and resentment towards his grown older children. Do stress or climate play a part in a woman's sexuality?

DEAR READER — Despite numerous anecdotes to the contrary, climate and altitude appear to play insignificant roles in decreasing or increasing sex urges. "Blended" families, as you put it, are a much more likely cause of diminished libido because of the profound stresses and strains that may plague adults not accustomed to getting along together. Hurt, resentment, fear, anger and stress can envelop both men and women, making sexual desire a very low priority.

I think you and your husband could improve the situation by temporarily getting away from it. Use the vacation time to renew your love and sensuality — and to talk about the things that bother you. Leave the kids, all of them, at home. His older children have their own lives and problems, you have yours. You married him, not his children and, in their eyes, you will probably never rate as high as their mother. So be it. What matters is that you are starting a new life with someone you care for. Your future is bright and does not have to be needlessly tarnished by acrimony.

If you and your husband cannot openly work out ways to reduce your stress, you might consider getting counseling. A good professional may be invaluable to your adaptation. A Marriage Encounter weekend arranged through a church or synagogue of your choosing is another alternative. Marriage is tough enough without having to deal with antagonistic adult children. I wouldn't be at all suprised to learn that your normal sexual interest will return as your stress-level declines.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Publishers criticize proposed ad ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Medical Association is quickly facing complaints that its new call for laws banning advertising and promotion of cigarettes and other tobacco products would violate rights of free speech.

Unfazed, AMA general counsel Kirk Johnson is declaring, "We expect a challenge; we're willing to fight it."

Soon after AMA policy-makers passed their anti-advertising proposal on Tuesday, citing tobacco-cancer links as grounds for drastic action, major publishing trade groups dispatched a letter of complaint.

"We take no position here with respect to health risks; our concern is that any such risks not be misused in an unconstitutional attempt to restrict free speech in a free society," said the letter signed by Jerry W. Friedheim, executive vice president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and William Gorog, president of the Magazine Publishers Association.

"Products that can be legally sold in our society are entitled to be advertised," the letter said. "If it is legal to sell a product, it should be legal to advertise it. This commercial speech is constitutionally protected."

Questioned at a news conference before the letter was made public, AMA lawyer Johnson said, "We believe strongly in the First Amendment," which guarantees freedom of speech.

However, he said commercial speech is not on the same legal footing as speech on political issues, religious matters or other such topics. And he said "there is nothing to the assertion" that advertising must be allowed for legally produced products.

Cigarette commercials have been barred from television for more than a decade.

In addition to the call for legislation to ban all tobacco ads and promotion, the AMA policy-makers voted to press for a 21-year minimum age for buying cigarettes, chewing tobacco and other tobacco products, for a ban on vending machine cigarette sales and for required health warning labels on smokeless tobacco, such as chewing tobacco and snuff.

Soviet ag outlook said optimistic

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Soviet Union is successful in meeting the goals of a new five-year agricultural plan that begins in 1986, it could be bad news for American grain farmers who rely heavily on the Soviet market.

But the Agriculture Department says Moscow's plan is too ambitious and is "not realistic in light of past performance."

Under the new plan, Soviet grain output would increase to an average of at least 250 million metric tons annually in 1986 through 1990. In the current five-year plan for 1981-85, grain production was estimated to average 178 million tons, only 74 percent of the target of about 240 million tons.

Agricultural production overall would rise 14 percent to 16 percent during the next five years if the goals are met.

"The Soviets are unlikely to meet their twelfth five-year plan targets," the report said. "However, Soviet agricultural performance between 1986 and 1990 may be improved by the new leadership of (Mikhail) Gorbachev, the creation of an agricultural super-ministry and greater attention to agronomic practices."

Last month, Moscow announced the merger of six governmental agencies into one new organization, the State Agro-Industrial Committee, or Gosagroprom.

The new agency "is an attempt by Gorbachev to streamline the Soviet economy and address the problem of coordination within the agricultural sector," the report said. "The reorganization may improve the efficiency in the Soviet agricultural economy by better coordinating the activity of organizations in the agricultural complex."

But the report added, "It is unlikely that Gosagroprom will have much impact on gross agricultural output and grain production.

Cotton report

Local cotton prices were weak to ½ cent per pound lower during the week ending December 5, according to B. B. Manley of the USDA Cotton Classing Office in Abilene. Most cotton sold in mixed quality lots at 45 to 50 cents per pound with trading inactive to mostly slow. Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC) loan entries exceeded spot sales. Demand was light to very light.

Cottonseed prices paid producers were steady at mostly $50 to $65 per ton.

The hard freeze on Dec. 1 completely defoliated cotton throughout the Abilene area. Harvesting gained momentum during the week, and many area gins were operating near peak capacity by late in the week. About 54,000 cotton samples were classed during the week ending Dec. 5, which brought the seasonal total to 257,000 samples classed.

The quality of cotton recently classed has been slightly higher in grade than the seasonal average, but has been about the same for other quality factors. About 78 percent graded light-spotted last week, and 21 percent was white grades.

Grade 42 continued predominant at 40 percent, followed by grade 52 at 27 percent. About 37 percent was reduced in grade because of bark or grass content. Fiber length averaged 32.6 Micronaire was 91 percent within the 35 to 49 range, averaging 39.9. Grams per tex strength readings of HVI classes cotton averaged 23.6 during the past week.

The first recorded horse race in the United States was held in 1668 at Hempstead, N.Y.

Drug policy unconstitutional

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — A judge ruled Tuesday that a high school's policy requiring all of its students to submit to drug testing is an unconstitutional violation of the teen-agers' rights.

The policy at Becton Regional High School in suburban East Rutherford would have required 516 students to undergo an annual urinalysis to check for traces of drugs and alcohol. Students who refused to cooperate would have been barred from school.

If students showed signs of drugs or alcohol, school officials would have informed their parents, but not police.

Superior Court Judge Peter Ciolino ruled that the plan violated students' rights to privacy and due process and to be free of unreasonable search and seizure.

The school board decided in August to adopt the policy, which was among the first in the nation, but Ciolino had barred it from taking effect pending his ruling.

Junior high pupil kills custodian

PORTLAND, Conn. (AP) — A 14-year-old student opened fire with a semiautomatic rifle in a junior high school Tuesday, killing a custodian and wounding the principal and a secretary, police said.

The student also took a fellow student hostage for about 30 minutes before surrendering, authorities said.

Authorities did not release the name of the suspect because of his age.

State police Sgt. Edward Dailey said the student apparently confronted principal Don Rixson in a hallway on the first floor of the two-story, 380-student school.

The principal scrambled into an office and locked the door. The student fired shots through the door, Dailey said.

Drop in price of oil is analyzed

AUSTIN (AP) — Economists and oil industry analysts say next year's anticipated drop in oil prices likely won't do as much damage to the Texas economy as did the 1982 price drop that sent the state into a recession.

This week's decision by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to drop production quotas and seek a greater market share has reinforced forecasts of lower oil prices.

Industry observers surveyed by the Austin American-Statesman said most Texas oil exploration and production companies can endure oil prices as low as $20 a barrel. The spot price Monday for West Texas intermediate weight oil was $27.50 per barrel, down $1.25 from Friday.

The Texas economy also is somewhat less vulnerable today to an oil industry downturn than four years ago, experts said.

In 1981, oil companies and the rest of Texas expected oil prices and profits to continue rising rapidly. But this year, oil companies are expecting hard times and planning for it, keeping expenses down.

"If oil settles in the $20-$22 range, I don't think that will have much negative impact on the economy," said Bernard Weinstein, dirctor of the Center for Enterprising at Southern Methodist University's Cox School of Business.

"What gets scary is if the price goes below $20. That could put a number of operators out of business. When you get below $20, you're into never-never land," Weinstein said.

Based on different oil price scenarios, the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas offers two forecasts for the statte economy over the next two years.

In the scenario the bureau considers more likely, it expects the market price for oil to drop by $2 a barrel for each of the next two years.

The state would experience slow employment growth — an estimated 1.4 percent next year and 2.9 percent in 1987.

In such a scenario, statewide "mining employment" — predominantly oil and gas workers — would drop about 15 percent, or about 35,000 jobs, through the end of 1987. Mining employment in Texas is estimated at more than 264,000 workers.

In the scenario of a severe oil price decline to $15 a barrel, the bureau forecast becomes more pessimistic:

— Economic activity in Texas would drop 2.5 percent from its 1983 peak.

— Employment would decline only 0.1 percent at first, then state job growth would slow by 2.7 percentage points below the "more likely" scenario.

— Mining employment would drop to 155,000 by mid-1988.

However said Thomas Plaut, head of economic forecasting for the bureau, the $15 oil scenario is a long shot, with only a 15 percent to 25 percent chance of happening.

Plaut said rules of thumb seem to hold up for relating oil prices to the state's economy.

In general, a $1 per barrel drop in oil prices leads to a $3 billion decline in Texas economic activity and a loss of 25,000 jobs statewide. Of the jobs lost, an estimated 7,700 would be in the oil and gas industry and another 2,500 in oil-related manufacturing.

Plaut said a sharp price drop in 1986 would be less traumatic for Texas than it was in 1982 because state economic growth is slower than it was in 1981, the state energy industry employs a smaller percentage of the Texas workforce, and oil and gas companies are already preparing for rough times.

State comptroller's office officials said they are planning for oil price declines in the next two years, but they said Texas oil prices may not drop so severely as world prices because much of the state's oil is marketed through long-term contracts.

CRMWD report

Despite cooler, wetter weather, water demands on the Colorado River Municipal Water District increased in November.

Deliveries totaled 1,115,362,860 gallons, 110 million gallons or 10.58 percent over November 1984. Much of this came from mining and industrial uses which were up 76 million gallons or 64.90 percent in reaching 178,158,260 gallons. Municipal deliveries also were up in reaching 977,204,600 gallons, an increase of 34 million gallons or 3.62 percent.

By cities the picture stacked up like this: Big Spring 172,322,000 gallons, down 24 million (about half due to a dip in industrial demands); off 12.61 percent; Midland 340,397,000 gallons, up 46 million gallons or 15.37 percent; Odessa 387,314,000 gallons, off 14,088,000 gallons or 50.39 percent; Snyder 58,990,000 gallons, up 502,000 gallons or .86 of one percent. Stanton took 4,331,000 gallons, whereas last November it only used 60,000 gallons while its system was being repaired.

Tobacco estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1985 burley tobacco harvest is estimated at 616 million pounds, down 14 percent from last year, according to the Agriculture Department.

Production is down in all burley states this year, except in Missouri, the department's Crop Reporting Board said Tuesday. The yield is expected to average 2,319 pounds per acre, up 63 pounds from last year.

Burley tobacco yields and production, as of Dec. 1 indications, included: Indiana, 2,300 pounds per acre and production of 16,330,000 pounds; Kentucky, 2,400 and 412,800,000; Missouri, 2,250 and 6,075,000; North Carolina, 2,250 and 19,575,000.

Girls claim eighth victory; hold on to defeat Frenship

FRENSHIP -- Snyder's Lady Tigers canned four straight free throws to hold off a comeback attempt by Frenship here Tuesday and win their eighth consecutive non-district basketball game, 58-54.

Snyder had led 47-34 going into the fourth quarter but found itself ahead by only a point with about two and a half minutes to play.

Stephanie McKnight gave the Tigers a lift by aceing two free throws. The next time up the court Angie Housden was fouled and she also popped the net.

"Those were four crucial free throws in the last two and a half minutes," said Coach Ken Housden.

The Tigers "may have gotten complacent" after getting a double-digit lead, said the coach, but "we had three girls in foul trouble, we were in a delay game and the officials kind of let things get out of hand, too," he added.

Karlene Thompson, Donna Anderson and Christi Comer all had four fouls. Teri Henry fouled out.

Thompson sacked up 31 points to lead the Tiger scoring effort. McKnight added 12.

Angie Pena led Frenship, now 3-5, with 29 points. Karen Smith had 15.

Snyder's board game helped the Tigers grab the big lead in the third quarter. Snyder outrebounded the hosts 33 to 21. Anderson pulled down 13 for the visitors. Thompson had 9.

In other individual efforts, Comer had 9 assists and McKnight had 5. McKnight also had 4 steals.

In other action here Tuesday, Frenship junior varsity came from behind to tag Snyder 34-29.

Snyder had led 25-13 going into the final period, but was outscored 21-4 over the last eight minutes of the game.

Melody Pickering had 11 points and Holly Fuller 7 for Snyder.

Tiger clubs slated in tourney action

Most of Snyder's high school basketball teams are scheduled in tournament play this weekend.

The sophomore teams tips off the action against Big Lake at 5:30 Thursday in Coahoma. Win or lose, the Cats will play again at 5:30 Friday, taking on either the winner or loser of a Thursday game between Coahoma and Stanton. Greenwood and Merkel are also in the three-day tournament.

Snyder junior varsity boys open play in the Big Spring Tournament at 5 p.m. Friday. They are scheduled against Midland, a team they have played twice already this season.

Snyder varsity will host the three-team Canyon Reef Tournament beginning Friday.

The Tigers will play Lubbock Estacado at 7 p.m. At 10 a.m. Saturday, Estacado plays Abernathy and at 7 p.m. Saturday Snyder plays Abernathy.

Snyder varsity girls will play in the Tall City Tournament in Midland. They are slated against Denver City at 1:30 Friday and will advance to play either El Paso Riverside or Midland High on Saturday.

Snyder junior varsity girls will vie in a Midland Tournament beginning Thursday. They play Midland Lee at 4 p.m.

The varsity tournament will be at Chaparral Center while the JV tournament is scheduled for Midland High Gym.

Palestine hires Wilson

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) - Former Texas A&M University head football coach Tom Wilson has been hired by the Palestine School Board as the district's high school football coach.

Wilson was named in recent allegations concerning recruiting violations at Texas A&M in a series of investigative stories by the Dallas Times Herald. The reports told of thousands of dollars paid to top Aggie players in car deals, weekly allowances, performance payments both during Wilson's tenure and during the time that Jackie Sherrill has been head coach at Texas A&M.

"That was cleared in 1980," Wilson told the Palestine Herald-Press after the school board hired him late Tuesday night. "That implication comes from a player I dismissed from the squad for discipline problems. The case was closed and cleared five years ago," Wilson said.

The unanimous board decision followed a four-hour closed session.

Wilson, head coach at Texas A&M from 1978-1981, said he was looking forward to changing his career to coaching at the college level to the high school level.

A native of Corsicana, Wilson said, "I really want to come back home to plant some new roots and build a solid football program. This is home."

Since leaving the A&M post in 1981, Wilson was employed as vice president of the Reata Oil and Gas Corp. of Bryan until 1983. In 1984, he was hired as offensive coordinator for Texas Tech.

Wilson was given a two-year contract and will be paid about $37,000 per year. He will become an employee of the school district Jan. 21.

Rice considering former quarterback

HOUSTON (AP) - A search committee at Rice University has started seeking a replacement for head coach Watson Brown, and an early favorite among some alumni is former Owl quarterback King Hill.

"We'd like to see King come back," a Rice source told The Houston Chronicle.

Wood may be retiring

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) - Brownwood High School Coach Gordon Wood, the only football coach ever to win more than 400 games in his career, is expected to announce his retirement Saturday, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

Wood, 71, has scheduled a news conference Saturday.

Wood met Monday night with the Brownwood school board and was offered a new four-year contract. Although he did not decline the offer, Wood did not give any indication he would accept, according to Tom Butler, school board president.

"If I told you he's planning on retiring, it wouldn't be 100 percent true. But it wouldn't surprise me either," Butler said Tuesday.

It "would be unusual" for Wood to hold a news conference to announce that he is going to continue as Brownwood coach, said Morris Southall, Wood's longtime assistant and next-door neighbor.

North Texas nips TCU Frogs, 56-55

by The Associated Press

Nothing but zeroes were flashing on the Super Pit time clock, but the Texas Christian-North Texas State basketball match wasn't over until NTSU's Vincent Greene said it was.

Calmly hitting the front door of a 1-and-1 situation with no time remaining, Greene handed the Eagles a 56-55 victory over the Horned Frogs in Southwest Conference basketball action Tuesday night.

"That's the first time I've seen a foul called with no time on the clock," said Frog Coach Jim Killingsworth, whose club is now 4-2. "But I was looking at the clock. We mighta slugged the guy for all I know."

In other SWC games Tuesday night, Baylor stomped Angelo State 96-56 and Texas A&M defeated Pan American 74-67.

But in Denton, Greene had scored 16 points before his last-millisecond heroics. With just eight seconds left and the score tied at 55, TCU's Larry Richard grabbed an NTSU rebound.

Greene stole the ball and was fouled by Mike Washington with less than a second left.

TCU ladled on the pressure, calling three time outs before Greene finally got to make the free throw. His first one sank through the net, but the second glanced off the backboard and the buzzer blared a split second later.

Greene, who also led his team's rebounding with seven, was joined in double-figure scoring by Paul Meyer and Floyd Singleton with 10 apiece.

"Shoot yeah, this is a good win for us," said NTSU coach Tommy Newman, whose club is now 3-2. "TCU may not have played as well as they would have liked tonight, but they still have a quality ball club."

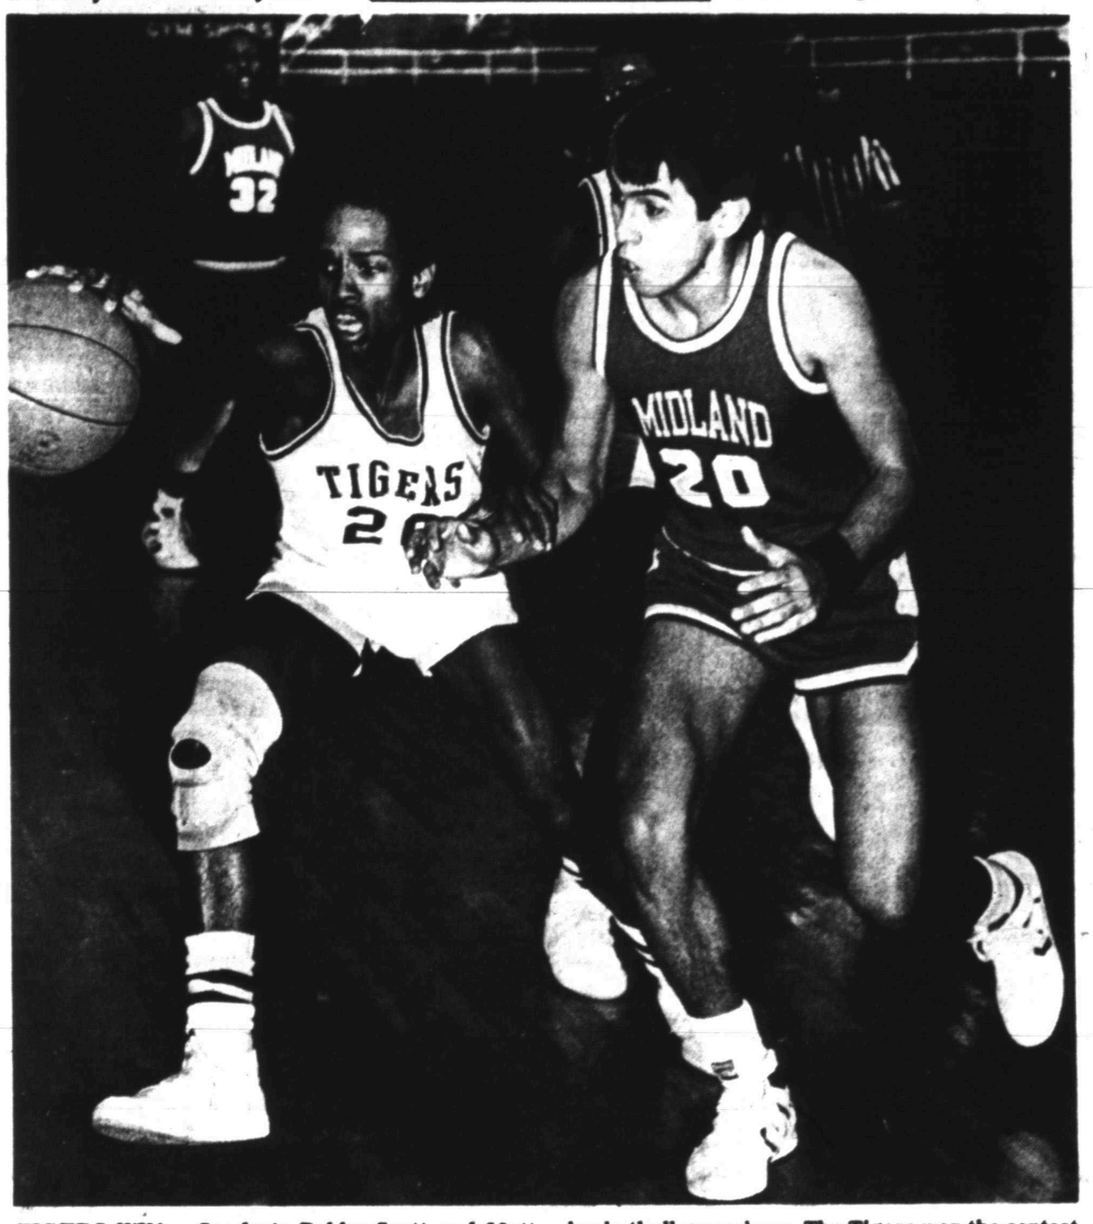
TCU's Richard led all scorers with 18 points, while Carl Lott and Carven Holcombe contributed 12 points each.

In Waco, Darryl Middleton hit 17 points and Michael Williams 14 to propel hot-shooting Baylor to its drubbing of Angelo State.

Baylor, now 5-1, shot a season-high 61 percent from the field and an even sharper 84 percent from the free-throw line. Angelo State, 4-4, was led by Joe Welborn's 13 points.

In College Station, meanwhile, Don Marbury scored 20 points and three other Aggies were in double figures as Texas A&M wrested its non-conference victory from Pan American.

Winston Crite added 17, Jimmie Gilbert 12 and Todd Holloway 11 for A&M, which led 34-31 at the half.



TIGERS WIN -- Snyder's Bobby Scott and Matt Deande of Midland High chase after a loose ball during Tuesday night's non-district varsity basketball game here. The Tigers won the contest, 77-58, to go 5-2 for the season. See article below. (SDN Staff Photo by Noble Young)

Play Estacado Friday...

Tigers break Midland, 77-58

Coach Larry Scott was happy with Tuesday's victory over the Midland High Bulldogs here but he's not particularly impressed - yet.

"I told the kids after the game they played real well. Now the big thing is to see if we can play that way consistently," the coach said.

Snyder had played well in beating Big Spring a week ago. The Tigers bogged down against San Angelo Central on Friday, though, then looked sharp in Tuesday's 77-58 victory over Midland.

"It's been that way all year, what little of the season there has been," said Scott. "We play well one game and the next game we don't. We're capable of playing well, but we need to be able to be consistent."

Tuesday's victory was a big one for the Tigers. Technically, Midland came into the game with a 5-3 record. But the losses on the Bulldogs' record were all forfeits - wins stripped from the team when it was discovered they were unwittingly using an ineligible player. On the scoreboard at least, Tuesday's was their first loss.

"We should have saved the school some money. We didn't even bother to show up tonight," said Midland's Coach Jack Stephenson, a former coach at Snyder.

"I'm pretty sure Midland had an off night but I'm pretty sure we had something to do with that, too," said Coach Scott. "We played real good as a team. And we hit our free throws. We've been playing real well against the press and as you know Jack (Coach Stephenson) lives by the press."

Snyder took control of the game early, scoring three straight buckets on shots by Mike McWilliams, Jackie Anderson and Trey Tippens to go in front 12-6. The teams shared times down the court for a few minutes, then Snyder came on strong to score the last 9 points of the quarter and extend its lead to 23-10.

Midland's early offense centered around 6-2 senior Matt Deande, whose accurate outside shooting provided for 8 of Midland's 10 first-quarter points and 14 of the 'Dogs first 18 in the game.

Deande, Ben Grimes and Matt Sears scored consecutive points in the second quarter to keep Midland in the ballgame. The Bulldogs were down by 15 early in the period, but managed to shave that to only nine, 33-24, just before the half.

Snyder quickly ran up another 15-point lead in the third quarter, however. Anderson got hot and accounted for the Tigers' first four baskets, spiriting the hosts to a 41-26 advantage.

Midland tried a comeback, but Snyder was able to get its fast break going off of the press. Three easy buckets may have broken the Bulldogs' spirit.

"It's demoralizing to a team that presses so much when you get a layup against them," agreed Scott. "I really thought the way we handled their press - and our free throws - were the most important things in the ballgame."

Snyder went on to post a 17-point lead in the period. Coach Scott played everyone in the ballgame, and nine of the 10 players put points on the board.

The Tigers wre 21 of 32 from the foul line. Don Osborn led with a four-of-four effort. Anderson was four-of-five.

Anderson, the 6-1, high-leaping senior, led the squad in scoring with 18 points. Tippens roamed the key, scoring 16 points and accounting for 9 of Snyder's 38 rebounds. Chris Garrett was the Tigers board leader. He pulled down 15 rebounds.

Scott, a 6-0 senior, keyed Snyder's outside shooting game. He bagged 15 points.

The Bulldogs got 18 from Deande and 16 from Elvin Mackey.

McWilliams went to the floor while trying to prevent a layup by Damon Thorpe with 2:33 left in the first quarter. The senior ballplayer was sidelined the remainder of the game with an injured ankle.

The extent of the injury was still undetermined this morning.

Next action for Snyder varsity will be 7 p.m. Friday when they entertain Lubbock Estacado in the Canyon Reef Tournament.

Free throws were the name of the game in the junior varsity contest earlier in the evening, only this time it was Snyder's lack of success which was the key.

The Cats were just 4 of 19 from the line in losing 44-40 to the Bulldogs. Midland was 16 of 30 from the stripe.

Snyder got 9 points from Dennis Martinez and 6 each from James Courtney, Scott Lanier and Daniel Chasteen.

Michael Ball paced Midland with 14 points. Clyde Govan got 12.

The Cats are scheduled next, against Midland again, at 5 p.m. Friday in the Big Spring Tournament.

Rush to approve balanced budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate, picking up the year-end pace on essential legislation, are rushing to approve a sweeping compromise plan aimed at wiping out federal budget deficits by fiscal 1991.

Legislators faced a midnight deadline tonight for action because the balanced budget proposal, ratified by congressional negotiators late Tuesday, was attached to urgently needed legislation raising the national debt limit — the government's borrowing authority — above $2 trillion.

Treasury Department officials have said failure to raise the debt limit would leave the government in default.

The Senate was set today to act first on the package and then send it to the House. Both houses appeared ready to approve the legislation and send it to the president for his expected signature.

The combined debt limit increase and budget plan is one of several "must bills" facing a Congress anxious to go home for the holidays.

In other action:

—Congressional negotiators were beginning work today on drafting a compromise version of an omnibus spending bill that has passed both houses. An interim measure providing funds for most government departments and agencies expires at midnight Thursday.

—The House was considering President Reagan's key domestic initiative this year, the most wide-ranging overhaul of the federal tax code in 71 years.

—Other negotiators from the House and Senate were continuing their struggle to come up with a 1985 agriculture bill that preserves an income safety net for farmers while meeting Reagan administration demands to hold down spending.

The president, in a statement issued Tuesday night at the White House, gave the compromise budget plan his backing and prodded legislators to get moving.

The plan would revise the congressional budget process and mandate automatic spending cuts if Congress and the administration fail to meet a series of statutory ceilings on budget deficits aimed at reducing the government's annual red ink from the current $200 billion to zero by fiscal 1991.

Senate approval for the $490 billion omnibus spending bill came Tuesday night after conservatives failed in a bid to include $50 million in aid for rebels fighting the Marxist government of Angola.

As for the tax bill, the House was expected to heed Reagan's call to pass something so the Senate will have a chance to act on tax overhaul next year.

Ready to choose between tax bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is about to choose between rival bills that would cut taxes for the majority of Americans as part of the most sweeping tax overhaul in 71 years. The big question: How would they affect the economy?

Either plan is acceptable to President Reagan — for the moment.

The president urged the House to pass a bill so the Senate will have a chance to act on tax overhaul next year. If both plans fail, Reagan said, that probably would end any hope of tax reform for several years, and he would have lost the No. 1 legislative priority of his second term.

The House was expected to vote today on at least a Republican version of tax overhaul. If, as expected, that loses, it would be followed by what could be a close vote on the Democratic plan, written by the Ways and Means Committee.

By a 10-3 vote Tuesday night, the Rules Committee cleared the two bills for final action, rejecting requests to allow House votes on more than a dozen amendments. The only changes to be considered by the House would create a credit of up to $100 for contributions to congressional candidates and prevent U.S. possessions from losing revenues because of changes in the tax code.

The tax fight has put Reagan in the camp of the House Democratic leadership and at odds with Republican leaders who have voted with him almost down the line for five years. The GOP leaders don't have enough votes to win their own plan and oppose the Democratic version on the grounds it would threaten the economy.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said Tuesday that "tax reform belongs to neither party; it belongs to both." While he and Reagan have disagreed on what should go into a tax bill, "I don't ever believe we have differed on the goal."

After GOP leaders met with Reagan on Tuesday, Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi, the deputy Republican leader, told reporters, "We don't think ... (the Democratic bill is) in the best interest of the country and we don't agree with him."

In a written report, 11 of the 13 Ways and Means Republicans said the Democratic bill would decimate national capital formation incentives and complicate the taxation of U.S. companies doing business abroad.

Democrats defended their bill as equalizing taxation of various types of business. "The tax system can reduce the efficiency of the economy by not taxing all business sectors similarly," the committee report stated.

Car dealer's wife tied and killed

WEST, Texas (AP) — Police are searching today for the assailant who tied up the 35-year-old wife of a prominent automobile dealer and shot her in the head with a shotgun.

Melodie Lundgren Bolton's husband found her body, fully clothed and with her hands tied behind her back with a cord, on their home's bed at about noon Tuesday, McLennan County Sheriff Jack Harwell said.

Harwell said the woman did not appear to have been sexually assaulted, but he added that authorities had no firm leads in the slaying.

Her husband, Jerrel Bolton, a former University of Texas football player, found his wife's body after a friend called him at his Chevrolet dealership to say Mrs. Bolton hadn't answered the telephone all morning.

"When our officers arrived, they found Mrs. Bolton lying on the bed with her hands tied behind her back with a cord, and she had been shot," Harwell said. "I don't like to talk about it, but it appears she was shot in the mouth. A shotgun was used."

Edwards' fate in jury's hands

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jurors today begin deciding whether Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards is guilty of racketeering and fraud in a case defense lawyers claim is built on nothing but suspicion and innuendo.

Closing arguments in the 12-week-old trial lasted two days as defense lawyers and prosecutors attacked each others cases for the last time. Livaudais took one hour to read the jury a complex set of instructions before turning the case over to them Tuesday night. Jurors then told the judge they wished to begin deliberations today.

On trial with Edwards are his brother Marion, and business associates Gus Mijalis, Ronald Falgout and James Wyllie Jr.

U.S. District Judge Marcel Livaudais declared three other defendants innocent Monday, saying there was too little evidence against them.

In his closing statement, Edwards' chief defense lawyer, James Neal of Nashville, borrowed a line from Winston Churchill.

"Never in the history of prosecutions have so many prosecutors labored so hard for so long to produce so little," Neal said.

But U.S. Attorney John Volz had the last word, saying "I won't quote — or misquote — great men." He summed up his case, then accused Edwards of selling out the state's voters for $2 million in ill-gotten gain.

"It's time to reclaim what's yours," Volz told jurors. "It's time to cancel this sale."

Prosecutors said defendants schemed to illegally obtain state certification for hospital and nursing home projects in which they held interests. Five of the projects were sold for $10 million, the bulk of the money going to Edwards, Wyllie and Falgout.

Defendants didn't argue that they made the money, but said nothing illegal was done.

The Edwards brothers, Wyllie and Falgout faced 49 counts of mail and wire fraud and one count of violating the federal Racketeer nfluenced and Corrupt Organization Act. Shreveport businessman Gus Mijalis also faced one RICO count and three mail fraud counts. The men were indicted in February.

Each RICO count carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison, a $25,000 fine and forfeiture of all property acquired in the criminal enterprise. Each mail and wire fraud count carries a maximum punishment of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Closing arguments took two days and brought an end to open court proceedings that began Sept. 17 with jury selection. Lawyers called more than 70 witnesses and jurors sifted through several volumes of documents.

None of the witnesses or documents said Edwards sat down with the defendants and hatched an illegal plot. But prosecutors said the evidence showed that Edwards, as governor, approved or worked for the approval of health care projects owned by Wyllie and Falgout — the hospital consultants who helped him make almost $2 million before he took office in March 1984.

Marion Edwards aided the conspirators by taking over his brother's role in the projects and funneling some of the $1 million he made to the governor by buying the governor's son Stephen a $200,000 boat, prosecutors said.

Defense lawyers said there was no hard evidence to prove the allegations. Wyllie's lawyer, Richard Simmons said the government tried to prove "guilt by insinuation, unfair inferences and suspicion."

Closing statements dealt with many elements of the complex case, but much of the argument centered on two aspects: the allegation that Edwards got involved because he needed to pay off massive gambling debts, and the accusation that the alleged conspirators bribed a state health department employee for help in getting a hospital project certified in 1982.

The bribe to John Landry was offered, prosecutors said, while Edwards was out of office, but in anticipation of his October 1983 re-election victory. Edwards had served as governor from 1972 until 1980. He was barred by the state constitution from seeking three consecutive terms.

Neal called Landry a liar. He recalled that Landry, when he testified, couldn't remember whether Falgout or another state employee, Sonny Powell, had promised him a better job.

Ice blamed in city wreck

Only one ice-related traffic accident was reported inside the Snyder city limits Tuesday night.

Involved in it — at 7:17 p.m. on the U.S. Hwy. 180-Santa Fe Railroad overpass east of the 84-180-208 traffic circle — was a 1983 GMC pickup driven by Melanie Ann Gordon of Rotan.

The Gordon vehicle apparently went out of control on ice on the overpass and struck the guard rail.

City police took one other minor accident report — concerning an incident in September — Tuesday.

The report involved a 1979 Buick owned by Eloy B. Hill of 1207 26th St. which had been struck by a CRC Source Services vehicle driven by Clemente Rodriquez of 2407 26th St.

That mishap occurred while the Hill vehicle was parked at the Templo Bautista Baptist Church on Sept. 29.

Class cited for cartoons

Students in Buddy Comer's first period history class at Snyder High School were singled out for recognition in a recent edition of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

The class was recognized in last week's Dirk West Southwest Conference cartoon as having one of the five best entries in their recent cartoon contest.

During November, the AJ ran one of West's cartoons with the caption balloons blank. Readers were asked to fill in the blanks and mail the cartoons to the paper.

According to Comer, his class copied the cartoons off and each class member then submitted an entry.

Purse said stolen

Police are investigating a purse theft reported Tuesday.

Cindy Tolbert, a student at Snyder High School, called police at 11:44 a.m. to report the misdemeanor incident.

She said it had been taken from the school drama lab sometime between 1:40 and 2:30 p.m. Monday.

Its value was estimated between $100 and $200.

Agents profile work for 1985

Sept. 15, the tour attracted some 45 persons.

Ensor added the 1985 Scurry County Result Demonstration Handbook will be available by March 1986.

Ensor assisted 58 4-H youth with livestock projects during the 1985 season, noting that the group competed in several major shows.

In addition, 32 members of the 4-H Horse Club enjoyed weekly events, including an invitational 4-H Horse Show.

The department often assisted local homeowners with ornamental plant diseases and related problems. A plant disease clinic and a short course on pecans were offered.

Roberts pointed out in addition to programs offered in nutrition and clothing, the home economics department sponsored programs related to Social Security. She noted that community response encouraged Social Security personnel to send a representative to Snyder on a weekly basis.

She cited the Health and Safety Fair as a highlight for 1985. Some 600 persons attended the fair with approximately 250 individuals registered at each of the 12 screening booths offered.

Roberts added that an additional extension homemakers club formed this year. Bright Ideas Extension Homemakers organized to meet the needs of younger women.

In her 4-H report, she noted 220 active members participate in four clubs. Nine members competed in state contests this year. During the 4-H banquet in November, 40 members received medals with 27 completion certificates and 34 participation certificates awarded. Two Gold Star winners and two Outstanding Junior 4-Hers were named.

County entomologist Deanna Myers reported that bollworms and flea hoppers caused problems for local producers this year. She added that she joins Ensor's educational programs to provide insect information.

Winter weather linked to wrecks damage was reported to the truck.

An overpass on U.S. Highway 84 about half a mile southeast of the Snyder city limits was the scene of Tuesday's first weather-related accident at 7 p.m.

Jimmie Cleveland Smith of Abilene was southbound on the highway when he lost control of his 1969 Oldsmobile and struck the guard rail.

The second mishap with property damage was reported at the intersection of 37th St. (Farm Road 1605) and Ave. M at 7:50 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1980 Mercury driven by Celler Harrison of Snyder and a 1970 GMC pickup driven by Roy Glen Havens of Snyder.

The same intersection was the scene of the third accident at 8:11 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1976 Chevrolet pickup driven by Stephen Whittenburg of 3100 42nd St. and a 1977 Ford pickup driven by Ricky Van Freeman of 2214 43rd St.

A bridge on Texas Highway 208 about 12 miles south of Snyder was the scene of two one-vehicle accidents after 9 p.m.

Involved in the first was a 1978 Pontiac driven by Diann Dement Hollis of Snyder which went out of control and struck the guard rail.

At 9:30 p.m. a 1981 Chevrolet driven by Frances Brandy Grimes of Colorado City went out of control and struck the guard rail at the same location.

School board meets Tuesday

Kayser, Allen Grimmett, G.A. Parks Jr., Mike Jordan and J.D. Hinton.

Prior to the regular meeting, the board had met in executive session for its annual review of Superintendent Bob Hawes. Renewal of the superintendent's contract will be an agenda item in January.

In other school-related business, the board:

—Approved requirements related to maintaining career ladder status within the Snyder ISD system. The "maintenance requirements" stipulate that these teachers must be rated on their annual performance report as "exceeding expectations" for at least two years of a three-year period and no less than "satisfactory" for the third year. In addition, they must serve on a district-wide committee or in a level two assignment at least one time during a three-year period.

—Opted to take no action regarding a request submitted by Athletic Director Dennis Tomlin to grant a stepped up schedule to provide coaching supplements to volleyball coach Vicki Nelms.

—Approved a plan for elementary principals to perform appraisals related to career ladder selection at campuses other than their own.

—Accepted the bid of Copy Machine Company of Abilene to purchase a 3M Model 6040 copy machine for the high school. The bid price plus a warranty agreement was deemed the lowest bid. Cost was set at $9,000. Four other companies, none local, also bid.

—Accepted the only bid submitted for two 65-passenger school buses. Texas School Bus Center Inc. of Austin bid a unit cost of $27,618 for a total bid of $55,236. Butler noted that although there was only one bid, the cost was still approximately the same as a low bid accepted last year for a similar bus.

—Approved the latest policy update as prepared by Texas Association of School Board personnel. The district has contracted for this service.

Teen pleads guilty to killing youth

HENDERSON, Texas (AP) — A Rusk County teen-ager who killed his half-brother with a baseball bat faces up to life in prison as jurors begin deliberating his punishment.

Timothy Dwaine Brown, 16, of Crims Chapel pleaded guilty Tuesday to murdering 11-year-old Kevin Brown to keep him from telling their parents Timothy had used the telephone against family orders.

The younger Brown was clubbed to death with a baseball bat, and jurors were to begin deliberating today on how they will punish that crime.

The murder indictment was one of three: Brown also faces murder charges in the Aug. 20 rifle slayings of his adoptive father, Kenneth Dalton Brown, 35, and his grandmother, Eva Juanita Ray, 59.

William Brown, a district attorney's investigator who is not related to the defendant, testified Tuesday he was present when the boy admitted slaying the half-brother.

"He admitted that he had beaten Kevin with a red, aluminum baseball bat and as far as he knew the bat was still in the trailer house," the investigator said.

During final arguments, District Attorney William Ferguson called several witnesses to the stand, including the defendant's mother, Donna Jean Brown.

Mrs. Brown testified that after she came home from work Aug. 20, she found her husband lying on the floor. She said part of his face appeared to be gone, and that as she examined the body, her son slammed the door behind her and pointed a rifle at her.

"I turned around and he had the gun in my face. He said, 'Come in here now.' He said, 'Come in here ... I'm going to kill you,'" she testified.

TEC estimate for jobs noted here was 3.3 percent.

Overall, the county labor force is figured at 586 less workers this year compared to last.

For the same period last year, the county's unemployment estimate was 3.2 percent, figuring a labor force of 11,150 with 10,797 of these working and 353 unemployed.

Along with the Scurry County figures, the TEC released estimates for the five other counties served through the Sweetwater-based TEC office. These include:

—Nolan County: 8.5 percent unemployment figuring a work force of 7,755 with 7,096 employed and 659 unemployed.

—Mitchell County: 5.6 percent unemployment figuring a work force of 4,524 with 4,269 employed and 255 unemployed.

—Fisher County: 6.7 percent unemployment figuring a work force of 2,233 with 2,084 employed and 149 unemployed.

Texas laureates reportedly make Nobel prize history

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Not even 85 years of Nobel Prize tradition could separate the team of Drs. Michael S. Brown and Joseph L. Goldstein.

The Texas researchers made history when they shared the podium at the awards banquet in Stockholm's City Hall.

Up until Tuesday night, if two or more people shared a prize senior researcher presented the after-dinner acceptance speech, according to Nobel Foundation officials.

Brown, 44, and Goldstein, 45, won the 1985 prize for physiology or medicine for discovering how cells remove cholesterol from the blood. The prize selection committee praised them for laying the groundwork for the treatment and prevention of high blood cholesterol, a major cause of heart disease and strokes.

Brown and Goldstein repeatedly have attributed their scientific achievements to a close collaboration and friendship that began nearly two decades ago. At the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, their colleagues refer to them simply as "Joe-Mike."

"Some maintain that we are too young for this award, but let me point out that we work as a team," Goldstein told the 1,200 banquet guests.

"Our true collaborative age is 45 times 44, surely old enough to win a Nobel Prize."

In light of the banquet's festive mood, Brown said, he decided to abandon his prepared speech. Instead, he complimented his wife, Alice, by telling a joke about a wife's influence on a Nobel Prize-winner. The audience responded with loud laughter.

Goldstein said he wanted to address part of his remarks specifically to the students in the audience, and emphasized the need to use basic laboratory research to advance medical care.

At the awards ceremony before the banquet, Prof. Viktor Mutt of the Karolinska Institute, Sweden's leading medical research center, praised Brown and Goldstein.

"You have also demonstrated something else: How successful cooperation can be in science, a principle that should perhaps be more widely applied in other areas of human endeavor as well," Mutt said in an introduction before Brown and Goldstein received their prize.

The awards ceremony was held in Stockholm's Concert Hall. The laureates sat in red upholstered chairs at the left of the stage. On the right sat the Swedish royal family and, in a row behind them, Mutt and other representatives of each of the prize-awarding institutions.

CRMWD report...

Stacy project moving along

Stacy reservoir may have dropped out of the limelight, but the project itself is moving along.

All the field work on land appraisals has been completed, and Howell Engineering of Odessa is furnishing the Colorado River Municipal Water district with plats and field notes. These are being relayed to appraisers, who will begin this week returning initial appraisals to the district. Initial contracts for land purchases will begin shortly after Jan. 1.

Latest reports from Freese and Nichols, consulting engineers, indicate that 30 percent of the detailed plans and specification work has been completed. By March 20, 1987, plans should be ready for prospective bidders. Target for start of construction is May 1, 1987 and completion by Jan. 1, 1990.

The district is expecting momentarily a draft contract from the Texas Department of Highways and Transportation for relocation of two farm-to-market roads impacted by the reservoir 25 miles southeast of Ballinger on the Colorado River.

"In this respect and many others," said O. H. Ivie, CRMWD general manger, "the county judges and commissioners courts of Coleman, Concho and Runnels counties have been more than cooperative. They are doing all they can to expedite the project."

Ivie met last week with the U. S. Corps of Engineers in Fort Worth relative to the 404 (environmental impact) permit the project must have. The corps had indicated it will have an initial draft ready for inspection by March 1, 1986, and hearing dates may follow closely behind. Involved in this are fish and wildlife, archeological considerations and habitat. Ivie is in Washington, D. C. this week in an effort to speed up the process.

On Nov. 26 the district received proceeds from the sale of $53,590,000 in bonds, and these were invested immediately in the U. S.-backed securities to earn money to help finance the project.
