Floydada Teachers Honor Retiring Teachers At Banquet

Eight Floydada school teachers and county school superintendent Clarence Guffee were honored at a banquet in Duncan Elementary Cafeteria Monday night.

The Floydada chapter of TSTA honored the retiring teachers and school superintendent following a banquet meal, musical entertainment by the FHS stage band, report on the state meet by Jerry Livingston, recognition of FTA members present by Emily Potts and an Easter Bunny question and answer period featuring Tommy Cathey and Ruth McIntosh.

A vote conducted by Frances Puckett revealed that there was a preference for at least a three day holiday next year at Easter time.

In the business session Jane Bean and Audrey Spence were nominated for president of the Association, Don Ford and Margaret Jones for vice president, Mary Alice Craig and Marilyn Chatham for secretary, Mrs. Mattie King and Ruth McIntosh for treasurer. Results for the election will be announced later.

Teachers retiring and their years of service (second number indicates service in Floydada schools) Lloyd Patterson, 48, 3; Edna Phillips, 52, 26; Elbert Reeves 21, 6; Jewel Reeves 17, 3; Margaret Springer, 21, 20; Kathleen Stewart 36, 26; Annie Taylor 49, 45; Ruth Williams 44, 21; county school superintendent Clarence Guffee 50 years of service.

MORE MEAT FOR MORE PEOPLE...

25 YEARS AGO: 145 million Americans spent more than 6 percent of their disposable (after-tax) income for an average of 145 pounds of beef, veal, pork and lamb per person per year, or a total of more than 21 billion pounds of meat.

TODAY: 206 million Americans spend less than 5 percent of their disposable income for an average of 192 pounds of beef, veal, pork and lamb or a total of more than 35 billion pounds of meat.

The Livestock and Meat Industry today produces 15 billion more pounds of meat than 25 years ago to provide an additional 47 pounds of meat per person to a population that has increased by 61 million people... and for a smaller proportion of their after-tax income!

Every so often you read where this or that firm has been halted from further use of a so-called "pyramid" sales program. They're discouraged in Brownfield, but that doesn't keep them from being rated as the slickest arrangement in town.

"You've heard about the now-famous 'pyramid' selling technique. That's where a distributor for some product offers liberal commissions to people selling his line, then offers them the opportunity to get into their own business by getting others to sell for them and encourage these others to get more distributors, etc.

Everyone gets rich in the process! So it seems. You just cannot fall! Until you look at the chart below. One person, say in the Brownfield area, is fast-talked into selling a product and even more commissions will be forthcoming if he lines up six friends to sell for him. They, in turn, each line up six more "salesmen."

Take a look at what the ONE person accomplishes through his six friends and their friends through just nine easy steps:

36
216
1296
7776
46,656
279,936
1,679,616
10,077,696

In nine jumps, over ten million people are involved. You can easily see why promoters like the plan. Somewhere along the line, however, many come out the losers.

LET'S TALK ABOUT the weather. Mark Martin advertised for rain in last week's Hesperian and we received some scattered showers last Thursday. Hesperian advertisements pull longer than one week, so Mark's advertisement will probably get us some more moisture.

The cold front brought freezing weather Tuesday night and Wednesday morning... I noticed a thin layer of ice on the dog's water pan Wednesday morning... so my fruit crop may be gone. Only time will tell. I suppose my apricots were as big as my little fingernail.

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER

Comes Up With A Wild Notion To Cut The World's Pollution In Half

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm comes up with some sort of a science fiction notion this week. Winter was hanging heavy on him.

Dear editor: It's not every day a man can think up an idea to eliminate 50 percent of the world's pollution, which is why I intend to take off the balance of the week just to rest up from it.

Now here's the thing. Everybody agrees that most of the air pollution is caused by automobiles, and air pollution is pollution in its worst form. You can drive by a polluted river or an eye-sore of a junk pile and survive, but if you can't get enough fresh air to breathe you're in for it.

All right. Look at the smog over any city in the world and you know it came mostly from automobile exhaust, and as hard as manufacturers may be trying, an exhaust-free car is not in sight yet.

The answer of course is an electric car, but before you sneer "Huh, what's new about that?" let me say I don't mean an electric car that operates off a trunk and back seat full of batteries.

I mean an electric car that has electricity broadcast to it through the air.

If man can send a television picture in color from the moon to earth, why can't he send a radio signal to a camera circling the earth when it turns on and off, why can't he send out a way to send electricity through the air?

I know somebody's going to say, "Electricity has to travel down a wire, it's a real metal conductor. Won't work."

That's because people are afraid. They're talking about electricity and vented 200 years ago and they're still satisfied with ever since. It's a real electricity hasn't been improved upon since it was first put in use.

What scientists ought to be doing is broadcasting through the air and in the millions and millions of miles of gasoline fumes into the air. Just raise a small antenna in the air to the nearest electricity-broadcasting station and take off, silently and without a trace.

Once this new electricity is broadcast, rest will be easy. You can't make the power companies haven't got to develop a meter in your car that you're properly billed.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

"Instant" salad for "instant" success on a warm day—the happy prospect when you toss "Iceberg with Cream Dressing." The crisp wedges of western iceberg lettuce can be prepared ahead of time and refrigerated on a platter covered with plastic wrap. The dressing is made with sour cream, mayonnaise, grated Cheddar cheese and simple seasonings. Top with dressing and you have a salad of truly refreshing proportions. When buying iceberg lettuce in markets, pick out one that are firm, but not hard, and "give" slightly to finger work.

Iceberg with Cream Dressing
1 head western iceberg lettuce
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese
2 teaspoons vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon savory
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Wash, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce. Chill in plastic bag to be crisp. Cut lettuce into four or six wedges. Mix all ingredients. Top wedges with dressing and serve. Serves 4-6.

Maid Spins Good Cotton Yarn

Not only does 1972 Maid of Cotton Debbie Wright speak up for cotton as the natural fiber, but she also spins a good yarn about the research going on in the industry.

Neither of these points comes as a surprise, however, because the job is a natural for the 22-year old Texas Tech graduate. She grew up on a cotton farm at Tahoka on the South Plains of Texas, where a large portion of the nation's cotton crop is harvested.

Debbie's cotton-farming dad, Bryan Wright, instilled in her a fierce loyalty to the natural fiber that provided their livelihood. She says she has been buying her clothes on the basis of cotton content for a long time, and it was usually okay with her father to bring home anything of cotton. "If it wasn't cotton, though, I had to wait and see how the day went on the farm before I could bring it home."

In the interest of ecology, consumers — and particularly those who make up the youth market — are buying more cotton items. The search is for the natural. "Cotton is the idea natural fiber," Debbie says. "It's fresher and crisper and it has the real clean look I like. It even looks clean in a pair of blue jeans."

A blue-eyed blond, Debbie was a dean's list scholar as a home economics major at Texas Tech and plans to do graduate work in nutrition therapy when her tour as cotton's first lady ends. Her interest in nutrition has been heightened greatly by the new possibilities of cottonseed as a food source.

INTERNATIONAL FLAVOR — Western cotton and Eastern design influence team up for an elegant hostess gown worn by 1972 Maid of Cotton Debbie Wright. Lustrous cotton shantung shapes an emerald green shirt and bright orange cummerbund. A hand-painted dragon sets off the A-line skirt of the Sarff-Zumpano design.

A few honors can sometimes start a big expansion of the cranium.

And five we have to celebrate. So let us do it with a shout! Mrs. Bertrand claims the eighth...

...She dates from ninety-four. And with the "zip" that "gal" still has...

She'll make a dozen more! The eleventh day for Mr. Frank. His last name is Culpepper. And even though he's ninety-two...

Just call if you need a helper! Mr. Alexander's day just passed...

One hundred and one years is his boast. Still every day, come rain or shine...

You'll find him at his "post." Another one from ninety-four...

Is Mrs. Cora Newton. She works each day to pass the time...

She says she likes the idea of doing something for cotton "because it has done a lot for me and the nation. It's brought improved consumer products at lower prices because of research and competition. And it creates thousands of jobs — from growing cotton to manufacturing it."

Whirlwinds First At San Angelo

The Whirlwind varsity track team won the San Angelo Relays last weekend, competing against 17 teams. The 'Winds outdistanced second-place Brady, 49 1/2 to 39 1/2. The win was especially sweet for the FHS trackmen since Brady defeated the 'Winds last year for the championship. Coach L. G. Wilson said of the meet victory: "This was one of the best team efforts I've had out of a group since I've been here. My personal thanks to them for a fine effort and making this win possible. I wanted this one real bad."

Winning places for the 'Winds were:

Jay Jones, first in the mile run with a time of 4:30.7; Langston Williams, first in the 120 high hurdles and third in the 330 intermediates; Kim Rose, second in the shot put;

Danny Quisenberry, third in the high hurdles; Steve DeLeon, fourth in the mile;

Randy Quisenberry, tie for third in the high jump.

The 'Wind 440-yard relay team (Bill Norman, Walter Harris, Langston Williams and Rex Rose) finished fifth, the 880 relay team (Harris, Rex Rose, Ray Cortez and Mark Vinson) came in second, the sprint medley relay team (Norman, Vinson, Cortez and Rick Watts) also finished second, and the FHS mile relay team (Harris, Cortez, Vinson and Rex Rose) was fourth.

The 'Winds will be in Andrews Friday for the Mustang Relays. Preliminaries will begin at 11 a.m. and finals at 6 p.m.

Denise Chadwick Scores In

Prillo All Star Game

Last team defeated the 0-44, in the Golden High School Girls' All-Star Game Saturday.

Denise Chadwick, for the winning East, four points on a field pair of free throws. Coach Don Ford said Chadwick played well, the ball well, and even on her usual forward and played guard for a interesting sidelight, as coached in the game other, Kelly Chadwick, formerly girls' basketball coach at Floydada High School. Chadwick's East team led 22-11 at halftime before the West caught up and went ahead in the third quarter. Six fast points by Dianne Campbell of Claude in the final period put the game away for the East. Miss Campbell was named outstanding forward for the East, and Irene Rekieta of Paducah was selected the outstanding East guard.

Lynne Massey was outstanding forward for the West, and Dimmitt's Ann Lust was voted outstanding guard.

As It Looks From Here

Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Occasionally letters are received with only the first name signed. Knowing so many people are usually able to identify the writer with the postmark of his hometown.

Since the reorganization of the Post Office Department, which for all intents and purposes removed control from Congress, mail is now received with postmarks such as "TX 781." Some may be LA 713 and so on. Sometimes it is a little difficult to identify Joe, Bill, Jim or Jane as the writer of the letter. This is because the local postmark is that of the Regional Distribution Center. When complaints have been made to the new post office setup, they say that anyone in our small towns can still get their local postmark by going to the Post Office but they have to do so at certain hours.

This has the effect of losing the identity of small communities. There is a pride in having our own postmarks and, besides, there is no evidence that improvement has been made in postal service. The complaints are still numerous. As a matter of fact, there exists many doubts as to whether making the Postal Service a semi-public corporation is going to bring about the efficiencies which it was recommended to do.

The organization is subsidized at $98 million a year, which is supposed to be eliminated by 1985. Of course, this is a lot less than the $700 million or more loss before the reorganization but it has yet to be proved. The Postal Service may get into enough side lines to make it profitable in a few years. From plans they have, it looks as if the Service may become sort of a variety store. Patrons in Alaska can buy automobile tags at the post office window and Europe-bound travelers can get passports at the same place. For a special price the Postal Service promises that in the near future they can deliver a letter about 300 miles away in two minutes.

Some old-time postal managers deplore the new operations saying they are gimmicky designed to take the public's mind off the fact that the mail service is not getting any better. The complaints may get louder as more and more over-the-counter transactions are put into effect.

There is still the problem of the delivery of the individual letter across town in a reasonable time. Postal officials have said that "in instances we can get a letter across the country faster by jet plane than a letter can be delivered on the other side of the city by truck." This seems to be one of the hangups.

Some officials have plans whereby post offices will become sort of like shopping centers, dispensing goods and services for those who want to pay for it. There are even guarantees of delivering packages within so many hours. One must wonder if marriage and divorce may eventually be offered over the postal counter.

In every corner of the family entertainment center there is a "new look" created during the winter months by Ted Friesen, an environmental artist.

County's Farms Now Number 906, U.S. Census Bureau Reports

Floyd County showed a total of 906 farms in the 1969 Census of Agriculture, according to figures released by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census, a part of the Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration (SESA).

In the last previous Census of Agriculture (1964) the number of farms reported in the county was 832.

Of the county's total farms in 1969, 796 are reported as selling $2,500 or more of agricultural products in the year, as compared with 788 in 1964.

The report also shows average farm size in the county was 704.8 acres, and average value of these farms (land and buildings) was $168,983.

Other figures —

1. Value of all farm products sold in 1969, $23,203,853; in 1964, $32,697,500.

2. Value of all crops sold in 1969, $18,500,476; in 1964, $30,455,801.

3. Value of all livestock; poultry, and their products sold in 1969, $4,703,377; in 1964, $2,241,045.

Reported for the first time in an agricultural census is information on the extent to which the corporate structure is being used by operators of farms from which agricultural products totaling $2,500 and over were sold. Including family farms using this type of business structure, eight of the county's $2,500-and-over farms are incorporated.

C Publishes Monograph

The Texas Employment Commission has recently published a monograph which reveals the extent of its services to various groups.

One of the first duties of the commission, which is the state's largest agency for the delivery of manpower services in Texas, is to help employers and the state's unemployed to find jobs. The commission's resources, to ensure full employment. The commission's study was to determine if equal services were being rendered to all groups in the state.

The study took into account the proportion of services received by an ethnic group to its proportion of the total population. Heretofore, such a study was impossible, because data was not collected in such a manner to make it readily available from the 100-odd offices of the TEC over the state.

The advent of the Employment Security Automated Reporting System (ESARS) in recent years made the study possible. It is titled "Employment Services to Ethnic Groups." Copies may be obtained from the Texas Employment Commission, Manpower Data Analysis and Research Division, 15th and Congress, Austin, Texas 78778.

59 WRITE FOR C-C BROCHURE

Littlefield Ads Get Results

Approximately 7,000 Littlefield residents enjoy suburban living, away from heavy traffic, pollution, high tax rates and big city problems.

If the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, the Board of City Development and the Security State Bank have anything to do with it, Littlefield's population will be on the increase soon.

The bank recently received permission from the bank directors to spend up to $6,000 on a trial advertising campaign to go into big city newspapers in the "snow belt", retirement supplements in the armed services publications, and later other Texas cities.

Ads telling about Littlefield's favorable climate were run in the Sunday editions of newspapers in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, and by Friday morning the Littlefield C-C had received 59 requests for a brochure on Littlefield.

The two column by 10-inch ad said "Come live in Littlefield, you'll like it! A town to call home. Escape from big city congestion and unrest. Discover contentment in a friendly, small town atmosphere. Healthful climate, lots of sunshine, low humidity, reasonable property values and favorable tax rates, 30-minute drive to metropolitan area and regional airport, and superb medical, cultural and living opportunities.

An ad saying "the good life, that's what life, says Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

White, commenting on reports that food prices are expected to go up four percent this year and that net farm income is expected to set a record, added: "Charges that the farmer is responsible for the expected food cost increase is sheer nonsense. Parity (the measuring stick that shows how agriculture is doing in comparison with the rest of the economy) is at 75 percent.

"This means that agriculture will have to increase its income 28 percent to just be even with the rest of the economy."

Expected increases in net farm income this year, said White, is welcome news, not just for agriculture but for the rest of the economy, too. "Farmers are big spenders when they have the money, and a dollar of farm income generates five to seven dollars in new spending throughout the economy," he said.

White said the average wage earner today makes about three and a half times more than he did 20 years ago; net farm income is about the same as two decades ago.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz recently spoke to this same point when he addressed the American National Cattlemen's Association convention in Denver, Colo.

"If consumers were spending the same percent of their take-home pay for food in this country as they did 20 years ago, they would be spending in the you enjoy in Littlefield" is running today in Missouri and Ohio newspapers.

Bill Payne, C-C manager, said return addresses showed several of those inquiring were professional people. Judging by handwriting, he said others were retired persons. Two of the inquiries were from those with the surname of Littlefield, and two others wanted camping and vacation information.

This is the return letter going out to these people:

"If you dream of a place where the living is easy and pleasant, you should look at Littlefield, Texas. Located on the beautiful South Plains, Littlefield has about 7,000 of the best people you can find anywhere. people who really mean it when they smile and say hello...people who want to be your friends.

"You will find good recreational facilities, including parks, tennis courts, golf course, lake for water sports, and swimming pools. We have two fine well staffed hospitals, many churches and good schools. You will find a variety of specialty shops in our beautiful downtown mall. He added that between 1969 and 1970 a typical American family paid $47 more for its yearly market basket of food while the farmer's share of that went down $4.

Butz compared the amount of beef an hour's pay by the average factory worker would buy in 1950 and last year this way: "In 1950, the average U. S. factory worker could buy 1.9 pounds of round steak with one hour's pay, in 1971 his hour's work bought 2.6 pounds. For 60 minutes' work in 1950 he bought 1.9 pounds of rib roast, and three pounds last year; 2.5 pounds of hamburger in 1950, 5.3 pounds in 1971."

Word Selected Outstanding Farmer

Jim Word of Floydada was presented an engraved plaque at the regular Lions Club meeting honoring him and his brother, Charles, of Conroe, Texas, for being chosen Outstanding Conservation Farmers for 1971. This award was presented by Jon LaBaume, District Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, on behalf of the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District. Charles Word will receive his plaque from the Lions Club at Conroe.

They were selected for this award based on the outstanding program of conservation work applied to their farm. Jim is an insurance agent in Floydada and his brother, Charles, is a geologist in oil production at Conroe. Even though they do not do the actual farm work, both are in constant contact with what is happening on their farm. Charles Carr, Jim's son-in-law, operates the farm. Working as partners, Jim and Charles purchased the farm in 1950. They farmed it for several years realizing that something needed to be done. Because of excessive slopes, the farm was in danger of losing its productive topsoil.

In 1968 the Words contacted the Soil Conservation Service for technical assistance in trying to improve their farm and immediately became district cooperators. Field surveying began by the SCS technicians to see what engineering practices might be needed. It was going to be a task and expensive to correct and control since part of the farm had an elevation drop of 30 feet in 1400 feet.

The Words entered the Great Plains Conservation Program in late 1968 to receive cost share assistance on the project.

A 1340 foot diversion terrace was constructed at the break of the slope to protect the 86 acres of land that was benched leveled in 1969 and early 1970. A 13 acre grassed waterway was also constructed almost entirely around the farm to handle the outside water and provide a safe outlet for the benches and diversion terrace during heavy rains. The waterway was sprigged to Midland bermudagrass. Underground pipeline amounting to 4000 feet was installed.

Two and one-half years later the farm is something to see. Not only has severe erosion been stopped but the farm income is up and the farm now has achieved an economic unit. Tons of silt will never find its way to pollute and create problems for adjoining farms as well as urban areas downstream. The work done on this farm will continue to be an example of good land treatment.

Besides the work on their farm, both Jim and Charles have done a great deal in promoting conservation in their daily activities. Both being members of several civic organizations as well as professional societies has given them a chance to work with conservation and with the people who can influence its progress.

Scouts, much of the scout's work has been publicized by them. This has also created an interest in conservation in the local business leaders. Jim and Charles have been submitted to the Texas Conservation Awards Program in Fort Worth for regional and state judging. The winners will be announced in April. The Floydada Lions Club bought the plaques. The Lions Clubs in Texas have the plaque project to honor outstanding conservation farmers.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

March 22, 1972

Dear Wendell:

You will never know how your story on the 'sodapop' bottle jogged my memory. There was a bottling plant in Floydada at one time. It was owned and operated by Fred Bell (Ted's father) and anyone he could hire to help him; usually kids like myself. As I recall this was in the early thirties, probably 1930 through 1933. At least this was the period of my association with Fred. It was located in a red brick building a few hundred yards east of where the City Auto is now located. It was sort of a one or two person operation. A small, but as I recall, a very efficient machine. Fred had the large containers of soda pop mixture up on shelves in large crocks. This gave him a little gravity flow to the bottling machine. He mixed all the popular flavors. I don't recall his handling or bottling anything like "Coke" or "Dr. Pepper." He had one large delivery truck which he himself drove on his appointed rounds. I thoroughly believe the flavors were much better then. He put more syrup, natural colors (when available), natural flavors and not quite so much carbonated water. If a person were to see a modern bottling plant in operation now and saw what the basis content (and how little) and how much water went into the present day drinks I doubt if they would buy it. However, I have always heard that water is either one of the cheapest ingredients known to man or one of the most expensive.

In those days there were no "throw-aways". A person paid the 01 cent per bottle deposit and then returned them for reuse. The consumer price then was only 05 cents. I remember many many times of helping Fred Bell bottle the pop, then go get my large red wagon, load on several cases and go down to the old ball park. The ball park was located north of the old ice plant and east of the old "Speck" Cowan home. I would hire other kids and give them buckets with ice and let them peddle the pop through the stands, giving them one cent per bottle commission. We all made money. I had Billy Poole, Scrappy Hodge, Speck Cowan and occasionally Harold Brown (Fred's son). I always thought Harold might have been drinking as much pop as he was selling. If you were to consider all the factors that went into my vending operation and Fred's bottling plant and put them into a computer using today's costs factors we would have been in the red all the time but in the depression days we were probably making $5.00 to $10.00 per hour, relatively speaking, and didn't even know it.

Later on, Fred got one of Harley Sadler's old skating rink during the day and evening weekends he would host a dance for the local people and the soda-pop to Silverton, Crosby, Smiths' ranch house for the reunions and follow-ups, but not too far. Later on I rented the large made so much clear money for those days, during that I almost decided not to go back to school, about 10 or 11 years old I had never heard of the Service. Once I had the rink and dance floor at the all summer.

Fred was pretty good to work for; he was a task assigned but he would let you drink all the pop and if he was selling hamburgers he would let you have the same with the ice cream. This way of giving you a raise in pay. Money was scarce. Brewster said the same thing in the Del Rio City (located about where Bubba Kimble's optometrist Studio). However Otto Johnston and I almost lost business and us out of a job.

I remember once Fred Bell took the soda pop stands to Silverton for some kind of a fair and when we were loading his truck up there one of the boxes fell off and cut a pretty good gash in my leg the scar. That was the only time I ever saw Fred bit worried or concerned about day to day things he took me over to the local drug store and he bandaged up my ear and Fred sent me to the hospital. That night they were having a bank nite dance $1100 or $1200. I registered, went to the show and to Floydada. About ten days later I got a check from the Theatre saying my name had been drawn for $1000, but inasmuch as I wasn't there, they were clack for $7.50. I came close to being the richest during the depression.

I even recall some of my best customers. Will to town once and I had to deliver a whole case of pop. Will only wanted one kind and that was "red" and there was the late Harry Christain; he would drink lemon flavor. Not sure, but I think L. D. (Brit) Embury were Punch as his favorite. Felt Patterson was old ice house then; I am sure he got tired many times off a dime's worth of ice for me to cool the pop. I want to see a depression again, but I think that common problem which brought them closer together people.

This is like the person who asked the time of day how to make a watch. Better not inquire about any more.

I would appreciate your not using my name here print any part of this you want.

Best regards,

Dear Sir:

I have been reading your column about the Bell that was in Floydada at one time. I remember when Henry Edwards Office Building just east of the This was in the late Twenties when I was Manager of the Fuel Association of Floydada. Speaking of Bottles, almost everyone knows what a Pop Bottle is if there are a lot of people around Floydada that have a Warmer for a buggy; oh yes, we had heaters in the day. I have a Foot Warmer for a buggy that was my father, the late W. A. Amburn, in 1910. I am sure it in the foot warmer, put in the bottom of the lap robe up over your lap and your feet would stay warm it would last all day. We lived 12 miles northeast of here it was no problem to have warm feet when we were out.

Yours truly,

Q. I was told that I would get social security credit of $160 per month for each month of my active military service from 1941 to 1944. However, I sent in a post card for a record of my social security earnings and found my military time wasn't listed. Why was it left out?

A. Military service is not actually credited to your record until the time when you apply for social security benefits. When you apply, you will be asked for your discharge papers or other proof of military service. The people at the social security office will see that you get your military credits then.

Q. I never worked under social security but I get monthly social security checks as a widow. Will I be entitled to Medicare when I am 65?

A. Yes. You are eligible for Medicare at 65. Anyone who is entitled to social security retirement checks at 65 is also eligible for Medicare.

"You Mean The Air Used To Be Clean?"

By Nancy Farmer

I was still thinking of my grandmother's stories while finishing my breakfast. I couldn't believe all the things she said even though I've heard many people talk about way back in the 1970's. She had been talking about clean air, fresh water, and good soil — why, I've never heard of such.

She had even said they didn't wear gas masks. I just couldn't believe that, because no one would be caught without a gas mask. The stores are making them more fashionable now and in brighter colors.

I finished my DDT coated artificial Wheaties. They say the DDT isn't too good for you, but there is such a high concentration on everything that the government forces the company to tell the public that it is coated. The Wheaties are partly artificial, but you know since the crops are having to be grown in a few specially-filtered green houses, they use 3 per cent of the real food and 97 per cent of artificially made food. Grandma said people just didn't know what good food was.

I'm so thirsty but I don't think my water is filtered by now. Grandma said that in her day you could drink water directly from the faucet. Can you imagine?

I think I'll wear my yellow silencers today. Many people say the noise is deafening outside, but I saved up all my extra allowance and bought high quality silencers, so I hardly notice the noise anymore.

I better leave for school early because visibility is down to 1/4 block today. Grandma said in her days you could see for miles, but you know how old folks like to exaggerate.

She was even saying that Grandma would take ten deep breaths every morning. Dr. Jones, the famous scientist, said that three deep breaths would be enough to send you to the hospital. Grandpa must have been a powerfully strong man.

I may stop by the Wax Museum of Animals today. Grandma said she went to a place called a zoo, and they had live animals. My history book said that up until around 25 years ago there were still several species of animals claim it may bring the life expectancy up 3 years.

I hope my grandmother doesn't get off on her tall tales again about clear air, fresh water, good land, swimming pools, games you played outside, and walking in the woods. She seems to get so much pleasure from telling about it; but honestly now, does she expect me to believe that once there was clear air?

(This essay was the fictional thoughts of a 17-year-old girl living in the year 2017. Right now it is fiction; but in a few years, will our environment make this a non-fiction essay?)
