ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

TRY LISTENING TO GOD

A young school teacher in Massachusetts was confronted by a very dull looking class. To challenge their attention she tried an experiment. She said to them, "God is broadcasting all the time. George Washington and Abraham Lincoln listened to Him many times in moments of crisis. If you will tune in God's station, you will hear what He says."

The children bowed their heads reverently and were quiet. In a few minutes a little boy said, "I heard something. God told me to work hard and get better marks." Another said, "He told me not to talk in class." Another said, "God told me not to cheat on arithmetic." The class practiced this listening every morning and finally gave a play based on it before the entire school of 500 students.

Many of us wish we could have been in a school like that. But it is not too late to try listening to God.

I received a letter from a lady in Long Island, New York, the other day and I would like to share a portion of it with you. "... I had searched for God all my life. I tried many 'isms' and several religions without success. My life appeared to be full and successful, but in reality it was meaningless, void and full of anguish and heartache.

"As I read the Bible and some of your literature, things began to change in my life. Or perhaps it was I who started to change. At any rate, there was a ray of light where all had been darkness, and hope where only despair had been.

"Several months passed and I felt I was on the right road, but was not so sure what to do about it. I had been fooled before.

"I went to one of your Crusades and the presence of Jesus was really there! It is almost tangible. I closed my eyes and just listened. And I heard the voice of God echoing in my heart. The words were musical, saying, 'This is it—this is it—this is what you have been searching for all of your life—come, Jesus wants you now.'

"I was filled with an indescribable joy and rapture, love and compassion. I had never felt anything like it in my life before.

"I dedicated the rest of my life to Jesus to serve Him always and to be obedient to His will.

"I listened to the voice of God and His words slipped into my mind and are forever written on my heart: 'Peace—My peace I give to you—let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid—for I will be with you.'"

God is constantly broadcasting His thoughts and His words to His people. And as we daily practice His presence we come into a very intimate relationship with Him. We can get to know Him better than anyone else in the world and His voice will become very familiar to us.

Set aside your hour to listen. He will come to you. You can talk with God! It is your privilege and your blessing.

Utensils Made From Used Surplus Food Cans

Examining an array of practical household utensils made from used surplus food cans are Monsignor Aloysius J. Wycislo, assistant executive director of Catholic Relief Services-National Catholic Welfare Conference, and Miss Margaret Connellan, a project director for the agency.

The utensils, among which are flour sifters, ladles, scoops, cannisters, flower pots, cups, milk cans, a decorative wall shrine designed to hold a votive candle, were made by the recipients of the surplus food in Spain and Pakistan. They are examples of the ingenious handicraft of grateful and needy people. They are also further proof that the needy and hungry received the food made available to them through Catholic Relief Services-the world-wide relief agency of the American Bishops-and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The utensils are on display at the overseas relief agency's headquarters office in the Empire State Building.

the BROADWAY PARTY LINE

by Gary Wagner

Seventy newspaper men went over to England to have a first hand look at the production of the "Robin Hood TV series". We had a wonderful flight in a specially chartered TWA Jet-Stream. At Foxwarren Park, about an hour's drive from London, we were greeted by Richard (Robin Hood) Greene; Patricia Driscoll (Maid Marion); Alexander Gauge (Friar Tuck); and Hannah Weinstein, the producer.

We were amazed to see this former estate completely transformed into a medieval setting. This exact replica of Robin Hood's time quickly spirited us into the past — there was a village with actors in full costume, a castle with its drawbridge and even "roaming" animals.

Luncheon, in our honor, was prepared under a huge tent in typical medieval style with giant round breads, cheeses, roast chicken, and of course cider served in old pewter mugs by maidens dressed in appropriate costumes. Indeed a day to remember! . . . .

Donald Woods, who appeared in more than 50 films and scores of TV programs and stage shows, celebrating his 13th year in TV. He started in the experimental days . . . . Sammy Kaye, knows a musician who worked for two weeks on an arrangement — which didn't work out because his wife didn't leave town . . . .

Fernando Lamas

The Fernando Lamas-Arlene Dahl baby is due in January according to the proud papa-to-be . . . . A lot of people are wondering about Betty Furness's status when Studio One moves to Hollywood in January. To those I say — relax, Betty has a contract with Westinghouse for another two years at a five figure a year salary, working or not . . . .

Robert Merrill, the Metropolitan Opera Star, must be the busiest singer in the business. He is the singing voice in the Cinerama picture "Search for Paradise", records for RCA Victor, appears at the Met, does concert tours, regular TV appearances on "The Voice of Firestone" and now he will do a stint on the Patrice Munsel Show on ABC-TV on November 22nd . . . .

Natalie Wood has really arrived. Warner Bros. has given her a star dressing room and decorated it in her choice of colors, all black and white . . . .

Sensational new songstress "Tina Robin" recently appeared at the Annual Ball of The Fraternal Order of Police in Cincinnati, Ohio. She was such a big hit that in gratefulness the policemen, on their own time, went plugging her records to the local radio and TV stations . . . .

Debbie Reynolds

MGM told Debbie Reynolds no more appearances on hubby Eddie Fisher's TV show. To soften the blow, Debbie won't record anymore songs unless they are published by Eddie's music publishing company . . . .

Jayne Mansfield, in Paris on a publicity tour for "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter", took a look at the Eiffel Tower, told French newspaper reporters, "That's the most beautiful antique I ever saw!" . . . . Pat Conway, of Tombstone Territory, is the grandson of silent film matinee idol Francis X. Bushman . . . .

Red Foley, who is Pat Boone's father-in-law, came to New York recently to watch one of Pat's TV shows in person, after the show he told me, "That boy is a relaxed rascal, isn't he?" . . . . Time marches on department . . . George Raft just turned 62.

Jayne Mansfield, Piper Laurie admits she never expected to keep her name. She told me: "I never particularly cared for my own name Rosetta, so I selected Piper Laurie out of thin air during a conversation with some friends. When I was signed by U-I, I felt sure they were going to change it but they liked it!" . . . .

School Events

The 1958 Hawk's Nest, yearbook of Iowa Park High School, began its campaign for subscriptions last week.

The staff of the 1957 issue and its sponsor Mrs. Chauncey Weiler, are to be congratulated on their work. The National School Yearbook association gave it a rating of A-plus on both content and arrangement. Members of the staff were Jane Waters, Kay Scott, Carol Thomas, Janice Wilson and Nancy Smith.

Last year, and again this fall, the staff attended the Yearbook workshop held at SMU, Dallas. There they get ideas and inspiration for their yearbook.

Yearly publication of the Hawk's Nest is the best possible public relations document between the school and community. Therein is a record of school facilities, curriculum, and activities of each student. All special honors are recorded in picture and story.

Cost of the annual is met in two ways: by subscriptions and by advertising. Even at the $4 price, total cost of production cannot be met by subscriptions alone. The staff strives for 200 subscriptions, which covers about half the cost. Last year's annual cost just under $2000. So it is to the advertisers that tne school is indebted for making possible the yearbook.

The elementary school issues its own yearbook under sponsorship of Miss Ethyle Kidwell, principal.

Hawk's Nest is being published this year by the following staff: Jane Waters, Tommy Starkes, Kay Scott, Jo Ann Brubaker, Nancy Smith, Sue Bedford, John Woodall, Harry Sargent, Carol Ann Bates, Patricia Clements.

You are requested to give your subscription to the 1958 Hawk's Nest to any of the above.

Sophomores

The sophomores would like to express our sincere thanks for the candy donated for the Hallowe'en carnival by our mothers. The money we made will be used for a class party.

If everyone will work hard to make this party successful, I'm sure it will go over much better than any of our previous shindigs. How about it, gang?

Sophomores are glad to have Joy Mitchell as a new member of the class.

—Portia

Juniors

Juniors helped celebrate Hallowe'en by operating a Spook House at the PTA carnival. Thanks to our efficient and imaginative room mothers, we had a lucrative evening.

Popcorn balls, cookies and a witches brew were sold at the entrance to the House of Horrors.

The class thanks the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the use of their building, and junior mothers Mrs. Virgie Gillispie and Mrs. Thurman Stevenson for valuable help.

Our thanks to all for your patronage.

—Malcolm
