"We" Make Their Final Trip Through The Skies

Lindbergh's Beloved Plane to Rest In Famous Museum

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 30.—A partnership of the heights and distances which has won world-wide acclaim passed into history today as Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh brought his cherished spirit of St. Louis to earth at its last airport.
"We participated in one last long hop. The boy and I landed trans-Atlantic first on the 725 air miles from St. Louis to Bolling field had been spanned in four hours and fifty-eight minutes.
They came to be separated. In accordance with his promise, Lindbergh will forthwith turn his silvered partner over to the Smithsonian Institution. It will take its place there along with exhibits of outstanding American accomplishments which influenced the thought and actions of times past.
Thirty Army planes were "on the line" at Bolling field when the Spirit of St. Louis suddenly was heard overhead. Two other planes, while en route to Langley field for maneuvers, flanked the bomber as it soared toward the landing field. They swept aside as Lindbergh gracefully planned to earth.
He taxied the Spirit of St. Louis to a hangar door, sat quietly a moment and then gathered a Miss

Secretary Hoover is unopposed for the presidential endorsement on the Republican ticket and his popularity in his home state Republican leaders said today would be indicated by the difference between the number of registered Republicans and the number of votes cast for him tomorrow.
Managers of the campaigns of the rival Democrats all claimed victory today.

FINED FOR THEFT

One Dollar and Costa Levy Is Made
Too many trips to the neighborhood corner resulted in a white man being fined one dollar and costs on a charge of theft in the county court here yesterday.
The man entered a plea of guilty to theft after he had admitted to county officers that he had bought groceries from a boy who had bought groceries on credit in the name of a woman in the neighborhood. The boy represented himself to the scanner as being a visitor in the home of the woman to whom the groceries were charged.
Groceries were bought on three different occasions.

Committee Will Probe Campaign Funds This Year

Dawes Will Appoint Men To Keep Eye On Expenditures of Presidential Candidates.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 30.—By Senate decree, expenditures in this year's presidential campaign will be brought under the rigid scrutiny of a special committee of five Senators to be appointed by Vice-President Dawes.
A resolution calling for this investigation was adopted today by the Senate almost immediately after its introduction by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who acted after a conference with his party associates. Demands for such an inquiry had been voiced on the floor repeatedly during the past few weeks and the resolution was adopted without discussion or a roll call. It is virtually identical with the Borah resolution approved in 1926, which led to disclosures of huge expenditures on behalf of the late Major General Leonard Wood and former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois.
Plans for the investigation were held up tonight waiting for the appointment of the five senators who are to conduct the inquiry. Under the terms of the Robinson resolution, however, blanket authority is extended to explore every aspect of campaign expenditures by or in behalf of candidates either for nomination or election to the presidency.

X-Ray Will Make Hens Bigger, Says Famed Scientist

Discovery Holds Immense Possibilities For Science; Means Better Eggs For The General Public.

CLAUDE G. BOWERS
A reputation made at the Washington Jackson Day banquet has resulted in Claude G. Bowers being chosen to deliver the keynote address at the coming democratic convention at Houston. Bowers is an editorial writer on the staff of the New York World.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 30.—The treatment of fertilized hens eggs by x-ray "so that only female chickens can be hatched" was one of a series of remarkable experiments described to the Associated Press today for the first time by Dr. William H. Diefenbach, of the Flower hospital.
The experiments extending over three years, he said, have brought to light that chickens hatched from eggs which have been exposed to x-ray show certain marked peculiarities. Exposures up to several hours produce chickens with deformities or mutations from normally inherited characteristics such as absence of wings.
In many instances, he explained, these mutations are for the better and tend to create a new and improved species of chickens. Dr. Diefenbach and his associates in the New York Homeopathic Medical college and Flower hospital regard the results of the experiments as of extraordinary importance to the scientific world, involving factors of great interest to the general public as well.
Means Bigger Chickens.
To the scientist, Dr. Diefenbach believes his discoveries hold out the definite prospect of reaching the ultimate goal of all biological sciences, the control and understanding of the life force itself.

CHINESE FIGHTING

Battles Between Armies Continue
SHANGHAI, April 30.—(AP)—Heavy fighting between the north and the south, with its characteristic puzzling ebb and flow, continues. The immediate objective of the struggle is for the possession of Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, lying about 230 miles to the south of Peking. Both sides are said to be suffering heavy losses.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—Germany has accepted completely, without reservation or qualification, the American proposal for a treaty renouncing war and has declared readiness to enter into the necessary negotiations with the governments of such a pact.
This attitude was fully set forth in a note to the United States, dated April 27 and made public here today, which concluded with the opinion that "This new guarantee for the maintenance of peace must give a real impulse to the efforts for the carrying out of general disarmament."

IRISH CAPTAIN IS CENTER OF INTEREST

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 30.—The German-Irish crew of the trans-Atlantic airplane Bremen was given a welcome today that left the trio gasping.
"Overwhelming," Major Fitzmaurice exclaimed when at last it was all over. And Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, and Captain Hermann Koepl, nodded in agreement. "I am sure that since the days of ancient Rome, such a sight was never witnessed before," the Irish major added.
It was a day of festival and the city turned out to do honor to the heroes from a foreign shore. Enthusiasm seemed to have no bounds and no jarring note was heard in all the tumult of friendly greeting.
Fliers Were Nervous
The fliers had heard in advance something of the strenuousness of New York welcomes, and at first they were slightly nervous. The Baron even stuffed cotton in his ears lest the sound of carnival be too piercing for him to stand.

POINCARÉ "INDORSED"

French Favor His Delegates Overwhelmingly
PARIS, April 30.—(AP)—The plebiscite for Monsieur Poincaré, as the elections are regarded by the average Frenchman, has made the union government solid for whatever length of time the C. A. Vermon require to finish his job. That is the general opinion of yesterday's results.
M. Poincaré may have the same opinion, but the haste the premier made in issuing a decree for a five percent loan to check part of a floating debt indicates that he intends to lose no time in any case.

Teachers Guilty Penalty Applied By Turk Court

(By Associated Press)
BROUSSA, Turkey, April 30.—Three American teachers in the American school here, Miss Edith Eanderson of Berkeley, Cal., Miss Lucille Day and Miss Jennie Jison, today were pronounced guilty of contravening Turkish regulations against dissemination of religious propaganda.
The Broussa Court sentenced each woman to three days in prison and to pay a fine of three lira (about $13). Because the teachers are woman and foreigners they were permitted to make the American school their prison with the promise that they stay inside the grounds.
The women, who have denied violating the regulations regarding religious instruction, immediately gave notice of appeal and the sentence were withheld pending the decision of the superior court.
Miss Sanderson and Miss Day were found guilty of attempts to convert students, and Miss Jison, who has been head of the school for 16 years, was convicted for allowing grace to be said before meals and for observance of Sunday.
Miss Sanderson and Miss Day plan to go to Constantinople tomorrow. Miss Sanderson is going to Italy Thursday, but said that she would return to Turkey to serve her sentence if the superior court sustains the trial judge.

Fynn today, against Timothy and Buford Ingram. Both are residents of Nimrod and are in jail at Eastland.
According to Postal Inspector E. O. Smith, two men awoke Allen from his bed at about 10 p. m. on March 7.

The resolution was reported to the senate by a vote of 7 to 5 after it had been modified to have the board "advise against" rather than "take steps to restrict" further expansion of the loans.

SMITH, MAN ON TRIAL, HAD CHANCE TO FLEE

(By Associated Press)
ABIENE, April 30.—Victor Ramos, Mexican wounded when two of his countrymen were killed in front of the bank there Dec. 23, told on the witness stand Monday afternoon of his employment by C. C. Baze and Lee Smith on the fatal date in Smith's trial for murder here. Baze broke jail some time ago and is still at liberty.
At the time of the slaying, Baze announced that the men killed were in the act of robbing the bank, exhibiting a sack of crude burglar tools he said belonged to the Mexicans. Later he confessed that he had "framed" the men to collect the $5,000 reward offered by the Texas Bankers' association for "dead bank bandits."
Ramos told of being pled with liquor and transported on a truck to the bank, where he and the other Mexicans were told to wait. Baze and Smith departed, he testified, and on their return Baze cried: "let's go." The firing then began, he recounted.
"Let's run," Ramos testified. "I did not see Smith with the gun. My back was to him. Baze followed me. I was shot four times. Baze struck me with his gun. He said 'I'll let you go, but you ever come back I'll kill you.'"
Smith could have escaped early Sunday morning, when L. P. Hamilton broke out of the jail, Sheriff H. T. O'Bar reported Monday. Hamilton, who pleaded guilty to See MEXICAN TELLS, Page 6

Dialect Of Ozark Regions Puzzling

'Shepherd Of The Hills', A Lindsey Theatre Cinema, Is Full Of Drama Of The Mountain Section

"The Shepherd of the Hills," brings the strange, primitive people of the Ozark mountains of a generation ago to life on the screen, with a thoroughness never approached by fiction. This is the screen version of Harold Bell Wright's most famous novel, produced by Charles R. Rogers for First National pictures.

Even this big drama of the Arkansas-Missouri backwoods now at the Lindsey theatre cannot bring to the ears of spectators unfamiliar with the region, the language of its people. It must be heard to be appreciated. However, here are a few bits of Ozark dialect, which provides a puzzle to linguists and scholars who are striving to trace its origin and growth.

"You-uns come to see we-uns soon. We-all gets a right smart thinsome."

"Pap's feelin' peaked, an' max ain't peert neither."

"Hi's too bad. What kind uv misery they got?"

If you were a grocery clerk, and someone asked you to "put that pone in a poke," would you know what to do? In Ozark dialect, that means, "Put that loaf of bread in a sack."

Alce B. Francis plays the title role in "The Shepherd of the Hills," which Al Rogers directed. Other principal characters who step from the pages of the great author's Ozark novel to the silver sheet are portrayed by Molly O'Day, John Ecles, Matthew Betz, Romayne Fielding, Ota Harlan, Joseph Bennett, Maurice Murphy, Marion Douglas and John Westwood.

THE WOMAN'S DAY By Allene Sumner

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford are very, very sure that the old-fashioned dances are infinitely superior to the modern ones. A news dispatch says that while enroute to Europe under assumed names, Mr. Ford suddenly sprang to his feet at a ship's dance, said, "Folks, let me show you how much more fun you can have dancing like this," gave the old-fashioned tunes to the orchestra, and with Mrs. Ford led the hops and reels.

Perhaps I'm overly squeamish, but this imposing of one's own preference upon other people seems to me rather poor tact, and it will take more than the Fords to convince me personally that the thin squeaky tunes of "Turkey in the Straw" and the jigs and prancings of the old dances are a bit preferable to the new.

SO SURPRISED: A Chicago youth recently bought a marriage license before asking the girl to marry him. He seemed awfully surprised when she would not, and today mournfully reflects on his wasted license money. But, after all, why should the youth be so snickered at? CLEANING UP ON CRIME

A burglar's intrusion into the home of a San Antonio citizen recently resulted in a real tragedy. The latest of outrages which has been plaguing the nation of recent months consisting of robberies, burglaries, thefts, hi-jacking, stealing of automobiles and other kindred crimes.

Attacked and choked into insensibility by the masked burglar, who at the points of two revolvers demanded a valuable diamond, Mrs. A. H. Huber died soon after from the effects of a shock which a weak heart could not overcome. She was alone at the time, but neighbors' lights were burning and it seems incredible that a man should attempt a robbery under such circumstances in the early evening hours, when the probabilities were strong that the victim's outcries would lead to his capture.

Had further provocation been required to move the authorities and the community to an effective clean-up of crime conditions, surely this outrage and its shocking consequence would supply it. Other cities similarly plagued have rid themselves of the evil at least temporarily. Let this be the signal for an intensive drive against these criminals, and it should not be relaxed until they are behind the bars or driven from San Antonio. Evidently the burglar knew that the family possessed this valuable gem, and that the head of the house was absent. These inferences, together with the description given by the victim, provide clues which should result in his capture. Swift trial and punishment discourage these crimes as nothing else can do.

Burglaries, hold-ups and homicides are rare in London, where such official records are the rule rather than an exception. This nation seems to be having more trouble along this line than ever before, and there is a reason for it. Just what that reason is we do not know. There are many reasons assigned, and possibly no one of them is responsible for all, but we know that there is one thing that is encouraging crime, and that is the failure of juries to convict, and render punishment adequate to the crime.

The failure of the citizenship to back up the officers in the full discharge of their duty. We are not inclined to be in sympathy with the idea that some folks have that the officers are not doing their duty. Officers in many towns do not have the proper co-operation from the citizenship in general. They spend a great deal of money running down criminals, only to have them turned loose by a citizens jury on some technicality or other, and the officer is criticised for having pinched some have them turned loose by a citizens jury.

Back up the officers and help to stamp out crime, which can be done by the co-operation of the people and the officers.

RAILROAD TO THE SOUTH

In this day and time a statement like this would not excite any very great attention. "A railroad to the South." Twenty years ago it would have excited every inhabitant in this part of the country and we would have all been on our toes, and rearing to sign a right-of-way contract and bonus note. Now, while the need is not foreseen with such ease, there is a significance to the statement that may be in the background that would mean much to this territory. The following from the San Antonio Express might awaken an interest in a proposition that while rather remote at this time, may some day in the near future develop into something that will be really interesting.

The Express says: "Encouraging news with regard to San Antonio's long-needed railroad to the northwest has just been announced by R. W. Morrison, president of the Gulf and West Texas Railroad company. He is informed that the St. Louis-San Francisco management is 'pleased with the findings' of G. L. Oliver, traffic manager, and Col. F. G. Jonah, chief engineer, who recently completed a preliminary survey of the prospective route, in regard to topography and tonnage.

"Final decision as to whether the St. Louis-San Francisco will undertake this construction, of course rests with its directorate; but the outlook is hopeful. The enterprise is one in which any great transportation system well might be interested, for its potential and immediate profits.

"This is such an opportunity for empire building as can be found hardly anywhere else in the country. So far as tonnage is concerned, it is already there in quantity sufficient to put the line on a paying basis at once. The investigators evidently were convinced on that score; offerings in every town visited were greater than they had expected.

"The region's staple commodities—wool and mohair, cotton, fruits and vegetables, livestock and poultry, pecans, marble and granite, graphite and other minerals—would start moving as soon as the line was open and would increase in volume as the territory developed. Touch with the outside world, easy access to markets, surely would infuse new life into all these industries. Settlers would move in, farms be cleared, mines opened, factories built and towns spring up along the route.

"Following the usual course, this railroad would create most of its own tonnage. Furthermore, the line would become the Panhandle's direct route to the sea. It would haul wheat, cotton and oil from that rich, populous, fast growing territory to the Gulf for export. That traffic—already impressive in volume—now reaches seaboard in roundabout fashion, going many miles out of the way. It would be worth while to build the railroad for this business alone.

"Being accustomed to look ahead, the St. Louis-San Francisco directorate may be expected to take these facts into consideration."

LITTLE TREES

Evergreens have become tremendously popular the last few years. The commercial nurseries are hardly able to keep up with the demand. Every new house owner feels that he has to have at least a few cedars, pines, rhododendrons, etc., to drape around the house, and owners of long standing yield to the current fashion. It may be merely a fad, but it is a beautiful one, worth perpetuating. Naturally, when there is such a demand, evergreens are expensive. A certain citizen in Temple, however, possessing an unusual love for evergreens and not able to afford half as many as he wants has installed a little private nursery of his own. Every spring he buys from some good nursery two or three dozen little evergreens, "mail order size," which are inexpensive and do not occupy much room anywhere. He sets them out in a favorable spot, as if they were so many perennial flowers, and watches them grow. As they gain growth, he sets them around the place where they fit in. Little by little, in the course of a few years, he is developing a beautiful yard, filled with evergreens of many kinds, every one of which he knows personally, and all of which have cost him no more than his smoking tobacco. It is worth the cost and trouble, he says, merely to have the fun of shifting and arranging those little trees around the yard as a woman moves her furniture.

COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE

A woman writer in a late magazine says that companionate marriage is a new thing. There is nothing new about it except the name. As far back as history records men have been willing to undertake a union that was that in name only. The lax observance of the marriage vows and the institution itself was one of the causes of the French Revolution. It had to do with the fall of the Roman Empire. While somewhat new in this country, for the last 25 or 30 years we have been hearing of affinities, trial marriages and the like. So companionate marriages are not unlike trial marriages, except that the companionate marriages are carried out with some semblance of a ceremony but with nothing in the ceremony to make it more binding than the affinity union and the trial marriages were. It is true that men and women both enter into the marriage vows without as much seriousness as they imply, and many a union, after all the vows have been taken, is disrupted. So if a woman cannot promise herself security and safety after the most solemn and sacred pledges, what can she hope the outcome will be in a union where no obligation is imposed. Our institution of marriage may be faulty and there may be some way to perfect it to a point where there will never be a disunion, but it is quite sure that to relax or require less obligation is not the way to reform it, and the institution as it stands, and as it should stand, has been the surest safeguard of woman's happiness throughout the history of the entire world.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that there is a man in Lubbock who is mean enough that he does not want his neighbors to leave their children at his house while they (the neighbors) are off having a high ball time at some dance or card party. He must have a terrible disposition, but after all we have investigated this thing and we find that there are very few people who really enjoy that, and while some of them may smile and tell you they do not mind it, we believe they are the smallest liars that ever lived.

DAIRYING AND HEN RAISING. As an outgrowth of the agricultural diversification program advocated by the West Texas chamber of commerce, a dairy-minded and poultry-minded West Texas has resulted.

Development in these two industries in West Texas has been phenomenal. The cow and chicken population has been augmented materially. Hundreds of fine dairy cows from northern states have been imported, and scores of hatcheries have sprung up that do custom hatching of fine eggs coming from nationally known poultry farms.

Many Farmers Helped. To make the diversification program more effective, the poultry and dairy bureau of the West Texas chamber of commerce was created last year and the "Big Game" assigned to that division was sent to California to study the successful methods employed in that state. This man was E. M. Whiteaker, exhibit-agricultural manager of the West Texas regional organization.

The Panhandle Plains claims greatest development in dairying lines. A dairy association was formed in that section, and reports of its members shows increase in dairy cattle since 1925 from 10 to 80 and 90 percent. The association recently staged the largest dairying show held in the history of the southwest. Whiteaker, who attended, is authority for the statement that the greatest gathering of high grade dairy cows shown in Texas, and that it foretold one of the sanest and most profitable developments yet made in this state.

The Impulse of May Day

By Aida De Acosta Breckinridge (National Chairman of Child Health Day)

Into the minds of a preoccupied and rushing people the idea of May Day for Child Health dropped five years ago, as an inspirational medium to focus thought upon wholesome childhood at the traditional festival time of spring.

A new racial hope has sprung up in all countries since the war. From sacrifice of life and maintenance of youth, in every nation where war touched, people have turned toward health and wholeness with a desire for a youth vigorous and untrammeled.

Germany is fostering among her young people a cult of health. In Italy we see Mussolini drilling his hosts of young Fascists for physical vigor and encouraging an increase of the birth-rate. In other countries there is a similar tendency.

In America, also, has stirred this new hope; but where in the older nations one feels back in the impulse the grim fear of war and the passion to survive, here one realizes that it is the expression of a desire not bred from without by a fearful government, but, uniform, from within—a natural impulse by a nation rearing its children for peace.

The impulse of May Day to stir a nation of a hundred million people to free its children from handicaps and give them health rights beyond those hitherto known, held in it something so kindling to the imagination that it could not well lose its poetic impulse. Under its stimulus remarkable results have been accomplished.

In the large, May Day has become a means of permeating the whole nation with higher standards of health for children, and the hope of wholeness. Specifically, it is helping to build machinery which reinforces these standards and fulfills this hope. Every state in the union, as well as Hawaii, last year had a May Day organization.

In thirty-five states that organization centered in the state boards of health, which means that there was official motive power back of this "poetic impulse."

The machinery which has developed is taking on permanence. In a number of states and communities May Day committees are continuously active throughout the year, May Day serving as a point of initiation and climax.

Leading national organizations have in several instances used May Day as a pivot about which they build campaigns looking toward the end of freer and happier childhood. Such, for instance, is the Summer Round-Up inaugurated by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers—a campaign to make every first grader enter school physically fit, as an asset instead of a liability.

The American Federation of Labor has taken May Day as a medium through which to inject interest in the health of children into its local groups and auxiliaries. So strong has its endorsement of May Day become, that at its convention in Los Angeles in October, 1927, the AFL passed a resolution to urge congress to make May 1 as official Child Health Day, and this move was compared with labor's initiation of legislation for compulsory education and of legislation against child labor.

The health officers of the country recently, through their executive committee, education and of legislators in schools throughout the state. Seven per cent of the total school enrollment received Five-Point certificates. One school in the state achieved a rating of 100 per cent Five Point children.

Another state reported, as a result of May Day activity, 16,000 children immunized against diphtheria.

The District of Columbia announced the inauguration of a diphtheria-immunization campaign so active that "it will be carried forward until diphtheria is stamped out of the District of Columbia."

These results, typical of those in every state, testify to more than lip service. May Day is bearing fruit.

Boston Sailor Is Complete Master In Brief Battle

French Canadian Floored Several Times Before Final Haymaker Landed By Sharkey.

By ALAN J. GOULD.
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, April 30.—After having talked and fiddled his heavyweight picture for this year, Jack Sharkey suddenly came to life tonight and knocked out Jack Delaney, the one-time raper of the north, in one minute, 13 seconds of the first round.
Sharkey and vicious, Sharkey leaped at his lighter foe at the top of the ring, had him punch-drunk in less than 30 seconds, and shortly after taking the count of 10 from his crushing a right-hand uppercut as has landed in any ring or on any jaw, for several months.
Delaney didn't land a blow and made only a few faint gestures. The French Canadian's handsome features were twisted grotesquely and he went to one knee from the effects of the first onslaught of his punches. He lay motionless for a moment, then he struggled to his feet, only to go down easily from a smashing right hander. Delaney was able to stagger up at nine but he was "out" on his feet. Sharkey lunged and swung a right uppercut from his heels. Delaney went down as if hit by an axel over and squirmed in agonized fashion on his face. Blood poured from his mouth and one ear. He picked the fallen boxer up and carried him to his corner, dead to the world, while the roar of the crowd reverberated to the rafters. Sixteen thousand spectators, including the famous Transatlantic crew of the airship Bremen, sitting in the front row with Mayor Jimmy Walker, saw the shortest and most sensational heavyweight fight staged in a long time.
Delaney, revived in a few minutes, seemed little the worse for his setback, his first knockout since August Rattner flattened him several years before he became a head-liner and a champion.

GOLFING LUCK

Champion and Challenger Meet in First Round

LONDON, April 30. (P)—The luck of the golfing in the British Women's championship today decreed that Miss Simone Thion De La Chausse, defending champion, or Miss Glenna Collett, the most serious American threat will be removed in the first round of the tournament starting May 14. An unkind golf fate that threw these two sterling women players in a match in the first test will deprive the gallery of anticipation relish in following their play.

Tomb of Torture Mummified Bodies Found in Cave

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, April 20. (AP)—A theory that 100 persons had been tortured and buried alive, possibly during the days of the Spanish conquest, was advanced today as an explanation of the discovery of mummified bodies in a mountain cave near San Juan Nepumoceno.

The muscles of the face of one body buried here were sharply contracted, indicating intense suffering preceded death. Those who traveled the foot of the cave said the bodies of even the women and children showed their hands had been bound together with strings about their thumbs.

Some of the mummies were ranged against the walls, the majority were squatting on the floor, while others were in a more distorted position.

His present appearance opened with Bourquin on the bench at 10 o'clock. The plaintiff was there, also the defendant, his attorney, the witnesses and prospective jurors. The plaintiff's counsel wasn't present.

Seven minutes later, in boss the plaintiff's attorney, with an explanation that he was caught in a traffic jam.

"Case dismissed," was the judge's retort. An appeal for reinstatement brought a request for the lawyer to see Bourquin later in the day. He was presented with a bill for $180, for others' time, and a statement, in part as follows:

"That was rather a stock excuse, and doubtless will be urged by delinquents when Cabral's horn is sounded for the last great trial and judgment day.

The remedy is to start sooner. Business of courts demand punctuality. The collective personality of the court is not to cool its heels about the corridor until parties and counsel condescend to dawdle in case reinstated."

The fine—which was paid—was itemized as follows: Fee of 27 jurors, called and dismissed, $110; appearance fee for opposing counsel, $25; obstruction of the administration of justice, $25.

Farm Bill Debate Keeps House Busy

Longest Session of Present Congress Is Held Monday — Both Sides Divided Equally.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, April 30.—Debate on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill today led the house into its longest session of the present congress, the members being called back after the dinner hour to continue the discussion.

It was made necessary by the large number desiring to talk on the perplexing farm problem and during the eight hours set aside today for debate the speakers for and against the measure were divided about equally.

Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican leader, in arranging the day's program, said that the three hour night session, from 8 to 11 would be in addition to the 12 hours originally allotted for general debate. Whether the bill will be taken up Wednesday for consideration with amendments in order however, has not been decided. The merchant marine committee previously was granted the right to say on that day and if it should insist upon this right, the farm bill would go over until Thursday.

Texas Democrats Reach Agreement In Party Muddle

Statement Signed by Heads of Two Factions Pleads Solid Front For Harmony On Dry Platform

(By Associated Press) HOUSTON, April 30.—An agreement between leaders of the Democrats of Texas and the Constitutional Democrats reached at a meeting at Dallas Thursday was made public today by Lynch Davidson, chairman of the Democrats of Texas.

Mr. Davidson said the agreement was signed by Gov. Dan Moody, Cullen P. Thomas, Cato Sells, C. M. Johnson, C. C. Renfro and M. M. Crane.

The agreement embodies adherence to the pledge to support any nominee of the democratic party at the Houston convention, instruction of delegates to vote as a unit for a dry platform and to work for the nomination of a candidate in harmony with the platform, and co-operation in the selection of delegates to precinct, county and state conventions known to favor such a platform.

The statement follows: "To the democrats of Texas: At a meeting of representatives of the Constitutional Democrats and the Democrats of Texas held at the Baker hotel Thursday evening, April 28, the statement issued by Lynch Davidson, chairman of the Democrats of Texas, and V. A. Collins, chairman of the Constitutional Democrats, on Tuesday, April 24, was fully approved and ratified, and full and complete co-operation of the two groups for purposes announced in said statement was pledged by those present. The text of the agreement is as follows:

Integrity of Party
"That all democrats should recognize that the integrity of the democratic party is of vital concern; that party loyalty is necessary and therefore, regardless of the so-called groups or organizations, they should attend the precinct conventions on May 5 and participate in the same and take the pledge in good faith.

"The support of the resolutions under which the voting influence of Texas in the national convention will be cast continuously as a unit for the dry platform, and the nomination of a candidate who is in harmony with such a platform.

"Co-operation in the election of delegates to the county, state and national conventions who are known to favor such platform and will faithfully carry it out."

Appeal to Broadest
"We therefore appeal to all democrats of Texas to favor prohibition as now written in the constitution to attend the precinct conventions in their respective precincts and qualify to participate therein by taking the pledge in good faith and work together in harmony to secure the indorsement of resolutions demanding that a strong prohibition plank in the national platform and nominations of candidates for president and vice president in harmony with such platforms and the selection of such delegates to the county conventions as can be depended upon at all times to stand for such platform."

Legion Minstrel Gets Hand From Audience at Tech

Wide Range of Comedy Is Interspersed With Occasional Touch of Real Music; Again Tonight.

Lubbock giggled, snickered and then broke out into uproarious laughter in the high school auditorium last night as members of the Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion went through various antics and juggled witticisms to score a big hit with their blackface minstrel before an audience of approximately 700 people. Fully that many are expected for the second performance tonight.

From the rise of the curtain, when 30-odd members of the Post faced the audience in burnt cork make-up until the "That's all" was sounded, hearty applause greeted the show. The program showed a wide range of comedy, with an occasional touch of real vocal art sandwiched in between.

Although various acts drew more applause than others, stars in the cast would be hard to name. Perhaps a greater part of the praise for the success of the show should go to W. P. Knox, the director but of the choruses under the direction of Harry Blocker and H. D. Carlock and that of Bob Stevenson at the piano. Harry Garden with his dancing and the wit of W. T. "Tanlac" Strange adding much to the show.

With "wise-cracks" flying back and forth from end-man to interlocutor various songs featured. Interlocutor Carlock opened the show with his interpretation of "Girl of My Dreams," joined in the chorus by the group. Other songs, "Magnolia" by Bob Peck, "Just a Memory" by H. S. Brown, "I Ain't Got Nobody" by Clyde Backenstos, "Over the Billowy Sea" by L. M. Brooks, "Rhythm" by J. A. Raley, Jr., "In the Garden of Tomorrow" by Harry Blocker, and "It All Belongs to Me" by Harry Garden.

Opening the second part of the program, J. W. Wiggins presented several clever slight-of-hand tricks which were followed by a burlesque of Will Rogers by W. P. Knox, who seemed adept in handling the ropes also, keeping the loops spinning all around him as he talked of "what he reads in the Avalanche-Journal."

"The Harmonica Four," armed with old-fashioned French harps drew an ovation from the audience. Selecting as his text, "As Ye Show, So Shall I Peep," Rev. "Tanlac" Strange delivered his sermon on women's clothes, stating that they "were making a pretty good showing" in "trying to make both ends meet" in the wave of economy in clothes which is sweeping the nation. His quick-witted remarks kept the audience in a continual laugh throughout.

day with full delight shouting and waving their hats like boys on a holiday.

The day's program began in mid-morning with a tour of the harbor in the city tug Macom. Major Fitzmaurice, laughing like a boy excused from school, took over operation of the tug siren and kept it booming for an hour. His German comrades laughed and joked in broken English, and all expressed their wonder at the honor being shown them.

When the Macom docked at the battery 50,000 people were massed there and the cheers rolled over the lower city like thunder. Led by 10,000 troops and surrounded by police, the fliers rode up Broadway through a blizzard of ticker tape wafted down from the high windows of the financial district.

Over all the route they traveled, the choruses under the direction of Harry Blocker and H. D. Carlock and that of Bob Stevenson at the piano. Harry Garden with his dancing and the wit of W. T. "Tanlac" Strange adding much to the show.

While speeches of welcome followed one after another, the wives smiled over intervening heads at their husbands, and little Patsy, yawning in unfeigned boredom. One, she made a dash over two tugs to reach her father, but was caught and restrained.

"I am earnestly opposed to the acceptance of the Dallas offer of $1,500,000 and 1,000 acres of land because, I think it is hopelessly too small to be considered worthy of so great an undertaking.

"The proponents of its acceptance are, in my judgement, swept off their feet by what appears a great offer. What are the facts stripped of all the glamour of city building and visions of real estate profits?"

"The money would erect larger buildings, all totally fireproof structures, better than the ones we have here, but note the fact: it overlooks the fireproof modern structures already on our campus, the replacement values of which are over a third of the cash offer.

"The Dallas offer overlooks the utility of the other buildings on our campus, the replacement costs of which all told will use by the most liberal consideration, every dollar of the $1,500,000.

"Dormitories inadequate. "On a no campus five or six miles from the city, there would be no homes for boarding students other than the dormitories. Merely to start with one dormitory for men and another for men would be hopelessly inadequate to house such a student body as is now in Waco.

Small Items Of Real Interest

The thermometer went to a high mark of 90 degrees yesterday for the first time this spring. Old timers aver, however, that more such warm days will be conducive to breaking the drought which has gripped this section for the past months.

A new top price for the steady advancing cotton market was set yesterday in a day of heavy trading on the New York exchange. Cotton advanced some $2.50 a bale and closed at a mark about $2 ahead of the previous close. The market has been steadily advancing for the past month and farmers who "held" their cotton will profit accordingly.

Though even the old reliable Associated Press failed to notice the day, April 2 was the date on which William Edward Hickman was originally supposed to have been executed. The legal sand thrown into the wheels of California justice has caused the case to be held up with the prospect being that several months yet await before action will be taken on an appeal to the supreme court.

Members of the American Legion minstrel cast paraded the streets yesterday afternoon as an advertisement move. It was a rather amusing spectacle to see staid business men parading along with paper umbrellas and paper caps. However, it was a good advertising stunt.

Physics experiments recently conducted at the Tech elicited comment from a Missouri citizen who said that he wondered if the prevalent use of radios had not had something to do with the large number of disasters, such as tornadoes, floods, etc. Evident the "Show Me" man had just been trying to tune in on some program and had been blanked by static or interference from a neighbor. Radio waves are of the same character as light waves, and it is just as reasonable to say that daylight caused the disasters. Radio may have caused domestic disasters by its entry as a discordant member of the family fireside, but don't blame the tornadoes on the radio set, please.

The president of the St. Louis zoological society rises in defense of the Eastland Horned Frog, answering scoffers and critics with the more material argument that $1070 will be given anyone who can prove the frog is a hoax. If the frog and its longevity are a hoax, they have endured for a pretty long time.

Russell Bean, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bean, 1610 Ninth street, is the possessor of a loon bird—an East Texas loon owl—which he found wandering about the yard of the Bean home yesterday. How the owl got into this section is very much of a mystery.

the general public they promise in the near future bigger chickens, better eggs and more of them. The most startling revelations were reached by gradually increasing the "dosage" of x-ray A definite deviation from the normal sex ratio in chickens hatched from x-rayed eggs was noted and the change was all in favor of the female.

In other words the longer the eggs remained in the range of the x-rays the larger was the percentage of females hatched. Explanation Difficult. The fact was easier to find than explanation. One explanation suggested by scientists who have examined the experiments, is that the powerful rays succeed eventually in destroying the male producing chromosome within the fertilized egg.

This would sound like additional proof that the female is stronger than the male even when it is only a germ cell, but Dr. Diefenbach is inclined to approach that solution of the phenomena with caution. Three years ago Dr. Diefenbach, who is one of the most famous American specialists in electro-therapeutics, undertook a series of experiments to determine the effect of x-ray on the human body. He believed that the full benefits of x-ray had never been realized and he decided to start at the beginning.

The last large block of uncultivated land in Lubbock county is soon to go under the plow. Four thousand acres in the northeast part of the county, the property of a Missouri family since 1873, has been purchased by Warren A. Bacon and Chas. E. Sears of Lubbock. CHAPTER XXXVIII

"Canfield, is a county seal" David shouted excitedly before his long strides had brought him back to Sally. "The driver of the milk truck guessed why I wanted to know," he added in a lower voice, as he came abreast of her and took her hands to swing them triumphantly. "He says we crossed the state line about 10 miles back and that the marriage laws are very easy on elopers here. In some states you have to establish a legal residence before you can be married, but there'll be no trouble like that here. Elopers from two or three bordering states come here to get married, he says. We're in luck, sweetheart."

"You didn't tell him our names?" Sally asked anxiously. "Mrs. Stone will have sent out a warning—"

"I'm not quite such an idiot," David laughed, "even if I am crazy in love. Now the next problem is breakfast. I suppose a farmhouse will be the best bet. It wouldn't be safe for us to hang around Canfield for three or four hours, waiting for the marriage license bureau to open. We're going to be married, darling, before the law has a chance to lay its hand on us."

They tramped along the state highway, miraculously revived by hope that all their troubles would soon be over, their eyes searching eagerly for a farmhouse. And just over the rise of a low hill they found it—a tenant farmer's unpainted shack, from whose chimney rose a straight column of blue smoke.

They found the family at breakfast—the wife a slim, pretty, discontented-looking girl only a few years older than Sally, the husband, thick, short, dark and dour, at least a dozen years older than his wife, and a tow-headed baby boy of three.

The kitchen was an unpainted and unspared lean-to of rough weather-darkened pine. But Sally and David had eyes only for the tall stack of buckwheat cakes, the platter of roughly cut, badly fried "side meat," the huge granite-ware coffee pot set on a chipped plate in the center of the table.

"Breakfast?" the dour tenant farmer grunted, in answer to David's question. "Reckon so if you can eat what we got. It'll cost you 50 cents a piece. I don't work from sun-up to sun-down to feed tramps."

"Oh, Jim!" the wife protested, flushing. "Cakes and coffee ain't worth 50 cents. I might run down to the big house and get some eggs and cream—" she added uncertainly, her distressed brown eyes flickering from Sally and David in the doorway to her scowling husband.

"We'll be delighted with the buckwheat cakes and bacon and coffee, and not think a dollar too much for our breakfast," David cut in, smiling placatingly upon the farmer. "We're farmers ourselves, and we're used to farm ways. How are crops around here, sir?"

"My name's Buckner," the dour farmer answered grudgingly. "I'll bring in a couple of chairs, Millie, you'd better fill up this here syrup pitcher and you might open a jar of these deacon preserves."

"And I'll beat up some more hot cake batter," Millie Buckner fluttered happily. "It won't take me a minute."

Sally and David washed their hands and faces at the pump outside the kitchen door, drying them on a fresh roller towel that Jim Buckner brought them.

"Run away to get married, have you?" the farmer asked in an almost pleasant voice, as he led the way to the newly set table.

"Yes," David answered simply. "We walked all night and we're rather tired, but we thought there was no use in going in to Canfield until pretty near nine o'clock."

"I guess Millie can fix up a bed so the little lady can snatch a nap 'ween now and then," Buckner offered. "Pitch in, folks! It ain't much, but you're welcome, Farmer," and his narrow eyes measured David's unshod, young body thoughtfully. "Ain't no house around here? Old man Webster the man I rent this patch of ground from, he needing hands bad. He's got a shack over the hill that he'd likely fix up for you if you ain't got any thing better in mind. Not quite as nice as this house—we got three rooms, counting this lean-to and the shack I'm referin' to is only one room and a lean-to, but the little lady could fix it up real pretty if she's got a knack that way, like Millie here has."

Sally almost choked on her mouthful of buckwheat cake. Were all her dreams of a home to come to this—or worse than this? One room and a lean-to. She felt suddenly ill and was swaying in her chair when David's firm, big hand closed over hers that lay laxly on the table.

"Thanks, Mr. Buckner," she heard David's voice faintly as from a great distance. "That's mighty nice of you, but Sally and I have other plans."

"Other plans?" Sally smiled at him tremulously, adoringly, knowing full well that he had no plans at all beyond the all-important marriage ceremony. But after breakfast she lay down on the bed that Millie Buckner, hastily "straightened" and drilled off to sleep as happy as if her future were untroubled and insured against poverty. For no matter what might be in store for her, there would always be David—

They left the tenant farmer's shack at half past eight o'clock. Millie and Jim Buckner and the baby waving them goodby. Buckner, ashamed of his ungraciousness, had refused to take the dollar, but David had wrapped the baby's small, sticky fingers about the folded bill.

"Shall we go up the hill and see 'Old Man Webster'?" David asked gravely when they were in the lane leading to the highway.

"Let's," agreed Sally valiantly. "You'd really be willing to live—like that?" David marveled, his head jerking toward the dreary little shack they were leaving behind them.

"If—if you were with me, it wouldn't matter," Sally answered seriously. "You'll never have to." David smiled, sweeping her to his breast and kissing her regardless of the fact that the Buckners were still watching them. "I promise you it will never be as bad as that honey but maybe Jim Buckner promised Millie the same thing," he added in a troubled uncertain voice.

"I'll never be sorry," Sally promised huskily.

They reached Canfield a few minutes after nine and had no difficulty in finding the county court house, for its grounds formed the "square" which was the hub of the small town. An old man peering about the tobacco-stained halls with a mop and pail directed them to the marriage license bureau, without giving them a glance or waiting for David to frame his embarrassed question.

The clerk, a pale very thin young man whose eyes were enlarged by thick-lensed glasses thrust by a printed form through the wicket of his cage, and went on with his work upon a big ledger having apparently not the slightest interest in foolish young couples who wanted to commit matrimony.

"Answer all the questions," the clerk mumbled without looking up. "Table in the corner over these 'Pen and Ink'."

Sally and David were laughing helplessly by the time they had taken seats at the pine table in the corner. "Frowning, you're never as important as you think you are," David chuckled. "Let's see, 'Place of residence?' I suppose we'll have to put Capital City. But that chap certainly doesn't give a continental who we are or where we're from. We're all in the day's work with him, thank heaven. Don't forget to put your age at 18, darling."

When they presented their filled-in and signed application for a marriage license, the clerk accepted it with supreme indifference, glancing at it and drew a stack of marriage license blanks toward him. As he began to write in the names, however, he frowned thoughtfully, then peered through the bars of his cage at the blushing, frightened couple.

"Your names sound awfully familiar to me," he puzzled. "Where you from? Capital City? Say, you're the kids that got into a row with a farmer and busted his leg and beat it, ain't you?"

Sally pressed close to David, her hands locking tightly over his arm, but David, as if he did not understand her signal, answered the clerk in a steady voice: "Yes, we are."

"I read all about you in the papers," the clerk went on in a strangely friendly voice. "I reckon your story made a deep impression on me because I was raised in an orphan's home myself and ran away when I was 14. I hoped at the time that you kids would make a clean get-away. I see the young lady's had a couple of birthdays in the last month," he grinned and winked. "Eighteen now, eh?"

"Yes," Sally quavered and then laughed, the lid of her right eye fluttering slowly down until the two fringes of black lashes met and entangled.

The clerk's pen scratched busily. "All right, youngsters. Here you are. Justice of the peace wedding?"

"We'd rather be married by a minister," David answered as he laid a $20 bill under the wicket and reached for the marriage license.

"That's easy," the clerk assured him heartily. "Like every county seat, Canfield's got her marrying parson. Name of Greer. He's building a new church out of the fees that the eloping couples pay him. Lives on Chestnut street, White church and parsonage. Five blocks up Main street and turn to your right, then walk a block and a half. You can't miss it. And good luck, kids. You'll need lots of it."

David thrust a hand beneath the wicket and the two young men shook hands. David flushed and embarrassed but smiling, the clerk grinning good-naturedly.

"Hey, don't forget your change," their new friend called as David and Sally were turning away. "Marriage license in this state cost only $1.50. If you've got any spare change, give it to Parson Greer."

"Oh, he was sweet!" Sally cried, between laughter and tears, as they walked out of the courthouse. "I thought I would faint when he asked us that awful question. But everything's all right now."

"We're as good as married," David assured her triumphantly, slapping his breast pocket and cocking his head to listen to the crackling of the marriage license. "Five blocks up Main street. Up must mean north—"

Within five minutes they were awaiting an answer to their ring at the door of the little white parsonage half hidden behind the rather shabby white frame building of the church.

A stout, rosy-cheeked, white-haired old lady opened the door and beamed upon them. "You're looking for the 'marrying parson' aren't you?" she chuckled. "Well, now, it's a shame, children, but you'll have to wait quite a spell for him. He's conducting a funeral at the home of one of our parishioners, and won't be back until about half past 11. I'm Mrs. Greer. Won't you come in and wait?"

Sally and David consulted each other with troubled, disappointed eyes. Sally wanted to cry out to David that she was afraid to wait two hours, afraid to wait even half an hour, but with Mrs. Greer beaming expectantly upon them she did not dare.

"Thank you, Mrs. Greer," David answered, his hand tightening warningly upon Sally's. "We'll wait."

As they followed Mrs. Greer into the stuffy, over-furnished little parlor, he managed to whisper reassuringly in Sally's ear: "Just two hours, darling. Nothing can happen. No one but the marriage clerk can cause trouble, and he's our friend."

But Sally was shaking with fright— (To Be Continued.)

The wedding ceremony is rudely interrupted, and Sally gets a big surprise.

Whole Towns Are Razed As Quakes Trouble Balkans

Death and Devastation Accompany Tremors In Several Nations; Review Of Cable News Given.

(By Associated Press.)

In many parts of the world last week the rumblings of earthquakes were followed by death and devastation. Greece and the Balkans suffered most of all. Whole towns and villages in Thrace, Macedonia and other sections of Greece were thrown down and in some cases almost crumbled into dust. Storms followed the movements of the earth and thousands of helpless persons, under the flimsiest shelter, suffered immensely. As in such cases, Americans were foremost in relief measures.

A great victory was heralded for the nationalists forces in Shantung province, China, according to early dispatches, which were later revised, indicating that the nationalists are still in possession of Tsinan, capital of Shantung, reported to have been occupied by the nationalists. Nevertheless, the nationalist commander-in-chief, Chiang Kai-Shek, has concentrated large masses of troops, with Peking as his objective. Together with accounts of heavy fighting, came word from alleged eye-witnesses of a great massacre of 5,000 helpless people in the town of Kingmen, province of Hupeh.

Tumultuous Nicaragua

Nicaragua was the scene in a small way of further warfare. Sardinio's rebels raiding and looting several American-owned mines in the northern part of the country, carrying off an American, George P. Marshall, assistant manager of one of the mines, whose fate is yet in doubt.

Secretary Kellogg's anti-war proposal, the text of which was presented to Great Britain, Italy, Germany and Japan, and to which France is agreeable with certain reservations, was well received by those powers. Germany has already accepted the proposal in principle.

The British budget, submitted to parliament by the chancellor of the exchequer, Winston Churchill, provides for an eight cent a gallon tax on petrol. The chancellor proposes a decrease in expenditures for the coming year, and has formulated his budget so reducing taxation on local industries, freight carrying railways, canals and harbors and agriculture.

DAILY MARKETS

WALL STREET STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 30. (AP)—A break upturn in stock prices was halted today by the marking up of the call money rate from 5 to 6 percent. Oils and public utilities, more than a score of which advanced to new high ground, led the early advance, the gains in which ran from 1 to 10 points. Final quotations were decidedly irregular, both the rail and industrial averages showing moderate declines.

Prices reached the highest levels of the day and present movement in late trading, when May sold at 21.71 and October at 21.45, or 46 to 57 points net higher and about 65 to 75 points above the low levels of the morning. These prices attracted renewed realigning and the close showed reactions of 10 or 12 points from the best.

Liverpool cables reported local London and Continental liquidation in the market there, but a slightly better cloth inquiry from India.

Exports today were 18,901 bales, making 6,426,411 so far this season. Port receipts 19,882. U. S. port stocks 1,487,624.

With the exception of steers and common calves, which showed weakness, the cattle trade here today was about steady. Steers sold from $10.25 to $12.25, yearlings 8.25 to $9.50, bulls $6.00 to $7.00 and calves $5.00 to $10.00.

The sheep trade was steady with wethers selling up to $10.50 and lambs $14.00.

Hogs were also steady. The top was $10.05. Sows sold under the $8.00 level.

Hogs were also steady. The top was $10.05. Sows sold under the $8.00 level.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, April 30. (AP)—The cottonseed oil market was quiet early today and buyers were cautious owing to an easier tone to lard, but gained strength on more active buying prompted by the strength of cotton and grains.

The close was steady, at 3 to 7 points net advance. Prime crude 9.00; prime summer yellow spot 10.50; May closed to 10.65; July 10.78; September 11.02; October 11.05; December 10.85.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, April 30. (AP)—Top makers are buying some fine domestic wools of the short combing classes. Business in new tops is rather slow, asking prices being difficult to obtain, but deliveries on contract are fairly heavy.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 30. (AP)—In a bid buying standards today, wheat, corn, oats and rye all smashed the season's record for high prices.

Prices opened 18 to 21 points down, July at 20.55, October 20.38 and December 20.29, the day's low, on poor cables and reports of favorable weather in the belt over the week-end.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 30. (AP)—The cotton market showed continued appreciation over crop prospects today. Early declines were followed by advances which established new high prices for the movement on all positions.

Contracts for July deliveries sold up from 20.77 to 21.49 or 50 cents net higher, and closed at 21.25, the general market clearing steady, at net advance of 35 to 44 points.

There was considerable selling at the start on reports of better weather in the south over Sunday. First prices were 15 to 21 points lower, active months showing net losses of 18 to 23 points after the call under realigning or liquidation, while there also appeared to be some selling for a reaction on the reported increase of rainfall in the belt on Saturday and Sunday.

May used 21 to 21.75 and October 20.55 to 20.75.

SHOOTING TEST

Sheriffs Plan Pistol Shoot

(Special To The Avalanche.) ABILENE, April 28.—Ability of West Texas peace officers to shoot accurately with pistols will be given a real testing during the West Texas Sheriff's Association spring meeting here May 10-11.

For the first time the pistol shooting contest, a regular feature of the quarterly meetings of the association, will be conducted strictly according to the standard rules of police pistol shooting contests, so says Frank Whaley, chief deputy sheriff of Taylor county and the arranger of the contest for the May meeting.

In the competition here an eight-inch target will be used. This will be about half the size of the targets used at previous meetings of the peace officers and will make closer shooting necessary for high scoring than has been called for by the larger "bull's eye" formerly used.
