Area Protests Drouth Report

Conditions on Plains Do Not Warrant Relief Measures, Lubbock Men Say; Indignant Over Story from Austin

General protest over the Plains region was manifest Saturday following the publication of a news story under an Austin date line in which it was stated that a "committee from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce conferred with Governor Moody regarding dry spell conditions in the Plains area."

R. Q. Pierce, local realtor, and a number of other local citizens declare that none of the towns mentioned is on the Plains and that the story should not have stated that the committee was representing the Plains.

Fair Crop Prospect

Lubbock, hub city of the Plains, says claim this year to a fair crop. W. O. Stevens, Sam C. Arnett, B. Sherred, L. H. Quinn and Homer Grant and other directors of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, were indignant over the publication, stating that the Plains of Texas is not in a condition that will necessitate its being included in the area.

"With our feed crop, we will be in position to ship feed into these drouth stricken areas," Jed Rix, former president of the chamber of commerce, declared after perusal of the story.

"It is true that we have received less rainfall than normally," Mr. Pierce stated, "but we have very few spots over the Plains where government relief would apply if granted. Take Brownfield, Shallowater, Levelland and other territories, for instance, they have real good crops and many farmers on the Plains will make a half bale of cotton per acre."

ONE MAIL DELIVERY

Business District Will Get Labor Day Service

There will be one delivery of mail in the business district on Monday, Labor Day, John L. Vaughan, postmaster, announced yesterday. No deliveries will be made in residence section during the day.

Collections of mail will be made in the business district at two and six o'clock, Mr. Vaughan stated. The post office will be closed throughout the entire day.

Strange Career Of A.D. Payne Comes To Dramatic End With Jail Suicide

(By Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Aug. 30. — The strange, spectacular career of A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney and wife-slayer, came to a dramatic end in his jail cell here early today when he touched off a small quantity of explosive believed to be nitroglycerine and brought himself instant death.

For his own death, Payne chose a high explosive, the same instrument he had used to kill his wife and cripple his son, A. D., Jr., for life. Mrs. Payne was killed and the 11-year-old boy maimed June 27 when a bomb planted in their automobile exploded.

Suicide Postponed

Payne postponed his suicide until he believed the three children would get the benefit of his $10,000 in life insurance. The policy carried a clause that the insurance would not be payable in case of suicide within a year. The year expired at midnight Thursday night, but it was believed Payne thought it did not expire until midnight last night, 21 minutes before he killed himself. The policy, however, is contestable for two years.

Mayor Earnest O. Thompson, who ordered Payne's arrest after details of the slaying had been unearthed by two newspapermen, one from Kansas City, expressed the belief Payne had the small bottle of high explosive concealed about him when he was first taken into custody for just such an emergency. District Attorney Edward W. Thomerson said, however, that the grand jury which resumes its deliberations Tuesday would be asked to investigate the possibility of the explosive having been smuggled into the jail.

Cellmate Testifies

R. L. Conder, cellmate, who was commissioned by Payne to clear out the large cell before the terrific blast, testified at the coroners inquest that Payne told him late last night he "had everything fixed to cheat the electric chair" and that he had a bottle of nitroglycerine secreted on his person when he was transferred from Stinnett to Amarillo Sunday.

Officers and cell mates expressed the belief that Payne set off the explosive either by connecting it with a light extension wire in the cell or by means of a short fuse and cap attached to the bottle. The fact that the light globe was removed from the socket led to the theory that the charge was set

Disappearance Of Levelland Man Unsolved

Lubbock Brother of Missing Carpenter Expresses View That C. B. Hanking Victim of Murder Plot

A patchwork story of the unsolved disappearance of C. B. Hankins, 30-year-old Levelland carpenter whom officers believed was murdered, and subsequent discovery of his blood stained automobile which had been abandoned in Erick, Okla., was related here Saturday night by P. W. Hankins, 1513 Avenue D, a brother of the missing man.

The Levelland man last was reported seen alive in Amarillo, August 20. Amarillo, Erick, Plainview and other officers in this section have been asked to aid in an attempt to solve the case. The carpenter was believed to have had about $100 in cash in currency on his person when last seen, the brother said.

Hankins was married and the father of five children, the oldest being about nine. The Lubbock brother's version of the disappearance, pieced together by informations from relatievs, acquaintances and officers, follows:

Seen in Amarillo

Seeking employment, Hankins went to Amarillo and was seen there August 20 by an acquaintance. A postal card, postmarked at Amarillo the afternoon of the 20th, was received the following day by Hankins' mother, Mrs. M. E. Hankins of Levelland.

On the card, Hankins said he expected to confer with an officer of an Amarillo insurance company relative to being employed as an agent of the company, if he were able to do so in time to leave for Plainview at an early hour that night.

Hankins' family was visiting the R. E. Malone family at Plainview at that time. Investigation later showed that Hankins had not met with the insurance company representative.

Hijacked at Hobbs

The card also said that Hankins was suffering from tired and eye

Incendiary Fire Warning Issued

AUSTIN, Aug. 30. (AP)—Warning to Texas fire marshals and city officials to be on the alert for incendiary fires during the next several months and an appeal to be especially diligent in running down all clues was issued here today by J. W. Deweese, state fire insurance commissioner. Deweese stated there had been an alarming increase in the number of fires from "suspicious" origin within the past few months and the situation rapidly was becoming dangerous.

The commissioner said a large number of incendiary fires usually follow "hard times" and that officials must be watchful to prevent serious losses.

Deweese also requested fire insurance companies to use extraordinary care in paying claims and urged them to proceed cautiously and fully determine the origin of all blazes. He stated that many of the fires were started "for profit" and asked the insurance carriers to be careful of the risks they accepted and the amount of insurance they carried on each risk.

Comics Lost On Way to Lubbock

Comic strips which regularly appear in The Morning Avalanche are missing from today's paper because Uncle Sam's mailman failed to function somewhere along the line between Cleveland, Ohio, and Lubbock.

"Goofey Movies", "Big Sister", "High Pressure Pete" and "Etta Kett" are the tardy comics today but we hope to have a new supply on hand ready for Tuesday morning's paper.

Tremors Felt In California

Buildings in Los Angeles, Pasadena and Santa Monica Are Rocked for Thirty Seconds Saturday Afternoon

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—An earthquake of approximately 30 seconds duration shook Los Angeles and adjacent cities at 4:39 p. m. today, causing slight damage in some outlying communities. No one was injured.

The quake seemed to center in the Santa Monica bay district where three distinct shocks were felt. From all parts of the bay district householders reported clocks stopped and pictures turned askew.

Bridge Damaged

In Venice, part of Los Angeles, a bridge spanning the speedway and connecting two buildings, sagged and a large portion of one of the walls fell, narrowly missing a bus loaded with passengers. The speedway, main traffic artery, was roped off to all traffic.

The tremor was felt as far north as Ventura, but not in Santa Barbara, nor to the south in Imperial Valley.

The metropolitan district was shaken badly. The highest office buildings swayed visibly, while telephone wires bobbed up and down violently.

Chimneys in several districts were shaken down.

Cities reporting the quake included Pasadena, Inglewood, Santa Monica, Ventura, Norwalk, Alhambra, South Pasadena and small towns between Los Angeles and Ventura.

Texas To Ask Red Cross for Drouth Relief

Moody to Make Request for Workers in Stricken Areas When Committee Report on Conditions is Received

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 30.—A request that relief workers be sent into Texas counties stricken by the drouth will be made to the southwest headquarters of the American Red Cross at St. Louis as soon as a report of the meeting of the Texas drouth committee, held yesterday in Wichita Falls, is received, Governor Dan Moody said today. The governor said he would ask W. H. Baxter, in charge of the St. Louis headquarters to send his personal representative into the distressed area.

Governor Moody said he was working on plans to obtain further relief than could be given by the banks and various loan agencies and that he planned to confer with Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde by telephone as soon as he could reach him in Chicago to ascertain if federal funds are available for relief work.

May Visit Capital

If necessary, Governor Moody stated he would go to Washington to intercede in behalf of Texas farmers who are facing ruin through crop losses.

Governor Moody said his "buy a bale of cotton" movement was gaining impetus through the south and that he had received numerous letters and telegrams endorsing the movement. One of the telegrams was received from Forney, Texas, where the citizens have pledged themselves to buy 250 bales of cotton. Forty of the bales already have been purchased, the message said.

Major MacReady, holder of altitude and speed records, was taken from the wreckage unconscious and rushed to an Evanston hospital where his condition was reported as serious but not grave. An examination disclosed a fractured shoulder, fractured nose, head and body bruisers. X-rays were to be taken to determine if the pilot was injured internally.

Major MacReady planned to fly his speedy ship in the Thompson trophy race Labor Day, in preparation for this he had it out early today to practice the pylon turns. It was said to be capable of more than 200 miles an hour.

"Tick-Juice" Wins Gold Medal Award Of American Medical Body; Vaccine's Effect Saved 6,000 From Bad Fever

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. —By developing a vaccine which he terms "tick juice," Dr. R. R. Spencer of the United States public health service, this year saved 6,000 persons from the deadly rocky mountain spotted fever—and won the gold medal of the American Medical association.

His medal thus signifies the saving, not of one life, but of scores already, and hundreds in years to come. In one locality public health records show death in 85 per cent of the adults contracting the disease in the past 12 years.

To Be Honored

But Dr. Spencer values that medal most, he admitted today, because of the glory it reflects on his home town of Richmond, Va., and his Alma Mater, the University of Richmond. He is going down there to receive a Phi Beta Kappa key that he will cherish along with the medal.

Nonchalently, and with drollery he explained his discovery.

"I suppose the reason I got the medal is that it's the only vaccine in the world made of insects — ground-up ticks," he said. "Knowing that ticks carried it, I figured that with ticks I could inoculate against it. I tried it on guinea pigs, and it didn't kill them, so I tried it on myself, and it worked.

"In 1924, I was the first and only one to take it. In 1925, 34 brave souls volunteered. In 1926, without any urging, the number was 600. Last year it was 6000—using all the vaccine we could make in our public health service laboratory at Hamilton, Montana."

The principle of the range finder has been applied to a new double microscope for measuring the depth of minute objects accurately.

Storms Strike Areas

Thunderstorms brought temporary relief in Scotland, flooding a part of the town of Abroath and striking nearby around Glamis, where the Duchess of York lies in glamis with a newborn daughter.

Torrential rains, violent winds and lightning broke with the force of a tropical hurricane this evening over northern England and Scotland.

Before the storm's fury Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald returning by airplane to Lossiemouth, Scotland, to resume his vacation, was forced to turn back and land at atterick airdrome, Yorkshire. He boarded a train for the rest of the journey to Lossiemouth.

Widespread damage was caused in the north. The east coast of Scotland was almost isolated from communication with the rest of the British isles. Everywhere telephone and telegraph communications were disorganized.

At noon Edinburgh was so dark street lamps and shop lights were turned on. The heaviness of the downpour and the crashing thunder frightened many people, to whom such storms are almost unknown.

A Glasgow post office official said the storm was the worst ever experienced by the department.

An official at the Leuchers airdrome, near St. Andrews, toward which the prime minister was heading, said it was the worst storm "within living history."

WOMEN'S APPEAL MADE

Shorter Working Day, Sex Discrimination Asked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)— An appeal for a shorter working day and against sex discrimination in awarding jobs was made today by Miss Mary Anderson, director of the labor department's women's bureau, in a Labor day statement.

"Finding immediate remedies for present slump," she said, "is the urgent business confronting us and calling straight-forward thought and action. In planning a program of industrial betterment the most obvious feature to be discarded is not this or that class of workers but the long work day."

Miss Anderson contended that "a period of unemployment should not be made more warped through the introduction of a sex issue," adding that both sexes "must continue to earn in order to live."

Since 1913 annual wages have increased 130 per cent in Sweden.

Lynn To Gin About Same Crop As 1929

TAHOKA, Aug. 30. (Special)—Lynn county probably will gin about as many bales of cotton this year as last, in the opinion of Ray Shaver, county agent.

"I believe that Lynn county will get as many bales this year as they did last," the agent continued. "The cotton will be about the same kind, too.

"We may get more than we did last year when we ginned about 32,000 bales.

The price is going to be the biggest drawback to cotton growers this year. The price so far has been below ten cents and this is not considered as a very good indication for higher prices.

The first bale in the county was ginned at the Handley gin Thursday night. It was brought in by L. T. Terry, a farmer.

Republicans Issue Statement On Hoover Regime

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—President Hoover was pictured today by the Republican national committee whose record has been equalled by few recent administrations.

A statement issued by the Republican headquarters contained a summary of administration accomplishments listed in a column opposite the promises of the Republican platform adopted at Kansas City in 1928.

Seen From The Top Of The Yellowhouse Windmill

BY J. SAM LEWIS, FIELD CORRESPONDENT

HIGHWAY EMERGING

For the first time in more than three months, large sections of State highway No. 9 between Tahoka and O'Donnell, under water in the big lake between those two towns, may be seen. Gradually the road's surface has been appearing as the water receeded until more than half of the road is now above the water line. Most of the rest is so near the top that one can tell where the road is by the lines beneath the water. Patches of white wood below the "high water mark" on the telephone poles on the west side of the highway also show that the water is receeding. These marks also indicate that the long time the poles were under water has washed off most of the dark cresote with which the poles were coated.

CHICKEN THIEVES CAUGHT

Friday afternoon a large crowd gathered at the court house in Lamesa when two alleged chicken theives were taken into custody. The men were said to have been caught in the act of taking chickens from the home of a farmer near town who was absent from home.

RECALLS JOKE

Claude Holley, chamber of commerce secretary who has been loaned to the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, recalls a good joke that George Samson, Post secretary pulled on him last fell at the state fair in Dalls. "I was fixing up my booth and had more grain sorghums than I need so I used the best and put the rest aside. "He remarked. "A man from an East Texas county came along and said he needed some sorghum to complete his exhibit so I told him to help himself to what was in the box. Next day George Samson and some of the boys, who knew what I had done, came along and said that they found an East Texas county had won first place in the grain sorghum class. We went over and the only county they found with a grain exhibit was the one I had helped. After kidding me a while they found they had passed up the county that won first prize."

BROOM CORN IS RAISED

Lamb county boasts a rather unusual crop. It is broomcorn and there is said to be a pretty good acreage southwest of Littlefield. Some farmers there who came from the broom corn section of Oklahoma around Lindsey, decided the soil looked like it would grow the corn so they planted it. "My brother used to be a banker over in Lindsey and I know a little about broom corn," Hugh Sullivan, cashier of the First State bank of Littlefield, explained." These farmers are from around Lindsey and they tell me they are having pretty good success with broom corn. By the way, I understand the Mr. Lindsey for whom the Oklahoma town was named, moved to Lubbock. I do not know whether he is still alive or not."

INSTALLS UNIQUE SYSTEM

J. S. Hillyer, secretary and business manager of the Littlfield school district, has installed a unique bookkeeping system for the schools that has attracted wide attention among school men. Mr. Hillyer is a retired business man and has been head of the school work for about three years. "I keep a daily trial balance of the system so that in fifteen minutes I can tell just where we stand." Mr. Hillyer said when asked about the plan." Auditors from Lubbock who have gone over the books say that this is the only district they know of with a regular business bookkeeping system."

DUFFY IS BOOSTER

C. A. Duffy, cashier of the Amherst National bank, is one of the strong boosters for the feeder-breeder plan for Lamb county that the bankers and farmers are starting. "I figure that Amherst territory will handle at least a thousand calves this winter," he said. "If our late feed is better than it now appears to be, we will have even more than that. Banks of the country will loan money to the farmers to buy calves for feeding out."

FEED PILED UP

Farmers around Anton have begun to pile up on the ground their huge stocks of early feeds. Some of the farmers are cutting their feeds with a header that only takes off the heads and some of the tops. Stalks a foot of so high are left and cattle will be turned into the fields to forage or the plants will be left for a little time to get a second growth, farmers say.

MORE OPERATIONS

The washer fans over at Anson have moved the scene of operations of their game. Formerly the games were played in front of the drug store. Now they have been moved south to the corner of the street where there is a little more room and a little less business.

CHANGES MADE

Three new editors of South Plains papers are creating considerable talk in their respective towns with new newspaper dresses, etc. Morley Drake bought out Jess Mitchell at Littlefield and proceeded to splatter "black type" all over the front page in approved daily style. He began to get a lot of comments about the change and with every week's issue there has come new comments and now talk of a semi-weekly. O. D. Carter, formerly of O'Donnell, went down to Lamesa and turned the same trick. Now they are talking of a semi-weekly there. Jess Mitchell walked out of Littlefield and drove over the South Plains for a couple of weeks and finally the longing for printer's ink became so strong he bought out the Muleshoe Journal. Jess proceeded to liven up the paper a bit with headlines, etc. and he too had a lot of comments about the changed appearance. The O'Donnell Index also is branching out in its front page. With a score or so other good weekly papers, at Ralls, Crosbyton, Spur, Levelland, Amherst, Post, Slaton, Snyder, Abernathy, Hale Center Brownfield, Seagraves, Seminole, Sudan, Lorenzo and Southland, the South Plains newspaper fraternity is hitting on all eight cylinders this fall and making this a most prosperous section.

SHE'S "HANDY MAN"

Mrs. Dixie Kilgore of Lamesa is considered by the county officials as the "handy man" of Lamesa. She has been working this summer in the office of W. T. Webb, county superintendent of schools, as a fillin. "I guess I have worked in almost every office in the coutr house in some capacity," Mrs. Kilgore laughingly remarked." Mr. Kilgore used to be county clerk and district clerk and I helped him. Then Mrs. Joe Ray used me as an assistant tax collector. I have helped the treasurer, too. I have been helping here this summer. I said the other day that about the only job in the court house I had not filled was that of janitor and he had to wait until I was working in this office to go on his vacation. So he had to get some one else."

Fake Movie Bureau Is Broken Up

University Professor Is Given Suspended Sentence After Admitting Scheme Was Fake To Raise Funds

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30—Professor Edward S. Bamford, whose fake "National Motion Picture and Modeling Employment Agency" was broken up by police Monday, was placed on three years probation by the court today after a hard luck plea by Bamford and a checkup of his record had revealed no blemishes. He said he was without funds, that he had a wife and two children in Kansas City and that his wife was ill.

Bamford, a former instructor in Pennsylvania state college, was arrested Monday in a local hotel, where he examined more than 100 young women as "prospective motion picture actresses and artists' models." He admitted today that he had gotten a $1 fee from about twenty-five of the girls, posing as R. S. Burgess, "director of the agency."

Detective Malone testified that Bamford's scheme involved no attempt at immorality, and that he had verified Bamford's story of a sick wife and two children.

"Your honor," Bamford pleaded, "this is certainly an unfortunate position for me to be placed in. When I devised this scheme to make money, it was because I was desperate, and short of funds, having lost my position as professor of psychology and sociology at Pennsylvania state college on June 1.

BONDS ARE PURCHASED

Hale County Court Buys Two Bond Issues Past Week

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 30—(Special)—Hale county commissioners' court made two purchases of bonds this week from C. M. Smith, acting as agent for the Brown-Crummer company, Wichita, Kas., bond house. One purchase was $5,000 worth of Amherst city bonds, with six per cent interest, due 1950 and bought at par and accrued interest. The other was $2,000 federal land bank bonds, 4 1-2 per cent at 92 1-2.

Norwood Orders 25 Shipping Tags

Shipping tags for 25 bales were ordered Saturday by R. P. Norwood, well known cotton grower, when signing up the new membership of Texas Cotton Cooperative association. Mr. Norwood marketed his cotton through the old Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association for a number of years.

In commenting on the necessity of farmers joining the new Federal Farm Board marketing system Mr. Norwood said the farmer is much in the same predicament as the jack-rabbit on a highway in front of an approaching car: "He has to make a desperate jump or get run over."

Lynn Prepares For Fair Booth

Exhibit Is Planned For Panhandle-South Plains Exposition; Crops Are In Fair Shape

(By Staff Correspondent)

TAHOKA, Aug. 30.—Despite the fact that Lynn county will not have a county fair this year, it is probable that the county will have an agricultural exhibit at the Panhandle-South Plains fair in Lubbock the latter part of September.

This was the statement of C. C. Williams, secretary of the Tahoka chamber of commerce when asked if the county intended having a display of agricultural products at the Lubbock fair.

To Exhibit At Lubbock

"We are not certain that we will have an exhibit at Lubbock but we are going to try to," Mr. Williams explained.

"I am going to start out in a few days to see what I can get. I will have to go over into the west side of the county, up in the extreme northwest corner and down to the southwest corner to get any good crops that will be good enough to exhibit."

Crops all over the west half of the county are in pretty fair shape at this time, with indications that both cotton and feed crops will make a good average.

Staple To Be Short

Cotton staple all over the county probably will be short. However it is expected that the crop will be about an average.

Lynn county has made application for state and federal aid for farmers. There is so much of the county in bad shape that the farmers will have hard sledding this year.

Feed crops in the good sections are said to be in first class condition with late crops making a good stand.

Detroit Man Kills One Of Terhune's Prize Collies

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Aug. 30 (AP)—Calib Morris of Detroit paid $100 damages to Albert Payson Terhune today for killing a prize collie at Sunnybank, the author's estate. Terhune said the check would be turned over to charity.

Morris ran over the dog as he turned into Terhune's estate, intent on making the author's acquaintance. Terhune swore out a malicious mischief complaint against Morris and his wife.

Sons Of The White House Are Causing Changes In Order Of Things In Staid Old Mansion; Both Now Taking To Air

BY SUE McNAMARA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Sons of the White House, in their trips from coast to coast, are causing changes in the usual ordered routine of the executive mansion from time to time.

Herbert Hoover, jr., uses a plane for most of his journeys between California and Washington.

Now Allan, too, has taken up flight. He recently went to California by plane. Mrs. Hoover arose before daybreak and accompanied him to the field.

His First Long Trip

The younger son of the president had two cause for elation. It was his first long journey by air and it marked his release from the factory grind in New Jersey, where he had been working as part of his training in the Harvard school of business.

Prior to the trip Allan enjoyed a few days with his parent at the president's camp on the Rapidan. There he hiked, rode horseback or pitched horse shoes. Now he is rounding out the summer with a vacation among old Stanford friends.

He's Not For Society

Business brings Herbert Hoover, Jr., to Washington more frequently than ever since he became president of the aeronautical radio company. Washington society sees little of him, however. He is too busy holding conferences with aviation and radio officials.

A lover of the outdoors herself, Mrs. Hoover apparently takes kindly to the air-mindedness of her two sons. Her visits with them to the flying fields are interspersed with trips to girl scout camps. Sometimes she stays overnight and sleeps in a tent. These activities together with much time spent at the president's mountain camp have kept her physically fit through a hot summer when other women have sought cooler climate.

Some Walls Stay Beautiful, while others crack, sag and bulge

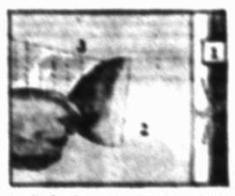
HERE are a few simple facts about interior wall and ceiling construction that it will pay you to know.

First, there is available now at moderate cost a construction which insures permanent smoothness—which does not show ugly cracks, sag or "buckle."

Second, you can use any kind of decoration you wish on these modern walls. Paint, or the new textured effects so stylish now, or wallpaper or calcimine—use anything you choose.

Third, this modern scientific construction is fireproof and vermin-proof. No wind or sand can penetrate the sealed surface of these walls.

It is not necessary to know a single thing about building in order to enjoy this better system of construction. Simply tell your building contractor that you want Metalock Sheetrock. Lumber or building supply dealers can furnish the materials. Every good builder knows how to use them.



1 End view showing how half-inch Sheetrock with tongue and groove edges went to form a smooth, strong panel.

2 Tape used to permanently reinforce all panel joints, which is then covered by a specially prepared cement.

3 This shows the metal fabric beam cement is applied. The grooved construction is patented. The sheeting is covered by U. S. patent.

Metalock Sheetrock can be installed in homes already built as well as in new structures. If you're annoyed by walls and ceilings which have cracked and sagged, find out about this amazing method which ends forever such ugliness. You'll be surprised how moderate in cost these walls are. Over 3,000 Texas homes already have Metalock Sheetrock Walls. See your contractor or local lumber or building supply dealer.

LAMESA, Aug. 30.—Drouth conditions in Dawson county will not deter this section of the South Plains from having an exposition—rather a series of expositions of farm products, both of the fields and the kitchens.

Members of the county fair board, meeting here, decided not to hold a county-wide agricultural fair at this time. Conditions in several communities which preclude samples of grains, influenced the directors at this time to postpone the annual fair.

To Hold Series

However, at the suggestion of W. W. Evans, county agent, a series of community fairs will be held in those sections where crops have not been seriusly injured or where the crops are normal or better.

In addition, plans were launched for a combined short course and fair, to be held some time during the winter, either late in December or early in January. This affair will be county wide and will last a week. In effect, it will be a county fair in the winter time.

Agent Evans made the suggestion of a short course in view of the fact that some months ago a thousand or so persons attended a 3-day course here. The course was so popular that the agent feels justified in expanding its scope.

Collins Presides

W. B. Collins, president of the fair association, presided at the meeting. There were a number of representative farmers in attendance as well as business men. The matter was discussed at length before action to set aside the annual fair was taken.

A series of "one day community fairs" for the communities where crop conditions are good, was proposed. Mr. Evans suggested that the question of a local fair be left to the communities. He was named chairman of a committee to go into this mater and make such arrangements as necessary.

To Enter Lubbock Event

The fairs, as far as possible, will be held before the annual Panhandle-South Plains fair in Lubbock beginning September 29. Prize winning grains, etc., will be entered in the Lubbock fair.

Women are to be encouraged to enter products of their kitchens and also clothing. School children will be asked also to show samples of their work. The several home demonstration clubs over the county will also contribute types of their handiwork, dresses, hats, etc.

Proposes Short Course

In speaking of the proposed mid-winter fair, Mr. Evans said: "I believe that we could put on a week's short course, with a dairy show, a poultry show and a hog show that would surprise every one.

"At the same time, we could secure several store rooms or buildings and have an exhibit of school work, an exhibit of women's work and also the best grains and crops from the community shows.

"Just now we have available the Panhandle Lumber company's old yard. I do not know if it would be available when the time comes to have the show. But if it is, it will be an ideal place for showing cattle and hogs. The sheds are just right for that.

"Last year we packed the theater for four hours with our three-day short course. They filled the aisles and even went onto the stage. I see no reason why Dawson county cannot lead again with a big short course like that."

Two Olton Teachers Visit In Europe During Summer

OLTON, Aug. 30, Special)—Miss Mattie Sue Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Howell of this city and a teacher in the Olton schools and Miss Mattie Devin, of Tulia, also a teacher here, have returned from a two months' trip to Europe.

The young women were members of the S. M. U. division of a student tour, made under auspices of the Stentor Tours company of Chicago. There were seven from Southern Methodist University, with Dr. R. E. Dickinson as chaplain. Mr. Dickinson is an uncle of Miss Devin.

Sailing June 23 from Montreal, Que., on the S. S. Mount Clair, the party visited historical places in Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland, Belgium and Scotland. On July 9 they attended the Oberbamergau Passion Play in Germany.

Return was from Scotland on the S. S. Melita, arriving in Montreal August 22, from Glasgow. The party stopped off at Niagara Falls, N. Y., en route home.

Old and New at the National Air Races

Lubbock Girl Defends Payne

Miss Allyn Simmons Says He Was Ideal Man While in School Work in Canyon; Was Good Friend

"I don't care what people are saying about A. D. Payne since all this dreadful tragedy happened", said Miss Allynn Simmons, daughter of Mr and Mrs. J. W. Simmons who reside at 2212 19th street.

"He will always remain in my memory as one of the finest persons I have come in contact with and the murder of his wife and his suicide seem to be impossible to conceive."

Was Superintendent

Miss Simmons came to Lubbock with her parents last year after having resided at Canyon since 1924. Mr. Payne was superintendent of the schools there during the time she was in the seventh grade and through two years of high school.

"I was crazy about him", she declared. "He took such an interest in his students individually and seemed desirous that as many of them make leaders of themselves as possible.

Told of His Plans

"Time after time in chapel exercises he told us of his plans to become a great lawyer and we knew that he studied far into the night on his law books."

The Amarillo attorney who took his life Friday night in his cell at the Potter county jail where he was awaiting trial on a charge of having dynamited his family car, killing his wife, last June, certainly had a friend in the young Tech student who declares that there are many other former students she knows who feel the same way about him.

"It Hurts Me"

"It hurts me to hear people who knew nothing about Mr. Payne's private life other than what they have read in the papers discussing him as though they knew all about him", she remarked.

"If they knew him as I did even, I am sure they would feel differently."

The Simmons moved into the home vacated by the Paynes when they went to Canyon to live and in this way Miss Simmons came to know the family. Mrs. Payne rarely went out in public at this time due to ill health and Miss Simmons said she had seen Mr. Payne at town with his children on Saturday afternoon time after time.

Appeared Happy Family

"They always seemed to be having such fun and people in Canyon thought they were a very happy family and I believe they were at that time", she said.

When the young lady was a senior in high school Mr. Payne was asked to deliver the commencement address meeting the popular approval of the students.

"He had never made a very good appearance during the time that he had been superintendent there but that night we were astonished at the change. He semed so improved in his diction and at perfect ease as he stood before us and compared our lives that lay out before us as being like a great river."

Miss Simmons last saw the former attorney slightly more than a year ago, and at this time he talked to her, manifesting an interest in her college work.

"That's the picture of him I am going to carry with me," she said, "as one who was sincerely interested in what I made of my career."

Kiwanis Golf Tourney Open To Visitors

Local Golfers Barred from 36-Hole Medal Play Which Starts Monday for Champ Oklahoma-Texas District

Delegates to the Texas-Oklahoma district meeting of Kiwanis International, held in Lubbock this week, will participate in a golf tournament Monday and Tuesday at the Meadowbrook and Country Club courses. Dr. O. W. English, chairman of the golf tournament committee, announces that all visiting Kiwanians who wish to take part in the tournament will report at either club tomorrow.

Play On Two Courses

The tournament will consist of a 36-hole medal play, the medalist to be the winner of the meet. Eighteen holes will be played on each course, and there is no definite time set for the rounds. Twosomes, threesomes or foursomes may play together, and the scores will be turned in at the offices of the clubs.

To Give Five Prizes

Appropriate prizes will be awarded to the five low scorers, according to Dr. English. First prize will be a silver loving cup. Second prize will consist of a set of matched irons. A golf bag, one dozen golf balls of a popular make, and a half dozen golf balls will be third, fourth and fifth prizes.

Local members of Kiwanis International who are golfers are barred from the tournament, though the prizes will be awarded by the local organization. It is thought that several of the state's most popular golfers will figure in the tourney. There is no recognized defending champion, and the title is open, to be settled for this year only.

Golightly Points Out Benefits of Aggie Coach Meet

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Aug. 30. (Special.) — The board field covered by the course offered and the close attention to details important in coaching made the first annual coaching school of the A. & M. College of Texas of far greater value than the average coaching school, according to W. L. Golightly, coach at Texas Tech, who has just completed the two weeks' school at A. & M.

Coach Golightly pointed out that the stress laid upon practical points made the information obtained at the school of unusual value to athletic directors. Courses pertaining to virtually all phases of interscholastic and intercollegiate athletics as well as those in the major sports, football, basketball, baseball and track, greatly increased its value, he said.

No Tuition Charged

The A. & M. coaching school, which was held August 18 to 30, was conducted without fee for registration or tuition and classes were conducted in care and prevention of athletics injuries under C. T. Sprague, athletic trainer at A. & M.; care and conservation of athletic equipment under Jim Carrol, Aggie equipment man; athletic business administration, James Sullivan, business manager of athletics at A. & M.; and direction of intramural athletics and physical education, W. L. Penberthy, director of Aggie intramural athletics.

British Boat Has Accident During Races

Betty Carstair's Boat Runs Close Race Until Broken Oil Line Halts; Gar Wood Attains 77 S. M. P. H.

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—The ill luck that has dogged every attempt during the last ten years to beat Gar Wood in a Harmsworth speedboat race followed the British challenger sponsored by Miss Marion Barbara Carstair into the first heat of the world's hydroplane classic today, and Wood won the heat throttled down.

Just as Bert Hawker, driving Estelle V, the second of the two British challengers, seemed about to overtake Wood in his Miss America IX, at the start of the third of the six five-mile laps, a broken feed line forced him off the course. Hawker had been the last of the five competing craft to get started and by a terrific burst of speed had drawn to within almost a boat's length of Wood starting the third lap. He was clocked at 78.847 statute miles an hour when the breakdown occurred.

Average 75 M. P. H.

Wood covered the 30 nautical mile course at an average speed of 78.177 statute miles an hour in winning today's heat. The Miss America VIII, with George Wood at the wheel, finished second about half a mile behind Miss America IX, and Estell IV, driven by Miss Carstair, was third, with an average speed of 70.117 statute miles an hour. The Miss America V, the third of the American defending team, went around the course at an average speed of 66.807 miles an hour.

Gar Wood's fastest lap today was an average speed of 77.448 miles an hour, and was on his third time around the course. The Miss America IX undoubtedly had more speed in her huge Packard marine motors, but it seemed almost certain Hawker who had just begun to open up the two Napier Lyon motors of the Estelle V, would pass him as they crossed the line starting the third ap. They were going down the river with Estelle V slowly closing the slight gap of open water between her and Miss America IX, when flames began shooting from the British boat's exhaust tubes. Hawker immediately swung out of the course, and the challenge was left to Miss Carstair alone in Estelle IV. Miss Carstair by this time, however, was half a mile behind the two Miss Americas, and with both of the latter running smoothly, was clearly beaten. She kept gamely at it, however, and finished the heat about three miles behind the winner.

Southwestern Amateur Golf Meet to Open

Oklahoma and Louisiana to Contest Texas, Arkansas Golfers in First Round at Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 30. (AP)—Starting off with a novelty match between teams from two states each the first event of the southwestern amateur golf tournament will be played here tomorrow.

Oklahoma and Louisiana will be pitted against Texas and Arkansas in the interstate matches, which will start tomorrow morning. Sixteen players from the four states will be divided into foursomes for the morning and in the afternoon singles will be played, a point system similar to that used in the Walker Cup matches deciding the winners.

Personnel of none of the teams had been announced today. Keefe Carter, Oklahoma State champion, who will select the Oklahoma-Louisiana commbation, was holding off announcement in the hope that arrivals from Louisiana would permit that state to have its full quota of four players. It was believed that Carter; George Johnston, runner-up in the state tournament; Walter Pitchlow of Ardmore, and Bob Conliff, Jr., of Oklahoma were certain of making the Oklahoma team. M. L. Massengill runner-up in the recent Glen Garden invitation tournament at Fort Worth, was expected to select the Texas-Arkansas teams. Among early Texas arrivals were Gus Moreland of Dallas, at the head of the Lone Star-list of tournament winners this season; Bryant Nelson, winner of the Glenn Garden tourney; Ben Johnson of Dallas; Johnny Lavender of Abilene; T. B. Cochran, of Wichita Falls; Bud McKinney, of Del Rio, and Massengill.

Entries were expected to grow to about 175 golfers by the time qualifying rounds are started Monday.

Gar Wood, left, and Olin Johnson, his mechanic, just after they had attained a speed of 90 miles per hour in Miss America IX in a test in the Detroit River. Yesterday Wood won the first heat of the Harmsworthy Trophy race with a speed of little more than 77 miles per hour.

This department takes this means of welcoming the visiting Kiwanians to Lubbock and to the golf courses. Tomorrow and Tuesday those Kiwanians of golfing ability, instinct, or whatever it is will engage in a tournament at the local Meadowbrook and Country clubs. The home golfers are barred, so the visitors need have no fear of any profiteering. Five prizes will be awarded, and all of them will leave town. According to Dr. O. W. English, who, by the way, learned to kill pain and golf balls at Baylor, and who is chairman of the golf tournament committee, the golfers will take their time in the play, going to the links at any time Monday and Tuesday, and playing the 36-hole medal play, which constitutes the tourney. Eighteen holes will be played on each course.

A couple of youngsters were playing marbles one day and in a heated argument one pasted the other's jaw. Their papas forbade their playing together any more. Four years ago two college football teams engaged in a classic scrap on the gridiron. That was all right, and as it should have been. In the course of the game, however, mischevious rooters drew off and clashed in an innocent enough battle. The "papas" of the institutions called their respective children in and said, "Now you can't play with them any more. Stay in your own back yard or play with boys who are not so rough." Thus the athletic relations between two of the greatest schools in the southwest were immediately severed, and the results have been more disastrous and have brought more unfavorable comment than the actual fuss itself.

In many instances since that typical football day at the Cotton Palace stadium in 1926 Southwest Conference championships would have hinged about games between Baylor University and Texas A. & M. College. Since then the teams have played only five conference football games to the other teams' six, ten basketball games while the others played twelve, and twenty baseball games when they should have been playing twenty-four, like the others. The difference has been highly expensive to both teams, yet the controlling powers have not seen fit to even try to heal the old wound.

• • •

In a conference so small as the Southwest Conference, it is shameful that two teams are so at "outs." In the first place the reason for the breakup was hardly adequate. The affair could have been patched up, it seems with little loss of professional pride. As it was, war was declared, and feeling between the student bodies was made more intense after the separation. An Aggie uniform on the Baylor campus for the next two years was the target for raspberries and verbal tomatoes. A Baylor belt buckle at A. & M. was about as welcome as hairs in a biscuit. For the past two years, however, with the graduation of seniors and juniors at both institutions, the feeling has died down to one of a moody disregard. This feeling is rapidly giving way to one of a more friendly nature, and it is to be hoped that the grouchy "parents" will become relieved of the grudge and that high-hat feeling.

• • •

In the mean time the teams are not playing together, just like they were told, and nobody is any better off. The schools are handicapped, and even if they did win all their games, the other teams of the conference would feel rather cheated, for they have to play the full six or twelve or twenty-four games just the same.

Amarillo Team Meets Roswell Today at 2:30

Darkies Feature in Double Bill at Merrill Park as Amarillo Black Giants Meet Roswell Black Sox

Baseball fans of Lubbock and surrounding communities will have the opportunity of seeing the unusual this afternoon when the Roswell Black Sox clash with the Amarillo Black Giants in a double header at Merrill Park. The first game will be called at 2:30.

From all reports the teams to meet this afternoon are two of the best colored teams in the section. They are popular in their districts, and have played baseball approaching the sensational this season. Six games between the teams this season have been evenly divided, and there is a keen sense of rivalry.

The teams will play three games here in this series. After the double header today, the clubs will come back tomorrow for a single game starting at 4 o'clock on the local ball park.

Batteries for today's game have been announced as follows: Phelps and Childress for Amarillo and Blackman and Presley for Roswell. An extensive advertising campaign has been staged by the managers of the teams and a fairly large crowd of spectators is in prospect. Manager Hudspeth of the Amarillo Black Giants, who is also a star pitcher, announces that his team is in perfect shape and is of the opinion that the Giants will come through on top.

Beaumont Star Cinches Lead in Slugging Race but Ties with Storti of Spudders in Number of Hits

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 30.—Although he practically had clinched 1930 batting honors in the Texas League, needing only to hold his lofty average up for the last two weeks, big "Os" Eckhardt of Beaumont appeared destined to fall far short of the all-time league record of 345 hits in a season set last year by Randy Moore, Dallas outfielder.

The former Texas university star has been out in front in the slugging race every week since the campaign began, but through Thursday's games had accumulated only 302 hits and was tied with Storti of the Spudders for the leadership in that department. With only 11 games to go, Eckhardt would have to bang an average of four per contest to pass Moore's great mark.

Doubles Record May Fall

One record seemed certain to fall before the Exporter star's big bat, that of 53 doubles set by Ike Boone for San Antonio a half-dozen years ago. At last count Eckhardt had socked an even 50 two-baggers, one more than Fitzgerald of Wichita Falls.

Homer Peel, Houston, with a mark of .413, and Leslie of San Antonio, with .407, were high men in the willow marathon at latest returns; but neither had participated in enough games to be ranked ahead of Eckhardt, who held steady at .382. Other leaders among the regulars were: Rye (Waco) .369; I. Burns (Wichita Falls) .356; Brown (Fort Worth) .354; J. Moore (Dallas) .354; G. Moore (Dallas) .352; Klosa (Wichita Falls) .343; Munson (Waco) .343.

Larry Leads Home Runs

Larry Bettencourt, Spud blaster, assured himself home run laurels for the year when ran his string to 42 during the week. His closest rival was Hugh Willingham, Dallas rookie, with 32. Joe Moore, San Antonio, had cracked 15 triples, one more than "Pee Wee" Tavener of the Cats. Klosa of Wichita was the scoring king, having dented the plate 132 times, compared to 127 for his teammate, Fitzgerald. Bettencourt had rapped in the most runs, 132, to 119 for Klosa, who precedes him in the batting order.

Showing a burst of speed during the week, Joel Hunt of the Buffs ran his stolen base record to 48 and was far ahead of the field. Holly of Beaumont, with 33, was the best of Hunt's rivals.

Tuero Best Pitcher

Oscar Tuero, with a record of 18 victories and four defeats, was far and away the league's most effective pitcher, although he was one short of Hal Wilke's mark of 19 triumphs. The Shreveport veteran, incidentally, suffered his fifth loss Thursday night, after the official averages were compiled.

Walt Tauscher of Dallas had twirled the most innings, 242, and "Slim" Harris of Waco the most complete games, 22.

South Plains League Teams In Last Week

Hubbers Go to Levelland as Southland Defends League Lead Against Brownfield; Tahoka Meets Anton

Teams of the South Plains League enter the final week of the scheduled season today when the Hubbers journey to Levelland for a tilt, the Anton team goes to Tahoka, and Southland entertains Brownfield. The last week finds the Southland team in the lead, with a one game margin over Tahoka, winner of the first half of the season. Both teams are favored to win today, though since the let down of Tahoka last week, it would be no upset should the Anton team come out victorious.

Southland will have a tough fight with the Brownfield club. Both teams are running a good race, and neither should be counted out of the running. The game at Southland is likely to be characterized by a pitchers duel, when Lefty "Blue Eyes" Graham of Southland and Gregory of Brownfield tangle. These are outstanding pitchers of the league, and the outcome of the affair will be interesting. The pitchers rested Thursday and should be in fine shape to go today.

Tahoka's losing streak brought them from a comfortable leadership to second place in the standing in little more than a week, and threats to call for a play off series for the league championship. Southland is the biggest favorite for the second half title.

Lubbock's failure to show up in Anton for the scheduled game Thursday cost the Hubbers a game and relegated them to sole ownership of the cellar position. An automobile breakdown prevented the Hubbers from reaching the site of the game before it was called and forfeited to Anton.

The game scheduled between Southland and Lubbock for Monday will be changed to Tuesday, according to an announcement by Manager Dutch Luenberger. Other Labor Day celebrations in the city Monday will make it impossible for the Hubbers to play on Merrill Park, and the game has been postponed one day.

Coaches Meet In Houston For Rule Talk

Officials and Coaches from All Parts of Southwest Gather for Pow Wow; Ray Morrison to Lead

DALLAS, Aug. 30. (AP)—Along with the ducks, geese and other migratory fowl, the Southwest's football folk are drifting south tonight, harbingers of an early grid season.

From the far corners of the state, coaches, officials and the inevitable purveyors of sporting paraphernalia converged on Houston for the annual pre-season pow wow. The meeting proper was not scheduled until Monday, but most of the boys planned to be on the ground tomorrow to talk things over.

The annual pilgrimage to a central point is on the order of a preliminary to a battle royal. They discuss the rules, shake hands and then square off. Most of the mentors will have their squads out early next week and the seven Southwest Conference coaches will begin bearing down in unison on September 10.

Probably the most important feature of Monday's session will be the interpretation of new rules. The role of head master, falls this year to Ray Morrison, the conference's oldest coach in point of service. If there is anyone who can teach his fellow mentors how to make a rule book roll over and play dead, it should be the Mustang's tricky leader. His teams have become noted for their "almost" infractions of the by-laws.

No player sales or trades of any consequence were anticipated at the Houston gathering. Four of the southwest conference coaches were pretty well satisfied with what they had, and the other three, Arkansas, Rice and the Texas Aggies had waited too late to do anything about it. The latter three, however, had some fine material coming up for 1931 delivery.

Pansy Walker Wins Lincoln Fields Go

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. (AP)—Pansy Walker, three-year-old daughter of Sir Gallahan III-Erne, a half-sister of the great Gallant Fox, won the Crete handicap, with $5,000 added at Lincoln Fields today, defeating the two highly played favorites, Brown Wisdom and My Dandy. Mrs. Reymond Pollard's Princeton was second, three lengths back of the winner, with Clubhouse third. Pansy Walker sprinted the six furlongs in 1:11, within one fifth of a second of the race record.

The victory was worth $5,303 to W. T. Waggoner, Fort Worth, Texas, millionaire owner of the Three D's stock farm. It aloned in a measure for the loss of the $65,000 colt, Broadway Limited, owned by Mr. Waggoner, which dropped dead in a race here yesterday.

(AP)—Pilots and their aides who will occupy the six balloons in the International Gordon Bennett balloon race which starts here Monday, will be supplied with weather information by radio until the last of them lands. Twice a day the radio station at Cleveland municipal airport will broadcast this highly important information to the fliers.

During the last six years there has been greater building activity in Enniskillen, Ireland, than in the previous half-century.

Air mail is being transported from Paris, France, to Buenos Aires, Argentina, in three and one-half days.

Mrs. Tyson Of Kansas City Wins Western Golf Title Second Time

Dope Upset When Miss Page Fails to Win; Mrs. Tyson Shoots Sub-Par Golf to Take Finals Match

(By Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30.—Mrs. G. W. Tyson of Kansas City, queen of the nation's golfers in 1927, regained the women's Western Golf championship today, defeating Miss Dorothy Page of Madison, Wis., 5 and 4, in the final match of the 28th annual tournament at Hillcrest Country Club.

Mrs. Tyson, who won the National women's title as Miriam Burns Horne here, three years ago, and virtually had retired from competition since then, shot sub-par golf on the afternoon round to subdue the Wisconsin woman who yesterday eliminated Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, defending champion. Mrs. Tyson won the Women's Western first in 1923.

Miss Page had been favored to win not only because tournament followers considered her game the stronger and that she had competed in the hardest bracket, but because they believed the sturdy Wisconsin girl was better physically equipped to trudge over the up and down terrain of Hillcrest for 36 holes than the Kansas City woman, several years her elder.

Mrs. Tyson Improves

Their hopes seemed realized when Miss Page led 3 up at the end of nine holes. But on the second nine Mrs. Tyson's game improved. Miss Page lost her putting touch which brought her an eagle and three birdies on the first nine and only by sinking a 20-foot putt on the 18th was the Wisconsin girl able to square the match at lunch time. Mrs. Tyson had drawn even at the sixteenth and had gone ahead on the seventeenth.

After a 43, one over women's par, on the out nine of the morning round, Mrs. Tyson came in with a 37 for an 80, two under women's perfect figures, for the morning's work. On the first nine of the afternoon struggle she had a 39, three under par, and was one under par for the five holes she needed on the last nine of a scheduled 36-hole match.

Proration Ordered On Chalk Oil Area

BIG SPRING, Aug. 30. (AP)—Approximately 300 wells in the Chalk pool of Howard county will be placed under proration for the first time if recommendations approved at a special meeting of the Howard-Glasscock producers advisory committee are adopted by the state railroad commission.

The Chalk pool, producing sweet oil, would be added to areas producing from shallower horizons, all being prorated into existing outlets. All 1,000-foot wells with daily potential output of 12 barrels or more and all 2,200 and 2,500-foot producers with daily potential output of 50 barrels or more would be included.

The effect of this plan, operators said, would be to throw approximately 6,000 barrels of the daily outlet to the western end of the field, which the committee felt would constitute an equilization of restriction for the entire Howard-Glasscock area.

Duel Between Gehrig and Simmons Is Classic Battle; Yanks and Giants Hold Slugging Lead in Big Shows

(By Associated Press)

Lou Gehrig o fthe Yankees and Al Simmons of the World Championship Athletics for the 1930 American League batting crown has developed into one of the classic struggles of baseball.

For almost two months, the two big berthas of the two rival teams have been locked in a one-two fight for the title. The margins between them have been so close during the long stretch that only an average of less than four points have separated them week after week.

Lou Has Lead

Unofficial averages, including games of Wednesday, revealed that Gehrig held a one point lead with an average of .396. It was the third time in nearly two months that one point separated them. Both gained during the last week but Simmons picked up nine points on his rival to threaten him again.

Other leading hitters in the Junior circuit were many points away from the Yankee and Athletic sluggers. They were Cochrane, Philadelphia, .360; Ruth, New York, .362; Rice, Washington, .355; Hodapp, Cleveland, .352 Maanush, Washington, .351; Dickey, New York, .351; Cronin, Washington, .348, and Reynolds, Chicago, .348.

"Lefty" Groves, star southpdaw of the Athletics, dropped a game for a change during the nineteenth week of campaigning but held the recognized lead in the pitching race with his collection of 21 victories and five lases. Wells, of the Yankees ranked first mathematically, however with his unchanged record of 10 victories against as pair of defeats. Earnshaw, pitching mate of Grove's, had 20 wins and eight defeats. Perrell of Cleveland had 22 wins and nine losses while Lyons of the White Sox had a record of 19 and 12.

The Babe Still Leads

Ruth failed to score a run in four games but easily led the field with his collection of 132. His home run mark also failed to grow but it stood out in front—44 in all.

Combs of the Yankees led in triples with 17 while McManus of the Tigers pilfered another base for a leading total of 18.

The Yankees held the team batting lead with a .309 average while the Athletics continued with a .975 per cent defense, the tightest in the league.

Klein Is National Leader

The youthful Chuck Klein, who last year established the home run mark Wilson smashed, still is the leading all-around slugger. Klein leads in hitting doubles with a total of 45, two ahead of Babe Herman of Brooklyn; is second by only one run to Kiki Cuyler, of Chicago, the scoring leader who has tallied 128 times, and is runner up in hits with 202, in home runs with 31, and in runs batted in with 136.

Cuyler leads in base stealing with 32 as well as in scoring and is second in three-base hitting with 15. Adam Comorsky of Pittsburgh has hit 22 triples for first place Herman's 16. stolen bases give him second place.

Giants Lead With 320

The New York Giants hate held their club batting lead with an average of .320, and Phillies still are second at .317. Cincinnati again appears at the head of the fielding list with a .976 mark.

Although his teammate, Bob Osborn, has a higher average, Pat Malone of Chicago is considered the leader among the pitchers. Malone has won 16 games and lost 6 for a .727 average, while Osborn's .750 mark comes from nine victories and three defeats. Babe Phelps of Brooklyn is second among the regulars with twelve games won and five lost for a .706 mark.

Americans Win Over John Bull In First Sets

Youth's Representing Home Land for First Time in International Net Meet Sweep English Opponents

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 30. (AP)—A picturesque trio of American youngsters drawn from the east, far west and south represented their country for the first time in international tennis play this afternoon and celebrated the occasion by leading the way to a 5-0 victory over a touring English team.

Twenty-year-old Cliff Sutter, national intercollegiate champion from Tulane University, opened the series by rollying his way to victory over Harold George Newcombe Lee of England, 6-8, 6-4, 6-2. Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Calif., and Sidney B. Wood of New York, who have won a place among America's foremost 18, encountered stubborn opposition but eventually Vines downed Frederick J. Perry, 8-6, 10-12, 6-2, and Wood overcame John Olliff, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

This made it unanimous as far as singles were concerned and clinched the series with the necessary three out of five, but young Americans not yet ready to call it a day.

The lanky Vines teamed up with the almost equally long-legged Keith Giedhill in doubles and this youthful all-Pasadena pair handed a 6-3, 6-2, trimming to Lee and his veteran partner, L. A. Godfree.

Not even England's traditional skill in doubles play could save John Bull from a shutout. In the final match of the day Perry and Olliff were beaten, 6-3, 7-5 by Wood and Phil Neer of San Francisco, former intercollegiate champion.

East Texas Ties Asked For Line

LONGVIEW, Aug. 30. (AP)—As a measure of drouth relief for the affected portions of the territory it serves, the East Texas Chamber of Commerce has requested the Texas and Pacific to purchase East Texas crossties for its proposed 333-mile extension in West Texas.

In view of the fact that the Texas and Pacific normally is a heavy buyer of crossties from the timber belt of East Texas along its line, officials of the regional body said they were of the opinion their section would receive additional benefit from the proposed new construction in West Texas.

The cutting of crossties from farm woodlots is an important source of fall and winter income for East Texas farmers. Due to short crops curtailed by the drouth unusually heavy dependence will be placed this year on sale of crossties, Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the regional body, stated.

TO MAKE INVESTIGATION

Labor Federation Will Make Probe Of Charges

BOSTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Conrad W. Crooker, general counsel for the liberal civic league, announced today the American Federation of Labor had assured him it would investigate the league's charges that labor men who have endorsed William M. Butler for the Republican nomination for United States Senator were on Butler's "payroll."

Crooker's statement was in the form of a telegram sent to United States Senator Gerald P. Nye, urging the senate campaign committee to take instant action in inquiring into Butler's campaign he said the assurance had come from the office of President William Green of the federation.

The wire to Nye said: "We have uncovered flagrant attempts to debauch labor leadership in the interest of Butler."

Butler, a former United States senator and former chairman of the Republican national committee running on a "dry" platform is opposed by Col. Eben S. Draper, a "wet."

Another attack on Butler was made by Martin T. Joyce, secretary of treasurer of the Massachusetts state federation of labor, who urged organized wage earners to oppose him.

Co-Op Plan Is Favorite Over Moody Policy

Avalanche-Journal Farm Editor Says 'Buy a Bale Movement' Will Center Attention on Better Price

By AL HILL
(Avalanche-Journal Farm Editor)

The "Buy a Bale Movement," as suggested by Governor Dan Moody if it does not accomplish the aim of taking five million bales of cotton off the market will result in centering the attention of the south upon need for a better cotton price.

As many view the governor's plan, it is all right in theory but bears the aspects of being impractical because of the likelihood that not enough bales will be bought.

Temporary Gesture

To this writer the plan does not seem to go far enough. It is, to say the most, merely a temporary gesture.

With the United States government only recently committed to a policy of farm aid, through operation of the Agricultural Marketing Act and the machinery of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association now being placed in operation throughout the state, it appears that the "Buy a Bale Movement," is more lost motion and an appeal to the galleries than it is a thing of logic.

There is just one purpose of the Moody movement—that is to take cotton off the market at a price of 15 cents a pound.

Would Set Price

This will, it seems to this writer, tend to set 15 cents as the high point in price of cotton for this year.

Cotton cannot be produced at a profit on the average, for less than 18 cents a pound, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Governor Moody's suggestion came upon the heels of announcement by the Federal Farm Board that a 90 per cent advance would be made by the cotton cooperatives, and their explanation that such a plan is deemed much wiser than for the board or the cooperatives to presume to set any fixed price on cotton.

Orderly marketing—which means placing cotton for sale as the spinners of the world demand it—is the primary aim of the Federal Farm Board. Speculation is to be minimized as much as possible by the board, in carrying out the governmental policy. Moody's plan bears possibility of bordering near to speculation.

Should the price go beyond 15 cents a pound, the producer would not be benefitted further than that price, and any benefits in price advances surely should be given to the grower of cotton.

Would Be Encouraged

Under the Texas Cotton Cooperative association plan, with a 90 per cent advance on seasonal pool cotton, the grower should be discouraged to place his cotton in the association, taking the advance for immediate need, and getting all the raise in price which will accrue in later months by holding the cotton off the market. Say the price goes to 20 cents, then the grower would have 5 cents a pound more for his pocketbook than with the 15 cent price paid to some by the Moody procedure.

A better plan, so we believe, is in the suggestion made by L. W. Clark, president of the Anton Chamber of Commerce and president of the Anton State Bank.

"I will join with other bankers," states Mr. Clark, "in taking 100 bales of cotton off the market and placing it in the seasonal pool of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association.

"I believe if every banker in this district would take 100 bales off the market in this manner it would set an example for bankers all over the South and would have a stabilizing effect upon cotton prices.

"I believe everything possible should be done to assist the Federal Farm board in its effort to come to the rescue of the debt-ridden cotton farmer and the more cotton put through the new marketing system endorsed and financed by the Federal Farm Board, the closer the South will be to a realization of the prosperity it deserves."

Payne Death

off by contact with the wire.

Indicted for Murder

Payne had been indicted yesterday for murder. He repeated he would plead guilty, and reiterated his desire for a speedy trial. He previously had chafed at the law's delay, saying he wanted to pay the death penalty quickly so his relatives might forget. His brother, however, had hired an attorney who had been expected to enter an insanity defense.

Last night in his talk with Condor the attorney said he had found a better method of dying than the electric chair and would use it for his children's sake.

In his 20,000 word confession Payne had told of sending his wife on a "pleasant bypath away from the highway of life" which would have led to financial disaster and mortification if she had found out about his attentions to his former stenographer, Miss Verona Thompson, whose confession led to his expose.

Calm at Death

Commodore Pulliam, the only man who had not left the cell at Payne's instructions when the explosion occured said Payne appeared calm and cool as he raised himself slightly above the upper berth on which he was lying face downward and seemed to press something. He died instantly.

A half hour before the blast, which was heard six blocks, Payne finished letters to his mother, and the parents of his former wife and concluded work on his diary, which had occupied his time ever since he was arrested.

He called to Condor: "You notice I finish my diary in ink. This is the end. The ink means that the diary is closed." In his last entry in the diary, Payne called attention to the fact that he had waited long enough that the suicide clause in his insurance policy had become inoperative.

Asks Forgiveness

The Slayer's letters to his wife's parents and to his mother were practically the same. He asked each for forgiveness and said he was taking "this way out" for the best interests of his children. He said he would soon join his "beloved" wife "over yonder."

"All that I have done is for love of my dear wife and our darling children," he wrote.

In his diary he inserted the wish that he could take "my dear children along with me" and admonished them "to show the world that you can make fine men and women."

Two young employes of a Borger hardware store, who sold Payne the dynamite with which he killed his wife, were questioned by the district attorney this week, but they said they did not remember how much explosive a man answering Payne's description bought.

FORT WORTH PRICES

PORT WORTH, Aug. 30 (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Not enough business was transacted in any division of the cattle market today to permit a test of values and trade in all classes remained nominal.

During the week steers found a good active demand each day. Calves sold to a very active demand for both order and packer buyers two days with values showing an advance of 50 to 75c, but lost this advance later in the week.

The best steers offered this week did not compare with the best loads here last week. There were not very many common steers offered this week and bulk of the supply consisted of fairly good short feds and cake fed steers. Of the common grades of heifers and yearlings a little more popular than plainer grades and prices paid for the better grades showed more strength.

Steer calves sold from 7.75 down with heifer calves at 7.00 to 7.50, yearlings sold from 7.25 down and steers from 5.00 to 6.00. The better grades of stocker cows were practically lacking in the receipts with home sales reported from 3.00 to 4.00.

One load of good 192-pound rail butchers brought 10.50, the day's top. Truck hogs sold from 10.00 down.

Receipts estimated at 500 head included 346 head direct to packers and about 80 truck hogs.

Compared to a week ago fat lambs are selling strong to 25 higher. Fat yearlings 25 higher. Fat wethers and feeder grades steady. Top fat lambs 8.25, other fat lambs 8.00 anklmless. Fat yearlings 5.00 to 6.00, later prices paid for choice fed yearlings. Bulk good aged fat wethers 4.00. Feeder lambs 4.00 to 5.00. Stocker lambs down to 3.00.

MID-WESTERN REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Demand for fed steers and yearlings was rather broad the last week at all markets and closing values are unevenly 50-100 higher, with good to choice grades sharing most of the upturns. Fed western and straight grassers were sharply higher at the opening but final rates are 25 to 50 over a week ago. The 12.00 mark was passed at all of the larger markets with the outside time reaching 12.35 at Chicago on both weighty steers and yearlings. Most butcher classes ruled steady to 50 lower. Vealers sold anywhere from 50 to 2.00 lower with demand limited. Demand for stockers and feeders was fairly broad and closing rates are 25 to 50 higher. Fleshy feeders bought 9.00 at Omaha and Kansas City, while choice stockers made the price in Chicago. Receipts were estimated at 219,740.

Extreme unevenness featured the hog market. Sharp price gains were scored early in the week under a broad shipping outlet but toward the close outside demand was curtailed and most of the advance was erased. The week's high level was established at the mid-week when Chicago scored 11.65 for choice light hogs. The closing top resisd at 11.35 at Chicago and 10.65 at Kansas City. The supply totaled 353,200.

Fat lambs were under severe pressure and declines of 1.00 to 2.00 were effected during the week. Choice natives reached 10.35 at Chicago, early but at the close sold at 9.25. Matured classes were relatively scarce and prices remained steady. Desirable grades of fat ewes brought 3.00 to 4.00. Prices on feeding lambs broke 25 to 50. The week's offering totaled 370,100.

Lieutenant Kelly, Major MacReady executed the first non-stop transcontinental flight in 1923. He resigned from the army two years ago.

Fourteenth Injured

MacReady was the fourteenth person injured since the air meet opened eight days ago. Three have been fatalities.

Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau, Fritz Albrecht, Edward Zimmer and Frank Hack, the German fliers who crossed the Atlantic by the Arctic route in their flying boat, the Dorinier Whale, arrived over the race crowd in the ship early in the afternoon. They were met over municipal pier in Chicago by an escort of army planes.

A race for huge, multi-motored ships featured the day's program. It was won by a tri-motored Ford plane which flew the 50-mile distance at an average speed of 144.24 miles per hour. Flown by Leroy Manning of Dearborn, Mich., the big plane cut the pylons as closely as do the small racing ships, then, upon finishing the race, performed a loop.

BASIN, Wyo. Aug. 30. (AP)—Having confessed shooting her husband to death, Mrs. Leona Paulson Fitzmaurice, 37, was brought here today from Greybull, Wyoming, in custody of a woman sheriff. She was to be arraigned next Monday.

In her confession early today, after several hours of questioning by officers, she said she killed her husband, Charles Fitzmaurice, Greybull postmaster last Sunday, during a quarrel over his attentions to other women.

Admits Infidelity

"You'll hang for this," Mrs. Fitzmaurice quoted her husband as saying after he had been shot over the heart. "He admitted to me as he was dying that he had been unfaithful."

The confession detailed that after the shooting Mrs. Fitzmaurice took the body several miles outside Greybull and, dragging it from the automobile, threw it in a clump of grass. Tire imprints in the ground led authorities to suspect Mrs. Fitzmaurice and she was arrested a few hours after her husband's funeral yesterday.

Mrs. Fitzmaurice told officers she threw the revolver she used into the Big Horn river. She said she made inquiries at the postoffice for her husband late Monday in order to divert suspicion.

The shooting occurred in the Fitzmaurice home.

Missing Man

pains to which he had been subject since being hijacked at Hobbs, N. M., about a month earlier, Hankins was beaten over the head with a blackjack and thrown from his automobile, which later found abandoned at Farwell, Texas.

A model-A Ford tudor sedan, which residents reported had been left on a street of Erick's business section about midnight of the 21st, stood on the downtown thoroughfare until the afternoon of the 22nd when it was examined by Constable William Minton.

Blood stains were on the left door. A note, coat and trousers of a suit owned by Hankins, white overalls and carpentry tools were found in the machine.

Pencilled Note Found

Writer of the pencilled note said he and a friend had been walking along railroad tracks when they discovered the automobile, which had struck a post. The driver had been thrown through the windshield and was dead, the note said.

After placing the body in the car and starting toward town, fear of arrest and his friend's suggestion that he knew a place in which the body would never be found led them to secret the corpse, dividing the money which they found on it, the note said. The writer also expressed regret that he had agreed to the act and said he never again would enter into such a pact.

Although the windshield was cracked and lens of the right headlight missing, the abandoned sedan did not appear to have been in a severe collision and its condition showed a body had not been catapulated, the brother here said.

The missing man has one other brother, J. D. Hankins of Temple, and three sisters, Mrs. G. T. Dobbs of Levelland, Mrs. C. O. Littlefield, living two miles east of Cone, and Mrs. L. H. Bell, five miles east of Weatherford.

Hankins was not known to have had any enemies or to have engaged in any illegal enterprise which could have resulted in an entanglement leading to death, his brother said.

U. S. Children's Bureau Interested In Seeing That Infants Are Well Taken Care Of On Outings

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Fewer crying babies on Labor Day picnics and week-end excursions was the aim of the United States children's bureau in issuing today special advice to mothers.

This counsel was:

Carry baby in a big market basket, where he can be cooler and more comfortable, instead of having him become hot and fretful in someone's arms. If autoing, carry him in a hammock.

Don't let strangers play with him.

Don't give him cakes, candies, bananas or sweet crackers to keep him quiet.

Be sure of his water and milk supply before you start. Special precautions should be taken at present because of the drought situation.

It is best to carry a supply in vacuum bottles. Milk from a vacuum bottle should not be used after 24 hours.

If these suggestions are followed, the child experts predicted, there will not only be happier picnics but also less of an aftermath of ailments from improper food coupled with the fatigue and excitement of traveling.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Assassination of President of Argentina Feared

BEUNOS AIRES, Aug. 30. (AP)—Reinforcement of heavily armed troops were brought in today by the government as a precaution against a possible outbreak or an attempt to assassinate President Hipolito Yrigoyen.

The eighth regiment of cavalry marched in from Campo Mayo with full war equipment, while the thousands of soldiers garrisoned in the capital were either guarding strategic positions or held in quarters for instant duty.

The government began taking measures against trouble Thursday night following the declaration of a 24 hour strike by 6,000 telephone employes, and it was said there was no fear of a revolt, although the president believed an attempt might be made to kill him.

Most of the land is of little value and is suitable only for grazing purposes, Walker said. Bids on the land will be received at the general land office.

The land is in class B, more than 100,000 acres of class A land having been withdrawn from the market last week by Commissioner Walker as a drouth relief measure. Walker stated in taking the land from the market he did not deem it proper to forfeit the land since the crops of the farmers, in many instances, had been destroyed by the drouth.

L. Cook, who has lived in West Texas for the past thirty years.

Bateman of the Texas and Pacific Railroad company, L. C. Porter, assistant general claim agent, R. L. Cook and C. T. Watson of Big Spring returned here Wednesday night after setting up railroad organizations in all the communities touched by the 333-mile proposal.

Farmers Sign Co-Op Papers

Bailey County Farmers Are Enthusiastic Over Co-Op Cotton Plan; More Than Half Meeting Sign

MULESHOE, Aug. 30. (Special.)—Although it was the first meeting of the Texas Cotton Cooperation Association held in Bailey County, more than half of the cotton growers at the meeting here Friday afternoon signed marketing agreements.

Charles H. Alvord, southwestern representative of the Federal Farm Board, Jess Mitchell, editor of the Muleshoe Journal and Frederick P. Burdick, representing the T. C. C. A. addressed the meeting and emphasized the fact that with the United States government endorsing and financing the new organization every cotton grower should have enough faith and confidence in the government to sign up without delay.

SEVENTY SIGN AT HART

About 70 per cent of cotton growers "got their names on the dotted line" of marketing agreements at the Texas Cotton Cooperative association meeting held at Hart's Camp addressed by R. M. Carpenter, chairman for Lamb county; J. W. Hale, secretary of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce; A. D. Adams, county agent, W. O. Gray, and J. W. Hammock, field representative.

President Of Oklahoma Cotton Growers Association May Be Featured; R. J. Murray, Of Lubbock, Scheduled

Farmers and business men of the Anton community are busy developing plans for a big mass meeting and barbecue to be held there Monday, September 8. The gathering will be for the dual purpose of an old-time get-together of folks in that community and of learning further about the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association.

Speakers for the occasion, if present plans are fulfilled, will include R. J. Murray, of Lubbock, chairman of district two for the association; Judge R. C. Hopping, of Lubbock, sales manager for the Ellwood Farm Lands company, and Sam Morley president of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers Association.

An attendance of at least 2,000 people, including farmers and their families of the Anton community, is expected. The comunity extends into the four counties of Hockley, Lamb, Hale and Lubbock. Anton being located in the northeast corner of Hockley county.

The gathering will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, with plans calling for a couple of hours given to listening to the speakers and a study of the cotton association. At 5:30 o'clock the barbecue will start and an hour or more given then to get-together.

Leaf Worms Doing Damages In Places

Cotton leaf worms have been occupying the attention of many farmers of the South Plains during the past week. Reports from Cochran county claim considerable damage to the crop from ravages of these worms throughout that county.

Three carloads of calcium arsenate have been shipped into Terry county during the past two weeks, where farmers have been poisoning the pests. Shortage of this poison in other counties is noticed of late, many farmers appealing to County Agent D. F. Eaton for quantities of it.

In Lubbock county no great area is known as being infested but a number of farmers have reported appearance of the worms in their fields.

COW TESTING SHOWS LOSERS

Loreda, a grade Jersey in the herd of A. G. Sawyer of Gaines county, made a net profit of $7.74 in a recent month while four other cows in the herd made a combined profit of only $6.75. Mr. Sawyer got this startling information through the West Texas Cow Testing by Mail Association of which he is a member.

COOPERATIVE SELLING PAYS

Wool brought from 21.60 to 21.80 cents per pound in cooperative wool pool auction sales at three assembly points in Jasper county in June, with five buyers competing for the product brought in by 59 farmers. The price was lower than a year ago, but was considered satisfactory by the members after learning that one of their number who sold independently received only 15 cents per pound for his clip.

Ohio's Apple Growers Lose Over $250,000 From The Drought

By NEA Service

PROCTORVILLE, O., Aug. 30—The nation-wide drought has hit Lawrence county, heart of the Rome Beauty apple country, so hard that it stands to lose an apple crop estimated at $250,000 and orchards worth many times that amount.

Farmers in this section can't recall a drought that extended without a break as long as the present one has, and are at wits end trying to devise some means of irrigation to water their orchards.

This section, one of the most productive apple belts in the country, doesn't expect to salvage this year's crop of little, rock-like fruit.

Its irrigation efforts are directed toward saving the trees for next year's crop. The fruit this year is so unsatisfactory that it is expected even hogs will turn up their noses at it when used as food.

The Lawrence fruit growers were at first alarmed, then frantic and finally apathetic as they watched the intense heat of late June and July curl the leaves of their trees and shrivel the fruit. Only in the last two weeks have they roused themselves from their depression to battle with unaccustomed weapons against the spectre of blasted orchards.

Water! Water!

The variety of methods used for irrigation present some of the weirdest sights imaginable. One farmer managed to get an old fire engine, abandoned last year by the Proctorville fire department and has placed it on the river bank to pump water for him.

In other sections of the country, where the Ohio river is not available for water supply, men are driving wells in their orchards and still others are trucking it long distances.

B. F. McCown, near Proctorville, has been dumping and spraying 1200 gallons of water an hour for the last three weeks on a 65-acre orchard with 2800 trees. Milton Gardner is the farmer who commandered the old fire engine and he has installed pipe lines from the river bank to his 55-acre orchard.

Drinking Water Scarce

Water for trees is not the only worry of people hereabouts. Drinking water is at a premium and the majority of the wells and cisterns except those known as "drivenwell," have been dry for weeks. A municipal well in Proctorville has been repaired and is furnishing water for many of the residents of the village.

Doctors are warning against the use of water from shallow wells for drinking purposes, and are freely advising the boiling of all water used in the home.

Only two cases of typhoid fever have been reported here, but the threat of an epidemic is ever present under such conditions. High temperature marks of 108, 106 and 105 1-2 degrees have been recorded during a single week here recently.

Lawrence county has always been considered the home of the Rome Beauty apple, and several well-supported legends are told of the planting of the first tree. Johnny Appleseed, that romantic character out of early American history, is said to have started many orchards in southern Ohio and it is presumed that those old-time trees were ancestral to many of the types now known here.

BULLETIN ISSUED ON PESTS

As an aid to farmers whose crops are endangered by insect pests, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has recently issued a 46-page bulletin called "Diseases and Insects of Garden Vegetables" in which methods of combating garden pests are discussed.

Lubbock Area Ships Products Worth Millions

Livestock, Poultry And Dairy Commodities Sent From Area Total Big, Bureau Of Commerce Figures Show

Not counting the great quantities of livestock, chickens, eggs and dairy products consumed in the city of Lubbock, the city of Slaton and other towns of Lubbock county, this county last year shipped from its borders in excess of $2,000,000 worth of these commodities.

"According to figures obtained from the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, there were $1,157,415 in livestock shipped from Lubbock county between July 1, 1929 and the same date this year," declares County Agent David F. Eaton.

"Dairy products shipped from the county, so these figures reveal, totalled $248,288. There were 184,038 live and dressed chickens shipped out and 633,729 dozen eggs."

No figures were given on turkey shipments.

Nebraska's greatest export income comes from lard.

Agent Moves

Roy B. Davis, who has been county agricultural agent for Terry county the past few years, assumes similar duties in Hale county September 1.

Mr. Davis is a graduate of Lubbock high school and Texas A. and M. college, and has made an outstanding record as a county agent in Terry county, particularly with achievements obtained by boys and girls 4-H club work. The Terry County 4-H Pig clubs are claimed as leading the nation in membership of this class of club projects.

In Hale county Mr. Davis is well known because of his assistance with the Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show which he helped to organize. He is superintendent of the Jersey department of this show, is a director of the association and a member of the catalog committee.

Hereford Breeder Is Plains Resident

W. T. Lewis, of Gainesville, one of the best known breeders of Hereford cattle in the state of Texas, recently moved to the South Plains. He and his family are to reside at 2513 Twenty-Second street, Lubbock, which residence he purchased from Dewitt Fears.

Mr. Lewis was president of the Texas Hereford Breeders Association for two years and, at the time of moving to Lubbock, was president of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the firm of Whaley and Lewis, of Gainesville, with extensive land and other property holdings throughout the South Plains.

Jennings Lewis, a son, comes to Lubbock county as a 4-H club boy with enviable records gained in club work with cattle.

First Bale In Hockley Area Goes To Co-Op

Premium Of $55 Paid By The Merchants Of Levelland To J. D. Chandler; Co-Op Gives 90 Per Cent Advance

Hockley county's first bale of cotton for the 1930 season brought a premium of $55 and was the first bale to be handled through the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association in this section of the state.

The bale, raised by J. D. Chandler, eight miles south of Levelland, was ginned Thursday. It weighed 845 pounds and was classed by Frank Winn of Lubbock as strict middling white seven-eighths inch staple cotton.

The Texas Cotton Cooperative Association advanced Mr. Chandler 90 per cent of the market price, or 9 cents a pound, he having placed the cotton in the association's seasonal pool.

As N. H. Payne, field representative of the cotton association, gave Mr. Chandler the cash advance on the bale, one farmer was heard to remark: "Well, they're going to do what they said they would—pay off like a slot machine."

Calf Crop Increased By Liberal Feeding

PERRYTON — Generous feeding of his herd of 70 beef cows and 80 heifers during the breeding season last July and August resulted in a 95 per cent calf crop from both cows and heifers, W. E. Tandy, Ochiltree county farmer says. He fed two pounds of cottonseed cake daily per head during two months last summer in addition to running the herd on grass pasture.

Ordinarily Mr. Tandy has gotten an 80 per cent calf crop from cows and about a 60 per cent crop from heifers. In addition to getting more calves the youngsters are much more vigorous than in the past and cows and heifers came through much better than common.

"The results obtained by Mr. Tandy in this demonstration are unusually good," declare Guy R. Sheets, county agent, "but the method of feeding breeding cattle liberally through breeding season, as advocated by the Extension Service, may be expected to give satisfactory returns under most conditions."

BORDER COUNTY TERRACING

Terracing is spreading to the Mexican border with a report coming from the county agent of Webb county that J. B. Chilton made a crop of dry land spinach on terraced land on his ranch last season and that he now has a good crop of cane maturing. Many believe that terracing and contouring will lend greater stability to dry land farming throughout extreme South Texas.

County Agent Advises Holding Feed And Storing Forage Crops for Future

High priced feed and a shortage of forage crops are facing farmers of Lubbock county, according to County Agent D. F. Eaton, who advises all farmers possessing late feed that would make good forage and promise to do not so well in maturing to cut such crop and store them.

"Bulky feeds are the cheapest," so Mr. Eaton declares, "and the more forage we can get stored away on the farm the better off our farmers will be. I would suggest that farmers cut and stack all feed crops that will not mature, while the plants are green."

Advise Holding Feed

Mr. Eaton also advises every farmer to hold as much of his feed crops as possible, contending it much wiser to possess feed grown at home than to sell at a low price now and be compelled to pay much higher prices for feed later.

Fall grain are advised by the county agent. He states that seed beds should now be placed in good condition in order than when sufficient moisture is available such grains as wheat, rye, barley, red top sorghum and millet might be planted. He warns that barley, sometimes, freezes out, recommending the other grains as being adapted.

"Now is the time to plant sweet clover," he says.

EXPERIMENT WITH COTTON

An experimental cotton gin and laboratory, authorized at the last session to Congress, is to be erected in Mississippi at the Mississippi Delta Branch Experiment Station by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Different varieties of cotton will be tested here and results coming from the laboratory are expected to better the cotton industry in the United States.

SELECTING GOOD TURKEY STOCK

A majority of the 17 Erath county turkey raisers who carefully selected breeding females last fall on the basis of weight and uniform quality, report thriftier and more uniform appearing poults than a year ago. The eggs were early and hatchability good, which the county agent regards as noteworthy in consideration of the fact that the mating season was marked by severe weather and total lack of green feed this year.

GETTING RID OF SMUT

Half the cars of wheat shipped out of Blanket, Brown county, in 1929 contained smut and cost farmers from two cents to 10 cents per bushel. Copper carbonate treatment was given 600 bushels of seed wheat there last fall by the county agent and this season the crop is coming in clean and of uniform quality.

PRODUCE-ERS

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, there are about 40,000 shippers, dealers, brokers, and commission merchants engaged in the produce business in the United States.

NATIONAL FARM OUTLOOK

BY ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal

UNTIL THE DAY when corn harvest actually begins, at the southern fringes of the corn raising country, nobody will know just what the crop will be, or how much the dry weather in the central valleys has cut it down.

It is plain enough that the total for the whole country will be below normal. But the damage from drought is nearly always less than the first reports, just as the first cloudburst stories, with hundreds of people drowned, usually simmer down to a fatality list of sixteen chickens and a pig.

Most plants have strong powers of recuperation, as long as their roots remain undamaged. They can "come back" in a surprising manner. And since corn in particular is chiefly a feed for livestock, and perfection of the grain is not essential, as it would be if sold in the markets, unfilled ears are less serious a defect.

Again, there are important areas of the farming country, most of the northeast and southeast, Wisconsin, the far southwest and the Pacific slope, where rainfall has been ample and crops are good.

The spots where the drought is really serious are those where there was actually no rainfall to speak of for six weeks or more, and where corn and pasture grass are the most important parts of the farm production.

Where wheat, oats and barley are grown, where clover, alfalfa, soybeans and other legumes were harvested for hay, there will be no important shortage of feeds for livestock. The small grains and the grasses are interchangeable for feeding to a considerable extent. And in most sections, though not all, these crops made satisfactory harvests.

Altogether, taking farm production as a whole, there is no reason for alarm. There will be plenty of food for every family, and feed for every head of livestock.

In some cases a farmer will consider it better to sell his stock than to buy feed, and this will have an effect on livestock next year. This is particularly true where pastures have been badly burned.

Again, the results of the drought will be favorable to some farmers, and ruinous to others. That always is the case. Those with feeds to sell will profit; those who must buy will suffer.

But the impression that agriculture in all its divisions and throughout the country is in a desperate situation because of dry weather, is ridiculously untrue. The first soaking rains—which are sure to come—will put a different face on the matter.

Extensive Program Of Calf Feeding Is Being Planned In Lamb County During Season

Banks Taking Lead In Move For Feeder-Breeder Program; Thousand Or More Head To Be Fed

BY J. SAM LEWIS
(Staff Correspondent)

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 30—One of the biggest programs of county-wide calf feedings is being planned by Lamb county farmers and breeders in cooperation with the five banks of the county and D. A. Adam, county agent.

Number of calves to be fed will depend largely upon the feed crop of the county. If the feed crop is good between 3,000 and 5,000 animals may be fed out; if not, probably half that amount will be used.

Crops Determine

"It depends a good deal upon the crops, the late feed crops," C. A. Duffy, cashier of the First National bank of Amherst explained. "If we get a good late feed crop around Amherst I believe we will feed a thousand or more head. Otherwise, we will not feed as many.

"There are about 100 farmers or more interested in the proposition in Amherst's territory. I expect that when it comes to feeding, about 50 or 60 men may be expected to take the calves.

"We can't tell how much surplus we are going to have. We may have a good deal and again we may not."

Begins in November

J. C. Hilburn, president of the First National bank of Littlefield, said that feeding would not begin until about the first of November.

"The farmers will have to have time to get their feed harvested before they buy calves," he said. "The banks are going to buy the calves and sell them to the farmers.

"I figure we can get calves for about $35 a head. If we do, we can buy a good many and sell to the farmers. The calves will weight about 300 to 400 pounds when bought and I expect by the time they have been fed out they will add 200 to 250 pounds.

Fed 90 to 120 Days

Most of the animals will be fed 90 to 120 days, the banker added. It is probable that the longer period will be the one used by the farmers.

Yearling calves will form the major portion of the animals purchased according to bankers.

"We are not urging our farmer customers to buy more calves than they can handle" Hugh Sullivan, cashier of the First State bank of Littlefield explained. "It is our policy to buy from ten or twelve to 20 head or more for those of our customers who want them.

Price Determines Number

"It is our policy to just buy for our farmers what animals they can conviently handle and what they will have feed for. The price also will determine the number. It will not be a good thing to pay over $30 a head for the calves. More than likely the average will run around $25 or $26."

Lamb county has five banks and the bankers recently got together on a program of financing farmers with good feed crops. It was felt that the five institutions could form a pool and handle purchases of up to $250,000 for calves. This would run about 10,000 head.

Banks to Handle Cases

Each bank will handle its own customers, purchasing the calves and making the deal a regular financial transaction.

County Agent Adam is of the opinion that farmers with surplus feed can double the money they would ordinarily make on feed crops by feeding to animals instead of selling.

Banks that have agreed to finance farmers in a feeder-breeder plan include: First National bank of Littlefield; First State bank of Littlefield; First National bank of Amherst; First National bank of Sudan and Olton State bank.

Early in August Mr. Adam conducted a feeder-breeder short course. It was attended by over 200 mostly farmers. The bankers were present and explained their part of the program.

Instruction in feeding and rations were given by Mr. Adam and several experts from Texas A. and M. and other state associations.

Last year between 3,000 and 5,000 head were fed in the county. It is hoped to double the number this year.

American Fascist Reported Formed In Georgia City

(By Associated Press)

Such action, the official said, was in direct violation of a statute providing penalties up to ten years imprisonment and $5,000 fine, for persons who "conspire to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right guaranteed to him by the constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same."

Slaton Milk Plant Enjoys Active Patronage

SLATON, Aug. 30 (Special.)—One of the younger industries of Slaton, established just a few months ago, is a dairy products plant, engaged in butter-making and pasteurization of milk for the markets. The plant is privately owned and is operated by J. W. and Jesse Massingill.

The plant turns out an average of 150 pounds of butter per day, and this finds a ready market. About 500 gallons of whole milk is bought daily. It is pasteurized and then marketed to consumers.

Although beginning in a small way, the plant is growing and is helping farmers and dairymen in finding good marketing facilities for their products, besides forming an additional industry for Slaton.

Hankins Gives Invitations to Highway Meet

J. H. Hankins Sends Out Letters to Members of Association; Meeting to Be Held in Carlsbad

Letters of invitation to all cities and towns along the route of the Carlsbad Cavern highway, recently designated U. S. Highway No. 62, asking them to have large delegations in Carlsbad, N. M., September 9, have been mailed by President J. H. Hankins.

"If we are to profit by the work that has been done and by the money that has been spent by our towns on the promotion and advertising of the Carlsbad Cavern highway and the securing of federal designation therefore," said President Hankins, "we must stand shoulder to shoulder and plan very definitely for the carrying on of this work, otherwise we are going to see interlopers not only try to steal our thunder, but also try and profit financially from the work we have done.

Blame Ourselves

"If we do not lay our plans very carefully, if we do not present a united front that is impregnable, if we do not make up our minds to control this organization and proceed along the lines and policies that we have followed out to date, we will have no one to blame but ourselves.

This is a serious matter and one that will be explained explicitly, plainly and in detail at the Carlsbad meeting.

It is understood that plans will be discussed at length at the coming meeting for the extension of the route into Mexico and into Canada, making it an international highway.

New Producer Shows Up In Winkler Area

Number 1 Leck Makes 550 On Storage, Which Potentially, Is 13,200 Daily In New Discovery Pool

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, August 30.—Opened for one hour late last week, Atlantic Oil Producing company and J. C. Maxwell No. 1 Leck (Daugherty), three-quarters of a mile south of the Leck pool in Winkler county, flowed 550 barrels of oil inao storage, or at the potential rate of 13,200 barels daily, which establishes the well as the largest in the Leck district and places it among the leaders of Winkler county since discovery.

The well was drilled to 3,081 feet having encountered the pay slightly higher than other producers in the Leck area which average 3,100 feet in depth. This well is 1,650 feet from the south line and 2,310 feet from the east line of section 18, block 74, public school land and is approximately ten miles north of the Hendrick pool.

Atlantic Has Two-Thirds

Atlantic Oil Producing company with headquarters in Dallas, owns two-thirds interest under the 60-acre lease and J. C. Maxwell, Fort Worth, operator, holds one-third interest. Luther C. Turman, Fort Worth, holds the 60 acres just north of the new producer and Empire Gas and Fuel company has acreage just south of the new well.

Turman has started moving tools to his location, 1,650 feet from the south line and 2,310 feet from the west line of section 16, block 74, public school land, which will be a west offset to the well. Empire has announced no plans to develop its lease imediately. Followers of the area doubt that a continuous chain of productive territory exists between the Leck and Hendrick pools but developments of a 13,200 barrel per day well south of what now appears to be edge wells in the Leck district is probably the most important development in Winkler county since the Hendrick pool reached its peak.

Cundiff was a native of West Virginia but went west when a young man. He was 62 years old.

MODERNIZE YOUR HOME Now ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS

READ THESE 3 FACTS:

Banks finance home improvements. Each bank will "fix" a month, like customers, purchasing, buying a car and making the deal a real financial transaction.

County Agent Adam is of the opinion that farmers with surplus feed can double the money they would ordinarily make on feed crops by feeding to animals instead of selling.

Banks that have agreed to finance farmers in a feeder-breeder plan include: First National bank of Littlefield; First State bank of Littlefield; First National bank of Amherst; First National bank of Sudan and Olton State bank.

Early in August Mr. Adam conducted a feeder-breeder short course. It was attended by over 200, mostly farmers. The bankers were present and explained their part of the program.

Instruction in feeding and rations were given by Mr. Adam and several experts from Texas A. and M. and other state associations.

Last year between 3,000 and 5,000 head were fed in the county. It is hoped to double the number this year.

Hay Fever Talk To Feature Meet

MIDLAND, Aug. 30. (Special.)—Hay fever victims from all over West Texas are expected to hear a free lecture by a national hay fever authority in Midland October 6. Dr. Ray M. Bayless of Oklahoma City will be to Midland to attend the annual convention of the West Texas Medical Society October 6 and 7 and will deliver an address on hay fever.

The program arranged for the meeting by Dr. M. H. Bennett, president, and Dr. J. R. Dillard, vice-president, both of Big Spring, and Dr. W. E. Ryan of Midland, secretary, is said to be the most comprehensive ever yet given at a convention of the society.

Nine Dallas doctors are on the program. They are: Drs. Curtis Rosser, Hugh Leslie Moore, W. B. Carroll, Guy Witt, Henry Wians, A. L. Folsom, C. W. Flyn, W. E. Sistrunk, and H. G. Wolcott. The president of the Texas Medical Association, Dr. John Burns of Cuero, will also make an address. Dr. Ryan is arranging a banquet for the first evening.

ORDINANCE NO. 471
AN ORDINANCE MAKING IT UNLAWFUL TO USE, MAINTAIN OR PERMIT DRY CLOSET OR PRIVY WITHOUT LICENSE; FIXING LICENSE FEES AND TIME OF PAYMENT AND PENALTY FOR DELINQUENT PAYMENTS, REQUIRING PROPERTY WITHIN 100 FEET OF PUBLIC SEWER TO BE CONNECTED; PROVIDING FOR SANITARY REGULATIONS, SCREENING, INSPECTING, REPAIRING, AND PROHIBITING INTERFERENCE; FIXING PENALTY, AND DECLARING EMERGENCY.
BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LUBBOCK, TEXAS:
SECTION 1. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to use, maintain or permit the use of any dry closet or privy on premises owned or controlled by them within the corporate limits of the City of Lubbock, Texas, without first obtaining a license therefor from the City Secretary of said city.
SECTION 2. The license fees are to be paid at the office of the City Secretary yearly or quarterly in advance. If paid yearly in advance a discount of ten per cent will be allowed. A license fee of six dollars per year or one dollar and a half per quarter will be charged for each dry closet at residences and this shall be the minimum fee for any closet whether described or specified in this ordinance or not. A license fee of twelve dollars per year or three dollars per quarter will be collected for each dry closet for boarding houses, rooming houses, or stores or other buildings, industrial, commercial, religious or social. It is understood that the above fees are to be paid for each dry closet or privy maintained, and that if more than one is maintained upon the premises the additional fee or license will be collected for each and every additional dry closet or privy maintained. No deduction for license fee will be made for non-use of closets or privies maintained. All license fees are to be paid on or before the 10th day of the first month in the quarter due. When payment is not made as above provided but paid on or before the 20th of said due date a penalty of 25c will be added and if paid after the 20th a penalty of 50c will be added. These provisions are not to be taken in any manner with the provision of section 7.
SECTION 3. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to permit a privy or dry closet of any kind or description for the reception of human excreta, to be maintained, used or to exist upon any property in the City of Lubbock, Texas, or in the area of police jurisdiction thereof, where any of said property is within 100 feet of the public sewer system of said city, and provided connection is physically possible.
SECTION 4. All dry closets or privies shall be properly screened and made tight so that flies cannot enter the container of fecal matter, nor the contents of the container leak out. Closets shall be located, when practical, near alleys, and shall be easily accessible to the scavenger for cleaning. Closets that are inaccessible to the scavenger may be required to be placed in an accessible location, and closets that are obnoxious or unsanitary may be required to be rebuilt to conform to specifications of the City of Lubbock. All new closets or closets that are rebuilt must be as per plans approved by the City of Lubbock. No dry closet or privy shall be built or maintained within six feet of any drain or ditch.
SECTION 5: That the cleaning of all dry closets or privies within the City of Lubbock shall be done exclusively by the sanitary department of said city of Lubbock, and that it shall be unlawful for any private citizen, firm or corporation to do such work unless empowered by the City Commission of the City of Lubbock. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to bury or have buried within the city limits of the City of Lubbock any sewerage or fecal matter of human excrement. It shall be unlawful to put rags, cobs, ashes or any other substance except paper in the part of the dry closet or privy used as a container or receptacle of fecal matter. All rubbish that cannot be burned shall be placed in boxes near the closet easily accessible to the scavenger. Unsanitary condition or lack of attention to dry closets and privies must be reported to the City Health Department, by the owner or user thereof. No charges of cleaning closets will be made by the sanitary department of the City of Lubbock and same will be cleaned as often as necessary. No closet will be cleaned upon which the license fee has not been paid. The license payments, are due and must be paid on or before January 1st, April 1st, July 1st, and October 1st, provided however, that new closets coming under this regulation for the first time, and at the organization of the system, the unexpired quarter must be paid for at the proportionate rate, and at the time the right to use it is acquired, or the new closet built.
SECTION 6: The Sanitary Officer and scavengers, or other officers and employes of the City of Lubbock, who may be designated from time to time by the City Manager, City Health Officer, City Health Department, or the City Commission, shall have access to the premises on which dry closets and privies are located for the purpose of cleaning and inspecting or summarily abating same, or for sanitary purposes of any kind. Any one who shall hinder or attempt to interfere with the above employes in the discharge of their duties shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished as hereinafter provided.
SECTION 7: Any person using or permitting the use of any dry closet or privy contrary to the provisions of this ordinance without obtaining a license and paying a fee for the same, or any person or persons refusing to construct a dry closet or privy, or change or modify an existing dry closet or privy, in accordance with these provisions, and the instructions of the officers of the City of Lubbock, or any person refusing to give access to his premises to the sanitary officer or employes of the City of Lubbock, contrary to the provisions of this ordinance, or any person who shall injure or destroy any receptacle or other property of the City used in this department, or use same in a manner or for a purpose contrary to the provisions of this ordinance, or any other person failing or refusing to comply with any of the provisions of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof in the corporation court, shall be fined in any sum not less than one dollar nor more than ten dollars, and each day's violation shall be deemed a separate offense and punishable as such.
SECTION 8. This ordinance shall not be construed as repealing any ordinance requiring connection with sanitary sewer line, or making it a penalty for failure to do so.
SECTION 9: The fact that there are many unsanitary conditions in the town of Lubbock, creating a danger to the public health, makes it imperative that this ordinance take effect from and after its passage, and it is so ordered.
Passed and approved by unanimous vote of the entire Commission this 14th day of August, 1930. Passed and approved August 20th, 1930, 2nd reading.

Sale of Car For Judgment Halted By Injunction

A writ of injunction blocking sale of an automobile to satisfy a judgment awarded in justice court here was granted Saturday by Homer L. Pharr, judge of the seventy-second district court, upon petition Saturday by Texas Motor Ways, Inc., of Ralls.

Alexander Film company of Colorado Springs filed on a contract against the Motor Ways in justice court here and September 10, 1929, was awarded a judgment of $131.08. A writ of execution was issued in the justice court at request of the film company last August 5 and Sheriff Wade Hardy took possession of a seven-passenger automobile belonging to the Motor Ways as a chattel to be levied upon for the judgment.

The automobile had been advertised by the sheriff as for sale between 10 o'clock Saturday morning and 4 o'clock that afternoon.

Subsequently, the Motor Ways petitioned for an injunction, declaring that in the original trial, counsel for the film company had alleged the Motor Ways' principal place of business was Lubbock county, instead of Crosby county, and that if the automobile were sold, the Motor Ways would have no way of recovering damages as the film company was a foreign corporation with no property in this state.

The injunction was issued by the district clerk upon posting by Motor Ways representatives of $350 bond.

Votes Tabulation Not Canvassed By Group Saturday

Official tabulation of Lubbock county votes in the second primary election of August 23 will not be announced before Monday, J. K. Wester, chairman of the Democratic county executive meeting, said late Saturday afternoon.

Figures were checked Saturday, Mr. Wester said, but late Saturday afternoon work of compiling totals had not been started. The county Democratic chairman estimated another half day's work would be necessary to complete the final report.

The Democratic chairman said reporters could have a copy of the official count if they came to his office about noon Monday.

Aid Is Asked In Pro Enforcement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Stressing the vital need for state and local cooperation in prohibition enforcement, Assistant Attorney General Youngquist in a radio address last night said effective enforcement by federal forces, unaided, was an "utter impossibility."

The number of federal agents—estimated at one to every 70,000 people—he described as "pitifully inadequate" to the task of drying up the country. Reiterating the appeal for state cooperation frequently voiced of late by Attorney General Mitchell, prohibition director Woodcock and Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission, Youngquist said the local authorities in many sections already were giving valuable help.

Enforcement, he asserted, was "becoming more effective" and would improve in the future. However, he emphasized it was not a matter of enforcing prohibition laws alone, but that cooperation was needed for obtaining observance of all criminal statutes.

Major Events Of Early Week To Honor Visitors Here

Nuptials Will Be Read Here In Next Week

Two Ceremonies Scheduled For Lubbock; Edmonson-Baird Wedding Will Be In Vernon During Week

THREE weddings, scheduled for the coming week, hold the interest of many Lubbock people, the Cooper-Stahl marriage to be today.

Although she is not now a resident of Lubbock, the marriage of Miss Lynn Dougherty, of Levelland, to Murray McWhorter, of Lamesa, Tuesday, is an occasion which is receiving a share of the Lubbock interest.

Edmondson-Baird

The third wedding is that of Miss Louise Baird and Dr. Nat Edmonson, jr., which is scheduled for Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church at Vernon.

Miss Baird is the retiring home demonstration agent, of Lubbock County, who has spent three years in this city. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Baird, live in Vernon.

Dr. Edmonson is a member of the Texas Technological college faculty and he and his bride expect to live in Lubbock this winter. Miss Baird has been extended a number of social courtesies since announcement was made of her engagement.

McWhorter-Dougherty Nuptials Here

Miss Lynn Dougherty, of Levelland, is to be married to Murray McWhorter, of Lamesa, Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock in the pastor's study of the First Presbyterian church here with Dr. Jack M. Lewis performing the ceremony.

The couple will be unattended and only close friends will be present.

Following announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage, the bride-elect has been honored with a series of prenuptial affairs at Levelland, where she makes her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Dougherty. On last Thursday morning Mrs. Clarence Rollo entertained with a smart bridge-luncheon honoring Miss Dougherty at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Rollo, 1802 Avenue S, this city.

The bride-to-be is a former student of the University of Texas at Austin and received a bachelor of arts degree from Texas Technological college in 1929. During that year Miss Douherty was named queen of the Elizabethan fair at the annual collee pageant which is held in the spring.

Ceremony To Be Read At High Noon Today

Culminating a series of events which have followed announcement of the Cooper-Stahl engagement recently will be the nuptial ceremony which is to be read at high noon today at the First Baptist church by the pastor, Rev. R. C. Campbell.

The bride-to-be, Miss Frances Stahl, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stahl, 2214 Main street, and the groom is Roy Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Cooper, of Waco. The wedding will follow morning services at the church.

Preceding the nuptials, Mrs. R. L. McKnight is to sing, "If God Had Left Only You," accompanied at the piano by Miss Hazel Kokanour, who with Miss Blanche Fann, violinist, will continue with the wedding processionals and "The Flower Song" while the vows are repeated.

Two Attendants

Attending the bride, whose wedding dress is to be of brown, trimmed in tan and rust color, will be her sister, Miss Helen Stahl, as bridesmaid, and Miss Ernestine

Fashion Plate

A NEW black felt favored for fall shows the brim mounted high on the crown and the long back slightly shirred. A grosgrain bow is posed at the side.

Flat Furs Are Favored For Winter

BY MME. LISBETH

Flat furs are fashion's favorite trimming for both suits and coats for fall and winter. It is to be a fur season, according to present trends, with both coats and ensembles heavily and sometimes elaborately trimmed with it.

Coat bodices, as well as collars, cuffs and hems, are lavishly decorated in some of the models from the Paris houses. Decorated sleeves are also an important part of the newer mode. Elbow cuffs of fur and other decorative manipulations of the pelts are almost universal.

Large, rather than narrow, collars of fur is another trend noticed. Graduated bands of fur, starting in a large collar, narrowing at the waistline and gradually flaring toward the hem, are often noticed stylings on full length coats.

All black is sponsored as of prime importance in the winter mode, black Persian lamb being used frequently to trim the all black coat or suit.

At the left above is a suit with three-quarters coat, which shows this vogue for elaborate fur trimming with flat furs. It is an all black suit with rolling collar of black caracul which continues to the waistline, elbow length cuffs in graduated styling, and almost the entire skirt of the jacket fashioned of the fur.

The skirt of the suit is cut with a slight flare, and with it is worn accessories of black felt hat and black kid pumps which are edged with gray lizard.

At the right is pictured a green and white polo coat, smartly tailored, with narrow turned back cuffs of self material and collared in beige galyak. It is a small model for either town or country wear, and is one of those serviceable garments that may be worn in the in-between days of early fall, when a coat is needed, but it is not yet cool enough for the heavy winter wrap.

Miss Ruth Pirtle Extended Pretty Courtesy By Members Of Club Of Which She Is Sponsor; Leaves Soon

Covers were placed for Misses Pirtle, Kathleen Conrad, Patti Hopping, Evelyn Rutherford, Lorene Cassel, Ada Ruth May, Loraine Gable, Melba Mae Tatom, Margaret Conner, Eileen Graves, Clara May Bishop, Genevieve Deckert, and Mrs. Roland Travis.

Parent-Teacher Associations Are Asked Co-operate In Campaign

THE WOMAN'S ANGLE

* * *

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

LEADERS in parent-teacher work in Lubbock are urging that every Lubbock patron who has any interest in the schools attend the P.-T. A. institute programs on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Patrons who are interested in life schools form a vast majority of the Lubbock adults.

* * *

This institute, which is to be conducted in connection with the South Plains Teachers institute at Texas Technological college, is designed to show the aims and methods of procedure of the P.-T. A. and speakers will be people who have made a special study of the problem. Attendance will not signify anything except an interest in this work and, although many parents of Lubbock school children will not or can not become active members of the parent-teacher associations of the various schools, it behooves them to know something of the organizations which are shaping their childrens lives and the P.-T. A. as an influential body in the school, does have a part in the destiny of the school child.

* * *

The parent-teacher association has devoted too much time in the past to raising money to buy school ground equipment, black boards and such things, according to Mrs. W. W. Royalty, president of the P.-T. A. council here, but the local associations are becoming conference groups in which patrons and teachers cooperate in promoting movements for the benefit of the school child and in studying the mutual problems which they are called upon to share.

* * *

In talking with mothers of children in the R. Carter school this week, I have found that some of them think this institute is simply for P.-T. A. leaders and I wish you would impress upon them that it is for every patron," Mrs. E. B. Wheeler, president of the association in that ward, called in this week. Her experience probably was similar to that found by the other leaders who are devoting much of their time to this activity.

SHE'S A DOCTOR, ANYWAY

SO much has been said about emancipation of women in the Orient that most of us realize something of the struggle women there must experience in order to enter a profession. One of the pioneers in the field of medicine in China, Dr. Leung Yuk Yi, of Canton, has been visiting in the United States during this summer studying medical methods here. Dr. Yi was one of the few Chinese women who had the courage to defy the Oriental tradition which prevented women from entering the medical profession.

YOUR OLD CLOTHES NEEDED

WON'T you urge people to give their old clothes to the Church federation to be distributed among the poor of Lubbock, Mrs. A. T. Riggers, president of that organization, asked yesterday. "There are so many men in the city without employment and many of those who have work are making so little that there are a lot of families here in need of assistance," she continued.

* * *

"The coming of winter is going to make the need acute here and the church women, along with other agencies, are going to be called upon for help. Recently a portion of this column was devoted to a similar appeal from the parent-teacher associations which will aid in providing clothing for some children who would not otherwise be able to attend school. The church women need clothing for everyone "from the cradle to the grave," according to Mrs. Riggins, who says that, in case the clothing cannot be sent to her home, she will call for the donation if those who have garments will let her know of it.

FOR YOUR HAIR

HAIR shampooing will be more satisfactory if one melts her own soap, a beauty specialist advises. Borax-melted soap will lell when it cools instead of remaining liquid as the commercial varieties do, but it can be made liquid before using by scooping up a portion and combining it with a little boiling water. Pure castile soap is suggested for this shampoo.

Memberships Are Asked In State Groups

Loving Cup To Be Awarded To Winning District In Annual Life Membership Campaign

The financial depression is not affecting the results obtained by the life membership committee of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, according to Mrs. Edward Kneeland, Dallas, state chairman of that committee, who has just announced in a ringing challenge to the 2,000 associations in membership with the Congress that fifth district has paid in the first ten life membership pledges of twenty-five dollars each, which entitles it to the cash award of $100, four life membership fees, which was subscribed by first district by courtesy of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and by second, fifth and eleventh districts in the form of personal pledges.

Interest in the contest for the loving cup awarded annually to the district securing the greatest number of pledges is increasing with several districts running close together. For those districts in which there are no large cities, and whose chances for winning the loving cup are slim, Mrs. Kneeland as state chairman, is presenting another contest and will award to the district in this class which secures the greatest number of life membership the 1930 National Congress Library, composed of a year's subscription to Child Welfare Magazine, leaflets, and the following books: 1930 proceedings, handbook, parent education, and a new force in education.

Mrs. Kneeland and the state committee composed of Mrs. L. W. Pelphrey, Mrs. M. A. Taylor, Mrs. J. H. Moore, Mrs. J. P. Buck, Mrs. E. H. Marek, Mrs. Sidney Gilmore, Mrs. W. H. Schaefer, Mrs. J. M. Chalk, Mrs. John Maxwell, Mrs. S. M. Purcell, Mrs. John McLelland, Mrs. P. W. Robbins, Mrs. F. M. Goss, Mrs. A. C. Sherman, and Mrs. Irby Dyer, are requesting that all districts secure five more life members during the months of September and October.

Mrs. Kneeland says, "With the cooperation and the pledges already made and coming due at the end of the year, we will be able to make our best report during the past twelve years since this organization was made a special line of work, and best of all we will be rendering a valuable service in helping to finance our great extension program, which embraces the formation of parent-teacher associations in nine thousand school districts. Truly this is a great challenge.

"One life membership fee of twenty-five dollars will help to organize several associations, as all workers render volunteer service. One plan of service, now in that all parent-teacher associations affiliated with the state congress appoint a life membership chairman.

"Presidents of the associations are asked to report this action to their district president and to write to Mrs. Stephen Chamness, Capitol Station, Austin, for the life membership leaflet, which gives detailed information. The duty of your local life membership chairman, is to present the plan at least twice a year to the association, so that all members will understand the purpose of the movement, and this procedure will enable the parent-teacher associations to send their delegates to district and state meetings instructed.

"At the close of the present administration, November 1931, at the state meeting it is planned to have a life membership banquet, marking the twenty-fourth year that this movement has a very small beginning. The special committee has been a recognized part of the work for ten years. In this connection it will be of interest to members of the state congress and other friends in Texas to know that nine-thirty-six state branches of the national congress of parents and teachers are developing state life memberships. Texas, having the distinction of inaugurating this work has 1,195 life members with the present year's report incomplete. New York has 317 members, Arkansas 128, California 106, and other state are making a fair start. For the past five years state life members have been affiliated with the National Congress by the payment of ten per cent of each fee. This fund goes into the national extension work.

"Cooperation between the home and the school has become a living vital issue throughout the state and nation. The child in the midst is our responsibility. The dream of Mrs. Theodore Birney, national founder, has come true. The children of this generation, the men and women of tomorrow need and must have our loyal, loving, intelligent support now.

Corsetierre Says American Women Are Ruining Figures With Girdles In Trying To Meet Fashions Today

Editors: This is the final story of a series of six sent by wire on successive days covering the field of feminine fashions for this fall and winter. This story deals with girdles.

BY ADELAIDE KERR

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. (AP)—American women are in danger of ruining their figures and their health with the girdles they are wearing today, says a New York corsetierre, who has made girdles for many a famous figure, including Lillian Russell's.

Girdles are needed by the average woman in these days of snug waistlines and fitted hips, she believes, but "pinching" she abhors as unnecessary and harmful.

"Within the last six months I've noticed a change in figures," says Madame Binner, Fifth Avenue corsetiere. "Many of the girls are pinching their waists in order to meet the demands of some frock they long to wear.

"They read that a certain height should have a certain waist measure. They pay no attention to anything else—they just squeeze until they get it. As a result they push their hips down and generally distort their bodies. It's monstrous. The hour glass figure is never coming back for women learned the harm it did."

Correct Measurements

The correct measurements, permitting a little leeway to meet the individual figure, are in general as follows, says Madame Binner:

Debutante—waist 26 inches, hips 34 inches; young matron—waist 29 inches, hips 36 to 37 inches; middle aged matron—waist 32 to 33 inches, hips 38 to 40 inches.

"They don't have to starve to get it either," she says. "Let them leave a little on their plates now and then, take 15 to 20 minutes of brisk setting-up exercises every morning, and breathe deeply."

Many fashion leaders, answering the query of American women "to girdle or not to girdle?" declare that some support is necessary to provide a smooth trim figure for the winter's snugly fitting frocks. The old steel stays have by no means returned, however, they hasten to point out.

Of Many Fabrics

Triple net, lace, moire or silk and linen combinations, designed with few or no whalebones, are the stuff of which the 1930-31 girdle is designed. They are often slipped on over the head and hooked at one side. For the average figure a few whalebones in front and back are used in the daytime girdle. The evening girdle, however, is generally without bone.

Madame Binner uses a silk and linen combination once used as a covering for airplane wings in fashioning girdles for the figure of average proportions. She advocates two piece girdles designed with a brassiere hooked by elastic tabs to the section about the waist and hips, made of moire or similarly heavy material for the figure of large proportions. For the slim young thing she advised a one-piece girdle combining brassiere and girdle.

Six young girls attended several social courtesies in Lubbock during the latter part of the week. Eleanor Hodges of Littlefield, who is the guest of Katherine Leidigh in the home of her parents, Dean and Mrs. A. H. Leidigh, 2101 17th street, was named honoree on two occasions.

Mary Virginia Ballinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jo Ballinger was hostess at a dinner and slumber party Thursday evening at her home at 2113 9th street honoring Eleanor and also Virginia Evelyn Byrd, of Tulsa, who is visiting her.

A picnic dinner was served from a table arranged in the yard and a delightful breakfast was served Friday morning.

Thursday afternoon the girls attended a local theater.

On Friday afternoon Catherine Leidigh entertained with a swimming party and lawn supper. Following a refreshing dip at Tumble N pool guests returned to the Leidigh home. After supper games were played.

Those enjoying these affairs were Mary Virginia Ballinger, Virginia Lee Barr, Katherine Leidigh, Virginia Evelyn Byrd, Kathryn Barr, and Eleanor Hodges.

Comedy Features Theater Program Here This Week

Dolores Del Rio To Be Seen At The Lindsey

A wide variety of movie attractions will be offered in Lubbock this week. The program will be started with a comedy extravaganza, "The Cuckoos," in which Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, master clowns of "Rio Rita" will be seen and heard. The hilarious talkie started at a midnight prevue last night and will continue through Wednesday.

Starting Thursday at the Lindsey, Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe will be seen in "The Bad One." It will show here three days.

Richard Dix, ever-popular screen star, is now showing at the Palace in a two-listed role of a big city gambler in "Shooting Straight." The picture began a three-day run yesterday. Mary Lawlor supports the star.

"Song of Love," all-talking, singing, dancing backstage drama, begins a four-day run at the Lyric theater today. Belle Baker carries the leading role.

Ken Maynard in the "Fighting Legion" begins Thursday for a three-day engagement at the Lyric.

Household Thrift Practices Listed

Ethel Peyser Has New Book For The Home

"Cheating the Junk Pile" is a complete, up-to-the-minute course in household economics. Miss Peyser tells us how the home of this age of science can be a scientifically operated enterprise. She explains the theory and the practice of every modern home appliance. And yet she writes in a cheery, vivacious style and quite simply, so that any interested woman will understand and enjoy the reading.

The number of ways in which home work can be simplified is amazing to contemplate. Electricity alone furnishes power to run the most complete kitchen, from egg-beater to incinerator, from stove to ice-box. It will wash the dishes. It will do the laundry. It will polish the floors and clean the rugs. Gas besides acting as a substitute for electricity, can dry the clothes and iron them.

Miss Peyser gives much space to the problem of heating. Not only are all types of furnace and their economy discussed, but important consideration is given to weather stripping and house insulation so that the greatest benefit at least expense may be derived from the heat plant.

No item of home science is omitted from Miss Peyser's book: every newest wrinkle in household equipment is discussed and evaluated—how to have soft water in the hardest districts, and why it pays to do so; the advantages of violetray glass oil and fireless cooking; the furnishing of the home from roof to cellar to operate more smoothly, quickly, efficiently.

In every instance the author explains how to select the particular device, its cost and the cost of upkeep, how it works, in what ways and for what situations it is economical. No matter the size or pretensions of the menage, there is a message of convenience and saving for it in this exhaustively comprehensive work.

"Cheating the Junk Pile" indicates a thousands ways of home betterment. It is invaluable as a reference for the use and care of what the housewife has or for consultation as to what she shall acquire. It should help solve many a problem of our modern home life.

"Cheating The Junk Pile" by Ethel Peyser. New and revised edition.—F. P. Dutton & Co.

Geraldy Continues Romantic Musings Of Poetry In New Book Of Advice To Younger Men On Love Problems

PERHAPS it's for his plays that Paul Geraldy is best known. They are favorites at the Comedie Francaise. His poetry, too, is famous. "Toi Et Moi" was the largest selling volume of poetry written by any living man anywhere. The painter, Vuillard, has done the illustrations for one of the special editions of it. It's delicate lyricism and warm romanticism have earned for Geraldy the title of "the De Musset of the twentieth century."

Continues Musings

His latest volume, "L'Amour or the Art of Love," continues the romantic musings of his poetry in a series of short epigrammatic sayings that take the form of advice to a younger man. First the boy is courtled; then the youth; and the latter part of the book deals with problems of married life, late and early. Bon mots abound. Here are a few

"One must be either a wise Ulysses or a theatrical manager to remain insensible to the beauty of women."

"Men are disillusioned by success because it costs them too great an effort and women because it does not cost them enough."

"One loves people for their faults and one detests the faults of those one loves."

Have Large Meaning

But Geraldy is deeply wise as well as clever. His aphorisms have a large meaning. The thoughts they provoke stay with one long after his particular words have escaped. One reads and ponders and summons past experience as a touch stone. Or else one resolves to test them in the future should experience turn that way.

Perhaps this is one of those books that are universal enough to affect each reader according to his personal experience. Such books are like chameleons: they adopt the color of the atmosphere about them. And yet they have individuality in the manner of their presentation sometimes, too. Geraldy's book decidedly has. He writes with a sharp and brilliant (and yet sympathetic) pen.

"Doctors' Wives" Gives Insight On Physicians' Work

Couple Writes Of Insight Into Profession

By reading "Doctors' Wives" by Henry and Sylvia Lieferant, one learns that the girl who marries a physician is letting herself in for something.

In this book the authors examine a doctor and his family. The doctor's wife is fed up. Her husband, like most doctors, gets called out at all hours of the day or night, regardless of his family's claims. He meets, daily, all sorts of people about whom his wife can know nothing. His profession, in short, keeps him, inevitably, from being the kind of husband that the average wife thinks herself entitled to.

This pair has a daughter. She resents her mother's dislike of the father's calling—until she, in her turn, marries a doctor. Then, when he is called out on a case on their wedding night, she begins to suspect that her mother knew what she was talking about.

"Doctors' Wives" makes good reading. You might offer a copy to your family M. D.—or, better yet, to his wife—for a more expert criticism. It is issued by Little, Brown and Co.

Turns Of A Bookworm

Book News Notes For This Week

An Attack

"King Mob" is another of the whither-are - we - drifting things. Written by an author who hides behind the pseudonym of Frank K. Notch, it undertakes to show that our culture is rapidly deteriorating because it is being pulled down to the level of the mob.

Culture, says the author, is not something you can "get"; you have to grow into it. The book clubs, the high-pressure publishers, are doing a great disservice by trying to popularize culture. It can't be done. The mob cannot, possibly, become cultured; it can only lower culture to its own plane.

All of this may be very true, but it is hard to get excited about it. Mr. Notch sounds like a snob, worried lest the culture he possesses become, suddenly, a possession that is not exclusive. His book is published by Harcourt Brace and Co.

For Fond Parents

Baby is cute when he shakes his rattle, but it's no sign he's smart. It may be accidental.

So finds Dr. Charlotte Buhler, a leading child psychologist in "The First Year of Life," a work which parents with a scientific leaning may find interesting.

Dr. Buhler has catalogued and interpreted the physical and mental activities of the child's first year.

Sixty-nine children of various ages were watched by observers working in eight hour shifts, and in no way experimenting with or disturbing the child.

Among other things, they found no child crying or laughing with tears during the first month.

The book contains a group of simple tests to rate a child monthly development.

Simon and Schuster have recently completed arrangements for a Norwegian edition of Abbe Ernest Dimnet's "The Art of Thinking." They have also been gratified to note that "The Art of Thinking" appears first on the Publishers' Weekly "12 months best seller list" just issued, covering the period from July 1, 1929 to June 30, 1930. It has been a best seller since October, 1928.

Caught In Beauty

Refreshing by sheer simplicity of style is Delfino Cinelli's novel, "The Trap."

Cinelli, an Italian author of note picks his characters from the countryside and leads them into an artificial, but beautifully put, situation.

A nobleman's gamekeeper, in revenge upon a poacher, leads his master into an affair with the poacher's lovely young wife.

His revenge is complete, for the poacher, eaten by rage and later remorse, ends up witless.

Gay Comedy

"Sinners in Summertime," by Sigurd Hoel, is a gently ironical, highly amusing book. The author describes eight intellectual young Scandinavians, four of each sex, who are vacationing on an island together. These eight young people are very modern, and very intellectual; they believe in frankness, and they are very sure that they will spend their vacation working without being distracted by the complications of love.

But it doesn't work out that way. Quite naturally and inevitably these youngsters go the way of all youngsters, fall madly in love with one another, forget their high resolves and discover, at last, that the new freedom enjoyed by modern youth sets no one free from the old, old claims of the flesh.

The book is charmingly written and the author has a delightfully affectionate way of poking fun at his precocious youngsters. Coward-McCann published it.

Reopens Dispute

"The Life of Chingis-Khan" by B. Y. Vladimirtsov announced for fall publication by Houghton Mifflin Company, reopens the much discussed question of the spelling of the great Conqueror's name, which has even more variations than that of Shakespeare. The author prefers the above spelling, but also accepts Chengis-Khan. Other versions frequently found are Genghis Chingiz and Jenghiz. Professor Vladimirtsov is considered the greatest living authority on Mongolian history and language, and a comprehensive picture of Mongol society in the 12th Century forms the background of his biography.

Freedom

Jeanette Phillips Gibbs examines the roving male in "French Leave" and finds that there is much to be said for him. Her central character is a young man who blandly refuses to be unselfish in any phase of his life, especially in his relation with women. Like all the rest of us, he wants freedom; only he believes that it is possible to gain freedom simply by refusing to submit to any restraint, by refusing to let any other person have any sort of claim over him, and he has the gumption to act on that belief consistently.

Mrs. Gibbs makes it work out very nicely, all things considered, and every character in her book who amounts to anything comes to agree with the young man in the end. And maybe you can get your freedom, and find it satisfying, in that way.

Little, Brown and Co. are the publishers.

Woman In Role Of Enoch Arden

A modern drama of Enoch Arden has been disclosed at Bellows Falls, Vt., with Mrs. Catherine Packard, shown above, being question by State Detective Edward Brown of Montpelier, as the central figure. Mrs. Packard disappeared a year ago and her husband, George J. Packard, married a second time recently, believing her dead. She explains that she has been "out west." Inset is of Mabel Abbott, also of Bellows Falls, who was instrumental in locating Mrs. Rockwell.

Chillicothe Case Rather Mystifying

CHILLICOTHE, Aug. 30. (AP)—Conflicting opinions as to whether Mrs. Dorothy Gardner, 30, cafe waitress, was drugged before being found on the road near here early yesterday confronted officers today.

Mrs. Gardner had added nothing to her meager and disconnected statement yesterday in which she said she "remembered riding in a car with something wrapped over her head" and that it seemed as if she were "floating around in a dream." The woman stated she remembered no details clearly after she had aroused her sister and brother-in-law after a man had been seen in the yard early in the night.

Offivers found no evidence of dope.

NEW FIRMS OPENED

LAMESA, Aug. 30—(Special)—Two new firms will begin here during the first week of September following the remodeling of the Williams building on Main street. The Forrest and Jackson cafe will occupy one half of the building while Phipps Barber shop will use the other half.

A New Aid For Airplane Pilots In Fog Is Revealed; Guides Way Over Airport; Neon Waves Are Prominent

BY OSCAR LEIDING,
Associated Press Aviation Editor

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. (AP)—A new aid for airplane pilots seeking to land on a fog-bound airport, a device that "hears" light, was revealed today.

It is the invention of Earl C. Hanson, Chicago scientist who disclosed the development to a group of aeronautic experts attending the National air races, including Major James Doolittle, noted for his blind-landing work last year for the Guggenheim fund.

Shows Elevation

Hanson utilizes invisible magnetic waves emanating from a bank of neon tubes, intercepting them with a device in the cockpit that causes a steady hum in earphones clapped to the pilot's ears and activates an electrical altimeter that shows the number of feet the plane is above the ground.

The neon tubing, Hanson said would be placed on a landing field to act as a visual signal in clear weather but giving out its invisible stream of electrons that, in fog, could be picked up by the pilot to tell him not only where the airport was but lead him safely to a landing.

Weighs 50 Pounds

While the demonstration was made on a miniature scale, he said the entire equipment that would have to be installed in an airplane would weigh not more than 50 pounds.

It would consist of "pick up" device, he said, for intercepting waves and feeding into an amplifier to which the earphones would be connected for the sound signal and the electrical meter for the optical signal.

The neon waves, he explained, could not be detected at a great distance from an airport, so that pilots would have to rely on radio-compasses for guidance on route but that the signals could be caught over the landing field at altitudes of 2,000 feet or more.

Campaign Started For Funds To Aid Trinity Navigation

FORT WORTH, Aug. 30. (AP)—A campaign to raise $60,000, the first year's operating budget of the Trinity River Canal association, will be launched in Fort Worth and Dallas the first week in October, it was announced today from the association headquarters here.

An extensive publicity campaign to educating the people of Texas to the commercial and industrial will be started at once with a view importance of a navigable Trinity river. The promotional plans then will take on the dimensions of a national campaign to inform the entire country of the value and justification of the project, the announcement stated.

Officers and directors of the association and others interested in the undertaking expressed themselves as greatly encouraged by the optimistic notes sounded in conferences here Thursday with engineers and representatives of the Texas congressional delegation.

ORDER HUGE LINER

SAINT NAZAIRE, France, (AP)—A huge steamship measuring 912 feet in length and 96 feet in width, with a draught of 34 feet, has been ordered by the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique. The ship will be placed on stocks of which the foundation stone was laid by President Domergue.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works.

Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble.—James, iii, 18, 19.

WE ARE LUBBOCK!

LUBBOCK citizens are faced with a civic duty that they must perform carefully and successfully within the next four days. We refer to the necessity of showing a city-wide spirit of hospitality and service to the four or five thousand visitors who will be within our gates during the first part of this week.

First, we have with us Kiwanians of Oklahoma and Texas, with their wives, and in some cases, their families. Second, we will have with us the school teachers of the South Plains area, here attending the annual Teachers Institute at Texas Technological college.

Both these groups are composed of intelligent, impressionable adults, eager to see Lubbock, eager to learn of the city and territory. Those composing the groups are, in the main, total strangers to this city and section. Their wants must be supplied—their every comfort cared for.

It is the responsibility of Lubbock men and women to make these visitors feel at home, to "sell" to them the values of Lubbock and the South Plains. It is our duty, and should be our pleasure, to greet these visitors with a smile, a "howdy" and a performance of a service if it is so desired.

One of the best ways to advertise a city and a section is to get for that city and section conventions of all sorts. But when these meetings are secured the battle has only begun. A city which reacts unfavorably toward a convention is worse off than if it had not entertained at all. The advertising thus received is unfavorable and worse than worthless.

Lubbock has been, and is continuing to be fortunate in the securing of conventions. These meetings will be good for Lubbock as long as Lubbock is good to the conventions. Upon the shoulders of the man in the street, so to speak, rests the major share of the responsibility.

The man in the cafe, the hotel, the tourist camp, the gasoline station and the drug store is the man who rubs shoulders with the convention visitor. The policeman on the street, the girl at the store counter—all of them have an opportunity to serve Lubbock through serving convention visitors.

How we "sell" Lubbock to Kiwanians and school teachers this week depends upon us, individually and collectively. Let's remember that WE are LUBBOCK to the visitors—and do the job up right!

HIST!

The famous Mooney case in California has just restored to public notice one of the elder properties of melodrama. "Missing papers" are being sought to refute the present allegation of state's witness, John MacDonald, that his evidence at the trails in 1916 was given under duress.

Ah, yes—the "missing papers." How we once sighed and shivered over the plight of the fair but impoverished heroine, as we hung over the gallery rail with mouths agape, until at 10:50 p. m. the "missing papers" came at last to light proving that Bessie was indeed the Duke's own child. And how ostentatiously the sinister Sir Harry tucked the "papers" into an inner pocket, while plotting to toss the body over the bridge at the mill, whence by morning it would be washed to sea.

"Missing papers" were, not, of course, confined to the drama. Almost any family in town, by a little freehand genealogy, could trace its connection with a desirable estate in England, including 25,000 acres in the very heart of London. In fact the claim was as good as established, except for a "missing paper," usually a record of the birth of Great-Uncle Ebenezer, which burned up in a church fire at Stoke Poges. Innumerable lawyers made fat livings and doubtless still do, going through the motions of running down these hopelessly missing papers.

In the cinema it was the missing map, left by the dying prospector to his beautiful grandchild, directing her to a secret chasm in the hills where 24-karat gold lay about in chunks as big as hams. The map was torn in two parts, each useless without the other, and 'ne movie serials were woven around the pursuit of these missing documents by the forces of virtue and iniquity. And in fiction there was Mr. Oppenheim's formula of the blueprint of a super-lethal warship abstracted from the embassy safe by a blond and located in Chapter 40 in the lining of the Count's hat.

All in all, the "missing papers" were much too thrilling a feature of letters and of life to fall into lasting desuetude. It is very good to have them with us once again.

Quotations of Real Merit

"The wisdom we need is that which considers all things from a standpoint not only beyond the individual and local, but beyond the temporary and evanescent; that looks upon society, upon life with its intricate duties and responsibilities, from a high plane; that strives to see questions as infinite wisdom, far above all transitory and personal interests, would regard them."—President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard.

"Principles of Christianity underlie the science of economics."—Dr. Richard Lynch leader, New York Unity Society.

"The cocktail has transferred the field of alcoholism from the old ravages of the demon rum in the lower ranks of society to the disintegration of the highest intellectual and social classes."—Professor Emile Sergent.

* * *

"Except for those who are to be specialists, it is more important to know about European civilization than to know about the solar system."—The Archbishop of York.

"Society is all right for lazy people, but persons who have brains can think of more important things to do than staying out most of the night dancing."—Jinx Marsh, Jr., 11-year-old biographer.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

OUTSTANDING AS CONGRESSMAN, CORDELL HULL IS CONSIDERED AS GOOD AS ELECTED TO SENATE

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Cordell Hull, who already has what generally is considered the only thing necessary to insure a Tennessee senatorial candidate's election—that is to say, the Democratic nomination—for his state's next available full six-year term in the upper house of congress—

(William E. Brock, appointed by Gov. Horton to succeed Senator Lawrence D. Tyson when the latter died, in 1929, is Democratically designated to continue serving until next March.)

—Is a public man sufficiently out of the ordinary to merit some little especial attention.

Membership in the house of representatives, I believe, makes an American citizen prima facie very prominent in his own home community—but not in Washington.

Prima facie greatness is recognized in no one here under the rank of a senator at least.

A representative must distinguish himself, to be distinguished at all—in the national capital.

There are senators who, in truth, are quite mediocre individuals, and yet they class as notabilities—because they are senators. The representative who stands out, however, it is safe to conclude, is a man of genuine parts, personality and character—in his own right a real somebody.

Cordell Hull, in his eleventh term as a representative, does stand out—and has, for a long time.

He was Tennessee Democracy's presidential favorite son in 1928, and while he never did look like an actual probability for the nomination, he was a perfectly reasonable possibility for the vice presidential place on the ticket (until Senator Robinson was decided on) and will be still more so as a member of the upper congressional chamber.

Indeed, it is easy to imagine a Democratic standard bearer two years hence whom the almost-certainly-to-be-Senator Hull would supplement admirably, as a running mate.

Judge Hull (he was on the Tennessee bench before his first election to congress) is a quiet, unostentatious, unassuming lawmaker.

And this means that it is sheer merit which has made his reputation for him in the house of representatives. He has not done it by spectacular methods or the least bit of playing to the gallery; he is an able, convincing speaker, but not one to make the welkin ring and the multitude hoo-raw.

The fact is, he is a 'taxation specialist, and taxation is not a popular subject people neither like to be taxed nor enjoy hearing taxes talked about—the topic bores them.

As for party loyalty, the Tennesseean's has stood the acid test if ever a Democrat's did.

He it was, as national chairman, who saw Aunty Democracy through the dark days from 1921 to '24—the hopeless period dating from the smash at the end of the second Wilson quadrennium to the debacle of the New York convention—and kept a stiff upper lip, from the beginning to the end of it.

Such times try men's souls. Yes, and their pocketbooks—Chairman Hull pledged his own Liberty bonds to keep his committee going—pay office rent and his little clerical staff's salaries.

(Not that he ever complained; Jouett Shouse told me, comparatively recently.)

It would have been too bad if Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Nashville had opposed Representative Hull (of Carthage) for the Tennessee Democratic senatorial nomination, as he talked for awhile of doing, because then one or the other of them would have been beaten, and they are about equally likable—but the Nashville man finally decided to stay in the house of representatives.

(One mentions such things as foregone conclusions in that area, since politics there is so one-sided that contests are decided in the primaries; not at elections—and the primaries are over.)

To be sure, Judge Hull did defeat Andrew L. Todd for the senate, and Andrew L. may be a mighty nice man, too, but we don't know him here in Washington.

VACCINATION FOR SCARLET FEVER USED

I have advocated very strongly vaccinating the school child against smallpox, diphtheria and typhoid fever.

There is only one other disease for which there is any claim put forward that an immunity can be created artificially. That is scarlet fever.

The work done on this line is of recent date. It is not nearly so well established as the other work mentioned. I do not think it will do any harm to give the child scarlet fever vaccination, but I am not so sure as I am about typhoid fever, diphtheria and smallpox, that it will give absolute protection.

Fortunately, scarlet fever is not nearly as contagious a disease as the others. You do not hear of children having it as frequently as you do of their having measles. I prove this every year by asking a class of students how many have had measles. Nearly every hand in the class goes up. Then I ask how many have had scarlet fever. About four or five out of a class of 30 raise their hands.

In contagious hospitals, when there is an epidemic of measles and scarlet fever at the same time, practically every child brought in with scarlet fever acquires measles, but very few of the measles patients get scarlet fever.

Measles will go through a school like wildfire. Scaret fever appears, and hardy more than 2 or 3 per per cent of the children get it.

Still, in spite of the fact that it is not so contagious and frequent, it is a very dangerous and fatal disease. It would be a good thing to have some way of preventing it.

The work on the cause and prevention of scarlet fever has been done in the past five or six years. Two sets of physicians worked on it: Dr. and Mrs. Dick of Chicago, and Drs. Blake and Dochez of New York.

Dr. Dick and his wife worked at the McCormick Institute for Contagious Diseases. The money to finance their labors was donated by Mr. and Mrs. McCormick. They had lost a child who died of scarlet fever. They wanted to try to find the cause of the disease, to have a cure perfected, and a way of preventing it discovered.

Drs. Blake and Dochez began to work at about the same time.

Both sets of investigators have done brilliant work. So far, in respect to the number of discoveries made, honors are about even between the two groups.

Dr. Dochez undoubtedly deserves the honor of having of having discovered the germ which causes scarlet fever.

Dr. Dick and his wife first produced the disease artificially in man. They also announced a method known as the Dick test, of determining whether any person is susceptible to the disease or not. They also prepared a toxin-antitoxin mixture to use for the prevention of scarlet fever.

The Dick test is similar to the Schick test used in diphtheria, and described in this column earlier this week. It consists in injecting a small amount of scarlet fever toxin under the skin. As in the case of diphtheria, a reddening around the site of the injection indicates that the person is susceptible to scarlet fever. If no redness occurs, it means the person will not catch scarlet fever if exposed.

The Dick test has, however, not proved as certain in its prognostications as the Schick test.

Nor has the preventive treatment for scarlet fever worked out as well as was at first hoped. I wish I could recommend it as enthusiastically as I can the preventive vaccination against smallpox, diphtheria and typhoid fever but I cannot.

Good By, Ma, Good By, Pa!

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RORIMER, Hollywood scenario writer and former New York newspaper man, meets ANNE WINTER, who has come from Tulsa, Okla., to seek extra work. He takes a deep interest in her. Dan is with Continental Pictures, Anne is just a beginner.

Anne gets extra work at Grand United studios. She goes to live with two other extras, MONA MORRISON and EVA HARLEY. The latter is a bitter individual possibly because of her failure to get much work, and from her Dan learns a lot about the problems of the vast army of extras.

GARRY SLOAN, famous director, has noticed Anne Winter, he gives her a "bit" in a picture Dan, not liking Sloan, although he has not actually met him, is a bit apprehensive. The casting director at Grand United calls Anne up and tells her there may be a chance for her in a musical comedy picture. He and Director FRED HURLEY get her to dance for them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

"Just a simple little routine now, Miss Winter — anything at all," Hurley said. He swung around on the piano stool so he could watch her but his fingers were very busy on the keys and he beat time softly with his foot and his head went up and down in smiling accompaniment.

The piano sounded strangely there in the shadows, a small, stringed voice in a vast emptiness urging her on to unfamiliar steps. But Hurley's grin was friendly and encouraging and Harvey Bell sprawled cheerfully in a chair and smoked a cigar and there was that in his attitude which conveyed the feeling that the proceeding was not at all strange. One looked at him and took heart.

And presently Ann began to dance. Lightly and easily. Simple steps, for all of the gymnastic tap-tap-tapping of feet and rapidity of movement.

Approval lighted Director Hurley's eyes as he nodded. He switched to a waltz tune, watched her keenly as she adapted herself immediately to the new rhythm. Once or twice the girl fumbled uncertainly in the unfamiliar routine, but there was no awkwardness in Anne Winter's lithe and graceful body, and when he came to the end of the tune he got up at once and shook her hand and told her she had done very well.

"And Mr. Bell," Hurley said, "tells me you haven't taken any lessons since you were a little kid."

Anne told him that was so, and he said, "Well, you haven't anything to worry about. We've got an instructor who'll have you dancing like Ann Pennington in a week."

More seriously he informed her that he had been more interested in what she looked like while dancing than in the actual performance of the steps. "Know what I mean? Some girls have all sorts of technique but very little natural grace to go with it." He turned to Bell and told the casting director that one could guess Anne Winter would be a good dancer from the way she walked.

* * *

Bell nodded and said that was true. "I wonder," he said, with a smile for Anne "whether Miss Winter would mind terribly if we asked her to sing a little."

"Really, Mr. Bell—" Anne began, but Fred Hurley had seated himself at the piano. With a wave of his arm he commanded Anne to come over beside him, and he began to hum as he played.

Anne told Rorimer that evening: "They were wonderful to me, Dan! I didn't dance well—really: I felt as clumsy as—as an elephant."

"Yeah, I imagine so," said Dan dryly. "I bet you knocked them right out of their seats."

"Don't be silly!"

"I mean it," he insisted. "What did they say about your singing? Remember what I told you, if you ever got a chance."

Anne laughed. "Oh, I'm all excited Dan! They liked it. I'm to have a screen test."

"Ba-ay! That's pretty fine! When?"

"Day after tomorrow."

Rorimer said that, under the circumstances, they certainly ought to celebrate. "How about a dance after the movie?"

Anne demurred. "It's too warm, Dan."

"Well, a drive, then, to the beach." He brought his car to a stop in the parking lot beside the Chinese Theater and Anne said, as they turned toward the lobby, that a drive certainly sounded more appealing.

Sitting beside her in the theater, he watched her, and he kept her in his thoughts, paying scant attention to the story that was unfolding on the screen. Anne's eyes shone with a happy, eager light, but otherwise she seemed calm and cool. Anne he thought, always seemed that way. The day had been hot—it was the middle of May now—and Anne had been under a strain; but she looked as cool and fresh as though she had stepped out of an electric refrigerator to meet him.

His own da, had not gone so well; nothing seemed to go well nowadays at Continental, with Martin Collins gone over to the Amalgamated lot and Odamson on the warpath with one of his periodical campaigns for economy. . . . Senseless and trivial. . . . Save a few dollars a month by taking out a couple of the office telephones . . . waste thousands by spoiling the morale of the organization with his insistence on foolish routine.

Rorimer, looking at Anne Winter, watching the little smile playing on her lips, was glad for her sake that she had no Adamson to contend with. A screen test day after tomorrow. . . . He was proud of her. . . . He thought: "And she did it by herself, too—no pull."

* * *

Of course there had been a word or two from Garry Sloan, and a word from Sloan went a long way. . . . Well, any time a mere extra girl could catch the eye of the great Sloan the girl must have something. "And Anne has", Rorimer thought, and he laughed a little guiltily as Anne turned her head and confronted him.

She said, "Are you looking at the picture or not?"

"Yes," he said, grinning. "It's great, isn't it?"

"You're incorrigible, Dan Rorimer."

"Im nothing of the kind," he whispered. "I've been doing nothing but sitting here being proud of you in a big way. You can't hate me for that, can you?"

He thought: "I wonder if I ought to tell her about the row I had with Adamson today? I suppose not; she'd think I was crazy. And maybe I am."

But later that evening he told Paul Collier. He and Collier had been living together for some time now, in an apartment off Hollywood Boulevard a short distance east of Vine Street.

First, though, he drove Anne out to Santa Monica, and they sat in the cooling wind that blew off the water and watched the ocean and talked.

"Remember the other night we were out here, Anne?"

Anne nodded. She said she thought she could remember everything they had talked about that night, even though it was three months ago. "It was an eventful day, Dan—my first day at Grand United, for one thing; and that was the day I met Mona."

"Today was an eventful one, Anne. I suppose you've never regretted moving in with Mona and Eva, have you?"

The look that Anne turned on

GANDHI'S HOLY QUEUE

Gandhi, the apostle of "Ahimsa" (harmlessness), and leader of the non-resistence movement of India, still clings to his belief in "Varna" (unlation of castes), and the sanctity of the cow. An essential part of these beliefs is the superstition concerning the lock of 13 hairs left unshaven.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topics:—

Amos, A Herdsman Called of God to be a Prophet.

Scripture Lesson:—

Amos 1:1; 7:10-15; 2:11, 12; 3:7, 8.

Amos 1:1. The words of Amos, who was among the herdsmen of Tekoa which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the earthquake.

Amos 7:10. Then Amaziah the priest of Bethel sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words.

11. For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall surely be led away captive out of his land.

Also Amadah said unto Amos, O thou seer, go, flee thou away into the land of Judah, and there eat bread, and prophesy there:

13. But prophesy not again any more at Bethel: for it is the king's sanctuary, and it is a royal house.

14. Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet neither was I a prophet's son; but I was a herdsman, and a dresser of sycomore-trees:

15. And Jehovah took me from following the flock, and Jehovah said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel.

Amos 2:11. And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazirites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel? saith Jehovah.

12. But ye gave the Nazirites wine to drink, and commanded the prophets, saying, Prophesy not.

Amos 3:7. Surely the Lord Jehovah will do nothing, except he reveal his secret unto his servants the prophets.

8. The lion hath roared: who will not fear? The Lord Jehovah hath spoken, who can but prophesy?

Time—Amos prophesied about B. C. 795.

Place:—The prophet's home, Tekoa in Judah, twelve miles south of Jerusalem; his preaching in Bethel, ten miles north of Jerusalem.

Golden Text:—I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then I said, Here am I; send me.—Isa. 6:8.

Introduction

Our last lesson was on Jonathan and David, examples of a noble friendship. Today we are studying Amos, a herdsman who was called of God to be a prophet. About 300 years intervened between these two lessons. After the death of Saul, David became king of all Israel, and Solomon, his son, succeeded him. But when his grandson Rehoboam began to reign, ten tribes revolted and made Jeroboam their king. Two kingdoms then existed, known as the Northern Kingdom composed of ten tribes; and the Southern Kingdom, composed originally of Judah and Benjamin, though known as the Kingdom of Judah. Amos belonged to the Kingdom of Judah, a native of Tekoa, a village six or seven miles south of Bethlehem. Amos was a missionary from Judah to Israel, having been specially commissioned of God to preach against the idolatrous practices maintained by Jeroboam II at Bethel, in the Northern Kingdom.

Amos, A Pioneer Prophet

Written prophecy really begins with Amos. That he committed some of his messages to writing means much to posterity. He may also be regarded as a pioneer in what we call the "social gospel." As Moses had learned to comprehend the holiness of God in the solitude of his shepherd life, so Amos out upon the lonely Judean hills came to grasp the idea of God's inviolable righteousness. The essence of the law is equality, not sacrifice (5:22). The day of the Lord is to be one of searching judgment (5:18ff.).

"These Old Testament prophets are never out-of-date. This is especially true of Amos. Seven centuries after his death John the Baptist, our Lord, and Paul were echoing his words. Other centuries later, Savonarola, Luther and Wesley were doing the same. More recently, William Lloyd Garrison, William Booth and Jane Adams have been saying them. In the ears of today they sound very modern, applicable, and called-for; as they will always be where even a vestige of social injustice is found, or religion that confesses God with mouth and denies him in conduct."—McFadyen.

A Powerful Preacher

"Although classified as one of the minor prophets, Amos is one of the most powerful spokesmen in the annals of time. Only because his recorded utterances are briefer than those of Jermiah and Israel is he regarded as a minor prophet. None of them ever dealth more profoundly with the work of the Lord. He enjoined his hearers to "hate the evil, love the good, and establish justice in the gate." And his messages, though delivered nearly three thousand years ago, are very appropriate to our generation.

The Divine Call Of Amos. v. 15.

"And Jehovah took me from following the flock." Here is a statement of a divine call, clear and unmistakable. It was like the "Follow me" of Christ, summoning the fisher from his net, the tax-collector from his booth. So Amos was bidden to abandon his livelihood, cease to be a shepherd, and become a missionary and evangelist. "And Jehovah said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel." Amos preached to Israel rather than to his own Judah because in Israel the preaching was most terribly needed. To the outward eye it was at peace and blessed with abundant prosperity. But "to the illuminated eye of prophetic intuition it was too evident that wealth had led to vice, and that vice was the prelude to decay and destruction. Amos saw a complication of disorders which were enhanced rather than compensated by the semblance of prosperity. He say on every side habitual drunkenness, disgraceful self-indulgence, the callous selfishness of ease, murder, oppression, robbery, total forgetfulness of God's essential requirements, a fatal contentment in outward ritual. Debtors were pitilessly sold as slaves, the clothes of the poor were taken in pledge. The priests, like Eli's sons, turned robbers and spoiled the bands of pilgrims on their way to the sacred places."—F. W. Farrar. All this Amos had seen, and it had sunk deep into his soul. When God's call to raise his voice in bold protest came to him, he was ready and eager to obey.

Religion And Justice

Pure religion and social righteousness go together. They are but the two sides of the same thing. In Israel at this time there was little of either especially among the upper and ruling classes. Repeatedly throughout his book Amos specifies the social wrongs of which they were guilty. It was a fateful word God told him to speak to them, and they hated him for it (5:10). Many a preacher of social righteousness since has had the same experience. It was even dangerous, and if Amos had been a prudent man he would have kept silence (5:13). "Often it is a good man's duty to be imprudent."—Cranmell.

"Goodness in Hebrew prophecy has almost always a social color. In Amos particularly it is doing of justice in society, the securing of fair play between man and man."—McFadyen.

Hated By King And Priest 7:12, 13

"Also Amaziah said unto Amos," v. 12. Probably the high priest did not wait to hear from the king but vented his personal wrath on Amos while awaiting royal authority to arrest the prophet and send him out of the land. "Go, flee thou away into the land of Judah." Amos might say what he pleased against Israel in his own country, where he would not be stirring up disaffection in the high priest's constituency. Probably the Sanhedrin would have taken no measures against Christ if he had confined his work to Galilee. Wrongdoers do not object to preachers of righteousness if they keep at a safe distance! It is when they cry, "Thou art the man!" that they become objectionable.

Amos, A Bold Preacher

Amos is no demagogue, no soapbox agitator, as he is sometimes regarded. It is the holiness of God that his stern and searching morality reflects, and God's justice that he threatens. Like all the great prophets, and especially like the More-than-a prophet Jesus, he denounces a formal worship that is not backed up with right living. ("Our best is bad if it is mixed with injustice," Crannell). The hands lifted heavenward must be clean, the offering must symbolize loving service. Amos foreshadows our Lord addressing scribes and Pharisees at Jerusalem; Stephen and Paul giving plain talk to the high-churchmen of that same city; or Luther and Wesley telling their countrymen what's what with God.

"The style of Amos is very bold and incisive. No timid heart can beat in unison with his fearless strains. Here is a hero. None but a heroic soul can feel such sentiments or speak such words at his. His style is plain, sometimes abrupt; always vigorous. His sentences are short, perhaps more laconic than the sentences of any other of these Hebrew bards. He is a man under whose fervid preaching nobody can ever fall asleep."—Rev. George L. Petrie, D. D.

Special Lessons

1. "The central thought of Amos is that the God who has called him to speak is a being who, by his very nature, places righteousness in the supreme place."—Prof. W. G. Jordan.

2. "We are endangered by the same sins that Amos was compelled to condemn. Warring nations in this good year have been condemned for crimes similar to those charged up to the neighboring nations of Israel. Domestic wrongs current in the time of Amos are still practiced in our day. Nations, as well as individuals need to heed the admonitions of Amos to seek good and not evil. The message of this early Jewish prophet, therefore, is a warning and an admonition to us. We can well afford to heed it."—President William Bennett Bizzell.

Bells To Ring On Wednesday For Children

Superintendent Duncan Looks Over Teachers Then Opines Year To Be Winner; Issues Final Advice To Parents

THE Lubbock public schools will open their next session Wednesday September 3, at 9 o'clock, except for children in the eighth grade with names beginning with the letters from I to Z and for those in the sixth grade who attend the Junior High school, who will begin at 12:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Pupils in grades two to seven, inclusive, who have not attended the Lubbock public schools before and pupils in grades eight to eleven who have not been classified, will be enrolled and classified Monday and Tuesday, September 1 and 2.

Other Rules Given

Pupils in grades 8 to 11 who do not classify Monday or Tuesday will have to wait until after school on Wednesday to be classified and they will lose the grade they would have made on that day. Pupils in grade one and those in grades two to seven, inclusive, who have attended the Lubbock public schools before will be enrolled on Wednesday as indicated above.

Children who will be six years of age on or before September 1st may attend school this year. Those who will not be six years of age on or before September 1st will not be permitted to attend school any time during this school year, with or without pay.

Beginners Advised

Beginers may enter school at any time during the first three weeks of school in September. Those who do not enter during the first three weeks in September will have to wait until the second term in January to begin.

All pupils coming for classification or enrollment will bring with them their promotion cards and other credentials showing their classification last year, according to Superintendent M. H. Duncan.

"We have done everything in our power to prepare for the coming year and believe it will be on of the best in the history of the schools," Mr. Duncan announced yesterday.

Buildings Are Ready

"The buildings have been cleaned and renovated, a good deal has been done towards beautifying the grounds, new equipment has been purchased, new books have been added to libraries, and everything possible has been done to help pupils and teachers to create conditions necessary to good work. We have for the year a very strong teaching staff composed of men and women of maturity, scholarship and teaching experience who have the finest attitude towards the work, and we see no reason why the schools should not run more smoothly and the children accomplish more than ever before," he continued.

"For our part, we want to continue to do everything we can to make the year count for most for every boy and girl. We realize that we have a great responsibility in the young lives that have been entrusted to our care and are going to do all we can to see that each child gets the things that will help them to be his best and that he is taught nothing that will cause him to be less than he should be. We realize that we can not accomplish the things that should be accomplished without the cooperation of the parents, for education is not a work of the school alone; it is a joint enterprise that must be accomplished by the school, home and community working together. We want to urge the patrons of the schools to become active members of the parent-teachers associations where their children attend school, that teachers and parents may be better acquainted and work more effectively for the good of the children.

Asks Parents' Aid

"We shall appreciate parents visiting the schools frequently and conferring with the principals, teachers, and supervisors regarding the work of their children. Parents must not expect the schools to accomplish the whole task of education, they have a part to perform that can not be shifted to others. We can have the best schools in the country if parents and teachers will continue to work together to that end. We apreciate more than we can tell the fine cooperation we have received during the past five years we have been with you and have no doubt that we shall continue to have the same cooperation during the coming year," the superintendent said.

McBride Breaks Year's Silence In Liquor Probe

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 30 (AP)—Breaking a seven year silence, Jack McBride, testified today he had paid William M. Whitney, former assistant prohibition administrator and one of the defendants charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws and with receiving bribes, $1,724 for protection for the Grays Harbor county moonshine ring.

McBride said he had not contact with Roy C. Lyle, former administrator; Earl Corwin, former field agent; R. L. Bryant, former agent and C. T. McKinney, former assistant United States attorney, the other defendants in the action.

The witness testified that in 1923 he collected $3,448 from members of the Grays Harbor ring, later giving half of it to Whitney.

He admitted he never was an officer and extorted the money on the representation he could give the still operators protection from federal officials.

McBride's testimony was the first intimation that government would attempt to prove Whitney took money prior to the time Al Hubbard, former agent and rum runner, said he became the "go-between" for the dry force and Olmsted liquor organization in 1928.

Girls Prove To Be Pyromaniacs

Four Youngsters Confess To Starting Series Of Blazes; Even Burned Their Own Residence

(By Associated Press)

PONTIAC, Mich., Aug. 30—Four girls, aged 8 to 15 have confessed, according to state and county officials that they started the nearly 40 fires which have impoverished their parents and puzzled all investigators over a period of more than a month.

The first fire destroyed the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Croster, near Battle Creek, Mich. The oldest daughter, Dorothy, told officers after long questioning, that she started the fire in the hope of implicating a neighbor whom she disliked. Later, she said, she was aided by her sisters, Evelyn, 13, Helen 11, and Frances, 8.

The other girls also confessed. All said their parents knew nothing of their activities.

After their home near Battle Creek burned, the family moved to Athens, Mich. There a long series of small fires broke out, defying the efforts of state and county officers and of an insurance company representative to determine their cause.

The family was ordered out of its home in Athens Saturday and the parents came to Oakland county to stay with a brother of Crotser. The children were left behind with a grandmother. Two fires broke out after the parents left.

Their father, a nursery stock salesman, lost his job because of the mysterious fires. Virtually their only possession now is an automobile. One of the fires broke out in it a few weeks ago. They had no insurance on their household furnishings and none of the houses in which they lived belonged to them.

The three older girls were taken to Battle Creek and will face charges, the exact nature of which has not been determined.

Cotton Said To Be Selling On Street For Less Than Co-Op Advance; Seven Cents Lowest Advance Being Made

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 30.—Headquarters of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association said today it had been advised that cotton was being sold outright at some short-staple points for less than the amount of the 90 per cent advance allowed under the Federal Farm board plan.

"Cotton at some short-staple points was selling on the streets today for six cents a pound," association officials said. "The lowest advance we are making on classed cotton is around seven cents."

Association officials said J. E. McDonald of Waxahachie, Democratic nominee for commissioner of agriculture, today signed a marketing agreement for his cotton with the association and issued a statement calling on farmers and business men to support the cooperative movement and "present a solid front against insane marketing of this cotton crop at present prices."

Burglars Don't Seek the Limelight

DARKNESS is their stock in trade. They work by stealth—unheard and unseen—their movements cloaked in secrecy. It's honest folks that seek the light. They are the only ones who can risk it.

It's the same way in business. The manufacturer or the merchant who is not sure of his goods does not dare to advertise. Advertising would hasten the end of his business career—put him to a test he could not meet.

The man who advertises, deliberately invites your inspection. He tells you about his product or his merchandise and then lets it stand on its own merits. You can depend on him. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays you to read the advertisements you find in the columns of this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and profitable. They throw a powerful light on the very things that concern you most. Read them.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The strangeness of the moving man was that he didn't have a van. Instead he used his shoulders when he carried things around. He'd pile the furniture up high until it seemed 'twould reach the sky. And then, while bent way over he would trudge across the ground.

Soon Clowny shouted, "Hey! Hello! Where do you think you're going to go with all those chairs upon your back? I'll bet they weigh a lot. How do you stand a load like that? Why, I should think that you'd fall flat. It isn't good to work so hard, especially when it's hot."

This made the man laugh. "Well," said he, "this really doesn't bother me. Why, I've been doing this for years and I am used to it. You see, if you live right, not wrong, you'll grow up to be very strong. I've always watched my health. That's why I'm feeling good and fit."

The Travel Man said, "That is good advice and all you Tinies should do just as our new friend has said and keep yourself in trim. He's healthy, as you all can see and so am I. Just look at me. But now we must be going, so all say goodbye to him."

The Tinies did and then began to pester Mister Travel Man to take them to the country where they'd get some nice fresh air. "All right," said he. "That's where we'll go. And I am pretty sure I know an open air space we still love. Come on, we'll soon be there."

They trudged along the highway. The Travel Man said, "Here we are. To prove that this is country, see who's coming down the road. Such sights are common, as a rule." It was an old man with a mule. He was a roving peasant. His mule had quite a load.

him held a question. "We've been very happy together. They've kept me from being lonely, and I hate loneliness. I'm — afraid of it. . . . Why do you ask?"

Dan said he didn't know exactly. "Unless it's because I was thinking of Eva. I'm rather sorry for Eva, Anne; she seems so cheerless."

"Not all the time," Anne corrected, and Dan, looking up at the star-strewn sky and smoking, said it was his guess that Eva at one time or other must have been badly broken up over a love affair.

"Because," he explained, "she's so—oh, I don't know—so defensive when men are around. Paul Collier said the same thing about her. She doesn't have very much use for men, does she?"

"Eva likes you," Anne told him, evasively, and Dan nodded solemnly and admitted that Eva once had told him that.

"But I think," he added, "that Eva had measured me in her mind for some time; weighing me in the balance, you might say." He laughed. "And why, do you suppose?"

"Why? Anne asked.

* * *

"Because," Dan said, "I think Eva had your interest in mind. In some ways she reminds me of a mother hen; she seems so fiercely protective of Mona, and you, too. I think Eva was trying to make up her mind whether I was the right kind of young man for little Anne Winter to associate with."

Anne laughed. "Now you're being silly again, Dan Rorimer."

"You don't mean that at all; there was absolutely no conviction in the way you said it," he accused her, and Anne made no answer.

Dan said, "In a sense, Eva's quite a comfort to me. I'm a little worried about you myself, and with Eva around to cast a critical eye over the competition, it's—well, it's something for my peace of mind."

Anne, snuggling down in her seat and still smiling at him, said: "Can't you ever be serious?" and Dan replied that he was a darn sight more serious than she thought.

"All you have to do to find out," he said, "is to give me a little encouragement," and he looked away from her and took another cigaret from the package in his pocket.

Anne said, with a provocative little laugh: "Yeah?"

"Yeah," he answered. "And I wish you wouldn't use slang. It's not becoming in a young lady on her way to stardom, and under the present circumstances it's quite unromantic." He thought: "It would serve you right if I kissed you here and now for saying that," but he remembered with unpleasant vividness, and a certain amount of hurt pride, what had happened on the one occasion that he had tried it, and he knew a stiff-necked determination not to try it again unless the invitation was unmistakable.

Eva and Mona were sleeping when Anne got back to the bungalow, but Rorimer, when he returned to his apartment, found Paul Collier seated before his portable typewriter and turning out copy in a cloud of pipe smoke.

Collier looked up shortly at Dan's entrance and turned back to his work. "Come in, son," he said, "and tell papa all the news."

Dan felt a malicious satisfaction in the knowledge that Collier would be jolted out of his jocular casualness within a brief second. He said, and he began leisurely to remove his coat: "I tore up my contract today, papa. How's that for news?"

Hamlin Asks For Probe Of Primary In Colorado State

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 30 (AP)—Expressing belief there is foundation for charges of efforts to purchase the Republican senatorial nomination in Colorado, C. C. Hamlin, Republican national committeeman, has asked an immediate investigation into campaign expenditures in a message to Senator Gerald P. Nye.

Hamlin urged Senator Nye and the senate campaign investigating committee to complete its work in Colorado and make the findings public before the primary election, September 9.

"We are entitled to have the country show that our state is not for sale," Hamlin wired. "As Republican national committeeman from Colorado and as publisher of two daily papers in this city I most earnestly urge that your committee proceed immediately with its investigation to the end that the electorate may vote with full knowledge of the facts."

Rendition Of Service Main Kiwanis Aim

Ideals, Aims, Objects Of The Organization Listed; Membership Is Now Over 100,000 In Two Nations

Practical idealism its motive, constructive work its criterion and fellowship its vehicle of accomplishment, Kiwanis International is a composite group of business and professional men devoting to realization of service to the respective communities in which the clubs are located.

Official expression of the objects of Kiwanis International follows:

"To give primacy to the human and spiritual rather than to the material values of life.

To Encourage Golden Rule

"To encourage the daily living of the Golden Rule in all human relationships.

"To promote the adoption and the application of higher social, business and professional standards.

"To develop by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship.

To Promote Friendships

"To provide, through Kiwanis clubs, a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service and to build better communities.

"To cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which make possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism and good will."

Kiwanis membership is formed by selection of representative men in their particular vocation, each club being permitted two such men from each group.

Membership Over 100,000

Of Kiwanis, which since organization of the first club in Detroit in January, 1915, has grown to a membership of more than 100,000, a past president of Kiwanis International, Perry S. Poinsett, wrote:

"Theological dogma, political creed, nationality, wealth, social status—none of these has any place in its membership. It is a mosaic not only of North American business life, but also of varied social and economic points of view."

Motto of Kiwanis is "We Build," and its spirit of efficiency, integrity and friendship nurtured by service interest are counterparts of the spirit expressed in the significant two-word maxim.

Directing Energy

"In the individual, Kiwanis is intended to inspire self reliance, develop latent talent, direct restive energy into useful channels, inculcate a fine sense of perspective.

"In the club, through acquaintanceship and mutual interest, a clearing house for ideas, plans and projects is provided. From this melting pot of diversified knowledge and experience emerge programs which aid in development and improvement of the community.

"Function of the Kiwanis includes a clear demonstration of the vital relation between the ideals upon which the international organization is built and the social, economic and personal prosperity of the individual.

Sponsors Project

"Among the projects in which Kiwanis assisted last year, in many instances sponsoring them alone, were:

"Aid to underprivileged children, development of better town and country relations, vocational guidance and placement, citizenship, educational work, cooperation with chambers of commerce, aid to business and industry, Boy Scouts, other boys' work, athletics, playgrounds and recreation, beautification of city and environs, improvement of civic conditions, good roads, street lighting, street and road signs, protection of safety first, Charity organizations, comfort to patients in hospitals and institutions, hospitals, health and sanitation, assistance to the needy, Salvation Army, Y. W. and Y. M. C. A., Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, other girls' work, patriotic activities, music, community civic libraries, memorials, tourist camps, and conservation.

Foreign Entrants Say Race To Halt In Canadian Wilds

CUTLAND, Aug. 30 (AP)—A bright that this year's International Curtiss Bennett, balloon race will end in the forests of northern Ontario, was expressed today by the German and French entrants in the contest. They are Dr. Hugo Kaplan, jr., of Germany, and Albert Bollard of France, who with Oscar Donszyn, Belgian, entered to prevent Europe's attempt to check the United States' string of four consecutive victories.

Uncle Sam will defend his parti hold on the title with balloons from Detroit, Cleveland, and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company. There will be just the six entries in the event, which will start Labor Day at Cleveland municipal airport.

Kaplan said tonight the foreign entrants are ready to sacrifice almost anything in the hope of winning. "We may throw everything overboard except the sealed barograph," he said.

Back At Work

LONDON.—Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, is back at work after a month's diet on orange juice and fruit salad in a running bout. He is 13 pounds lighter.

The ocean is said to contain many times of water. The upper layer contains animal and plant life, the middle is a region where decomposition of organic remains takes place and the bottom is water from the polar regions.

As Brought Over Associated Press Wires Today

Here's Hoping

PEEKSKILL, N. Y.—August Heckscher, philanthropist, believes that in 30 years the United States will see the end of dire poverty, disease and unnecessary suffering; proper housing will solve the problem. He gave his views on his 62nd birthday at a summer camp he has established for the poor.

Get's Big Prize

MINEOLA, N. Y.—There's an endurance bridge party of two tables of women at the F. Trubee Davison Republican club. The last survivor gets a magnificent prize of $5 cash money.

Disillusioned

LANGHORNE, Pa. — Louis Hudnick, truck driver, has been disillusioned. He had an idea that the law library of Chief Justice Hughes could move through this town at 40 miles an hour or more on the way from New York to Washington. Justice of the Peace Keating ruled otherwise in fining Louis $10 and $3.30 costs. Louis insisted he had orders for speed and had to maintain contact with a truck ahead on which there was an armed guard. The first truck got out of town.

Should Remove Seeds

PHILADELPHIA. — Parents should take seeds from watermelon before giving it to children. The advice comes from Dr. Chevalier Jackson, professor of bronchoscopy, who has been treating a child with seeds in a lung.

Centuries ago gossips were punished by being compelled to walk the streets of Mulhouse, France, wearing the heavy stone gossip-mask. It weighed 25 pounds.

Kiwanis International Nearing 26th Year Of Service

Organization Was Perfected In Year 1915

Membership Now Covers Total Of 1,841 Clubs And Some 102,150 Individuals In The U. S. And Canada

The first Kiwanis club was organized in Detroit, January 21, 1915. The first member of the organization was Joseph France, at present active in the Detroit club, whose application bears the date of December 6, 1914.

First national president was George F. Hixson, who was elected in May, 1916, and served as such until May, 1917, when he was re-elected at the Detroit convention with the title international president, Kiwanis having crossed the border into Canada.

Is Coined Word

The name "Kiwanis" is a coined word. Motto of the organization is "We Build."

Membership records of January 1, 1930, revealed that there were 1,841 Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada with a total membership of 102,150. Approximately 25,200 activities beneficial to societies and individuals were accomplished by Kiwanis clubs in 1929, according to records compiled from official monthly reports of club secretaries.

Composed of 28 Districts

Kiwanis International is composed of 28 districts in the United States and Canada, of which the Texas-Oklahoma area is one district. An elected governor is chief executive of each district.

There are 119 clubs with aggregate membership of about 6,000 in the Texas-Oklahoma district, which will hold its annual convention here Monday and Tuesday. Frank C. Smith of Houston is Texas-Oklahoma district governor.

General administration of Kiwanis International is conducted by an international board of trustees, executive and finance committees, an international council which last met in December with twenty-eight district governors and five past presidents as members, and international committees.

Officers Named In June

Present officers of Kiwanis International, elected at the international convention held June 29-July 3 in Atlantic City, are:

President, Raymond M. Crossman, Omaha; immediate past president, Horace W. McDavid, Decatur, Ill.; vice-presidents, Harper Clatton, Madisonville, Ky., and C. E. Jeakins, Brantford, Ont.; treasurer, Walter B. Weiser, Daytona Beach, Fla., and secretary, Fred C. W. Parker, Chicago.

Usual international programs carried out each year by Kiwanis International are Constitution week in the United States and Citizenship week in Canada, Anniversary week and All-Kiwanis night. United States-Canada week is observed biennially.

SEEK OLD GREEK TEMPLE

TERMINI IMERESE, Italy (AP)—Excavations financed by the Rotary club of Italy are now going on at the site of the ancient Greek city of Himera, near here, in the hope of bringing the remains of Himera's reputedly beautiful temple to light. It was destroyed by the Carthaginians about 409 B. C.

WORK WELL UNDER WAY

New High School And Gym Built In Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, Aug. 30. (Special)—Work is well under way for the construction of the new high school gym here by Morgan Construction company of Big Spring.

The structure will be 72 by 90 feet. It will be finished only one side at this time. Ceiling is 20 feet high.

Contract price was $6,785. The Morgan company had the contract for the $75,000 high school building, now being completed. Both will be ready for opening of school, it is expected.

Tile and stucco construction will be used. The foundation will be wide enough to permit the later placing of a face brick on the outside. This will permits its conformation with the new high school building.

Dallas Man Is Being Pushed For Governor

R. C. Storey, Present Lieutenant Governor, Is Being Advocated For Position; Election Is Tuesday

The selection of a governor of the Texas-Oklahoma district of Kiwanis International will be one of the chief items on the program of the convention here.

The selection of officers and the the following years, always the highlight of any convention, will be made Tuesday.

According to infoimation reaching here, only one man, R. G. Storey of Dallas, present lieutenant governor, has been put forward as a candidate.

Mr. Storey is the Dallas offering and letters which have been written to clubs in an effort to enlist their support in putting Storey in the chair, are not scant with their praise. Storey is also hailed as a "big man." He is a past president of the Dallas organization. He has served as district trustee and as a member of the Board of Directors for several years. In adition he has been named on various international committees.

"There has never been a governor in the chair from Dallas," is the cry from that city, "and we want to place one there for 1931."

Courtesies To Be Accorded Visitors In Session Here

Visitors to the Texas-Oklahoma district Kiwanis convention and the South Plains Teachers' Institute, both of which convene in this city Monday morning, are forbidden to worry about any red tag they may find on their automobile through mistake, according to a short statement issued Saturday by Chief of Police John Lemond.

"The police department of Lubbock will make every effort to make all visitors to the city welcome," Chief Lemond said. "We do not want anyone to feel that they have been imposed upon, especially through the police department.

Not To Tag Cars

"All members of the department have been carefully instructed to refrain from tagging out of town cars. Should they do so, however, by mistake the owner has only to turn the tag over to any local Kiwanian and think no more of the matter.

"Thousands of guest cards have been prepared and these are available to visitors either at the police station or at general convention headquarters in Hotel Lubbock. All policemen are available at any time for service to the visitors and we want them to feel free to call upon us."

Zuta's Will Is Being Held In Kentucky City

Attorney Refuses To Give Up Gangster's Testament For Publication; Colonel Ginsburg Beneficiary

(By Associated Press)

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Aug. 30.—The will of Jack Zuta, slain Chicago racketeer, is in the possession of Arthur H. Rhorer, attorney for Col. Ike Ginsburg, Zuta's cousin, but its contents will not be divulged "until the proper time," Rhorer said today.

Rhorer, former city prosecutor of Middlesboro, said that to release its contents would "injure our case." Colonel Ginsburg is claiming the estate. He recently returned from a trip to Chicago in connection with settlement of the property.

Paper Denied Copy

A representative of a Chicago newspaper was denied permission to take a photostatic copy of the will, though he offered "a large sum of money," Rhorer said. Colonel Ginsburg favored acceptance of the offer, the attorney said, but he dissuaded him. Rhorer said he was certain the will would be contested but would not say by whom. Both Rhorer and Ginsburg denied statement published in a copyrighted article in the Chicago Daily News that Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago visited Middlesboro in 1927 in Zuta's company. The Chicago newspaper said that Middlesboro friends of Zuta had said that the gangster raised $50,000 for Thompson's election campaign that year.

Zuta lived in Middlesboro for several years until he went to Chicago in 1914. He came here from Russia. Funeral service and burial of the gangster were conducted here after he was shot to death in Dalafield, Wis. Colonel Ginsburg claimed the body and arranged the funeral.

Hobby Issues Statement On 2 Companies

Houston Man Explains Case Of Lumbermen's Reciprocal And Security Union Insurance Companies

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Aug. 30.—Former Governor W. P. Hobby has issued the following statement:

The unusual publicity recently given receiverships of the Security Union Insurance company and Lumbermen's Reciprocal association was, of course, for political effect. Because of my association with Mr. R. S. Sterling and the misconstruction political opponents would have given to same, I have waited until the campaign for governor was at an end before making a public statement concerning my connection with the companies.

Organized For Economy

Thirteen years ago the Lumbermen's Reciprocal association was organized for the purpose of allowing those who carry compensation and liability insurance to do so at a fair and reasonable cost, without profits ordinarily charged by stock companies writing this class of insurance.

The Lumbermen's Reciprocal association was a mutual company in fact an agent for its policy holders and whatever profit accrued to the association, after a commission of ten per cent to Christie and Hobby Inc., as managers accrued to the policy holders in the form of dividends.

Would Help Others

The Security Union Insurance company was organized five years ago to write compensation insurance and other lines so the policy holders could have the choice of a reciprocal or a stock company, and it was thought by Mr. Christie and others associated with him, that it could be operated at little additional expense, and would help the Lumbermen's Reciprocal.

The Security Union company had a paid up capital stock of $250,000 and a paid in surplus of approximately the same. It was also managed by Christie and Hobby Inc. for a commission of ten per cent on premiums received.

Has Received $148,000

During the time that I have been associated with Mr. Christie I have received from Christie and Hobby, Inc., a total of $148,000. I have received nothing from the Security Union company or Lumbermen's Reciprocal association.

I now owe $173,000 because of a liability I have personally guaranteed of Christie and Hobby and an obligation I will have to pay for the purchase of stock in the Security Union company and instead of my having profited from the Lumbermen's Reciprocal or Security Union or Christie and Hobby, Inc., I have sustained a large personal loss.

Confined to Stock

I have had nothing actually to do with the management of either of said companies, my interest having been confined to 35 per cent of the capital stock of Christie and Hobby Inc., the other 65 per cent being owned by Mr. Christie, in whom I had full confidence, and who was in active charge of all of the business of said three companies—the Security Union Insurance company, Lumbermen's Reciprocal association and Christie and Hobby, Inc.

I am issuing this statement in order that the people of Texas may have the full and true facts about these companies and my connection with same.

Other Service Clubs Will Aid In Convention

Rotarians, Lions, American Business To Aid Kiwanis Club In Extending Welcome To Visitors

That spirit of camaraderie that exists among members of service clubs will be felt throughout the city during the next few days as the Rotary, Lions and American Business clubs of Lubbock join with members of the local Kiwanis club in making the Texas-Oklahoma district convention which convenes here today a complete success.

"The Rotary club is standing shoulder to shoulder with the Kiwanians in every effort to make the convention a complete success," Dr. W. A. Jackson, president of the Lubbock branch of Rotary International, declared.

Shall Never Forget

"We shall never forget," Doctor Jackson continued, "the fine work that the Kiwanians did for us when we entertained the District Rotary conference here and we want to 'pay back with interest' that debt of gratitude.

"Kiwanians may rest assured that any task they call upon us to do will be done to the best of our ability. Further, we consider it a privilege to do a bit in this regard."

Lions Offer Services

Rev. R. C. Campbell, vice-president of the Lions club stated that his club had proffered its services at all time.

"We are ready to help in any way and every way possible," he stated.

The American Business club members also feel that the convention is partly their own and have pledged their support.

"The Kiwanians must feel that they can call on us at any time realizing that we are backing them in every phase of the convention," stated C. A. Sheffield, vice-president of the organization.

TO BUILD NEW GIN

J. C. Baker Moving Back To Littlefield For Business

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 30. (Special)—Construction work on a new gin is expected to begin in a short time according to reports here.

J. C. Baker, a former resident of Littlefield, who built the first gin about ten or twelve years ago, has returned to this city from Phoenix, Ariz., where he moved about four years ago.

Mr. Baker has made preliminary arrangements for the new gin. He has had plans drawn for an electrically operated gin, costing probably about $30,000 to $40,000.

It is expected Mr. Baker will get his gin started early in September unless unforseen conditions arise to block the plans. A site has been secured, it is understood and other arrangements completed.

Mr. Baker has moved his family here and is now located in Littlefield.

Woodcock Says He Sees No Economy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock sees no possibility of complying with President Hoover's plea for departmental economies by decreased expenditures in the enforcement bureau.

He said today he expected all the $15,000,000 made available for this fiscal year to be used and predicted an increased budget for the fiscal year to follow.

When the enforcement unit was transferred from the treasury to the justice department the appropriation originally made for it and the bureau of industrial alcohol was divided into two parts. Separating the two agencies, he said, tended to increase the total overhead expenses of the two.

He previously had announced he intended asking for 500 additional agents, as compared with the 1,750 now in service and said he had this in mind when speaking of increased expenditures next year.

Lubbock Is To Be Host To Between 1,200 And 1,500 In Two-Day Meet; Opens Monday

Entire Personnel Of Local Club Makes Final Arrangements For Session; Prominent Speakers Slated

WITH a long list of notable speakers on the program, including men prominent over two states as well as leaders in the district organization, the thirteenth annual convention of the Texas-Oklahoma district of the Kiwanis International will be held here Monday and Tuesday, September 1 and 2.

Members of the Lubbock club, under the direction of G. P. Kuykendall, general convention committee chairman, have been at work for months on the arrangements for entertaining the 1,200 to 1,500 visitors expected. The entire personnel of the club has worked on the committee.

Entertainment Planned

Although the convention proper does not open until Monday morning, there will be entertainment for those who arrive Sunday. In the afternoon starting from the Hotel Lubbock at 4 o'clock, a motorcade will make a tour of the city to show the visitors some of the beauty spots of Lubbock and environs.

In half a dozen churches Sunday night at 8 o'clock speakers of the convention will deliver inspirational talks to the several congregations. Churches include First Baptist, Main and Avenue N; First Methodist, Broadway and Avenue M; First Christian, 1601 Avenue J; First Presbyterian, Fourteenth and Avenue N; Church of Christ, Broadway and Avenue N; Cumberland Presbyterian, Tenth and Avenue O.

Sessions of the convention will be held in the auditorium of the First Baptist church, on Main, between Avenue M and Avenue N.

One of the features of the convention will be a trip by train to the famous Carlsbad Caverns at Carlsbad, N. M. This train will consist of nine standard Pullman sleepers and will leave Tuesday night at 9 o'clock. This is after the convention closes and will not interfere with the attendance on the meetings. Arrival will be at Carlsbad in time to make the trip through the caverns. Return will be Wednesday night and connections can be made for others points down state.

Blake, Pollard To Speak

Two of the well known speakers will be E. E. Blake, of Oklahoma City, chairman of the Oklahoma Flood Commission, and Claude Pollard, former attorney general of Texas. Mr. Blake probably is as well posted on flood conditions in Oklahoma and Texas and the southwest as any other man. He has made a study of flood control for many years and has worked with state and national government for many years in outlining a plan to control the waters that flow from the southeast side of the Rockies down to the Mississippi river.

Claude Pollard needs no introduction to Texans. He served as attorney general until recently when he resigned to enter private practice of law as counsel for the several railroads of Texas. Mr. Pollard has many personal friends in Lubbock and the South Plains, both among the legal profession and in other walks of life.

Van Diest Is Trustee

Kiwanis International is to be represented by Edmond C. van Diest, of Colorado Springs, Colo., an International trustee. He is to bring greetings from Kiwanis International.

There will be several luncheons Monday noon, including one for club presidents, another for club secretaries and a third for district trustees.

Tuesday morning each of the several divisions of the district, ten in all, will have a breakfast. Lieutenant governors of these divisions are to preside over their respective conferences and there will be inspirational talks and plans for division work.

Ladies Not Forgotten

The ladies will not be forgotten. A committee headed by Mrs. Hub Jones has arranged a series of entertainments for the ladies. These include a musical tea Monday afternoon at the Hotel Lubbock and a bridge luncheon Tuesday noon at the Hotel Hilton.

For those who do not care to dance, a program of stunts has been arranged for the Up-Town Dance Palace, 801-803 Texas at 9 p. m. Monday.

At the same place at 6:30 Monday evening, a chicken barbecue will be served all visitors and delegates.

On Tuesday afternoon for the ladies who do not care to participate in the bridge, tickets will be given to the leading theaters.

Tuesday night the last dance will be held at the Up-Town Dance Palace.

Hotel Lubbock Headquarters

Headquarters will be in the lobby of the Hotel Lubbock. There members of the Lubbock club will be on duty at the registration booth to take care of visitors.

Each delegate registering will be given a badge and program on payment of the registration fee. This badge will be sufficient to admit the wearer to any and all regular functions of the convention.

All Members Aiding

"Any member of the Lubbock club is a walking information bureau and will be in position to answer all questions," Chairman Kuykendall says. The information bureau will also be in the lobby of the Lubbock Hotel.

Dr. O. W. English, chairman of the golf committee, has arranged for a golf tournament. Prizes will be awarded and the commitee will have its headquarters in the hotel lobby.

On the tour of Lubbock Sunday afternoon a visit will be paid to Texas Technological college, the third largest state school in Texas. It is also expected the school will be open for inspection during the convention. Dr. Paul W. Horn, president, or members of the faculty, will be glad to show the visitors over the school.

To Take Photograph

The official photograph of the convention is to be taken on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The group is to be placed in front of the Hotel Lubbock.

Governor E. L. Mitchell will have his headquarters in room 1010 Hotel Lubbock. Secretay John L. King will also headquarter in the same room.

Chairman G. P. Kuykendall, President J. D. Hassell of the registration committee, will headquarter in the lobby of the Lubbock.

Other Clubs Aiding

The local club has been assisted by the other service clubs of Lubbock, Rotary, Lions and A. B. C. and by city officials and the Chamber of Commerce and oBard of City Development in the entertainment preparation.

Business houses have been asked to decorate their store fronts. All houses are asked to display the American flag.

Chairman Kuykendall has appealed to business men to have their employes give all the information possible about the city to visitors who may ask them for directions.

Cars To Be On Duty

The transportation committee, J. T. Trigg, chairman, will have a large fleet of automobiles on duty at the hotels all the time. All trains will be met Sunday and Monday, with official cars. Also buses will be met and every possible transportation courtesy is to be extended.

Arrangements for entertainment at Carlsbad have been made with the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary and Lions clubs there.

Lubbock musicians will furnish entertainment for the convention.

H. W. Richardson will lead the convention singing.

Some of the subjects to be discussed will be: the future of Kiwanis, vocational guidance and placement, underprivileged child work, Kiwanis business and standards, club programs, attendance programs, promoting of the spirit of understanding between the city man and the farmer and Kiwanis and the government.

LAMESA, Aug. 30. (Special.)—If you want to grow big cantaloupes, just let them alone, according to R. J. Reynolds, farmer living three miles north of Lamesa. He planted fifteen acres of canteloupes and watermelons this year in a cotton patch and then forgot them. When he went back to see if they were ripe this week he found cantaloupes weighing from nine to seventeen pounds.

SAG HARBOR, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Notes from the log book of a roving vacationer:

There's a certain story-book-land quality about old folks who have spent their lives in towns saturated by romance and tradition. A certain sparkle attaches to the most doddering of the ancients, and I invariably am possessed with a small boy desire to squat on a couple of pillows and plead, "Grandma, tell me another one."

Perhaps if you ever visit this pioneer whaling town, it will be your good fortune to come across Miss French, 84, the assistant librarian. Or Ann Sleight, 85, whose family has been here year upon end. Or, if you see a huge old fellow lounging in front of the American House, he may turn out to be Frank Wade, who will soon be whisking you over the earth in ancient windjammers, putting in at far-away isles where a white man had never before been seen.

BROWSING along the main street, you might drop up to the second floor of the old town hall and fall into conversation with the county clerk, who doubles as chief information purveyor.

That Andrew Carnegie arrived in Sag Harbor on the old whaler Wiscasset.

That James Fenimore Cooper began his first novel in "Duke" Fordham's ancient tavern.

That the first missionaries to the Sandwich Isles set sail from this port in the whaler Thames, and the rotting bones of this old craft sometimes may be sighted at low tide from Conkling's point.

That the first American ship to enter the then forbidden ports of Japan was the Manhattan, from this then bustling sea town.

That this was quite a promising village long before the American Revolution.

That the British held the village in 1777 and that one Colonel Meigs, making an expedition of reprisal, defeated the Redcoats, burning 12 brigs and sloops.

That Captain Kidd slipped into the sheltering bays hereabouts with his treasure and used Gardiner's Island, off the coast, as a cache.

That the first Arctic whaling venture set sail from here under Captain Thomas Royce and returned in 30 days with a rich cargo of sperm.

That the town was shelled by British ships in the War of 1812 and the first torpedo constructed to attack a British frigate lying in the harbor.

AND, wandering over the gentle hills and about the winding lanes, one comes upon the various historical markers.

Or, listening to the tales of the old-timers as handed from grandparents to children you'll hear tales of the gay shindigs staged in the historic Fordham inns.

You'll hear of the revels that followed the news of Cornwallis' surrender and Burgoyne's defeat.

Of how John Paul Jones found in the town whalers the backbone of his marine force in 1812. Of Decatur and Porter and Hull and Lawrence—all of whalerman stock.

Of the adventurous lads who came from every part of the nation to seek their fortunes as whaling men, and of the time when the California gold rush sent most of them scurrying westward.

Lubbock Kiwanis Club Began Work In 1922; Short History Of Club Given

Dr. Jack M. Lewis Writes Of Life Of Group

Editor's Note: The following history of the organization of the Kiwanis club of Lubbock was written by Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of First Presbyterian church, a member of the club, who was assigned to the task of preparing a history of the organization.

Late in 1921 and early in 1922 a few men felt the need of a Kiwanis club in Lubbock. These men interested themselves in the project and with the assistance of Al Stimers, an International Kiwanis organizer, succeeded in securing the interest of a sufficient number of others in the movement to make the club possible.

Among those in whose minds the Kiwanis idea was first born in Lubbock were: W. C. Rylanler, R. B. Hutchinson, Percy Spencer, M. M. Dupree, K. Carter, C. E. Maedgen, and E. L. Klett.

Born February 23, 1922

The club was born locally on February 23, 1922. This first meeting was held in the parlors of the First Methodist church, with a delightful dinner being served by the ladies of the church.

Al Stimers was present and delivered a spell binder Kiwanis address. He succeeded in selling Kiwanis to the crowd of men present. Several men from Plainview were present and they made short talks on the needs and workings of the club. At this meeting also were Jed A. Rix, representing the Rotary club and Curtis Keen, the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. (The Plainview Kiwanis club was organizel before the Lubbock club.)

First Officers Chosen

Following officers were chosen: R. B. Hutchinson, president; Percy Spencer, vice president; Neal A. (Tongue-Tied) Douglas, secretary; W. O. Stevens, treasurer; Claude A. Hurlbut, district trustee. The first board of directors consisted of the following: R. B. Hutchinson, Percy Spencer, W. O. Stevens, Gerald V. Smith, C. E. Maedgen, M. M. Dupree, A. E. Morgan, W. C. Rylanler, E. C. Simmons and K. Carter. The officers were to serve until July 1, 1922.

Another interesting meeting of the young Kiwanis club was held the evening of June 15. It was known as "Charter night," when the charter of the new club was presented formally.

Judge E. L. Klett presided at the request of President Hitchinson. It was held in the Burrus building and from all reports must have been a most inspiring meeting. Mrs. Joe Hilton sang beautifully and Mrs. Curtis Keen, in her usual charming manner, read several appropriate numbers. Mayor Percy Spencer, vice president of the club, introduced Dr. H. E. Stout, president of Texas Woman's college, Fort Worth, as the main speaker of the occasion. Dr. Stout was at that time a lieutenant governor of the Kiwanis district for Texas-Oklahoma. He spoke on "Building as a Kiwanian" and made a strong appeal for all Kiwanians to adopt that philosophy of life which prompts them to build on moral and spiritual foundations rather than on material.

Members Go Forward

This brief paragraph closed the newspaper account of the meeting: "The Kiwanis club in Lubbock is here to tay and build, and with the spirit that prompts the members to go forward, ever expanding in the fertile fields of opportunities for them, it is making rapid headway in becoming one of the most efficient organizations in West Texas. There are sixty-two members of the club at this time."

A history of the organization of the Kiwanis club would not be complete without a mention of the meeting on Thursday, June 29, 1922. At this time the second set of officers were elected. They were: Clark Mullican, president; W. C. Rylander, vice president; Louie Moore, secretary; L. C. Ellis, treasurer; and Gerald V. Smith, district trustee. These successful candidates represented the "Bolshevick ticket" while K. Carter headed the "Socialist ticket." With such capable leadership the Kiwanis club of Lubbock received a most promising start and has been making history through the years.

Presidents Praised

The presidents who deserve much of the credit for the success of the club to date have been: R. B. Hutchinson, 1922; Clark Mullican, 1922-23; S. C. Wilson, 1924; W. C. Rylander, 1925; Garland Woodward, 1926; E. L. Klett, 1927; Fred Standefer, 1928; D. D. Roderick and R. H. Leidigh, 1929; Clark Mullican, 1930.

Prominent members of the Kiwanis club who have passed on into the presence of the Great Builder of the Universe include: E. R. Haynes, county superintendent of schools; E. C. Simmons, furniture dealer; K. Carter, dry goods merchant; Dr. C. G. Bloom, dentist; Percy Spencer, attorney; M. M. Dupree, superintendent of schools; Rev. C. N. N. Ferguson, pastor of the First Methodist church; George W. Morris, oil. They lived well the Kiwanis motto, "We Build."

Secretaries of the local club include the following: Neil A. Douglas, Louis Moore, George Brewer, Amos Howard, Claude Burrus, I. F. Holland, and the present secretary, Claude Burrus.

Governor Mitchell Prominent Man In Oklahoma Affairs

Kiwanians of the Texas-Oklahoma district believe in having big men to fill big offices, not necessarily physically large men but men who have made a place for themselves in the affairs of state and nation.

And Judge E. L. Mitchell, of Clinton, Oklahoma, district governor, is no exception.

Judge Mitchell is 54 years old, having been born on March 13, 1878, in Clinton county, Missouri.

Has Served State

In the 54 years of his life Judge Mitchell has served his State in various capacities, not to mention a long service list to his city. Now he is serving Kiwanians of two states, Texas and Oklahoma, elected governor of the district at the Tulsa convention in 1929 after having served as lieutenant governor during that year. He is a charter member of the club in Clinton and its president in 1928. Aside from activities in the Kiwanis club, the district governor is prominent Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights Pythias and Modern Wodmen circles.

Elected To Senate

Judge Mitchell began the practice of law in 1908, following retirement from the newspaper business which he was engaged for several years at Cheyenne and Grand, Oklahoma. In 1908 he was elected to the Oklahoma state senate and served there until 1917. He was president protempore of the senate from 1913 to 1917.

After quitting the senate, the judge was elected mayor of his home city, Clinton, in 1923, serving until 1925, when he was appointed judge of the district court, to which position he was elected in 1926. He has been nominated for the office again this year without opposition either in the primary or general election.

Kiwanians The South West Finest And Most Unique Hotel Welcomes You With The Unusual

The Very Finest

"Interesting Facts"

AMERICA has given to the world only one distinctive type of art and architecture—the Pueblo Indian—and the finest examples are combined in the Lubbock Hilton Hotel, which has been called "The most unique hotel in America today." A great deal of research has been done by the Architects and decorators of this Hotel to assure perfection in even the smallest details of this stye of Indian art and architecture, which has been used for hundreds of years by the Pueblo Indians modified from time to time by Spanish Influences. This Southwestern country had been visited by Coronado, Espejo, Cabeza de Vaca, De Vargas and other Spanish explorers scores of years before the feet of white men had touched the Eastern shores and with them came the valiant Missionaries to add their knowledge of the arts and love of beauty to that of the Pueblos.

Here in this hotel you find combined examples of all the finest arts known to the Indian, the Mexican and the Spaniard: architecture, pottery, painting, weaving, carving. The churches and Missions of the Southwest are filled with examples of these arts. You find here too, the expression of the great Indian love of color—bright natural colors, which he used to decorate his clothes, his blankets, his house.

In recent years there has been a great re-awakening of interest in the Pueblo Indians of the Southwest and an encouragement of his art. The Lubbock Hilton is truly a treasure house; wherever you look you will find something new, something beautiful, the hand-carved wood work and the hand woven rugs of its Lobby and Mezzanine; the mural paintings in the Dining Room, the hand made furniture and wrought iron fixtures, the large beams and cathedral windows of the Ballroom, the imported hand made tile in quaint designs, the pottery—things of beauty too numerous to mention.

It is a place to which artists, architects and students as well as tourists have come to study its details and to appreciate its beauty.

Lubbock stands at the gateway to the Indian land and the erection of this magnificent Hotel here is peculiarly fitting; it will stand as a monument to this progressive city for years to come.
