Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

It's always interesting to learn what others think of us and the following is clipped from the "Tiny Times" column of the Oklahoma City Times giving some impressions of Oklahoma City visitors here this week.

"After a downpour in the afternoon" reads the Tiny Times, "we had an opportunity of swinging around Wichita Falls with its face freshly washed.

"Wichita Falls is worried lest the census show her less than 45,000. Boom conditions of a decade ago have passed and there is much talk of slack business, but nevertheless this neighbor city looks to me like the most metropolitan, most progressive, cleanest community of less than 75,000 in the nation.

"Wide business streets, and parked boulevards in the residence section are a blessing. Plenty of acres have been retained close in for parks and playgrounds. They have three prime residence sections in which there are more acred homes of the oil rich than in any small city I know of.

Oil men are going after deep production, hoping to pick up the pay that is giving Oklahoma City the play, to return the barometer to the pressure of the first oil strike, which was too high for health.

"Their Junior college is in difficulty because the attorney general has ruled that the general school funds cannot be applied for support of the junior college. Students go directly from the local high schools into the Junior college.

"Mr. Allison of the Times-Record told me 60 per cent of their high school graduates have been going on to the Junior college or some other school. Elsewhere about 25 per cent of the high school graduates matriculate. Wichita Falls may have slowed down from the top speed of the boom, but that city is well established and will have regular, sound growth from here out."

It is good to hear someone who has had an opportunity for obeervation say that it seems to him like Wichita Falls is the "most metropolitan, most progressive, cleanest community of less than 75,000 in the nation."

Wichita Falls has a metropolitan appearance, first because the town was well laid out by its promoters and because the greater part of its business district has been built within the past 15 years. It is clean, but not as clean as it ought to be, because wide, paved streets make the cleaning of them easy and because some effort is made to keep them clean. It is progressive because of the class of its citizenship and the challenge of opportunity.

It can continue to be a progressive city only if its citizens meet its problems and opportunities. One of our problems right now is the Wichta Falls Junior college. There are a number of others. If the citizens of Wichita Falls do not solve them, nobody else will. And if they fail to meet the challenge that is in them our visitors no

TRIPLE KILLER HIDDEN WHEN MOB ORGANIZES

Shooting Occurs 15 Miles From Brownwood in Farm Home

JAILED AT COLEMAN

Olney Worker Surrenders To Officers Following Auto Chase

BROWNWOOD, Texas, May 16. (UP)—Joe Shields, 35, arrested at Coleman late today following the triple slaying of his estranged wife and her parents, was spirited away from the Brown county jail here tonight when officers learned that a mob was forming at Brooksmith, 15 miles southwest.

Officers refused to divulge the name of the town, fearing the mob would storm the jail and lynch Shields.

The killing occurred at Brooksmith this afternoon when Shield ordered his estranged wife to place their child on the front porch. When she refused, he shot and killed her with a rifle and then placed a sheet over her body, Sheriff W. H. Denman told the United Press.

The woman's father, J. B. Shield, Brooksmith merchant, then came out of the house across the street and Joe Shields shot him twice. He died instantly.

Shield then shot his mother-in-law as she came running out of their home, wounding her in the side.

Shield escaped in his automobile while a posse was formed at Brooksmith. He later surrendered at Coleman.

Sheriff Denman said Shield refused to make a statement.

Mrs. Shield had sued her husband for divorce and the case was scheduled to be heard at the coming term of court, it was learned.

Public Market Opened Here to Sell Valley Produce at Standard Prices

Establishment of a retail and wholesale public market for home-grown vegetable produce at the corner of Tenth and Ohio, announced Friday, promises at least partial fulfillment of hopes entertained by truck growers in this vicinity for many years.

According to T. B. Wilkins and W. R. McAfee, who have opened the market, it will handle no produce except that grown in this vicinity. Growers from other localities will be able to obtain space within the market by paying a stipulated daily rental.

The public will be given the opportunity to select its vegetables daily from the early morning deliveries by growers near this city, it was pointed out; and the owners of the new mart urged farmers to avail themselves of its facilities.

Plans for the market have received the approval of Dr. J. M. Farrell, chief city sanitary inspector, according to those in charge. Truck farmers of the valley have been asked to bring their produce to the market, where it will be offered at standard prices which will be determined at a meeting of the group each morning. No charge is made for growers in the Wichita irrigated valley.

Presbyterian General Assembly Occupied With Committee Work

District Reports and Memorials From Various Sections Take Up Second Day of Conference

Special to The Record News

OLNEY, Texas, May 16.—Delegates attending the 100th annual meeting of the General Assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church entered their second day of meeting here Friday prepared to settle down to official business. The first day's session was devoted to preliminaries, moderator's annual address, welcomes and responses, and the election of moderator for the present assembly.

Rev. O. A. Barbee, Owensboro, Ky., newly elected moderator called the meeting to order Friday morning at 8:30. The first half hour devotional service was led by Rev. Elbridge Harris of Illinois. Announcement of committees and reading of communications and overtures followed. Delegates voted to accept the invitation extended by Merle Gruver, secretary of the chamber of commerce to inspect various places of interest in Olney and adjoining oil fields. A trip is being arranged by the chamber of commerce for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mayor Chas. S. Richardson and S. J. Marcell will have charge of the automobile caravan.

CITY GUSHER RUNNING WILD

Well Near Mary Sudick Bursts Control Head

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 16. (UP)—A wild oil well gusher—the demon that threatens the existence and livelihood of every oil operator—tonight spewed hundreds of thousands of gallons of inflamable oil upon the South City field.

The well, known as the No. 1 Sigmon well of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, is located a half mile east of the famous Mary Sudik well which ran wild for 11 days.

Bursting of the especially constructed master gate which had controlled the flow of the Sigmon well was the signal for emergency crews to enter the field. Roads were blocked for two miles about the well and fire restrictions were placed.

Earthen bulwarks were built around the well to stop the flow of oil which was raining upon the field.

Although the initial production of the Sigmon well was less than that of the Mary Sudik well it was gradually mounting during the early evening and authorities predicted it would be as large as the Sudik runaway.

BRADY MURDER TRIAL PUT IN HANDS OF JURY

Fiery Arguments Conclude Second Hearing of Famous Case

JURIST SHAKEN

Young Prosecutor Scorns Insanity Plea in Biting Address

DALLAS, May 16. (AP)—The murder case of John W. Brady former justice of the court of civil appeals at Austin, charged in the slaying of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, stenographer, was given to the jury at 10:56 p. m.

Just two minutes after District Attorney Jimmy McCraw, for the state had finished the argument, Judge C. A. Pippen told the jury he was going home but any time tomorrow morning or any night until 10 o'clock he would come to the courthouse to receive a verdict.

Closing arguments in the case were heard at a night session beginning at 8 p. m. with Maury Hughes making the final plea for a suspended sentence for the defendant, for whom the defense of an insanity plea has been made, and District Attorney William McCraw closing for the state with a demand for the death penalty.

Courtroom Crowded

During the day session arguments for the state were made by Assistant District Attorney Andrew J. Priest and Jimmie MacNicoll of Dallas and District Attorney Henry Brooks of Travis county, who prosecuted the case in its first trial in Austin. The case was removed to Dallas on a change of venue granted after the first trial had resulted in a hung jury.

Ted Monroe argued the defendant's case during the afternoon.

The closing arguments were made to a packed gallery which filled every available seat and all available standing room. The ceiling and wall fans of the courtroom were unable to conquer the almost stifling heat, made worse by a sultriness of the weather.

Judge Reads Charge

As state attorneys recounted from the testimony already adduced of Brady's illicit relations with the slain girl and his own attorneys sought to explain his actions as being the result of an unsound mind, the defendant could not conceal his nervousness. His wife beside him seemed more calm than he.

Judge Charles A. Pippen's charge opened the day's sessions when he read it to the jury in the morning. It contained definitions of murder with malice and of insanity. Temporary insanity induced by intoxicating liquor, according to the charge, neither excuses nor justifies the offense, although it may be considered in mitigation of the penalty to be imposed.

Plea Ridiculed

Twenty-four-year-old Henry Brooks, who spoke for an hour immediately before court was recessed at 5:30 p. m., poured trenchant ridicule on the defense insanity arguments. The same line was taken by the other state attorneys, Priest and MacNicoll. Brooks attacked the defense argument for not having produced any alienists to testify to Brady's insanity.

244 Arrests Follow Indian Resistance 'Raid'

BOMBAY, May 16. (UP)—Wholesale arrests at the Dharasana Salt depot tonight followed the passive resistance of the police against Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, civil disobedience leader, in her "raid."

Mrs. Naidu, removed by the police, finally admitted her mission had failed. She said she planned to return to Bombay in a few days.

Wind Flips Dwelling In Air Thrice

Special to The Record News

HOLLIDAY, Texas, May 16.—The five members of the Felipe Hernandez family, victims of a tornado that swept down the irrigation valley east of Diversion dam Thursday afternoon, were all in a serious condition on the H. C. Griffin ranch near here Friday. The Mexican family, truck farmers on the Griffin property, were trapped when the wind caught their home, twirled it over in the air three times and dropped it, shattered to bits, several hundred yards from its foundations.

One little girl was badly burned when the violent vibrations of the house hurled her face-down across the stove. Mrs. Hernandez was also burned and badly cut about the head. Other members of the family escaped the stove but were seriously cut.

The gale hurled another house on the Griffin ranch across a field and through another structure, ripping the roof away. Buildings were damaged on the Helm, Parkey, and Mangold ranches, but the occupants escaped injury by taking refuge in storm cellars.

CREEK FLOODS GOLF COURSE

Lake Wichita Runs 18 Inches Over Spillway

A considerable part of the municipal golf course had been flooded and portions of the highway between Weeks park and Lake Wichita were under water Friday night as Holliday creek continued to spread out from recent heavy rains and from the overflow from Lake Wichita.

Creek Covers Highway

Its narrow channel already taxed by heavy rains, the overflowing of Lake Wichita early Friday morning sent the creek far out of its banks. A stream of water from 18 to 24 inches deep was pouring out of the lake Friday night into the creek. Many greens at the golf course and a number of the roads through the park were under a foot or more of water.

Although cars managed to travel between the park and Lake Wichita, the highway was under water at four points Friday night. Holliday creek had covered the bridge between the Country Club Estates and Lake Drive to a depth of about 14 inches, and the drive was also under water south of this point and near the Weeks park clubhouse. Two bridges on the highway south of the clubhouse were under water and the creek had covered the highway for a distance of approximately 200 yards.

At Lake Wichita, practically no damage was reported, although the south pier of the pavilion, favorite fishing place of many Wichitans, was under about two feet of water. Other piers were about a foot above the water line. Dr. A. H. Douglass, city water superintendent, said Friday night he believed the lake had reached its peak, and would begin to drop by Saturday morning in the absence of additional rain. The lake is still one foot short of the high record made in March, 1927, Mr. Douglass said. The city water superintendent gave the stage of the lake as 18 feet and seven inches Friday morning, after a rise of nearly two feet during the night. Friday night the stage was given as 18 feet and nine inches.

Clear Fish Screen

City employes Friday morning were compelled to clear the fish screen in the spillway of the lake of trash and hickory shad which had packed against it. Employes at the lake also cleared the screen later Friday afternoon. The rise in the water at the lake has been approximately four and one-half feet since the heavy rains of the last two weeks. The Wichita river was running about half-bank full late Friday night, and apparently had about reached its peak.

Continued rains, badly needed three weeks ago, are now hampering the planting of row crops, it was said Friday by G. C. McGown, county agent. Although rain damage has been comparatively slight, the delay in planting may prove costly if continued much longer, Mr. McGown said.

HONEY GROVE BLACK SLAIN IN GUN FIGHT

Crowd Drags Corpse to Churchyard and Sets It Afire

RIOT SHORT-LIVED

Second Similar Disorder in Week Ends After Funeral Fire

HONEY GROVE, Texas, May 16. (UP)—Mob violence flamed in Texas for the second time within a week late today when the body of a negro, who murdered a white landowner and then held a posse of 3,000 citizens at bay for more than three hours, was dragged through the streets of Honey Grove and burned.

After killing E. F. Fortenberry, 50, when the landowner attempted to collect a debt, Sam Johnson, the negro, barricaded himself in a farm house and staged a pitched battle with county officers and citizens.

Car Drags Body

His body, pierced by innumerable bullets, was taken out of the house shortly after 5 p. m.

The mob, incited by the brutality of the crime, chained the negro's body to a car and dragged it through the negro section. It then was hung to a tree and burned.

Immediately after the body had been burned, the mob dispersed. There were no fresh outbreaks of violence early tonight. Sheriff Hughes, of Bonham, said the situation was well in hand and that no national guardsmen would be needed.

Barricades House

Tom Hannard, who accompanied Fortenberry to Johnson's house, said that after the negro had shot the man three times, he picked up his gun and ran back into the house where he piled furniture against the doors and windows.

Recruiting citizen from Honey Grove and surrounding farms, Sheriff Hughes surrounded the house. The negro, armed with two revolvers kept up a steady fire at his besiegers.

Shortly before 5 o'clock, 500 men, lead by Deputy Sheriff Tom Moore, stormed the house. The negro had been dead almost an hour.

Troops at Sherman

Martial law still is in effect at Sherman, less than 50 miles from here, where a mob burned the Grayson county courthouse and dragged the body of a negro, charged with assaulting a white woman, through the streets and burned it.

At no time did the mob become frenzied, Hannard said. Armed with shotguns, rifles and revolvers they gathered near Johnson's house and were placed at stragetic position by Sheriff Hughes.

Throughout the afternoon, they maintained a withering fire on the negro's house.

Runners were dispatched to Honey Grove at regular intervals for fresh supplies of ammunition.

Whites Uninjured

None of the posse was injured by Johnson's shots.

With the exception of dragging Johnson's body through the streets and burning it, there was no violence whatever. The crowd was well-controlled and dispersed immediately after its grim work was finished.

Their wrath unappeased after dragging the body, the crowd sent for five gallons of gasoline. Saturating loose lumber, barrels and

Special Grand Jury To Probe Dry Violations

TOPEKA, Kan., May 16. (UP)—Federal authorities late today issued a call for a grand jury to investigate phases of dry law violations and alleged "undercover work" revealed by federal agents in widespread raids in the Wichita area.

The jury call following close on the heels of widespread liquor raids engineered by federal authorities has caused capital observers to predict the government is preparing a further offensive begun when they arrested 32 violators in Sedgwick, Reno and Ford counties surrounding Wichita.

Committee Advises Three Additions To Methodist House of Bishops

DALLAS, May 16. (UP)—The Episcopacy committee of the Methodist church tonight voted to recommend to the general conference Saturday the adidtion of three members to the house of bishops, bringing the total membership to 16.

A minority report also will be filed demanding that the number of bishops be left unchanged.

Advocates of the additional number declared the anticipated increase in the membership of the church during the interim between now and the time of the next general conference, four years hence, demanded that the house of bishops be enlarged to handle the increased work of the church.

Another factor in their consideration was the possibility of death and that it might remove one or two of the older members from the church.

The committee passed over the case of Bishop James Cannon Jr., announcing that no report on charges that he had engaged in marginal seculations on the stock exchange would be made to the general conference until probably Monday.

It was thought likely that the week-end would be utilized in framing the charges to be presented against Cannon. The week-end vacation also will give Cannon an opportunity to form his defense.

Bishop Cannon today issued a statement denouncing Dwight W. Morrow for his advocation of re-longer wil comment upon the progressiveness of our city.

The life of a community is somewhat like the life of an individual. We never get all of our problems solved and every day brings new situations and new problems. When we cease to have them we will cease to live. We begin to die when we fail to recognize the problems of the day, or when recoginzing them go around them as the easiest way.

Dorrance Eugene Gresseet, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gressett, 1709 Elizabeth street, is killed by the accidental discharge of a revolver. Cosby Snodgrass, blind newsboy, is struck by an automobile and his leg broken. Six Mexicans are injured in a storm near Dundee. Here are three tragedies and near tragedies picked from the day's news. In none of the cases cited were the victims responsible for the misfortune that befell them. Try as we will, there are things in life which we cannot understand but which we must accept with whatever resignation we can.

We cannot believe that Congressman John Garner was speaking seriously when he proposed that Texas be divided into five states in order to give the South and West greater representation in the senate. In joining the Union the Republic of Texas reserved for its citizens and the state the republic became, the right to divide into five states. This provision of the treaty of annexation was made in order to maintain the dominance of the South in the political affairs of the nation. The South has long since lost that dominance. The people of Texas are now not so much concerned about political balance and dominance as were the Texans who negotiated the treaty of annexation. Whatever sentiment they have is for the traditions of their state. Practical considerations of taxation, convenience and the advantage of a single administration over the great area of the state far outweigh sectional political considerations.

Doubtless Mr. Garner was just telling what could be done, rather than what he expected would happen. Still the division of Texas into five states offers an interesting field for speculation. For instance, in what state would Wichita Falls likely be? Would it be the capital of a state? Who would be its governor and its senators?

Maybe such a division will come some day. Texas, we understand, is the only state in the union, which by its own action and without congressional action, has the right to form other states out of its territory. Texas, too, is the only state, we believe, which reserved its public lands. The men who negotiated the treaty of annexation for the Republic of Texas drove a good bargain with the United States. The reservation of its public lands has been of great benefit to Texas. The right to form other states within its territory may be worth something too.

Will of M. J. Bashara Filed With County Clerk

The will of M. J. Bashara, prominent oil man of this city who died several days ago, bequeathing his entire estate to the widow, Mrs. Olga Bashara, was filed Friday with Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk. Mrs. Bashara was appointed executrix of the estate without bond. The will leaves property estimated at $10,000, it was said.

AUDIT STARTS

Work on auditing the books in the city tax collector's office was started Friday by Allred, Lambert & Nichols, public accountants. The books are expected to be completed in about 10 days, it was said.

beches with the fuel, they threw the negro's body on the pile and lighted his funeral pyre.

Mob Disperses

The fire blazed quickly and soon died. The mob then deserted the charred corpse and several negroes quietly gathered up the remains and hurried with them to the negro cemetery where they were buried this evening.

Chief of Police Dobbs reported tonight that the boys had disappeared and that the town was quiet. He said he expected no trouble as the negroes were keeping indoors and the streets were quieted.

Fortenberry is survived by his wife and four children, the youngest four years of age.

Fortenberry, accompanied by Hannard, drove to the house Johnson was renting from the slain man to collect past due rent, Hannard said.

On arriving there, the two men saw the negro packing clothes and furniture, preparing to move.

"You're not moving?" Fortenberry asked.

Farmer Unwarned

The negro did not reply but turned and fired three shots in quick succession, killing the landowner instantly.

The negro then ran across a field, pursued by Hannard and several passersby. He attempted to board a moving freight train but was unable to catch it. He then took refuge in his shack, located nearby.

The house where the shooting occurred is located about a mile from town.

The fugitive was armed with two .45 caliber revolvers.

He apparently singled out the Honey Grove constable, John Ridener, during the seige, directing every shot at his hiding place.

A heavy rain that fell early today kept most of the farmers from working in their fields and hundreds had congregated in town. After officers and citizens had maintained a steady barrage on the negro's shack, Oscar Davis, a farmer, volunteered to enter the building. He was accompanied by a huge crowd. The negro's body, riddled with bullets was found leaning against the door.

Rush for Body

Davis threw the body from the shack and there was a mad rush for it. A group of about 20 young men and boys seized the body.

They tied the negro behind a car, a chain around his right foot and a length of barbed wire around his left. The body, face downward, was dragged through the town.

The ghastly procession first circled the negro section and then drove through the main streets.

The total number of peace officers in the town number about 20, including the chief of police and the city constable. They made no attempt to stop the violence.

In 1929, 225 severe hailstorms were reported in the United States with estimated total damage of over $10,000,000.

Funeral services for Dorrance Eugene Gressett, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Interment will be in Rosemont under the direction of the Dalton-Powell Funeral home. Active pallbearers will be E. S. Whitelaw, J. A. Curtis, H. C. English and P. A. Wiley.

Honorary pallbearers were named as follows: Fred Taylor, L. E. Shelton, F. A. Ray, Ernest Katz, W. Lee Moore Sr., Carl Nelson, George Nelson, Homer Smith, C. B. Neal, H. G. Oden, W. L. Guthrie, Walter Hodges, Casey Jones, George Davis, Bob Marlow, Jim Marlow, John Watkins, Richard Delaney Sr., Thomas Humphrey and J. T. Cumley.

The fatal accident occurred late Thursday afternoon when the older child obtained a pistol from a dresser drawer in the home while the mother was across the yard at a neighbor's house for a few moments. She returned to find the infant lying on the floor of the bedroom, a shot having pierced his chest and passed entirely through his body. The gun was found nearby and the small brother was standing in the room, puzzled at the result of their "just wanting to see the gun." A Merkle ambulance rushed the child to the hospital where an operation was immediately performed, but medical efforts failed and death came about 10:15 o'clock Thursday night.

Eaglerock 'Bullet' On Exhibition Here

Wichita Falls will have its first glimpse of a new type airplane, built according to the latest engineering design, when an Eaglerock Bullet low-wing cabin monoplane will land at Staley field Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The plane will be piloted by a factory distributor from the Eaglerock Aircraft company at Colorado Springs.

The outstanding feature of the ship's design is a retractable landing gear which permits the wheels to be drawn up into the body of the plane, reducing air resistance. It will be demonstrated at Staley field Saturday and Sunday.

Coleman Man Kills Wife And Her Parents

surrender to Sheriff Frank Mills. Local officers had been notified of the killing and were on the lookout for Shield.

Shield is a Coleman county man, a cousion of Leon L. Shield of this city, but for the past several weeks has been employed at Olney. He went to Brownwood yesterday afternoon with Weldon Lucas from Olney, and this afternoon they drove from Broownwood to Brooksmith. Just before reaching Brooksmith Shield let Lucas out of the car at a water tank and instructed him to wait there until he returned. Shield went on into Brooksmith.

He had not been there long until Lucas heard shots and heard a woman scream "he has killed mother." Shortly after the shots were fired Shield joined Lucas at the tank and they started to Coleman. At Trickham Lucas quit the car and Shield came on to Coleman to surrender. Lucas followed later and made a statement to County Attorney V. Rawlins Gilliland.

Lucas said that Shield told him that on Mothers' day he was going to send a card to his mother-in-law, but doubted whether she would appreciate it.

"Shields went to Brownwood and Brooksmith," Lucas said, "in response to a letter from his wife that one of his children nearly had pneumonia."

Shield has two daughters, 9 and 11 years old.

Brownwood officers came for Shield soon after he surrendered and he is in jail in that city.

The Blow-Out Proof Tire

Hailed as the greatest Safety advancement in modern motoring!

THE amazing acceptance of the new Blow-Out Proof Dual-Balloon has no precedent in tire history. The answer is this: the blow-out proof tire is the only way to match the power and speed of today's cars and today's driving conditions.

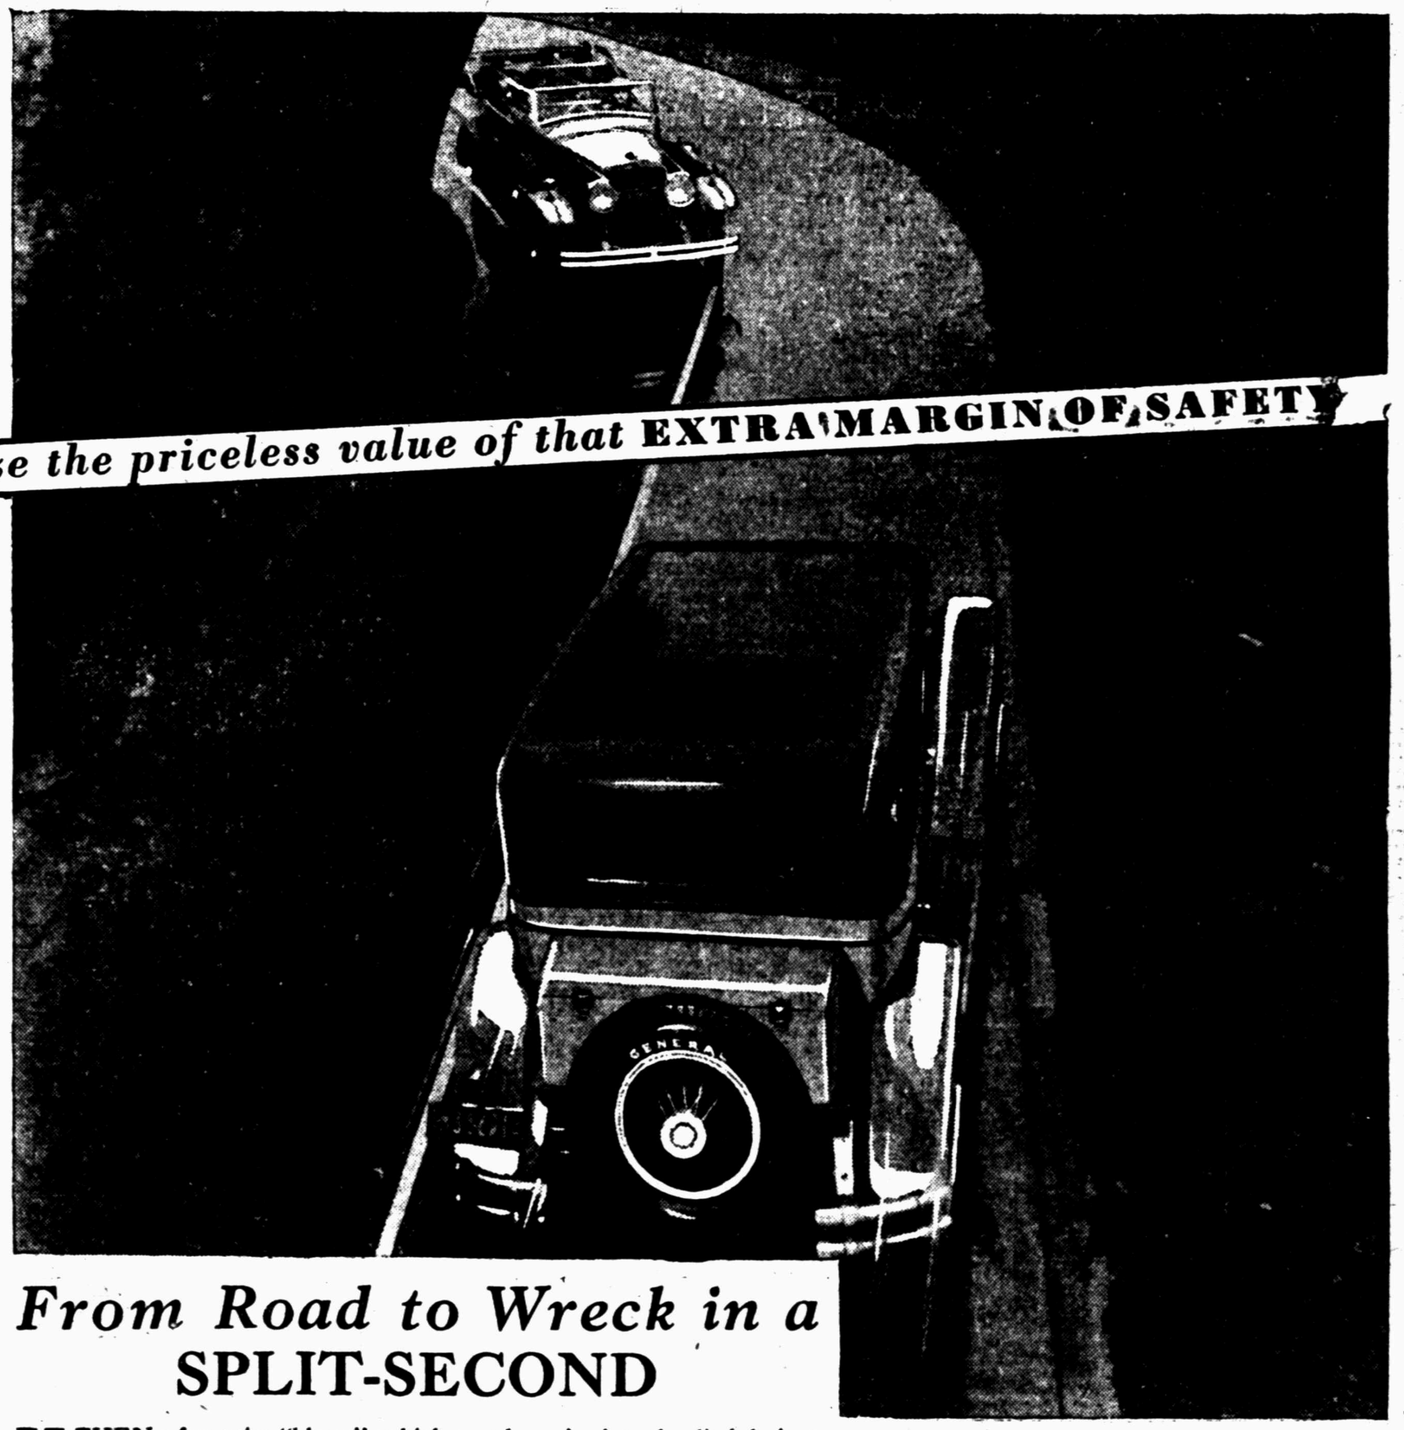

At today's road speed if a tire blows out the best you can hope for is an open field with no ditch to stop you. It's a split second from blow-out to crash—with no time to think or act. You're off the road or head-on into approaching traffic before you can move. Don't risk it.

No matter what your speed or where you travel, you need the protection of the New General Blow-Out Proof Dual-Balloon. It ends blow-outs—it minimizes every tire hazard. You can trust it on any road, in any weather, at any speed. Double safety in those split second emergencies when it's stop, turn-quick or crash.

Extra softness under the surface that lasts as long as the tire itself means closer-clinging, skid-safe traction.

Lower pressure and built-in rubber shock absorbers give a new sensation of softer, easier riding on any road at any speed. Extra layers of soft cushion rubber prevent overheating and inside wear . . . and this thicker cushioning absorbs the heavy impacts that cause blow-outs in stiffer tires.

That extra margin of safety in the Dual-Balloon is yours throughout the whole lifetime of its big mileage . . . mileage that outlasts your car.

Split seconds that make you realize the priceless value of that EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY

LET US TELL YOU
how to get them on your
NEW CAR

THIS week we are making it especially easy for the hundreds of people buying new cars to roll on Generals from the start.

We've always done a big new car change-over business . . taking off the equipment tires and putting on proper size Generals. Now with the new Blow-Out Proof Dual-Balloon we are changing all cars, large and small . . taking off brand new tires, as well as tires of doubtful mileage . . everybody wants the world's safest tire.

Come in, find out how little it will cost to banish tire worries for good . . and drive out with Blow-Out Proof balloons on your new car.

Convenient payments if you do not wish to pay cash. Use our famous G.T.A.C. plan. It is financed by the General Factory. The only economical plan of its kind. No exhorbitant interest or charges.

From Road to Wreck in a SPLIT-SECOND

WHEN a front tire "blows" at high speed, you're into the ditch before you can reach the brake. No time to think—less time to act. . . . Even at moderate speed you're off the road or head-on into approaching cars in a flash. Then—costly damage, permanent injury. It's a cruel penalty for a tiny temporary economy! Don't risk it. . . . No longer need any motorist face the hazard of a fatal wreck through blowout. Let us equip your car now with the tire that eliminates all the risk of blowout.

Floral Heights Methodist Class Has Pretty Party

Pink roses, larkspur in all pastel shades and red poppies used in luxuriant abundance made the church parlors of Floral Heights Methodist church a beautiful place when members of the Wesley Girls Sunday school class met there Friday afternoon for their monthly party.

Mrs. C. W. Poll's group were hostesses and in the receiving line were Mrs. Poll, Mesdames Milo Connefey, Edgar Ratcliff, C. G. Crump, E. M. Crump, R. G. Cocanower and G. Wayne Barker.

Mrs. Ross Corlett, president of the class, presided in a short business meeting when Mrs. C. M. Simpson gave the invocation. Minutes were read and recommendatios of the executive board adopted. A picnic for members of the class and their families was planned for an early date.

In the program, Miss Viola Grace Doern, accompanied by Mrs. G. Wayne Barker, gave two lovely violin numbers. Miss Charlene Kinder of Archer City, accompanied by Miss Kathleen Criswell, sang two exquisite vocal numbers.

A one-act play, "The Maker of Dreams," was read by Mary Jo Ellis, the pretty fantasy being given beautifully and showing a marvelous memory. As an encore, she gave "Mahala's Funeral," a happy humorous contrast.

At the close of the program, a delicious refreshment plate was served by the hostesses to Mesdames Ross Corlett, Curt Buddrus, C. F. Green, C. M. Goodwin, Paul Jett, F. S. Randolph, J. W. Ford, O. M. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

When flower lovers met at the Garden club breakfast Thursday morning, there came through the northern windows of the Woman's Forum clubhouse the sweet song of a meadowlark, repeated over and over.

Some half dozen heads were raised to listen. Though a speaker was on the floor, the reiterated music had an irresistible power that drew eye to eye in a bond that holds all lovers of nature.

Women whose everyday lives ran in channels far apart, met spirit to spirit in that "touch of nature that makes a whole world kin."

Beauty is a word defined in a thousand different ways to a thousand different people. We remember once hearing one woman, as she looked her fill at a peach orchard in pink bloom, draw a long breath and exclaim "How divine!" And we saw a friend with her look up carelessly and remark "It is pretty; but you know I see so many peach trees I just don't pay any attention."

Yet that woman, who paid no attention to the physical face of nature was one who saw all the beauty of character.

Socrates old prayer, "I pray thee, O God, that I may be beautiful within," is an ideal one. The soul that is beautiful within must recognize beauty without.

Not merely beauty that appeals to the eye. There is a beauty in the divine impulses that make man do good. We read a story the other day of a little boy and his dog—a common cur—so loved by the child that a man who realized the depth of feeling, gave him in a dog show a silver cup "for the best loved dog." It made us choke up a bit.

Not all in fiction does such beauty lie. Every little boy loves a dog and there is a tie between a proud owner and a faithful pup that no man can break. We have heard a pretty story of a youngster made happy by another lover of dogs.

J. A. Ginsburg bought his son Bobby a collie pup. In a short time (but not too short for the boy to love the dog), the puppy took sick with distemper. The family carried him to Dr. Gross to be treated.

The puppy did not get well and after about 10 days, the family decided that the only merciful thing to do was to give him chloroform and telephoned the doctor. "If that is what you want," Dr. Gross told them, "all right."

Thursday they drove out to pay the veterinarian for the treatment. Bobby went in with a swelling heart. "I wish I could see my dog," he said. "Well you can," the doctor told him. The boy's mother said nothing but wondered that Dr. Gross would take the boy to show him a dead collie. Bobby was the happiest of lads when he saw his puppy alive.

The doctor was "just nursing him along" at his own expense for the sake of the little boy who loved a dog. And Bobby will have a Scotch collie to grow up with, yet, it is believed.

Pennsylvania Due for Shock

Unparalleled Political Drive Near End

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 16. (INS)—Pennsylvania, the banner Republican state of the union, where nomination is equivalent to election, is undergoing an acute attack of party colic.

Nothing quite like it has ever been seen before—three candidates for senator, each with a chance to win; three candidates for governor—each with a chance to win—a far cry from the old days when Boise Penrose used to nominate the candidate with a well directed grunt.

The day of decision is next Tuesday and only the rashest of political prophets care to hazard an opinion as to the outcome—as to whether Francis Shunk Brown, or Gifford Pinchot, or Thomas W. Phillips will be the gubernatorial nominee; or whether Joseph R. Grundy, James J. Davis, of Francis H. Bohlen will win the senatorship.

Two Wet Entries

Phillips and Bohlen are running as out and out wets. They are running only because the other candidates declined or evaded a direct stand on the prohibition issue, which is just as hot in Pennsylvania as in other sections of the country. They are conceded only an outside chance to win, yet their candidacies may be the determining factor in the most amazing primary struggle Pennsylvania has ever witnessed.

The real contest, it is conceded, is between Brown and Pinchot for the governorship and between Davis and Grundy for the senate. Brown and Davis are allied formally and from the standpoint of organization. Pinchot and Grundy are pursuing their separate ways. Yet, the force of circumstances and of politics have thrown them together and there are many Pennsylvanians today who are planning to vote that ticket next Tuesday. Both are dry.

The Davis-Brown ticket has the advantage of having both the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia organizations ostensibly for them. In any ordinary year and under ordinary circumstances, this would be sufficient, but this is not an ordinary year, nor are these ordinary circumstances. On all sides the prediction is made that next Tuesday will see more cutting and scratching and crossing and double crossing than ever before.

Odds on Pinchot

Here in western Pennsylvania, the betting is 10 to 8 that Pinchot will win the governorship nomination, despite the fact that the Vare organization in Philadelphia is pledged to the candidacy of Francis S. Brown.

The betting on the Grundy-Davis battle is even, notwithstanding Davis support by the Vare machine and his prestige as a cabinet officer under two presidents.

There is a wholesome respect evidenced everywhere in the western part of the state for the political sagacity and resourcefulness of "Old Joe." He has and still is conducting a most vigorous campaign, and irrespective of who wins, it is conceded that there is an excellent prospect of the victor in November running afoul of the same fate that befell William S. Vare four years ago.

Vare won a smashing victory only to be denied his seat on the ground that he spent too much money to obtain it.

The present campaign in Pennsylvania is not being run on a shoe string—by any of the candidates. Bill boards and full page advertisements in the newspapers flaunt the virtues of the various candidates. There are campaign tours and nightly meetings from the Monongahela to the Schuylkill. Such activity is not gratis to any candidate.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican of North Dakota, chairman of the special committee authorized by the senate to inquire into campaign expenditures, spent Wednesday in Philadelphia and Thursday in Pittsburgh. He was "looking around," and he departed the state promising there would be a searching investigation conducted after next Tuesday.

Modern Housewife Needs Knowledge Of Business

Mrs. Northcross to Show How Study of Commercial Practices Will Aid "Purchasing Agent of Family" in Making Success of Work

Housekeeping finances will come in for constructive discussion by Mrs. Frances Northcross at The Record News and Daily Times free cooking school to be conducted next week at the Municipal auditorium.

Mrs. Northcross

It is an economic fact that the housewife spends about 85 per cent of the family income. Two items, food and equipment, aside from usual furnishings, represent a major portion of this outlay. To handle this great responsibility demands keen appreciation of values and demands every available aid in arranging a spending plan. An efficient spending plan insures an efficient saving plan, and both are dependent upon a definite budget, of which idea Mrs. Northcross is a strong advocate. Housekeeping may be divided into a multitude of departments all calling for a business-like program, with expenditures carefully scheduled. Ideas on marketing constitute an important part of the budget operation, and Mrs. Northcross will devote considerable time to advising on menu planning and economical buying.

Attire Stressed

Another important subject to be covered in these lectures is that of cheerful and self-respecting attire for housework. This matter has much to do with the housewife's state of mind and with the prevention of housework becoming a monotonous grind, as well as being another aid in balanced expenditures for clothing. Simple, colorful attire is a principle widely recognized in business offices, where women are wearing pleasing and inexpensive frocks as a protection to regular street dresses. They are trim in appearance, easily laundered and economical. Mrs. Northcross will demonstrate in her cooking school attire these principles in house dresses, uniforms and aprons, putting special emphasis on garments comfortably loose, not too long, and roomy enough to permit of easy steps about the kitchen.

A subject not ordinarily thought of as being allied with that of finances and budgets, is diets for those who believe they are overweight or for those who plan to put on weight. In the first place, Mrs. Northcross believes the matter of reducing should be first discussed with the family physician. Too many women rely on hearsay and haphazard suggestions, very often to the serious impairment of health and abnormal expenditures for trick foods. Mrs. Northcross has a large following of women who have been put on the right track in this matter of diets through cooking school discussions of all sides of this question. The factors entering into over-weight and under-weight are handled in a scientific fashion, and simple principles made clear for use in the home according to the physician's advices in each case.

It will be readily appreciated that the cooking school will be the biggest event of the season, offering lectures of real and lasting benefit, as well as a jolly and entertaining relief from household duties. The personality, charm, and manner of discussion so characteristic of Mrs. Northcross, are combined with a broad range of suggestions valuable to any woman regardless of her particular housekeeping problems.

New Methods Shown

Two remarks overheard recently indicate the attitude of some women toward the cooking school and need some comment. One lady was heard to say, "My cooking now costs me too much, and I do not want to learn any more." There is no one in town who would profit more by Mrs. Northcross' talks than that lady, and she would soon learn that the cooking school ideas are first designed to effect economies.

Another remark was, "I have been keeping house for 20 years, and I don't think I need to learn how to cook." The cooking school does not and could not undertake to teach in four lectures the art of cookery, but there are innumerable little hints, gathered by Mrs. Northcross from many women who have been cooking 20 years or more and from others who have been cooking less than a year, and those little hints are valuable to anyone, regardless of how long or how proficient they may be in their housekeeping job. Cooking school classes are not looked upon as gatherings of novices, but as conference of progressive women to exchange ideas, exactly as experienced business men get together to exchange business ideas.

A simple precaution to make this cooking school of individual and special benefit is to begin now to prepare some questions. Mrs. Northcross carefully explains many angles of time and labor-saving devices, diets, marketing, entertaining, but some phase vital to some individual may be omitted, and a question will bring it out, often to the benefit of everyone present. These questions may be written on blanks to be provided at the hall and answered daily from the platform, provided they pertain to cookery or household economics.

Since everybody will be welcome and no tickets required for admission, many women are planning now with their friends and neighbors to attend all sessions. Some of them are going to take a loaded market basket gift or some dainty, prepared by Mrs. Northcross each afternoon, and on Friday many women are going to be delighted with handsome major gifts contributed by Wichita Falls merchants and of real value and utility in the home.

The opening day will be on next Tuesday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, and doors of the Memorial auditorium will be open at 1 o'clock. Please remember to bring pencil and notebook.

It is going to be a decidedly interesting and instructive occasion.

MOODY SHOWN AS 'PIVOT MAN'

For or Against Governor Appears as Trend

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, May 16.—For or against Moody. That is the story of the 15-sided governor's race now, if a 10 per cent random check among over 400 accredited delegates to the Lions state convention in Austin is typical of the state as a whole.

Out-of-town Lions only were "tagged" in the straw poll.

Governor Moody's name will bear the brunt of a whole campaign: This and the very marked indecision as to candidates among the list of his opponents were features of the response.

Those for Governor Moody are for him against the field. Those against him are for some one or another of the 14 rival candidates as against the present governor—many yet undecided whom they will support. Some of those questioned were still looking to other entries for their first choice.

Some of those listing themselves as "noncommittal," and some of those "undecided" indicated their probable ultimate support of Governor Moody, in that they were not "for" anyone else now.

Lingering doubt in some minds that Governor Moody finally will be in the race accounted for some of the noncommittal votes.

Expressions listed both opinions as to the leading candidate and personal preferences, in about 50-50 measure.

Here are the figures:

Five—Governor Moody for first choice.

One—Governor Moody high candidate, without expressing choice.

One—Moody probably high; lots of opposition to third term.

One—Anybody to beat Moody.

Four—Undecided as to outcome or preference.

Twelve—Noncommittal. "Don't know," etc.

One—Nobody so far in race will be high.

One—Nobody assured of leading in San Antonio.

Five—Earle B. Mayfield.

One—Dallas not assured to any candidate.

Prize Winner

"Mary Jo was troubled with constipation," says Mrs. T. D. McGinnis, 1028 Drexel Ave., San Antonio. "She was sallow and bilious; didn't have any appetite; couldn't digest her food.

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that. It regulated her bowels quickly; improved her appetite and digestion. She has improved right along until friends say she's a regular prize-winner for health."

Mothers by thousands praise California Fig Syrup. Physicians endorse it. Its rich, fruity flavor appeals to children; its pure vegetable goodness is safe for any child. The prompt relief it brings bilious, headachy, constipated children lasts; because it helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach. Next time bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness warn of constipation, try it with your child and see how it helps!

When buying, look for the name California! That marks the genuine, famous for 50 years.—Adv.

Grace Sironcha Class Has All-Day Meeting

Members of Grace Methodist Sironcha Sunday school class held their regular meeting Friday in the form of an all-day social session at the home of Mrs. I. W. Karrenbrock on Ninth street.

A delightful casserole luncheon was served at noon after which the members sewed until 2:30 when a business meeting was called.

Texas Mob Rule
Teetotaler Masefield
Wealth and Need
Lipton's Great Secret

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Infuriated mobs, capturing a town in India, tie three policemen together, soak their uniforms with kerosene and then burn the men to death. But we do not have to go out of our own country to read about similar barbarism. Rioting mobs in Texas, determined to lynch a negro before his trial, attack the $60,000 courthouse in which he is held prisoner, burn the place down and the negro with it. His body is taken from the ruins and dragged through the streets. The national guard is attacked and besieged in a reign of terror until troops get the upper hand. All this happens in the city of Sherman, known as the "Athens of Texas," which probably thinks that the mobs in India are terrible.

John Masefield, England's new poet laureate, who was once a porter in a Greenwich Village saloon, turns down the traditional butt of sack, a keg of fine Canary wine, which goes with the office. He says he doesn't like the taste of wine but likes its appearance. He prefers to be stimulated by his own feelings, having been a tee-totaler for 25 years. Poets of the past would not have agreed with him. The poet who wrote, "wine, whose lusty blood is the learned poet's food," did something more than merely look at it.

"Old wood to burn, old wine to drink," said Bacon. Washington Irving, probably after drinking a good beaker, wrote, "It is a good wind that blows a man to his wine." Even Diogenes gave some thought to it with the sentiment: "I like best the wine drunk at the cost of others." St. Paul also had his own ideas on the subject, saying something prohibitionists will not quote. Good wine has not injured Mr. Masefield's works. He produced his finest output long before he became a teetotaler.

Good can come from wealth when it is in the right hands. A half million dollars are needed to rebuild the recently burned Irvington House for Cardiac Children and Mr. S. W. Straus, president of the Straus National Bank and Trust company, who heads the finance committee of the campaign, announces that already $142,000 in subscriptions have come in. Mr. and Mrs. Straus have donated $30,000, as have Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Schulte. A steady stream of checks in five figures are swelling the fund, helping a good cause and exemplifying the fine civic spirit of New York's citizens.

Interviewed on his yacht, on his 80th birthday anniversary, Sir Thomas Lipton says: "Do not call me an old man because I am young and from now on I am going to be like the old ladies who count backward." His eyes twinkle as he looks forward to the Shamrock V's race. "We are going to lift the America's cup this year," he asserts. Good sportsmanship has kept Sir Thomas young. The secret of his happy life today might be found in five words from Dryden: "Age but tastes, youth devours."

Prof. Carlton Hayes, whose history of the United States is barred in the New York schools, says schools today are in a fearful mess. The teacher of history, he points out, is a submissive soul, with little initiative. But what can the good professor expect from a system which forces teachers to live on wages which do not even cover the bare necessities of life? The average school teacher in New York is so harassed and overworked that she is practically a nervous wreck. Children are not taught today as they were 25 years ago. Rushed through their courses in bewilderment they are dumped out of the grades like so many packages mechanically tied up. And the nation is paying for this mistake.

Two direct telephone circuits, each 3,273 miles long, handle an average of 51 calls a day between New York and Los Angeles.

Abe Martin

(Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

If Ambassador Morrow's daughter had married a trapeze artist she would have had at least her forenoons on the ground. "I don't think our people generally are so set against peace. They're just naturally fed up on courts," says Hon. Ex-Editur Cale Hubart, speakin' o' the London parely.

It will be a sad blow to those who wear their derbies low to learn that a scientist has declared our ears are gradually disappearing.

"Mince pie," says Dr. Hutchinson, "is a polysachrid carbohydrate of high caloric efficiency." Especially if you eat it before going to bed.

When Drudgery Ruled

THE GROWING USE of machinery in the modern world has drawn a good many protests from men who fear that we shall get mechanized out of all likeness to normal humanity; yet it is worth noticing, perhaps, that none of these protests come from the men whose lives are actually made over by the machine.

Very likely it is true that the machine has many sins to answer for; but the critics ought never to lose sight of the one great fact in its favor—the way in which it has taken plain, age-old drudgery, of the sort that turned men into beasts of burden and made them old at 40, and pitched it forever into the discard.

That, of course, is not to say that nobody works harder than is good for him any more. But there has been a tremendous change; and perhaps the best way to understand it is to take a good look at an industrial undertaking of the old type, as it existed before this much-hated machine had come on the scene.

In the province of Szechuan, in China, there is the world's oldest oil field—a field that has been in operation for more than 2,000 years.

This oil field, as described in the current Industrial Bulletin published by Arthur D. Little, Inc., is operated today precisely as it was 20 centuries ago.

Its most important product is not oil but brine, from which salt is made. Fully a million men are employed in this vast field, at wages ranging from 15 to 25 cents a day. All of the work is done by hand. All of the machinery is made of bamboo, from pipe lines, casings and bits to the drilling cable. A big bamboo plantation is maintained to supply the material.

The wells vary in depth from a few feet to more than half a mile. All of them are drilled by hand, and it takes decades to complete the drilling of the deepest ones.

Think all of that over and you get a rather unpleasant picture—a picture of thousands upon thousands of men slaving away at back-breaking toil for a hopelessly inadequate pittance—slaving today precisely as their remote ancestors slaved 2,000 years ago.

What chance has a laborer for a decent life under conditions like those? How can he ever be anything but a drudge?

Then picture the change that would come if modern machinery were installed. Steel drills, gasoline and steam engines, modern pumps—the drudgery would vanish. A Chinese coolie from this oil field would think that the lowliest worker in an Oklahoma oil field was on a perpetual vacation.

Wickersham Thunders Against Prisons and Methods

CHAIRMAN GEORGE W. WICKERSHAM is on the front page and in the big picture most of the time. He appeared before the American Law institute and thundered against the nation's method of keeping criminals, "under augmented penalties in conditions which cry aloud to high heaven."

Chairman Wickersham as president of the institute assailed as fundamentally wrong the entire method of dealing with criminal offenders in the United States. He asserted the present day practice of endeavoring to prevent crime by augmented penalties was based upon a fallacy that has time and again been demonstrated.

Chairman Wickersham should visit Texas. He should make a study of the Dean law which sends a person convicted of violations of its provisions to the penitentiary from one to five years. Then he should investigate the working of the fedcral pro law which provides fines and jail penalties. In other words, in the rural districts a first offender is given a long term in the penitentiary without the benefit of the suspended sentence act.

In the large cities and very populous counties, offenders are taken before federal judges and escape with fines or jail sentences unless they are engaged in the illicit trade for the profit there is in it.

Texas' Qualified Voters

A VERY interesting statistical review of "qualified voters in Texas" has been made by the political analyst of the Dallas News. First, the Texas voting list is less than in 1928. Poll tax receipts show a drop from 1,189,604 to 1,116,432. Moreover, the record proves 65 per cent of qualified voters actually cast ballots.

Since issuance of exemptions is not required by law except in cities of 10,000 or more population, it was impossible to ascertain the exact voting strength of Texas, but information is given that the exemptions are usually about 15 per cent of the total number of poll tax receipts. If 15 per cent is added to the number of receipts issued for 1930, the total voting strength of the state is placed at 1,283,897.

In recent years the best record was made in the vote for governor in the first primary in 1926, when 65 per cent of the qualified electors went to the polls. This was 35 per cent of the total estimated eligible voting strength of the state that year, but the Hoover-Smith race brought out a little more than 50 per cent of the qualified voters. There is a vast army of Texans of voting age who are not qualified voters; they do not pay poll tax. Those over 60 do not equip themselves with exemptions on account of age. There are indications that there will be a record primary vote in July.

A Horrible Outbreak

THE LYNCHING at Sherman, Texas, seems to have been a peculiarly horrible affair. Not that any lynching is anything else, ever—but this one seems to have been one of the worst ever reported.

Texas has maintained a good record in recent years in regard to outbreaks of this kind. It is especially regrettable, therefore, to read of this tragedy. It is a very bad blot on the state's good name, discouraging to those Texans who had hoped that their state had gotten beyond this sort of thing.

Governor Moody seems to have acted with commendable promptness and firmness, but the mob was too determined to be restrained. The whole thing testifies once more to the sad fact that the "race problem" is a long, long way from being solved.

CARESSE ⚜ A Complete Novel By RUTH TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS

Caresse O'Neill, daughter of the owner of Shady Lawn Inn in the village of Riverton, is jilted by her sweetheart, Ted Branard, son of the town's wealthy banker, on the day of the wedding. Caresse insists on continuing the party which had been arranged in her honor, and telephones Billy, a New York friend, to come down and bring two other friends as escorts for Miriam Nowell and Bess Parker, her best friends. They later go to a nearby roadhouse.

A few weeks later Caresse and friends are riding on a lonely road when the car gives out of gas near the old Morton place, which they believe abandoned. They go to the house, find a lighted lamp and a grand piano, and start dancing. Suddenly the door opens and the owner, Lee Deering, enters, to confront them.

Caresse's friends slip out of the house while she tries to explain their presence to Deering, and Caresse accepts his invitation to muffins and coffee before she returns home.

Deering becomes a boarder at Shady Lawn Inn and his friendship with Caresse develops rapidly. Teddy Branard returns suddenly, and calls on Caresse. She forces him to take her to a local roadhouse as a blow at Ted's father.

The elder Branard promises Ted a new boat if he will forget Caresse, then offers Mrs. O'Neill $30,000 for the inn on condition she leave Riverton. The offer is refused.

At a birthday party for Caresse the next night, the village constable appears and informs them a complaint has been signed against them for disturbing the peace.

In court the next day the case is dismissed for lack of prosecution, Teddy forcing his father to drop the matter on the threat to "tell the truth" about the whole affair and the persecution of the O'Neills.

Caresse and Teddy elope, but the car crashes into a wall when Teddy, drunk, loses control.

Teddy is seriously injured, and Caresse loses the friendship of Deering when he smells whisky on her dress and believes she also has been drinking. Edith Leigh, former sweetheart of Deering, is invited by Mrs. Branard to Riverton to be with Teddy during his convalescence.

Caresse and her mother are ostracized by Riverton society because of the affair.

Teddy Branard returns home from the hospital, and Mrs. Branard suggests to Edyth Leigh that she would like to have her capture Teddy's love.

Teddy marries Edyth Leigh and Deering returns to the Shady Lawn inn as boarder.

They return to Riverton and Edyth attempts to renew her friendship with Deering. Teddy finds her at Deering's house and threatens to shoot the composer. Caresse goes daily to clean house for Deering and witnesses the whole affair.

Edyth and Teddy quarrel violently and Edyth flees the Branard home, pretending that she has been beaten by Teddy.

CHAPTER XVII

"Good-night Ted," said Edythe coldly, as her hand turned the knob of her door. "I hope the night will give you a chance to see things 'differently'."

She went in before him and tried to close the door. Ted's foot kept it open.

"Don't try anything more on me, Edythe!" he grouched. "I'm going to talk to you! And you're going to listen!"

Edythe shrugged as Ted followed her into the room.

"I hope you can make it snappy, Ted," she yawned, significantly. "I'm tired. I've had enough today to exhaust anyone."

"So am I tired!" snorted Ted. "Dead tired—of being made a fool of, Edythe, why did you follow that fellow just as soon as we got home? Didn't you know I was on?"

"Follow? Who? Oh, you mean Lee Deering. Haven't I the right to have friends? Does marrying you mean complete retirement? You—you are so bourgeois, Ted! But you can just understand this—that I do not mean to have you dictate to me who my friends shall be, or when I shall see them! No! Not now, nor any time! Is that plain?"

"It's getting pretty plain that I'll have to make you do as I say! I don't intend you shall see that fellow, Deering, again! Get that! I don't intend you shall make a fool of me, and that goes double! I'm going to—"

"Make me?" sneered Edythe. "Have you any idea how?"

Ted's rage was rising to fever heat. As he advanced on Edythe, he saw red.

"Men have been known to make their wives behave!" he announced, between set teeth.

"How?"

Edythe was deliberately goading her husband into a wild rage. She knew it; gloried in it. She calculated each phase of his rising anger.

Ted shoved his face near hers, his eyes blazing.

"You want to know?" he demanded. "You want me to show you?"

In her heart Edythe was exultant. Her time had come! Sooner than she had expected! She was sure that it was her psychological moment.

She tipped her chin into the air, maddeningly goading. She thrust her face closer to Ted's defiantly.

"Show me!" she demanded—look and tone a goad. "I intend to see Lee Deering whenever and as often as I wish!"

Ted could not have told how it happened. It was all so sudden. He only knew that for a moment the red filmed before his eyes, and that he struck out blindly. He felt his fingers as they flicked across his wife's soft, red, sneering lips.

His eyes were jarred open as he heard Edythe scream.

"O-o-o-o-o-oh!"

Her wail rose higher and higher and floated out across the park.

"O-o-o-o-oh! O-oh! You brute! You beast! Strike me, will you! Help! Oh, help!"

"Edythe! Edythe! For God's sake!"

Ted leapt to her and tried to catch her arm. She struck out at him and fled to a corner of the room, cowering.

"Help! Help! Oh, will nobody help me! He's hurting me! He's killing me!"

They heard the running steps of servants in the hall. There was a babble of voices, then sound of pounding on the door.

"Ted! Edythe!" they heard Cyrus Branard roar, sternly. "Open the door! At once, do you hear! What's the matter?"

It was Edythe who opened the door. She flung out her arms toward Cyrus Branard and towards the servants who clustered, awed and wide-eyed, behind him. She tottered toward them.

"Help!" she sobbed, weakly. "Help me! He's beating me! The second time he's had his brute hands on me today!"

She wiped her lips with her handkerchief, gave one hollow moan and fell in a heap at their feet.

Mrs. Branard was lumbering up the stairs as hurriedly as she could, wringing her hands and wailing almost as loudly as had Edythe herself.

"We're ruined!" she wept. "We're ruined! Oh, I know we're ruined!"

"What's the meaning of this, Ted?" demanded his father, curtly, as two of the servants leapt forward and picked Edythe up to lay her on a couch.

"It means," he said, from between tightly clinched teeth, as he glanced distastefully at his wife, "that she's one of the best actresses the world ever knew. It means more than that, too, if you want to know. It means she's found a good time to let me know she never would have married me at all if it hadn't been for the Branard money! Your money!"

Edythe moaned and opened her eyes.

For a moment she tried to pretend she was unconscious of all that had happened. Then it all seemed to come to her. She leaped to her feet, with no sign of weakness.

"Take him away!" she demanded, with a long wail. "Take him away, I say! I'm going to get out of here! Now! Understand? Now!"

"Edythe," protested Mr. Branard "do have some common sense. If you and Ted have disagreed, he'll go to his own room, and tomorrow we can thrash the matter out and have a settlement of it."

"I'm going away! Away, I tell you! Do you think I would stay under the same roof with that—with that parvenu, after he's beaten me!"

Before they quite realized her intention, Edythe had slipped by them all, and fled down the stairs. They looked at each other in silence for a moment. Then Mrs. Branard broke it.

"Teddy!" she screamed. "What have you done?" She's gone, Teddy—she's gone!"

"So she has," nodded Ted, calm as before he had been tempestuous. "Good riddance."

"But you can't let her go! Not like this! Oh, we'll all be forever mortified! The whole town will know it! The whole country! Go and get her, I say!"

"Too late," remarked Ted, carelessly, as he brushed off his coat sleeve and lighted a cigaret. "She's half way to her lover by now."

Outside the front door, Edythe paused for the breath she needed after the dramatic scene she had just put over. She did not pause too long. She had no intention that her plans should be thwarted. She ran down the steps and did not stop until she had reached the main highway.

As the first car passed, she ran into the road and stopped the motorists. They pulled in, surprised at the vision of the beautiful woman standing there in the glare of the headlights, her bare shoulders rising out of her silvery evening gown like marble against the night green of the trees.

"Oh, help me, won't you, please?" she begged. "I—I can't explain, but won't you—please!—take me down to the Shady Lawn Inn? I must go somewhere at once, and I've heard that is a nice, quiet homelike place."

It was a credit to the politeness of the motorists that they asked no questions as they drove her where she wished to go. It was not until two days later, when they read an account of the break-up between the young Branards, that they knew who had been their guest.

Mrs. O'Neil was awakened by the insistent ringing of the front door bell. Caresse did not wake until she heard voices in the upstairs hall—her mother's and the high, hysterical voice of a strange woman. She heard her mother soothing, trying to calm the stranger.

"And if you'll only take me in tonight," Caresse heard, "I'll never forget it. Oh, I can't tell you what I've been through! It was brutal! Brutal!"

Caresse heard her mother retreating with the guest to the big front bedroom. The woman kept on talking. Caresse could not hear much that was said, but knew the woman was telling of some domestic difficulties. She hoped mother would not get herself into more trouble by taking in anyone so late at night who——

Mrs. O'Neill tiptoed into Caresse's room and carefully shut the door. Caresse was sitting up in bed, with the shaded night-light beside her bed turned on.

As nearly as she could, Mrs. O'Neill repeated the hysterical tale Edythe had poured out to her. Caresse did not interrupt to ask questions. She only nodded occasionally as her mother went along.

"Moma," she said, quietly, "I'm sorry for Ted."

Mother sat bolt upright.

"Well, I do declare to goodness, C'resse O'Neill! Sorry for him! And him doing all he has to you! For the land's sake!"

Caresse threw her arms about her mother and hugged her tight.

"Oh, lady love!" she cried exuberantly. "Don't you understand? I'm telling you I'm sure I don't love Ted any more! I could not love him, and be sorry for him!"

The Record News Offers A Booklet on Housecleaning Made Easier

Keeping dirt out of the house, or what is termed "preventive" housecleaning, is a year-round problem that is exaggerated in the spring and summer when windows and doors are open much of the time, and to keep clean rather than to make clean is a thoroughly practical working principle.

This is but one of many subjects discussed by experts of the federal department of agriculture in the booklet, Housecleaning Made Easier, which our readers can now secure through our Washington bureau.

Fill out and send in this coupon, enclosing ten cents in coin or stamps to cover return postage and handling.

POSTAL LEASE INQUIRY FORMS

Investigators Prepare to Blow Off Lid

WASHINGTON, May 16. (INS)—A three-way investigation into 6,000 postal station leases throughout the country calculated to produce "another Teapot Dome," according to its sponsors, was in the making today.

With an inquiry already authorized by the senate, Representative Williamson, Republican of South Dakota, chairman of the committee on expenditures, planned to introduce a resolution in the house conferring the same authority on his committee.

At the same time, Representative Maas Republican of Minnesota, who set the wheels in motion, disclosed the federal trade commission already has men in the field checking up bond issues on the buildings.

Warm Fight Expected

A first class row between senate and house was in prospect as well as a grilling for the postoffice department.

The house is justified in proceeding despite the senate's action because it started an "under cover" inquiry two weeks before Senator Blaine Republican of Wisconsin obtained senate authority, declared Williamson who has the backing of his committee.

While the senate authorized $10,000 for the investigation, Williamson proposed to give the house committee $25,000. He would authorize the committee to detail a sub-committee to carry the investigation into every part of the country during the summer.

Maas welcomed all inquiries, declaring it will be shown that during the past 20 years the postoffice department has made long-time contracts for rent of postal buildings especially constructed, at exorbitant rents.

"So far as our committee is concerned we expect to go into everything," said Williamson. "We began work two weeks before the senate did, and while there would be a certain amount of duplication we feel fully justified in taking the action."

Records Checked

"I welcome all of the investigations—there's plenty to find," declared Maas. "The federal trade commission has got men out checking records to see whether it was represented, in the sale of securities, that they had the backing of the government, or were in fact government guaranteed.

"Altogether 6,000 leases have been made, and 1,200 are of major proportion, in large cities. Over $150,000,000 in bonds has been issued to cover cost of erection. One man admits having 27 leases and another has made 20 of them. Some of them go back to Postmaster-General Burleson's time.

"A condemnation jury in St. Paul has just made an award of $334,000 for the commercial postal station, one of the leases on which exorbitant rentals were paid. The owners claimed it was worth $1,200,000.

Postmaster-General Brown said his appraisers valued it at $678,000. "The postmaster-general sent a man to St. Paul, who became the star witness against the government. But the result is a complete victory for the government," Maas asserted.

Nothing Fishy About This Fish Story

Here's a steeplechase fish that actually leaps the hurdles—and it isn't just another "fish story," either. This queer "walking fish" recently exhibited at a Chicago sportsmen's show actually does move over the ground, stand erect and jump—and if you doubt it, here's the camera's evidence. These fish are found in small streams in India and Egypt and have been known to travel long distances overland.

FRESH AIR IS ALL RIGHT IN ITS PLACE...

—but it's really unnecessary to pay for it, especially when you buy soap. A big airy package of some sort of soap bubbles may be all very well, but don't let it make you think that it contains more soap than White King's compact carton.

For White King is nothing but the purest vegetable-oil soap made, granulated for convenience. It packs like powdered sugar, so you can be sure you're buying a condensed soap, free from air and unnecessary moisture. And White King is so fine in quality that it's safe for the sheerest lingerie, effective for the heaviest blankets.

The economy of White King Granulated Soap is surprising. A teaspoonful for the wash basin or dish-pan, a cupful for the washing machine. Sold by your grocer.

Dal-Paso Association to Meet at Carlsbad

Special to the Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, May 16.—Seeking federalization of the Dal-Paso Caverns highway, which runs between Dallas and El Paso by way of the Caverns near Carlsbad, N. M., delegates, officers and directors of the association fostering the highway will convene at Carlsbad Thursday, June 12, for their fourth annual meeting. This is the first time the association has met on the west end of the cave route.

Date for the meeting was settled two weeks ago when O. B. Thrane of Snyder, president of the Dal-Paso Coverns Highway association, and Wm. A. Wilson of Lamesa, secretary, met at Gail. Carlsbad was decided on as the convention city with the possibility that the meeting will be held in the caverns. The novelty of this great natural curiosity serving as a convention hall will in all probability draw the largest attendance of any previous convention.

Delegates from cities along the Dal-Paso highway will meet with county judges of counties over which the route passes when the conclave is held.

Election of officers of the association will also be made during the meeting, Wilson stated. Present officers in the association are O. P. Thrane, Snyder, president; W. H. Cook, Breckenridge, firse vice president; R. W. Pittman, Seminole, second vice president; J. D. Langford, Albany, treasurer; Wm. A. Wilson, Lamesa, secretary.

Directors in the organization are J. J. Steele, Anson; G. B. King, Albany; W. V. P. Baker, Lamesa; F. W. Holder, Breckenridge; J. S. Connely, Roby; and T. C. Horn, Carlsbad.

The director said that of the remainder 35 per cent expected no substantial change, and the other 12 per cent looked for worse conditions.

MAGNOLIA SOCONY MOTOR OIL

{PARAFFINE BASE}

No other nine words could more fully describe the super lubricating qualities of Magnolia Socony Motor Oil (Paraffine Base) than. . . New life for old motors—longer life for all.

Old motors find new life . . . new pep . . . new vitality, when their owners change to to Magnolia. New motors get off to a healthy long life when their first baptism of service is preceded by an introduction to a crankcase full of Magnolia Socony Motor Oil.

So, old and new motors, alike, find a life-long friend in this super lubricant. Life-long because Magnolia's capacity for punishment is amazing . . . keeps its viscosity and lubricating qualities under conditions that other oils can't stand. Magnolia's "Adsorption" or ability to penetrate into metal and stay there is an extra protection you get against dry motor from a cold start.

Your motor needs this one friend. Take it to the familiar Magnolia Sign and let the attendant fill your crankcase with the proper grade of Magnolia Socony Motor Oil.

RECIPES FOR SUNDAY MENU

Pineapple Bouillon

To three cupfuls of boiling water add the juice of two lemons and the grated pulp of one pineapple (canned pineapple juice may be used), reserving a few slices of the fruit to be served in the soup. Add six tablespoonfuls of sugar and simmer gently for 10 minutes. Then strain through a fine sieve, again bring to the boiling point and thicken with one tablespoonful of corn starch mixed in two tablespoonfuls of cold water. Cook 15 minutes. Remove from the fire, chill and serve with a few pieces of sliced pineapple in each cup. Pineapple bouillon is cool and most refreshing. Serve the soup in tall thin glasses, in bouillon cups which have been chilled in the refrigerator, or in glass grapefruit sets in which a small bowl is set in a larger container filled with ice. If canned pineapple juice is used, omit the water.

Mignon Fillets of Beef

Mignon fillets may be broiled, saute'd or baked, or bound with a thinly cut strip of bacon and broiled or baked. Season with butter, salt and pepper. Instead of the butter sauce maitre d'hotel butter might be used. It is made by creaming one-fourth cup butter and adding one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half tablespoon finely chopped parsley, three-fourths tablespoon lemon juice. This butter may be served on beefsteak, meat cakes or fillets of beef which have been broiled.

Golden Ball Potatoes

Boil small Irish potatoes until tender, remove skins, roll in flour which has been seasoned with salt and pepper and drop in deep hot fat. Fry until a golden brown and serve at once. This is a good way of using small potatoes.

Bombe Glace

Wash and hull one quart strawberries; sprinkle with one cup sugar; mash, cover and let stand for two hours. Rub through a sieve and dilute with one cup cold water. Add a few grains salt and lemon juice to taste. Freeze this strawberry ice in the usual way and use to line an ice cream mold or baking powder cans. Fill center with vanilla ice cream or whip one cup cream, sweeten with one-fourth cup powdered sugar, flavor with three-fourths teaspoonful vanilla and add one-half cup dry meringues broken in pieces or one-half cup macaroon crumbs or a few chopped nuts. Put in center of mold, cover with oil paper and with metal cover; pack in three parts ice mixed with one part salt or place in the freezing compartment of an electric refrigerator and let stand three or four hours. If ice and salt are used, dip a ninch strip of cloth in fat and seal mold with it.

Tuna Aspic Salad

Two tablespoonfuls gelatin.
One cupful cold water.
Two cupfuls hot water.
One teaspoonful salt.
Eight tablespoonfuls sugar.
One-fourth cup vinegar.
Juice of one lemon.

Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Add rest of the ingredients. When the jelly is beginning to harden, add the tuna salad mixture which is composed of two cupfuls tuna fish, one-half cupful diced celery, one-half cupful diced sweet pickles. Chill until firm and serve on crisp lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

Ice Box Cake

One-half pound Graham crackers, rolled.
Three-fourths cupful dates, chopped.
One-fourth cup raisins, chopped.
One cup heavy cream.
One cup marshmallows, cut.
One cup walnuts, chopped.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.

Add all ingredients to crackers, adding the cream last. Mix thoroughly to moisten all the cracker crumbs. Pack in molds lined with waxed paper. Place in the refrigerator for 12 hours. Slice and serve with or without whipped cream. Serves six.

It's Strawberry Time

May is strawberry time. Strawberry shortcake and au natural are the popular methods of serving strawberries but there are a number of simple and easily prepared strawberry recipes that are in the de luxe class.

As a first course at any meal, what is more decorative than large luscious strawberries with their hulls on, served on a fruit plate around a mound of sifted confectioner's sugar. To have this mound smooth and attractive make a cone of stiff paper about one and one-half inches long; pack sugar in firmly and then invert on the plate and remove the paper. For variety, sections of grapefruit or orange may alternate with strawberries.

Ready-to-eat cereals or the more dainty cooked cereals are delicious with fresh strawberries and cream. Molds of cornstarch pudding, gelatin or boiled rice may be served with berries, sliced and sugared.

The following recipes are suggested for variety, since they are especially delicious combinations.

Marshmallow and Strawberry Puff

One cupful ripe strawberries.
Two egg whites.
One teaspoonful orange or pistachio flavoring extract.
One cupful heavy cream.
One-half cupful finely cut marshmallows.
Sugar.

Chill the cream and whip until stiff; fold in the whipped egg white and sweeten to taste. Sprinkle the strawberries and marshmallows through the cream. Chill and serve in sherbet glasses.

Strawberry Mallow

Two tablespoons sugar.
Twenty marshmallows.
One-fourth cup water.
One and one-half cup crushed strawberries.
One cup double cream.

Add sugar to strawberries. Heat marshmallows with water in a double boiler until they are soft. Add to the berries and cool. Fold in cream and pour in the tray of an electric refrigerator or pack in ice and salt for three hours, using equal parts of ice and salt. Serves six.

Strawberry Delight

One quart ripe strawberries.
One-half cupful pearl tapioca.
One cupful boiling water.
One cupful cold water.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
Two egg whites.
Two cupfuls sugar.
One cupful pineapple juice.
One cupful heavy cream.
Two tablespoonfuls orange-flavored gelatin.

Soak the tapioca in the cold water overnight or for three hours. Add the salt to the boiling water, then the tapioca and simmer until transparent. Remove from the fire and stir in the sugar and gelatin that has been dissolved in one-fourth cupful water, (cold). Cook about three minutes over the fire, storring constantly. Partly cool before adding the pineapple juice (crushed pineapple might be used). Chill and beat until light; add the egg white stiffly beaten; stir in crushed berries. Whip the cream and fold it in. Chill and serve in sherbet glasses, topping with a whole strawberry. This amount will serve 12 people.

Strawberry Custard Pie

One and one-half cupfuls ripe strawberries sprinkled with sugar.
One-half cupful heavy cream.
Powdered sugar.
One and one-half cupfuls sweetened boiled custard.
Four tablespoonfuls grated coconut.

Place the strawberries in bottom of a previously baked pie crust and pour over them the custard, which should be just a bit sweeter than for ordinary custard. Sprinkle with the coconut; cover the pie with the cream that has been whipped and sweetened with the powdered sugar. A little vanilla flavoring may be added to the cream if desired. Garnish with a few whole berries. Serve soon after the ingredients are combined.

Strawberry Ice With Vanilla Ice Cream

One quart crushed strawberries.
One orange.
One and one-half cupfuls sugar.
One cupful pineapple juice.
One lemon.
Three cupfuls water.
Vanilla ice cream.
Red fruit coloring.

Add one cupful of the water to the sugar and cook for 10 minutes; remove from fire and cool; add to this the crushed strawberries and the juice of the pineapple, lemon and orange; add the remainder of water and mix well. (This may be strained if desired). Turn into a freezer and freeze. Fill sherbet glasses half full of this mixture; then draw it up against the sides of the glass with a spoon, leaving a well in the center. Fill this center with a cone of ice cream and top with a whole strawberry. This combination is delicious and attractive. The strawberry ice may be colored slightly to make it a pretty pink. This ice may be served alone if desired.

Strawberry Mousse

One pint ripe strawberries.
One cup sugar.
One pint double cream.
One and one-half tablespoonfuls gelatin.
Two tablespoonfuls cold water.
One-fourth cup boiling water.

Stem, wash and mash berries; add the sugar, let stand one hour and rub through a sieve. Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. When it begins to thicken, add the whipped cream. Put in the pan of an electric refrigerator or pack in ice and salt for three hours.

Strawberry Mayonnaise Salad

Two cups fresh strawberries, hulled, washed and sliced.
One-half cup sugar.
One package lemon jell-o.
One cup boiling water.
One teaspoon vinegar.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Strawberry juice, drained from the berries plus cold water to make one-half cup.
Two tablespoonfuls mayonnaise.
Two tablespoonfuls double cream, whipped.

Combine strawberries and sugar and let stand one hour; drain. Dissolve jell-o in boiling water and pour over berries. Add vinegar, salt, and strawberry juice and water. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in combined mayonnaise and whipped cream. Turn into molds. Chill until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves garnished with whipped cream to which a little mayonnaise has been added. Serves six.

Strawberry Salad

One-half cupful strained honey.
Two egg yolks.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
One-fourth teaspoonful paprika.
One tablespoonful lemon juice.
One cupful double cream.
One cupful cream cheese.
Two tablespoonfuls cream.
One quart strawberries.

Bring honey to boiling point, pour slowly, while beating constantly, onto egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored. Cook one minute; remove from fire and stir occasionally until cool. Add salt, paprika, lemon juice, and cream beaten until stiff. Moisten cheese with the two tablespoonfuls of cream, shape like strawberries, using buttered hands and sprinkle with paprika. Arrange cheese and strawberries on lettuce and pour honey dressing around them.

Strawberry Cocktail

Select large perfect berries and cut them in halves, saving every particle of juice. For four portions use a pint box of ripe berries and add the juice and pulp of one large orange, three tablespoonfuls of honey, the juice of one lemon and four tablespoonfuls of shaved (not chopped) ice. Put in cocktail glasses and insert a sprig of mint in each.

Strawberry Preserves

One quart strawberries, three cupfuls sugar, one-half cupful strained strawberry juice. Place the strawberries with the juice obtained from a previous cooking and sugar in a pan; then set into a basin of hot water and let the water boil until the sugar is dissolved. Shake the pan occasionally but do not stir as the berries break easily. Use the back of a wooden spoon for stirring if necessary. When the sugar is entirely dissolved, set the pan on the stove and cook gently 10 minutes, then pour into a shallow dish or granite or aluminum pan to cool quickly, as quick cooling seems to help the preserves. Let stand 24 hours, then pack cold into jars which have been boiled and cover with lids which have been sterilized. It is not necessary to heat the preserves. During the cooling period, however, they should be kept where they are not exposed to dust. The shallow trays may be put into the refrigerator or into a closed cupboard. Equal measures of fruit and sugar may be used and the extra strawberry juice omitted.

Wichitan, 77, Bitten by Rattler, Slits Wound With Knife to Save Own Life

Unusual presence of mind probably saved the life of W. T. Knight, 77-year-old father of Mrs. Ed Waggoner of this city, when he was bitten by a large rattlesnake about noon Wednesday while walking about the hills west of the city near Mrs. Waggoner's home just beyond Indian heights.

Mr. Knight was carrying a gun and had gone out over the fields in search of rabbits and small game when he stepped near a large rock. He heard the dry rustling sound of the rattler but too late to jump aside and the reptile fastened its fangs in his right leg.

Calmly shaking the snake from his leg, Mr. Knight shot its head off with his gun. He then took his pocket knife and carefully slit the flesh between the two tiny holes made by the poison teeth. After wrapping up the wound he walked back to the house.

Dr. G. T. Singleton was called at once and anti-venin serum was administered by puncturing the flesh all about the wound. Following this treatment a pump was fastened to the leg and for 28 hours the serum and the poison from the rattlesnake were pumped from the blood in the leg. Mr. Knight suffered no ill effects from the bite except slight nausea for a short time and was reported completely recovered Friday. It was believed his quick thought in slitting the flesh at the wound immediately after the bite prevented more serious consequences.

The snake was later found and its seven rattles and a button removed as a souvenir of the occurrence.

'Showdown' on Tariff Fails to Materialize

WASHINGTON, May 16. (US)—Taunted by Democrats that they fear to pass the bill, administration leaders in the senate today postponed until Monday the proposed "showdown" on the $1,000,000,000 tariff bill.

Virtually all the Democrats were in the chamber waiting for the expected test votes on the debenture and flexible provisions when Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, announced no action would be taken.

Old Husbands And Wives Not So Bad, Says Dorothy Dix

If Most Husbands and Wives Had It to Do Over Again Would They Marry the Same Man or Woman to Whom They Are Married Now?—Here Is One Wife Who Settled the Question for All Time.

The other day the newspapers told the story of a woman who thought that she preferred another man to her husband. Or did she? It is so difficult to know who is your real affinity in these modern times. Both men had their charms and virtues. Both appealed to her.

Therefore, being unable to determine which of them she really loved the better, she decided to solve the situation by a trial marriage with the gentleman who had the earmarks of being a soulmate, but after three months of it she returned home completely cured of her infatuation and convinced that old husbands are best, after all.

Here is a modern answer to the old query: If you had it to do over again, would you marry the woman or the man to whom you are married? Most husbands and wives, if asked that question, would answer in chorus: No! Jamais! Never! Not on your life! But all them would march up to the altar with their Amandas and Johns.

The man looks at his plain, commonplace, stout, middle-aged Amanda, who can put on a Paris frock and make it look as if it came out of a rummage sale, and whose conversational line is about as intriguing as sterilized milk, and he is very sure that if in some miraculous way her wedding ring could be painlessly removed from her finger without causing her any discomforts, never on earth would he put it on again.

No, indeed. Some slim, peppy young flapper for him, who would be a treat to the eyes and look like a million dollars when they stepped out of an evening, and who would keep him entertained and amused by her wisecracking.

And he would never again, no never, let himself in for having to listen to Amanda fussing about the housekeeping, and the price of groceries and have to put up with her eternal nagging about his health and his keeping his feet dry and buttoning his overcoat and keeping his diet and not lunching on pie and pork chops. Of course, Amanda is a good woman. None better. And she is a wonderful cook, and she has been thrifty and done her share in helping him to make his fortune, but, boah, enough of a good thing is enough, and Heaven is his witness that he would never take a second helping of his present wife.

And in her secret soul Amanda's thoughts run along the same lines about him. She contemplates the fat, bald-headed, triple-chinned man to whom she is married who isn't much to look at and nothing to talk to, for he spends his evenings concealed by a newspaper or listening to the radio and only grunts when he is spoken to, and she thinks that if she had it to do over again she would never marry him.

Far from it. Oh, of course, John is good and kind and he has been a fine provider and he is probably still fond of her. At least, if there is any other woman, she doesn't know about it, and he as domestic as the house cat, but there is no use in pretending that there are many thrills in living with a man who just takes you for granted and apparently regards you as a useful household convenience. Like a frigidaire or a vacuum cleaner or a gas range.

No. If she was picking out No. 2, it would be somebody who was entertaining and talkative. Somebody who would discuss her soul with her. Somebody who would know that a woman wanted something more out of life than clothes and food and a car to ride in. Somebody who would pay her compliments and notice what she had on, and when she did her hair a new way. Somebody who would make love to her and not just say it with a checkbook. No. Take it from Amanda, wild horses couldn't drag her to the altar again with John.

But if John and Amanda's marriage should be automatically dissolved it wouldn't be three weeks before they would have forgotten all their little grievances against each other and be remembering only the virtues. It wouldn't take John long to discover that his vamps were gold-diggers and his flapper silly and to contrast them invidiously with Amanda's unselfish devotion and her good, hard horse sense. And he would miss home and home comforts and home cooking and somebody to doctor his cold and rub his rheumatism, and he would discover that the society of the woman who admired him and burned incense before him was, after all, more agreeable than that of one whom he had to be continually flattering. And Amanda would begin to look mighty good to him.

And on her part Amanda would discover that a nice, solid, substantial husband who is successful in business and who doesn't have to be watched is a mighty comfortable thing to have around the house, even if he is short on conversation and shy on love-making and is grouchy and grumpy at times and has to be managed. And if John popped the question, Amanda would say "yes" even more gladly than she did the first time.

True, not all divorced couples remarry, but it is amazing how many pick out for their second wives and husbands men and women who resemble their first. And when they don't, it is generally because they remarry while they are suffering from the disillusion of their first marriages, when they wanted to get something as different from their Johns and Amandas as possible. But these marriages are seldom any more successful than their first.

For, after all, husbands and wives are all cut off the same bolt of cloth and are much of a muchness. All have their faults. All have their peculiarities. Only we know the shortcomings of those to whom we are married and are ignorant of those of strangers.

And many men and women who divorce their wives and husbands to marry those whom they believe to be their real mates wish they had their old partners back again.

Bishop Cannon Breaks Silence To Denounce Morrow's Proposal

peal of the 18th amendment last night in opening his New Jersey senatorial campaign.

"The 18th amendment was not adopted until it had become evident that any other form of federal legislation would not protect the dry sections of the country from the wet sections, and it was adopted by the largest vote ever given for a constitutional amendment," Bishop Cannon, a prohibition crusader, said in making his first public statement since he was charged with "conduct unbecoming a bishop" in connection with his participation in the last political campaign and maintaining a marginal account with Kable and company, New York brokers.

"If the manufacture and sale of intoxicants is legalized in any state, that state will become a legalized source of supply and distribution for the illicit trade throughout the country," the Virginia cleric stated.

"No federal legislation will avail to overcome the advantage of a legal status given to the liquor traffic," he said.

The espiscopacy committee, considering the stock market charge which was brought against Cannon by 21 Methodist leaders, met in executive session at 3 p. m. today. The bishop was not called to appear, however, having completed his defense against the allegation last Wednesday night.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Avoid Starches in High Blood Pressure

Question—G. McC. writes: "I have high blood pressure, and would like to know if there are any special foods to avoid which may aggravate it more than others."

Answer—It is better to avoid all foods except the acid fruits for a few days at the beginning of your treatment, as this will reduce the high blood pressure more quickly than any other dietetic method. Sometimes the patient can continue on the acid fruit diet until the blood pressure becomes normal. Following this, it is advisable to avoid the use of starches for some time. Contrary to prevailing opinion, it is not necessary to avoid meat entirely in this disorder.

Melba Toast

Question—Mrs. W. asks: "May Melba toast be used with the fruit and milk combination?"

Answer—Melba toast may be used with any other kind of food, and combines well with milk and fruit.

Salts for Punishment

Question—R. J. asks: "What do you think of giving a little 9-year-old boy epsom salts as a punishment. His mother gives it to him every time he disobeys. If this is continued will it not cause chronic constipation?"

Answer—It should never be necessary to give salts as a laxative to a child and certainly not as a punishment. This mother should read some of the latest books on child psychology.

Many Kinds of Blood Tests

Question: M. H. asks—"Will you please tell me if a test made of blood taken from the ear would disclose a disease, such as tumor or cancer, indicating just what organs are affected? Is such a test possible or plausible?"

Answer—Perhaps this may be possible some day, but not at present. Some blood tests are helpful in making a diagnosis in conjunction with a physical examination. I know the kind you inquire about, but do not consider it reliable.

SPUDDERS AGAIN TIED FOR TOP AS BUFFS WIN IN TENTH

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The Wichita Falls baseball club is going to be host to the graduating class of the Byers High school May 28, the day the Spudders return from their long road trip, Prexy William E. Huff announced Friday. The team plays Dallas here on that date.

The day has been designated as Senior class day by the Byers students, and the entire class, accompanied by the Byers superintendent of schools, G. C. Boswell, will be guests of the Spudders at the game.

W. T. Waggoner, Northwest Texas figure of great prominence, has a speedy entrant in the Kentucky Derby today, the same being a nag called Broadway Limited. It does not appear that the Southwesterner will have much of a chance against Gallant Fox, but it would certainly be a revolutionary occurrence if the Derby winner for once came out of the Southwest. The Southwest has produced stars in every other sport, even including a national champion basket ball team, but it has never been able to produce much on the race track. It would be a tremendous thing if a Texas nag could win that Derby.

An all-round athlete whom it will pay to watch during the coming football and basketball seasons is Williamson of Iowa Park. Williamson is one of the best track men in Northwest Texas. He was beat out in the 440-yard dash in the state track meet at Austin only by the strongest of competition, and at that he pulled up in second place in this event, losing first honors by one-tenth of a second. He won first places in the 440-yard run, 100-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles and broad jump in the Wichita county track meet this year and also figured in the district meet. In each running event this year he has improved his time over last year.

The youngster is not only a good track man, but a versatile worker on the gridiron and basketball court. He is co-captain of the 1930 Iowa Park Hawks, and promises to be one of the mainstays of the gridiron squad. Also he is captain of the 1931 basketball team. This year marked the first attempt at shooting goals, but he showed such proficiency that he was selected as all-county guard.

E. B. Bishop, Iowa Park coach, is expecting many things from Williamson this year.

Two Teams Play Last of Series Today

Special to The Record News

HOUSTON, Texas, May 16.—The fighting Spudders today dropped the second game of the series to the Houston Buffs in a hard fought contest that raged for 10 innings, and as a result found themselves once again tied with the Houston club for first position in the Texas league.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16. (AP)—In two hours today, the United States Davis cup tennis team chalked up three straight victories over Canada's best players and won its way into the second round of American zone competition.

Johnny Van Ryn took less than half a minute to complete the job he began yesterday and beat Dr. Jack Wright of Montreal, the Canadian captain, by total scores of 6-2, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

George Lott of Chicago next came through with a 6-2, 6-2, 8-6 decision over Marcel Rainville, agile little French-Canadian from Montreal, in a match marked by guile, change of pace, "English" on the ball, and clever placing. Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, and Van Ryn battered out a clear-cut victory over Doctor Wright and Willard Crocker of Montreal at 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

WAGGONER ENTRY GETS CHANCE IN KENTUCKY DERBY

Above are four of the more promising entrants in the Kentucky Derby. Earle Sande, premier American jockey is shown astride Gallant Fox, generally conceded the best chance to win. Broadway Limited is owned by W. T. Waggoner, Fort Worth, Texas, oil millionaire, and while it has yet to win a race, workout reports have been highly favorable and observers have declared the colt one of the fastest in the line. Col. E. R. Bradley is the owner of Breezing Thru. Sarazen II, owned by Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt of New York, has shown that it must be counted well up among the favorites.

Kentucky to Honor Lord Derby Today at Annual Race Classic

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—The greatest of American sporting spectacles—blue ribbon offering of the Blue Grass country—takes place at picturesque Churchill Downs tomorrow when 16 sleek three-year-olds compete in the 56th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Although the field will be one of the smallest in years, and the crowd as well, Kentucky is looking forward to honoring the man whose family gave the race its name—the Earl of Derby. A special carpeted pavilion has been built on the clubhouse lawn to accommodate his lordship who this evening was reported somewhat indisposed as a result of the strenuous campaign of hospitality to which he already has been subjected.

But while his lordship watches from his private pagoda, some 50,000 other racing fans, elbow to elbow down the quarter-mile of stands and lawn, will thrill to the stretch rush as the field comes drumming down the brown ribbon past the last 16th pole, and the wild, prayerful din of the shouting throngs envelops them.

Louisville Jammed

On Derby eve, with Louisville teeming with turf fans, the talk was all of the chances of Gallant Fox, outstanding favorite for tomorrow's classic, which will be ridden by Earl Sande and will carry probably one-half of all the money poured into the mutuel machines.

The big bay son of Gallahad III—Marguerite is a standout. "The Fox" as they call him may be as great a favorite as Morvich in 1922. The Southwest, the Middle West and Kentucky's own little lovely patch of West all have mustered their best to beat Gallant Fox, but the chances are stronger than ever they seemed before that it can't be done.

"If we have our shase of racing luck, I think we'll win," Earl Sande told me tonight, and that goes for most of us here in Louisville.

The track is likely to suit the bay, despite the threat of showers tonight and tomorrow morning. This afternoon the track was not lightning fast, but it had dried out nicely following the drenching rains of the earlier part of the week, and nothing short of a storm such as fell upon last year's race should produce enough mud to trouble Gallant Fox. Even in that event, there is no assurance that "The Fox" can't run in the mud; it's just that he's never been tried.

High Foot Boasted

Support for the Valley Lake stables's High Foot comes from the Chicago contingent, which is here in force although in nothing like the numbers of the last few years. The crowd, coming for the Derby by rail, air, road and boat, is smaller than for a long time, a general shortage of money, plus the fact Chicago is offering better racing than previously, being held responsible.

Support for Gone Away, in the event of mud, would come from all the easterners who are not sold upon the idea that this is Gallant Fox's Derby, for the Ziegler horse is believed to have an excellent chance if the going is sloppy.

Then there is Tannery, E. F. Prichard's good colt, which is second choice in the betting, and which will be heavily backed for the place position. There seems to be a disposition to rate this horse as the one to beat the favorite.

The picturesque Texas crowd may have a sentimental wager on the Three D's stock farm pair, Broadway Limited and Killikerry, but it would seem that these colts were just in there because their owners wanted to see their colors up in a Kentucky Derby.

As for Ned O. G. W. Foreman's horse, ridden by Jockey Mooney, might surprise them all by reversing his form of recent weeks and showing a clean pair of heels to thoroughbreds rated as his betters.

Small Field

The fact that the field will be small, with possibly not more than a dozen going to the post, should contribute to making this 56th Derby a truly run race. Gallant Fox, for one thing, has drawn No. 7 post position, which couldn't be better. The Fox is not the fastest thing on four legs away from the barrier, but given a chance to get going, he comes close to being that as far as horse racing goes.

They are due at the post tomorrow at 5 p. m., central standard time, but the throaty roar from the crowded stands, "they're off," is not likely to go rolling out across the downs much before 5:15 p. m. The new starting gates, in use for the first time at Churchill downs, are no great help as far as speed is concerned, if today's racing was any criterion. It took the starter over 20 minutes to get the field away in the debutante stakes, feature event on the card.

SHIPPERS BEAT SPORTS, 6 TO 5

Ninth Inning Tally Wins Game

BEAUMONT, Texas, May 16. (AP)—After permitting the Sports to score four runs in the ninth and tie the count, at 5-all, the Exporters took the game in the home half on two walks and an error by Stewart, giving them two straight victories over Shreveport. Green allowed only three hits in 8 1-3 innings. Manager Phelan was chased from the park in the ninth for disputing a fourth ball called by Umpire Taylor on Mullen. Score:

Glenna Collett Loses in Finals

FORMBY, England, May 16 (UP)—The British women's golf championship is not coming to the United States, after all, because Glenna Collett's fourth attempt to win the title ended in defeat today when Diana Fishwick, slender 19-year-old English girl, triumphed 4 and 3 over the American champion in the 36-hole final.

Never once during the match did Miss Collett play the kind of golf that carried her past Molly Gourlay, British champion, and husky Enid Wilson, two of tournament's outstanding players, into the final round for the second straight year.

Miss Collett won the first hole with a par 4, but lost the second hole and never thereafter was she ahead. The golden-haired English girl who smiled at the end of each hole whether she won or lost, finished the first nine, one up, and increased her lead to five up at the finish of the morning round of 18 holes. The New York girl was able to win only two holes—No. 1 and No. 6.

Five times Miss Collett used three putts on a green during the morning round, making 9 putts on two occasions, while Miss Fishwick ran down her first putt three times and used only three putts on three greens.

Despite her steady play going out in the afternoon round, Miss Collett was unable to make any gain against the machine-like play of her youthful rival and the first nine holes ended with Miss Fishwick holding her five up lead intact.

On the homeward journey, the American champion picked up two holes—No. 10 and No. 14—reducing her opponent's lead to three up, but the match ended on the 15th green when Glenna failed to sink a four-yard putt and took a 6 to Diana's 5.

Texas Aggies Beat T. C. U. Frogs, 7 to 2

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, May 16. (AP)—The Texas Aggies today defeated the Texas Christian university Horned Frog baseball nine, 7 to 2, thereby serving a severe blow to the Frog hopes of winning the conference championship. Aggie sluggers connected for four hits in the fourth to take a three-run lead and cinched the game in the eighth when they took advantage of Cox's wildness to make three hits good for four runs.

Sharkey Has Trouble Finding Sparring Mate

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 16. (US)—Close inspection of this cauliflower center failed to disclose the presence of a sparring partner for Jack Sharkey today, with the result that Jack and his wife went to New York. Sharkey wanted to box today, but there was no one present fit or willing to be on the receiving end of the Sharkey attentions.

SENATORS WHIP CHAMPS TWICE

Athletics Lose Double Bill, 5 to 3 and 4 to 0

PHILADELPHIA, May 16. (AP)—Bump Hadley and Ad Liska pitched a pair of good games for Washington's Senators today to send them into first place in the American league with victories over the Athletics in both games of a double-header. The scores were 5 to 3 and 4 to 0.

Liska, the young submarine ball pitcher, turned in the best performance, holding the world's champions to three hits in as many innings in the second game. A home run by Joe Judge in the eighth inning accounted for three Senator runs in this contest. Washington made but six hits off Earnshaw and Rommel.

In the opening contest, Washington nicked George Walberg for pairs of runs by bunching hits in the second and fourth innings, added one more off Quinn then held off a Philadelphia rally at the finish. Hadley, giving 10 hits was never in danger except in the eighth when the Athletics scored all of their three runs.

By hitting safely in both games, Sam Rice, Washington outfielder, ran his string of consecutive games to 27. Score:

Cards Defeat Cubs in Ninth

ST. LOUIS, May 16. (AP)—The Cardinals scored four runs in the ninth inning today to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 9 to 8, in the first game of the series. Although the Cardinals made 21 hits, they trailed until Douthit singled in the ninth, bringing in the tieing and winning runs.

Cuyler and Heathcote of the Cubs and Gelbert of the Cardinals hit for the circuit. Gelbert's homer was one of his five hits for a perfect day at bat. Douthit also had five hits, but he batted once more than Gelbert.

Wild Bill Hallahan, the Cardinals' starting pitcher, retired in favor of a pinch hitter after the Cubs had scored five runs in the sixth. Pat Malone was charged with the defeat and Frankhouse was credited with the victory. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 16. (AP)—Cotton was higher today with new crop month leading the advance on covering and trade or commission house buying, which appeared to be promoted by unfavorable crop advices from the Southwest and reports of further rains in Western and some central belt sections.

New October sold up to 15.08, or 26 points net higher, and closed at 15.05, while July advanced to 16.42, or 18 net higher, and closed at 16.39. The general market closed steady at net advance of 15 to 23 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 7 points. There was some selling of near months which may have been promoted by the issuance of notices amounting to about 9,000 bales.

May which had sold off to 16.08 during the early trading, advanced to 16.31 and closed at that price. New crop positions were relatively active and buying was reported on apprehensions of unfavorable weather developments over the week-end. Reports of recent storm damage in Texas and the detailed weather reports for the day showing heavy rains in Oklahoma and Arkansas contributed to the advance which carried the old December up to 15.44 or 27 points net higher and the new to 15.17 or 26 net higher.

It was estimated in the trade here that notices issued against May contracts in the various futures markets so far amounted to about 421,850 bales, including 348,000 in New York. Certificated stocks as reported to the New York cotton exchange at designated delivery points and Savannah aggregated 482,927 bales.

Port receipts today, 11,401. U. S. port stocks, 1,670,686. Exports, 11,827, making 6,396,840 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 16. (AP)—The weather dominated cotton in today's moderate trading. The weather map showed general showers over the belt with more rain in the western belt where it was not wanted. While July advanced only 9 points during the morning October gained 21 points and December 27. During the afternoon there appeared to be some demand for July, and that month rallied reaching 16.08 or 21 points above the previous close. New crop months continued in demand and made highs 28 to 29 points above the previous close. The general market closed steady at net advances of 16 to 23 points.

Liverpool came in 2 to 9 points better than due and first trades showed gains of 4 to 6 points. Prices advanced after the start, and new crop months developed particular strength while July was rather sluggish advancing only 9 points to 15.96. Short Covering Sends Stocks Higher At Close of Quiet Market Session

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 16. (US)—Stocks closed higher as a result of short covering at the close of the quietest session in many months today. Trading was almost entirely confined to operations of floor traders and they reported, after the close, that it was almost impossible to make any kind of profit. There was no important trade news and while the reduction brokers loans was stressed in some quarters it failed to bring in any outside demand so that total trading amounted to only a little over 2,000,000 shares. Steel advanced 1⅝, Radio 1½, American Can 2½, New York Central 2⅝, Atchison 2, Allegheny 1, Southern Railway 3, Foreign Power 1⅛, United corporation 1⅛, Vanadium 4¾, while other active stocks held to narrow range. Call money ruled at 3 per cent throughout.

The Utility people are expecting big times this summer. With congress on vacation they believe they can put through several mergers and some other deals that might arouse too much talk if carried out at this time. In some quarters it is believed that one of the most important steps will be offer of exchange of Niagara Hudson stock for Consolidated Gas shares. There was talk also of the Brooklyn Union-Consolidated Gas combine being put through but those who have been most correct on this affair in the past do not expect any definite action for several months. Increased demand for United Light & Power stocks was said to reflect expectation of another amalgamation. The terms of the United corporation offer for stock of Columbia Gas were about as expected.

Many active professionals remain more inclined to sell them than to buy. The majority believe that the list as a whole will remain in a sagging trading condition for the next several weeks while the "weak sisters" will reflect poor earnings, etc., by reaching lower levels.

Although there has been constant picking away at Timken there has not been much impression made in the way of forcing liquidation but reports of disappointing earnings continue in circulation. There is a large short interest in General Electric also on the theory that it is selling too far out of line with the rest of the list. Celotex benefited from the rush of short covering when it became evident that the "receivership action" was entirely a stock market move.

There are good scale orders in for Can, Forster Wheeler, Loews and a few others but so long as Steel continues to show disinterest on the part of the most powerful bankers it will prove difficult to attract a following. Vanadium remains in strong hands and the closest possible watch is being kept on the market. Large holders are confident that material increase in earnings will be derived through the new Virginia property. There was further talk of coming split-up of Eastman Kodak. The company is in a position to split the shares on a five-for-one basis and to make larger return to stockholders on the new stock. There is expectation that Loews dividend will be advanced in the near future. Raskob interests are said to have taken a position in Cosden Oil.

The $67,000,000 reduction in brokers' loans was regarded as bullish but it wasn't. When borrowings are increasing that amount and more weekly it will represent feeling on the part of the public that will be bullish both on the stock market and business. The reduction last week evidences liquidation because of the nervousness over business conditions which is due almost entirely to the action of the stock market itself. Those who talk the most of the danger in brokers' loans realize that so long as there is good collateral behind such borrowings and no money is being taken away from business on such account, there is no reason the brokers' loans should be a market factor at all.

Sterling and other exchanges turned more irregular in quiet trading. Cotton rallied slightly due to week-end evening up of commitments. Wheat and other grains showed more strength also due to covering.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP)—Big export business, together with indications of irreparable crop damage in southern and southwestern Kansas, did a good deal to send the wheat market soaring today. It was estimated that during the last two days 3,000,000 bushels of North American wheat has been bought for shipment overseas. Highest prices here since April 29 were reached today for wheat, and a burst of activity carried corn also to the topmost level in some time.

Closing quotations on wheat were 2¼@3½c a bushel over yesterday's finish. Corn closed 2¼@2⅝c up, oats ⅛@1c advanced, and provisions varying from 25c decline to a rise of 2c.

A forecast of frost tonight in the Northwest, together with reports of light frosts already in parts of Iowa and Missouri, had a particularly bullish effect on corn. Besides, receipts of corn were scanty, only 43 cars in Chicago today, compared with 110 cars a week ago. Oats went higher with wheat and corn.

In the provision market lard was firm, but meats suffered a decided drop.

Closing indemnities: What—July $1.05 @1.05⅛, 1.07⅛@1.07⅜; Sept. $1.07⅛, $1.10⅛; Dec. $1.12⅛@1.12⅝, $1.15⅛. Corn—July 80⅞@81c, 83c, Sept. 82⅛@82⅛c, 84⅛@84⅛c, Dec. 76⅛c, 78⅝@78⅛.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, May 16. (US)—The sudden elimination of much of the bearish sentiment in the wheat trade has brought to light the fact that conditions are more favorable for the holder than has recently been supposed. Those who predicted the reversal in sentiment look for the bulge to extend somewhat farther.

There was a more active commission house demand for corn today and trade in this cereal broadened out as perceptibly as business in wheat. Local professionals were apparently of the opinion that further advances would bring out increased country offerings.

Russian news while somewhat vague was considered bullish inasmuch as all reports received indicate seeding behind expectations with the general opinion that the total would be less than anticipated earlier.

Weather in Europe is still cold and wet and cables today said there were reports from France of urgent need for warm weather.

Broomhall says: "The trade was astonished by forecast of extremely small Argentine shipments this week and it developed that no wheat whatsoever cleared from there for England. Merchants and millers stocks in the United Kingdom have diminished considerably during the past few weeks and are now only about what they were this time last year."

LEASE SUIT UP TO BOBBITT

Attorney General Alone to Decide Action

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, May 16.—The attorney general's department alone will decide whether to bring suit to recover $12,000,000 Crane county oil lands and its oil for the University of Texas, setting aside a former court decree that gave it to the public school fund, Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt said here.

It has not so far reached a decision to bring the suit, Bobbitt said.

It will take whatever action may be taken as the representative not only of the university permanent fund, but of the public school permanent fund as well, Bobbitt said.

His department will maintain absolute control of any proceedings, despite the presence of a firm of lawyers retained by the university regents to assist it, General Bobbitt said. This firm was employed at a maximum ultimate fee of $50,000.

Pleadings recently were filed in district court here seeking to perpetuate testimony and permit taking of depositions in connection with the case. The pleadings were signed by the special counsel, but Bobbitt said they were filed by his department.

The university regents have asked that suit be brought in behalf the university for title to land formerly awarded in the Gulf Production company case to the public school fund, and under lease to Landreth Production corporation, and for royalty on oil already produced.

GRAHAM MEN TO PUSH CLAIM

Nash and Windfohr Seek Oil Rights on Railroad

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, May 16.—Nash and Windfohr, Graham operators, plan a suit for oil rights on the Rock Island right of way in Young county, on which J. E. Moncrief has been granted a drilling permit, James P. Nash said here today.

The proposed well is to be 227 feet from the Nash & Windfohr McCloud discovery well, and directly between this and another well by the same people across the railroad track.

Nash & Windfohr's suit will be on the strength of a lease he has secured from the original holders of the right of way, and on which he will claim that the railroad had only an easement right and not possession of the minerals underneath.

Nash said he will not try to stop Moncrief's drilling the well, but has put Moncrieft on notice of his own claim, so that if his contention is upheld in court, Moncrief in effect will be drilling the well for Nash rather than for Amon G. Carter and associates, who hold a lease on the same tract from the railroad company.

Charges Against Oil Man Dismissed

NEW YORK, May 16. (AP)—Charges of being a fugitive from justice from Fort Worth, Texas, were dismissed today against Irwin Toumanianz, 48, former oil man and one time American representative of the Russian Imperial government.

Toumanianz was alleged to have cashed a worthless check for $1,400 at a Fort Worth hotel last Feb. 12, but the court held the evidence was insufficient. Prior to the world war Toumanianz was said to have controlled vast oil holdings in South America and the United States. He is now a New York "oil expert."

The old Polish state was a monarchy, but in the 15th century Poland developed representative institutions, so that she became one of the three European nations which first adopted the system of legislation by representation.

NEW MEXICO RANCH FOR SALE
Fifty-three acres of land on the west bank of the romantic Rio Grande del Norte, the opposite bank to the wonderful state highway between Taos and Santa Fe, 50 miles from Santa Fe. Besides having a frontage of nearly half a mile on the Rio Grande, which river is becoming more and more noted for its excellent trout fishing, this property is peculiarly beautiful and one of the most remarkable sites for a home that could possibly be imagined. Numerous springs emanate from the base of the 1,000 foot cliff that backs the property on the west and furnish more than an abundance of water for any extensive orchard or garden that might be desired. It so situated that neither early or late frosts would endanger any fruit that is adaptable to this part of the country. This is also one of very few places that can possibly be purchased on the west bank of the Rio Grande. H. H. Dorman, P. O. box 903, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

RANDAL HANKS AND HOMER LEE WIN SPEAKING CONTESTS

JUNIOR C.-[illegible] TOLD OF TOUR

Final Plans for Quanah Trip Heard at Luncheon

Members of the Junior chamber of commerce devoted their semi-monthly luncheon meeting at the Kemp hotel Friday noon principally to a rally for the good will tour to Quanah and return which is scheduled for next Friday, May 23.

Behind the speakers' table, a map of the route to be traveled was suspended, with red, blue and green lights flashing the cities of Quanah, Chillicothe, Vernon, Oklaunion, Harrold, Electra, Iowa Park and Wichita Falls in constant rotation as a visual reminder of the trip for which registrations were being sought.

Bert King, attorney, was the principal speaker of the hour, and tactfully anticipated the spirit of the good will tour by delivering himself of a humorous discourse.

When to "Orate"

"Certain phases of a trip like this are very important," Mr. King said. "Singing, for instance. Those who can sing believe that singing is the most important phase of the entire occasion. But singing is not the whole success of such expeditions, even if 'Shep' does think so. There's oratory. Those of us who can't sing but who can orate know that good will oratory reaches heights never attained in the ordinary courses of life. And parading is important. I don't know what mankind would do if it couldn't parade—watch a man in his home, or in his lodge room. But to return to oratory—it is requisite to the success of any trip like this. There are two ways to discuss trade matters, inter-city relations, industrial development, and things of that sort—truthfully or oratorically. Now on a good will trip, of course, they should always be discussed oratorically."

Announcement of the trip being planned for next Friday, and the introduction of Mr. King, were given by Kendrick Cushing, chairman of the good will trips committee. Tickets for the trip will be obtainable throughout the coming six days from chamber of commerce headquarters, or from members of the committees, at $1.50 each, it was announced. Tickets will include provision for luncheon at Vernon with members of the Optimists and Lions clubs there, and dinner at Quanah.

Transportation for the 200 persons expected to comprise the Junior chamber of commerce party is being arranged by a committee headed by A. D. Lightsey. Automobile dealers of the city are furnishing a large number of automobiles as an aid to the venture, and L. L. Allbritton, manager of the Wichita Falls Traction company, announced Friday that two large North Texas coaches will be furnished by that concern for the trip. The caravan will leave the Lightsey Storage place at 704 Scott avenue at 9 a. m. Friday, and will stop in all intervening towns on the way to Quanah. A 50-piece boys' band, directed by Leo M. Underwood will accompany the delegation. Extensive provisions are being made by members of the committee for noise-making equipment, souvenirs, etc.

Committee Report

Reports of various committees preceded the address of Mr. King. Milburn Nutt representing the highway committee, Shadie F. Hale the industrial development committee, R. O. Kenley Jr., the museum committee, and Cliff Deaton the fire prevention committee.

Visitors and guests included Mr. Allbritton, Robert P. Hall, chamber of commerce secretary at Electra, J. S. Searle, chamber of commerce secretary of Iowa Park, Earl Knox and C. C. Hudson of Iowa Park.

Music for the luncheon was furnished by Frank Bird and his Bluebirds, staff orchestra of radio station KGKO.

Bert King Addresses Graduates at Anson

Bert King, local attorney, delivered the commencement address before members of the high school graduating class at Anson Friday night. Mr. King will return Saturday morning, it was said.

Paul Revere's ride is supposed to have covered 10 miles.

Today — At the Theaters

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

MAJESTIC: Norma Shearer in "The Divorcee," with Conrad Nagel, Bob Montgomery, Chester Morris and others. "Love, Honor and O'Baby," talking comedy. Sound news.

STRAND: "Under a Texas Moon." Not a romance of moonlight, but a lightsome satire on screen-characterizations. Noah Beery, Myrna Loy, Frank Fay.

STATE: "Let's Go Places." Musical comedy: were some strips shot originally for Mack Sennett's use? "Hijack and Game," comedy. Sound news. Novelty number.

GEM: Tom Tyler in "Pioneers of the West." Chapter 11 of "A Final Reckoning." Fable comedy.

Back from the Strand and its 85-minute "Under a Texas Moon." Now comes an astonishing pronouncement: the talkies have learned to laugh at themselves, hence have produced a picture with at least a new element of entertainment in it. True, its entertainment consists largely of overplaying situations subtly but unmistakably—situations and characters which have been worn threadbare in a thousand western films, both silent and talking. But because it pokes innocent satire at the screen's favored children, "Under a Texas Moon" does depart refreshingly from stock patterns.

The satire used in this "story of the Rio Grande" is not the raucous type with which W. Beery and R. Hatton burlesqued war-front tragedies in "Behind the Front." Nor is it the frank clowning with which Harry Green further popularized himself and the "Toreador" song from "Carmen" in his "Paramount on Parade" skit. For its principal character, played by Frank Fay, it rolls together Don Juan, Robin Hood and William S. Hart; instead of one burning romance for which the swarthy caballero from the Mexican hills is willing to die, this Don is supplied with a lovely senorita beside every flower-garden. Nor does he sing the passionate theme song with which to bring the raven-haired damsels catapulting from their balconies—he carries two experienced guitar-love song specialties, plants them conveniently near the spot where love is next to be born, semaphores the time for starting, and the charm operates unfailingly. The always-present cattle rustling episode is, of course, present and is given the same amusing treatment with which other hoary themes are rejuvenated through clever satire.

The entire piece is further em-bellished in humorous vein by the glorifying effect of elaborate full-color effects from dramatis personnae to the last fade-out. One portion was not deliberately converted to overt humor—the hundred of Hereford steers included in the ranch scenes played their part straight, and give the picture one of the best cattle shots thus far caught by the movies.

Larger Attendance at Traffic Club Sought

Preliminary steps toward the organization of a Wichita Falls traffic club were taken at a meeting held at the chamber of commerce Friday afternoon with 22 representatives of shippers and carriers in this city present, according to chamber of commerce officials.

Following prolonged discussion which resulted in the agreement of all present that the community will profit through the maintenance of a club for the constant study of traffic conditions and regulations, a committee headed by A. A. Spencer was appointed to write letters designed to obtain a larger attendance at the next meeting, and to set a definite date for it. Other members of the committee are R. H. Schultz, Thomas A. Baggett, and O. M. Smith. It was estimated that the next meeting will be held within three weeks, and that a traffic club will be organized at that time.

The only living relative of the giraffe is the okapi, found in the Congo forest. For a time it was thought to be related to the zebra.

RETIRING

11-Year-Old Boy Saves Friend's Life but Disclaims Glory

TULSA, Okla., May 16. (UP)—"Aw, gee, it wasn't much. Any fellow would do it for a pal, wouldn't he?"

Thus David Kimball, 11, tried to minimize praise and honors heaped on him yesterday because he saved the life of Jimmy Baker, 9.

David's schoolmates met and voted him a hero.

"I guess that makes me one," he laughed. "But I didn't see any reason for all this fuss."

David admits he pulled Jimmy from the muddy waters of Bird creek recently after the youth had fallen into the stream.

INDUSTRIAL MART GROWS

New Displays Added at Exhibit Building

Further additions to the industrial displays already established in the Junior chamber of commerce Industrial Mart building, and rapid impetus gained by the municipal museum movement launched Wednesday night, were reported Friday afternoon by officials of the organization.

Among the latest firms to retain space for exhibitions of their produce in the new institution are the Clark Machine company and the Pulchro-Tex company, headed by J. L. Gambrell. The former manufactures oil field and other machinery, while the latter concern produces a material used extensively for re-finishing interiors of frame dwellings, it was said.

Offers from citizens to loan articles of interest for the museum include that of Mrs. Freda Van Emden, reported Friday, of an extensive collections of tiles, chinas, laces, prints, wood-carvings and other items, some of which are 300 years old, and many of which came from Holland.

Substantial cases for display of museum relics are now being built by the Steve's Sash and Door company, it was announced, many of which are being contributed by that firm to the project started by the Junior chamber of commerce directors Wednesday night.

Saturday night again will witness open-house maintained for the public at the Industrial Mart, and a 90-minute program will be given from 7:30 to 9 o'clock by staff artists of radio station KGKO. The building also will be open on Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5:30 o'clock.

A display by the Frederick, Okla., Chamber of Commerce was received Friday for the department on the second floor offered to cities in this section for that purpose.

ANNUAL SCHOOL TESTS HELD

Haley and Talbert Medals Awarded Winners

Randal Hanks, spring graduate of Wichita Falls Junior college, was determined winner of the Haley extempore speaking medal for Junior college boys and girls at the annual contest Friday afternoon in the little auditorium.

Runners-up in the contest were Elmer Parrish second, and Frank Bain, third place. The remaining contestants included W. A. Johnson, Woodrow Bristow, Durward Park, Katherine Ashford, Mildred Anderson, Ancil Horton, Paul Packard, Ed Napier, Medford McFarland, Oliver Fudge, Jim Martin and Lewis Haynes.

Homer Lee, high school senior, was awarded the J. Wilke Talbert medal at the final contest Friday morning, with Moulton B. Harrison placing second, and Fred Barron third in the high school. This contest, which is for high school boys only, included 20 contestants.

Self-Proclaimed Ugliest Man to Prove His Boast

NOTTINGHAM, England, May 16. (US)—Despite his wife's denials, James Y. Alexander is so certain he is the world's ugliest man that he is promoting a contest to prove it. No one but circus freaks are to be barred.

"I was born ugly and I seem to grow uglier every day," boasts Alexander. "I have a face like a moneky's, the body of a human skeleton, and a nose like a turnip.

"I have examined myself in the looking-glass, and I do not see a single redeeming feature. I am just as ugly as they make 'em."

When Mrs. Alexander interjects protests that her husband exaggerates his birthright, Alexander interjects: "Ah, you've grown used to me." However, he adds that ugliness has its recompense.

"People seem to trust a really ugly man. They think that a kind heart must beat under such an exterior. Children, especially make friends with me.

"Then look at the wife I won. Mrs. Alexander once took first prize in a beauty contest. The ugly men always get the pretty ones."

Judge R. E. Huff to Make Talk At Special Kay Bible Class Services

Special services which have been featured in the program of the Kay Bible class of the First Methodist church during the past few weeks will be continued Sunday morning, May 18, with a "Southland Addition" service, it was announced Friday.

Special seats will be reserved Sunday morning for all residents of that part of the city known as the "Southland addition," its former residents, or those who own property there, according to the announcement.

R. E. Huff, who founded the Southland addition, owned the land on which it was developed when that area was quite remote from the city of Wichita Falls. It extends southward and westward from the "hill" at Eleventh and Brook, including the Harrison street area. Mr. Huff will make a short address Sunday morning. Other items on the program include a reading by Mrs. J. S. Pitman, and a vocal number by R. E. Shepherd.

One of the features announced for the "Southland addition" session of the Kay Bible class is a song by the Ephphata class of the First Methodist church. It is composed of men and women who neither hear nor speak, but who are actively engaged in regular occupations, and include many well-known citizens. A group of women in the church, it was said, have given isntructions to members of the Ephphatha class, improving their finger spelling, so that Bible lessons have been carried on regularly for the group.

The annual banquet of the Kay Bible class will be held on Wednesday night, May 28, at 7 p. m. in the basement of the old church building, it was announced.
