Drive Opened By Farm Bloc For Revision

Author Claims Bill To Only Slightly Hike Living Cost

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—A bill calling for upward revision of farm parity price levels, to include the cost of farm labor, was approved unanimously today by the House agriculture committee, opening in the new Congress a farm bloc drive that the administration successfully opposed last year.

The parity formula change, which some in the administration have estimated would add 10 to 12 per cent to the price computations, was defeated last September during the writing of anti-inflation legislation, after President Roosevelt had expressed "unalterable opposition."

Early Action Sought

Rep. Pace (D-Ga), author of the bill, told newspapermen "this bill will not create any considerable increase in the cost of living this year, certainly less than $1,000,000,000, and in 1944 will increase the cost of living less than 4 per cent."

Committee Chairman Fulmer (D-SC) said he would try to have the legislation brought before the House at an early date, and predicted it soon would be placed on the President's desk.

Selling Under Ceilings

"Many of the principal agricultural commodities now are selling under present ceilings at more than what the recalculated parity would be," Pace said. "These commodities include cattle, hogs, chickens, turkeys, wool and other products."

(Parity is a price computed on a formula intended to return to farmers a purchasing power of some past favorable period for agriculture, usually 1909-14.)

The Pace bill would provide for inclusion in the parity computation the cost of the labor on the farm by the operators, hired help and members of the farm family.

Labor Costs High

Farm bloc supporters of the parity provision contend the labor costs inclusion is essential to enable farmers to retain farm labor now migrating to higher-paying jobs in war plant areas.

The committee also reported out a bill by Chairman Fulmer to provide for the training of non-farm rural youth for farm labor.

This measure would provide "that in order to assist in assuring an adequate supply of food for the armed forces, the civilian population and the allies of the United States" there may be authorized an appropriation in such amount necessary for employment of qualified persons to train rural non-farm youth for farm labor and to supervise 4-H clubs and other farm youth work projects. Such training personnel would be under the directio not the extension services of the state agricultural colleges.

Germans Boost Army Guarding North Norway

Fear Of Attack By Reds Through Finland Is Seen

BY LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

German phobia of a Soviet invasion of Europe is underlined by reports from Stockholm that the Germans are reinforcing their army in northern Norway against an invasion by the Russians through Finland.

FRENCHMEN WARNED

LONDON, Jan. 22 (U.P.) — A spokesman of the Inter-Allied Supreme command, broadcasting in French over the BBC, warned the population of occupied France today that their territory would become a theater of war operations.

The Germans evidently are getting uneasy, if not panicky, as the Russian offensive pushes on from the Baltic to the Caucasus. It is extraordinary when a German war front reporter is permitted to make such statements as this over the Berlin radio:

"Oh God! Give us strength to stem this flood . . . A vast tidal wave is sweeping from east to west."

Goebbels' Statement Cited

Another symptom is Propaganda Minister Goebbels' statement in Das Reich that "Germany must continue to struggle or lose its liberty and life." It was made in connection with a decision to end the shallow pretense of normal living conditions by closing the multitude of shops that have displays in their windows but no goods for sale. Presumably it is an attempt to impress on the people the stern necessity for a fight to the death.

A Russian invasion of Norway does not seem logical when Russia is engaged on a 1,250-mile front in Eastern Europe and has the theoretical chance of invading the heart of Germany itself. However, a march into Norway is not impracticable and should not be entirely ruled out.

For one thing, a successful Russian invasion of northern Norway would be an invitation for the Allies to attack from the other side and open a second front which would put the Germans in an awkward spot.

Finland has a border of approximately 500 miles with Norway, all far above the Arctic cir-

'Axis Dunkirk' Is Described With Enemy Fighters Fleeing City In Small Boats; Eighth Army Climaxes 1,400-Mile Drive

(By The United Press)

Allied radio reports said today that the main defenses of the big Axis base of Tripoli had fallen and that advanced units of the British Eighth army had fought their way into the suburbs of the flaming city.

The Germans in Tunisia were developing a local offensive southwest of Pont Du Fahs in an attempt to keep open a corridor through which the Afrika Korps could retreat. Two German columns were moving along parallel valleys against positions held by the French. One column had been halted in front of Robaa, 22 miles southwest of Pont Du Fahs, the French said, but the other column was menacing Ousseltia.

A communique from the U. S. Ninth air force in Cairo said American medium bombers and fighters were taking an active part in harassing the Axis retreat. American Liberator bombers attacked shipping in the harbor of Tripoli itself.

Axis Supply Lines Hit

Cutting sea supply lines to Axis forces both in Tunisia and Tripolitania, an Allied torpedo boat sank another Axis merchantman off the Tunisian coast, and a tanker was "successfully attacked."

The British announced the sinking or damaging of at least 20 Axis ships in the Africa area in the last three days. All but a few were sunk.

The powerful Allied air striking force under the middle eastern command was having a field day. Besides blasting battered Axis transports, battered and burning Tripoli harbor was bombed again, the communique said.

The capture of Tripoli, last big Axis base in Libya, would be the climax of a campaign that started three months ago and carried the Eighth army almost 1,400 miles westward across the desert.

Military observers said today there were strong indications that the British Eighth army had sent out a column to by-pass Tripoli on the south and attempt to cut

RAF Hits Nazi War Industries In Ruhr Valley

Daylight Raids Carried Out Over France, Lowlands

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The RAF, returning to the attack on Germany for the first time since its raids on Berlin last week-end, blasted targets in the industrial Ruhr during the night, the Air ministry announced today.

Four raiders were lost in the assault, which left large fires burning in the target area. Accurate observation of the results was prevented by heavy clouds, the Air ministry added.

The Berlin radio, giving its version of the raid, said merely that British planes had been over western Germany, but reported some damage and casualties.

ACTIVITY OVER CHANNEL

A SOUTHEAST BRITISH PORT, Jan. 22 (U.P.) — Great Royal Air force activity over the English channel was noted this afternoon.

Squadrons of fighters were observed flying at almost zero altitude across the water and returning to the British coast from the direction of Dieppe.

RADIOS SILENCED

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP) — German radio transmitters at Berlin, Koenigsberg, Leipzig, Stuttgart and Luxembourg went off the air tonight at 7:15 p. m., (2:15 p. m., eastern war time). This usually is an indication that raiders are over the area where broadcasts are silenced.

Big Planes Take Part

Some of Britain's biggest bombers, capable of carrying four-ton blockbusters, apparently took part, for the Berlin broadcast said that at least six four-engine planes had been shot down.

Such a loss would indicate that a considerable force — perhaps more than 100 planes—participated in the foray, for ground defenses and night fighters are generally conceded to be maintaining a good average if they can knock down five per cent of the raiders.

Last night's raid, the 12th on

Allies Preparing For Invasion Of Europe?

Misconduct Of Flynn Denied

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. — Samuel Foley, Bronx district attorney, denied emphatically before the Senate foreign relations committee today that he had improperly conducted a grand jury which cleared Edward J. Flynn in the so-called New York City paving block case.

The Bronx official was the second witness as the committee resumed its investigation of Flynn's qualifications for appointment as minister to Australia.

Foley said that the grand jury heard no evidence that Flynn knew the paving of his courtyard was being done with New York City-owned materials and labor.

No Evidence Before Jury

Senators had asked Foley numerous questions, when Senator Tydings (D-Md) finally inquired:

"To sum it all up, there was no evidence in the grand jury room to show constructive or direct knowledge on the part of Mr. Flynn that he knew of what was taking place?"

"No," Foley replied.

Previously, Adolph A. Berle, jr., assistant secretary of state and former New York City chamberlain, related reports that Flynn was interested in a garage business which obtained a loan from a mortgage company from which Flynn had ordered purchases of securities while he was chamberlain in 1928.

Dealings On Securities

Berle said that mortgage securities bought under Flynn's direction as chamberlain went into default after Flynn had left the office and said "a good deal of what had happened had happened after

Sea Services To Get Draftees

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — The first Navy draftee of this war, or the first Marine or Coast Guard draftee for that matter, appears destined to go unrecognized as such.

Selective Service headquarters and the Navy said today they believed there would be no way of determining just who the first man was, since great numbers would be taken in at many places in the same manner at the same time.

Draft Quotas Out

Meanwhile, competent sources said draft quotas for February had gone out specifying the total number of men to be furnished for all the services, but not showing how many were to go into any particular service.

An explanation of how the all-service draft will work is expected shortly. The Navy and Marines are now meeting their requirements with men who volun-

Proposal To Merge Two Schools Fails

FORT WORTH, Jan. 22 (AP)—A proposal to merge Austin college of Sherman with Trinity university of San Antonio failed by two votes at a meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of Texas (U. S.) yesterday, and as an alternative plan a $500,000 campaign will be launched after Sept. 1, it was decided.

Of this amount $200,000 will be allocated to Austin college, $125,000 to the Presbyterian Theological seminary at Austin, $75,000 to A. and M. Presbyterian church, $50,000 to the Westminster encampment and the remainder for campaign expenses, etc.

Trinity is a Northern Presbyterian school, Austin college a Southern Presbyterian institution.

Oil Flowing In Long Pipeline

(By The Associated Press)

NORRIS CITY, Ill., Jan. 22—A stream of oil from the East Texas oil fields is bubbling through the world's longest pipeline today toward this terminus.

The final link in the $35,000,000 Texas to Illinois section of a line that eventually will reach Philadelphia and New York was slipped into place yesterday, six months after construction was started to alleviate the Eastern oil shortage.

Pumped in at Longview

Oil pumped into the line yesterday at Longview, Tex., will reach Norris City the first week in February. Until tank car loading facilities are completed, the oil will be pumped into the pipeline network of the Ohio Oil company.

Capacity of the new 24-inch conduit will be 300,000 barrels daily. When the second 875-mile leg to the East is finished the line will hold 4,000,000 barrels of oil, the equivalent of one day's production by all of the wells in the United States.

AKRON, O., Jan. 22—The Beacon-Journal in a copyrighted story quotes six Guadalcanal veterans as declaring that the civilian crew of a merchant ship two miles off the island declined to land urgently needed supplies on a Sunday because of a union regulation.

The men had worked two hours Saturday afternoon, then laid off until Monday morning and ailing Marines had to take over the Sunday operations, the Beacon-Journal said it was informed, adding that its story was cleared for publication by the Office of Censorship.

The newspaper said a Navy pilot who survived the aircraft carrier Wasp termed the merchant ship incident the "worst scandal of the war." The pilot declared the crew would not unload the supplies because of CIO National Maritime union rules against working on Sunday, the Beacon-Journal added.

One of the sailor informants said the Marines unloaded the

Quick End For War Is Sought

BY E. C. DANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 22—Decisions on the United Nations' 1943 world strategy are believed here to be in the making at the moment.

Topping the list are thought to be:

First—Creation of a genuine Allied war council including representatives of the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union and China.

Second—Quick settlement of the North African political squabble and consolidation of the British and American command in North Africa with the view to future operations designed for the opening of a second front in Europe.

Seek Quick End Of War

Third—Coordination of the efforts of all of the major United Nations for simultaneous air, sea and land drives in 1943 to finish off the Axis before the end of the year if possible, or at any rate in 1944.

Fourth—A concerted campaign on the seven seas to put the Allies on the offensive in the last element in which they still are on the defensive—undersea warfare.

Steps Being Taken?

An unusual air of expectancy and optimism in high quarters despite the political and military tribulations in North Africa is causing the belief to grow in London that such comprehensive steps have been or are being taken.

The trips to Washington by Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of U. S. Naval forces in European waters, and Ambassador John G. Winant are regarded as possibly related to these matters.

Part Of Master Plan

Obviously the Allied offensive is reaching the stage where campaigns such as the Eighth army's pursuit of Marshal Rommel, Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's campaign in Tunisia, and Russia's reconquest of territory cannot be regarded as isolated and unrelated. They must continue to be coordinated in a master plan, and stock must be taken of their progress and results.

One part of this problem of coordination is the question of who

Mr. Stork Busiest In Nation's History

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—The stork had his busiest year in the nation's history in 1942, delivering at least 2,800,000 babies.

S. record for newborn infants—2,600,000 in 1921—the present birth rate of about 21 per 1,000 population is nevertheless below the rate of 25 per 1,000 population registered in the first World war, says statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Sabotage Rises In Nazi Europe

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 22—Patriotic saboteurs, operating in the shadow of the Gestapo in occupied Europe, have destroyed or damaged more than $1,000,000 worth of German machinery and war materials, Allied governments in London estimated today.

Adolf Hitler was reported to have ordered the Gestapo to renew its efforts to smother the sudden increase in sabotage which followed Allied victories in Russia and North Africa.

Nazi Press Complains

The best barometer for the extent of the underground effort was the crackling in the German press and radio which told of dozens of bomb outrages and attacks on German soldiers.

Apparently realizing the grave threat to its back door, the Gestapo launched a new wave of terror and death, and strengthened its forces in occupied territory.

The Allied governments in London said it was "impossible" to estimate the physical damage saboteurs had caused the German war effort but they pointed out, in addition, the loss of valuable work hours to the Reich. German reports admitted foreign workers were "lying down on the job" and resorting to "go slow tactics."

Bill Would Aid Secret Ballot

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 22.—Ballots used in elections in Texas would have a concealed number to assure secrecy about how an individual votes, under a legislative bill filed by Reps. W. O. Reed of Dallas and Carlton Moore of Houston.

Nowadays the voter has a number opposite his name on a polling list of eligible voters, and the same number goes on the ballot issued to him. By comparing ballots and lists, political bosses can tell how a person voted.

Would Get Number

Under the new plan ballots will be issued to voters with a number corresponding to his order of voting. The same number will be placed on his ballot, but no one will be able to see it without going illegally into the ballot box and tearing open a sealed corner concealing the number.

The same number will be on a perforated corner of the ballot also, but it will be torn off and be thrown in a separate ballot box as the vote is cast.

The bill makes it a felony for anyone to tear open the sealed corner showing the concealed number, except under court order in an election contest.

Newspaper Trying To Reduce Circulation

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (U.P.)—The New York News today began a campaign to reduce its circulation —1,850,000 daily, 3,900,000 Sunday, (December average.) The purpose was to save newsprint.

It announced that it would soon raise its advertising rates about 10 per cent and require its advertisers to reduce their space by an amount "which we hope will level out to at least 10 per cent and preferably to 15 per cent," again the purpose was to save newsprint.

To reduce circulation, the tabloid newspaper urged its readers, in small advertisements scattered through today's issue and in an editorial: "Don't buy a News. Borrow one."

Jap Prisoners Astonished At Being Treated Like Humans

(The following story was written by Sergeant Samuel Shaffer, of Washington, a Marine corps combat correspondent, and distributed by the Associated Press).

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Jan. 9 (Delayed)—Behind barbed-wire entanglements at this Marine corps base is the largest concentration of Japanese war prisoners in the world.

To the visitor fortunate enough to gain admittance, this prison camp provides a liberal education in the upsetting of firmly-held beliefs about the inscrutable Nipponese.

Jap officers, enlisted men and laborers captured at Guadalcanal by Marines — those I have seen— are anything but resigned and sullen prisoners of war, who brood about the misery of their lot, as they are pictured in many reports I have read.

Once over this astonishment that he is being treated like a human being, and given more food than he has probably had for some time, the Jap undergoes a rapid readjustment. Often he becomes a happy-go-lucky prisoner with a passion for horse-play, cigarettes, American slang and swing tunes.

Howling Of Dogs Draws Police To House; Two Women Dead

(By The United Press)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 22 — Lieut. Walter McCalgue led a squad of police to a house on the edge of south Milwaukee when the neighbors objected to the howling of 17 starving dogs.

The officers climbed a six-foot ladder to enter the dwelling, which stood on high wooden blocks. Inside they found a frightened, aging spinster, Miss Eileen Long, standing in a cluttered room.

Her mother, Mrs. Lucille Long, 81, was lying dead on a couch. Her aunt, Mrs. Rosina Trounce, 83, was dead on a cot. Some of the 17 gaunt dogs, chained to the two beds, jumped upon the bodies as the police entered.

Starved To Death

The officers believed the two women had starved to death Monday. Both bodies had frozen in the unheated house.

Miss Long gave only incoherent replies to police questions but said she had money to buy food although there was none in the house. She said she didn't know what to do when the women died.

"I knew I ought to tell someone," she said, "so I called Mrs.

West Texas To Seek Plants

(Special To The Journal)

ABILENE, Jan. 22—A West Texas plea for locations of industrial alcohol plants, using its grain sorghums in the manufacture of synthetic rubber under the government program, will be personally made before W. M. Jeffers, rubber director.

Following word from Jeffers that he would see a delegation from the nation's largest producing area for sorghums, kafir, milo and other grains, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has organized and is sending a group to Washington to call on the rubber czar this weekend. The conference, set for 10 o'clock Saturday morning, was arranged through Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, in whose office the Texans will assemble.

Moffett Heads Committee

Heading the committee will be George Moffett, of Chillicothe, member of the state Senate of Texas and chairman of its agricultural committee. Teaming with him will be delegates from Sweetwater, Lubbock, Abilene, Amarillo and other places. Moffett also is bearing credentials as official spokesman for the state of Texas. He will present Gov. Coke Stevenson's request that War Production board engineers be sent to Texas to investigate its grain potentialities in the program.

The West Texas chamber has had the strong support of Texans in both houses of Congress in its campaign, launched late last summer, to put sorghum and other grains, as sources of butadine and buna-s, into the rubber production picture. Senator O'Daniel recently made public a letter he wrote Jeffers, strongly protesting a letter from John W. Boyer, chief of WPB's alcohols and solvents division, to the WTCC saying the board's engineers would not visit Texas. O'Daniel charged this constituted a blacklisting of Texas.

Two Other Protests

While in Washington, the West Texans will lodge protests with government heads in two other matters, alleging discrimination against their section and state.

One is a Selective Service system regulation for draft boards classifying less than one-inch staple cotton as a non-essential farm product. Under the regulation, boards and expected to refuse deferment from military service to growers and workers of the short staple. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce contends that the regulation, unless changed, will not only drastically cut farm manpower but will affect replenishments of farm rubber, gasoline, tools and machinery.

The other is an inhibition in appropriation bills by past Congresses for the Army, Navy, veterans hospitals and independent offices, against spending any part of the appropriations for oleomargarine, which is derived largely from cotton seed, or other butter substitutes, except for cooking. A statement by the WTCC said, "With actual shortages existing in butter fats, we feel that this inhibition should be lifted in 78th Congress appropriation bills, for the benefit of both the war effort and our cotton producers."

M. C. Ulmer, president of the regional chamber, has called on its affiliates to give telegraphic support to the committee in its Washington mission.

Allied Strategy

is to command Allied forces which obviously intend to attack Europe from Britain or Africa or both.

A high British authority as long ago as last summer expressed willingness to give the job to an American general, and the appointment of Eisenhower to his North African command was an immediate result.

British Forces Enter Tripoli

the retreat of the Afrika Korps toward Tunisia.

The vital airport of Castel Benito, 10 miles south of Tripoli, almost certainly is in British hands, Radio Cairo said.

Algerian dispatches by way of Madrid told of an "Axis Dunkirk." German and Italian troops, they said, were attempting to escape from Tripoli in small boats just as the British expeditionary force in France got out of Dunkirk in the early days of the war. The Axis troops at Tripoli were undergoing severe attack from bomber and fighter planes as they attempted to flee from a harbor filled with the wreckage of vessels sunk and damaged by earlier Allied air raids.

No Official Statement

Allied sources had nothing official to say immediately about the situation in and around Tripoli. Last night dispatches reported the Eighth army was five miles from the city and it was said that the Tripoli radio had not been heard for the last 48 hours. It seemed certain that Tripoli was only lightly defended and that the Afrika Korps was heading for the Tunisian frontier in an attempt to make a junction with the Axis forces commanded by Col. Gen. Hans Von Arnim.

Some of them already had reached Tunisia. An Allied communique reported that planes were hammering the retreating Germans and Italians as far west as Ben Gardane, 20 miles inside Tunisia.

Low level air attacks were made on Castel Benito airdrome, 10 miles south of Tripoli, by Allied planes, and a torpedo boat, seeking to cut Axis communication lines, sank a merchant vessel off the Tunisian coast.

Reds Win New Ground

Axis troops in Russia stiffened in their resistance to the Soviet winter offensive, but the Red army continued to win new ground. Kharkov, Voroshilovgrad and Rostov—all important cities in the system of Axis defenses—were being threatened.

The Russians observed the 19th anniversary of the death of Nikolai Lenin, founder of the Bolshevist republic, with a ceremony in the Kremlin. There the gains made in the Russian offensive that started on Nov. 19 were announced. More than 500,000 Axis troops have been killed, it was said; 200,000 prisoners have been taken; 6,000 tanks, 12,000 guns and 3,500 planes have been destroyed. The Germans have been driven back more than 185 miles on two fronts, the report said.

Swedish reports said the Germans were reinforcing their army in northern Norway in fear of a Russian attack through Finland. Well informed unofficial sources in Stockholm said that if Norway again became an active theater of war, Sweden would not permit the movement of German troops across its frontiers.

The Ruhr, Germany's industrial heart, came under attack from the Royal Air force again last night. Large fires were started, the British Air ministry said, and four bombers are missing, indicating an attacking force of 100 planes. A small force of German planes bombed towns on the southeast coast of England last night, causing slight damage but no casualties.

Allied bombers attacked Japanese-held bases of Rabaul and Amboina late Wednesday night and early Thursday, and made hits on a Japanese cruiser and three cargo ships. In the Sananda area of Papuan New Guinea an American-Australian army wiped out one of the four remaining points of Japanese resistance, killing 150 of the enemy.

All-Service Draft

teer through their draft boards for induction into those services.

The new program is expected to go into operation about February 1, as originally planned, although War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt, who has control over selective service, had expressed belief at times that it might be delayed.

McNutt has said he favored having single offices at each induction center to assign men to each service, and that he was trying to get the sea services to lower their physical requirements to those of the army to permit use of the single office system.

During the first World war, each service was given a "call day" so that all men reporting on the Army's day would go to it, and the Navy and Marines, respectively, would get all men called up on their days.

During that war, however, the all-service draft was in effect only a month and 11 days before the Armistice, and the Navy got only 1,300 men while the Marines got 6,500 by the draft route.

Wet Down Hay—City firemen made their "nth" trip at 4 o'clock this morning to Standard Milling company, at Fourth street and Avenue N, to wet down hay that caught fire several weeks ago. Several hundred tons of baled alfalfa caught fire and has smoldered since, requiring watering about so often as the wind freshens.

Praises Basketball — Polk Robison, coach at Texas Tech, was speaker today at the weekly luncheon meeting of the American Business club. He described the importance of athletics in building manpower for any purpose, and said basketball players at Tech who have gone into the armed services already have carved a place on the honor roll of many in battle action. The names of several were mentioned to add punch to his remarks. The club's attendance since the first of the year has been increasing. E. E. Kerr and Kenneth Stanley were named to lead the program next week.

More Property Recovered—Police announced this afternoon two of three motorists who lost property to car prowlers during a Victory concert Thursday night at Senior High school had recovered part of it. An expensive camera discarded by one of four boys arrested at the scene was found by Miss Josephine Looney of 3124 Twentieth street and delivered to police, and another motorist recovered his gasoline rationing book and operator's license.

Grass Fire Extinguished—Firemen of central station early this afternoon extinguished a grass fire in the Mexican quarters. An alarm was turned in at 12:15 o'clock.

Charge Being Prepared—A theft complaint was sworn to by Patrolman Earl Horton in the county attorney's office and was about to be filed this afternoon. It named a 34-year-old Waco man for allegedly having stolen three pairs of gloves from the Firestone store. Horton made the arrest.

Car Seat Stolen—W. A. Black reported to police a car seat had been stolen from him. He is listed as living at 1717 Thirty-third street.

Judge Chapman Here—Judge Alton B. Chapman of the 110th judicial district, of Floydada, was in Lubbock this afternoon conducting hearings in 99th district court. He recently was ordered to hold the term by the administrative judicial council presiding judge at Pampa, since there is a vacancy in the 99th court. Judge Chapman planned to confer this afternoon with Burton S. Burks, district attorney, in regard to setting of criminal actions. A grand jury last week returned 13 bills of indictment to him.

Many Plains Women Join Navy Services

Recruiting of women for the WAVES and SPARS by a procurement group of officers from the Oklahoma City Navy recruiting station has been quite satisfactory, according to Ensign Katherine Brook, at the Hilton hotel.

The tour through West Texas counties will culminate Saturday and Sunday in bringing a large number of women to Abilene for physical examinations. Only aptitude tests are being given here. Not all the women who presented themselves are accepted, Ensign Brook said, but she expressed her pleasure at the more than generous response by Lubbock women and those from nearby points who have been interviewed during the last two days.

New Yorktown Is Impatient

(By The Associated Press)

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 22.—As if impatient to undertake completion of the task begun by her late, great predecessor, the new aircraft carrier Yorktown carrying much equipment usually added later in a fitting basin jumped the gun on her launching Thursday and without mishap slid proudly into the James river before a group of surprised and cheering spectators.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, here to duplicate her mission of seven years ago when she sent the first Yorktown down the ways, stepped forward quickly, however, and saw to it that the great naval craft got her proper wetting with wine.

Began Sliding Away

Rear Admiral Elliott Buckmaster, commanding officer of the carrier Yorktown which was lost in the battle of Midway, had just begun his address. Waiting on the platform with prepared addresses were Assistant Navy Secretary Artemus L. Gates and Mrs. Roosevelt, the Yorktown's sponsor.

Straining to get underway, the Yorktown, heaviest warship ever launched at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company yards, groaned against the ways and with a mounting roar began sliding into the James river. Buckmaster's voice was drowned out. Mrs. Roosevelt, surprised, stepped forward quickly and swung twice to smash a bottle of champagne before the receding prow of the carrier moved out of reach.

Nazis In Norway

cle, so it would not be necessary to infringe on Sweden's neutrality. The Russians would have to cross only a narrow strip of Finland in the Petsamo peninsular to get into Norway.

Sweden is evidently apprehensive. Premier Per Albin Hansson told parliament last Monday that if attacked, Sweden would fight to the bitter end and was organizing its defense position. His statement suggests a fear that if either Russia or the British-American Allies attack Norway, Germany will march through Sweden to repel the attack, or that Germany might move in on Sweden anyway to forestall one. Swedish officials were careful to emphasize, however, that their attitude was not prompted by any imminent, concrete threat.

Sweden To Act

At the same time, reliable unofficial sources in Sweden declared that if Norway again becomes a war zone, the flow of German troops across Sweden on the pretext of going on leave or returning would be stopped.

It is possibly a concidence that Premier Hansson's statement was made on the same day that the Russians broke the siege of Leningrad. It measurably strengthened their position against Finland and there even was speculation on whether Finland might not soon be forced out of the war.

As things stand, if Russia did decide to go into Norway, it appears feasible enough.

Lubbock Identical Twins Are Cause Of Worry For Sergeant

(Special To The Journal)

QUARTERMASTER CORPS, FORT BLISS, Jan. 22—"It's a courtmartial offense for a soldier to wear civilian clothes during war time," shouted First Sergeant Burns of the Quartermaster detachment, when he entered the mess hall last week and found Corporal Bowen lined up for chow wearing civilian clothes.

"Bowen have you gone nuttier than a fruit cake!" "Get to your barracks and take off those civies!" "Suppose the Major should walk in here and see you!"

The sergeant's shouting brought only a smile to Bowen's face—as he began to explain.

He was Bowen all right, but A. D. Bowen of Lubbock, Texas, who was visiting his identical twin brother Corporal J. P. Bowen, of the Quartermaster detachment at Fort Bliss.

To prove it he walked down the mess hall and returned with his brother John who was properly dressed in Army O.D.'s.

Before coming to the Army Corporal John operated a taxi business with his brother in Lubbock.

Corporal Bowen and A. D. Bowen are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Bowen of Lubbock.

RAF Bombs Ruhr

Germany this month, followed a series of daylight attacks on northern France and the lowlands by RAF bombers escorted by swarms of fighters, including two squadrons of the United States Army Air forces.

The Italian high command disclosed today that Allied bombers escorted by fighters had raided numerous targets on Sicily yesterday, raining bombs along the south coast of the island and in the interior.

Points bombed in the Allied sweep included Licata, Porto Empedocle, Gela and Castel Vetrano, according to the broadcast Rome communique recorded here. It declared the raiders "did no damage."

The communique reported Allied planes machinegunned the railway station at Ragusa, Sicily, and attacked a supply train halted there Wednesday.

Movie Starlet Will Wed A. & M. Man

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22. (AP)—Her heart belongs to a Texas man, Anne Gwynne, movie starlet, revealed in announcing her engagement to Capt. E. B. (Chick) Sales, of her home state.

Although she came from Waco, it wasn't until the actress went back recently to Texas on a movie location trip that she met Capt. Sales.

He is assigned as an instructor at Texas A. and M. college. Anne, 22, said wartime uncertainties prevent setting a definite wedding date.

knew that his warriors were calling each other "hachi maru," which is Japanese for 8-ball."

This started recently when two Marines visited the camp to polish up the Japanese they had studied. One leatherneck called the other an "8-ball."

A prisoner, who possessed a smattering of English, asked what that meant. When it was laboriously explained, a smile wreathed his puckered features. He said: "hachi maru." Within an hour, these words were on the tongue of every prisoner.

Nor would Tojo appreciate the sentiments displayed by another prisoner, when someone mentioned Germany in his presence. With thumb and forefinger of his left hand he gripped his nose firmly, while the right hand shot forward in a Hitlerian salute.

Plan To Check Spending Seen

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — A plan for equipping the House appropriations committee with investigators to check on government expenditures was to be offered to the committee today by Rep. Clarence Cannon (D. Mo.), its chairman.

The proposal, worked out by Mr. Cannon and Reps. Woodrum (D. Va.) and Taber (R. N. Y.), calls for the committee to requisition experts from the general accounting office, budget bureau, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Civil Service commission, and Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Would Check Requests

These men would work with appropriations subcommittees, checking on budget requests, seeking to determine whether a certain type of work should be done by bureau "A" or bureau "B," whether government offices are overstaffed, and so on.

There are more than a few in the House who want the committee to have its own regularly employed staff of investigators. Others think the House and Senate should set up a joint budgetary committee, to investigate expenditures as the joint committee on internal revenue now inquires into tax problems.

The Cannon-Woodrum - Tabor proposal is the outgrowth of a conviction that the budget is becoming so large that Congress can no longer depend solely upon ex-parte statement of bureau and department heads to justify appropriations. Many feel that Congress must get the facts itself.

Charles Poletti's Duties As Employe Of War Department A Puzzle; His Record Hit

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Although Charles Poletti, who recently was governor of New York for 29 days, has been working for the War department here for several weeks, Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson confessed before the House rules committee that he had no idea what Mr. Poletti did.

The under secretary appeared before the committee to express approval of a continuance of the checking on his department by the House military affairs committee.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R. Ind.) told him: "I confess I was shocked, and I am sure the country was also, to learn that you had appointed an interim governor of New York to high place in the War department after he had just hung up a record of pardoning some 30 criminals, gangsters, racketeers and alleged communists.

His Duties A Puzzle

"Would you please tell us what it is that Mr. Poletti does?"

Under Secretary Patterson explained that Mr. Poletti's title was "civilian assistant to the secretary of war," but said he had no knowledge of what his special duties were.

"Will Mr. Poletti have anything to do with procurement contracts or the renegotiation of them?" Rep. Halleck asked.

"No," said Mr. Patterson.

Cox Comes To Aid

At this point Rep. Cox (D. Ga.) came to the under secretary's aid by saying:

"We understand you don't like these armchair appointments any better than we do."

"This particular one will not lend confidence to the country generally," Rep. Halleck concluded.

Elected Lieutenant Governor

Mr. Poletti, elected lieutenant governor of New York with American labor party backing, took over the governorship in December when Gov. Herbert Lehman came to Washington to take charge of worldwide relief and rehabilitation.

Before Thomas E. Dewey succeeded him, on Jan. 1, Governor Poletti had turned loose the convicts referred to by Congressman Halleck.

One case was that of Alexander Hoffman, alleged strong-arm unionist, who had served less than 8 months of a 2-to-4-year term for arson. In this case Mr. Poletti by-passed the parole board and let Hoffman out to continue his business with the New York local of the cleaners and dyers union.

War correspondents aboard the first troopship to carry American combat soldiers to Africa published a daily newspaper, "The Atlantic Daily News."

Regular Courses To Be Kept By A. & M.

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 22. (AP)—A. and M. college will provide specialized technical training for men sent to it under Army and Navy supervision but does not intend to suspend its regular courses.

This was emphasized today in a letter from President T. O. Walton to parents of A. and M. students urging them to counsel their sons to enter or remain in college even though they be of draft age, "until they are needed in the services of their country."

Miss Welmaker Weds In East

From Moundsville, West Va., comes announcement of the marriage of Miss Josephine Bonita Welmaker, daughter of the late Henry A. Welmaker and Mrs. Ethel Bonar Welmaker of Lubbock and Moundsville, to Russel Gordon Perkins, of Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Shields H. Perkins of Albion, Wash., which took place late in December in the Wesleyan Methodist church in Washington, D. C.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Don Flager of Washington, wore a powder blue costume with harmonizing accessories and her flowers were white orchids. Miss Agatha Turner of Lubbock and Washington, a close friend and former college classmate, who wore a beige and rose costume and a gardenia corsage, attended as maid of honor.

Oswald Berg of Lennet, Mont., attended as best man.

The couple is at home in Kaywood Gardens, Mt. Rainer, Md.

Mrs. Perkins, who holds two degrees from Texas Technological college, has been an examiner in the engineering department of the Civil Service commission for the past year.

Mrs. Earl Nail as delegate, reported the state convention of Parent-Teacher Congress in Houston, Mrs. J. H. Lions International President Is Guest At Lions Banquet

Edward H. Paine of Michigan City, Ind., president of Lions International, was honor guest last night at a meeting of more than 180 Lions and their ladies who met in their annual observance of Ladies night, at Hilton hotel.

Presiding as master of ceremonies was H. C. Pender of Texas Technological college, immediate past district governor, succeeded in that office recently by Murray H. Fly of Odessa, who was unable to attend.

Paine, who has traveled throughout the world, presented his message in the form of a travelogue, emphasizing the wide scope and influence of the Lion emblem throughout the world, from Egypt to the Orient, along the road to Venice, and Vienna.

Dr. F. A. Green of Crosbyton, deputy district governor of Lions, Judge E. L. Pitts of Amarillo, Jim Peller of Levelland, past deputy district governor, about six Lions from Levelland, five from Morton, and a number from Brownfield made up the list of South Plains and Panhandle club visitors attending the banquet.

Vernice Ford, a member of the Lubbock club, was presented with a senior master key in recognition of his service to the local organization in obtaining a total of 25 new members. There are only 125 senior master keys in existence.

Two Farm Meetings Held On Thursday

Farmers and government leaders in the farm mobilization plan met twice in Lubbock county last night, staging a program at Cooper and also at Shallowater.

Jess Thomas, vocational agriculture teacher, presided at Cooper, where about 100 farmers and members of their families gathered to hear the highlights of the President's production for victory plan explained. The meeting was held in the schoolhouse.

J. E. Burch of the Farm Security administration, C. C. Jobson of the extension department, Mrs. Mona Hildreth of the home demonstration office, Earl Johnson of the AAA community committee, and Ray Grace of the Soil Conservation service were the main speakers.

At Shallowater the U. S. Employment service was represented by F. E. Rector, the Soil Conservation service by O. T. Williams, the AAA by Walter Y. Wells, and the extension service by C. C. Brookshier. About 60 attended this meeting.

Meetings at the schoolhouses in Becton and Roosevelt communities at 8 o'clock tonight will wind up the week's series. Virtually the same program as previously arranged will mark the two meetings tonight.

It is estimated that 800,000,000 cases of malaria occur annually throughout the world.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

"Will Daddy have to go to war?" is a question many a mother has to answer these days.

And the answer has a great many parents stumped. Should it be: "No, of course not. Your Daddy is going to stay right here with us."

Or should a mother say: "Perhaps. If his country needs him to fight, he'll go, and we'll be proud of him."

A great many parents are tempted to give the first answer—to shield the child, to keep him from worrying over a problem that may never actually confront him.

But that is a mistake, according to Anna W. M. Wolf, senior staff member of the Child Study Association of America, who has just written "Our Children Face War"—a practical book that will help a lot of bewildered parents.

It is Anna Wolf's belief that children can take it. That they should be given honest, straightforward answers to the questions they ask about the war. In her words: "War will take its deathtoll of American families, and children will deepen and mature when they stand side by side with others who must face it. We shall be wiser if, in the ordeal of today and tomorrow, we can return to something simpler than many of us have been used to. Tears are not indecent, and grief need not be hidden away or dressed up for a child so that it becomes almost grotesquely unrecognizable."

GIVE REAL SECURITY

So this authority on child psychology advises parents to answer their children's questions honestly, instead of putting them off, or trying to give them a false sense of security instead of the real security that comes from knowing they can count on the truth from the grown-ups with whom they live, and that they aren't being shut out of the grown-up world of reality.

Now that 18-year-olds are being drafted, parents may see the wisdom of Mrs. Wolf's advice. For if at 18 a boy is expected to fight for his country, at 8 he isn't too young to be told that in time of war men must leave their homes to go to war—even perhaps his own Daddy.

Higher Milk Prices Are Paid In Dallas

DALLAS, Jan. 22 (AP)—Dallas milk distributors today increased prices paid to producers from $3 to $3.40 per 100 pounds of milk, in line with a like increase at Fort Worth.

Wholesale milk prices, however, have not yet been raised as permitted under the new Office of Price administration schedule.

The increase here amounts to about 1 cent a quart, milk men estimated.

Improved juvenile laws will be asked, as will clarification of provisions for aid to dependent children.

The congress will seek "more stable and adequate support for public education at every level," as well as seeking nine month terms in all schools. Improved tenure and certificate laws for teachers are included on the program.

Opposition was expressed to sale of liquor by the drink and to gambling devices. A campaign will be made to teach students effects of using alcoholic beverages and narcotics.

Jury service for women, and revised voting regulations will be advocated. New safety measures for traffic and for school buildings will be asked, as will more stringent regulation of sale of fire works.

"Adequate financial support" for the state health department's program was endorsed by the Congress, along with "establishment of a suitable merit system of administration in the health department."

For library legislation, the organization will ask revision of the present county library law. The congress also will support an appropriation bill to extend the State Library's extension service.

U. S., Brazil Unite In Plan On Rubber

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Amazon valley of South America holds the United Nations' chief hope of an expanded supply of natural rubber. To find out what is being done about tapping the Amazon's resources, Henry W. Bagley, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Rio De Janeiro, spent five weeks in the jungles and on the Brazilian coast, traveling by plane, ship, dugout canoe, horse, and mule. Here in the first of three stories, he tells how Brazil and the United States are combining their men, materials and money to get out the rubber).

BY HENRY W. BAGLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANAOS, Brazil, Jan. 22—The United States and Brazil are swinging out into a vast program to get every possible ounce of natural rubber out of the Amazon valley, America's best hope for a crude rubber supply in a long war.

Both countries are sinking huge sums into the effort, for, although production of synthetic rubber in quantity is getting under way in the United States, crude rubber still is needed to mix with the synthetic and the reclaimed. And America's stockpile of crude is going fast.

Production Had Dropped

A big push must be given to the Amazon output, for in 1941 the whole basin—which includes parts of Bolivia, Peru, Colombia, Ecuador and Venezuela as well as about half of Brazil—turned out only 19,000 tons. That's just a drop in the bucket of the United Nations' needs which were estimated in the Baruch report at 577,000 long tons for 1943. About 15,000 of the 19,000 tons came from Brazil.

Statistics for 1942 should reveal an increase, and rubber experts hope to jump production, possibly to 50,000 tons, in 1944. But Joao Alberto Lins De Barros, Brazil's economic coordinator, is striving to reach that figure this year. A pivot point in his campaign is the moving of some 50,000 workers from the wastelands of northeastern Brazil to the Amazon region. They'll travel 600 miles afoot, 1,000 miles by steamer.

Ceylon's natural rubber still is available, to the United Nations and the nearly 100,000 tons expected to be produced there would go a long way toward meeting wartime necessities. But Ceylon is far across submarine-prowled seas, and there is no certainty the island could resist a Japanese attack. The American government, in fact, stopped figuring Ceylon in its calculations several months ago.

Some From Liberia

Liberia, the African negro republic where Firestone has its big plantations, may produce as much as 10,000 tons annually.

Japan's conquest of Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies sent American technicians into the Amazon jungles. For it was from Brazil, 30 years earlier, that those same far eastern nations had taken the wild rubber trees which were the foundation of their own big plantations.

In Brazil's best rubber year, 1912, she produced only 42,400 tons, while output from Malaya and the Dutch East Indies combined has gone as high as 950,000 tons.

U. S. Is Aiding

To increase production in the Amazon and to rush the product to American and Brazilian war plants, the United States has gone in with both feet. Some of the American government agencies participating in the program are:

The Rubber Reserve company, assigned the task of increasing output by a number of methods, including paying a high wage to workers and supplying the necessary equipment, food and medical aid at prices often below cost.

The Board of Economic warfare, which sees that the supplies are sent to the Amazon.

Mauritz said he wished to center his time and efforts on chairmanship of the sub-appropriations committee on state departments in the interest of efficiency.

Visit To Mine Shows Endless Efforts To Keep War Machine Of U. S. Supplied With Steel

EDITOR'S NOTE: The city of Birmingham, Ala.—which has all resources for complete production of steel right in its front yard—is providing at top speed steel for ships, guns, tanks and other tools of war. The United Press sent staff correspondent Alfred Kuettner into one of the section's largest iron ore mines for a view of our subterranean production front and a chat with the men who "keep 'em digging."

BY ALFRED KUETTNER
United Press Staff Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 22—In a cathedral-like room 2,000 feet under the ground, a cousin of a United States Supreme Court Associate Justice spends his time digging up battleships. He is foreman in a big ore mine near here, and the finished product of his work is the stuff that holds the Navy's battle wagons together—steel.

A visit to this underground steel center calls for preliminaries.

First—for the latest style in mine outfits—there's a trip to the industrial store. Every mining community has one. Backbone, gossip center and place-to-meet-your-friends, they sell everything from long handled underwear for pappy who works the night shift to Sally's new dress for the barn dance at the Safety Hall Saturday night.

Our shopping list: Cap, lamp—unlawful to enter mine without one—overalls, jumper — coat to you—high-topped safety shoes with steel toes—that's to keep a loose rock from bouncing on your foot and crushing it—even that aforementioned long underwear. The longies are to absorb perspiration, not for protection against cold.

For transportation underground, picture the typical amusement park toboggan, and it fits our conveyance to perfection. For 6,600 feet—that's over a mile—we travel down a tunnel of alternately lofty roofs and low ceilings that would cut off your head if you stood up at the wrong time until we arrive at a bustling underground city.

In these huge rooms and curving tunnels are complete workshops, offices—miners call them "hoodlum stations"—power plants and mile after mile of railroad track.

I flagged one of the speeding electric-powered trains and hopped on.

"Been working here long?" I asked the engineer as we sped off again.

"Since I got out of school," he replied. "I'm the second generation. Dad's been working in the mine all his life. Still going strong."

In a day's journey I found many men like this—craftsmen, proud of their profession. The train engineer would be hard to distinguish from the typical college senior, once he scraped some of that red ore dust from his face.

"Blinking Fireflies"

The conversation turned to the war. "You fellows are pretty far away from news of the world down here," I suggested. "If something big happened, would you hear about it before you went topside?"

"Oh sure," he replied. "Workers are always coming down during the day. They bring us the news, and it passes by word of mouth right quick if it's important."

Soon our car stopped at the rim of a great slanting room, its ceiling in places a hundred feet high. In the near darkness, we could see the shadowy forms of workers. On top of each head was a sputtering carbide lamp. The scene reminded me of blinking fireflies on a dark night.

A man came out of the shadows. "Meet Mr. Black," my guide invited. "He's foreman of this crew. He's also a second cousin of Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black."

"Sure, we're second cousins," said Mr. Black, and he wasn't kidding.

Lawyer Black's mining cousin didn't have much time for talk. Busy.

In this business you carry your lunch with you wherever you go—no telling where you'll be when that important function comes due.

Hungry men don't talk much while eating. It was quiet when the half dozen in our group paused to eat the big thick sandwiches of fried chicken, peanut butter and jelly. A nearby fountain provided cool water that dropped down by gravity from a spring 800 feet above us.

If you think miners are not serious—and intelligent, too—about this war, have lunch with them underground.

"The trouble is, folks don't realize yet there's a war going on," the father of an army officer-candidate said. "We talk about sacrificing and war production, but we don't know what it all means." Most of the men have sons or other close kin in the service. A number have volunteered for some branch. When one achieves officer's rank—and many have—word spreads among their buddies and there is rejoicing.

Safety is a subject of universal concern—to miners as well as the company. As proof that danger lurks for the unwary, we passed a room where tons of rock—loosened by a dynamite blast—had slammed down on steel beams that brace the ceilings and had twisted them like broom straws.

Fatalists On Accidents

Miners are fatalists about such things. When asked if anyone was hurt, one answered: "Nope. Crew was outside."

During a trip outside after the day's work, miners relax and talk. Likely as not they'll be cooking up a barn dance for Saturday night. They invited me to attend the next one.

The Safety Hall is the country club of a mining community. The whole family brushes up on Saturday nights and comes down to dance.

For awhile the menfolks stand outside—as men do everywhere—and discuss affairs of the past week. One was sounding off about his nine youngsters and how he was still young enough to work a regular shift underground.

Presently, the floor was cleared, the menfolks ended their front porch bull session, and the band—all miners—tuned up for the square dance. For the first time, I noticed the "dance caller," a handsome chap in his early 20s. His right leg and right arm were missing.

"I think you'd like to know about him," a woman said. "When he was a chap of 16, things were dull at the mine, and we sent him off to CCC camp. In better times, we got him a job in the mine, and he came home, strong and healthy from his outdoor life.

"Last summer he was working on one of the mine trains when he fell off and was run over. The engineer was able to stop the train just before it would have run over his whole body.

"This boy never lost consciousness, and when the train crew ran to him, he looked up and smiled. He told the engineer 'thanks for stopping in time, sir. You saved my life.'"

Calling out the dance, he was the happiest man in the place. Miners are like that.

Come Monday, they'll be back underground, sweating and dirty—digging battleships out of the earth.

Specialists Needed By Federal Agencies

Economists, accounting assistants, statisticians and transportation specialists are needed in various federal agencies, according to notice received here by Charles Waller, secretary of the civil service commission.

Persons will be selected for these positions on the basis of experience rather than by written test, Waller emphasized, and applicants for accounting and auditing assistants must be filed with the commissions Washington office by Feb. 23. They will be informed when and where to report for examination. Women particularly are urged to apply.

Yearly salaries for these positions range from $2,000 to $6,500 plus overtime compensation. Maximum age limits have been waived.

Complete information and forms for applying for all of these positions may be obtained from Mrs. Lesta Boles at the postoffice.

Unsung Civil Air Patrol Is Working Under Difficulties

(By The United Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 22.—Bomb-totin' civil air patrol fliers, daily scouting the sealanes out of sight of land without life-boats or parachutes, are having a constant struggle to secure even replacement machinery, Texas wing Commander D. Harold Byrd said today.

He is going to Washington to ask national CAP authorities for help for the civilian pilots and their struggling ground crews and maintenance personnel.

For several months, Byrd said, the CAP patrol has been carrying its own demolition and smoke bombs to destroy enemy submarines. Formerly the fliers had to radio army and navy bombers to come and get it when they spotted a U-boat. Then they welded on simple bomb racks, fixed their own inexpensive bomb sights, and now carry two 100-pound demolition bombs and two smoke bombs.

"The anti-submarine patrol we are furnishing for the Army and Navy is being maintained under the most difficult conditions, and we are going to Washington to see if we can get some real help," Byrd said.

"Flying over the ocean out of sight of land in a plane equipped with no flotation gear, CAP pilots and observers are without fanfare doing a heroic job. They don't have rubber life-boats or parachutes. If they are forced down on the water, their plane may float for 15 minutes but more often it will sink in 60 seconds. CAP members who lose their lives in line of duty are covered by $3,000 insurance, whereas members of our armed forces are covered to the extent of $10,000.

"We have a continual struggle to secure replacement parts to keep our planes in moderately safe flying condition. These are some of our main problems, and they must be cleared up in justice to those men who are daily risking and giving their lives in the defense of their country."

Five LAFS Officers Given Promotions

Promotions for five officers at Lubbock Army Flying school were announced Thursday by Col. Thomas L. Gilbert, commanding officer.

Promoted were Walter E. Clark, captain to major; Arthur W. Patton, first lieutenant to captain; and Second Lieutenants Charles B. Mohle, Robert N. Schneblin and Frank M. Poole, who became first lieutenants.

Major Clark, commanding officer of cadet training group number one, was commissioned at Kelly Field in June 1940, and has been stationed at Lubbock since Feb. 1, 1942. He and Mrs. Clark reside at 2108 Twenty-ninth street in Lubbock.

Captain Patton, who came to LAFS as Catholic chaplain shortly after receiving his commission February 22 of last year, lives in bachelor officer quarters at the post.

Lt. Mohle, of Houston, is a ground school instructor and resides here at 2809 Twenty-third street; Lt. Schneblin, of Peoria, Ill., is on duty at the glider replacement pool and lives at 2413 Nineteenth; and Lt. Poole, of Columbus, Ky., a flying instructor, lives at 2218 Sixteenth street.

U. S. Court To Hold Session Here Today

A special session of federal district court here is to be convened this afternoon by Judge Whitfield Davidson of Dallas.

He will call two civil matters: United States of America against Clarence E. Spencer, and United States of America against Lockney Wheat Growers, Inc.; and two bankruptcy hearings: in the matter of Oscar McGruder Cox and wife, and in the matter of Clarence Arthur Reeves.

Judge Davidson was to have been in Lubbock Monday, but cases for which a jury had been indicated were settled, according to Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy clerk of the division court.

Plains 4-H Youths Lead In Livestock Production, Revenue

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 22—Texas 4-H club boys in 1942 produced and sold livestock products, and poultry and eggs valued at $1,099,514.15. The amount received was for the beef calves, swine, sheep, goats, wool, mohair, poultry and eggs.

A survey of the year's activities made by L. L. Johnson and J. W. Potts, of the A. and M. college extension service staff shows some outstanding achievements in demonstration work. Johnson is state boys' club agent and Potts assistant agent.

Beef Calves Top List

Beef calves sold numbered 4,552 with a total weight of 3,459,807, and brought $494,186.23. Boys in extension district 2, in the South Plains area, topped the regional production in numbers, poundage and revenue. They sold 813 calves weighing 675,797 for a total of $89,621.

Swine ranked second to beef calves both in weight and value. A total of 14,249 pigs, weighing 2,594,316 pounds went to market and sold for $334,203.58. Again district 2 led with 2,051 animals for which buyers paid $54,104.71.

District 11, in the Gulf coast region, crowded the plains area by obtaining $52,976.52 for the 1,870 pigs its 4-H club boys fed out and marketed.

CAFES LOSERS

LONDON (AP)—Enfield district council has reported that during the year the four local British restaurants have lost 1,208 cups and mugs, 1,638 forks, 725 knives, 3,319 plates, 1,012 saucers, 1,412 spoons and 1,110 tumblers through thefts.

Dodgers Plan Mass Production System

George Sisler To Head Broad Scouting Plan

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 — A system for mass production of ball players will be undertaken by the Brooklyn Dodgers this year in spite of the war — and George Sisler, one of baseball's great all-time first basemen, is to be a kingpin in the setup.

Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, explained the plan yesterday at a press conference and said that Sisler, who is commissioner of the National Semi-pro Baseball congress, would become a Brooklyn scout to lead the search for talent among the sandlotters.

The plan calls for conducting camps and baseball schools throughout the country in a manner similar to the program Rickey installed with great success for the St. Louis Cardinals.

"It is absolutely opposed to the process of reducing scouting staffs which most clubs are doing," he elaborated.

"We are going into what might be termed the field of free agency scouting. We hope to find some good prospects among the 16 and 17 year olds.

"We are, in effect, betting that the war is over in two years. If it is, this is a corking good program. If the war lasts three years, then maybe we are throwing away a year of scouting."

Hiring Of Sisler Is Called Master Stroke By Rickey

BY JACK CUDDY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 — Branch Rickey executed a master stroke when he induced George Sisler, commissioner of semi-pro baseball for the past five years, to return to the major leagues where he performed for 15 years with such brilliance that he has been elected to the hall of fame and is ranked with Hal Chase and the late Lou Gehrig as one of the three greatest first basemen of all time.

Sisler, who will continue as commissioner of the semi-pro game at least until April 1 has invaluable connections with the nation's sandlots.

Friends For Years

Rickey and Sisler have been friends for years. They met when Rickey was a coach at the University of Michigan and Sisler, a freshman, tried to make the varsity team as a pitcher. In a seven-inning game for the campus championship that year, Sisler fanned 20 men. However, he became famous later as a great hitter and graceful first baseman.

Sisler, who will be 50 in March, stepped from the University of Michigan campus to the St. Louis Browns in 1915, following in the footsteps of Rickey who had become business manager of the Browns.

He played with the Browns from 1915 through the 1927 season and was player-manager of the club in '24, '25 and '26. He received the American league's most valuable player award for the 1922 season during which he batted out the fabulous percentage of .420. He led the batsmen of his circuit that season and in 1920.

Leaving the Browns, he played with Washington, the Red Sox, Rochester and wound up in 1932 with Shreveport-Tyler of the Texas league. He finished with a lifetime batting average of .341 and a fielding mark of .987.

Branch Rickey says he'd be willing to give a lifetime pass to Ebbets field to anyone who'd come up with an acceptable emblem symbolizing "Dodgers" that could be worn on Brooklyn uniforms and used in the ads . . . What he'd like is something like those cocky red birds the Cardinals use . . . But when he sprang that on the baseball scribes, they told him: "If you ever get one Brooklyn 'bird' you won't want two."

Corpus Naval Air Base Cage Roster Totals 1,500 Men

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

CORPUS CHRISTI, Jan. 22—If you were a basketball coach and had 1,500 players what would you do?

You guessed it, and Jack Gray at the United States Naval Air Station here is doing just that.

He's producing one of the outstanding teams in the Southwest. It already holds decisions over Rice, Texas and Texas A. and M. of the Southwest Conference.

Having more than 1,500 bluejackets, aviation cadets and officers playing basketball is just another point in the naval air station's claims of "world's largest."

Biggest Station

In the first place the station itself is the biggest anywhere on the globe. Then, what unit can approach it in number of cage performers?

There are enough teams to supply the nation's largest college conference.

In fact, there were so many lovers of the game that the physical training officers were forced to set up an intra-station schedule with league regulations in order to insure every team a chance at competitive play.

In one league alone there are 26 teams averaging 15 players each. In addition, the station's four outlying auxiliary stations added two teams each to the tournament, making a grand total of 510 players competing in over 300 supervised games for a trophy.

Another league boasts approximately 350 players.

Physical training officers are greatly pleased. Basketball, they point out, long has been recognized as one of the best body-building exercises known to man.

Regardless of what has been said about the navy's obstacle courses, rough and tumble wrestling, etc., the strictly American game of basketball is first choice among the bluejackets who really want to develop into rugged sailors.

Westerners To Play SPAFS

Game Is Tonight At School Gym

Lubbock's high-flying Westerners slap their unbeaten record on the firing line again tonight in a game against the 15th troop carrier squadron of South Plains Army Flying school—and the Westerners will be without the services of their dependable guard, Doug McCurry, this time.

The game—Lubbock's sixth of the season—will start at about 8 o'clock at the high school gymnasium, following a contest between the "B" teams of the two participants which starts at 7:15 o'clock. Admission for the doubleheader will be the usual 25 and 15 cents.

McCurry, a smooth floor worker as well as an adept long shot artist, finished his eligibility with the Westerners this week, as he is to be graduated at mid-term.

Bechtol Won't Start

Coaches E. J. (Pinky) Lowrey and J. (Mule) Davis have a strong replacement for McCurry, however, in Bob Brewer, who is quickly rounding into condition after a late training start.

The Westerners' perfect record may well be snapped tonight, for the 15th troop carrier quintet, boasting an array of midwestern stars, is one of the leading teams in SPAFS inter-squadron competition. Only Wednesday night it shot its way into the finals of a double-elimination tournament at the post with a 51-26 victory over the 370th squadron.

Missing from Lubbock High's starting lineup will be Herbert Bechtol, veteran center who has been out more than a week because of illness. Mel Johnson will open at the pivot post, but Bechtol should be able to play at least part of the game, coaches said.

Snodgrass May Start

Starting at forwards for Lubbock will be Bobby Downing and Billy Cope, while Jim Strawn will team with Brewer at the guard positions. Lowrey said a last-minute change in the lineup, sending E. L. Snodgrass in at forward, may be made.

For the 15th troop carrier aggregation, McGary and Hair will be at forwards, McClure at center, and Wallace and Cole at guards. Reserves on the SPAFS team include Murray, Peak, McKay, Nelson, Osbormne and Way.

Tonight's game is the only engagement on the Westerner's cage card this week.

DiMaggios Just One Of Famed Brother Acts In Baseball; Six Delehanty Boys Most Amazing

By CHIP ROYAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baseball brother acts have been almost as frequent as the trapeze and juggling families of the circus. The three DiMaggios were tops in the big leagues last season but there have been diamond families who surpassed the Californians in number.

Big Ed Delehanty and his five brothers probably formed the most amazing set of all time. Ed was the Ted Williams of the Delehantys, a big strapping fellow of 200 pounds, measuring well above six feet.

Del, as he was called, was the only batter to lead both the National and American Leagues in hitting. He spent most of his time in the outfield after breaking into the big time in 1888. His best average was with the Phillies in 1899 when he hit .408 to top the senior circuit.

With Washington in 1902, Big Ed led the American League with a batting mark of .376. He was running a close race for the title in '03, hitting .338, when he suddenly disappeared from a train taking the Senators to Detroit for a July 4th doubleheader. Three days later, Delehanty's body, which had been swept over Niagara Falls, was found wedged between rocks in the river.

Hit Four Homers

Del's lasting achievement was his feat of hitting four home runs in one game. He was the second to turn the trick. Bobby Lowe clouted four for the Boston Nationals in 1894, and two years later Del repeated. It wasn't until Lou Gehrig smacked four round-trippers against the Athletics in 1932 that another batter equalled the record.

Big Del will always be remembered as a hitter, which is only natural as he had a lifetime mark that must have been over .350, but he was a good outfielder and a swift, alert base runner.

Delehanty's playing brothers were Jim, who started with the Cubs in 1901, and played with eight different major league clubs over a 16 year span; Frank, an outfielder who started so brilliantly that Detroit almost traded Ty Cobb for him; Joe, an outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals; Tom, an International League fixture, and Willie, who didn't get far in the big pastime.

Two brother acts have been numerous in baseball. There were Emil (Irish) and Bob Meusel, Bill and Wade Killefer, Harry and Stanley Coveleskie, John and Joe Heving, Pink and Blue Hawley, (the twins so called because they were so much alike they wore ribbons when youngsters to distinguish them), Joe and Luke Sewell, Claude and Clarence Jonnard.

Also Jess and Virgil Barnes, Paul and Lloyd Waner, Dizzy (me and Paul) Dean, Roy and Bob Johnson, Wesley and Rick Ferrell, Fred (Dixie) and Harry Walker, Morton and Walker Cooper, among others.

Entries Total 50 For Gloves

Contests Likely To Last 3 Nights

There's a lot of talk about the manpower shortage these days, but one sport certainly hasn't been too hard-hit by the problem. It's amateur boxing.

The field for Lubbock's district Golden Gloves tournament reached the 50 mark yesterday with the entrance of two Texas Tech hopefuls, one a light heavyweight and the other a middleweight.

With the surprising number of early entries, and a complete team still to come from South Plains Army Flying school, it appeared almost certain that the tournament will be lengthened into a three-night affair.

In the event three nights are required to accommodate the large field, tourney officials said that the additional night will be Monday, Feb. 1, with the two original dates, Jan. 29 and 30, remaining unchanged. A definite announcement, they said, will be made within a few days.

Rushing Enters

As in the past, this year's Gloves event will be held at the Texas Tech gymnasium.

Newest additions to the field are Joe Rushing, the popular Tech freshman footballer from Floydada, and Melvin Robertson, a senior engineering student at the college.

Rushing, who weighs 170 pounds, has entered the light heavyweight division. Robertson, a 155-pounder, joined the middleweight ranks, but said there was a possibility he might be able to make the 147-pound welterweight limit before the tourney begins.

Annual Texas Relays Scheduled April 3

AUSTIN, Jan. 22 (AP)—Heavy men, light men, fast men, slow men, springy men and sluggish men—all can compete in track meets, says Clyde Littlefield, director of the Texas relays.

So they'll hold the annual competition April 3. The program is designed to emphasize wartime benefits of track and field events, he explained.

"Every type boy can participate and we feel these games should be maintained for that reason."

Search Of Records Reveals No String Of Straight Ring Wins Like Willie Pep's Mark Of 58

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—Harry Markson is a nice young fellow who has never been accused of tossing his money around with abandon, so when he phoned to tell you he had a pile of $10 notes to give away, you didn't know whether to run over to get some—or call the keepers to get Harry.

"I," he said over the phone "will give a sawbuck to any and all who bring me the name of a single fighter in ring history with a longer winning streak, as a professional, than Willie Pep's 58 in a row."

Now, Harry is uncle Mike Jacobs' chief drum-beater, and the fact that Pep, the featherweight champion (New York state version), is tangling with Allie Stolz, the "almost" lightweight champion, in uncle Mike's January 29 Madison Square garden show, probably had no more to do with Markson's offer than a gallon of gas has to do with making your car run.

But since a sawbuck can still put meat on the table—if you know where to buy it—and since a rapid mental run-down reminded you of such pretty fair country flailers as Benny Leonard, Harry Greb and never-beaten Jack McAuliffe, you put your record books under your arm and headed for Harry in a hurry. But when you got there the cupboard was bare, because there just isn't a single thumper in the book with a record of straight wins—without draws, no decisions or exhibitions—like the package of Pep from Hartford, Conn., has put together in his three years of mashing noses.

HITTING MAIN IDEA

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 — Jimmy Hines, former Ryder Cup professional, says the way to develop a well-grooved golf swing is to ignore where the ball is going, temporarily, and concentrate on hitting it.

Waner And Cooney Signed By Dodgers

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (U.P.)—The Brooklyn Dodgers gained a measure of security in the war-time major league player turmoil today with the addition of veteran Outfielders Johnny Cooney and Paul Waner, both previously released outright by the Boston Braves.

Faced with a serious shortage in playing talent, particularly in the outfield since Pete Reiser and Rookie Tom Tatum have entered the Army and Dixie Walker has signified his intention of quitting, President Branch Rickey signed the two veterans, sold First Baseman Babe Dahlgren and hired four more scouts.

"Quality becomes secondary to quantity in these days of the draft," Rickey said in revealing the acquisition of Waner, 40-year-old veteran of 17 years in the majors, and Cooney, who is nearing 42 and came up to the big time in 1921.

Rickey admitted there had been lots of "bidding" for Cooney and added that he also had tried to land the veteran Estel Crabtree, signed earlier in the week by Cincinnati, "but the Reds got there first."

Oklahoma Scores 69 In Beating Wichita

WICHITA, Jan. 22 (AP) — Oklahoma university's Big Six co-champions ran up one of the biggest totals in Wichita basket history, defeating Wichita university 69 to 39 last night.

Hitting 16 of 22 attempts at field goals the first half, the Sooners had a lead of 38 to 17 at intermission. Coach Drake played reserves half of the last period.

THREE CHEERS FOR YOU
from
OUR MEN IN UNIFORM

. . . and Thanks to You From Texas-New Mexico and Okla. Coaches

With Your Cooperation, We got 'em home & back for the holidays

Thanks to you, a most critical period in wartime but transportation has been passed with flying colors.

Just before Christmas . . . during the fall of the year, you were reminded that bus travel was not rationed and that the prospects of rationing was not even being considered. You were told also, when you wanted to travel, Texas-New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches stood ready to serve you as in the past. As a result of your cooperation . . . arranging your trips for mid-week, etc., thousands of men and women in uniform were able to go home by bus for holiday leaves and furloughs. While helping members of the armed forces, you also made it possible for agricultural workers in this territory to remain on the job until it was done before returning home.

Texas-New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches will make every effort to see that the service you count on is available when you need it during 1943.

Due to the heavy passenger traffic on all lines, we are compelled to limit all baggage to one piece for each paid fare. May we have your cooperation!

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 1 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chropractic.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC?
The Chiropractor teaches that the brain and nervous system is the root of health. From the brain, nerve energy is distributed through the nervous system to control all parts of the body. When this nerve energy is shut off even slightly between brain and body (by bone displacement in the spine), one or more body functions are interfered with and ill health results. By X-ray, analysis and spinal adjustment the Chiropractor is able to relieve nerve interference and restore normalcy to the affected part. No drugs. No surgery. Nature is the healer.

CASE HISTORY No. 303. A child of eight years who had never walked since birth. Both legs were paralyzed. The case had been described as "hopeless." Chiropractic analysis revealed nerve pressure which was interfering with the flow of nerve force to the limbs. A series of specific adjustments relieved the pressure. Today the child can walk normally.

CASE HISTORY No. 741. This patient had been involved in a motorcycle accident. No serious injury was apparent. However, head pains developed and became so violent that sleep was impossible, and failing health forced the patient to give up his job. Prolonged treatment for "nerves" had failed to achieve improvement, and finally, in desperation, Chiropractic aid was sought. X-ray analysis indicated a displacement of the top vertebra. Adjustment was given and within two days the head pains (continuous for ten months) ceased completely and within two weeks the patient was anticipating returning to work.

CASE HISTORY No. 279. A youngster who had begun to take epileptic seizures when 2½ years old. At the age of 3 he was taking as many as 30 to 40 spells a day, at which time he was brought to a Chiropractor. Within a few days after analysis and spinal adjustment the spells began to decrease. After two months they had seemingly ceased. However, 10 months later he took one more spell, a further adjustment was given, and since that time this boy has enjoyed a normal healthy life.

Hike In Pensions Believed Unlikely

BROWNWOOD, Jan. 22 (AP) — W. R. Chammbers, May, member of the Texas legislature for Brown and Coleman counties, has advised his constituents in letters for publication written to newspaper editors of the two counties, that prospects are gloomy for any new tax to increase old age assistance in Texas to the state's constitutional maximum of $15 per month.

Chambers wrote that the public does not appear to understand that house bill No. 8 of the 47th legislature only increased revenues for social security purposes by $22,753,248.93 since May 1, 1941.

Navy Changes Plans On Casualty Lists

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP) — The Navy announced today that effective immediately all casualties of the Navy, Marine corps and Coast Guard would be announced in a daily list instead of in periodical accumulations as theretofore.

The first daily list, containing the names of 14 men killed, 15 wounded and 43 missing, was made public today. The Navy will continue to follow the policy of notifying next of kin before making the names public.

That Girl on Broadway says always remember that "the man of the hour" didn't get there in a minute.

"Really?" said the bored guest, stifling a yawn. "He must be awfully tired!"

STATISTICS gathered by the Federal Bureau of investigation indicate that murder is the hardest crime to commit so that detection can be avoided. Figures show that 88.1 per cent of all slayers are apprehended. Manslaughter and rape are two other criminal pastimes in which the perpetrator has two strikes on him. In the former category, 86.6 per cent are caught; in the latter, 76.2 per cent.

The East South Central states—where the blood is hot, no doubt—have the dubious distinction of being the "murder belt." They run a little over 8 murders per 100,000 population per year, as compared with New England's 0.59.

The same East South Central territory also ranks first in the matter of robbery, racking up 44.4 per 100,000 while New England, low in robbing as well as in murdering the country over, is charged with 6.1 per 100,000 population.

There is very definitely a connection between the number of crimes committed and the number of policemen on the job.

The East South Central states have only 1.26 peace officers per thousand population, while New England has two officers per 1,000 people.

The FBI's figures also show that the ladies, bless 'em, are becoming more and more of a problem in the matter of lawbreaking.

This year's going to show that something over 10 per cent of the crimes are committed by the "weaker sex" as compared with barely over 9 per cent in 1941.

We heard a couple of business men talking the other day. One had hired, a few months before, a young woman in which the other had a friendly interest.

"How is she doing on her job, Bill?" the employe's friend asked.

"Oh, she's doing pretty well," said the other. "But I turned her loose on some matters the other day and while she tried her best to care for them, she didn't do too well."

"Don't worry about her, then," said the other man. "That shows she's still green—and if she's still green, she's still growing."

That remark sounded more than middling sage to The Plainsman.

Age, or long service in a job, means nothing if the individual is still growing.

How about you? Are you still "green," or have the years seared you to the point where you can grow no more?

PAGE David Harum! The modern American has lost none of the characteristics of the famed Yankee traders of years gone by, judging from bartering negotiations carried on by 41 survivors of a United States freighter which was torpedoed a few weeks ago in the Indian ocean. The surviving crew members reached the African coast after seven days in an open boat without food or water, only to find themselves facing a "welcoming delegation" of huge Africans armed with big knives.

Capt. W. W. Kuhne, of State Island, N. Y., skipper of the lost ship, reports that the natives turned out to be not hostile, but helped the survivors to shore. Then they fed the sailors, taught them to catch crabs—and then engaged in bartering with them.

Two matches were traded by one sailor for four bananas—indicating that the Africans harbored a desire to set the world on fire, or that they had no appreciation of the problem faced by today's American shopper in search of bananas!

Another sailor traded a life preserver for four chickens; still another swapped a knife with a broken blade for an ivory necklace, and still another traded a bandana handkerchief for several pieces of ivory used in dressing the hair.

In short, the cast-aways, all of whom are now back in the Merchant marine service, showed they were just about as good traders as their great-great-grandfathers.

ONE experience the sailors had with the African tribesmen, however, cannot help but raise a grin.

The cast-aways report that the natives were very happy to accept in barter various American coins, but they were very skeptical about $1 and $5 bills.

The mystery, of course, is how these far-off natives found out about the devaluation of American currency!

EVER since the war started, people have commented about the phenomenal boom in the marriage rate and correctly anticipate a correspondingly high increase in the birthrate.

But this trend will not—and cannot—continue, according to Dr. Philip M. Hauser, assistant director of the U. S. Census bureau, who is an expert in the matter of vital statistics.

According to Doctor Hauser, full participation in a hard war probably will drop the marriage rate to a new low, and of course, the birthrate, too.

When the boys come home after the war is won, marriage and birth statistics quickly will mount. Temporarily, says Doctor Hauser, there may be even an increase in the natural population growth.

But these increases cannot be expected to be of long duration, because of military mortality and disability, the imbalance of the sexes of marriageable age and the effects of the war on human motivation in the rearing of offspring.

So just because the marriage statistics and the birthrate have been climbing rapidly in recent months, don't figure this situation will continue indefinitely. It won't.

AND, believe it or not, the eventual waning marriage statistics and accompanying lowered birthrates, will have a decided effect upon future business of peacetime U. S.

Perhaps we will not recognize that adverse reaction on business is due to vital statistics, but it will be.

The American economy has been built on the anticipation of steady population increase and any decrease in the rate of population growth can have serious consequences.

The conclusion of the war will call for greater recognition of the naton's population problems—and those of the rest of the world, as well.

YESTERDAY: The moment Luiet. Dan Sherman, U.S.N., struck Santa Phillips, things began happening. He told the town's best citizens straight out what was wrong with their war effort; a Jap submarine bombarded the shore; a mass evacuation of beach-dwellers was undertaken. Now Mary Garthwaite has been taken out of her plane spotting post and to lunch by Dan—and her fiance, Porter Lloyd, just has spotted her. Porter is annoyed.

Chapter Six

Dan Makes Progress

In the interval that it took Lloyd to cross the crowded hotel dining room, Mary hovered between laughter and tears. She'd never provoked him to anger before. She wasn't at all sure just what he would do.

"Smatter? Seeing a ghost?" Dan asked, his back to the doorway, his blue eyes intent on her face.

"No. Just Porter," she tried to say calmly but there were butterflies in her throat.

"Oh-oh. Caught in the act. Will he shoot me on sight, d'ya think?" Dan grinned, teasing her, and she flushed.

"Don't be ridiculous. Why should he?"

"He knows a rival when he sees one," Dan said calmly, pushing back his chair, turning to thrust a hand toward Porter Lloyd. "Hello, fellow. Glad to see you. Sit down."

Porter shook the hand courteously. "No, thank you, Sherman. I'm lunching with a committee. Sorry." Then he turned to Mary. "Hello, dear. I'd hoped you would be at home taking a beauty sleep by now."

"Oh, don't be stuffy, Port," she laughed, trying to keep her embarrassment hidden behind nonchalance. "He's afraid I'll fall asleep at his mother's party tonight," she explained carelessly to Dan.

And then would have given anything to have the words back. Porter was always so considerate, so very much the gentleman, she was ashamed to be behaving like a spoiled child. He'd hate this sort of thing.

Porter's expression didn't change as he turned to Dan and said, courteously, "Mother is receiving all our friends this evening in honor of Mary. I know she'd be delighted if you could come, Lieutenant."

And now Mary was undone! Porter would never forgive her certainly hadn't expected him to make a scene or challenge Dan to a duel or something! After all, Porter's unflagging courtesy had been one of the things she'd first liked about him.

"Right. See you later," — and tried to set things right again with her smile.

"Now there goes a perfect gentleman," Dan said with candor as they watched Porter limp across the huge dining room to a table marked 'Reserved'. "If you were my girl, and I caught you dating a wolf, I'd beat you both."

Mary's flush deepened. "How fortunate for me, then, that I am engaged to a man who is a gentleman and not a jealous brute."

Dan's grin vanished behind sudden gravity. "Do you love him?"

Mary stiffened. "Well — really, that's none of your business."

"Do you?"

"Certainly."

"No you don't," he contradicted flatly. "He's a nice guy. You feel a little sorry for him that he's had the rotten luck to be injured so he can't get into uniform. You admire him for the sportsmanlike way he is doing what he can to help the fight. You respect him because he's the kind of guy your mother wants you to marry. But you don't love him."

Mary's eyes flashed angrily. "Don't you think you've said about enough."

"Almost—not quite," he continued calmly, his eyes never leaving her face. "The rest is—that you do love me."

Amazed, Mary stared at him. "Are you trying to be funny?"

"Not at all. It's true. You don't know it yet, but you aren't in love with Porter Lloyd. You're in love with me."

Mary pushed back her chair, reached for her coat. And for words with which to put this cocky, conceited smart-aleck sailor in his place. But anger tied her tongue. And humiliation that she'd allowed herself to be caught in a corner like this. She might have known better. Porter had every reason to be hurt and angry that she would spend any time with a fool like Dan Sherman

"If you'll excuse me, I'd like to go now."

"Wait a minute, Mary," Dan caught her arm, the laugh-lines around his eyes crinkling again.

She flung off his arm. "Good-bye," she said pointedly and walked quickly toward the door.

Telling Him Off

She wasn't quick enough to lose him, of course. And all her outraged hauteur felt a little silly as for forcing him into inviting Dan Sherman. She caught Dan's glance, shook her head faintly, formed a soundless "No" with her lips.

Dan's eyebrow slanted wickedly and he smiled as he thanked Porter. "Of course. I'd be delighted to come. Thank you for your invitation."

Mary's look would have slayed. "I didn't know your stay here was to be so long," she murmured.

"Oh, I have two weeks furlough." Dan beamed at her. "I was planning to spend several days of it here."

"Good. And now if you'll excuse me—" Porter nodded to Dan, smiled down at Mary. "I'll call for you about eight, then."

Defeated

Mary saw the forgiveness in his eyes even before she asked for it and felt suddenly, unaccountably, a little disappointed.

What ailed her, anyway! She

Today's Thought

Therefore thus saith the Lord God; Behold, mine anger and my fury shall be poured out upon this place, upon man, and upon beast, and upon the trees of the field, and upon the fruit of the ground; and it shall burn, and shall not be quenched.—Jeremiah 7:20.

This Curious World

Today's Journal Editorial

ANOTHER NATION PICKS THE ALLIES

Perhaps the least significant circumstance in connection with Chile's long threatened diplomatic break with the Axis is the fact that another nation has given proof that it is picking the United Nations to win the war.

Doubtless reports have been entirely true that popular sentiment in the South American republic has been overwhelmingly sympathetic to the United Nations since the outbreak of hostilities. Perhaps it is true that Chile has failed to act sooner because a few corrupt officials in powerful positions were bought by the Axis.

But the fact is reasonably evident, and is one which bespeaks no criticism, that Chile's first interest is itself. No matter where their sympathies might lie, Chileans would not take the risk of offending the Axis if they felt that the Axis still has a good chance to win the war. If they did not try actually to join the winning side they, at least, would try to retain its friendship.

The reasonable presumption is that the Chileans have considered the situation with cold calculation from all possible angles. Their actions are the best proof that they are picking the United Nations to win. Even though this may not be greatly helpful toward the final victory, it should prove cheering to people of the Allies.

FOLLIES of 1943: Freddie McEvoy, who was host to Errol Flynn (it is really Bruce Cabot's house) when Flynn, it is alleged, did certain second-story work, pepped up New Year's morn at the West Side Tennis Club, Hollywood, by bopping Robert Hakim, one of the several Hakim brothers, who produce pictures. Hakim says McEvoy, recently divorced in NY, offended Mrs. Hakim. McEvoy says Hakim flipped a crack about Flynn. Anyway, they sewed Hakim's face up like a baseball and McEvoy was no prettier for a gash from a tumbler smashed on his jaw. Among those who either stepped in or passed out, were Hedy Lamarr, Claire Trevor, David Selznick, the William Powells, Mickey Rooney, the Harold Lloyds and the big new twosome, Arthur Hornblow and Bubbles Schinasi.

Joseph Stalin is studying English. He finds it heavy going. So his teacher got a bright idea—American movies. Through the Soviet Embassy word was sent to the major studios and they contributed a variety of films. Now the teacher feeds him Hollywood dialogue with verbal diagrams—but stumbles and fumbles all over our slang. The dictator went ga-ga over "Three Little Pigs," which was all new to him, and has it run time and again. Each time the disguised wolf says, "I'm the Fuller brush man" (remember?) Stalin looks accusingly at his instructor—who can't find anything in the dictionary to explain what the brush man is full of.

Secretary Morgenthau is in a quandary. His boss, FDR, is the only employe on his payroll whose salary exceeds $67,200, theoretical ceiling for '43. He can't lop off the $7,800 that sticks out, because there is a law forbidding reduction of anyone's pay during term of office set by election. Though the President issued the ceiling order himself, it is not a law and does not therefore supersede the existing law. FDR will be paid his full $75,000. If he chooses to rebate any to the Treasury, the amount will be sent to the conscience fund—there is no other repository for it. It isn't a fine, it isn't a tax, and the Treasury doesn't accept donations.

JESSE Lasky, who did the job on "Sergeant York," has finished his opus on the life of Mark Twain. He got in the wisecrack which rose to a classic and descended to a cliche, about the humorist's death being greatly exaggerated; also the lament that everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it. But he passed up that journalistic remark Twain: "Get all the facts; then you can distort them as you wish." Lasky has enough prime material left over to make one called "Gone With Anthony Adverse."

'Pet' Bills Get Flying Start In New Congress . . .

More Than 1,000 New Measures Introduced

By PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

THE 78th Congress—the one that is going to be the most historic of all times—got off to a flying start. Over 1,000 new bills were introduced on the very first day—759 in the House, a more modest 239 in the Senate. Yes, sir! This new Congress means business. In addition to the 1,000 and more new bills, there were over 800 private bills and resolutions.

EDSON

Taking a closer look at all this back-breaking load of proposed legislation, you discover that a lot of it isn't so new. Hundreds of the proposals are legislative chestnuts that didn't get roasted or pulled out of the fires of oratory in the last session, or the session before that or the one before that. The chances are that nothing will happen to 90 per cent of this legal litter in this session, either.

You might expect that in wartime, all these proposed bills presented before the most historic session of Congress would be of tremendous import, all necessary to the winning of the war. The hard cold fact is that most of it is utterly trivial and you have to look through column after column of fine type listing these bills by title before you find something that is really important to anyone except the individual congressman who introduced it or the individual private citizen who would benefit from the bill, if Congress were to pass it.

DRYS AND DRY CLEANING

TAKE a few samples:

From the Hon. Usher L. Burdick of Williston, N. Dak., a bill to prohibit experiments on living dogs in the District of Columbia.

From the Hon. James J. Heffernan of Brooklyn, N. Y., a bill to provide free laundry and dry cleaning service to members of the armed service while on active duty.

From the Hon. U. S. Guyer of Kansas City, Kan., a bill to prohibit within the District of Columbia the manufacture . . . sale . . . or possession of any spirituous, vinous, malt, fermented and all alcoholic liquors whatsoever . . .

From the Hon. Clinton P. Anderson of Albuquerque, N. Mex., a bill to authorize a per capita payment of $10 to the members of the Santa Clara Pueblo of New Mexico. . . .

From the Hon. John Lesinski of Dearborn, Mich., a bill to grant pensions to certain unremarried widows of Civil War veterans who were married to the veteran subsequent to June 26, 1905.

From the Hon. Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Skowhegan, Me., a bill for the erection of a memorial to . . . Maj.-Gen. Henry Knox.

From the Hon. Fred A. Hartley of Kearney, N. J., a bill to regulate boxing contests in the District of Columbia.

Now most of these world-saving proposals don't get reported in the newspapers, and it's just as well. They are not news and they will most all die a-bornin'. Yet they are all important and the congressional obstetricians in their committee room legislative lying-in wards must pay attention to every one of the brain-children thus conceived.

DEMOCRACY AT WORK

REASON these seemingly petty proposals are important is that this is a democracy and the mere fact that all these trivialities can get consideration of a kind in the halls of Congress is proof that democracy is at work. For in a democracy, theoretically, every Joe Doakes is considered important, even if he's a screwball.

The legislative machinery in a democracy must grind every proposal thrown into its hopper. Out of these 1800 bills and resolutions presented to Congress on its opening day, not more than 180 may ever be passed by Congress. The theory is that the deserving bills will be passed and the bad ones won't. Maybe that's open to question. A lot of time and effort have to be wasted in rejecting the bum ideas, and in war perhaps it is wrong to be concerned with such trivialities.

But bear in mind that in Nazi Germany, where they don't waste time over such nonsense, no members of the Reichstag would dare even propose that $10 per capita be paid to the relatives of the people murdered at Lidice or that the Juden in the ghetto of Berlin be given the protection which Congressman Burdick would extend to the dogs of Washington.

Automobile industries are turning out guns — highly complicated and precision-made to the tens-of-thousandths of an inch — including big 90-millimeter anti-aircraft guns, the envy of the world.

Lubbock's Record In Safety Cited; Mayor To Receive Award

Lubbock holds "the enviable record of being the only city in Texas over 25,000 population that did not have a single traffic fatality last year," a letter to Mayor Carl E. Slaton from the Texas Safety association said Thursday.

It had been previously announced that Lubbock placed first in cities between 25,000 and 50,000 population in a safety contest in 1942. The city also held that place for 1941.

The letter informed Mayor Slaton that mayors of the winning cities in the contest would be extended an invitation to attend the annual session of the association, probably at Dallas, at which time awards will be presented.

Lubbock was awarded a shield-plaque for winning the honor last year and Mayor Slaton went to Dallas to receive the award.

ACTRESS SUSPENDED

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22 (AP) — Columbia studio announced today it had suspended Actress Rita Hayworth, its leading feminine star, following a disagreement over her part in a new picture, "My Client, Curly," with Brian Donlevy. Production of the film has been indefinitely suspended, the studio added.

Abilene Barber Who Fled City Jail Wants His Draft Card Back

"Well, well—now ain't that too bad," said Solon Lea, judge of the corporation court. Or words to that effect.

He tossed across the desk a letter delivered in this morning's mail.

A 45-year-old Abilene barber was asking that his barber's license and selective service registration card be mailed to him—and apologizing at the same time for having run away from the city jail after having served only one day of a month's imprisonment sentence for drunkenness.

"Honorable Judge Lea (the letter began), will you be kind enough to mail me my registration card and barber's license, and hope you'll forgive me for running away . . . you were so kind to me, I shall not forgit you . . . Trusting in God, I never will take a drink again . . . I enclose a 3-cent stamp and I trust you will except my apoliges and trusting you have lots of prosperity and hapiness, trusting I hear from you by return mail—"

Lea said the man had been turned out of jail to do "odd jobs" about the jail premises, after a Bible salesman had vouched for him. "He failed to tell us how fast the barber could run," he said.

Oh, yes—the barber will get his license and registration card, that is if he will call in person at the police desk. Lea craves to hold conversation with him.

Four Juveniles Held For Rifling Cars At Victory Band Concert

A Lubbock public that assembles for purpose of buying war bonds and stamps doesn't like to have its automobiles prowled through while it is so engaged.

Four Lubbock boys, all juveniles except one, will have occasion to be so informed, officials said this morning.

The boys—17, 16, 14 and 12—were arrested at Nineteenth street and Avenue T Thursday night, by a police plainclothesman.

Don Reeder, chief of police, explained:

"They drove up in their car, climbed out and began rifling a car each, while owners were in Senior High school buying bonds at a Victory concert. The special officer had been directed to guard the cars, and he did. He grabbed the nearest boy and proceeded with him up the line of cars, nabbing all four boys."

One youth will be held in county jail pending the filing of charges, and juvenile officials will dispose of the others.

Those who reported their cars ransacked: Cecil H. King of 3710 Avenue Q, S. C. Wilson of 1615 Tenth street, and Edward Turrentine of 3123 Twenty-first street. A gun, shells, flashlight, drivers licenses and gasoline rationing books were reported taken.

A sparkplug has been developed that is resistant to the destructiveness of the lead in aviation gasoline. The insulator is second in hardness only to the diamond.

Miss Perkins' Outlines Views

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins outlined in an interview today what she considers an essential post-war reconstruction program for the wage earner:

Extension of social security "to cover every worker."

Federal work projects "to tide us over in event of a depression."

A carefully planned program to insure care for demobilized members of the armed forces.

Miss Perkins earlier this week outlined in New York an expanded social security plan to extend "from the cradle to the grave" which she said would be presented to President Roosevelt soon The plan would be a comprehensive, contributory social insurance system to cover everyone not now included in the social security system and which, at the outset, would be financed by a 10 per cent payroll tax to be divided between employe and employer.

"The Labor department's chief concern is the wage earner—irrespective of whether he belongs to a union," Miss Perkins said. "And when this war is over, we want to do our part to see that he is taken care of."

She said that her department's concern for the working man today was in sharp contrast to the attitude in 1933 when she became the first woman member of a president's cabinet.

"Then nobody was concerned about the wage earner," she said.

She commented on overlapping of federal agencies in respect to labor functions—creation of the War Labor board and the War Manpower commission—but said she would not seek to incorporate those activities in her own department until after the war.

Another Member Of Lost Battalion Is Heard In Broadcast

Another member, it is believed, of the 131st Field Artillery, which was cut off from the outside world early in 1942 as the Japanese invaded Java, has been heard from, according to a letter sent to Capt. L. E. Boren of 1922 Twenty-fourth, father of one of the men in the "lost battalion" and who is gathering all available information concerning the battalion, comprising for the most part South Plains and West Texas men.

He is Sgt. Roger H. White, a son of Mrs. Allene P. White, 144 Wayside Drive, Amarillo. According to Mrs. White and her mother, Mrs. James R. Parks of Big Spring, the voice, recorded and broadcast via short wave from Tokyo, was familiar, although they could not be positive of its identity. However, the words that were said and the references made to various persons mutually known led them to believe that no one else could have said them.

Mrs. Parks, author of the letter, included an address that relatives of battalion members might use in an attempt to contact them. It was given her by the War department and is as follows: (Name and rank of the man, U. S. Army) Island of Java, in care of the Japanese Red Cross, Tokyo, Japan. Via: New York, N. Y. "Postage Free" should be written in the upper right corner and "Prisoner of War Mail" in the upper left corner.

The purported Sgt. White said he had been in a Japanese prison camp in Java since last March 10. "Conditions are good and we have food, barracks and medical attention," he said, in part.

Lubbock Flier Downs Zero In Unusual Air Fight In New Guinea

Japs Employ New Plan; Still Lose Most Of Planes

BY VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN GUINEA, Jan. 20 (Delayed)—Two dozen or more Japanese fighter planes were reduced to a mere six undamaged craft when they tangled with American heavy bombers today, despite the enemy use of a kind of aerial control tower technique.

A silver Zero plane hovered a thousand feet above the scene of the air battle directing the other Jap planes, American pilots reported. The silver Zero never gave up its press-box view to take part in the fight, the Americans said.

The encounter took place over the ocean off Wewak. After an hour of fighting 12 Zeros had been shot down and six damaged. Some of the American bombers were damaged, but no crew member was injured

Intense Battle

The air battle, one of the most intense the war has developed in this area, started when the Zeros opened a flank attack

A ship piloted by Lt. Frank Dowie of Des Moines, Ia., shot down four Zeros and damaged one to become high scorer for the day. The bomber's wings, bomb bay and nose were badly battered, however, and it came home on three motors. A plane piloted by Major Cecil Faulkner of Bellevue, Tex., brought down two Zeros, and arrived back at its base minus a large piece of rudder and with one engine out of order.

Lt. Roy Olsen of Cedar Falls, Ia., piloted a plane which destroyed three Zeros and damaged one. Lt. George Shaffer of Bartlesville, Okla., helped his crew shoot down two and damage two; and Lt. Charles Cook's plane accounted for one Zero destroyed and two damaged.

Pilots May Be Cited

Major Faulkner added that he and Lt. Dowie were going to try to get heroism citations for Pilots Olsen, Shaffer and Cook for helpinb two crippled planes out of difficulty.

Faulkner said, "Dowie's motor cut out first and his plane started smoking. Then one of my motors cut out and the plane caught afire. The Japs saw me in trouble and immediately concentrated on our two planes.

"One minute I saw a Jap on my damaged wing. The next minute I saw Shaffer there. Was I relieved.

Crippled Ships Protected

"In the same way Olsen got outside of Dowie's damaged plane. Thus we in the crippled ships were protected from both sides with Cook watching the other angles.

"The way those boys kept right against us and fended off every attack was simply swell and we two plane crews certainly owe our lives to their bravery and resourcefulness."

In Dowie's plane Frantz and Sgt. John Filip of Lubbock, Tex., and Corp. Clyde Daniel of Shreveport, La., were credited with shooting down one Zero each. Filip said the radio operator on his plane confirmed that the Zero he hit fell into the sea.

Meanwhile a group of B-25s, the North American Billy Mitchell medium bombers, raided Japanese supply dumps at Lae and set fire to oil supplies. Pilots on this mission included Lt. Raymond Tabb of Blair, Okla.

Ranchman's Rites Are Not Arranged

SPUR, Jan. 22 (Special)—Funeral arrangements were incomplete this morning for W. M. (White) Moore, about 75, widely-known West Texas ranchman who was found badly burned late Thursday in a pasture of his ranch eight miles west of here, where he had been fighting a prairie fire sweeping across his grass land.

Funeral services probably will be held Saturday, according to Campbell Funeral chapel here.

His clothing had all been burned away and the body was badly seared. He had left his home several hours earlier. Discovery of the body was made by Mrs. Moore, who with a son, Jack, had been in other parts of the pasture beating at the blaze. It was not known whether he was overcome by smoke and heat and fell in the path of the fire, or was stricken by a heart attack from overexertion.

He owned and operated the T-41 ranch, comprising several sections of land. He was a former sheriff of King county.

Survivors are the widow and three sons, Thurmond and Jack of this city, and John F., of Fort Worth.

State Nearing Close In Errol Flynn Case

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22. (AP) — The state neared the close of its case today in the trial of Actor Errol Flynn on three counts of statutory rape.

Among witnesses the district attorney's deputies said were yet to be called was Capt. Owen Cathcart-Jones, veteran R.C.A.F. flier and former technical adviser on aviation pictures, identified in previous testimony as a friend of Peggy La Rue Satterlee, 16, chief complaining witness against the actor.

Peggy on the witness stand gave Capt. Cathcart-Jones' age as 43, and her mother, Mrs. Florence Satterlee, said he appeared to be about 32. Both the girl and her mother said he was "not exactly" engaged to Peggy. The mother testified she did not know whether he was married or not.

Peggy's sister, Mrs. Mickey June Norris, who said she is 18, said the flying captain was a frequent visitor at their apartment while she was living with her sister in Hollywood, that he gave Peggy a dress, slacks and shoes, and that "once or twice" he gave her a small amount of money while both sisters were unemployed.

Previously Peggy testified the two girls lived in the captain's Hollywood apartment while he was absent in Canada, and that he had paid the rent on it. She also told of trips she made with him to nearby mountain and desert resorts, with her mother or another woman as chaperone.

Peggy's sister and mother, on cross-examination by Jerry Giesler, Flynn's attorney, admitted the young night club entertainer had represented her age variously as 18 or 21 while working as usher, cigarette girl and show girl in various places of amusement in and near Hollywood.

Cafes Facing Ration Worry

Plans for a rationing system to be applied to restaurants are being worked out, officials of the OPA reported here Thursday.

The plan will apply to sugar, coffee, and proceessed foods, and rationing for restaurants will be inaugurated at the same time that it is made effective in stores. A fair share of scarce commodities will be provided restaurants, hotels, and other institutional users.

Others, which have not yet been posted, will be contained in three broad groups: Boarding houses and similarly operated places, institutions of confinement such as jails, prisons, and insane asylums; the general group including restaurants, hotels, cafes, railway dining cars, drug store and variety chain store lunch counters, roadside stands, and all other establishments not in the two first groups.

These plans will be announced in detail later, and will explain how boarding houses and cafes will obtain rationed commodities. The roadside houses and places in that group are said to present somewhat of a complicated problem as compared with the other institutional users.

Restaurants that kept a record of the number of persons served in December, and the quantities certain commodities consumed during that month, will have simplified their claims, it is said.

For the third group, which includes road houses and roadside stands from the humble hamburger joint to the palatial city or suburban places, the OPA will determine the amounts of rationed foodstuffs to be allowed by multiplying the amounts of each commodity consumed in December by a percentage which is yet to be determined in accordance with the nation's supplies of each food. In addition, the number of persons served will be multiplied by a maximum allowance per person for each food item. OPA will establish these figures and amounts allotted.

Thus will be established the base for each food commodity for the institutional users in the third group.

Five-Point Program Advanced By Barkley

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 22 (AP) Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky) has a five-point program for reconstructing the nation economically after the world conflict.

Speaking last night at a meeting of the Elizabeth lyceum in the Y. M. H. A., Senator Barkley listed the points as:

Reemployment for men of the armed forces in private industry; "a sound bases" for discharge of the public debt; merger of political, racial, religious and economic interests to restore economic strength; elimination of fear of want here and in other countries, and speedy conversion of industries back to peace production.

Houston Has Fourth Fire In Eight Days

HOUSTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Houston's fourth major fire in eight days practically wrecked the Progressive Laundry & Cleaners, Inc., plant Wednesday night.

C. F. Gale, secretary-treasurer of the laundry said the machinery and equipment was worth $40,000. He indicated all of it was destroyed or damaged by the fire and water, and said the investment was a total loss because the company cannot get replacement parts.

Court Declines To Hear Suit On AAA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (U.P.) — A special three-judge federal tribunal refused Thursday to hear a suit in which four wheat farmers are seeking to enjoin Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard from imposing penalties for excess wheat acreage.

The tribunal ruled that the suit adduced "no substantial constitutional question" and ordered it returned to district court.

The farmers, with Rep. William Lemke, R., N. D., as chief counsel, sued in a second attempt to get the issue of AAA penalties before the supreme court. The high court had approved penalties provisions of the law last year but Lemke contended that Justice Robert H. Jaskson "rewrote the constitution" in doing so.

The decision of the three-judge tribunal means that the suit will have to follow the regular route to the Supreme court without taking any shortcuts.

The farmers involved, all of whom have refused to enter AAA acreage agreements, are Kenneth Bender, Clinton, O.; H. H. Beckman, Clay Center, Qan.; Clyde E. Snodgrass, Muddy Creek Forks, Pa., and Alfred Lindauer, Chelsea, Mich.

They contend that the penalty-free acreage provision of the agricultural adjustment act is so stringent as to constitute confiscation of their earnings.

Pay To Legislators In Forces Uncertain

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (AP)—The comptroller's department today revealed it had asked the attorney general for an opinion on what effect the Cramer decision by the supreme court will have on payment of legislators who are members of the armed services.

Four state senators and 13 members of the House are in the armed forces but not all of them are commissioned officers.

The Supreme court yesterday refused to reopen the Cramer case. Judge William M. Cramer of Dallas was granted a mandamus ordering the comptroller to pay his salary for service on the district bench, after the court ruled that Judge Dick Dixon, on leave as an army major, had not vacated the post.

Tech Offering New Course In Drafting

Monday will be deadline for enrollment in a pre-factory drafting course at Texas Technological college, according to announcement Thursday by O. A. St. Clair.

St. Clair urged all interested men and women to contact him immediately to secure blanks to be filed before the deadline.

The course will be offered by the college for Consolidated Aircraft corporation and learners will receive $100 per month while in training. After completion of the course in 12 weeks, trainees probably will be employed in the engineering department of Consolidated "somewhere in Texas" at $149 per month with a raise after three-months to approximately $169 per month.

Twenty-five applicants will be allowed to enroll in the course.

Ration Banking Begins Jan. 27

Jan. 27 has been set as date for ration coupon banking in the three Lubbock banks, according to announcement Thursday.

The War department has asked the banks for this war service. No charges will be made by the banks for the service. It will be carried out under regulations of the OPA. Into these ration bank accounts, wholesalers and retailers will be required to deposit ration coupons received from their customers and against which they will draw ration checks when they order new supplies.

Consumers Not Included

It is expected that only those retailers whose sales in December, 1942, exceeded $5,000 will be directed to open ration bank accounts for handling their deluge of coupons.

Consumers, such as householders, motorists and other individuals, will not be affected by the new system. They will continue to receive their ration coupon books from the rationing boards.

Banks will have nothing to do with fixing the ration allotments or with issuing rations coupons. The ration accounts will in no way affect the cash accounts or checking accounts of the public.

Service Is Free

By depositing their ration coupons, stores may build up their ration bank accounts, which means they will be building up their balances from which to draw pounds, gallons, and other quantity units of the foods and other commodities they may place in their stores for sale to the public.

The retailer simply will draw his check, specifying so many pounds or gallons of the commodity he desires, pass it along to the wholesaler, and the bank charges the check against his total ration credits for the items named. The service is entirely free, and will conflict in no way with ordinary banking accounts, but save materially in the burden of bookkeeping which individual stores and dealers otherwise would have to absorb.

"You looked so darned cute when you're mad," he said, easily matching his long stride to her quickened steps. "I was hoping you had a temper. I'd hate to think you were so damned civilized you couldn't stir up a good mad. Over something important, of course," he amended, still smiling as if this were some huge joke.

"I'm not mad," Mary said, her anger boiling furiously, "and you're certainly not important."

"You are mad. And I am important. Very." He motioned to the driver of the one taxi waiting in the curving drive. "See you later, my sweet."

Mary climbed into the cab, her lips quivering, her eyes full of hot tears. "I loathe you," she said as Dan put his head in at the open window. "I shall dread having to see you again—ever."

He looked at her, those blue eyes suddenly very tender, the smile almost gone. "At least I've made you realize I'm alive, Mary. You've got to admit that's a little progress. If you really don't want me to come to the party tonight, I won't."

"What you do isn't of the slightest concern to me," she said and prayed that the driver would get going before her tears spilled over.

"Really mean that?"—almost wistfully.

"Certainly."

"'Bye, then."

She didn't answer, didn't look up as the car grumbled out of the drive. And she didn't let go of the tears either. No use getting herself all worked up over something that was absolutely of no importance.

If Dan Sherman wanted to make a fool of himself, that was his business. The sooner she forgot about the whole thing, the better.

Salesman's Body Is Found In Hotel Room

FORT WORTH, Jan. 21 (AP)—George Allaway, 64, of Seminole, Okla., believed to be a travelling salesman, was found dead in his hotel room here today a few minutes after he had telephoned the hotel manager and reported that "I'm dying—send a doctor."

In his pocket police found a will, made out yesterday in favor of a brother, S. Allaway, also of Seminole. Several empty medicine bottles were found in the room. Allaway registered at the hotel Jan. 15, and had been receiving treatment at a clinic here. Peace Justice Frank Hurley held an inquest but did not immediately announce his verdict.

Bandit Gets $3,135 From Ft. Worth Bank

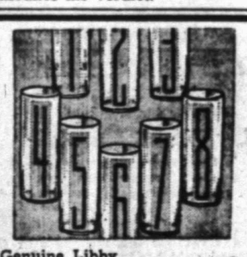

FORT WORTH, Jan. 22 (AP) — An unkempt bandit who held in his hand what he said was a bottle of nitroglycerine, shoved a note under the teller's window of the Morris Plan bank here at 11:30 a.m. today and escaped with $3,135.

The bandit shoved the note toward Mrs. Woodrow Atkinson, teller and demanded $1,000 on threat of death. After receiving the money, all currency, the robber walked out the bank's front door, ran through the business district and disappeared.

Earlier estimates had placed the loss at only from $200 to $500.
